

Prosecutor: No Charges in Rupert Boy's Death

The shooting that claimed 2-year-old Brandon Herrera was accidental, according to a Rupert Police Department investigation.

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

RUPERT • No criminal charges will be filed in connection to the Oct. 12 fatal shooting of a 2-year-old Rupert boy, Minidoka County Prosecutor Lance Stevenson announced Thursday. Stevenson said in a press release that the Rupert Police Department has finished its investigation and the prosecutor's office will not file charges related to the death of Brandon Herrera. Herrera died Oct. 13 in a Boise hospital, after he was shot in the forehead by his 3-year-old brother in their grandfather's northeast Rupert home, where they resided their mother, Crystal Rogers. Stevenson said the older boy found his grandfather's loaded .22 caliber revolver in an unsecured gun safe in the house. Rogers was in another room of the house when the shooting occurred. "This tragedy serves as a significant reminder of the importance of safe storage practices regarding firearms and ammunition, as well as the importance of sound gun safety practices," Stevenson said in the release. "Safety cannot be emphasized enough, particularly when children are or could be in proximity of firearms." Please see HERRERA, M2

SPECIAL REPORT

INSIDE IDAHO'S EXECUTION CHAMBER:

BY REBECCA BOONE The Associated Press
The small cell holding Paul Ezra Rhoades sits across a hallway from the room in which he is scheduled to die in less than a month. His isolation cell is quiet as a worker brings in a tray of medicine. • The death chamber is silent, save for the faint hum of fluorescent lights. • It is all pristine: The cream-colored gurney unused, the wooden podium emblazoned with the Great Seal of Idaho not yet fitted with a microphone. No one has ever been killed in this room.

But the Idaho Department of Correction has been practicing the motions of an execution for years, anticipating that as many as three death row inmates will be put to death here before the end of 2013. The first, 54-year-old Rhoades, is scheduled to die Nov. 18 unless he is granted clemency or a last-minute stay by the federal courts. He is already under 24-hour suicide watch in anticipation of the event.

Rhoades

Rhoades was sentenced to death for the sexual assault and murder of Idaho Falls teacher Susan Michelbacher, 34, whose bullet-ridden body was found in March 1987, and for the first-degree murder and kidnapping of Stacy Dawn Baldwin, 21, a Blackfoot convenience store clerk who was shot to death in February 1987. Rhoades was also sentenced to life in prison without the possibility of parole for the March 1987 shooting death of Nolan Haddon, 21, a Blackfoot man who worked at an Idaho Falls convenience store. "Our focus, if we are tasked with carrying out this order, is that we do so with professionalism," Please see EXECUTION, A2

Volleyball Players Don't Spike Rec Center Idea

BY BEN BOTKIN
bbotkin@magicvalley.com

The Twin Falls mother plays on a women's youth volleyball team that's one of 32 adult teams playing in city recreation programs. The city's parks and recreation department has no youth volleyball program, but, by the time Kya's old enough to spike a volleyball, it just might. On Tuesday, the Twin Falls Recreation Center Committee released its first draft of a plan outlining an indoor facility. A rec center would replace a patchwork of schools and a church facility where the basketball and volleyball programs unfold. The volleyball and basketball teams attracted more than 1,000 participants in the past year. If a recreation center becomes a reality, there would be enough room to Please see REC CENTER, A2

Former Cop Faces Pro-pot Candidate for T.F. Council Seat 2

bbotkin@magicvalley.com

Only two candidates are running for Seat 2 on the Twin Falls City Council, but they bring vastly different backgrounds to the campaign. A write-in candidate, Robert Hinkle, is running against retired police chief Jim Munn for a seat left open by Councilman David Johnson, who isn't seeking re-election. The winner will be elected to a four-year term on the council, a job that pays $13,920 annually.

Robert Hinkle

Age: 22
Occupation: Cashier at Dollar Tree
Government experience: None. Currently a political science major at College of Southern Idaho.
Three reasons to vote for Hinkle: • Hinkle says he would pursue a measure similar to what Hailey put in place in 2010, which made misdemeanor marijuana use on private property a low police priority. He says marijuana use in a private home shouldn't be prohibited. • Hinkle says he's in favor of rent relief to reduce rent prices in Twin Falls. He wants to put a program in place that would give a property tax break to landlords based on how much they cut rent prices. • Hinkle says his background gives him an understanding of Twin Falls' working class. The older boy apparently played with the revolver for a period of time prior to the shooting, because his hand showed a slight pinch wound received while he was trying to cock the hammer.

Hinkle

Stevenson told the Associated Press that his office considered a variety of factors before deciding not to pursue criminal charges against the adults in the home. The children had been warned not to enter the room where the guns were located and family members believed the gun safe, which held other weapons, couldn't be opened by the children.

The older brother opened the gun safe, retrieved the pistol, cocked the hammer and pulled the trigger, but police don't believe the weapon was intentionally pointed at Brandon when it fired.

Following the incident, the 3-year-old boy has been staying with his father, Jose Herrera, who doesn't live at the residence where the shooting took place.

The fatal shooting was the second instance this year in which child playing with a handgun in Rupert accidentally shot another child.

A 12-year-old Rupert boy was shot in July when he and two other boys, ages 10 and 12, played with a 9 mm handgun. The names of the juveniles were never released by police.

The gun, which was kept in the shooting victim's home for security purposes and was concealed, belonged to the boy's parents. Other firearms in the house were locked in a gun safe, and adults were away from the home when the shooting occurred.

Apparently, the youngest boy pulled the trigger, thinking the gun was clear of ammunition after the boys dropped the magazine out of the pistol.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

Age: 50
Occupation: Retired Twin Falls police chief, currently works as a Realtor, private investigator and occasional investigator for Idaho Peace Officer Standards and Training Academy.
Government experience: Thirty-year career in Twin Falls Police Department, chief for the last five years.
Three reasons to vote for Munn:

- Munn says he'd bring the same values needed by police officers, which include serving your entire community and being fair to everyone, regardless of their social standing.
- Munn says he is a fiscal conservative who believes in operating with a balanced budget and keeping a handle on fees and taxes.
- He says he's a supporter of boosting small businesses and entrepreneurship in Twin Falls and wants further economic development.
- In his words: "I've been a public servant since I was a teenager and I just thought I'm still young enough to where I could serve. I have enough time to do it now."

CLARIFICATION

Information in the Oct. 17 story "Trip Craig Faces Challenges Barigar, Starley for Council Seat" was incomplete and should have contained the following information under incumbent Councilman Trip Craig's profile:

Potential red flag: Craig pleaded guilty to misdemeanor possession of a controlled substance in 1991 after a police officer cited him for possessing marijuana in Twin Falls County, court records show. He was sentenced to two years of unsupervised probation, a fine of $536.50, and 40 hours of community service. Craig said the case happened a long time ago, he made a mistake and was with the wrong person.

TWO OPEN GOODING COUNCIL SEATS

BY BRADLEY GUIRE
bguire@magicvalley.com

Voters have their choice of three candidates to fill two seats on the Gooding City Council, as two incumbents seek re-election against a former councilman who's thrown his hat in the race.

Michael Arkoosh and Vern France are running for re-election, joined by Thomas Lowman Jr., who served on the council in the mid-1980s. The candidates cited many of the same projects which need attention in the city, including the Little Wood River embankment and the city's irrigation system.

Mayor William "Duke" Morton is running unopposed. He has served as mayor since 2006, when the council appointed him to replace Herb Stroud, who resigned less than a year into his term. Morton won a full term in the 2007 election. He was first elected to the council in 2003.

Council members serve four-year terms and are paid $450 monthly. The mayor earns $650 monthly.

Michael Arkoosh

Arkoosh

Age: 63
Occupation: Office manager for Faulkner Land and Livestock Co.
Government experience:

Elected to Gooding City Council in 2007; served on Gooding School District Board from 1981-1999.
Three reasons to vote for Arkoosh:

- Arkoosh wants to find funding for improvements on the Little Wood River bank walls.
- He says the city's irrigation system is in poor overall shape, which is leading to costly, labor-intensive repairs.
- Arkoosh wants to attract small businesses with sustainable positions rather than seek a large employer which could leave hundreds jobless if it ever closed.

In his words: "I'd rather we have 10 businesses with 10 employees than one business with 100 employees."

Vern France

France

Age: 69
Occupation: Livestock consultant
Government experience: Elected to Gooding City

Council in 2003; appointed to Idaho Beef Council in 1999 by former Gov. Dirk Kempthorne.
Three reasons to vote for France:

- France also supports upgrades to the city's irrigation system as well as the Little Wood River bank walls.
- He says the city's comprehensive plan should be brought up to date and coordinated with county plans.
- He believes the city could attract more businesses with infrastructure upgrades made to the industrial park.

In his words: "I have a lot of experience, I'm even-handed in my decision making, and I'm fiscally responsible."

Thomas Lowman Jr.

Lowman

Age: 66
Occupation: Retired
Government experience: Appointed to Gooding

City Council in 1980; elected to a four-year term in 1982.
Three reasons to vote for Lowman:

- Lowman wants more enforcement of city ordinances on animal control, particularly noisy or unleashed dogs.
- He also wants more enforcement on yard upkeep and junk car ordinances.
- Lowman also supports finding funds to repair the Little Wood River bank walls.

In his words: "I have more time to do (the job) justice, and I see some things I'd like to work on. I don't have an ax to grind or anything."

T.F. Man Faces More Molestation Accusations

TIMES-NEWS

A Twin Falls man previously arraigned in 5th District Court on allegations that he inappropriately touched a 6-year-old girl is now accused of molesting a 10-year-old girl.

Steven Virgil Anderson, 58, was arraigned Thursday on three felony counts of lewd conduct with a child under 16 and one of sexual abuse of a child under 16. He is accused of forcing himself upon the girl multiple times between summer 2010 and this August while she stayed at Anderson's home.

According to court records, Anderson's alleged 10-year-old victim told police Anderson said she would be taken from her parents if she told anybody about the alleged illegal contact.

Anderson is jailed on $100,000 bond on those allegations, and held on $50,000 bond for separate allegations of lewd conduct and sexual abuse of another girl.

He's scheduled to appear in court today regarding the 6-year-old's allegations. According to online court records, he'll also appear today for a preliminary hearing on a third case alleging two felony lewd conduct charges.

In an interview with police, Anderson denied any wrongdoing in the case involving the 6-year-old. Court records for the newest case state that police haven't interviewed him yet on those charges.

dignity and respect," Idaho Department of Correction Operations Chief Kevin Kempf said. "There are so many moving parts, and we don't want Murphy's law to show up. We need to think of every possibility."

The Correction Department gave The Associated Press an exclusive tour of the execution chamber Thursday. State officials decided to build it at the Idaho Maximum Security Institution two years ago, abandoning the single-wide trailer with dingy carpet and fake wood paneling that was used for the state's last execution in 1994.

The trailer still sits just a few yards away from the new structure, which was finished late last week. It's a short walk from the prison's cellblocks and past the recreation area to the one-story, brick building with small glass-block windows.

The state has already established its execution teams: An escort team to lead the condemned to the execution chamber; the medical team responsible for inserting the intravenous catheters, mixing the lethal chemicals and monitoring vital statistics; and the injection team responsible for actually administering the lethal injection. In all, about 20 people will be directly involved.

Rec Center

add a youth volleyball program the city has long desired.

"Our department's been talking about that for 20 to 25 years, but there's no space," said Dennis Bowyer, the city's parks and recreation director.

Weeks' team, for example, meets at the First Presbyterian Church in Twin Falls. Players are glad to have a place for volleyball, but are quick to point out imperfections that a recreation center would smooth out.

The room's brick walls are just a few yards from the court's perimeter. That leaves players little space to dive in and save a wayward volleyball before it hits the wall.

"It's just nice to have more room so you can play," said Nicole Jacobson of Buhl, who has played on city leagues since 2005.

A recreation center would also give enough space for practice sessions, which are non-existent.

"It would be nice if you could sign up for times and reserve spots," said Kristen Stout of Twin Falls, who started playing this year.

Roger Steen, the volleyball official refereeing the game, would appreciate some elbow room, too. At times, the ball can get stuck in overhead slits near the ceiling, he said, adding the floor gets slippery for players at times. There isn't a place for an audience either, aside from a stage on one side of the court.

"Sometimes I have to tell the kids to sit down," he said.

For a recreation center to become a reality, many obstacles would have to be overcome.

The biggest hurdle: money.

A city committee still needs to figure out how they'd pay for the 55,704-square-foot facility, which preliminary estimates peg at $5.5 million.

The city could end up asking taxpayers to support a bond or try to get a recreation district approved that would be a stand-alone taxing entity.

Initial plans – which are still on the drawing board and not finalized – call for four basketball courts which can also be turned into eight volleyball courts. The center would also have an elevated running track, batting cages and a climbing wall.

IDAHO 75 WORK TO CONTINUE THROUGH WEEKENDS

TIMES-NEWS

Road resurfacing on Idaho Highway 75 between Hailley and Ketchum will continue through the weekends until the work is finished.

The Idaho Transportation Department will allow work to continue on Saturdays and Sundays due to a slowdown in area weekend activities and the need to complete the project before snow flies, according to a release.

Work had been suspended each weekend since the project's late-August start. Crews cannot work between 6:30-9 a.m. weekdays or detour traffic after dark.

By Monday, only the section from River Street in Ketchum, south to the Big Wood River Bridge, will need work. Paving can only be done when air temperature is 40 degrees or warmer, which currently limits the hours of the day that work can be done.

Traffic will be reduced to one lane in each direction during work. Drivers are asked to follow reduced speed limits and use caution in the work area.

Jerome Man Busted in ISP Drug Sting

TIMES-NEWS

Idaho State Police seized nearly 120 grams of methamphetamine during a sting operation earlier this week.

Detectives arrested a 24-year-old Jerome man Monday after using a confidential informant to make a buy in the parking lot of the Twin Falls Target. Fabian Colis-Ruiz is charged with felony trafficking in methamphetamine and held on $50,000 bond.

According to the court file, the confidential informant was contacted by Colis-Ruiz last week in regards to buying 2 ounces of meth for $2,600. Later, a meeting time was set for Monday evening, so investigators arranged for the exchange and put a wire on the informant.

At about 7 p.m., the informant and Colis-Ruiz allegedly made the exchange and parted ways. The informant turned over the meth, while Colis-Ruiz was stopped and searched. Investigators found the cash and an additional 59.6 grams of methamphetamine. Colis-Ruiz was transported to Twin Falls County Jail.

He was arraigned in Twin Falls County 5th District Magistrate Court on Tuesday, and a preliminary hearing is set for Oct. 28.

Survey: Idahoans Say State Needs Better, Faster Internet

Overall, 95 percent said that high-speed Internet is vital to economic growth in Idaho, while 71 percent said Internet service across the state is worse than in other states.

BY SANDRA FORESTER
Idaho Statesman

BOISE • Reliable, fast and affordable broadband Internet service and infrastructure are key to Idaho's economic development, according to a statewide survey by the Idaho Technology Council.

The ITC conducted the online survey from Sept. 14 to Sept. 23. The group surveyed 426 Idahoans to determine their level of satisfaction with broadband and wireless Internet service, and whether the state needs to strengthen those services.

The survey follows a nationwide study by Pando Networks that ranked Idaho slowest in the country in Internet speed.

Overall, 95 percent of respondents believe that high-speed Internet is vital to economic growth in Idaho, while 71 percent said Internet service across the state is worse than in other states where they compete for business.

"Technology pros believe strongly that the key to Idaho's growth is making sure all our citizens have access to the knowledge-based economy, and the backbone of that economy is the Internet," said Jay Larsen, founder and president of the Idaho Technology Council. "The ITC survey respondents clearly articulate a belief that economic growth, quality jobs and the opportunity for improvement in their personal lives depend in part on significant improvements in speed, quality and the build out of broadband Internet networks that are state of the art."

Idaho respondents also were asked how important they think Internet speed is to growing their business and strengthening the state's education and economy.

Results show that:

- 87 percent of respondent businesses have a web presence and are using broadband Internet to connect with customers.

- 86 percent believe the availability and cost of high-speed broadband Internet is a determining factor in businesses locating to an area.

- 78 percent have high-speed Internet access at home and work, and more than 36 percent report their Internet service as bad or very bad.

- 94 percent of respondents want higher-speed Internet; and 85 percent who use the Internet believe high-speeds would increase efficiency and productivity.

- 97 percent of respondents believe Idaho should aggressively pursue reasonably priced broadband policies.

The ITC survey also solicited comments about the importance of reliable, accessible and fast Internet networks. A number of respondents commented that such networks support:

- New industries and new possibilities for existing industries
- Global competitiveness
- Improved quality of life
- New ways of educating children
- Access to research and new markets
- Civic participation
- Job generation
- Healthcare cost savings
- Mileage costs savings
- Time and energy management
- Reduction in environmental pollution

The largest demographic group responding to the poll was college-educated males, ages 21-39. Every region of Idaho was represented in the survey, with the majority living and working in the Treasure Valley, and 62 percent of respondents have a bachelor's degree or higher.

The survey was supported by the Idaho Internet Innovation Alliance, part of a national coalition of business and nonprofit organizations helping the country achieve universal broadband.

Apple Trees Attracting Bears to Homes, Fish & Game Says

So far, four incidents have occurred along the Henry's Fork and in the Warm River area north of Ashton, according to the agency.

BY JOYCE EDLEFSEN
Standard-Journal

IDAHO FALLS • Idaho Fish and Game officials urge rural residents to keep windfall apples picked up and keep ripe apples harvested after a handful of incidents involving black bears sampling the fruit.

"So far, I've investigated four different sites where trees loaded with apples have had any limbs that bears could reach torn down," says Senior Conservation Officer Charlie Anderson.

The incidents occurred along the Henry's Fork and in the Warm River area north of Ashton, according to Conservation Educator Gregg Losinski.

So far all of the incidents have involved black bears, but grizzlies are also known to frequent the area.

To prevent more problems, residents should clean up all windfalls as soon as they occur and harvest ripe apples from the trees.

Bears are opportunistic omnivores that will consume whatever food sources they can obtain easily.

"Bears are at that stage of the year when they are trying to put on as much fat as they can to prepare for winter, and a tree full of ripe apples is seen as easy pickings," Losinski says.

Bears targeting apple trees near residences not only put humans and pets at risk, but can also lead bears to becoming too comfortable around humans.

Adult females bears pass on foraging techniques to their young.

A cub that learns about apple trees from its mother will be back when it is a larger adult, the agency says.

And bears tend to store data mentally about food sources and to use that data when they are hungry and can't find other sources.

That may explain why it's been a couple of years since bears were reported eating apples, Losinski says.

Anyone who wants to know more about living in bear country should visit the Be Bear Aware website, at goo.gl/kKtYY, by the Center for Wildlife Information.

Two Sandpoint Eateries Call it a Day After Alleged Violations

BY KEITH KINNAIRD
Bonner County Daily Bee

SANDPOINT • The Dive and Oishii have quietly closed their doors as a darkening cloud looms over the liquor license the two restaurants operated under.

The two businesses apparently shut their doors voluntarily last month, according to city officials. The businesses were operated by Pastime Bar & Grill Inc.

The company's president, Lex Sparks, did not respond to a request for comment on the closures.

Sandpoint Police Department documents obtained under Idaho's public records law allege back-to-back violations of Pastime's liquor license, which was utilized by The Dive, Oishii and Spar Bar.

Pastime's liquor license was suspended for the month of March, although the police reports do not specify the violation that gave rise to the suspension.

After the liquor license suspension was imposed, Sandpoint Police received tips that Oishii was circumventing the sanction by allowing patrons to bring their own alcohol into the sushi restaurant.

Plainclothes officers went to Oishii on several occasions to see if they would be offered alcohol or encouraged to bring in their own, according to the police reports. Restaurant staff neither offered alcohol nor encouraged outside alcohol, the reports said.

An officer on foot patrol downtown, however, discovered a party was being thrown at Spar Bar on March 26, five days before the suspension was to lift. Attendees of the party told police they rented the establishment for the night and were advised by management that they could bring in their own booze.

Under Idaho liquor laws, an establishment with a suspended license is not allowed to let anybody consume or dispense alcohol on the premises.

An email invitation for the bring-you-own-bottle party obtained by The Daily Bee urged attendees to be discreet about bringing booze into Spar Bar.

"We are allowed to BYOB as its (sic) a private party however we are basically not to draw attention on our way in," the email reads.

During Lost in the 50s in May, a former manager of The Dive was cited for serving alcohol to an underage patron, court records indicate.

Sandpoint Police forwarded their reports to the Idaho State Police's Alcohol Beverage Control Bureau.

"There were various violations that they had had that were reported to the state and then the state handled it," said Scot Campbell, the city's civil counsel. "It's primarily been at the state level."

DEQ SEEKS AIR QUALITY RECLASSIFICATION

BY KEITH KINNAIRD
Bonner County Daily Bee

SANDPOINT • Years of hard work to clean up air quality in the greater Sandpoint area is paying off.

Air quality data show the area is meeting standards for coarse particulate matter, which is prompting the Idaho Department of Environmental Quality to ask the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to reclassify air quality in Sandpoint, Ponderay and Kootenai.

The EPA designated the tri-city area out of compliance for coarse particulate matter in 1987. Particulate matter with an aerodynamic diameter less than or equal to a nominal 10 micrometers is considered a public health threat because of the body's inability to effectively filter particles of that size.

The particles can accumulate in the lungs and aggravate respiratory conditions, especially for those with heart or lung diseases, the elderly and children.

Paula Maxine Serr

Jan. 3, 1934-Oct. 18, 2011

WENDELL • Paula Maxine Serr passed away Tuesday, Oct. 18, 2011, at the age of 77, at her home in Wendell, Idaho, with family at her side. She had struggled with interstitial lung disease, a complication of rheumatoid arthritis for the past number of years.

Paula was born in Compton, Ark., to Carl and Delia Friedlund Evans. She was the third child, first daughter of the couple and her birth was preceded by the death of her oldest brother, Frankie Carlton. She joined brother, Booker Otto, and several years later welcomed a sister, Shirley Ann. Her father, Carl, died when she was a toddler and her mother later married Cecil Williams, whom she credited for moving the family out of the hills of Arkansas and to Idaho in 1945. She met the love of her life, George Albert Serr, following graduation from Jerome High School in 1950, and the couple married on Nov. 4, 1950.

Paula followed George to Fort Benning, Ga., where he was a paratrooper in the U.S. Army. While in Georgia, their first child, Kathryn, was born. The couple returned to Jerome, where daughter, Carolyn, and son, George Karl, were born. Paula began work at the Ida Gem Creamery in 1961 and worked in the office at the creamery until its closure in 1978. She then worked for Wicks/Haney Seed in both the Wendell and Twin Falls offices until her retirement in 1999. In addition to her day job, she was George's right-hand man on the couple's farm south of Wendell, where they farmed from 1963 until the couple moved to town in 1999.

Paula loved family and travel. It was her love of staying connected to family that led to many traveling adventures. At the mention of a trip, she had a bag packed and was ready to go. She and George enjoyed traveling throughout the state of Idaho during his years with the American Legion. She enjoyed trips to Washington to join three grandsons at their high school graduations in spite of being slowed down by the rheumatoid arthritis. In the true spirit of always being ready for a road trip, she traveled to Boise to visit grand and great-grandchildren this past weekend. She was a strong and determined lady who kept her family united through her love. She was a member of Christ Lutheran Church in Wendell and served in various capacities in the church throughout her years in the congregation. Her faith touched those in her daily life with whom she came in contact.

She is preceded in death by her father, Carl; and mother, Delia; stepfather, Cecil; brothers, Frankie Carlton and Booker Otto (Margaret) Evans of Opelika, Ala.; and husband, George. She is survived by her sister, Shirley (Dean) Ruhter of Twin Falls; daughter, Kathryn (Mike) Devaney of Buhl; daughter, Carolyn (Tim) Beams of Naches, Wash.; son, George Karl (Diana) Serr of Wendell; grandchildren, Micah and Megan Devaney, Bryan (Amanda) Butler, Sgt. E-5 Thomas (Andrea) Beams in the U.S. Marine Corps., Nathan Beams, Lance Cpl. Logan (Teresa) Beams in the U.S. Marine Corps., Cassandra (David) Woodward and Camron Serr; step-grandsons, Miles and Brenton Warren; great-grandchildren, Wesley and Abigail Butler, and Kiree, Dominic and Zachary Woodward; and many nieces and nephews whom she kept in contact with and meant a great deal to her.

The family wishes to extend a special thank you to Sandy and Debbie in the Infusion Lab and to Dr. Reddy and Ann at St. Luke's Rheumatology for all of your tender loving care.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks that you make a contribution to the charity of your choice in Paula's honor.

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 22, at St. John's Lutheran Church, 1128 Poplar St. in Buhl, with Pastor Mark Latham officiating and Mrs. Lori Lee as organist.

Arrangements are under the direction of Demaray Funeral Service, Wendell Chapel. Condolences may be sent to the family by visiting the obituary link at www.demarayfuneralservice.com.

Donald E. (Dirty Don) Broughton

Dec. 29, 1934-Oct. 18, 2011

Donald E. (Dirty Don) Broughton passed away Tuesday, Oct. 18, 2011, at age 76 in Hermosillo, Mexico, after a brief illness.

He was born Dec. 29, 1934, in Buhl, Idaho to George and Ruth (Perkins) Broughton. He was raised in Castleford and, in 1952, entered the Air Force and became an airborne radio operator. Home on leave, he met and nine days later married Helen E. Lemmons on April 14, 1953, in Elko, Nev.

After 20 years in the service, traveling and living abroad, the family moved to Twin Falls, where he opened Dirty Don's Lawn Mower Repair. From then on, his uniform was bib overalls and a white t-shirt. For several years, he also did custom threshing and hauled potatoes. An avid racing enthusiast, Don raced cars at Thunderbluff Raceway in Twin Falls, where his racing style and many rollovers brought crowds to their feet. In 1973, he and Helen began wintering in San Carlos, Mexico. They spent many wonderful years fishing in the Sea of Cortez and socializing with friends.

After Helen's death in 1999, Don resided full time in San Carlos, where he later met Reyna Leon. She became his constant companion until the time of his death.

He was preceded in death by Helen, his wife of 43 years; both parents; and his great-grandson, Paxton Tamme. He is survived by his children, Dennis (Ardie) Clark of Tekamah, Neb., Susan (Bill) McPherson and Diana (Linden) Thomas, all of Twin Falls; his sister, Ann Broughton of Castleford; 13 grandchildren; and numerous great-grandchildren.

Dad worked hard and played harder. He was very proud of his family and gave us the support and courage to spread our wings. Thank you, Dad, we love you.

The family plans to hold a memorial service Nov. 23. Further details will be announced.

Board Reconsiders, OKs Plan to Lift Charter Cap

BY JESSIE L. BONNER
Associated Press

BOISE • The state Board of Education has voted in favor of 2012 legislation intended to lift Idaho's cap on the number of new charter schools allowed each year.

The board, meeting Thursday in Lewiston, voted 3-2 on a motion throwing its support behind efforts to strike a provision in state law that limits the number of new charter schools to six per year.

But getting the board's support for a roll back didn't come easy.

Earlier Thursday, the board voted 3-3 against legislative efforts to strike the cap amid concerns unchecked growth in charter schools would put traditional public schools at a competitive disadvantage.

Hours later, supporters offered a revised proposal, one that removed language that would have allowed more than one charter school to open within the boundaries of a public school district.

"The concern was that you could cripple a school district if more than one charter school were approved in a year," Browning said during the board's meeting at Lewis-Clark State College. "There will be continued work on this, but for now it's been green-lighted."

The plan passed the second vote 5-1 behind support from trustees Milford Terrell, Ken Edmunds, Rod Lewis and public schools chief Tom Luna. It also carried the support of board president Richard Westerberg, who voted against it the first time.

The state law allowing public charter schools was passed in 1998 and since then, more than 40 have been established by teachers, parents and community members. Several efforts to lift Idaho's charter school cap have so far failed in the Idaho Legislature.

Earlier this year, Rep. Cliff Bayer, R-Boise, introduced a bill to do away with the cap, but House Democrats led the charge to kill it and staged a protest over promotional items — mainly bright yellow scarves with pro-charter school slogans — that were passed out to lawmakers before a floor vote.

Efforts to revive the legislation in the final days and hours of the session were fruitless and House Speaker Lawrence Denney used his final remarks of the 2011 session to apologize for the dustup that became known as the "scarf incident."

At the board meeting Thursday, board president Richard Westerberg and trustees Emma Atchley and Bill Goesling, a former chairman of the Idaho Public Charter School Commission, argued that lifting the cap could put some traditional schools at a disadvantage.

Goesling said traditional public school districts could be threatened financially if they lose more students to a rapid number of charter schools, which are funded with public money but given more freedom in how they operate.

"My concern is, again, we are developing two systems of education," Goesling said.

ATTORNEY: TWO NEVADA MEN ADMIT TO ROBBING TWO BOISE BANKS IN APRIL

BY PATRICK ORR
Idaho Statesman

BOISE • Bryan Mark Johnson and Melvin Glen Lantis will find out in January how long they will go to prison for robbing two Boise banks last spring.

Johnson pleaded guilty Wednesday to two counts of bank robbery and charges of unlawful possession of a firearm and possession of a firearm in furtherance of a bank robbery. Lantis pleaded guilty to one count of bank robbery.

Johnson, who has a previous bank robbery conviction out of Nevada in 2002, will have a mandatory minimum sentence of 15 years in prison and will likely be incarcerated much longer than that. Lantis can be sent to prison for up to 25 years. U.S. District Judge B. Lynn Winnill is set to sentence Johnson Jan. 5 and Lantis Jan. 6.

Federal prosecutors say Johnson robbed the Wells Fargo bank on Overland Road April 2 and the Key Bank at 4930 Overland Road April 22 with Lantis acting as his getaway driver for at least the April 22 robbery.

The 54-year-old Johnson and 65-year-old Lantis have been in custody since that morning.

Here's what Boise police say happened on April 22.

Police were called to the Key Bank at about 9:06 a.m. Witnesses told police that a man walked into the bank and demanded cash. He did not display a weapon. He left the bank on foot with an undisclosed amount of cash.

Just seconds later, emergency dispatchers received a report of a man pointing a handgun at a motorist in a pickup truck in the parking lot of a business next to the bank. Court records indicate the victim saw the robbery occur and followed Johnson out of the bank, which is when Johnson threatened him with the gun.

That victim gave police the same description for the bank robber as others in the bank that morning: white beard, dressed in a dark baseball cap and a navy blue sweatshirt.

A Boise patrol officer in the area spotted a man matching the description as a passenger in a car headed north on Orchard. Officers stopped the car at gunpoint at 9:09 a.m. near the corner of West Franklin Road and South Orchard Street. Two men later identified as Lantis and Johnson were inside the car, which was a sedan with Nevada license plates.

Police say they immediately discovered evidence linking the men in the car to the bank robbery. They did not release what that evidence was.

Potato Cutbacks in Schools? Let's Get Real

The humble potato has been getting some high-profile attention lately. This week, Idaho senators Mike Crapo and Jim Risch, together with Senators Susan Collins, R-Maine, and Mark Udall, D-Colorado, co-sponsored an amendment to the Senate Agriculture Appropriations bill to prevent the USDA from limiting the amount of potatoes in school lunches. The proposed USDA rule would have prevented schools from serving more than one cup per week of starchy vegetables like potatoes. It would have also banned taters from breakfast.

Risch and Crapo's argument: Potatoes provide essential potassium and fiber, are low in calories and cost about 5 cents per spud. When schools are struggling financially, it doesn't make sense to take away a cheap, healthy source of nutrition.

We agree that a near-ban on all potatoes is silly, and we're glad the Senate does, too. They voted in favor of the amendment on Tuesday.

But the potato's fate isn't sealed yet. The USDA still has the power to regulate how the tubers are prepared.

We're OK with that. That's not going to drastically shift how most Idaho school districts prepare their lunches anyway. In 2009, Idaho rolled out recommendations for healthier lunches, including limiting the amount of pre-fried foods, like French fries, in meals. Idaho schools, anticipating the USDA's new rules, have largely moved to healthier preparations of food.

But those recommendations aren't mandates, which means tots and fries are still fair game.

A plain potato may have only 110 calories, but when you deep fry it in oil, that adds fat and calories that our kids don't need. Even baked French fries are usually pre-fried before they hit the school's kitchen. When our nation is struggling with childhood obesity, our schools don't need to contribute.

Half of Idaho's students received free or reduced lunches at schools in the 2010-2011 school year, according to the Idaho Department of Education. Eligibility is determined by their parents' income. For many of those kids, that's the only solid meal they receive in a day. If we're going to rely on schools to feed our kids — and if we're using taxpayer dollars to do so — let's make sure that food is healthy.

And if that nutritious lunch includes a baked potato, that's all right with us.

Bank of America Bosses Find Friend in the Fed

Jonathan Weil

Bloomberg News

One of the reasons so many Americans are ticked off at the Federal Reserve is a lingering sense that it puts big banks' interests above those of ordinary taxpayers. The news that the Fed is taking Bank of America Corp.'s side in a dispute over where to park some of the company's holdings only reinforces that impression.

Here's the gist of the story, broken two days ago by Bloomberg News. Bank of America, which got hit with a credit-rating downgrade last month by Moody's Investors which ultimately are back-stopped by the U.S. government.

The Fed, however, has signaled to the FDIC that it favors the transfers. Shifting the derivatives to the commercial lender may let Bank of America avoid collateral calls and termination fees stemming from the rating downgrade. Some Merrill clients may prefer having their contracts with the higher-rated unit. In short, the Fed's priorities seem to lie with protecting the bank-holding company from losses at Merrill, even if that means greater risks for the FDIC's insurance fund.

Among the big questions we're left with: Why is the Fed going to bat for Bank of America in the first place? If the FDIC doesn't want its insurance fund exposed to potential losses from these investment-banking trades, why expose it? And how many other banks have managed to get the Fed to push their agenda in the same sort of way?

Unfortunately, none of the actors here went on the record to explain what's going on. The entire story would be playing out in secret were it not for some unidentified whistleblowers who seem to have this crazy idea that the public should be informed about what the regulators and Bank of America are up to.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Optimistic and Hard Working

I am honored to write a letter urging the citizens of Twin Falls to vote for Neil Christensen for City Council Seat 7 on Nov. 8.

Because of Neil's optimism and work ethic, he is the type of person other people want to be around. This optimism comes from Neil's ability to overcome obstacles. When faced with a problem, Neil studies the issue, thinks outside the box to find the best solution, then works hard to achieve results. I have seen Neil Christensen display this attitude in his family life, his business and his community involvement. I know he will apply these skills as a member of the Twin Falls City Council.

Leadership Through Relationships

Shawn Barigar brings the experience we need to meet community challenges. He has built relationships with local employers through his position as president and chief executive officer of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce. He is aware of what it takes to bring new business to the area and what challenges the city faces in this competitive environment.

Shawn and his wife have school-age children which will keep him mindful of not just what is needed in Twin Falls today but what will be needed for the next generation of Twin Falls citizens. His family has a long history in the Magic Valley.

Shawn's prior experience on the city council is particularly valuable in this critical time. His background will allow him to be an effective member of city council from the moment of his election — no start-up time needed. We need Shawn's experience and drive on our city council.

I hope you will vote for him for city council. Take the opportunity to early vote at the courthouse or request an absentee ballot from the county clerk and vote at your leisure.

A Strong Leader

I met Dawn Soto a little over a year ago when I started reporting on the Jerome City Council meetings for the Times-News. The first thing I noticed about Dawn was her ability to judge each situation based on the information before the council. The second thing I noticed was that she liked perspective. She often asked herself and the council to consider people who are living on a fixed income before they made changes to fees or taxes. In each situation, Dawn keeps things professional while adding a personal touch of compassion and consideration.

Throughout my relationship with Dawn, I have always walked away from our encounters encouraged. She is always thoughtful, gracious and intelligent in her work as a business woman, her community involvement and her busy family life.

I urge you to vote for Dawn for Jerome City Council in the upcoming election. She has a proven track record of making informed decisions, keeping calm in difficult situations and considering others before herself. The city of Jerome has great potential but is in need of continued strong leadership from Dawn.

Third Annual Service Bowl

We would like to thank the community of Twin Falls, both high school student bodies and everyone else who participated in this year's third annual Service Bowl that took place Oct. 14 at Bruin Stadium.

We were so impressed with the atmosphere and the conduct that both schools showed during this event. The school spirit for both the Riverhawks and the Bruins was outstanding. This event was good for the sport of football in our community as it showed our players and future players what it is like to play in front of an enthusiastic crowd that is all about school pride and spirit.

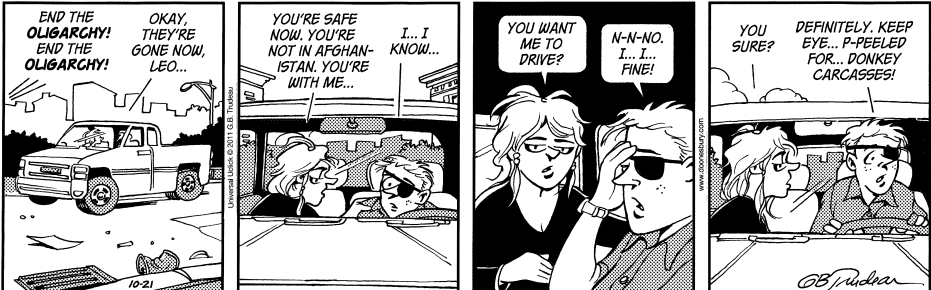

Our players got the opportunity of their high school football careers with all the support that was shown by all. We hope that the rivalry between both high schools will continue to grow, stay healthy in the vein of competitive spirit and get even bigger in years to come.

Thanks again to everyone who took part and thanks to all those men and women who serve in our United States military.

STATE BRIEFS

After Redistricting, Broadsword to Retire in 2012

BOISE • With the ink barely dry on Idaho's redistricting maps, one senator has announced she's won't run again following the 2012 session: Joyce Broadsword of Sagle.

The four-term Republican was pushed into a district where Broadsword would have faced Republican Sen. Shawn Keough in May's primary if she'd campaigned again.

Broadsword's retirement allows Keough to run without opposition from a GOP incumbent.

Broadsword had represented voters in District 2, covering Bonner, Kootenai, Benewah and Shoshone counties.

With the 2011 redistricting maps that were drawn last Friday, however, Broadsword's home now falls into District 1, reflecting population changes on Idaho's northern panhandle.

Broadsword told The Associated Press Thursday she's keeping her future political options open — and taking classes at North Idaho College to prepare for life beyond the Legislature.

Boise Paraglider, Equipment Missing

BOISE • A 40-year-old Boise man who is an avid paraglider has been reported missing.

Boise police say Andrew E. Schepp was last seen on Oct. 14 and was reported missing Tuesday.

Investigators believe Schepp may have gone paragliding in a remote area and failed to return. The equipment he uses is not at his residence in east Boise. His gold BMW sport utility vehicle also is missing.

Schepp is 5 feet, 10 inches tall, 195 pounds with brown hair and blue eyes.

Man Sentenced in Robbery, Rape at SW Idaho Store

BOISE • A man who pleaded guilty to robbing a Meridian vitamin store and raping a female employee will serve 15 to 25 years in prison.

Paul A. Neuman was sentenced Wednesday in Idaho's 4th District Court. He pleaded guilty in August to felony robbery and rape as part of an agreement with Ada County prosecutors, who dropped a kidnapping and weapons charge.

Authorities say Neuman, of Lakeport, Calif., wore and mask and carried a gun on Dec. 10, 2010 while robbing the Herb Tree Store in Meridian and raping the female clerk, who had been closing the shop up for the day.

The woman couldn't describe her attacker but DNA gathered at the scene was later matched with Neuman.

Pocatello Police Chief Resigns to Take Florida Job

POCATELLO • Pocatello Police Chief James "J.R." Miller has resigned after four years to take a law enforcement job in his home state of Florida.

Mayor Brian Blad announced Miller's resignation Wednesday. It takes effect Monday.

Before Miller's resignation was announced, Blad told the Idaho State Journal that he understood officers planned a confidence vote regarding the chief.

Miller did not return phone calls from the Journal seeking comment on his decision to step down.

Blad says the city will conduct a nationwide search for Miller's replacement and no decision has been made about an interim chief. The mayor says Miller did a great job and is going to be missed.

Jury Selected for N. Idaho Man's Trial in Slaying

MOSCOW • A jury of nine men and five women has been selected for the re-trial of a northern Idaho man charged with killing a Latah County woman at her home in 2001.

The Lewiston Tribune reports attorneys are scheduled to give opening statements Monday in the case of 28-year-old David J. Meister. He is charged in the slaying of Tonya Hart, who was shot twice at point-blank range.

The Idaho Supreme Court overturned Meister's original conviction and life sentence last year, ruling a district judge erred in refusing to allow evidence that some other person may have been the shooter.

The new trial is expected to last up to four weeks.

Meister has maintained his innocence, though police say he initially confessed Hart's boyfriend paid him to kill the woman.

Illinois Man Gets 10 Years for Enticing Idaho Girl

BOISE • A federal judge has sentenced an Illinois man to 10 years in prison for trying to lure an Idaho teen to travel across the country to have a sexual relationship.

A federal judge in Boise on Wednesday also ordered 36-year-old Michael Lee Stewart to 25 years of supervised release for attempting to entice the teen last year.

Stewart, of Mahomet, Ill., pleaded guilty in June, three months after he was arrested at the Indianapolis airport, where he had arranged to meet the 15-year-old Boise girl.

Prosecutors say they were alerted about the inappropriate relationship by the girl's parents.

Investigators posed as the girl online, and tracked as Stewart bought the girl a plane ticket. A search of a hotel near the airport yielded wine, condoms, lingerie and a camera.

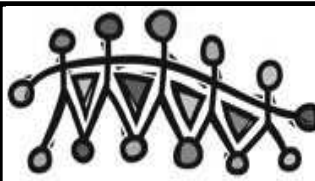

Woman Hurt in 5-vehicle Crash on Interstate 84

BOISE • A 29-year-old Boise woman was injured in a five-vehicle crash on Interstate 84.

State police say the chain-reaction crash occurred shortly before 5:30 p.m. Wednesday near Meridian west of Boise.

A west-bound motorist slowed for an exit ramp and was rear-ended by another driver, who was then rear-ended by a car driver by 29-year-old Patricia Jones.

Man Pleads Guilty to Failing to Report Death

NEZPERCE (AP) • A 27-year-old Kamiah man told a judge his grandmother died of an apparent heart attack this spring and he was distraught and on several antidepressants when he wrapped her body in a tarp and threw it in the Clearwater River.

The Lewiston Tribune reports Justin Hietala pleaded guilty Wednesday to failure to report a death.

Second District Judge Michael J. Griffin said he would wait until after a presentence investigation is completed on Dec. 21 to decide if he will accept the plea agreement.

Hietala told the judge his 72-year-old grandmother, Lavina Hietala, died on April 1. Her body was found in the Snake River a month later. While investigators could not determine her cause of death, officials said they believe she died of natural causes.

After Five Years in Idaho Prison, Former Activist Barbara Dehl Will Be Paroled Next March

BY PATRICK ORR
Idaho Statesman

BOISE • The Idaho Commission for Pardons and Parole accepted Barbara Dehl's request Thursday to leave a women's prison in Pocatello and spend the remaining nine years of her sentence on parole.

Dehl, the former anti-dating-violence activist who once testified in front of Congress and met with former President George Bush, has spent the past five years in prison for her role in a drug scandal that led to the death of a Boise teenager in 2005.

Dehl will be released from prison March 23 if she completes the treatment classes she is currently attending.

Olivia Craven, executive director of the commission, warned a visibly relieved Dehl that she must follow all the rules of her parole officer if she wants to remain out of prison.

"If I was in the real world, I won't have a problem following rules," Dehl said.

Two of Dehl's daughters, her father and several other family members attended Thursday's hearing and said they were surprised and happy with the Parole Board's decision.

"We will get our mom back again," Michaela Robertson said. "She deserves a chance."

Dehl is serving a 15-year prison sentence for pleading guilty in 2006 to felony charges of second-degree kidnapping and delivery of methamphetamine for her role in a drug scandal that police say led to the murder of a Boise teenager.

Dehl was sentenced to nearly double the prosecution's original recommendation of eight years in prison after it was discovered that she tried to pay one of her co-defendants — former boyfriend Larry Hanslovan — to plead guilty to drug and kidnapping charges to deflect blame from her, according to court testimony.

Prosecutors say it was Dehl's lie about a theft of drugs, money and jewelry from her home that set in motion the chain of events that led to the murder of John Schmeichel in March 2005. Another man, Ronald Huntsman, was eventually convicted of first-degree murder for shooting Schmeichel; he is serving life in prison.

Hanslovan, who helped kidnap Schmeichel, is serving 18 years in prison.

Prosecutors said Dehl made up the story about the theft in 2005 because she was arguing with then-boyfriend Hanslovan. Dehl admitted Thursday to the Parole Board that she lied about the theft.

Before her arrest in March 2005, Barbara Dehl was an activist who drew national recognition with her successful fight for a law to protect teenagers in violent dating relationships.

Dehl helped persuade the Idaho Legislature in 2000 to pass Cassie's Law, named for Dehl's daughter, which extended domestic-abuse protections to teenagers in violent relationships. Dehl became an instant Statehouse sensation as she told her impassioned story to lawmakers until her legislation passed.

Ohio Man Who Freed Animals Was Deep in Debt

BY ANDREW WELSH-HUGGINS and ANN SANNER
Associated Press

ZANESVILLE, Ohio • The exotic-animal owner who killed himself after turning loose dozens of lions, tigers and other beasts was deep in debt, and a fellow big-cat enthusiast said Thursday that he had taken in so many creatures he was “in over his head.”

A day after sheriff’s deputies with high-powered rifles killed nearly 50 animals set free by Terry Thompson, the sheriff refused to speculate why he did it. Many neighbors, meanwhile, were puzzled as to why Thompson — a man who seemed to like animals more than people — would lash out in a way that would doom his pets.

However, court records show that he and his wife owed at least $68,000 in unpaid taxes to the IRS and the county, and he had two federal tax liens filed against him last year. He had just gotten out of federal prison last month for possessing unregistered weapons.

Kenny Hetrick, who has six tigers and other animals on his property outside Toledo, said he used to see Thompson at exotic-animal auctions a few times a year in Ohio. Many of Thompson’s tigers had been donated to him by people who bought baby animals that they no longer wanted once they started to grow, Hetrick said.

“He really had more there than what he could do,” Hetrick said. “I don’t know what his deal was, but he was in over his head.”

On Tuesday, Thompson, 62, threw open the cages at his animal preserve and committed suicide. His body was found near the empty cages with a bite on the head that appeared to have been inflicted by a big cat shortly after Thompson shot himself, Sheriff Matt Lutz said. It appeared his body had been dragged a short distance, Lutz said.

Deputies killed 48 animals — including 18 rare Bengal tigers, 17 lions and eight bears — in a hunt across the Ohio countryside that lasted nearly 24 hours. Only a monkey was still missing, and it was probably killed by one of the big cats, Lutz said.

Winter May be Cold in North, Dry in South.
Winter looks to be cold and wet across the northern tier of states, and the drought will worsen in the South, where conditions are expected to be warmer and drier than usual, government forecasters said Thursday. Like last winter, the Pacific Ocean cooling known as La Nina is affecting the weather, according to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Senate Rejects Obama’s Slimmed-down Jobs Bill

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON • Despite a campaign-style push this week by President Barack Obama, the Senate on Thursday scuttled pared-back jobs legislation aimed at helping state and local governments avoid layoffs of teachers and firefighters.

Obama’s three-day bus tour through North Carolina and Virginia — states crucial to his re-election race next year — didn’t change any minds among Senate Republicans, who filibustered Obama’s latest jobs measure to death just as they killed his broader $447 billion jobs plan last week.

The 50-50 vote came in relation to a motion to simply take up the bill and fell well short of the 60 needed to break a filibuster. Democrats Ben Nelson of Nebraska, Mark Pryor of Arkansas and Independent Joe Lieberman of Connecticut broke with Obama on the vote. Two Democrats who voted with the president, Sen. Joe Manchin of West Virginia and Jon Tester of Montana, however, said they couldn’t support the underlying Obama plan without changes.

Thursday’s $35 billion measure combined $30 billion for state and local governments to hire teachers and other school workers with $5 billion to help pay the salaries of police officers, firefighters and other first responders. The White House says the measure would “support” almost 400,000 education jobs for one year. Republicans call that a temporary “sugar high” for the economy.

Immediately afterward, Democrats turned the tables and filibustered Republican-backed legislation that would prevent the government from withholding 3 percent of payments to government contractors.

Poll: Economic Gloom Continues to Dog Obama

WASHINGTON • The extreme funk that settled over the country during the summer has eased slightly, but Americans remain gloomy about the economy and more than half say President Barack Obama does not inspire confidence about a recovery. A sizable majority — more than 7 in 10 — believe the country is headed in the wrong direction and, in a new high, 43 percent describe the nation’s economy as “very poor,” according to a new Associated Press-GfK poll. Among those surveyed, less than 40 percent say Obama’s proposed remedies for high unemployment would increase jobs significantly.

Revolutionary Libyan fighters inspect a storm drain where they claim Moammar Gadhafi was found wounded Thursday in Sirte, Libya. Gadhafi was killed Thursday when revolutionary forces overran his hometown, Sirte, the last major bastion of resistance two months after the regime fell.

Pulled From Drain Pipe, Gadhafi is Shown No Mercy

Dictator’s death, two months after he was driven from power and into hiding, decisively buries the nearly 42-year regime that had turned the oil-rich country into an international pariah.

BY CHRISTOPHER GILLETTE and KIM GAMEL
Associated Press

SIRTE, Libya • Dragged from hiding in a drainage pipe, a wounded Moammar Gadhafi raised his hands and begged revolutionary fighters: “Don’t kill me, my sons.” Within an hour, he was dead, but not before jubilant Libyans had vented decades of hatred by pulling the eccentric dictator’s hair and parading his bloodied body on the hood of a truck.

The death Thursday of Gadhafi, two months after he was driven from power and into hiding, decisively buries the nearly 42-year regime that had turned the oil-rich country into an international pariah and his own personal fiefdom.

It also thrusts Libya into a new age in which its transitional leaders must overcome deep divisions and rebuild nearly all its institutions from scratch to achieve dreams of democracy.

“We have been waiting for this historic moment for a long time. Moammar Gadhafi has been killed,” Prime Minister Mahmoud Jibril said in the capital of Tripoli. “I would like to call on Libyans to put aside the grudges and only say one word, which is Libya, Libya, Libya.”

President Barack Obama told the Libyan people: “You have won your revolution.”

World Looks Warily to Libya’s Future

BY RAPHAEL G. SATTER
Associated Press

LONDON • European leaders hailed it as a victory, Libyan exiles celebrated in the streets and the mother of one of Moammar Gadhafi’s many victims said she was treating herself to an expensive bottle of champagne.

But jubilation over the demise of Libya’s long-serving ruler is being tempered by concerns over the circumstances of his death — and lingering doubts about Libya’s future.

There were chants and tears of joy outside the Libyan Embassy in London, where one demonstrator stomped a sheet bearing the fallen leader’s image.

“I was crying, I was shouting, I was smiling,” said Najwa Creui, a 40-year-old teacher who has lived in Britain for the past 16 years. “It’s the day Libyans have been waiting for as long as I have been alive.”

But 37-year-old Amani Deghayes said that while she shared in the celebration, the anarchic bloodshed that followed the toppling of Iraqi dictator

“I hope there will be real democracy, not another crazy regime,” she said.

In Europe, leaders sounded an optimistic note.

“Finally the way is free for a political rebirth for peace,” German Chancellor Angela Merkel said Thursday, pronouncing herself “relieved and very happy” at the news.

Two Minn. Women Guilty of Aiding Somali Terror Group

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) • Two Minnesota women who claimed they were helping the poor in Somalia were convicted Thursday of conspiring to help a terrorist group as part of what prosecutors called a “deadly pipeline” sending funds and fighters to al-Shabab.

After the verdicts, one of the women, Amina Farah Ali, told the judge through an interpreter that she was happy because she was “going to heaven no matter what,” and condemned those in authority, saying: “You will go to hell.” She was ordered into custody pending her sentencing.

Ali, 35, and Hawo Mohamed Hassan, 64, were each charged with conspiracy to provide material support to a foreign terrorist organization. Ali also faced 12 counts of providing such support, for allegedly sending more than $8,600 to al-Shabab from September 2008 through July 2009, while Hassan faced two counts of lying to the FBI.

Both were found guilty on all counts. The terrorism-related counts each carry up to 15 years in prison, while lying to the FBI carries up to eight years. No sentencing date was set, and prosecutors said it was too early to predict what sentence they’d recommend.

The women, both U.S. citizens of Somali descent, were among 20 people charged in Minnesota’s long-running federal investigations into recruiting and financing for al-Shabab, which the U.S. considers a terrorist group with ties to al-Qaida. Investigators believe at least 21 men left Minnesota to join al-Shabab.

Largest Study on Cellphones, Cancer Finds No Relation

LONDON (AP) • Danish researchers can offer some reassurance if you're concerned about your cell-phone: Don't worry. Your device is probably safe.

The biggest study ever to examine the possible connection between cellphones and cancer found no evidence of any link, suggesting that billions of people who are rarely more than a few inches from their phones have no special health concerns.

The Danish study of more than 350,000 people concluded there was no difference in cancer rates between people who had used a cell-phone for about a decade and those who did not.

Last year, a separate large study found no clear connection between cellphones and cancer. But it showed a hint of a possible association between very heavy phone use and glioma, a rare but often deadly form of brain tumor. However, the numbers of heavy users was not sufficient to make the case.

Two U.S. agencies — the Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Communications Commission — have found no evidence that cellphones are linked to cancer.

Reaction

campaign that sealed Gadhafi's fate, said they hoped that his death would open a new — and more democratic — chapter in Libya's history.

French President Nicolas Sarkozy called Gadhafi's death a milestone in the Libyan people's battle "to free themselves from the dictatorial and violent regime that was imposed on them for more than 40 years," a message echoed by British leader David Cameron and other NATO allies.

The Vatican, which said it now considers Libya's interim government the legitimate rulers of the country, described Gadhafi's death as the end to a "long and tragic" fight to crush an oppressive regime. And U.N. Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon spoke for many when he said that "this is only the end of the beginning."

"The road ahead for Libya and its people will be difficult and full of challenges," he said. "This a time for healing and rebuilding, for generosity of spirit, not for revenge."

Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez, an ally and friend of Gadhafi, called his death deplorable.

"They murdered him," Chavez was quoted as saying by the Caracas-based television network Telesur, calling it "one more attack on life."

"We will remember (him) all our lives as a great fighter, a revolutionary and a martyr," Chavez said during a visit to the Venezuelan town of La Grita, according to a statement from Telesur.

"That history in Libya is just beginning now," Chavez said. "The Yankee empire... will not be able to dominate this world."

Gadhafi's victims — he accumulated many over his four decades in power — had mixed reactions.

"I'm just going to go out and buy an expensive bottle of champagne to celebrate," said Susan Cohen, whose 20-year-old daughter was blown out of the sky in the 1988 Lockerbie bombing, an atrocity allegedly carried out at Gadhafi's behest.

Zdravko Georgiev, one of several medics detained by Libyan authorities and tortured into confessing to an improbable plot to infect hundreds of children with HIV, said the dictator's death didn't cheer him.

"Why should I be satisfied?" he said. "No one will give me back the years spent in prison or undo the tortures sustained."

Few Americans Fill Gap Left By Immigrant Flight From Alabama

BY JAY REEVES and ALICIA A. CALDWELL
Associated Press

ONEONTA, Ala. • Potato farmer Keith Smith saw most of his immigrant workers leave after Alabama's tough immigration law took effect, so he hired Americans. It hasn't worked out: Most show up late, work slower than seasoned farm hands and are ready to call it a day after lunch or by midafternoon. Some quit after a single day.

In Alabama and other parts of the country, farmers must look beyond the nation's borders for labor because many Americans simply don't want the backbreaking, low-paying jobs immigrants are willing to take. Politicians who support the law say over time more unemployed Americans will fill these jobs. They insist it's too early to consider the law a failure, yet numbers from the governor's office show only nominal interest.

"I've had people calling me wanting to work," Smith said. "I haven't turned any of them down, but they're not any good. It's hard work, they just don't work like the Hispanics with experience."

Alabama passed its law in June and it was immediately challenged by the Obama administration as it has been in other states. Unlike those states' measures, Alabama's law was left largely in place while challenges played out in court, frightening Hispanics and driving many of them away.

The agriculture industry suffered the most immediate impact. Farmers said they will have to downsize or let crops die on the vine. As the season's harvest winds down, many are worried about next year.

In south Georgia, Connie Horner has heard just about every reason unemployed Americans don't want to work on her blueberry farm. It's hot, the hours are long, the pay isn't enough and it's just plain hard.

"You can't find legal workers," Horner said.

"Basically they last a day or two, literally."

Horner, who runs an 8 1/2-acre organic blueberry farm, said she tried to use the government's visa program to hire foreign workers, but it was too costly and time consuming.

She plans to stop growing organically and start using a machine to pick the berries.

"I did everything I possibly could to be legal and honest and not part of the problem," Horner said. "Morally, I can't knowingly hire illegal workers."

BASQUE GROUP ENDS ARMED STRUGGLE FOR INDEPENDENCE

BILBAO, Spain • After killing more than 800 people across Spain over the past four decades in its drive for an independent state, the Basque separatist group ETA on Thursday said it would lay down its arms — but stopped short of declaring it was defeated. The historic announcement was made via video by three ETA members wearing Basque berets and masks with slits for their eyes. At the end, they defiantly raised their fists in the air demanding a separate Basque nation.

Libya

Although the U.S. briefly led the relentless NATO bombing campaign that sealed Gadhafi's fate, Washington later took a secondary role to its allies. Britain and France said they hoped that his death would lead to a more democratic Libya.

Other leaders have fallen in the Arab Spring uprisings, but the 69-year-old Gadhafi is the first to be killed. He was shot to death in his hometown of Sirte, where revolutionary fighters overwhelmed the last of his loyalist supporters Thursday after weeks of heavy battles.

Also killed in the city was one of his feared sons, Muatassim, while another son — one-time heir apparent Seif al-Islam — was wounded and captured. An AP reporter saw cigarette burns on Muatassim's body.

Bloody images of Gadhafi's last moments raised questions over how exactly he died after he was captured wounded, but alive. Video on Arab television stations showed a crowd of fighters shoving and pulling the goateed, balding Gadhafi, with blood splattered on his face and soaking his shirt.

Gadhafi struggled against them, stumbling and shouting as the fighters pushed him onto the hood of a pickup truck. One fighter held him down, pressing on his thigh with a pair of shoes in a show of contempt.

Fighters propped him on the hood as they drive for several moments, apparently to parade him around in victory.

"We want him alive. We want him alive," one man shouted before Gadhafi was dragged off the hood, some fighters pulling his hair, toward an ambulance.

Later footage showed fighters rolling Gadhafi's lifeless body over on the pavement, stripped to the waist and a pool of blood under his head. His body was then paraded on a car through Misrata, a nearby city that suffered a brutal siege by regime forces during the eight-month civil war that eventually ousted Gadhafi. Crowds in the streets cheered, "The blood of martyrs will not go in vain."

Thunderous celebratory gunfire and cries of "God is great" rang out across Tripoli well past midnight, leaving the smell of sulfur in the air. People wrapped revolutionary flags around toddlers and flashed V for victory signs as they leaned out car windows. Martyrs' Square, the former Green Square from which Gadhafi made many defiant speeches, was packed with revelers.

In Sirte, the ecstatic former rebels celebrated the city's fall after weeks of fighting by firing endless rounds into the sky, pumping their guns, knives and even a meat cleaver in the air and singing the national anthem.

The outpouring of joy reflected the deep hatred of a leader who had brutally warped Libya with his idiosyncratic rule. After seizing power in a 1969 coup that toppled the monarchy, Gadhafi created a "revolutionary" system of "rule by the masses," which supposedly meant every citizen participated in government but really meant all power was in his hands. He wielded it erratically, imposing random rules while crushing opponents, often hanging anyone who plotted against him in public squares.

Abroad, Gadhafi posed as a Third World leader, while funding militants, terror groups and guerrilla armies. His regime was blamed in the 1988 bombing of Pan Am Flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland and the downing of a French passenger jet in Africa the following year, as well as the 1986 bombing of a German discotheque frequented by U.S. servicemen that killed three people.

BRUSSELS • Europe's efforts to solve its escalating debt crisis plunged into disarray Thursday, after Germany and France could not bridge their differences in time for a summit Sunday, forcing them to call a second meeting.

Sunday's summit was supposed to deliver a comprehensive plan to finally get a grip on the currency union's debt troubles by detailing new financing for debt-ridden Greece, a plan to make Europe's banks fit to sustain worsening market turbulence and a scheme to make the eurozone bailout fund more powerful.

The offices of French President Nicolas Sarkozy and German Chancellor Angela Merkel announced that they needed more time after it became clear that the currency union's two biggest countries could not agree on the main points of the plan.

Both governments said that all elements of the eurozone's crisis strategy would be discussed on Sunday "so it can be definitively adopted by the Heads of State and Government at a second meeting Wednesday at the latest."

It also said that the two leaders would meet Saturday evening ahead of the summit in Brussels in the hope of making progress.

"The chancellor is confident that in this way good, coordinated measures for the stability of the eurozone can be achieved," Merkel's spokesman Steffen Seibert told journalists in Berlin.

The announcement of a second summit is likely to increase concern over the eurozone's ability to stick together and stabilize the common currency. Sunday's summit had already been delayed from earlier in the week to give the leaders more time to agree on the key issues.

"The parochialism and procrastination that got us into this mess continues," said Sony Kapoor, managing director of economic think tank ReDefine. "Unless EU leaders pull a rabbit out of their hat now, this will worsen the already deep politico-economic crisis that Europe is facing."

European officials said ahead of the announcement that the eurozone remained deeply divided on important parts of its strategy on debt-ridden Greece, banks and its bailout fund.

Germany and several other rich countries have been pushing for banks and other private investors take steeper losses on their Greek bond-holdings, before the eurozone can sign off on a second multi-billion euro rescue package for the struggling country.

France and the European Central Bank have so far opposed forcing banks to write off more Greek debt, fearing that would destabilize the banking sector and worsen market turmoil.

But Greece's international debt inspectors warned earlier in the day that even under a rescue package tentatively agreed in July the country's debts were not sustainable.

In their statements Thursday, Merkel and Sarkozy said that — based on the inspectors' report — Greece should immediately start negotiations with the private sector to reach a deal "that would improve this debt sustainability."

The eurozone is also divided on how to give its bailout fund more firing power, with the French wanting the ECB to help out, which Germany opposes.

A third point of contention is how to fund expensive capital injections into weak banks that might take losses on Greek debt and have already taken a hit from falling prices of other government bonds. France and several other countries are worried that bailing out their banks could hurt their credit rating and want the bailout fund to support lenders directly, rather than lending first to governments.

Ahead of the announcement, one European official, who was speaking on condition of anonymity, suggested that the need for more time may also have been caused by disagreement between Merkel's government and the German parliament, which felt that decisions affecting taxpayer money were being taken over its head.

Report: Food Labels Need Energy Star-like Ratings

BY LAURAN NEERGAARD

Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Just as that Energy Star tag helps you choose your appliances, a new report says a rating symbol on the front of every soup can, cereal box and yogurt container could help hurried shoppers go home with the healthiest foods.

Thursday's report urges the Food and Drug Administration to adopt new food labeling to clear the confusing clutter off today's packages and give consumers a fast way to compare choices.

It wouldn't replace the in-depth Nutrition Facts panel that's now on the back or side of food packages. But few shoppers stop to read or heed that fine print in the middle of the grocery aisle.

The Institute of Medicine says it's time to put right upfront the most important information for health: how many calories per serving — and just how big that serving is — along with stars or some other symbol to show at a glance how the food rates for certain fats, sodium and added sugars.

"American shoppers are busy shoppers," said Ellen Wartella, a psychology professor at Northwestern University. Wartella chaired the IOM committee that studied the issue at the request of federal health officials.

"We want a really simple system that says if you have three marks, that product is healthier than one with two marks."

How to get Americans to eat more wisely is a huge problem as obesity and diet-related diseases are skyrocketing. The FDA already was working to change the food-labeling system to make it more user-friendly, and has promised to crack down on inaccurate labeling

Healthier choices for harried shoppers

A panel of health experts recommends food packages contain labels with an easy-to-read comparison of serving sizes, unhealthy ingredients and calories, as in this example:

Sample products – Label appears on package front; shows calorie count and serving size

LEAST HEALTHY

MOST HEALTHY

150 calories per 10 cups (unhealthy)

150 calories per cup (healthy)

190 calories per 1 cup (healthy)

100 calories per ounce (healthy)

Nutrition facts – Annotated to indicate healthful levels of sodium, sugars and certain fats that has confused consumers.

But ranking a food's healthfulness, rather than just providing consumers information to try to judge that for themselves, would mark a major shift in government food policy. The agency didn't say if it was interested in that kind of ratings approach, or how soon it would make labeling changes but called Thursday's report a thoughtful analysis that would help it decide next steps.

"FDA agrees consumers can benefit from a front-of-pack labeling system that conveys nutrition information in a manner that is simple and consistent with the Nutrition Facts panel," said spokeswoman Siobhan DeLancey.

The Institute of Medicine recommendation would face an uphill battle with food manufacturers who are pushing their own version of on-the-front food labels but don't like the idea of ranking one food as healthier than a competitor's.

"We believe the most effective programs are those that trust consumers and not ones that tell consumers what they should and should not eat," said Scott Faber, a lobbyist for the Grocery Manufacturers Association.

Shea Wade holds onto Charles the Cat as she plays Cinderella during Magic Valley Little Theatre rehearsal Tuesday night at Canyon Ridge High School. ‘Cinderella’ opens Thursday.

Glass Slippers

BY ANDREW WEEKS
 aweeks@magicvalley.com

Some people are just bossy. Cinderella’s step-mother, for instance. Do this, Cinderella, she says. Do that. The two step-sisters aren’t any help: “Close the door, Cinderella. ... Don’t forget to poach the apricots.” Beginning Thursday, Magic Valley Little Theatre will present the Rodgers and Hammerstein version of “Cinderella” for three consecutive nights at Canyon Ridge High School, with two matinee showings Oct. 29-30. The play is different than the traditional Disney version, but the situation is the same: Cinderella lives with her mean stepmom and two stepsisters and dreams of one day meeting a handsome prince who will take her away from her sorry little allotment in life. What makes this version different? “There’s a lot more fluff and fun, especially with the fairy godmother,” director Lori Henson said.

In some parts of the play it is the fairy godmother, played by Natasha Solomon, who steals the stage from the play’s namesake character. When she first introduces herself to Cinderella, for instance, Solomon walks onto the stage much as a fashion model would, fluffing her hair in a jovial, lighthearted way. “Our godmother will be a little, well, not shocking, but she has an attitude,” said Melanie Cook, president of the theater troupe’s board of directors. “She’s very spunky and fun. She has an attitude, not like your typical godmother.” Solomon hasn’t acted for several years, she said, instead devoting her time to raising her family. But when “Cinderella” came along, she decided it was time for her to get back into acting. “I couldn’t pass it up,” Solomon said. Getting into character was easy for her. “The godmother is pretty sassy. I kind of like that.” The wicked stepmother, played by Wendy Kerr, and wicked stepsisters Grace (Janaan Kindelberger) and Joy (Jonica Hovey) also add humor with their sometimes comical lines and facial expressions. It’s the sassy, humorous parts of the play that will appeal to adults, Henson said, while the younger crowd will enjoy the more traditional scenes.

The Herders’ Story

Boise artists are bringing an exhibit of sheepherders’ tree carvings to Twin Falls. Perhaps you’ve seen similar bits of history in southern Idaho’s aspen groves.

Isolation defined a sheepherder’s job. But next week, you can get a glimpse into their lifestyle without the solitude. Boise-based artists Amy Nack and Earle Swope came together to create “Immigrant Shadows: Tracing the Herders’ Legacy.” The art installation, opening next week at Herrett Center for Arts and Science, features castings of carvings left in aspen trees by herders in the West, including some in the Sun Valley and Stanley areas. The Aspen Canvas

Out on Idaho trails, I’ve been fascinated for years by those simple messages cut into aspen trunks. So I’m eager for the exhibit dubbed “Immigrant Shadows: Tracing the Herders’ Legacy,” opening with a reception Tuesday in Twin Falls. Perhaps artist Earle Swope’s castings of sheepherders’ carvings will help me make more sense of what I see on the trail.

Haunting Theater

When Twin Falls actor Jud Harmon was deployed to Iraq with the Idaho National Guard in 2004, he kept his mind occupied by learning the one-person play “Barrymore’s Ghost.” Harmon performed it for Random Acts of Theatre Players in 2009, and the RAT Players are bringing him back for a one-night performance on Wednesday. I didn’t catch Harmon as the ghost of early film idol John Barrymore, but I’ve seen Harmon in other roles. He’s worth watching.

The Scariest Place in Idaho

KAREN BOSSICK • FOR THE TIMES-NEWS
Melissa Graves Brown, a Hailey artist, bewitched youngsters with her glittering gold eyelashes last year as she ushered them into the haunted house at Aqua Pro Spa and Pool.

The Wood River Valley goes crazy for Halloween — parading like zombies, wandering in the haunted woods and partying in the street — and its events attract a lot of Magic Valley folks.

BY KAREN BOSSICK
For the Times-News

Geegee Lowe had scarcely finished packaging 5,000 used books that the Hailey Public Library was contributing to libraries in Twin Falls and Jerome for their used book sales before she was on to the next big thing: Halloween in the Wood River Valley.

The Sun Valley area goes all out for Halloween, and this year will be no different. Events start Thursday and run through Oct. 31.

“We generally attract a lot of people from the Magic Valley,” said Lowe, who switched hats this week from the Hailey Library Book and Bake Sale to that of assistant director of the Hailey Chamber. “It may be more difficult for Magic Valley kids to attend many of the events this year since Halloween falls on a school day. But I imagine a lot of adults from that area will turn out for Nightmare on Main Street.”

• A new event kicks off this year’s extended Halloween week: a free Witch’s Tea held from 3 to 6 p.m. Oct. 27 at the Inn at Ellsworth Estate, 715 S. Third Ave. in Hailey.

Children and adults alike are encouraged to dress as witches, although the occasional Spiderman won’t be turned away. The event is “a little spirit rally” to get ready for Halloween and will include a chance to decorate cookies and trick or treat bags, Lowe said.

“And of course there will be tea — I’m sure it will sizzle, pop and smoke — and crumpets of some sort, my lovely,” she added.

• Another new event follows: a Zombie Walk from 7 to 9 p.m. Oct. 28 in Hailey. Participants are invited to dress like zombies and parade through town, dragging their feet, casting blank stares at passers-by and moaning up a scream. They’ll start at the Hailey cemetery and walk to Albertson’s.

“I saw something on Facebook a month or so ago about an annual Zombie Walk that Boise has had for six years running and it seemed like a really fun idea,” organizer Karen Brown said. “I personally have a zombie fascination and love dressing up when at all possible so I decided to throw my own Zombie Walk. I already have around 20 people besides myself who plan on doing it.”

• The woods near Bellevue will again turn into a Haunted Forest on Oct. 29–30, as those who dare are ushered into a world of ghouls and goblins played by live actors. You can stumble — or run — through the scare tactics by entering the Haunted Forest on Elm Street behind Mahoney’s Bar and Grill, 104 S. Main St. in Bellevue.

Over the past three years, the event has raised more than $7,500 for the Friends of the Howard Preserve to maintain the natural park-like area, organizer Tammy Eaton said.

The Haunted Forest opens at 5:30 p.m., and people may start their walk anytime until 9:15 p.m., with the forest turning scarier as the night darkens. Tickets are $5, available at The Bead Shop in Hailey; at Mahoney’s, Oak Street Foods and Splash n’ Dash in Bellevue; and at the gate.

• The hallway at Hemingway Elementary, 111 Eighth St. W. in Ketchum, will be transformed into a spooktacular alleyway, complete with mushy squishy brains, ghostly lights and eerie sounds when the city of Ketchum, Ketchum Police Department, Ketchum Parks and Recreation and Wood River YMCA collaborate to sponsor their annual free Halloween party.

The event, open to all ages, will be 1–3 p.m. Oct. 30 and include carnival games with a ghoulish twist and prizes. Expect cookie decorating, face painting, crafts, a bouncy castle, inflatable slides, pizza and candy.

• Hailey merchants will throw open their doors for their annual Halloween Hoopla, 3–7 p.m. Oct. 31. Businesses sporting black and orange balloons will hand out treats, and there will be a costume contest.

Last year merchants were mobbed with 4,000 young trick-or-treaters. Many went the extra mile, decorating their shops with cobwebs and other thrills. Cari’s Hair Care Spa, for instance, ushered kids and adults into a House of Horror, and the Yellow Brick Road had the entire gang — Dorothy and Toto included — outside to greet youngsters.

The Cowboy Cocina at 111 N. First Ave. will serve up its annual trick-or-treating feast of hot dogs and mac n’ cheese.

“It’s a great safe way to have the kids enjoy trick-or-treating and have the opportunity to interact with local businesses,” said Tammy Eaton, who owns The Bead Shop.

• Ketchum’s Main Street will be closed for an evening of shenanigans from 7 p.m. Oct. 29 to 2 a.m., as the town throws its annual Nightmare on Main Street party.

A DJ will spin music from 8 to 11 p.m. while vendors sell food and drink around firepits. Whiskey Jacques, The Roosevelt Bar and Grille, Sawtooth Club and Casino will also have specials.

A costume contest will start at 10:30 p.m. Awards provided by Ketchum merchants will be given for Best Overall Costume, Best Group Costume, Best Male Costume, Best Female Costume, Creepiest Costume and Sexiest Costume. Admission is free.

Jamey Reynolds plays Hercule Poirot in the Agatha Christie mystery 'Black Coffee.'

Hercule Poirot on Stage: Agatha Christie's Own Script

BY KAREN BOSSICK
For the Times-News

KETCHUM • Agatha Christie's most famous character will come to life at the nexStage Theatre as Laughing Stock Theatre presents "Black Coffee."

This was the first mystery play that the crime-fiction novelist did for the stage and the only one featuring Hercule Poirot, theater manager Kathy Wygle said. Theater companies throughout the nation are producing "Black Coffee" now with PBS' revival of its Poirot series.

"People haven't heard of it, and that's why it's cool to be presenting it," Wygle said.

The murder mystery, which opens Thursday, features the extremely meticulous Belgian detective hot on the case of a top-secret explosives formula that has been stolen. Everyone is a suspect, from the physicist's son — who could pay off his deepening debts with the money the sale of the secret would bring — to, yes, the butler.

The play's director, Jamey Reynolds, will play Hercule Poirot.

"I'm having a gas of a time impersonating him," Reynolds said. "He's a little ornery but he has a gracious heart. He's a little bit of a romantic, sometimes letting the murderer go because he realizes that living with their crime of passion is enough punishment. For him it was not so much about the law but human justice and decency. Doing unto others was what was important to him."

Poirot focuses more on the psychology of a murder than the clues, Reynolds said. He was so beloved that The New York Times wrote an obituary for him following Christie's own death.

"As far as I know, his is the only fictional character that has ever appeared in the obituary column of The New York Times," Reynolds said.

The suspects are played by Doug Neff, Cam Cooper, Joy Bond, Bill Nagel, Erin Burbank, Ben Schepps, Chris Campbell, Michael Black, Mark Cook, Nancy Auseklis, Adam King and Hollie Hatch.

"I just love Hercule Poirot," Bond said. "He's so prim and proper. I saw the series on PBS and I've loved him ever since. And I think Jamey will make a good Hercule Poirot."

Evil stepmother Lady Tremaine, played by Wendy Kerr, laughs at Cinderella.

Slippers

The two-hour play, with a cast of 30, has two acts, 24 tracks and 19 songs. The music and songs are lively and add to the atmosphere of this enchanted play. But it ends with music that's a bit more serious.

The one thing people won't see on stage is Gus the Mouse, Henson said. But there is Charles the Cat, played by Oliver, who, on a leash, meowed frequently during Tuesday's rehearsal. There also will be a few surprises. (Hint: magical chariot.)

The play's namesake is a lovely rendition of the Cinderella story. Shea Wade has performed in a number of other plays hosted by Magic Valley Little Theatre, including "Jekyll and Hyde" and "The King and I."

"But this is my favorite," she said. "Cinderella has always been one of my favorite stories. I've always been kind of a dreamy person myself, dreaming of a Prince Charming, so this fits perfectly."

She and Prince Christopher, played by Uriah Manning, have a nice chemistry on stage — from them bumping into each other at their first chance encounter to their later courtship during the ball.

But what happens at the end? Is it anything like the traditional Disney version?

"You'll just have to wait and see," Solomon said.

Cook expects a good turnout. "Everybody loves romance," she said. "And this is a funny, romantic, family show."

Girls — and the little girls in all women — especially will like it, Henson said. After all: "What little girl hasn't dreamed of being Cinderella?"

Herders

about five years ago after learning about the arbor-glyphs in Boise State University professor John Bierter's class on Basque history.

Swope took plaster and silicone casts from the trees while preserving the original work. Nack made cut-paper trees to mimic an aspen grove with shaking leaves and a monochromatic color scheme.

The majority of the carvings are from Basque herders, Nack said, but some of the herders hailed from Peru or Chile. Most carvings are nothing more than a name, a country or city of origin, and the date — some as early as 1890. But some herders took their time, scarring the tree with images and poetry from their homelands. Some whacked away at the trees, while others took their time and made meticulous cuts.

Though the earliest carvings — some from dead trees — are from the late 19th century, Swope has seen some from as late as 2010. Most sheep-herders were Basque until the 1970s; after that, Chileans, Peruvians and Mexicans made up the majority.

The newest carvings are hard to make out, as it takes three to six years for the cuts to visibly scar the tree. Often, Swope found decades-old carvings in the same area as carvings from the past decade or two.

The more carvings Swope saw, the more he recognized individual artists' work. Like any artists, each carver had his own style. And over time, many improved.

"It's like any artist," Swope said. "You can watch their evolution in the medium."

One of Swope's favorite carvings simply says, "Orlando Love Yoshi." He imagines a Peruvian shepherd, still getting a grasp on English, pining for his Japanese girlfriend or wife while working in the mountains.

Little details in the images are telling, Swope said. One carver referred to himself as a Chilano instead of a Chilean. It's a label many would overlook, but to Swope, it's a first-person narrative of a new immigrant's identity.

"How often do you get that?" he said.

Filer Graduate to Compete in Met Opera Auditions

Filer High School graduate Jared Johnson, now an Idaho State University student, will compete Oct. 29 for a shot at singing for the Metropolitan Opera.

small-town musicals when he was 14. He came to ISU as a business major before converting to a performance major. "Dr. (Scott) Anderson and Professor (Kathleen) Lane lobbied for me to pursue vocal studies because they said I really have a shot at this," he said in an ISU press release.

Anderson said Johnson "has the kind of voice and talent that will lead to some type of professional musical career in singing, whether or not he becomes a household name." For Johnson, opera started off as a curiosity.

"Opera was something I'd listen to for fun, but with the support of people around me, I am giving this a shot," Johnson said. "I hope to sing for the Metropolitan Opera someday and on some of the world's biggest stages. I love performing."

Watch the Metropolitan Opera in HD

South-central Idahoans will get the chance to join opera fans across the nation in watching the Metropolitan Opera's screening of Mozart's opera "Don Giovanni" in HD on Oct. 29. The screening, which begins at 10:55 a.m. in the Bigwood4 Cinema on Hailey's Main Street, is part of The Metropolitan Opera's

Peabody and Emmy award-winning series "The Met: Live in HD." The date chosen by the Metropolitan Opera to present its new production of "Don Giovanni" is appropriate, as it was first performed on Oct. 29, 1787, in Prague and was received with great acclaim. Mariusz Kwiecien brings his youthful, sensual interpretation of Mozart's anti-hero to the Met for the first time, under the direction of Tony Award-winning director Michael Grandage. James Levine conducts the opera. Purchase tickets at the Bigwood theater when the box office opens at 10:30 a.m. Oct. 29. General admission is $22, and tickets for seniors are $20.

GAME OF THE WEEK

As Expected, Bruins, Spartans to Battle for Conference Crown

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

RUPERT • When the 2011 high school football schedules came out, most people circled tonight's Minico-Twin Falls game for the Great Basin Conference championship.

But after Twin Falls stumbled out of the gate with an unimpressive 1-2 start — including a 16-6 home loss to Burley — it appeared the Bruins might not make the playoffs, let alone vie for a conference title.

However, since that Burley loss, the Bruins have reeled off four straight wins, restoring the luster of tonight's Minico-Twin Falls game, which once again will be for all the GBC marbles.

"The Burley game was kind of a reality check for us," said Bruin junior linebacker Jason Byce. "We thought we were a great football team and everything, but they beat us and we had to take a step back and just look at everything. I think it was a good thing for us. We've just got back on it and been great ever since."

Tonight's winner will enter the Class 4A state playoffs as District IV's No. 1 seed and host the third-place team from District VI (Bonneville, Shelley or Hillcrest) next week in the Great 8.

The loser goes into the playoffs as District IV's No. 2 seed and will host the second-place team from District V (Preston or Century).

With a win, Minico (8-0 overall, 4-0 GBC) would complete the second undefeated regular season in school history and its sixth conference title in seven years.

The only other team to win the conference during that span? Twin Falls.

The Bruins' (5-2, 3-1) resurgence has come on the strength of their defense, special teams and limiting miscues.

"We can match up with any 4A team if we play to our potential," Byce said. "If we don't play like when we played Burley and stop the run and get our offense moving on all cylinders, we can be really good."

Since getting run over by Burley, Twin Falls has improved its run defense with a five-man front, which will be tested tonight against a Minico squad that averages 388 yards per game on the ground.

However, the Spartans could be without leading rusher Brady May, who suffered an ankle injury in last week's win at Jerome. Minico head coach Tim Perrigot said it would be a game-time decision whether May will play tonight. The senior has already rushed for 1,476 yards and 25 touchdowns this season.

Nine Lives: Rangers Rally, Even Series

ST. LOUIS • Down to their last three outs, and in danger of dropping into a serious World Series deficit, the Texas Rangers rallied against St. Louis' vaunted bullpen for a 2-1 victory Thursday night.

Josh Hamilton and Michael Young hit sacrifice flies in the ninth inning to give Texas the win.

For the second straight night, Cardinals pinch-hitter Allen Craig greeted reliever Alexi Ogando with a go-ahead single. This time, Craig did it the seventh. In Game 1, his hit in the sixth sent the Cards to a 3-2 win.

The Rangers, however, were not done quite yet. Now, after a travel day, they will host Game 3 on Saturday night. Matt Harrison is set to start for the Rangers against Kyle Lohse.

The Cardinals' Jaime Garcia and the Rangers' Colby Lewis both pitched two-hit ball through six innings, and Texas shortstop Elvis Andrus saved a run with an outstanding defensive play.

A night after Chris Carpenter led the Cardinals to a 3-2 win in the opener, Garcia retired his first nine batters and didn't allow a ball out of the infield. Using a sharp breaking ball, he allowed just three runners in the first six innings and only two singles. He struck out six and walked one, throwing 75 pitches.

BRUINS BLAST JEROME, WIN DISTRICT TITLE

BY DAVID BASHORE

Twin Falls had one goal for Thursday evening's Class 4A District IV volleyball tournament championship match against Jerome: Win the match, and win it in straight sets.

Dacey as it was in stages, the Bruins achieved that goal with a 25-22, 25-16, 25-23 win on their home floor to clinch the district's only automatic berth to the state tournament and wrap up another 13-0 season against Great Basin Conference opposition.

It's the third straight season the Bruins have gone 13-0 in the regular season and district tournament against conference foes. This time, they did it without dropping a single set, though they came close twice in the final against Jerome.

CALDWELL • Twin Falls' girls soccer team earned its first state tournament victory in school history with a 3-2 win against Kuna at Brothers Field.

Claire Goss scored twice for the Bruins, including the game-winner on a breakaway in the 78th minute. Kylie Greenawald's superb through ball over the back line of Kuna's defense found Goss breaking towards the goal. Goss, a junior, slipped the ball past the goalkeeper and into the net as the situation seemed surreal to her.

"It wasn't really realistic for me, I couldn't believe it was happening," Goss said. "When I scored it was just like 'Wow, we're going to win the game!' It just pumped everyone up."

Maddie Watkins scored the first goal of the match from the right side of the box in the 12th minute for Twin Falls to take an early lead. The Bruins entered halftime up 2-1 following Kuna forward Kinsie Ward's penalty kick in the 20th minute and Goss' first goal in the 33rd minute.

Twin Falls controlled the first half by playing their style, focusing on maintaining possession. The second half was dictated by Kuna, featuring a hectic, up-and-down pace.

"We're generally a possession team," Bruins coach Katie Kauffman said. "In the second half we couldn't put it together, but I'll take a win any day no matter how you get it."

Ward's equalizing second goal in the 65th minute may have triggered unpleasant memories of the Bruins' past, but this year's young team broke through when past editions couldn't.

"It was a little shaky at times on defense but they battled through and pushed to the end, and that's what really matters," Kauffman said. She acknowledged the lack of success in the state tournament did enter her mind. "I felt the pressure. We definitely had high expectations for ourselves coming up here."

Greenawald, a freshman, helped dash those negative thoughts when she set up Goss. Her lob was a thing of beauty, finding Goss in stride before approaching the net and creating a golden opportunity. From there, Goss knew what to do with it and liberated the Bruins from negative preceding tournaments.

"We all wanted to make history," Goss said. "No one's ever won (here) and we'll go down as the group that won. It will help us through the whole tournament."

Kauffman agreed with riding the momentum from the win.

"Just getting that (first win) off the table I think is going to lighten them up a bit. Hopefully now they can just come out and play," Kauffman said.

Twin Falls plays Sandpoint, last year's state runner-up, in the semifinals today at 2 p.m. at Brothers Park in Caldwell. The Bulldogs beat Madison 4-0 in the first round.

"We have the mentality to get (to the championship) and we really want it," Goss said. "We want to make history again."

BLISS SUFFERS LOSS AGAINST QUICK WEISER TEAM

TIMES-NEWS

CALDWELL • Bliss ran into a hot Weiser team that continued to roll in the first round of the state tournament. The 3A Snake River Valley district champions defeated the Bears 5-1 on Thursday at Vallivue High School to send Bliss to the consolation bracket.

Estefany Altamirano scored for Bliss in the 62nd minute to ruin Weiser's shutout, and Kendall Martell's shot nearly 10 minutes later glanced off the post in a bid for the Bears' second.

"The kids played hard and didn't quit," Bliss coach Diana Butler said.

Bears goalkeeper Cassandra Graza recorded 25 saves, but the Wolverines were as ferocious as their namesake. The ball rarely left Bliss' defensive half of the field in the first half, resulting in a 4-0 Weiser lead at halftime. Mekenzie Messick led the Wolverines with two goals, one in the 11th minute and one in the 18th. Nella Redman added one in between Messick's two, establishing Weiser's dominant lead early.

Bliss takes on Timberlake, 4-0 losers to Teton, today at 11 a.m. at Vallivue High.

THREE AND OUT

A look at this week’s biggest prep football games

Kimberly at Filer at 7 p.m.

Gooding at Declo at 7 p.m.

Wood River at Canyon Ridge at 7 p.m.

The skinny: A win for the Bulldogs and the Sawtooth Central Idaho Conference title is theirs. A loss sends Kimberly, Buhl and Filer into a three-way Kansas City playoff for the conference’s two playoff participants. Kimberly comes in hot, with a 22-point victory over rival Buhl last week and a shutout of Canyon Ridge the week before. Filer has had a tough season under first-year head coach Bill Reynolds and is staring at an 0-8 season. Last season in Kimberly, the Bulldogs won 54-14.

Key matchup No. 1: Filer’s defense against Kimberly’s varied offense. Earlier in the season, Kirby Bright ran a spread offense with lots of motion and no running back in the backfield with quarterback Seth Champlin. Last week against Buhl, the Bulldogs ran a modified wing-T, more akin to the Kimberly tradition. Whatever they run, Champlin will be a play-maker.

Key matchup No. 2: Filer’s pride. No team wants to finish with a winless season. Can the Wildcats dig deep within themselves to muster a fight and make this a game in the fourth quarter? For the Filer seniors, this could be their final game. Can they make it count?

Prediction: Kimberly 40, Filer 10

—Stephen Meyers

The skinny: The Canyon Conference championship is on the line as Declo (6-1 overall, 3-0 Canyon) hosts Gooding (4-3, 3-0). The Senators are better than their 4-3 record suggests. Two of the losses were to Butte County and Salmon, whose combined records are now 13-1. The other loss was to Wood River, who is a borderline Class 4A play-off team. Meanwhile, Declo has found ways to win each week while still waiting for its junior and sophomore classes to rise up and take ownership of this team. Last year, Declo edged Gooding 10-0 to clinch its third straight conference title.

Key matchup No. 1: Fundamentals. Gooding’s defense has to be fundamentally sound as Declo shifts between double wing, wing-T and empty backfield sets. Meanwhile, Declo’s defense has to be sound tacklers against Gooding backs Kyle Rison, Josh Faulkner, Eric Finley and Josh Finley, who rack up huge yards after contact.

Key matchup No. 2: Emotions. These schools have developed a competitive rivalry in recent years. In fact, this week Declo and Gooding finished one-two in cross country and volleyball district championships. The football version of the rivalry is less than friendly, so level-headedness will be a key factor.

Prediction: Gooding 34, Declo 14.

—Ryan Howe

The skinny: The playoffs hit the Magic Valley a week early. The winner earns a spot in the playoffs against the winner of tonight’s game between Blackfoot and Hillcrest, and the loser goes home. Wood River comes in off an impressive 27-6 win over Burley, while Canyon Ridge limps in on back-to-back losses, including a deflating 18-6 loss to rival Twin Falls and a 32-0 whitewash by Kimberly. Both teams will run the football almost exclusively, setting up a hard-nosed, physical encounter with everything on the line.

Key matchup No. 1: Wood River quarterback Tommy Bailey vs. Canyon Ridge’s defense. We know Canyon Ridge will get its yards in its double-wing offense, and it’ll be up to Wood River to match that. Greg Lindbloom will get his carries and his yards as well, in all likelihood, but the Riverhawks may take a page out of Twin Falls’ playbook and load the box, forcing Bailey to beat them with his arm. It didn’t happen against the Bruins, and he may need to be better tonight.

Key matchup No. 2: Wood River kicker Trevor Brand vs. Canyon Ridge’s PAT team. The Riverhawks traditionally go for two points after every touchdown and have rarely tried field goals this season, so that could prove an edge for the Wolverines. Every extra point and field goal made puts more pressure on Canyon Ridge to convert its two-point attempts.

Prediction: Wood River 20, Canyon Ridge 18.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

PREP SOCCER ROUNDUP

Carey’s Cenarrusa Stays Fresh, Brings Lots of Energy to His Team

TIMES-NEWS

You’ll find many eight-man football coaches agreeing on this simple precept: Strength comes in numbers.

The team that has a roster of 30 has a huge advantage over a team with a roster of 15.

And an even bigger advantage can be found with teams that can allow players to go just one way.

Two-platoon football is a pipe dream for almost all eight-man programs, but that doesn’t mean teams can’t find ways to rest key players and limit their reps on one side of the ball. And that’s the case at Carey, steaming toward a deep postseason run, with defensive end Dillon Cenarrusa.

Cenarrusa is coming off a wrecking-ball performance against Dietrich in which he had four sacks. Coach Lane Kirkland had an inkling his 6-2, 175-pound senior lineman was in for a big game based on one play in practice leading up to the game.

“We were going to do a quick pitch — a toss sweep to one side — and Dillon lines up in a four-point stance and he intercepted the pitch,” Kirkland said. “He was that fast in practice.”

With limited reps on offense, where he splits time with cousin Jack Cenarrusa, Dillon spends a good chunk of practice going up against the Panthers’ first-team offense, one of the best in the area.

“If you’re not playing both ways,” Kirkland said, “you’ve got a lot of energy. He brings that energy when he comes on the field because he’s fresh and ready to roll.”

His value is on offense, but that doesn’t mean Cenarrusa can’t contribute on offense. He plays some tight end, and gets some carries out of the wildcat formation.

“He doesn’t tuck the ball like he should, but with a fresh pair of legs, you just can’t beat it,” Kirkland said. “He’s pretty determined to do something when he gets the ball. He’s a great receiver and we need to use him a little more. We probably will as the season goes along.”

That’s certain to spell bad news for the remaining opponents on Carey’s schedule.

TIMES-NEWS

The dream is edging closer to reality.

Sergio Campos and Zach Clark each scored twice as Filer advanced to the Class 3A state boys soccer semifinals with a resounding 5-0 win Thursday over Bonners Ferry in Caldwell.

The Wildcats had to withstand a 10-minute surge from Bonners Ferry to start the game, but after that they controlled proceedings.

“Most of the guys haven’t done anything like this in terms of tournaments,” said Filer coach Greg Clark. “Our defense is so crucial to our game and once it held, (Bonners Ferry) was more reactionary and its midfield dropped off a little bit.”

Santiago Alvarado had the other goal.

Ryan Karel added three assists, Clark and Marc Ramseyer added helpers and goalkeeper Ceaton Hammond had seven saves in pitching the shutout for Filer, which plays Teton today for a berth in the championship game.

PAYETTE 5, COMMUNITY SCHOOL 2

Joseph Bolin netted four times as Payette eased its way to a semifinal berth.

Tom Lamue added the fifth goal for the Pirates, who will play Snake River for a place in the championship.

Mason Noyes and Hunter Weaver scored for the Community School.

SNAKE RIVER 5, GOODING 3

Adam Ortiz scored twice to pace the Panthers into the state semifinals.

Eddy Frutos, Cooper Peterson and Andy Garcia also scored for Snake River, which advances to face Payette today.

Rico Mendes scored twice and Jesse Cardenas added the third goal for Gooding, which plays the Community School today in the elimination bracket.

Class 3A girls COMMUNITY SCHOOL 3, KELLOGG 0

Gabi Perenchio scored twice to lift the Community School to the state semifinals for just the second time in school history.

“That’s a great way to start the tournament, and it gives the girls a lot of confidence to win that first game,” said Community School coach Kelly Feldman.

Hannah Dies had the other goal for the Cutthroats, who face McCall-Donnelly in the semifinals this afternoon.

Kellogg plays Marsh Valley in the elimination bracket.

Class 4A boys BLACKFOOT 1, MINICO 0

Gerardo Bartolo scored the only goal of the game to advance Blackfoot into the semifinals.

Oziel Oseguera made four saves to post the shutout for the Broncos, who face Skyview today.

Cameron Lloyd had seven saves in the loss for Minico, which faces Preston today in elimination play.

CALDWELL 4, BURLEY 1

Jonathan Arreola scored twice to lift Caldwell over Burley.

Samuel Saucedo and Jeret Capuchino also struck for the Cougars, who will face Bonneville in the semifinals.

Rodrigo Mendez scored for Burley, which plays Lakeland this morning in the elimination bracket.

Class 4A girls HILLCREST 5, WOOD RIVER 1

McKenna Hamberlin scored a hat trick as Hillcrest routed Wood River into the elimination bracket.

Savannah Schumacher added the other two goals for the Knights, who will face Bishop Kelly in today’s semifinals.

Lucy Brannon scored the lone goal for the Wolverines, who face Century this morning.

New Friend, Same Result for Peterson, Musers

BY STEPHEN MEYERS
smeyers@magicvalley.com

DIETRICH • Camas County star Katelyn Peterson and Dietrich’s leader Jessica Perron sat in the stands together and shared a laugh before their matchup in the championship game of the Class 1A Division II District IV Tournament.

The respective leaders on their teams play club ball together during the high school offseason, but Thursday night the two went play-for-play against each other, with Peterson’s two-time defending state champion Musers getting the best of the matchup, sweeping Dietrich 25-18, 25-22, 25-13 to win the district title.

“We’ve gotten to be pretty close friends playing together in club,” said Perron, who had 22 assists. “It’s better to play with her, but she makes it fun to play against too, because you have something to work toward.”

Peterson pounded home 32 kills, wooing the crowd with every bullet, and helped keep the Musers’ undefeated season intact, moving them to 34-0.

“It’s awesome to beat Dietrich because they’re such a great team and to beat them in three (games) is really good,” said Peterson. “It shows that we’re really disciplined and wanted it tonight. It’s exciting.”

Dietrich hung tough in Game 1 and gave the Musers a run for their money in Game 2.

The Blue Devils held the lead early in the set and went up 16-14, before Camas Country tied it at 16 and Peterson drove home a point to put the Musers ahead and start a 5-0 spurt. They wouldn’t relinquish their lead the rest of the game.

“We played right with them in Game 1 and 2, but I think Game 3 our serve-receive went to the wayside and when you can’t pass, you can’t set and you can’t hit,” said Dietrich coach Traci Perron.

Camas Country coach Shelli Schroeder praised the play of libero Carlie Straum, who had 26 digs.

“My libero played the game of her season tonight. She gave us amazing defense and was all over the court,” said Schroeder, who wouldn’t be surprised to see Dietrich in the state tournament Oct. 28-29 at Lewiston High School. “I honestly see it as being us and Dietrich in the championship game and I think it will be a five-game fight.”

Moriah Dill led the Blue Devils with 15 kills and Cheyenne Hubert added six, while Larissa Stewart dished out 39 assists for the Musers.

CAREY 3, RICHFIELD 2

Carey survived a five-set affair against Richfield, winning 25-23, 31-33, 25-21, 19-25, 16-14, advancing to a play-in game for the third and final Division II state tournament berth against Lighthouse Christian. The results of that match were not known at press time.

Micaela Adamson led Carey with 22 kills and McKayla Mecham added 13. Jaide Parke led the Panthers with 63 digs.

The loss ended Richfield’s season.

May isn’t the only injury concern in Minico’s backfield. The Spartans’ secondand third-leading rushers, Jordan Browning and Skye Dansie, respectively, have been banged up as well.

If May and Co. can’t go, Perrigot said he’s confident other players, like junior Taylor Seaton, can perform and the Spartan offense won’t skip a beat.

“I think that says a lot about our offensive line,” Perrigot said. “They’re all healthy. They’re all at the buffet and everybody’s happy!”

Minico’s run-focused defense only allows 123 yards rushing per game. However, last week Jerome exposed Minico’s secondary, passing for 468 yards. If Twin Falls wins tonight, expect quarterback Thomas Corr to have a big night.

“Last season we won all of them but we dropped a couple sets to Minico. About halfway through this season we noticed we hadn’t lost a set so we made that a goal,” said Bruin outside hitter Sierra Starley, who had a 10-kill, 10-dig double-double. “It was close tonight but we called some timeouts and settled down. We really wanted to win tonight so we could go to state.”

Josie Jordan had eight kills and Jade Byce added seven for the Bruins, who trailed 21-17 in the first set for rallying back to win.

They also trailed 21-18 in the third set before coming back to close out the match.

Haylee Burnham led Jerome with 10 kills and Frankie Carey had 18 assists and three aces. But it wasn’t enough to slow down the Bruins, who will play the District III champion in the opening round of the state tournament next Friday in northern Idaho.

“Every ball you touch has to be perfect at the state tournament,” said Starley. “You can’t afford to get down four or five points against the teams that are going to be there.”

Jerome, meanwhile, plays Emmett on Saturday at Mountain Home, with the winner of that play-in match getting to the state tournament as well.

“Our girls played hard and bounced back to take some points after we lost the first set,” said Jerome coach Hannah Clark. “We’re excited for Saturday, hoping to get that win to get to state again.”

NBA Talks Turning Nasty

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK • NBA labor talks turned nasty and broke off Thursday when three days of meetings failed to yield a deal to end a 112-day lockout, raising the likelihood that even more games will be canceled in an already fractured season.

After 30 hours of negotiations before a federal mediator, the sides remained divided over two main issues — the division of revenues and the structure of the salary cap system.

“Ultimately, we were unable to bridge the gap that separates the two parties,” NBA Deputy Commissioner Adam Silver said. “We understand the ramifications of where we are. We’re saddened on behalf of the game.”

Without a deal, NBA Commissioner David Stern, who missed Thursday’s session with the flu, almost certainly will decide more games must be dropped.

The season was supposed to begin Nov. 1, but all games through Nov. 14 — 100 in total — already have been scrapped, costing players about $170 million in salaries.

Stern said previously that games through Christmas were in jeopardy without a deal this week. Silver said the labor committee would speak with Stern on Friday about the future schedule.

The union said owners essentially gave it an ultimatum to accept a 50-50 split of revenues, and president Derek Fisher accused management of lying to the media.

“We’ve spent the last few days making our best effort to try and find a resolution here. Not one that was necessarily a win-win. It wouldn’t be a win for us. It wouldn’t be a win for them. But one that we felt like would get our game back ... and get our guys back on the court, get our vendors back to work, get the arenas open, get these communities revitalized,” Fisher said.

“And in our opinion, that’s not what the NBA and the league is interested in at this point. They’re interested in telling you one side of the stories that are not true and this is very serious to us. This is not in any way about ego. There are a lot of people’s livelihoods at stake separate from us.”

Billy Hunter, executive director of the players’ association, said the union made “concession after concession after concession ... and it’s just not enough.”

“We’re not prepared to let them impose a system on us that eliminates guarantees, reduces contract lengths, diminishes all our increases,” he said. “We’re saying no way. We fought too long and made too many sacrifices to get where we are.”

Previously each side had proposed receiving 53 percent of basketball-related income after players were guaranteed 57 percent under the previous collective bargaining agreement.

Silver said the league formally proposed a 50-50 revenue split Wednesday, and the union moved from 53 percent to 52.5 percent Thursday.

“Hopefully, we can get back to the table, but certainly a tough day, a very tough day,” said Peter Holt, the labor relations committee chair and owner of the San Antonio Spurs.

Donations are greatly appreciated. We are in desperate need of adult and puppy food. Thank you Conway Twitty is a handsome heeler/border collie mix. He is black with some white markings. He is about six-weeks-old and came into the shelter with his sister Loretta. They were found in an ally starving and scared. They are doing really well now and are eager to find there forever homes.

Joker is a young adult boxer aussie mix. He is white with big patches of brindle. He is really uniquely marked. Joker also has beautiful big blue eyes. He is very friendly and will be a great dog for someone.

Miracle Max is a 6 month old chocolate lab. Max came to the shelter about four months ago and has been under medical care. He was tied in the back of a pickup, jumped out and got tangled up with the back tire. The tire acted as a belt sander removing all of the muscle tissue and much of the bone on Max's rear leg. Rather than euthanizing Max or amputating the leg, Dr. Jones and his staff spent the past several months caring for Max with herbal therapies. Max's leg is now fully functional. He is a very sweet guy and eagerly awaits finding his forever family.

Hannah is a 3 month old chocolate Labrador mix puppy. She has a some white markings. She is a sweetheart!

Kelsey is a female pointer border collie mix puppy. White with large black spots..really cute! She loves to romp and play with the other dogs and her human buddies.

Pepper is a beautiful wire haired pointer. She is a young adult and has black and white markings. Pepper is very sweet and will be a great pet.

The adoption fee is $75 and includes spaying/neutering and the first set of vaccinations.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

*“Do you set your face against the daughter
Of life? Can you never discard
Your curt pride's ban?”*

— D.H. Lawrence

In today's deal East should act at once by doubling North's one-heart call. It is generally safer to get into the auction at once than wait until the opponents have limited their values and shape.

When South hears the two-spade call on his left, he should compete to three clubs. With only four spades, West should not bid any further — it is up to East to continue if he has extra shape. As it is, East has no reason to make another call.

When West leads a low spade, the seven is played from dummy and East takes his king. South can see that his losers are one spade, one heart, two diamonds, and, almost for sure, at least one club. His only chance of avoiding one of these losers is to pick up a second trick in spades by throwing his queen under the king and taking a finesse against the jack. With this play, a diamond can be discarded from hand on the spade ace. The lie of the trumps is such that whether declarer finesses the queen or the 10, the ace will bring down the outstanding honor on the next round, so only one trump trick will be lost.

This hand is a slight variation on a deal from the Culbertson-Lenz rubber match. Sidney Lenz declared the deal in this fashion and found the unblock of the spade queen at the table. Just for the record, a red-suit lead defeats the contract.

ANSWER: You have an awkward problem: if the clubs set up, you might make three no-trump. Equally, a partscore in clubs and a game in hearts are both perfectly plausible outcomes. The best way to explore for higher things is to bid three diamonds, but my bet would be that passing is the winner in the long run.

SALES EXECUTIVE

We need a full-time advertising sales consultant who is ready to achieve success, is highly motivated and goal orientated. This position will manage an existing well-established account list and be responsible for the development of new business from new and existing clients. They will provide excellent service to our clients, selling newspaper and online advertising, specialty publications, and ad inserts.

The successful candidate must have a proven track record in outside sales, developing strong business relationships, possess good oral and written communication skills, be well organized, have excellent follow-through and enjoy working with a variety of people. Previous marketing experience or advertising sales experience a plus.

WRITER

South-central Idaho's best and largest news provider seeks a talented writer to dig deep into the intersection of people and policy to consistently bring our readers the stories they'll keep talking about.

The assignment covers an eight-county area from which the right candidate will seek the most compelling stories from both rural and urban settings. Tasks will range from rooting out the reasons behind utility increases that hit thousands of pocketbooks to profiling a thinning group of Pearl Harbor attack survivors who call the area home.

The reporter's primary responsibility will be to find and develop six snappy enterprise stories per week and pitch in on other beats when needed, such as when our government reporter is covering the annual state legislative session in Boise.

PACKAGING MANAGER

The Times News is seeking an ambitious, team-orientated leader to join our Packaging department.

Qualified individual will be responsible for directing the packaging department in producing a quality product, which meets strategic department, enterprise and corporate goals. Candidate will apply expertise and knowledge to the packaging function to ensure sustained success and growth of the organization. Responsibilities will include developing/managing all departmental processes, maintaining departmental reports and records, and developing and tracking departmental budget. Manager will oversee the recruiting, training, evaluating and supervision of all packaging employees.

Qualifications include broad experience in a production or mechanical background; preferably in the newspaper industry, with 5-7 years of prior supervisory experience. Must be able to demonstrate experience working in a deadline oriented environment, scheduling, safety and cost reductions. Equipment and machinery expertise required as is knowledge of Microsoft Office. The successful candidate will be hands-on, possess excellent communication skills and be customer-driven.

Application deadline is October 31st 2011.

On this date:

TODAY IN HISTORY

In 1797, the U.S. Navy frigate Constitution, also known as "Old Ironsides," was christened in Boston's harbor.

In 1805, a British fleet commanded by Adm. Horatio Nelson defeated a French-Spanish fleet in the Battle of Trafalgar; Nelson, however, was killed.

In 1917, members of the 1st Division of the U.S. Army training in Luneville, France, became the first Americans to see action on the front lines of World War I.

In 1944, during World War II, U.S. troops captured the German city of Aachen.

In 1959, the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum, designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, opened to the public in New York.

In 1960, Democrat John F. Kennedy and Republican Richard M. Nixon clashed in their fourth and final presidential debate in New York.

In 1967, the Israeli destroyer INS Eilat was sunk by Egyptian missile boats near Port Said; 47 Israeli crew members were lost.

In 1971, President Richard Nixon nominated Lewis F. Powell and William H. Rehnquist to the U.S. Supreme Court. (Both nominees were confirmed.)

In 1986, pro-Iranian kidnappers in Lebanon abducted American Edward Tracy (he was released in August 1991).

In 1991, American hostage Jesse Turner was freed by his kidnappers in Lebanon after nearly five years in captivity.

Ten years ago: Washington, D.C., postal worker Thomas L. Morris Jr. died of inhalation anthrax as officials began testing thousands of postal employees. The Arizona Diamondbacks won the National League championship, defeating the Atlanta Braves 3-2 in Game 5.

Five years ago: Al-Jazeera television aired an interview with State Department official Alberto Fernandez, who offered an unusual assessment of the Iraq war, saying in Arabic that the United States had shown "arrogance" and "stupidity" in Iraq. (Fernandez issued an apology the next day.) Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice, visiting Moscow, delivered a symbolic rebuke to Russia over shrinking press freedoms, even as she courted President Vladimir Putin for help punishing Iran over its nuclear program. The St. Louis Cardinals cruised past the Detroit Tigers 7-2 win in Game 1 of the World Series.

One year ago: Eight current and former officials pleaded not guilty to looting millions of dollars from California's modest blue-collar city of Bell. French police used tear gas and water cannon against rampaging youth in Lyon while the French government showed its muscle in parliament, short-circuiting tense Senate debate on a bill raising the retirement age to 62. James F. Neal, the attorney who prosecuted Jimmy Hoffa and key Watergate figures, and defended Elvis Presley's doctor and the Exxon Corp. after the Alaska oil spill, died in Nashville at age 81.

DEAR ABBY: My preteen daughter, “Avery,” has started developing a more mature figure. She recently told me privately that one night while I was in class, her father smacked her on the bottom and started playing with the back pockets on her jeans. It made her very uncomfortable. When Avery asked him to stop, he told her that she’s his “baby girl” and he could smack her “cute little butt” if he wants to. I think my husband truly believed it was OK and didn’t mean (at least consciously) to touch her inappropriately. But if it bothered Avery, it can’t continue. I’m afraid I’ll overreact if I try to discuss this with him. I was sexually abused by a relative when I was a young teenager. This relative also said that because he was related to me he could touch me in whatever way he wanted. To further complicate matters, my husband refuses me in bed. If there’s trouble brewing, I want to stop it now, but I don’t want to come off as a freaked-out, paranoid former victim seeing abuse where it may be total innocence. Any suggestions?

— UNEASY

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR UNEASY: Yes. Listen to your gut. Tell your daughter you’re glad she told you what happened, and you want her to come to you anytime ANYONE makes her feel uncomfortable. No one has the right to touch her if she doesn’t want to be. And because what her father did made her uncomfortable, her “cute little butt” is off limits. If your husband gives you an argument, insist on professional counseling for the two of you. He may be slow to realize that his little girl is growing up and the rules have changed. A licensed counselor will not come off as a “freaked-out, paranoid former victim” and can help him to understand that his behavior should not be repeated. And while you’re at it, raise the issue of your sex life so you will have a clearer understanding of why it is the way it is.

DEAR ABBY: Because ADHD (Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder) affects so many people, my letter may interest many of your readers. An estimated 4.4 million children between the ages of 4 and 17 have this diagnosis. Half of them receive some form of medication for it.

This disorder is also present in adults. According to an April 2006 study funded by the National Institute of Mental Health, an estimated 4.4 percent of adults 18 to 44 experience some symptoms from it.

Thanks to ongoing research and improved treatment, adults with ADHD can live more successful lives. The largest study on childhood ADHD also shows effective treatments are available.

CHADD (Children and Adults with Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder), the largest family-based organization advocating for people with the disorder, provides information, advocacy and support. Our website (CHADD.org) and publications contain science-based information. It includes available parent and teacher training programs as well as support groups in 200 locations.

Thank you for printing this and the advice and wisdom you have shared so consistently over the years.

— MARIE S. PAXSON,
PAST PRESIDENT, CHADD ORGANIZATION

DEAR MARIE: I’m pleased to spread the word that effective treatment for ADHD — which can be inherited — is becoming more accessible to families affected by it. Treatment for this disorder includes parent training, behavioral intervention, educational adaptations, parent-child education on ADHD and medication. If a child you know has been diagnosed with this disorder, CHADD can be a helpful resource.

IF OCTOBER 21 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: The upcoming 12 months offer both experience and opportunities so that you can build a valuable repertoire of skills. Look for a richly deserved reward or a fabulous opportunity sometime near the end of November or beginning of December. Have faith that whatever falls in your lap then is in your best interests. In December, March and June, you will have a chance to test the depth of your ambitions as you may be challenged to handle extra responsibilities. Between now and May, you may be given the chance to show how dependable you are by being entrusted with important responsibilities and duties. Put your best foot forward and impress others with your ability to manage your affairs efficiently.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The changes that occur in career or business in the next few days may be all for the best. A new romance might be alluring, but offer you a mystery to solve, since you do not believe fantasies can become reality.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Recharge your spiritual batteries in the Zen garden of your heart. It is OK to be more aggressive than usual or to make the first move if love is the goal. Power shifts are possible in the career sector.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Keep the faith, baby. If you prove you are true blue, you will attract others who are honest and fair as well. Small flirtations that help grease the social wheels might lead to something more serious later.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Interpersonal chemistry can be intoxicating. Even if it is a great day to concentrate on key business endeavors, it is also a great time to hang out with friends and tighten important bonds.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Old friends may fill the bill. Oil your social gears by spending a few minutes with someone cheerful and wise, as you may need to shift gears later in order to get along well on the job or at a business meeting.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Gather supporters to your side. Teamwork is the best way to get things done in the least time to achieve the most profit. Others are less likely to compete against you and more likely to lend a helping hand.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): First impressions are lasting. You appear suave, smooth and sophisticated – so concentrate on plying your social skills. Someone special will be pleased to help you at work or spend time with you at lunch.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Loving kindness and social savvy could be a sure-fire antidote for stress. Even a little innocent flirtation will help make work move along faster. Use your people skills to charm business acquaintances.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Pledge your heart and you will be blessed with a lasting relationship. Buy a beautiful item and it will give you years of pleasure. Make a commitment or obtain favors while the cosmic lights are green.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The race often is to the swift, but it could be more fun to simply power walk with a pleasant partner by your side. Strengthen romantic ties, sign contracts and seal deals under these helpful stars.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): When Cupid shoots his arrows, resistance is futile. If an apology is necessary, make it under these stars and you can find ways to mend even badly damaged fences. Luxury items bought now will last.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be adaptable, not malleable, for the best success. Don't be gullible or let anyone twist your meaning. Remain flexible about business relationships and poised to deal with any sudden shift of plan.

Apples Attracting Bears, Fish & Game Cautions

BY JOYCE EDLEFSEN
Standard-Journal

IDAHO FALLS • Idaho Fish and Game officials urge rural residents to keep wind-fall apples picked up and keep ripe apples harvested after a handful of incidents involving black bears sampling the fruit.

“So far, I’ve investigated four different sites where trees loaded with apples have had any limbs that bears could reach torn down,” says Senior Conservation Officer Charlie Anderson.

The incidents occurred along the Henry’s Fork and in the Warm River area north of Ashton, according to Conservation Educator Gregg Losinski.

So far all of the incidents have involved black bears, but grizzlies are also known to frequent the area.

To prevent more problems, residents should clean up all windfalls as soon as they occur and harvest ripe apples from the trees.

Bears are opportunistic omnivores that will consume whatever food sources they can obtain easily.

“Bears are at that stage of the year when they are trying to put on as much fat as they can to prepare for winter, and a tree full of ripe apples is seen as easy pickings,” Losinski says.

Bears targeting apple trees near residences not only put humans and pets at risk, but can also lead bears to becoming too comfortable around humans.

Adult females bears pass on foraging techniques to their young.

A cub that learns about apple trees from its mother will be back when it is a larger adult, the agency says.

And bears tend to store data mentally about food sources and to use that data when they are hungry and can’t find other sources.

That may explain why it’s been a couple of years since bears were reported eating apples, Losinski says.

DEQ SEEKS AIR QUALITY RECLASSIFICATION

BY KEITH KINNAIRD

SANDPOINT • Years of hard work to clean up air quality in the greater Sandpoint area is paying off.

Air quality data show the area is meeting standards for coarse particulate matter, which is prompting the Idaho Department of Environmental Quality to ask the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to reclassify air quality in Sandpoint, Ponderay and Kootenai.

The EPA designated the tri-city area out of compliance for coarse particulate matter in 1987. Particulate matter with an aerodynamic diameter less than or equal to a nominal 10 micrometers is considered a public health threat because of the body’s inability to effectively filter particles of that size.

The particles can accumulate in the lungs and aggravate respiratory conditions, especially for those with heart or lung diseases, the elderly and children.

Since the EPA designation, state and local governments have implemented a variety of programs to bring the area into compliance with federal standards. The programs promoted cleaner burning wood stoves, better control of road and construction dust, and cleaning up industrial emissions.

The reclassification would ease permitting and review requirements.

“Right now, any facility that has the potential to emit air pollutants that comes into the Sandpoint area has to go through a process that will demonstrate that they don’t need a permit, which can be timely and costly,” said Mark Boyle, DEQ’s Coeur d’Alene region air quality manager.

Although permitting and review requirements would be relaxed, air quality standards would remain.

“There won’t be any relaxation of emissions standards,” Boyle said.

DEQ is seeking public comment on the reclassification proposal. The deadline to comment on the proposal is Nov. 10. A public hearing on the request is set for 4 p.m. on Nov. 9 at the East Bonner County Library in Sandpoint.

The reclassification proposal can be viewed at the library or online (www.deq.idaho.gov/public-comment-opportunities). Comments on the proposal can be mailed to Tessa Stevens, Idaho DEQ State Office, Air Quality Division, 1410 North Hilton, Boise, ID. 83706. They can also be emailed to tessa.stevens@deq.idaho.gov.

Two Sandpoint Eateries Call it Quits After Allegations of Liquor Violations

SANDPOINT • The Dive and Oishii have quietly closed their doors as a darkening cloud looms over the liquor license the two restaurants operated under.

The two businesses apparently shut their doors voluntarily last month, according to city officials. The businesses were operated by Pastime Bar & Grill Inc.

The company’s president, Lex Sparks, did not respond to a request for comment on the closures.

Sandpoint Police Department documents obtained under Idaho’s public records law allege back-to-back violations of Pastime’s liquor license, which was utilized by The Dive, Oishii and Spar Bar.

Pastime’s liquor license was suspended for the month of March, although the police reports do not specify the violation that gave rise to the suspension.

After the liquor license suspension was imposed, Sandpoint Police received tips that Oishii was circumventing the sanction by allowing patrons to bring their own alcohol into the sushi restaurant.

Plainclothes officers went to Oishii on several occasions to see if they would be offered alcohol or encouraged to bring in their own, according to the police reports. Restaurant staff neither offered alcohol nor encouraged outside alcohol, the reports said.

An officer on foot patrol downtown, however, discovered a party was being thrown at Spar Bar on March 26, five days before the suspension was to lift. Attendees of the party told police they rented the establishment for the night and were advised by management that they could bring in their own booze.

Under Idaho liquor laws, an establishment with a suspended license is not allowed to let anybody consume or dispense alcohol on the premises.

An email invitation for the bring-you-own-bottle party obtained by The Daily Bee urged attendees to be discreet about bringing booze into Spar Bar.

“We are allowed to BYOB as its (sic) a private party however we are basically not to draw attention on our way in,” the email reads.

During Lost in the 50s in May, a former manager of The Dive was cited for serving alcohol to an underage patron, court records indicate.

Sandpoint Police forwarded their reports to the Idaho State Police’s Alcohol Beverage Control Bureau.

“There were various violations that they had had that were reported to the state and then the state handled it,” said Scot Campbell, the city’s civil counsel. “It’s primarily been at the state level.”

Lieutenant Bob Clements of ABC did not respond to an inquiry about the status of the proceedings against Pastime’s liquor license.
