looking for connecting highways and communities of interest.

In the end, the state's six-member redistricting panel adjourned on Tuesday, failing to meet their 90-day deadline to redraw congressional and legislative district boundaries that reflect the population changes of the 2010 census.

If anything, redistricting in Idaho is an exercise in bipartisan politics. With three commissioners appointed by Republicans and three appointed by Democrats, the law demands bipartisan cooperation with four votes required for any plan to pass.

At least one commissioner must cross party lines and join hands with the opposing side. So far, it's been no one instead of someone.

For the Magic Valley, it means residents will wait longer to see what their new legislative district for the 2012 election will look like. Please see REDISTRICT, M3

What's Next?

The Idaho secretary of state is expected to file a lawsuit with the Idaho Supreme Court. The court could then order the commission to return to work. It's also possible the court could provide additional rules to help the commission finish their job, or — if they had to — redraw the boundaries themselves.

New Cars, Lots of Work: What It Takes to Keep Police Rolling

BY BRADLEY GUIRE
bguire@magicvalley.com

The demand on a police car goes far beyond that of a typical family sedan.

As the new fiscal year approaches, law enforcement agencies will buy new vehicles as part of a controlled rotation of their fleets. While a new car or several new cars purchased each year seems excessive on first glance, the rotation is necessary for adequate police service, particularly for patrol vehicles.

"They're not driven like your normal passenger car," said J. Dee VanEps, a mechanic for the city of Twin Falls.

VanEps is one of three fleet mechanics who perform maintenance and repair on the city's vehicles, and the bulk of their work comes from the police department.

He said on average eight vehicles are serviced per week, meaning the mechanics will work on each police car at least once a month. They'll work on a brand-new Dodge Charger or a years-old Ford Crown Victoria any given day.

Dairies Look to the Sun to Help Cut Costs

Two Magic Valley dairies are testing out heating water with solar power, turning again to renewable energy in an attempt to cut costs.

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

Tony Vander Hulst is turning to renewable energy to help power his dairy. But for him, the environmental benefit is just an added bonus.

Rising energy costs have caused Vander Hulst to pursue alternative forms of energy to reduce his overall operational costs.

He recently received help from the U.S. Department of Agriculture through a $16,323 grant to install a solar-powered system designed to heat water.

Vander Hulst is one of the owners of West Point Farms in Wendell. The dairy farmer says he never considered himself extremely green-conscious, but he does look for opportunities to help save the environment.

However, the main motivation when it comes to his farm is the opportunity to save money, even if it's not a huge amount, he said.

"It's not big savings but it's something," he said. "A penny there, a penny here, every penny counts."

Higher energy bills spurred Steve Whitesides, owner of the Rupert Whitesides Dairy, to look for alternative sources of energy. Whitesides has also added the same solar project as Vander Hulst's to his own dairy.

Rotary Club Seeks School Supply Donations

BY JULIE WOOTTON
jwootton@magicvalley.com

It's no secret that many teachers spend money from their own pockets each year on classroom supplies. Out-of-pocket expenses for teachers statewide average $475 per year, according to the Idaho Education Association. In response, the Twin Falls Rotary After Hours Club is putting on a "Supplies for Success" fundraiser.

Help Out

To fill up a tote bag with school supplies, call 861-0507. The deadline for donations is Sept. 15.

Unlike some school fundraisers, supplies raised through the effort won't be donated until January. "We plan to donate supplies halfway through the school year," said Nicole

Veenendaal, a board member for the community service club. "That's the time when students start to run out." The club plans to donate supplies, mainly for kindergarten through eighth-grade students, to schools in Twin Falls and Jerome. Supplies are being collected now instead of waiting until winter because "school supplies are really cheap right now," Veenendaal said. Club members have been dropping off empty tote bags at area businesses and asking people to fill them with supplies. The club's goal is to fill 20 bags by Sept. 15, and it's about halfway there. Businesses or individuals interested in helping out can call 861-0507. The Twin Falls Rotary After Hours Club was formed about one year ago and is seeking new members. Meetings are 5:15 p.m. Tuesdays at Elevation 486.

like. For state legislators, it means waiting longer to see if they'll have to run against other incumbents if they seek re-election next year. It's also led to questions such as whether the city of Twin Falls will have its own district or be carved up. The commission's failure isn't the end. Instead, it's more likely the beginning of legal maneuvering. The upside is that the commission of 2011 may get another chance at the brass ring — tarnished though it may be. "It's a disappointment we were unable to complete a plan, but I guess we'll wait to see what the court has to say to us," said Lou Esposito, a GOP commissioner. The next step will be a lawsuit filed before the Idaho Supreme Court by Secretary of State Ben Ysursa, seeking guidance to resolve the lack of new districts. Ysursa doesn't believe the justices would write a plan themselves. A more likely scenario, he said, would be for them to clarify several points of contention that Democratic and Republican commissioners have been arguing over for weeks, then order them to return to work. One fiercely debated question, for example, is if the constitutional requirement to keep counties whole where possible has more clout than state laws about redistricting that aren't in the constitution. The Democrats have maintained the constitutional requirement has more weight than state law. The Republicans have contended that state laws are equal with the constitutional mandates, such as the law encouraging that counties in a district be connected by a major highway. The grim-faced adjournment puts Idaho in uncharted political waters. This is only the second time an appointed redistricting commission has been tasked with drawing the state's new political boundaries. The first time, in 2001, commissioners accomplished their task on time, taking 79 days in all. Esposito remained optimistic Tuesday that the impasse can be bridged. "I believe if we are called back into a short session we should be able to get this done," he said. But George Moses, a Democratic commissioner, was more cautious. "It's really hard to say," he said. "We don't know what guidance the court is going to give us." That's not the only uncertainty. Evan Frasure, the 60-year-old GOP chairman of the commission, said because of major health concerns, he's not sure he'll return. Frasure, who had a heart attack four years ago, said he appreciates his time here upon the earth. "I'm not sure I'm going to spend it continuing on this process," he said. OPINION

OUR VIEW

Putting ‘Performance’ Back into Pay for Performance

Under provisions of Senate Bill 1110 and guidelines distributed by the Idaho Department of Education, local school districts have until February 2012 to revise the “pay for performance” plans recently submitted. That’s good, because we believe that most plans submitted by local school districts require significant revision.

The word “performance” as presented in the merit pay bill should be defined as achievement, completion or execution. An alternative definition of the word performance is “appearance,” or even “spectacle.” An initial look at plans submitted by districts throughout south-central Idaho are — unfortunately — long on appearance and short on achievement.

Jerome’s middle and high schools will tie merit pay to parent contact and increasing attendance at parent-teacher conferences. Some Cassia County schools will determine eligibility for performance pay based upon the amount of contact that teachers have with parents. At Declo High, the plan will be based upon contacting 50 parents through “formal” communication (ranging from face-to-face meetings to mailing a postcard) and 90 percent of all parents through “informal” methods that include mass emails.

In explaining their local plan, Cassia County School District Curriculum Director Dana Bradley said what most teachers and administrators would readily agree on: “Parent involvement is directly linked to student performance.” That is undeniable. What is far more suspect is whether receiving a postcard or email constitutes “involvement.”

The plan submitted by the Twin Falls School District at least points directly to student achievement rather than the means to the end, but it too falls short of requiring student performance improvement. Students need only hit 95 percent of a three-year average in order for their teachers to qualify for the maximum payout. That’s not 95 percent as in “A” level work; it’s 5 percent worse than what students have averaged on final exams over the last three years. And 5 percent worse qualifies teachers for the maximum payout; partial “performance” pay will be available to teachers of students that perform up to 20 percent worse on their finals.

We don’t think that equates to performance when defined as achievement. And we wonder why area school boards approved these proposals; in most cases unanimously.

When pay for performance passed the legislature last spring, Rep. Bob Nonini, R-Coeur d’Alene, the bill’s House sponsor and chairman of the House Education Committee, said “Pay for performance will reward excellence in the classroom.”

Perhaps. But if excellence in the classroom is really the goal, we’d ask teachers, administrators and local boards of education to rewrite their Pay for Performance criteria in order to create a more obvious cause-and-effect relationship with actual improvement in student performance.

Maybe Jefferson Wasn’t a ‘Jeffersonian’

Special to The Washington Post

As both the George Gershwin and the Ira Gershwin of America’s founding, Thomas Jefferson wrote the words and music that we’ve marched to since 1776, and posterity has always disputed his legacy. Leftist foes of big business, such as radio talk show host Thom Hartmann, cite Jefferson as a critic of corporations, while right-wing extremists such as Timothy McVeigh have invoked him to justify violent attacks on what they see as an illegitimate federal government. But Jefferson doesn’t fit neatly into the label “Jeffersonian.”

Jefferson’s commitment to the separation of church and state, for example, conceals inconsistencies. His “Virginia Act for Establishing Religious Freedom,” adopted in 1786, barred government from taxing to fund churches. As president, he wrote that he revered the

R.B. Bernstein

New York Law School

First Amendment’s “wall of separation between church and state.” Yet he allowed and attended religious services in the U.S. Capitol and used federal funds to finance Christian missions to Native American nations. Jefferson hoped that converting Indians would induce them to embrace private property and live like their white neighbors.

Jefferson’s embrace of strict construction, or limiting the federal government to powers explicitly granted by the Constitution, also masks contradictions. When in 1803 President Jefferson learned that the United States could buy the vast Louisiana Territory from France for a mere $15 million, at first he thought that a constitutional amendment would be needed to authorize the treaty. But instead, he directed American diplomats Robert Livingston and James Monroe to make the deal without an amendment. Jefferson argued that he held the presidency in trust for the American people. Like any trustee, he could use his powers creatively for their benefit. If they approved of what he did, even if it seemed to violate the Constitution, they could reelect him. When he won a second term in 1804, he took it as a sign of popular support for a measure that he might have opposed years before.

Jefferson’s ownership of slaves also collides with the democratic spirit that “Jeffersonian” implies. The man who wrote in the Declaration of Independence that “all men are created equal” owned slaves all his life. His 1787 book “Notes on the State of Virginia” displays the discord over slavery that bedeviled him. In one chapter, he insisted that slavery was a dreadful wrong and that, in a contest between rebelling slaves and their masters, “the Almighty has no attribute which could take sides with us.” In another, he suggested “as a suspicion only” that people of African descent were inferior to people of European descent, and that this inferiority might explain and even partly justify slavery.

His friend James Madison explained that, like “others of great genius,” Jefferson had a habit “of expressing in strong and round terms, impressions of the moment.” The third president’s closest political ally, Madison learned the hard way to take Jefferson’s inconsistencies in stride. Posterity ought to do the same, as expecting perfect consistency from imperfect human beings will always result in disappointment and cynicism. Instead of bowing down before Jefferson, we should have the courage to look him in the eye.

Bernstein teaches at New York Law School and is the author of “Thomas Jefferson” and “The Founding Fathers Reconsidered.”

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Watering in the City

I’ve been trying to keep a lawn alive at a vacant house. Last week, I traveled to the house, arriving at 10:30 a.m. to discover a warning citation on the door for violating the city watering ordinance.

Being a bit miffed, I decided to document what I’ve always known. I copied the hourly temperature and relative humidity data for Twin Falls from the Bureau of Reclamation for August of 2011. The highest temperature, and the lowest humidity of the day occurs at 5 p.m. (hence the highest evaporation rate) when the city says it’s OK to water. In fact, the evaporation rate from 5 to 7 p.m., when it’s OK to water, is almost identical to the evaporation rate from 3 to 5 p.m., during which time you will be punished for watering.

The city requires watering to cease at 10 a.m. and yet the evaporation rate at 10 a.m. is identical to the evaporation rate at 9 p.m. In other words, watering is approved for four hours which have a higher evaporation rate than 10 a.m. If watering at 5 p.m. is OK, then there is no point to restrict watering at any time of day.

Documented studies have shown that hose-draggers do not use excessive water but that automatic watering systems do use excessive water (they don’t have to, but they do). Ironically, the city ordinance completely ignores this documented fact and punishes hose-draggers, who are not the problem, but does not affect automatic systems, which are the problem, and which easily comply with the ordinance.

The ordinance does not punish anyone for using too much water, only for violating a schedule.

STATE BRIEFS

Officials Order Evacuation Near E. Idaho Wildfire

BOISE • Authorities are ordering residents near the Salt Fire burning in eastern Idaho to clear out of their homes.

Federal wildfire officials say winds caused the fire to spread Tuesday afternoon, prompting officials to issue an evacuation order for residents, crews at the Idaho Cobalt Mining Project and people recreating in the Salmon-Challis National Forest.

The fire so far has burned more than 18.4 square miles in an area 16 miles southwest of Salmon. Forest officials have closed down trailheads and parking areas that provide access to some sections of the Frank Church-River of No Return Wilderness.

The fire was ignited by a lightning strike on Aug. 25 and is 17 percent contained.

Lewiston Man Struck and Killed by Pickup Truck

LEWISTON • Police in Lewiston say a pickup truck struck and killed a Lewiston man who was walking across the street.

Officers said 45-year-old Duane White died of injuries suffered in the crash just before 11:30 p.m. Sunday. A witness said White was crossing the street, but was not in a crosswalk, when he was struck. The driver immediately pulled over.

Former Charter School Continues Court Appeal

BOISE • Officials from a former charter school in Nampa are asking a full panel of federal appeals court judges to reconsider an earlier ruling that dismissed the school's lawsuit against Idaho.

Last month, a three judge panel for the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a lower court decision tossing out a 2009 civil lawsuit filed by the Nampa Classical Academy.

The school was shut down by the Idaho Public Charter School Commission last year amid financial troubles.

But founders of the school also tussled with state officials over use of the Bible and other religious texts shortly after opening its doors in August 2009.

Police Break Up Pot-Growing Operation

BOISE • Authorities in eastern Idaho say they have confiscated an estimated $70,000 worth of marijuana growing on public land and charged two men accused of running the operation.

The Bonneville County Sheriff Department says the plants were destroyed late last week on Bureau of Land Management acreage south-east of Idaho Falls.

Authorities say they have charged 47-year-old Mark Taberna, of Ammon, and 29-year-old Brett Stigen, of Idaho Falls with felony manufacturing of a controlled substance.

Sheriff Paul Wilde says police were initially tipped off last month by two anglers who wandered into the operation. That information triggered several weeks of surveillance at the site.

E. Idaho Research Center Wins Solar Study Grant

IDAHO FALLS • Researchers at the Center for Advanced Energy Studies are getting $2.8 million from the federal government to advance research on solar power.

The U.S. Department of Energy awarded the money to CAES' Energy Policy Institute at Boise State University for a three-year study on the suitability of locations capable of hosting solar power panels.

The Post-Register reports that researchers will study several factors for the sites, including sunshine quality, proximity to water and distance to electrical transmission lines.

CAES Energy Policy Institute Director David Sloan says the goal is to produce data that can help make better decisions about where to build solar energy projects.

Search Crews Find Washington Woman in Woods

LEWISTON • The Idaho County sheriff's office says a Washington woman who had been missing in the backcountry near Elk City has been found.

Search crews found 65-year-old April A. Hafer, of Clarkston, Wash., Tuesday afternoon. Rescue teams say Hafer is in good condition.

The sheriff's office began looking for Hafer Monday. She was last seen by friends Sunday morning in a remote corner of the Nez Perce National Forest after leaving her campsite on foot to pick berries.

Search crews brought in tracking dogs to help in the rescue.

Ask The Plant Lady

Question: The edges of my houseplant leaves turn brown, especially palms and large leafed plants. The plants seem healthy otherwise, should I trim off the dead edges? What am I doing wrong?
Signed,
Ken in Twin Falls

Answer: Great question Ken! The culprit is as simple as water quality. City water is often high in chlorine and fluoride. Let a jug of water, specified for plants, set out several days or even over night to dissipate these unneeded additives. Never use softened water; however bottled water or purified water is fine. And yes, trimming off dead edges can help tidy up the plant, misting daily is also helpful in our dry climate.

Nurse-Family Partnership Expands to Northern Idaho

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) • A program designed to help low-income, first-time moms and their babies is coming to northern Idaho.

The Nurse-Family Partnership is expected to start in Kootenai and Shoshone counties within the coming year, thanks to a collaboration between the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare and Spokane Regional Health District, which offers the same program in Washington.

The Spokesman-Review reports the program allows public health nurses to visit interested first-time expectant moms every week or every other week until the baby is born. The nurses continue regular visits until the child turns 2.

Officials said that since the program began in Spokane, Wash., in 2008, it has served 431 families, with 174 families currently enrolled. In Idaho, the program is funded by a federal grant.

Laura DeBoer, health program manager for Idaho's maternal, infant and early childhood home visiting program, said contracting with the established program in Spokane will give Idaho's program a better chance of success.

Kingston Woman Wins $100,000 Scratch Game

COEUR D'ALENE PRESS

COEUR D'ALENE • Cynthia Sawyer got a surprise while playing her Idaho Lottery $100,000 Big Winner Scratch Game from Barney's Harvest Food in Pinehurst last Saturday while shopping for her weekly groceries.

"I scratched it as I went around the store doing my shopping," said Sawyer, a life-long resident of the Silver Valley. "I thought I'd only won $100 and kept thinking, well, Barney's is buying me groceries today. Then I stopped to clean up the ticket a bit before I got to check out. When I did, I kept scratching and I saw all the extra zeroes!"

Sawyer, an insurance agent from Kingston, became the $100,000 Big Winner's biggest winner by winning the game's top prize of $100,000. This was the game's first top prize. One more is still available.

News around the area spread pretty quickly, so much so that when she returned home from the store, she already had a message from one of her friends.

"The store called a friend of mine to check on me because they were concerned I was driving home," said Sawyer. "I was pretty excited."

Sawyer plans to use her winnings to move her retirement date closer to reality. For their part in selling the winning ticket, Barney's will receive a bonus from the Idaho Lottery of $12,000.

Sawyer was returning to north Idaho on Tuesday and unavailable for comment.

Bobcat Sighted on BSU Campus, Cougar Seen Nearby

IDAHO STATESMAN

BOISE • A bobcat was spotted on the Boise State University campus Sunday night and early Monday morning, a university spokesman says.

The bobcat was reported near the Greenbelt on the west end of campus, spokesman Frank Zang said in an email to the campus community.

In addition, a mountain lion was spotted off campus at Ninth and Myrtle streets, Zang said.

Boise police are now working with the Idaho Department of Fish and Game to record and investigate sightings, said spokeswoman Lynn Hightower.

Police said that within the past week there have been several mountain lion sightings, focused near the Boise River. Because of the potential threat, officers will inform and consult game managers and conduct an immediate area search to try to find the animal. As of Tuesday afternoon, officers have not seen any sign of a mountain lion.

On Monday at 2 a.m., a resident reported seeing a "large lion" in Julia Davis Park headed southbound toward the river. Officers were unable to find any sign of a mountain lion. Officers also couldn't find the animal when a resident reported a mountain lion headed towards the river at 2 a.m. on Aug. 31 near Boise Avenue and Burgeson Street.

Such sightings are rare. "I don't think I've ever heard of a bobcat on campus," said university spokeswoman Kathleen Tuck, who has worked 11 years for Boise State. She hasn't seen a mountain lion on campus in that time either.

Boise police encourage residents to call 911 if they see a mountain lion.

Bobcats are about twice the size of house cats. Mountain lions, also known as cougars, are larger. They can weigh 130 pounds or more.

Play it Safe If You Encounter Wildlife

According to wildlife experts, wild animals generally try to avoid human contact. If you do see an animal in the wild: Maintain your distance. Behavior of wild animals is unpredictable. Don't attempt to feed, catch or pet a wild animal.

Never try to approach wildlife babies or mothers with their babies; the mother's protective response can be very fierce.

Report injured or aggressive animals to immediately authorities by calling 911; don't attempt to give aid to injured animals. If an injured animal approaches you, move away slowly.

As always, be aware of your surroundings and potential threats to personal safety, wildlife or otherwise.

42 Drunk Driving Arrests in Ada

BOISE • Ada County law enforcement made 42 drunken driving arrests over the Labor Day weekend. The arrests were made from 6 a.m. Friday through 6 a.m. Tuesday.

Boise Police accounted for half of those arrests. Others were made by Ada County sheriff's deputies, Meridian police, Garden City police and Idaho State Police.

Officers around the county were working extra patrols as part of a statewide crackdown on drunken driving over the holiday weekend.

Republicans Cite Common Ground With Obama on Job Growth

WASHINGTON (AP) • House Republican leaders are offering President Barack Obama an opening for compromise on measures that would spur job growth. They say neither Republicans nor the administration should consider their own initiatives “an all-or-nothing situation.”

In a letter to Obama Tuesday, Speaker John Boehner and House Republican Leader Eric Cantor asked the president to meet with the bipartisan leadership of Congress this week to discuss his proposals in advance of his jobs address Thursday to a joint session of Congress.

The letter lists GOP proposals that have already passed the House that they said would be worthy of his consideration.

They acknowledged that both Republicans and the administration believe their policy prescriptions are best for the country and conceded that neither side would likely convince the other to adopt all of each other’s proposals.

But, they added, it is critical that “our differences not preclude us from taking action in areas where there is common agreement.”

The leadership letter came as Obama is pressing Congress to cooperate on measures that would help spur the economy and create jobs in advance of his highly-anticipated jobs speech Thursday.

The outreach to the president also comes amid public opinion polls that show Congress has lower approval than Obama on the economy, a political environment that Obama aides say he will exploit if Republicans block his proposals.

Boehner and Cantor said they share common ground with Obama on trade and urged him to send trade bills establishing pacts with Panama, South Korea and Colombia.

They also said Republicans were encouraged by remarks from Obama last week suggesting changes in the way transportation construction money is spent. Republicans said they would support doing away with a provision that requires setting aside 10 percent of road project money for specialized public works such as historic preservation and acquisition of scenic rights-of way.

They also voiced support for a plan for distributing jobless benefits in Georgia that Obama has cited as a potential model for extending unemployment insurance. The Georgia approach uses unemployment insurance funds to pay jobless workers in trainee positions.

A TEST TUBE THE SIZE OF A TOWN

New Mexico is planning to take part in an unprecedented science project — a petri dish, of sorts, the size of a small U.S. city. A Washington, D.C.-based technology company announced plans Tuesday to build the state’s newest ghost town, a 20-square-mile model metropolis that will be used to test everything from renewable energy innovations to intelligent traffic systems, next-generation wireless networks and smart-grid cyber security systems. Although no one will live there, the replica city will be modeled after a typical American town of 35,000 people, complete with highways, houses and commercial buildings, old and new.

Texas Wildfires Kill 4, Destroy 1,000 Homes

One of the most devastating wildfire outbreaks in Texas history left more than 1,000 homes in ruins Tuesday and stretched the state’s firefighting ranks to the limit. More than 180 fires have erupted in the past week across the rain-starved state, and nearly 600 of the homes destroyed since then were lost in one catastrophic blaze in and around Bastrop, near Austin, that raged out of control Tuesday for a third day. Whipped into an inferno by Tropical Storm Lee’s winds over the weekend, the blaze burned more than 45 square miles, forced the evacuation of thousands and killed at least two people, bringing the overall death toll to four.

Gunman Kills 3 at Nevada IHOP, Including Guardsmen

BY SANDRA CHEREB
Associated Press

CARSON CITY, Nev. • A gunman wielding an AK-47 opened fire on a table of uniformed National Guard members at an IHOP restaurant on Tuesday in an outburst of violence that killed four people, wounded eight others and put Nevada’s capital city on high alert as the shooter unloaded his assault rifle in a bustling business district.

The shooter’s motive was unclear, but family members said he had mental issues. He had never been in the military and had no known affiliation with anyone inside the restaurant.

Five Nevada National Guard troops sitting together at the back of the restaurant were shot — two of them fatally. Another woman was also killed, and the gunman, 32-year-old Eduardo Sencion of Carson City, shot himself in the head and died at a hospital.

Witnesses and authorities described a frantic scene, in which the shooter pulled into the large complex of retail stores and shops just before 9 a.m. in a blue minivan with a yellow “Support Our Troops” sticker on the back. He got out and immediately shot a person on a motorcycle, a witness said.

“I don’t know what’s happening to my city. This happens in L.A. or Las Vegas but not here.”

Fran Hunter, who works at a pet shop just north of the IHOP.

Ralph Swagler said he grabbed his own weapon, but said it was too late to stop the shooter, who charged into the IHOP through the front doors.

“I wish I had shot at him but he was going in the IHOP,” said Swagler, who

Top Gadhafi Loyalists Flee to Niger in Desert Trek

BY HADEEL AL-SHALCHI and MAGGIE MICHAEL
Associated Press

TARHOUNA, Libya • Convoys of Moammar Gadhafi loyalists, including his security chief, fled across the Sahara into Niger on Tuesday in a move that Libya’s former rebels hoped could help lead to the surrender of his last strongholds.

Still, efforts to negotiate the peaceful handover of one of the most crucial of those bastions, the city of Bani Walid, proved difficult.

Tribal elders from Bani Walid who met Tuesday with former rebels were confronted by angry residents of the city, including Gadhafi supporters, who fired in the air and sent them fleeing, mediators said. Many in Bani Walid remain deeply mistrustful of the forces that have seized power in Libya and are reluctant to accept their rule.

Some former rebels depicted the flight to Niger as a major exodus of Gadhafi’s most hardcore backers. But confirmed information on the number and identity of those leaving was scarce as the convoy made its way across the vast swath of desert — over 1,000 miles — between populated areas on the two sides of the border.

Gadhafi himself is not in the convoys, the U.S. State Department said.

As the first group of a dozen vehicles pulled into Niger’s capital, Niamey, a customs official said it included Mansour Dao, Gadhafi’s security chief and a key member of his inner circle, as well as around 12 other Gadhafi regime officials.

The official, Harouna Ide, told The Associated Press other Libyan convoys had passed through Agadez, a town about halfway between Niger’s border with Libya and its capital in the far southwest.

The convoys included heavily armed contingents of Tuareg tribal fighters from Niger, who have long been enlisted as mercenaries for Gadhafi’s regime, Niger officials said. A Gadhafi opponent said it was also carrying gold and cash belonging to the regime.

U.S. State Department spokeswoman Victoria Nuland said the U.S. has urged Niger to detain anyone who might be subject to prosecution in Libya, confiscate weapons and impound any state property such as money or jewels that were illegally taken out of the country.

Nuland said some senior members of the Gadhafi regime were in the fleeing group, but not Gadhafi or members of his family.

Remnants of Lee Soak Southern U.S.

Disorganized yet deadly, the leftovers of Tropical Storm Lee spread farther inland Tuesday, soaking much of the East Coast. Areas still drying out from Irene were hit with more rain while farmers in the Southeast welcomed the wet weather. Lee spawned tornadoes that damaged hundreds of homes. Roads were flooded, trees uprooted and power was knocked out to hundreds of thousands of people.

Obama Said to be Looking at $300 Billion Jobs Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) • People familiar with the White House deliberations on a jobs package say President Barack Obama is considering a plan totaling about $300 billion in tax cuts and spending for 2012.

Two of the biggest measures are expected to be a one-year extension of a payroll tax cut for workers and a continuation of unemployment benefits. Those items would total about $170 billion. The people spoke on the condition of anonymity because the plan was still being finalized and some proposals could be changed before Obama introduces his plan Thursday night in his address to Congress.

The White House is considering tax incentives for businesses that hire as well as spending for public works projects.

Pedestrians carrying shopping bags make their way along Fifth Avenue on July 5 in New York.

Back to School is a Test for Teen Retailers

NEW YORK (AP) • Teens are heading back to school, but it’s the retailers catering to them that are getting the first test.

They’re hoping their expanded selections of funky tee shirts and hip-hugging jeans will attract students like Dale Gibson, 15, who struggles to find trendy clothes in their stores. Ditto for Danielle Martinez, 14, who thinks their merchandise is dull. Same goes for Rochelle Wilson, 19, who stopped shopping them altogether.

“All the clothes seem the same,” said Wilson, a native of Pembroke Pines, Fla. who prefers shopping at H&M. “There’s nothing to make people say, ‘Oh wow, where did she get that from?’”

The “Big Three” teen merchants Abercrombie & Fitch, Aeropostale and American Eagle once defined fashion for fickle teens. But they lost their mojo by not stocking the jeans and tees that their customers covet. So, teens flocked to chains like H&M and Forever 21 that cater to twenty-somethings with up-to-the minute trendy styles that they can mix and match. Now, as the down economy batters both teens and their parents, teen clothing chains are having mixed success as they try to lure young people back into their stores by offering more of the things they love — boot cut jeans, fleece bottoms and accessories.

“The teen consumer has always been a fickle consumer and if you’re not on trend, you’re going to be punished,” said Michael Appel, an apparel industry consultant and director at AlixPartners. “A lot of teens have all the loyalty of a flea.”

Teen merchants depend on the back-to-school season, the second-biggest shopping period of the year behind the winter holidays, because during that time they can make up to 25 percent of their annual revenue. This year, the average family is expected to spend about $603.63 during the back-to-school season — which runs from mid-July through mid-September — down slightly from $606.40 last year, according to the National Retail Federation. And spending in teen stores accounts for about 19 percent of the $85.8 billion in annual revenue generated from family’s spending on clothes.

Shell to pay for pollution in Texas • Shell Chemical LP has agreed to pay $500,000 to a Texas County over five different air pollution events at its Deer Park refinery. The settlement was reached after Harris County accused Shell Chemical, a unit of Royal Dutch Shell PLC, of failing to notify officials about the toxic releases. There are two schools and many homes close to the Shell refinery in Deer Park, about 18 miles southeast of Houston.

FLASH SALES SPREAD TO TRAVEL INDUSTRY

BY HANNAH SAMPSON
McClatchy Newspapers

MIAMI • As the general manager of the new Hotel Breakwater on Miami’s crowded South Beach, Axel Gasser is eager to drive traffic to his 100-room property.

Factor in the threat of Hurricane Irene to South Florida — and its actual impact on some key tourism markets — and Gasser’s eagerness turned to something more like nervousness.

Gasser and his staff found a solution in the latest travel fad: flash sales — short-term sales lasting from a few hours to a couple of weeks that help hoteliers and airlines to fill unbooked space at deeply discounted rates.

“We have to give a higher discount than we like to do, but the exposure is just absolutely tremendous,” said Gasser, who said the hotel picked up more than 500 room nights from a quick sale on a few websites last week, before the Labor Day holiday. “It’s a good investment to get the maximum exposure.”

As the summer travel season winds down, one thing is clear: Travelers are still keeping a wary eye on the economy while they book their trips.

According to an American Automobile Association travel forecast, about 31.5 million travelers nationwide planned to take a trip 50 or more miles away from home during Labor Day weekend — a 2.4 percent decrease from last year. AAA is blaming the drop on economic uncertainty.

Research shows those who are traveling are motivated by deals: 20 percent of leisure travelers bought some kind of travel service as a result of a “flash sale” or time-sensitive offer received by email from a provider such as a hotel or airline, according to the Ypartnership/Harrison Group 2011 Portrait of American Travelers.

Gold Fever Sweeps Criminal Underworld

LOS ANGELES (AP) • Gus Rodriguez looks more like a soldier than a jewelry store security guard, with a Beretta handgun strapped to his bulletproof vest, shades wrapped around his shaved head and pepper spray bulging from a breast pocket.

“I am not afraid,” the former Ecuadorean military man says, patting his pistol. “They call me Rambo.” After a summer of brazen attacks on gold stores, parts of downtown Los Angeles now look more like a militarized zone than a commercial corridor.

The gold fever that has driven prices to an all-time high is also fueling a crime spree in the precious metal. Police nationwide are seeing an uptick in robberies and burglaries related to gold prices, which peaked at $1,891 an ounce last month, up more than $600 from a year earlier.

The FBI doesn’t keep numbers for gold thefts but local police departments have plenty of anecdotal evidence of a spike. Dozens of women have had their necklaces snatched in daylight attacks, burglars are targeting gold in homes and robbers in New Jersey even cleared out a mining museum’s irreplaceable collection of nuggets.

The beauty of gold, from a criminal stand point, is that it’s easy to fence. Rings and necklaces can be melted down — destroying the evidence — and sold. Precious items such as diamonds are harder to alter and easier to trace.

There were at least six Los Angeles gold store robberies in June and July. On Aug. 22, four men with hammers were arrested outside a jewelry store, Los Angeles police Lt. Paul Vernon said. These thefts were suspected to have been carried out by gang members who covered their faces with hoods and hats, then rushed into stores and swiped what they could.

Private security guard Gus Rodriguez stands outside ‘El Palacio de Oro’ jewelry store on Aug. 25 in downtown Los Angeles.

ONLINE: Help Put On This Month’s Homebrew Contest

Times-News Night Editor Nate Poppino blogs about all things beer at “Idaho On Tap.” Here’s what’s on his mind this week:

“Some changes with this month’s Homebrew Smackdown:
The event has now been moved to Sept. 17, still at Mimi’s in Buhl.
This is one week earlier than originally planned, and thus the organizers are racing to get things changed (one of them will also be unable to attend, further complicating the day). They could use your help. Folks are needed to help judge beers, as well as volunteers to log entries and set up the event.
If you can help out, contact Gary Beeson at grbamb@q.com, or through the Magic Valley Home Brewers groups on Google or Facebook.
Stay tuned for more information on submitting your beers in the contest...”

Give Summer Tomatoes a Guatemalan Taste

THE WASHINGTON POST

This is a Guatemalan pepian; Mexico has its own, spelled “pipian.” New Yorker Melissa Pitts grew up with this red version in her house. The recipe comes from her Aunt Claudia.
Just about any kind of meat works in this dish, which comes together fairly quickly. Here, cooked chicken is used. Pitts serves it over white rice that’s studded with peas (to add a little color). Sometimes she adds chunks of 2 boiled, peeled chayotes or potatoes to make it even more special.
Serve with rice or tortillas.
You’ll need to soak the dried chili pepper in hot water for 20 to 30 minutes before getting started.

Red Pepian

6 to 8 servings.

- 5 red, ripe tomatoes, cored and cut into quarters
- 3 tomatillos, husked then cut in half
- 1/2 medium onion, coarsely chopped
- 1 small dried guajillo chili pepper, soaked in hot water for 20 to 30 minutes, then seeded and coarsely chopped
- 1 tablespoon canola or vegetable oil
- 2 tablespoons sesame seeds
- 1 tablespoon pepitas (pumpkin or squash seeds)
- One 3-inch cinnamon stick, preferably the soft kind (available in Latin markets)
- 3 to 4 cups homemade or no-salt-added chicken broth
- White and dark meat from 1 purchased rotisserie chicken, shredded (about 5 cups)
- Salt (optional)

Combine the tomatoes, tomatillos, onion and the soaked, chopped chili pepper in a Dutch oven or heavy-bottomed pot with a lid; place over medium heat and cook for 5 to 8 minutes, stirring once or twice, until most of the vegetables have softened. Remove from the heat and let cool for at least 10 minutes.
Meanwhile, heat the oil in a small skillet over medium heat. Add the sesame seeds, pepitas and cinnamon stick; toast for about 6 minutes, shaking the skillet a few times to keep the contents from burning. Remove from the heat and let cool for 10 minutes.
Working in batches, combine the vegetable mixture with its liquid and the toasted mixture in a blender (with the center knob of the lid removed so steam can escape; cover the opening with a dish towel to avoid splash-ups). Add up to 1 cup total of the broth, if needed, in order to process into a fairly smooth puree.

Strain the pureed mixture through a fine-mesh strainer back into the pot that was used to cook the vegetables, pressing to extract as much liquid as possible; you should have about 4 cups. Discard the solids.
Place the pot over medium heat. Add the remaining 2 to 3 cups of broth and the shredded chicken. Cook uncovered for about 30 minutes, stirring a few times. Taste and season with salt, if desired. Remove from the heat; after a few minutes, the sauce should thicken slightly (see note). Serve hot.
Note: If the mixture seems thin after cooking, stir in a slurry of 1 tablespoon of cornstarch and 2 tablespoons of cold water and cook for a few minutes, until thickened. For an intense red color, add 1/4 teaspoon of achiote paste.

THE VERSATILE ZUCCHINI

Don’t settle for sauteed zucchini. Spruce it up with these tips and recipes.

BY MELISSA DAVLIN
mdavlin@magicvalley.com

Sick of zucchini yet? Idaho is hearing the end of zucchini season, but there are still plenty of the squash to go around. The Times-News talked to Magic Valley cooks to get a few new ideas on how to enjoy zucchini.

Tempura

Joey Touchette of Sushi Tokyo recommended mixing 3 cups of high-ratio flour, one tablespoon of salt and one tablespoon of baking powder. Slowly mix in water until the flour has the consistency of pancake batter. Slice the zucchini into sticks, like French fries, and coat in the batter. Fry in vegetable oil or soy bean oil until golden brown.

Chocolate cake

This is so much more indulgent than zucchini bread.
Melissa Sage, owner of Black Cat Cupcakes, makes chocolate zucchini cupcakes with orange buttercream. You can’t just add zucchini to any cake recipe, Sage said — the fruit has too much moisture. Try Googling zucchini cake recipes.

Bruschetta

You don’t need bread for this bruschetta, Sage said..
Put some olive oil on zucchini, then add chopped tomatoes, salt, pepper and parmesan. Stick it under the broiler for a twist on the Italian hors d’oeuvre.

Skillet casserole

Sarreah Nipper of Twin Falls shared this recipe:

- 1 pound ground beef
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 2 medium or large zucchini, sliced
- 2 large onions
- 2 tomatoes, sliced
- 1 pound sliced mushrooms
- 1 large jalapeno, sliced and seeded
- 1 pound medium cheddar cheese, shredded

Fry hamburger in a large skillet and add salt and pepper to taste. Drain fat, then set aside the meat in a bowl. In the skillet, layer one cup of meat, zucchini, sliced tomatoes, onion, mushrooms and jalapenos. Repeat layers until you run out of ingredients, then cover and cook on medium heat. When vegetables are done, add the cheese and let melt. Serve with wheat toast.

Stuffed

Cricket Stirling of Kimberly suggested browning half a pound of ground beef and half a pound of ground sausage. Combine the meat with spaghetti sauce, then slice two zucchini lengthwise and remove the seeds. Add the filling to the zucchini and bake at 400 degrees until the zucchini is soft. Top with shredded cheese and serve. Stirling serves the zucchini boats with pasta.

Zucchini, mozzarella and tomato bake

Cheese always makes everything better.
Lisa Ochsner of Twin Falls shared this easy dish: Spray a cake pan with olive oil, then spread sliced zucchini on the bottom. Pour two cans of stewed tomatoes over the zucchini and top with mozzarella. Bake at 325 until cheese is slightly brown.

Grilled

Grill marks aren’t just for burgers. Brush olive oil onto broad, flat slices of zucchini, season with salt and pepper, and grill them up, Sage said.

Zucchini cream pie

Jennifer Hartgrave of Kimberly

altered a recipe she found online for a clever dessert.

- 1 1/2 cups zucchini, peeled, seeded and sliced
- 1 cup evaporated milk
- 2 cups white sugar
- 1 egg
- 3 tablespoons margarine
- 3 tablespoons all purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 pinch salt
- 1 9-inch crust pie
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1/2 cup of chocolate chips

Boil zucchini until tender. Drain and let stand in cold water for about 5 minutes, then drain.
Put the zucchini, evaporated milk, sugar, egg, margarine, flour, vanilla and salt into a blender and blend until smooth. Pour into unbaked pie shell. Sprinkle with cinnamon, nutmeg and chocolate chips. Bake at 425 degrees for 5 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 degrees and bake until set.

Save it

Still overwhelmed?
Don’t let the zucchini go to waste. Simply shred it and freeze it, said Brenda Bourgeois of Kimberly.
When you’re ready for more zucchini bread, thaw it out.

A Beautiful, Simple and Delicious Caprese Salad

BY J.M. HIRSCH
Associated Press

The same combination that makes pizza so irresistible — mozzarella and tomatoes — also makes a mean salad.
And just like a classically delicious pizza, you don’t need much beyond those two star ingredients to assemble a stunning salad, known in Italy as a caprese salad.
In this case, I simply stacked slabs of tomato and fresh mozzarella, then drizzled them with a lemon vinaigrette and sprinkled them with fresh basil and lemon zest.

To add a punch of tang to the salad, I added capers to the vinaigrette, as well as a sprinkle of them over the salad just before serving. Capers are the pickled unopened flower buds of a bush that grows in the Mediterranean. The flavor is pleasantly briny and herby.
Of course, like pizza, feel free pile on whatever else seems tasty.

Caprese Salad with Caper Vinaigrette

Start to finish: 15 minutes. Servings: 4.

- Two 8-ounce balls fresh mozzarella
- 2 large slicing tomatoes
- Salt and ground black pepper
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- Juice and zest of 1 lemon
- 1 tablespoon capers, divided
- Handful fresh basil leaves

Use a serrated knife to slice each ball of mozzarella into 4 slices. Repeat with the tomatoes, cutting each into 4 slices.
Stack 2 slices of tomato and 2 slices of mozzarella, alternating as you stack, on each of 4 serving plates. As you stack, season each tomato slice with a pinch of salt and pepper. Set aside.

In a blender, combine the olive oil, lemon juice and half of the capers. Puree until smooth. Season with salt and pepper. Drizzle a bit of the dressing over each mozzarella-tomato stack. Scatter several basil leaves, a few of the remaining capers and a bit of the lemon zest over each stack.

OBITUARIES

Clyel Jarriet Berry
Dec. 4, 1918-Sept. 3, 2011

Clyel Jarriet Berry died Saturday, Sept. 3, 2011, at home, after a courageous fight with cancer.

Born Dec. 4, 1918, at the family's home in Blanche, Mo., to Jarrett and Dolly Marlena Parsley Berry, he was raised and educated in Blanche, graduating from West Plains High School in West Plains, Mo. He then went on to Bolivar College, where he graduated with a teaching degree. Clyel's first teaching job was at Rock Valley School in Missouri, where he taught first through eighth grade. It was here that he met and fell in love with Nellie Ellen Duncan. They were married Oct. 16, 1939.

After teaching, Clyel became a sales representative for the American Sales Store. Their first child, Velma Jean, was soon born. Two years later, their second daughter, Treva, came along. Their third daughter, Wilma, was born two years following. Clyel then moved his family to Idaho, in the Eden/Hazelton area, where he farmed for one season. They then bought a dry goods store in Eden, Idaho, which they ran for a few years before moving to the Kimberly/Twin Falls area and returning to farming. During this time their son, L. Clyel Berry, was born.

After farming for several years, Clyel and Nellie bought a small market south of Twin Falls called Consumer's Market. Their business grew and they built a new store, which they named Berry's Market. For 50 years, they spent their life, six days a week, at this store meeting and greeting old and new customers. The time spent at the store with Nellie was the happiest time of his life. In the earlier years after buying the store, he worked as a mechanic in the garage, which they built while Nellie ran the store. As Clyel grew older, he closed his shop and focused on the store. Clyel loved children and would often treat his customer's children to candy. Clyel loved hunting and fishing. His most cherished times were with his grandsons, pheasant hunting and all of the grandchildren fishing at Silver Creek and Stanley Creek. He loved fishing for brook trout and took pride in showing his grandchildren the ins and outs of how to catch them.

Survivors include his wife, Nellie of Twin Falls; daughters, Velma (David, deceased) Porter of Shoshone and Treva (Jules) Harrison of Poulso, Wash.; a son, L. Clyel (Jill) of Kimberly; son-in-law, John Thompson (Wilma, deceased) of Buhl; two sisters, Harriet (Eddie, deceased) Geese and Ruby (Tom, deceased) McNevin; 11 grandchildren; 18 great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents; three brothers, Rod, Neil and Elmer Berry; and his daughter, Wilma Thompson.

Visitation will be from 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 8, at Parke's Magic Valley Funeral Home, 2551 Kimberly Road in Twin Falls. The funeral will be held at 2 p.m. Friday, Sept. 9, at the funeral home, with interment to follow at Sunset Memorial Park Cemetery.

Services and arrangements are under the direction of Parke's Magic Valley Funeral Home of Twin Falls. Those wishing to share condolences may do so at www.magicvalleyfuneralhome.com. The family would like to thank Clyel's good friends, Smokey Theil, Melvin and JoAnn Dixon, the Bruce and Chris Billington family, their close neighbors; and special thanks to Clyel's doctor, Richard Sandison.

Zola M. Browning
March 18, 1929-Sept. 6, 2011

RUPERT • Zola McCulloch Browning, 82, of Rupert, passed away Tuesday, Sept. 6, 2011, at the Minidoka Memorial Hospital from complications related to lymphoma.

Zola was born March 18, 1929, to Henry and Julia Vivian (Smith) McCulloch at Thornton, Idaho. She learned the value of hard work while being raised on a farm where her parents were sheep ranchers. She loved feeding bum lambs and riding horses at the end of the trail in Island Park. Her love of Island Park later led to the purchase of the family cabin. Many of her treasured memories came from spending time together as a family at the cabin.

She attended Cedar Point Grade School and graduated from Madison High School and the LDS Seminary in 1947. She attended Ricks College, where she met Floyd "Hank" Austin Browning. They were married in the Idaho Falls LDS Temple on Oct. 19, 1948. They lived in Thornton and Menan for several years, where they purchased their first farm. They homesteaded a farm north of Rupert in 1959, which became home to them.

She began her teaching career at Acequia Elementary in 1969. She was then selected to be in the Teacher Corp program. She completed her degree and received her BA in education from Idaho State University in 1974. She taught math and English at East Minico Junior High School until 1991. Because of her love for teaching, she continued to teach GED classes for the College of Southern Idaho and taught homebound students for the Minidoka County School District. She continued teaching until she was 79 years old and was proud to hold a current teaching certificate until the age of 80. Her influence reached far beyond her students and inspired many people to excel in life.

She was an active member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, where she served in many capacities. She touched the lives of many people as she served as Primary president and as a Young Women's and Relief Society leader. She was a member of the Daughters of Utah Pioneers, where she served as an instructor. No one fit the role of mother, grandmother, sister, aunt and friend like she did. Her family was her life, and she unselfishly spent her entire life loving and serving them.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Floyd; her parents; one sister, Alice; two granddaughters; and one great-grandson. She is survived by her six children, Terry (Dixie) Browning of Rupert, Brenda (Richard) Barlow of Heyburn, Julie (Randy) Jensen of Lehi, Utah, Jayne (Roy) Hoyt of Hurricane, Utah, Brent (Toni) Browning of Paul, and Linda (Steve) Loosle of Salt Lake City, Utah; and one brother, Kenneth (Lela) McCulloch of Rexburg. She is also the proud grandmother of 23 grandchildren; and 15 great-grandchildren (with two expected this winter).

The funeral will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 10, at the Rupert LDS Stake Center, 324 E. 18th St. in Rupert, with Bishop Rick Larsen officiating. Burial will be in the Rupert Cemetery. Friends may call from 6 until 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 9, at the Rasmussen Funeral Home, 1350 E. 16th St. in Burley, and from noon until 12:45 p.m. Saturday at the church.

It was Zola's wish that memorial contributions be directed to the LDS Church Perpetual Education Fund in care of the Rasmussen Funeral Home.

Clover Christian School Turns 97 Years Old
This little Christian School located south of Buhl and Filer is still teaching children how to live a long peaceful life in a Christian atmosphere. They are not only taught the Word of God from the Bible but are taught to respect each other and their elders. They are also taught a responsibility and an understanding of the results of their actions. They also learn how to take care of the world they live in and the responsibility they will have as adults. The parents that send their children to Clover Christian School have dedicated some of their means to raising their children to be outstanding citizens, as one parent said, "We love our children and we want the best education possible that will teach them the truth about life." The children also salute the flag and sing God Bless America for the school is proud of our American heritage. There are not many schools that teach Christian values so if you have children from kindergarten to the fifth grade you are welcome to apply to Clover Christian School. Yes, it takes dedication of the parents to raise children in this society today. We must make choices and some of these choices will stay with our children for eternity. Clover Christian School is dedicated to helping parents raise their children in a loving way.

Barbara Jean Christensen Skinner

May 29, 1926-Sept. 3, 2011

PROVO, Utah • Barbara Jean Christensen Skinner of Provo passed away Saturday, Sept. 3, 2011.

She leaves behind a wonderful legacy of service to her fellowmen and a shining example to her posterity as a true follower of the Savior. She will now be reunited with her beloved husband, Bernell Moore Skinner, and enter into her eternal rest.

She was born in Stirling, Alberta, Canada, to Carl Harald Christensen and Elodia Libby Peterson Christensen on May 29, 1926. She was always very proud of her Canadian heritage. She maintained her Canadian citizenship her whole life and made sure that her children knew how much she loved Canada, as well as her adopted country.

After graduating from Stirling High School, she began her education in pharmacy at Idaho State University, where she met Bernell, who had recently returned after serving in the Navy during World War II. They were married for time and eternity on July 18, 1946, in the Cardston Alberta Temple. Following their marriage, they made their first home in Tremonton, Utah, where Dad worked for his brother-in-law for a time. After returning to Idaho State and completing his degree in pharmacy, he and Mom

Their marriage was blessed with three children, Dr. Fredrick Douglas Skinner (Kathy) of Austin, Texas, Dr. Gregory C Skinner (Heidi) of Murrieta, Calif., and Mrs. Debra Anne Skinner Rollins (Kevin) of Dover, Mass. Her posterity includes 13 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren. Barbara was a wonderful mother and grandmother, and she and Dad sacrificed everything they had to ensure that their children had every opportunity to develop their talents and testimonies of the gospel.

Barbara served in numerous callings in The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, including many years directing music and the ward choir in the Twin Falls 5th Ward, with Bernell as accompanist. They made a wonderfully harmonious musical team, just as they did in every aspect of their life together. Barbara was also an avid reader and was a member of several literary clubs over the years. After moving to Provo, she took full advantage of her proximity to BYU, auditing numerous religion, humanities and literature courses, and attending plays, concerts and BYU basketball games.

She was preceded in death by her parents; her beloved husband, Bernell; her brother, Dr. Douglas Christensen of Medicine Hat, Alberta, Canada; and a grandson, Richard Douglas Skinner.

The family expresses thanks to the staff of the Courtyard at Jamestown and Orem Rehabilitation and Nursing for their professional and compassionate care during Mom's last years.

Friends and family are invited to attend a viewing from 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 8, at Sundberg-Olpin Mortuary, 495 S. State St. in Orem, Utah. The funeral service will be held at 10 a.m. Friday, Sept. 9, at the Riverwoods Chapel, 303 W. 3700 N. in Provo, Utah. There will be a viewing at 9 a.m. Friday prior to the service. Melvin Leroy Carnell

May 22, 1939-Sept. 1, 2011

BUHL • Melvin Leroy Carnell, age 72, of Buhl, Idaho, passed away Thursday, Sept. 1, 2011, at his home from a long and courageous battle with lung cancer. He was surrounded by his family, just the way he always liked it.

Melvin was born May 22, 1939, in Ponca, Neb., to Marge Baker and Gerald Carnell. He was one of eight children. The family moved to Halfway, Ore., in 1957, the same year he was drafted into the service. Following his tour of duty, he met LaDonna Hubler. They were married in 1961. They had seven children, six boys and one girl. The family lived in Halfway, Ore., where Melvin and LaDonna worked to remodel the house they rented while working the farm. They also lived in California, where he worked in the orange groves. They moved to Idaho, where Melvin worked in construction. He owned and operated Crane Pumping with his brother. He pumped concrete for 30-plus years.

He was an amateur boxer along with five of his sons and three of his grandsons. He coached the Jerome Boxing Club for many years. He enjoyed these years when he played such a big part in their lives. His family meant everything to him. He loved having his grandchildren and great-grandchildren around. The family had barbecues almost every weekend during the summer and sometimes in the winter. Melvin enjoyed manning the grill. He also enjoyed riding ATVs. He went with his brothers every summer for a weeklong ride in Utah. He also liked to take the bikes up to the South Hills and ride with all the kids. We are most fortunate to have had so many wonderful years with him. He had several accidents in his later years that almost took him from us. He was a survivor and an inspiration to us all. He will be greatly missed.

He is survived by his friend and life partner, LaDonna; also by his sons, "Jerry" Gerald Fred (Cindy) of Jerome, Melvin Dale (Marla) of Filer, Ronnie Eugene (Lucy) of Jerome, Jamey Earl (Amy) of Lynnwood, Wash., and Scotty Greg and Shane Julius, both of Buhl; and his daughter, Stacie Kay Carnell of Jerome; 26 grandchildren; and 18 great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his father; two brothers, Larry and Ricky; and three grandchildren, Cambria Jordan, Brittny Marie and Andrew Scott.

The family would like to thank the St. Luke's Cancer Center and the hospice for the care that was provided Melvin through this long illness. Also for the support that was given to all of us.

Cremation was under the direction of Parke's Magic Valley Funeral Home. The family will have a celebration of life to honor Melvin at a later date.

OBITUARIES

Brett Guy Turner

June 7, 1962-Sept. 3, 2011

Brett Guy Turner, age 49, was born June 7, 1962. Brett passed away peacefully at home with his loving wife by his side and family members nearby on Saturday, Sept. 3, 2011.

He was born in Glasgow, Mont., to Keith and Lila Turner, the eighth of 10 children. In 1968, his family moved to Mountain Home, Idaho, where they enjoyed picnicking, fishing, camping and playing together in the outdoors. He graduated from Mountain Home High School in 1981. Brett then moved to Twin Falls, Idaho, to pursue a career as an electrician, eventually becoming a journeyman. There in 1982, he met his soul mate, Wendy Lee Hirschi.

Brett and Wendy quickly became best friends and were inseparable because they found they had everything in common and a love that was eternal. They shared the same passions for Harleys, camping, four-wheeling, hunting, collecting guns and coins, and caring for their beloved dogs. They were married July 7, 1990, in Twin Falls, Idaho. The strength of their love helped Brett and Wendy overcome the many trials life had for them.

Brett worked at Crumrine Electric, where he developed many close friendships with his fellow coworkers. Brett had a talent and passion for creating, building and repairing anything and everything. Put a tool in his hand and he knew how to use it, from mechanics to wood to metal. Brett had a big heart that emulat-ed his parents' traits of generosity and kindness. He was always helping out family, friends and even strangers with anything they needed, day or night. He loved and cherished his whole family. His nieces and nephews brought him great joy, especially when he was teasing them.

Brett is survived by his wife, Wendy; and their three dogs, Jake, Tater and Squirt; his nine siblings, Nadine (Mike) Rice, Nancy Turner, Jim and (Linda) Turner, Rick and (Marta) Turner, Ray Turner, Gregg and (Sue) Turner, Nedra Rainer, Lynette Turner, and Lori and (Roger) Brauner; his father and mother-in-law, Gordon and Glenna Hirschi; brother and sisters-in-law, Guy and (Deborah) Hirschi, Stephanie and (Gene) Larsen, and Kendra and (Lynn) Hemmert; and many aunts, uncles, nieces and nephews. Brett was preceded in death by his parents, Keith and Lila Turner.

A celebration of Brett's life will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 8, at Reynolds Funeral Chapel, 2466 Addison Ave. E. in Twin Falls.

It was Brett's wish that, in lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Brett Turner Memorial Fund at any Key Bank in Twin Falls. Contributions may be given to funeral chapel staff or mailed to Reynolds Funeral Chapel, P.O. Box 1142, Twin Falls, ID 83303.

Condolences and messages of support may be left for the family by visiting www.reynoldschapel.com.

Kallie Lou Tysdal Child

Feb. 18, 1944-Sept. 4, 2011

GOODING • Kallie Lou Tysdal Child, 67, passed away Sunday, Sept. 4, 2011, at her home in Gooding, Idaho, after battling ocular melanoma cancer.

She was born Feb. 18, 1944, in Belle Fourche, S.D., to Junior K and Martha Ann Evans Tysdal. She spent her childhood in the Black Hills of South Dakota. While there, she had many fond memories of playing with her older brother and sister and many cousins.

She moved to Provo, Utah, at the age 16 and graduated from Provo High School in 1962. She attended Brigham Young University in Provo, where she met Lawrence John Child when he "accidentally" bumped into her at the library. She graduated with a bachelor's degree in education with an emphasis on assisting the visually impaired in 1967. Kallie and Larry were married June 4, 1968, in Provo and sealed later that day in the Salt Lake LDS Temple. She followed Larry to dental school in Cleveland, Ohio, where their first son was born. After Larry graduated, the family relocated to Fort Riley, Kan., where he served as a dentist in the Army. During this time, she made wonderful friends and their family grew with the births of two more sons.

In 1973, they moved to Gooding, Idaho, and established a dental practice. Eventually, three daughters and two more sons joined the family. Kallie was busy but always willing to help in any capacity in the community and at church. When her children were in elementary school, she was an active participant in the PTA and as its president for two years. During this time, she often assisted in her children's classrooms as a room mother. Kallie worked at Green Acres Nursing Home and then as the office manager at Larry's dental office. She was an active member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, serving in the Primary with the children, Young Women's and many other callings. For 15 years, Kallie dedicated her time and heart in the Scouting program, where she helped many boys earn their Eagle Scout awards.

Kallie's most precious blessing was that she was a mother of eight children and 22-plus grandchildren. She is survived by her husband, Larry; and their children, Kayle (Heidi) Child of Nampa, Idaho, Kory (Bethany) Child of Springville, Utah, Kym (Kristi) Child of Hillsboro, Ore., Kaaryn Child of Aurora, Colo., Kelly (Robert) Himes of Oil City, Pa., Kerry (Andrei) Saveliev of Springville, Utah, Kevyn (Yvonne) Child of Orem, Utah, and Krys (Jeanna) Child of Sacramento, Calif.; and all of her grandchildren. Kallie is also survived by her mother, Martha Tysdal; and sister, Liz Ann (Ron) Vigoren, both of Provo, Utah. She was preceded in death by her father, Junior K Tysdal; and brother, Knute Tysdal.

The family would like to express gratitude for the loving care and support Kallie received at the North Canyon Medical Center, the wonderful medical team at the Huntsman Cancer Center, for Ginger and staff with Affinity Hospice, and Jeannie and staff with Alliance Hospice. We also appreciate the love that was shown to our family by our supportive community.

A viewing will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 9, and 9:45 to 10:45 a.m. prior to the service Saturday, Sept. 10, at Demaray's Funeral Chapel in Gooding. The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Gooding LDS Chapel, 1228 S. Main St. in Gooding. Interment will be at the Gooding Elmwood Cemetery following the service.

Memorial contributions may be made in Kallie's name to the Boy Scouts of America or a favorite charity. Condolences may be shared with the family by visiting the obituary link at www.demarayfuneralservice.com.

SENIOR

Q. Our aunt was recently placed in a nursing home. She was always a vital member of our family. We already feel a great loss.

A. Don't let this change of address change your aunt's role as an important member of your family! Encourage family and close friends to visit your aunt often. Family involvement - beginning with frequent visits by people who care - will benefit your aunt in so many ways as the days pass. As you get to know the facility and staff, you will find numerous ways to help make your aunt's new living arrangement the best that it can be. When is a good time to visit? Anytime that is comfortable for you and your aunt. For example, bedtime is quiet and peaceful, and you can help her get to sleep. Mealtimes are great to chat, and maybe you can offer some assistance. Leave a guest book in your aunt's room, and encourage her visitors to leave their thoughts and comments.

Washington pitcher Stephen Strasburg was in line for the win before the Nationals' bullpen blew a 3-0 lead against the Dodgers.

Strasburg Shows Off Old Form In His Return

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON • Stephen Strasburg allowed two hits over five shutout innings Tuesday night in his first major league start since undergoing Tommy John surgery, but the bullpen blew the lead as the Washington Nationals lost 7-3 to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The 2009 overall No. 1 draft pick again displayed the blurry fastball, the knee-buckling sinker and the fooled-again changeup that wowed the baseball world last year during his rookie season. Those magical days of “Strasmus” came to an abrupt end when his elbow popped on Aug. 21 in Philadelphia, and his long road back began when he had the now-familiar, career-saving ligament replacement surgery last Sept. 3.

The 23-year-old right-hander wound his way through six minor league rehab starts with four teams in four states over the last month, culminating with a majors return which was easily the most anticipated event of the season for a Nationals club trying to avoid a fourth consecutive last-place NL East finish.

Strasburg’s teammates, however, weren’t as cooperative as Mother Nature. He was set to get to win when he departed with a 3-0 lead, but the bullpen allowed the Dodgers to tie it in the sixth. Then even the weather gave up on the game, at least temporarily, as the rain returned in the seventh to force a 31-minute delay and empty the ballpark of all but a hardy few.

Rod Barajas’ two-run double in the eighth inning off Henry Rodriguez (3-3) put the Dodgers ahead for good.

Board of Regents prefers KU, K-State stay together

Kansas Board of Regents chairman Ed McKechnie told the AP in a phone interview that “our first hope is they stay together in the Big 12, and until something happens, I’m just not going to speculate on what else there could be.” The Big 12 has already lost Nebraska to the Big Ten and Colorado to the Pac-12, and Texas A&M has decided to leave with an eye toward the SEC.

POLLSTERS JUICE BRONCOS’ RANK

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

For a change, it wasn’t Boise State getting jumped in the rankings after a humblum blowout of a team from the Western Athletic Conference.

That honor went to Stanford, a 57-3 winner against San Jose State, which remained at No. 6 in the USA Today coaches’ poll, while Boise State moved from seventh to fifth after defeating Georgia 35-21. The margin between the Broncos and No. 4 Florida State is razor-thin, with the Seminoles holding just a one-point lead.

In the Associated Press Top 25, Boise State jumped one spot, from fifth to fourth, by virtue of No. 3 Oregon’s loss to No. 4 LSU. By winning the biggest game of college football’s opening weekend, LSU jumped to No. 2 in the AP poll, jumping SEC rival Alabama, which remains No. 2 in the coaches’ poll. Oklahoma remained a solid, but hardly unanimous, No. 1 team in both polls.

“It’s way too early to feel like we have accomplished anything,” LSU coach Les Miles said. “Our guys understand the need to improve each game.”

The Sooners received 32 of 60 first-place votes and 1,448 points. LSU received 17 first-place votes and 1,415 points.

Alabama had nine first-place votes, and two voters had No. 4 Boise State top-ranked. Florida State moved up to No. 5.

Oregon dropped nine spots to No. 13 and defending national champion Auburn, which started the season at No. 23, fell out of the Top 25 after needing a late rally to beat Utah State 42-38 at home.

The Tigers became just the second defending national champions since the preseason poll started in 1950 to fall out of the rankings after the first week of the season in the first regular-season poll — though the circumstances were far different the first time it happened.

Alabama, the 1964 AP champion, started the ‘65 season ranked No. 5. The Crimson Tide lost 18-17 to Georgia to open the season and dropped out, but the AP only ranked 10 teams that season. Alabama eventually returned to the Top 10 and won another national title.

Burley soccer player Angel Anguiano poses next to his brother Eduardo's five-year-old newspaper clippings in the hallway of Burley High School.

An Angel Among Us

Just like his older brothers, Anguiano looking to make a name for himself — and improve on a family legacy

BY RYAN HOWE

BURLEY — Angel Anguiano walks past it every day.

DaVinci had his Mona Lisa. Mozart had his symphonies. And Eduardo Anguiano has the Burley High School soccer pitch.

It’s a reminder of who he is and where he comes from.

...he can score at will. He can fill a net faster than a commercial fisherman... a player who probably changes in a phone booth rather than the locker room. More fitting would be for Anguiano to wear a big red “S” on his chest.

Five years after Eduardo Anguiano scored his milestone 100th goal, the newspaper clippings still hang in the school’s hallway.

To watch Anguiano play soccer is more than seeing an athlete perform. Rather, the Burley senior turns games into his masterpieces.

“That’s my favorite part,” Angel Anguiano says, reading the above lines out loud.

A sixth-grader at the time, Angel was sitting in the bleachers that day when Eduardo scored No. 100. His eyes filled up with tears because he knew how hard Eduardo had worked to achieve that goal.

In fact, he knew firsthand. Eduardo used to drag Angel to the park and make him play goalkeeper while he practiced banging the ball through.

“I didn’t think (Angel) was going to be a soccer player,” Eduardo says. “Growing up he didn’t look like the soccer-player type.”

In the Anguiano family, soccer is more than tradition. Including cousins, the family forms its own team in the local Mexican League. Eduardo is the oldest of nine sons by Jesus and Luz Elena Anguiano. Someday the family

Checkered Flag Flies Again For Gordon

ASSOCIATED PRESS

HAMPTON, Ga. • Jeff Gordon was sliding all over the track those final 10 laps, doing everything he could to hold off five-time defending champion Jimmie Johnson.

It was a thrilling display by two of the sport’s biggest stars, who drove the high-banked Atlanta Motor Speedway like it was nothing more than a little dirt track.

When Gordon held on at the end Tuesday, taking the checkered flag for his third win of the year and 85th of his career, there was little doubt he’ll be making a serious run at his fifth Cup title.

Ohhhh, we can’t wait for these two to go at it again in the Chase for the championship.

“I’ve been trying to step it up for 10 years,” Gordon said, referring to the decade he’s gone since the last of his four titles, a period when he ceded dominance to his teammate Johnson.

But the driver of the No. 24 car isn’t ready to fade away just yet. Spurred on by a new crew chief, Gordon is going through a career renaissance at age 40, already winning more races this season than he did the last three years combined. He’s certainly feeling good about his chances heading to the Chase, which begins after next weekend’s race at Richmond.

“I’m just excited to go to the race-track,” Gordon said. “It doesn’t matter where we go — our cars are competitive, we’re having a blast out there and I think we have more to come when the Chase starts.”

With his win in the rain-delayed AdvoCare 500, Gordon snapped a tie with Bobby Allison and Darrell Waltrip for third on the career victory list. Richard Petty (200) and David Pearson (105) are the only drivers in Cup history with more wins than Gordon.

Jarrod Saltalamacchia and Josh Reddick homered as the Red Sox matched a season-high with 20 hits.

Minnesota center fielder Joe Benson, in his major league debut, makes a dive for but can't catch a triple by Chicago's Alejandro De Aza in the fifth inning.

ST. LOUIS • Kyle Lohse threw six scoreless innings on eight days' rest and the Cardinals got home runs from Jon Jay and Matt Holliday in the third inning.

Lohse (13-8), who leads the Cardinals in victories, gave up four hits, struck out six and walked three. He was pushed back two days behind Chris Carpenter and Jake Westbrook after giving up four runs in five innings in a win against Pittsburgh in his last start.

Astros 4, Pirates 1

PITTSBURGH • Brett Myers pitched into the eighth inning to earn his first win in 2½ months, leading the Astros to the victory.

Myers (4-13) allowed one run and four hits over 7 2-3 innings at soggy, chilly PNC Park as last-place Houston snapped a four-game losing streak. The right-hander had lost seven consecutive decisions since he pitched a four-hitter in a 7-3 victory at the Los Angeles Dodgers on June 17.

Angel

hopes to form a team of just brothers, but that day is a ways off – the youngest twins are just six months old.

It hasn't always been easy for Angel, growing up in the Anguiano soccer shadow. People would ask if he wanted to be just like his brother.

"No," he would respond. "I want to be better than him."

First there was Eduardo, a pure forward who finished his record-shattering career with 120 goals. His right foot was so deadly he should have been required to carry a concealed weapons permit. Every time he touched the ball, an energy filled the crowd as everyone felt something special was about to happen. He played at Dodge City (Kan.) Community College, went to play in Mexico for a year and is now back in Burley working and going to school.

Then there was Woody, the crafty midfielder. He ran the show. Woody's spectacular field vision and his ability to make pinpoint passes cause Burley coach Wes Nyblade to compare him to John Stockton. Woody is currently playing at Treasure Valley Community College.

"Eduardo and Woody always pushed me and encouraged me," Angel says. "That's what made be a better player."

Now it's Angel's turn – and skill-wise he's nothing like his older brothers.

"Angel is more of a physical presence," Nyblade said. "He commands by his physicality and his drive. And he runs probably harder than either of those two. Angel's game is to get in and mix it up and let people know he's there. Angel has the intangibles. He's got the desire to win and he's a big-time competitor."

Eduardo agrees, saying, "He's become really tough, someone hard to beat. As an opponent I wouldn't like to go against him."

Angel Anguiano has a motor that doesn't quit and a toughness that allows him to also excel as a varsity wrestler. He's always around the ball, but sometimes tries to do too much. It's a balance that Nyblade is trying to find – letting Angel be Angel while getting the other players to adapt and rotate.

Nyblade says the brothers have a few things in common: their drive, competitiveness and team-first attitude. And all have been team captains, even Angel, despite being only a junior.

"It kind of feels weird because usually you have the seniors, so you kind of back off. But the difference between our team and other teams is it doesn't matter if you're captain or not, we all help each other," said Angel Anguiano, who shares captain duties with senior fullback Callin Christensen. "Everyone on our team is captain. We motivate each other to play hard."

In his 18 years as coach, Nyblade said Angel Anguiano is only his second underclassman captain. It's an honor and responsibility that neither the coach nor the player takes lightly.

"He's the heart and soul of this team," Nyblade said.

Angel Anguiano hopes to accomplish something neither brother could do: Win a state championship.

"Right now we're a decent team," he says. "By the end of the season we're hoping to make a state team. That's what our goal is."

He pauses every time he walks past his brother's newspaper clippings in the Burley High hallway.

"It feels so cool," Angel says. "You don't want to brag about it, but you're like, 'This guy's a stud. He's my brother.'"

Just as Angel looks up to Eduardo and Woody, the younger Anguiano siblings look up to Angel.

"Don't try to be me," Angel tells them. "Be yourself and be better."

Polls

The 1961 Minnesota team is the only defending champion to be unranked in the preseason poll.

Moving into this week's rankings were No. 20 Baylor, which beat TCU 50-48, and No. 22 South Florida, 23-20 winners at Notre Dame.

"When you look at it, the one that I'm most concerned about is the last one," Bulls coach Skip Holtz said. "After the end of the year we'll talk about the rankings and all that because that's the only time it really matters. So what we've got to do right now is just focus on what we've got to do on a day-to-day basis."

Also ranked for the first time this season were No. 23 Penn State and No. 24 Texas. The Longhorns started the season unranked for the first time since 1998.

Penn State moves into the rankings ahead of Saturday's home game against third-ranked Alabama. It's the only game this week matching ranked teams.

TCU dropped 11 spots to No. 25.

Notre Dame and Georgia tumbled out of the Top 25 after losses. Like Auburn, Southern California, which opened the season ranked 25th, fell out of the rankings after a victory.

USC squeaked by Minnesota 19-17.

The rest of the top 10 had No. 6 Stanford, followed by Texas A&M, Wisconsin, Oklahoma State and Nebraska.

No. 11 is Virginia Tech, followed by South Carolina, Oregon, Arkansas and Ohio State.

No. 16 Mississippi State and No. 18 Florida give the Southeastern Conference six ranked teams this week, matching the Big 12 for the most. No. 21 Missouri, joins Oklahoma, Texas A&M, Oklahoma State, Baylor and Texas.

The Big Ten has five ranked teams, with No. 17 Michigan State joining Wisconsin, Nebraska, Penn State and Ohio State.

No. 19 West Virginia and USF give the Big East two teams in the Top 25. The Atlantic Coast Conference (Florida State and Virginia Tech), the Pac-12 (Stanford and Oregon) and the Mountain West (Boise State and TCU) also have two ranked teams.

NFL NOTES

Jaguars Release QB Garrard

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. • David Garrard lost his starting job the same way he got it: Just days before the season opener and in stunning fashion.

The Jacksonville Jaguars released Garrard on Tuesday, making a “pure football decision” that will save the franchise $9 million in 2011.

Whether it saves coach Jack Del Rio's job remains to be seen. Team owner Wayne Weaver has said Jacksonville needs to make the playoffs for Del Rio to stick around for a 10th season.

Del Rio made it clear late last season that he had grown tired of Garrard's inconsistent ways, but the coach remained steadfast through training camp and the preseason that Garrard was his starter. That changed Tuesday, when the Jaguars parted ways with Garrard after nine up-and-down seasons.

“He just couldn't get it going,” said Del Rio, who added that the team didn't try to trade Garrard. “I had met with him a couple of weeks ago and brought him in and said, ‘Hey, listen, you're my guy. I need you to get it going.’ He was given every opportunity. He was somewhat apologetic that he wasn't able to deliver.”

Del Rio turned the starting job over to Luke McCown, who outplayed Garrard and rookie Blaine Gabbert in the preseason. Playing mostly with and against second- and third-teamers, McCown completed 12 of 18 passes for 133 yards, with two touchdowns, no interceptions and no sacks.

Garrard didn't return phone or text messages seeking comment, but he thanked fans on his Twitter feed.

“Thank you jaguar fans for an awesome ride! You are the best fans ever,” he wrote. “You'll always have a special place in my heart and my family's heart!”

Broncos

Denver second-year wide receiver Demaryius Thomas is participating in his first practice since tearing an Achilles tendon during off-season workouts in Atlanta in February.

Thomas was expected to start the season on the physically unable to perform list and rejoin the team in October. But he showed enough progress in individual workouts during the preseason for the Broncos to put him on their 53-man roster.

but had to back off to keep from putting his car in the wall. Gordon pulled away to win by 0.598 seconds.

“I'm so glad I grew up racing on dirt,” Johnson said. “I could have spun out four or five times at the end.”

The defending champ isn't going to give up his unprecedented title run without a fight. In fact, he moved past Kyle Busch to take the top spot in the season standings, so he's still the one everyone's chasing even with only one win this year.

“We're having a terrible year,” Johnson quipped. “The reality is we have a lot to be proud of. ... We know we have a very good chance of winning the championship.”

Tony Stewart was feeling a lot better about his chances after making up more than 8

Klinsmann Still Absent U.S. Win

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BRUSSELS • The U.S. national soccer team lost to Belgium 1-0 Tuesday, leaving Jurgen Klinsmann without a win in three games since he was hired as the Americans' coach.

This was the first road game for the U.S. since Klinsmann came aboard. The Americans earlier tied Mexico and lost to Costa Rica.

Nicolas Lombaerts' half volley in the 55th minute was the only goal in an exhibition game dominated by the Belgians on the rain-soaked field.

“It was an interesting game for both sides,” Klinsmann said. “For the first 25 minutes the U.S. had a good passing game going, but then the individual Belgian class started to show. The players have learned a lot from the game.”

Klinsmann, a former German star and coach, is looking to assemble the players who will play in the World Cup qualifiers that start next June. He pointed to such promising players as Juan Agudelo, Jose Torres, Brek Shea and Timmy Chandler.

An inexperienced U.S. team rarely threatened, and second-half substitutes Agudelo and Kyle Beckerman did little to energize play.

Still, the Americans had their best chance five minutes before the end. A mid-field cross found its way to Edu, who headed the ball past Mignolet. But the referee disallowed the goal because Clarence Goodson was ruled to have handled the ball inside the box.

“I totally forgot about that,” said Gordon, who received a special plaque from NASCAR during the victory ceremony in front of the main grandstand. “Eighty-five, wow! That is unbelievable. With the kind of day we had, the kind of year we're having, I feel rejuvenated.”

He sure earned this win. Johnson put his No. 48 car in front of Gordon's Chevrolet a couple of times but couldn't hold on through the corners. At the end, with both drivers racing as hard as they could on fading tires, their cars came close to getting sideways several times.

Johnson made one last run for the lead on the final lap,

REPORTER

South-central Idaho's best and largest news provide seeks a reporter to dig deep into the intersection of people and policy to consistently bring our readers the stories they'll keep talking about.

The beat is an eight-county area from which the right candidate will sniff out the best stories from both rural and urban settings. Tasks will range from rooting out the reasons behind utility increases that hit thousands of pocketbooks to profiling a thinning group of Pearl Harbor attack survivors who call the area home.

The ideal candidate will be equal parts humanist, self-promoter and policy wonk, able to hold court with county prosecutors and rodeo queens alike. Desk jockeys should look elsewhere, as success here will be won with many handshakes and the ideas gleaned after—not through a slew of phone calls.

The reporter's primary responsibility will be to find and develop six snappy enterprise stories per week and pitch in on other beats when needed, such as when our government reporter is covering the annual state legislative session in Boise.

Twin Falls is home to 44,000 residents and serves as the cultural and economic hub of south-central Idaho. Year-round outdoor recreation abounds, both in the Snake River Canyon and in the surrounding mountains. You'll work with a vibrant, growing group of journalists committed to producing Idaho's best news product.

Competitive candidates should have a bachelor's degree in journalism or a related field. Prior journalism experience is preferred. Please include a cover letter, resume and three work samples that show your versatility as a reporter and writer. The successful candidate must have a valid driver's license and a good driving record.

DEAR ABBY: My son's girlfriend is pregnant. I think there is a chance it may not be his, although she claims it is. "Ben" met "Christy," and a little over a week later she announced she was pregnant. She's now 34 weeks into the pregnancy.

I have asked him repeatedly if he is sure the baby is his and he says yes, but the math doesn't seem right to me. I have suggested Ben seek a paternity test, but I don't think he's going to take my advice.

I am not the only person who is questioning this, and I feel terrible for having the doubt. He has asked Christy to marry him and she accepted. I couldn't believe it. They were going to marry that same month, but when Ben mentioned a prenuptial agreement to protect the real estate and other property he owns (and that I'm financially involved in), Christy blew up! She just about kicked Ben to the curb. Now, thankfully, the wedding is postponed. Christy's overboard reaction has added to my suspicion. What do you think, Abby?

— SUSPICIOUS DAD
IN RHODE ISLAND

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR DAD: I agree that before your son marries Christy, everything should be out in the open. Regardless of whose child she is carrying, your son may be in love with her and it may not matter to him. If the child is indeed his, a paternity test would lay any doubts to rest.

That said, I spoke with my gynecologist and asked how long after conception it would take for a pregnancy to show up in a test, and was told the answer is one week AFTER A WOMAN'S PERIOD IS LATE. For Ben not to insist on having a prenuptial agreement under these circumstances would be a mistake, and I hope he will reconsider.

DEAR ABBY: My mother died suddenly three years ago and my sister overdosed a year later. I didn't know she was so depressed.

Her son, "Jordan," is the joy of my life. Every time I watch him, all I can think of is "Why?" Why did my sister choose to leave us alone? I don't know how to move on when I look at Jordan and think of my sister. Please help.

DEAR LEFT: Please accept my deepest sympathy for the multiple losses you have suffered. Although you feel left alone by your sister's suicide, the truth is you are NOT alone. In the United States, millions of people's lives have been touched by suicide — whether it was that of a colleague, friend or a family member. That you are reminded of your sister when you see your nephew is a normal reaction.

When your sister overdosed, she may have been acting on impulse and trying to end what she perceived to be intolerable psychic pain. Please contact the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention. Among the many programs it offers is a listing of local support groups for survivors. The website is www.afsp.org; the phone number is (888) 333-2377.

Author Eric Marcus has written an excellent book on this subject, "Why Suicide?" published by Harper One. He, like you, is a survivor of suicide, and you may find the answers you're looking for by reading it.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

"World is crazier and more of it than we think, Incurrigibly plural."

— Louis Macneice

What do you think the result of a heart contract for North-South might be in this deal? With trumps 4-0 and a foul spade break, it seems you would be struggling in game however you play it, but appearances are sometimes deceptive.

Both tables in a USA-Netherlands match competed to five hearts, and were doubled. When Bob Hamman and I were defending, Hamman led a club. Declarer took the ace in dummy and played a heart to the king, followed by the diamond ace. I ruffed, cashed my top trumps, then exited with a spade. Hamman won the ace and thoughtfully continued with a diamond, breaking up any pressure in the endgame and collecting two more spade tricks for a penalty of 800.

By contrast, in the other room our teammate Richard Freeman won the club ace and chose to play a heart to the jack. Such a small difference, but now he could advance the spade king from hand, covered and ruffed, then lead a second heart from dummy. With the defenders' spade communication cut, all East could do was win his ace and play a second spade. Freeman took the queen and played the heart king and another heart; East got his two trump tricks, but had only clubs left to lead. Freeman ruffed and led his last trump, and West was painfully squeezed in spades and diamonds. Whatever he did, declarer had the rest, for plus 850 and 17 IMPs to the USA!

ANSWER: You may not want to make a call, but the laws demand it. You cannot pass, because your partner's bid is forcing, and repeating such a feeble diamond suit seems wrong. Since a bid of four clubs would be a cue-bid for spades, and you would rather have slightly better spades for that action, bid three no-trump, and let the chips fall where they may.

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 7, the 250th day of 2011. There are 115 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On Sept. 7, 1964, the controversial "Daisy" commercial, an ad for President Lyndon B. Johnson's election campaign, aired on NBC-TV. (In the spot, footage of a little girl in a meadow plucking the petals of a flower is overtaken by a countdown leading to a nuclear explosion.)

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1533, England's Queen Elizabeth I was born in Greenwich.

In 1825, the Marquis de Lafayette, the French hero of the American Revolution, bade farewell to President John Quincy Adams at the White House.

In 1892, James J. Corbett knocked out John L. Sullivan to win the world heavyweight crown in New Orleans in a fight conducted under the Marquess of Queensberry rules.

In 1907, the British liner RMS Lusitania set out from Liverpool, England, on its maiden voyage, arriving six days later in New York.

In 1936, rock legend Buddy Holly was born Charles Hardin Holley in Lubbock, Texas.

In 1940, Nazi Germany began its eight-month blitz of Britain during World War II with the first air attack on London.

In 1968, feminists protested outside the Miss America pageant in Atlantic City, N.J. (The pageant crown went to Miss Illinois Judith Ford.)

In 1977, the Panama Canal treaties, calling for the U.S. to eventually turn over control of the waterway to Panama, were signed in Washington by President Jimmy Carter and Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos.

In 1986, Desmond Tutu was installed as the first black to lead the Anglican Church in southern Africa.

In 1996, rapper Tupac Shakur was shot and mortally wounded on the Las Vegas Strip; he died six days later.

Ten years ago: White House budget chief Mitch Daniels warned top congressional Republicans the Social Security surplus was on track to be tapped for other programs, prompting a hastily called meeting to discuss ways of avoiding that politically perilous scenario. Venus Williams and Serena Williams reached the finals of the U.S. Open, defeating Jennifer Capriati and Martina Hingis respectively, becoming the first sisters to play for a Grand Slam championship in more than 100 years.

Five years ago: British Prime Minister Tony Blair gave in to a fierce revolt in his Labour Party and reluctantly promised to quit within a year. Former Deputy Secretary of State Richard Armitage confirmed he was the source of a leak that had disclosed the identity of CIA employee Valerie Plame, saying he didn't realize Plame's job was covert.

One year ago: A Chinese fishing trawler and two Japanese patrol boats collided near disputed islands in the East China Sea, further straining relations between Beijing and Tokyo. Lucius Walker, 80, who'd led an annual pilgrimage of aid volunteers to Cuba in defiance of the nearly half century U.S. trade embargo, died in New York.

IF SEPTEMBER 7 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Big changes and are just around the corner and your year ahead may prove exhilarating. You could make major mistakes in October, just when you aren't at your best, so keep a low profile, don't borrow money, and avoid controversy. In February, the cosmic tides turn in a happier direction and a new romance might brighten your life. Helpful people, wise advice, and some lucky breaks are very likely to offer you a leg up on the ladder of success next April.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Fight fire with fire. A show of enthusiasm will strike a harmonious chord with a significant other in your life. Get important business matters tended to early in the day so you can smooch tonight.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Spin your wheels in the right direction. You may be dismayed by a sense of vagueness or authority figures may seem wishy-washy about protecting your interests, but you don't necessarily go backwards.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Bow to brevity. A few well-placed words will do much more good than a spate of elaborate oratory. Peacemaking efforts will serve to improve a situation by the beginning of next week.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Carry on and carry through on contracts and agreements. Ignore brief vague inkings of misapprehension or worry. Your bank account can move ahead into the black if you play your cards right.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Adopt a yoga pose. Your spiritual side thrives under these celestial conditions, but increased sensitivity to the environment can also make this a time to avoid unhappy people and unpleasant surroundings.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): When you have doubts, it is time to give someone the benefit of the doubt. You may not be clear about someone's intentions, and vice versa, under these stars. Wait a few days to complete negotiations.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Every ballerina knows you must stay on your toes. An ability to think and act with a creative flair is enhanced. Write down inspirations and key ideas, as they may be useful at some future juncture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Pay homage to the gods of generosity. Some business contacts may seem somewhat fuzzy around the edges or vague about details. Be generous with praise and forgive others for lack of clarity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get the glasses. If you read between the lines, you end up seeing a completely different paragraph. Communication errors can engender misunderstandings. Don't read in more than is meant.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If you are lavishly lenient, you will make a lucky landing. A bit of compassion can work magic on sticky situations and cranky people. Advertise your best qualities to gain recognition.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Group efforts that benefit the community or a charity may bring you recognition. Avoid signing contracts or getting involved in anything that might fall within the gray areas of ethical behavior.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You may have unfounded fears. You may harbor a concern that too many ears are connected to too many mouths. Put your important plans on the back burner until confidence returns to a high point.

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.
