Many Factors in Low CSI Grad Rates

College of Southern Idaho students Mason Goodman and Lexa Murphy study microbiology on Monday at the school. CSI is working to increase its graduation rate, which Complete College America says is the lowest in the state.

BY JULIE WOOTTON
jwootton@magicvalley.com

The College of Southern Idaho has the lowest graduation rate in the state.

CSI officials say that the numbers don’t accurately reflect community colleges, but they also acknowledge that there’s room to improve.

About 18 percent of first-time, full-time students who enroll at CSI graduate within three years, according to the U.S. Department of Education.

“When we look at this graduation rate, there’s no question that we need to graduate more students than we do,” Beck said. “We need to do a better job.”

The college’s graduation rate was included in a report released last week by Complete College America, a national nonprofit organization working to increase the number of Americans who earn a college degree.

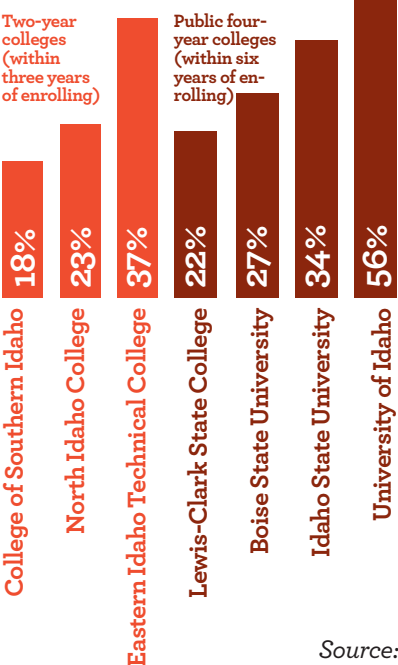

Beck said the system of tracking graduation rates is broken and isn’t an accurate measure of what goes on at colleges.

The vast majority of CSI students are enrolled part-time and aren’t factored into the statistic. The college’s overall headcount is 8,700 students, but only 800-900 are enrolled full-time.

CSI Advising Center Director Cesar Perez said comparing CSI’s graduation rates to other campuses is like “comparing apples to oranges” because CSI has so many part-time students.

Flu Season Already?

With this year's flu vaccine available unusually early, area health officials are encouraging the public to take advantage of it. If you live in a city, however, you may have to turn to a pharmacy such as Walgreens rather than seek a shot from the local health district.

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
lkruesi@magicvalley.com

The beginning of October kicks off the start of influenza season, and, according to health officials, the time to get your vaccination is now.

“This flu season is pretty routine,” said Rene LeBlanc, director for the South Central Public Health District. “There is no new strain. We’re using the same vaccine as last year.”

While the vaccine hasn’t changed, the shot was made available abnormally early, LeBlanc said. Normally, shots are distributed in October but this year the shot was on hand in early September.

“The shot will carry over for the entire season,” he said. “So now we have people covered for a longer period of time.”

This year, the SCPHD ordered 2,500 vaccinations, less than half of what it normally orders, said

JEROME FD COULD TAKE POINT ON REGIONAL EMERGENCY TEAM

Jerome’s fire department pulled out in May, but it’s considering coming back if teamwork, finances and training can be worked out.

BY BEN BOTKIN
bbotkin@magicvalley.com

The Jerome Fire Department could end up taking the lead role in a regional emergency team it walked away from in May, following concerns about equipment and safety.

Jerome Fire Chief Mike Hatfield said he has told the Magic Valley Emergency Response Team that he’s open to the idea of the city’s fire department taking an active role in running the program. If that ends up happening, it would be the latest twist for MVERT, which responds to hazardous materials incidents in an eight-county region of south-central Idaho.

Hatfield said that a lot would still need to fall into place. For example, he would need the Jerome City Council’s blessing, an agreement with MVERT, more details on training and a sustainable financial plan.

MVERT representatives, meanwhile, plan to give a presentation to

TWIN FALLS NEARS APPROVAL OF KNIEVEL JUMP SITE TRANSFER

BY BEN BOTKIN

In a way, Twin Falls has Evel Knievel to thank for its claim to fame.

For better or worse, the famous daredevil put an obscure Idaho city on the map in 1974 when he made his famous but failed attempt to jump the Snake River Canyon in what was essentially a small rocket.

The Twin Falls City Council took a step toward preserving a piece of its daredevil heritage on Monday.

The council held a public hearing needed to complete a long-planned land transfer — putting a 6.71-acre parcel of land holding Knievel’s jump site into city hands.

In exchange for the land, the city is giving a 10.3-acre parcel of land along the canyon rim north of Hankins Road North to the Utah developer who owns the jump site. The developer has also agreed to build paved access streets into the city’s gun range.

The city will also secure access to the jump site that it can use for a road and parking area in the future. And the deal will allow the trail along the canyon to tie in with the jump site.

the Jerome City Council at its meeting today. Bill Allred, chairman of the MVERT executive committee, wouldn't say what, exactly, the presentation will encompass.

"I just don't want to put all that stuff out before we meet," Allred said.

Hatfield said any leadership role Jerome takes with the response team would need support from team participants throughout the region, adding that teamwork is crucial for success.

"We can't do it alone," Hatfield said.

On March 30, Hatfield wrote a letter to Jerome city officials listing concerns about MVERT, such as a disregard for national training standards, limited participation, poorly maintained equipment,

The city later pulled out of MVERT in May, shortly after a Jerome firefighter was injured when a loose fitting broke off an air compressor owned by MVERT. Though the injury was minor, the potential for "catastrophic damage" was great, Hatfield wrote in a May 11 memo to city leaders.

immunization coordinator Lisa Klamm. Previously, the health district had a surplus at the end of the flu season and was forced to throw the remaining supplies away.

The district also ordered less because more retail stores are providing the shot. According to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, retail pharmacies like Walgreens are the second most popular location to receive a flu shot.

This flu season, the SCPHD has focused its immunization efforts on distributing shots in rural areas, where access to shots may be low.

"If you live in a metro area, we are letting private businesses provide the shot," LeBlanc said.

Where a person goes to get their immunization doesn't matter, but earlier is usually better, Klamm said.

"It's all about who meets your needs," she said. "If you prefer to get your shot at Walgreens, then do it there. Overall, it's just important to be healthy and value yourself enough to take care of you."

Who Should Get a Shot?

- The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends anyone over the age of 6 should get a flu shot.
- The CDC also classifies those who are pregnant, over the age of 50 or have a mental condition as "high risk" and should receive a shot to lower medical risks the flu can trigger.

Get the Shot (or Not)

If you want one • The SCPHD encourages the public to get a flu shot as early as possible. The district's flu distribution schedule is available at www.phd5.idaho.gov.

No shot for you? However, if you prefer not to get the shot, the SCPHD suggests covering your cough, frequently washing your hands and distancing yourself from those who are sick.

Today, the jump site is largely just a mound of dirt that was once the launching ramp.

But the city has plans for it, though much awaits to be worked out. Mitch Humble, the city's community development director, said the general concept is to eventually turn the area into a visitor park.

Yet to be determined are specifics such as its funding.

The hearing, which didn't require a vote, allows Humble to move forward with getting the paperwork finished. A final vote at a later date will deed the land to the city.

Then, the city will have its famous mound of dirt – and the memories that come with it. Councilman Trip Craig remembers watching the jump from the roof of his house as an 8-year-old.

"That was the biggest thing to ever come to Twin Falls," he said. "We were like New York City!"

TWO DIE IN CASSIA COUNTY TRUCK CRASH

Driver and passenger of sugar beet truck die after colliding with cows and trees.

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • Two people were killed Saturday east of Declo

when a Transystems truck loaded with sugar beets hit cows in the road – causing the driver to lose control and crash into some trees.

The driver, John O. Tolman, 68, of Heyburn, and his passenger, Cynthia I. McVey, 33, of Fernley, Nev., were both killed in the crash.

According to a press release issued by the Cassia County Sheriff's Office, Tolman struck cows that were in the road at State Highway 81 and 1050 East Road. When Tolman hit the cows he lost control of the truck and the vehicle left the road, striking some trees.

The cows belonged to Steven J. Durfee of Declo, according to the release.

Cassia County Undersheriff George Warrell said Monday that the accident remained under investigation. The sheriff's report on the matter was not yet available.

Juvenile Justice Funding Streamlined

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • Changes in the way juvenile corrections funding is distributed have created more paperwork, but the shift allows counties to make more-instant decisions.

Idaho Juvenile Justice Commission Region 5 Liaison Bev Ashton said a surprise decision by the Idaho Legislature last year resulted in a change in the way $20 million was managed. The money, marked for juvenile justice substance use disorder services, was previously managed by the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare.

The fund was cut in half, but the resulting $10 million was redistributed. The adult department of corrections received $6 million, juvenile corrections received $4 million and courts got $2 million.

"It is working much better," Dixie Tate, juvenile chief probation officer in Mini-Cassia, told Cassia County officials on Monday.

The department used to go through phone calls and a screening process in order to get juvenile services approved. Now, it has control of its own money, although it has created more paperwork for the department, Tate said.

"We're telling them we want an assessment on this issue. And allowing that to happen gives us more control about what is being done with our money, who is receiving services in our county and we follow up with accountability. It's just a better way of doing business," Tate said.

New judicial building • Cassia County Administrator Kerry McMurray opened eight submissions from architects interested in designing the county's new judicial building. The members of the building design committee will meet and review the submissions and rank them in order of preference. The county commissioners plan to choose the architect during a meeting Oct. 17.

Ambulance contract • Cassia County commissioners also opted to put the county's ambulance contract out to bid. It terminates at the end of the year.

Climbing ban • The commissioners discussed the U.S. Bureau of Land Management's proposal for a closure to hiking and rock climbing adjacent to Masacre Rocks and Castle Rocks. McMurray said the closure is related to Native American cultural resources. "I don't have a problem protecting that but I don't think you can throw everything else out," McMurray said. "It's management by not managing it, just shutting it down."

RECREATION DISTRICT PASSES 2012 BUDGET

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • The Oregon Trail Recreation District approved a $160,452 budget for the 2012 fiscal year Monday.

The budget included expenses of $3,000 in professional and legal fees – the remaining $157,452 will be used for recreational purposes in the district. Each home in the district is charged a fee of $36 per year.

Residents questioned whether the district had followed proper procedures by notifying the county of its budget.

Oregon Trail Recreation District President Scott Horsley said copies of the budget were available, but it may have been an oversight that they were not available at the city office.

Horsley said if the recreation district's attorney determines the procedures were incorrect, the meeting will be reposted and held again.

The district's expenses are designated in a lump sum because of the nature of the recreation district, Horsley said. Many of the projects depend on permits and grants and if they do not come through that particular year, the money is reallocated.

"It's been pretty much lumped into recreational improvements because we don't know what requests will come in. Each one of those is reviewed in our public meetings," Horsley said.

College of Southern Idaho student Andrea Hicks walks through campus on Monday. CSI is working to increase its graduation rate, which Complete College America says is the lowest in the state.

Grad Rates

Many are parents, have jobs or have limited funding or family support and can't take a full load of classes, he said.

The Complete College America study shows 34 percent of young adults between ages 25 and 34 in Idaho have an associate's degree or higher. An estimated 63 percent of jobs statewide by 2020 will require a career certificate or college degree.

Perez said the number of required credits in order to earn an associate's degree, usually 64, can make it challenging for even full-time students at CSI to finish in a timely manner.

Also, students who have to take remedial or basic skills classes can get behind since those classes don't count for credit.

Marian Steel, director of the Adult Basic Education program, works with non-traditional students ages 16 and older who are working to improve basic reading, writing or math skills. There's also six levels of English as a Second Language classes.

Many of the students who take the basic classes don't go on to enroll in regular CSI classes, Steel said. She estimated that only 100-200 students out of about 2,000 will continue on with their education.

The college recently received a grant to hire a college success facilitator, who helps students in the program transition into taking regular college classes.

In order to encourage students to finish their degree, college officials are also working to accommodate student schedules through Saturday classes and longer hours for campus services.

Man Injured When Car Rolls On Him

TIMES-NEWS

A Twin Falls man was injured on Saturday when his car rolled over him in a Walmart parking lot.

Twin Falls police responded to witness calls around 1:15 p.m. that Rusel Katee, 37, was pinned under his car.

Katee was working underneath his vehicle when it rolled over him, said Sgt. Dennis Pullin of the Twin Falls Police Department. Police then transported Katee to St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center.

Katee was no longer a patient at the medical center as of Monday.

Police do not know what caused the vehicle to move but are still looking over the details of the situation before releasing any more information, Pullin said.

College's HVAC/R Program Receives Certification

TIMES-NEWS

The College of Southern Idaho's HVAC/R program is now the first state to receive national accreditation.

The air conditioning, heating, refrigeration and heating technology program recently received a six-year accreditation from HVAC Excellence with a number of commendations.

Accreditation helps assure employers that students are properly trained, and students benefit in the knowledge that credits through the program will be transferable to other schools.

Program instructor David Wyett said getting accredited was a nine-month process. After the college submitted a self-study, two accreditors conducted an on-site visit at the end of August.

He said employment opportunities are still good for HVAC technicians and they can pursue jobs in many fields. Wyett is one of 30 instructors in the United States and Canada who is certified as a master HVAC/R educator.

TWIN FALLS COUNCIL APPROVES AUGER FALLS LAND TRANSFER

BY BEN BOTKIN
bbotkin@magicvalley.com

It's been years in the making, and now the land is in city hands.

The Twin Falls City Council on Monday approved an agreement that puts about 161 acres in the Snake River Canyon formerly owned by the U.S. Bureau of Land Management into the city's fold.

It was a long-awaited, final step to construct the city's Auger Falls Heritage Park, which increases to about 680 acres with the land transfer.

The park has 3.3 miles of Snake River frontage.

The culmination of years of work even brought retired city manager Tom Courtney to the council meeting. He was manager in 2002, when the city bought about 520 acres for $1.3 million to build a park and a water treatment facility.

Courtney said the council was forward-looking in that time.

"I think that was a very gutsy decision," he said.

U.S. Rep. Mike Simpson, R-Idaho, had a hand in getting legislation through that deeded the BLM property to the city. U.S. Sen. Mike Crapo, R-Idaho, helped shepherd the bill through in his chamber.

The transaction was complex because the BLM property consisted of four separate parcels scattered throughout the area.

Monday's vote was unanimous, with council members Will Kezele and Rebecca Mills Sojka absent.

'Low and Fast' Air Show Coming to Magic Valley

BY BEN BOTKIN
bbotkin@magicvalley.com

The U.S. Navy Blue Angels will return to the Magic Valley in 2012, and already more than 100 volunteers have signed up to assist with the air show.

It's the second local visit for the aerial performers in recent years — they performed at the Air Magic Valley show in 2008. Jim O'Donnell, chairman of the air show, gave the Twin Falls City Council an update on Monday.

O'Donnell listed several reasons why the Blue Angels are returning to a community this size just a few years later: the hospitality, patriotism of the region and they love the airport, which has a configuration that allows them to fly "low and fast."

This time around, the planners have had more than a year to get ready for the July 28-29 air show. In 2008, it was put together in about six months.

Spectator aircraft events have gained scrutiny in recent weeks, after a World War II-era racing aircraft crashed nose-first into spectators at an air race in Reno, Nev., last month, killing 11.

O'Donnell said it's important to remember the distinction between air races and air shows. In air races, the planes travel in an oval shape, he said, with curves in the pattern of travel.

Air shows, by comparison, are more like a drag race with a straighter path of travel — one centered less on the audience.

"The safety part of it is built right in," he said.

INFANT INJURED IN JEROME COUNTY CRASH IMPROVES

TIMES-NEWS

An infant injured in a crash last week in northern Jerome County is now in stable condition, while the driver at fault has been cited for inattentive driving, according to the Idaho State Police.

The baby and two other people were injured Sept. 27 in a collision between a hay hauler and a Chevrolet Cavalier. According to ISP, Zaira Cervantes, 24, of Jerome, was driving the Cavalier south on U.S. Highway 93 when he slowed to turn west onto 200 North Road in Jerome County. Jose Quadros, 68, of Wendell, was behind Cervantes in the hay truck and struck the Cavalier.

Cervantes and Aldo Arwalo-Gonzalez, 26, of Jerome, were both injured and taken to St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center in Twin Falls. The infant, in Cervantes' car, was taken by air ambulance to Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise.

Cervantes and Arwalo-Gonzalez are no longer patients at St. Luke's.

Quadros will be arraigned in Jerome County 5th District Court on Oct. 17, according to online court records.

The Idaho Department of Environmental Quality is asking for public comment on a plan to clean up a contaminated site.

The Twin Falls cleanup site was tainted with chlorinated solvents from a former dry cleaning business. The property is currently vacant and located at 201 2nd Ave. West in Twin Falls.

The work plan contains guidance on how to clean up the site. The preferred method would be a combination of soil vapor extraction and chemical oxidation.

A draft of the plan is available for review online at the Twin Falls Regional Office, 1363 Fillmore St. or at the Twin Falls Public Library, 204 4th Ave. East. It is also available online at www.deq.idaho.gov.

T.F. MAN ARRESTED FOR HAVING NEARLY 400 GRAMS OF POT

TIMES-NEWS

A Twin Falls man faces two felony drug charges after police say they found nearly 400 grams of marijuana in his home.

Rusty Don Flinn, 33, was arraigned Monday on one charge each of possession of a controlled substance and possession of more than three ounces of marijuana, both felonies.

According to court records, Twin Falls police were sent to Flinn's home, at 902 Commercial Ave., to investigate drug activity there. Given permission to search the house, officers reportedly found a grocery bag holding 386 grams of marijuana and a baggie with methamphetamine residue. Flinn also reportedly directed police to several pipes, and told them how to make hash out of marijuana after the officers found hash on a small refrigerator.

Flinn reportedly has several past drug convictions, and has fled between states in the past to avoid probation, according to the police report.

He was released from the Twin Falls County Jail on Monday on $2,500 bond. His next court appearance will be a preliminary hearing on Oct. 14.

T.F. Man Charged with Gas Station Theft

TIMES-NEWS

Police say a Twin Falls man stole cigarettes from a convenience store, then was found concealing large knives and drugs when an officer caught up with him.

Joshua Aaron Cossey, 29, was arraigned Monday on charges of possession of a controlled substance and grand theft, both felonies, and possession of a concealed weapon.

According to court records, the theft happened Wednesday evening at the Oasis Stop 'N Go convenience store at 515 Washington St. N. A man came into the store and asked the clerk for some butane.

According to the clerk, while she stepped into the back to get the butane, the man stepped behind the store counter, took a box of cigarettes and then left the store. The man later came back inside the store for a short time, according to surveillance video.

The box held about 30 cartons of cigarettes and was valued at $1,300, court records state.

The clerk at the store later learned that a man named

Josh was selling cigarettes for $10 per carton and reported the situation to police on Saturday, telling officers that a friend of hers planned to meet the man near the Depot Grill in downtown Twin Falls.

A Twin Falls police officer met the clerk in the area and was told that Cossey, walking near Fourth Avenue West and Fairfield Street, matched the description of the thief. In the course of speaking with Cossey, the officer allegedly discovered a knife about nine inches long concealed under Cossey's shirt, another nine-inch-long knife in Cossey's right front pocket, and several drug-related items in other pockets, including a scale, butane torch, clear glass pipe with 8.6 grams of methamphetamine and plastic bag with .7 grams of meth.

Cossey remained in the Twin Falls County Jail Monday on $2,500 bond. He has pleaded not guilty to the concealed weapon charge, which he next faces a Nov. 15 pretrial for. He also has an Oct. 14 preliminary hearing for the felony charges.

CSI Hosts First-time Homebuyer Course

TIMES-NEWS

The College of Southern Idaho Community Education Center will hold another installment of its noncredit homebuyers' course, "Finally Home," on Oct. 18 and Oct. 25.

The course, designed for first-time homebuyers, will address some issues that potential homebuyers face while moving toward purchasing a home. It will be held from 6-10 p.m. in Room 276 of CSI's Taylor building.

Topics covered in the eight-hour course will range from whether participants can or should currently purchase their first home to how to maintain the investment. Participants will learn about the key players in the process, why good credit is important, how to repair bad credit and various other related topics. Participants will receive a certificate of completion that can potentially help qualified borrowers receive down payment or closing cost assistance.

The course cost is $20. Early online registration at communityed.csi.edu is encouraged.

OBITUARIES

Paul Marcus Colyer

Nov. 3, 1961-Sept. 30, 2011

FILER • Paul Marcus Colyer, age 49, of Filer, Idaho, passed away Friday, Sept. 30, 2011, at the River Ridge Care Center in Twin Falls after a short battle with cancer.

Paul was born Nov. 3, 1961, in Elko, Nev., the son of Marvin and Leah Wells Colyer. He graduated from Elko High School in 1980 and worked as a cowboy on several Nevada ranches.

Surviving Paul are his parents, Marvin and Leah Colyer; sisters, Marilyn (Otis) Tipton and Tammy (Matt) Auge; one niece and three nephews. He was preceded in death by his brother, Jerry; nephew, Shane Tipton; and both sets of grandparents.

A memorial service for Paul will be held at 2 p.m.

Saturday, Oct. 8, at Parke's Magic Valley Funeral Home, 2551 Kimberly Road in Twin Falls.

The family requests that, in lieu of flowers, donations are made in Paul's memory to a charity of one's choice. Those wishing to share memories of Paul may do so at www.magicvalleyfuneralhome.com.

Ruth Alice Marmie

Jan. 15, 1934-Sept. 29, 2011

HAGERMAN • Our beloved Ruth Alice Marmie, 77, a resident of Hagerman, passed away Thursday, Sept. 29, 2011, at her home after a long illness.

Ruth was born Jan. 15, 1934, in Culver City, Calif., to parents Otis and Veona Beggs. Some of Ruth's interests were having her hair and nails done beautifully. She also enjoyed collecting porcelain dolls, and also anything to do with Thomas Kinkaid. Ruth worked for 25 years as a test engineer for Teledyne Systems in California. She was hurt on the job and could no longer do the work so, in her 50s, she started computer school. She did so well at the school that they hired her as a teacher. She then opened her own company for computer tutoring.

Ruth is survived by the love of her life, Fred, whom she married on May 28, 1986; a daughter, Linda Olvera of Yakima, Wash.; a son, Michael Smith of Ferndale, Calif.; a son, Steve Smith of California; a son, Charles Simmons of Hagerman, Idaho; a stepdaughter, Catriona Callies of Grants Pass, Ore.; and a stepson, Kenneth Marmie of Pasadena, Calif. She is also survived by a sister, Polly Hiebert of Big Bear Lake, Calif.; a brother, Charles Beggs of Lakewood, Calif.; and a brother, Raymond Beggs of Anaheim, Calif.; 12 grandchildren; and 15 great-grandchildren. Ruth was preceded in death by her son, John Simmons; and her parents, Otis and Veona Beggs.

Visitation for family and friends will be held from 4 to 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 7, at Demaray Funeral Service, Gooding Chapel. A funeral will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 8, at the Hagerman Valley Calvary Chapel in Hagerman. Burial will follow at the Hagerman Cemetery.

Arrangements are under the direction of Demaray Funeral Service, Gooding Chapel. Condolences may be sent to the family by visiting the obituary link at www.demarayfuneralservice.com.

Keith Donald Malone

Oct. 2, 1925-Sept. 22, 2011

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash. • Keith Donald Malone, 85, died Thursday, Sept. 22, 2011, in Port Townsend, Wash.

He was born Oct. 2, 1925, to Herschel and Leatha Malone. He served in the U.S. Navy from 1943 to 1945 on a mine sweeper in the South Pacific. He married Flora Lee Barnes on Oct. 16, 1946. They owned Keith's Interiors in Twin Falls. He developed Churchill Estates and built several homes and business buildings.

In 1978, they moved to Sequim, Wash. In 1991, they began building their current home overlooking the Straits of Juan De Fuca in Port Townsend. Keith had a lifelong passion for design and building. He was able to create anything he could envision from wood or fabric.

Preceding him in death were his parents, seven brothers and one sister. Surviving is his wife; one son, Mark (Sandy) Malone of Kent, Wash.; two daughters, Teresa McKinster of Cheyenne, Wyo., and Christina (Duane) Tews of Newcastle, Wash.; seven grandchildren, Trent, Aaron, Adrienne, Chad, Danielle, Rachel and Heather; five great-grandchildren, Kasha, Kannon, Nakona, Dallon and Alene; one sister, Hazel Aslett of Twin Falls; and numerous nieces and nephews.

A celebration of life will be held at 4 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 8, at Fort Warden State Park in Washington.

In lieu of flowers, please contribute to ECHHO (Ecumenical Christian Helping Hands Organization), 110 Jefferson, Port Townsend, WA 98368.

Charles Edward Day

Jan. 21, 1941-Sept. 19, 2011

BURLEY • On the morning of Monday, Sept. 19, 2011, Charles Edward Day fell asleep in death.

Charles was born Jan. 21, 1941, in Washington, D.C., to Charles and Marion Day. As a young boy, he moved several times until the family settled in Sunny Arcadia, Calif. In high school, he excelled and lettered in many and most sports, except football because dad said he might get hurt if he plays football. In 1957, Charles dedicated his life to Jehovah, becoming one of many Jehovah's Witnesses and kept that faith to the very end. After high school graduation, Charles volunteered to serve at the Bethel, Brooklyn Branch of Jehovah's Witnesses. He made Brooklyn his home for the next 20 years and worked for Pepsi during this time. He loved to read and, due to his photographic memory, could remember page and paragraph of whatever he read.

Charles enjoyed music, coming from a musically inclined father who could play any instrument by ear and a music-loving mother. Charles could play the banjo but loved jazz music over all others. He had a great love for animals and enjoyed collecting vintage books.

In 1981, he moved to Norland, Idaho, which was quite a different pace from the hustle and bustle of Brooklyn. Charles worked with his brother-in-law in the farming and trucking business. He eventually settled in Meridian, Idaho, where he worked for the Meridian High School for many years. A serious fall that caused further complications brought him back to the Burley area, where his twin sister and brother-in-law took him into their home to care for him. He eventually went to reside at ParkView and spent the remainder of his years there.

Charles's parents, Charles and Marion Day; and his eldest sister, Eileen Werner; preceded him in death. Charles leaves behind a daughter, Natalie Day; one grandchild, Shanti Bailey; his twin sister, Linda and her loving husband, Lloyd Coulter; his loving niece, Melody and her husband, Mark Sharp; one great-nephew, Calvin Connor; two great-nieces, Linda Connor and the "Baby," as Charles referred to her, Kristina Sharp.

The family would like to thank Dr. Spackman and the staff at ParkView Rehab and Care and Intermountain Home Care for their care and enduring attention to Charles's needs. A special thanks to the loving brothers and sisters who continued to visit even as the mass in his brain continued to make communication more difficult for Charles.

A cremation service was under the direction of the Morrison-Payne Funeral Home of Burley. Interment for Charles will be at the Paul Cemetery, where he will be laid to rest next to his mother and sister.

Sandpoint Mulls Better Options for Business

BONNER COUNTY DAILY BEE

SANDPOINT • City officials want to make Sandpoint better for business, and their visit to Quest Aircraft Thursday morning was the first step toward that goal.

Mayor Gretchen Hellar, Planning Director Jeremy Grimm, Sandpoint Urban Renewal Agency President Eric Paul and economic consultant Mark Rivers got a firsthand look at aircraft manufacturing during their tour of the facility. Afterward, they spent about an hour talking about avenues for encouraging Sandpoint business.

During the tour itself, the city officials got to see the production of an airplane from the first step onward, beginning with riveting and shaping the metal frames and gradually adding in components.

Most of Quest's clientele are humanitarians, missionaries and relief workers who rely on the Kodiak, a single-engine aircraft able to land on unimproved airstrips and undeveloped terrain. However, the tour attendees also got a look at a much more customized aircraft commissioned by a skateboard company for very different purposes.

During the following meeting, the city representatives enjoyed an informal conversation with Quest administrators, asking for suggestions on how the city could make their job easier. The discussion generated ideas for encouraging training, higher education and expanding growth potential. The group also examined factors specific to Quest that could nevertheless have a broader economic impact.

SENIOR

Q. How can senior citizens protect themselves against telemarketing frauds and scams?

A. Questionable telemarketing practices are a serious and growing problem for our elderly, and cost seniors plenty. It is very hard for you to get your money back if you are cheated over the phone. To stay safe, never send money or give out personal information like credit card numbers, bank account numbers, or social security numbers to people and organizations you don't know. It is rarely a good idea to buy from an unfamiliar company or make a donation to an unknown charity. Always ask for and wait until you receive written material. If a company or charitable organization has a legitimate business, they will gladly mail you more information about themselves and their products or services. Before you send money, ask yourself a simple question: "What guarantee do I really have that the person I am talking with on the phone will use my money in the manner we agreed upon?" Always talk over big investments, or big donations, with a trusted friend, family member, or financial advisor. Take your time making a decision about spending your hard-earned money. Companies or charities that are genuine will not pressure you to make a decision before you are ready. It is never rude, and you always have the right, to wait and think about an offer.

Does Report on Elderly Care Reflect Our Character?

In the recently-released report by AARP on long-term care, Idaho is all over the map. If you look through the whole state report card — available at www.longtermscorecard.gov — a picture of Idaho starts to emerge. The report’s goal was to look at care options available to the elderly, but one could almost draw the parallel that the trends mirror the character of the state as a whole.

Here are a few highlights from the report: We’re very strong in offering care-oriented businesses: Idaho ranks 3rd in the nation on having the most assisted living and care units for the amount of 65-and-over people in the state.

Family caregivers are getting support from the system: Those who choose to care for their aging family members in their own homes report that they’re usually or always getting the support they need. Idaho ranked a heady 6th in the national rankings.

We’re pretty hardy folks: Idaho ranked 7th in the nation on the percent of people living in the nursing home who have low care needs.

Many of us are either too proud to ask for help, or don’t know where to get it: We rank near the bottom (47th) on adults who are disabled or living significantly below the poverty line using Medicaid or other government assistance.

Nobody understands their options: Idaho ranks dead last (51st) in the category of “Single Entry Point functionality.” That means that there’s very little framework in place for seniors to get questions answered or have a good starting point where someone can help them understand their needs.

The first few points offer a solid picture of Idahoans as entrepreneurial, compassionate and sturdy folks — the trends are something we should be proud of.

But the last two should give us pause. The factors in which we’re at the bottom of the pile are joined at the artificial hip: Too few who are living 250 percent below the poverty line are getting assistance, and there are remarkably few places to get answers.

If you follow a logical extension of this report, we’re compassionate to our aging Idahoans ... but only those who can afford to be a part of the system.

It should hurt our pride that there are few easy places for aging Idahoans to turn for answers. It should keep us awake at night that fewer than half of the state’s nursing home population with serious disabilities are taking advantage of Medicaid. The same rate holds true for those living significantly below the poverty line.

We need to empower our government and civic agencies with the power and mandate to find ways to teach the elderly and poor families about the options available to them.

And all of us need to do a better job of reaching out to those less fortunate.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Kindness Gives People Hope

On these times where our country is going through tough economic times, we must to support each other. Kindness is a word we often forget but is a key ingredient for people to keep hope.

Last week, I contacted the human resources department of a nearby medical clinic to ask if they needed Spanish-speaking interpreters. They never called me back and never responded to my emails. After going to the medical clinic website, I decided to complete one of their online applications. Maybe this way they will talk to me, I thought. On Tuesday, I spent all morning completing their long, online application for two open positions as a receptionist. They required two years of high school and since I have a master’s degree, I thought I might get a call. I could work as a receptionist and help those people that English is not their forte. On the same day, human resources sent me an email with a cold auto-reply response saying, “Both of the positions have been filled. We will keep your application on file for 12 months.”

Maybe I am an idealist, but if I made the effort to spend all morning filling the medical clinic’s application form, I expect a small effort from their human resources department. Like a personal email thanking me for my interest or making a call to explain why the clinic does not need interpreters at this time — perhaps inviting me to volunteer while something opens up.

Kindness speaks well of a medical clinic and gives hope to the 70,000 unemployed in Idaho.

VERONICA LEONARD Buhl

Former Coroner Gives Thanks

I am writing this letter to the editor to let the citizens of Gooding County know that effective Aug. 15, 2011, I stepped down as Gooding County coroner.

The reason I am stepping down is another funeral home opened its doors in Gooding County and, according to Idaho Code 31-2808, “No coroner or person acting as coroner who is a licensed funeral director or licensed mortician, owner, proprietor or employee of any establishment engaged in making final disposition of dead human bodies, and no establishment with which such coroner or person acting as coroner is associated, shall, except for ambulance services, perform any of the services of a funeral director or mortician or furnish any materials connected with or incidental to the final disposition of the body of any person whose death is required by to be investigated by such coroner or other person acting in that capacity. Any person who violates his section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Provided, however, that the provisions of this section shall not be applicable in counties wherein there is only one licensed funeral establishment.”

I have been employed by Demaray Funeral Service since 1997, and I would have had to step down as an employee with them in order to maintain the elected position as coroner. I appreciate the opportunity of serving the residents of Gooding County as the elected coroner since 1998.

I would like to thank the board of commissioners for their help and support over the years. Mostly, I appreciate the support of Gooding County residents in re-electing me three times since I first ran for coroner, and especially the support of Demaray Funeral Service that has allowed me the time to perform the duties of coroner. At times, adjustments in their schedule had to be made by them for me to perform coroner duties, over the past 11 years seven months while serving as county coroner. Without their help, it would have been impossible to carry out the everyday tasks required of the coroner’s office, without further financial support from the county being made available to maintain an office in Gooding County.

Injured Soldier Helps Injured Brothers, Sisters

My name is Cody Sibbett and I was born and raised in the Mini-Cassia area. After completing high school, I joined the U.S. Army. In 2007, during my second deployment to Iraq, I was injured when the Army LMTV

I was riding in was hit by an improvised explosive device. After several months recuperating at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, Texas, I was honorably and medically discharged from the Army because of my disabilities. I am now working part time at the Burley Golf Course Pro Shop.

On Aug. 5, I held the “Freedom Isn’t Free” nine-hole charity golf scramble at the Burley Golf Course. The net proceeds of the scramble went to a nonprofit organization in honor of a young soldier from Buhl who was killed in Iraq in November 2006. “Doug Bridge’s Memorial Hunts” helps Wounded Warriors enjoy hunting and fishing trips in the great state of Idaho. The Wounded Warriors are not only from Idaho but across the United States. After several months of planning, I am honored to say that I received an overwhelming support from the Magic Valley and Mini-Cassia communities.

My goal of the “Freedom Isn’t Free” golf scramble is to make it a yearly event so we can continue to support our Wounded Warriors by getting them back out doing the things they loved to do prior to being injured during their service. I, myself a “wounded warrior,” have enjoyed hunting and fishing with this organization and am thankful for the hard work that they have put forth to give back to those that serve.

Please accept my thanks for assisting in my dream to “pay it forward” to my brothers and sisters in arms. Doing an event such as this scramble is a way for me to continue to serve.

Keep an Eye Out for Hoodlums

The front page photo in the Sept. 28, Times-News was one I never expected see in our town.

It was shocking and heart sickening for me to read that someone could do such a despicable thing to our beautiful little church — formerly St. James Episcopal. This church has stood on that corner for many years and has a wonderful history.

My husband, Clyde (Toby) Bowers (now deceased), and I were devoted members of St. James since 1980. We were involved on the vestry, ECW and other duties. Toby became responsible (willingly) for repairing, renewing and contributing to anything that needed done.

He was the one who made the huge crosses on the front doors; he was responsible for having a ramp, railings and lighting installed. The interior has his handiwork everywhere — new, oak framing around the doors and windows. He constructed banquet-size, folding tables for our dinners, Bible study groups, etc., and small ones for the children; shelves in the kitchen, crosses for the altar, wooden candle sconces for the walls. Under his leadership, he led the parish to get the project for stained glass windows, designed by him, as memorials for loved ones.

We loved this church and its members and, when expenses grew and the membership didn’t, it was necessary to sell the building.

We were fortunate to find someone who wanted the church as a church, and not a restaurant or bar — Pastor Garcia! Pastor Garcia and his members have been wonderful, caring people who have kept the property, inside and out, in beautiful condition, and great cost, due to the incessant vandalism!

I urge the neighbors and our police to keep a very watchful eye out for these hoodlums.

Sojka Votes for What’s Best for Us

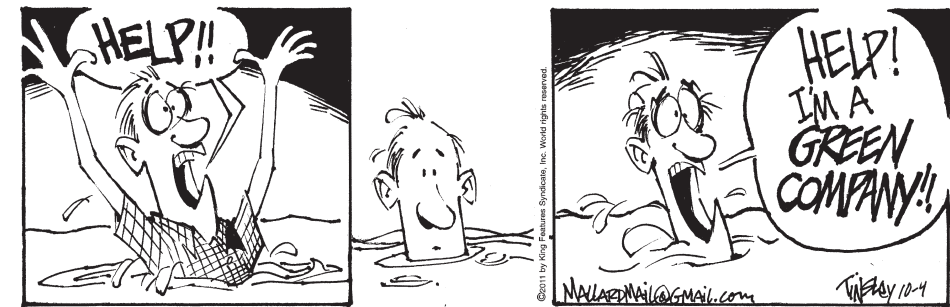

As a resident of the city of Twin Falls, I would like to encourage you to vote for Rebecca Mills Sojka for city council.

Rebecca really listens and cares about our residents and our community and wants to make it a better place to live. Being a younger candidate, she brings a new perspective and fresh ideas. Before Rebecca votes on any issue, she looks at all of the facts and what the consequences will be, both short term and long term. She votes impartially for what is best for the citizens of our community.

I would encourage you to get to know Rebecca. I think you will be impressed. I know I was!

Senator Says He'll Return Mileage Payments

Senate secretary says "clerical error" resulted in $2,402 being deposited into lawmaker's account.

BY JOHN MILLER
Associated Press

BOISE • A Republican senator must return at least $2,402 to Idaho after he was inappropriately reimbursed for daily mileage between the Capitol and his Nampa home because he said he was spending nights during the legislative session sleeping on a couch in his Boise office.

Sen. Curt McKenzie says he'll repay the money for 2010 and 2011 sessions.

The Associated Press discovered the errors while reporting on a story about how McKenzie and Republican Sen. John McGee of Caldwell billed taxpayers $122 per day for a second residence during the Legislature. McKenzie told The AP he was sleeping on his law office couch, while McGee acknowledged he was staying at his parents' home in Boise. That amounted to more than $6,400 in extra pay apiece during the 2011 session.

McKenzie said Monday he wasn't aware he was also getting the mileage reimbursement and never asked for the money.

"I did not realize that I was getting that in addition to the housing allowance. I didn't realize they'd been sending both. That was missed by staff, as well," McKenzie said. "I will reimburse that ($2,402) amount."

A Senate secretary, Mary Sue Jones, said the mileage payments resulted from a "clerical error" that automatically deposited the payments into McKenzie's account. McGee did not receive extra mileage money, Jones said.

Idaho's part-time legislators who don't keep a second residence in Boise receive $49 per day payments, on top of a $16,116 salary. They can also get mileage reimbursements for travel between their homes and the Capitol.

Lawmakers like McKenzie, who lives 20 miles from Boise, and McGee, who lives 26 miles from the Capitol, get $122 per day by claiming a second residence, but they aren't eligible for the daily mileage reimbursements.

Don Burtenshaw, a member of the committee that helps set lawmakers' pay, joined some other lawmakers in saying that McKenzie and McGee likely violated the spirit of the per diem payments by taking the bigger amount.

The extra cash is meant to offset the expenses that out-of-town lawmakers incur from renting a place to live in Boise during the session.

"I think if you're going to be claiming a second residence (per diem), you should be paying for or renting a second residence," said Sen. Jim Hammond, R-Post Falls, who pays $800 monthly for a town home in Boise during the session.

Mule Deer Attacks Idaho Woman, Rescuer

State wildlife officials say such attacks are unusual, but the behavior that was reported is typical of deer that have been reared as pets.

BY JESSIE L. BONNER
Associated Press

BOISE • A woman was able to escape an attack by a mule deer after a passer-by and his daughter fought off the buck, grabbing the antlers and striking it with a hammer until it fled, state wildlife officials said.

Sue Panter was on a stroll near her home in rural southeastern Idaho when the buck attacked, raking her body with his antlers and goring her legs, officials said.

Michael Vaughan and his 17-year-old daughter, Alexis, spotted the struggle early Friday and tried to intervene, the state Department of Fish and Game said in a statement Sunday.

Vaughan's daughter got out of their vehicle and started punching the deer, while he grabbed the buck by the antlers, which allowed Panter to escape, according to the agency. Vaughan said that while he wrestled with the buck, his daughter retrieved a hammer and struck the deer.

Vaughan's daughter then drove Panter and her father to a hospital, where they were treated and released on Friday. The man's legs were punctured three times during the struggle, wildlife officials said.

The buck in the attack was a young adult, which on average weigh about 250 pounds, officials said.

It was unclear why the animal attacked the woman. Such confrontations are unusual, but the behavior that was reported is typical of deer that have been reared as pets, according to state wildlife officials.

"A possibility is that this deer was found in the wild and taken home and raised by somebody," said Senior Conservation Officer Corey Owens. "Then it's become habituated to humans so it's not afraid of humans anymore, that's a possibility."

These unprovoked attacks by domesticated, or "pet deer," are very rare but have been reported in Idaho, said Blake Phillips, regional conservation officer for state Department of Fish and Game's southeast region.

Panter was "really traumatized" when the hospital called authorities to report the attack, Senior Conservation Officer Corey Owens said Monday.

Panter had played dead during the attack hoping that would discourage the deer, wildlife officials said. Her husband, who was at work, told him she had tried to remain in the roadway as the deer gored her, wildlife officials said.

"She felt that if she got pushed off the road and into the cornfield, no one would see her struggling or even know she was there," Panter told wildlife officials.

Officials were searching for the buck, which will be euthanized and tested for rabies and other diseases.

Eagle Joins Campaign to Open Garden City Greenbelt to Cyclists

BY ANNA WEBB
Idaho Statesman

BOISE • Anyone who has wanted to pedal the Greenbelt through Garden City to or from Eagle has hit a snag near the Riverside Village subdivision, where a 1.5-mile portion has been closed to bikes for years.

The issue has inspired rancor and even a lawsuit by a citizens group to force Garden City to open its pedestrian-only pathway on the north bank of the river.

This week, the Eagle City Council voted unanimously to support opening the Garden City path.

Councilman Norm Semanko, who is also chairman of the Idaho Republican Party and an Eagle mayoral candidate, made the motion to support the change.

He met with Garden City Mayor John Evans on Thursday in hopes of persuading the city to take another look at the issue.

"I think he (Evans) recognized the need for us to make sure that folks from Eagle can ride their bikes safely through Garden City, and we certainly learned a bit more about his concerns," Semanko said in a statement released Thursday.

Garden City will listen to Eagle officials, but it's sticking with its plan to use the bike path on the south side of the river as the through pathway, said Garden City Mayor Evans.

That hinges on Garden City building a bridge over the river to connect Eagle's northside path with the existing paved Garden City path on the south bank.

That's a safer alternative to the narrow gravel path through Riverside Village, said Evans.

Evans said the city applied for a grant to build the bridge last year but didn't get it. The city is looking for other money sources.

"It takes more than one attempt to deal with these things," he said.

The stretch of pathway near Riverside is not designed for bike use, he said. Even if it were opened, bikers who now complain they have to leave the path and ride on dangerous roads would still face a busy barrier at Glenwood Street before making the connection to the bike path to Boise.

Advocates of linking the northside path to Eagle and Boise say those obstacles are easily overcome — if there's the will to do so.

"This is no longer an issue that just the Citizens for an Open Greenbelt has with Garden City," said Gary Segers, founder of the organization that's worked to open the path for several years. "It now includes another major city in the Treasure Valley that believes the Garden City bike ban has a significant and negative impact on its residents, businesses, and users of the Eagle Greenbelt."

COG sued the Idaho Land Board and the city of Garden City in 2010. The Land Board has since been dropped from the suit.

Representatives from COG and Garden City will meet at a court hearing on Oct. 6. Garden City will ask the court to dismiss the lawsuit, said Evans.

N. Idaho Tech Campus to Mark Groundbreaking

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) • The construction of a professional-technical high school in northern Idaho is scheduled to break ground this week.

The Coeur d'Alene Press reports the governor will be among officials at a ceremony Tuesday in Rathdrum for the Kootenai Technical Education Campus.

State lawmakers passed legislation this year to expedite plans for the $9.5 million project.

Voters in the Post Falls, Coeur d'Alene and Lake-land school districts approved financing last year to build the school, but under state law, the project couldn't break ground until all the money was collected from taxpayers.

Lake Pend Oreille Sees Rebound of Prized Kokanee

SANDPOINT (AP) • Kokanee numbers in Lake Pend Oreille are rebounding, helping placate worries that flooding this spring would put a dent in the coveted game fish's population.

The Bonner County Daily Bee reports the landlocked salmon is showing the highest spawning numbers since 2004. Current estimates show there are as many as 382,000 spawning kokanee in Lake Pend Oreille tributaries.

That has Idaho Department of Fish and Game officials optimistic that fishing for kokanee will eventually be reopened.

The flooding in the 1990s was sudden and intense, while this year's flooding was spread out over weeks.

That likely means the kokanee didn't get flushed out of the lake during spring floods.

"This year's runoff wasn't exceptionally high, but it lasted several weeks, which is a different scenario than the very high-magnitude, but short-duration floods of 1996-97," said Jim Fredericks, Fish & Game's regional fishery manager.

Idaho's wildlife agency also says its work eradicating lake trout and rainbow trout that prey on kokanee is also helping.

More than 115,000 lake trout, introduced to the lake in 1925, have been removed from the lake through netting and angler incentives between 2006 and 2010. The number of kokanee that spawn has increased annually since predator-removal efforts started.

In 2000, kokanee fishing was closed in the lake as the fish's population dwindled. Since then, the kokanee's numbers have risen.

"If the upward trend we are seeing continues, I'm optimistic that we'll have a real shot at re-opening the kokanee fishery again within the next couple of years," said Andy Dux, a principal Fish & Game biologist working on the lake.

Judge Orders Release of Professor's Records in UI Murder-suicide Case

MOSCOW (AP) • A judge has ruled the University of Idaho should release the personnel records of a former professor who police say killed a 22-year-old graduate student and then committed suicide after their relationship ended.

The Lewiston Tribune reports 2nd District Judge John R. Stegner ordered the records of Ernesto Bustamante released on Monday.

In his ruling, Stegner decided the mandatory confidentiality of public employee personnel records ends with the death of the individual.

Bustamante resigned from the university three days before police say he shot Katy Benoit nearly a dozen times outside her Moscow home on Aug. 22 and then committed suicide in a hotel room.

Attorneys for the University of Idaho and several media outlets petitioned the court to rule that the former professor's records were a matter of public record.

The university said it was discussing a timeline to release public material with lawyers for the media outlets that include The Associated Press, Idaho newspapers and the Idaho Press Club.

"This provides us with what we sought: a clear path forward," University of Idaho general counsel Kent Nelson said in a statement. "It has always been the university's intention to be as open and transparent as the law allows in this matter."

Nelson added that the university is currently complying with a search warrant from the district court as the law enforcement investigation into the deaths continues. Under the warrant, the institution is gathering and turning over university documents related to Bustamante and Benoit.

TODAY'S DEAL

This is not a coupon. Deal must be purchased at www.magicvalley.com/todaysdeal

September/October is the best month of the entire year to seed your lawn. This includes both seeding a new lawn and reseeding (overseeding) an established lawn to make it thicker and healthier.

If you need to, you can lime, "<http://www.backyardstyle.com/shop/index.php?page=shop-flypage-6100>" fertilize and seed your lawn all in the same day. Otherwise, seed and fertilize the same day and then lime later in the fall.

If needed, autumn is a great time to "<http://www.backyardstyle.com/shop/index.php?page=shop-flypage-4175>" aerate and/or dethatch the lawn. If you decide to do one or both of these, they should be done prior to seeding.

If you like, you can topdress the lawn with Ringer, an organic compost, to improve heavy compacted, clay soil. Topdressing can be used alone or along with aeration, seeding and fertilizing.

If you do plan to "<http://www.backyardstyle.com/shop/index.php?page=shop-flypage-4175>" aerate, dethatch or rototill (for total renovation), thoroughly soak the soil a day or two before you start your project or perform your project a day or two after a good rain.

September is also a good time to apply a grub control to your lawn such as Dylox (or Milky Spore as a long-term control). Now is also a good time to "<http://www.backyardstyle.com/shop/index.php?page=shop-flypage-4869>" control weeds growing in the lawn, however you cannot weed kill and seed the same day. If you choose to kill weeds in the lawn first, you must wait three weeks to seed your lawn. Or, if you seed first, you will need to wait until the new seed has germinated and been mowed at least twice before applying a "<http://www.backyardstyle.com/shop/gardenfertilizers.php>" weed killer. If you want to prevent winter annual weeds from germinating in the lawn, you can apply "<http://www.backyardstyle.com/> shop/index.php?page=shop-flypage-4862" Preen in September, but this would prevent you from seeding now. You will have to wait 60 days to seed, which means you would probably need to wait until spring to seed the lawn.

Tips on applying weed killer:

Do not apply weed controls on freshly seeded areas.
Do not apply weed control products on windy days.
Do not apply weed controls near or on the edge of waterways.
Do not apply weed controls when temperatures are above 82 degrees F.
Do not allow kids, babies or "<http://www.pet-dog-cat-supply-store.com/>" t " _blank" pets to play on lawns freshly applied with weed controls. Wait until weed control is dry if you applied a liquid weed killer. If you applied a granular weed control, you must wait one week.
Always check the label of weed control products and follow the labeling instructions precisely.

Feeding the Lawn

Fall is the best time to feed your lawn with a good quality, slow-release "<http://www.backyardstyle.com/shop/lawnfertilizer.php>" lawn food, with at least two feedings between the months of September, October, November and December.

Seeding the Lawn

September is the best month to seed your lawn with improved varieties of quality grass seed.

Italy Appeals Court Clears Knox of Murder

Amanda Knox cries after hearing the verdict that acquitted her of murdering her British roommate Meredith Kercher, Monday at the Perugia court in central Italy.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Knox Verdict Won't End Public Debate

DNA review finds that the evidence was severely compromised by sloppy police collection methods and subpar forensic testing, a devastating conclusion that prosecutors could not successfully counter.

BY HENRY CHU
Los Angeles Times

LONDON • The case was a media sensation from the start, with allegations of drug-fueled group sex and a principal suspect whose cherubic face proved to be an irresistible canvas to a world that saw in it images ranging from scheming vamp to innocent ingenue.

For four years, that contrast hovered over the fate of Amanda Knox, a 24-year-old American exchange student in Italy, trapped in a foreign legal system and behind bars for the murder of her British roommate. Was she a killer, capable of murdering of Meredith Kercher in the pursuit of sexual pleasure? Or was she the helpless victim of a prosecutor's character assassination and a botched police investigation?

On Monday, an appeals jury in the central Italian town of Perugia sided with the latter portrait. It overturned Knox's conviction for the 2007 murder of Kercher, a British student with whom she shared an apartment. Knox's alleged accomplice, former boyfriend Raffaele Sollecito, 27, was also exonerated by the appellate panel.

The stunning turnaround hinged on an independent review of DNA evidence that authorities said tied Knox and Sollecito to the crime. Kercher, 21, was found dead in her room, her throat slashed and her body bearing more than 40 wounds and signs of sexual assault. The DNA review found that the evidence was severely compromised by sloppy police collection methods and subpar forensic testing, a devastating conclusion that prosecutors could not successfully counter.

Two hours after the verdict was read out and beamed around the world, Knox was set free, no more to return to the cell where she has spent most of her adult life. She and Sollecito had more than 20 years left to serve under sentences handed down upon their conviction in 2009.

But the acquittals are unlikely to quell public debate, especially among Italians who feel that their judicial system has been smeared by the American media and others who accuse the authorities in Perugia of railroading Knox in a staggering miscarriage of justice.

Prosecutors have pledged to appeal the case before Italy's Supreme Court, although that body tends to rule on technical points of law rather than on the matters of evidence and character that were presented during the appeals trial.

For Obama, Finding One Target May Take a While

The longer it takes for the GOP to rally around a nominee, the more the election remains a referendum on Obama and jobs.

BY BEN FELLER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Maybe even more than the Republicans, President Barack Obama is looking forward to the GOP picking a candidate to challenge him.

For now and months to come, Obama is an incumbent with no specific rival, a campaigner against various forces but not one in particular.

He is running against a staggering economy. And Congress. And himself — that history-making version of Obama that many voters remember from 2008.

The longer it takes for Republicans to rally around a nominee, the more the election remains a referendum on Obama and jobs. That's not what the White House and his campaign eagerly want: a clear choice between the president and another candidate who holds starkly different views about how to improve the economy.

With polls showing his approval rating in the low 40s, Obama even contended on Monday that he's the underdog.

"I don't mind — I'm used to being an underdog," the president said in an interview with ABC News. "And I think that at the end of the day, though, what people are going to say is, who's got a vision for the future that can actually help ordinary families recapture that American dream."

Anti-Wall Street Protests Spread

Arrests of 700 protesters over the weekend on the Brooklyn Bridge galvanizes a slice of discontented Americans in cities across the country.

BY CHRIS HAWLEY
Associated Press

NEW YORK • Protests against Wall Street spread across the country Monday as demonstrators marched on Federal Reserve banks and camped out in parks from Los Angeles to Portland, Maine, in a show of anger over the wobbly economy and what they see as corporate greed.

In Manhattan, hundreds of protesters dressed as corporate zombies in white face paint lurched past the New York Stock Exchange clutching fistfuls of fake money. In Chicago, demonstrators pounded drums in the city's financial district. Others pitched tents or waved protest signs at passing cars in Boston, St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo.

The arrests of 700 protesters on the Brooklyn Bridge over the weekend galvanized a slice of discontented America, from college students worried about their job prospects to middle-age workers who have been recently laid off.

Some protesters likened themselves to the tea party movement — but with a liberal bent — or to the Arab Spring demonstrators who brought down their rulers in the Middle East.

"I've felt this way for a long time. I've really just kind of been waiting for a movement to come along that I thought would last and have some resonance within the community," said Steven Harris, a laid-off truck driver in Kansas City.

Harris and about 20 other people were camped out in a park across the street from the Kansas City Federal Reserve building, their site strewn with sleeping bags, clothes and handmade signs.

Some passing drivers honked in support.

The Occupy Wall Street protests started on Sept. 17 with a few dozen demonstrators who tried to pitch tents in front of the New York Stock Exchange. Since then, hundreds have set up camp in a park nearby and have become increasingly organized, lining up medical aid and legal help and printing their own newspaper, the Occupied Wall Street Journal.

About 100 demonstrators were arrested on Sept. 24 and some were pepper-sprayed. On Saturday police arrested 700 on charges of disorderly conduct and blocking a public street as they tried to march over the Brooklyn Bridge. Police said they took five more protesters into custody on Monday, though it was unclear whether they had been charged with any crime.

Workers Mixing Chemicals Spark Massive Texas Plant Fire

BY JAMIE STENGLE
Associated Press

WAXAHACHIE, Texas • A fire sparked as workers mixed chemicals at a plant south of Dallas shot massive plumes of black smoke and bright orange flames into the sky Monday, forcing schoolchildren and residents to evacuate or take cover indoors to avoid possible exposure to dangerous gases.

Flames engulfed a large complex at a Magnablend Inc. facility in Waxahachie. The fast-moving blaze overwhelmed a sprinkler system and consumed a fire truck, but no injuries were reported from the fire or resulting smoke. Waxahachie Fire Chief David Hudgins said it wasn’t immediately clear what chemicals were involved in sparking the fire. About 1,000 residents who had been evacuated were allowed to return to their homes early Monday evening, said Waxahachie Fire Department spokeswoman Amy Hollywood. Waxahachie, 30 miles south of Dallas, has about 25,000 residents. The blaze was 95 percent under control by early Monday evening, Hollywood said. In a statement, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency said it has monitored air quality both on the ground and through a specially equipped airplane that made several passes through the smoke plume caused by the blaze and officials have not found elevated levels of toxic chemicals. The EPA said it “will continue to conduct ground level air monitoring.” Magnablend spokesman Donald Golden told WFAA-TV that 25 to 30 employees who were inside the plant’s 100,000-square-foot warehouse evacuated safely when the fire broke out before 11 a.m. Golden said the company manufactures about 200 products, including some that are hazardous when ignited. Authorities had ordered residents closest to the plant to evacuate, while others were advised to stay inside with doors and windows shut.

Obama

With no control over when he gets an opponent, Obama is now waging what amounts to a proxy campaign against the eventual Republican nominee. Every time he presents his jobs bill as a choice between helping the middle class or protecting the ultra-rich, every time he tells Democratic donors that his opponents’ approach to governing “will fundamentally cripple America,” he is previewing a campaign argument that he will apply against whoever his opponent is. “What the president is saying now compared to what he’s going to be saying in May — I think there’s going to be a great symmetry between the two,” said David Plouffe, an Obama senior adviser in the White House and the manager of Obama’s campaign in 2008. “We don’t sit around here saying, ‘We wish we had an opponent.’ We know that’s going to come,” Plouffe said. “When that day comes, we’ll be ready for it.” The Republican electoral calendar is fluid and accelerating, with Florida’s decision to hold a late-January primary likely to prompt other states to move up their voting, too. Still, newly adopted Republican rules on how delegates are awarded will make it harder for any candidate to quickly clinch the nomination. Republican insiders say their party’s battle could extend into May — meaning Obama would not have a specific challenger for more than seven months. In the end, Plouffe said he expects Obama will face Texas Gov. Rick Perry or former Massachusetts Gov. Mitt Romney: “It’s hard to imagine another scenario,” he said. Obama’s campaign wing is already singling out Perry and Romney by name, saying they support policies the American people oppose. In a memo released Monday, the campaign criticized Perry’s assertion that Social Security is a “Ponzi scheme” and said Romney supports turning the program over to Wall Street. But neither party expects most voters to start really paying attention to the race until it is down to Obama and an opponent.

Nobel

Steinman’s wife, Claudia, said the family had planned to disclose his death Monday — only to discover an email to his cellphone from the Nobel committee. Friends and colleagues were stunned by his death. “For the last five years, I’ve gotten up in the morning of the Nobel Prize announcement and rushed to the computer to see his name,” said Olivera J. Finn of the University of Pittsburgh. “And this morning I saw it, and I just totally shrieked with joy,” she said. Then she heard the bad news from a friend in Singapore. “I have been this whole morning ... out of breath like somebody punched me in the stomach,” Finn said. Experts disagree whether Steinman’s research helped him live for 4½ years after he was diagnosed. A colleague in his lab thinks it did. The odds of making it even a year with his type of cancer are less than 5 percent. Nobel officials said they believed it was the first time that a laureate had died before the announcement without the committee’s knowledge. “It is incredibly sad news,” said Nobel Foundation chairman Lars Heikensten. “We can only regret that he didn’t have the chance to receive the news he had won the Nobel Prize. Our thoughts are now with his family.”

Verdict

“We’re thankful that Amanda’s nightmare is over,” her sister Deanna told reporters outside the courtroom, where crowds on either side of the case shouted “Victory, victory” and “Shame, shame.” “We are thankful to the court for having the courage to look for the truth and to overturn the conviction,” she said. Kercher’s family said they respected the verdict but did “not understand how the decision of the first trial could be so radically overturned. We still trust the Italian judicial system and hope that the truth will eventually emerge.” They had previously declared themselves satisfied with the convictions from the original trial and wanted to see them upheld. Instead, the Kerchers are now left with grave questions about the police’s handling of the investigation. Only one person remains in prison in connection with Kercher’s death: Rudy Hermann Guede, a small-time drug dealer and drifter. Guede’s DNA was found at the scene, leading to his conviction and sentence of 16 years in prison, but he maintains his innocence and has fingered Knox and Sollecito as the killers. The pair’s attorneys say Guede acted alone in the attack. Sollecito and Knox have insisted that they spent the evening in question watching a movie at Sollecito’s house, smoking pot and having sex, and were nowhere near the apartment Knox and Kercher shared.

Emergency room physician Dr. Richelle Cooper testifies during the Conrad Murray involuntary manslaughter trial in downtown Los Angeles, Friday.

ER DOC: JACKSON PHYSICIAN NEVER MENTIONED PROPOFOL

BY LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press

LOS ANGELES • Michael Jackson was clinically dead when he arrived at a hospital and two emergency room doctors said they thought it was futile to attempt to revive him. His doctor, however, insisted that they try.

Both doctors, testifying at Dr. Conrad Murray's involuntary manslaughter trial Monday, said Murray failed to tell them that he had been giving Jackson the anesthetic propofol or when Jackson had been medicated or stopped breathing.

"He said he did not have any concept of time, that he did not have a watch," said Dr. Thao Nguyen, a cardiologist at Ronald Reagan UCLA Medical Center, where Jackson was taken on June 25, 2009.

"Dr. Murray asked that we not give up easily and try to save Michael Jackson's life," she said. "...In Dr. Murray's mind, if we called it quits, we would be giving up easily."

Nguyen said Murray "sounded desperate and he looked devastated." But, she said, without knowing how much time had passed since he stopped breathing, resuscitation was a remote hope.

"It was not too little too late," she said. "It was a case of too late. I feared that time was not on Mr. Jackson's side."

Murray, 58, has pleaded not guilty. Authorities say Murray administered the fatal dose and acted recklessly by providing Jackson the drug as a sleep aid at his home when it is supposed to be administered in a hospital. The defense argues that Jackson gave himself an additional dose of the drug when Murray was out of the room.

Nguyen and Dr. Richelle

Cooper, who oversaw Jackson's care in the emergency room, said Murray never mentioned that he had given the singer the propofol. They said he told them that he had given two doses of lorazepam, also known as Ativan, trying to get him to sleep.

"Did he ever mention propofol to you?" Deputy District Attorney David Walgren asked Nguyen.

"Absolutely not," she said in a firm voice.

Before leaving the stand, Nguyen said, "I've never heard of propofol being used outside of a hospital."

She said at least three medical personnel, including an anesthesiologist, should be present when the drug is given. Walgren asked her: "Have you ever heard of propofol being used in someone's private bedroom?"

Nguyen replied: "That would be a first. I've never heard of it."

In cross-examination, defense attorney Michael Flanagan was able to get Cooper to say that, even if they had known about the propofol, they could not have saved Jackson's life.

"Michael Jackson had died long before he became my patient," she said. "It is unlikely with that information I could have done something that would have changed the outcome."

She also said that the amount of propofol which Murray has since claimed he gave Jackson would not have put him to sleep and would have dissipated from his body in five to seven minutes.

Last year the typical home received a personal letter about every seven weeks, according to the post office.

WASHINGTON • Mom might get a quick note in the mail. Sister might get a birthday card. But that's about it. For the typical American household these days, nearly two months will pass before a personal letter shows up.

The avalanche of advertising still arrives, of course, along with magazines and catalogs. But personal letters — as well as the majority of bill payments — have largely been replaced by email, Twitter, Facebook and the like.

"In the future old 'love letters' may not be found in boxes in the attic but rather circulating through the Internet, if people care to look for them," said Webster Newbold, a professor of English at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind.

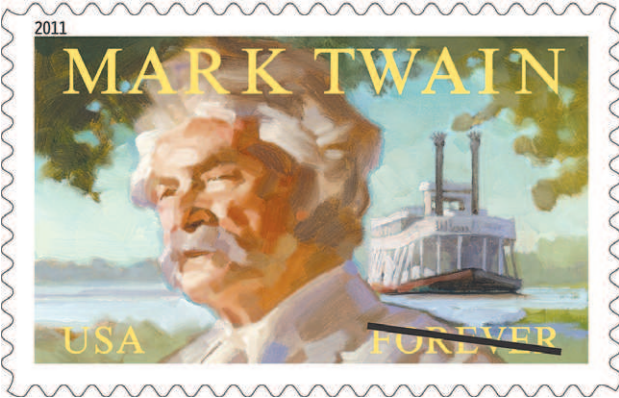

Last year the typical home received a personal letter about every seven weeks, according to the annual survey done by the post office. As recently as 1987 it was once every two weeks. That doesn't include greeting cards or invitations.

It's very different from the nation's earlier days. When Benjamin Franklin was in charge of the mail, letters bound far-flung Americans together.

"If I write, it's only to my mother and it's a quick note," said Andy Aldrich, an education program coordinator who lives in Vienna, Va. He said he sends his mother a hand-written letter about once every four months. Otherwise, Aldrich said he mostly communicates through emails, text messages and Skype with relatives.

Bob Cvetic, of Waldorf, Md., a health specialist with a federal law enforcement agency, said different forms of communication have different purposes.

"Emails are something quick," he said. "Letters are letters. When I'm writing a letter to a friend, it's a personal note. You can't send an

When Twain did read his premature obituary, he sent a letter assuring friends the report was overblown. But when was the last time you got a personal letter in the mail?

email saying 'hey, sorry to hear you lost your father.'"

Mike Stanley of Silver Spring, Md., said he mostly uses the Postal Service to pay bills. He did send his sister a birthday card in August. "I don't send letters. I use the cellphone or email," he said. "It's faster."

Even Stanley's mailing of bill payments is no longer the norm, with the post office reporting that, "for the first time, in 2010, fewer than 50 percent of all bills were paid by mail."

The Postal Service says the decline in letter-writing is "primarily driven by the adoption of the Internet as a preferred method of communication."

The loss of that lucrative first-class mail is just one part of the agency's financial troubles, along with payment of bills via Internet and a decline in other mail. The Postal Service is facing losses of $8 billion or more this year.

The loss to what people in the future know about us today may be incalculable.

In earlier times the "art" of letter writing was formally taught, explained Newbold.

"Letters were the prime medium of communication among individuals and even important in communities as letters were shared, read aloud and published," he said. "Letters did the cultural work that academic journals, book reviews, magazines, legal documents, business memos, diplomatic cables, etc. do now. They were also obviously important in more intimate senses, among family, close friends, lovers, and suitors in initiating and preserving personal relationships and holding things together when distance was a real and unsurmountable obstacle."

"It's too early to tell with any certainty whether people are using email, texting, Twitter tweets, Facebook status updates, and so on in the same ways that we earlier relied on the letter for; they are probably using each of these media in different ways, some of which allow people to get closer to each other and engage in friendly or intimate exchange. It seems that email is the most letter-like medium," added Newbold.

But Aaron Sachs, a professor of American Studies and History at Cornell University, said, "One of the ironies for me is that everyone talks about electronic media bringing people closer together, and I think this is a way we wind up more separate. We don't have the intimacy that we have when we go to the attic and read grandma's letters."

"Part of the reason I like being a historian is the sensory experience we have when dealing with old documents" and letters, he said. "Sometimes, when people ask me what I do, I say I read other people's mail."

"Handwriting is an aspect of people's identity," he added. "Back in the day, when you wrote a letter it was to that one person, so people said very intimate things." Today with things like Facebook being more public people may not say as much, he said. And while some people are open in what they email, "it's a very different kind of sharing."

Said history professor Jeffrey Nathan Wasserstrom of the University of California, Irvine: "There are indeed many ways that a decline in letter-writing will affect future historians, as many people in my profession have certainly benefited from the insights that written missives provide into how people of the past thought and felt."

"Personally, I don't get or send many letters, at least not carefully composed ones," he added.

Wasserstrom still turns to them as a source for his research. "I expect to make a lot of use of letters written by people held hostage in Beijing in the summer of 1900 in my upcoming book on the Boxer Crisis."

Historian Kerby Miller of the University of Missouri-Columbia said friends "who have done research on immigrants of the last 10 to 20 years say that the letters were used as late as the 1950s and '60s, being replaced by long-distance phone calls and emails."

Any subject that relies on correspondence — culture, manners, husbands and wives, lovers, friends, brothers, historical business, political history — could suffer a loss with the decline in letter-writing, Miller said.

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

Stocks Sink, Pushing S&P to Edge of Bear Market

NEW YORK (AP) • The latest setback in Greece’s financial crisis sent major stock market indexes to lows for the year Monday and put the Standard and Poor’s 500 index on the verge of a bear market. The S&P 500 lost 32.19, or 2.9 percent, to 1,099.23. The Dow Jones industrial average fell 258.08 points, or 2.4 percent, to 10,655.30. Indexes of smaller companies fell even more than the Dow and S&P, which are dominated by large companies. The Nasdaq composite slid 79.57, or 3.3 percent, to 2,335.83.

Rhapsody Buys Napster
Subscribers from Best Buy

SEATTLE (AP) • Electronics retailer Best Buy Inc. is tuning out of Napster, a digital music service that has struggled to evolve from its renegade origins as a free file-sharing network that riled the recording industry.

Napster’s subscribers and other assets will be sold to another digital music service, Rhapsody, as part of a deal announced Monday.

Best Buy will get an undisclosed stake in Rhapsody after the swap is completed. The exchange is expected to be completed by end of November.

The deal ends Best Buy’s efforts to groom Napster into a brand that would have broad appeal to shoppers buying mobile phones and computers at its nearly 1,400 stores.

officials said in a written release.

The franchise has not yet set a date for when it will open the new location.

“We’re taking a careful approach to finding a franchise partner with business savvy, tenacity and a readiness to reinvest in the communities they serve,” said James Walker, chief development officer of Beef ‘O’ Brady’s.

Tampa-based Beef ‘O’ Brady’s, a franchise of family sports pubs and restaurants, is eyeing a new location in Twin Falls, according to company officials.

“Demographic research, brand recognition within the state and other factors make Twin Falls an ideal market for further expansion,” company

Employers Picking Up the Tab for Loans to States

BY KEVIN FREKING

Associated Press

WASHINGTON • States that borrowed billions from the federal government to keep unemployment benefits flowing through the recession now have to start paying those loans back, and they’re hitting businesses with new assessments and higher taxes to make that happen.

In all, 27 states owe the federal government nearly $38 billion. The first interest payments on those loans were due Friday and totaled about $1.1 billion.

Most states charged employers a one-time assessment to cover the charge. But those charges are only part of the story.

Businesses pay two types of unemployment insurance taxes. A federal tax primarily covers the administrative cost of the program, and a state tax pays for the basic benefits that laid-off workers receive. In most of the states that borrowed from the feds, the federal tax will increase by $21 per worker next year. Similar increases will take place in subsequent years until the loans are paid in full. Meanwhile, the state taxes have soared in just about every state to deal with the strain caused by the high numbers of people applying for unemployment benefits.

Joe Olivo, owner of Perfect Printing in Moorestown, N.J., with 45 employees just outside Philadelphia, estimates that he’ll pay an additional $24,000 this year in unemployment insurance taxes. He’s also dealing with higher expenses elsewhere, mainly for his employees’ health care.

“The problem is I can’t grow my sales fast enough or raise my prices fast enough to make up for that additional expense,” Olivo said.

Olivo’s rates also went up because, like many employers, he reduced staff during the recession, and states generally charge higher rates to companies with past layoffs.

“It all goes into putting me into a mode where you’re just so much more hesitant to invest,” he added. “I put my house and all my family’s assets into loans when I choose to invest. I don’t have the luxury of being wrong like some of these large companies.”

States collect payroll taxes to pay future unemployment insurance benefits, but the recession soon drained whatever reserves most states had generated. Those states then had to resort to federal loans to keep payments flowing. The federal government is charging an interest rate of about 4 percent.

To make its interest payment, Connecticut assessed its employers a one-time charge of about $40 per worker. New York charged businesses roughly $24 per worker, and Delaware charged $12.60, according to the National Employment Law Project, which is tracking states’ efforts to repay their loans. Ohio is making its $71 million interest payment with money obtained through a lawsuit settlement with tobacco companies. California is borrowing more than $300 million from its disability insurance trust fund.

New Jersey sets an example of the triple whammy hitting employers. Businesses paid a one-time $24 assessment per worker to cover the interest payment due last Friday. Next year, they’ll pay an extra $21 per worker in federal taxes to help pay off the loan principal. And at the state level, unemployment insurance taxes increased an average of $130 per worker this year and will go up by a similar amount over the next two years.

“Right now, the way the economy is, any little bit that increases costs can put some of our members over the edge,” said Lori Ehlbeck, state director for the National Federal of Independent Business in New Jersey.

Some states, such as Texas and Idaho, have paid off their federal loans by issuing bonds. Businesses in those states won’t have to pay a higher federal tax next year as a result, but those businesses are still dealing with significantly higher state taxes.

The federal government delayed interest payments on the federal loans for two years, a byproduct of the 2009 economic stimulus bill. Congress declined to pass legislation that would delay interest payments any further.

States aren’t just passing on the higher costs to businesses though. Many have looked to reduce benefits. Six states have reduced the number of weeks someone can collect basic benefits. For example, Michigan, South Carolina and Missouri cut the time frame for collecting benefits from 26 weeks to 20 weeks. Opponents of the cuts, such as the National Employment Law Project, argue that the cuts will not prevent significant tax hikes and that they undermine the program’s ability to help the unemployed get through tough economic times.

The tax increases in some states cannot be blamed simply on the soaring demand for unemployment insurance. Many states went into the recession ill prepared for bad times. The reserves those states had set aside for unemployment insurance payments had dwindled to historically low levels generally because state lawmakers wanted to limit employer taxes. In New Jersey’s case, lawmakers diverted money from the state’s unemployment insurance trust fund and used the revenue to pay for health care for the indigent.

“What really galls me as a business owner in New Jersey is that they raided these funds for years and used it for other purposes,” Olivo said. “They were warned that if there was ever a downturn, there was going to be a huge problem.”

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE FIFTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF THE STATE OF IDAHO, IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF JEROME

Case No. CV-2010-602
NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE OF REAL PROPERTY
GERALD MARTENS and JUDITH MARTENS, husband and wife, Plaintiffs,

vs.
PAUL LLOYD BUILDERS & DEVELOPERS, INC., an Idaho corporation; PAUL LLOYD, an individual; LAND TITLE AND ESCROW, INC., an Idaho corporation; CARL E. JACKSON, an individual; NANCY J. JACKSON, an individual; M & K PAINTING & WOODWORKING LLC, an Idaho limited liability company; KATRINA PORTER, an individual; MAXIMILIAN R. PORTER, an individual; SUN MEADOWS EAST SUBDIVISION, INC., an Idaho corporation, Defendants.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN under and by virtue of a Writ of Execution issued out of the above-entitled court in the above-captioned action, I have this day levied upon all the right, title, claim and interest of defendant ("Judgment Debtor"), in and to all that certain real property, described on the attached Exhibit A, located in Jerome County, State of Idaho.

BY VIRTUE of a Writ of Execution in my hands, issued out of the District Court of the Fifth Judicial District, of the State of Idaho, in and for the County of Jerome in the above-entitled action to the Sheriff of Jerome County, duly attested on this 13th day of September, 2011, I have levied upon all the right, title, and interest of defendant Paul Lloyd Builders & Developers, Inc. (hereafter collectively the "Judgment Debtor"), in and to the following described real property, a description of the subject real property is attached hereto as Exhibit A, situated in Jerome County, Idaho. The Sheriff, by Certificate of Sale, will transfer the right, title, and interest of the Judgment Debtor in and to the real property at the time the execution or attachment was levied. The Sheriff will give possession but does not guarantee clear title nor continued possessory right to the purchaser.

Pursuant to Idaho Code Section 11-402, the judgment debtor or redemptioner may redeem the property from the purchaser within one (1) year after the sale, if the real property sold consisted of a tract of land of more than twenty (20) acres, and within six (6) months after the sale if the real property sold consisted of a tract of land of twenty (20) acres or less, on paying the purchaser the amount of his purchase with interest thereon at the rate allowed in Section 28-22-104(1), Idaho Code, from the date of sale to the date of redemption, together with the amount of any assessment or taxes which the purchaser may have paid thereon after the commencement of the action and which are not included in the judgment, and interest at the rate allowed in section 28-22-104(1), Idaho Code, on such amount; and, if the purchaser be also a creditor having a prior lien to that of the redemptioner, other than the judgment under which such purchase was made, the amount of such lien with interest at the rate allowed in Section 28-22-104(1), Idaho Code; provided, in mortgage foreclosure proceedings, the amount necessary to redeem the property sold under execution shall not include any sum for attorney's fees greater than the fee actually paid by the judgment creditor or which the judgment creditor has by written instrument become unconditionally obligated to pay to his attorney for prosecuting his claim to judgment; and provided, further, the amount of such fee shall be proven by affidavits of the attorney who has received and the person who has paid the fee or by other competent evidence to be presented to the sheriff for his guidance in carrying out the provisions of law relating to redemption; and, provided further, that such redemptioner shall not be required to pay any attorney's fees unless such fees shall have been paid within six (6) months after the sheriff's certificate of sale shall have issued, or within such time the judgment creditor has become unconditionally obligated by written instrument to pay such fees.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on Thursday, the 13th day of October, 2011, at 10:00 AM at Jerome County Courthouse, 300 North Lincoln, Jerome, Idaho, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said Judgment Debtor in and to the said above described real property, at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash in lawful money of the United States, to satisfy said execution and all costs.

Given under my hand, this 13 day of September, 2011.

Female Wire Haired German Shorthair pointer. Found on 500 block 11th st in Buhl 9-27-11. Call to identify. Will be available for adoption this week.

Male Springer Spaniel older adult. Found on 9th St in Buhl 9-28-11. Call to identify.

Male Pit Bull/Boxer?/Australian Shepherd mix with docked tail found on 1000 Spruce St in Buhl 10-1-11. Call to identify.

AVAILABLE FOR ADOPTION:

Donations are greatly appreciated. We are in desperate need of adult and puppy food. Thank you Turbo a male adult chocolate Labrador Retriever. This is an amazing dog! He is very well trained and looking for his forever family. Absolutely housebroken..loves to fetch..he will even shake a paw with you!! Come meet this distinguished guy today!

Loretta-linn is a beautiful Heeler/Border Collie mix. She is white with black spots and is absolutely adorable. She is about 7 weeks-old.

Conway Twitty is a handsome Heeler/Border Collie mix. He is black with some white markings. He is about six-weeks-old and came into the shelter with his sister Loretta. They were found in an ally starving and scared. They are doing really well now and are eager to find there forever homes.

Darby is a sweet little black Labrador puppy. She probably is mixed with another breed because she has a little bit of white. However, she has the classic Labrador head and ears. Darby loves to swim and fetch and is very affectionate. She will make a great family pet and might even be that new hunting companion for some lucky guy.

Gypsy was left abandoned in a back yard with 2 feet of chain. If it hadn't been for a good Samaritan neighbor she wouldn't have made it to us. She is a beautiful Australian Shepherd mix with a red brindle coat. Gypsy is probably about 3 years old.

Miracle Max is a 6 month old chocolate Lab. Max came to the shelter about four months ago and has been under medical care. He was tied in the back of a pickup, jumped out and got tangled up with the back tire. The tire acted as a belt sander removing all of the muscle tissue and much of the bone on Max's rear leg. Rather than euthanizing Max or amputating the leg, Dr. Jones and his staff spent the past several months caring for Max with herbal therapies. Max's leg is now fully functional.

Marly is a sweetheart, she is a 10 week old Border Collie mix puppy. She came into our shelter with her siblings Marley and Harley. She is black and white. Carly would be that perfect addition to your home.

Hannah is a 3 month old chocolate Labrador mix puppy. She has a some white markings. She is a sweetheart!

Missy-Mae is a Beagle/Basset Hound mix. She is a young adult, probably about 2 or 3-years-old. Missy is tri-colored and very affectionate.

Kelsey is a female Pointer Border Collie mix puppy. White with large black spots..really cute!

The adoption fee is $75 and includes spaying/neutering and the first set of vaccinations.

Today's Highlights:
On Oct. 4, 1861, during the Civil War, the United States Navy authorized construction of the first ironclad ship, the USS Monitor. Writer and illustrator Frederic Remington was born in Canton, N.Y.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1777, Gen. George Washington's troops launched an assault on the British at Germantown, Pa., resulting in heavy American casualties.

In 1822, the 19th president of the United States, Rutherford B. Hayes, was born in Delaware, Ohio.

In 1931, the comic strip "Dick Tracy," created by Chester Gould, made its debut.

In 1951, the MGM movie musical "An American in Paris," starring Gene Kelly and Leslie Caron, had its U.S. premiere in New York.

In 1957, the Space Age began as the Soviet Union launched Sputnik 1, the first artificial satellite, into orbit.

In 1959, the Soviet Union launched Luna 3, a space probe which transmitted images of the far side of the moon.

In 1961, the animated TV series "The Alvin Show" premiered on CBS.

In 1970, rock singer Janis Joplin, 27, was found dead in her Hollywood hotel room.

In 1976, agriculture secretary Earl Butz resigned in the wake of a controversy over a joke he'd made about blacks.

In 1991, 26 nations, including the United States, signed the Madrid Protocol, which imposed a 50-year ban on oil exploration and mining in Antarctica.

Ten years ago: A Russian airliner flying from Israel to Siberia was accidentally downed by a Ukrainian anti-aircraft missile over the Black Sea, killing all 78 people aboard. Barry Bonds of the San Francisco Giants hit his 70th home run to tie Mark McGwire's 1998 record in a 10-2 victory over the Houston Astros. Rickey Henderson homered to pass Ty Cobb and become baseball's career leader in runs scored with 2,246 during San Diego's 6-3 win over Los Angeles.

Five years ago: Ousted Hewlett-Packard Chairwoman Patricia Dunn, a company officer and three investigators were charged with violating California privacy laws in a corporate spying scandal. (The charges were later dropped, with a judge calling their conduct a "betrayal of trust and honor" that nonetheless did not rise to the level of criminal activity.) The domain name wikileaks.org was registered (the website began publishing in Dec. 2006). American Roger D. Kornberg won the Nobel Prize in chemistry. New York Times correspondent R.W. Apple Jr. died in Washington at age 71.

One year ago: The Supreme Court began a new era with three women serving together for the first time as Elena Kagan took her place at the end of the bench. The Nobel Prize in medicine went to Robert Edwards of Britain, whose work led to the first test tube baby. The Europeans reclaimed the Ryder Cup, winning 14½-13½.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

*"They studied at the self-same schools,
And shaped their thoughts by common rules."*

— Thomas Hardy

Working out declarer's likely holding was the key to Kyle Larsen's brilliant defense in this deal, originally reported by Alan Truscott. His victim was Jill Meyers, whose team nevertheless went on to win the match. Larsen was short-listed for defense of the year about a decade ago. The deal is particularly satisfying because it goes against all the rules of defense by setting up tricks for declarer, not your own side.

Against three no-trump Larsen led a top diamond, and when dummy appeared, he paused to take stock. Declarer's double, followed by her jump to game, showed a very strong hand, one likely to have a long running suit, which, judging from West's hand, could only be spades.

South was marked with queen-third of diamonds for her final bid, and if she held seven spades, that left only three cards in the rounded suits.

So Larsen cashed his heart ace and king, and South was squeezed. Had she discarded a minor-suit card, West would have continued with that suit.

In fact, South chose to discard a spade. As a spade switch would have been fatal, giving declarer access to dummy's now established hearts, Larsen cashed the diamond king and continued with the jack. This gave declarer her eighth trick, but she was unable to engineer the ninth.

Even if declarer had started with just six spades, West would still have needed to cash the top hearts now to prevent being thrown in with them later.

ANSWER: You are never going to stop short of game here, so it would be simple just to bid four spades. However, just in case your partner has good diamonds (in which case slam might make) cue-bid two clubs first. If your partner jumps in diamonds, you might consider going beyond four spades. If not, you can bid four spades at your next turn.

2 & 3 Bdrm Apts & Houses Various Locations. 734-4334 twinfallsrentals.com

BURLEY 2 & 1 bdrm.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder how many women feel just like me. I spent the best years of my life married to an abuser and cheater, raising three children who were my world.

Now, as I approach my twilight years, I have a sick husband who needs my care and three children who are self-sufficient, successful and self-serving. I feel used by all of them. I hear from them only when they need me to baby-sit, provide a shoulder to cry on during breakups, etc.

My husband is a sick old man who appears to be headed toward dementia, and I can't find the courage to walk away. I don't know what you can do for me because I know I'm only one of millions of women in the same position: We can't afford a divorce; we want to remain a part of our children's lives; yet we yearn to give our love to those who can return it and appreciate the loving, competent women we are. What are your thoughts on this?

— LEFT BEHIND

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR LEFT BEHIND: Your family is not going to change. If you want change in your life, you will have to create it for yourself. Accept that you have been partly to blame for your current situation. You tolerated the abuse and cheating and focused so much attention on your children that they grew up thinking you would jump when they snapped their fingers.

If you want to be appreciated, stop acting like a martyr and make yourself less available to all of them. Use the time to carve out an identity of your own before it's too late. Donate some of that "empty" time to charities you believe in or causes you care about, and you will be appreciated. And while you're at it, talk to a lawyer and find out what your options are. You may find you're not as trapped as you think.

DEAR ABBY: Our three grandchildren have come to live with us because their mother got mixed up with drugs and their father died. The middle boy, "Clay," is such a picky eater, it borders on an eating disorder. He is 11, weighs 60 pounds and is skeletal to look at. He is the smallest child in his grade. He will eat chicken, potatoes, rice, some cereal and peanut butter sandwiches. One day he will like something, the next he won't. We have caught him making himself vomit after we have insisted he eat something.

We have tried not making a big issue about it, saving his plate for the next meal, making him sit at the table until he has eaten everything and had him see a psychologist for a year. Clay is a sweet, engaging child who has convinced two psychologists there is nothing wrong.

We know this is the way he has some control over his life, but we are fearful for his health and happiness. We have tried counseling in this community of limited mental health resources. Any suggestions?

— IN A FOOD FIGHT IN ARKANSAS

DEAR IN A FOOD FIGHT: Yes. Stop turning mealtime into a battleground. Take Clay back to his pediatrician and find out whether or not his physical development falls into the range of normal. Explain that the boy is living on protein, starches and carbs and ask what supplemental vitamins he should take for his health.

So far, all you have accomplished has been to make your grandson associate mealtime with punishment, and that isn't conducive to anyone's health and happiness — not his and not yours. If the doctor says Clay is developing normally, then accept it, as well as the advice of the two psychologists. If he isn't, consult an expert in eating disorders.

IF OCTOBER 4 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Logic wins out over romance during the next several months. Although you are hoping for love, to win the lottery, or to enjoy "a dream come true," it is more important to cross your t's. Your business savvy helps you make progress in the work or career department in December, but your overconfidence can cause you to make a business or investment mistake in February. March is the very best month to make job changes or to commit your heart to a new romance. Late July and early August is the best time to launch important projects.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Stoke the embers of romance. The enthusiasms that bubble over can make you the target of someone's affection. You can safely make key financial decisions that greatly benefit your pocket book and future.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Success is nothing without someone to share it with. When you and your partner are focused on common goals, doubts and fears disappear. Show more confidence and you instill trust in everyone.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Two hearts beat as one. You may meet someone with whom you can enjoy limitless fun or who makes you fall down laughing. Share your most private thoughts with someone you care about.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Staying on point yields rewards. A high level of precision is the key. Calculate the odds carefully. Not much financial improvement can be seen, but going home to the family will make you feel rich.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A friend in need is a friend indeed. Someone whom you can truly trust will come through for you in the clutch, and you won't even need to ask for it. Don't forget when it is your turn to repay the favor.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A difficult task is all the more satisfying when finished. Your workload may seem like a terrible burden now, but the rewards will be well worth it. Indulge yourself with a pricey gift.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Let your inner child roam free. You may be all grown up now, but you can still have fun. Your antics may draw the attention and admiration of the opposite sex so prepare for twice the pleasure.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Whatever your heart's desire, you can have it. Make a wish list of your favorite things and a special someone will go out of their way to provide it for you. Being a couch potato in front of the TV is a waste.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Doubt is the enemy. Uncertainty about a project can undermine your confidence. Move forward with original plans without hesitation and before you can say, "second guess," it will be done.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Two heads are better than one. Advice from a knowledgeable friend could aim you in the right direction if improving your finances is the question. Purchase items suited to a discriminating taste.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Tune your strings and make beautiful music with someone. Your ability to click with your partner gets a boost. Have no doubts about a loved one who will come through for you. Seal a business deal.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your fantasies may become reality. Prepare for pleasant surprises when a significant other seems to know all the things that will make you smile. In business, make sure you haven't overlooked an error.

WHEN YOU'RE READY TO SELL YOUR CAR, GET YOUR MONEY'S WORTH.

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

Crosby's Return Delayed

Pittsburgh Penguins star Sidney Crosby's return to the ice will have to wait a little longer. The team placed the former MVP on the injured list Monday, meaning he'll have to miss at least the first week of the season. Crosby is continuing to recover from concussion-like symptoms sustained last January. He has been skating with the Penguins since training camp opened but has not yet been cleared for contact. The Penguins open the season on Thursday at Vancouver. Under the rules the earliest Crosby could be activated is Oct. 13, when Pittsburgh hosts Washington.

NO LIVING UP TO THE HYPE FOR SOME NFL TEAMS

ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Eagles players, the Jets coach and the Cowboys owner ramped up the expectations for their teams, it seemed reasonable. All had the talent to challenge for a championship. Turns out, through the first month of the NFL season, all that bluster was just that — all hype. None of those teams has shown much substance through the first four games. Throw in the Falcons, a fashionable pick to represent the NFC in next February's Super Bowl, and defending AFC champ Pittsburgh, and the opening quarter of the schedule has been full of surprises — and disappointments — for some ballyhooed teams. No one has been more disappointing than the heavily hyped Eagles, who quickly have driven their fans to concentrating on the Phillies in the playoffs. The squad backup quarterback Vince Young dubbed a "Dream Team" after all its offseason acquisitions is keeping folks in Philadelphia up all night trying to figure out what has gone wrong. The Eagles have lost three straight and are at the bottom of the NFC East. Their latest flop was the worst, as they blew a 23-3 second-half lead and fell to San Francisco — despite a sensational performance by Michael Vick. But Vick doesn't play in the secondary, which despite some hefty price tags for Nnamdi Asomugha and Asante Samuel, has been a sieve. And Vick isn't a linebacker — in fact, some in Philly wonder if anyone on the roster actually is one.

Boldewijn Has Eligibility Restored

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOISE • Kellen Moore is about to get a big new downfield target. Boise State coach Chris Petersen said Monday the NCAA has reinstated wide receiver Geraldo Boldewijn, one of three Broncos with Dutch ties who have missed games this season due to eligibility issues. Boldewijn, the biggest and fastest member of the Bronco receiving corps, is practicing with the team this week and is expected to play Friday night when the No. 5 Broncos (4-0) travel to Fresno State. For Boise State, the deep, vertical threat Boldewijn could open up new opportunities in the passing game. So far this season, Moore hasn't connected on many throws deep down field, and his longest completion so far is a 38-yarder two weeks ago against Tulsa. "It'll be fun," Moore said Monday. "He deserves some opportunities. He brings some stuff that the other guys can't. He's got some talents that hopefully we can showcase." In 13 games last season, Boldewijn had 11 catches for 160 yards, including a 48-yarder. Heading into this season, Boldewijn was considered the Broncos' best bet to stretch defenses and replace Titus Young, whose speed and deep ball skills gave opposing secondaries fits.

Burley's draw vs. Minico meant little in terms of postseason tournament, but was enough to get under skin of Spartans.

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • They'll have to settle this thing in the District IV tournament. The Burley-Minico soccer rivalry is as competitive as ever. The teams played to their second draw of the season in Monday's regular-season finale, setting up what promises to be a dramatic district tourney beginning Thursday. "We haven't beat Burley at Burley, and it angers our team and we're not satisfied," said Minico senior captain Ethan Belnap. Minico, which has had the district's No. 1 seed locked up for the past week, is 8-4-3 overall (6-1-3 GBC, 21 pts.), has a first-round bye and will play Saturday. The Spartans are 3-1-1 in their last five games, outscoring opponents 12 to 4.

"We feel good, but we can't be overconfident. We have to come out mean and strong," Belnap said. Monday's tie meant nothing for Burley, (5-6-4 overall, 4-2-4 GBC, 16 pts.) which needed a win in order to jump ahead of Wood River for the second seed and a first-round bye. Instead, Burley takes the third seed and opens the tournament at home Thursday vs. Twin Falls. "We're in the mix, we're playing well. It's going to come down to who can execute set plays because the defenses are really tough," said Burley coach Wes Nyblade. One thing to look forward to in districts, if Burley and Minico meet again, it can't end in a tie, as overtime and penalty kicks will come into play. The biggest challenge for both teams on Monday was the wind, which treated the ball like a boomerang. "We couldn't play any sort of direct play whatsoever. That ball was whipping back, it was impossible to get anything," said Nyblade. Playing with the wind in the first half, Minico scored in the 36th minute when Alberto Ramirez finished off Eddie Lopez's corner kick, with some help from Belnap. "I saw the ball coming and I just stepped in front of the goalkeeper so that he couldn't see, then I just gave a little tap to Berto," Belnap said. Burley scored the equalizer in the 63rd minute as Jesus Bracamantez received Brandon Castaneda's corner kick and one-touched it into the net. Despite earning the top seed and only losing once in conference play during the regular season, Minico coach Armando Tapia said his team needs to refocus if it intends on winning the school's first-ever district title. "They realize that we have to be serious about it, we have to be on the field at practices at all times," said Tapia, referring to several players who have missed practices recently. "I never like to tell my kids, 'You guys are No. 1.' We do realize that a lot of eyes are on us because of that, but we like to take it one game at a time, learn from our mistakes and see what happens"

Tigers One Victory From Closing Out Yanks

ASSOCIATED PRESS

DETROIT • Justin Verlander struck out 11 in eight gritty innings and Jose Valverde stopped a New York Yankees rally for the second straight night, whiffing Derek Jeter with two on to close out the Detroit Tigers' 5-4 victory Monday. Delmon Young hit a tiebreaking homer in seventh off Rafael Soriano and the Tigers took a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five American League playoff, pushing the Yankees to the brink of elimination. Their hopes ride Tuesday night on A.J. Burnett, the $82.5million pitcher who was so unreliable this season that he wasn't supposed to get a start in this series. A rainstorm changed all that when Game 1 was suspended Friday night, forcing both teams to alter their pitching plans.

Detroit shortstop Jhonny Peralta jumps over New York's Brett Gardner and throws to first to retire Derek Jeter and complete a double play during the third inning.

Verlander and New York ace CC Sabathia were back on the mound after their series-opening matchup at Yankee Stadium was halted after only 1½ innings.

While Sabathia didn't make it through the sixth Monday, Verlander was still hitting 100 mph on the stadium radar gun in the eighth.

Rangers 4 Rays 3

Mike Napoli's home run, Colby Lewis' pitching puts Texas within one win of the AL Championship Series. More of this story on S4.

Valverde took over in the ninth — and another dramatic ending followed. The All-Star closer, who was perfect in 49 save chances this season, walked two and got a warning-track flyout before striking out Jeter to end it. Trailing by four in the ninth on Sunday, the Yankees scored twice against Valverde before he got Robinson Cano to ground out with two on to close out a 5-3 victory in Game 2.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Utes QB Wynn Out 2-3 Weeks; Hays to Start vs. Arizona St.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SALT LAKE CITY • Junior-college transfer Jon Hays will start at quarterback for Utah on Saturday against Arizona State after tests confirmed Jordan Wynn will be out two to three weeks with a left shoulder injury.

School officials said Monday that Wynn would be re-evaluated to determine whether he will be able to play again this season.

Hays played the second half of Saturday's 31-14 loss to Washington, completing 10 of 16 passes for 156 yards. He had an interception and a touchdown.

His backup will be freshman Tyler Shreve.

The Utes (2-2, 0-2) had hoped to contend for the Pac-12 South title but are winless in conference play and now face a Sun Devils team that has climbed to No. 22 in the rankings thanks to a 4-1 start.

Texas

The 11th-ranked Longhorns are heading into their annual rivalry with Oklahoma with plans to keep playing two quarterbacks.

The Longhorns are off to a 4-0 start behind the rotation of Case McCoy and David Ash. They'll be stepping on to a much bigger stage against the No. 3 Sooners.

McCoy is just a sophomore and Ash is a freshman Texas coach Mack Brown says he's not worried about rotating his young quarterbacks in a rivalry where momentum can swing from play to play. Both played big roles in a rally to beat BYU and two road wins over UCLA and Iowa State.

South Carolina

Steve Spurrier's calling a quarterback shuffle for No. 18 South Carolina with sophomore Connor Shaw replacing inconsistent senior Stephen Garcia.

After hinting at the move since Saturday's 16-13 loss to Auburn, Spurrier made it official following Monday's practice.

The Gamecocks (4-1, 2-1 Southeastern Conference) seemed set at the position with Garcia, a fifth-year starter who had a breakout year in 2010 as he passed for 3,059 yards and 20 touchdowns in helping the Gamecocks reach their first SEC championship game.

But Garcia's hasn't come close to that production this fall. His completion percentage has dropped from 64 percent last year to 51 percent this season. He's thrown nine interceptions and just four touchdowns in South Carolina's first five games.

Garcia was 9 of 23 for 160 yards and two interceptions against an Auburn pass defense that came in ranked last in the SEC.

Ohio State

Ohio State is in trouble with the NCAA again, this time because three Buckeyes players — including two who have already been sitting out for taking cash and free tattoos — accepted too much money for too little work in their summer jobs.

Last year's leading rusher, Daniel Herron, and the top returning receiver, DeVier Posey, along with offensive lineman Marcus Hall will not be permitted to play when the Buckeyes play at No. 14 Nebraska on Saturday.

Athletic Director Gene Smith insisted at a Monday afternoon news conference that there was no "systemic" problem at Ohio State, which has admitted to having several players involved in different NCAA violations over the past 10 months.

Northwestern

Quarterback Dan Persa is expected to play against No. 12 Michigan on Saturday.

Coach Pat Fitzgerald says Persa is "great, he's ready to go" after leaving last week's 38-35 loss at Illinois because of soreness in his right foot near the Achilles tendon he ruptured last November. The senior took himself out after a hit in the fourth quarter, spoiling what had been an impressive season debut.

Top Seed in GBC Belongs to Bruins; Minico Gets 1st Win

TIMES-NEWS

The Twin Falls girls soccer team has to share the Great Basin Conference title with Wood River, but by virtue of its 7-0 victory against Canyon Ridge, the Bruins earned the top seed and a bye for the conference tournament, which begins Thursday.

Claire Goss had three goals, Jordyn Clark had two, and Becca Behren one for Twin Falls, which awaits the winner of Thursday's game between Canyon Ridge and Minico.

Morgan McInnis had two assists for Twin Falls, who finalized their goal count on an own goal.

COMMUNITY SCHOOL 8, GOODING 1

The Cutthroats got a hat trick from Ellie Swanson, and Gabi Perenchio had two goals and an assist to lead Community School to an easy victory against the Senators.

Hayley Murach and Josie Allison also found the net for Community School (9-4-1, 8-2-1 High Desert Conference). Hannah Dies, Jordan Fitzgerald and Taylor Figge added assists. Gooding's lone score came on an own goal. Community School closes its regular season today at Filer.

MINICO 2, BURLEY 1

Taylor Van Tassell scored two second-half goals as Minico earned its first win of the season by rallying past Burley in its regular-season finale.

"We definitely pulled it together," Van Tassell said. "We've had bits and pieces, but we had never played a full game. Today I felt like we played our full game. It was senior night, it was Burley, and we had to pull it off."

Burley scored first, with Megan Graham finding the back of the net early in the second half.

But Van Tassell scored the equalizer, with an assist from Crystal Tovar, and then booted the game-winner.

Burley (3-10-1 overall, 3-6-1 GBC) tied Canyon Ridge for third seed in the District IV tournament, but the Bobcats own the tiebreaker. They will host sixth-seeded Minico (1-12-1 overall, 1-8-1 GBC) in the first round of districts on Thursday.

Boys soccer

COMMUNITY SCHOOL 5, GOODING 2

Will Brokaw had a pair of first-half goals and the Cutthroats clinched the High Desert Conference title by beating Gooding.

Cameron Jenner, Tim Kanellitsas and Hunter Weaver added goals, while coach Richard Whitelaw's "Man of the Match" was defender Colin Waycott.

By winning the league title, Community School earned a first-round bye and a home playoff game, which it will play Monday at 4:30 p.m.

CANYON RIDGE 5, TWIN FALLS 2

Suren Thapa opened the scoring with a pair of goals, and Hadir Saad, Lane Barker and Socus Kabura found the net for the Riverhawks, who begin the GBC tournament Thursday with a game at fourth-seeded Jerome.

Isaac Laris and Ricky Sanchez scored for the Bruins, who finished sixth and drew No. 3 seed Burley.

Volleyball

KIMBERLY 3, WENDELL 0

Erica Williams had 12 kills and Kylie Haskell added 14 digs as the Bulldogs (6-8) had little trouble with the Trojans in a non-league match, 25-19, 25-14, 25-19.

VALLEY 3, HANSEN 1

Gaby Beck had 12 kills and teammate Cheyanna Nelson had 10 kills as the Vikings rebounded from an opening-game loss to beat the Huskies, 17-25, 25-17, 27-25, 25-13.

Rebecca Valles had nine kills to lead Hansen, while Connilyn Hursh had seven kills and six aces.

HAGERMAN 3, SHOSHONE 1

Hagerman received 45 assists from Hayley White and 14 kills from Aly Sauer in defeating the Indians in four games, 25-22, 25-20, 21-25, 25-18.

The Pirates also got 22 digs from Sheala Owsley in improving to 11-2.

Big Day Coming for NBA

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK • After a lock-out that has lasted more than three months, whether the NBA season starts on time could come down to one “very huge day” in labor talks.

Owners and players will be back Tuesday for a full bargaining session, knowing if they fail to produce results, there may not be enough time left to avoid canceling regular-season games.

“A lot of signs point to tomorrow being a very huge day,” players’ association president Derek Fisher of the Lakers said. “There will be a lot of pressure on all of us in the room, and we’ll accept that responsibility and go in and see what we can get worked out.”

The sides met in small groups Monday for about five hours, a session that Deputy Commissioner Adam Silver said was mainly about “setting the table” for Tuesday. While careful not to put too much pressure on Tuesday’s talks, he and Commissioner David Stern made clear there had to be signs of compromise.

“Each side understands exactly what’s at stake and where potentially there is movement in order to try to get a deal done,” Silver said. “I mean, we can only say we’re running out of time so many times.”

Boldewijn

But the day before Boise State’s opener at Georgia, school officials announced that Boldewijn, safety Cedric Febis and defensive tackle Ricky Tjong-A-Tjoe were suspended pending NCAA eligibility issues. All three players from Amsterdam had played their senior seasons in Boise high schools before signing to play with the Broncos, and all three played backup roles last year.

Febis was reinstated in time for the second game at Toledo; Tjong-A-Tjoe’s status is still pending.

At the time of the suspensions, Petersen said the inquiry was not related to academic or team rule violations. Athletic officials said the university is expected to release a comprehensive statement on the three players later in the week.

Boldewijn has been taking part in individual drills with Moore and working with the practice squad. Petersen said it’s too soon to forecast what kind of immediate impact the sophomore could have on the Bronco offense.

“We’ll fit him in there and give him some things and we’ll see,” Petersen said. “We just feel really bad for these kids. These kids are sitting here trying to work this out ... missing games. It’s really hard on them.”

But Moore may be the biggest beneficiary of the return of Boldewijn, who showed a knack for making big, game-changing plays during spring and fall workouts. Moore is coming off his worst performance in a brilliant career, and having a true deep threat could open up the kind of short and middle passing routes that showcase his pinpoint accuracy and ability to pick apart opposing defenses.

In Saturday’s 30-10 blowout over Nevada, Moore was 19 of 33 for 142 yards, a career low. He also missed a handful of open receivers and threw back-to-back interceptions in the second half, but he was also victimized by some drops, including a 51-yarder to Mitch Burroughs that could have gone for a touchdown.

Freeman Leads Bucs Past Colts

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TAMPA, Fla. • Josh Freeman and LeGarrette Blount helped the Tampa Bay Buccaneers rally for another victory.

Freeman threw for 287 yards and a touchdown, Blount ran for 127 yards and a score, and the Buccaneers beat the Indianapolis Colts 24-17 on Monday night.

Freeman, who ran for a touchdown early in the game, scrambled for a huge first down on the winning drive as the Buccaneers (3-1) won their third consecutive game. Freeman rallied the Bucs to victory at Minnesota in Week 2.

The Colts fell to 0-4 for the first time since 1998, Peyton Manning’s rookie season. Manning has watched all four games, unable to play because of a neck injury.

Curtis Painter started this one, filling in for injured backup Kerry Collins, who’s out because of a concussion, and played better than most expected. Painter threw for 281 yards and two touchdowns, both long ones to Pierre Garcon. He wasn’t nearly as effective down the stretch, partly because the Colts lost starting offensive linemen Anthony Castonzo and Ben Ijalana to injuries. Guard Ryan Diem was inactive.

Colts running back Joseph Addai is hunted down by the Buccaneers defense and brought down for a loss in the first half of Monday’s game.

Painter completed 13 of 30 passes. Garcon turned a short sideline route into an 87-yard score in the second quarter, then took a screen pass and weaved his way through defenders for a 59-yarder in the third.

The 87-yarder was the team’s longest play of the season, the fifth-longest pass play in team history and longer than anything Manning has thrown in his

NFL career.

The Colts were up 17-10 after Garcon’s second score, but it was all Tampa Bay in the final 20-plus minutes.

Freeman was 25 of 39 passing, buying time in the pocket and picking apart Indy’s zone defense. He got the Bucs on the scoreboard with a 1-yard plunge in the second quarter and tied the game at 10 with a 13-yard pass to Preston Parker late in the third.

Blount put them ahead for good when he broke through the line of scrimmage, cut right and scampered for a 35-yard score with 3:15 remaining. Freeman had a huge run on a third-and-6 play on the drive. He eluded a rusher, scrambled out of the pocket and dived for a first down.

Freeman also converted a fourth-and-1 play with 1:10 remaining, allowing the Bucs to run out the clock. He finished with six carries for 27 yards.

Flops

He doesn’t placekick, although Vick might have made one of the two field goals from inside 40 yards that rookie Alex Henery missed in the fourth quarter fold Sunday.

What’s going on in Philadelphia is anything but dreamy, and the problems are drawing an even brighter spotlight because of preseason proclamations that the Eagles were going to be something special.

“We’ve got the people to do it, but we’re just not doing it,” said defensive tackle Cullen Jenkins, one of several high-priced additions through free agency or trades. “Maybe having this label of having so many good people is hurting us, because maybe people are standing around waiting for someone else to do it. Or expecting that someone else is going to come in and make the play instead of people going out and manning up and making it themselves.”

Sounds a lot like the Jets, whose recent success — trips to the AFC title game the last two years — has faded under the ugliness of being brutalized by the Raiders and Ravens. With All-Pro center Nick Mangold sidelined by a high right ankle sprain, the Jets (2-2) as a whole forgot how to block. Their defense played decently in the loss to the Ravens, but it has been mediocre in a lucky win over Dallas in the opener, and was miserable in the defeat at Oakland.

Quarterback Mark Sanchez was supposed to take the next big step in his development in his third pro season. Instead, he’s regressed as the offensive line has collapsed.

All of which has made Rex Ryan’s boastful declarations nothing more than ... hype.

“We’ve had some ups and downs before,” Ryan said. “We’ve had one worse than this one, believe it or not. We’re just the men for the job, we’ll get this thing fixed.”

Better do so soon, Rex — next up is a visit to New England.

Dallas fell apart in similar fashion to its NFC East rival Eagles on Sunday. While Philadelphia couldn’t hold a 20-point second-half lead, the Cowboys (2-2) were up 27-3 over the Lions. Then they reverted to recent woes, getting sloppy in pass coverage and sloppier with the ball.

Tony Romo has rightly been praised for his courage in playing hurt, and for his leadership skills. He also needs to be lambasted for his penchant to turn over the ball, with both Dallas losses directly attributable to his interceptions or fumbles.

And maybe, just maybe, the Cowboys have been overrated, in great part thanks to their front-and-center owner’s willingness to cast them as something more than they really are.

Not that Jerry Jones should be downgrading the roster he has put together. But asking this group, which would have trouble covering Jones himself on a pass route, to be exceptional might be nothing more than, well, hype.

Regardless, Jones isn’t abandoning his quarterback and longtime pet project.

“I view the success we have, I view what he does well and I put the mistakes right in with what he does well and don’t in any way get discouraged about our future with Tony,” Jones said. “There’s no issue about faith in Romo, any place in this organization, period. ... If you’re going to try to make plays, then you’ve got a chance to have some bad plays. But however we go, we’ll go with Tony. As Tony goes, we’ll go.”

There’s no such angst over the quarterback in Atlanta, where Matt Ryan is a lot steadier than Romo. What has been the problem in the ATL is too much average football, and in a division with the Saints and Buccaneers, that’s treading dangerous waters.

With the monster trade to move up for playmaking receiver Julio Jones on draft day, the Falcons dived headfirst into the hype machine. Jones would be the missing link in the NFL’s most competitive division, and would keep the Falcons at the top of the conference, a Super Bowl favorite.

Jones had a breakout game at Seattle with 11 catches for 127 yards in Atlanta’s 30-28 victory. But the Falcons (2-2) had to sweat out a last-minute 61-yard field goal try to win against an inferior opponent.

Finally, there are the struggling Steelers (2-2), who don’t look anything like the club that lost to Green Bay in last February’s Super Bowl. All that talk about veteran outfits with well-established regimens surviving the lockout best has, in Pittsburgh’s case, been a bunch of hype, compounded by injuries. Considering the Steelers’ blue collar history, that’s strange.

Of course, it’s already been a strange season.

CRAZY EIGHTH LIFTS RANGERS PAST RAYS

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. • Once again, the Texas Rangers look perfectly comfortable under the roof at Tropicana Field.

Colby Lewis outpitched All-Star David Price, Mike Napoli hit a go-ahead homer and the defending AL champions survived a shaky effort from the bullpen to hold off the Tampa Bay Rays 4-3 Monday in Game 3 of their best-of-five playoff.

The Rangers’ fourth straight division series road win matched the third-longest streak in major league history and gave them a 2-1 lead heading into Game 4. Texas won three ALDS games at Tampa Bay a year ago, when it eliminated the Rays in five games.

“We don’t take these guys lightly because they’ve got momentum, they’ve got a lot of heart,” Rangers CEO and president Nolan Ryan said. “That concerns you a lot, and so we know we’ve got our hands full with them.”

Playing in front of the first sellout at home since opening day and hoping to recapture the magic of clinching the AL wild card in the regular-season finale, Tampa Bay got a pair of solo home runs from rookie Desmond Jennings.

The Rays kept it interesting by scoring twice off Rangers relievers before Neftali Feliz got four outs for his second save of the series.

Texas third baseman Adrian Beltre, playing deep and guarding the line to prevent a double in the ninth, started an around-the-horn double play on Kelly Shoppach’s grounder to end it.

“It was three of the toughest innings that we experienced all year. ... I am just so happy we were able to get the 27th out,” Washington said of the late-game drama.

Tigers

After two games in New York that took three rainy days to finish, Comerica Park was dry on Monday, with the exception of the fountains beyond center field. The Yankees managed two quick runs off Verlander in the first, but the 24-game winner settled down. He appeared to be laboring at times, allowing four runs, six hits and three walks, but he stayed in for 120 pitches and Detroit produced just enough offense.

Brett Gardner tied it for the Yankees with a two-run double in the seventh, but Young answered with a line drive that barely cleared the wall in right field to give the Tigers a 5-4 lead.

It was reminiscent of Young’s homer in Game 1 at Yankee Stadium — which came before a downpour Friday night that forced that game to be suspended and knocked both Verlander and Sabathia out for a couple of days.

Valverde, who threw 34 pitches in a non-save situation Sunday, was back for the ninth a day later. He had playfully declared the series was “over” after Game 2, and the Yankees nearly made him eat his words, but Jeter struck out swinging with runners at first and second.

Sabathia allowed four runs and seven hits with six walks in 51-3 innings.

Verlander, who led the American League in wins, ERA and strikeouts, was a bit erratic in his lone inning of work Friday, walking two and allowing a run before the rain ended his outing. The first inning went even worse for him Monday. Jeter hit Verlander’s first pitch right back up the middle for a single, then Curtis Granderson’s drive sailed over the head of Austin Jackson in left-center for an RBI triple.

Alex Rodriguez made it 2-0 with an RBI groundout.

Sabathia had even more problems, walking four of the first six hitters he faced, but Detroit grounded into double plays in each of the first two innings and didn’t score.

Brandon Inge doubled to left-center in the third for Detroit’s first hit, and Jackson walked. Ramon Santiago failed to get a bunt down but made up for it by lining an RBI single to left.

After Young’s single, Miguel Cabrera — who homered in drove in three runs in Game 2 — came to the plate with the bases loaded and nobody out.

With the crowd on its feet waving white towels, Cabrera grounded into Detroit’s third double play in three innings — but this one tied the game at 2.

Verlander found his groove during the middle innings. He struck out Nick Swisher for the third out of the fourth, then struck out the side on 10 pitches in the fifth, leaving the New York hitters looking helpless as his sweeping breaking ball dropped over the plate.
