Heading Out Tonight? Our Collection of Top Tips

Experts give us a lot of advice on how to have a happy Halloween. Here are some of the best tips we've received.

BY ERIC LARSEN
elarsen@magicvalley.com

People are worried about you tonight — and no, this time it's not just your mother fretting over whether you'll "ever meet a nice girl."

Here at the Times-News, the late-October stream of press releases is peppered with Halloween warnings. By celebrating tonight, they say, you'll open yourself up to potential maiming, abduction, arrest and tooth decay.

It's enough to make forgoing the tricks and treats for another night in front of the tube sound like a good idea.

But scared-straight emails aren't meant to keep you from having fun. They include a bagful of tricks — some better than others — that you can use to enjoy the treats you gathered as November rolls around. Here are some of the best:

For Trick-or-treaters

There's no real new advice to help you stay safe while you're out seeking candy, but the old standbys hold true.

Trick-or-treaters should travel in packs, put reflective tape on their costumes or candy bags, or carry flashlights or glow sticks. Only ask for treats from homes with their lights on, and never go inside a home to get treats.

Stick to the sidewalks and crosswalks, and watch for cars that might not see you when you cross the street.

When the candy gathering is done, health officials say you should toss homemade or unwrapped treats unless they're provided by a trusted source.

For Drivers

Police in Twin Falls and other area cities will be out in force tonight, so mind your driving manners.

We've received advice from AAA, Twin Falls police, the Idaho Transportation Department and numerous others on how to drive during Halloween. It comes down to this: Drive tonight like you would if a police officer was in your passenger seat.

That means don't drink and drive, slow down for pedestrians and make sure to pay attention to your surroundings. You never know when a poorly lit ghoul will step out into the road.

Five Newcomers Seek Two Wendell Council Seats

Wendell residents can hear the candidates speak on city issues during a 7 p.m. Tuesday forum.

BY BRADLEY GUIRE
bguire@magicvalley.com

Five candidates are vying for two spots on the Wendell City Council, as no incumbents are running to retain their seats.

Council members Jason Houser and Kent Bates aren't seeking re-election, so the two council newcomers who receive the most votes will win the two spots. Seeking election are Herb Allred, Louis Bay, Don Dunn, Michael Winnill and write-in Pat Jacketta.

Whoever wins the seats will have a variety of issues to tackle, ranging from the city's budget deficit to water metering. City leaders are also expected to work with county officials regarding the proposed site of a new Gooding County jail, which is slated to sit on North Frontage Road.

American Legion Post 41 will host a candidate forum Tuesday at its hall at 610 W. Main St. Doors open at 6:30 p.m., and the forum is slated to start at 7.

Multiple attempts to reach Allred were not returned. Here's a look at the other candidates:

Louis Bay

Age: 69

Occupation: Retired; military veteran

Government experience: Six years on Wendell Planning and Zoning Commission; unsuccessfully ran for Wendell City Council in 2009

Three reasons to vote for Bay:

• Bay wants to update and enforce ordinances on issues such as yard and weed control and speeding.

• He believes the city's irrigation system needs a complete overhaul and supports a pressurized system to remedy the situation.

• He would press for more crosswalks on State Highway 46 for increased pedestrian safety.

In his words: "I'm very involved in the community, a member of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Some of the things I've done are working on the Hub City sign, chaired the Wendell Tree Committee and served on the Chamber of Commerce."

Bellevue Airport Expansion Hits More Headwind

BELLEVUE (AP) • Friedman Memorial Airport in the resort area of central Idaho could eventually lose all commercial service and the $1.4 million it receives annually from the Federal Aviation Administration if the airport isn't improved, the facility's manager said.

Rick Baird told a meeting of the Bellevue City Council and Friedman Memorial Airport Authority last week that the loss of commercial service would drop the FAA's contribution to about $150,000, resulting in cuts to aircraft firefighting teams and snow removal.

About 130 Bellevue residents at the meeting remained firm in wanting the airport moved, the Idaho Mountain Express reported. Bellevue is several miles south of the airport's location in Hailey. The tourist-drawing resort towns of Ketchum and Sun Valley are about 12 miles north.

Baird also noted that long-term grant assurances with the FAA as well as grants for land acquisition mean the current airport can't just be closed without a replacement airport.

"Closing the airport is not an option," he said, adding that the land grants were in place indefinitely. "Those assurances run forever, and those assurances say the owners will operate the airport. If you're going to dance with the devil, you have to pay the devil."

The FAA said the airport should be moved because expanding residential areas and high hills make the airfield too dangerous. Local leaders are

THIS WEEK

Your advance look at what's worth knowing about the week ahead.

Today

It's the fifth Monday of October, which means most city councils and boards that regularly meet on Mondays will get the chance to join the rest of the trick-or-treaters.

Be safe if you're hitting the streets tonight.

Tuesday

Wendell residents can learn about the city council candidates running in the Nov. 8 Hub City election at a 6:30 p.m. forum.

Head to the American Legion Post 41 Hall at 610 W. Main Street to take part.

Wednesday

Kids can turn their excess Halloween candy into cash from 3-5:30 p.m. at Summit Dental Care in Twin Falls.

Dentist Bryce Barfuss will give kids $1 per pound of wrapped candy and ship the sweets to troops serving overseas. He'll also be giving away glowing electric toothbrushes to help kids brush away the sticky sweets they eat.

Head to 285 Canyon Crest Drive to take part.

Thursday

Learn about fair housing and landlord and tenant law during a free fair housing workshop at the College of Southern Idaho.

The event runs from 6-9 p.m. in Taylor building 277, but preregister by calling 800-717-0695 or emailing the Intermountain Fair Housing Council at contact@ifhc.org.

Millions Powerless as October Snowstorm Blitzes Northeast

A freak October nor'easter knocked out power to more than 3 million homes and businesses across the Northeast on Sunday in large part because leaves still on the trees caught more snow, overloading branches that snapped and wreaked havoc. Close to 2 feet of snow fell in some areas over the weekend, and it was particularly wet and heavy, making the storm even more damaging. Read more on A6.

Wendell

Don Dunn

Age: 67
Occupation: Owner of Buhl Storage; Maintenance purchasing/inventory and safety coordinator at Rangén, Inc. of Buhl; military veteran
Government experience: None

Three reasons to vote for Dunn:

- Dunn supports Mayor Brad Christopherson and wants to contribute to his efforts to reduce the city deficit.
 - He would like to see city water metering problems addressed to ensure all residents are metered fairly.
 - He will work to address the concerns and complications of the pending city sewer project.
- In his words: “My wife and I have been residents of Wendell since 1975, and we’ve graduated three boys from Wendell High School. I think our present administrator (Mayor Brad Christopherson) is doing an outstanding job.”

Pat Jacketta

Age: 72
Occupation: Retired
Government experience: Three Years on Wendell Planning and Zoning Commission; current Housing Commission member; unsuccessfully ran for Wendell City Council in 2009

Three reasons to vote for Jacketta:

- Jacketta wants to bring the council back together, as she feels there’s too much division in city government.
 - She wants more citizens involved in community activities and interaction.
 - She also wants to see more citizen participation in local government.
- In her words: “The biggest problem is the division in the City Council and bucking the mayor every chance they get.”

Michael Winmill

Age: 40
Occupation: Lafferty Construction excavation equipment operator
Government experience: Unsuccessfully ran for Wendell City Council in 2009

Three reasons to vote for Winmill:

- Winmill wants to find ways to keep chipping away at the city’s budget deficit.
 - He will work to find a solution to the water meter situation and meter residents fairly.
 - He encourages small business growth and job creation for the town.
- In his words: “I’ve been with the same company for 20 years, so I’m pretty dedicated. I don’t have a huge knowledge, but I’ve worked in many cities when it comes to water and sewer. I could help figure out options.”

Halloween

Oh, and don’t wear your Wolfman mask while you’re behind the wheel.

For Night Owls

Monday nights aren’t usually big nights out on the town for the under-18 set, so curfew isn’t usually a worry.

But in Twin Falls, kids younger than 16 need to be accompanied by an adult or at home by 10 tonight, lest they risk a ride home in a squad car. Teens aged 16-17 have until 11 p.m. to wrap up their Halloween fun.

Regardless of the time, Twin Falls police say, children younger than 12 should always be accompanied by an adult.

Other south-central Idaho cities have similar curfews, so be aware of the rules in your town before you head out under the veil of dark.

For Sweet Teeths

An Idaho State Dental Association press release titled “Halloween Frightens Dentists” pretty well sums up what the folks who look out for chompers feel about the holiday.

“Let’s face it, from a dentist’s point of view, candy equal cavities,” Lewiston dentist and ISDA President Dr. Greg Bengtson writes in the release. “Maybe that’s good for business, but it’s not the kind of business we want.”

Whether the kids keep their candy or parents dip into the treats, Idaho’s dentists say it’s important to limit candy consumption to a few pieces once a day, avoid hard or sticky candy, and — most importantly — brush your teeth twice daily and floss every day.

Halloween fun

Here’s what’s going on in your neck of the woods:

Proceeds help medical costs for Dave and Cindy Wendell’s daughter, Leah, who was bucked off a horse and suffered massive head trauma. Info: Scott Mort, 539-6277.

Airport

concerned about the potential loss of commercial service and the economic damage to Blaine County if that were to happen.

But a plan to move the airport south stalled when expenses soared to more than $300 million, forcing officials to consider expanding the current airport to meet federal standards. In August, the FAA said it had stopped work on an environmental impact study on a new airport because of the increased costs and potential impacts on wildlife.

The agency said it was waiting for airport and city officials to decide whether to continue with plans to move the airport south before the agency continues spending money to complete the study.

Bellevue City Councilman Dave Hattula said the paying for a new airport farther south could end up being the best option.

“It’s going to be up to all of us to buck up and realize what that tax burden will be,” he said, also contending the current airport is too dangerous.

“We have been very lucky that a major accident has not occurred,” he said. “If some major accident occurs, it’s going to be someone we know, a family member or otherwise.”

Baird said the FAA would provide about $100 million for a new airport, and that another $100 million would be raised through hangar fees. The rest, he said, would have to be raised through levies or bonds.

Some residents suggested asking some of the affluent visitors to the area who use the airport to help pay for it.

“Those people spend ($100 million) on a vacation,” said Bellevue-area resident Kate Woods.

Baird said expanding the current airport would cost far less than $300 million. He said improvements could lower minimum approach ceilings to 1,000 feet and result in more airplanes being allowed to land rather than being diverted elsewhere, often to Twin Falls.

“No decisions or conclusions have been made at this time,” Baird said. “We’re simply gathering information. A replacement airport is not off the table.”

ISP Blames Alcohol for I-84 Crash

TIMES-NEWS

Idaho State Police say alcohol was a factor in an early-morning crash near the Eden exit of Interstate 84.

According to a release, Javier Fuentes Pinto, 39, drove his 1998 Ford Mustang off the interstate, injuring himself and a passenger, Viay Villeda Hilario, 20. The crash occurred near the overpass at exit 182. Troopers arrived at the scene around 3:20 a.m.

Pinto crossed into the median from the east-bound lanes before over-correcting back into the eastbound lanes and striking the shoulder guardrail. The car bounced back into traffic and again crossed the median, eventually coming to a stop in a west-bound lane.

Pinto was wearing a seat belt, while Hilario was not. Both were taken to St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center in Twin Falls via ground ambulance, but no details were provided regarding the extent of their injuries. The crash remains under investigation.

T.F. Dentist Holds Candy Buy-back

TIMES-NEWS

Dr. Bryce Barfuss is holding a post-Halloween candy buy-back at Summit Dental Care in Twin Falls on Wednesday.

The dentist is offering $1 per pound for candy and giving out glowing toothbrushes in an effort to promote healthy teeth in children. Candy must be unwrapped and without bite marks. It will be sent to troops serving overseas.

The program will run from 3-5:30 p.m. at the dentistry, located at 285 Canyon Crest Drive.

No T.F. Council Meeting Today

TIMES-NEWS

The Twin Falls City Council won't meet today, as it normally doesn't meet during the fifth Monday of a month.

The council is expected to be back in action on Nov. 7, at Council Chambers, 305 Third Ave. E.

TRIPLE A: ACADEMIC, ATHLETIC AND ARTISTIC ACHIEVEMENT

Magic Valley's Students of the Week

Artist • Buhl Chelsea Cress

Chelsea Cress is well versed in a variety of mediums including photography, painting, sculpture, drawing. She is currently taking an Art Masters course at Buhl High School while taking a pottery course at CSI. Her senior project will involve putting on an art show with another classmate in a local gallery. The title of her project and show will be "Black and White."

Academic • Mt. Harrison Kyle Holt

Since coming to Mt. Harrison, Kyle has recognized just what an excellent student he is capable of being — he recently achieved straight A's. His outgoing personality and friendliness has quickly endeared him with many of the staff, and he was also chosen as one of the three Senior Class leaders who share responsibilities for the class of 2011-12.

Athlete • Twin Falls Alex Wirtz

Alex Wirtz has been a member of both the TFHS track team and football team. He works extremely hard in track practice and always does what is asked of him. He has challenged himself by enrolling in dual credit and advanced courses while maintaining a perfect 4.0 GPA.

How are the AAA students chosen? We asked guidance counselors from schools all over the Magic Valley to work with the teachers at their schools to come up with some of the best and brightest students they could find.

Two Washington Men Injured In Elmore County Rollover Sunday

IDAHO STATESMAN

Two hunters from Washington state were injured Sunday morning in a rollover crash on Blacks Creed Road about 15 miles south of Prairie.

According to a release from the Elmore County Sheriff's Office, deputies were called to the scene at 9:30 a.m.

A truck pulling a horse trailer with four horses on board lost control and ran off the road, the release said. The horse trailer broke free from the vehicle and ended up on its side about 20 feet from the road.

The truck rolled down a hill to the water's edge. The two men inside were rescued by the Idaho Army National Guard, Elmore County Search and Rescue, Prairie emergency crews and passersby. Both were taken via air ambulance to Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise. Their condition was not available.

The horses were uninjured.

Three Idaho Soldiers Receive Medals After IED Attack

IDAHO PRESS-TRIBUNE

POST FALLS • Three Idaho Army National Guard members were recognized Friday for their heroism in the July 7 IED attack that killed two other local soldiers.

Staff Sgt. Jason Rzepa, 30, of Hayden, received a Purple Heart Medal for injuries that resulted in a double amputation below his knees. Rzepa has been undergoing physical therapy in Texas.

Staff Sgt. Ryan Rogers, 30, of Post Falls, and Staff Sgt. Gregory Wilson, 37, of Boise, were awarded the Army Commendation Medal for their efforts to rescue Rzepa from a wrecked vehicle and applying life-saving first aid.

Their actions "under extreme conditions were above reproach and undoubtedly saved the life of a fellow Soldier," read the Army Commendation narrative that accompanied the awards presentation.

All three soldiers are members of the 116th Cavalry Brigade that recently returned home from a yearlong deployment in Iraq. Their unit suffered a devastating loss July 7 in Baghdad, when an IED killed Spc. Nicholas Newby and Sgt. Nathan Beyers, both of Coeur d'Alene, and wounded several others.

Canyon County Home Heavily Damaged by Fire Sunday

IDAHO STATESMAN

Fire crews from Nampa and Star battled a blaze that destroyed a trailer home on the 7900 block of Ustick Road in Canyon County Sunday afternoon.

Crews got the call at 3:30 p.m., said Nampa Fire Department Battalion Chief Terry Leighton.

When crews arrived, half the home was on fire, primarily the kitchen, dining room and living room, Leighton said.

Flames burst through the windows and ignited some trees and shrubs.

Inside the home, fire spread to a void attic space and then to the rest of the residence.

The Best Thing About Late October? Pug-O-Ween!

IDAHO PRESS-TRIBUNE

When Yoshi is watching SpongeBob or the Dog Whisperer, you dare not change the channel or talk too loud. If you do, he'll turn back at you, his deep wrinkles lined with annoyance, and probably let out a little snort.

Yoshi may just be a pug, but he acts like a child.

On Saturday, Yoshi got all cowboeyed up - including a mini cowboy hat - for Boise's Pug-O-Ween in the park. There, he played with a banana split, a submarine, a turtle, a grape bunch, a football player and about 20 other costume-clad pugs.

You may think pugs are ridiculous, but what does this say about their owners? (No offense owners, I think it's great. In fact, after this event, I'm dying to get a pug of my own! I think I'd call him Walden and put him in a koala bear outfit.)

To sweeten the day, the pugs with the most creative costumes won prizes. First-place winner Sweet Pea became more of a sassy pea, dressed as "Punk Rock Pug" with a spiky pink Mohawk and leather jacket. Her performance earned her a game of Pug-o-poly (I'm not making this up). "Pretty Woman Pug" with her flowy blond locks earned runner-up and a spectacular pug blanket.

"Why wouldn't you have a pug?"

asked Sam, who has three. His wife Diane coordinates the bimonthly Pug Meetup. "They're extra social, they have no bad habits, they love everybody and they love other dogs." He picked up Madison, who was wearing a turtle costume to match his own, and kissed her face.

Anne Sawyer later said the same thing. "What's not to love about having a pug?" she asked while giving treats to her youngest, Pansy, who was dressed like a bumble bee. Her oldest, 6-year-old Willis, who was wandering around with friends. "They're just soft, sweet and cuddly. They always want to do what you want to do. They never have other plans."

Old Idaho Home Has a Century of Strange Tales

THE BONNER COUNTY DAILY BEE

SANDPOINT • Inside, some who lived there say, there was the spirit of a woman who roamed up and down the stairs looking for a lost child. Others were convinced that the lingering presence of a little boy walked the halls of the old place in search of a man.

Some nights, they crossed paths on their sad vigil, nearly bumping into each other as they stepped aside to avoid the traffic of ghostly nurses who made the floors creak as they made their rounds.

Today, the old house is a happy place, perhaps the result of a shamanic ritual that set these former residents free. But since the stories about The House on First Avenue have been going on for more than a century, a bit of background may be in order.

Colorful History

Built just after the turn of the 20th Century, the rambling home was a somewhat smaller version of the grand McFarland House that still sits on the corner where U.S. Highway 95 doglegs its way into downtown Sandpoint. Situated farther south and a little more than a stone's throw from the river, the home was owned by the family of F.E. Catlin — an employee of the Humbird Mill who went on to become the town's pioneer banker.

Catlin died in 1928 and, by 1930, the home had been converted into the Graham Hospital. In the early 1940s, its rooms — including the enclosed porch and the attic — had been converted into smaller spaces to create a boarding house where the wives of men stationed at Faragut Naval Base during World War II could stay while they visited their men.

"Dad bought that house in the mid-1940s for $8,000," said Fritz Holz, who was in the fifth grade at the time. "There were 22 rooms in there when we moved in and the old Graham Hospital sign was still propped up in the basement."

There were other signs that the hospital had once been there, he added.

"The dining room used to be the operating room," Holz explained. "I remember cleaning up around the floor grates and there were hypodermic needles all over the place. They must have just thrown them down there after they used them."

"There's a lot of history in that old place," he went on. "Some people said they could hear people walking around or voices talking from down the hall. We used to get asked, 'How can you live in the house where all those people died?' It never bothered us."

The Lady in White

One persistent ghost story surrounds a supposed woman dressed in white; an apparition that could only be seen from a large mirror that used to hang over the fireplace in the living room, giving a perfect reflection of the stairway to the second floor.

It's possible that she was seen descending the stairs as early as the transition from hospital to boarding house, since that's when the first references to her presence began to surface. Thirty years later, people were still talking about her.

"We heard about the Lady in White when I was a kid and we heard about staring into the mirror to see her," said Dan Young, whose family bought the place in about 1970. "But I never did."

"Some old ladies who went to the Methodist Church told me that you could look into any mirror in the house and see someone standing there," he added. "They said you'd see images of different people."

Scare tactics to set a teenager on edge? Maybe. But Young said the home had enough odd energy to do that all on its own.

"I don't know — that house had something going on with it," he said. "Too many times, you'd feel like someone was standing there staring at you. Mom would be in her sewing room and, several times, she had the feeling that there was a presence, like someone was standing behind her and watching."

In a much-belated confession, he described the night when he snuck out through the cellar door in the basement to go to a late-night party on what then was known as the Farm-to-Market Road. Home alone, his mother was upstairs in bed when she heard the repeated clack of billiard balls on the family pool table downstairs.

"The next day, she said, 'I don't appreciate you kids shooting pool in the middle of the night, not stopping when I holler down at you and then hiding when I come down into the basement to find you,'" Young recalled. "It was just weird, because we weren't home when it happened."

During his high school years, Young's involvement as a yearbook photographer led him to set up a darkroom in the house. Strange encounters in the home prompted the teen to take photos in different rooms and develop the film in hopes of capturing a ghostly image that never showed up on the prints. It wasn't that he ever saw anything with his eyes, it was the intangible evidence — the rhythmic groans of floorboards from upstairs or the sudden gusts of icy wind that sliced through otherwise toasty rooms — that kept him looking over his shoulder.

"Old houses do creak, but something has to make them creak," said Young. "And you can talk all you want about low pressure or high pressure, but, man, when you've got the fireplace going and the coal furnace cranked all the way up, it's unusual to feel a blast of cold air all of a sudden."

Supernatural Slumber Party

After the Youngs vacated the place, the family of Sandpoint surgeon Dr. Richard Neher took up residence in the late-1970s. Dan Young remembers the doctor stopping by his parents' real estate office to ask about "any stories they might have heard about the house" a few months after he moved in with his family. Although the surgeon didn't remember paying that visit, he did say that other people shared stories of spirits inside the house.

"Somebody told us when we bought it that there was a ghost," he said. "The kids said it was a nice ghost."

Neher's daughter, Talitha, and his wife, Marcy, also heard the stories — especially the ones about mirrors and reflections of a woman on the stairs.

"We never saw the Lady in White, but we always tried to," Talitha said. "They said she would go down the front stairs and you could only see her by looking into the mirror over the fireplace. When we had slumber parties, we'd stay up all night and dare each other to look into the mirror."

Up in the Attic

Talitha Neher said that, true enough, she was afraid of the basement, but liked the attic even less. According to a later resident, her sister shared that aversion to the top floor.

"Pam Neher grew up there and I once asked her, 'How about that attic?'" said Joline Wolf, whose family bought the house from the Nehers in 2001. "She said, 'Oh yeah, I would never go up into that attic when I was a little girl.'"

When a friend came to stay with the Wolfs one day, Joline mentioned her impression of the attic and the ghost stories she'd heard about the house. The women went upstairs to investigate, at which point the friend pronounced that the attic window was acting as a "portal" to the next world. Further, she announced that someone was watching them through the window at that very moment.

"She said that she really felt like there was a little boy looking through the window and that he was looking for a man," Wolf said.

Strange enough by itself, but even more so when combined with Wolf's earlier experience as she "smudged" the home to rid it of clinging spirits.

"While I was doing that, in my mind's eye, I had seen a little boy standing with a man," she said. "And I had always felt like the upstairs hall was busy. It just felt like there was stuff going on there. Not like doors opening and closing, but 'things.' It was a hospital and a lot of people must have exited and entered there. The whole feeling of that hallway was like there were nurses going back and forth between the rooms."

Happy Ending

Before this year, the House on First Avenue sat empty and brooding — if ghost free — for an extended period until a young family bought it and set about sprucing up the home and grounds. The boughs of evergreens that hung about the exterior like a furrowed brow were trimmed back to reveal a classic beauty of a structure. A new coat of paint brightened up the outside and the laughter of neighborhood kids playing in the yard seemed to strip years from the old place.

When Colin and Shawnda Burnett bought the home and prepared to move in with their daughters, Kylie and Reese, they were aware of the stories that had been passed from generation to generation for a century or more. Shawnda's first visit took place when the house was empty of furniture, but full of echoes.

"I remember being in there when the furnace turned on and made this big knocking sound," she said. "I was freaked out and went looking around to see if anyone was there."

There wasn't, as it turned out, just as there apparently hasn't been since Joline Wolf cleansed the house.

"When we first moved in, I thought I'd be afraid to go downstairs in the middle of the night to get a drink of water, but I never have been," Shawnda said. "Whatever she did must have worked — we have a happy house."

SENIOR

Q. My daughter, her husband, and my three grandchildren—ages 6 to 10—are moving soon to another state. How can I be a good long-distance grandma?

A. Moving is a fact of American family life, but distance can take a heavy toll on relationships with children. You will want to stay active in your grandchildren's everyday life. Technology is definitely your friend! Use many available tools to keep your relationships with your grandchildren strong and growing, no matter how many miles you live apart. Use the phone, your computer, the fax machine, and regular mail to show your love for the children and your interest in what they are doing! Set a regular telephone time, and speak to each child individually so that all feel special. Take new pictures of favorite people and pets and send them to the kids via cell phone. If you don't know how to use email, ask someone to teach you. You will be surprised at how fast you will learn, and email is a great way to connect every day! Don't forget to send cards and small gifts through the mail. Last, there is no substitute for your personal presence at important events like graduations, religious milestones, holidays, recitals, etc. You will want to plan vacations with your grandchildren in mind.

3M Powerless as October Snow Suprises Northeast

SOUTH WINDSOR, Conn. • When winter’s white mixes with autumn’s orange and gold, nature gets ugly. A freak October nor’easter knocked out power to more than 3 million homes and businesses across the Northeast on Sunday in large part because leaves still on the trees caught more snow, overloading branches that snapped and wreaked havoc. Close to 2 feet of snow fell in some areas over the weekend, and it was particularly wet and heavy, making the storm even more damaging. “You just have absolute tree carnage with this heavy snow just straining the branches,” said National Weather Service spokesman Chris Vaccaro. From Maryland to Maine, officials said it would take days to restore electricity, even though the snow ended Sunday. The storm smashed record snowfall totals for October and worsened as it moved north. Communities in western Massachusetts were among the hardest hit. Snowfall totals topped 27 inches in Plainfield, and nearby Windsor had gotten 26 inches by early Sunday. It was blamed for at least 11 deaths, and states of emergency were declared in New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts and parts of New York. Roads, rails and airline flights were knocked out, and passengers on a JetBlue flight were stuck on a plane in Hartford, Conn., for more than seven hours. And while children across the region were thrilled to see snow so early, it also complicated many of their Halloween plans. Sharon Martovich of Southbury, Conn., said she hoped the power will come back on in time for her husband’s Halloween tradition of playing “Young Frankenstein” on a giant screen in front of their house. But no matter what, she said, they will make sure the eight or so children who live in the neighborhood don’t miss out on trick-or-treating. “Either way we will get the giant flashlights and we will go,” she said. More than 800,000 power customers were without electricity in Connecticut alone — shattering the Please see SNOWSTORM, A9

Population Getting Grayer As It Reaches Landmark 7 Billion

Fertility rates have plunged around the world while life spans have increased, causing economic upheaval in countries that need more workers to provide goods and services to huge numbers of pensioners.

BY JOEL ACHENBACH
The Washington Post

On this crowded, hot, trampled planet, one of the most vexing trends is something countless of us see when we look in the mirror: We’re going gray. The United Nations has declared that the human population will hit 7 billion Monday, and an expanding percentage of those people are in the market for reading glasses. The aging of the human race has been faster than anyone could have imagined a few decades ago. Fertility rates have plunged globally and, simultaneously, life spans have increased. The result is a recontoured age graph: The pyramid, once with a tiny number of old folks at the peak and a broad foundation of children, is inverting. In wealthy countries, the graph already has a pronounced middle-age spread. This is, in many respects, very good news. Longer life is a blessing of modern medicine and improvements in nutrition. SEARCH SUSPENDED AFTER KANSAS GRAIN ELEVATOR EXPLOSION

ATCHISON, Kan. • Crews suspended their search Sunday for three people missing after a thunderous explosion at a Kansas grain elevator killed three workers and hospitalized two others with severe burns. The blast, which shook the ground so hard that it was felt into neighboring Missouri, is a harrowing reminder of the dangers workers face inside elevators brimming with highly combustible grain dust at the end of the harvest season. The explosion Saturday night at the elevator in Atchison, about 50 miles northwest of Kansas City, sent an orange fireball into the night sky, shot off a chunk of the grain distribution building directly above the elevator and blew a large hole in the side of the one of its concrete silos. Officials with Bartlett Grain Co., which owns and operates the elevator, decided to temporarily halt the search for the three missing people — one worker and two grain inspectors — because it was unsafe to be inside the facility, said Atchison City Manager Trey Cocking. Smoke could still be seen billowing from the top, and officials were fearful the building could fall on top of rescue crews. Heavy equipment, federal safety investigators and engineers were expected to arrive later Sunday to assist the crews. “It’s a fairly dangerous situation. We don’t feel comfortable putting fire crews in,” Cocking said. He said crews had not given up hope that they would find the remaining Please see EXPLOSION, A9

GAZA CITY, Gaza Strip • A new round of violence between Israel and Palestinian militants has Gaza’s Hamas rulers caught between reluctance to take on Israel and discomfort with reining in fellow Islamists from smaller, more radical groups involved in the fighting. The fighting has killed 10 Palestinians and an Israeli, casting doubts on assessments that the recent prisoner swap between Israel and Hamas might improve relations between the bitter foes. Despite the worst bloodshed in months, both sides indicated they were interested in restoring calm. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Hawkins Ready to Serve Twin Falls

I have been fortunate enough to call Twin Falls home for 29 years. It is amazing to stop and think of all the changes that have taken place over the past three decades. I am thankful for those who have worked so hard to make Twin Falls what it is. As an active participant in this community, I feel that I am ready to take the next step of commitment and serve Twin Falls as a city council member.

My name is Suzanne Hawkins and I am running for Twin Falls City Council Seat 4. During the next four years, the leaders of Twin Falls are going to face some difficult decisions. As a community we need to have the right people in office to help listen and guide us in order to remain a growing, thriving and safe place to live and raise our families.

As a wife, mother, grandmother, business owner and volunteer, I have gained the necessary discipline and knowledge to be one of the people that Twin Falls needs. I am ready to bridge the communication gap between city government and the people it serves. I am confident that together we can maintain our family oriented community while helping Twin Falls continue to grow with business development.

On Nov. 8, I ask that first you remember to vote and secondly that you would consider electing me, Suzanne Hawkins to Seat 4.

Councilman Egan Thanks Citizens of Burley

To the citizens of Burley: I have fully enjoyed my nearly four years on the City Council. Beulah and I decided to try for another four years, but after her hip replacement and a few days later, I told her I completely decided not to run. We never expected the ballots to be printed so soon. I apologize to you for the confusion.

During my term, I tried to accomplish important items that improved the way our city looked and enforcement of needed ordinances. With the help of the cooperative council, many things were accomplished. We did not agree entirely on all items; after all, there were six brains working with different ideas at times. I want everyone to know that there was respect and love shown to one another. We accepted the decisions made and went on with respect for one another. I can truthfully say my last four years on the Burley City Council was the highlight of my life.

I wish to thank the citizens of Burley who consistently came to our council meetings, the Lions Club for its support all over town, schools, library, new restrooms at the golf course, the Boy Scouts of America doing Eagle Scout projects all over the city. Their most recent project is making some permanent golf trails on the course. The path we are following is to have a nice city by the river, which is our lifeblood in all areas.

In closing, I thank everyone for what they have done for good and say, “To know a man, you must first walk in his shoes” (old Indian proverb).

I know Jay Lenkersdorfer has been a tremendous councilman — sharp as any person I have ever known. Your vote for councilman Lenkersdorfer will be a vote for me to work hard for the citizens of Burley and making decisions to keep costs at a minimum, to follow through where this council leaves off.

P.S. I feel our law enforcement arrangement should go into the eternities.

Respectfully and gratefully yours,
VAUGHN EGAN

'You Think It's a Democracy Here?'

Your vote will help chart the course of our local government.

Kimberly residents were threatened to vote for a $5.6 million loan for meters or pay $1,200 to $2,000 per household if the vote failed. These meters are used primarily as a source of revenue.

No freedom of information in Kimberly. I have been charged $251.80 for public information on a garbage deal with Western Waste.

The recall petition was used as a target list. Individuals who signed the list were negatively targeted.

Wages for the top three Kimberly department heads has gone from around $40,000 each to around $80,000-plus in four years.

In October 2008, it was agreed that the additional $25 raise in utilities would be put into an infrastructure fund that is now about $1,200,000. Where is this money?

There is a lack of oversight of new development in Kimberly — it is estimated to cost $400,000 to fix the sewer system in Stone Gate. A settlement related to the problem cost city residents $295,000. The total cost to residents was $695,000.

The current mayor allows residents to vote on small issues like the garbage recycling program but not on large issues like the new city hall which is going to exceed $780,000.

Wide use of city equipment, including cars and computer equipment for personal gain.

The expansion of the police force to six has resulted in a greater cost for salaries.

I was told by a Kimberly councilman that “you think it's a democracy here, you are wrong; it's a dictatorship!”

On Feb. 10, 2010, I was interrogated by the Twin Falls County sheriff regarding my participation in the 2009 recall petition of Mayor Overacre and city officials McKinlay and Plew. For reference, see Twin Falls County Case No. 09000975.

Take this opportunity to vote on Nov. 8. One vote can make a difference.

No More Raises in Utility Rates if Cope Has His Way

In reference to the upcoming elections, I would like to express my support for Kevin Cope.

I am not well informed on the political side of things, but I know Kevin as a person, having worked with him for several years.

Kevin is not someone who is only looking out for what the “popular” opinion is, he will look at the issue logically and work his hardest to support what is best for everyone regardless of wealth or class. He truly loves this area and wants what is best for the city and its citizens.

Kevin is the kind of man who understands that the economy is tough right now and will do his level best to not have more raises in utilities, etc.

Sowka Wants More Community Input, Your Vote

My name is Constance Sowka and I am running for Kimberly City Council.

I moved to Idaho six years ago after being displaced by Hurricane Katrina. I had done an Internet search looking for a place to live with good schools, low crime, a friendly small-town atmosphere, moderate weather and a reasonable cost of living index. Kimberly, Idaho, fit that description, so I bought a house off the Internet and moved here six months later.

I plan on being here for many years to come, so I wanted to get involved in the city council race to have a voice in the decisions being made where I live and work. I would like to see more communication between City Hall in Kimberly and the average taxpayer. There are a lot of big decisions being made with no community input, and I would like to see that change.

I'm asking for your vote on Nov. 8, if you would also like to have your voice heard.

Thank you.

Christensen Will Benefit Twin Falls City Council

I am confident that with Neil Christensen's experience and dedication, he would be a great addition to the Twin Falls City Council.

I came to know Neil six years ago when he purchased an Allstate Insurance agency here in town. As a fellow Twin Falls All-state agent myself, I quickly came to appreciate Neil's dedication to improvement. He constantly searched for better ways of doing business. Implementing these better practices was not enough for Neil. He would then excitedly share the information with myself and other Twin Falls insurance agents.

Neil truly is as committed to others' success as he is his own. When the time came for me to retire from insurance, I immediately contacted Neil Christensen. Because of his integrity, I knew he could be trusted to work with my customers with the same respect and commitment he applies to everyone.

I can assure the voters of Twin Falls that if any aspect of the city can run more efficiently, Neil Christensen will find a way to do it.

Morton Explains Misquote in Friday's Paper

I am a candidate for the office of mayor in the city of Kimberly. I would like to make a correction to a misquote in the Friday, Oct. 28, paper.

In the article telling about Kimberly's “Meet the Candidates Night,” I was quoted as saying that I was “wary” of accepting federal monies because of the restrictions placed by the federal government. This is not true. What I was stating is that grant monies come with requirements made by the federal government when a grant is accepted.

I made this statement only as an informational point. I would not be “wary” of accepting grants. With today's economy and the needs of cities, it is necessary to utilize grants to fund needed projects to help facilitate growth in the community.

Thank you to all of my supporters, and don't forget to vote on Nov. 8.

na in the privacy of your home, but he also cares about economic liberty. He does not believe in the redistribution of wealth or giving people handouts but in helping others to help themselves. He would like to see small and local business flourish in Twin Falls by empowering its residents to use their individual skills to lift themselves from poverty. In order to do so, we need to educate citizens about programs already in place that can help them start a small business.

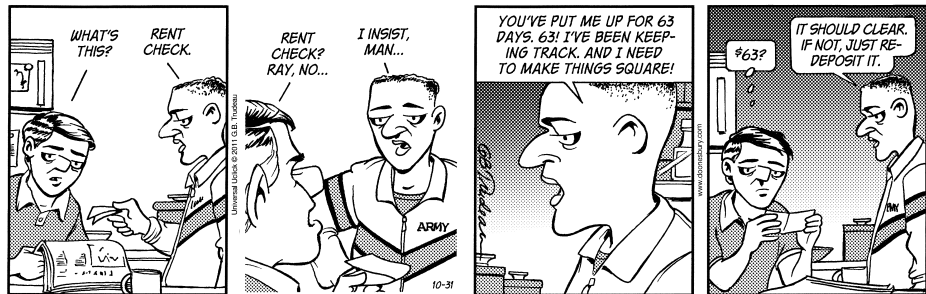

He also has a rent relief plan that benefits landlords and tenants. If you are not living in the property you own, your tax is much higher than if you were a single homeowner. Robert would like to take measures to cut the property owner's taxes provided they have proof of lowering rent for their tenants. This promotes economic liberty by putting money back into our local economy.

I know there are many Twin Falls residents with plenty to offer. True economic strength comes from everyday hard-working people with great ideas and a vision. Cannabis prohibition is costing Twin Falls a large amount of money that could be used to put these visions and new ideas to work in creating local business. Local economic strength comes from small businesses ran by the people who live here and the people who put money back into our community. Is liberty not the staple of a free society?

corresponds to greater prosperity and education. Women have gained more control over their reproductive lives.

But the unexpectedly abrupt demographic transition has created economic upheaval. For the countries that hit the fertility brakes the hardest, the graying of society has become a full-blown crisis. They're suddenly desperate for babies. They need more workers to provide goods and services to huge numbers of pensioners.

The fertility rate in Germany, Italy, Spain, Greece and many other nations is less than 1.5 children per woman, dramatically lower than the "replacement" rate of 2.1 children (the extra .1 accounts for children who do not survive to adulthood). Japan (fertility rate 1.4) is already the oldest country in the history of the world; South Korea (1.2) is not far behind. China (1.5) is racing to get rich before it becomes old.

In far better shape demographically is the United States, with a fertility rate just slightly below replacement level. Immigration boosts the workforce. But the baby-boom generation is storming the higher age brackets; the number of Americans 60 to 64 jumped from 11 million to 17 million in the most recent census. When Social Security was established in 1935, life expectancy in the United States was just under 62 years at birth. Today it is 78 and still rising.

The precipitous drop in fertility in many nations caught demographers by surprise, said Linda Waite, director of the Center on Aging at the University of Chicago. No one realized until relatively recently that the processes driving down fertility — such as greater education for women and their surge into the workforce — would continue even when women began having fewer than two children, she said.

"It's sort of a head slap," Waite said. "It wasn't even talked about. It was more an unspoken assumption that fertility would fall to replacement and then stabilize."

"There are many countries, more all the time, that are going to be looking at a population implosion, rather than a population explosion," said Matthew Connelly, a Columbia University professor of history and the author of "Fatal Misconception: The Struggle to Control World Population."

The aging of the world will change cultures in myriad ways. People may have to extend their working lives far beyond the traditional retirement age. Countries may start competing for immigrants. Vast numbers of people are already migrating across the planet, from high-fertility countries to those who need workers.

The planet as a whole doesn't have a baby shortage. Every minute of every day, according to the Population Reference Bureau, the number of births exceeds the number of deaths by 158. But the growth isn't spread out. Of that net increase, 154 are in the developing world.

record set just two months ago by Hurricane Irene. Massachusetts had more than 600,000 outages, and so did New Jersey — including Gov. Chris Christie's house. Parts of Pennsylvania, New Hampshire, New York, Maine, Maryland and Vermont also were without power.

"It's going to be a more difficult situation than we experienced in Irene," Connecticut Gov. Dannel P. Malloy said. "We are expecting extensive and long-term power outages."

Thirty-two shelters were open around the state, and Malloy asked volunteer fire departments to allow people in for warmth and showers. At least four hospitals were relying on generators for power.

Around Newtown in western Connecticut, trees were so laden with snow on some back roads that the branches touched the street. Every few minutes, a snap filled the air as one broke and tumbled down. Roads that were plowed became impassible because the trees were falling so fast.

One of the few businesses open in the area was a Big Y grocery store that had a generator. Customers loaded up on supplies, heard news updates over the intercom, charged up their cell phones, and waited for a suddenly hard-to-get cup of coffee — in a line that was 30 people deep and growing.

Many of the areas hit by the storm had also been hit by Irene. In New Jersey's Hamilton Township, Tom Jacobsen also recalled heavy spring flooding and a particularly heavy winter before that.

"I'm starting to think we really ticked off Mother Nature somehow, because we've been getting spanked by her for about a year now," he said while grabbing some coffee at a convenience store.

It wasn't just the trees that weren't ready for a wintry wallop.

Kerry McNiven said she was "totally unprepared" for the storm that knocked out her water and power and sent tree limbs crashing into her Simsbury, Conn., home. She was buying disposable plates and cups in a darkened supermarket, a setting that she said resembled "one of those post-apocalyptic TV shows."

fierce Israeli offensive against rocket squads three years ago and has largely maintained calm since then.

At the same time, the group, which has killed hundreds of Israelis in suicide bombings and other attacks, remains committed to armed struggle against Israel. Threatened by even more radical rivals in Gaza, Hamas has not criticized anyone for attacking Israel.

"The Palestinian resistance has the full right to defend itself against the Zionist crimes against the Gaza Strip," Mahmoud Zahar, a top Hamas official, told the group's website.

Most of the violence this weekend has been between Israel and Islamic Jihad, an Iranian-backed group that is considered even more extreme than Hamas. Israel says it holds Hamas responsible for attacks from Gaza, and there is little doubt that Hamas' control — when it wants to exercise it — is strong.

In the latest violence, an Israeli airstrike hit a pair of militants in Gaza on Sunday as they prepared to fire a rocket into Israel, the military said. Gaza's Health Ministry said one man was killed and a second was wounded. Just before nightfall, Gaza militants fired another rocket into southern Israel which landed in an open area and caused no injuries or damage, the army said.

In New York, U.N. Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon condemned the rocket fire and urged "maximum Israeli restraint."

European Union foreign policy chief Catherine Ashton also called for restraint. "I wholeheartedly condemn the indiscriminate targeting of civilians where ever they are," she said.

The fighting Sunday came a day after eight Palestinian militants and an Israeli civilian were killed. It took place as Egyptian mediators were trying to broker a truce. Egypt, which borders Gaza to the south, brokered this month's prisoner swap between Israel and Hamas.

That deal has raised speculation that the two enemies might somehow create a working relationship despite their rejection of each other, perhaps with Israel easing its blockade on Gaza. Israel says the closure — which enables basic goods to get in through Israel's border and does not affect Gaza's border with Egypt — is needed to halt arms smuggling.

Gaza militants have steadily improved their rocket capabilities in recent years to the point where rocket fire can bring life to a standstill for more than a million people living in a broad area between Israel's southern border and the outskirts of Tel Aviv. Neither Israel's invasion in the winter of 2008-2009 nor a new missile defense system have been able to halt the rocket fire.

AFTER ATTACKS, A RENEWED FOCUS ON BEAR SAFETY

BY MATTHEW BROWN
Associated Press

BILLINGS, Mont. • Wildlife agencies in the Northern Rockies go to lengths to warn people of the dangers of grizzly country — from signs advising hikers to carry Mace-like bear spray to radio ads that warn hunters to take care when stalking elk in bear habitat.

But after two hikers were fatally mauled in Yellowstone National Park over the summer, officials acknowledge their drive to make visitors “bear aware” is not reaching everyone. As a result, park officials, bear biologists and others say that in coming months they plan to sharpen a bear safety message that was already under review in hopes of preventing future maulings.

“We thought we were doing pretty good,” said park biologist Kerry Gunther, pointing to a 30-year average of one bear-caused human injury annually in Yellowstone. “Maybe we were getting lucky.”

Many bear education campaigns focus on saving the animals themselves, part of a broader effort to recover a species once nearly wiped out by hunting and other pressures. Slogans such as “a fed bear is a dead bear” highlight the increased likelihood of bears becoming nuisances — and getting euthanized — if they get used to eating human food or garbage.

With the success of the recovery efforts, Yellowstone’s grizzly population has now grown to about 600 bears. Those animals are pushing into new areas of Montana, Wyoming and Idaho, where officials also are seeing attacks. There have been about 10 bear encounters that have resulted in human injuries across the region this year, including one Sunday in Grand Teton National Park, officials said. Such incidents have forced agencies to broaden the public safety side of their message.

Also growing is the size of the crowd that message needs to reach: Yellowstone National Park last year hosted a record 3.6 million visitors, and millions more visited five adjacent national forests and nearby Grand Teton National Park.

Among some of those visitors, said University of Wyoming sociology professor Patricia Taylor, “there isn’t a real fear of bears or appreciation of how strong they are.”

“People will say, ‘We want a bear to come to the campground. We want to see it,’” she said.

Both victims of this summer’s mauling deaths had visited the park previously. Officials said that indicated they had received at least some exposure to trailhead signs and other information describing how to avoid and respond to bear attacks.

Among the advice commonly offered is to travel in groups, make noise while hiking, carry bear spray — and know how and when to use it.

By contrast, one of the summer mauling victims was alone. Neither was carrying bear spray. And in one case investigators said the victim and his wife may have triggered the attack when they ran, yelling, from an approaching mother grizzly with cubs.

The head of the federal government’s grizzly recovery program, Chris Servheen, said that being told what to do around a bear is not enough. Servheen said people in bear country also have to be mentally prepared to take action. He likened that to military training designed to ensure soldiers can react without hesitation to threats, and recommended people conduct practice bear encounter drills so they’re comfortable taking out their bear spray, using it if needed and calmly backing away.

Still, nothing can guarantee a safe outcome. A 32-year-old hunter was injured by a bear Sunday afternoon in Grand Teton and, by all accounts, had been following recommendations — including carrying bear spray and dropping to the ground and covering his head. Other details in the attack, including the extent of the hunter’s injuries, are not clear.

Both victims in the fatal maulings in Yellowstone fell into the loose category of “day hikers” who might enter the park’s backcountry but not camp overnight. However, the most intensive bear safety talks — including instruction on food storage and what to do when charged — are heard by that small percentage of park visitors who spend the night in the wilderness. In 2010, that included slightly more than 45,000 visitors, or just over one percent of the park’s total.

Lego Man to Stay in Police Custody in Fla.

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) • Lego man is going to stay in police custody for three months.

Lego man, a 100-pound, 8-foot-tall sculpture, didn’t do anything wrong except wash up on a Florida beach. Sarasota County Sheriff Tom Knight says his office will hold the fiberglass sculpture for 90 days just like all other lost and found property.

During that time, authorities will try to determine who the owner is.

The Sarasota Herald-Tribune reported that the local tourism bureau had hoped to use the Lego man to promote the area, but the sheriff says it needs to remain in police custody a little longer.

The sculpture mysteriously appeared on a Siesta Key beach Tuesday.

A Legoland recently opened in Winter Haven, which is about 70 miles northwest of Siesta Key.

Denver Fans May Regret Calling for Tebow so Soon

They were Tebowing in Israel and Australia, from on top of horses and on the bottom of swimming pools. Protesters on Wall Street paused to make a pose, and so did someone underneath the billowing dress of Marilyn Monroe's statue in Chicago.

There were Tebowing babies, Tebowing dogs and even a Tebowing surfer.

And on Sunday there was Tim Tebow himself on one knee before the Denver Broncos played the Detroit Lions, striking the prayerful pose that has become an online sensation.

The craze was good for a few laughs. Watching Tebow play was enough to make Denver fans want to cry.

They chanted for weeks to give him the ball. They rode a wave of euphoria when he finally did get his chance and somehow pulled off a late comeback from 15 points down against Miami.

And, then, in his first start at home this season, all they could do was watch in silence as Tebow showed what most in the NFL suspected — that he isn't nearly ready for prime time.

Unfortunately for Tebowers everywhere, he may never be.

The hope was that Tebow would start to begin feeling comfortable in an offense the Broncos tweaked to show off his talents. The reality was he looked as lost as he did the first 55 minutes against the Dolphins, except this time there would be no chance of a comeback.

The Denver faithful were already filing out of the stadium by the time Tebow threw an interception that was returned 100 yards for Detroit's final touchdown in a 45-10 romp that was even more lopsided than the final score indicated. Good thing, because they might have been tempted to boo the offensive ineptitude of their men in orange, and they have way too much invested emotionally in Tebow to begin booing him now.

It wasn't just the ugliness of the day, though, that had to bother Denver fans most. It was the realization that Tebow is such a work in progress that it may be years, not games, before he ever begins to pay any dividends.

John Elway acknowledged almost as much before the game, telling ESPN that Tebow was raw yet had the kind of intangibles that makes winners in the NFL.

"The bottom line is we've got to look at his football ability and is that going to give us the ability next year, two years, three years, four years down the line to be competitive and compete for a world championship," said the former Broncos

What We Learned: Week 9

TIMES-NEWS

Week 9 of the high school football season is in the books, and here are some things we learned.

Class 2A and 3A rules: While Class 4A teams Minico, Twin Falls and Wood River bowed out in the first round of the playoffs last week, Kimberly, Declo and Gooding are still alive. It took a miracle last-second kick return by Derek Evans to save the Senators against Marsing, but both the Bulldogs (6-3) and Hornets (8-1) rolled past Payette and Ririe, respectively.

Kimberly's Seth Champlin continued his stellar career with four rushing touchdowns, while Declo got a monster game out of Kai Garner, who rushed for three touchdowns and picked off three passes.

The Hornets have a great chance to make another Class 2A semifinal run with a favorable matchup against Firth on Friday.

For the 4A folks, the losses of Minico, Twin Falls and Wood River mark the second consecutive year a District IV Class 4A team hasn't advanced past the first round. The Bruins were the only team to advance in 2009, when they finished third. In 2008, Jerome and Minico played each other in the semifinals, and the Tigers advanced to the championship game but lost 55-35 to Hillcrest. This season marks the third straight in which the Spartans were eliminated in the Great 8.

It's apparent the big boys in District IV have lagged behind programs out of eastern Idaho and Boise in recent seasons. The reason isn't easily apparent.

Lighthouse Christian has a chance to make history: The Lions (6-3, 4-2 Sawtooth South) travel to Carey today for a two-quarter state play-in game against Mackay, with the winner advancing to the Class 1A Division II playoffs. A playoff berth would be the first in Lighthouse Christian's history.

Maybe the Lions can find some good vibes from their volleyball friends, who recently made their first state appearance and also brought home the program's first state trophy.

Castleford produces the biggest box score of the season: The Wolves (7-2, 5-0 Sawtooth South) rolled up 86 points on Rockland (while giving up 46) in a game that went the distance on Friday. Castleford scored 24 and 32 points in the second and third quarters, and Mitch Howard and Ty Zimmers rushed for more than 200 yards each. Cody Hansen had 83 yards receiving and might have had the best statistic of the night, catching seven two-point conversions.

Castleford hosts Dietrich on Friday in the first round of the playoffs.

Philadelphia Eagles running back LeSean McCoy (25) reacts with Philadelphia Eagles tight end Brent Celek (87) after Celek's touchdown in the first half of the Eagles' 34-7 win over the Dallas Cowboys Sunday in Philadelphia.

BY ROB MAADDI

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA • The "All-Hype" team finally played up to their super expectations.

Michael Vick threw two touchdown passes, LeSean McCoy had a career-best 185 yards rushing and two scores and the Philadelphia Eagles routed the Dallas Cowboys 34-7 Sunday night.

Dallas defensive coordinator Rob Ryan fired up the Eagles with some trash-talking during the summer after they added several big-name players.

Ryan, the son of beloved former Philadelphia coach Buddy Ryan, called the Eagles the "all-hype" team and predicted the Cowboys would "beat their (butt)"

He was way off.

The Eagles (3-4) dominated right from the start, improved to 13-0 after a bye under coach Andy Reid and snapped a five-game losing streak at Lincoln Financial Field that dated to last season.

The long-haired Ryan paced the sideline and desperately tried to figure out how to stop Vick and Co. It didn't happen until the fourth quarter when the game was out of reach.

The Eagles racked up 495 total yards and held the ball for 42:09. They thoroughly outplayed a defense that came in ranked seventh in the NFL.

DeMarcus Ware was one of the few players who played well for Dallas (3-4). He had four sacks, and has 12 this season.

Coming off a 253-yard rushing performance in a win over St. Louis, Cowboys rookie DeMarco Murray was held to 74 yards on only eight carries.

The defending NFC East champion Eagles entered the season with a Super Bowl-or-bust mentality after adding six former Pro Bowl players in free agency and trades.

But a 1-4 start had people wondering if the self-proclaimed "Dream Team" — backup quarterback Vince Young gave the Eagles that label after signing a one-year deal — was overhyped as Ryan boldly declared in August.

After two straight wins, the Eagles are in a three-way tie with Dallas and Washington for second place behind the New York Giants (5-2).

Vick completed 21 of 28 passes for 279 yards and led the Eagles to points on their first six possessions. He also ran for 50 yards.

A swarming defense harassed Tony Romo throughout the game. Romo got sacked four times and threw an interception to Nnamdi Asomugha.

McCoy had 80 of Philadelphia's 115 yards rushing in the first quarter. That was more than Dallas allowed in any game this season.

The Eagles entered with the No. 1-ranked rushing offense and the Cowboys had the top-ranked run defense.

The Eagles took the kickoff and drove 79 yards for their first opening-drive TD this season.

BOISE STICKS AT NO. 5 IN AP POLL AS UNBEATEN CLEMSON, KSU TUMBLE

BY RALPH D. RUSSO

Associated Press

NEW YORK • On a bye this week, Boise State remained at No. 5 in The Associated Press college football poll after two unbeaten fell on Saturday.

Clemson and Kansas State tumbled in the poll after losing for the first time this season, and the rest of the top five held their ground heading into the showdown between No. 1 LSU and No. 2 Alabama.

Clemson slipped five spots after losing 31-17 at Georgia Tech and Kansas fell seven spots to No. 17 after getting thumped 58-17 by Oklahoma.

LSU received 47 first-place votes from the media panel, Alabama had 10 and

No. 5 Boise State had one.

No. 3 Oklahoma State and No. 4 Stanford held on to their spots after victories, while the Broncos were idle.

Georgia Tech's upset pushed the Yellow Jackets back into the rankings at No. 22 and Auburn jumped back in at No. 25.

The losses by Clemson and Kansas State leave six undefeated teams in major college football — the top five and No. 14 Houston. The rest of the top had Oregon at No. 6, Oklahoma moving up four spots to No. 7, Arkansas at No. 8 and Nebraska and South Carolina right behind.

Clemson at 11th was followed by Atlantic Coast Conference rival Virginia Tech.

Pregame prior to the NCAA Football game between the Boise State Broncos and the Air Force Falcons at Bronco Stadium in Boise.

Michigan is No. 13, its best ranking since Nov. 4, 2007.

Michigan State is No. 15, followed By Penn State, Kansas State, Georgia, Wisconsin and Arizona State.

The final five were Southern California, Georgia Tech, Cincinnati, West Virginia and Auburn.

The defending national champion Tigers have fallen out of the rankings three times this season, only to work their way back in.

Texas A&M (5-3) was upset at home 38-31 in overtime by Missouri and is unranked for the first time this season.

Texas Tech moved into the rankings last week for the first time this season by beating Oklahoma.

The Red Raiders followed that up with a 41-7 loss at home to Iowa State and are unranked again.

NFL ROUNDUP

Jackson, Rams Shock Saints

ST. LOUIS • Perhaps inspired by the hometown Cardinals' stunning surge to the World Series title, the St. Louis Rams pulled off a shocker of their own.

Steven Jackson scored twice in his first 100-yard game in three seasons and the lowly Rams earned their first win this season Sunday, a 31-21 upset of the New Orleans Saints.

Drew Brees barely kept alive his touchdown pass streak on a meaningless score in the final seconds a week after throwing five in a 62-7 rout of the winless Colts. Brees was intercepted twice, too, with Darian Stewart's pick and 27-yard return putting the game away with 2:51 to go.

The NFC South-leading Saints (5-3) average a league-best 35 points, but never got going against a defense ranked near the bottom of the league. The Rams (1-6) had a season-high six sacks with just 11, three by Chris Long.

The Rams were throw-back jerseys in a nod to their 1999 Super Bowl championship team. Then there was the pregame appearance by the Cardinals, who brought with them to help fire up the crowd. Manager Tony La Russa donned a Sam Bradford jersey and Game 7 winner Chris Carpenter went out for the coin toss wearing a Jackson jersey.

Bengals 34, Seahawks 12
SEATTLE • Rookie quarterback Andy Dalton threw a pair of first-half touchdown passes and Brandon Tate returned a punt 56 yards for a touchdown.

Dalton tossed TDs of 14 yards to Jerome Simpson and a 43-yarder that dropped in to the arms of A.J. Green in the second quarter to give the Bengals (5-2) a 17-3 lead.

From there, the Bengals leaned on their impressive defense that bent, but managed to keep Seattle out of the end zone until the fourth quarter.

The victory made Marvin Lewis the winningest coach in Bengals history with 65 career victories.

Lions 45, Broncos 10
DENVER • Detroit sacked Tim Tebow seven times and turned his two turnovers in to touchdowns in snapping a two-game skid.

Cornerback Chris Houston had the fourth 100-yard interception return in team history and defensive end Cliff Avril got a sack, strip and scoop, rumbling 24 yards into the end zone with a fumble as part of Detroit's 45-point run after the Broncos (2-5) had taken a 3-0 lead on their first drive.

Matthew Stafford hardly showed any ill effects from a sprained right ankle sustained a week earlier, completing 21 of 30 passes for 267 yards and three touchdowns. Tebow was 18 for 39 for 172 yards.

The Lions are 6-2.

Ravens 30, Cardinals 27
BALTIMORE • Billy Cundiff kicked a 25-yard field goal as time expired, Ray Rice scored a career-high three touchdowns, and Baltimore pulled off the biggest comeback in Ravens history.

Using a fumble recovery and an 82-yard punt return by Patrick Peterson, Arizona scored three touchdowns during a five-minute span of the second quarter to take a 24-3 lead.

Baltimore (5-2) then went on a 24-point run and moved in front 27-24 when Rice scored his third touchdown on the opening play of the fourth quarter.

Arizona (1-6) pulled even with a 45-yard field goal by Jay Feely with 8:55 left, but the Ravens won it with a 37-yard, beat-the-clock drive in the final minute.

Vikings 24, Panthers 21

Cam Newton put the Panthers (2-6) in position with a St. Louis Rams running back Steven Jackson (39) runs with the ball during the third quarter of the Rams' upset in St. Louis, Sunday.

44-yard completion to Brandon LaFell on fourth-and-15, but Mare's kick was wide left and Minnesota (2-6) came away with the win.

Adrian Peterson had 162 yards from scrimmage and scored two touchdowns for the Vikings.

Christian Ponder won the battle of rookie quarterbacks, completing 18 of 28 passes for 236 yards and one touchdown.

Newton threw a season-best three TD passes, but had two costly fumbles on blindside hits that led to a pair of Minnesota touchdowns in the first half.

Giants 20, Dolphins 17
EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. • Eli Manning threw a 25-yard touchdown pass to Victor Cruz with 5:58 to play to keep Miami winless and perhaps put more pressure on embattled Dolphins coach Tony Sparano.

Manning hit 31 of 45 passes for 345 yards and two touchdowns in rallying the Giants from an 11-point first-half deficit. Mario Manningham caught the other touchdown, a 7-yard play which got New York (5-2) back into the game late in the first half.

Lawrence Tynes kicked two short field goals, and New York's defense got four sacks on the Dolphins' final two drives. Corey Webster iced it game with his third interception in the last two games.

Steve Slaton and Matt Moore (13 of 22 for 138) capped the Dolphins' (0-7) first two drives with 1-yard runs.

Titans 27, Colts 10
NASHVILLE, Tenn. • Matt Hasselbeck threw for 224 yards and a touchdown, and Nate Washington scored twice as Tennessee kept Indianapolis winless.

Rob Bironas kicked field goals of 51 and 50 yards, and Jason McCorty recovered a blocked punt in the end zone as the Titans (4-3) snapped a two-game skid.

Colts quarterback Curtis Painter was sacked twice and threw two interceptions, which were turned into touchdowns by the Titans in their first win over the Colts since Oct. 27, 2008.

The Colts (0-8), without Peyton Manning, trailed 20-0 by halftime coming off a 62-7 loss to the New Orleans Saints. The Colts outgained Tennessee 399-311, but couldn't overcome 10 penalties for 66 yards.

Texans 24, Jaguars 14
HOUSTON • Arian Foster rushed for 112 yards and a touchdown, and Houston shut down rookie quarterback Blaine Gabbert and the NFL's worst offense.

Matt Schaub threw a TD pass and ran for another score for Houston (5-3), off to its best eight-game start. The Texans also took one more step toward the franchise's first division title and playoff berth by improving to 3-0 in the AFC South.

The Jaguars (2-6) couldn't carry momentum from their surprising 12-7 win over Baltimore on Monday night. Maurice Jones-Drew scored with 5:15 left, but the Texans used nearly the rest of regulation to set up Neil Rackers' 39-yard field goal.

Gabbert completed 10 of 30 passes for 97 yards with two interceptions.

Steelers 25, Patriots 17
PITTSBURGH • Ben Roethlisberger passed for 365 yards and two touchdowns as the Pittsburgh Steelers finally found a way to beat Tom Brady and the New England Patriots 25-17 on Sunday.

Roethlisberger completed 36 of 50 passes and led the Steelers (6-2) on a series of clock-chewing drives, effectively keeping Brady and the NFL's top-ranked offense off the field. Pittsburgh held the ball for more than 39 minutes and survived a late rally to win its fourth straight following a 2-2 start.

Brady passed for two touchdowns but threw for a season-low 198 yards and couldn't get into any sort of rhythm while losing to the Steelers for just the second time in his career.

The Patriots (5-2) drew within six when Brady hit Aaron Hernandez for a 1-yard touchdown pass with 2:35 remaining, but a last-gasp drive ended when Brady was sacked and the ball rolled out of the end zone for a safety with 8 seconds to play.

Bills 23, Redskins 0
TORONTO • Ryan Fitzpatrick threw two touchdowns and the Bills defense had nine sacks over injury-riddled Washington in Buffalo's adopted home north of the border.

Scott Chandler caught both touchdown passes, including a 15-yarder to open the third quarter, that put Buffalo ahead 20-0. Fred Jackson had 120 yards rushing and 74 receiving in helping the Bills (5-2) get off to their first 4-0 start at "home" since 1995.

The Redskins (3-4) have lost three straight and continue to unravel due to injuries.

49ers 20, Browns 10
SAN FRANCISCO • Frank Gore ran for both 125-plus yards and a touchdown in a fourth straight game and Michael Crabtree made his first TD reception of the season.

Alex Smith completed 15 of 24 passes for 177 yards, leading the NFC West-leading 49ers (6-1) to their fifth consecutive victory since an overtime loss to the Cowboys in Week 2.

For Colt McCoy and the Browns (3-4), it's 0-for the Bay Area. They lost two weeks ago in Oakland, then flopped across San Francisco Bay at Candlestick Park.

Gore already had 103 yards on 19 carries by halftime, then got the other 7 he needed to pass Roger Craig and move into second place on the franchise rushing list with 7,089. Gore wound up with 134 yards on 31 carries.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
On February 28, 2012, at the hour of 11:00 o'clock AM of said day, at First American Title, 260 Third Avenue North, Twin Falls, Idaho, JUST LAW, INC., as Successor Trustee, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale, the following described real property, situated in the County of Twin Falls, State of Idaho, and described as follows to wit:
The South 75 feet of the North 235.6 feet of the East half of Lot 5 of Martin Subdivision, according to the official plat thereof, filed in Book 3 of Plats at Page (2) 12, official records of Twin Falls County, Idaho
The Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above referenced real property, but for purposes of compliance with Section 60-113 Idaho Code, the Trustee has been informed the address of 713 Del Mar Drive, Twin Falls, ID, is sometimes associated with the said real property.
This Trustee's Sale is subject to a bankruptcy filing, a payoff, a reinstatement or any other conditions of which the Trustee is not aware that would cause the cancellation of this sale. Further, if any of these conditions exist, this sale may be null and void, the successful bidder's funds shall be returned, and the Trustee and the Beneficiary shall not be liable to the successful bidder for any damages.
Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possessions or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the Deed of Trust executed by Robert Wilson, unmarried man, as Grantor(s) with Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc. as the Beneficiary, under the Deed of Trust recorded April 25, 2006, as Instrument No. 2006-009839, in the records of Twin Falls County, Idaho. The Beneficial interest of said Deed of Trust was subsequently assigned to U.S. Bank National Association, as trustee for the holders of the First Franklin Mortgage Loan Trust 2006-FF10 Mortgage Pass-Through Certificates, Series 2006-FF10, recorded September 27, 2011, as Instrument No. 2011018042, in the records of said County.
THE ABOVE GRANTORS ARE NAMED TO COMPLY WITH SECTION 45-1506(4)(a), IDAHO CODE. NO REPRESENTATION IS MADE THAT THEY ARE, OR ARE NOT, PRESENTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS OBLIGATION.
The default for which this sale is to be made is the failure to pay the amount due under the certain Promissory Note and Deed of Trust, in the amounts called for thereunder as follows:
Monthly payments in the amount of $723.40 for the months of May 2011 through and including to the date of sale, together with late charges and monthly payments accruing. The sum owing on the obligation secured by said Deed of Trust is $110,448.31 as principal, plus service charges, attorney's fees, costs of this foreclosure, any and all funds expended by Beneficiary to protect their security interest, and interest accruing at the rate of 5.0% from April 1, 2011, together with delinquent taxes plus penalties and interest to the date of sale.
The Beneficiary elects to sell or cause the trust property to be sold to satisfy said obligation.

DEAR ABBY: I was recently invited to a second cousin's wedding shower and wedding. To be honest with you, if I saw the bride-to-be on the street, I wouldn't recognize her. Although I won't be going to her shower, I am sending a shower gift. I plan on attending the wedding because I don't see this side of the family often.

My question is, what gift should I give the happy couple for their wedding? When I got married, her parents gave me a pair of used vases. How could I tell they were used, you ask? Not only were they not in their original packaging, but they also were dirty. Abby, there were dead flies in them! Being a well-mannered bride, I didn't mention this to my parents, but to this day I still remember.

— WANTS TO DO THE RIGHT THING

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR WANTS: Until I saw your signature, I was tempted to suggest you wash and polish the vases, then nicely wrap and send one to your cousin with a note of congratulations, closing with "...more to follow." But knowing you want to do the "right" thing, I'm asking you to please not blame her for the actions of her parents, who may have been financially strapped at the time of your wedding. Then find out where she and her fiancé are registered and send them something that's within your budget.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for eight years and are amazed that most of our married friends are unable to separate for even a night.

I was raised in a household where my parents took time for themselves — whether it was my dad's high school reunion that Mom had no interest in, or my mom's personal growth seminars that Dad was slow to accept. It worked for 48 years until Mom's death.

The wife of one couple we know refused to attend our high school reunion, so her husband didn't go either — even though many of his close friends would be in attendance. He doesn't make plans for himself because everything has to be run past his wife.

Does our culture create insecurity? Have we lost our independence?

— INDEPENDENT THINKER IN GEORGIA
DEAR INDEPENDENT: No. You have described a man who is passive and prefers to leave the social scheduling to his wife. I don't think it has anything to do with our culture. Many couples operate this way by mutual agreement, and you shouldn't take it personally.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a single, never-married, 50-year-old male. I have no children and was raised with strict, conservative Christian values that I have held onto all these years. I have never had any long-term relationships.

Recently I met a single gal at work, and we enjoy each other's company. Our backgrounds, however, are very different. She has been married twice and has two children. In addition, neither of her children was conceived from either of her marital unions.

My question is, would our diverse backgrounds impede the fostering of a healthy relationship, or is this something worth pursuing?

— RELATIONSHIP-CHALLENGED
DEAR RELATIONSHIP-CHALLENGED: It depends on whether the two of you can have a meeting of the minds as well as a meeting of the hearts, and whether you are flexible enough to accept her just as she is and vice versa.

A NOTE TO PARENTS OF YOUNG CHILDREN: Tonight is the night when wee witches and goblins collect their loot. Please supervise them so they'll be safe. — ABBY

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

"A man is rich in proportion to the number of things which he can afford to let alone."

— Henry David Thoreau

Many inexperienced bridge players love to take their winners as fast as possible. They flit from suit to suit like grasshoppers, but at the end of the deal they have scattered a trail of losers behind them, unaware of the fact that by not taking all their winners at once, they would have left themselves far better off.

To mix similes and metaphors, bridge, like jiu-jitsu, is an activity where you want your opponents to do all the hard work so that you can exploit their actions.

Here, for example, declarer in six hearts wins the club-queen lead with the ace and cashes the trump ace. If both opponents had followed, the diamond queen would have been established as a home for the spade loser, with dummy's heart eight the entry to use it.

However, West's discard is only a minor inconvenience, so long as declarer lets his opponents do the hard work for him. It would be a huge mistake to try to cash the two top spades in the hope that the queen would fall. Instead, declarer plays off the club king and spade ace, then exits with the diamond king. Since it is West who has the ace, the contract is certain, so long as East has at least one card remaining in each of the side suits. Here West takes the diamond ace then must give declarer his 12th trick.

If East had the diamond ace, he would have to exit in spades, forcing declarer to hope that the spade queen is onside.

ANSWER: This auction strongly suggests that your partner has the clubs under control, but is not a demand for a club lead. If you have a sensible alternative, you can always make that lead. Here, your chunky diamonds are a good practical alternative, so lead one. My choice would be a low diamond, not the 10.

magicvalley.com

Today is Monday, Oct. 31, the 304th day of 2011. There are 61 days left in the year. This is Halloween.

Today's Highlights:
On Oct. 31, 1941, the Navy destroyer USS Reuben James was torpedoed by a German U-boat off Iceland with the loss of some 100 lives, even though the United States had not yet entered World War II. Work was completed on the Mount Rushmore National Memorial in South Dakota, begun in 1927.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1517, Martin Luther posted the 95 Theses on the door of the Wittenberg Palace church, marking the start of the Protestant Reformation in Germany.
In 1864, Nevada became the 36th state.

In 1926, magician Harry Houdini died in Detroit of gangrene and peritonitis resulting from a ruptured appendix.

In 1961, the body of Josef Stalin was removed from Lenin's Tomb as part of the Soviet Union's "de-Stalinization" drive.

In 1968, President Lyndon B. Johnson ordered a halt to all U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, saying he hoped for fruitful peace negotiations.

In 1984, Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was assassinated by two Sikh (seek) security guards.

In 1991, theatrical producer Joseph Papp died in New York at age 70.

In 1994, a Chicago-bound American Eagle ATR-72 crashed in northern Indiana, killing all 68 people aboard.

In 1996, a Brazilian Fokker-100 jetliner crashed in Sao Paulo, killing all 96 people on board and three on the ground.

In 1999, EgyptAir Flight 990, bound from New York to Cairo, crashed off the Massachusetts coast, killing all 217 people aboard.

Ten years ago: New York hospital worker Kathy T. Nguyen died of inhalation anthrax, the fourth person to perish in a spreading wave of bioterrorism. Former Symbionese Liberation Army fugitive Sara Jane Olson pleaded guilty in Los Angeles to the attempted murder of police officers (she was paroled in 2009 after serving about half her prison sentence). Microsoft and the Justice Department reached a tentative agreement to settle the historic antitrust case against the software giant. Cold War arms negotiator Paul C. Warnke died at age 81. The New York Yankees played the Arizona Diamondbacks in Game 4 of the World Series; the game ended a few minutes after midnight with the Yankees winning 4-3 and tying the Series at two games each.

Five years ago: A fire at a residential hotel in Reno, Nev., killed 12 people. Iraqi Prime Minister Nouri al-Maliki ordered the lifting of joint U.S.-Iraqi military checkpoints around the Shiite militant stronghold of Sadr City and other parts of Baghdad. P.W. Botha, South Africa's apartheid-era president, died on the southern Cape coast at age 90.

One year ago: A former teenage al-Qaida fighter, Omar Khadr, was sentenced by a military judge at Guantanamo to eight more years in custody under the terms of a plea agreement unsealed after a military sentencing jury said he should serve 40 years for war crimes. Theodore C. Sorensen, President John F. Kennedy's aide and speechwriter, died in New York at age 82. The San Francisco Giants beat the Texas Rangers 4-0 in Game 4 of the World Series, taking a 3-1 edge. Kim Clijsters beat top-ranked Caroline Wozniacki to win the season-ending WTA Championships in Qatar, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3. For the first time in more than five years, Tiger Woods was no longer golf's No. 1 player.

Do-It-Yourself Ideas

Nativity Display

This big, full-color outdoor display is a dramatic and easy way to share the warmth and joy of the holiday season with friends and neighbors. Printed on weather-resistant paper with waterproof, "sunfast" inks, the Nativity display includes the 14 figures pictured plus instructions for building the stable. The camels stand about five feet tall.

The only materials needed are the posters, a few sheets of exterior plywood, waterproof glue, paint and sealer. The whole family can help put the figures together in a weekend or two.

To build the display, just glue the posters onto plywood, saw around the outer edges and paint the sides and backs black. Make stakes or stands from the remaining plywood or galvanized pipe and set the display up where desired.

IF OCTOBER 31 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Throw off the shackles and fly free as a bird. Your particular claim to fame might earn you extra respect or recognition between now and the beginning of January. You can make important changes for the better – especially next month when a one-of-a-kind opportunity could show up on your doorstep. Work hard from January through the spring, as those in authority could look on your persistence with awe. In March and April, your charm and popularity are at their zenith, so it is a good time to make a career move; a loved one may be ready for commitment or singles may meet the person of their dreams.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): To everything there is a season. Romantic relationships could end up somewhat out of kilter tonight. Be content to play the gracious host to costumed visitors or snuggle up in front of the TV with leftover treats.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Black cats become you. Seasonal activities might give you an opportunity to show off your good taste by wearing your party duds or a costume. Invite others to join into the spirit of fun tonight.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You can't get in too far over your head just by bobbing for apples. Simple pastimes can't threaten your security, so don't be afraid to accept an invitation or to spend time with a new admirer.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Turn to your favorite channel. Halloween celebrations could provide a good excuse for home-based activities and surprise visits from friends or neighbors. Work all day, then rest all evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You might imagine the worst-case scenario when you sense things that go bump in the night. Accentuate the positive and don't be scared off by a few impulsive actions on the part of a special someone.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Don't be spooked. It is always smart to be wary of taking candy from strangers, but don't go to extremes and throw everything in the Dumpster. Attend to essential business with due diligence.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Wear a costume, but remember it is just an act. Too many tricks or simple evasiveness could prevent you from getting your treat. Small disagreements and groundless suspicions can spoil trust.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Pull a rabbit out of your hat. While other people are pulling their hair out you can pull out a "hare" of your own and solve a problem. Put your ingenuity to work to make wise decisions and smart moves.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Volunteer either your time or money. Halloween might offer an ideal excuse to make a public appearance at your church, school, community center, or participate in neighborhood festivities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Nitpick through the candy dish – not through someone's well-intentioned ideas. Spend your time making plans for the future. Trust in your power to see clearly ahead and consider your steps carefully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Whip that whim. Significant others may react in unexpected ways if you pay too much attention to good-looking Halloween witches or vampires. Avoid the temptation to indulge in expensive pleasures.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be a Good Samaritan and share the goodies with others. Delightful tricks and delicious treats might come your way, but you must pay it forward. Don't be greedy and eat all the Halloween candy yourself.
