Seasonal Irrigation Ending Across M.V.

TIMES-NEWS

The canal companies and irrigation districts that supply the majority of the water for south-central Idaho agriculture have started to shut off the flow of water away from the Snake River.

Both the Burley and Minidoka irrigation districts will close their head gates today, allowing their canals to begin draining.

The Twin Falls Canal Co. hasn't set a firm date to stop water delivery, but it's expected to come at about Oct. 24. That date may change, depending on demand and requests for water.

The North Side Canal Co. has an Oct. 29 turn-out date set, but water will continue to enter its system, as the company assists with Idaho Water Resource Board efforts to add water to the Eastern Snake Plain Aquifer that provides water to much of southern Idaho.

The Big Wood Canal Co. has already stopped delivering water to Magic Valley users, and has a tentative shut-off date of Thursday for the American Falls area. Big Wood will also participate in the aquifer recharge efforts.

Kimberly

Polly Hulsey, Kimberly city administrator.

The goals are wide-ranging. The plan calls for sprucing up downtown roadways and deteriorating sidewalks, curbs and gutters, and adding sidewalk ramps for the disabled.

"The size of downtown Kimberly lends itself to a walkable, pedestrian-friendly atmosphere," Jenny Nickerson, the city's planning and zoning director, said in an email. With the necessary upgrades, she said, downtown Kimberly would be an ideal place to take a stroll and shop.

Removing overhead power lines and power poles and installing the lines underground is also on the list, as is a parking plan.

The plan will guide efforts for the next five to 10 years. The timeline for completing the goals, though, depends on how much funding is available through grants and other means.

The city is still gathering feedback on one piece — starting a business improvement district. A BID charges businesses a fee that goes toward improvements in a designated district. For that to happen, business owners would need to vote in favor of it. Hulsey said the concept is still in its infancy.

Other parts will move forward faster. In November, the city will apply for a grant from the Idaho Department of Commerce for improvements like curbs and sidewalks.

DREW NASH • TIMES-NEWS

Jennifer Stephenson, owner of The Laughing Daisy, works to display Christmas inventory Thursday afternoon at her store in downtown Kimberly.

Earlier this year, downtown merchants gathered to talk about revitalization at Home Heating and Air Conditioning in Kimberly.

The business' owner, Christy Featherston, said she was pleased with the strong interest. She said she would like to see bicycle paths become a reality, a sentiment reflected in the survey.

Larry Hall, coordinator for Southern Idaho Rural Development, said the city's downtown has a good combination of old buildings in good shape and specialty businesses.

"You've got a tremendous support and willingness to do what it takes," said Hall, who worked with the city on its plan.

Jill Wright of Kimberly opened Bella Couture, a store that sells women's clothing, in March. She said her business draws customers from not just Kimberly, but also the surrounding area.

"I say we just keep growing," she said of the downtown's future. "There's always room for more."

Foot traffic comes in handy for The Laughing Daisy, a specialty store that sells gifts and home decor.

"People are much more willing and wanting to shop local," said owner Jennifer Stephenson, echoing others.

But getting new businesses into downtown can be a challenge.

Ivo Speckert, owner of Speckert's Custom Woodworking and Door Co., has been in downtown for 18 years. He's been trying unsuccessfully to sell his building for about a year so he can relocate to Hawaii. So far, he said, interest has been low.

Greg Griggs, owner of Hoagie Street Deli, said his business fares well with plenty of traffic from farmers and truck drivers. While the downtown's in decent shape, he said, having a wider variety of businesses would help.

"It just seems that in order to attract people here, we've got to have more versatility," he said.

Ben Botkin may be reached at 735-3238.

Funding

However, a "Teaching with Technology" committee has been formed to explore the possibilities.

"One thing we know is that we don't just want to go out and buy computers," he said, since their lifespan is short.

Rogers said it's the first time in recent years school districts have received money to fund technology in a separate appropriation from the state.

"The important thing is that we don't run out and spend it," he said. "We need to study, integrate and sustain it."

Luci Willits, chief of staff for the Idaho State Department of Education, said about $4.3 million went out statewide during the first round of technology funding.

School districts will receive money to use for technology through 2017.

Money can be spent on items such as digital slates, classroom sound systems, computers, portable media players, eReaders, document cameras, student response systems, digital cameras and interactive whiteboards that will improve student achievement in classrooms.

For the Twin Falls School District, one goal is to have a projector and interactive whiteboard in every classroom.

Superintendent Wiley Dobbs said the district has a three-part technology plan — hardware, blended learning and online learning — and that will determine how the state technology funding is used. The district will receive an estimated $240,000 this year.

"We have a very strong and collaborative district plan and we're going to utilize the funding to advance that plan," he said.

The Kimberly School District will receive about $45,500 in funding this year and a technology committee will recommend how it should be used.

"They've done research on what's effective in classrooms and different ways to increase student achievement," Superintendent Kathleen Noh said.

One possibility, she said, is buying equipment so more teachers can film their lectures and create podcasts students can access online.

$900 short of completing the building, but Holley is confident that they will raise the money soon.

"There are people in this town that want to volunteer and help out however they can," she said.

Holley first became aware of the high amount of abandoned animals in the area when she volunteered at the Jerome animal shelter. After hearing that Wendell's animal shelter needed repairs, she channeled her passion for animals into activism.

"We need a place where these dogs can be safe and clean," she said.

Harral is Wendell's deputy clerk and also helps oversee the city's animal shelter.

"We see close to 210 dogs every year and only 10 percent of those are returned to their owners," she said. "That means we are constantly trying to transfer these dogs to a better facility where we know they will be taken care of and not killed."

When Cooper first came to the shelter, Harral would receive phone calls from city workers asking her to take him home at night because of the cold.

"I think that's when I really became aware of the need for a new facility, she said. "There are some dogs that are just not capable of staying outside at night in the winter."

Debbie Carpenter met Holley while they were both volunteering in Jerome. As the owner of three rescue dogs and four cats, Carpenter is committed to improving animal welfare in southern Idaho.

"This isn't just about getting dogs off the street," she said. "It's about improving the public's knowledge of responsible animal care. We domesticated these animals and it's our responsibility to take care of them."

The group estimates that the new facility will be finished by December. To learn more about the group and how to get involved, contact Holley at 503-851-7005.

Overturned Hay Trailer Snarls I-84 near Twin Falls

TIMES-NEWS

An overturned hay trailer snarled Interstate 84 traffic briefly this morning, after its driver veered to avoid a collision.

John Wakley, 44, of Twin Falls, was uninjured when his 1986 International semi cab towing a flatbed loaded with hay tipped off the north side of the interstate between Jerome and Twin Falls. Wakley had been driving west at 10:05 a.m., according to an Idaho State Police report, when a commercial vehicle in front of him slowed to make an improper turn in an emergency vehicle crossover.

Wakley was able to avoid hitting any other vehicles, and ISP officials are working to identify the driver who was using the emergency crossover and caused the crash. According to an ISP release, troopers believe the vehicle was being used for Interstate 84 construction in the area, and troopers are working with the contractor on the Idaho Transportation Department project to complete the investigation.

According to ITD releases, Boise-based Knife River Corp. Northwest is performing work at the nearby interchange of I-84 and U.S. Highway 93.

Studded Tires Legal through April 30

TIMES-NEWS

If you're the kind of driver who kept your studded snow tires on through the summer — and we know you're out there — the good news is that your tires are legal again.

Studded tires are legal in Idaho from Oct. 1 to April 30 each year, but drivers with snow tires should be aware that neighboring states have different dates for when snow tires are allowed. The Idaho Transportation Department asks that drivers use studded tires only in extreme conditions, as they can cause excess wear on bare roadways.

Studded Tire Dates

Studded tires are legal during these dates in Idaho and surrounding states:

- Idaho: Oct. 1 to April 30
- Montana: Oct. 1 to May 31
- Nevada: Oct. 1 to April 30
- Oregon: Nov. 1 to March 31
- Utah: Oct. 15 to March 31
- Washington: Nov. 1 to March 31
- Wyoming: Legal all year

Filer Schools Receive Encouraging Audit

BY JOHN E. SWAYZE

For the Times-News

FILER • The Filer School District has received the equivalent of an "A" grade on its annual financial audit.

Raymond Ware, of Ware and Associates in Twin Falls, informed school board members Wednesday that a check of records and internal procedures resulted in his office giving the highest rating possible.

"Your system is sufficient for receiving federal dollars. That's pretty important, because you're running about $1.2 million," Ware said. "A little over $250,000 of that is stimulus money that may not be coming in the future."

Board members were cautioned that a general fund carryover balance of $1.2 million, combined with approximately $650,000 in monthly expenses, leaves only a buffer of about 1.9 months in operating funds.

"We like to see at least three or four months there and means that number should be about double," Ware said. "It's not wonderful, but some districts are running at about two weeks."

Ware also mentioned that the district has experienced an 8 percent, or $107,000, loss in revenue due to delinquent property taxes. The district receives 12 percent of its revenue from property taxes.

"Considering the downturned economy, tax collection in Twin Falls County have been pretty steady," he said. "That delinquent number has gone up from about 4 or 5 percent, but it's a positive because some districts in other counties are running about 15 percent."

In other action, the school board approved $10,000 in additional classroom supply money to help reduce the burden for certified teachers and librarians who supplement their budgets with personal funds. Susan Hamby, a fourth-grade teacher at Filer Intermediate School, estimates that she spends about $800 out of her own pocket each year.

"That'll only be $100 per teacher, but we really appreciate the effort you're trying to make," Hamby told the board. "It shows you care about us and the quality of education."

Filer High School Principal Leon Madsen also received $5,419 to supplement a $3,000 budget for new textbooks.

"Some of our critical needs right now are in health occupations and advanced biology," Madsen said. "This is what we need right now and plan to ask for another $8,407 when the district goes to the public for a levy later."

The Filer School Board will hold its next public meeting at 7 p.m. Nov. 15 in the Filer Intermediate School.

Child Porn Suspect Skips Sentencing

TIMES-NEWS

A $250,000 warrant was issued this week for a Kimberly man who skipped his sentencing on child pornography charges.

Donald Morris, 44, failed to appear in Twin Falls County 5th District Court on Tuesday, when he was scheduled to be sentenced, as he had pleaded guilty to 15 counts of possession of sexually exploitative material of children. According to a plea agreement, the state dropped 20 more felony counts.

Public defender George Essma told Judge G. Richard Bevan on Tuesday that Morris was in a treatment facility in Wyoming. Bevan allowed 24 hours for Essma to produce proof, but when none was provided by the end of Wednesday Bevan signed the warrant.

Morris was arrested and charged in June, after a private citizen and an area pawn shop owner turned over three computers allegedly containing child porn last year, according to the police report.

Washington Work to Shift to Intersection's Other Side

TIMES-NEWS

Ongoing construction at the intersection of Washington Street North and Falls Avenue in Twin Falls will move to Washington's southbound lanes as early as Monday, according to the Idaho Transportation Department.

That means the west side of the intersection will completely close to traffic, similar to this week's closure to allow work on Washington's northbound lanes.

This week's paving should wrap up on Friday, according to ITD. The entire intersection will be open to traffic for the weekend.

Late Sunday or early

Monday, traffic will then be switched onto Washington's northbound lanes and the southbound will be completely closed to traffic.

West of the intersection, workers will largely close Falls to traffic near Sparks Street. However, access will be preserved to homes and businesses closer to the intersection.

Depending on weather, next week's closure could last four days.

Finishing the intersection work will mark the completion of major construction on Washington, according to ITD. Minor projects related to the work will remain, and drivers should watch for intermittent, short-term lane closures throughout this month.

DEBCO Construction, of Orofino, is the contractor for the federally funded, $6.5 million project, sponsored by the city of Twin Falls and administered by ITD.

OUR VIEW

New Apartments Will Give CSI an Opportunity to Expand, Improve

After being shot down in April, the College of Southern Idaho is finally getting its new apartments. And we couldn't be happier.

The council passed the measure 6-0 to allow an 8-acre area to be developed into a 40-unit complex just south and west of the campus.

When Twin Falls was booming, we could afford to be picky — perhaps too picky — about growth. But, as the economy has slowed, new construction projects are rare. A job like this keeps Magic Valley folks employed during the building of the apartments.

Once the construction is done, the new apartments will give students a safe place to live within walking distance of campus. We see this as a smart element in a platform to retain students: People living in college-supplemented housing are more likely to stay in school and get a degree.

Not everyone is happy with the council's decision. There were more than 400 signatures gathered in opposition to the apartment complex.

Yes, the apartments are close to schools and neighborhoods. But we're not talking about building a correctional facility or nuclear reactor — these are apartments for people who are working full- and part-time jobs while trying to increase their odds for a better life. Will access be a little dicey for residents during the construction? Sure. But, as with any roadwork, the orange cones and construction equipment will disappear in time.

When the council voted down the apartments the first time, Graydon Stanley, CSI's dean of students, pointed out their neighborhood stewardship.

“They would be well-kept, beautifully maintained and well-managed,” he said. “College kids get a bad rap, when 90 percent of them work with us, are neighbors with us and go to church with us. But people say, ‘Not in our neighborhood, not these kinds of people.’ That is so unfair to them.”

If there's an upside to the measure having to go back to the council a second time, it's that, in choosing this parcel of land, CSI has increased the lot size by 40 percent, allowing them to spread out the buildings and keep the grounds in top-notch shape.

CSI is an asset to our region. If the new apartments help increase both student enrollment and the graduation rate, the whole Magic Valley will benefit.

Mitt Romney and the Not-Romneys

There may still be half a dozen contenders for the Republican presidential nomination, but the race has always had room for only two: Mitt Romney and someone who isn't Mitt Romney. After four full-scale debates, that second spot, reserved for a more conservative candidate, is still unfilled; the fiscal firebrands of the tea party haven't found an ideal alternative to Romney, leaving the party's right wing divided. It's beginning to look as if the former Massachusetts governor will win the nomination almost by default — an odd outcome to a year that began with the tea party triumphant.

For a brief moment after he entered the race, Texas Gov. Rick Perry, with his unvarnished calls for reducing the federal government to 19th century proportions, looked like the man to assume the tea party mantle. But Perry hasn't shown himself quite ready for prime time. His performance in debates has been bumbling (“not my strong suit,” he admitted), and his problems have extended far beyond the stage.

Perry angered many social conservatives when he defended his decision to extend in-state college tuition to undocumented immigrants, a policy Romney attacked as a $100,000 discount for foreigners that Texas refused to Americans from other states. Even worse, Perry told everyone who disagreed with him on the issue — a solid majority of Republicans, at least outside Texas — that “I don't think you have a heart.” He later apologized, but the damage to his tough-guy credentials was done.

And bizarrely, unlike every other major candidate, Perry hasn't offered a fleshed-out economic plan in a year when both the nomination and the general election hinge on economic issues. Romney has issued a 59-point plan, Michele Bachmann an 11-point plan, Herman Cain a “9-9-9” tax cut plan, but Perry has only promised an energy plan to be unveiled later this week. “I've been in this about eight weeks,” he explained lamely on Tuesday.

All that, plus Perry's history as a traditional Texas deal-cutter, has left tea party conservatives worried that he isn't really the radical reformer they're looking for. Unexpectedly, Perry has run into his own version of Romney's problem: He claims he's a conservative, but as the real-life governor of a big and complicated state, he's made compromises that leave him looking less than pure.

That also explains the boomlet for Cain, the former CEO of Godfather's Pizza; he's never had to cut a deal with a legislature or think about getting re-elected. Cain's actually running first in polls in Iowa and South Carolina, but it's hard to believe that he will stay there once voters notice that his 9-9-9 plan would impose a 9 percent federal sales tax on groceries — and that's a first step toward a 30 percent sales tax.

The pratfalls of all those Not-Romneys — space precludes recounting the limitations of Bachmann, Newt Gingrich and Ron Paul — suggest that Romney can simply continue plodding toward the nomination.

The best thing that happened to Romney this week — more important than his solid performance in Tuesday's debate — was the endorsement of New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie, a conservative hero who vouched for the front-runner as a genuine Republican and the candidate most likely to defeat President Obama. “This is not somebody who just decided to run for president off the back of an envelope,” Christie said in a swipe at Perry.

On the electability question, Republican voters seem to agree: An ABC News/Washington Post poll last month found that a majority already consider Romney more likely to beat Obama than Perry.

On paper, there's still a chance for Perry or another challenger to block Romney's path. There's still something about the man conservatives just don't like. For many, it's his record of moderation in Massachusetts, embodied in his passage of the healthcare law that was a model for Obama's federal effort. For some evangelical Christians, it's his active membership in the Mormon Church, which considers its 19th century scriptures as divine as the New Testament. For others, there's lingering mistrust of a man who was born wealthy, attended Harvard, worked as an investment banker and once took the family dog on a road trip in a crate on top of the car.

But Christie and other serious Republicans are rapidly concluding that Romney will be the nominee. And Romney himself is beginning to behave that way. At Tuesday's debate, serenely viewing the carnage to his right, he sounded more like a general election candidate, playing to the middle of the electorate, than an endangered moderate fending off challenges to his orthodoxy.

If Romney and the Not-Romneys keep to their current courses, that moderate-sounding conservative from Massachusetts could have the GOP nomination sewn up by Jan. 31. That would give him 10 full months to campaign against Obama, whose pitch for reelection will remain weighed down by 9% unemployment. Under those circumstances, and judging by his current performance, Romney would be a hard man to beat.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Help Preserve Quality of Life in Twin Falls

Looking around Twin Falls, you can see why it is such a great place to live and raise a family. We have safe and quiet neighborhoods, many great family parks, shopping, great restaurants and a feeling of pride in our community that comes when living in a small town.

I am running for city council because I want to make sure these same things are here for my kids and yours in the future. I was born and raised in Twin Falls and now I am raising my kids in this great town. I was a manager of a large market research business and also served six years in the military. In 2008, I wanted to help my community in some way, so I applied to volunteer my time and become a commissioner on the Twin Falls Planning and Zoning Commission and, for the last year, I have been in the position of vice chairman. Being on the commission has given me a lot of insight into some of the issues that Twin Falls faces and must deal with.

As great as Twin Falls is, there is always room for improvement and new ideas. If I am elected, I hope to find ways to better work with the citizens and do my best to not continue to ask more and more from them but to show them a better return on their investment into this community. It is important for the citizens of Twin Falls to know that they are the real bosses of this community, not the other way around.

So I would like to apply to the people of Twin Falls for the position of city council. If you feel I meet your qualifications, please vote for me on Nov. 8 for Seat 7.

THIRD SUSPECT IN DIETRICH HOME INVASION ROBBERY PLEADS GUILTY; FOURTH SLATED FOR NOV. TRIAL

TIMES-NEWS

A third suspect in a March home invasion in Dietrich pleaded guilty to related charges this week.

Jeremiah Bennett, one of four people accused of holding David and Colleen Conner at gunpoint during the early morning of March 9 to take possessions from their home, pleaded guilty Tuesday to felony second-degree kidnapping. He is scheduled for a Nov. 1 sentencing.

Co-defendants Gabriel Baker and Jamie Taylor pleaded guilty to conspiracy to commit burglary on Aug. 30 and Sept. 6, respectively. Taylor received a 10-year prison sentence last week, while Baker is slated for Nov. 1 sentencing.

The fourth suspect, Aaron Donabedian, was arraigned on new charges recently: two counts of second-degree kidnapping, burglary and two counts of robbery. He pleaded not guilty on Tuesday, and a jury trial is scheduled for Nov. 15.

The Lincoln County Sheriff's Office reported in March that the Conners were held at gunpoint by multiple individuals who while being robbed on March 9.

David Conner told police that one suspect took his shotgun, bound him with rope and placed him on the kitchen floor. Meanwhile, the suspects forced Colleen Conner to find money and other valuables.

Weeks later, authorities gained valuable information to the identity of the alleged invaders through a family member. The tipster, who is related to Donabedian, claimed that Donabedian helped in the robbery so he could afford a $500 circumcision for his baby.

A few days later, Twin Falls police found and arrested Donabedian at a Twin Falls fast-food restaurant. Donabedian reportedly spilled details of the invasion, including the names of the other suspects: Bennett, Taylor and Baker.

According to the report of Donabedian's interview, the group was drinking in Jerome when he told them about needing money for the operation. He said the group then headed north to Dietrich. Baker, who already had a sawed-off shotgun with no stock, and Bennett went to the Conners' house and returned a short time later with more guns. Donabedian told police, before the group left for a Twin Falls residence.

Each defendant appeared with a separate attorney at a preliminary hearing in May, each arguing that the Conners could not positively identify any defendant as the two masked individuals who held them at gunpoint.

During other testimony with investigators, the state showed that a search of a Twin Falls residence turned up, among many things, a video camera which had a matching serial number to one reported by the Conners and containing digital images of the Conners.

No Comments to Paul Council on City Zoning

BY COREEN HART
For the Times-News

PAUL • A Wednesday night public hearing before the Paul City Council drew no comments on a proposal to expand the city's area of impact.

The area of impact is the zone around a city's official limits that merits coordinated planning between city and county for future uses, including annexation or use of city services.

The city will now notify Minidoka County officials of the hearing results. Then, the county will hold its own hearing before Paul officials make a final decision.

In other business Wednesday:

- The council learned that volunteers placed a 34-foot by 22-foot cover over the carport at the Minidoka County Animal Control Facility. Councilman Bob Dempsay said the cover will provide shade in the summer and protection from weather in the winter for the dog pens in the carport.

Dempsay also said dog adoptions have skyrocketed, but another problem seems to have developed at the facility — which has been struggling with a tight budget. People from outside Minidoka County have been bringing their dogs to the shelter during closed hours and turning them loose into an outside kennel that is never locked, he said. One person was seen releasing five dogs.

The situation is driving up costs and the shelter may have to start charging an intake fee, something it has avoided so far.

- Public Works Director Rich Rau gave an update on improvements at Paul's new city park. The large pad has been poured, he said, and there is now a retaining wall behind the horseshoe pits. Some dead trees have also been replaced. Rau will soon be ready to go out for bid for the spray park.

It's not too late, he said, for people to have their names engraved in pavestones for a small fee.

Kloepfer Concrete is in consultation with the county over water quality issues, and will be required to submit periodic testing.

- Minidoka County Undersheriff Vic Watson spoke about traffic issues related to harvest season. For a short period, there were three to four harvest truck crashes per day, he said, because truck drivers have been ignoring speed limits. But, traffic deaths are down this year from 2010.

- The council learned that Cassie Fowler, vice chairwoman of the city Planning and Zoning Committee, has tendered her resignation in order to accept other employment.

- Councilman Garth Baker said Clay Handy may replace Gary Blick as south-central Idaho's representative on the Idaho Transportation Board.

Blick plans to retire from the board when his term ends on Jan. 31.

Handy is a former Burley city councilman and Cassia County commissioner.

Ex-wife Said Salon Suspect was Abusive, Unstable

BY AMY TAXIN and JOHN ROGERS
Associated Press

SEAL BEACH, Calif. • Scott Dekraai's neighbors considered him one of the friendliest guys on the block, a man who invited them over for pool parties and played catch with his son in his yard. Friends of his ex-wife, though, say she lived in fear of the man now accused of gunning down her and seven other people at the hair salon where she worked.

Fournier

Dekraai

He suffered post-traumatic stress disorder from a 2007 tugboat accident that mangled his leg and left a colleague dead. His marriage to Michelle Fournier was falling apart even before that, and the court battle over their 7-year-old son was still raging Wednesday, when Dekraai is accused of spraying the Salon Meritage with gunfire.

Fournier's boyfriend, Michael Warzybok, said at a court hearing Tuesday the judge had pressed Dekraai to explain why he needed more time with his son than the current arrangement called for. Warzybok said a court-appointed psychologist had found the current, roughly 50-50, arrangement was working.

"All of a sudden, he didn't get his way," said Warzybok, who was interviewed by the psychologist along with Fournier's co-workers.

He added that Dekraai had offered to meet Fournier for coffee Wednesday, the day of the shootings, but she turned him down.

Fournier had indicated to friends and in court documents that she was afraid of her ex-husband. Her friend Sharyn White said that just weeks before the killings, she told her that Dekraai had stopped by the salon and threatened to kill her and others there.

White, who is also Dekraai's step-aunt, said Fournier told her she took the threat seriously though others in the salon laughed it off. She said Fournier also had told her that when they were still married Dekraai had once held a gun to her head.

There is no sign that Fournier sought a restraining order against her ex-husband, though other friends agree she was afraid.

Connecticut Man Convicted in Deadly '07 Home Invasion

Penalty phase will conclude the second and final trial in a case that unsettled suburb dwellers across the country and bolstered efforts to keep the death penalty in Connecticut.

BY JOHN CHRISTOFFERSEN
Associated Press

NEW HAVEN, Conn. • A paroled burglar was convicted Thursday of murdering a woman and her two daughters in a gruesome 2007 home invasion in an affluent Connecticut suburb in which family members were tied up, molested, doused in gas and left to die in a fire. He now faces a possible death sentence.

Joshua Komisarjevsky, whose accomplice is already on Connecticut's death row, stood as jurors declared him guilty of all 17 charges he faced, including capital felony killing, kidnapping, arson and sexual assault. He then sat back in his chair and rocked slightly back and forth. He yawned as he was led out of the courtroom.

The only survivor of the attack, Dr. William Petit, bit his lip and closed his eyes as the verdict was read.

"I thought from the beginning that he was a lying sociopathic personality and probably at this moment he doesn't think he is guilty of anything," he told reporters outside the courthouse.

The New Haven Superior Court jury deliberated for about eight hours over two days before delivering a verdict and will decide later whether Komisarjevsky, 31, should be executed or sentenced to life in prison. The penalty phase will conclude the second and final trial in a case that unsettled suburb dwellers across the country and bolstered efforts to keep the death penalty in Connecticut.

Komisarjevsky's co-defendant, Steven Hayes, was sentenced to death last year after he was convicted of raping and strangling Jennifer Hawke-Petit and killing her daughters, 11-year-old Michaela and 17-year-old Hayley, who died of smoke inhalation.

Prosecutors say Komisarjevsky was the crime's mastermind.

Komisarjevsky spotted Hawke-Petit and her youngest daughter at a grocery store on July 22, 2007, followed them back to the house and returned later with Hayes, where they beat Petit with a baseball bat and tied up him and his wife and daughters. The night of terror

House Votes to Stop Health Care Law Abortions

WASHINGTON (AP) • The House on Thursday returned to an abortion issue that nearly sank President Barack Obama's health care law last year with legislation that bars an insurance plan regulated under the new law from covering abortion if any of its customers receive federal subsidies.

Providers that offer abortion coverage would have to set up identical plans without abortion coverage to participate in the health insurance exchanges to be set up under the new law.

The legislation, which passed 251-172, is unlikely to be considered by the Democratic-led Senate and faces a veto threat from Obama. But it gives House Republicans, focused this year on cutting spending and reducing the size of the federal government, a chance to reaffirm their conservative credentials. Democrats chided Republicans for wasting time better spent on promoting job growth.

Supporters of the bill, including author Rep. Joe Pitts, R-Pa., say they are trying to close loopholes in the health care act that could lead to violations of the longstanding prohibition of the federal funding of abortion.

Protesters Wary of Plan to Tidy Up Park

NEW YORK (AP) • The owner of the private park where Wall Street protesters are camped out gave them notice Thursday that after it power-washes the space it will begin enforcing regulations, which prohibit everything from lying down on benches to storing personal property on the ground.

The protesters' response was to plan a demonstration for an hour before they are supposed to evacuate Zuccotti Park while it is cleaned with power washers Friday morning. They believe the effort is an attempt to end the protest, which triggered a movement against unequal distribution of wealth that has spread across the globe.

Protest spokesman Patrick Bruner sent an email to supporters Thursday asking them to join the protesters at 6 a.m. Friday to "defend the occupation from eviction."

The owner, Brookfield Properties, earlier handed out a notice to protesters saying they would be allowed back in the park after the cleanup if they abide by park regulations.

Boehner, Obama Discuss Jobs Bill as Senate GOP Offers Plan

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON • House Speaker John Boehner and President Barack Obama talked about jobs legislation in a 10-minute phone call Thursday, the Ohio Republican's office said.

Boehner told Obama that Republicans are willing to address new transportation and infrastructure spending but "in a fiscally responsible way." Boehner challenged Obama's statement Thursday that he had not seen many job-creation ideas from Republicans.

The discussion came during a call from Obama to congratulate Boehner for congressional passage of trade deals with South Korea, Panama and Colombia.

It also came as Senate Republicans introduced legislation aimed at creating jobs by overhauling the nation's tax laws, cutting business rules and boosting offshore oil exploration.

Hayes forced Hawke-Petit to withdraw money from a bank before he raped and strangled her in the family's Cheshire home.

The girls, who had pillowcases placed over their heads, died after the house was doused with gas and set on fire.

During more than two weeks of testimony, prosecutors played an audiotaped confession in which Komisarjevsky spoke matter-of-factly and laughed occasionally. He admitted beating Petit and molesting his younger daughter and taking photos of her, but insisted Hayes wanted to kill the family because he was worried about his DNA at the scene.

Prosecutor Gary Nicholson said in his closing argument that Komisarjevsky was motivated not just by money but by his interest in 11-year-old Michaela. He was convicted of sexually assaulting her.

"Michaela Petit, he was interested in her from the moment he saw her," Nicholson said.

Petit said he always felt the case was partly about sexual predation upon women, and the focus on Michaela made Komisarjevsky's trial particularly difficult.

"I thought a thousand times what would have been different if I had two sons instead of two daughters," he said.

He said he was sickened by claims Komisarjevsky made in his confession to police that he had a kind of connection with Michaela.

"She was incredibly shy around men," Petit said. "To hear a statement that they locked eyes and there was some kind of bond was really nauseating and beyond the pale."

Komisarjevsky said Hayes poured the gas and lit the fire, but test results showed he had gas on his clothes. They also showed the girl he molested had bleach on her clothes, undermining his claim that only Hayes was worried about DNA.

As a graduate of Idaho State University in 1950 and the University of Dentistry at Northwestern University in Chicago, Ill., in 1954, Art taught dentistry at Creighton University in Omaha, Neb., until 1956, when he moved back to Twin Falls to establish a private dental practice — a practice that spanned more than 30 years. Art devoted a lifetime to his family, his patients and to his community. A co-founding member of the Dilettantes in 1958, Art was a singer and actor in more than 30 productions and a board member for 20 years. He also served as the president of Dilettantes in 1961 and again 1989 to 1991. He was inducted as a charter member into the Dilettantes Hall of Fame in 2000. He was also a co-founder and active member of Magic Valley Little Theater, performing in more than 20 performances. Art and Betty were awarded the "Lifetime Achievement" award from the Magic Valley Arts Council in 2010. His love of music was ever present throughout his life and, until recently, you would find him at City Park every Thursday listening to the city band. As an active Kiwanian since 1958, he served as president in 1986.

The same year Art, a former high school track letterman, initiated the Hershey Track Meet for youngsters who wouldn't otherwise have the chance to compete in track and field events. He also served as the Kiwanian lieutenant governor in 1997 to 1998. Art served on the Twin Falls City Council for 12 years and also served a stint as vice mayor during this time. He chaired the Twin Falls Airport Committee, area Office on the Aging Committee, Prime Time Foundation, was a board member for the Twin Falls Library Foundation from 2000 to 2006 and served on the State Senior Council. Art was also honored in 2001 with a "Lifetime Achievement" award by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and was chosen as the Pioneer of the Year by the city of Twin Falls in 2007. In 1991, Art was acknowledged by then-Gov. Cecil Andrus as a "Distinguished Citizen of Idaho."

Dad loved people and had the gift of gab to prove it. You would never leave his dental chair, a casual conversation, a meeting or any other interaction without a story and a memory of who this man was. Among colleagues, his hole-in-one at the Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course was a thing of beauty; in private, he would admit it was the worst tee shot he'd ever hit. His rendition of "If I Were a Rich Man" around a campfire on the Middle Fork of the Salmon River with his boat crew, was unequalled and talked about for years. His ability to break into song at any given time, whether while driving down a road, at a family barbecue or even if you were in the middle of your back swing on the golf course, was legendary and brought smiles and laughter to anyone around him. His friendships were considered lifetime commitments, and he went far beyond the call of duty when it came to his family. He will be deeply missed, not only by his family, friends and anyone who met him but by the community as well.

Art is survived by his wife and the "Wind Beneath his Wings" of 66 years, Betty; a daughter, Jeanne English; and three sons, Dave (Rae-dine) Frantz, Rick (Sandi) Frantz and Matthew Frantz; 10 grandchildren; and 13 great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents, W.W. and Phoebe; a sister, Jane Henderson; and a great-granddaughter, Makennah Anderson.

A celebration of Art's contributions to his family and his community will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 15, at Reynolds Funeral Chapel, 2466 Addison Ave. E. in Twin Falls. Cremation is under the direction of Reynolds Funeral Chapel and, at the family's request, a private family graveside inurnment will take place after the service.

Friends are asked to gather at the Rock Creek Community Church, 252 Fifth Ave. E. in Twin Falls, to share stories and thoughts with the family immediately after the inurnment.

The family would also like to thank his many caregivers at the Twin Falls Care Center for being there to listen to his many stories and holding his hand when we couldn't.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks that donations be made to the Twin Falls Humane Society.

"My name, and my place, and my tomb, all forgotten."

The brief race of time well and patiently run.

So let me pass away, peacefully, silently,

Only remembered by what I have done."

Companies Posted Fewer Job Openings in August

WASHINGTON (AP) • Employers advertised fewer jobs in August than the previous month. Some may have pulled back on hiring plans in the face of wild stock market swings and renewed recession fears.

Companies and governments posted 3.1 million job openings in August, down from 3.2 million in July, the Labor Department said Wednesday.

The drop was the first in four months, although July's openings were the highest in nearly three years.

Still, there's heavy competition for each job. Nearly 14 million people were out of work in August, which means an average of 4.6 unemployed workers competed for each opening. That's worse than July, when the ratio was 4.3. In a healthy economy, the ratio is roughly 2 to 1.

Raj Rajaratnam's sentence is the stiffest punishment ever handed out for the crime.

BY LARRY NEUMEISTER
Associated Press

NEW YORK • Raj Rajaratnam, the hedge fund billionaire at the center of the biggest insider-trading case in U.S. history, was sentenced Thursday to 11 years behind bars — the stiffest punishment ever handed out for the crime.

“His crimes and the scope of his crimes reflect a virus in our business culture that needs to be eradicated,” U.S. District Judge Richard J. Holwell said. “Simple justice requires a lengthy sentence.”

The 54-year-old founder of the Galleon Group hedge fund was also fined $10 million and ordered to forfeit $53.8 million in what the judge said were illicit profits from trading on confidential corporate information.

Prosecutors said Rajaratnam made as much as $75 million in all by cultivating a network of friends, former classmates and other tipsters at various companies and investment firms who supplied him with early word on such things as mergers and earnings announcements. In return, they received kickbacks or a chance to get in on the action.

Among the companies he profited from were Google, IBM, Hilton Hotels, Intel, Advanced Micro Devices and Goldman Sachs.

The sentencing was the last major act in a series of prosecutions that followed Rajaratnam's 2009 arrest. More than two dozen people were arrested in the investigation, nicknamed Perfect Hedge, and all were convicted.

and the Wall Street abuses it exposed — stoked populist anger in the U.S. and complaints that the stock market is a sucker's game, rigged by insiders.

The judge called it “an assault on the free markets that are a fundamental element of our democratic society. There may not be readily identifiable victims, but when the playing field is not level, the integrity of the marketplace is called into question and the public suffers.”

Asked at his sentencing if he would like to speak, Rajaratnam responded: “No, thank you, Your Honor.”

The Sri Lanka-born Rajaratnam was ordered to report to a yet-to-be-designated prison Nov. 28. His lawyers asked that he be sent to the medical facility at the federal prison in North Carolina where Bernard Madoff is serving his 150-year sentence. He has advanced diabetes and needs a kidney

Jobs Painted as Romantic Teen in ‘Rolling Stone’

BY RACHEL METZ

Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO • Many people know Apple co-founder Steve Jobs as an exacting tech visionary. Fewer know him as a romantic, a poet or a costumed “Alice in Wonderland” character at a California shopping mall.

These latter characteristics help make up the portrait of Jobs painted by his first serious girlfriend, Chrissann Brennan, in a “Rolling Stone” story that was shared exclusively with The Associated Press before hitting newsstands Friday.

Brennan and Jobs met in 1972, when he was a senior and she was a junior at Cupertino's Homestead High School. In the piece, she recounts her adventures with a 17-year-old Jobs that summer, from moving into a cabin together to getting paid to portray “Alice” characters at a local mall.

Jobs died Oct. 5 at 56 after struggling for years with pancreatic cancer. After taking his third medical leave from Apple Inc. in January, he resigned as CEO in August, but stayed with the company as chairman. His death came a day after Apple unveiled the latest iPhone, the 4S, which goes on sale today.

Brennan's on-and-off relationship with Jobs lasted until the birth of the couple's daughter, Lisa Brennan-Jobs, in 1978.

She says the duo decided to live together that first summer. She tried to snag a room in a Cupertino cabin for them but was turned down by the man renting the place at the time — he said there wasn't room for a couple. Somehow, Steve was able to persuade him to change his mind.

“This alerted me to something remarkable in him,” she writes in the “Rolling Stone” essay. “This guy could make things work. And from the way he'd taken charge of the situation, I knew he knew it too.”

At the time, Brennan says, Jobs “was almost 100 percent romantic.”

“He would tell me we were part of an affiliation of poets and visionaries he called ‘the wheat field group’ and say we were looking out a window together, with the others, watching the whole world,” she writes. “I did not know what he was talking about, but with all my heart I wanted to see such views.”

Brennan also recounts how Jobs — who hung a Bob Dylan poster over their bed — would stay up late writing poems on his electric typewriter, often re-writing Dylan tunes.

At the time, Brennan wasn't impressed, seeing the results as “a lot of Bob Dylan songs with a few changes.”

“Only now do I see what he was trying to do. He was a loner and he didn't talk much, and I think he used Dylan's songs to make sense of the world,” she writes.

On the sillier side, Brennan details how she, Jobs, a roommate named Al and Steve Wozniak (who later co-founded Apple with Jobs) played “Alice” characters at a mall in nearby Santa Clara.

Brennan got the part of Alice, while Al, Jobs and Wozniak took turns playing the Mad Hatter and White Rabbit — complete with knee-length giant heads that were incredibly hot because of the summer heat and the mall's broken air conditioner.

Brennan writes that Al, Wozniak and Jobs “could barely handle 10 minutes in costume, and so they would run into the dressing rooms to trade off heads and to drink water every 10 minutes. It was painful and hilarious to watch.”

Not all of Brennan's recollections were friendly. In the “Rolling Stone” essay, Brennan refers to “the all-too-often despotic jerk Steve turned into as he rose to meet the world.” For two years, Jobs denied that he was the father of Lisa, the child born to Brennan in 1978.

Brennan's piece will run in “Rolling Stone” alongside a cover story by Jeff Goodell, an early Apple employee who has written about the company for the past 17 years. In his article, Goodell describes Jobs' business savvy, as well as the “abrasive personality” and “unapologetic brutality” that those who worked intensely with him experienced.

I truly can't wait to see this one. For its most lavish, expensive show of the year, Company of Fools is staging "The Velveteen Rabbit," that classic children's tale of a toy rabbit that comes to life. It opens Thursday in Hailey — definitely worth the drive. An East Coast master puppeteer created the exquisite hand puppets, rod puppets and marionettes that populate the nursery.

Need your art fix? Attend the free "Two Artists — One Evening Party" featuring original works by Kathy Lily Field and Rosi Martinez-Eckert, 4-9 p.m. Saturday at Mimi's Flowers and Saddlehorn Event Center in Buhl. Complimentary hors d'oeuvres; contemporary music by Adrian Ehrmantraut and Melanie Kerbs; a variety of beers and wines for sale by the drink. Information: 543-2721.

Bike chain clock, $24

This small clock, made from recycled bike chains by artisans in India, would be a perfect gift for the cyclist in your life. It's small and doesn't have numbers on the clock face, so it's more decorative than functional. But the cool factor makes up for its frivolity. Need a complementary gift? Check out the picture frames made from bike tires and chains.

Penguin mittens or hat, $20.99

Need a present for a cute little kid? Check out the penguin mittens and hat, sold separately. If penguins aren't your thing, you have other equally darling options: Raccoons, monkeys, rabbits and (randomly) ducks with pirate eye patches also adorn the winter gear, made by women in Peru. For adults, there are plenty of mittens and hats that don't look like animals.

Six-bean soup mix, $6

The Women's Bean Project, based out of Denver, puts high-risk women to work assembling soup kits. The beans make a hearty winter dinner — and a great gift for singletons and families alike. Not into beans? The project also makes mixes for brownies, corn bread and dips.

Djembe art drum, $140

Whether the giftee is a hippie drum circle regular or is attracted to natural interior decor, this djembe drum from Cameroon will brighten their day. The wood drum sports carved turtles that hold up the body and a rawhide drum head.

Green picture frames, $44

Artisans from the Yayasan Mitra Bali group in Indonesia make this trio of frames by decouping with leaves from the kan-cu tree. Bamboo outlines the glass. The mellow green would be a great match for plenty of decors. The frames hold horizontal 4-by-6-inch photos.

Four-drawer chest, $49

This table-top chest from India is perfect for storing jewelry. Crafted from mango wood, the shallow drawers sport carved elephants and trees. If you need something to go in the drawers, check out the jewelry selection at the sale. Among the selections: elegant red necklaces, dangling earrings with whimsical figures crafted from aluminum cans, and delicate beaded earrings.

Both Buhl painters say the show is balanced because their styles are so different.

“Not only will Rosi and Kathy’s paintings be here Saturday, but their pieces will be on display for an entire month. So if someone can’t make it for the party they can browse the collection through Nov. 15,” said Mimi Ford, who owns the Saddlehorn. “I’m excited to have not just one but two amazingly talented local artists represented here.”

Eckert, 63, caters to a niche market that can’t get enough of her of bold, vividly colorful flower blossoms. She favors the textures of oils on gallery-wrapped canvas but has begun to venture in to new mediums.

One example of Eckert’s expanding repertoire is “Strangers in Paradise,” depicting koi and water plants. The oil on Masonite worked because the fish look submerged under glossy water.

Her inspiration, however, remains the same, whether painting grapevine nymphs, saddle and boots or an agave plant.

“The inspiration is the color,” Eckert said. “Although I’m pushing the ideas further ... adding texture, atmosphere ... taking risks, it all comes back to the color.”

Most of Eckert’s pieces will be available for sale

Painter Rosi Martinez-Eckert has made her mark with bold, vibrant hues and blossoms set on canvas. Here she sets up original work in the stairwell at Mimi’s Flowers in Buhl, in preparation for Saturday’s party.

Eckert

Field

around $250 to $800; price depends on size and framing options.

Paintings by Field, 67, are often hard to distinguish from color photos. She is also known for pencil drawings.

Her “Outrageous” took fourth place in the Colored Pencil Society of America’s international show in Texas in July. She wouldn’t have gotten far if the photo she worked from hadn’t been good to begin with, she said.

The picture she had taken was of a smiling girl, her face covered in piercings.

“I just thought she would make a wonderful drawing and it did,” Field said. “I love her.”

Her “Passe Nude Series” will be shown upstairs at Mimi’s. The graphite pencil series, which she calls “a historical representation of the early 1900s,” includes five original pieces Field was inspired to draw from pictures in a book that a friend gave her. Field did change details in every picture.

“Regardless of what the subject, my desire is to instill emotion and meaning into my drawings, and these women are all very beautiful,” she said. The pictures aren’t crude or demeaning.

Although Field’s “Outrageous” is priced at $4,000, her original, framed pieces sell for around $1,000. Prints are about $200; prices depend on size.

Ghostly Tale Returns for 1 Night

Random Acts of Theatre Players will bring back “Barrymore’s Ghost” for a one-night production this month.

Jason Miller’s play is the bittersweet tale of John Barrymore, a larger-than-life actor and a flawed human. As he haunts the local stage, he candidly talks about his marriages (or bus accidents, as he calls them), his relationships with famous siblings Ethel and Lionel Barrymore, his opulent lifestyle and his prickliness to directors, co-stars and fans. He talks about his most famous accomplishment — playing Hamlet — and his list of early American films.

Twin Falls actor Jud Harmon, who starred in the one-person show in 2009, will return to the role for one performance, at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 26 at the College of Southern Idaho’s Fine Arts Recital Hall. Tickets are $10, at 420-3979 or the CSI box office.

Here, Jud Harmon stars in the one-person show ‘Barrymore’s Ghost’ in 2009. Harmon will reprise the role in a one-night production Oct. 26.

Classic Children’s Tale Comes to Hailey Stage

BY KAREN BOSSICK
For the Times-News

HAILEY • The stage at The Liberty Theatre looks just as you might imagine the nursery in “The Velveteen Rabbit.”

There are a child’s bed, toy cupboards and a foot-locker boasting a wooden airplane and other 1920s toys. A rocking horse with bulging eyes sits next to a furry rabbit with big, loopy ears. In fact, three rabbits depict the Velveteen Rabbit in various stages.

Company of Fools will present Margery Williams Bianco’s timeless fable of love and sacrifice through hand puppets, rod puppets and marionettes during eight performances beginning Thursday in Hailey.

“The Velveteen Rabbit” is the tale of a beautiful stuffed rabbit found wedged in the top of a boy’s stocking one Christmas morning. The boy loves the rabbit for a few hours — then the rabbit is relegated to the toy cupboards where mechanical toys, who consider themselves superior, turn their noses up at the latest addition.

Bucking the snobs is a rocking horse so old his brown coat is bald in patches.

“What is real?” the rabbit asks him. “Does it mean having things that buzz inside you and a stick-out handle?”

“Real isn’t how you are made,” replies the horse. “It’s a thing that happens to you ...”

Life happens and the rabbit does become real — but not without sacrifice.

“It’s a magical hour about the relationship of a boy and his Velveteen Rabbit who, once made real, can’t be made unreal. It’s a lovely metaphor about being comfortable in your own skin,” said director John Glenn. “Children will love this. But it’s also a story adults will like just as much.”

Generations of children have read “The Velveteen Rabbit.” And today’s children seem to be familiar with the tale, as well, judging from five schools’ matinees that sold out in two days, prompting the Fools to add a sixth matinee performance.

The production is the Fools’ most lavish, expensive show of the year, said Fools core artist Denise Simone.

Thirty-year master puppeteer Terry Snyder, honored with the President’s Award from the Puppeteers of America, created the puppets. Fools music director R.L. Rowsey composed original music. And Richmond, Va., costume designer Elizabeth Weiss Hopper, who has written two books on 1920s dress, designed the costumes.

Glenn is returning to his roots in presenting “The Velveteen Rabbit,” having started his career working with puppets in New York.

He decided to present the puppets with some of the handlers in full view. Other puppeteers will be hidden in the nursery toy box.

“There’s something gentle, childlike with kids playing with stuffed animals,” he said. “Here we have a boy playing with a rabbit he thinks of as real and pretty soon we’ll see him as real. Eventually, you forget that there are humans and there are puppets. It all blends together.”

Per Janson, as the Velveteen Rabbit, and Logan Smith, in the lead role, go on safari in the boy’s nursery room.

Puppeteers, humans and narrators are Jana Arnold, Scott Creighton, Beth Hilles, Per Janson, Christine Leslie, Claudia McCain and Logan Smith, a seventh-grader at The Sage School in Hailey.

Arnold, a former TV actress who worked on such shows as “Murphy Brown” and “E.R.,” said she’s never had as much fun in her life as she had learning to handle the puppets. The action is so engaging that the actors are watching one another as they rehearse.

“It’s a simple script so faithful to the original story that I wondered how it would translate on stage. But it’s proven magical,” said Arnold, who plays Nana and a puppeteer. “And the little boy has just picked everything up so well — I would work with him again in a heartbeat.”

Detroit's Victor Martinez hits a triple in the sixth inning of Game 5 of the ALCS against Texas.

Tigers Stay Alive in ALCS, Hold Off Rangers

ASSOCIATED PRESS

DETROIT • One moment, Justin Verlander and the Tigers were on the verge of watching their season slip away.

After a double play and a lucky bounce, they were headed back to Texas.

Verlander helped save Detroit's season with a gutsy effort and the Tigers hit for a sudden cycle to break away in a 7-5 victory Thursday that cut the Rangers' lead to 3-2 in the AL championship series.

Delmon Young hit two of Detroit's four homers and Miguel Cabrera had a tiebreaking double in the sixth inning — thanks to a bizarre bounce off third base.

"I have that bag in my office right now. And that will be in my memorabilia room at some point in my life, I can promise you," Tigers manager Jim Leyland said.

After building a five-run cushion, Detroit held on despite Nelson Cruz's record fifth home run of the series. With closer Jose Valverde unavailable for the Tigers, Texas cut it to 7-5 in the ninth and had Cruz on deck when Phil Coke retired Mike Napoli on a game-ending groundout with two runners on.

Coke got five outs for his first career postseason save.

"Cokie came through for us," Leyland said. "A little different situation for him obviously, but he was up to the challenge."

The Rangers get another chance to reach the World Series for the second straight season in Game 6 Saturday night at home. Derek Holland will start for Texas against Max Scherzer.

KASEY KELLER'S SEND-OFF IN SEATTLE ARRIVES

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TUKWILA, Wash. • Kasey Keller's ready to go, ready to spend weekends on the golf course or, on the occasional hot day in the Pacific Northwest, water skiing around Lake Washington.

Or even something more simple, like a Friday night dinner out with family and friends without the worry of a game the next day.

Those hours of sitting around and making sure his mind is singularly focused on the 90 minutes in which Keller must be the best player on the pitch have been wearing after two decades of being in the argument about the greatest American goalkeeper of all time.

So it comes without hesitation that Keller is reaffirming this is it, that when the Seattle Sounders FC season ends sometime in November — whether it's following another early Seattle playoff exit or after an MLS Cup title — so too does his storied career.

The buildup to the conclusion begins on Saturday night when Seattle plays its final regular season home game against San Jose and Keller gets feted by a crowd that'll likely top 60,000, most there to honor Keller's lengthy career.

"I'm not too worried about the emotional side of stuff. I think that's one of the things that's been cool about this year is I've known this the whole time," Keller said. "You always think you have a long way to go and now it's getting close, but if I felt I wanted to keep playing I would have kept playing. ... I look around and see how many guys are playing at a level at soon-to-be 42. Not many, if any, so you can't keep pushing it. You know at some stage you're going to fall off that cliff."

Please see KELLER, S3

GAME OF THE WEEK

'Hawks, Bruins Thinking Playoffs, City Pride

BY STEPHEN MEYERS

smeyers@magicvalley.com

Twin Falls senior Zayne Slotten won't say he's been avoiding his father, Dave, this week in preparation for their household battle between Twin Falls and Canyon Ridge tonight.

He's just been sure to keep his lips sealed around the Canyon Ridge head coach.

"I don't want to say anything stupid that will tip him off to what we're going to do in the game Friday," said Zayne. "There hasn't been too much trash talking this week either. My mom, she has really been getting on us if we say anything, saying that she's going to lose it and it's not going to be pretty."

The third installment of the Service Bowl could be called the 'Slotten Bowl' with Dave squaring off against his son, but Zayne said he's treating tonight's game at Bruin Stadium like any other.

"Truthfully the only thing I'm thinking about is the playoffs," said the Twin Falls tight end. "I'm not looking too much into the 'me versus my dad thing.' I just want to win and make it to the playoffs."

The Red Side of Twin Falls is thinking playoffs too. After two seasons with only three combined wins, the Riverhawks (4-3, 2-1 Great Basin) have turned heads this season with conference wins over Jerome and Burley to position themselves for a spot at the Class 4A state playoffs.

A Canyon Ridge victory and a Burley win over Wood River clinches a playoff spot for the Riverhawks, while Twin Falls (4-2, 2-1) clinches a berth with a victory and a Wood River win.

"Week 10 (the playoffs), that's the main thing on everyone's mind right now," said Canyon Ridge quarterback Nate Sterner. "It feels awesome to be in this position with a chance to get to the playoffs. It would feel good to beat Twin and claim our first playoff berth."

Canyon Ridge hasn't beaten Twin Falls in the new cross-town rivalry, last season a 23-0 shutout at CRHS and a 55-7 beat down in the inaugural game in 2009.

Siyavash Askari, a Canyon Ridge linebacker, remembers playing in those two games.

"It was just horrible, just a bad deal. We were all underclassmen playing varsity ball," Askari said. "It's completely new this season though. Once we've started believing in ourselves, it's a completely different ballgame, instead of quitting in the third quarter like we used to, we play hard the entire game."

Former Bruins, Riverhawks Attending Tonight's Matchup

BY STEPHEN MEYERS

smeyers@magicvalley.com

Twin Falls linebacker Tucker Donnelley said tonight's game against visiting Canyon Ridge is "like a second homecoming."

Bruin Stadium is certainly going to feel that vibe tonight.

Former Bruins stars, TJ Ellis, Jayson Welker and Ryan Fuchs are all tripping to town this weekend to watch the third edition of Twin Falls vs. Canyon Ridge. Ellis is flying in from Spokane, Wash. where he's going to school at Gonzaga. Fuchs is coming from Boise State and Welker from Pocatello where he's going to school at Idaho State.

Dozens of other Twin Falls alumni who are in town schooling at the College of Southern Idaho or awaiting their church mission calls are expected to attend the game too.

"I'm really looking forward to it. I haven't seen any games in person yet this season and it's going to be great to reunite with some friends and

CSI'S GOLDEN GIVE-AWAY

Golden Eagle spikers' conference title hopes take huge hit with loss to SLCC.

BY DAVID BASHORE

dbashore@magicvalley.com

The Golden Eagles gave away control of their own destiny Thursday.

The sixth-ranked College of Southern Idaho volleyball team committed 52 errors en route to a deflating five-set loss to No. 5 Salt Lake Community College, leaving the Golden Eagles' fate in the Scenic West Athletic Conference (at least for now) to other teams.

The teams combined for 100 total errors, but it was the timing of CSI's that led to a 26-24, 23-25, 19-25, 25-19, 15-11 decision for the visiting Bruins, who bumped the Golden Eagles out of first place in the conference standings.

"The errors are killing us," said CSI coach Heidi Cartisser. "At this point in the season we should be cleaning those up, but we're getting to the end of the season and we're saying the same things that we were saying at the beginning of the season."

Keani Passi and Heather Meeuwssen shouldered much of the load for the Golden Eagles (15-8, 4-2 Scenic West). Passi, playing on the right side in a re-tooled attack, had a match-high 18 kills, while Meeuwssen had 24 digs, fourth most in a five-set match in program history.

CSI was a couple points from winning the first set, and possibly with it an eventual straight-set victory. But it wasn't to be, as the game deteriorated into a scrappy, error-strewn affair from both sides, with the more consistent Bruins (19-6, 5-1) winning out.

Maddie Bushman led Salt Lake with 13 kills, while MaKenzie Fahnstock and Leyla Redondo each had 12.

Scharae Steel had 11 kills for CSI.

The Golden Eagles host Snow College on Saturday, knowing a better performance will be necessary if they want to harbor any lingering hope of hosting the region tournament.

"They need to come ready to play," said Cartisser. "Don't show us that you deserve to be on the floor (in practice) and then not show up (when it matters)."

AP SOURCE: BIG EAST, BOISE MUST BE PERSUADED

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK • The Big East is considering adding Boise State football to help bolster the conference's chances of retaining its BCS automatic bid, though both sides still need to be persuaded that it's the right move.

A college football official, who spoke Thursday to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity because he was not authorized to discuss the Big East's plans, says some Big East presidents are resisting adding Boise State and the school itself has reservations about joining a conference in flux.

The Big East said earlier this week it would like to expand to 12 football schools and split into two divisions, which would allow the league to play a championship.

The official said that some Big East leaders believe the priority in expansion should be bringing in programs that will ensure the Big East remains an automatic qualifying BCS conference when the current Bowl Championship Series television and bowl contracts run out after the 2013 season.

Boise State could be just what the Big East needs. The Broncos have had one of the winningest programs in college football recently, going 71-5 since 2006.

The BCS has a formula for evaluating the strength of a conference that takes into account the final BCS rankings of each team in a league. Even if Boise State joined the Big East next season, its final BCS ranking of 10th while playing in the Western Athletic Conference last year, and its ranking this season while playing in the Mountain West Conference, would count toward the Big East's ledger when it is reviewed after the 2013 season.

No. 5 Boise State is 5-0 heading into this weekend's game at Colorado State.

Losing its automatic BCS bid could cost the reeling Big East millions of dollars in revenue down the road.

Last month, Pittsburgh and Syracuse announced they would be leaving the Big East to join the Atlantic Coast Conference. That left the Big East with six football members: Louisville, Cincinnati, West Virginia, Rutgers, Connecticut and USF.

PREP RALLY

THREE AND OUT A look at this week’s biggest prep football games

Oakley at Hagerman at 7 p.m.

The Skinny: While Hagerman still has two conference games remaining after tonight and Oakley has one, this matchup should essentially decide the Snake River Conference title as Hagerman (6-0, 3-0) and Oakley (5-1, 4-0) are the league's last remaining unbeatens. Last year, Hagerman dethroned the reigning conference champs on their home field, coming away from Oakley victorious after a 44-38 shootout in which both teams gained more than 400 yards of offense.

Key matchup No. 1: Kade Kress vs. Oakley's defense. Scoring 51 points per game, the Pirates have many weapons, including Jon Owsley, Austin Funkhouser, Xavier Strick and Ty Martin. But the man who makes Hagerman go is sophomore quarterback Kress, who's not only athletic but also smart with a good feel for the game. Against Challis he threw for three touchdowns, and against Shoshone last week, he ran for four scores. And in one of his most complete outings, he passed for 245 yards and ran for 175 against Grace.

Key matchup No. 2: Stephan Ortiz vs. Hagerman's D. Like Kress, Ortiz is Oakley's sparkplug. The past three weeks he has scored six touchdowns and four two-point conversions while averaging 174 yards rushing. But perhaps Ortiz's biggest asset is he's simply a winner. He's a two-time state wrestling champ with an 82-2 record, plus he was a key component to Oakley's 2009 state football title squad. But Ortiz doesn't do it alone, as he's surrounded by loads of talent, such as running backs Eleazar Tellez and Gerrit Wybenga, along with quarterback Jamison Jones.

Prediction: Hagerman 36, Oakley 30

Burley at Wood River at 7 p.m.

The skinny: Two teams headed in opposite directions? Wood River has lost two straight after a four-game winning streak, while Burley got its second win of the season in stomping Buhl. Modest, but consider the Bobcats carried a 14-game losing streak into the first month of the season before beating Twin Falls in Week 3. The loser of this game is certain to miss the postseason, while the winner will carry its own post-season fate in its hands the following week. Add it all up and tonight's game is an absolute must-win for both sides.

Key matchup No. 1: Strength in Numbers vs. The Power of One. Burley's double-wing ground game spreads the ball around to several players (Brayden McCracken, Zander Cook, Anthony Martiez, Tommy Cantu), while everyone in the stadium knows Wood River running back Greg Lindbloom is good for 20-plus carries. All that matters, ultimately, is how many big plays each side can produce.

Key matchup No. 2: Heart vs. fatigue. This promises to be a brutally physical game, with both sides content to slug it out on the ground and where any play which gains more than 6 yards is a huge gain. Which team will be most energetic in the fourth quarter? Just as much as Xs and Os, the conditioning level of the Jimmies and Joes will have a huge impact on the outcome.

Prediction: Wood River 24, Burley 20

—Patrick Sheltra

Buhl at Kimberly at 7 p.m.

The skinny: Always a wild ride when Buhl and Kimberly get together, tonight's game has possible playoff implications on the line as Buhl (2-4, 1-0 Sawtooth Central Idaho Conference) will clinch a Class 3A playoff berth and the outright SCIC championship with a win. The title is Kimberly's with a win tonight and next week against Filer. Kimberly (3-3, 0-0) escaped Buhl last season with a 17-14 win as Dally Charters nailed a 21-yard field goal as time expired. Buhl beat Kimberly the previous year, 29-14.

Key Matchup No. 1: Buhl's defense against Seth Champlin. Kimberly's quarterback can be a one-man wrecking crew out of the Bulldogs' new shotgun attack. Against Burley earlier this season, Champlin ran for 167 yards and three touchdowns and passed for two more. He has also returned a punt for a score this season and is always a threat to break a big run. Jade Wadsworth, Clay Mathews and Holt Bright are also weapons out of the backfield for Kimberly.

Key Matchup No. 2: Buhl's health and hands. The Indians return a number of key players from injury along the offensive line and running back Micah Schneidermann, but could be without dinged-up running back David Murdoch. In last year's loss, the Indians turned the ball over twice the in the game's final two minutes to give the Bulldogs a second life after they took the lead with two scores in the fourth quarter. Head coach Stacy Wilson said his team must eliminate its turnovers, something that has plagued the Indians this season.

Prediction: Kimberly 27, Buhl 20

Behind their first-year coach and running backs Braydon Metcalf and Nick Kytle, Canyon Ridge has been transformed into a physical, run-first team which has caught the eye of Twin Falls.

“They’re a lot more competitive than they have been in the last two years and I know it will be a good game and I’m hoping we’re ready,” said Twin Falls linebacker Tucker Donnelley. “Teams change and they’re changing and getting better and hopefully we’re doing the same thing.”

Twin Falls has morphed its offense as well, from a pass-happy attack, into a power running scheme spearheaded by a number of runners in Zach Davis and Hunter Waters and last week proved it can play a physical style game in a 17-14 win over Wood River.

“They’re a good football team, we’re a pretty good football team and it’s going to be a great game. With our defense this year, we’re ready for anything,” Askari said. “It’s just a good cross-town rivalry.”

look back at the guys I used to play with,” said Ellis. “It’s a big game, a rivalry game. I expect a lot of people to be there.”

Ellis was a three-year starter at quarterback for the Bruins, graduating this spring. He, along with Welker and Fuchs beat the cross-town Riverhawks 55-7 and 23-0 in the first two years of the Service Bowl.

“It was a great experience playing in those games. It was the first two years of the rivalry and everyone was talking up the game and really building up the hype,” Ellis said. “We felt really good about being the first to win the games.”

Derek Bastian, a former Canyon Ridge linebacker who graduated this spring, is going to tonight’s game, driving from Logan, Utah where he’s attending Utah State University.

Bastian went to both Twin Falls and Canyon Ridge, playing for the Bruins his sophomore year, before transferring to Canyon Ridge for his final two seasons.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Zimmers Latest to Shine in Castleford’s Backfield

BY DAVID BASHORE
dbashore@magicvalley.com

CASTLEFORD • For two years, Ty Zimmers watched as Houston Horner and Cody Quinn terrorized opposing defenses as Castleford’s featured running back.

Now he’s seized full control of his chance to continue the string of ground threats for the Wolves.

Last week was one indicator of the junior’s prowess, as he racked up 241 rushing yards and a touchdown in Castleford’s 45-24 win over Lighthouse Christian last Friday.

“There are some things you can pick up from watching other players, but you can’t copy what they do. Ty’s successful because he’s worked hard at it and he wants to get better,” said Castleford coach Tracy Vulgamore. “We talked to him about how Boise State and a lot of the college teams keep track of yards after first contact, and I think he’s taken that seriously. You won’t see him brought down by just one player very often.”

Despite the gaudy rushing total, Zimmers’ focus is pretty simple.

“Three yards a play is my goal, and if I see daylight I’ll run to it,” said Zimmers. “All I want to do is keep those (yardage) sticks moving.”

Castleford’s always looking to establish the run in games, particularly as it sets about defending its championship in the Sawtooth Conference’s South Division.

But if it needs to pass more, as was somewhat the case last week, that’s fine too.

“I always want to rush for as many yards as I can,” said Zimmers. “But I’ll do whatever it takes to get the win. That’s what it’s all about.”

good friends at Twin Falls, but when I was playing on the field in that game it meant nothing,” said Bastian, who’s younger brother Jordan plays for the River-hawks this season. “It’s always a big deal when these teams play. It’s going to be tough (watching from the stands). I’ll feel like I should be out there.”

Keller

It's a testament to Keller's performance in his final year that questions are still being asked about whether he's at all reconsidering a retirement that was first announced nearly a year ago. He leads the MLS in victories with 16, is fourth in saves and, among keepers with at least 20 games this season, is tops in save percentage and second in goals against average.

No matter what happens in Seattle's final two league matches, it's the most successful regular season in the Sounders' three years.

And that's just what Keller's done in MLS play. He helped Seattle win a third straight U.S. Open Cup title by pitching shutouts in the semifinals and championship match, and pitched in with victories in the CONCACAF Champions League to help Seattle advance from

GREGG MIDDLEKAUFF'S QUOTE OF THE DAY
Let thy speech be short, comprehending much in a few words.

Milwaukee relief pitcher John Axford throws in the ninth inning of Game 4 of the NLCS against St. Louis.

Brewers Even Up Series With Cards

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. LOUIS • Randy Wolf outfoxed the St. Louis Cardinals for seven innings to earn his first postseason win at age 35 and the Milwaukee Brewers got two more hits from Ryan Braun in a 4-2 victory Thursday night that evened the NL championship series at 2-all.

Matt Holliday and Allen Craig homered for the Cardinals, representing their only runs in the last 16 innings.

Francisco Rodriguez allowed a hit in the eighth and John Axford finished for his second save of the series and third this postseason.

The Brewers ended an eight-game road losing streak in the postseason dating to the 1982 World Series opener at St. Louis.

Jaime Garcia faces Zack Greinke for the second time in the series in Game 5 Friday night. Either way, the NLCS will be decided back at Miller Park.

Jerry Hairston Jr. doubled twice with an RBI and Wolf hit one of the Brewers' five doubles. Braun is batting .471 (16 for 34) in the postseason with two homers and nine RBIs.

The Cardinals needed more heavy duty from their bullpen, too, after Kyle Lohse, pitching on 12 days' rest, failed to make it out of the fifth.

Albert Pujols was a quiet 1 for 4 for St. Louis, which was 0 for 8 with runners in scoring position and is 0 for 15 after the first inning of Game 3.

Wolf kept the Cardinals off-balance with soft tosses and retired 13 of his last 15 hitters in his fourth career postseason start. It was a huge improvement from Game 4 of the NL division series at Arizona in which he surrendered seven runs in three innings.

Wolf also struggled in his last two regular season starts, allowing 10 runs in 11 2-3 innings.

For the fourth straight game, the Cardinals had to lean heavily on their relievers. Lohse sailed through three innings and then allowed three doubles and three runs to his last eight hitters, and was charged with three runs in 4 1-3 innings.

Two of Cardinals manager Tony La Russa's moves paid off. Bumped down one spot to fifth, Holliday hit his first postseason homer and doubled.

Craig started in place of Lance Berkman, who was 3 for 32 lifetime against Wolf and had a minor right thigh bruise from getting hit by a pitch in Game 3. Craig hit his first career postseason homer made it 2-0 in the third.

FOUND:
A male Pub was found in Filer 10-12-11. He is brindle and white and is wearing a green collar.
Please call to identify.

AVAILABLE FOR ADOPTION:
Donations are greatly appreciated. We are in desperate need of adult and puppy food. Thank you Conway Twitty is a handsome Heeler/Border Collie mix. He is black with some white markings. He is about six-weeks-old and came into the shelter with his sister Loretta. They were found in an ally starving and scared. They are doing really well now and are eager to find there forever homes.

Gypsy was left abandoned in a back yard with 2 feet of chain. If it hadn't been for a good Samaritan neighbor she wouldn't have made it to us. She is a beautiful Australian Shepherd mix with a red brindle coat. Gypsy is probably about 3 years old.

Miracle Max is a 6 month old chocolate Lab. Max came to the shelter about four months ago and has been under medical care. He was tied in the back of a pickup, jumped out and got tangled up with the back tire. The tire acted as a belt sander removing all of the muscle tissue and much of the bone on Max's rear leg. Rather than euthanizing Max or amputating the leg, Dr. Jones and his staff spent the past several months caring for Max with herbal therapies. Max's leg is now fully functional.

Hannah is a 3 month old chocolate Labrador mix puppy. She has a some white markings. She is a sweetheart!

Turbo is a sweet chocolate Lab boy. He is middle aged and is very well mannered. He knows tricks such as sit and shake a paw. Turbo is a wonderful dog and will be a great addition to the family.

Kelsey is a female Pointer Border Collie mix puppy. White with large black spots..really cute!

Joker is a young adult Boxer/Aussie mix. He is white with big patches of brindle. He is really uniquely marked. Joker also has beautiful big blue eyes. He is very friendly and will be a great dog for someone.

Pepper is a beautiful Wirehaired Pointer. She is a young adult and has black and white markings. Pepper is very sweet and will be a great pet.

The adoption fee is $75 and includes spaying/neutering and the first set of vaccinations.

AND BE SEEN!

DEAR ABBY: When my son "Lyle" told my husband and me that his wife, "Becky," was leaving him and taking their kids where he would not be able to see them, we were shocked. Lyle consulted an attorney, filed for divorce that day, and got a restraining order to keep Becky from running off with the kids.

We begged them to go to counseling. As things progressed, Lyle learned about several of Becky's affairs, her drug use and her chronic lying, and told us every awful, shocking detail. He also made sure our entire family knew about his lying, cheating, conniving wife. As talk began to circulate around our family, my husband told Lyle he knew from the beginning that all the things he had been told about Becky were true.

Well, today my son announced to us that he and Becky are back together! We are stunned. Abby, please warn people who are considering divorce to keep their mouths shut, because spreading dirt helps no one and can cause real problems later. Any advice on how to deal with this mess now?

— WISH WE WERE NEVER TOLD

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR WISH: While I'm not a doctor, I am prescribing a healthy dose of collective amnesia for your family. It's the only way you'll be able to look Becky in the eye. Your son was lining up allies when he trashed her. Whether or not what he said about her was true or exaggerated, no one will regard her — or him — quite the way they did. What a shame.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law, "Bernice" hasn't spoken to me since her son and I were married four years ago. We got along well prior to the wedding, but because I didn't let her make major decisions in the wedding she stopped speaking to me. I have done everything I can to mend our relationship — sent her letters of apology, birthday gifts, etc. — still no response.

My husband is in the middle. I have really had it with Bernice and don't want to try to mend fences with her any longer, but my husband is very close to his mom and wants me to keep trying. What can I do? Please help.

— DAUGHTER-IN-LAW DILEMMA

DEAR DAUGHTER-IN-LAW: Your husband isn't in the middle. His mother has been trying to push you out in left field for four years, and he is unwilling to put his foot down and stop her.

If you're smart, you will take the high road and continue with the gifts on special occasions. With luck, she'll continue to ignore them and you won't have to tolerate her. A mother-in-law who carries a grudge and thinks her "suggestions" are ironclad is a bona fide burden. Be glad you don't have to suffer her presence, and keep your fingers crossed.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are the parents of three young boys — ages 11, 8 and 3. My wife often walks around our bedroom and bathroom naked, or topless with lacy underpants. I feel it is inappropriate for her to walk around in this manner and that she should take care to cover up, especially in front of the older boys. What do you think?

— BLUSHING IN SAN JOSE, CALIF.

DEAR BLUSHING: Although families have different standards regarding nudity, I think a touch of modesty is the best policy. If your wife enjoys being nude or topless in the confines of your bedroom and bathroom, she should keep the door shut, and ask that the boys knock and ask permission before entering.

We're here to help.

Today is Friday, Oct. 14, the 287th day of 2011. There are 78 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight
On Oct. 14, 1960, Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy suggested the idea of a Peace Corps while addressing an audience of students at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1066, Normans under William the Conqueror defeated the English at the Battle of Hastings.
In 1586, Mary, Queen of Scots, was on trial in England, accused of committing treason against Queen Elizabeth I. (Mary was beheaded in February 1587.)
In 1890, Dwight D. Eisenhower, 34th president of the United States, was born in Denison, Texas.
In 1912, Theodore Roosevelt, campaigning for the presidency, was shot in the chest in Milwaukee. Despite the wound, he went ahead with a scheduled speech.
In 1939, a German U-boat torpedoed and sank the HMS Royal Oak, a British battleship anchored at Scapa Flow in Scotland's Orkney Islands; 833 of the more than 1,200 men aboard were killed.
In 1944, German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel committed suicide rather than face execution for allegedly conspiring against Adolf Hitler.
In 1947, Air Force test pilot Charles E. ("Chuck") Yeager broke the sound barrier as he flew the experimental Bell XS-1 (later X-1) rocket plane over Muroc Dry Lake in California.
In 1961, the Frank Loesser musical "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," starring Robert Morse as J. Pierrepont Finch, opened on Broadway.
In 1977, singer Bing Crosby died outside Madrid, Spain, at age 74.
In 1987, a 58-hour drama began in Midland, Texas, as 18-month-old Jessica McClure slid 22 feet down an abandoned well at a private day care center; she was rescued on Oct. 16.
Ten years ago: As U.S. jets opened a second week of raids in Afghanistan, President George W. Bush sternly rejected a Taliban offer to discuss handing over Osama bin Laden to a third country, saying, "They must have not heard. There's no negotiations."

Five years ago: The U.N. Security Council voted unanimously to impose punishing sanctions on North Korea for carrying out a nuclear test. Michael and Sandra Bentler were shot to death along with their three daughters at their southeast Iowa home (Shawn Bentler, the couple's son, was convicted of killing his family and is serving a life sentence). The Detroit Tigers swept the American League championship with a 6-3 victory over the Oakland Athletics. A sideline-clearing brawl interrupted the third quarter of Miami's 35-0 victory over Florida International. Gerry Studds, the first openly gay member of Congress, died in Boston at age 69; singer Freddy Fender died in Corpus Christi, Texas, at age 69.

One year ago: Chile's 33 rescued miners posed with President Sebastian Pinera and were examined by doctors a day after they were freed from their underground prison. Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad (ah-muh-DEE'-neh-zhahd) taunted archenemy Israel from just across the tense border in Lebanon, rallying tens of thousands of Hezbollah supporters.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE® Bobby Wolff

"I saw the Night caught, as by wizard's spell, In the red meshes of the setting sun...."

— H. Duncan Hall

In this deal from the Mixed Pairs final last year in Philadelphia, Neil Rosen of England rejected the 5-3 spade fit and played three no-trump instead. He was off to a good start when West led the heart three to dummy's jack. When a club to the queen saw West's seven appear, declarer could infer that it might well be from club 10-7. A spade to dummy's jack saw East win with the queen. Declarer ducked the heart return and took the next heart, discarding dummy's diamond nine. He then ran the spade suit, and East came under unbearable pressure.

If he parted with a club, declarer would play the jack, pinning West's 10, then cash another club winner and go back to dummy with a diamond to score the club eight.

So East discarded the diamond queen, but now declarer could run the club jack, then cash the diamond ace and cross to hand with the club ace for a magnificent plus 660.

Incidentally, once declarer has ducked a heart, East can break up the ending by switching to the diamond king. However, if declarer takes the heart ace at once and cashes his spades, East will have to part with his last heart and two diamonds. Now, if declarer reads the position, he can run the club jack, ducked by East. Then he plays the diamond ace and a diamond, scoring the last two tricks with the club ace and the diamond jack.

ANSWER: You have no real interest in game, facing a balanced hand that can't raise spades, so the only issue is whether to play spades or no-trump. If you play, as I do, that your partner can raise with three spades in a semi-balanced hand, it looks clear to pass. Your partner might have a singleton spade and won't often have three. Meanwhile, you have enough high cards for one no-trump to look safe.

IF OCTOBER 14 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: A recent taste of purpose and success has left you hungry for more. In the next several months, it is highly likely that thriving ambitions will prod you to work around the clock. Take good care of your health and remain willing to be humble and gather more experience. Don't make any major changes in your life until next April and May when opportunities might arise and when a glimmer of future rewards will be on the horizon. Play your cards right and you will be able to take advantage of deliciously helpful opportunities that will bring both material gain and spiritual satisfaction.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Leave room for adjustment. Don't take important financial steps now, as you might spend too much, but plan to act in the near future. It is possible you lack an accurate picture of what is involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be forthright and true blue and others will follow your lead. Be clear about your intentions and avoid giving or accepting insincere assurances from others. You need all terms to a contract in writing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Look to the future instead of the past. Ignore old animosities and enemies. For a few hours today, you may be the perfect seer and your crystal ball could show you the path to long-term happiness.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Avoid dealing under the table. Avoid any financial matter that isn't completely on the up-and-up so it won't come back to haunt you. Where love is concerned, wait to act until doubts and fears vanish.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Find a bridge over troubled waters. The misgivings and suspicions you have may be unfounded. If plagued by fears and doubts where romance is concerned, it is best to wait out any brief period of indecision.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Patch the hole in the dam before floodwaters can break through. Trust that repairing problems early will prevent even bigger ones from appearing. Spending money on extravagances is wasteful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Only deal with people you trust implicitly. If in doubt about someone's sincerity or honesty, you would be wise to pass up their offers or remain skeptical of their promises. Pay attention to personal criticism.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Confer with a significant other who can offer a guiding light when you feel you are in the dark. You may have an urge to go on a spending spree, but would be smart to save your money for a rainy day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Honesty is always the best policy, but especially now. Remain skeptical of exaggerated claims or gossip that comes your way. Avoid participating in any activity that falls in the gray areas of law.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A philosophical attitude alters aggravating situations. Try looking on the bright side; if flaws and errors show up now, you have an opportunity to fix things before they break down completely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A stalemate may mar a relationship. If you dwell only on the negatives, you might not make progress. Bear in mind, though, that optimism might not be grounded in facts. The best motto today is, "Let bygones be bygones."

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You are your best in one-on-one meetings in which others can appreciate your genuine honesty and truthfulness. Don't take shortcuts when career matters are concerned or put your reputation at risk.

WASHINGTON WORK TO SHIFT TO INTERSECTION'S OTHER SIDE

TIMES-NEWS

Ongoing construction at the intersection of Washington Street North and Falls Avenue in Twin Falls will move to Washington's southbound lanes as early as Monday, according to the Idaho Transportation Department.

That means the west side of the intersection will be completely closed to traffic, similar to this week's closure to allow work on Washington's northbound lanes.

This week's paving should wrap up on Friday, according to ITD. The entire intersection will be open to traffic for the weekend.

Late Sunday or early Monday, traffic will then be switched onto Washington's northbound lanes and the southbound will be completely closed to traffic.

West of the intersection, workers will largely close Falls to traffic near Sparks Street. However, access will be preserved to homes and businesses closer to the intersection.

Depending on weather, next week's closure could last four days.

Finishing the intersection work will mark the completion of major construction on Washington, according to ITD. Minor projects related to the work will remain, and drivers should watch for intermittent, short-term lane closures throughout this month.

DEBCO Construction, of Orofino, is the contractor for the federally funded, $6.5 million project, sponsored by the city of Twin Falls and administered by ITD.

Overtaken Hay Trailer Snarls I-84 near T.F.

TIMES-NEWS

An overturned hay trailer snarled Interstate 84 traffic briefly this morning, after its driver veered to avoid a collision.

John Wakley, 44, of Twin Falls, was uninjured when his 1986 International semi cab towing a flatbed loaded with hay tipped off the north side of the interstate between Jerome and Twin Falls. Wakley had been driving west at 10:05 a.m., according to an Idaho State Police report, when a commercial vehicle in front of him slowed to make an improper turn in an emergency vehicle crossover.

Wakley was able to avoid hitting any other vehicles, and ISP officials are working to identify the driver who was using the emergency crossover and caused the crash. According to an ISP release, troopers believe the vehicle was being used for Interstate 84 construction in the area, and troopers are working with the contractor on the Idaho Transportation Department project to complete the investigation.

According to ITD releases, Boise-based Knife River Corp. Northwest is performing work at the nearby interchange of I-84 and U.S. Highway 93.

Child Porn Suspect Skips Sentencing

TIMES-NEWS

A $250,000 warrant was issued this week for a Kimberly man who skipped his sentencing on child pornography charges.

Donald Morris, 44, failed to appear in Twin Falls County 5th District Court on Tuesday, when he was scheduled to be sentenced, as he had pleaded guilty to 15 counts of possession of sexually exploitative material of children. According to a plea agreement, the state dropped 20 more felony counts.

Public defender George Essma told Judge G. Richard Bevan on Tuesday that Morris was in a treatment facility in Wyoming. Bevan allowed 24 hours for Essma to produce proof, but when none was provided by the end of Wednesday Bevan signed the warrant.

Morris was arrested and charged in June, after a private citizen and an area pawn shop owner turned over three computers allegedly containing child porn last year, according to the police report.
