Dems Unveil Ethics Commission Legislation

BY MELISSA DAVLIN
mdavlin@magicvalley.com

BOISE • Idaho's Democratic caucus unveiled plans Thursday for its proposed Idaho Independent Ethics Commission Act.

The legislation, which is still being fine-tuned, establishes an independent, nine-member commission to handle complaints regarding ethics, waste of state resources or criminal activity made against state lawmakers and employees. The commission would investigate such complaints, which if found to have merit, would be referred to appropriate agencies.

Criminal activity would be referred to law enforcement. "Idahoans want their state government as clean as their air and water," said House Minority Leader John Rusche, D-Lewiston. Rusche said he and other caucus members have heard multiple complaints about what he calls a culture of arrogance and entitlement in Idaho politics.

The bill would give Idaho's commission authority to investigate "a breach of ethics, waste of public funds, property or manpower or a violation of a law or rule within any governmental agency," according to the proposal. It would first have to be introduced in committee to start its path toward becoming a bill.

On Tuesday, House Speaker Rep. Lawrence Denney, R-Midvale, expressed support for an ethics commission. Currently, 41 states have ethics commissions. As it stands, Idaho's commission

CSI Looks to Future Programs, Student Housing in Blaine County

BY JULIE WOOTTON
jwootton@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • College of Southern Idaho administrators have a vision — students coming from around the country to complete a culinary arts degree in Blaine County.

But for now, it's just a topic of conversation.

During a special meeting Thursday, the college's board of trustees heard a presentation about new academic programs and housing possibilities in the Wood River Valley.

One of the main proposals — a culinary arts program — would be marketed to attract students from around the country.

CSI President Jerry Beck said the program has the potential to be successful, especially in a region that includes Jackpot and Las Vegas.

"I believe that if we don't take this opportunity, someone else in higher education in our state will," he said.

Although trustees didn't vote on the agenda item, they said they'd like to see more information.

Beck said the next step in the process is assembling a team of CSI representatives to visit a small school with a successful culinary arts program — Flathead Valley Community College in Kalispell, Mont.

CSI already offers a culinary arts program at its main Twin Falls campus. But one of CSI's long-term goals is to have degree programs students can complete from off-campus centers.

Blaine County fits into that picture, with an off-campus center in

An Eye on the Evidence

Sgt. Mark Marvin worked for years to bring a high-tech evidence inventory system to the Twin Falls Police Department. As it now goes in, the retiring officer will take his leave.

TWIN FALLS • From computer hard drives and DNA samples to an antique carpentry set, the Twin Falls Police Department property room is a menagerie of disparate items.

But each is similar in this: An affixed yellow card and case number that associate each piece of evidence to one of hundreds of cases spanning years of the city's criminal history. Soon, though, the identifying tags will be gone — replaced with computer barcodes and a new evidence inventory system Sgt. Mark Marvin has worked since 2005 to bring to the department.

And with those tags will go Marvin. The 34-year law-enforcement veteran is retiring only a few weeks after the new, high-tech system is installed.

"We're going from the Wright brothers to the space shuttle with nothing in-between," he said.

For years, officers have checked evidence into the property room by shelving the items in bags or envelopes and filling out associated forms. The new system brings evidence identification into a set of drop-down computer menus, eliminating much of the possibility for human error.

That's important, as Marvin said the department entered more than 8,000 items into evidence in 2010 while releasing or

T.F. COUNCILMAN CLOW TO SEEK STATE REP. SEAT

BY BRADLEY GUIRE
bguire@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Twin Falls City Councilman Lance Clow announced Thursday that he will run for the Idaho House of Representatives, specifically District 24A.

Clow, who made his announcement at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Twin Falls, will run as a Republican in the primary election, slated for May 15.

The District 24A seat is held by Rep. Leon Smith, R-Twin Falls, who is in his seventh term in office. Smith has not announced plans to seek re-election, and could not be reached Thursday for comment.

Clow

"I picked (24A) primarily because he's the most senior member of the group," Clow said of Smith's standing among Twin Falls County legislators. "He has not committed to running again. He may or may not. I felt that it is my best position to run for."

destroying only 1,592. The amount of evidence taken in crowds the department's small property room, a converted garage at the station.

The new system, called EvidenceOnQ, cost the department $30,000, but Marvin said it's worth every penny. It will reduce the time it takes crime lab employees like Community Service Officer Tracy Bramwell to find batches of evidence that are ready for purging.

"We're excited about anything that will help us organize," Bramwell said.

Often, a case can involve hundreds of associated items. When the case is closed or a statute of limitations is reached, the items sometimes are auctioned or destroyed if the original owner doesn't claim them.

"I could have 200 items go to the auction," Marvin said.

Now, those items can be quickly scanned, allowing the computer to print out associated lists and chain of custody reports that once were done by hand. Those tedious types of tasks are why in his more than three decades in law enforcement, Marvin said he's never heard a new officer express interest in becoming an evidence custodian.

"Nobody's ever going to do a cop show about property evidence management," Marvin said, adding that the job is important.

A department full of Kojaks and Columbos can build great cases, he said, but without properly handled evidence, the case goes out the window.

"It doesn't matter if you have the smoking gun," he said. "Nobody's going to know about it."

With less than a week before EvidenceOnQ is installed, everyone in the department is waiting to see how it works.

"I'm anxious, really," Marvin said. "I really want to see this working. I want to work with it, but my people will work with it for years."

But the battle over redistricting in the Idaho Supreme Court leaves the situation murky. Twin Falls County argued against the newly drawn district lines earlier this month, and the court has not released a decision yet.

Clow said under either the new or the old district lines, he would reside in District 24. Picking which of the two district seats to run for, even with the court dispute ongoing, is required on the Secretary of State's filing forms.

Clow has served on the Twin Falls City Council for 19 years, which included six years as mayor. He has dabbled in statewide issues, as he was appointed to the Idaho Public Transportation Advisory Board and the Eastern Snake Plain Aquifer Committee in the past.

He retired from the financial field after working for four decades as an adviser and banker.

Hailey. CSI Instructional Dean John Miller said about 1,000 people enroll in classes at the center each year.

"I don't think it's any surprise that we've been up there for 25 years," he said.

Miller presented highlights from a white paper he helped put together with a committee, including several Blaine County economic development representatives.

He highlighted culinary arts and health science programs as possibilities.

If a culinary arts program becomes a reality in Blaine

County, Miller said he hopes to have about 40 students enrolled during the first year and eventually expand those numbers.

He said the college could also look into providing high-quality professional training for chefs — particularly by utilizing big-name chefs who have restaurants in the area. Another goal is to create tourism activities centered around food.

College administrators are discussing the possibility of building a student dorm or apartment complex in Ketchum in the future. New programs could also lead to a need for more classrooms and a commercial kitchen for the culinary arts program.

During their Thursday meeting, CSI's board of trustees also:

- Heard three proposals about the future of the college's pep band, but didn't vote on the topic.

After a number of concerns were raised, the pep band — which included students and community members — was discontinued this year. President Jerry Beck said he's received a lot of feedback about the decision.

Chris Bragg, chair of the fine arts department, said many students who were in pep band have jobs and couldn't financially justify taking time off for rehearsals and performances. There was also a lack of incentives to participate.

Bragg presented three proposals — a traditional pep band, a jazz-style pep band or nothing.

"In my two sense, doing nothing is not an option," Trustee Thad Scholes said.

Bragg said CSI would need to hire a faculty member who could focus on building the pep band.

- Conducted a first reading of a new policy in the board of trustees' bylaws about conducting a self-evaluation every year.

McGeachin: Understand Federal Law before Considering Exchange

House Health and Welfare Committee chairwoman voices concerns though other legislators say she's missing the mark.

BY MELISSA DAVLIN
mdavlin@magicvalley.com

BOISE • Rep. Janice McGeachin, R-Idaho Falls, kicked off the 2012 Legislature's first House Health and Welfare Committee meeting on Thursday by distributing copies of the federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act to committee members. Her goal: To emphasize the importance of understanding the full scope of law before considering legislation to establish a state health care exchange.

One provision of the federal act commonly referred to as "Obamacare" is a requirement of states to set up a health care exchange for individuals and small businesses to shop for insurance. If a state doesn't do so, the federal government will set up one for them.

After the documents had been passed out Thursday, McGeachin, who chairs the committee, told the story of how her office shopped around for different prices for copies of the 906-page act. The Capitol's in-house copy center would have charged 10 cents per page, she said, which would have put the total bill at nearly $100 per document. She found a private business to do it for less than half that, she said, and paid for the costs with her own funds.

Committee members should keep the private-versus-public costs in mind when considering insurance legislation, McGeachin added.

McGeachin was the only member of the interim Health Care Task Force to vote against endorsing proposed legislation that would establish an exchange for Idaho.

At Thursday's meeting, McGeachin expressed concern that the Affordable Care Act radically expands the government's reach.

"Some of us feel we are fighting for the life of our country on this issue," she said. McGeachin also announced plans to hold weekly study sessions of the federal law. Those sessions will be open to the public, she said.

"I'm just a bit confused," said Rep. John Rusche, D-Lewiston. "Are we going to address Idaho law, or are we going to focus on repealing the federal law?" McGeachin reiterated that she felt it was important to understand the act before considering an exchange.

After the meeting, Rep. Fred Wood, R-Burley, said it's important that the committee focus on the single task at hand: Whether to implement the state-run, federally qualified exchange, or let the federal government set one up.

"I feel that (the discussion) has started to veer off course," said Wood. "The question about any other provision of the Affordable Care Act is not the purview of this Legislature."

Wood and Sen. Dean Cameron, R-Rupert, are co-sponsoring a bill that would establish an exchange in Idaho. The legislation should be ready to introduce to committee by mid-February, Wood said.

would be established through the attorney general's office, and consist of two citizen members appointed by the governor, two citizen members appointed by the president pro tempore of the Senate and the speaker of the House, and two citizen members who are retired justices or judges appointed by the Supreme Court, plus the attorney general, state controller and secretary of state, or designees from their offices.

The legislation doesn't give the commission subpoena power, though Rusche didn't rule out adding that in coming weeks. Meritless complaints would remain confidential.

Rep. Phylis King, D-Boise, said the estimated start-up cost for the commission is $30,000, which would cover items like phone lines and office supplies. The caucus wasn't sure what annual costs for the commission would be.

Caucus members acknowledged there are a lot of details to hammer out, but this provides the blueprints. Democrats said they are forming a bipartisan working group to define those specifics.

"This just is a starting point," said Sen. Edgar Malepeai, D-Pocatello.

OUR VIEW

Let's Not Lose This Chance to Set Up Ethics Panel

The Democratic response to Governor Otter's state of the state address had little to do with what he said and quite a lot to do with what he didn't. State Democrats believe that Otter committed a sin of omission Monday when he did not substantially address the topic of ethics among government officials.

Speaking at a Tuesday news conference, House minority leader Rep. John Rusche (D-Lewiston) said, "The governor has once again failed to address the culture of arrogance and entitlement that is pervasive in the Legislature and GOP leadership. He showed how tone deaf he is to this problem by quoting Thomas Jefferson regarding integrity and honesty. We need a leader that will stand up and say, 'Enough is enough.' Only after addressing their internal culture of unacceptable behavior can we turn to more important priorities such as jobs, education and health care."

Notice the use of the word "their" in the last sentence? Rusche clearly and unacceptably found it necessary to blame Republicans for ethics violations rather than tactfully asking for their help in the establishment of an ethics commission. Sen. Michelle Stennett, D-Ketchum, was far more diplomatic in addressing the need for such a commission, stating that "we put ourselves to the same litmus test."

It's easy to pick on the Republicans in this case. Phil Hart, R-Athol, continues his fight against federal and state taxes. He's currently resisting the federal government's attempt to seize a log cabin he owns for not paying back taxes. The cabin was built with timber illegally taken from state land — though that happened before Hart took office.

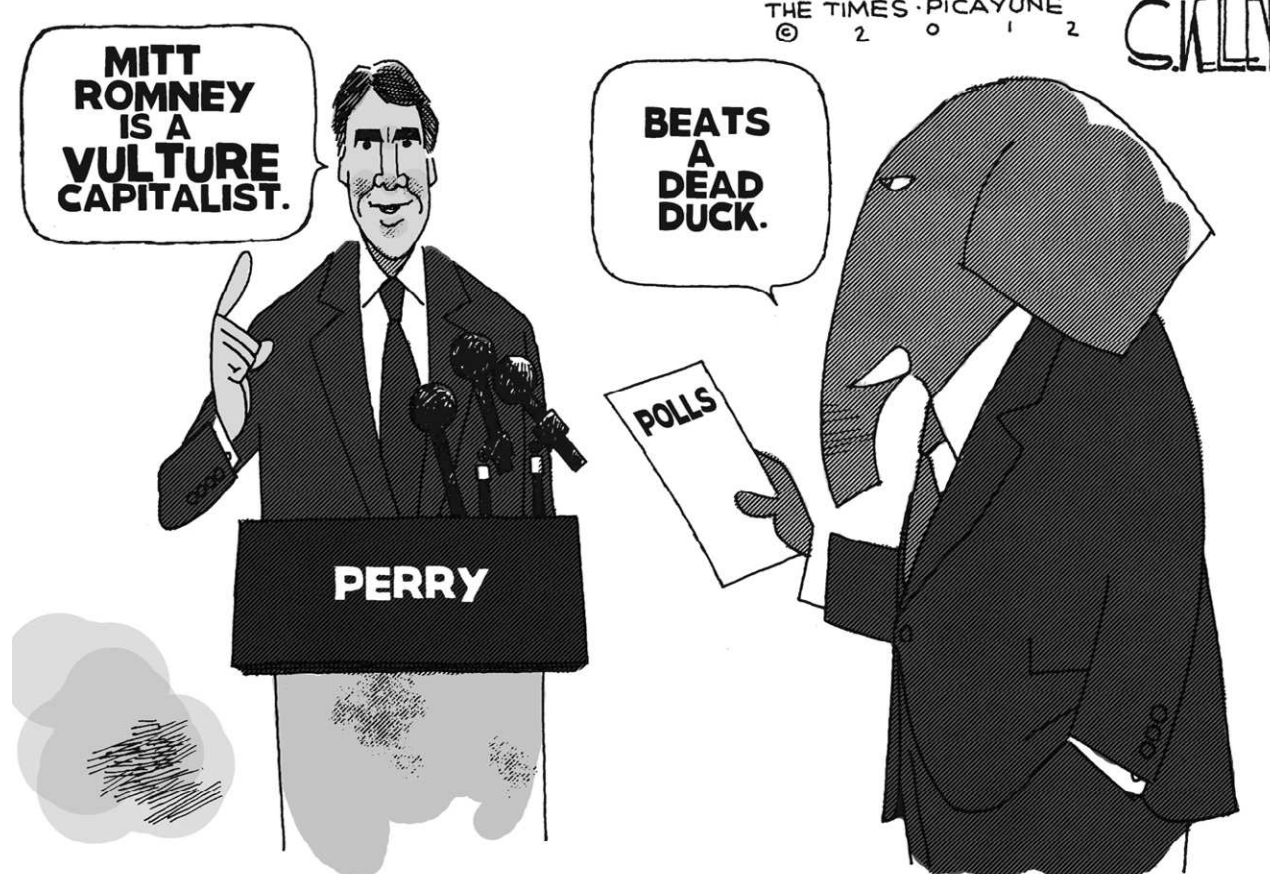

Then there's Treasure Valley legislators like Sen. Curt McKenzie, R-Nampa, and Sen. John McGee, R-Caldwell, who collected a daily stipend intended to cover expenses for out-of-town legislators staying in Boise, despite the fact that they found places to stay for free. Mind you, many private citizens manage to commute from Nampa to Boise with little problem.

McGee, of course, managed to retain his Senate majority caucus chair position this week despite a drunken driving conviction last year. Of interest: Rusche and Sen. Les Bock, D-Boise, told the Idaho Reporter website that McGee's lone offense likely wouldn't have landed him in front of the ethics panel had it existed then.

But there are many more Republicans than Democrats at the Statehouse, and there's no reason Democrats' names couldn't join those above. We fear that Rusche may have already damaged the chances for creation of an ethics commission, and that's too bad. Idaho is currently one of only nine states without an independent ethics commission. Most states created these bodies in the years following Watergate, and in many cases empowered them to issue subpoenas and make rulings enforceable in court.

The issue needs leadership and will hopefully find some in the person of GOP House Speaker Lawrence Denney, who expressed his support for a bipartisan ethics commission earlier this week. We hope that Denney dismisses Rusche's blatant partisanship and remains committed to a solution. He would be wise to do so, and it would be wise for state Republicans to jump onboard quickly.

It's difficult to discern the motives of those Democrats that are banging the drum the loudest on this issue. Some are no doubt sincere while others may just be trying to get Republicans on the defensive before taking on the more meaty issues surrounding the state budget. Either way, creation of the commission is long overdue and merits the support of all Idahoans regardless of party affiliation.

THEIR VIEW

Next Steps for a Fragile Economic Recovery

The following editorial appeared Wednesday in the Dallas Morning News:

Count us among the realists when it comes to interpreting the news that the unemployment rate declined and the nation added 212,000 new private-sector jobs last month. Good news, yes, but it's hardly enough to declare a long-term trend.

For starters, we don't put a lot of stock in that 8.5 percent unemployment rate last month, despite its being the fourth consecutive monthly decline and the lowest level since the president's second month in office. This statistic can be deceptive because discouraged Americans who have given up their job search aren't tallied.

Of more significance is the creation of all those new private-sector jobs last month. Construction, retail and manufacturing all posted growth in December, and more Americans moved from part-time to full-time jobs, all signs that employers are emerging from a hiring hiatus.

Still, the nation isn't adding jobs quickly enough. Economists say we need around 340,000 new jobs each month to sustain a recovery. At that rate, the economy would pick up about 4 million jobs annually; 8 million jobs were lost during the recession.

Moreover, the U.S. economy isn't immune to a relapse. Europe's debt crisis remains a ticking time bomb, along with the prospect of higher energy prices if U.S.-Iran tensions accelerate. Employment hits also will result from the Pentagon's plans to reduce the size of the military and as troops return from Iraq and Afghanistan. Four years into the worst housing slump in decades, this remains a drag on the U.S. economy.

But the most insidious threat to the fragile recovery could come from inside the Beltway. Last year, partisan rancor over the debt ceiling battered budding economic confidence and led to a historic downgrade of U.S. debt.

Congress must avoid another such confidence-shattering debacle. It should extend federal unemployment benefits and payroll tax cuts, which are set to expire next month, and pay for the extensions through spending cuts. Additionally, progress must be made toward reforming tax policies in ways that would increase U.S. competitiveness worldwide and put more money in the pockets of average Americans.

These changes, along with an overhaul of Social Security and Medicare, would go a long way to set up the economy for sustainable job growth. These changes have to begin now, not later. The federal government owes creditors roughly as much as the value of all goods and services the U.S. economy produces annually. Left unchecked, this is a jobs killer, both for the present and for future generations.

Congress and the White House must get their work done correctly; there's not much margin for error. Likewise, more than a few things have to go right for December's economic news to translate into real recovery.

I love a good success story that inspires hope for others. When I see a person finding the way out of a dark place in his life by taking control of one thing and finding a reason bigger than himself to live, I believe I can do it too. The rise, fall and transformation of Rocky Detwiler is such a story. He went from suicidal to being an internationally known spokesman for BodyBuilding.com. His story appears in the current Fusion Magazine that covers stories from Treasure Valley.

He wouldn't allow himself to give up. He said, "If you can control one part of your life, you can control anything." He also believed he needed to keep a heart of gratefulness in the time of struggle.

I find it's often very difficult to see anything positive in some of the situations we find ourselves, but it is that one positive ray of light that carries me through my hard times. I hold on and don't give up.

I encourage people to visualize and keep the dream of what they want to achieve in front of them. I have to hold my vision in my mind until I can see, touch and taste it. Then I put into words and actions my God-given purpose and move toward it. I come to believe in it so strongly that I tap into the universe to make it real. The combination of hard work and vision will bring to reality my action plan.

I believe that if I can create a positive chain of transformation by the successful achievement of my dreams, anyone can. Life is not about trying; it's about doing, which creates the kind of power I need in my life to give the next generation the hope and courage to follow.

Appointment by President Must Not Be Allowed

The following was submitted to Rep. Simpson, Sen.

Crapo and Sen. Risch:

I was appalled and furiously angry at the blatant, unconstitutional and disregard for the separation of powers that the Constitution of the United States protects us, the people, from a tyrannical and out-of-control government. The non-recess appointments that President Obama made during a pro forma session of Congress cannot and must not be tolerated by the American people via our elected representatives in the government. Your oath sworn at the time you took office is the same oath I took when I joined the military in 1990. It states: "Do you swear to protect and defend the Constitution of the United States of America against all enemies foreign and domestic?"

This oath obligates you as our elected representative to immediately call into question the unconstitutional behavior of the president of the United States and to call for immediate impeachment hearings in the House of Representatives. Further, Congress must immediately revoke any and all funds to the National Labor Relations Board until the president revokes his illegal appointments. You must call upon your party leadership to bring this to fruition and be prepared to act unilaterally if necessary to bring about these hearings.

The American people must expect no less from our elected representatives, and I expect no less from you, sir. Your prompt action on this extremely important issue is required.

I cannot stand idly by while this or any president undermines it and erodes it. No president should ever be permitted to violate their oath or the separation of powers that keep tyrants at bay. If we forfeit our liberty, we place ourselves into bondage by our own choosing. Please write our elected representatives to tell them they are required to protect us from unconstitutional behavior, at crapo.senate.gov, risch.senate.gov and simpson.house.gov.

FORMER LEFTY'S OWNER FACES UP TO FIVE YEARS IN PRISON

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Jarried Manie Graff, the former owner of what once was Lefty's Smokehouse, was sentenced Wednesday in Twin Falls County 5th District Court to serve one to five years in prison after pleading guilty to possession of a controlled substance with intent to manufacture or deliver marijuana. According to court documents Graff, 29, must pay $2,364.95 in restitution, a $1,500 fine, $620 in court compliance fees and $265.50 in court costs. Graff pleaded guilty Nov. 7 as part of a plea agreement that amended his original charge of trafficking marijuana.

He was arrested and charged in August after police reported finding 2.4 pounds of marijuana, $1,200 in cash and 11 guns in his home. Lefty's opened in July 2011 in downtown Twin Falls. In late September, Graff sold the business, now House of Barbecue, to Joe Mansour, who owns the building at 260 Shoshone St. E.

BLM to Close Seasonal Roads in the South Hills

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Starting next week, a handful of roads in the South Hills will be closed. The U.S. Bureau of Land Management will implement a seasonal road closure from Jan. 16 to March 15.

The closure will protect mule deer winter range and sage grouse habitat. BLM officials will post signs to notify the public which roads are closed. The roads will remain open to the public for non-motorized use. The BLM will close the following roads to motorized travel: Dry Creek, Cherry Spring, Indian Springs and North Cottonwood Creek. The road closures do not apply to emergency medical services and law enforcement personnel. Actions needed for grazing activity, access to private land and research monitoring will also be exempt. Man Arrested for Meth Trafficking

TWIN FALLS • A Twin Falls man was arraigned-Wednesday in Twin Falls County 5th District Court on a charge of trafficking methamphetamine.

Kirk Everett Fairchild, 49, was arrested after a traffic stop. Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies say they observed Fairchild sit in his car in an empty parking lot, then drive to an alleyway between 3rd Avenue West and 2nd Avenue West. When the deputy followed, he said Fairchild began driving suspiciously, accelerating quickly at every turn. The deputy pulled Fairchild over when he changed lanes without a turn signal on Addison Avenue.

During the traffic stop the deputy said Fairchild jumped out of the car and then would not keep his hands on the back of the vehicle.

The deputy said he noticed a small black pouch on the ground near the car. Inside it, the deputy said he found several bags containing a large amount of white crystal substance which appeared to be methamphetamine.

The deputy also found multiple clear plastic bags with a three leaf clover design on them.

After arresting Fairchild for possession of methamphetamine, the deputy tested the substance to confirm it was meth.

The total methamphetamine allegedly found was 48.2 grams.

Deputies say Fairchild admitted to smoking methamphetamine seven days earlier, but he said the meth found during the traffic stop was not his.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled for Jan. 20.

Man Who Passed Fake Checks Could Serve 14 Years

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • A Twin Falls man who passed fake checks and counterfeit money around the city has been sentenced in Twin Falls County 5th District Court to serve up to 14 years in prison.

Alfredo Lua, 34, was sentenced to one year in the state's retained jurisdiction program. If he successfully completes the program, he could be released on probation. If not, he will serve his original sentence of four to 14 years.

In August 2011, Lua was busted for passing counterfeit money at a McDonald's restaurant and later trying to cash a $200 check at the Twin Falls WinCo. He was arraigned in Twin Falls County 5th District Magistrate Court but released on his own recognition.

After his release, police say, Lua wrote more counterfeit checks. The criminal complaint alleges Lua wrote $3,495 worth of checks in amounts of $650 to $700 each throughout September. The checks were allegedly forged to look like payroll checks from a local dairy and were cashed at payday check-cashing businesses.

WOMAN IN T.F. STABBING OVER MONEY SENTENCED TO FIVE YEARS IN PRISON

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • A Twin Falls woman could serve up to five years in prison for stabbing another woman in a dispute over $400.

Trina Bierwag, 26, was sentenced in Twin Falls County 5th District Court to serve three to five years in prison. She could be released sooner, though, by successfully completing a stint in the state's retained jurisdiction program.

Bierwag pleaded guilty to aggravated assault as part of a plea deal with prosecutors after she was accused of stabbing Yvonne Vega several times in the arms in August 2011 in a church parking lot in western Twin Falls. Police say the two had agreed to meet at the parking lot to settle a dispute.

According to police records, Vega was treated at St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center with a severe laceration on her lower right arm, along with smaller wounds on her left arm and lower back.

Along with a prison sentence, Bierwag is also ordered to pay more than $12,000 in restitution, divided among Vega, St. Luke's, a physical rehabilitation center, an anesthesiologist and a plastic surgeon for Vega's medical treatment.

According to court documents, Vega said she was trying to be a peacemaker between Bierwag and a person who owed her money before the two women got into a physical altercation.

T.F. Fixes Million-gallon Water Leak

BY BRADLEY GUIRE

TWIN FALLS • Approximately a day's worth of city drinking water was lost Wednesday when a decades-old water line broke in Rock Creek Canyon.

According to the city, between 5 million and 8 million gallons of water flooded the area of Rock Creek near the stockyards after a 20-inch line burst Wednesday morning. Public works crews contained the leak by 9 a.m. and repaired the line by the afternoon.

Public Works Director John Caton estimated the cost of the repair at approximately $5,000, while the city lost $12,000 in residential water sales if the full estimate of 8 million gallons lost is accurate.

"We're not exactly clear why it broke," Caton said. "It's a 40-plus-year-old pipe. It was probably due to old age."

The main line provides water to city customers south of Rock Creek, but service to the area was not lost, Caton said.

This is the third line to break in south Twin Falls this winter. In late December, a waterline break underneath Washington Street South near Glanbia Foods occurred when an existing 6-inch line burst. That caused a newer, 30-inch main, installed in early 2011, to also rupture. Thousands of gallons of water were lost, rather than the millions lost Wednesday.

IDAHO BRIEFS

Idaho Gives Governor 4 Percent Pay Raise

LEWISTON • The governor got a pay raise this year, but he still earns less than half of what some of Idaho's public university presidents take home.

The Lewiston Tribune reports the state gave Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter a 4 percent salary increase in the current fiscal year. Otter now makes about $115,300, up from $110,700 during the last fiscal year.

In comparison, Boise State University President Bob Kustra and University of Idaho President Duane Nellis each earn about $335,000 a year.

According to the state controller's office, 261 state employees earned more than the governor as of this month. That's down from last year, when nearly 300 employees made more than Otter, according to a report released last Friday.

S.W. Idaho Hydro Plant Expected to Power 800 Homes

planned for southwestern Idaho is expected to produce electricity for about 800 residences.

The Idaho Press-Tribune reports the $1.7 million Fargo Drop project near Homedale is expected to be completed later this year and will start operating in August. A company based in Parma, Riverside Inc., is building the facility.

The operation is expected to generate up to 1.27 megawatts of electricity that will be sold to Idaho Power, the state's largest utility.

Officials behind the project say it will rely on water from the lower Deer Flat canal near Homedale and sales of the electricity generated will also benefit irrigation districts within the Boise Project Board of Control, which can use the money for maintenance.

Indictment Charges 2 Men in Sex Case with Minors

BOISE • Federal prosecutors say two men have been charged with transporting two southeast Idaho minors across state lines to engage in illegal sexual activity.

Twenty-eight-year-old Wayne Ginnis, of Seattle, Wash., pleaded not guilty Wednesday to a felony charge of transporting a minor in interstate commerce with intent to have sexual activity. Ginnis and 47-year-old James Ashley, of Augusta, Georgia, were indicted in August and are being held in Pocatello.

They are accused of buying two Pocatello teens bus tickets to California where they were to engage in sexual activity with other girls. The girls — age 12 and 13 — were intercepted by police in Utah and returned home. Investigators say the girls met the defendants on an Internet gaming site.

They face up to 10 years in prison if convicted.

Ex-E. Idaho Casino Worker Pleads Guilty to Theft

BOISE • A former casino worker who tried to create his own luck by duplicating winning vouchers from gaming machines in southeastern Idaho has pleaded guilty to stealing more than $1,000 as part of his scam.

The U.S. Attorney's Office in Boise says 31-year-old John Mejia, of Rigby, faces up to 20 years in prison at his March sentencing.

Prosecutors say Mejia worked at the casino on the Fort Hall Indian Reservation in 2010 as a gaming technician. He was indicted last July on allegations that stole money from the casino by redeeming vouchers for prize money that he was not owed.

Mejia pleaded guilty — The Associated Press

A frog sits on a U.S. dime in this photo taken in August 2009 by Louisiana State University herpetologist Christopher Austin near the Amapu River in Papua, New Guinea. The species was claimed as the world's smallest vertebrate on Wednesday.

Itty Bitty Frog Named World's Smallest Vertebrate

A frog that can perch on the tip of your pinkie with room to spare has been claimed as the world's smallest vertebrate, out-tinying a fish that got the title in 2006. But a scientist who found another weensy fish disputes both claims. The adult frogs are about three-tenths of an inch long, and a millimeter or so smaller than a carp found in Sumatra. An article Wednesday in the journal PLoS One named Paedophryne amauensis as the world's smallest animal with a spine. But a University of Washington scientist says a male anglerfish he found in 2006 is even smaller. Louisiana State University scientist Christopher Austin, who found the frogs, says he was comparing average species size — and the 1.8-inch female anglerfish is comparatively huge.

U.S. Hits 3 Companies with Sanctions for Iran Links

WASHINGTON (AP) • The Obama administration has hit three energy companies with sanctions for providing large amounts of fuel to Iran. The State Department says Chinese company Zhenrong brokered the delivery of more than $500 million in gasoline to Iran in a six-month period. Singapore-based Kuo Oil sent $25 million in refined petroleum to Iran, and FAL Oil Co. Ltd. of the United Arab Emirates shipped more than $70 million in refined petroleum to the Islamic republic in late 2010. The department says all three companies made individual transactions worth more than the $1 million allowable under U.S. law. Annual values cannot exceed $5 million. The sanctions bar the companies from receiving U.S. export licenses. The U.S. and its partners are trying to get Iran to halt its disputed nuclear program.

Panetta Assures Afghans of Full Probe into Video

The U.S. defense secretary offered assurances of a full investigation to Afghan President Hamid Karzai while the top Marine general promised an internal probe as well as a criminal one.

BY PAULINE JELINEK and ROBERT BURNS
 Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Pentagon leaders scrambled Thursday to contain damage from an Internet video purporting to show four Marines urinating on Taliban corpses — an act that appears to violate international laws of warfare and further strains U.S.-Afghan relations. Defense Secretary Leon Panetta called Afghan President Hamid Karzai to offer assurances of a full investigation and the top Marine general promised an internal probe as well as a criminal one. Investigators moved quickly to identify and interview at least two of the four Marines. They were members of a battalion that fought for seven months in former Taliban strongholds in southern Afghanistan. Their unit, the 3rd Battalion, 2nd Marines, returned from Helmand province to its home base at Camp Lejeune, N.C., last September. Marine officials said that a battalion officer confirmed to investigators on Thursday, based on his examination of the video, that the four men depicted urinating had been members of the batalion. Two have since moved on to other units. As the video spread across the Internet in postings and repostings, U.S. officials joined with Afghans in calling it shocking, deplorable, inhumane and a breach of military standards of conduct. It shows men in Marine combat gear standing in a semicircle urinating on the bodies of three men in standard Afghan clothing, one whose chest was covered in blood. It's not certain whether the dead were Taliban fighters, civilians or someone else. The incident will likely further hurt ties with Karzai's government and complicate negotiations over a strategic partnership arrangement meant to govern the presence of U.S. troops and advisers in Afghanistan after most international combat troops withdraw by the end of 2014. It also comes at a delicate time in relations among the United States, Afghanistan's elected government and the Taliban insurgency fighting for both territorial control and cultural and religious preeminence in Afghanistan. The U.S. is trying to foster peace talks between the Karzai government and the Pakistan-based Taliban high command, and has made unprecedented offers to build trust with the insurgents, including the planned opening of a Taliban political office to oversee talks. Anti-American sentiment is already on the rise in Afghanistan, especially among Afghans who have not seen improvements to their daily lives despite billions of dollars in international aid. They also have deplored the accidental killing of civilians during NATO airstrikes and argue that foreign troops have culturally offended the Afghan people, mostly when it comes to activities involving women and the Quran, the Muslim holy book. Pentagon officials said the criminal investigation would likely look into whether the Marines violated laws of war, which include prohibitions against photographing or mishandling bodies and detainees. It also appeared to violate the U.S. Uniform Code of Military Justice, which governs conduct. Thus, some or all of the four Marines could face a military court-martial or other disciplinary action. Karzai called the video "completely inhumane." The Afghan Defense Ministry called it "shocking." And the Taliban issued a statement accusing U.S. forces of committing numerous "indignities" against the Afghan people.

Missing Teen Natalee Holloway Declared Dead

BY PHILLIP RAWLS
 Associated Press

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. • The parents of Natalee Holloway looked on somberly as a judge on Thursday declared their child dead, more than six years after the American teenager vanished during a high school graduation trip to the Caribbean island of Aruba.

Holloway

"We've been dealing with her death for the last six and a half years," Dave Holloway said after a brief hearing. He said the judge's order closes one chapter in a long ordeal, but added: "We've still got a long way to go to get justice." Natalee Holloway disappeared in Aruba on May 30, 2005. The 18-year-old was last seen leaving a bar early that morning with a young Dutchman, Joran van der Sloot. Her body was never found and the ensuing searches for the young woman would reap intense media scrutiny and worldwide attention. Thursday's hearing was scheduled long before van der Sloot — a suspect questioned in Holloway's disappearance — pleaded guilty Wednesday in Peru to the 2010 murder of a woman he met at a casino in Lima. Stephany Flores, 21, was killed five years to the day after Holloway, an 18-year-old from the wealthy Birmingham suburb of Mountain Brook, disappeared.

Army Officer Recommends Court-martial in WikiLeaks Case

BY DAVID DISHNEAU
 Associated Press

WASHINGTON • An Army officer recommended a general court-martial Thursday for a low-ranking intelligence analyst charged with causing the biggest leak of classified information in U.S. history. Lt. Col. Paul Almanza's recommendation to try Pfc. Bradley Manning on all 22 counts, including aiding the enemy, now goes up the chain of command for a final determination. Almanza sent his report to Col. Carl Coffman, garrison commander of Joint Base Myer-Henderson Hall near Washington. Coffman will make a recommendation to Military District of Washington commander Maj. Gen. Michael Linnington, whose decision is final. The military did not provide a timeline for those actions. Manning, a 24-year-old native of Crescent, Okla., allegedly gave more than 700,000 secret U.S. documents to the anti-secrecy website WikiLeaks for publication. Prosecutors say WikiLeaks founder Julian Assange collaborated with Manning. Defense lawyers say Manning was clearly a troubled young soldier whom the Army should never have deployed to Iraq or given access to classified material while he was stationed there from late 2009 to mid-2010.

Manning could be imprisoned for life if convicted of the aiding the enemy, the most serious charge. The charge carries a maximum penalty of death, but Almanza agreed with prosecutors, who recommended against seeking the death penalty. Ultimately, however, that decision lies with Linnington.

Almanza presided over Manning's seven-day preliminary hearing, called an Article 32 investigation, in December at Fort Meade, Md. During that hearing, military prosecutors produced evidence that Manning downloaded and electronically transferred to WikiLeaks nearly half a million sensitive battlefield reports from Iraq and Afghanistan, hundreds of thousands of diplomatic cables, and video of a deadly 2007 Army helicopter attack that WikiLeaks shared with the world and dubbed "Collateral Murder."

UNION THREATENS OIL PRODUCTION SHUTDOWN IN NIGERIA

BY YINKA IBUKUN and JON GAMBRELL
 Associated Press

LAGOS, Nigeria • A major union threatened Thursday to stop the beating heart of Nigeria's economy — crude oil production — as part of a nationwide strike and protests gripping Africa's most populous nation. World oil prices climbed on the news. Nigeria is the fifth-largest oil exporter to the U.S., and a shutdown would force American refineries to replace 630,000 barrels per day of crude. The union's ability to enforce a shutdown, beginning Sunday, across the swamps of Nigeria's southern delta to its massive offshore oil fields, remains in question. But the threat of a strike caused jitters on global oil markets as traders worldwide worried about supply. Nigeria has been paralyzed by a strike that began Monday after President Goodluck Jonathan's government abandoned subsidies that kept gasoline prices low. Overnight, prices at the pump more than doubled, from $1.70 per gallon to at least $3.50 per gallon. The costs of food and transportation also doubled in a nation where most people live on less than $2 a day. Anger over losing one of the few benefits average Nigerians see from being an oil-rich country, as well as disgust over government corruption, have led to demonstrations across this nation of 160 million people and violence that has killed at least 10 people. The Petroleum and Natural Gas Senior Staff Association of Nigeria, which represents about 20,000 workers, said it would be forced to "apply the bitter option" of closing down all oil and gas production if the government refused to reinstate the gasoline subsidies.

Angry youths protest at Lekki road on the third day of nation wide strike following the removal of a fuel subsidy by the government in Lagos, Nigeria, Wednesday.

Former S. Dakota Gov., U.S. Rep. Bill Janklow Dead at 72

BY CHET BROKAW
Associated Press

PIERRE, S.D. • As governor of South Dakota for 16 years, Bill Janklow was always in a hurry — pushing lawmakers to approve his proposals and racing to disaster sites to take charge. His need for speed also likely played a role in his one regret: the 2003 fatal traffic accident that landed him in jail and ended his political career.

As South Dakota's attorney general, governor and congressman, the colorful politician dominated the state's political landscape for more than a quarter century, changing the face of the state's economy, education system and tax structure. Even his enemies — and there were many — admitted the Republican had a talent for getting things done, even as they complained that he ran roughshod over opponents.

Janklow died shortly before 11 a.m. Thursday of brain cancer after being moved to hospice care in Sioux Falls earlier in the week, his son Russ Janklow said. He was 72.

At a final news conference in November, Bill Janklow had announced he had inoperable cancer and said his only regret was running a stop sign and killing a motorcyclist. The accident happened less than a year after Janklow was elected to the U.S. House.

"If I had it to do over, I'd do everything I did, but I'd stop at a stop sign," Janklow said.

A fresh incision curving along his hairline from temple to ear, Janklow broke down and cried as he announced he was dying.

Janklow was known as a brilliant lawyer, a dynamic and brash speaker and an innovative governor. He had a long list of accomplishments, including saving rail service for much of the state, cutting property taxes and leading the nation in connecting classrooms to the Internet.

"To me, it seems indisputable he was South Dakota's greatest governor," Dave Knudson, a former legislator who served two stints as Janklow's chief of staff said after Janklow announced he had brain cancer. Janklow was driven to solve problems, Knudson said.

Janklow also had a reputation as an abrasive man who refused to compromise and sometimes blasted his opponents in public. Yet he quietly helped many people down on their luck, paying to send young people to college or buying gear for a baseball team from an American Indian reservation.

"He fought for underdogs all his life," David Volk, former state treasurer, said Thursday. "That got lost because he's this blustery guy that always kind of led every battle from the front. ... The real guy was this softy, this kind person."

"My whole life has been fighting for people," Janklow said shortly before his political career ended. "It's what I know how to do in terms of representing people."

It came to an end when he sped through a stop sign in August 2003 while returning home from an event in Aberdeen. A jury later convicted Janklow of second-degree manslaughter and misdemeanor charges of reckless driving, failure to stop and speeding. He was ordered to serve 100 days in jail.

During the trial, Janklow claimed low blood sugar as a result of diabetes had dulled his senses and reflexes.

Though he was contrite, Janklow noted in an appearance before the Supreme Court in 2005 that he had won praise for driving fast while he was governor.

"When I was racing to fires in the Black Hills or storms in Herrick or floods in Watertown ... I was a hero for getting there in a hurry. When I got blown off the road in a tornado going to Spencer, people complimented me," he said in asking the court to reinstate his license. It later did.

When a tornado destroyed much of the small town of Spencer in 1998, Janklow was there within an hour. During the 50-mile drive from his home east of Sioux Falls, he hit the edge of the storm, got blown into the ditch, then drove back onto the highway.

When a family was held hostage in the Capitol while he was attorney general, he showed up with an automatic rifle to help officers deal with the incident, which ended when the hostages escaped.

Janklow also was known for using humor and sarcasm in his fights with other officials. He once told a former state lawmaker in a heated exchange of letters: "My mom said I should never call a person a 'jerk' in writing. Please send me your phone number." During a long-running battle with then-Minnesota Gov. Rudy Perpich over South Dakota's effort to lure Minnesota businesses, Janklow joked, "I suppose they'll claim they have major league baseball in Minnesota," at a time when the Twins were foundering.

Mildred Mae Frith

Jan. 1, 1922-Jan. 8, 2012

WENDELL • The world lost one of its greatest fans. On Sunday, Jan. 8, 2012, Mildred Mae Frith went to join our Heavenly Father.

She was born in Gooding, Idaho, on Jan. 1, 1922. She attended school in Wendell and graduated from Wendell High School. On Feb. 10, 1940, in Elko, Nev., she married the love of her life, Tom Frith. Together they raised their family in Wendell, except for a short time in California. Mildred was an avid sports lover, anything from football to rodeo. She spent almost 60 years supporting the Wendell athletic program. At any level rodeo, she was known as Grandma or Jackie's grandma. She worked in the Wendell hot lunch program, where she was the "Lunch Lady," drove schoolbus, worked in the manor and was a greeter at Wal-Mart, where she got to do her favorite thing — meeting and talking to people.

She was involved in many Masonic organizations and was a member of the Wendell Cemetery Board. She was proudest of her family.

Cherishing her memory are daughters, Diana (Bob

Long of Albany Ore., and Carol (Marv) Short of Wendell, Idaho; niece, Becky (Herb) Allred of Wendell; grandchildren, Mike (Jen) Long, Cindy (Chris) Greig and Brenda (Tim) Geoghegan, all of Oregon, and Jackie (Paul) Buckley of Wendell; and seven great-grandchildren.

We know she was greeted by many friends and family and is watching and still cheering on the teams.

Love you and miss you, Grandma.

In lieu of flowers, a scholarship fund has been set up in Grandma Mildred's name at Farmers National Bank in Wendell.

Visitation for family and friends will be held from 4 to 7 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 15, at Demaray Funeral Service, Wendell Chapel. A funeral will be held at 3:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 16, at the Living Waters Presbyterian Church in Wendell. Burial will follow at the Wendell Cemetery.

Arrangements are under the direction of Demaray Funeral Service, Wendell Chapel. Condolences may be sent to the family by visiting the obituary link at www.demarayfuneralservice.com.

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

Stocks Finish Higher After Late Recovery

NEW YORK (AP) • A drop in oil prices and strong bond auctions in Europe drove stocks to a slightly higher close Thursday. The Standard & Poor's 500 index rose for the fourth straight day. The Dow Jones industrial average gained 21.57 points, or 0.2 percent, to end at 12,471.02. It was down most of the day, losing 64 points in the first hour of trading, following a spike in unemployment claims and a weak report on December retail sales. Materials and industrial companies led the afternoon recovery. The S&P 500 finished up 3.02 points, or 0.2 percent, at 1,295.50.

Retail Sales Off in Dec., But Cap a Record Year

WASHINGTON (AP) • America's retailers enjoyed a record 2011 and their first $400 billion sales months ever. But the final month of the year was a dud.

Sales eked out a 0.1 percent increase in December, to a seasonally adjusted $400.6 billion. It was the second straight month that sales topped $400 billion.

However, the increase was the weakest in seven months. Excluding volatile auto purchases, overall sales actually fell 0.2 percent. It was the first such drop since May 2010.

But analysts said they still expect consumers to help the economy strengthen further, especially because businesses have stepped up hiring. More jobs mean more people with money to spend.

Rate on a 30-year mortgage.

Fixed mortgage rates fell once again to a record low, offering a great opportunity for those who can afford to buy or refinance homes.

But few are able to take advantage of the historic rates. Freddie Mac said Thursday the average rate on the 30-year fixed mortgage fell to 3.89 percent. That's below the previous record of 3.91 percent reached three weeks ago. Records for mortgage rates date back to the 1950s.

Phones That Let You Feel the World

Company CEO says new vibration motors will give mobile devices a "high-definition feel."

BY PETER SVENSSON
Associated Press

LAS VEGAS • Sure, today's phones can deliver the sound of a heartbeat. But how would you like to actually feel the throbbing?

A few companies want to replace the crude vibration motors in today's phones and tablets with something that provides a much wider range of sensations, allowing you to feel the rumble of a Harley or the reverberation of a shotgun blast. The new technology can even let you feel the outlines of a button on the screen.

At the International Consumer Electronics Show, the gigantic gadget conclave in Las Vegas this week, a company called Artificial Muscle Inc. demonstrated how it can make mobile devices shake and rattle with great realism, employing a technology that uses plastics that function like muscles.

The company showed off an iPhone it had modified by placing one of its Vivitouch "motors" inside. The phone shook as it ran a simple ball-rolling game. The plastic muscle provided the feeling not just of the ball hitting the walls of a maze, but of the slight vibration it made while rolling freely across the floor.

When it was used for typing, the phone gave a buzzing sensation that confirmed each press of the virtual keys.

In another demonstration, a Vivitouch motor shook a modified Xbox controller to allow the user to feel what it's like to hold a beating heart. In another instance, it let the user experience the signature rumble of a Harley-Davidson motorcycle starting up.

The vibration engines that go into today's phones and game controllers consist of an electric motor that spins a metal weight. They take time to start up and are effective at only one frequency. That means they are unable to provide varying sensations. It's pretty much the same rumble or buzz every time.

With Vivitouch motors, users will have "high-definition feel," says Dirk Schapeter, CEO of Artificial Muscle.

The company is owned by German chemical giant Bayer AG and is a spinoff from Stanford Research Institute. (Another technology from this research organization was integrated into the iPhone last year: Siri, the virtual personal assistant that talks to you.)

Artificial Muscle's motors contain strips of "muscle." When an electric charge is applied over the strips, they expand and contract at a frequency that can be precisely controlled.

The first product to use Vivitouch came out in September. It's the Mophie Pulse, a sleeve for the iPod Touch that's intended to make games more lifelike.

The next step for the company is to get the motor built into phones. Schapeter says there will be a couple of those on the market this year, from companies he wouldn't identify. He did not say how much the Vivitouch would cost.

Artificial Muscle isn't the only company trying to cause a sensation. Senseg OY of Finland has an exotic way of turning electricity into feeling. By applying a (non-shocking) electric field through the screen of a tablet, it can provide resistance to the movement of the user's finger. So a glossy, smooth screen can suddenly feel rough.

"The palette of effects that's available is enormous," says David Rice, vice president of marketing at Senseg.

The feature should be easy to add to tablets, since it consists solely of a chip and an additional coating on the screen, Rice says. The company is in talks with tablet makers. It might be included in products due late this year. He would not say how much it would add to the price.

First Federal Gives Local Nonprofits a Boost

Recipients of this year's grants focus on upgrading technology that is often neglected in operating budgets.

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • For many nonprofits, keeping up with technology is not only expensive but stressful.

But for a handful of local organizations, many of their technology woes will be eased with the help of a much-needed grant.

Board members from the First Federal Foundation distributed 11 grants to nonprofits on Thursday. The foundation doles out grants twice a year.

At a Glance The Recipients

- Twin Falls Lions Club • $2,000 for eye screening machines
- Rise Up and Sing • $1,500 for sound equipment
- People for Pets • $1,000 for insulated guillotine doors
- Helping Hearts & Hands Inc. • $3,060 for a commercial refrigerator
- Silver & Gold Seniors • $3,000 for a commercial refrigerator
- Hagerman Senior Citizens • $3,025 to build en-

- tryway with handicap door
- Rising Star Therapeutics • $4,000 for a lift system
- Jubilee House • $1,495.71 for desktop computers for residents
- Buhl Public Library • $3,500 for commercial lighting
- College of Southern Idaho • $5,000 for playground equipment on fitness trail
- Twin Falls County • $2,759 for Search & Rescue dive mask

"It's a tough job deciding who gets the grant," said Rex Lytle, chairman of the foundation's board of directors. "It took some lively discussion and a lot of thought. But what better way to serve the local community through local resources?"

Grant amounts vary from $1,000 to $5,000 depending on how much money is available each year. This year's recipients focused on upgrading technology that often gets pushed aside in their typical operating budget.

For Tom Behm, the money will be critical for purchasing new eye screening equipment.

As a member of the Twin Falls Lions Club, Behm has been using outdated equipment to provide medical services to the Magic Valley.

"This is the first year we're officially a nonprofit," he said. "It's nice to be able to apply for grants like this so we can serve the community."

The second round of grant recipients will be announced in July.

BIG BUCKS FOR ARTISTS

Huge cash prizes are on the line in the second year of a Twin Falls contest dubbed Art & Soul of the City, Magic Valley Has Art.

TWIN FALLS • It's the kind of prize money usually doled out in big-city art contests: $10,000 for first place, $5,000 for second and another $14,500 split among 13 more winners.

But the loot is being awarded right here in Twin Falls, by the Art Guild of Magic Valley.

For a second year, the organization is presenting the Art & Soul of the City, Magic Valley Has Art contest — a multiple-venue, nine-day event bookended by two weekends — from April 27 to May 5. Entrants must submit proposals or images of their work by March 30 and pay a $50 entry fee. Information is available at magicvalleyhasart.com.

In 2011, the contest's first year, 94 artists displayed their work: everything from paintings and photography to sculptures, wood arts and fabrics, in various downtown businesses. Organizers expect more than 200 entrants this year.

"Any artist can apply for the contest," said Art Hoag, director of the Art Guild and the event's mastermind. "There's no restrictions. If they think what they do is art, they can apply!"

How it works: Artists submit their work, "sponsors" back an artist of their choice (for $100), and by Feb. 15 local businesses sign up to become "venues" (also $100).

"Once (artists) have a sponsor and a venue, they're in," Hoag said.

Sponsors and businesses choose artists to support by viewing their work on the guild's website.

The public chooses the big-bucks winner during the contest's nine-day run. A voter can be anyone who strolls the streets of Twin Falls, poking his or her head into restaurants, music shops and banks to view original artwork hanging in windows and along walls.

CSI Hosts Series of Art and Foreign Films

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • As the Academy Awards nominations approach, it's time to prepare yourself for Oscar talk.

And here's a chance to see some probable contenders on the big screen: The College of Southern Idaho's Community Education Center and Twin Cinema 12 are collaborating on the annual Art and Foreign Film Series in Twin Falls — and this time, it's in a traditional movie theater.

Screenings of the films, offered twice a week for five weeks, will begin Jan. 19 at Twin Cinema 12. They include several current-release films garnering critical acclaim.

The film series, dubbed the "Hottest Ticket in Town," will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays and 1 p.m. Sundays. Participants may join informal, off-site, post-film gatherings to enjoy some cinematic dialogue.

"It looks like this year we will have a few possible Oscar contenders included the series," Larry Roper of Interstate Amusements said in a CSI release. "It really is a good pick of movies."

This Weekend's Best Bets

Talent Showdown

Singers aren't the only ones with a chance to dominate the Magic Valley's Got Talent competition this winter. Finalists last year included a rapper and a bell quartet, and in 2010, hip-hop dancers, a clogger and a comedian. So don't be shy. Whatever your routine, take a shot at this weekend's auditions — live or on video.

Big-screen Baseball

Sports and movies shape the values of American culture, says a Boise State University professor of communication. Marty Most will illustrate that premise with his "Baseball and Film" lecture Wednesday in Twin Falls. Among his evidence: more than 100 feature films about baseball and its players. Should be thought-provoking.

Family Drama

Anybody who's worried about a date learning a little too much about the family can relate to this comedy. Of course, the relatives in "Arsenic and Old Lace" might be even stranger than yours.

(Think poisoned wine and a Teddy Roosevelt complex.) But your laughter might have a touch of empathy. The Random Acts of Theatre Players are on a Twin Falls stage today through Sunday.

TWIN FALLS •

It's Friday night, and a sweaty game of touch football is unfolding in The Salvation Army's gym.

The dozen boys who showed up for Youth Options Extreme have already wrapped up a heated basketball contest. Next up: dodgeball, pingpong and steak-and-noodle stir-fry.

The Salvation Army, at 348 Fourth Ave. N., offers Youth Options Extreme to ages 12-16 from 7-11 p.m. each Friday. For a $1 entry fee, teens get four hours of recreation and a meal.

When the boys tire of open gym, they migrate to a nearby game room with pool tables, pingpong, foosball, air hockey, a "Dance Dance Revolution" machine, televisions, video games and more.

Options galore.

The Salvation Army hopes the program steers kids toward healthy, positive activities on a non-school night.

"In Twin Falls, there's really not a lot for kids to do, especially in the middle-school ages," said Melissa Henderson, 22, The Salvation Army's youth director. "They can go to a movie, they can go to the mall, but what else is there to do other than get in trouble?"

The Friday-night program is all about providing options. If kids want to have a foosball tournament, they can. If they prefer to lounge on couches playing video games, that's OK too.

Henderson and fellow youth worker Trae Becker plan and lead activities, but they don't intervene if kids are engrossed in a game in the gym.

Ambitious Plans

Hoag

Hoag got the idea for the fledgling Twin Falls contest from a similar event called ArtPrize, which began in 2009 in Grand Rapids, Mich. That event was a sensation in its first year, dishing out a mind-boggling $449,000 in prize money and drawing 200,000 visitors to Grand Rapids businesses, according to ArtPrize's website.

In the past, Hoag never had much response when holding art contests. He hoped that by using the ArtPrize model he could entice artists with the prospect of a huge financial windfall, and get the community involved at the same time.

In its first year, the Magic Valley version of the show handed out a first-place prize of $5,000 to DeClo's Robert Moore.

The full-time artist, who works out of a 10,000-square-foot warehouse he converted into a studio, won for his "October's Voice," a 6-by-8-foot impressionistic painting of an Idaho aspen grove. It was the prize money that initially caught Moore's eye.

"Unless you're in one of the art centers where there are a lot of big-name artists, then you might get that type of prize money," Moore said, "but around here — in Idaho, anyway — I've never been aware of any prize money that size."

Cash prizes have doubled this year. "We're really fortunate to have that kind of excitement and support in southern Idaho," he added.

In addition to fees, the Art Guild generates prize money thanks to art-loving contributors who simply want to chip in.

Hoag has ambitious plans for the competition. He hopes to see it grow each year and become a popular event in the Northwest. If it becomes an international success (like ArtPrize has become, with artists participating in 2011), he's fine with that too.

"We hope it becomes a signature event for Magic Valley as a whole," Hoag said.

Foot Traffic

Last year, venues were concentrated along Main Avenue, but this year businesses throughout

Twin Falls are invited to participate. Hoag plans to expand throughout Magic Valley in the future.

Virginia Wilcox, owner of The Music Center at 221 Main Ave. S., hosted one of last year's standout venues. She plans to do it again this year, noting her exhibit brought in foot traffic "in droves."

"I've always been involved with the arts, and I've always been a supporter," Wilcox said, "so I thought, 'Well, we have four windows, so we'll have four displays.'" She created displays around each painting and hosted social events with wine and snacks to promote the art. Hoag said the contest is about promoting art, but also businesses.

"Last year it was amazing how many people kept commenting, 'I never knew some of these businesses existed down here,'" he said, noting the top venue this year will receive a $500 prize.

Moore is thrilled with the event's early success.

"I'm aware what it takes to get something like that off the ground," last year's winner said. "I wasn't doubting, but I was very impressed with the outcome. (Hoag has) quite a vision, and he has a good example and a good model to follow with the Grand Rapids show. I'm really hopeful that it will work"

Devoney Wolfe, CSI Student

A couple of years ago, my husband and I found ourselves in a position where we needed to go back to school. I enrolled in the Digital Media program, and have enjoyed it tremendously.

At CSI, I really like how personable the teachers have been. You can just go right up to them and talk to them if you have a problem. Plus, the campus is beautiful, and it's a great environment to make new friends.

I just really love CSI. It's a good school that provides good education.

The free, public sessions will be 3 p.m. each

Wednesday from Jan. 18 to May 2 in room 87 of CSI's Fine Arts building. They'll address a range of jazz topics including style, technique and methods.

The workshops are open to musicians of all ages and ability levels. Information: Jensen at 420-7066 or bjensen@csi.edu.

Henderson said. "We just play everything by ear," including when dinner is served.

"I've come here for two years every Friday," said Collin Ramsey, a Vera C. O'Leary Middle School eighth-grader. "It's just a getaway from home. We always have fun."

Youth Options Extreme takes place in a somewhat religious setting. Christian sayings and Scriptures — such as "Cast all your cares on him. He cares for you. I Peter 5:7" — hang on walls above the gaming tables. And each Friday night, Henderson leads a 15-minute devotional, in which she shares Scriptures and talks about spirituality.

"I was kind of nervous about starting that at first, but they're really respectful," Henderson said.

Collin isn't religious. At least, "I try not to be," he said. But he doesn't mind the devotionals.

"I like to listen to what they have to say," the 13-year-old said.

"I'm glad they let me come because, like, my mom's Mormon, and some of these guys are Catholic," Collin said, "and it's all good."

Anthony Duran, an O'Leary eighth-grader, attends with his buddies.

"Sometimes we don't get to hang out during the week because we're busy with homework," he said.

He likes the $1 price. "That's kind of the reason I come a lot — it's so cheap," Anthony said.

Years ago, the program drew 30-40 kids on Friday nights, but recently, 10-15 has been standard. And those who come are almost exclusively boys.

Two die-hard volunteers, Taylor Simonson, 18, and Melanie Coach, 19, attend each Friday night. They join in games and help out. But they and Henderson were the only females at The Salvation Army on Jan. 6.

Henderson would love to have more girls show up. If they do, she'll do her best to find an extreme number of options for them, too.

Eagles Earn Hardcourt Sweep of TVCC

TIMES-NEWS

The Golden Eagles didn't fall in this trap. Playing Treasure Valley (Ore.) two nights before a showdown with North Idaho, the College of Southern Idaho men's basketball team routed the Chukars 88-54 in Ontario, Ore. Thursday night.

"I thought our guys came out and we played really well in spurts," said CSI head coach Steve Gosar to 1450 KEZJ. "I think we're so much bigger inside and had a nice advantage there so our guards did a really good job pushing the ball up the floor and finding the big guys inside for some easy points."

Freshman forward Luke Cothron had a double-double with 18 points and 11 boards, and Pat Swilling had a nice all-around game, scoring nine points, dishing out four assists and recording two steals. Rafriel Guthrie had 11 points.

CSI (16-1) led 44-28 at halftime and pushed the lead to 71-43 on Kevin Attila's 3-pointer. The La Grande, Ore., native scored nine off the bench in front of a cheering section of family and friends who made the road trip to watch him play.

Attila, along with, Paul Bunch, Greg Sequele, Jerran Foster and Jon Pulsifer all played extended minutes in the second half with the game in hand. Bunch had 11 points and seven boards. Pulsifer scored six points.

"I loved them tonight. Pulse was active and attacking the rim. I thought he was playing really confidently. Kevin, I think his eyes light up when he sees zone," Gosar said. "Paul Bunch did a wonderful job tonight."

The reward for Aaron Rodgers' emphasis on making good decisions comes in the form of touchdowns, like this one against Tampa Bay earlier this season.

Rodgers On Point With Accuracy

ASSOCIATED PRESS

GREEN BAY, Wis. • For the Green Bay Packers, Sunday's playoff game against the New York Giants brings up not-so-fond memories of Brett Favre's interception in overtime that led to an NFC title game loss four years ago.

With Aaron Rodgers under center for the Packers ever since, that deflating feeling of watching a quarterback give away the game with a bad decision or wild throw remains just that — a memory.

Much is made of the idea that Rodgers had three years on the bench behind Favre to learn how to play quarterback in the NFL. For all of Favre's brilliant plays and big moments, wide receiver Greg Jennings thinks it's possible that Rodgers spent some of that time learning what not to do.

"It's like, 'I'm not going to do that when I get in that position,'" Jennings said. "Without him ever even saying that, you know that crosses your mind: 'I'm going to make that play when I get my opportunity. I'm not going to make THAT play when I get my chance.'"

Rodgers doesn't trace his distaste for turnovers back to that frigid NFC championship game against the Giants — "That game, I was just trying to stay warm most of the

BURLEY'S GREEN RESIGNS HEAD COACHING SPOT

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • Jeff Green resigned as Burley High's football coach Wednesday.

"Things have changed for me in the last month or two," Green said. "I just don't know that I can offer the long-term commitment to the program that it deserves."

Burley went 2-14 in Green's two seasons at the helm, going 2-6 in 2011 after a winless debut season in 2010. Green's high point came when his Bobcats snapped a 14-game losing streak by beating Twin Falls at Bruin Stadium, 16-6.

Green did not resign his position as a physical education teacher at Burley High, and said he is not seeking other coaching jobs.

Bruin Defense Smothers Burley

BY DAVID BASHORE

TWIN FALLS • Suffocating defense has long been the hallmark of successful Twin Falls boys basketball teams.

It was on full display Thursday, and Jared Allen made sure to bring the offense.

Allen scored a game-high 18, 10 in the fourth quarter, and the Bruins squeezed the very life out of Burley's offense for a 46-27 win, moving Class 4A's second-ranked team to 10-1 on the season.

It was the fifth time this season the Bruins (3-0 Great Basin) held a team to fewer than 35 points, the fourth time in the 20s.

"It was great to see us playing great team defense, because that's what the coaches have been preaching to us all week," said Allen. "We needed to get some flow on offense, and it took us a while to get going with that."

Thomas Corr scored nine for the Bruins, who marked a rare day where star guard Eric Harr wasn't among the top two offensive contributors.

RAPID START PROPELS RAFT RIVER

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

MALTA • The District IV Snake River Conference girls basketball tournament is two weeks away, but Raft River isn't waiting to step up its game.

Behind 18 points and 13 rebounds by Wynter Holtman, the Trojans blasted the SRC North Division-leading Glens Ferry Pilots 44-32 Thursday night.

Raft River (6-8 overall, 3-1 SRC South), the South Division co-leader, jumped out to a 10-point lead in the first quarter and the Pilots (9-7, 3-0 SRC North) never fully recovered.

"We want to make every possession count and we like taking open shots. We take what the defense gives us," said Raft River senior Echo Hansen, who had 13 points, five rebounds and four assists.

The Trojans were tenacious defensively, forcing a horde of turnovers and limiting Glens Ferry's strength of the 3-ball. The Pilots were just 3 of 22 beyond the arc and sharpshooter Karli McHone finished with seven points.

"Our goal was to shut down McHone and I think we did a good job of that," said Hansen. "Our defense won the game for us."

Raft River dominated inside with Holtman and Sydney Hitt, who grabbed nine rebounds.

“Sydney has really come on the last couple games. She doesn’t score a lot, but the way she rebounds and plays defense, she’s working her tail off down there against those bigger girls,” said Raft River coach Garth Steed.

After trailing by double-digits early, Glens Ferry fought back to within three heading into the fourth quarter. But despite eight points from Jade Gorrell and seven from Sara Arellano, the Pilots struggled down the stretch, scoring just three points without a field goal in the final period.

Each team’s next opponent is Challis; Raft River hosts the Vikings tonight and Glens Ferry travels to Challis Saturday.

coaching (the players) next year because there are some great kids here,” Green said. “I know if they work hard and play together they will have a great year. I’m proud of these kids for how hard they work and compete.”

Burley will look to fill several football coaching positions, as Green’s resignation comes on the heels of three assistant coaches stepping down. Aaron Edgar, Josh Creasey and Collin Widmier resigned last week.

Burley principal Dr. Carolyn Hondo said the search for a new coach will begin immediately. The new coach will be Burley’s fourth in the last 10 years.

“We’re going to try to get something in place, the sooner the better. We’ll open it up and see what’s out there,” Hondo said. “It is what it is and we’re just going to move forward and hope for the best.”

Knicks' Win Streak Halted by Grizzlies

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. • Rudy Gay scored a season-high 26 points and the Memphis Grizzlies beat New York 94-83 on Thursday night to end the Knicks’ winning streak at four games.

The Knicks played most of the second half without scoring leader Carmelo Anthony after he sprained his right ankle early in the third period. He didn’t return and X-rays were negative.

Gay made 11 of 16 shots to help the Grizzlies snap a three-game losing streak and improve to 4-6. O.J. Mayo scored 18 points, also a season high, on 7-of-12 shooting and had eight rebounds. Tony Allen added 12 points, and Marc Gasol had 10 points and 12 rebounds.

Anthony and Bill Walker each scored 14 points to lead the Knicks (6-5). Rookie guard Iman Shumpert had 12 points, but was 5 of 20 from the field. Amare Stoudemire, saddled with foul problems early, scored a season-low six points, converting only one of his seven shots. New York set a season low with its 83 points.

HAWKS 111, BOBCATS 81

ATLANTA • Josh Smith scored 30 points, Joe Johnson added 23 and the Atlanta Hawks won their first game without All-Star center Al Horford, routing Charlotte to improve to 8-4.

The Hawks learned earlier in the day that Horford, a leader on and off the court, will miss at least three months after tearing the pectoral muscle in his left shoulder Wednesday night at Indiana.

With Horford sidelined, Smith and Johnson came through big time against the hapless Bobcats, who lost their fifth in a row and dropped to 2-9. The Hawks dominated on the boards, outrebounding Charlotte 55-30.

Byron Mullens led the Bobcats with 21 points in his first career start.

BUCKS 102, PISTONS 93

MILWAUKEE • Brandon Jennings scored 27 points and Stephen Jackson added 25 for Milwaukee.

The Bucks improved to 4-0 at home and 4-6 overall, while the Pistons dropped to 2-9 with their sixth straight loss and fifth in a row on the road. Detroit last lost six straight

CSI travels to Couer d’Alene to play North Idaho (16-1) Saturday night in a Scenic West Conference affair. Tip off is 8:30 p.m. MST.

“These games are hard. Sometimes when you get a big lead like this it’s hard to not look ahead too much. It’s human nature to do that,” Gosar said. “We’ve been talking all week and preparing for North Idaho and how big a game it is. We wanted to keep them focused on tonight and I thought they did a nice job.”

Fabyon Harris, nursing a sprained left wrist, played sparingly, scoring just two points.

“I wanted to use a little discretion with his playing time and decided to play it safe tonight. We didn’t want him getting hurt with the game in hand,” Gosar said.

CSI WOMEN 71, TREASURE VALLEY 40

The College of Southern Idaho women’s basketball team turned to a zone defense once again and stifled Treasure Valley (Ore.) Community College.

The Golden Eagles (9-8) held the Chukars scoreless for nearly 10 minutes in the second half, using a 15-0 run to push their lead to 59-27 with just over seven minutes to play.

Taylorl Gipson hit her first 3-pointer of the night to give CSI the 32-point lead and Treasure Valley hit a trey of its own on the next possession with 6:45 left — the Chukars’ first bucket since the 16:37 mark. CSI head coach Randy Rogers doesn’t like to play a zone defense, but Treasure Valley had no answers for the aggressive 2-3 look, shooting just 26 percent.

“We did a nice job out on the perimeter again. It was a very physical game and our guards answered back,” Rogers said. “Treasure Valley really struggled shooting the ball tonight.”

The defense, rebounding (48 boards) and shooting (46 percent) were all positives for the Golden Eagles, but otherwise they played a sloppy game taking care of the ball (28 turnovers).

“It was just frustrating all the way through. That was the strangest 30 point win in my career,” Rogers said.

Gipson had a well-rounded game of 12 points, 11 rebounds and five assists and Kylee Schierman scored 15. The Golden Eagles also got nice production from their bench with Candace Prestwich scoring nine, Megan Tanner with seven and Liene Liepina scoring a season-high eight.

CSI beat Treasure Valley (2-11) 69-57 earlier this season. The Golden Eagles travel to Coeur d’Alene to play North Idaho on Saturday.

Rodney Williams scored 14 points and Julian Welch added 10 for the Golden Gophers (13-5, 1-4 Big Ten), who had lost four straight. Minnesota shot 6 of 13 on 3-pointers in the first half to take the lead, then maintained it by scoring in the paint and grabbing 12 offensive rebounds.

PSU President: It's Not a Penn St. Scandal

ASSOCIATED PRESS

KING OF PRUSSIA, Pa. • A plan designed to soothe angry Penn State University alumni may instead be sowing seeds of outrage.

Former Penn State and pro football star Franco Harris scheduled a competing event at the King of Prussia hotel after broad dissatisfaction with Erickson's first talk in Pittsburgh on Wednesday. A third alumni meeting is scheduled today in New York.

School President Rodney Erickson appeared Thursday night at a hotel near Philadelphia for the second of three town hall events aimed at repairing the school's image, but the 650 alumni in attendance for the sometimes heated 90-minute session didn't receive him well.

But even some critics say Erickson shouldn't be getting all the blame for what many view as a floundering public relations effort. Erickson, who received polite applause Thursday, is trying to repair the school's image more than two months after Sandusky's arrest on sexual abuse charges brought controversy, criticism and contemplation to Happy Valley.

Erickson said it "grieves" him when people refer to "the Penn State scandal" because he thinks it centers on just one person — former football assistant coach Jerry Sandusky, who's accused of molesting boys, some on campus. He said he believes people should call it "the Sandusky scandal."

A 2002 alumnus, Ryan Bagwell, who's seeking a trustee seat in voting that will start next week, said Erickson "takes his marching orders from the Board of Trustees," which has "sent him out on this three-day spree."

Most of Thursday's questions, however, involved concerns over the firing of Sandusky's former boss, legendary football coach Joe Paterno. Erickson said he hasn't had time to sit down with Paterno and his wife but hopes to when the scandal dies down.

"We want to hear from the trustees," Bagwell said. "We want them to explain why they made the decisions they did."

GEIGER LIFTS UI TO WIN

ASSOCIATED PRESS

RUSTON, La. • Deremy Geiger scored 23 points, including six to start overtime for Idaho, leading the Vandals to a 90-88 win over Louisiana Tech Thursday night.

The Bulldogs had the first shot in overtime, as Raheem Appleby stole the ball from Idaho's Landon Tatum. Appleby's jumper wouldn't fall, though, and Tatum rebounded and got it up-court to Geiger for a 3-pointer.

Geiger then converted a three-point play for an 82-79 lead the Vandals (8-8, 1-1 Western Athletic Conference) wouldn't relinquish. They went up 90-84 with 31 seconds to play in the extra frame thanks to a 6-for-6 showing from the free-throw line, and held on for the win.

time," he joked — or any other moment he spent behind Favre.

Instead, Rodgers said it goes back to his days at Pleasant Valley High School in Chico, Calif..

"I mean, that's No. 1, it really is — really going back to my freshman year of high school, when I actually threw more interceptions than touchdowns," Rodgers said.

Four years into his tenure as the Packers' starter, Rodgers has established himself as an elite quarterback, a Super Bowl MVP who can make all the throws, dodge pressure with his feet and generally light up scoreboards.

His most impressive trait might be his uncanny knack for avoiding big mistakes.

In 502 passing attempts this season, Rodgers completed 68.3 percent of his passes for 4,643 yards and six — six! — interceptions.

"His decision-making is second to none," Jennings said. "He's so smart and he's so aware of the situation, down and distance, where we are in the game, what play he needs to try to make — and what play, 'Hm, I don't need to try to force this.'"

After watching Rodgers march the Packers to a game-winning field goal in a 38-35 victory on Dec. 4, the Giants know what they're in for Sunday.

"He has great velocity on the ball, he has great accuracy and good vision," Giants coach Tom Coughlin said. "He sees people from the corner of his eye. He moves the ball around and has large contributions from a whole bunch of players so the distribution of the ball is handled very, very well."

With winter finally making an appearance in Green Bay this week, Rodgers said he doesn't expect cold or snow to hurt his game.

"I don't know what everybody else is feeling, I'm kind of hoping for 10 or 15 degrees on Sunday," Rodgers said.

The weather had been unseasonably pleasant in Green Bay this week, with a record high of 51 degrees Wednesday.

"I was telling a couple of the rookies, particularly the ones from the South, this is the best day you'll see in the next six months so you better suck it all in," McCarthy said then.

That changed in a hurry Thursday as a snowstorm swept across the Midwest, reminding everyone that it's January.

"We've been in the bad weather before," Jennings said. "We've performed well in the bad weather. It's just all about execution."

Texans' Foster Has Big-impact Fan

ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON • Arian Foster was in his first season as a starter for Houston back in 2010 when the Ravens came to town.

When Baltimore linebacker Ray Lewis grabbed the running back after a play, he didn't know what to expect. Turns out Lewis had become a fan and told Foster: "I love the way you play this game. You have a very, very bright future."

Since then, the pair have become friends, though that bond will be put aside Sunday when the Ravens and Texans meet in an AFC divisional playoff game.

Foster was floored by the comments from Lewis that day and said they really meant a lot to him.

"I was having a little success, but he didn't have to do that, but he did it and it was kind of surreal," Foster said, shaking his head. "The whole game I was kind of just like, 'Ray Lewis just said ...'"

Lewis, in his 16th NFL season, is impressed by Foster's football skills. But said he was drawn to the 25-year-old because of a quality that can't be seen in X's and O's.

"He's driven by a different burner inside," Lewis said. "He was an undrafted guy with a lot of talent, so he is fuelled by something different. Anytime you add that type of fuel with talent you get Arian Foster."

Foster went undrafted out of Tennessee in 2009 despite running for 2,964 yards in his four-year career and was picked up by the Texans as a free agent. He was released that September, but signed to the practice squad the next day and made the active roster that November after injuries to Houston's other running backs. He ran for 257 yards in six games.

Foster became Houston's starter in 2010 and his career took off. He finished with an NFL-best 1,615 yards rushing, then followed that up by running for 1,224 yards this season despite sitting out three games.

In his first career playoff game last week, Foster ran for 153 yards and two scores to help the Texans to a 31-10 win over Cincinnati.

Foster has said the struggles he had in getting his NFL career going drive him, and knowing Lewis appreciates what he went through is the best compliment he could receive.

"As a man who's played in this league, who's respected by everybody who plays this game ... for him to say that, it's vindicating for every-thing that I've worked for just to be respected by your peers and not only your peers, but one of the greatest defensive players to ever play the game," Foster said.

Houston Texans running back Arian Foster rushes in the second half of his team's game against the Baltimore Ravens earlier this season.

The 36-year-old Lewis and Foster talk or text often — Foster wouldn't reveal what their texts have said this week — and they met up a couple of times during the offseason. Foster enjoyed spending a couple of hours chatting with Lewis after the pair attended the ESPYs.

Today is Friday, Jan. 13, the 13th day of 2012. There are 353 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On Jan. 13, 1982, an Air Florida 737 crashed into Washington, D.C.'s 14th Street Bridge and fell into the Potomac River after taking off during a snowstorm, killing a total of 78 people; four passengers and a flight attendant survived. (Half an hour after the Air Florida crash, a Washington Metro train derailed during rush hour, killing three passengers.)

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1794, President George Washington approved a measure adding two stars and two stripes to the American flag, following the admission of Vermont and Kentucky to the Union. (The number of stripes was later reduced to the original 13.)

In 1945, during World War II, Soviet forces began a huge, successful offensive against the Germans in Eastern Europe.

In 1966, Robert C. Weaver was named Secretary of Housing and Urban Development by President Lyndon B. Johnson; Weaver became the first black Cabinet member.

In 1978, former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey died in Waverly, Minn., at age 66.

In 1987, West German police arrested Mohammed Ali Hamadi, a suspect in the 1985 hijacking of a TWA jetliner. (Although convicted and sentenced to life, Hamadi was paroled by Germany in Dec. 2005; he is on the FBI's Most Wanted Terrorists list.)

In 1990, L. Douglas Wilder of Virginia became the nation's first elected black governor as he took the oath of office in Richmond.

In 1992, Japan apologized for forcing tens of thousands of Korean women to serve as sex slaves for its soldiers during World War II, citing newly uncovered documents that showed the Japanese army had had a role in abducting the so-called "comfort women."

In 2001, an earthquake estimated by the U.S. Geological Survey at magnitude 7.7 struck El Salvador; more than 840 people were killed.

Ten years ago: Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neill and Commerce Secretary Don Evans said on the Sunday talk shows they had never considered intervening in Enron's spiral toward bankruptcy, nor did they inform President George W. Bush of requests for help from the fallen energy giant. President Bush fainted briefly after choking down a pretzel while watching a football game on TV in the White House residence. Christian Longo, wanted for killing his wife and three children and dumping their bodies into coastal waters off Oregon, was arrested in Mexico (he was later sentenced to death). The off-Broadway musical "The Fantasticks" finished its original run of nearly 42 years and 17,162 shows.

Five years ago: Nine people were killed in an apartment building fire in Huntington, W.Va. Two miners were killed when a roof collapsed inside the Brooks Run Mining Co.'s Cucumber coal mine in McDowell County, W.Va. The North Carolina state attorney general's office agreed to take over the sexual assault case against three Duke University lacrosse players at the request of embattled Durham County District Attorney Mike Nifong (all three players were later exonerated).

One year ago: Vice President Joe Biden became the first top U.S. official to visit Iraq since the country approved a new Cabinet; Biden emphasized to Iraqi leaders that the U.S. wanted nothing more than for Iraq to be free and democratic. A funeral was held in Tucson, Ariz., for 9-year-old Christina Taylor Green, the youngest victim of a mass shooting that also claimed five other lives and critically wounded Congresswoman Gabrielle Giffords.

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

IF JANUARY 13 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Although you have experienced a year with some challenges, you have some breathing space ahead with few surprises or tensions. Relax and take it easy until May when you can finalize major initiatives or take the crucial steps to move your life to a higher level. Be prepared to grab opportunities that come your way that month, as they may be in your best interests. Make it a priority to set important plans in motion at that time up to the first week of June, as whatever you begin at that time will receive a helping hand. Then maintain a low profile during the rest of June, because stringent requirements could complicate anything you start.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Superstitions about Friday the 13th don't scare you, but maybe they should. Current planetary alignments are not favorable for starting anything of crucial importance or for taking unnecessary risks.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be careful. The word "boss" and the word "bear" both start with a "B." Don't be surprised if the boss growls like a bear disturbed from hibernation. This is not a good day to draw attention to yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Take precautions. Do not attend a dinner party with 13 guests and don't email anyone whose email address consists of 13 letters. It is probably a good idea to go straight home from work.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Although the tales about Friday the 13th are probably just superstitions, it won't hurt to be extra cautious today. Be scrupulous about completing work on time and take pains not to offend anyone.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Someone's got your number. Don't try to fool anyone today, as you will get caught. The number 13 is considered so unlucky that many building owners avoid assigning it to any rooms or floors.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Unlucky at cards, unlucky at love. It is merely a coincidence that the worst day for beginning anything of key significance happens to fall on Friday the 13. Don't take any unnecessary chances.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If a mysterious black cat crosses your path, maybe you should change direction. Even if you push superstitious signs and omens aside, this is still an inauspicious day to begin anything of importance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Today is the first of three Friday the 13ths that occur in 2012. This one might be the worst because the celestial conditions are conducive to misunderstandings. Avoid confrontations at all costs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't tempt fate by walking under a ladder. Being too congenial can actually be detrimental to your progress. Sidestep gossip or chatter, which could distract you from completing essential tasks.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Read the date on the calendar. Although you are sharp as a tack and ambitious, be aware that pushiness could backfire today. Maintain a low profile and don't try to micro-manage everyone in view.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Although this is considered to be an unlucky day, you still have your innate charisma. Be proactive about networking or making sales calls; gather data that will help you make wise monetary decisions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Stick to the business at hand. Avoid wasting time with petty gossip and chitchat. Remember that whatever you say, do or write could be passed around on the grapevine and held up to critical scrutiny.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE® Bobby Wolff

"Nothing is so good as it seems beforehand."

— George Eliot

When both sides have a good fit and the bidding gets high quickly, it is always hard to judge who can make what. A sound principle is to keep on bidding when in doubt. Maybe you can make your contract, or maybe it is a good sacrifice. That was why North tried five diamonds over four hearts.

Declarer ruffed the heart lead, crossed to hand with a club, then ruffed another heart. However, the pace of play now slowed down and declarer was short of winning options. He chose to play a low spade, but East went in with the king and switched to a trump.

Declarer ran this to dummy but now, with the spade suit blocked, the best he could do was cash the spade ace and jack, discarding a heart. In the end he had to lose a trump and a club to go with the spade already lost.

Although it looked tempting to ruff hearts in dummy immediately, declarer should have foreseen that this line might not work against a bad trump break. Look at the effect of playing a spade at trick two.

Say that East goes in with the king, as before, and plays a trump. Declarer runs this to dummy, plays a spade to the queen, ruffs another heart, and cashes the spade ace while discarding a heart, then plays the spade jack. Whether East ruffs in or discards, declarer loses just one more trick.

ANSWER: Your partner's double shows a good hand, unsuitable for a call of three no-trump, something akin to an optional double. It looks normal to bid four clubs now, suggesting extra club length and allowing your partner to decide where to go from there.
