FBI: The ‘Bad Hair Bandit’ is Former Jerome Woman

The FBI says the Bad Hair Bandit bank robber is in custody. Their suspect is Cynthia Van Holland, a Jerome native who married a convicted felon earlier this year. A friend of Van Holland spoke with the Times-News on Thursday.

The FBI says Jerome native Cynthia Van Holland is the “Bad Hair Bandit” bank robber, and a close friend said those who know Van Holland are in shock.

Jackson, Wyo., resident Gina McKelvey, formerly of Jerome, considers herself a close friend of Van Holland, 47, who was arrested for allegedly trying to rob a bank in Auburn, Calif., on Monday. On Wednesday, federal investigators said she’s a suspect in 19 more bank robberies or attempted robberies in California, Montana, Oregon and Washington.

“This is not in her character,” McKelvey said. “Our friends agree she got mixed up with some guy who doesn’t have any morals.”

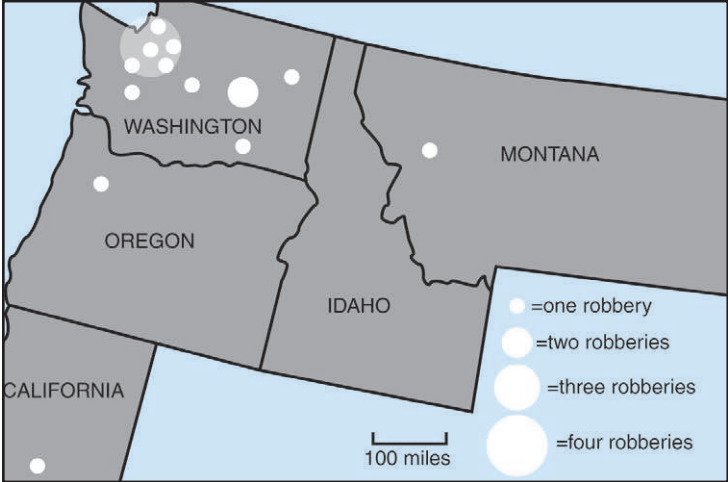

“We don’t know what went wrong.”

The man McKelvey referred to is Chris Alonzo, a 26-year-old

Risch: ‘It Is Much Worse than You Think It Is’

U.S. Sen. Jim Risch swoops by Twin Falls to fret over the debt, talk subsidy reductions and rail against EPA ‘Gestapo’ tactics.

BY NICK COLTRAIN
ncoltrain@magicvalley.com

Jim Risch, Idaho’s junior U.S. senator, warned Thursday that the U.S. debt problem is “much worse than you think it is” but threw his support behind deficit reduction measures championed by the no-compromise tea party caucus.

Risch, a Republican former state Senate majority leader and governor, also talked about subsidies for dairy and ethanol, likened the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to the Gestapo, and talked about the presidential qualities of GOP hopeful Mitt Romney.

But the national debt dominated the discussion.

Trout Experts React to Recent Climate Study

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

It’s no secret that Idaho loves its trout.

With booming trout farms and bountiful fishing locations, the fish has an important place in the state’s economy and the hearts of its residents.

Yet a recent study shows that the effects of climate change could potentially reduce healthy trout habitat across the West by 50 percent over the next 70 years.

The report was compiled by an 11-scientist team from Trout Unlimited, the U.S. Geological Survey and several universities.

The study rates some trout at greater risk than others. Native species such as the cutthroat trout could decline 58 percent. Rainbow and brown trout populations could also decline by a respective 35 percent and 48 percent.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico • A shark estimated at 6 feet long bit a tourist from Wendell earlier this week while she swam in a popular bioluminescent bay at night, doctors in Puerto Rico said Thursday.

The woman, identified as 27-year-old Lydia Strunk, faces several months of physical therapy and will remain hospitalized until the weekend, said Dr. Ernesto Torres.

Retired businessman Jerry Cook talks about his plan to expand the Jerome house in the background to turn it into a halfway house for parolees returning from prison. He plans to build three additional bedrooms onto the Lincoln Avenue house and have between 15 and 18 beds for tenants.

Jerome’s New Home for Parolees?

A retired Jerome businessman hopes to turn a modest Lincoln Avenue house into a transitional home for parolees re-entering society from prison. To do so, Jerry Cook has plenty of work to do.

BY BEN BOTKIN
bbotkin@magicvalley.com

JEROME • Jerry Cook has big plans for a modest house along the 900 block of North Lincoln Avenue in Jerome.

The Jerome man wants to turn the house into a transitional housing facility that would help parolees re-entering society from prison shake drug and alcohol addictions and gain employment. Cook, a retired construction company owner, became interested in the idea after talking with an imprisoned friend with an upcoming parole hearing.

“He says, ‘I can’t get out because I have no place to go,’” Cook said.

Cook doesn’t have any definite timeline set for opening the halfway house. He’s still in the early stages of planning, with plenty of work ahead of him.

He’s pursuing federal grants that would cover the costs of building a three-bedroom addition and other improvements like siding and windows. He also wants to talk about the project with other Jerome community members like churches and the criminal justice system.

With the planned addition in place, the house would have six bedrooms — enough for 15 to 18 residents, Cook said.

He’s also made Jerome city officials aware of his plans, though there’s no formal proposal before the city for a vote. Mayor John Shine told the City Council at its Tuesday meeting about a letter received from Cook.

“I guess what I’ll tell him is, ‘We agree in principle,’” Shine said at the meeting. In their discussion, council members stressed they were open to the idea but would need to see more details if the facility was part of a proposal needing a vote.

Cook said support from the city is important.

“I want everybody’s blessing,” he said. Cook said people struggling to overcome addictions can succeed with help.

“You can help them and guide them because a lot of them look for father figures that they never had,” he said.

Retired businessman Jerry Cook plans to turn this Lincoln Avenue house in Jerome into a halfway house for parolees returning from prison.

Wanna Get Elected? Then Move

Think you can do a better job than those clowns in Washington, D.C.? Or maybe you'd like to be governor of Idaho.

You don't have a prayer. Not if you live in the Magic or Wood River valleys. The eight counties make up the least-represented region in Idaho when it comes to statewide elected public office and Congress — even worse than the isolated and long-neglected Idaho Panhandle.

The Magic Valley's last U.S. senator was Burley's Henry Dworshak, who died in office in 1962.

That's 49 years ago. South-central Idaho's last congressman was Hagerman's John Sanborn, who left office 60 years ago.

Why don't Idahoans like candidates from the Magic Valley? Mostly because there are only 175,000 of us in a state of 1.5 million people. The fast track in Idaho politics just doesn't run through Dietrich, Bellevue, Kimberly, Oakley or Glenns Ferry.

Or maybe it's the Frank Gooding jinx.

Gooding, the Devonshire-born founder of the city that bears his name, pretty much dominated early Idaho politics. He served three terms in the Legislature and was elected governor in 1904 before he even became a U.S. citizen.

Gooding spent four years as governor and seven in the U.S. Senate, where he was succeeded in 1927 by his political protege, John Thomas.

Say So

If it's odd, sad, quirky, weird, funny or poignant and it happens in south-central Idaho, I want to hear about it. Call me at 735-3223 or write scrump@magicvalley.com.

The latter, a banker from Gooding, served nine years in the Senate.

Perhaps we should blame Twin Falls' Addison T. Smith, a Republican who is Idaho's longest-serving congressman, from 1912-1933. That's 10 terms.

Since Thomas died in 1945, only two other Magic Valley residents — Dworshak and Sanborn — have been sent to Washington.

Gooding was the last south-central Idahoan to serve as governor (and John Evans doesn't count; the former Burley banker lived in Malad when he served as governor from 1877-87).

Fact is, the last governor from the Magic Valley — Grant Sawyer — ran Nevada for eight years during the 1950s and '60s.

If he hadn't gone south, Sawyer would probably have spent his entire career as the only Democratic lawyer in Twin Falls.

Steve Crump is the Times-News Opinion editor.

The senator told a story of touring the Bureau of Public Debt, an agency of the U.S. Treasury Department, and watching its workers hold one of the daily auctions for debt. To keep up with deficit spending to the tune of 40 cents for every dollar, Risch said the nation borrows upward of $50 billion a day.

"I left there and I was angry. I was scared, but most of all I was sad because here we are the greatest country in the world and you realize that we are no longer in charge of our own destiny," Risch said. "Our destiny is totally dependent upon (the Bureau of Public Debt) being able, every single day, to be able to borrow $50 (billion) to $70 billion, because if one day they don't borrow it, we're out of business. We're bankrupt because we cannot pay the bills that night. No enemy did this to us. We did this to ourselves.

"Being a good Republican, I'll argue that the Democrats started after World War II and they took us every year, more spending, more programs, but you know what, we let them do it. By compromise, we let them do it."

Risch said the new tea party mentality in Washington changed the way things are done there — including the debt ceiling deal that promises $917 billion in cuts over the next 10 years, with a so-called "super committee" to cut an additional $1.2 trillion or trigger automatic cuts that Risch called a "miserable no-good deal."

But the debt limit fight set a new precedent of getting cuts in exchange for raising that ceiling, he said. He added that "if we stay on the path we're on, we'll balance the budget in 10 years." That said, he was also reluctant to vouch for the super committee accomplishing its goal.

DREW NASH / TIMES-NEWS

Risch Speaks

Idaho's junior U.S. senator talked about more than just the deficit Thursday. Here are his thoughts on some other current topics:

Risch on subsidies

Risch said Republicans already agreed to "fairly substantial" defense cuts as part of the debt ceiling deal — proof that almost every program is going to be on the table.

"There are no sacred cows in this thing. I think the days of the ethanol subsidy are numbered," Risch said, acknowledging that he supported a bill to end the ethanol subsidy.

However, he doesn't want to rip the proverbial bandage off and shock investors in the industry.

"All these people went and built all these ethanol plants, like the one we have (in Burley). Why? Because the federal government said 'We know a lot more in Washington, D.C., than you do, so if you do this, we'll give you 45 cents a gallon to make it.' And so "If you look at it from a historical standpoint, you would cynically say better people have tried and failed; having people said, stupidly, 'oh, OK,' and went and built these plants. ... I think they can live with it if the thing gets phased out and I would really rather see that done than just kicking them right square in the behind, even though it shouldn't have been done in the first place."

He couldn't answer what would happen to other ag subsidies, such as those for dairies, but said the only federal programs off the table would be Social Security, Medicare benefits — though their delivery might change — and veterans' benefits.

Risch on the EPA

Risch described horror stories dealing with the Environmental Protection Agency, when its inspectors would visit ranchers he represented as a lawyer and levy $5,000 and $10,000 fines because a barrel of chemicals was missing a label, or an emergency contact list had some of its phone numbers worn away.

"They weren't interested said that, they've never tried in an environment like we're in," Risch said. "This country is on the edge. As bad as you in seeing if my client complied with environmental laws," he said. "They were interested in raising money."

He said the EPA operated like it "was at war" with anyone trying to function in the private sector. He argued it should be under siege by lawmakers and he hopes its footprint in Idaho shrinks as a result.

At least part of his solution is to restrict EPA standards to what a community can afford, unless the EPA wants to pony up some cash to help.

Risch on the GOP race for president

He admitted bias toward Mitt Romney — he's the Idaho co-chairman for the Romney campaign.

"You only got to spend about three minutes with Mitt Romney and realize this is the real deal; this isn't some guy who was a congressman or a senator or something that woke up one morning and looked in the mirror and said 'Gee, I'd like to be president,'" Risch said.

guys think it is, and you watch this stuff, I can tell you it is much worse than what you think it is."

Trout

However, state officials are skeptical of the findings.

"From my perspective, we don't see change at that scale," said Doug Megargle, regional fisheries manager for the Idaho Department of Fish and Game. "We may see changes in habitat that can be explained by water availability, precipitation or man-made uses of water, but we have not seen real obvious changes that we can say are building up to a large-scale trend."

Megargle said Fish and Game has no plan to change management policies as a result of the study's findings.

According to the study, rising winter temperatures are causing more winter floods. This in turn washes away the gravel holding back brook and brown trout eggs.

"The study advances our understanding of climate change impacts by looking beyond temperature increases to the role of flooding and interactions between species," said Seth

Wenger, the report's lead scientist, in a press release.

Preventing stream erosion and taking better care of such habitat is one critical way to prevent trout decline, said Katie Fite, biodiversity director for Western Watersheds Project, a Hailley-based environmental group.

"We need to protect these areas from grazing so when climate change happens you don't have more violent snow runoff and the watersheds will be in better condition to handle the water," she said.

Outside of natural habitat, the Magic Valley's fish hatcheries — not examined in the study — would likely be more sheltered. It would take the temperature of the Eastern Snake Plain Aquifer rising to disrupt those operations, said Randy MacMillan, vice president of research and environmental affairs for Clear Springs Foods in Buhl.

"While the water in the aquifer has gone down, the water temperature is still just right for the rainbow trout," he said. "There would need to be a dramatic change."

former inmate of Idaho's prison system. He is Van Holland's husband and the alleged getaway driver.

McKelvey said she has known Van Holland since they were children, as she lived about maybe a mile from the Van Hollands' dairy. They graduated from Jerome High School in 1982 and attended different universities. McKelvey moved to California, but the two stayed in touch through the years. McKelvey said they talked as recently as last Christmas but fell out of contact a few months ago.

"She stopped calling, texting and posting on Facebook," McKelvey said. "I was wondering what was going on. I'm hoping to talk to her because I know she'll need someone to talk to."

The Associated Press reported that Van Holland was working as a nurse at a state prison near Coeur d'Alene from December 2005 to September 2006, where she likely met Alonzo.

Alonzo, a northern Idaho resident, spent time in Idaho prisons and jails on fraud, forgery and escape convictions. He was at the facility for about two weeks in May and June 2006 during a four-year incarceration that saw him shift prisons numerous times. He was released to parole officers near Coeur d'Alene in October 2010, two months before the robberies apparently started.

The couple married March 14 in Coeur d'Alene.

On the marriage license, Van Holland indicated she was living in Tacoma, Wash.,

the city where the bank holdups began in December 2010.

McKelvey said she knew Van Holland was in the area.

"I had heard something about the Bad Hair Bandit in passing, maybe on TV, a month or two ago," she said. "We thought she was going to school (in the Puget Sound area) to expand her education."

As the Bad Hair Bandit robbed bank after bank, she went through a series of wigs and baseball hats that earned her the moniker. Tellers say she often stood in line like a Transitional homes for former prison inmates already have a presence in the Magic Valley.

Magic Valley Chaplains, for example, manages four homes that have, on average, eight residents each. Three are in Twin Falls and one is in Jerome.

The homes offer a structured environment for ex-convicts as they get back on their feet.

Steve Wills, director of the aftercare program for Magic Valley Chaplains, wasn't aware of Cook's effort, but said that it could be difficult for residents in a transitional home to find jobs in Jerome if a second facility opened.

"That's probably all Jerome can handle due to the limited population and jobs available," he said.

"There are a couple of companies over there that hire ex-felons, but it seems like our supply and demand is about right, and jobs in Jerome are a little difficult to come by."

and runs from below her knee to the ankle, said Dr. Pablo Rodriguez, trauma director at the Rio Piedras Medical Center.

"It was like (the shark) tried to tear away," he said. "She has an imprint of all the shark's teeth."

Strunk is expected to make a full recovery but will likely have some nerve damage and limited movement in her right foot, he said. Doctors repaired four tendons that are used for flexing the foot, and it will take up to five months for Strunk's damaged nerves to grow back, he said.

Her mother said Strunk was doing much better, seeming to improve by the hour. She declined to go into details about the incident.

"Right now we are taking one day at a time to help her recover," Patty Strunk said after arriving in Puerto Rico. "... She has a great story to tell. (But) that's her story to tell."

Strunk was one of 16 people kayaking late Tuesday in the bioluminescent Mosquito Bay in Vieques, a tiny island just east of Puerto Rico.

Night Work on U.S. 30 Through Buhl Postponed

TIMES-NEWS

Scheduled Saturday night work on U.S. Highway 30 through Buhl has been postponed, the Idaho Transportation Department announced.

Contractor Specialized Pavement Markings, of Tualatin, Ore., told the ITD that a scheduling conflict will postpone the work for up to two weeks.

When the overnight work starts, crews will install long-lasting pavement markings to replace existing paint striping on Broadway Avenue and avoid the need for continued re-striping of the high-traffic roadway.

ITD will announce a new date for the $155,000 overnight project when it's rescheduled.

A preliminary hearing was rescheduled to early September for a Twin Falls man suspected of harming a child who later died of head trauma.

Lane Buddenhagen's new private defense attorney, Doug Nelson, asked to continue the hearing originally set for this morning in Twin Falls County 5th District Magistrate Court. Buddenhagen, 19, is charged with felony injury to a child, a 3-year-old boy whom he is not related to.

The boy, who was not identified in court documents, died at a Boise hospital on Aug. 7 after suffering severe head trauma. As of Thursday afternoon, no charges have been filed accusing Buddenhagen of causing the boy's death.

According to the criminal complaint, emergency personnel responded to an apartment complex at 512 Jefferson St. around 7:30 a.m. Aug. 6, where officers found Buddenhagen in an apartment with a child lying on the floor of one of the bedrooms. Buddenhagen allegedly told police the boy had been taking a bath. He had left the bathroom and heard a loud sound, returning to find the boy on the floor. Buddenhagen said he moved the child to a bedroom and called 911.

Later, a doctor at St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center told police he believed the child was shaken, based on bruises on the child and the results of a CT scan, and called the injuries "severe child abuse."

Buddenhagen remains in custody of the T.F. County Jail on $1 million bond.

Oklahoma Man Injured After Jumping Embankment

TIMES-NEWS

An Oklahoma man was injured Thursday after he jumped his pickup across an interstate embankment east of Gooding.

Idaho State Police say 56-year-old Tulsa, Okla., resident Steven L. Stephich was headed east on Interstate 84 near milepost 132 when his 2004 Dodge pickup left the road for unknown reasons.

Stephich's truck approached the Power Plant Road overpass on the right side of the interstate, rolled up the embankment that supports the overpass, and went airborne at about 11:30 a.m.

An ISP report said Stephich's truck hit the ground on the east side of the embankment before coming to a stop. Stephich was wearing a seat belt, but suffered injuries and was taken by air ambulance to Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise. He was in surgery at about 7 p.m. Thursday at the hospital, where an update on his condition was unavailable.

The crash remains under ISP investigation. Troopers were assisted by Elmore County sheriff's deputies at the scene.

Idaho Charter School Loses 9th Circuit Appeal

BY JESSIE L. BONNER
Associated Press

BOISE • A federal appeals court has upheld the dismissal of an Idaho charter school’s lawsuit against state officials who barred use of the Bible and other religious texts as a teaching tool in the classroom.

The 9th Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the previous ruling against the now-defunct Nampa Classical Academy, in a decision earlier this week. The Idaho Public Charter School Commission closed the academy last year citing troubled finances.

The founders of the charter school tangled with Idaho officials over the use of the Bible and other religious texts shortly after opening in August 2009 with more than 500 students in southwestern Idaho. The academy filed a federal lawsuit against Idaho officials in September 2009.

U.S. District Judge Edward Lodge dismissed that lawsuit, determining the ban did not violate the school’s rights. The academy challenged that ruling in the 9th circuit, which issued a decision against the charter school on Monday.

The appeals court found that Lodge erred in concluding that Nampa Classical Academy founder Isaac Moffett lacked capacity to sue the state. But it rejected Moffett’s argument that the First Amendment gave the charter school the right to use religious texts in the classroom.

The speech clause in the First Amendment does not “give Idaho charter school teachers, Idaho charter school students, or the parents of Idaho charter school students a right to have primary religious texts included as part of the school curriculum,” the appeals court said.

The U.S. Supreme Court banned ceremonial school Bible readings in a 1963 ruling but said “the Bible is worthy of study for its literary and historic qualities” so long as material is “presented objectively as part of a secular program of education.”

Study: School Consolidation Would Cost More

IDAHO FALLS (AP) • A study done for school districts in Idaho Falls found consolidation would cost taxpayers more, a blow to proponents of combining districts in a bid to reduce costs.

The Oregon-based Education Northwest, an education research laboratory, says consolidation of Idaho Falls School District 91 and Bonneville Joint School District 93 would have upfront costs of up to $2.4 million, while generating between $582,000 and $2.4 million in additional annual costs.

“I thought it would be cost-neutral,” District 93 Superintendent Chuck Shackett told the Idaho Falls Post-Register. “I didn’t realize it would cost more.”

The results of the study were presented early Wednesday to the boards that govern the two southeastern Idaho school districts. About 40 people attended a public meeting on the proposal later that day at Hillcrest High School in Idaho Falls.

Barb Wright, who lives within the Bonneville school district, said she expected the study to show that consolidation would save the districts money.

“I was really curious to see what the numbers would be,” Wright said. “I was kind of surprised by the high cost.”

Bluegrass Burn Takes 1 Day

RATHDRUM (AP) • Farmers took just one day to burn two Kentucky bluegrass fields totaling 370 acres on the Rathdrum Prairie.

Burning can increase bluegrass yields, but environmentalists have decried the practice for the smoke plumes produced.

It was halted a few years ago until revised rules were set as part of an agreement between farmers, environmentalists and the state.

Mark Boyle is the air quality manager with the Idaho Department of Environmental Quality. He tells the Coeur d’Alene Press that no more fields are scheduled to be burned this year.

Climate Change at the End of Your Fly Rod

The best evidence that the climate is transforming isn't monster storms or killer droughts; it's changes in the small details of everyday life.

As a group, Idahoans tend to be skeptical about climate change — and perhaps that's understandable.

The Gem State — the southern half of it, anyway — has escaped the recent extremes in weather ascribed by some to global warming.

Summers have been a bit hotter hereabouts — and winters a little wetter and milder — but not much else has changed.

Yet we might be about to see a more tangible consequence that's dear to the hearts of many Idahoans.

A new study by fisheries researchers concludes that climate change might cut the West's trout habitat in half over the next 70 years.

Trout Unlimited's Seth Wenger and U.S. Forest Service biologist Dan Isaak were among 11 researchers who found, among other things, that cutthroat habitat could dwindle between 33 percent and 58 percent.

That's after the range of cutthroat habitat has already shrunk by more than 85 percent due to competition from non-native species like rainbow trout and brook trout. Two subspecies have already gone extinct.

The study concludes warmer winters are causing more winter floods that wash away the gravel that holds brook and brown trout eggs.

And changing flows will give rainbow trout an advantage over native cutthroat trout, allowing the invaders to crowd out the natives.

Wenger said the paper, published in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, was based on data collected from nearly 10,000 fish surveys conducted in the western half of Montana, as well as the western parts of Colorado and Wyoming, eastern and northern Idaho and Utah.

Trout populations don't yet show impacts of climate change, the authors said. And Wenger said the numbers beyond 2050 are uncertain, leaving the potential scale of the impact on cutthroats open to interpretation.

But Wenger said the most dire climate models show temperatures in Idaho rising an average of 9 degrees in 70 years.

The scientists said human intervention could help. Stepping up measures to reconnect cooler trout waters and restore streamside trees and vegetation would keep streams cooler.

The broader point is that the body of evidence points to fundamental changes in our climate habitat — and those of species around us.

And whether you believe in global warming or not, the reasons for those changes deserve a closer look.

Rick Perry Does Texas Two-Step on Economy

Some of these miracles will involve things that you're liable to read in the Bible. But if he wins the Republican nomination, his campaign will probably center on a more secular theme: the alleged economic miracle in Texas, which, it's often asserted, sailed through the Great Recession almost unscathed thanks to conservative economic policies. Mr. Perry will claim that he can restore prosperity to America by applying the same policies at a national level.

What you need to know is that the Texas miracle is a myth, and more broadly that Texan experience offers no useful lessons on how to restore full U.S. employment.

It's true that Texas entered recession a bit later than the rest of America, mainly because the state's still energy-heavy economy was buoyed by high oil prices through the first half of 2008. Also, Texas was spared the worst of the housing crisis, partly because it turns out to have surprisingly strict regulation of mortgage lending.

Despite all that, however, from mid-2008 onward unemployment soared in Texas, just as it did almost everywhere else.

In June 2011, the Texas

unemployment rate was 8.2 percent. That was less than unemployment in collapsed-bubble states like California and Florida, but it was slightly higher than the unemployment rate in New York, and significantly higher than the rate in Massachusetts. By the way, one in four Texans lacks health insurance, the highest proportion in the nation, thanks largely to the state's small-government approach. Meanwhile, Massachusetts has near-universal coverage thanks to health reform very similar to the "job-killing" Affordable Care Act.

So where does the notion of a Texas miracle come from? Mainly from widespread misunderstanding of the economic effects of population growth.

For this much is true about Texas: It has, for many decades, had much faster population growth than the rest of America — about twice as fast since 1990. Several factors underlie this rapid growth: a high birth rate, immigration from Mexico, and inward migration of Americans from other states, who are attracted to Texas by its warm weather and low cost of living, low housing costs in particular.

And just to be clear, there's nothing wrong with a low cost of living. In particular, there's a good case to be made that zoning policies in many states unnecessarily restrict the supply of housing, and that this is one area where Texas does in fact do something right.

But what does population growth have to do with job growth? Well, the high rate of population growth translates into above-average job growth through a couple of channels. Many of the people moving to Texas — retirees in search of warm winters, middle-class Mexicans in search of a safer life — bring purchasing power that leads to greater local employment. At the same time, the rapid growth in the Texas work force keeps wages low — almost 10 percent of Texan workers earn the minimum wage or less, well above the national average — and these low wages give corporations an incentive to move production to the Lone Star State.

So Texas tends, in good years and bad, to have higher job growth than the rest of America. But it needs lots of new jobs just to keep up with its rising population — and as those unemployment comparisons show, recent employment growth has fallen well short of what's needed.

If this picture doesn't look very much like the glowing portrait Texas boosters like to paint, there's a reason: the glowing portrait is false.

Still, does Texas job growth point the way to faster job growth in the nation as a whole? No.

What Texas shows is that a state offering cheap labor and, less important, weak regulation can attract jobs from other states. Arguing that depressing wages and dismantling regulation in America as a whole would create more jobs involves a fallacy of composition: Every state can't lure jobs away from every other state.

In fact, at a national level lower wages would almost certainly lead to fewer jobs — because they would leave working Americans even less able to cope with the overhang of debt left behind by the housing bubble.

So when Perry presents himself as the candidate who knows how to create jobs, don't believe him. His prescriptions for job creation would work about as well in practice as his prayer-based attempt to end Texas' crippling drought.

Why Isn't Downtown Promoted More?

We have only lived in Twin Falls for five years, but I enjoy going to lovely "Old Downtown" to shop and see what is new there. I go to D & L Hair Academy and went to The Bead Shop last week. What fun, and everyone is so nice and friendly!

I don't understand why it isn't promoted more. Why wasn't the new arts building built in Old Town? There are so many empty buildings and large lots that need something on them. Why does everything have to go to the "rims"?

I think people in our city government had better start looking to the future or Blue Lakes Boulevard will be another "Old Town." There are some of the buildings that could have apartments upstairs. There is almost everything you would need downtown (except doctors, but maybe there could be some of those, too).

Have you visited the thrift stores, had lunch at one of the restaurants or just walked the tree-lined streets to enjoy it all? I suggest you go check out this lovely part of your great city.

Decent but contains errors, some of which should be clarified.

Yes, I did start the show and directed it from its inception until 2010. The ad states that Magic Valley Early Iron took over the show in 2008. A contract was signed in 2008 but the club had nothing to do with the show except for observation purposes that summer. In 2009, I still brought in the nationally known "big stuff" and took care of all the vending and much of the publicity. Last year, 2010, the Magic Valley Early Iron Club did, in fact, run its own show, and this will be its second consecutive show — not the fourth straight year.

The show has made definite changes, and that is the right of the new owners.

Don't ask me where are the jet dragsters, real Top Fuel Dragsters, Nitro Funny Cars or outrageous wheelstanders and 200 mph Nitro motorcycles.

Also, the show was Idaho's largest car show of any kind and the second largest in the Northwest, not just the biggest one-day show as listed in the Times-News.

I certainly hope for the continuance of a first-class show. Best wishes to the new owners and, in particular, to Orlan Stearns, a great guy who has much to offer to car enthusiasts. This show, over the years, has meant a great deal to the entire Magic Valley and, in particular, to the city of Jerome and its citizens.

Don't Reduce Magic Valley's Representation

I do not know how any residents of the Magic Valley could, as Bob Sojka suggested last week, support L28. That map comes perilously close to violating the "one-man, one-vote" principle.

Last decade, the courts continually threw out plans with deviations over 10 percent. It seems most prudent and most fair to avoid a deviation that even approaches 10 percent. Secondly, L28 reduces Magic Valley-based districts from five to four. Asking the commission to support L28 is asking the commission to reduce the Magic Valley's representation in the Legislature. Lastly, L28 uses Twin Falls County for spare parts, needlessly splitting and diluting its population into four districts.

I was pleasantly surprised that a few commissioners took some suggestions I drew for them in a map and created L39 (see <http://legislature.idaho.gov/redistricting/PlanHtml/L39.pdf>).

It keeps five districts based in the Magic Valley, rather than reducing to four. It only splits Twin Falls County three times rather than four times in the Democrat map. It has the official approval of Minidoka, Cassia and Power County commissioners and clerks. I think many other counties will see that it was designed in a spirit of compromise.

No one gets everything they want, but everyone gets something fair that they can work with. Most importantly, it has both Republican and Democratic county officials on record supporting it. The commission has three Republicans and three Democrats; therefore, only a bipartisan plan can pass. L28 is a partisan map; L39 is a map designed to maintain regional representation.

From one end of the valley to the other, we may disagree on small details of each plan, but L28 is a bad map for all of us. Ignore Bob Sojka and tell the commission that L28 is a bad idea for Idaho at: RedistrictingCommission@redistricting.idaho.gov.

Sandpoint Approves $58M Budget

BONNER COUNTY DAILY BEE

SANDPOINT • City Council members didn't need much time to pass the proposed 2011-2012 budget — they'd already completed the heavy lifting.

It took little more than a half-hour to pass the balanced $58,265,899 budget, $3,322,201 of which comes from property taxes. Council members said that some residents balked at the size of the budget. However, a water bond financing renovation of the local water treatment plant represents more than half that number.

"Excluding the water bond, this budget is actually lower than when I first came onto the council," Councilman John Reuter said, later adding, "That bond was chosen not by this body but by the people of Sandpoint."

Sandpoint voters approved that bond in the 2009 November election with 763 in favor and 367 opposing its passage. The successful ballot measure was the second attempt to pass the bond — the first failed in an election earlier that year.

No community members showed up at the meeting to speak in favor or against the final budget. However, Sandpoint resident Toby McNeal sent in a letter that he requested be read into the minutes, urging Sandpoint officials toward frugality.

"When will government cut back like the people have to?" McNeal asked in his letter.

Aside from debt servicing, the other big budget expenditures included police protection at $2,071,729, fire protection at $1,083,198, the street department at $1,046,889, water treatment at $1,096,189 and sewage treatment at $1,027,311.

BY KRISTIN RODINE

MELBA • Perpetually curious, Madge Wylie has a tendency to make everyone an interview subject. And what she learns, she remembers and catalogs.

"I'm a busybody," Wylie says.

Others in and around her tiny farming community say she's a local treasure, a prime preserver of Melba's past and a keen observer of its present.

"She really is the librarian, the historian, the go-to person for historical facts," says Canyon County Commissioner Kathy Alder, a longtime resident of Melba, population 513. "If nobody steps up behind her, we're going to lose a lot of our history."

At 85, Wylie is planning her next book of local history — her seventh, not counting smaller publications that chronicle Melba mainstays from the LDS church to the gun club. She still writes a history column for the Kuna Melba News and seems ever-willing to take on new projects. "I think when you've got something to do, you live longer," she says.

With no formal historical training but a wealth of commitment and fact-finding flair, Wylie is among the unofficial historians who help identify and bolster Idaho communities' unique identities, earning the respect and gratitude of history professionals.

"These are the keepers of our history," says Jody Ochoa, executive director of the Idaho Historical Society and Museum. In 2008, the society honored Wylie with its Es-to-Perpetua Award that recognizes major contributions to the preservation of Idaho history.

"A lot of these people preserve the photographs and documents and memories of a generation that would otherwise disappear," says consulting historian Madeline Buckendorf of Caldwell.

They're a great resource, Canyon County Historical Society Director Wendy Miller says. If a question comes up about Melba, she gives Wylie a call.

Across the county in Middleton, former postmaster Lee Moberly plays the same role. Now 81, he grew up in Middleton and spent nine years in the Navy before returning for good in 1958.

History set its hook as folks came by the post office and shared their memories.

He soaked up the stories, but the real town historian at the time, he says, was Jennie Cornell, who kept voluminous records of Middleton history. She chose Moberly as her successor.

In 1990, Moberly and Cornell collaborated on a book, "Middleton in Picture and Story." In 1991, he officiated at her funeral.

Among the points of local curiosity, he says, are the two-story hotel the town sported until a 1914 fire, and the streetcar that ran from Middleton to Boise and Caldwell from 1907 to 1928.

Like Cornell before him, Moberly says he has identified his own successor: Becky Foote O'Meara, owner/editor of the Middleton Gazette and great-granddaughter of the town's first mayor, S.S. Foote.

"I've been trying to get it eased off to her," he says.

The first inklings of Wylie's future as Melba's history-keeper came when she was 15 and won second place and $2 in radio station KIDO's essay contest. The topic: my hometown.

But she wasn't initially interested in agrarian Melba, drawn instead by the more wild, rip-roaring tales of the land across the Snake River.

"I wanted to write about cowboys and Indians in Owyhee County," she recalls.

After high school, she went to work at Gowen Field during World War II and met wounded veteran Clark Wylie. They married and spent a few years in West Virginia before moving back to raise seven children. Clark died in January 2007.

Wylie started her column, "Of This 'n That," in the early 1950s, first at Nampa's Idaho Free Press, then at the Kuna Herald, Idaho Statesman and Kuna Melba News.

In 1972, she became a charter member of the Canyon County Historical Society and was invited to give a talk about Melba.

"You can't just stand up in front of people and say, 'Melba was founded in 1912, blah, blah, blah,'" Wylie says. So she put together a slideshow.

The approach proved popular, and she made the rounds of Scout troops, church groups and fourth-grade Idaho history classes. The role of community historian ensnared her.

"I didn't really want to do it in the first place, and now I can't help myself," she says. "Somebody always wants to know something, and who do you call? Old Madge. So I get to rooting around."

Whatever she delves into, she tends to dig deep. "Anything that happens in Melba, Madge knows the 100-year history," Kuna Melba News Editor Scott McIntosh says.

Wylie's books and columns trace the history of the community's homesteaders, city leaders, businesses and fraternal organizations. If a house burns, a business changes hands or a resident retires or dies, she records and tells the story.

Her latest book, "Of This 'n That: 50 Years of Articles, Musings and History," is a collection of her columns and stories from the Kuna Melba News. The newspaper's initial run of 100 copies sold out during the book's debut at Melba's Fourth of July celebration.

Wylie has a wealth of research on small school districts that dotted the landscape — Melmont, Glendale, Wilson, Guffey — before consolidation and school buses phased them out.

Starting in the third grade, Wylie attended Glendale School just south of Melba. Her family moved there from the Meridian area, and she writes about riding to her new home atop "a hayrack heaped with miscellaneous household items."

Wylie relates how, in 1942, Melba High let out for the whole month of October so students could harvest potatoes and aid the war effort.

When she writes about the 1994 removal of some railroad tracks, she tells the small human stories.

"Melba Todd Hays (the daughter of Melba's founder and source of its name) told me in an interview that her mother sent her laundry to Nampa by rail. When it returned in the next day or two, if they had no stop in Melba, they just tossed the laundry out the window"

On a recent drive, Wylie described the early life of places she passed: "The woman who lived there was a good old Quaker Lady; she wore a bonnet and dress out in the field."

"Right there is where Col. Dewey cut the lava rock to make the foundation for the Dewey Palace," she said a few moments later. The palace, Nampa's showplace 1902 hotel, was razed in 1963 — much to the chagrin of preservationists.

Wylie is something of a preservationist herself. Kitty-corner to her house is the red-brick former gym for Melba schools, built in 1935 as part of the Works Progress Administration.

IDAHO STATESMAN

Melba town historian Madge Wylie is shown Aug. 3. At 85, Wylie is planning her next book of local history, and she seems ever-willing to take on new projects.

Federal Agencies Told to Prepare Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON • The White House has asked federal agencies to propose ways to cut spending by 10 percent or more for the upcoming budget, underscoring the political jockeying under way as President Barack Obama and congressional Republicans prepare for a fiery autumn clash over the economy and the debt.

In a letter released

Thursday, White House budget chief Jacob Lew told agency heads to submit financial blueprints with spending for the 2013 budget at least 5 percent below this year's levels. He also asked them to present additional proposals that would trim spending by a total of at least 10 percent that year.

Israel Pounds Gaza After Attacks Kill 8

EILAT, Israel • Gunmen who crossed from the Egyptian desert launched a series of attacks Thursday in southern Israel, killing eight people and threatening to destabilize a volatile border region that includes the Hamas-ruled Gaza Strip and the increasingly lawless Sinai Peninsula.

Israel blamed an armed Palestinian group from neighboring Gaza. Israeli forces killed five of the gunmen along the border with Egypt, the military said, and later launched an airstrike inside Gaza that killed five other militants from the same group as well as a child.

Three blasts shook Gaza early Friday, including one that killed a 13-year-old boy, according to a Gaza hospital official. But the Israeli military

Global Squeeze Play on Syria's Assad

BY PAUL RICHTER
and BORZOU DARAGAH
Tribune Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON • After months of criticism that he was too soft on Syria's government, President Barack Obama on Thursday led a choreographed call by Western governments for President Bashar Assad to give up power, further isolating autocratic regime.

The demand for Assad's ouster, echoed by the governments of France, Britain, Germany, Canada and the European Union, followed weeks of diplomatic talks aimed at presenting a common front against Assad's government. The administration had hoped that Turkey and Saudi Arabia, two regional powers that have more influence over Syria, would join the effort.

Those countries neither supported nor condemned Obama's call for Assad to leave, a silence widely interpreted as an expression of frustration at the Syrian leader's unfulfilled promises to end violence in his country.

On Thursday, Assad's government showed no sign of stopping its attacks on protesters, who have built a widespread movement.

Until now, the administration had suggested that Assad still held enough legitimacy to preside over reforms that would loosen his autocratic grip on power. But with the killing and mass arrests showing no signs of abating, Obama said for the first time that Assad was unfit to lead Syria.

Assad's pledges of reform have "rung hollow while he is imprisoning, torturing, and slaughtering his own people," Obama said in a written statement. "For the sake of the Syrian people, the time has come for President Assad to step aside."

European governments said they were open to further European Union sanctions on Syria.

But the Europeans, who buy 90 percent of Syria's oil exports, did not announce any decision to stop those imports.

That reluctance highlighted the limited leverage Washington has been able to bring to assist a widening popular revolt in which an entrenched regime had deployed combat troops, tanks and warships against unarmed civilians, killing thousands of people.

Libyan Capital is Fearful as Rebels Close In on Tripoli

BY KARIN LAUB
Associated Press

ZINTAN, Libya • Families fleeing their homes to avoid a possible rebel assault on the Libyan capital described deteriorating living conditions in Tripoli: Power outages lasting days, gun battles at night and a climate of fear in which no one dares to criticize the regime — even among friends.

With opposition fighters steadily gaining ground in the six-month-old civil war, there are signs that Moammar Gadhafi's 42-year-old rule may be unraveling. The rebels seized Libya's last functioning oil refinery Thursday and claimed to have captured most of the nearby city of Zawiyah, just 30 miles (50 kilometers) west of the capital along the Mediterranean coast.

A rebel victory in Zawiyah could leave Gadhafi nearly cornered in his increasingly isolated stronghold of Tripoli. Rebel fighters are now closing in on the capital from the west and the south, while NATO controls the seas to the north. The opposition is in charge of most of the eastern half of the country.

"We know he (Gadhafi) is finished. We just don't know when."

Mohammed Said, a 50-year-old school teacher who fled Tripoli with his family on Tuesday.

The Libyan leader has given no indication he is willing to relinquish power, however, and rebels could easily get bogged down on the way to the capital or face a protracted battle there.

"We know he (Gadhafi) is finished," said Mohammed Said, a 50-year-old school teacher who fled Tripoli on Tuesday. "We just don't know when."

Tripoli residents are aware of the rebel advances, but won't speak out against the regime, even among friends, for fear of arrest.

"We are afraid of one another," said Said, who now lives with his 13-member family in his parents' home in the mountain town of Zintan, the nerve center of the rebels' recent push toward the Gadhafi-held coast.

U.S. Plans Case-by-Case Review on Deportation

BY ALICIA A. CALDWELL
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • The Obama administration said Thursday it will allow many illegal immigrants facing deportation the chance to stay in this country and apply for a work permit, while focusing on removing from the U.S. convicted criminals and those who might be a national security or public safety threat.

That will mean a case-by-case review of approximately 300,000 illegal immigrants facing possible deportation in federal immigration courts, Homeland Security Secretary Janet Napolitano said in announcing the policy change.

Advocates for an immigration overhaul have said that the administration, by placing all illegal immigrants in the same category for deportation, has failed to live up to its promise to only deport the “worst of the worst,” as President Barack Obama has said.

“From a law enforcement and public safety perspective, DHS enforcement resources must continue to be focused on our highest priorities,” Napolitano wrote a group of senators supporting new immigration legislation. “Doing otherwise hinders our public safety mission — clogging immigration court dockets and diverting DHS enforcement resources away from the individuals who pose a threat to public safety.”

The Associated Press obtained a copy of the letter.

Republicans complained that the new policy circumvents Congress.

“They have created a working group that appears to have the specific purpose of overruling, on a ‘case-by-case’ basis, an immigration court’s final order of removal, or preventing that court from even issuing such an order,” House Judiciary Committee Chairman Lamar Smith, R-Texas, said in a statement. “The Obama administration should enforce immigration laws, not look for ways to ignore them.”

Syria

Washington officials have ruled out any U.S. military action. Administration officials said they still are urging Turkey and Arab governments, including Saudi Arabia, to do more to help depose Assad.

This week, Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton appeared to play down the importance of a U.S. call for Assad’s departure. But, she added, “if Turkey says it, if Saudi King Abdullah says it, if other people say it, there is no way the Assad regime can ignore it.”

The Turkish government,

Syria’s biggest trading partner, is ambivalent about the crisis, in part because of its economic interests. While Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan and other leaders have condemned Assad, they have not been as aggressive as the Obama administration would like.

Saudi Arabia, which has powerful influence with the Sunni majority of the Alawite-led country, also has condemned Assad and recently withdrew its ambassador. It did not react immediately to the U.S. and European actions.

The leaders of Britain, France and Germany joined Obama in demanding Assad’s resignation.

A 42-year-old Islamic school teacher and her four children, ages 12 to 17, left their home in the Tripoli neighborhood of Tajoura, an anti-regime bastion, on Monday and reached Zintan through back roads.

The family members said they had lived in constant fear of Gadhafi loyalists and requested anonymity to avoid retribution.

“Every household in Tajoura has someone in prison,” said the mother, who is originally from Zintan and found refuge in her childhood home. She said there were nightly gun battles in her Tripoli neighborhood.

Her 16-year-old son said he mostly stayed home in recent months, rarely going to school, to avoid being searched and questioned at checkpoints. He said that out of 30 classmates, five were arrested because they participated in anti-government protests in February.

The family left home with just a few belongings so neighbors would not be alerted to the departure, said the woman.

When driving south, the family encountered about 10 checkpoints and lied to the soldiers about their destination to avoid being turned back. At the last checkpoint, troops refused to let the car pass. The woman said she turned around and followed other drivers on back roads.

“I was terrified. My heart was pounding,” she said.

Said, who left his home in Tripoli’s western Janzour neighborhood, said life is becoming increasingly difficult in the capital. Since the start of August, there have been blackouts lasting several days at a time.

After nightfall, security agents stop and search vehicles at checkpoints across the city, and the sound of gun battles can be heard frequently. He said he does not know who is shooting, noting that he and many of his neighbors don’t venture out after dark.

Motorists lining up at gas stations wait several days for their turn, and the black market price for filling a tank is about 200 dinars, just 50 dinars less than Said’s monthly pension payment.

Israel

did not immediately confirm reports of three more airstrikes targeting a security compound, a home and the area of the smuggling tunnels crisscrossing the Gaza-Egypt border.

The Israeli military said three of the men killed in Gaza had been involved in planning the attack.

Gunfire continued on both sides of the border late into the evening. After nightfall, Israel’s “Iron Dome” anti-missile system intercepted a rocket fired by Gaza militants at the city of Ashkelon, the military said.

The attacks were the deadliest against Israelis since a gunman killed eight civilians in Jerusalem in 2008. They suggested that Egypt’s recent political upheaval and a resulting power vacuum in Sinai had allowed militants to open a new front against Israel on the long-quiet frontier.

The attack began shortly after noon in southern Israel with gunfire at a civilian bus heading toward the Red Sea resort of Eilat.

Some passengers were hit, the military said. The gunmen had crossed the border and set up an ambush along a 300-yard strip, armed with automatic weapons, grenades and suicide bomb belts, according to the military.

SOURCE: ARUBA SUSPECT FILED INSURANCE CLAIM

Investigators have been told that just two days after an American tourist was reported missing in Aruba, her travel companion tried to collect on a $1.5 million accidental-death insurance policy he took out on her. A person who provided information to authorities told the AP that Gary V. Giordano, now detained on the Caribbean island, bought the insurance specifically for his five-day getaway with Robyn Gardner.

Storm Kills 3, Injures 71 at Belgian Festival

BY SLOBODAN LEKIC

Associated Press

HASSETT, Belgium • A storm swept through a popular open-air music festival in this town in eastern Belgium on Thursday, killing at least three people and injuring more than 70 others, an official said.

Ambulances and police cars raced to and from the site of the Pukkelpop festival, near the town of Hasselt, 50 miles east of Brussels, late Thursday, their sirens blaring.

Concertgoers described scenes of panic as the sky darkened, the winds whipped, rain poured, hailstones nearly half an inch across pelted the crowds, and concert structures buckled.

“It was frightening. It looked terrible. All the structures collapsed,” said Brinnie Gardner, 20, of Auckland, New Zealand, who is on a tour of Europe with a friend. “There was panic. It was crazy.”

Hugo Simons, Hasselt’s head of emergency medical planning, told VRT radio that three people had died, 11 had been severely injured and 60 had sustained light injuries as a result of the storm.

Organizers estimated that 60,000 people were at the three-day festival, which started Thursday, when the storm broke. Many were streaming out of the grounds after the storm, which turned the festival site into a scene of mud and destruction within about 10 minutes.

Video from the site showed stage equipment dangling in high winds as rain-soaked concertgoers at the music festival ran for cover. Trees and branches all around the area were downed, evidence of the sudden ferocity of the winds.

Ambulances ferried the seriously injured to nearby hospitals. Some of those lightly injured were being treated at a local sports complex. More than 20 ambulances were dispatched to the festival ground.

HP to End Mobile Products, May Sell Its PC Division

BY JORDAN ROBERTSON
Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO • In a dramatic reshuffling, Hewlett-Packard Co. said Thursday that it will discontinue its tablet computer and smartphone products and may sell or spin off its PC division, bowing out of the consumer businesses.

It's one of the most extreme makeovers in the company's 72-year history and signals new CEO Leo Apotheker's most transparent move to date to make HP look more like longtime rival IBM Corp., which now makes most of its money from software and services.

The most apparent result for consumers will be the end of HP's TouchPad tablet, a sales dud, and HP-branded smartphones, also-rans in a booming market crowded with the iPhone and devices based on Google's Android system. By the end of next year, HP computers could be sold under another company's name.

HP will continue to sell servers and other equipment to business customers, just as IBM now does.

It was not immediately known whether any jobs will be cut. HP employs more than 300,000 worldwide.

A decade ago, HP emerged from a bitter fight to spend more than $24 billion on Compaq Computer, setting the stage for HP to become the world's No. 1 maker of personal computers. Now, three CEOs later, HP is changing course — hard.

The PC division is HP's biggest revenue generator but least profitable division. The move has long been rumored, but just six months ago HP dismissed reports of the possibility as “irresponsible reporting” and that PCs are “core to HP's strategy for the connected world.”

The PC industry is under pressure from hot-selling smartphones and tablet computers, which have contributed to already weak consumer demand for PCs in the U.S. and Europe.

More striking is that HP plans to shutter its fledgling smartphone and tablet business just two years after spending $1.8 billion on smartphone maker Palm, which gave HP the webOS software that has been praised by critics but largely been ignored by the marketplace. It is here that HP was the victim of the Apple and Google juggernauts, as iPads and iPhones and smartphones running Google's Android software have been hot sellers, while HP devices have languished.

HP also announced that it is in talks to buy Autonomy Corp., a business software maker. Earlier, The Wall Street Journal and Bloomberg News had reported that HP planned to buy Autonomy for $10 billion, which would rank the deal among HP's biggest.

OBITUARIES

LeRoy Delance Crist

Nov. 7, 1932-Aug. 17, 2011

JEROME • LeRoy Delance Crist, 78, of Jerome, died Wednesday, Aug. 17, 2011, at St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center.

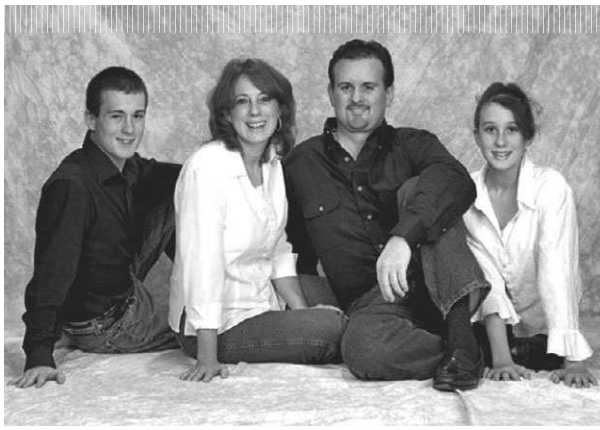

LeRoy was born Nov. 7, 1932, at Harper, Kan., the son of James Patterson and Stella May Thomas Crist. As a young child, LeRoy moved with his family to Idaho, where he attended Twin Falls schools. He married Beverly Bunn on Oct. 22, 1949, at Elko, Nev. They had three sons and one daughter, Kenny, Fred, Terry and Stella. LeRoy served as a Twin Falls police officer for several years. He later went to work for Nu Life Restoration. He moved to Renton, Wash., where he started his own business, Best Way Carpet and Upholstery Cleaners. He returned to Hagerman, Idaho, where he started a paint contracting business which later became Crist and Sons Construction Inc.

LeRoy was an avid outdoorsman, loving to fish and ride horses. LeRoy will be greatly missed by all who knew and loved him.

He was preceded in death by his parents; son, Fred James Crist; brother, Keith Crist; and sister, Clara Dains. LeRoy is survived by his two sons and their wives, Kenny and Ronda Crist of Hagerman, Idaho, and Terry and Rhonda Crist of Rupert, Idaho; a daughter and son-in-law, Stella and Jesse Parker of Tonasket, Wash.; 11 grandchildren; 20 great-grandchildren; two sisters, Retha (Larrey) Anderson and Shirley Murray, all of Twin Falls; and his ex-wife, Judy Crist and her family of Wendell, Idaho.

A memorial service with potluck for LeRoy will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 21, at the home of his son, Kenny, 760 E. 2700 S. in Hagerman, Idaho. To share a memory of LeRoy or to offer condolences to LeRoy's family, please visit www.white-mortuary.com.

Randal Whittle, Vicki Whittle MacLean Whittle, Brittany Whittle

OAKLEY • Randal Jay Whittle, 42, of Claremont, Calif., died Sunday, Aug. 14, 2011, along with his family when his small-engine aircraft crashed shortly after take-off from the Burley, Idaho, airport.

“Randy” was born in Van Nuys, Calif., on Nov. 9, 1968, to LaVar and Marion Whittle. He was raised in Oakley, Idaho, until he moved back to California in 1983. He attended school in Oakley; Sylmar, Calif.; and USC in L.A. He also had served a mission in Connecticut for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Randy was the owner of Clarity Wealth Solutions. He was well liked by all who met and associated with him and had a special way with young people as evidenced by his own children and the youth of his congregation from church. Randy will be remembered for the twinkle in his eye, his positive encouragement and infectious smile. He is survived by his parents; two siblings, David Whittle (Kathy), Robert Whittle, Linda Norris (Greg) and Tammy William (Evan); and predeceased by a sister, Sherry Holdaway (Lee).

Vicki Whittle, 46, was born Oct. 5, 1964, to Kenneth and Marie Webb in Phoenix, Ariz. When she was still young, she moved with her family to Oregon. She attended Willamette High School and Lane Community College in Eugene. Later, she moved to California, where she met and married Randal Whittle in 1991. They made their home in the L.A. area, where they had their two children, MacLean and Brittany. Vicki was devoted to her family and many friends she served. She was an active participant in her church and various service opportunities with her family. Most of all, she loved to spend time with her husband and her children doing as much with them as possible. Vicki is survived by her mother, Marie Webb; her siblings, Dow Webb (Lucinda), Wendi Frederickson (Evan), Misti Sims and Glen Webb (Kay); and 11 nieces and nephews.

MacLean Whittle, 16, was born Dec. 1, 1994, in Santa Monica, Calif., and attended Claremont High School. From an early age, he showed that he was not a quitter and excelled at his studies and activities. He played piano beautifully and enjoyed making his own music. He recently finished his final service project toward his Eagle Scout Award by making blankets for troubled teens at the Etti Lee Youth and Family Services. MacLean cared about his friends and enjoyed youth activities from church. His quick wit, intelligence and fun-loving nature was evident in all he did and will be missed.

Brittany Whittle, 13, was born Oct. 23, 1997, in Los Angeles, Calif., and attended Claremont Junior High. A bubbly personality and beautiful smile won her the attention and adoration of all who knew her. She had a lovely singing voice and many times her brother played for her. She was involved with plays and loved going places with her family. Her quick comebacks and spunk kept MacLean on his toes. She made “baby cakes,” showing her creativeness and artistic side.

The Whittles laughed together, cried together, lived and died together. Forever a Family. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests donations to www.ettilee.org.

A joint memorial service will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 20, at the Oakley LDS Stake Center, with Bishop Scott Arnell officiating. Urn placement will take place at the Oakley Cemetery at a later date. Services are under the direction of Morrison Funeral Home in Rupert.

Archaeologists Comb Newly Found Civil War POW Camp

BY RUSS BYNUM
Associated Press

SAVANNAH, Ga. • When word reached Camp Lawton that the enemy army of Gen. William T. Sherman was approaching, the prison camp's Confederate officers rounded up their thousands of Union army POWs for a swift evacuation — leaving behind rings, buckles, coins and other keepsakes that would remain undisturbed for nearly 150 years.

Archaeologists are still discovering unusual, and sometimes stunningly personal, artifacts a year after state officials revealed that a graduate student had pinpointed the location of the massive but short-lived Civil War camp in southeast Georgia.

Discoveries made as recently as a few weeks ago were being displayed Thursday at the Statesboro campus of Georgia Southern University. They include a soldier's copper ring bearing the insignia of the Union army's 3rd Corps, which fought bloody battles at Gettysburg and Manassas, and a payment token stamped with the still-legible name of a grocery store in Michigan.

“These guys were rousted out in the middle of the night and loaded onto trains, so they didn't have time to load all this stuff up,” said David Crass, an archaeologist who serves as director of Georgia's Historic Preservation Division. “Pretty much all they had got left behind. You don't see these sites often in archaeology.”

Camp Lawton's obscurity helped it remain undisturbed all these years. Built about 50 miles south of Augusta, the Confederate camp imprisoned about 10,000 Union soldiers after it opened in October 1864 to replace the infamous Andersonville prison. But it lasted barely six weeks before Sherman's army arrived and burned it during his march from Atlanta to Savannah.

Barely a footnote in the war's history, Camp Lawton was a low priority among scholars. Its exact location was never verified. While known to be near Magnolia Springs State Park, archaeologists figured the camp was too short-lived to yield real historical treasures.

That changed last year when Georgia Southern archaeology student Kevin Chapman seized on an offer by the state Department of Natural Resources to pursue his master's thesis by looking for evidence of Camp Lawton's stockade walls on the park grounds.

Chapman ended up stunning the pros, uncovering much more than the remains of the stockade's 15-foot pine posts. On neighboring land owned by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, he dug up remnants of the prisoners themselves — a corroded tourniquet buckle, a tobacco pipe with teeth marks in the stem and a folded frame that once held a daguerreotype.

“They're not just buttons and bullets,” Chapman said. “They're little pieces of the story, and this is not the story of battles and generals. This is the story of little people whose names have been forgotten by history that we're starting to piece together and be able to tell.”

Q. My neighbor has had a small dog for years. They are both getting older! Without being too pushy or overly involved what can I do to help him care for, and keep, his dog?

A. Pets help elders fight loneliness and give meaning to their days, but pet care is a big responsibility. It's great that you want to assist! Talk with your neighbor. If he is worried about the dog getting exercise, offer to walk his dog when you walk yours. If money is a concern, tell him there may be local veterinarians that offer discounts to older citizens, and volunteer to help him locate one. If a brief trip or hospital stay is coming up, volunteer to watch the dog until he returns. If transportation is a problem, provide rides to the vet clinic, the groomer, or the grocery store. Check out local non-profit pet groups, as some may offer services for elders and their companions. Let your neighbor know what you find out. Good luck!

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

Dow Continues Freefall

NEW YORK (AP) • The Dow fell 419.63 points, or 3.7 percent, to 10,990.58. The Standard & Poor's 500 index fell 53.24, or 4.5 percent, to 1,140.65. The Nasdaq composite fell 131.05, or 5.2 percent, to 2,380.43.

The Dow is down 13.6 percent since stocks began falling July 21 — four weeks that have rattled Americans watching their retirement savings and other investment accounts shrivel.

Here We Go Again: Another Big Down Day for the Dow

BY STAN CHOE

Associated Press

NEW YORK • Just when Wall Street seemed to have settled down, a barrage of bad economic reports collided with fresh worries about European banks Thursday and triggered a global sell-off in stocks.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 419 points — a return to the wild swings that gripped the stock market last week.

Stocks were only part of a dramatic day across the financial markets. The price of oil fell $5, gold set another record, the 10-year Treasury hit its lowest yield, and the average mortgage rate fell to its lowest in at least 40 years.

The selling began in Asia, where Japanese exports fell for a fifth straight month, and continued in Europe, where bank stocks were hammered because of worries about debt problems there, which have proved hard to contain.

On Wall Street, the losses wiped out much of the roughly 700 points that the Dow had gained over five days. Some investors who bought in the middle of last week decided to sell after they were confronted with a raft of bad news about the economy:

• More people joined the unemployment line last week

“I think things are going to get worse before they get better. But I’m still going to ride it out.”

— Lee Applegate, a retired sales executive than at any time in the past month. The number of people filing claims for unemployment benefits for the first time rose to 408,000, or 9,000 more than the week before.

• Inflation at the consumer level in July was the highest since March. More expensive gas, food, clothes and other necessities are squeezing household budgets at a time when most people aren’t getting raises.

• Sales of previously occupied homes fell in July for the third time in four months — more trouble for a housing market that can’t seem to turn itself around. This year is on pace to be the worst since the late 1990s for home sales.

• Manufacturing has sharply weakened in the mid-Atlantic states, according to a report from the Federal Reserve. Manufacturing had been one of the economy’s strongest industries since the recession ended in 2009, but its growth has slowed this year.

The manufacturing news was especially bleak on an already bad day, said Dan Greenhaus, chief global strategist at brokerage BTIG. He called the Fed report “an atrocious set of numbers.”

“That really set the market on its head,” he said.

Wall Street and other financial markets have wrestled for several weeks with fears that a new recession might be in the offing. Morgan Stanley economists said in a report Thursday that the U.S. and Europe are “dangerously close to recession.”

“It won’t take much in the form of additional shocks to tip the balance,” they wrote.

Worries about European debt also hang over the market. A default by any country would hurt the European banks that hold those European government bonds, plus American banks that have lent to their European counterparts.

Renewing the fears, The Wall Street Journal reported Thursday that U.S. regulators are looking at the U.S. arms of big European banks to make sure they have enough money for day-to-day operations.

“I don’t want to pretend that the market knows what it’s thinking about too much,” said David Kelly, chief market strategist at JPMorgan Funds. “We live in an environment of sell now and ask questions later. The European market was off very heavily this morning before the markets opened. But honestly there wasn’t any news of any substance. We always collect whatever crumbs we can find and point to them.”

Asian markets started Thursday’s drop. Japan’s Nikkei 225 index fell 1.3 percent. The main stock indexes in South Korea and India each dropped a little more, then Europe more than that — 4.5 percent in Britain and 5.8 percent in Germany.

Lee Applegate, a retired sales executive from Cincinnati, watched the latest market plunge uneasily but said he was planning to stay the course with his investments. He and his wife have several retirement accounts.

He remembers the mistake he made in pulling his money out of stocks in early 2009, just before the market started its two-year surge. Since March 9 of that year, the S&P 500 is up 68.6 percent.

“I think things are going to get worse before they get better,” Applegate said. “But I’m still going to ride it out.”

Idaho Gains $13.2M for Small Business Lending

Millions in collateral funding for Idaho small business loans will start to become available in November through the Idaho Housing and Finance Association.

TIMES-NEWS

Idaho small businesses will have access this fall to an additional $13.2 million in federal loan funding.

The Idaho Housing and Finance Association announced Thursday U.S. Department of the Treasury approval of a State Small Business Credit Initiative application.

Through the Small Business Jobs Act signed into law last fall, Idaho can access $13.2 million in SSBICI funds, which are expected to generate more than $132 million in new private lending in the state. The funds will be received by the Idaho Department of Commerce and administered by the Housing and Finance Association.

“These funds will provide critical support to state-level programs that help expand small-business lending and spur private sector job growth,” Deputy Secretary of the Treasury Neal S. Wolin said in a written release. “Unlocking credit for small businesses will provide a powerful boost for investment and job creation in local communities across the country.”

The funding will help provide small business loans that can be used for a variety of purposes, from funding start-up costs and construction to backing business acquisitions and expansions.

“The SSBICI funds are going to make a great impact in Idaho’s economy,” Gerald Hunter, IHFA president and executive director, said in a written release. “Banks are already partnering with Idaho businesses to provide financing. The collateral funding will give them the extra assurance they need to make loans to small businesses that qualify but whose asset values might have dropped because of market conditions.

“These funds will help small business in Idaho grow, create employment and revitalize communities.”

The program is under development and will launch in November. Small businesses interested in the program should contact their banking institution directly in November for more information.

For more information about SSBICI, visit the U.S. Department of Treasury website, Treasury.gov.

A Valley Full of Magic

A group of young magicians learn some new tricks as they gear up for community show.

Calvin Geissler made a fist with one hand, then pushed an orange scarf into it. A few seconds later, he flicked his wrists and opened his palms. The scarf had disappeared. “That’s good,” said Olen Foreman, a member of the Magic Valley Magicians. “But you did it a little too fast.” Geissler was one of four 9-year-old boys who on Wednesday visited Toy Town in Twin Falls for Magic Camp. Those who registered for the two-day camp, which finished Thursday, learned not only sleight of hand but also how to present the tricks to a live audience. Come Aug. 27, they’ll do just that during a magic show at the College of Southern Idaho. The show, sponsored by the Twin Falls Community Foundation and Kiwanis Club, will feature professional magician Garry Carson and his Magical Mystery Show. Proceeds of the event will be split equally between the Kiwanis Community Service Fund and the foundation’s Townsite Park Fund. “Last year Garry Carson’s show was sold out, and we expect his fans back for his new show,” said Lance Clow, chairman of MagicFest 2011. MagicFest began in 2009 when Clow and others wanted to bring a little magic to the Magic Valley. It seems to be attracting interest, he said. One sign: About eight people are members of the Magic Valley Magicians, a group that aims to promote magic in the valley through community events such as the upcoming show. Foreman, who’s practiced magic for about 36 years, said the illusions and

IDOL FINALIST TO PERFORM AT MAGIC VALLEY MALL

TIMES-NEWS

American Idol finalist Tim Urban will perform 2-4 p.m. Saturday at the center court of Magic Valley Mall. Urban finished seventh on season nine of the singing competition show. The Los Angeles-based singer released a six-song EP in 2010 and is planning to release a full-length album later this year. This is Urban’s first time performing in Idaho, he said in a Wednesday phone interview. It will also be his first mall performance. “Most of the time I just do little venues,” he said. “It varies, but normally it’s not a mall.” Urban is scheduled to perform two acoustic songs, said Shellien Gilliland, marketing director for Magic Valley Mall. But don’t be surprised if he plays a few more. “That might change because I like performing,” Urban said. “We’ll see what happens.” After the performance, he will sign posters that are available for free with $50 worth of mall receipts. Urban said he is excited to meet both American Idol fans and new listeners. “I’ll just basically go and meet as many people as I can,” he said. The performance is free. Stepping Back in Time

Magic Valley families may experience what life was like a century ago at Saturday history event.

The history of the Magic Valley is rooted in pioneer ways. That is part of why the Twin Falls County Historic Society will host a Live History Day free for kids on Saturday. The Twin Falls County Museum, located on Highway 30, has been a place for locals to learn about their past for many years. The museum features displays of how things were done on early 20th century farms that dotted the valley. On Saturday, the museum also will host volunteers who are knowledgeable in pioneer ways and who will be demonstrating turn of the century crafts. “I want to help the kids understand that you didn’t go to Walmart and get a pair of socks back then,” said Pam Yates, who will be doing a wool spinning and weaving demonstration. “You

Writers Gather in Sun Valley

Conference kicks off today with New York Times columnist David Brooks.

SUN VALLEY • New York Times columnist David Brooks will kick off the Sun Valley Writers Conference tonight with a funny yet profound look at how research for his latest book, "The Social Animal," took him out of his customary world entrenched in political science and into the terrain of neuroscience. Neuroscience, he said, is fraught with emotion, intuition and irrational ways on which we base some of our most important decisions.

Brooks' speech is from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Sun Valley Pavilion. Single-event tickets are available for $35 each.

The four-day conference, which gets under way tonight, features "an amazing selection of presenters," according to Marketing Assistant Carrie Lightner. They range from Kathryn Stock-

The four-day Sun Valley Writers Conference begins today with David Brooks, a columnist for The New York Times. Some of the highlights include:

- Brooks' speech, which will go from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. today.
- David Grossman, author of "To the End of the Land," will speak 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Saturday.
- Calvin Trillin, New Yorker humorist, will speak from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

All events take place in the Sun Valley Pavilion. Single-event tickets are available for $35 each. Tickets are available at Chapter One Bookstore and Iconoclast Books in Ketchum and at the door as space is available. Teachers and students with I.D. are admitted to talks free of charge as long as space is available.

And "New Yorker" humorist Calvin Trillin will talk about writing, including his secret work with the International Deadline Poets Organization of which there are two members, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Pavilion.

Many Sun Valley residents consider the conference a think tank that brings in food for thought that fuels them throughout the remainder of the year.

"The Writers Conference is one of the reasons I live in Sun Valley," said Hailey resident Marcia Lieblich.

Joel Vilinsky, a teacher at The Community School, said he always considered the Writers Conference the highlight of his summer. One of his fondest memories, he said, was of driving U.S. Poet Laureate Billy Collins from the airport and asking him if he ever got to thinking about other things when he was reciting his poetry.

"He said he saw W.S. Mervyn on one of the front rows at one of his talks and immediately started imagining how Mervyn must be critiquing his poetry," Vilinsky said.

There are two other events at which single-event tickets are available:

David Grossman, one of Israel's preeminent writers will talk about his novel, "To the End of the Land," which describes a mother's effort to protect her children from conflict in a land where the demands of patriotism can be tragically dehumanizing, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Pavilion.

Sugarland Tour Resumes After Stage Tragedy

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) • Sugarland prepared to return to the stage on Thursday for their first performance since a stage collapse at the Indiana State Fair killed five people.

The Grammy-winning country duo was minutes from performing at the fair in Indianapolis last Saturday when 60 to 70 mph winds gusts knocked the stage onto the audience. Four were killed instantly, another person died later. About four dozen others were hurt.

Sugarland members Jennifer Nettles and Kristian Bush were not injured in the accident. Their manager told The Associated Press earlier this week that a decision by their touring manager to hold them back after seeing the sky likely saved their lives.

They canceled their Sunday show at the Iowa State Fair but said earlier this week they were looking forward to getting their "touring family" back together and using their music to help with healing.

"Our road family experienced its traumas together," they said in a statement on their website. "While we all scattered to our given families for their comfort, the trauma we experienced together binds us in a unique way that we share only with each other, and those who were there. There is healing in our being together. There is healing in our working together."

The band's elaborate set and instruments were all destroyed.

They plan a private memorial for the victims in Indiana.

Twin Falls Native's Paintings on Display at Cucina Gemelli

TIMES-NEWS

Twin Falls Italian restaurant Cucina Gemelli will host an opening reception for artist Caleb Meyer, 5-7 p.m. Tuesday. The event will feature complementary hors d'oeuvres and wine and beer specials. Meyers will be on hand to answer questions, and his paintings will be for sale.

The event will take place in Cucina Gemelli's newly opened banquet room, where Meyer's paintings will hang. The restaurant's art exhibits will rotate every few months. Local artists are encouraged to contact Cucina Gemelli proprietor Lynn Sheehan to submit their work for review.

Dance Project Returns to Sun Valley Pavilion

BY KAREN BOSSICK
For the Times-News

The Trey McIntyre Project will dance its way onto the stage of the Sun Valley Pavilion for the third year in a row on Friday, Aug. 26.

The nationally renowned group from Boise will begin and end their show with pieces set to music by the Preservation Hall Jazz group of New Orleans.

"We'll make the audience feel as if there's a party going on," said dancer Chanel DaSilva.

In between will be solo, duet and group numbers performed to such Roy Orbison songs as "Cryin'," "In Dreams" and "Dream Baby."

While in Sun Valley, dancers from the Trey McIntyre Project also will teach an intermediate/advanced dancer's modern

Magic Valley Chorale Wants Your Voice

BY EVA STUTZMAN
stutzman@magicvalley.com

The Magic Valley Chorale, which has been a fixture in the Magic Valley since 1973, is always looking for new members who enjoy singing.

Now you can be part of the group, which will hold registration at 6:30 p.m. Aug. 25.

"We are a loosely knit group of people who like to sing in a group," said Ora Lee Wiseman, the group's publicity director.

Registration will be held outside the choir room in the College of Southern Idaho's Fine Arts Center, where the group's regular practices are held.

The group meets 7 to 9 p.m. every Thursday to rehearse. At the end of each season, December and May, the group holds a concert.

The group asks that each member contribute $10. Anyone is welcome. The group encourages all ages and different abilities.

"At one point we had a man and his granddaughter performing with us," Wiseman said.

For more information, call Ora Lee Wiseman at 733-3160 or Terry Fletcher at 733-6520.

Car Show Expands to Two-Day Event

Hundreds of cars and thousands of spectators drive to Jerome for Joe Mama's Car Show.

BY BLAIR KOCH
For the Times-News

Which car show lures some 16,000 people into Jerome, is one of the biggest events of its kind in the northwest and kicks off tonight?

The O'Reilly Auto Parts Joe Mama's Car show, of course.

Looking to capitalize on its success, organizers have decided to expand the show, now in its 13th year, from a one-day expo to a two-day affair.

Attendees can get a head start on the excitement by taking in the flashy paint jobs, throbbing engines and custom muffler work during a newly scheduled Friday cruise and community barbecue, which kicks off the show. On Saturday, with about 500 custom cars, pumped-up trucks, dragsters and other types of vehicles parked on Main Street and in City Park, show-goers can admire the works at a leisurely pace.

"We draw from five neighboring states. By expanding the event, we've been able to increase the advertising and exposure and hope to see the show continue to get bigger," said Orlan Stearns, car show co-chairman and member of the Magic Valley Early Iron, which is hosting the show.

Early Iron donates the proceeds from its $10 suggested registration to charitable organizations. Last year, about $5,000 was given to groups across the Magic Valley, including Coats for Kids and the Optimist Club, Stearns said.

Nicole Spencer, Friday's activities chairwoman, said the evening cruise "is just one feature to the new line-up of 1950s, sock-hop-themed fun."

A 1957 Chevrolet Bel Air owned by J.R. Blair of American Falls sits in the sun as people walk by during the 2008 Joe Mama's Car Show in Jerome.

Cruisers will take off from the northwest corner of the Walmart parking lot and travel north along Lincoln Avenue, turning right onto Main Street and proceeding to North and South parks. The procession will loop around the parks until 9 p.m., giving spectators plenty of time to admire tires and rims in action.

"Families, couples, groups of friends and car show participants can come out for the barbecue, hosted by Smokin' Cowboys and watch the cruise, listen to live music and take part in or enjoy the rib-eating competition," Spencer said. "We have The Resilients playing nothing but music from the '50s, keeping with the theme."

The competition is open to teams of four people challenged with eating the most ribs in a certain amount of time for a grand prize worth $600. Teams also have the option to dress in costumes that represent their sponsor, Spencer said. The best-costumed team will receive a prize.

On Saturday, Schwan's Home Service and United Dairymen of Idaho will serve free ice cream, and Walmart and Pepsi have again teamed up to sell dollar hot dogs and soda, Stearns said. About 40 food, craft and industry vendors will also be set up throughout the parks.

Keep your eye out for Marvel Comic's Iron Man and Ron Mangus, stitcher for America's Most Beautiful

Roadster — both will be mingling with the crowd and happy to sign autographs.

Twin Falls resident Gena Anderson isn't sure if her husband will be loading up his dragster for display this year, as he has several times before, but the couple's attendance to Joe Mama's is all but guaranteed.

"We don't have to take the car to have a good time because there is always so much to see and do," Anderson said. "Not only are there many more vehicles to see at this show than any other, but the caliber and quality they are able to bring in — the jet cars, cars shooting flames — they are exciting cars to see."

Blair Koch may be reached at 316-2607 or blairkoch@gmail.com.

tricks have many virtues — including the smiles they bring to children.

He first learned magic from his father-in-law and later from professional magicians in such places as Las Vegas and Hollywood. He's also learned a lot from books.

"It's not been a profession for me, it's always been a hobby," he said. "I have a wonderful time entertaining both adults and children."

He said some tricks are fairly easy to learn, while others are difficult. "Some of them take skill, dexterity to do misdirection, and some take a lot of practice."

It's true that magicians don't give away their secrets, Foreman said, and they're always trying to improve and learn new tricks. But learning is only one part of magic; entertaining a crowd is sometimes more challenging.

"Magic comes from practice," he said. "Entertaining comes through experience."

Some of the kids at camp were a little nervous about the thought of performing in front of others.

"I guess I've got stage fright," said Anthony Corrales.

"Yeah, I'm a little nervous too," Jesse Swift said.

But by the end of camp on Wednesday, and with a little encouragement from Foreman and professional magician Jack Lythgoe, the boys decided that they'd try at least one trick in the upcoming show.

The young magicians will have a chance to demonstrate their newfound illusions Saturday at the Magic Valley Mall. They'll perform at 1 p.m. at center court in preparation for the larger event one week later.

It's exciting to watch young kids learn magic, Clow said. He believes the festival is a good fit for the city.

"The family values in this community are very strong," he said. "And magic is great family entertainment. ... After all, we are in the Magic Valley."

Some of the crafts haven't changed too much. For instance, Steve Slifer will demonstrate shoemaking and repair that is similarly done today.

"There have been a lot of improvements to the way we live but the methods are the same," said Slifer, a retired cobbler.

This is the first time the museum has hosted this type of event.

"It's kind of a trial run," said Mychel Matthews, curator of the museum. "We want kids of all ages to understand what it was like to live in 1911."

One exciting feature of Live History Day will be the presence of someone that can actually attest to how life was like 100 years ago. Local centurion Dorothy Custer, who has garnered some notoriety for her recent appearance on the Jay Leno Show, will be there. Dorothy grew up in the Magic Valley where she taught children to play the harmonica in the early 20th century.

Fright Night: A Weird, Toxic Jolt of Adolescent Joy

BY COLIN COVERT
Star Tribune

"Fright Night" is the best thing to happen to horror movies since red food coloring and Karo syrup. It delivers the weird toxic jolt of adolescent joy that only a first-class creature feature can provide. Energetic, suspenseful and delightfully original despite its familiar context, it grabs vampire clichés by the neck and shakes them to life.

From those Eurotrash nobles Nosferatu and Dracula to "Twilight's" affluent Cullens, vampires are generally portrayed as upscale monsters. One of many ingenious twists here is that the thirsty guy is a pickup-driving, T-shirt-wearing construction worker named Jerry, whose castle is a suburban Las Vegas tract house. Bram Stoker, meet Sam's Club.

Fingering Colin Farrell's character as a bloodsucker isn't a spoiler. This is a monster movie, not a mystery. From the moment Farrell flashes his incisors we know this Sun Belt Stanley Kowalski is one dangerous rogue male. His toolbelt machismo mesmerizes his next door neighbor, single mom Jane (Toni Collette), and puts her protective high school son Charley (Anton Yelchin, Chekov in J.J. Abram's "Star Trek") on alert. But he sees Jerry as a wolf, one who gallingly turns Charley's hot girlfriend Amy (Imogen Poots) to a puddle of goo, too.

Charley's former pal, fantasy geek Ed (Christopher Mintz-Plasse), warns that Jerry is a for-real bloodsucker who's behind a rash of student disappearances. Charley retorts that students cut class all the time, and besides, "That's a terrible vampire name, Jerry."

When Ed drops off the attendance list, Charley seeks help from Peter Vincent, a long-haired, leather-clad stage magician and self-styled vampire hunter in the mold of Criss Angel. David Tennant (the BBC's 10th Dr. Who) approaches the role with playful zest. The conjurer is an egocentric boozier and a fraud to boot, his occult artifacts acquired on eBay. The role seems to have been custom tailored for Russell Brand, but the hyper-energetic Tennant makes it his own. When Sandra Vergara sashays on-screen as his hot-tempered assistant, it's an uproarious tug of war between two heavyweight scene stealers.

Screenwriter Marti Noxon (of TVs "Buffy the Vampire Slayer" and "Mad Men") retooled 1985's hokey "Fright Night" for the 21st century, adding twists and character notes that keep the jumps and jokes coming. Setting the film in sunbaked Vegas is an inspired touch. It's a place where night-shift workers black out their windows and sleep all day, where the transient population provides plenty of midnight snacks, and where cellphone coverage drops out on dark, lonely stretches of desert highway.

Muscling in on Box Office Will be a Challenge for ‘Conan’

BY BETSY SHARKEY
Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES • “Conan the Barbarian,” starring the excellent rippling chisel of Jason Momoa, is brutal, bloody beyond belief, and has no socially redeeming value. So it is with a certain amount of guilt that I say it’s kind of a wicked blast to watch, especially if you’re in the mood for some righteous revenge.

For those who decry gratuitous violence, this is not a flick for you. For the rest of you bloodthirsty lot, it’s not like the filmmakers were attempting a bait and switch. The movie is set in the fictional Hyborian Age, roughly post-Atlantis and pre-Facebook by my calculations, where monsters and sorcery were ever a threat and humans weren’t exactly civilized. Then there’s Conan’s mantra: “I live. I love. I slay... I am content.” Who doesn’t like a man who isn’t conflicted or apologetic about who he is.

Gory remakes of marginal quality are something of a specialty for German-born director Marcus Nispel who counts the 2003 redo of “The Texas Chainsaw Massacre” and 2009’s “Friday the 13th” among his artier achievements. Although it’s relative, the director keeps getting better each time out. Nispel has always brought a very strong vision to his work — a sort of melodrama of imagery that can be mesmerizing if you can get past the viscera. Character development? Not so much.

In “Conan,” he’s got a better cast that he occasionally does better things with. Momoa is coming off a very fine run as the enigmatic horse-warrior Khal Drago in HBO’s “Game of Thrones.” He’s got Conan firmly in his muscly grip, from the absurd asides, to the furrowed brow, to the fierce fighting, though some of the clunkier dialogue trips him and everyone else up. Momoa’s also got that bigger-than-life presence that is absolutely necessary for this genre piece, enough to loosen the iconic hold that Arnold Schwarzenegger has had on Conan since he flexed those famous pecs in the 1982 original.

The movie itself does not attempt to replicate the Schwarzenegger version, which had less violence and a splash more cheesy humor. Instead writers Thomas Dean Donnelly, Joshua Oppenheimer and Sean Hood work off of Robert E. Howard’s Conan mythology (he started it all with his dark pulp series on Conan in the early ‘30s) to create a troubled ancient world of warring tribes, vestal virgins, lethal swords and Machiavellian monsters.

After some setup voice-over to give a little historical context and introduce the Mask of Acheron, which is the holy grail here, we are in the midst of a bloody battle with the Cimmerians led by Conan’s father Corin (Ron Perlman rocking a Unabomber beard), lopping off heads left and right. Conan’s mother (Laila Rouass) is in the middle of the fray, and labor, delivering Conan by C-section, which apparently wasn’t as much a routine procedure as it is now.

Flash-forward to a motherless Conan (oh, come on, anyone could figure that out), at about 13, played by very tough young martial arts expert Leo Howard, who gets perhaps the best action sequence in the movie. It’s one of those rite of passage things that always go bad, and it involves a lot of running in rough terrain, some wonderfully choreographed fighting and surviving. The fight scenes throughout are stunning to look at, exceptionally gross, exploit the 3-D technology is the best possible way and should satisfy hard-core action junkies, though there are still way too many of them.

The main villain is Stephen Lang (“Avatar”) as Khalar Zym. Lang has long had a handle on playing dark and dirty, which Khalar definitely is. He’s ruthless when it comes to getting his hands on that magical Acheron mask. His partner in crime is daughter Marique — Rose McGowan (“Grindhouse” and “Charmed”) as a kind of goth-punk witch who’s always in a catfight with someone, where her Edward Scissorhands metallic nails come in handy.

Getting the mask is not enough; to make the black magic Khalar must also find the “pureblood,” and that would be among the Grecian-styled beauties being trained in peace and love at a local monastery. Tamara (Rachel Nichols of “Star Trek” and “G.I. Joe”) is the fairest of them all, the one Conan must save and will fall for. Nichols is pretty enough, but not believable as a tough chick who can go toe to toe with Conan. What was needed was a next generation Lara Croft in the Angelina Jolie style if there is such a person out there.

SCOTT TO DIRECT NEW ‘BLADE RUNNER’

BY STEVEN ZEITCHIK
Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES • Ridley Scott will direct a follow-up to his 1982 cult-classic “Blade Runner,” producers on the new film said Thursday.

The untitled movie is not considered a remake but will take the form of either a sequel or a prequel to the science-fiction original, said Alcon Entertainment, the Hollywood company that had previously acquired rights to the first movie as well as the Phillip K. Dick novel on which it was loosely based. A screenwriter is expected to be hired shortly, and the aim is to enter production in 2013, Alcon said.

The original “Blade Runner,” which underperformed at the box office but found an audience on home video and television, starred Harrison Ford as Rick Deckard, a police officer in a dystopian Los Angeles hunting for illegal “replicants,” robots who are barely distinguishable from humans. Ford is not expected to be involved in the new version.

Alcon principals said that they expected Scott to make a movie that stood apart from the original. “Everything Ridley does as a filmmaker is fresh,” said partner Andrew Kosove. “I believe he sees an opportunity to create something that’s wholly original from the first ‘Blade Runner.’”

Scott recently completed “Prometheus,” a follow-up to another one of his early classics; that movie, a new take on the 1979 hit “Alien,” will come out in June.

Murtaugh Has the Tools to Win State

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

MURTAUGH • Whatever you throw at them, the Murtaugh Red Devils take it in stride.

During an evening practice this week, a tractor cutting hay across the street caused dust to swirl in the air. Not wasting any time, the team moved inside and ran up and down the bleachers in the gym — careful not to disrupt the volleyball team’s practice.

That ability to adjust on the fly will come in handy this season for new head coach Mike Nunnelee.

So far, so good.

“The new coaching fits our team,” said senior quarterback Austin Stanger.

“Our coach this year is tougher than the coaches that we’ve had,” said senior lineman Pedro Munoz. “I think that’s a good thing for us because we need to get pushed harder so that we can go farther in our season.”

Last year’s 6-3 record and Class 1A Division II state play-in berth made the Red Devils hungry for more.

“The whole mindset after last season and the success we had, I think we can accomplish a lot this year,” Stanger said. “One of our main goals is to go to state and win state. We think we have the skills, the players and the mindset to do it this year.”

Humberto Pacheco, a first-team all-Sawtooth Conference running back, returns for his senior season. The speedster led Murtaugh with 1,122 yards of total offense and 16 touchdowns, and also had 70 tackles on defense.

With only about 18 players on the team, Pacheco knows he and a few other players will never leave the field on Friday nights.

“Right now its time to get everybody in shape and get back to playing football again,” Pacheco said. “These three weeks of practices before our first game are going to be real hard work.”

Filer Settles in with New Coach, Offense

BY STEPHEN MEYERS
smeyers@magicvalley.com

FILER • The Wildcats’ football program is once again breaking in a new head coach and entering the season with high expectations.

Bill Reynolds stepped in and is installing a new offense. Player participation is up 20 percent, including three players who came over from the soccer team, and a newfound excitement is building among the Wildcats this season.

“This senior class wants to win. They don’t like losing and so they’re doing what it takes to push their teammates and the underclassmen to make everybody better,” Reynolds said.

The coach is wiping out the double wing offense, replacing it with a more traditional veer power running attack and, perhaps more importantly, instilling more discipline into the program.

“It’s a lot tougher than in past years. We’ve had new coaches every year so it’s always changing, but there’s a lot more discipline this year,” said Zakk Shaddy. “Kids are buying in and we have a few new players out.”

Coach Reynolds was able to recruit Ryan Karel, Santiago Alvarado and Issac Kreft from the soccer team and the trio will play both sports this fall for the Wildcats, who open the season at Canyon Ridge on Sept. 2.

Bruins Begin Fall Practice

BY DAVID BASHORE
dbashore@magicvalley.com

High school football is finally in full swing.

The last District IV team to begin practice, Twin Falls, formally got under way Thursday morning on the practice field just south of Bruin Stadium. Following preseason testing on Wednesday, the Bruins began implementing offensive and defensive terminologies to a squad short on experience.

Thirty-five seniors graduated from the program, including 21 with at least part-time starting experience. Not counting special teams, Twin Falls has just three players returning with any starting experience — wide receiver Robert Sanchez, and defensive players Chase Crandall and Zayne Slotten.

“There’s obviously going to be some growing pains early because we’re so young,” said Slotten. “But our junior class is really strong. They just need time.”

Despite lacking game experience, the first morning practice went as well as could be expected. Some things, like misfiring on passes and receiver route adjustments, needed a little work but the general feel was positive.

“I think the players we have here are good players, they’re just really lacking in that game experience,” said Bruin coach Allyn Reynolds. “I think we’ll be just fine, because we’re going to grow together and that experience will be good for us at the end of the season.”

Sanchez’s decision to return makes things a little easier on offense and adds an experienced weapon into Twin Falls’ arsenal. The senior waffled between playing and skipping football to focus exclusively on basketball, but eventually decided there was a mutual need between him and the gridiron.

“I went back and forth and talked to a few of my coaches, but I realized that football can make me a better athlete,” said Sanchez. “The longer it went on, the more I realized that I just wanted to try and help however I could and try to win a state championship.”

The Bruins’ offseason will be book-ended by another tough test. Last season ended with a 52-6 playoff drubbing at Preston, and this season will begin at the Rocky Mountain Rumble in Pocatello with a date against Raymond, one of the premier teams in Alberta.

In last season’s Rumble, the Comets manhandled eventual Class 4A finalist Blackfoot. It might be a case of different players, but the challenge won’t be any easier.

“We feel excited and honored to be invited to play (in the Rumble),” Reynolds said. “We’re going to find out who we are right away.”

Former Magic Valley Linemen Excel at ISU

BY MARK LIPTAK
For the Times-News

POCATELLO • It’s been a long, hard grind for Twin Falls-area products Jon Van Vliet and Braeden Clayson when it comes to football at Idaho State. The physicality of the sport, the academic requirements and the frustration of seeing only two wins total in the last two years have taken a toll on body and mind.

Van Vliet and Clayson are two of the five area products in Pocatello and playing for the Bengals. The others are all freshmen — Tyler Myers, Cody McCoy and Keelan Mc-Caffery. Van Vliet and Clayson, both starting offensive lineman, have seen a lot but never have they thought of quitting or leaving despite the tough times.

“I came here as a walk-on,” said Van Vliet. “I never thought of leaving because this is the place for me. I didn’t want to let this opportunity go that I was given.” “I never at anytime thought of leaving,” added Clayson. “Now I admit there may have been times when I questioned myself if I wanted to keep going through this but this is something I always wanted to do and that drives you.”

With new coach Mike Kramer on the scene the attitude is certainly different around the program. Van Vliet noticed it almost immediately. “It’s just a fresh, new look at everything. Coach wants us to be able to do our best on the field, in the classroom and socially. You just get the feeling that he cares about every detail with the program. All of us trust him completely.”

Van Vliet started with the Bengals as a defensive end, switched to tight end and now lines up at guard. He came to the program at about 230 pounds, but has bulked up to 270 and is a

“I’m a lot smarter now. I know more of the ins and outs of the game. I played at a small high school (Lighthouse Christian) and we only played eight-man football. It is football but it’s not the same as what you play here and it took a little time to understand it.”

Jon Van Vliet (61) looks for someone to block in the Bengals’ game last year against Georgia. Van Vliet, a Lighthouse Christian product, is optimistic to see more wins in his final season at Idaho State.

NFL BRIEFS

Pryor Included in NFL Draft, Still Must Sit Out Five Games

Terrelle Pryor will have an opportunity to pursue his NFL dreams, with one significant caveat: The former Ohio State star must still pay for breaking NCAA rules while he was in college.

The league announced Thursday that Pryor is eligible for its supplemental draft, but he won't be allowed to practice for the team that selects him until Week 6. Pryor gave up his final season with the Buckeyes following an investigation into the team's memorabilia-for-cash scandal.

He would've had to sit out five games had he chosen to return to Ohio State.

"We accept that voluntarily," Pryor's agent, Drew Rosenhaus, told The Associated Press. "It's a small price to pay for him to have a chance to pursue his dream of playing in the NFL."

A small price that could have broader consequences.

Commissioner Roger Goodell and NFLPA executive director DeMaurice Smith worked together on the decision, Rosenhaus said. The league hopes it will dissuade future college players who run afoul of the NCAA from trying to use the NFL as a means of escaping punishment. But it also creates this dilemma: Does the NFL have the authority to suspend a player who doesn't even work for the NFL yet?

Seahawks

Left tackle Russell Okung has returned to practice in limited fashion with coach Pete Carroll saying Okung is one or two weeks away.

Okung was in a helmet and shoulder pads for Thursday's practice, doing work in individual drills just a week after injuring his left ankle. He is not full speed yet, but Carroll says Okung is "not as bad as he was" in reference to a pair of ankle injuries that sidelined Okung for chunks of last season.

Okung was hurt in the first series last Thursday night in Seattle's preseason opener at San Diego. Carroll said after the win that Okung "felt something pop" as he blocked, but his legs were not contacted on the play in which Okung injured his left ankle.

Carroll wouldn't guarantee that Okung will be ready for the season opener Sept. 11 at San Francisco.

Minor Out-Pitches Lincecum as Braves Defeat Giants

ATLANTA • Mike Minor pitched six crisp innings to outduel Tim Lincecum, and Chipper Jones homered for the only run as the Atlanta Braves defeated the San Francisco Giants 1-0 Thursday night.

The Braves appeared to be at a distinct disadvantage with Minor, filling in with Tommy Hanson on the DL, going against the two-time NL Cy Young Award winner.

But Minor (3-2) pitched brilliantly, allowing just four hits and one intentional walk while striking out a season-high nine.

Lincecum (11-10) was no slouch, surrendering five hits in seven innings with seven Ks. But the wiry right-hander made one big mistake, serving up a high fastball to Jones leading off the fifth. He sent a drive soaring into the right-field seats for 11th homer.

Flores also had his first home run in more than two years.

Zimmermann (8-10) allowed six hits before leaving with runners on first and second and two outs in the sixth. Ryan Mattheus came on to strike out Paul Janish to end the inning. Mattheus did not face another batter because of a tight right shoulder.

Phillies 4, Diamondbacks 1

PHILADELPHIA • John Mayberry Jr. hit a two-run homer, David Herndon tossed three scoreless innings in relief and the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Arizona Diamondbacks 4-1 Thursday night in a matchup of division leaders.

The major league-leading Phillies took two of three in a potential playoff preview, improving to 14-1-1 in their last 16 series.

and six runs, finishing five innings.

Red Sox 4, Royals 3

KANSAS CITY, Mo. • Dustin Pedroia drove in three runs with a pair of well-timed singles, Josh Beckett survived a shaky start to go seven innings and Boston Red got back on the winning track.

Jason Varitek drove in the other run for the Red Sox, who had lost five of their last seven games.

Beckett (10-5) and the Royals proved to be the perfect matchup to turn things around. The right-hander allowed all three runs in the first three innings to improve to 7-1 in his career against them — his only loss came July 28 in Boston.

Jonathan Papelbon made it through a perfect ninth to extend his career-best streak to 24 consecutive saves. It was his 29th of the season.

Luke Hochevar (8-10) labored through 114 pitches in just six innings for the Royals.

Brady Looks Sharp in Patriots Win over Bucs

TAMPA, Fla. • After sitting out New England's preseason opener, Tom Brady looked to be in midseason form as the reigning NFL MVP tossed a pair of touchdowns and completed 11 of 19 passes in the Patriots' 31-17 win over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers on Thursday night.

Brady threw for 118 yards in one half of work, and connected on scoring strikes from 16 yards to Aaron Hernandez, and 8 yards out to Chad Ochocinco, who also both made their debuts.

BenJarvus Green-Ellis also got in on the act, rushing 11 times for 51 yards and two touchdowns.

Third-year Buccaneers quarterback Josh Freeman misfired on his first three passes to set a bad tone the Bucs never got over. He played five series, connecting on 5 of 10 passes for just 33 yards.

The Buccaneers had more than that in penalty yards in the first half. They were whistled 10 times for 85 yards, as New England built a 28-0 halftime lead.

Freeman was also sacked twice by the Patriots, who held Tampa Bay to just 73 total yards and four first downs in the opening half. Patriots linebacker Jerod Mayo got credit for both sacks.

Steelers 24, Eagles 14

PITTSBURGH • Ben Roethlisberger completed 8 of 12 passes for 125 yards and a pair of touchdowns as Pittsburgh cruised past Philadelphia.

Roethlisberger directed the defending AFC champions to touchdowns on both drives he played, hitting Antonio Brown for a 29-yard score in the first quarter and veteran

Hines Ward on a 20-yard strike in the second.

Philadelphia quarterback Michael Vick was intercepted three times during a miserable half against Pittsburgh's rejuvenated defense. Vick finished 5 of 12 for 47 yards and was sacked once.

Vick finished with more tackles — one — than touchdowns. He drilled Pittsburgh safety Troy Polamalu late in the first half after throwing his third interception of the night. Vick didn't throw his third pick last year until December.

Dodgers 5, Brewers 1

MILWAUKEE • Clayton Kershaw throttled the streaking Brewers with eight scoreless innings and Rod Barajas homered, leading the Dodgers to the victory.

The NL Central-leading Brewers came in winners of 19 of 21 and were looking to complete a 7-0 homestand.

But Kershaw (15-5) was tremendous, retiring 13 of his final 14 batters and never facing serious trouble after the third inning.

American League Yankees 8, Twins 4

MINNEAPOLIS • CC Sabathia stopped his two-start losing streak with nine strikeouts over seven innings, and the New York Yankees hit three home runs to support him in an 8-4 victory over the depleted Minnesota Twins on Thursday night.

The Yankees lead the majors with 163 homers this season, despite only 13 from Alex Rodriguez, who has been out following knee surgery last month. Mark Teixeira hit his 33rd, a two-run shot in the third, and Nick Swisher and Andruw Jones hit back-to-back deep balls in the fifth inning against Brian Duensing (8-12).

Sabathia (17-7) gave up four runs — three earned — and walked only one.

Duensing yielded 10 hits

Indians 4, White Sox 2

CHICAGO • Justin Masterson pitched six effective innings, Kosuke Fukudome had a tiebreaking RBI triple and the Indians inched closer to the top of the AL Central with a victory over the White Sox.

Matt LaPorta hit a two-run homer for Cleveland, which pulled within 1½ games of idle Detroit for the division lead. The Tribe opens a three-game series at Detroit on Friday.

Paul Konerko homered for the White Sox, which lost starter Phil Humber on a scary play in the second inning.

GOLF BRIEFS

Quinney, Gainey Share Lead at Wyndham Championship

GREENSBORO, N.C. • Jeff Quinney and Tommy Gainey shot 7-under 63s on Thursday to share the lead after one round at the PGA Tour's Wyndham Championship.

Quinney had eight birdies, including five in a row early in his round, to start strong in his last chance to qualify for golf's postseason.

Gainey had five birdies and an eagle in matching his career-best round. Both players are chasing their first PGA Tour victory.

Stuart Appleby had a 64.

Paul Casey, Carl Pettersson, Ernie Els, Jason Bohn, Jimmy Walker, Tim Heron, Lee Janzen, Jim Furyk, Vijay Singh and George McNeill shot 65s during another low-scoring day at Sedgefield Country Club.

Quinney arrived in 215th place in the FedEx Cup standings. A win — and the 500 points that accompany it — would put him in The Barclays.

Champions Tour

HARRISON, N.Y. • Jeff Sluman shot a 6-under 65 to take a one-stroke lead after the first round of the Senior Players Championship, the tour's final major of the season.

Sluman, the winner last month at Pebble Beach, had seven birdies and a bogey on Westchester Country Club's tree-lined West Course. Gary Hallberg and Peter Senior opened with 66s.

Jay Haas, the 2009 winner, and Corey Pavin and Michael Allen were two strokes back at 67, and Fred Couples, defending champion Mark O'Meara and Tommy Armour III had 68s. Tom Watson struggled, shooting a 76.

European Tour

CELADNA, Czech Republic • Ireland's Peter Lawrie shot a 6-under 66 to take a one-stroke lead after the first round of the Czech Open.

Ireland's Damien McGrane, France's Victor Dubuisson and Spain's Pedro Oriol opened with 67s. Spain's Miguel Angel Jimenez, the Spanish star who co-designed the Prosper course, had a 76.

LITTLE LEAGUE WORLD SERIES

Montana Wins LLWS Debut; Mexico, Japan Cruise

SOUTH WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. • The boys from Billings keep making Montana Little League history.

The first team from the state to advance to South Williamsport overcame a shaky start and three solo homers Thursday by the sluggers from Rapid City, S.D., to win its Little League World Series debut, 6-4.

Connor Kieckbusch and his teammates were understandably a little anxious when they first trotted on to the manicured field at Lamade Stadium, with about 11,000 fans watching their every move.

Those nerves disappeared after a five-run fourth inning highlighted by Kieckbusch's two-run single and Cole McKenzie's two-RBI double with two outs.

"I felt kind of nervous (initially) because we're in Williamsport and pretty much nationals, and I didn't know what to expect," said the red-freckled Kieckbusch, 12, as he flashed a slight grin. "As the game went on, I kind of relaxed."

Montana trailed 2-0 after two innings before breaking through in the fourth against South Dakota starter Brett Beyer, working deep into counts to get runners on base.

Kieckbusch's high fly to shallow center fell just in between two fielders to score two runners with the bases loaded. The next hitter, Billings, Montana's Ian Leatherberry (5) celebrates a 6-4 win over Rapid City, S.D., during pool play at the Little League World Series.

McKenzie, lined an opposite-field double to the left-field wall to score two more runs for a 6-2 lead.

On the mound, McKenzie allowed six hits and four runs over five innings for the win. He allowed all three homers, including two by 5-foot-9

South Dakota slugger Erik Petry, 12.

Louisiana 2, Georgia 0

Georgia broke through against Louisiana starter Ethan Hines to load the bases with nobody out in the sixth, but reliever Haden Erbe came out to get the final three outs for the save, including a Dillon Toms' comebacker to end the game.

Erbe also made a strong throw from the hole to outstretched first baseman Austin Primeaux with two outs and two runners on in the third to end another rally.

Mexico 3, Taiwan 0

Jorge Jacobo overpowered Taiwan with 12 strikeouts, including the final five outs. It was the first time a Taiwan team had been shut out in 55 games at the series.

Jacobo helped his cause at the plate, too, doubling home the first run and finishing 1 for 3 with two runs.

Japan 12, Aruba 1, 4 innings

Yoshiki Suzuki hit a grand slam and Mitsuhiro Uchida added three hits and three RBIs in a game that ended after four innings due to Little League's 10-run rule. Suzuki also pitched, striking out five in 2-3 innings for the win.

Gillian Wernet was 2 for 2 for Aruba and Endry Brito knocked home the lone Aruba run off a fourth-inning fielder's choice.

$27M Facelift Adds 'Class' to Kibbie Dome

BY JOSH WRIGHT
For the Times-News

MOSCOW • Taken altogether, the facelift is striking. Once perpetually dark, outdated and structurally unsafe, the Kibbie Dome looks, in the words of University of Idaho football coach Robb Akey, "much classier than what it was before."

Natural light now filters through panels on the east and west walls during the day. A roomy press box has been built on the north side of the Dome, and a new club room – surrounded by eight suites, eight smaller loge boxes and 217 premium seats – is now perched where the press box used to be on the south end.

These are the most noticeable updates, after two major construction projects, to the 40-year stadium that flanks the western portion of the Idaho campus. The renovation has taken three years and cost roughly $27 million ... and might not yet be complete.

If athletic director Rob

"The great thing about this project is that ... the Kibbie Dome is an iconic structure on our campus." – Chris Murray, UI's vice president for advancement

Spear's long-term plan comes to fruition, another round of construction inside the Kibbie Dome – this time to add seating – will kick off in the next few years. Extra capacity could come by lowering the field or adding overhanging sections in the corners of the Dome.

But Spear acknowledges that phase 3 of the project likely won't happen unless UI shows it can attract more fans – consistently.

"I think what we've seen is by taking this step and completing this second phase, it's opened up some other opportunities," Spear said. "Now the key (to) all of that is our Vandal fans have to show up and help me sell this place out. And once we sell it out, then we have some leverage."

The Vandals have lagged behind their counterparts in the Western Athletic Conference in football attendance, partly because the Dome only holds 16,000 (it's gotten smaller by about 500 seats with the remodel) and partly because the program was woeful for a decade before the last two seasons under Akey.

Small crowds predate the lean years of Tom Cable and Nick Holt too. Back when UI was in the hunt for Big Sky Conference titles in the 1980s and early '90s, "we didn't draw well then either," Spear noted.

"So I think it's a matter of continuing to control what we can control," he said, "and that is putting a good product on the field, creating some game atmosphere, improving facilities and then people will start getting excited."

The eight suites, which hold 12 to 15 each, have already been sold. Two of the eight loge boxes that seat four people were still available earlier this week, as were 20 of the 217 club seats.

Those with box or club tickets will have access to catered food in the upper-level club room, while menus and the club room will be available to fans in suites. In each case, alcohol – barred in the rest of the Dome during game day – can be purchased and carried anywhere in the glass-enclosed club area.

The premium seating section cost about $7 million by itself. All the funds were raised through private donors, including separate $1 million gifts from Litehouse Foods, and Bud and June Ford.

In all, nearly 100 donors gave at the major gift level – $25,000 or more – according to Chris Murray, UI's vice president for advancement.

"It really is a reflection of the compassion our donors feel about the University of Idaho," Murray said. "The donors are the real stars."

The enhanced Kibbie Dome, where life safety issues have also been addressed, goes beyond a more inviting environment for football and basketball games. The stadium is also used for the annual Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival, commencement every spring and concerts.

"The great thing about this project is that ... the Kibbie Dome is an iconic structure on our campus," said Murray, adding that many prospective students start at the Dome during recruiting visits and end their time at UI inside the Dome at commencement.

"We've made it a nice facility," Spear said. "We've enhanced it for everything besides athletics. Those seats will be beneficial to the Jazz Festival or any other event that we have in here. The club room is going to be able to utilized by a lot of entities on campus."

"So the beauty is we've got it fixed."

UI will show off the remodeled Dome during a ribbon cutting in front private donors tonight, while public tours are available on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

BSU GETS INTERIM ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOISE • Boise State President Bob Kustra has filled two key positions in the Bronco athletic department, choosing an interim athletic director and a new head of NCAA compliance.

Kustra picked Curt Apsey as interim athletic director on Thursday. Apsey takes over for Gene Bleymaier, who was let go last week after serving nearly 30 years as AD. Apsey is a 12-year veteran of the athletic department and one of its most effective fundraisers.

Kustra also picked John Cunningham as the school's new executive director for compliance. Cunningham previously served in the compliance office at Texas Christian University.

Bleymaier was ousted after Kustra decided new leadership was needed in the wake of an NCAA infractions investigation.

Kustra intends to conduct a nationwide search for Bleymaier's successor.

much different player than he was two years ago.

"I'm a lot smarter now. I know more of the ins and outs of the game," Van Vliet said. "I played at a small high school (Lighthouse Christian) and we only played eight-man football. It is football but it's not the same as what you play here and it took a little time to understand it."

Clayson was one of the state's top linemen at Burley. He checks in 315 pounds and is big enough and fast enough to become one of the top linemen in the conference. He's moved all over the offensive line the past three years but for now has settled in at guard. He was asked if all the moving around caused him problems. "At first it took a lot of adjusting because if you go from the left side to the right side of the line you're doing things exactly the opposite of what you were doing, from your stance, to how you get off the snap, everything. Now it's a lot easier for me to handle mentally since I've got experience with it."

Both Clayson and Van Vliet are ready for the season opener at Washington State on Sept. 3 and both also would like to leave something behind when this season ends in mid November.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

On Wednesday, December 7, 2011 at the hour of 10:30AM, of said day, in the office of Alliance Title & Escrow Corp. located at 1411 Falls Avenue East #1315, Twin Falls, ID 83301, Alliance Title & Escrow Corp., as successor trustee, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, cashiers check, certified check or tellers check, (from a bank which has a branch in the community at the site of the sale), money order, State of Idaho check or local government check, or cash equivalent in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the same time of sale, the following described real property, situated in the County of Twin Falls, State of Idaho, and described as follows, to wit:

Lot 18, Block 6, Eastwood Subdivision No. 3, Twin Falls County, Idaho, according to the official plat thereof recorded in Book 18 of Plats, Page 48, records of Twin Falls County, Idaho.

THE TRUSTEE HAS NO KNOWLEDGE OF A MORE PARTICULAR DESCRIPTION OF THE ABOVE-DESCRIBED REAL PROPERTY, BUT FOR PURPOSES OF COMPLIANCE WITH IDAHO CODE, SECTION 60-113, THE TRUSTEE HAS BEEN INFORMED THAT THE STREET ADDRESS OF: 2930 Leeann Drive, Twin Falls, ID 83301, MAY SOMETIMES BE ASSOCIATED WITH SAID REAL PROPERTY.

If the successful bidder cannot provide the bid price by means of one of the above means of payment, the sale will be postponed for 10 minutes only to allow the high bidder to obtain payment in a form prescribed herein above. If the high bidder is unsuccessful in obtaining payment as directed within 10 minutes, the sale will be re-held immediately and any bid by the high bidder from the previous sale, will be rejected, all in accordance with Idaho Code 45-1502 et. Sec.

Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the deed of trust executed by Kelly Lanette Sparks and Thomas Olai Sparks Jr. wife and husband, as Grantor to Alliance Title & Escrow Corp., as Successor Trustee, for the benefit and security of Metlife Home Loans, a Division of Metlife Bank, N.A. as Successor Beneficiary, recorded November 6, 2009 as Instrument No. 2009-024720, Mortgage records of Twin Falls County, Idaho. THE ABOVE GRANTORS ARE NAMED TO COMPLY WITH SECTION 45-1506(4)(a), IDAHO CODE. NO REPRESENTATION IS MADE THAT THEY ARE, OR ARE NOT, PRESENTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS OBLIGATION.

The default for which this sale is to be made is failure to:

Make principal and interest payments as set forth on said Deed of Trust and Promissory Note. The original loan amount was $188,744.00 together with interest thereon at the rate of 4.6250% per annum, as evidenced in Promissory Note dated October 26, 2009. Payments are in default for the months of July 2010 through and including July 2011 in the amount of $1,203.39 per month and continuing each and every month thereafter until date of sale or reinstatement. The principal balance as of July 27, 2011 is $187,023.48 together with accrued and accruing interest thereon at the rate of 4.6250% per annum. In addition to the above, there is also due any late charges, advances, attorney fees, fees or costs associated with this foreclosure.

The balance owing as of this date on the obligation secured by said deed of trust is $187,023.48, excluding interest, costs and expenses actually incurred in enforcing the obligations thereunder or in this sale, as trustee's fees and/or reasonable attorney's fees as authorized in the promissory note secured by the aforementioned Deed of Trust.

Case No. CV 2011-208

NOTICE OF PETITION FOR JUDICIAL EXAMINATION AND HEARING

ABERDEEN-AMERICAN FALLS GROUND WATER DISTRICT, BINGHAM GROUND WATER DISTRICT, MAGIC VALLEY GROUND WATER DISTRICT and NORTH SNAKE GROUND WATER DISTRICT

Petitioners.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Petitioners, ABERDEEN-AMERICAN FALLS GROUND WATER DISTRICT, BINGHAM GROUND WATER DISTRICT, MAGIC VALLEY GROUND WATER DISTRICT, and NORTH SNAKE GROUND WATER DISTRICT, (collectively referred to as "Petitioners" or "Ground Water Districts") have filed in the above-entitled Court a Petition for Judicial Examination ("Petition") pursuant to Idaho Code §42-5235. The Petition seeks a judicial examination by the District Court confirming the power of the Ground Water Districts acting through their respective Boards of Directors to incur indebtedness of up to thirty-five million dollars ($35,000,000) for the purpose of purchasing certain real property, water rights and fish production facilities situated in Gooding and Jerome Counties, Idaho commonly known as Blue Lakes Trout, Rim View Trout and Clear Lake pursuant to a Purchase and Sale Agreement with Blue Lakes Trout Company, LLC, an Idaho limited liability company, Rim View, LLC, an Idaho limited liability company, Clear Lake Trout Co., Inc., an Idaho Corporation, Hardy Properties, L.P. An Idaho limited partnership, and Rainbow Trout Farms, Inc., an Idaho corporation, to levy assessments against the members of the Districts sufficient to repay the principal and interest on the indebtedness which will become liens against the land of the members of the Ground Water Districts to secure payment of the proposed indebtedness.

The Petition seeks approval of securing financing by means of revenue bonds issued by the Board payable over a period not to exceed thirty (30) years at an interest rate that will not be known until the issuance and sale of the bonds or financing from commercial banks and/or other sources. The Prayer for the Petition asks for the following relief:

A. That the District Court examine this Petition and make a judicial determination confirming the power of the Ground Water Districts acting through their respective Boards of Directors to incur the indebtedness of up to thirty-five million dollars ($35,000,000) to the Idaho Water Resource Board, or from commercial or other lenders in the form of revenue bonds, loans or other instruments of indebtedness as necessary to close and complete the Trout Farms Purchase, to levy assessments against their members over a term not to exceed thirty (30) years sufficient to repay the principal and interest on the indebtedness which will become first priority liens against the land of their member groundwater users, second only to liens for the payment of real property taxes pursuant to I.C. §42-5240, and to secure repayment of the proposed indebtedness.

B. That the District Court make a judicial determination that the Ground Water Districts have authority to enter into such agreements, loans and to execute such documents as may be reasonable and necessary to carry out and implement the forgoing transactions.

C. That the District Court issue an order approving the Notice of Petition and Hearing and direct the clerk of the court to complete service upon the members of the Ground Water Districts by U.S. Mail, postage prepaid and by publication as required by law by filing of this Petition and by mailing the Notice of Petition and Hearing.

D. For such other and further relief as the District Court deems just and equitable. The Exhibits to the Petition include, a summary of the purchased assets with appraised values, summary of purchased water rights, Idaho Water Resource Board Inducement Resolution evidencing an intent to proceed with issuance water resource development bonds, proposed form bond, projected annual payments for each Ground Water District and respective ownership percentage and estimated annual costs per Ground Water District. Copies of the Petition and attached exhibits may be obtained from the Clerk of the Court or by contacting the Districts by phone or at their offices as follows:

AVAILABLE FOR ADOPTION:

Our shelter is overflowing now. We need to get some of these dogs to their forever homes. If you have been thinking about adopting one, please don't wait!

Miracle Max is a 7 month old chocolate Lab. Max came to the shelter about four months ago and has been under medical care. He was tied in the back of a pickup, jumped out and got tangled up with the back tire. The tire acted as a belt sander removing all of the muscle tissue and much of the bone on one side of Max's rear leg. Rather than euthanizing Max or amputating the leg, Dr. Jones and his staff spent the past several months caring for Max with herbal therapies. Max's leg is now restored and functional. He has a great personality and is a sweet fun-loving kid looking for his forever family.

Tucker is a Labrador/Hound mix young adult. He is tan with some white markings. He is very eager to please, knows commands and is a very good boy. Plays well with other dogs.

Rocky is a male adult Chihuahua. He is tan & black and is housebroken. He has a great personality...loves everybody!

Andy is an adult male Labrador. He is a beautiful ivory color. Very easy going and friendly. Knows commands.

Missy-Mae is a Beagle/Basset Hound mix. She is a young adult, probably about 2 or 3-years-old. Missy is tri-colored and very affectionate.

Casey is an adorable little Labrador mix puppy. He may even have some Akita or Husky mixed with him. He is black with a little white and also has a brown undercoat. He is very young probably only about 16 weeks old. He is very sweet and mellow and loves to play. He has been in our shelter for a long time waiting for his forever home.

Mandy is a beautiful black Labrador young adult. She loves to fetch and knows commands. Plays well with other dogs and loves kids. She is housebroken. Come meet her today!

Ryder is a mixed breed young adult. He looks like he might have some Catahoula or even boxer. He is a brindle with white markings and has gorgeous blue eyes. He is a very gentle dog. He is also leash trained and housebroken.

Marley is a cute 10 week old Border Collie mix. She came into the shelter with her siblings Carly and Harley. She is black with pretty white markings. She would make a great family pet and companion.

Carly is a sweetheart, she is a 10 week old Border Collie mix puppy. She came into our shelter with her siblings Marley and Harley. She is also black with a little white markings. Carly would be that perfect addition to your home.

Harley is a handsome 10 week old Border Collie mix puppy. He came into the shelter with his siblings Marley and Carly. He is black with a little white. He would make a great family pet. Come by and see him today!

Goose is an adult male chocolate Labrador. He is a very handsome guy! He knows commands and would make a great family dog or even a hunting dog. Come meet him today.

Trigger is about a 6 month old Labrador and possibly Chesapeake or Weimaraner mix? He has an unusual brown coat with some black that is mixed with it. He loves to fetch and knows commands.

Hannah is a 3 month old chocolate Labrador mix puppy. She has a some white markings. She is a sweetheart!

Come meet all our great dogs today!

The adoption fee is $75 and includes spaying/neutering and the first set of vaccinations.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE® Bobby Wolff

"Before you trust a man, eat a peck of salt with him."
— Anonymous

As Eddie Kantar says (in "Kantar on Kontract"): "It's not every partner who will trust you enough to put down in dummy an eight-card side suit headed by 100 honors." If you have one of these partners, you'd better know how to handle your 4-4 trump fits.

Against five spades doubled, the defenders led and continued hearts. South ruffed in dummy and continued with the diamond ace, then the queen, ruffing out the king.

At this point North and South each have three trumps and East has four. If declarer plays the spade ace, then a spade to dummy's jack, he will take exactly two more tricks. When a diamond is led from dummy, East trumps, and the most South can do is take each of his trumps separately. Down four!

Far better is to cross to the spade jack and play a high diamond, intending to discard if East doesn't ruff. Say East ruffs: South overruffs with the ace and overtakes his spade queen with dummy's king. When South runs the winning diamonds, East can score no more than his spade 10. Contract made.

South's line works even when West has a second spade, when he would trump the third round of diamonds and play a club, forcing dummy to ruff. Dummy would now have the blank spade king, South the ace-queen, and East the 10-4. But declarer simply runs the diamonds, and whenever East trumps in, South overtrumps with the ace, enters dummy with the spade king, and takes the balance.

ANSWER: Your partner's pass indicates a minimum balanced hand without much heart support, suggesting you can reopen with a double for takeout, or compete either to three clubs or three hearts. All three calls make sense, but bidding three hearts gets you closest to your most likely game, so it would be my choice.

DEAR ABBY: My fiancée and I are living in a studio apartment owned by her mother. We're currently looking for another place to live, and can't decide whether or not to get a two-bedroom and a roommate.

We both know the pros and cons of living with other people, and I have a potential roommate I trust completely. But I'm apprehensive because I had a roommate once before and it wasn't a great experience. We're still friends, but I would never live with him again. We're trying to get out soon. I don't want to make the wrong decision and lose either a friend or a future wife because of money, hurt feelings or anything else. Please advise.

— MIKE IN FLORIDA

DEAR MIKE: Living together, as you have probably already learned, requires adjustment on the part of all of the parties concerned. While you trust this friend to be a responsible roommate, what if something unforeseeable were to happen and the person should have to unexpectedly move out? Would he or she be on the lease with you? Could you pay the rent without the help of another roommate? How would you manage if the roommate were to have a live-in, too?

Because of these questions, it might be better to take a place with one bedroom to avoid possible complications.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: Is it appropriate to send anniversary flowers to a widow? My husband's grandfather just passed away, and this will be his grandmother's first wedding anniversary as a widow. Etiquette guides conflict in their advice regarding sending anniversary cards and flowers to widows. Would flowers be inappropriate? If not, what should the delivery card say?

— SENTIMENTAL IN KELLER, TEXAS

DEAR SENTIMENTAL: Sending flowers would be a kind and thoughtful gesture. The card could read, "You're in our thoughts and in our hearts. With love..." because this will be anything BUT a happy anniversary. If you live near your husband's grandmother, offer to invite her over or take her out to dinner so she won't be alone.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 21-year-old guy who needs to know how to properly introduce myself to a lady. My first instinct is to shake her hand — that's how I introduce myself to guys. I'm always uneasy shaking a girl's hand because I am not sure if it is appropriate. If I am seated, I will stand to introduce myself, but then there's an awkward pause afterward. Please advise.

— A PROPER GENTLEMAN

DEAR GENTLEMAN: According to the rules of etiquette, it's the woman who dictates whether or not to shake hands. If she extends her hand, you should shake it. If not, keep your hands at your sides — smile, tell her your name and say, "It's nice to meet you." That's all you have to do.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a nice, quiet neighborhood. A few months ago, however, a young woman who lived across the street from me was brutally stabbed to death by her jealous boyfriend. After a few months of getting the rental home cleaned up, there are new people moving in. Should I make sure they're aware of what happened or should I keep quiet?

— CONCERNED IN MISSOURI

DEAR CONCERNED: Exactly what are you concerned about — that the boyfriend will come back and stab the new renters? They should have already been informed about the history of the place by the person renting the property. But if they weren't, I see little to be gained by your being the bearer of those bad tidings.

05TWIN FALLS Fri. 8/19,

IF AUGUST 19 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: It is easy to be overly innocent and naive during the next six to eight weeks. However, your ability to dream and be inspired has a positive side. In late September and early October, your power to tell the good from the bad is at its peak, so this is a good time to make decisions that will affect your future or to accept whatever opportunities arise. In January, remember that people don't give things away for free without expecting something in return. Ignore a few enticing temptations that might waste your time or entangle your heart — and by February, the tides will turn once more in your favor. Not only will you be able to make valuable connections, but your judgment will be better, too. That is a good time to launch your favorite projects, hook up with people who can help you succeed, or make key business decisions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): For every action, there is an equal and opposite reaction — and you can line them up just like tic-tac-toe. Your contacts are equitable about spreading the referrals around. Creative techniques make the work or business much more rewarding.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You would prefer to sip mint juleps under a shady tree, but work must be done, and business must be transacted. You can't sweep the salient facts under the rug.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): It's not always what you know, but whom you know that counts in the end. Develop friendly relationships with successful people and a little of their business savvy and expertise could rub off on you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Hard work pays the bills and leaves you fulfilled. A special someone may be ready to lavish extra affection on you, but first you must take care of material matters. Worldly concerns make your day.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Even if entertainment isn't your forte, you will be at your best when you show off your consummate business skills under these stars. Lasting progress is possible.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You must give a little to get a lot. You can be uncompromising or too hardnosed about the terms of a financial matter. By yielding to the powers-that-be, you can store away ammunition for a later day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Concede a point. You might be in the right, but making that the pivotal point of a discussion could put you in the wrong. It is time to compromise or give in with good grace if you can't have your way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Do what comes naturally. The dog who wags its tail even when scolded is just the type of personality you should emulate. Don't be put off by those who seem highly businesslike and unapproachable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Poetic justice is served. Although relationships seem to be full of good cheer and delight, your finances need a more serious approach. If you are too selfish, you might lose a few future dollars.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Just because party time and weekend fun are on the horizon doesn't mean you should neglect work. Emphasis is on social interchanges, but don't get caught sending personal emails.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You do well at whatever it is that you do best. If you stick to activities that give you joy and pleasure, you will become a success in life. If you think you can take a calculated financial risk, think again.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): The boss may expect you to follow through or deadlines need attention. Don't let a sociable atmosphere interfere with the need to act like a professional in public.

SUDOKU

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

Today is Friday, Aug. 19, the 231st day of 2011. There are 134 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On Aug. 19, 1991, Soviet hard-liners made the stunning announcement that President Mikhail S. Gorbachev had been removed from power. (The coup attempt collapsed two days later with Gorbachev temporarily restored as leader until the dissolution of the Soviet Union in Dec. 1991.)

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1812, the USS Constitution defeated the British frigate Guerriere off Nova Scotia during the War of 1812.

In 1909, the first automobile races were run at the just-opened Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

In 1934, a plebiscite in Germany approved the vesting of sole executive power in Adolf Hitler.

In 1936, the first of a series of show trials orchestrated by Soviet leader Josef Stalin began in Moscow as 16 defendants faced charges of conspiring against the government (all were convicted and executed).

In 1942, during World War II, about 6,000 Canadian and British soldiers launched a disastrous raid against the Germans at Dieppe, France, suffering more than 50-percent casualties.

In 1951, the owner of the St. Louis Browns, Bill Veeck, sent in Eddie Gaedel, a 3-foot-7 inch midget, to pinch-hit in a game against Detroit. (In his only major league at-bat, Gaedel walked on four pitches and was replaced at first base by a pinch-runner.)

In 1960, a tribunal in Moscow convicted American U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers of espionage. (Although sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment, Powers was returned to the United States in 1962 as part of a prisoner exchange.)

In 1976, President Gerald R. Ford won the Republican presidential nomination at the party's convention in Kansas City.

In 1980, 301 people aboard a Saudi Arabian L-1011 died as the jetliner made a fiery emergency return to the Riyadh airport.

In 1991, rioting erupted in the Brooklyn, N.Y., Crown Heights neighborhood after a black 7-year-old, Gavin Cato, was struck and killed by a Jewish driver from the ultra-Orthodox Lubavitch community; three hours later, a gang of blacks fatally stabbed Yankel Rosenbaum, a rabbinical student.

Ten years ago: An underground methane and coal dust explosion in Ukraine killed 55 miners. Donald Woods, a veteran South African newspaper editor and apartheid opponent, died in Sutton, England, at age 67. Soul singer Betty Everett died in Beloit, Wis., at age 61. Davis Toms won the PGA Championship in Duluth, Ga., with a 1-under-par 69.

Five years ago: Israeli commandos raided a Hezbollah stronghold deep in Lebanon. (Israel said the raid was launched to stop arms smuggling from Iran and Syria to the militant Shiite fighters; Lebanon called the operation a "flagrant violation" of a U.N. truce.)

Don't Reduce Magic Valley's Representation

I do not know how any residents of the Magic Valley could, as Bob Sojka suggested last week, support L28. That map comes perilously close to violating the "one-man, one-vote" principle.

Last decade, the courts continually threw out plans with deviations over 10 percent. It seems most prudent and most fair to avoid a deviation that even approaches 10 percent. Secondly, L28 reduces Magic Valley-based districts from five to four. Asking the commission to support L28 is asking the commission to reduce the Magic Valley's representation in the Legislature. Lastly, L28 uses Twin Falls County for spare parts, needlessly splitting and diluting its population into four districts.

I was pleasantly surprised that a few commissioners took some suggestions I drew for them in a map and created L39 (see <http://legislature.idaho.gov/redistricting/PlanHtml/L39.pdf>).

It keeps five districts based in the Magic Valley, rather than reducing to four. It only splits Twin Falls County three times rather than four times in the Democrat map. It has the official approval of Minidoka, Cassia and Power County commissioners and clerks. I think many other counties will see that it was designed in a spirit of compromise.

No one gets everything they want, but everyone gets something fair that they can work with. Most importantly, it has both Republican and Democratic county officials on record supporting it. The commission has three Republicans and three Democrats; therefore, only a bipartisan plan can pass. L28 is a partisan map; L39 is a map designed to maintain regional representation.

From one end of the valley to the other, we may disagree on small details of each plan, but L28 is a bad map for all of us. Ignore Bob Sojka and tell the commission that L28 is a bad idea for Idaho at: RedistrictingCommission@redistricting.idaho.gov.

Man Accused of Molestation at Day Care

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOISE • An 84-year-old Nampa man is being accused of molesting children from 2005-2009 at a day care center operated by his wife.

Gilbert Tobias was charged Tuesday with three counts of lewd conduct. He was booked in the Canyon County Jail.

The Idaho Statesman reports that Tobias is accused of touching the girls' genitals with his hands and mouth, and that three victims disclosed the contact in separate police interviews. Court documents say

Tobias admitted to police that that he touched the girls in 2005, 2007 and 2009. A probable cause affidavit says

Tobias told the police detective that he was "weak" and knew what he did was wrong.
