It's Election Day in the Magic Valley. There are 118 candidates vying for votes and nine ballot measures yet to be decided. Here's what you need to know.

Where do I vote?

Head to your general election precinct — the same place you'll go to vote during next year's presidential election.

Polls are open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. If you don't know where your precinct is, visit www.idahovotes.gov for a list of polling places — or, give your county clerk a call.

What if I'm not registered?

Regardless of whether you're registered to vote, you need to bring your photo identification. You'll also need to bring proof of residence — like a utility bill for your home in your name — if you're not registered or if you've moved since the last election.

Where do I find out who won?

You're there. Visit Magicvalley.com after the polls close, as we'll post election results as soon as we round them up. ## Chobani Swiftly Clears Council

Twin Falls City Council approves zoning changes to start the process of building the yogurt plant, but decides to hold off on tower vote.

BY BEN BOTKIN
bbotkin@magicvalley.com

With great fanfare, Twin Falls city and urban renewal officials Thursday announced Greek yogurt maker Chobani plans to build a facility in the city, and approved a redevelopment agreement to start that process.

That same work continued on Monday, but a little more quietly. The council, by votes of 6-0, breezed through a public hearing and two votes to rezone part of Chobani's future home from commercial to heavy manufacturing. The change affected 58 acres of the 190-acre site, located at the southwest corner of Kimberly Road and 3300 East Road.

With the company planning to break ground in a few weeks and start producing yogurt in eight months, officials stressed the need for preparation. Chobani, part of New York-based parent company Agro Farma, will employ about 400 people when it opens.

"We need to get moving on it," said Mitch Humble, community development director for Twin Falls.

Councilman Trip Craig, who is recovering from surgery, was absent.

The council also approved 6-0 a request for additional height for buildings beyond the 50 feet currently allowed in the area. Chobani will now be able to build regular structures up to 60 feet tall, and send agricultural buildings like storage silos up to 120 feet.

Some other Chobani-related work: the council agreed to a contract with EHM Engineers for design, right-of-way acquisition and construction management administration services for the northeast sewer project. The project will

If Wall Street protesters ever figure out how much is spent on pets, their next protest may be on the edge of the doghouse.

For as cute as Fido or Fluffy may be, they also demand a variety of services that show no sign of getting any cheaper. A recent report from the American Pet Products Association shows that Americans are expected to spend $50 billion on their pets by the end of the

Buhl Charter School Could Open in 2013

Unlike those that have opened in other parts of the Magic Valley, Buhl's first charter school may be run by the town's school district.

BY JULIE WOOTTON
jwootton@magicvalley.com

Buhl's first charter school may open its doors in the next couple of years.

But unlike many Magic Valley charter schools, this one wouldn't compete with the local school district for students.

Superintendent Byron Stutzman is writing a proposal for an alternative charter school for at-risk students in kindergarten through 12th grade. The school would be part of the Buhl School District and could open as early as fall 2013.

"We want to focus on students who need a different education than we're currently able to offer," Stutzman said.

About 73 percent of students in the Buhl School District are socioeconomically disadvantaged, he said,

What Does it Take to Open a Charter School?

Public charter school proposals go through various steps before they're approved. Here are the basics of how it will work for Buhl:

- The charter school developer — in this case, the school district — is required to attend a workshop sponsored by the Idaho State Department of Education.
- The district must submit paperwork to deem the school a non-profit organization.
- A charter school petition goes through a "sufficiency review" by the state, which usually takes about 30 days.
- A public hearing is held and the school board decides whether to approve the proposal.
- If approved, the petition goes back to the state. If it's one of the first six proposals received that year, the charter school is official.

Kimberly Woman in Serious Condition after Crash

TIMES-NEWS

Barbara Sievers was listed in serious condition at an Idaho Falls hospital on Monday, two days after her vehicle was hit by a driver running a red light in Twin Falls.

On Friday morning, Sievers, 79, of Kimberly, was driving a 2001 Buick sedan eastbound on Orchard Drive. She was hit while crossing Washing-ton Street South, accord-ing to Twin Falls police. Witness accounts say a 1991 Dodge pickup truck, driven by 77-year-old Gayle Bennet of Twin Falls, failed to stop at a red light and hit the driver's side of the Buick. Neither vehicle contained other passengers.

Sievers was taken to Eastern Idaho Regional Medical Center via air am-bulance, while Bennet was taken by ground to St. Luke's Magic Valley Med-ical Center in Boise. He was listed in fair condition as of Monday.

The crash remains un-der investigation, and po-lice have so far not issued a citation or filed charges.

CSI Plans Veterans' Events

TIMES-NEWS

The College of Southern Idaho has several events planned this week to cele-brate veterans ahead of Veterans Day on Thursday.

Representatives from military branches will bring equipment and training gear to campus from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. today outside the Student Union Building.

A veteran's recognition ceremony will be held at noon Wednesday outside the Student Union Build-ing. The CSI choir will per-form the national anthem and music professor George Halsell will play "Taps."

President Jerry Beck and a chaplain for the National Guard will also speak dur-ing the Wednesday cere-mony. Members of the public are invited.

Members of CSI's veter-ans student club will also collect donated items this week for care packages to send to deployed troops. Items may be dropped off from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. in room 203 of the Shields Building, room 144 of the Taylor Building and in the career center.

BURGLARY SUSPECTS PLEAD GUILTY

TIMES-NEWS

Two Twin Falls men sus-pected of plotting two bur-glaries this year have pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy in one of their cases.

Jon Bellus, 20, and Ra-mon Garcia, 22, both pleaded guilty to conspir-acy to commit burglary last week in Twin Falls County 5th District Court, and are now scheduled for sen-tencing.

Investigators in August accused Bellus and Garcia of attempting to break into the home of a 94-year-old Twin Falls woman. Ac-cording to the police re-port, Mildred Soran was stirred from sleep at about 3 a.m. Aug. 26 by the sounds of someone trying to gain entry to her house. She saw flashlights outside her window and called 911. Police arrived to find the door to an attached garage kicked in.

Police identified the duo from surveillance footage and made arrests within days.

The two men were also charged with conspiracy to commit burglary from a separate incident, in which the state accused them of plotting to burglarize Dick's Pharmacy in May. Their al-leged plan was to steal painkillers and sell them. The state has asked the court to dismiss the charges, which is part of the plea deal in the August case.

Bellus and Garcia are both slated for a Jan. 3 sen-tencing. Prosecutors have recommended a suspend-ed sentence and probation for both men.

and with current funding lev-els, it's hard to address their needs.

Stutzman said students who struggle at the high school level tend to drop out of school and find an alternate route to their diploma, such as testing for their high school equivalency degree.

The goal of the charter school, he said, will be to give at-risk students the chance to be successful and graduate from the Buhl School District.

Traditionally, alternative schools usually include only seventh through 12th grades. Stutzman said that's one rea-son he's pursuing a charter school – to include a wider variety of ages.

Another reason involves fi-nances. In March, when Stutzman first floated the idea, he suggested a charter school would be a way to generate money for his district.

Melissa McGrath, spokes-woman for the Idaho State Department of Education, said Monday that charter schools are under the same funding formula as traditional schools.

However, she said it's possi-ble that the school could end up with more money per stu-dent if the school district qual-ifies for a different funding formula. Districts receive some funding per "support unit," a measure that can favor smaller districts that still have to staff teachers even with fewer students.

Currently, seventh through 12th grade students in Buhl can be classified as "at risk" for reasons from repeating at least one grade, to failing one or more academic subject, to pregnancy.

Stutzman doesn't yet have an estimate of the number of students who would be en-rolled at the school. However,

"we'd start small and increase depending on the need," he said.

Getting a charter school proposal approved is a lengthy process.

Stutzman is in the process of submitting paperwork to mark the charter as a nonprof-it, a requirement for starting a charter school.

He'll submit a charter school petition to the state Department of Education for review. And, the Buhl School Board will have to vote both on the proposal and whether to be the school's governing agency. Public charter schools in Idaho can be overseen ei-ther by a local board or the Idaho Public Charter School Commission.

What's more rare is for that local board to be a school dis-trict. If approved, Buhl's school would be the state's 44th charter; it would be just the 15th to be governed by a school district.

Teen Burglary Suspect Set for Sentencing

TIMES-NEWS

A Twin Falls teen sched-uled for trial this week re-cently pleaded guilty to felony burglary.

Andrew Mandis, 19, changed his plea in Twin Falls County 5th District Court in late October, ad-mitting to one count of burglary in exchange for the state asking to drop two more charges.

He, along with 18-year-old Mason Tanner and 17-year-old Thomas Pettus, who was charged as an adult, was accused of an Aug. 24 rash of vehicle burglaries in Twin Falls.

The trio was found in pos-session of iPods, a GPS de-vice and a purse, which were claimed by their owners as missing, police said.

According to the agree-ment, the state will seek a two-year probationary term and up to 90 days in jail for Mandis. His sen-tencing is scheduled for Dec. 19.

Tanner pleaded guilty to felony burglary in October, and his sentencing is slat-ed for Nov. 28. Pettus, charged with misde-meanor petit theft, has a preliminary hearing on Thursday.

4-Vehicle Crash in Ketchum Injures Woman

TIMES-NEWS

A Ketchum woman sus-tained unknown injuries during a Thursday crash in the Blaine County town, ac-cording to Ketchum police.

Victoria Lynn Linder-mann, 22, was hospitalized following an accident in-volving four vehicles around 3 p.m. that day. The crash occurred on State Highway 75 next to the Lift Tower Lodge, when Rafael Farias, 42, of Hailey, hit another ve-hicle and started a chain re-

Farias' landscaping truck smashed into a Jeep sport utility vehicle, driven by Lin-dermann, causing her to hit a Ketchum Fire Department SUV. The fire department's truck, driven by Asst. Fire Chief Robby Englehart, then hit 27-year-old Ketchum resident Rachel Ann Carley Caroline's Nissan SUV.

Lindermann was the only individual injured in the multi-vehicle crash. Farias was cited for inattentive driving.

Light Snow Expected for This Weekend

TIMES-NEWS

A light layer of snow greeted Magic Valley resi-dents Monday morning. But, don't look for enough to cancel school anytime soon.

The light display of snow was just enough to introduce winter, said Les Colin, forecaster for the National Weather Service in Boise.

"It's not unusual to get our first snow this early," he said. "This is a com-mon thing, but in recent years it hasn't come this early."

Low stratus clouds helped spur the Sunday snow show that lasted un-til Monday morning, he said.

For those who can't wait for more, the Magic Valley is expected to receive a large storm this weekend. The storm will most likely bring in a few snow flur-ries, Colin said.

"There won't be as much as Monday, but it'll be enough to get a few big flakes," he said.

Artfully Repurposed, or Refuse?

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • A Burley man is questioning the fairness of the city's new junk ordinance, and says an appeals committee should evaluate cases where citizens feel they receive an unfair junk ordinance citation.

Plumber Nathan Harris, who lives in the 1700 block of Schodde Avenue, said he received a citation Sept. 18 ordering him to remove commodes in front of his house that he intended to use as flower pots. He had 10 days to move them, he said, or face a $300 fine or 60 days in jail.

Harris tried to appeal his case with the City Council in October, but the council voted against the issue being heard during the meeting.

"The issue is not whether I should be allowed to have a toilet in my yard," Harris said. "The issue is we should be able to get up in front of the City Council and fight for our rights, and we're being denied that right."

Under the new city ordinance, citizens may not have any household goods, equipment, machinery or miscellaneous property in their yards.

"The city has to have rules but by the same token they should be enforced universally," Harris said.

Harris says the ordinance is not being enforced uniformly in the city, as evidenced by scores of homes with old metal milk jugs, whiskey barrels, wagon wheels, railroad ties and other items that have been repurposed and incorporated into their landscapes.

"I think it is OK for people to have those kinds of items unless it's an eyesore to the people," said city resident Joy Covington.

Covington said a resident could probably even get away with incorporating bathroom fixtures into their decor — if they put them in their backyard and landscaped them properly.

Harris said he tried first to get on the city's agenda by visiting with the city's mayor. When he was turned away, he said, he asked Councilman Jay Lenkersdorfer to approach the council about putting the item on the agenda, which failed to garner the required majority vote by the council.

Burley Councilman Gordon Hansen, who voted against hearing the matter, said he has since reconsidered the issue and is working to bring the ordinance back up for council review.

"At the time I felt like I needed to back the mayor and city employee who issued the citation," Hansen said.

Since then, Hansen has met with Harris and feels like he has some valid points regarding the interpretation of the ordinance.

The council will most likely further define the ordinance to close up the loopholes.

Hansen said these types of ordinances are about keeping the peace among citizens and enforcement is often complaint driven, much like in the case of a barking dog.

"It definitely drew complaints," Hansen said. "People do have private property rights but they give up some of those when they live in the city."

Hansen said the city had received four complaints against Harris' choice of outdoor decor.

Harris said the issue for him became much bigger than whether he could put toilets in his front yard when the council would not hear his complaint.

"If they would have just given me five minutes of their time and would have voted against me on the issue, I would have just dropped it," Harris said.

Hansen said whether citizens should be allowed to put items on the council's agenda has been "a point of contention."

"When we had the open forum it was just a can of worms," Hansen said.

Hansen said he is working to have the issue on the city's Nov. 15 agenda.

In other business, the council directed city staff to get some more input from the public about two proposed towers aimed at improving communications between emergency responders. That came after several residents asked for more opportunity to look for options.

Under consideration are a 60-foot tower near the Twin Falls Area Chamber of Commerce Visitors Center, and a 100-foot tower near the Twin Falls Police Department gun range in northeast Twin Falls.

Mayor Don Hall said he expects the council to make a decision within two weeks. He stressed that while the city has already gathered input, talking more with others who felt left out is important.

number of owners getting rid of their animals."

Blackwood said her shelter is filled with abandoned pets that are in need of expensive medical services or high-maintenance grooming. And as more people recover from the recession, she's also seeing more people ditch their pets because they can no longer afford to feed them.

"A lot of people would love to own a pet but they are completely overwhelmed at how to pay for everything when things get hard," she said.

Americans may be spending more on their animals because pet health care services are also climbing. The APPA report shows that the average surgical vet visit for a dog costs owners $410 and the regular vet visit costs close to $250.

Dr. Zsigmond Szanto of

Twin Falls Veterinary Clinic & Hospital says he sees clients traveling from Boise and Salt Lake City to his office in hopes of finding a better deal.

As pet medical researchers require more money to fund their projects, vet supply companies are required to raise their prices. Veterinarian offices must then pay higher amounts to fill their supply closets and in turn, charge their clients higher rates.

"We may not charge the same as Boise does but we have to pay the same price for the same supplies," he said. "We've been lucky to not raise our rates lately."

And while payment plans can be an option for some, Szanto says that it's unrealistic to pretend the vet's office is similar to a bank.

"Payment plans are tricky," he said. "We understand emergency situations, but our margin is so small that we can't give out loans to everyone."

Idaho and Mont. Wolf Hunts Head to Court

BY MATTHEW BROWN
Associated Press

BILLINGS, Mont. • With more than 150 gray wolves shot in the Northern Rockies so far this fall, a panel of federal judges Tuesday will consider halting public wolf hunts until a lawsuit seeking to restore protections for the animals is resolved.
Congress cleared the way for the hunts last spring, when lawmakers took the unprecedented step of stripping Endangered Species Act protections from more than 1,300 wolves in Montana and Idaho.
Wildlife advocates sued to reverse the move and want the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to suspend the hunts. They claim Congress violated the Constitution’s separation of powers mandate by reversing prior court rulings that kept protections in place.

Montana set a 220-wolf quota for its hunt. Idaho’s hunt has no cap.
Prior requests for an emergency injunction against the hunts were denied. Now, more than two months after the states’ wolf seasons began, advocates will get the chance to make their case Tuesday before a three-judge panel. They said the killing is removing animals that are valuable to science and beloved by wolf watchers.

“They get a bad rap — they’re the big, bad wolves,” said Dave Hornoff with the National Wolfwatcher Coalition. “But you see them with their pups, you watch them raise their pups and you watch the pups grow up. You become very attached. Dying in this manner (hunting) is very hard to accept. It’s disheartening.”
The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is monitoring the hunts, but agency officials said they have no plans to intervene because wolves have recovered in the region and the states have promised to manage them responsibly.

Wyoming Gov. Matt Mead recently struck a deal with Interior Secretary Ken Salazar that could allow wolf hunting in that state as early as next year.
First the plan has to be approved by Wyoming lawmakers. A legislative committee was scheduled to discuss the issue Tuesday, although final action would not come until early next year.
Congress left Wyoming out of a budget bill rider in the spring that took wolves off the endangered list across five other states. Federal wildlife officials said at the time that Wyoming’s wolf law was too tough on the animals to ensure their long-term survival.

Montana’s quota was set with the goal of reducing wolf numbers by 25 percent compared with last year, to 425 animals.
Idaho officials have said only that they plan to maintain at least 150 wolves, out of a current population of at least 700 animals.
State officials said curbing the predator’s population could help prevent attacks on livestock and big game herds.
So far this year, wolves in Montana and Idaho have killed 152 cattle and calves, 108 sheep, 12 dogs and three horses, according to confirmed kill tallies provided by state and federal officials.

Even without hunting, wolves are shot regularly in the two states in response to livestock attacks. At least 103 of the predators had been killed through last week by government wildlife agents and ranchers.
If wolf numbers drop below 100 animals in either state, federal officials would step in to restore endangered species protections. That safety valve undercuts the plaintiffs’ contention that the hunts could cause irreparable harm, attorneys for the government contended in court documents filed in advance of the hearing.

Commission: No Clemency For Condemned Idaho Inmate

BY REBECCA BOONE
Associated Press

BOISE • The Idaho Commission of Pardons and Parole says it won’t consider a clemency request from condemned inmate Paul Ezra Rhoades, who is scheduled to die by lethal injection Nov. 18.
Rhoades was sentenced to death for the murders of Susan Michelbacher and Stacy Baldwin in 1987, and he was sentenced to life in prison for the murder of Nolan Haddon the same year.
Commission director

Olivia Craven said the panel decided Friday to deny Rhoades’ request for a clemency hearing. Under Idaho law, only the governor has the authority to grant clemency on death penalty cases, but in order for the governor to do so, the parole commission must first consider the request and make a recommendation to the governor.
Craven said she met personally with Rhoades and his attorneys Oct. 14 to answer any questions they had about the clemency process. Inmates are only allowed to petition for clemency once every 12 months, and so she wanted to make sure Rhoades had all the information he needed, Craven said. The commissioners spent the last couple of weeks reviewing Rhoades’ case before making the decision, she said.

“They take this very seriously. They put in a lot of their personal time, and I know they spent a lot of time reviewing everything over and over,” Craven said. “So, their decision was not made lightly.”

Invasive Mussels Found in Inspections

BOISE (AP) • Idaho officials intercepted 24 boats contaminated with invasive zebra or quagga mussels and Washington decontaminated 20 boats during the last boating season — numbers that have officials in both states concerned.
“Mussel-fouled boats continue to leave infested waters without proper decontamination,” Idaho Department of Agriculture Director Celia

Gould told The Spokesman-Review. “The federal government needs to do a better job of containing infestations in their waters and preventing the spread of these species to the Pacific Northwest states.”
Washington, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming and Montana all have sent letters in the past three years to the National Park Service appealing for help. The agency runs the Lake Mead National Recreation Area in southern Nevada, which has been infested by zebra mussels believed to have been transported from the Great Lakes by unwitting recreational boaters.

Of the 24 mussel-contaminated boats spotted at Idaho check stations, 15 were coming from either the Midwest or the eastern part of the U.S.

Idaho October Tax Revenue Narrowly Misses Target

BOISE (AP) • Idaho tax revenue in October narrowly missed targets, as sales taxes receipts continued to lag forecasts.
The Division of Financial Management reported on Monday that collections for the month were $209 million, or $1.6 million below goals.
For the full year, Idaho revenue is $852 million, about $10.8 million below the forecast.
With revenue only about a percent behind forecasts for the full year, however, Idaho remains on track to post a budget surplus when fiscal year 2012 ends next June.
The biggest reason for October’s shortfall?
Sales tax receipts were $4.1 million below the forecast, pushing the fiscal-year shortfall in this category to $14 million as sales tax receipts haven’t hit monthly targets since July.

Some collection categories did slightly better than forecast, including corporate and individual income taxes.

SENIOR

Q. My sister's husband died in November of last year. How can I help her through this difficult time?

A. Feelings of grief may return on this first anniversary of her husband's death. Experts call this an "anniversary reaction" and its effects can last for days or weeks. Your sister's feelings are a natural response to her loss, and reflect how important her husband's life was to her. Symptoms to watch for include sadness, loneliness and crying spells, anger, anxiety, lack of interest in usual activities, and trouble eating and sleeping, including stomach upset and nightmares. You can help your sister prepare by talking calmly about the subject. Reminisce memory - perhaps a donation to a charitable organization, a scholarship to a local college, or even a family tree-planting ceremony. Work with your sister to plan a positive distraction, such as a gathering with friends, or a low-stress trip. Help her draw friends and loved ones close to her for support, comfort and encouragement. If your sister's grief appears to get worse over time, assist her in seeking help from a mental health professional.

Idaho Works to Carry Out Online Class Requirement

BY JESSIE L. BONNER
Associated Press

BOISE • Now that Idaho has approved a requirement that high school students take at least two credits online, officials are working on plans for a statewide contract expected to include a list of providers for districts to choose from when selecting virtual courses.

Idaho will also phase in mobile computers, such as laptops or iPads, for every high school teacher and student while making online courses a graduation requirement under sweeping new education changes backed by public schools chief Tom Luna and the governor.

A task force aimed at helping implement Luna's plan to increase technology in the classroom met Monday at the Idaho Capitol in Boise. The goal is to provide schools with a list of online course providers approved and contracted by the state to offer classes to Idaho students, Luna said.

"We want to set up a bank of online providers that have negotiated a statewide contract price. That's going to drive the cost down," Luna said Monday during an interview with The Associated Press. "And then, school districts will be able to create a catalog of online courses for their students to choose from."

But under the education changes, high school students will also be allowed to enroll in any state-approved online class starting next fall — with or without permission from their school district. The company that provides that online course will then be entitled to two-thirds of the state funding sent to the school district for that student for that class period.

At least one lawmaker on Luna's task force has expressed concerns that companies picked to provide the online courses could, in some cases, tap more state funding from some of Idaho's smaller school districts. That's because they receive more money per student under Idaho's funding formula.

For example, an online course company could collect amounts that range from $210 per semester for offering a class to a student in Boise, the state's largest population center, to $733 for a student in Midvale, a rural town of less than 200 residents, according to state estimates.

This new fractional funding formula would apply only in cases where the student, or his or her parent, has selected a course outside of those offered by the companies that have been contracted by the state for a set amount. State Rep. Wendy Jaquet, D-Ketchum, serves on Luna's task force and has questioned the apparent disparities under the funding formula and whether they could make

Luna to Testify on Education Law

BOISE (AP) • Public schools chief Tom Luna says he has been asked to testify before Congress on the reauthorization of the nation's governing education law.

Luna, who is president-elect of the Council of Chief State School Officers, says he will be traveling later Monday to Washington D.C., where there has been some progress in rewriting No Child Left Behind — although it's unclear whether Congress will act this year.

Idaho was among three states that vowed earlier this year to ignore the latest requirements under the law, saying they set unrealistic benchmarks.

President Barack Obama in September said that since Congress had failed to rewrite the law, he was allowing states that meet certain requirements to get around it.

Forty states have since said they intend to seek the waivers.

It more appealing for an online company to market their courses to parents in rural areas of the state.

"I'm still wondering how all this will work, given the parental choice," Jaquet said.

But Luna counters that it's very unlikely that a parent or student will venture outside the list of courses provided by their school district. He is also skeptical that online curriculum companies will "cherry pick" students when Idaho is offering a statewide contract.

The task force is expected to send out a request for information from potential online course providers later this week, said Jason Hancock, who serves as Luna's deputy chief of staff. A request for proposals from online vendors would go out to bid early next year.

"We're probably looking at some time in March, maybe April," Hancock said.

Proponents of online education said the virtual classes will help the state save money and better prepare students for college. But critics said they'll replace teachers with computers and shift state taxpayer money to the out-of-state companies that will be tapped to provide the online curriculum and laptops.

The online class requirement was approved last week by the state Board of Education and will go before Idaho lawmakers for review in the 2012 session, which starts in January. It will apply to students entering the 9th grade in fall 2012.

Daniel Wyatt Parkhurst

Jan. 15, 1953-Nov. 3, 2011

WENDELL • Daniel Wyatt Parkhurst, 58, of Wendell, our beloved dad, PaPa, brother, uncle and friend, went home to be with his Lord on Thursday, Nov. 3, 2011.

Dan was born Jan. 15, 1953, in Jerome, Idaho, to Robert Milton and Betty Lorraine Ledington Parkhurst of Shoshone. Growing up in Shoshone, he was active in football, wrestling and baseball. Dan was dedicated to his family and was a true outdoorsman. An Idahoan through and through, he lived in the southern Idaho area the majority of his life.

Dan began his long career with Idaho Power Company (IPCo) as a lineman in Twin Falls, transferring to Vale, Ore., and eventually moving to Bellevue, Idaho. He thoroughly enjoyed living in the Wood River Valley, raising his two young children and spending the majority of their time in the outdoors. You could easily find the three of them skiing on Bald Mountain in the winter, camping and fishing in the summer and hunting in the fall.

Dan finished out his career with IPCo working in Wendell, Idaho. Dan loved hunting and fishing, which was very evident by the photos and mounts displayed on the walls of his home. He had a unique vocabulary, evolving over the years of growing up in a large family and making sense only to them. However, Dan's biggest passion was his children and grandchildren.

Survivors include his daughter, Sarah Williams of Jerome; son, Matthew Parkhurst of Wendell; grandchildren, Wyatt DeWitt and Macey Harvey, both of Jerome; siblings, Rol (Linda) Parkhurst of Buhl, Connie (Dean) Taylor of Boise, Sue Nance of Shoshone, Rob (Mary Ann) Parkhurst of Potlatch and Mary (Rod) Rosen of Palouse, Wash.; and numerous nieces and nephews. Dan was preceded in death by his wife, Lana; and his parents.

A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Friday, Nov. 6, at the Living Waters Presbyterian Church, 821 E. Main St. in Wendell, with Pastor Jim Keegan officiating. A luncheon will follow. Arrangements are under the care of Farnsworth Mortuary of Jerome.

Gregory 'Greg' Lee Clymens Jr.

July 1, 1962-Nov. 6, 2011

Greg was born in Boise, Idaho. He graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1980 and married the love of his life, Carol Elaine Wright, on June 3, 1981. He moved his young family to Jackpot, Nev., in 1986. He was a well-known member of the small community. His smile and sarcasm always made others laugh, even through the roughest of times. His hobbies included motorcycles and fishing but nothing was ever more important than time with family and friends.

He is survived by his wife, Carol; son, John (Dawn); two daughters, Kristie (Jr.) and Shreeve (Buck); six grandchildren; and two dogs.

The family would like to express a sincere thank you to the town of Jackpot, Nev., and the Twin Falls MSTI Center; things would have been so much harder without their support and friendships.

He will be truly missed and never forgotten.

A celebration of his life will be held at his residence on Nov. 13, 2011. Any arrangements can be made with the family.

A Simpler Pathway to Clean Energy

Even when companies take every effort to preserve wildlife habitats, projects can be tied up for years.

The China Mountain area in western Twin Falls County is a veritable motherlode of pristine, renewable energy — the region is home to the strongest and most reliable wind in the state. Since 2008, the first phase of the project has been creeping towards reality, but the environmental impact study is still being weighed. It could be years before turbines begin to spin — if at all.

A new, bipartisan bill could soon pave the way for an easier path to wind and solar power in Idaho and beyond.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Jim Risch, R-Idaho, and Sen. John Tester, D-Montana, helps streamline the permitting process for renewable energy projects on public lands. Language in the bill puts renewable energy on the same playing field with oil and gas companies who can lease public lands to harness energy.

We think it’s a great idea, and we applaud Risch for his move.

The bill doesn’t make it easy for public lands to become shiny carpets of photovoltaic cells and rapidly spinning wind turbines. The bill outlines specific points to ensure that the land use provides for protection of the environment and mitigation of impacts.

States and counties would benefit as well. The bill would have energy companies pay out rental or royalty fees for use of the land: 25 percent would go to the state, 25 percent would go to the county in which the project is located, 15 percent goes towards processing renewable energy permits, and the last 35 percent goes towards a land conservation fund.

We believe in conservation over preservation. The former refers to the theory that, if managed carefully, we can gain resources from the land while protecting wildlife and recreation. The latter would, in effect, wall off public lands, which seems counterintuitive to why they were created.

We’re always wary when too much development threatens our public lands. But, upon reading Risch and Tester’s bill, it strikes the appropriate balance between the need for a clean, national energy supply and protecting our fragile ecosystem.

Politics of Personal Destruction II

In 2007 when she was running for president, Hillary Rodham Clinton told a fundraising event in Carson City, Nev., “I sure don’t want Democrats, or the supporters of Democrats, to be engaging in the politics of personal destruction. I think we should stay focused on what we’re going to do for America.”

Clinton’s husband, the former president, used the phrase at the time of his impeachment proceedings for lying under oath about a sexual dalliance in the White House.

The politics of personal destruction is nothing new. It has been around from the beginning of the country when worse things were said about presidents and presidential candidates than have been alleged against Herman Cain.

After more than a week of innuendo, hearsay and rumor about alleged incidents of sexual harassment when Cain was president of the National Restaurant Association, the country on Monday was presented with one woman, a former employee at the NRA’s educational foundation, by none other than powerhouse attorney-camera hog-defender of disgruntled porn stars, Gloria Allred.

At a New York news conference, Allred (who, according to the Federal Election Commission, contributed $1,000 to Hillary Clinton and $2,300 to Barack Obama during the 2008 presidential campaign) introduced Sharon Bialek, who read a statement that sounded as though a Democratic Party activist had written it.

Bialek claimed Cain touched her inappropriately when she went to him for help in getting her old job back with the educational foundation.

Bialek provided some details that included what she wore during the alleged encounter, what Cain was wearing and the name of the Washington hotel where she met Cain in the bar for drinks. As proof of Bialek’s veracity, Allred presented two “declarations under penalty of perjury,” which she did not give to reporters, from two people to whom Bialek said she told her story.

The Cain campaign immediately issued a statement calling “All accusations of sexual harassment against Mr. Cain completely false.”

When the media and their Democratic Party allies have finished driving a stake through Cain’s heart, they will turn to other Republicans who threaten President Obama’s quest for a second term. If their effort at burying Cain succeeds, Mitt Romney and Newt Gingrich will need to watch out. Rick Perry has already felt their heat and if his campaign ever gets off life support the attacks against him will resume.

The credibility of big media continues to erode. The Washington Post reported a loss of $6.2 million for the quarter ending September 30, in part because of “continued deterioration in its newspaper and online publishing division.”

The public has found other ways to get its news. The fading establishment media blame the Internet for their decline, but growing numbers of the public — not only conservatives — view the onslaught against Herman Cain as unfair, unwarranted and inconsequential, given bigger issues facing the country. The question for many of them is why didn’t the media conduct themselves in a similar way with Barack Obama? Why, for example, has Obama still not released his transcripts from Occidental College, Columbia University and

Harvard Law School?

Near the end of his inspiring book, “This is Herman Cain!: My Journey to the White House,” Cain writes as if he is already president: “In contrast to my predecessor, I am not a community organizer advocating radical social policy with which to manipulate whole segments of the population. I am a community energizer who emphasizes the necessity for individual self-motivation.”

In that one paragraph we see what troubles the media and their Democratic Party brethren. If more people currently dependent on government became motivated, self-sufficient and independent of government, it would threaten the foundation of the welfare system that currently has 15 percent of the country addicted to food stamps.

And so, not just Herman Cain, but what he stands for must be destroyed, lest the government “addicts” be liberated and vote Republican.

Even if Cain does not win the Republican nomination (and how about the voters deciding that, not the media?), he’s proven that he has backbone. Cain the gospel singer should consider warbling Stephen Sondheim’s “I’m Still Here” because he still is, for now.

Why the Cain Candidacy Can’t Last

It’s going to be sad if what derails Herman Cain’s presidential bid are old allegations of sexual harassment. It’s not that such actions aren’t repugnant. It’s just that, on the voluminous list titled “Things That Should Keep Herman Cain From Being President,” they don’t make the first page.

It’s like saying Cher can’t be pope because her hair’s too long.

Herman Cain, the front-runner of the week, never wanted to be president. He just wants to stimulate book sales and pump up speaking fees. He has no national campaign structure and spends more time at signings than campaign events.

Cain tried to make the fact that he’s not running for president clear with a recent campaign commercial: It featured a mildly unattractive, middle-age, male campaign worker blowing cigarette smoke into a camera. It’s not even an effective commercial for cigarettes, and might further depress the market for mildly unattractive middle-age men. The subtle message was, “I’m Herman Cain, and I want my life back. Please do not tell pollsters you will vote for me. Tell them Ron Paul. They freakin’ hate that.”

Cain’s previous runs for office include a stab at the presidency in 2000 that was absolutely unforgettable, in the sense that it’s not possible to forget things we never knew about, and a run for U.S. Senate. Do you know what state he ran in? Against whom? When? How he did?

Does it seem as if, were he a legitimate presidential candidate, you would know these things about him?

Cain has one significant idea, the 9-9-9 tax plan. It would replace the current code with 9 percent levies on sales, income and corporate earnings. The result would be a massive increase in taxes on the poor and middle class, a mammoth windfall for the wealthy, and hundreds of billions of dollars tacked on to our deficit each year.

Cain’s Senate campaign was largely predicated on his being the most virulent Republican abortion opponent in Georgia (top that!) and claims that the mission of Planned Parenthood was in utero genocide against black babies. But recently he said of abortion laws: “It’s not the government’s role — or anybody else’s role — to make that decision.

So what I’m saying is, it ultimately gets down to a choice that that family or that mother has to make. Not me as president. Not some politician. Not a bureaucrat. It gets down to that family. And whatever they decide, they decide.” That’s bizarre, even by Cain campaign standards.

The debate over the import and impact of sexual harassment charges will rage on, but it misses the point. When it comes to choosing a president, we shouldn’t be talking about allegations against Herman Cain, not because they don’t matter, but because we shouldn’t be talking about Herman Cain at all.

Federal Judge Blocks Graphic Images on Cigarette Packs

BY NEDRA PICKLER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • A judge on Monday blocked a federal requirement that would have begun forcing tobacco companies next year to put graphic images including dead and diseased smokers on their cigarette packages.

U.S. District Judge Richard Leon ruled that it’s likely the cigarette makers will succeed in a lawsuit to block the new standard. He stopped the requirement until after the lawsuit is resolved, which could take years.

A similar case brought by the tobacco companies against the labels is pending before the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati. U.S. District Judge Joseph McKinley upheld most of the marketing restrictions in the law in January 2010. The appeals court heard arguments in the case in July but is not expected to rule for several months.

Leon found the nine graphic images approved by the Food and Drug Administration in June go beyond conveying the facts about the health risks of smoking or go beyond that into advocacy — a critical distinction in a case over free speech.

The packaging would have included color images of a man exhaling cigarette smoke through a tracheotomy hole in his throat; a plume of cigarette smoke enveloping an infant receiving a mother’s kiss; a pair of diseased lungs next to a pair of healthy lungs; a diseased mouth afflicted with what appears to be cancerous lesions; a man breathing into an oxygen mask; a cadaver on a table with post-autopsy chest staples; a woman weeping; a premature baby in an incubator; and a man wearing a T-shirt that features a “No Smoking” symbol and the words “I Quit.”

Greece to Receive Next Bailout Slice
Greece can get a crucial $11 billion slice of bailout money this month if the leaders of the two main parties both commit in writing to the terms of the country’s two massive bailouts and the austerity measures and economic reforms that they require, euro-zone finance chiefs said Monday. That payment, which has been delayed by two months, would head off a potentially disastrous default as early as December.

Drilling Tremors Don’t Match Power of Natural
Experts say the flurry of earthquakes in Oklahoma can’t be blamed on man’s thirst for oil and gas. The weekend quakes were far stronger than the weak tremors caused by drilling — especially the controversial practice of hydraulic fracturing, known as fracking. The shaking caused by drilling is usually so weak that it can’t be felt. Experts say the Oklahoma quakes released nearly 16,000 times more energy than the strongest attributed to hydraulic fracturing. — Associated Press

Michael Jackson’s Doctor Convicted

LOS ANGELES (AP) • Michael Jackson’s doctor was convicted Monday of involuntary manslaughter after a trial that painted him as a reckless caregiver who administered a lethal dose of a powerful anesthetic that killed the pop star.

The verdict against Dr. Conrad Murray marked the latest chapter in one of pop culture’s most shocking tragedies — the death of the King of Pop on the eve of the singer’s heavily promoted comeback concerts.

Members of Jackson’s family wept quietly after the verdict was read, and his mother, Katherine Jackson, later told The Associated Press, “I feel better now.”

Woman Accuses Herman Cain of Making Bold Sexual Advance

BY BETH FOUHY and JACK GILLUM
Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) • Leaving little to the imagination, a Chicago-area woman on Monday accused Republican presidential hopeful Herman Cain of making a crude sexual advance more than a decade ago when she was seeking his help finding a job.

“Come clean,” Sharon Bialek challenged Cain at a news conference in New York at which she described herself as “a face and a voice” to support other accusers who have so far remained anonymous.

Cain’s campaign swiftly denied Bialek’s account. “All allegations of harassment against Mr. Cain are completely false,” it said in a written statement.

Even so, Bialek’s nationally broadcast appearance on cable television marked a new and — for Cain — dangerous turn in a controversy that he has struggled for more than a week to shed. An upstart in the presidential race, Cain shot to the top of public opinion polls in recent weeks and emerged, however temporarily, as the main conservative challenger to Mitt Romney.

Accompanied by her prominent lawyer, Gloria Allred, Bialek accused Cain of making a sexual advance one night in mid-July 1997, when she had travelled to Washington to have dinner with him in hopes he could help her find work.

She said the two had finished dinner and were in a car for what she thought was

U.S. Poverty at New High: 16 Percent

BY HOPE YEN
Associated Press

Other Findings

- Poverty for Asians increased, from 12.1 percent under the official measure to 16.7 percent. Among non-Hispanic whites, it rose from about 10 percent to 11.1 percent.
- The poverty rate for children declined, from 22 percent to 18.2 percent.
- Under the revised formula, the West had the most people in poverty at 19.4 percent. It was followed by the South (16.3 percent), the Northeast (14.5 percent) and the Midwest (13.1 percent).

record 46.2 million, or 15.1 percent, that was officially reported in September.

Broken down by group, Americans 65 or older sustained the largest increases in poverty under the revised formula — nearly doubling to 15.9 percent, or 1 in 6 — because of medical expenses that are not accounted for in the official rate. Those include rising Medicare premiums, deductibles and expenses for prescription drugs.

“As seniors choose between food and medicine, some lawmakers are threatening lifeline programs that provide a boost to those in poverty or a safety net to those grasping at the middle class,” said Jo Ann Jenkins, president of AARP

United States Sees Iran Nuclear Report as Case for New Sanctions

BY MATTHEW LEE
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • The United States is increasingly worried by indications that Iran may be on the brink of developing a nuclear weapon, but the latest report on its atomic program from a U.N. watchdog is unlikely to sway the Obama administration from its plan to rely on sanctions and diplomatic pressure, not military threats, to deter Iranian ambitions.

Ahead of the release this week of a new report on the Iranian program from the International Atomic Energy Agency, U.S. officials said Monday the administration will use the report as leverage in making its case to other countries that sanctions against Iran should be expanded and tightened and that the enforcement of current sanctions be toughened.

The officials said the option of using force, a topic of intense speculation in Israel, Europe and the United States in recent days, to prevent Iran from acquiring an atomic weapon will not be taken off the table. Iran denies it is seeking nuclear weapons.

The possibility of a U.S. strike is considered remote, however. That is partly because there is no certainty it would successfully stop Iran and partly because of the diplomatic and political repercussions for a cash-strapped nation emerging from two wars.

Iran rebuffed President Barack Obama’s early attempts at a political rapprochement, and the diplomatic distance between the two nations has appeared to widen. Iran’s response to a military strike on its known nuclear facilities is a matter of speculation, but U.S. military officials have assumed Iran could retaliate with attacks on Israel or other U.S. allies within easy reach, such as Turkey. Iran could also encourage violence against U.S. interests by proxy militias such as Hezbollah.

The White House and State Department declined to comment on specifics of the report, expected to be presented on Wednesday at IAEA headquarters in Vienna, but elements have been leaking out since The Associated Press first reported details on Friday.

The report will suggest Iran made computer models of a nuclear warhead and includes satellite imagery of what the IAEA believes is a large steel container used for nuclear arms-related high explosives tests, diplomats told the AP.

New Formula Could Cut Future Benefits, Raise Taxes

BY STEPHEN OHLEMACHER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Just as 55 million Social Security recipients are about to get their first benefit increase in three years, Congress is looking at reducing future raises by adopting a new measure of inflation that also would increase taxes for most families — the biggest impact falling on those with low incomes.

If adopted across the government, the inflation measure would have widespread ramifications. Future increases in veterans' benefits and pensions for federal workers and military personnel would be smaller. And over time, fewer people would qualify for Medicaid, Head Start, food stamps, school lunch programs and home heating assistance than under the current measure.

Taxes would go up by $60 billion over the next decade because annual adjustments to the tax brackets would be smaller, resulting in more people jumping into higher tax brackets because their wages rose faster than the new inflation measure. Annual increases in the standard deduction and personal exemptions would become smaller.

Despite fierce opposition from seniors groups, the proposal is gaining momentum in part because it would let policymakers gradually cut benefits and increase taxes in a way that might not be readily apparent to most Americans. Changes at first would be small — the Social Security increase would be cut by just a few dollars in the first year.

But the impact, as well as savings to the government, would grow over time, generating about $200 billion in the first decade and much more after that.

The proposal to adopt a new Consumer Price Index was floated by the Obama administration during deficit reduction talks in the summer. Now, it is one of the few options supported by both Democratic and Republican members of a joint super-committee in Congress working to reduce government borrowing.

The committee of six Democrats and six Republicans is struggling to come up with a plan to reduce government red ink by at least $1.2 trillion over the next decade. Changing the inflation index alone would put them a sixth of the way there.

"I think the thought process behind this is, slip this in, people won't understand it," said Max Richtman, president and CEO of the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare.

Richtman's group is spending about $2 million on radio, TV and direct mail ads to fight cuts in Social Security and Medicare. His message to Congress: "Don't believe that taking this approach to cutting Social Security will not be noticed. You will pay for it."

A TV ad by AARP puts it this way: "We are 50 million seniors who earned our benefits, and you will be hearing from us today — and on Election Day."

The inflation measure under consideration is called the Chained Consumer Price Index, or chained CPI. On average, the measure shows a lower level of inflation than the more widely used CPI for All Urban Consumers.

Many economists argue that the chained CPI is more accurate because it assumes that as prices increase, consumers switch to lower cost alternatives, reducing the amount of inflation they experience.

For example, if the price of beef increases while the price of pork does not, people will buy more pork. Or, as opponents mockingly argue, if the price of home heating oil goes up, people will turn down their heat and wear more sweaters.

Carter: Few Houses Built for Haitian Poor

BY TRENTON DANIEL
Associated Press

LEOGANE, Haiti • Haiti hasn't seen many homes built for the poor following a devastating earthquake almost two years ago, former U.S. President Jimmy Carter said Monday.

In a 10-minute interview with The Associated Press, Carter said he noticed little housing reconstruction for struggling Haitians as he drove from the international airport to the residence of the U.S. ambassador in Port-au-Prince to Leogane, a coastal city 18 miles (29 kilometers) west of the capital that was largely flattened in the earthquake because of its proximity to the epicenter.

He added that there may be construction in other parts of Haiti but that he hadn't seen it.

"We haven't seen very much reconstruction of homes for low-income people," Carter said with his wife Rosalynn seated at his side. "We have seen some of the villas, some of the fancy homes along the beachfront being repaired. But there hasn't been much evidence yet of reconstruction of the homes in Port-au-Prince."

Rosalynn Carter weighed in with her own observations of the earthquake zone, her voice shaking: "I don't think anybody on earth ought to have to live in situations like this."

The Carters came to Haiti as part of a six-day mission to help 500 volunteers from the Atlanta-based Christian charity Habitat for Humanity build 100 homes for families displaced by the January 2010 earthquake. The housing effort aims to house 500 families, and they are due to move in February, after latrines and wells have been installed.

Nicole Sully, a 39-year-old wife and mother of five, will be among those to take a new home. The one-room houses are built with cinderblock bases and plywood walls.

"It's good for us because where we are now it's not really a good situation," Sully said as volunteers hammered away on two-by-fours on the frame of her home.

Sully was among the tens of thousands of people to lose her home in the earthquake and sought shelter in flimsy constructions patched together with tin, twine and nails.

Community leaders in Leogane deemed her eligible for a free house after they found her to be among the "most vulnerable," said Claudy Jeudy, the national director for Habitat for Humanity.

The $6 million housing project, funded mostly by the Inter-American Development Bank, is unique in this sense: The group secured the land, a 34-acre plot of land at the end of a dirt lane, from the mayor of Leogane, who gave it away. Builders have complained since the earthquake that they've been unable to move forward on home construction because it's unclear who owns which parcels of land. Many land titles were lost in the quake.

"They came to help us," Leogane Mayor Santos Alexis said in his office at town hall. "We had no choice but to give them the land so they could build the houses."

There are still 3,000 people living without proper shelter in Leogane, Alexis said. Nationwide, there are more than 500,000 people living in makeshift camps, down from a peak of 1.3 million just after the quake, according to the International Organization for Migration.

Carter, 87, has long been involved in Haiti, whether as president or after he left office.

a ride to an office building.

"Instead of going into the offices he suddenly reached over and he put his hand on my leg, under my skirt toward my genitals," she said.

"He also pushed my head toward his crotch," she added.

Bialek said she told her boyfriend, an unidentified pediatrician, as well as a longtime male friend of the episode.

Allred, a sex discrimination attorney with Democratic ties, moved preemptively to blunt any attacks on Bialek's motives. She described her client as a registered Republican, a single mother and a woman with a long and successful work history.

Some of Cain's allies immediately made a target of Allred, a Democratic campaign donor, rather than focusing any anger on Cain's accuser.

Georgia state Sen. Joshua McKoon, who has endorsed Cain, accused Allred of "carnival theatrics" fueled by a partisan agenda.

"Her involvement makes it clear that it's a political smear job orchestrated by those on the left because there is nothing more terrifying than Herman Cain as the Republican nominee," the Republican lawmaker said.

But Doug Heye, a political consultant who is unaligned in the GOP race, said Bialek's allegations "are different because they involve a name and specific details."

He said Allred's involvement "is going to make some people disbelieve the charges out of hand because of the side show she creates. But Herman Cain has to be clear and convincing in his response."

Even before Bialek stepped forward, presidential rival Jon Huntsman and Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour had publicly urged Cain to address sexual harassment allegations in greater detail.

Images

"It is abundantly clear from viewing these images that the emotional response they were crafted to induce is calculated to provoke the viewer to quit, or never to start smoking — an objective wholly apart from disseminating purely factual and uncontroversial information," Leon wrote in his 29-page opinion. He pointed out that at least some were altered photographs to evoke emotion.

The judge also pointed out the size of the labels suggests they are unconstitutional — the FDA requirement said the labels were to cover the entire top half of cigarette packs, front and back and include a number for a stop-smoking hotline. The labels were to constitute 20 percent of cigarette advertising, and marketers were to rotate use of the images. Leon said the labels would amount to a "mini-billboard" for the agency's "obvious anti-smoking agenda."

The Justice Department argued that the images, coupled with written warnings, were designed to communicate the dangers to youngsters and adults. The FDA declined to comment on the judge's ruling, and a spokesman for the Justice Department would not say whether it plans to appeal, only that it is reviewing the ruling.

Poverty

Foundation, which represents the needs of older Americans. "With nearly 16 percent of seniors already living in poverty, our country cannot afford to slide further backward."

Working-age adults ages 18-64 saw increases in poverty — from 13.7 percent to 15.2 percent — due mostly to commuting and child care costs.

And for the first time, the share of Hispanics living in poverty surpassed that of African-Americans, 28.2 percent to 25.4 percent. That is due to a jump in the poverty rate for Hispanics under the new measure because of lower participation among immigrants and non-English speakers in government aid programs such as housing and food stamps.

Due to new adjustments for geographical variations in costs of living, people residing in the suburbs, the Northeast and West were the regions mostly likely to have poor people — nearly 1 in 5 in the West.

Economists have long criticized the official poverty rate as inadequate, although they differ widely on the best ways to calculate it. Based on a half-century-old government formula, the official rate continues to assume the average family spends one-third of its income on food. Those costs have actually shrunk to a much smaller share, more like one-seventh.

The official formula fails to account for other expenses such as out-of-pocket medical care, child care and commuting, and it does not consider non-cash government aid when calculating income, such as food stamps and tax credits, which have increased in the last few years.

In reaction to some of the criticism, the federal government last year tasked the Census Bureau with developing a new measure, based partly on recommendations made by the National Academy of Sciences. The new measure's goal is to help lawmakers to better gauge the effectiveness of anti-poverty programs. It does not replace the Census Bureau's official poverty formula, which continues to determine eligibility and distribution of billions of dollars in federal aid for the poor.

"We're now about to go into federal debt discussions showing a major increase in elder poverty and a decrease for African-Americans. That just defies common sense, and the political implications could be devastating," said Douglas Besharov, a University of Maryland public policy professor and former scholar at the conservative American Enterprise Institute, who called the new measure "arbitrary."

"Sure, there's a lot of suffering out there, but the inexcusable result of all of this is to give more ammunition to groups to prevent cuts for the elderly. That means more cuts for low-income families," he said.

Sanctions

unreleased document called it "pretty compelling" and predicted it would stiffen the resolve of U.S. allies, particularly in Europe, to step up pressure on Iran to prove that its nuclear program is peaceful as it claims.

The official, who like several others spoke on condition of anonymity due to the sensitivity of the matter, said the administration is "deeply troubled" by the findings and that others should be as well. Another official said the administration would use the report to concentrate on steps designed to further isolate Iran.

White House spokesman Jay Carney said the administration expects the report "to echo and reinforce what we've been saying about Iran's behavior and its failure to live up to its international obligations and... echo our concern about Iran's nuclear program."

Carney said the U.S. continues to focus on using diplomatic channels to pressure Iran to abandon its nuclear program. But he added that the U.S. also will keep all options open. "We, of course, never remove from the table any option in a situation like this, but we are very focused on diplomacy," he said.

The U.S. has already slapped sanctions on dozens of Iranian government agencies, financial and shipping companies as well as officials over the nuclear program and could target additional institutions like Iran's Central Bank. It has also pushed the U.N. Security Council, which has already imposed four rounds of international sanctions on Iran, for increased penalties.

But in light of Iran's continued defiance, along with intelligence suggesting the country is continuing to try to develop nuclear weapons, some, including many in Israel, have argued that military action is the only solution. Speculation has run high in Israel over the past week that the Israeli government is contemplating a strike.

The U.S., however, has urged caution.

"We've made it clear that the dual-track approach is what we favor... engagement and international pressure. And that's where the focus of the United States government and this department has been," Defense Department spokesman Capt. John Kirby said Monday.

HUNDREDS PREPARE TO CASH IN THEIR GOLD AND SILVER TODAY AT THE HILTON GARDEN INN HERE IN TWIN FALLS!

LOCAL RESIDENTS READY TO CASH IN!

International buyers in town this week and ready to stimulate economy!

By David Morgan
STAFF WRITER

If you have a jewelry box with bling from an old fling or a coffee can full of old coins, you may want to haul it down to the Hilton Garden Inn this week. "The gold and silver markets have not been this strong for over 30 years" said Dennis Kouts Ohio Valley Refinery spokesperson. Typically when the U.S. dollar is weak and the economy is flat, gold and silver markets soar. "That's good news if you are sitting on a few gold necklaces or an old class ring" says Kouts.

Starting today at 9am and every day this week through Saturday, the Ohio Valley Refinery is setting up a satellite refinery right here in Twin Falls at the Hilton Garden Inn. During their 5 day stay, anyone can bring gold, silver, pre-1970 coins and turn them into cash on the spot explains Dennis Kouts. "Just about everybody has some amount of gold or silver just lying around collecting dust and this week anybody can sell theirs direct to our refinery. Typically selling direct to a refinery is reserved for larger wholesale customers like jewelry stores, pawn shops and laboratories" says Kouts. "We are changing how business is done," he explains "we want to do business with everybody so we took our business to the streets". "Our teams visit various cities around the country hosting 5 day events and allowing the general public to take advantage of our services. "The turnout has been overwhelming" says Kouts. "Usually each day is busier than the previous day. It seems once people come to us and sell something, they are so amazed what an old ring or gold coin is worth, they go home and start digging around for more and telling relatives, friends and neighbors. It's like a feeding frenzy by the third day. People line up with everything from gold jewelry to sterling silver flatware sets to old coins. I think during this bad economy everybody can use extra money, but most people say they are taking advantage of selling direct to our refinery because of the higher prices we pay".

Above: Refinery representatives will be on hand starting today through Saturday to purchase all gold, silver, pre-1970 coins and platinum items. Public welcome!

During this special event, anyone is welcome to bring all types of gold, silver and platinum to the refinery and turn it in for instant payment. The types of items they will accept include all gold jewelry, gold coins, gold ounces, dental gold, old coins made before 1970 including silver dollars, halves, quarters and dimes, anything marked "sterling" including flatware sets, tea pots, silver bars, silver ounces and all industrial precious metals.

What should you expect if you go to the event to sell your gold and/or silver? Just gather up all gold, silver and platinum in any form. If you are not sure if it's gold or silver, bring it in and they will test it for free. When you arrive at the event you will be asked to fill out a simple registration card and will be issued a number. Seating will be available. When your number is called you will be escorted to a table where your items will be examined, tested and sorted. This only takes a few minutes, using their expertise and specialized equipment. Items will be counted and/or weighed. The value of the items will be determined based on up to the minute market prices. Live feeds will be available at the event displaying current market prices of all precious metals. If you choose to sell your items, they will be bagged and tagged and you will be escorted to the cashier to collect your payment. Waiting time to sell your items may range from just a few minutes to 1 hour, so bring something to read. If you are the owner of a jewelry store, pawn shop, dentist office or a dealer you are encouraged to call ahead to make an appointment with the smelt master to discuss their special dealer programs. They can be reached during Refinery hours at (217) 787-7767.

Ohio Valley Refinery will open for business today from 9am-6pm. The event continues every day through Saturday. No appointment is needed for the general public.

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

How the Major Stock Indexes Fared Monday

NEW YORK (AP) • A late rally pushed the Dow Jones industrial average back above 12,000 Monday. U.S. indexes were down for much of the day on worries that Italy could become the next country to run into trouble. Stocks turned higher after 2 p.m. Eastern on news that Greece would receive the latest installment of emergency aid as long as the country's two main parties commit to implementing economic reforms.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 85.15 points, or 0.7 percent, to close at 12,068.39.

The Standard & Poor's 500 index rose 7.89, or 0.6 percent, to 1,261.12.

The Nasdaq composite rose 9.10, or 0.3 percent, to 2,695.25.

Farm-state Lawmakers Pushing New Farm Subsidy

Corn and soybean farmers are pushing for — and Congress is moving to create — a whole new subsidy that could maintain farm incomes at a nearly four-decade high should prices fall or crops be destroyed by weather.

The new subsidy would protect farmers when their revenue drops. Critics say it is an unprecedented program that could pay billions of dollars to farmers now enjoying record-high crop prices.

The subsidy would take the form of free insurance that would cover farmers' "shallow crop losses" before their paid insurance kicks in. It would replace several other subsidy programs, including direct payments preferred by Southern rice and cotton farmers.

Consumer Borrowing Up, but Credit Card Use Falls

BY MARTIN CRUTSINGER

Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Americans borrowed more in September to buy cars and attend college, but they charged less to their credit cards for a third straight month. The figures suggest that consumers are growing more cautious about taking on high-interest debt in a weak economy.

Total consumer borrowing rose by $7.4 billion in September, the Federal Reserve said Monday. In August, it had fallen by the most in 16 months.

The September increase reflected a 5.8 percent increase in borrowing in the category that includes car and student loans. But the category that covers credit card purchases dropped 1 percent after larger declines in July and August.

Credit card use has sunk nearly 19 percent since September 2008, the height of the financial crisis. For many consumers, adding debt with high interest rates is too risky when jobs are scarce, pay raises are few and unemployment has been stuck near 9 percent for more than two years.

"Households continue to prefer cash over credit as employment, income and wealth prospects remain feeble," said Gregory Daco, principal U.S. economist at IHS Global Insight.

The average annual percentage rate, or APR, on credit cards ticked up for variable-rate credit cards to 14.46 percent and was unchanged at 13.71 percent for fixed-rate credit cards, according to Bankrate.com.

Auto loans are far cheaper. The average rate for a 48-month new-car loan was 5.31 percent last week.

The average rate for subsidized student loans was 4.5 percent last year, according to Student Loan Consolidator.com. Loans not subsidized by the federal government are capped at 6.8 percent through 2012.

Glanbia Donates $105K to Habitat Blitz Build

TIMES-NEWS

Glanbia recently lent its support and a $105,000 donation to Habitat for Humanity of the Magic Valley's effort to quickly build two new Twin Falls homes next summer.

The Home Builders Blitz 2012, held June 4-8, 2012, intends to build 250 homes during the week, two of which will be built in Twin Falls.

"Thanks to Glanbia's sponsorship of this event and the continued support of local contractors, two families will realize the dream of homeownership," local Habitat Executive Director Linda Fleming said in a written release. "We are so grateful to Glanbia and the homebuilders that are working to make our community a better place."

Kae Construction is gathering subcontractors and suppliers for the build, and a variety of other Magic Valley businesses will provide labor and materials for the project. Habitat provides families housing for families in need through no-interest mortgages and a program that has the recipient families put in hours of labor on their new homes. Since 1991, it has built or renovated 29 Magic Valley homes.

FOUND DOGS:

A male shepherd boxer mix was found between Filer and Buhl 10-31-11.
Call to identify.

AVAILABLE FOR ADOPTION:

Thank you to everyone who has made donations!
It is very much appreciated!

Bailey is a 10-week-old labrador puppy. She is so sweet and already has pretty good manners! (Great quality to have in lab puppy). Bailey will make a great family pet.

Miracle Max is a 6 month old chocolate lab. Max came to the shelter about four months ago and has been under medical care. He was tied in the back of a pickup, jumped out and got tangled up with the back tire. The tire acted as a belt sander removing all of the muscle tissue and much of the bone on Max's rear leg. Rather than euthanizing Max or amputating the leg, Dr. Jones and his staff spent the past several months caring for Max with herbal therapies. Max's leg is now fully functional. He is a very sweet guy and eagerly awaits finding his forever family.

Hannah is a 6 month old chocolate labrador mix puppy. She has a some white markings. She is a sweetheart!

Kelsey is a 6 month old female pointer border collie mix puppy. White with large black spots...really cute! She loves to romp and play with the other dogs and her human buddies.

Pepper is a beautiful wire haired pointer. She is a young adult and has black and white markings. Pepper is very sweet and will be a great pet.

The adoption fee is $75 and includes spaying/neutering and the first set of vaccinations.

SUMMARY OF OFFICIAL NOTICE OF BOND SALE (To Be Conducted Electronically)

SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 232 (WENDELL), GOODING COUNTY,
STATE OF IDAHO

$2,270,000*

GENERAL OBLIGATION REFUNDING BONDS, SERIES 2011 (Idaho State Bond Guaranty and Credit Enhancement Programs)

Bids will be received electronically by School District No. 232 (Wendell), Gooding County, State of Idaho (the "District") via the PARITY electronic bid submission system ("PARITY") until 9:30:00 a.m., Mountain Daylight Savings Time ("MDST"), on Tuesday, November 15, 2011, for the purchase (all or none) ("AON") of $2,270,000* aggregate principal amount of General Obligation Refunding Bonds, Series 2011 (Idaho State Bond Guaranty and Credit Enhancement Programs) (the "Bonds") of the District. The bids received electronically will be sealed and delivered to the District's Board of Trustees (the "Board") and the Board will award the Bonds to the successful bidder in public session at a regular meeting to be held on Tuesday, November 15, 2011, at 7:00 p.m., MDST, at Wendell High School, 750 Main Street East, Wendell, Idaho.

If the Bonds cannot be sold at interest rates resulting in an amount of savings acceptable to the Board of the District, the District reserves the right to (i) sell the Bonds at a private sale in which case this notice shall be considered the notice provided for in Section 33-1111, Idaho Code, or (ii) postpone the public sale of the Bonds, in which case, at the time the market is favorable, the District's financial advisor shall give notice of the sale through the PARITY electronic system. The District will post a notice at its administrative offices at 150 E. Main Street, Wendell, Idaho, at least 24 hours before the date and time of the proposed electronic bid opening. The District will similarly post a notice of a special meeting of the District's Board to meet in public session to approve the sale of the Bonds to the successful bidder following the electronic bid opening.

The Bonds will be dated as of the date of issuance and delivery, which is anticipated to be Tuesday, November 29, 2011, will be issuable only as fully-registered bonds in book-entry form, will be issued in denominations of $5,000 or any whole multiple thereof, not exceeding the amount of each maturity, and will mature on August 15 of each of the years and in the principal amounts as follows:

Year	Principal Amount*
August 15
2012	$ 20,000
2013	-
2014	255,000
2015	255,000
2016	265,000
2017	275,000
2018	285,000
2019	295,000
2020	305,000
2021	315,000

*Preliminary, subject to change.

Bonds scheduled to mature on two or more of the above-designated maturity dates, may be rescheduled, at bidder's option, to mature as term bonds on one or more dates within that period, in which event the Bonds will mature and be subject to a mandatory sinking fund deposit in such amounts and on such dates as will correspond to the above-designated maturity dates and principal amounts maturing on those dates.

The District reserves the right, following determination of the best bid(s), to reduce or increase the principal amount of each maturity of the Bonds by the amount necessary to properly size the issue so that proceeds available to the District will be approximately $2,497,000.

The purchase price bid shall not be less than 110% of the principal amount of the Bonds ($2,497,000).

Bidders must specify the rate of interest with respect to each maturity of Bonds. Bidders will be permitted to bid different rates of interest for each separate maturity of Bonds, but:

- the highest interest rate bid for any of the Bonds shall not exceed 5.00% per annum;
- each interest rate specified in any bid must be in a multiple of one-eighth or one-twentieth of one percent (1/8th or 1/20th of 1%) per annum;
- no Bond shall have more than one rate of interest;
- interest shall be computed from the dated date of a Bond to its stated maturity date at the single interest rate specified in the bid for the Bonds of such maturity;
- the same interest rate shall apply to all Bonds maturing at one time;
- the purchase price must be paid in immediately available funds and no bid will be accepted that contemplates the cancellation of any interest or the waiver of interest or other concession by the bidder as a substitute for immediately available funds;
- any premium must be paid in the funds specified for the payment of the Bonds as part of the purchase price;
- there shall be no supplemental interest coupons;
- a zero percent (0%) interest rate may not be used; and
- interest shall be computed on the basis of a 360-day year of 12, 30-day months.

Interest will be payable commencing February 15, 2012, and semiannually thereafter on February 15 and August 15 of each year.

The Bonds are not subject to redemption prior to maturity.

The Bonds will be full general obligations of the District, payable from the proceeds of ad valorem taxes to be levied without limitation as to rate or amount on all of the taxable property in the District, fully sufficient to pay the same as to both principal and interest. Additionally, the Bonds are secured through the Idaho State Sales Tax Guaranty Program, Title 33, chapter 53, Idaho Code, and the Credit Enhancement Program, Section 57-728, Idaho Code. Moody's Investors Service has assigned its "Aaa" rating to bonds that are guaranteed by both the Idaho State Sales Tax Guaranty Program and the Credit Enhancement Program.

Award or rejection of bids will be made at the Tuesday, November 15, 2011, meeting (subject to change) of the District referred to above. The Bonds will be awarded to the responsible bidder offering to pay the lowest effective interest rate to the District computed from the date of the Bonds to maturity and taking into consideration the premium, if any, in the purchase price of the Bonds. The effective interest rate to the District shall be the interest rate per annum determined on a per annum true interest cost ("TIC") basis by discounting the scheduled semiannual debt service payments of the District on the Bonds (based on such rate or rates of interest so bid) to the dated date of the Bonds (based on a 360-day year consisting of 12, 30-day months), compounded semiannually and to the bid price.

The successful binder shall provide a good faith deposit in the amount of $25,000.

A prospective bidder must communicate its bid for the Bonds electronically via PARITY on or before 9:30:00 a.m., MDST, on Tuesday, November 15, 2011. No bid will be received after the time for receiving bids specified above. For further information about PARITY, potential bidders may contact i-Deal LLC at 1359 Broadway, 2nd Floor, New York, New York 10018, 212.849.5021 or the Financial Advisor at One South Main Street, 18th Floor, Salt Lake City, Utah 84133-1109, (801) 844-7373.

In the opinion of Hawley Troxell Ennis & Hawley LLP, Boise, Idaho, Bond Counsel, subject to the condition that the District comply with certain covenants made to satisfy pertinent requirements of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), under present law, interest on the Bonds is not included in gross income under the present federal income tax laws pursuant to Section 103 of the Code. The Bonds are not private activity bonds. Interest on the Bonds will not be treated as an item of tax preference for purposes of determining the alternative minimum taxable income for individuals or corporations, but will be taken into account in the computation of the adjusted current earnings adjustment applicable to corporations for purposes of computing the alternative minimum taxable income of corporations under Section 55 of the Code.

The District intends to designate the Bonds as "qualified tax-exempt obligations" for the purpose and within the meaning of Section 265(b)(3) of the Code.

For copies of the full text of this OFFICIAL NOTICE OF BOND SALE and the Preliminary Official Statement and information regarding the electronic bidding procedures and other related information with respect to the Bonds, contact the Financial Advisor to the District, Zions Bank Public Finance, One South Main Street, 18th Floor, Salt Lake City, Utah 84133-1109, (801) 844-7373, fax (801) 844 4484, alan.westenskow@zionsbank.com, eric.pehrson@zionsbank.com, cara.berlot@zionsbank.com. THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

“It is easier to discover a deficiency in individuals, in states, and in Providence, than to see their real import and value.”
— Friedrich Hegel

Bridge literature is filled with suit combinations that can let you make the opponents do the heavy lifting, rather than doing the hard work yourself. Sometimes the strategy needed to persuade your opponents to sacrifice themselves is plain to see, but in today’s deal, the approach is far from obvious. Enough clues: Let’s look at how South should play five spades. West leads the club ace, followed by a club to East’s king.

Now the hand appears to hinge on diamonds breaking 2-2, but that is an oversimplification. Your chances are considerably better than that, if you take advantage of a neat variation on a standard theme, that of the elimination play. Declarer should ruff the club at trick two, ruff a heart, then play the spade ace and a spade to his king, cash the heart ace, and ruff a heart.

Now declarer plays a low diamond from dummy and ducks when East produces an honor. As long as diamonds are either 2-2 or 3-1 with one hand holding a singleton honor, he is home. When East wins the trick, all he can do is give a ruff-sluff, and the diamond loser from the South hand goes away.

(Admittedly, on a different day, if East were to rise with the king and then exit with the four, declarer would have to guess whether to play him for K-4 doubleton or K-Q-4. Fortunately, today is not that day!)

Vulnerable: Both
Dealer: East

The bidding:
South	West	North	East
2 ♠	4 ♥	4 ♠	2 ♥
Pass	5 ♥	5 ♠	Pass
All pass

Opening lead: Club ace

BID WITH THE ACES

11-8-B

South holds:

♠ K 9 8 6 5 2

♥ A J 10

♦ A 8 6

♣ 8

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
?		2 ♦	Pass

ANSWER: Today’s deal is all about partnership agreements, not about the correct call. When North reverses (bidding a suit at his second turn that forces South to give preference at the three-level), he guarantees real extras. If you play as I do that a call of two spades by South here is forcing, then make that call and allow North to describe his hand further. If not, bid two hearts as the fourth suit, setting up a force.

IF NOVEMBER 8 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: In December and February, you could be swept off your feet by a new romance or a too-good-to-be-true idea. In either case, pursuing a fantasy could be a top priority. The difference, however, is that in February you will be able to obtain sound advice from your friends and will be a bit wiser than usual, so can make a sound assessment of whether it is worthwhile. April is another good time to put your plans and schemes up to the light. Hold off on career, business or financial plans in May. Wait until June when your expertise is up to snuff and you are more likely to be in the right place at the right time.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Hold your horses. Impetuous actions could be punished. Ignore the impulse to stir things up, as this may cause unsatisfactory results. You will achieve twice as much when in tandem with a partner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Versatility and vision are valuable. You are wiser than usual – especially when making plans for the future or when acting as an adviser. Your intuitions and sympathies might be right on the mark.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Having fun on the job doesn't imply that you are engaged in any funny business. You can make the smooth going even smoother by promoting good will and camaraderie at your place of employment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): If you schmooze, you won't lose. Friends may have your best interests at heart, so it will pay off to pay attention. If you have business deals brewing, this might be a great time to hatch a lucrative plan.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Get down to business. Concentrate on ambitious projects while you have the support and assistance needed to make it a success. Your business savvy is accentuated, so take advantage of every opportunity.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Concentrate on earning your bread and butter. It won't take much talent to see which side the bread is buttered on. Get good advice to make informed decisions. A phone call could unearth valuable information.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You have the power and stamina to move mountains. But all you need to do is push a pebble with kindness. It may be expedient to kiss and make up with someone whose high regard is of great importance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Go about your business as if you intend to be a millionaire. In some way, no matter what job or position you hold, your dedication reflects well on you. Even the humblest jobs can be an admirable occupation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Mind your own business and business will flourish. You are better at your job than you think. You know where to get an honest opinion and advice so you are one up on other people who trust to luck.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You can mix business with pleasure. Your sociable ways might draw people closer and by sharing your hobbies or interests with others you can make even the drabest jobs a source of inspiration.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): If you ask for advice, be sure to follow it. Your enthusiasms may receive a cold shoulder from a mate or loved one for a few hours. It is wise to follow someone else's lead; be practical about expenses.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Even those who roll stones know that some rocks must be left unturned. A love relationship can shift unpredictably if you give in to brainstorm. Be politically correct if you ask personal questions.

BUSINESS SERVICES

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 8, the 312th day of 2011. There are 53 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:

On Nov. 8, 1861, during the Civil War, the USS San Jacinto intercepted a British mail steamer, the Trent, and detained a pair of Confederate diplomats who were enroute to Europe to seek support for the Southern cause. (Although the Trent Affair strained relations between the United States and Britain, the matter was quietly resolved with the release of the diplomats the following January.)

CSI WOMEN'S SEASON PREVIEW

BALANCE IS ROGERS' POINT OF EMPHASIS

BY STEPHEN MEYERS
smeyers@magicvalley.com

The stat sheet of last year's College of Southern Idaho women's basketball team reveals just one player with a scoring average in the double digits – NJCAA honorable mention All-American forward Laurel Kearsley, who now plays for Colorado State-Pueblo.

CSI, which was knocked out of the Region 18 Tournament last season by eventual NJCAA champion, North Idaho, returns just four players from last year's 23-9 team.

Kearsley is gone. Felicity Jones, Tina Fakahafua and Kylie Hardison moved on to the College of Idaho. Fanny Cavallo and Kyler Parai transferred.

"We certainly don't have many people back," Rogers laughed after practice this week. "I think we'll be a team that has a lot of contributors."

The four returners, Chakala Carthen, Mechela Barnes, Tayllor Gibson and Kylee Schierman lead that list.

Carthen is a versatile 5-foot-8 guard/forward who

Penn State Sex Scandal Engulfing Paterno

ASSOCIATED PRESS

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Joe Paterno, major college football's oldest, winningest and perhaps most revered coach, was engulfed Monday in a growing furor over the alleged cover-up of a sex abuse scandal at Penn State.

The Pennsylvania state police commissioner said Paterno fulfilled his legal requirement when he relayed to university administrators that a graduate assistant had seen former assistant coach Jerry Sandusky attacking a young boy in the team's locker room shower in 2002. But the commissioner also questioned whether Paterno had a moral responsibility to do more.

Students in Penn State University's student center watch a live broadcast of Pennsylvania Attorney General Linda Kelly discussing the charges against a former assistant football coach and two university officials.

On the Happy Valley campus and in the surrounding town of State College, some were even asking whether the 84-year-old coach should step down after 46 years on the sidelines.

Two Penn State officials, Senior Vice President Gary Schultz and Athletic Director Tim Curley, surrendered on charges that they failed to alert police to the complaint about Sandusky, Paterno's former defensive coordinator and one-time heir apparent.

Schultz and Curley are also charged with lying to the state grand jury that indicted Sandusky on charges of sexually abusing eight boys over 15 years. Both stepped down from their posts Sunday, Curley taking a temporary leave and Schultz retiring. They appeared Monday in a

Boise St. Turns Up Intensity For Showdown With TCU

BY TODD DVORAK
Associated Press

BOISE • Boise State hasn't wasted any time turning up the intensity in advance of Saturday's showdown with TCU.

Defensive lineman Chase Baker noticed it right away when he walked into the Broncos' weight and conditioning facility Sunday afternoon.

Nobody was clowning around. No wisecracking. None of the typical joy or jubilation that follows a convincing victory like the 48-21 beating the No. 5 Broncos handed UNLV the night before.

"It was straight to business. You could hear a pin drop," Baker said. "You can just feel it, it's a different atmosphere right now, and TCU kind of brings that out in us.

"We're a lot more focused this week than we have been in the past weeks," he said.

There are plenty of good reasons for the Boise State mood shift.

The two teams have squared off in a pair of post-season doozies in their climb from small conference wonders to perennial BCS busters.

In 2008, TCU beat the Broncos 17-16 in the Poinsettia Bowl, but the Broncos returned the favor in 2010, knocking off TCU 17-10 in the Fiesta Bowl.

But Saturday's tussle is more than just a rubber match between these two short-term conference foes. The game is already being billed in Boise as the equivalent of the Mountain West Conference championship.

Both teams are undefeated in the conference, and considering the remaining

The annual banquet honoring Magic Valley Speedway drivers, crew members and marketing partners was held Saturday, Nov. 5, at Canyon Crest Event Center in Twin Falls.

Track commentator and associate promoter Terry Buell served as master of ceremonies.

Mr. Gas Late Models driver Jeff Pohlman was honored as Magic Valley Speedway's Whelen All-American Racing Series feature division champion. The driver of the No. 24 car motored to eight wins in 18 starts en route to the NASCAR-sanctioned track championship. Pohlman also captured rookie of the year honors in the division.

In early December Pohlman will head to Charlotte, N.C., where he will be honored at NASCAR's national Whelen All-American Series banquet as both the Magic Valley Speedway and State of Idaho's feature division champion.

Others honored as track champions included Kris McKean, who rounded up his third championship in the Budweiser Super Stocks division. Todd Audet accepted his second title in the Brennan's Pony Stocks series and Kendel Woll was a first-time champion in the Project Filter Street Stocks division.

SWAC PREVIEW

Salt Lake CC: The Bears lose NJCAA leading scorer Haley Holmstead, but Sofia Hepworth (8.7 ppg.) returns and they added appropriately named freshman center Habsatou Tall, who is 6-4. CSI head coach Randy Rogers said Salt Lake it just a nod above everyone else right now. Odds to win SWAC: 5/1.
CSI: Young, but talented and with some size, the Golden Eagles' success hinges on sophomores Kylee Schierman and Tayllor Gibson stepping into larger roles while steadying influences Mechela Barnes and Chakala Carthen keep chugging along. Odds to win: 8/1.
North Idaho: Having lost four starters and returning just two players, this is a rebuilding year for the 2010-11 NJCAA national champions. The Cardinals do, however, return starter Korina Baker, who is arguably the best point guard in the conference. Odds to win: 8/1.

can play anywhere on the court and who Rogers' said can be a double-double player for the team this season. She also brings a steady influence to a team of seven freshmen.

"On such a young team, everybody has to step up to their responsibilities. Everybody has to know their job on the court and fulfill that job," Carthen said. "It's not a selfish matter, but if you know what you're doing personally on the court, then everything else will develop."

Barnes is a true shooting guard who averaged 9.8 points, 2.1 assists, 2.2 steals and led the team in 3-point field goals made. She'll team with the 5-7 Gibson to help lead an up-tempo pace Rogers wants to run this season.

The 5-10 Schierman is the wild card of the bunch. She battled a groin injury last season, but appears to be back to full strength and Rogers expects big things from her.

"She has good length and can cover a lot of ground on defense and offensively she has a good shooting touch," Rogers said.

The rest of the slack will have to be picked up by a group of four freshman forwards: Megan Tanner, Chelsie Pitt, Jessy Saint-Felix and Liene Liepina.

Rogers said the group struggled at preseason scrimmages in Salt Lake City last weekend, but have shown flashes of solid post play and will progressively get better as the season rolls along.

"A lot of that is confidence. They've got some athleticism and got some moves," Rogers said. "Just like anything, it's new to them and because it's new, it's unsure. And they're trying to remember plays and sets and doing five things at once."

CSI isn't the only team short on experience in the Scenic West Athletic Conference as North Idaho lost 12 sophomores and returns just one starter. Rogers said Salt Lake CC is probably ahead of everyone else because they have the most depth, but he said the SWAC could be an open race this season.

"I'm hoping it's a situation where on any given night, somebody can knock somebody off," Rogers said. "Obviously for us, we want to peak at the right time and be playing our best ball at the end of the season and grab that No. 1 seed to the Region 18 Tournament. I like this team. I think we have a great personality."

Bears defensive back Major Wright breaks up a pass intended for Philadelphia's Brent Celek in the first half of their game Monday.

Cutler rallies Bears past Eagles, 30-24

ASSOCIATED PRESS

PHILADELPHIA • Matt Forte bounced back from two costly turnovers and Jay Cutler rallied the resilient Bears.

Cutler threw a go-ahead 5-yard TD pass to Earl Bennett in the fourth quarter, Forte ran for 133 yards and the Bears beat the Philadelphia Eagles 30-24 on Monday night.

It was a crushing loss for Michael Vick and the Eagles (3-5), who blew a fourth-quarter lead for the fourth time this season. Jeremy Maclin fell down and was tackled at the Bears 30 after a 9-yard catch on fourth-and-10 with just under two minutes left.

The defending NFC East champions trail the New York Giants (6-2) by three games.

Chicago (5-3) won its third straight game, but remains third in the NFC North behind Green Bay (8-0) and Detroit (6-2).

After LeSean McCoy's 33-yard touchdown run following Forte's second fumble gave the Eagles a 24-17 lead in the third quarter, the Bears answered with 13 straight points.

Robbie Gould kicked a 38-yard field goal to cut it to 24-20, and then Chicago's defense forced a punt after three plays.

The Bears drove 51 yards for the go-ahead score with Cutler tossing a 5-yard TD pass to Bennett over Asante Samuel for a 27-24 lead.

The Eagles reached the Bears 42 on their next drive. On fourth-and-6, punter Chas Henry bounced a pass to a wide-open Colt Anderson and Chicago took over.

Henry spent a lot of time throwing passes to long snapper Jon Dorenbos on the sideline in the second quarter, presumably warming up for the fake punt. He got his chance and badly underthrew the pass.

The Bears took advantage. A pass interference penalty on Nnamdi Asomugha at the Eagles 7 prolonged the drive. The defense stiffened and Gould hit a 22-yarder to extend the lead to 30-24.

Trent Cole knocked the ball loose from Forte following a 6-yard run midway through the third quarter, and Mike Patterson recovered at the Bears 41. Forte was originally ruled down, but the play was overturned when the Eagles challenged.

Two plays later, McCoy sprinted down the left side and into the end zone to score for the eighth straight game, tying Hall of Famer Steve Van Buren's club record.

In a matchup featuring two of the game's best running backs, Forte outplayed McCoy except for the two fumbles.

McCoy had 71 yards rushing.

The Bears took a 17-10 halftime lead on Marion Barber's 2-yard TD run after a costly fumble by DeSean Jackson.

Jackson, a Pro Bowl punt returner, was stripped by Corey Graham and the Bears recovered at the Eagles 9 with a minute left in the second quarter.

Cancer Claims Frazier at 67

PHILADELPHIA • He beat Muhammad Ali in the Fight of the Century, battled him nearly to the death in the Thrilla in Manila. Then Joe Frazier spent the rest of his life trying to fight his way out of Ali's shadow.

That was one fight Frazier never could win.

He was once a heavyweight champion, and a great one at that. Ali would say as much after Frazier knocked him down in the 15th round en route to becoming the first man to beat Ali at Madison Square Garden in March 1971.

But he bore the burden of being Ali's foil, and he paid the price. Bitter for years about the taunts his former nemesis once threw his way, Frazier only in recent times came to terms with what happened in the past and said he had forgiven Ali for everything he said.

Frazier, who died Monday night after a brief battle with liver cancer at the age of 67, will forever be linked to Ali. But no one in boxing would ever dream of anointing Ali as The Greatest unless he, too, was linked to Smokin' Joe.

"You can't mention Ali without mentioning Joe Frazier," said former AP boxing writer Ed Schuyler Jr. "He beat Ali, don't forget that."

They fought three times, twice in the heart of New York City and once in the morning in a steamy arena in the Philippines. They went 41 rounds together, with neither giving an inch and both giving it their all.

In their last fight in Manila in 1975, they traded punches with a fervor that seemed unimaginable among heavyweights. Frazier gave almost as good as he got for 14 rounds, then had to be held back by trainer Eddie Futch as he tried to go out for the final round, unable to see.

"Closest thing to dying that I know of," Ali said afterward.

Ali was as merciless with Frazier out of the ring as he was inside it. He called him a gorilla, and mocked him as an Uncle Tom. But he respected him as a fighter, especially after Frazier won a decision to defend his heavyweight title against the then-unbeaten Ali in a fight that was so big Frank Sinatra was shooting pictures at ringside and both fighters earned an astonishing $2.5 million.

Joe Frazier grimaces after Muhammad Ali, left, landed a blow to Frazier's head during their boxing bout in Manila, the Philippines. Ali won the fight after Frazier's manager stopped the fight in the 14th round.

years ago remained fresh in Frazier's mind as he talked about his life, career and relationship with Ali a few months before he died.

"I can't go nowhere where it's not mentioned," he told The Associated Press. "That was the greatest thing that ever happened in my life."

Bob Arum, who once promoted Ali, said he was saddened by Frazier's passing.

"He was such an inspirational guy. A decent guy. A man of his word," Arum said. "I'm torn up by Joe dying at this relatively young age. I can't say enough about Joe."

Frazier's death was announced in a statement by his family, who asked to be able to grieve privately and said they would announce "our father's homecoming celebration" as soon as possible.

Though slowed in his later years and his speech slurred by the toll of punches taken in the ring, Frazier was still active on the autograph circuit in the months before he died. In September he went to Las Vegas, where he signed autographs in the lobby of the MGM Grand hotel-casino shortly before Floyd Mayweather Jr.'s fight against Victor Ortiz.

An old friend, Gene Kilroy, visited with him and watched Frazier work the crowd.

"He was so nice to everybody," Kilroy said. "He would say to each of them, 'Joe Frazier, sharp as a razor, what's your name?'"

Frazier was small for a heavyweight, weighing just 205 pounds when he won the title by stopping Jimmy Ellis in the fifth round of their 1970 fight at Madison Square Garden. But he fought every minute of every round going forward behind a vicious left hook, and there were few fighters who could withstand his constant pressure.

His reign as heavyweight champion lasted only four fights — including the win over Ali — before he ran into an even more fearsome slugger than himself. George Foreman responded to Frazier's constant attack by dropping him three times in the first round and three more in the second before their 1973 fight in Jamaica was waved to a close and the world had a new heavyweight champion.

Two fights later, he met Ali in a rematch of their first fight, only this time the outcome was different. Ali won a 12-round decision, and later that year stopped George Foreman in the Rumble in the Jungle in Zaire.

There had to be a third fight, though, and what a fight it was. With Ali's heavyweight title at stake, the two met in Manila in a fight that will long be seared in boxing history.

Frazier went after Ali round after round, landing his left hook with regularity as he made Ali backpedal around the ring. But Ali responded with left jabs and right hands that found their mark again and again. Even the intense heat inside the arena couldn't stop the two as they fought every minute of every round with neither willing to concede the other one second of the round.

"They told me Joe Frazier was through," Ali told Frazier at one point during the fight.

"They lied," Frazier said, before hitting Ali with a left hook.

Finally, though, Frazier simply couldn't see and Futch would not let him go out for the 15th round. Ali won the fight while on his stool, exhausted and contemplating himself whether to go on.

It was one of the greatest fights ever, but it took a toll. Frazier would fight only two more times, getting knocked out in a rematch with Foreman eight months later before coming back in 1981 for an ill advised fight with Junior Cummings.

"They should have both retired after the Manila fight," Schuyler said. "They left every bit of talent they had in the ring that day."

Born in Beaufort, S.C., on Jan. 12, 1944, Frazier took up boxing early after watching weekly fights on the black and white television on his family's small farm. He was a top amateur for several years, and became the only American fighter to win a gold medal in the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo despite fighting in the final bout with an injured left thumb.

"Joe Frazier should be remembered as one of the greatest fighters of all time and a real man," Arum told the AP in a telephone interview Monday night. "He's a guy that stood up for himself. He didn't compromise and always gave 100 percent in the ring. There was never a fight in the ring where Joe didn't give 100 percent."
