Greek yogurt producer Chobani and public officials announce a deal to bring a processing plant and 400 jobs to Twin Falls.

hobani, a Greek yogurt producer, announced Thursday that it will build a processing plant in Twin Falls as it expands its New York-based operations to include a spot in the western U.S.

The announcement follows a deal brokered by the city of Twin Falls, Twin Falls Urban Renewal Agency and state agencies that will bring 400 jobs to the Magic Valley — with possibly more in the future. It'll cost the city and URA about $29 million all told, much of that raised through taxes taken by the URA.

With its plans to buy milk from the region's dairy industry, the company's presence will boost the breadand-butter of the Magic Valley's agricultural economy. It also puts in place more infrastructure for the city to use to entice economic development to

"You will find you and your staff and your company made a very wise decision because Idaho is a place where there is unlimited potential for growth," Otter said, drawing laughs when he suggested that Chobani should consider making a potato-flavored yogurt.

The Western location, the availability of milk and a work force that's willing to learn the job all played a role in the selection of Twin Falls as a site, said Hamdi Ulukaya, the Turkishborn founder and CEO of Chobani.

"We felt the warmth in Twin Falls,"

Idaho Education Association blasts decision, saying the board 'overruled the wishes of a majority of Idahoans and disregarded parental choice' by mandating online credits.

The state Board of Education gave the requirement final approval Thursday, despite heavy criticism of the plan at public hearings this sum-

The measure is part of a sweeping education overhaul that introduces teacher merit pay and phases in laptops for every high school teacher and student.

Proponents say the virtual classes will help the state save money and better prepare students for college. But opponents claim they'll replace teachers with computers and shift state taxpayer money to the out-ofstate companies that will be tapped to provide the online curriculum and laptops.

Developers of Cassia Co. Wind Projects Weigh Options

Nine wind farms may find new life following a federal rebuke of state regulators.

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI

Idaho wind energy developers are still determining if they will pursue legal action against the state for improperly limiting their power con-

According to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, state regulators were wrong to place a deadline on projects eligible for certain smallscale power contracts with utilities. The federal agency will not intervene, but will allow energy developers to pursue legal action on their own.

The issue stems from a change in the state's benchmark for eligibility under the federal Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act. For several years, the Idaho Public Utilities Commission allowed projects producing up to 10 megawatts to qualify for the PUR-PA rates. But last year, the PUC announced that wind projects submitting contracts after Dec. 14, 2010, would only receive the rates for 100 kilowatts or less.

That date was set after Idaho Power Co. and Rocky Mountain Power complained that developers were splitting up big wind developments into smaller projects to be eligible for

In all, 17 projects — nine of which were destined for south-central Idaho — failed to meet the deadline after utility companies stalled on signing off on the contracts, FERC found.

Two early credit programs serve a similar purpose for Magic Valley high school students, allowing a growing number of them to take college-level

BY JULIE WOOTTON

Mark Browning, chief communications officer for the Idaho State Board of Education, said Advanced Placement and dual-credit classes give students a jump-start on earning college credits.

"I think both are rigorous and both are good avenues to pursue," he said.

In the Twin Falls School District, student participation in AP classes has increased about 22 percent over the past three years.

Earlier this week, the district was one of fewer than 400 nationwide honored by the College Board with a place on the AP Honor Roll.

Last year, 72 Twin Falls students took AP classes, up from 56 in 2009. Over a three-year period, the district maintained a 75 percent rate of students earning a 3 or above on the five-point scale used for AP exams. For some schools, though, enroll-students can earn high school and college credit simultaneously – is outpacing AP classes.

There's also a state incentive for students to take dual-credit classes. The Early Completers program pays for students to earn up to 36 college credits during their senior year of high school if they meet state graduation requirements early.

Ben Allen, principal at Twin Falls High School, said the school has seen an enrollment growth for both AP and dual-credit classes. However, "the increase in dual-credit is larger," he Allen said some students may be worried that they'll take a rigorous AP class but won't earn college credit if they don't pass the AP test.

"It's a bit of a risk factor," he said though at his school, 90 percent of students who take the AP test earn a three or higher.

Statewide, more than 1,500 students at 54 high schools are taking dual-credit classes this fall through the College of Southern Idaho. TFHS has the most - about 360.

Kimberly to Vote on Adding Recycling Program

After testing out a pilot program in July, Kimberly residents will be given the chance on Tuesday to say if they would like to add a new recycling program to their city.

development leaders have worked behind the scenes in closed-door meetings to broker the deal that would lure the Greek yogurt company to the region.

In an interview, Ulukaya stressed the value the work force will play in producing the yogurt.

"Everybody's involvement and hands and touch really make it different because it's a handcrafted product," he said in an interview. "It's not automated. Robots are not making our product. We are making it. Yogurt masters are making it. So it's very important to have that quality of the workforce and we thought it was one of the best."

Among the details of the deal that was reached with the city: Agro Farma's planned site on 190 acres north of the Jayco Industrial Park and south of U.S. Highway 30 will provide 400 jobs to start, with an initial investment of at least $128 million. That figure could reach $300 million as the company grows.

It brings jobs with benefits and an average pay of $14 an hour, and the company's moving quickly - it hopes to be up and running in eight months. Ground will be broken by December at the latest, the company said.

"We'll be fast," Ulukaya said. "That's what we do. We go fast."

Mayor Don Hall described Chobani's arrival in Twin Falls as a "shot in the arm" that will boost the psyche of the community as it deals with the down economy. But it extends far beyond the city limits of Twin Falls — both for jobs and the dairy industry.

That's needed to jump-start this economy, where 400 new jobs are only the first of what's needed to put people back to work.

goes before Idaho lawmakers for review in the 2012 session, which starts in Jan-

The education board gave the online graduation requirement its initial approval in September after heavy opposition was voiced this summer at public hearings across Idaho. Trustees collected more feedback during a 21-day public comment period last month.

"A majority of the comments felt there should not be an online learning requirement," said board member Don Soltman during the meeting.

Schools nationwide offer virtual classes, but just three states — Alabama, Florida and Michigan have adopted rules since 2006 to require online learning, according to the International Association of K-12 Online Learning. The online rules vary from state to state, but Idaho would be the first to require two credits online.

The Idaho Education Association blasted the decision in a statement Thursday, saying the board "overruled the wishes of a majority of Idahoans and disregarded parental choice" by mandating the online credits.

To online learning advocates, the requirement seems reasonable. They say children need to be prepared for the world that awaits them after high school.

"There is still a live teacher. It may be at a distance, but that teacher is still instructing and interacting with the student," said Susan Patrick, president of the International Association for K-12 Online Learning, a Washingtonbased nonprofit.

Kendra Wisenbaker, 28, is among those questioning the Idaho plan.

"The poor kids are guinea pigs," said Wisenbaker, an elementary school teacher in Meridian, the state's largest school district.

Like many of her students, Wisenbaker is on Facebook, and she spends several hours a day online. But when it comes to requiring her tech-savvy kids to learn in a virtual classroom once they enter high school, Wisenbaker is among Idaho teachers who aren't so sure.

"I am a little conflicted, I am. It won't work for every kid, and I think requiring it is a horrible idea," said Wisenbaker, who also reasons that some students may thrive learning online. "But it shouldn't be an option for saving money," she said during an interview with The Associated Press.

In Idaho, members of the state Board of Education have said most of the opposition is directed at new education laws as a whole not just the online requirements.

Nationwide, state legislatures tackled education policy this year and triggered protests from teachers over proposed changes to their collective bargaining rights, and how they are evaluated and paid. But Idaho has made some of the most sweeping changes, according to education experts.

The state is introducing teacher merit pay, limiting union bargaining rights and shifting money from salaries toward changes such as more classroom technology, as part of the changes backed by public schools chief Tom Luna and the governor.

The overhaul has drawn heavy criticism, including from educators. But to others, Luna is changing a system that was badly broken and they have commended him for restructuring how Idaho's scarce education dollars are spent.

Two Arrested in Connection with Vehicle Thefts

"If you are the front-runner and you plan to be the nominee ... be forthcoming so that you are vetted, and we don't get into a situation where you're our nominee and we find out things after the fact."

John Brabender, a strategist for Rick Santorum's campaign in a statement after the lawyer for one of two women who reportedly accused Republican presidential candidate Herman Cain of sexual harassment in the 1990s said he had asked the National Restaurant Association to waive an agreement and allow her to talk openly about her allegations.

We Like

t would be easy to say that there are 400 reasons why we like it. Agro Farma's announcement Thursday that it would be making an initial investment of $100 million and hiring 400 employees is indeed a great boon to the economy of Twin Falls and the entire Magic Valley. But as big as those numbers seem, the overall benefit is greater still.

That's because in economic development, both newly created jobs and capital investment have economic multipliers. In the specific case of Agro Farma and Chobani yogurt, the multiplier works like this. Infrastructure creation is necessary before a plant is built. The plant needs to be built. The end-product of yogurt can only be produced through the purchase of inputs — in this case buying milk from local dairies. And before you know it, the 7.57 multiplier similar to that of a cheese manufacturer can parlay the economic benefit of 400 new jobs into a number closer to 3,000. That's more than significant, it's phenomenal.

But just in case the above paragraph confused you at the macro level, let's take a look at it from the standpoint of someone who needs a job, or a better-paying job. Let's forget about the 7.9% unemployment rate for a minute and think about an individual or a family. A full-time job at Agro Farma's estimated average pay rate of $14 per hour equates to $29,120 per year, plus pretty darn good benefits.

This is far more than economic development; it is hope. And hope is the least tangible, but most necessary ingredient in growing an economy.

So thank you to Agro Farma President and CEO Hamdi Ulukaya for your investment in the community and the people of Twin Falls. Thank you to all city officials and local and regional economic development folks who've been working on this agreement for months.

You've brought millions of dollars to Twin Falls and hundreds of jobs. And for each of the individuals and families that make up those hundreds, you've brought hope.

Capping the Term Limit

Elected office is a public service, not designed to be a career. There are several qualified new candidates running for each council seat. They should be given the opportunity to serve so that the community can see and hear new and fresh

City council is a fouryear term; and two terms (eight years) should be a self-imposed term limit. There are many local citizens qualified to serve in the future. An elected official should know when it is time to retire and let someone else take over. We need to thank the elected officials for serving; they can still be very useful on committees, boards and in service. There should be reasonable compensation while serving - then zero. Afterward, there should be a feeling of pride for the time given.

It is possible that those who stay four or five terms are looking for the retirement benefits. Yes, that's right – all elected officials who receive a salary or check are vested in the state retirement fund, PERSI (Public Employees Retirement System). Elected officials are vested in five months, all other public employees in five years. They also receive medical insurance. Look it up on the PERSI website. Isn't it time to make cutbacks, as many of us already do.

Can you imagine the enormous cost to taxpayers for all of the elected officials accumulating these benefits through the years? Let's stop electing candidates before they serve 15, 20 or 25 years. If they will not self-impose term limits, then the Legislature should consider amending or repealing this law.

Loyal Perry said, "Service is the rent you pay for the space you occupy." It is an honor to serve and a responsibility to work for the city.

DOUG VOLLMER RICHARD B. STIVERS Twin Falls

(Editor's note: Doug Vollmer served on the Twin Falls City council for eight years and was mayor for four years. He chose to donate his state retirement earned to local charities.)

Taking the Hands-on Approach

It has been my pleasure to serve on the Twin Falls City council for the past 10 months. After an in-depth application process, I was appointed to fulfill Lee Heider's Council Seat 7.

I have spent the necessary time to understand city codes and state laws and properly apply them to issues that have come before council. I enjoy researching what other communities have done to address problems that are similar to ours. I come to every meeting prepared and ready to engage in thoughtful debate.

My goals on the Twin Falls City Council have been to increase communication between the city and its citizens, listen to and represent people accurately, think critically and carefully about every issue, and bring diversity to council discussions.

I have sought to increase communication by attending meetings and public forums, sharing and receiving information on my Facebook page and re sponding to all citizens' comments that I receive. On the council, I advocate surveys because they give the public the opportunity to voice their opinions and be heard. They create a line of communication - one of many - that is necessary for local government to operate effectively and efficiently.

My council position provides me with daily opportunities to listen to and serve the people of Twin Falls. I enjoy helping people find answers, solving any issues with their city services and passing along comments and complaints to city staff. I encourage you to look at my voting record and decide for yourself whether I am accurately representing you. You can find it at www.tfid.org or by doing a quick search on magicvalley.com.

After you research information on all of the candidates, please go to the polls on Nov. 8 and vote for the person who will do the best job serving you on the city council!

REBECCA MILLS SOJKA Twin Falls

The Future of Twin Falls

Serving as a city councilman for my hometown has been one of the greatest honors of my life. I have been fortunate while on the council to be able to devote much of my time to city issues and committee work.

My vision for Twin Falls has always been to make it a place where our kids want to stay after they graduate. To achieve that, Twin Falls must promote competitive jobs, affordable housing and attractive activities. Urban renewal and the creation of good local jobs have been two areas I have spent considerable time on in the past few months.

It is exciting to see new businesses coming to Twin Falls as well as to observe existing local businesses expanding to meet market demands. We boast a superior library, a world class trail system, gorgeous parks and vibrant recreational programs. Twin Falls is a great place to work and live, and I am proud to work closely with the library board of directors and the Parks and Recreation Department to promote the services they offer our residents and visi-

My vision for Twin Falls is not a new one: I like to think that prior council members planned for the future Twin Falls which I was blessed to grow up in, just as I am taking part in planning for the Twin Falls I want to see in the future. I am proud of being part of the leaders who secured water rights for our future needs and who worked to acquire the Auger Falls property for future development.

I appreciate the time you have allowed me to serve as councilman, and I want to continue to work hard for you. Please vote Trip Craig on Nov. 8.

TRIP CRAIG Twin Falls

Leading Economic Growth

To borrow a phrase from a presidential campaign from 20 years ago, "It's the economy, stupid!" This is also the message I've heard as I've visited with Twin Falls residents and taxpayers over the past several weeks of our own Twin Falls City Council campaign.

It will take a team of individuals and organizations working together to get our economy moving quickly in the right direction. I am a part of that team every day in my professional work. I am passionate about helping Twin Falls prosper. I will bring this same leadership and energy to the city council if you elect me on Nov. 8.

City government plays a critical role in fostering a business-friendly environment. Twin Falls needs to help local companies expand and to recruit new and diverse industry. We must be responsible in how we regulate business to ensure government doesn't get in the way of progress. As a member of the city council, I will lead economic growth initiatives to ensure living-wage jobs for our residents and an increased tax base to support the essential functions of city government.

Of the candidates running for Seat 3 on the council, I'm uniquely suited to cultivate communication and cooperation among the residents, the business community and local government.

I love Twin Falls and want to see it continue as a vibrant place in which to live, work and play. Help me lead us into that bright future by voting for Shawn Barigar for Twin Falls City Council on Nov. 8.

SHAWN BARIGAR Twin Falls

An Objective Approach to Representation

Having served with Marj Schmidt for more than 10 years on Jerome City Council, she has demonstrated the skills and knowledge needed to continue on the council. Marj takes the time to study problems from different viewpoints needed to arrive at a decision that is best for both the city and those affected.

While growth in Jerome continues to be a challenge, she continues to take a progressive yet conservative approach to decisions made that will affect not only jobs but also the needs and concerns of all residents and taxpayers.

Please vote for Marjorie Schmidt for Jerome City Council for continued leadership and a voice needed for our future.

Keep it Local

My name is Neil Christensen. I am a Twin Falls City resident, business owner and family man, and I am asking for your vote on Tuesday, Nov. 8, for City Council Seat 7.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

As a small business owner, I am always looking for growth opportunities, and I realize that in order to keep my business performing at an optimum level, I must meet certain requirements and standards. I have done this in my insurance business, and I will also do it while sitting as your council representative.

Recently I was asked, "Neil, how do you propose to do that on such a tight and limited budget?" I will answer by telling you that before jumping at raising utility rates or assessing fees, I would consider raising revenue by thinking outside of the box and would work in collaboration with the Chamber of Commerce, Southern Idaho Tourism, SIEDO and the Urban Renewal Agency in convincing new companies that Twin Falls is a great place to do business. I have had to be fiscally conservative in my own business and within my family, and will carry those conservative principles to the council. I have had years of applicable business training and experience and know how to work within a team environment to get a job done quickly and efficiently when faced with a difficult budget. I am proud of this community and I truly enjoy living here. My wife, Lindy and I look forward to seeing our two children raised in a tight-knit community that is safe, clean and economically sound. I believe that we all have similar goals for our community.

I can assure you that if you vote for me for Twin Falls City Council Seat 7, I will do what is needed to realize our shared interests. I want to see jobs created in Twin Falls, retain those viable businesses already here and see what we can do to bring heart back to downtown Twin Falls! These are but a few of my goals. Please feel free to contact me to tell me about your goals, thoughts and concerns. I am eager to

To the voters of Twin Falls

I am proud to support Rebecca Mills Sojka for city council. Rebecca is an energetic and hardworking young lady. Rebecca has qualities that make her parents proud. She has an excellent attendance record as well as great participation on the city council. She dedicates much of her time and energy toward her position on the city council. I have heard her on the radio explaining what the city council does on Monday nights. She is the only experienced candidate running for Seat 7 and boy, she does a good job. Thank you, Rebecca, for holding these sterling qualities on the city council.

An Asset to City Council

When I taught Advanced Placement English, I always encouraged my students to become contributing and informed citizens in their community and state, and Rebecca Mills Sojka has followed that advice.

Once she was appointed to the city council position more than 10 months ago, she listened, learned and committed full-time effort to understanding city government and the needs of Twin Falls citizens. Rebecca is a Twin Falls High School graduate and attended Whitman College, where she earned a bachelor's degree in sociology. Besides being an honor student, she gave hours of community service by volunteering for organizations like Paint Magic, Johnny Horizon, Interfaith Caregivers and, more recently, the $\overline{\text{Twin}}$ Falls Optimist Club.

Once Rebecca received the council position, she seriously accepted the responsibility of representing Twin Falls citizens. She faithfully attended the liaison meetings of the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Twin Falls Youth Council.

She helped the city staff develop a downtown parking survey and sought citizen input and "acted" on that input. After reading the 300 responses from the downtown parking survey and attending the public forum, she made a motion to reflect the requests of the survey participants and the downtown business and property motion failed 5 to 2. She brings a balanced perspective to the council as evidenced by her votes. She voted against judicial confirmation of the $8 million wastewater facility bond because she felt that we citizens should have the opportunity to vote whether to take on public debt (motion passed 6 to 1). Because of citizen input, she also voted against the rezoning of the Lazy J property and an initial CSI zoning request. Most important, she has an open mind on all issues, controversial or not, and seeks compromise for the greater owners that would suspend meter enforcement for a trial period of one year, but the good of the community. Rebecca is not running for re-election for political gain or to please special-interest groups. She cares about the future of Twin Falls. As we face city and economic issues, we need her youthful enthusiasm and critical thinking skills. Hard-working, ethical, intelligent and informed, Rebecca is a definite asset on the city council. Let's keep her in City Council Seat 7. I am definitely voting for her on Nov. 8, and I encourage you to do so, too.

When I first came to CSI, I thought it was only going to be a two year thing where I'd just get my degree and move on to a bigger and better school. But it became more than that. Thanks to CSI, I was given the opportunity to become a student senator and ambassador, and I was able to get a great internship, too. If I would have been anywhere else, I wouldn't have been able to gain the experience that I received at CSI.

Treasurer Defends Hiring Limos for New York City Trips

Crane

BY JOHN MILLE!
Associated Press

BOISE • A stretch limousine for eight people — with minibar, mood lights and TV awaited Idaho Sen.

Dean Cameron when he arrived with his wife at New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport on June 7, 2009.

Cameron was with state Treasurer Ron Crane's annual Wall Street pilgrimage, here to meet with ratings agencies over the $500 million in short-term debt securities that Idaho sells yearly to finance government's day-to-day affairs.

"I was surprised," said Cameron, a Rupert Republican. "I don't think I'd ever ridden in a stretch limousine before, nor have I since."

Cameron, who rode into Manhattan with Rep. Maxine Bell, R-Jerome, and their spouses, was also surprised this week to finally learn the limo bill: $244.13.

A taxi from Kennedy to Manhattan costs a flat rate of about $50, including tolls and tax, according to the New York City Taxi & Limousine Commission.

Records obtained by The Associated Press for 2009, 2010 and 2011 show Crane's office spent nearly $10,000 on stretch limousines, Lincoln Town Cars and executive sedans to transport Idaho state employees and their family members, though he could have saved taxpayer money by using cheaper taxis.

consultants fo

Though Crane once discouraged family from going along following a 2002 travel scandal involving former Boise Mayor Brent

Coles, Idaho's entourage now often includes nearly as many relatives as public officials, with spouses, daughters and mothers using this opportunity to stay in Manhattan to explore the Big Apple.

Family members cover their flights, meals and Broadway shows, but the Idaho treasurer's office said they didn't reimburse the state for all transportation expenses — even though their presence sometimes results in added costs, including cars carrying only luggage. In 2010, two vehicles loaded with suitcases cost more than $500.

Crane, a four-term Republican who is recovering from surgery, couldn't be reached Thursday.

His chief deputy, Laura Steffler, conceded the car service may superficially appear to exceed what officials might have paid had they used taxis.

According to state policy, "Employees shall use the most practical mode of travel from the standpoint of time and expense," though "unusual circumstances" allow exceptions.

But Steffler said scheduling stretch limousines, rather than relying on smaller, less-reliable taxis, boosts the effectiveness of Idaho's delegation.

Mountain Home AFB Could Lose 34 Civilian Jobs

BOISE • Up to 34 civilian positions could be cut at Mountain Home Air Force Base as part of an Air Forcewide workforce restructuring that is eliminating about 9,000 positions across the country.

The Idaho Statesman reports the cuts are being made after the secretary of defense directed the Air Force to keep civilian worker costs at fiscal year 2010 levels.

A news release from Mountain Home AFB says the base will lose 34 positions, but Col. Scott Moser, commander of the 366th Mission Support Group, says some of the positions are already vacant.

Officers Capture Escaped Inmate

NAMPA • Authorities say they've captured an escaped child abuser in southwest Idaho after he walked away from a detention center last month.

The Canyon County Sheriff's Office says a U.S. Marshal's task force captured 34-year-old Eric Lee Dominguez in Nampa Wednesday night.

The sheriff's office says in a statement that officers learned Dominguez was staying at a home in south Nampa. Officials say Dominguez was arrested without incident.

Dominguez escaped Oct. 23 after being deemed a low security risk and going outside to help unload a truck.

Agency to Seize Some Federal Tax Refunds

BOISE • The Idaho Department of Labor says it will intercept more than 5,000 federal tax refunds next year in an effort to recover nearly $10 million in unemployment benefit overpayments due to fraud or misreported earnings.

Ingram told The Spokes-man-Review that the department has already collected $23 million in overpayments, interest and penalties since 2007, partly by withholding state income tax refunds. This will be the first time federal officials have allowed the department to tap into federal income tax refunds.

2 Teens Arrested in Hailey Police Vehicle Fires

KETCHUM • Two 17-yearold boys have been arrested on suspicion of setting law enforcement vehicles on fire at two officers' homes in Hailey last winter.

The Idaho Mountain Express reports the boys were arrested at Wood River High School last Friday. Their names were not released because they are juveniles.

Ketchum Police Chief Steve Harkins says the boys face felony charges of conspiracy to commit seconddegree arson and intimidating a witness who went to police with information about the late December fires. He says more arrests are expected.

Petroleum was used to ignite a sheriff's office vehicle, while two Molotov cocktails were thrown at a Ketchum police car.

Eagle Man Hurt in Deliberate Crash

BOISE • Ada County officials say a 70-year-old woman faces criminal charges after acknowledging she drove into oncoming traffic in a suicide attempt that critically injured the driver of a pickup truck.

STATE BRIEFS TO THE STATE BRIEFS

The three-vehicle crash happened at about 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in Boise.

Sheriff's officials say the woman tried to drive into traffic once and missed and continued down the road before crossing the center turn lane and accelerating toward a pickup truck. The 64-year-old Eagle man who was driving was ejected and suffered life-threatening injuries.

Senate GOP Blocks Obama Infrastructure Repair Plan

BY ANDREW TAYLOR
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Republicans in the Senate Thursday dealt President Barack Obama the third in a string of defeats on his stimulus-style jobs agenda, blocking a $60 billion measure for building and repairing infrastructure like roads and rail lines.

Supporters of the failed measure said it would have created tens of thousands of construction jobs and lifted the still-struggling economy. But Republicans unanimously opposed it for its tax surcharge on the wealthy and spending totals they said were too high.

The 51-49 vote fell well short of the 60 votes required under Senate procedures to start work on the bill. Every Republican opposed the president, as did Democrat Ben Nelson of Nebraska and former Democrat Joe Lieberman, I-Conn., who still aligns with the party.

Obama's loss was anything but a surprise, but the White House and its Democratic allies continue to press popular ideas from Obama's poll-tested jobs package in what Republicans say is nothing more than a bare-knuckle attempt to gain a political edge by invoking the mantra of jobs but doing little to seek compromise.

"The truth is, Democrats are more interested in building a campaign message than in rebuilding roads and bridges," said Senate GOP Leader Mitch McConnell of Kentucky. "And frankly, the American people deserve a lot better than that."

Obama ripped Republicans in an unusually tough statement issued by the White House.

"The American people deserve to know why their Republican representatives in Washington refuse to put some of the workers hit hardest by the economic downturn back on the job rebuilding America," Obama said. "It's time for Republicans in Congress to put country ahead of party and listen to the people they were elected to serve. It's time for them to do their job and focus on Americans' jobs."

After Republicans blocked Obama's infrastructure plan, the president's Democratic allies immediately killed a competing GOP infrastructure plan that would have extended existing highway and transit spending programs and paid for the spending with a $40 billion cut in unspent funding for other domestic programs. The White House opposed the measure over its spending cuts and provisions that would block recent clean air rules and make it harder for the administration to issue new rules.

House Panel Approves Solyndra Loan Subpoena

WASHINGTON • A Republican-led House panel on Thursday agreed to subpoena the White House for documents related to Solyndra Inc., the failed California solar company that received a half-billion-dollar federal loan. A House Energy and Commerce subcommittee voted 14-9 along party lines to authorize subpoenas of top White House officials. GOP lawmakers say the subpoenas are necessary because the White House has denied or delayed requests for thousands of documents related to Solyndra. The Fremont, Calif., company received a $528 million federal loan before filing for bankruptcy protection and laying off 1,100 workers.

Greeks Are Numb Amid Country's Surreal Instability

LOS ANGELES TIMES

ATHENS, Greece • Even Greeks themselves had trouble tracking everything that happened on a day of whipsaw political swings in their country.

Less than 24 hours earlier, they watched their prime minister stick up for their democratic right to a referendum before hostile European officials at a summit in France. But as soon as he returned home, George Papandreou called off his incendiary plan to let his people vote on Europe's latest rescue strategy for their debtracked nation.

One moment, the Greek leader commanded the "full backing" of his Cabinet; the next, he didn't. He was stepping down, some said; he was staying on, others countered. After hopes rose for a time that the nation's two big parties would set aside their differences to form a unity government, they soon crashed amid a mushroom cloud of name-calling.

As a result, Greeks went to bed Thursday night numbed by their country's nearly surreal instability that has also sent shock waves through the rest of the world, overshadowing a crucial gathering of global leaders on the French

Riviera. The chaos has been especially acute in the euro-zone, the 17 nations that share the euro currency, now engulfed by a debt crisis.

Greece's uncertainty is set to continue today, as Papandreou faces a crucial vote of confidence whose outcome remains too close to call. If he loses, his government will collapse, forcing a snap election and heightening fears of a messy default on the country's mountain of debts.

Yet if he survives the vote, his hold on power is still far from assured. There were reports that, with his political capital exhausted, Papandreou would step down anyway to allow an interim government to guide Greece through the next few weeks, including ratification of a new bailout deal recently crafted in Brussels.

Already on shaky political ground, the American-born Papandreou, 59, deepened the turmoil earlier this week by calling for a referendum on that agreement, which entails enlarging Europe's rescue fund and forgiving some of Athens' debt.

Withdrawing the referendum may produce some immediate relief, but it's unlikely to dispel volatility in the financial markets or resolve the galloping debt crisis.

Tracking the crisis in Greece

The 17 European Union countries that share a common currency – the euro – each agreed to monetary requirements, including keeping budget deficits below a certain level, before joining the currency. Recently, several eurozone nations – Greece, in particular – have run into difficulty due to high debt.

Occupy Protesters Disavow Night of Violence in Oakland

BY JASON DEAREN and LISA LEFF
Associated Press

OAKLAND, Calif. • Occupy Wall Street protesters had just half a day to celebrate what they saw as their biggest victory so far: a daylong gathering in Oakland, Calif., that drew thousands of people and led to the peaceful shutdown of the nation's fifth-busiest port. Then, after midnight they and align began night, the vandalism began.

Hours after a small group of what city leaders called "provocateurs" clashed with riot police, set fires and shattered windows early Thursday, demonstrators across the country condemned the violence and wondered whether it was a turn that would destroy their cause.

"They don't speak for the majority of people who were here yesterday," said Hadas Alterman, a college student who was gathering trash at a tent camp near Oakland City Hall. "That was an hour of action, and we were out here for 12 hours and it was peaceful."

The 3,000-person protest outside the port Wednesday night represented an escalation in tactics as demonstrators targeted a major symbol of the nation's commerce with peaceful rallies and sit-ins, managing to effectively suspend maritime operations there for the night.

The street spasm that followed when about 200 people tried to take

LAWN-CHAIR BALLOON GUY TO FLY OVER IRAQ

Lawn-chair balloonist Kent Couch boarded a plane Thursday for the start of a journey that he hopes will end in Iraq with a safe launch and landing beneath a huge cluster of party balloons. Couch made headlines worldwide in 2008 when he flew a specially rigged lawn chair supported by more than 150 helium-filled balloons from the parking lot of his gas station in Bend, Ore., to an Idaho field, a trip of 235 miles. Couch says Iraqi daredevil Fareed Lafta invited him to Baghdad for a Nov. 15 flight at a youth conference in the Green Zone. Couch plans to rig 300 balloons to lift the two men sitting in lawn chairs for an overnight flight of 400 miles at 25,000 feet.

JAMES BOND BACK JOB WITH 'SKYFALL'

LONDON • Ah, Mr. Bond, we've been waiting for you — and at last 007 is back, several years after his last screen adventure. Producers announced Thursday that filming has begun on "Skyfall," the delayed 23rd film in the series and Daniel Craig's third outing as the suave British superspy. Craig, who has brought a hard edge to his portrayal, told reporters that the movie, directed by Sam Mendes and shot in London, Scotland, Turkey and China, would be -Associated Press "Bond with a capital B."

New Law Will Let Cubans Buy and Sell

HAVANA (AP) • For the first time in a half-century, Cubans will be allowed to buy and sell real estate openly, bequeath property to relatives without restriction and avoid forfeiting their homes if they abandon the country.

The highly anticipated new rules instantly transform islanders' cramped, dilapidated homes into potential liquid assets in the most significant reform yet adopted by President Raul Castro since he took over the communist country from his brother in 2008.

over a vacant building, however, raised questions about whether a movement with no organizational structure and no high-profile leaders can — or should — do anything to stop those they called troublemakers.

On Thursday afternoon, representatives from the Occupy Oakland media committee read a statement saying participants supported the goal of reclaiming empty buildings to serve the public but regretted that their daylong downtown demonstration was marred by an "autonomous" group.

"It is unfortunate that the unprecedented mobilization and engagement of tens of thousands of our neighborhood in this beautiful Oakland city should be marred by broken windows and graffiti," Laura Long said, reading the statement. "Occupy Oakland does not advocate violence and has no interest in supporting actions that endanger the community and possibilities that it has worked to build."

The group released a statement Thursday night saying it doesn't support vandalism but would not take an official position until Friday's night "General Assembly" meeting.

So far, few cities have reached the level of Oakland, a unique place with a long history of tensions between residents and police.

Bob Norkus at the Occupy Boston camp said the riots didn't represent the broader movement and likely wouldn't have a lasting effect on it, either. The movement is still evolving and mistakes are inevitable, he said.

It "has to be nonviolent, or else it will just end. We won't get the support," he said. "It doesn't mean you can't agitate people. But you can't also be breaking windows and burning."

Police in riot gear arrested more than 80 protesters in downtown Oakland, where bands of masked protesters took over a vacant building, erected roadblocks and threw chunks of concrete and firebombs. Five people and several officers were injured.

U.S. Intelligence Report Blasts China, Russia for Cybercrime

WASHINGTON (AP) • U.S. intelligence officials accused China and Russia on Thursday of systematically stealing American high-tech data for their own economic gain.

It was the most forceful and detailed public airing of U.S. allegations after years of private complaints. U.S. officials and cybersecurity experts said the U.S. must openly confront China and Russia in a broad diplomatic push to combat cyberattacks that are on the rise and represent a "persistent threat to U.S. economic security."

But experts said solving the problem won't be easy.

In a report released Thursday, U.S. intelligence agencies said "the governments of China and Russia will remain aggressive and capable collectors of sensitive U.S. economic information and technologies, particularly in cyberspace?"

Speaking at a forum at the National Press Club, Robert Bryant, the national counterintelligence executive, said the U.S. is finally making the charges public because China and Russia are stealing sensitive U.S. technology data.

If Russia and China build their economies on stolen U.S. data, "that's not right," Bryant said. "We want to basically point out what the issue is. We want to be worried and we want to be careful, but we also want there to be an awareness and, frankly, drive that toward solutions where we work together to bring this under control?'

The report is part of an increased effort by U.S. officials to highlight the risks of cyberattacks in a growing hightech society.

SHARE A MEMORY REMEMBER THE LIFE megicyelley

"This will not deter me" in the race for the White House, Cain declared, repeatedly denying the allegations in interviews on conservative media outlets.

"Did you tell a woman she looked good?" radio host Sean Hannity asked. "That dress looks hot?"

"Nope."

Cain

"Any flirtation that you can think of?"

"Nope;" Cain said firmly. At the same time, he and aides tried to demonstrate a campaign returning to normalcy or even benefiting from the controversy.

Cain, a career businessman, held private meetings in New York during the day, including one on foreign policy with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Campaign spokesman J.D. Gordon said donors had sent in $1.2 million since news of the allegations first surfaced, far above the customary amount for several days.

On a personal note, Cain said his wife, Gloria, was "still 200 percent supportive of me in this whole race, 200 percent supportive of me as her husband, because I haven't done anything."

The furor erupted at a time when Cain had vaulted to the top of public opinion polls as a leading conservative challenger to former Massachusetts Gov. Mitt Romney for the Republican nomination.

Since it was reported late Sunday that at least two women had complained about Cain when they worked at the National Restaurant Association and had received financial settlements - Cain has said consistently he never sexually harassed anyone. But his answers to other pertinent questions have changed. In one instance, he first denied knowing of any settlements with former employees, then said he recalled one, explaining he had been aware of an "agreement" but not a "settlement?"

On Wednesday, Cain said he believed a political consultant on his 2004 Senate campaign who now is helping presidential rival Rick Perry had leaked the information. But he backed off a day later. "If he didn't ask me about this and he was my general political consultant, then he didn't do his job," Cain said, referring to Curt Anderson. "I am almost certain that I did" tell him about an allegation.

Anthony Joseph 'Tony' Linza Sr. April 17, 1933-Oct. 25, 2011

CRESTVIEW, Fla. •

Tony Linza, age 78, of Crestview, Fla., passed away Tuesday, Oct. 25, 2011, at the North Okaloosa Medical Center.

He was born in Los Angeles, Calif., on April 17, 1933, to Joseph and Josephine Linza. Tony served his country during the Korean conflict as an MP in the U.S. Army. After his service to country, he led a distinguished career as a police officer in Chino, Calif., retiring as a captain after more than 20 years. He also was a Master Mason and enjoyed many years of being a part of the Masonic Lodge. Tony loved the outdoors, loved to hunt and loved working with his hunting dogs. His love for the outdoors led him to move to Idaho and purchase a small dairy farm in 1982. Tony and his wife, Colleen, moved to Crestview in 2002 after selling their farm to enjoy retirement.

Tony was preceded indeathby his parents; a sister, Martha Yadon; and a stepson, Darrell Elliott. Survivors include his wife of 47 years Colleen Linza of Crestview, Fla.; son, Anthony "Joe" Linza Jr. and his wife, Tina of Houston, Texas; stepdaughter, Shelly; and stepson, Steven Elliott and his wife, Kim, all of Chino, Calif.; and numerous grandchildren, great-grandchildren, nephews and cousins.

A memorial service for Tony will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 5, at the chapel of Whitehurst-Powell Funeral Home in Crestview, Fla. At Tony's request, donations may be made in his memory to the National Rifle Association.

Arrangements are entrusted to Whitehurst Powell Funeral Home in Crestview, Fla. Guestbook and condolences are available online at www.whitehurstpowellfuneralhome.

Van Doren, Co-creator of Iconic Vans Skateboarder Shoes, Dies

BY JOHN ROGERS

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES • The shoes James Van Doren and his brother cooked up in their family rubber factory turned out to be the perfect fit for the nascent skateboarding culture that was sweeping Southern California in the 1960s.

They were cheap and they came in a variety of distinct designs that seemed to shout, "Cool California dude," as soon as you put on a pair.

But most importantly, once you did slip on a pair of Vans, you never fell off your skateboard. At least not until you crashed it.

whose Van Doren, background in chemistry and mechanics contributed to that unique, slip-resistant design, died Oct. 12 at his Fullerton home, his wife, Char, told The Associated Press. He was 72 and had been afflicted with cancer.

Van Doren and his older brother, Paul, were working for a sports shoe company in the 1960s when Paul suggested they and two friends form their own business. They would name it Vans and create an instantly recognizable logo with a capital V whose elongated tail covered the rest of the word.

They decided to keep their prices low by cutting out the middle man, choosing to manufacture the shoes themselves and sell them at their own retail store in Anaheim.

Initially, the company was so small that its first store carried only display samples. A customer would order a pair of shoes and the brothers would go next door to the family rubber factory to make them. Often they would use patterns and designs the customers brought in themselves.

But most importantly, they would make the shoes' soles with a unique, waffle-like design perfect for gripping a wood surface like the top of a skateboard. "They got it right the first time. The sole they use, it's called the waffle sole. Nothing else seems to work nearly as good for skateboarding," said Herb Hogen, a former competitive skater who has been wearing Vans for 30 years.

Soon the shoes seemed to be ubiquitous with skateboarding across the country.

"If you saw another guy wearing Vans, you immediately knew they were a skateboarder and you immediately had a connection," said Hogen, 42, a bicycle mechanic from Missoula, Mont., who still skates for fun.

Then, in 1982, the shoes got a gigantic promotional boost. Sean Penn, in a breakout role that would make him a star, played quintessential stoned surfer-dude Jeff Spicoli in the film "Fast Times at Ridgemont High." And he wore a pair of Vans with a distinctive checkerboard design.

"The checkerboard pattern skyrocketed after that," recalled Char Van Doren.

Teens continue to wear it to this day, and Vans continues to market to alternative youth culture, announcing a collaboration with the rock group Pearl Jam earlier this year.

Over the years, however, the company did run into some bumps.

As the sports shoe business exploded in the 1980s, competitors who produced shoes with cheap foreign labor nearly ran Vans out of business. The company had to seek protection in bankruptcy court.

"We had kind of gotten away from our sweet spot and off track into athletic shoes that were expensive to make in America," Van Doren's nephew Steve Van Doren told the Los Angeles Times.

Alabama Man Whose Case Changed Mental Care Dies at 57

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) • An Alabama man whose lawsuit helped lead to nationwide changes in mental health care has died.

Ricky Wyatt was 57. He Tuesday at a Tuscaloosa hospital.

He was 15 when he became the plaintiff in a 1970 federal lawsuit over conditions at a psychiatric hospital. The case, Wyatt vs. Stickney, became a classaction that took more than 30 years to resolve

The teen was never diagnosed with mental illness, but was sent to the hospital because he was causing trouble in school. In 1971, a federal judge ruled that the Alabama Department of Mental Health was failing to provide adequate medical care, violating patients' civil liberties and rights to due process.

The ruling and agreements that followed were the basis for federal minimum standards of institutional mental care.

Money Fund Assets Fall to $2.622 Trillion

NEW YORK (AP) • Total U.S. money market mutual fund assets fell $11.93 billion to $2.622 trillion for the week that ended Wednesday, the Investment Company Institute said Thursday.

Assets of the nation's retail money market mutual funds fell $1.39 billion to $935.98 billion, the Washington-based mutual fund trade group said. Assets of taxable money market funds in the retail category fell $2.5 billion to $742.35 billion. Tax-exempt retail fund assets rose $1.11 billion to $193.63 billion.

Meanwhile, assets of institutional money market funds fell $10.55 billion to $1.686 trillion. Among institutional funds, taxable money market fund assets fell $10.58 billion to $1.592 trillion; assets of tax-exempt funds rose $30 million to $94.41 bil-

Job seekers visit the Minneapolis Career Fair held Wednesday in Bloomington, Minn. Fewer people applied for unemployment benefits last week, a positive sign that the job market is picking up a bit.

ECONOMY PICKS UP BUT HIRING OUTLOOK REMAINS CLOUDY

BY CHRISTOPHER S. RUGABER

Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Companies are more productive, fewer people are seeking unemployment benefits and service companies are adding jobs.

Ideally, those trends could signal stronger growth, followed by more hiring. Yet until consumers consistently spend more, businesses are unlikely to hire enough to drive down unemployment. But more consumers need jobs and raises to keep spending enough to help the economy grow. The paradox has kept the economy from thriving more than two years after the recession officially ended.

It's also why economists think the unemployment rate stayed at 9.1 percent for a fourth straight month in October. The government will issue the October jobs report

"We're creating jobs, but it's not enough to ... increase wages measurably," said Ellen Zentner, an economist at Nomura Securities.

Thursday data reinforced that message. Weekly applications for unemployment benefits dropped to a seasonally adjusted 397,000, the Labor Department said. It's only the third time since April that applications have fallen below 400,000.

Still, applications would need to fall below 375,000 to signal sustained job gains. They haven't been at that level since February. Services companies, which employ about 90 percent of the work force, hired more in October after cutting jobs in the previous month, according to a survey by the Institute for Supply Management.

Overall growth for the service sector — which covers businesses from restaurants and hotels to financial services firms and retail companies was mostly unchanged from September's slow pace.

Companies ordered more factory goods in September for a third straight month, the Commerce Department said. The gain occurred largely because businesses spent more on industrial machinery, computers and software. It's a sign that in the sluggish economy, many companies are investing in equipment but not in new hires.

Businesses are getting more out their existing work forces while paying less to employ them. Worker productivity rose in the July-September quarter by the most in a year and a half, the Labor Department said. At the same time, labor costs fell.

The jump in productivity was due largely to the economy's best quarterly growth in a year without much change in hiring or hours worked.

Higher productivity is generally a good thing. It can raise standards of living by enabling companies to pay workers more without raising their prices and increasing inflation. But without strong and sustained customer demand, companies are unlikely to hire.

Consumers helped drive this summer's growth by increasing their spending at triple the rate from spring.

When demand rises and productivity is low, it's usually a sign that businesses have reached the limit on the work they can squeeze from their work forces. That often leads some to hire more workers, if they want to grow.

But economists worry that consumers won't be able to sustain this summer's spending binge. In the July-September quarter, they spent more while earning less. They used their savings to make up the difference. Without more jobs and higher wages, consumers are likely to pare spending in the months ahead.

That may already be happening. Shoppers slowed their spending in October, according to monthly revenue results reported by retailers Thursday. Costco, Macy's, Saks and Target are among the companies that reported results that fell slightly below Wall Street analysts' expectations.

Weaker sales figures at big chain stores open for more than a year is a bad sign ahead of the winter holiday shopping season.

Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke said Wednesday that growth is likely to be "frustratingly slow," after the Fed sharply lowered its economic projections for the next two years.

The Fed now says the economy will likely expand no more than 1.7 percent for all of 2011. That's down from its June forecast of 2.7 percent to 2.9 percent. And it predicted growth of only 2.5 percent to 2.9 percent next year, nearly a percentage point lower than its June estimate.

AMDtoCut 1,400 Workers, New CEO's FirstBigMove

BY JORDAN ROBERTSON Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO • Advanced Micro Devices Inc. is cutting some 1,400 workers as a weak computer market and manufacturing delays have hurt the world's secondbiggest maker of microprocessors for PCs.

The layoffs announced Thursday amount to about 12 percent of the company's 12,000 workers and are the first big move by AMD's new CEO, Rory Read, who was hired from Lenovo Group in August. The cuts will unfold over the next five months.

AMD is struggling with an industrywide problem: PC sales growth, particularly in the U.S. and Europe, has been anemic because of the down economy and competition from smartphones and tablets.

Although PC shipments continue to grow, the pace is slowing sharply - and more than market research firms IDC and Gartner Inc. expected. That has raised concerns about the strength of the market going in to the holiday shopping season.

Most of AMD's business is in chips for PCs; it doesn't have a meaningful presence in smartphones and tablets.

Read's job in large part is to help devise a strategy for AMD to penetrate computing markets where it and rival Intel Corp. have been largely absent. The battle has taken on a new dimension as AMD's and Intel's market share in PCs has reached a steady balance for years — Intel's chips are in about 80 percent of the world's PCs, and AMD's are in essentially the rest.

Not having much presence in mobile devices has hurt AMD more than Intel because of its smaller size and it was a key reason AMD ousted Read's predecessor, Dirk Meyer, in January.

Meyer in some ways had an excuse: He was orchestrating triage as he tried to manage the company's spinoff of its manufacturing operations while fending off Intel and overseeing the launch of an important new type of chip for AMD. That chip can process sophisticated graphics and general data on the same piece of silicon, a technical achievement.

The rise of mobile devices, meanwhile, is benefiting chip makers such as Qualcomm Inc. and Texas Instruments Inc., whose processors were designed to consume less power.

A variety of financial struggles has led to several rounds of layoffs at AMD in recent years. It let about 3,300 workers go in 2008 and 2009.

Contributing to Thursday's announcement were manufacturing problems that have postponed the shipment of AMD's newest chips, which it calls "accelerated processing units."

Ameristar Casinos Sets Third Quarter Record for Earnings Per Share

TIMES-NEWS

Ameristar Casinos, Inc., owner and operator of Cactus Petes Resort Casino and the Horseshu Casino Hotel in Jackpot, Nev., announced increased net revenues and adjusted earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization (EBITDA) for the third quarter of 2011.

Net revenues for the third quarter improved yearover-year by $4.9 million, to $304.5 million. For the third quarter of 2011, consolidated adjusted EBITDA increased $9.1 million over the prior-year quarter, to $90.3 million.

"Our efforts to strengthen our business model over the last few years have proven successful," said Gordon Kanofsky, Ameristar's chief executive officer.

For the quarter ended Sept. 30, Ameristar reported net income of $18.9 million, compared to net income of $11.9 million for the same period in 2010. The year-over-year improvement in net income is mostly attributable to operating and marketing initiatives. Ameristar announced adjusted earnings per share of $0.57 for the same quarter setting a third-quarter record. Adjusted EPS for the 2010 third quarter was $0.21. Adjusted earnings per share for the 2011 third quarter was helped by $0.25 from the reduction of about 26.2 million shares outstanding from a share repurchase.

Audiences love how the familiar song lines of "The Pirates of Penzance" bounce from section to section of an orchestra. It's easy to imagine men fighting fist to fist for treasure on the open sea as the line skips from woodwinds to brass, violins to percussion.

You'll hear the comic opera's medley as Magic Valley Youth Orchestra presents its fall concert at 3 p.m. Nov. 5 at the College of Southern.

The piece is challenging, especially for the group's youngest members, who might have just a few years of experience under their belts. With about 65 members from around Magic Valley and Mini-Cassia, the youth orchestra is designed to give students, through high school, an opportunity to play in an orchestra setting.

crooged-out? Give Oakley Valley Arts Council's winter production a try.

Next week, the theater troupe debuts "Jacob Marley's Christmas Carol." The play is a twist on "A Christmas Carol," the Charles Dickens classic. Oakley tells the story with plenty of special effects, including colorful lights and more than 100 sound cues.

"Jacob Marley's," written by Tom Mula, retells the familiar holiday story from the point of view of Ebenezer Scrooge's partner. It takes audience members to hell then back to Victorian London, as Jacob Marley tries to redeem himself and Scrooge.

For "Christmas Carol" devotees, "Jacob Marley's" provides a delightful break in tradition. (There are also clever nods for literature fans, like Jacob's childhood described as Dickensian.)

The production, opening Nov. 10 in Oakley's historical opera house, is unusual in its number of audio and light cues. "Jacob Marley's" has 137 sounds throughout the play, including foreboding music and startling booms.

That's a huge number, said assistant director Wendell Wells. "Some shows

Burley Philharmonic's Concert Honors Veterans

BURLEY • After guest pianist Ingrid Hansen concludes two movements of Franz Liszt's "Piano Concerto No. 1 in E Flat Major," the Magic Philharmonic Orchestra will march steadily into the "Armed Forces Salute."

Military tunes are popular numbers for the Burleybased orchestra anyway. But with its fall concert set for Veterans Day, those melodies hold a more special place in veterans' hearts whether they're in the orchestra or in the audience at Burley's King Fine Arts

"We have quite a few veterans in the orchestra ... nine, 10, probably even more," said fall concert chairwoman Le Ann Turner. The all-volunteer community orchestra has about 75 members.

"We didn't receive a lot of praise," the Burley man said. "Now, it's really nice. People are more inclined to thank a veteran. It's nice to be a part of that, playing and saying thank you."

Violinist Dennis Byington of Burley is another veteran in the Magic Philharmonic.

"It's an honor, giving the recognition," Byington said. "It's kind of special."

Each veteran in the audi-

Those opportunities can be few and far between in Magic Valley, said Raquel Messner, 15, who attends Bethel Temple Christian Academy. Although she has played violin for eight years, this is her first time with an orchestra.

"There is no symphony, orchestra or band at the academy," Messner said. "So this has been an entirely different experience for me."

Tthough she hasn't vet forged friendships with other musicians, her playing has improved, thanks in part to the group's policy in allowing older, college-aged students to continue playing.

The orchestra has a huge range of ability levels, so section leaders help bridge the gap while honing their own playing skills, director Diane Davis said.

"Especially for those that are just starting to play, it's important to get them to see music is fun," Davis said.

Messner frequently sits next to musicians like 18year-old Madison Folkman of Twin Falls, an eight-year member of the youth orchestra. Paying attention to more accomplished musicians forces her ear and makes her a better violinist, Messner said.

"Having them in the group is a big help because you can pick up where you should be in the music if you get lost, or if you are having trouble with rhythm or tone. Leaning on the better players makes you a better player," she said.

"My hope is that I pass on a love of playing to the younger members. It's not just the technical stuff, and I hope I help them see that, the feeling to music," Folkman said.

The concert will feature the Magic Valley Youth Orchestra Strings, directed by Davis, performing "Allegro in G" by Vivaldi and Celtic Woman's "O America," by Brendan Graham. The orchestra's Chamber Ensemble, a select group of string players under Carson Wong's direction, will per-

One-Week Wonder: Local Kids Have Chance for Intense Arts Education

TIMES-NEWS

Get your little actors and singers ready to be animated and follow instructions: It's audition time.

Magic Valley Arts Council will hold auditions Nov. 14 for the Twin Falls production of Missoula Children's Theatre's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

When a Missoula Children's Theatre team comes to town, it auditions local children on a Monday, leads focused and fast rehearsals all week, and puts the cast on stage that Saturday. It's an intense experience.

Auditions begin at 4 p.m. sharp Nov. 14 at the Twin Falls Center for the Arts, at 195 River Vista Place. To audition, arrive by 3:50 p.m. and plan to stay for two hours. Part of the cast will rehearse immediately following the auditions.

All students ages 5-17 may audition. No stage experience and no previous training in music or theater are required. Missoula Children's Theatre is free to participants. And no preparation is necessary before the

Those who audition must be able to commit to the full week of rehearsals and to two performances on Nov. 19. Assistant directors will be chosen to assist with technical aspects of the production.

The cast of about 50 local children will be on stage for two performances of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" - an original adaptation with a twist - at 3 and 7 p.m. Nov. 19 at O'Leary Middle School.

Tickets are $7 for adults and $4 for kids under 18, available at Twin Falls Center for the Arts, Farmers National Bank's Shoshone Street branch in Twin Falls, Farmers National Bank in Buhl and at the door.

Filmmakers, Prepare Your Contest Entries

Attention amateur filmmakers: College of Southern Idaho's Community Education Center is seeking entries for its second annual film competition, to be held during the 2012 CSI Film Series beginning in January.

The contest is open to short films in any genre made by amateurs, and prizes will be based on the number of entries. Postmark or submit by Dec. 9.

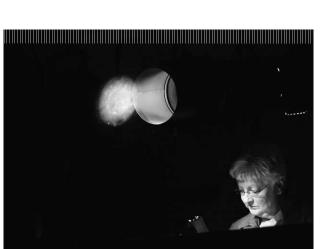

A jury of local film professionals and community members will select the winner based on subject originality, content realization, visual storytelling, production value and viewing engagement. The top five films will be screened prior to weekly feature films during the CSI Film Series, which begins Jan. 19 at downtown Twin Falls' Orpheum The-

The 2011 winner was "This is Twin Falls," by Jake Schumacher, Scott Whipple, Heath Kemper and Je-didiah Hurt. The film follows the growth of street artist Future Twin Falls and his contribution to the city. "This is Twin Falls" was featured on the street art blog "Wooster Collective."

along with the script and follows handwritten notes in the margins which tell her when to cue what.

The stakes are high: Some sounds cue from the actors' lines, but others act as cues. The actors have to pace themselves with the audio, and if they slip up it messes up the flow, said actor Denny Davis.

Other special effects make the play stand out. Images of flames and London buildings project in the background, and colored lights indicate scene and mood changes.

"It's very orchestrated," director Kent Evensen said.

It's a lot of work for the cast and crew, but those extra touches add a lot. In one scene, a combination of set, lights and projection make a starry winter landscape. In another, red stage lights and shadows make a freaky hell.

It's not a traditional Christmas play, but the fun story and skillful acting will get you in the holiday spirit.

GAME OF THE CENTURY

ANOTHER GAME FOR THE AGES LOOMS IN TUSCALOOSA, ALA.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Johnny Rodgers remembers a day when the two best teams in the land played a game for the ages. Forty years later, he can go over the winning drive as if it happened yesterday.

Gino Torretta can still feel the hits he took in a different game. They were harder than most, and didn't necessarily end when the whistle blew.

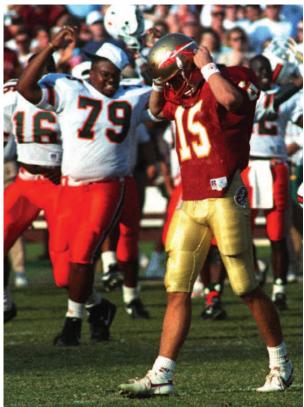

For Ara Parseghian, the most vivid memories are of Super Bowl-like hype before there was even such thing as a Super Bowl, leading to a showdown that demonstrated the enormous potential of No. 1 vs. No. 2.

All were key figures in a so-called Game of the Century, those landmark contests that helped define the sport. And all will be tuned in Saturday night to catch the latest chapter in this ongoing saga: top-ranked LSU vs. second-ranked Alabama.

"Absolutely," said the 88-year-old Parseghian, who guided Notre Dame to a pair of national championships during his coaching career. "That's exactly what you want to see."

While 1-2 matchups have become commonplace in the Bowl Championship Series, they're a rarity in the regular season. This will be the first scheduled matchup of the top-ranked teams in The Associated Press poll since 2006, when No. 1 Ohio State defeated No. 2 Michigan 42-39 in their traditional season finale.

Golden Eagles Blow Away

Westchester in Season Opener

CSI BASKETBALL CSI BASKETBALL

Welcome back, Golden Eagles. Behind a balanced scoring attack, the College of Southern Idaho men's basketball team stormed past Westchester (N.Y.) 87-58 in its season-opening game at the Monroe College Invite in New Rochelle, N.Y.

CSI (1-0) had five players score in double figures, led by Luke Cothron with 18. The 6-8 forward played in his first game for CSI after transferring from the University of New Orleans in February.

"I thought Luke played really well for us tonight," said CSI head coach Steve Gosar after the game to 1450 AM KEZJ.

"He's an athletic guy and was able to get some easy buckets in transition and with all the attention they paid to him in the paint, it really opened up some opportunities for his teammates."

The other double digit scorers for CSI were Pat Swilling (15), Rafriel Guthrie (15), Fabyon Harris (12) and Sebastien Michineau (10).

The Golden Eagles quickly built a 22-5 lead with Guthrie doing the early damage, scoring eight of the team's 16 first points. CSI's defense was stifling, holding Westchester to just two field goals in the first half as the Golden Eagles took a 34-15 lead into the break.

"Our guys have that ability to sit down and defend and they did a great job," Gosar said. "I thought we did a good job coming out here without much of a preparation for them, so we weren't totally sure what Westchester was going to do. I though they adapted well. I thought we were great teammates tonight."

CSI didn't let up in the second half, keeping at least an 18-point lead the remainder of the game. Swilling scored eight of his 15 in the second half and every player scored expect for reserve guard Kevin Attila.

Keith Thomas led Westchester with 12 points and Shaquille Gaskins added

CSI plays Harcum (Penn.) today at 4 p.m. The game can be listened to on 1450 AM KEZJ or online at www.csi.edu/athletics.

BOISE • Ask any Boise State football player or coach about an opponent and their response usually includes a reference to watching film. Their preparation is one reason for their recent success, spending time studying opposing teams and themselves while focusing on refining the finer parts of the game.

"I think one of the reasons that we play well for a while is that (the players) look at the tape, they see good players, see good schemes, and they know, 'Hey, if I don't show up we'll get beat,' " Boise State coach Chris Petersen said. "We watch the tape and we say, 'Look at them when they're playing their best, look at their playmakers, and this is what we have to stop?"

Members of the offense and defense both do this of course, but don't forget about the players on special teams. Those involved with the third, and often overlooked, phase of the game do too, and it paid off against Air Force.

"I'm in there watching special teams film just as much as defensive film," nickel back and special teams dynamo Hunter White said.

BOARD GIVES BSU CLEARANCE TO JOIN BIG EAST

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOISE • The Idaho State Board of Education has given Boise State permission to pursue membership with the Big East Conference, a move that would mean more revenue and give the Broncos a clear path to the Bowl

Championship Series. The board voted 7-1 Thursday to give university

President Bob Kustra the authority to move Boise State's football program out of the Mountain West Conference and into the Big East for the 2013 season. Kustra has had ongoing discussions with Big East representatives, including during a campus visit by conference leaders last week. Boise State has not yet received a formal invitation to join, but Kustra told trustees he expects one to come in the next few days.

This week, Big East presidents met in Philadelphia and signed off on a plan to add more teams to a conference hit by the defections of prominent schools like Pittsburgh, Syracuse and West Virginia. To offset those losses, the league is looking to add Boise State, Navy and Air Force for football only, and SMU, Houston and Central Florida for all sports.

But Boise State's entry into the Big East carries a critical caveat.

Kustra told the state board and board members agreed – that the formation of a Western division is essential to joining the conference. Kustra suggested that

Union Meets, Says More Talks with NBA Owners Ahead

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK • NBA players and owners will start negotiating again Saturday, and the union's leaders say they're unified as they seek to resolve the lockout.

President Derek Fisher, executive director Billy Hunter and executive committee members said after meeting for about three hours Thursday that there was no truth to reports of a rift among them.

"We've had no problems, and that's the reality," Hunter said. Hunter said they spent no more than joining the negotiations. Cohen probably 10-15 minutes total on a conference call earlier this week and during Thursday's gathering discussing the reports.

"The battle is not within our union," Bucks guard Keyon Dooling said. "Derek Fisher's the best president our union has ever seen. We'll stand as committee members — I'm the first vice president and I stand behind him? Owners and players haven't met since talks broke off last Friday. Hunter said federal mediator George Cohen contacted him earlier this week about possibly re-won't be involved Saturday, but the conversation led to Hunter calling Commissioner David Stern on Wednesday about resuming talks.

Hunter said union leaders had spent the last several days cautioning players that the two sides were still far apart on several system issues, so completing a deal was not as simple as a compromise on the revenue split.

"Our guys are in a position of they still want us to negotiate a fair deal," Fisher said. "They've given us that power. They've given us that support.

PREP RALLY

PREP PLAYOFF PREVIEWS

NORTH GEM (4-5) at CAREY (9-0)

HOW THEY GOT HERE: Carey clinched the Sawtooth North Division championship with a 52-6 win over Mackay Oct. 21, while North Gem beat Jackpot 58-20 last week to finish fourth in the Sawtooth South Division. BIG MAN ON CAMPUS MOMENT: Carey's biggest test of the season came back in Week Zero against Class 1A Division I power Oakley. The Panthers overpowered Oakley as quarterback Jordan Dilworth tossed three touchdowns to as many receivers and ran for another in the 38-16 win. They haven't been tested since. North Gem's signature game of the season was a 54-40 win over Lighthouse Christian in Twin Falls that saw the Cowboys rush 54 times for 342 yards and established themselves early as a team to watch in the Sawtooth South

DETENTION: North Gem started the season with a 50-0 whipping by Grace and lost back-to-back games to Carey and Rockland in a mid-season swoon. The Carey defense had five shutouts this season. Why didn't they have nine? Just kidding, just kidding. VALEDICTORIAN: Dilworth leads a balanced offensive attack for the Panthers, who can throw the ball to Bailey Barg and Jack Cenarrusa and run it witch Chance Chavez and Charlie Rivera. North Gem quarterback Tyler McClain rushed for four touchdowns and threw for another in the Cowboys' win over Lighthouse Christian and is a tough runner out of the pocket. PREDICTION: In a matchup earlier this season, Carey rumbled for 372 yards and its varinted defense held North Gem to just 62 total yards. Don't see anything changing this time around. Carey 54, North Gem 6 -Stephen Meyers

DIETRICH (5-3) at CASTLEFORD (7-2) Today

7 p.m. HOW THEY GOT HERE: Both clinched playoff spots Oct. 21 as Castleford grabbed the Sawtooth South Division championship via its 36-14 win over North Gem, while Dietrich beat Clark County 48-12. BIG MAN ON CAMPUS MOMENT: Castleford's signature moment came in a 45-24 win over an improved Lighthouse Christian team Oct. 7. Receiver Cody Hansen caught nine passes for 170 yards and two touchdowns as the Wolves held the Lighthouse Christian's explosive offense in check in the second half. Dietrich's big win was a 46-0 shutout over Mackay, the first-ever win at Mackay for the Blue Devils.

DETENTION: Dietrich's lowlight is the 60-14 hammering taken by Carey Oct. 14. The Blue Devils aspired to play to the level of the 2010 state champion Panthers, but Carey guarterback Jordan Dilworth torched the Dietrich defense for two passing touchdowns and another on the ground. Castleford's two losses came in back-to-back weeks against Hagerman and Oakley, though the 34-30 loss to the Pirates was the closest game undefeated Hagerman has played all season.

VALEDICTORIAN: Take your pick with Castleford, which has playmakers in Hansen, quarterback Mitch Howard and running back Ty Zimmers, who is a bruiser. He racked up 241 yards in the Lighthouse Christian win and 239 against Rockland. Dietrich running back Jakob Howard is capable of taking over a game as he did with 224 yards and three scores against Richfield. PREDICTION: Castleford has shown variety on offense, effectively mixing the long pass with a physical running game. The Wolves even won a game without running for a touchdown, a rarity under head coach Tracy Vulgamore. The Blue Devils can match the Howard twins (Jakob and Andru) and tough linebacker Gray Weber. Castleford just has too many weapons, however and is playing at home, Castleford 38, Dietrich 20

FIRTH at DECLO Today

6 p.m. HOW THEY GOT HERE: Declo (8-1) defeated Ririe 49-33 in the first round of the Class 24 state playoffs last week. Meanwhile, Firth (4-5) got its first playoff win since 2007 by beating Malad 33-26 at Holt Arena.

BIG MAN ON CAMPUS MOMENT: Declo went up 49-7 on Ririe before subbing its starters. Firth's first-round victory was about revenge, as the Cougars had lost to Malad 26-20 earlier this season. When Firth and Declo line up, it will be like looking in the mirror – both teams are loaded with under classmen, both are peaking in the postseason, they're similar in size, and both run variations of the wing-T and spread offenses. Also eerie: Both teams have scored an identical 206 points this season. DETENTION: Firth lost its first four games of the season, including two in which the Cougars blew fourth-quarter leads. But the young Firth squad matured, finished second in District VI, and is now on a three-game

VALEDICTORIAN: For the second straight week, it's Declo's Kai Garner. The past two games the iunior has six interceptions from his safety position, while also accounting for five touchdowns as the Hornets' quarter-back. For Firth, Mitch Orme leads the team in rushing (738 yards) and tackling (42), while Brenner Coughlan has nearly 1,000 combined rushing and receiving yards. PREDICTION: If weather is a factor – fore cast is 36 degrees with 50 percent chance of snow and/or rain — Declo will do what it does best, run the football and make quick hit passes. The Hornets haven't lost a home playoff game since 2004. Declo 27, Firth 22.

GOODING (5-4) vs. GRANGEVILLE (9-0)

Kibbie Dome, University of Idaho HOW THEY GOT HERE: Gooding survived its trip to Marsing last week when Derek Evans returned a kickoff for a touchdown in the dying seconds after Marsing had scored with 18 seconds left to tie the game. Grangeville, the top-ranked team in the Class 2A media poll, dispatched Melba 47-6 in its opening-round game.

BIG MAN ON CAMPUS MOMENT: Gooding's shining moment came on Sept. 23, when the Senators unloaded on Glenns Ferry, piling up 28 points in the first 10 minutes of the game in a 47-6 romp over the Pilots. Grangeville at last turned heads in the fifth game of the season, when the Bulldogs went to rival Kamiah and scored a convinc-

DETENTION: Gooding looked poised to break Declo's stranglehold on the Canyon Conference championship, but fell flat in an 18-6 road loss that sent the Senators into the considerably more difficult half of the hracket, alongside West Side, Grangeville and Butte County — they're a combined 24-2. Grangeville, meanwhile, hasn't made a single misstep to this point.

VALEDICTORIAN: Gooding was buoyed by the return of Matt Hutcheson last week from a concussion. Hutcheson adds another dimension to the spread that makes the Senators tough to handle. Grangeville is led by running back Justin Robie, who's amassed an eye-popping 2,255 yards through nine games, a school record. Robie, also a state champion wrestler, set the record when he rushed for 216 yards in last week's defeat of Melba.

PREDICTION: The good news is this game isn't being played at Grangeville, where forecasted nasty weather would be a factor on an already sloppy field. The bad news for Gooding is that turf plays faster than grass, and Grangeville is fast across all positions. Gooding has some speed itself, and the Senators will look to spread the ball out to cause confusion in the Bulldog defense. Grangeville may be undefeated and topranked, but Gooding's schedule left it well prepared for a game just like this, and the Senators will ride high into the semifinals. Gooding 20, Grangeville 14.

HORSESHOE BEND (7-1) vs. HAGERMAN (9-0)

2:30 p.m. Holt Arena, Idaho State University HOW THEY GOT HERE: Hagerman clinched the Snake River Conference championship with a 57-12 win over Hansen Oct. 2. Horsehoe Bend lost Oct. 21 to Rimrock to finish second in District III.

BIG MAN ON CAMPUS MOMENT: Hagerman's defense pitched two shutouts — 47-0 against Mackay and 45-0 against Shoshone — and its offense twice scored 70 with 74 and 70point outbursts against Lighthouse Christian and Raft River, respectively. The Pirates dominated Oakley 54-8 to essentially give them the Snake River Conference title. Horseshoe Bend ripped off seven wins in a row, including 60-34 and 64-18 wins over Garden Valley and Idaho City before losing DETENTION: Hagerman hasn't had any setbacks this season, with its closest game a 34-30 win over Castleford in Week 1. Horseshoe Bend's 50-6 loss to Rimrock in its final regular game of the season dropped the Mustangs to the second seed in District III and a date against the undefeated Pirates rather than a matchup with 7-2 Oakley.

VALEDICTORIAN: Only a sophomore, quarterback Kade Kress has taken control of the Pirates' offense beautifully. The dual-threat athlete passed for five touchdowns against Raft River, threw for three and ran for two more against Oakley and added four touchdowns on the ground against Shoshone. He has playmakers on the outside in Austin Funkhouser and Xavier Strick and running back Ty Martin is a tough runner.

PREDICTION: For as explosive Hagerman is offensively, its defense, led by Martin, Johnathon Owsley and Justin Arriaga is just as destructive. The Pirates are a physical, intimidating bunch on a mission for a state title. Hagerman 55, Horseshoe Bend 12.

KIMBERLY vs. MARSH VALLEY

Holt Arena, Idaho State University
HOW THEY GOT HERE: Kimberly convincing ly defeated Payette, 39-22, opening leads of 19-0 and 32-6 well into the second half. Marsh Valley thumped Sugar-Salem for the second time this year, 42-7, earning the Eagles a second consecutive game at Holt

BIG MAN ON CAMPUS MOMENT: Just as big and important as the win against Payette the Bulldogs didn't sink to Payette's level in the category of Losing One's Poise. And like Kimberly, Marsh Valley has won six of its last seven. The 50-0 victory against Malad in the season-opener was the Dragons' worst loss of the year, but a 14-0 victory against Snake River was even more impressive, given the Panthers have averaged nearly 53 points per game in the following three games. DETENTION: We'd like to ignore it, since it was brought up last week, but given the game at hand, that 20-18 loss to Sugar-Salem looks even worse for Kimberly Especially since Marsh Valley defeated Sugar-Salem in two games by an 86-14 aggregate. On the Marsh Valley side, it's hard to justify a 35-16 loss to Class 4A Preston, a victory that made up half of Indians' regular-season win total VALEDICTORIAN: Seth Champlin grabs the headlines as the leader of Kimberly's offense, but Jade Wadsworth showed he's a big-play threat by going 52 and 31 yards for scores against Payette as part of an 8-carry, 127-yard effort. The Eagles are led by quarterback Zach Keiby and running back Tyeson Iverson, and averaged 31.5 points per game. PREDICTION: There is little to indicate that Marsh Valley is a significantly better team than Kimberly, but there's a lot that sug-gests that the Eagles are just a smidge bet-ter than the Bulldogs. And with a game at Holt under their belt, those differences could be more pronounced. But not by much. Marsh Valley 32, Kimberly 24.

Patrick Sheltra

at SALMON RIVER (6-2)

HOW THEY GOT HERE: Lighthouse Christian qualified for the state playoffs for the first time in school history on Monday, when the Lions beat Mackay 48-6 in a two-quarter cross-divisional play-in, keeping Mackay out of the playoffs for the first time since 1994. Salmon River cruised through District III to clinch the league championship and hosting BIG MAN ON CAMPUS MOMENT: For Lighthouse Christian, the playoffs came a week early last Friday at Murtaugh. But the Lions rose to the occasion, keeping their season alive with a 48-6 win. Salmon River's biggest moment arguably came at the Kibbie Dome earlier in the season, when it beat Tri-Valley 44-42 in a showcase game alongside three others at the University of DETENTION: The Lions could have avoided the play-in route had their play been up to snuff against North Gem earlier in the season, when their susceptibility to the power running game was obvious in a 54-40 loss. Salmon River's only real stumble came against a pair of Washington schools, to which the Savages lost by a combined 10 points.

VALEDICTORIAN: Lighthouse Christian has var second wooks but the had guys step up over recent weeks, but the dynamic duo of Dylan Van Esch and Gabe Heath has perhaps the biggest impact on the Lions' offense. Salmon River's passhappy offense revolves around quarterback Leighton Vander Esch and receiver Charlie Shepherd, who occasionally will toss some passes of his own.

PREDICTION: Salmon River has alternated state titles with Carey the last five seasons, so history would suggest it's the Savages turn again to be atop the mountain. But this has a track-meet feel to it. and it could come down to whoever has the ball last. Few may give the Lions a crack at this given they're the fifth team from the same conference. but they've got the ammo to pull off the upset. Still, it's tough to pick against the home team in the playoffs. Salmon River wins, but just barely. Salmon River 44, Lighthouse Christian 42

OAKLEY at RIMROCK

HOW THEY GOT HERE: Oakley (7-2) finished second in the District IV Snake River Conference to earn its fourth state playoff berth in five years, while Rimrock (8-1) won the District III Western Idaho Conference. BIG MAN ON CAMPUS MOMENT: In Oakley's closest game of the year, a 16-6 win over rival Raft River, Stephan Ortiz busted touchdown runs of 69 and 56 yards, which wound up being the difference. In hindsight, if Oakley had lost that game, it likely would have ended up in three-way tiebreaker for the league's final playoff spot.

DETENTION: Oakley's 54-8 mercy rule loss to Hagerman three weeks ago was simply ugly for the Hornets. However, if Oakley and Hagerman each win this weekend, there will be a rematch next week in the semifinals – this time at Oakley. But coach Tim Behunin's squad can't afford to overlook the Raiders, who won their first conference title in 18 years and like to catch opponents off guard

VALEDICTORIAN: Sure, running backs Ortiz and Eleazar Tellez are speedy. But the key is Oakley's line. While not as big and dominant as Hornet lines of the past, this group has heart and a grinder mentality. For Rimrock Oscar Gomez and Nathan Black have each posted 200-yard rushing games in the Raiders' I-formation offense that is capable of busting big plays up the gut. Rimrock will be rocking as it hosts its first state playoff game since 1993. PREDICTION: Oakley has tradition and Ortiz's video game-like burst of speed on its side. Oakley 42, Rimrock 20.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Kimberly's Quarterback Leads Charge into Playoffs

BY PATRICK SHELTRA psheltra@magicvalley.com

There's bright, as in Kimberly coach Kirby Bright. And then there's his quarterback, Seth Champlin. "He's brighter," Bright said without hesitation.

And with good cause. Saddled with several injuries to perceived better quarterback prospects last year, Bright threw Champlin behind center, knowing he might be losing a valuable running back, but desperate to field a playmaker under center.

It was good enough to get Kimberly to the Class 3A state semifinals last year, and this year, Kimberly is right on track for another good run in the postseason, thanks to Champlin's four touchdowns and 120 yards on 14 carries in the Bulldogs' 39-22 victory over Payette last week. Up next for Kimberly is a game this afternoon at Holt Arena against Marsh Valley.

"Last year, when we gave him the reins because we didn't have a 'so-called' quarterback, he took the ball and went gangbusters," Bright said. "Single-wing, direct snap ... he could use his feet, and he's always dangerous with that. This year, he's been able to use his arm and he's dangerous from anywhere on the field now."

Knowing he was going to be the starting quarterback as a senior, Bright was encouraged by what he saw from Champlin in the off-"He lifted every day. He got stronger and that made him tougher upstairs and more confident," Bright said. "He developed his arm strength and made sure he could play 12 games if he needed to.

Watching him over the summer, I knew we were going to be able to do those things. We could expand the playbook a little

"Last year, when we gave him (Champlin) the reins because we didn't have a 'so-called' quarterback, he took the ball and went gangbusters."

> Kimberly coach Kirby Bright

It was a busy offseason for Champlin, whose first love is baseball. He admits to spending more time on the diamond with his American Legion team in the offseason than he did on improving his football skill and acumen.

"It was tough to put time in the summer, playing Legion baseball," Champlin said. "We did throw the ball around during camp, running routes and stuff, and after being in the weight room."

But for Champlin, the biggest adaptation wasn't from the playbook, but from his own huddle.

"I may not be the most

has been the more difficult stuff for me. "I was a little intimidated playing the QB position. You have to know what you're doing, where your receivers are running routes, where your protections is going to be. It's a learning experience, but I learn pretty quickly. It wasn't as difficult as I vocal guy for a quarterback," Champlin said. "Having to be the leader calling the plays and controlling the huddle and what not. That part thought it was going to be." Through it all, the winloss count hasn't suffered. Kimberly is 6-3 headed into today's game against the Eagles, who pose a similar running threat at quarterback in Zach Keiby, but not nearly the passing threat of Kimberly with their doublewing offense. Marsh Valley certainly has the Bulldogs' attention, not unlike any other team Kimberly has faced this year.

"We want to do better than what we did last year," Champlin said. "We have quite a few guys from (last year's) team that are back. We want to do better, but you have to look at it one week at a time. Coach always says, 'You can beat anybody, but if you overlook someone, you can be beaten?"

"He's a captain," Bright said, "and we have team dinners every Thursday night when the captains get up and talk about this not being the last week, not having our last practice. They want to hoist that blue trophy and that's their goal. And it should be this time of Sprewell vs. P.J. Carlesimo; Barry Bonds against the world. Sure, FOX tried to make a go with a "Celebrity Boxing" show in 2002, but it lasted only two episodes before cancellation. But it managed a sixthplace finish on TV Guide's 50 worst all-time shows list.

"It's an interesting card, a battle of train wrecks," is how promoter Damon Feldman described the upcoming event to the Philadelphia Daily News, and he should know. Feldman just happens to be the go-to promoter for down-on-their-luck celebrities, having previously staged fights between Rodney King and a retired cop as well as Tonya Harding and a waitress, among others.

Feldman also pleaded nocontest earlier this year to charges of staging some of those bouts without a license, but why let details get in the way of a story about redemption? Feldman won't despite the fact that the last time he lined up a fight for Canseco, the disgraced slugger sent his identical twin, Ozzie, INSTEAD and the promotion blew up in everyone's face. Maybe Feldman should have known better, because Canseco also bought Ozzie an identical Porsche for Christmas one year — back in the days when he had cash to throw around — on the dubious premise that it would cut his odds of getting ticketed for speeding by half (when all it really did was double Ozzie's chances). But hucksters have to make their living ahead of the curve. So let's assume everyone actually shows up ready to rumble. What then?

Canseco's criminal record, impressive as it might be, is still no match for Dykstra's. But Canseco has a decisive edge in what is probably the most important category in celebrity boxing's tale of the tape. Canseco is so good, and so experienced at humiliating himself, that providing an opponent is almost overkill. That's why the prediction here is Dykstra by KO in the second of three scheduled rounds — unless, of course, Ozzie shows up, in which case all bets are off.

While the kicking game struggles to find consistency, it's been a fantastic year for the rest of the Broncos' special teams. After studying the Air Force punt team, they recognized during the game something was amiss in the second quarter. The Falcons faked a punt and ran a reverse, attempting to run for the first down. J.C. Percy forced the ballcarrier to fumble and White scooped up the ball and returned the recovery 16 yards for a touchdown. Those six points turned out to be gigantic in the 37-26 victory that day.

"It's a third of the game; everyone doesn't look at it like that," White said of special teams. "They look at it like, 'Oh, just get the offense on the field, get the defense on the field,' so I take pride in White, a 5-11, 213pounder, is on every special teams unit and has turned from a nickel back into a jack-of-all trades. He said he's in about 30 plays per game on special teams and also does work with the defense.

Parseghian has steadfastly defended his decision to run out the clock, saying he didn't want to take a chance against Michigan State's fearsome defense when his injury depleted team was missing its starting quarterback and top runner. It worked out just fine for the Irish, who routed USC the following week and were voted No. 1. The Spartans finished No. 2.

FOUND DOGS:

A male shepherd boxer mix was found between Filer and Buhl 10-31-11. Call to identify.

AVAILABLE FOR ADOPTION: Thank you to everyone who has made donations!

It is very much appreciated!

Bailey is a 10-week-old labrador puppy. She is so sweet and already has pretty good manners! (Great quality to have in lab puppy). Bailey will make a great family pet.

Miracle Max is a 6 month old chocolate lab. Max came to the shelter about four months ago and has been under medical care. He was tied in the back of a pickup, jumped out and got tangled up with the back tire. The tire acted as a belt sander removing all of the muscle tissue and much of the bone on Max's rear leg. Rather than euthanizing Max or amputating the leg, Dr. Jones and his staff spent the past several months caring for Max with herbal therapies. Max's leg is now fully functional. He is a very sweet guy and eagerly awaits finding his forever family.

Hannah is a 6 month old chocolate labrador mix puppy. She nas a some white markings. She is a sweetheart!

Kelsey is a 6 month old female pointer border collie mix puppy. White with large black spots..really cute! She loves to romp and play with the other dogs and her human buddies.

Pepper is a beautiful wire haired pointer. She is a young adult and has black and white markings. Pepper is very sweet and will be a great pet.

The adoption fee is $75 and includes spaying/neutering and the first set of vaccinations.

"Make no little plans; they have no magic to stir men's blood." – Daniel Hudson Burnham

Whenever you reach a game with trump to spare, one of your first thoughts should be whether to strip off the side-suits before tackling those side-suits where you would rather have your opponents making the initial lead than play them for yourself.

In today's four-spade contract, things seem to be very straightforward. When dummy comes down on the lead of a top diamond, you appear to have one heart and two clubs to lose. Whenever things look straightforward, consider what might go wrong. It should not take you too long to realize that a 4-1 club break might sabotage your plan. But once you spot the problem, you might find the solution is not too hard — as usual, thinking in advance will help save the day. Win the diamond lead and draw trump ending in dummy. Ruff the diamond loser, then play ace, king and a third heart. The best East can do is to win and lead the club queen, and again you must resist the temptation to grab the ace. If you do, you will be left with three club losers. Instead, duck the club, and leave the opponents with a dilemma. If West leaves his partner on play, he must give you a ruff-sluff and one club loser has vanished. If he overtakes the club, you will lose only two club tricks, not three, since the opponents' firepower has been fatally reduced.

♣ Q

ANSWER: Don't even think of passing! You could be cold for slam in any of three strains, so you must respond. Best is to bid three diamonds, which should be an artificial second negative. You would expect your partner to introduce a four-card major now if he has one, or to bid three no-trump if he is semibalanced. If you do not play this way, just bid three hearts and cross your fingers.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 38year-old mom and have been single for the last 10 years. I live alone with my 11-year-old daughter and support us without assistance. I work full-time and rely on my mother to take my daughter to school and pick her up while I'm at work.

Because of this, anytime I try to have any kind of relationship with a man, my mother turns against me. She acts like I no longer exist as long as I try to have a love life. Please give me some advice on what to do.

- MISSING SOMETHING IN NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR MISSING SOME-THING: I'll try. It is time to become less emotionally dependent on your mother. At age 38, you do not need her blessing to date, and you should make that fact clear to her. If she punishes you for expecting to be treated like the adult you are, then arrange other transportation for your daughter. As long as you allow her to run your life, you will not have a life of your own.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter and I had a little disagreement the other night when I entered a restaurant holding my seven-day pill container in my hand. (I had decided to leave my bulky purse in the car.) When we sat down, I placed the container on the table next to my place setting. Doing this helps me to remember to take the pills with my meal.

My daughter said it was "tacky" to show my pills and container. I feel it wasn't tacky at all, but my way of taking care of my health. After going back and forth on this subject, I told her I would get your opinion. My husband took my daughter's side.

- LOOKING OUT FOR MY HEALTH IN ESCONDIDO, CALIF.

DEAR LOOKING: Allow me to even up the odds by taking YOUR side. Certain medications must be taken with food, and if bringing the pill container with you ensured that you wouldn't forget to take your dose in a timely manner, then more power to you. That your daughter and your husband would criticize your manners in a case like this troubles me more than any "breach of etiquette" that might have occurred. And, by the way, what you did

DEAR ABBY: You sometimes publish letters regarding random acts of kindness. I know people like to share how blessed they are that others have given to them. Well, I would like to share how being the giver is a blessing as well.

wasn't one.

My children and I eat lunch out on Saturdays. Most recently, we went to one of our favorite restaurants. As we were being seated, I noticed an elderly gentleman eating alone. He read the paper, ate his meal and kept to himself. I was struck by how alone he seemed to be. All during the lunch, I couldn't shake the feeling that I should reach

Finally, I gave in. I went to the counter and paid for his meal. When the waitress brought our check to the table, she asked if we knew the man. I responded no, that we just wanted to do something nice. She then confided to me that he was a regular there, but she hadn't seen him lately because he had just lost his wife.

Abby, I was so glad I had followed my heart and reached out. I can only pray that he was as pleased by my anonymous gift as I was to give it. - RECEIVING BY

GIVING IN ILLINOIS DEAR RECEIVING BY

GIVING: I'm sure he was. Your letter illustrates the pleasure that comes when we follow the dictates of our hearts. I applaud your generous gesture.

IF NOVEMBER 4 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: The world may seem to be a place of unrealized fantasy for the next several months unless you remember there are always strings attached when business is involved. There is a need to reciprocate when favors are offered. Work on achieving inner peace and tranquility during the year ahead, especially in the first two weeks of January when someone may hand you a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. That is an excellent time to seek sound advice from professionals or reassess your plans. Your judgment is particularly good during April when you could start something of significance or form a bond with a person who will play a major part in your life.

HOROSCOPE Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): It isn't necessarily your actions, but your reactions, that must be controlled. Concentrate on making sure that your possessions are well cared for and that you have made ample plans for the future.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Forgiveness never fails. You may be called upon to explain yourself to clear up a mired misunderstanding. Adopting a frank and forgiving attitude will reassure others and enhance your reputation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You expect that others will give you the benefit of the doubt. Perhaps someone is jealous of your success or feels you are being insincere. Wait for better timing to go out on a first date or job interview.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Confusion can fog the issues and throw homebased relationships into the soup. Clarity will return in a few days — but in the meantime, communication is your best ally. Talk your way out of tough spots.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): If work were always fun, you would pay to do it and not the reverse. Even if it seems it will never get done, remember that flowers don't bloom unless a little rain falls. A few frustrations will be worth the result.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The dish ran away with the spoon. Odd pairings are YAMAHA '00 MT Max 700, $1400. possible. If you go out for the evening, carry just enough spending money to get by. Otherwise, pockets may develop holes and impetuous spending may occur.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): "And now for something completely different." Like an episode of the Monty Python show, no one knows what to expect next. Show off your originality, but don't try to shock the crowd.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You, as a Scorpio, know some secrets. One secret formula that you may have learned is that there is no way of getting ahead without helping people. Get on the phone and see what you can do.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You tend to be grateful for the do-gooders of the world. You may be turned off by those more concerned with making profits and defining an enemy than with upholding the common good.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Much depends upon how you interpret a situation. It could be a crisis or an opportunity. You might be ready to party at the drop of a hat this weekend, but a sustained effort is more likely to bear fruit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Fight off the urge to indulge a whim or act capriciously. Meeting up with someone new this weekend could prove disruptive or costly. You may change your mind about a commitment or a promise.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): What you see isn't always what you get. If career success and money are the main subject, or your emotional well being is at stake, avoid making a firm promise. Conditions may change over the weekend.

Cassia Co. Wind Developers Weigh Options

Nine wind farms may find new life following a federal rebuke of state regulators.

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI

kkruesi@magicvalley.com

Idaho wind energy developers are still determining if they will pursue legal action against the state for improperly limiting their power contracts.

According to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, state regulators were wrong to place a deadline on projects eligible for certain small-scale power contracts with utilities. The federal agency will not intervene, but will allow energy developers to pursue legal action on their own.

The issue stems from a change in the state's benchmark for eligibility under the federal Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act. For several years, the Idaho Public Utilities Commission allowed projects producing up to 10 megawatts to qualify for the PURPA rates. But last year, the PUC announced that wind projects submitting contracts after Dec. 14, 2010, would only receive the rates for 100 kilowatts or

That date was set after Idaho Power Co. and Rocky Mountain Power complained that developers were splitting up big wind developments into smaller projects to be eligible for the

FERC found.

"What was unusual was that FERC went to great lengths to show as to why PUC wasn't in compliance with federal law," said Peter Richardson, an attorney representing Cotterel WindEnergy Center. The group has proposed five wind projects near Burley.

Richardson said his clients were still determining if they will pursue legal action. He expected they would make a decision soon.

"This is a landmark case in turn of Idaho's implementation of PURPA," he said. "But this does offer us new opportunities to move forward on the project."

The PUC is in settlement discussions with two energy developers after the companies appealed the deadline decision last winter. Developers Cedar Creek Wind and Wasatch Wind Intermountain have held off taking the matter to court, said Gene Fadness, spokesman for the PUC.

Wasatch Wind Intermountain has plans for two projects south of the City of Rocks National Reserve.

"Wind developers wanted an enforcement action but FERC didn't go that far," Fadness said. "But they said wind developers have a strong case to take it to whatever court that they want."

American Wind Group has two projects lined up near Declo. The company is currently contacting legal counsel on how to move forward.

"We feel like we can pursue this in federal court," said Brian Jackson, American Wind's president. "It's an obligation, our project is being threatened. The time is

Snake River Sun

LAURIE WELCH · TIMES-NEWS

The sun burns through a slightly overcast sky Thursday near the edge of the Snake River at the Heyburn Riverside Park Arboretum. Those clouds should continue to grow today, as forecasters project a 50 percent chance of rain or snow in Mini-Cassia.

Pepcorn

testimony to be "harmless error" for the two convictions it preserved. "The court should have found the error not to be harmless," Roark said at the Friday hearing. "Those five witnesses and testimony should have never been admitted."

The testimony to which he refers involves five family members, some who claim they were molested by Pepcorn as early as the 1960s. Roark said the alleged incidents are "40 to 50 years ago in an entirely different context."

The state's attorney, John McKinney, said the testimony shows a "common scheme or plan," legal wording to establish a behavioral pattern of Pepcorn's alleged sexual misconduct.

The justices in attendance - Chief Justice Roger Burdick, Justice Jim Jones, Justice Warren Jones and Justice Joel Horton - asked a handful of questions during the attorneys' arguments. But they gave no indication of what the potential ruling could be.
