Working Groups Called to Help in Otter's Sage Grouse Plan

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI

TWIN FALLS • A task force formed by Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter is looking to local volunteers to help it rescue the greater sage grouse.

The governor's Sage Grouse Task Force hopes local sage grouse working groups will help supply it with habitat and population da-

In 2010, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service declared the desert-dwelling bird qualified for endangered-species protection but was not a high enough priority to be listed then. A year later, a federal judge ruled that a listing decision must be made by 2015.

A listing would affect public land use across much of southern Idaho, including land used for ranching and recreation. Several federal agencies have rolled out strategies and funding to keep the bird from being listed, and now state officials have jumped on board by improving their own conservation measures.

The task force was loosely formed earlier this week. Its goal is to draft a plan that regulates sage grouse conservation better than a previous Idaho plan.

The group's membership will include representatives from the state's 12 sage grouse working groups. The groups are overseen by the Idaho Department of Fish and Game and have developed individual voluntary plans to benefit sage grouse.

Idaho Power filed the proposals to the Idaho Public Utilities Commission on Wednesday. In a news release, the company explained the rate changes are the result of changes in its investments.

The four different filings request various rate adjustments, both increases and decreases. Taken together, the average customer might see a decrease of 67 cents on monthly bills starting June 1.

Among the requests, Idaho Power seeks a $10.5 million decrease in its base rates. The company claims it has lowered costs by replacing mechanical meters with automated smart me-

T.F. Contractor Charged with Tax Evasion

TIMES-NEWS

BOISE • A Twin Falls general contractor has been charged with income tax evasion, according to a U.S. Attorney's Office release.

On Feb. 14, a federal grand jury indicted Justin D. Schoenauer – who also goes by Cory or Corey - on four counts of income tax evasion. He was scheduled to face U.S. Magistrate Judge Candy W. Dale Thursday in Boise.

Schoenauer, 40, operated home builder Patagonia Construction, according to the release. From 2005-08, he allegedly hid the business's receipts by telling clients to pay him directly, and deposited checks made out to him into bank accounts he hid from his tax return preparer.

Prosecutors claim he also filed falsified tax returns that understated his gross income from Patagonia, and claimed personal expenses - including helicopter flight lessons and a 21-foot boat - as costs of goods sold by Patagonia on his 2005 and 2006 returns.

If convicted, Schoenauer faces up to 20 years in federal prison.

"Were already doing some combining of classes out at Hollister," said Terri Peters, Hollister Elementary head teacher. "It seems to work well for us."

Last year, the board cut four staff positions for a savings of $200,000. This time around, it will likely consider saving $100,000 by not immediately replacing retiring teachers. About 80 percent of the district's overall budget pays employee salaries and benefits.

"I only know of one person, for sure, who is retiring after this year," said Courtney Bingham, the district's human resource and payroll specialist. The finance committee will also recommend that the school board ask its patrons to support a $300,000 supplemental levy. The earliest the district could hold a public levy issue vote would be May 15.

protest of the 2010 Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act provision requiring insurance companies to cover contraceptives.

The bill would allow employers and insurers to opt out of covering contraceptives and sterilization. Bilbao, a retired quality manager for Boeing Co., cited his religious convictions as the major reason he drafted the legislation.

"The (U.S. Department of Health and Human Services) mandate for contraception and sterilization coverage is an attack on my rights of conscience," Bilbao said, adding his bill doesn't outlaw abortion or birth control, just the provision that requires employees and insurance companies provide coverage. If passed, an emergency clause would make the law effective immediately.

Rep. John Rusche, D-Lewiston, questioned Bilbao's argument.

"If a service is available under law but refused by an employer ... due to his morals or religion, doesn't that violate the employee's right to have that service available?" he asked.

Hannah Brass, legislative director for Planned Parenthood of Idaho, said many women use contraceptives for reasons other than family planning. Birth control can be used to treat endometriosis, painful menstrual cramps and other conditions, she said. Brass also said that the religious beliefs of an employer shouldn't dictate an employee's choice to use contraception.

In the same meeting, Bilbao introduced a proposal for the Legislature to encourage Congress to pass the Respect for Rights of Conscience Act, an amendment to the federal health care reform that would remove the birth control coverage mandate. Monica Hopkins of the American Civil Liberties Union of Idaho objected to the proposal, arguing that the Respect for Rights of Conscience Act is so broad that employers could strip away coverage for any medical procedure, not just contraceptives. She said under the proposed federal law, Scientologists could deny their employees coverage for antidepressants.

Because the committee's agenda wasn't posted online the day before Thursday's meeting, as is customary, Chairwoman Janice McGeachin, R-Idaho Falls, postponed a vote on the bill until Monday. The committee will take more testimony then, McGeachin said.

McGeachin Calls for Health Care Oversight Committee

New panel would advise lawmakers whether to enact federal health care reform.

BY CLARK CORBIN

ccorbin@postregister.com

BOISE • Rep. Janice McGeachin pushed for the creation of a new oversight committee Thursday that would advise the Legislature on whether to enact federal health care laws in Idaho.

The Idaho Falls Republican unveiled the bill in the House State Affairs Committee, which voted to introduce the measure and reroute it through the House Health and Welfare Committee that McGeachin leads.

Democratic Rep. Phylis King of Boise tried to block McGeachin's bill, but committee members voted to advance it after King's effort failed.

If the bill is passed into law, the 10-member committee of legislators would not have the power to make binding policy decisions. Instead, according to the proposal, "The committee shall provide legislative oversight, policy direction and recommendations to the Legislature with respect to the compliance with and implementation of any federal health care initiative..."

McGeachin said she is concerned about the ramifications and "unintended consequences" of the federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act that President Obama pushed.

She continues to oppose creation of a state health insurance exchange program, as defined by the federal law.

The new oversight committee, McGeachin said, would advise lawmakers of the benefits and consequences of creating an exchange, among many other broader health care topics.

McGeachin then told lawmakers she does not believe the state must help the federal government enforce the national health care package.

"We could comply with that if we choose," McGeachin said. "But it would be unconstitutional for the federal government to compel states to enforce federal regulations."

After the hearing, McGeachin said she was not trying to re-ignite last year's controversial nullification debate. That proposal, shot down in a Senate committee, was an unsuccessful attempt led by Republican Rep. Vito Barbieri of Dalton Gardens to classify the federal health care laws as "void and of no effect" in Idaho.

and of no effect" in Idano. McGeachin said her argument is different.

"The federal law creates a whole bunch of new regulations on the insurance industry and insurance products," McGeachin said. "So the federal government, it's their responsibility to ensure those regulations are imposed and enforced on the industry. It's not the state's responsibility to do that."

During the hearing, King was the only lawmaker to oppose advancing Mc-Geachin's proposal.

"It looks like what we are trying to do is butt heads with the federal government," King said. "I really like to work hand-in-hand with the federal government. There are a lot of things in here that would not be in the best interest of the people of Idaho."

McGeachin's bill would allow the oversight committee to meet at any point during the year, not just when the Legislature is in session.

Committee members would also be able recommend the repeal of existing rules and policies.

House Panel Seeks More Tree Cutting on Public Land

Opponents warn that it will cost much more than just giving the counties the money, and require huge increases in logging.

BY KEVIN FREKING and JEFF BARNARD Associated Press

WASHINGTON • A House panel approved legislation Thursday that would lead to greater harvesting of trees on federal lands as part of a Republican-led plan to replace a recently expired program that has sent billions of dollars to rural counties over the past decade to help them operate their schools and provide other essential services.

Republicans used their majority to pass the bill in the Natural Resources Committee by a vote of 26-17. Still, prospects for passage in the long run are slim. A mandate leading to increased logging, grazing and other activities is unlikely to go far in the Senate.

Nevertheless, the debate signals the renewal of a longtime political battle that will be waged over the coming months as lawmakers attempt to renew a program that has been a lifeline for many rural communities in the West.

That program, called the Secure Rural Schools program, expired in September and Western lawmakers and their constituents are anxious that future payments could be endangered because of tough time budget times for the federal government.

The program provided counties with about $360 million during the latest fiscal year. Payments made under the program were designed to help replace logging revenues that began to decline in the 1990s as a result of environmental laws designed to protect fish and wildlife habitat.

The lion's share of the socalled timber payments money has gone to Oregon, followed by California, Washington state and Idaho.

Some Western counties say they are facing economic disaster without the money. But some in Congress have argued the payments are akin to welfare for the West.

The committee bill would set revenue targets that would in turn require the Forest Service to increase timber harvests to meet those targets

"Today we acted to take the first step in helping rural communities get back on their feet," said Doc Hastings, the bill's author and the committee's chairman.

House Republicans argued that increasing logging would dramatically improve the health of the nation's forest and reduce the fire hazards that some forests have become as a result of overgrowth and

But Rep. Martin Heinrich, D-N.M., said the GOP lawmakers were just being unrealistic if they believed that the Senate would go along.

"That's a pipe dream folks;" Heinrich said. "I would suggest we actually do something this year." Heinrich said quick action was critical. Communities would have to slash services or dramatically increase taxes, or both, to make up for the lost funds.

In the Senate, Oregon Democrats Ron Wyden and Jeff Merkley want to extend federal payments to timber counties for five years while a longterm solution is worked out. Payments would ramp down 5 percent a year. They say they have bipartisan support

U.S. Officials Tie Terror Group to Syrian Bombings

WASHINGTON • Top U.S. intelligence officials pointed to al-Qaida in Iraq on Thursday as the likely culprit behind recent bombings in Syria, the deadliest attacks against the Syrian government in the 11-month uprising.

Though the U.S. has called for Syrian President Bashar Assad to step down, his fall could lead to a power vacuum that al-Qaida's largest regional affiliate or other extremist groups could fill, Director of National Intelligence James Clapper told Congress. And that could allow such groups to help themselves to Syria's vast stockpiles of chemical weapons, he said.

Suspected Gunman, Victim Found Dead in L.A. House

BY GREG RISLING Associated Press

LOS ANGELES • A gunman and one of his victims were found dead inside the charred remains of a Hollywood house Thursday where three other gunshot victims had been rescued from the burning home by police and firefighters, authorities said.

The two bodies were found after the fire was out and authorities were able to search the structure.

The three other victims – two women and a man – were found shot at the home when police and firefighters arrived. They were all taken to a hospital in serious condition and expected to survive.

Police believe the gunman had a relationship with one of the surviving victims. The shooting was called "domestically motivated' but authorities did not elaborate.

At the height of the blaze, TV news helicopters over the scene showed officers, some with shotguns, crouching near the corner of an apartment building as firefighters trained hoses on the flames from a distance.

Other firefighters stayed behind the protection of a fire engine.

The rambling single-story home already was smoking when firefighters were called to the scene. A 34year-old man and two 38year-old women had been shot and police took them from the front of the home, authorities said.

Neighbor Rosemary Marroquin, 25, said the people who lived in the house had moved there within the past year. She believed three couples resided there and called them friendly people.

She said there were no signs of violence, and she never heard fighting or any disturbances.

Santorum Challenges Mitt Romney in Mich. Speech

DETROIT (AP) • An aggressive Rick Santorum went after Mitt Romney on multiple fronts Thursday, challenging the Republican front-runner's economic policies, values and consistency in the city of his birth.

Santorum criticized his rival's record on federal bailouts in particular, although both men opposed the government's decision to rescue the auto in-

"Gov. Romney supported the bailout of Wall Street and decided not to support the bailout of Detroit. My feeling was that the government should not be involved in bailouts period," Santorum said in an address to the Detroit Economic Club, just 23 miles from where Romney went to high school. "I think that's a much more consistent posi-

Santorum spoke as Romney campaigned elsewhere in Michigan, ignoring Santorum and two other rivals for the GOP presidential nomination altogether while focusing his criticism on President Barack Obama.

Santorum, who has surged in state and national polls, is showing greater confidence in what should be safe territory for the longtime GOP front-runner. Romney not only grew up in Michigan, he is the son of a former governor. His family members also have been deeply involved in the state's politics for decades.

DEPUTY: ALLEGED CAT EATER HAD CARCASS IN KITCHEN

BY TRACIE CONE Associated Press

FRESNO, Calif. • It was the sound of a wailing cat that first caught the neighbor's attention. When she looked toward the sound she told authorities that she saw her next-door neighbor cutting off the crying feline's head with a knife.

The call she subsequently made to deputies started a bizarre animal cruelty investigation that has focused attention from around the country on a working-class neighborhood in a Bakersfield suburb where a man allegedly was fileting cats and cooking them on his backyard barbecue.

"I've been getting calls on this from around the country," Kern County Sheriff's spokesman Ray Pruitt said. "For some reason when somebody hurts animals people are more outraged than they are for a lot of other cases?

Investigators decided to release new details on Thursday because of the nationwide interest in the case.

Jason Wilmert, 35, will be arraigned Friday on charges alleging animal cruelty and using a pet or domesticated animal for food. Both are misdemeanors.

A neighbor told KBAK-TV that she had seen Wilmert with a wailing tabby cat cutting it down the back with a knife, then decapitating it. She turned away in disgust and called sheriff's deputies.

Pruitt said that when deputies arrived that morning at Wilmert's home they talked to other neighbors, who said they had heard the sounds of screaming cats coming from the house in Oildale. When he didn't answer his door, Pruitt said a deputy walked down the driveway and saw a cat's head in the backyard.

Later Pruitt came outside and deputies arrested him. When they searched his house they found a cat carcass in the kitchen sink, as if it were being prepped for cooking. Deputies also found an animal trap in the driveway.

"We don't know if he was using the trap to catch cats, but he had one," Pruitt

Nobody has called in reporting missing pets, and investigators suspect the victims were strays.

Wilmert has been unable to post $22,500 bail on the animal cruelty charges and unrelated littering offenses. It was unclear if he had an attorney.

Remote-Controlled Chip Implant Delivers Bone Drug

BY LAURAN NEERGAARD Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Medication via remote-control instead of a shot? Scientists implanted microchips in seven women that did just that, oozing out the right dose of a bonestrengthening drug once a day without them even noticing.

Implanted medicine is a hot field, aiming to help patients better stick to their meds and to deliver those drugs straight to the body part that needs

But Thursday's study is believed the first attempt at using a wirelessly controlled drug chip in people. If this early-stage testing eventually pans out, the idea is that doctors one day might program dose changes from afar with the push of a button, or time them for when the patient is sleeping to minimize side effects.

The implant initially is being studied to treat severe bone-thinning osteoporosis. But it could be filled with other types of medication, said coinventor Robert Langer of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Internet Sales Tax: Let's Get Our Fair Share!

While it's never popular to utter the word "tax" in an election year, the Internet sales tax is not a new one. Idaho consumers are already paying it. We just aren't getting the revenue returned to us.

wenty-four states currently participate in the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement. Idaho is not among them. A group of legislators, including Rep. Leon Smith, R-Twin Falls, Rep. Jeff Nesset, R-Lewiston, and Rep. Bill Killen, D-Boise, is trying to change this, as are the Idaho State Tax Commission and the Idaho Chamber Alliance.

We think it's about time they were heard, and that Idaho businesses stop suffering a competitive

If it seems like this topic is familiar, it's not your imagination. Similar Internet sales tax measures have been introduced in each of the past five years. Last year's effort, also spearheaded by Smith, was exiled by House Speaker Lawrence Denney of Midvale to the House Ways and Means Committee — the legislative equivalent of banishing it to Siberia.

Proponents of the proposed legislation say the issue is simple. Idahoans (the responsible ones, anyway) pay sales tax on Internet purchases from other states. That sales tax can and should be returned to Idaho but is not, due precisely to our failure to join the 24 other states that participate in the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement. Proponents say that the situation isn't fair, and they're absolutely right.

"Idaho business firms are being treated unfairly and the General Fund is being adversely affected each year because millions of dollars in sales taxes are not collected on Internet sales transactions," Shawn Barigar, president of the Twin Falls Area Chamber of Commerce and current chairman of the Idaho Chamber Alliance, said in a recent press release.

We know it's never popular to even utter the word "tax" in an election year, but in this case the tax is not a new one. Idaho consumers are already paying it. We just aren't getting the revenue returned to us.

Critics may argue that participating in the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax agreement will hurt Idaho's sovereignty over our tax policy. It will not; the governor and Legislature make the decision to join, and can decide to withdraw. Critics argue that the agreement will impede e-commerce. It won't it adds neither additional tax nor cumbersome paperwork to the process, but merely funnels sales tax revenue back to the state of Idaho.

This year let's give this legislation the time and the hearing — that it deserves. We implore the Speaker to let arguments be heard on both sides. When the merits are fully discussed, we feel confident that the Legislature will vote to have Idaho join the 24 other states is participating in the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement. As they should.

The Bishops Aren't Alone

The following editorial appeared in the Chicago Tribune on Wednesday:

n the first, fevered days of the controversy over insurance coverage of drugs that prevent pregnancy and induce abortions, early polling results made their way into conventional wisdom: The White House and supporters of its mandate cited survey results that found a majority of Americans on their side of the issue. Some pollsters found that even a majority of Roman Catholics said they favored a government requirement that religiously affiliated schools, hospitals and social service agencies provide the cov-

That narrative — Even Catholics support this! had the effect of isolating Catholic bishops and other opponents of the requirement. Their objection that the mandate violated the Constitution's guarantee of religious liberty looked to be outside the nation's mainstream of thought.

But new evidence suggests that, as Americans spend more time thinking through this polarizing issue, their attitudes may be shifting away from the White House's position, and toward protection of religious freedom. A nationwide survey released Tuesday by the Pew Research Center's Forum on Religion and Public Life found that six in 10 Americans have heard about the dispute.

Of those, a plurality of 48 percent now favors an exemption for religiously affiliated institutions; 44 percent say those institutions should have to provide the coverage.

Among Catholics, 55 percent now favor an exemption, while 39 percent do not. Drill down more layers and you find 63 percent of Catholics who attend church weekly favoring an exemption, with 25 percent opposed.

Of those who identify themselves as Catholic and visit church less frequently, 48 percent support an exemption; 49 percent disagree.

We argued earlier this week that public opinion shouldn't dictate government policy in matters of conscience. To do so, we said, would force opponents of capital punishment to surrender their objections because of the most recent finding from Gallup – in line with decades of its research that Americans now favor the death penalty by a margin of 61 percent to 35 percent.

But the state of public opinion, we also said, is good to know. That's especially true if opinion is on the move. One possibility is that, early on, many Americans viewed this issue as primarily about contraception - but the ensuing debate has focused them on the notion of the federal government telling the University of Notre Dame or Catholic Charities that, despite church beliefs, it must provide these drugs to its employees.

President Barack Obama sought to amend that impact Friday. He said that while "religious organizations" that primarily serve their own members would be exempt, "religious institutions" that serve students or clients of other faiths wouldn't have to "directly" provide these services. Instead, employees would obtain contraceptives and abortion-inducing drugs, at no cost, from the religious institutions' insurers. Opponents of the president's revised mandate suspect that it's a shell game; they fear that their premium dollars essentially would be laundered through their insurers to provide the very coverage the institutions oppose.

Though the news may startle the White House, the president's Friday revision didn't convert opponents of the mandate into supporters. Pew says its pollsters interviewed 1,501 respondents from last Wednesday through Sunday, and: "The survey shows little difference in opinions among people interviewed before the administration's proposed modification (Friday) and those interviewed afterward."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Zip Line Project Threatens Pedestrians

In recent years, there has been plenty of haggling regarding development of our treasured Snake River Canyon. Currently, a group wants to set up shop through the use of a special-use permit. Specialuse permits are granted by our local elected and appointed officials, whom we have entrusted to follow policies that ensure adequate infrastructure to support additional activities in a given area.

It is my opinion that they have failed. The safety of walkers, joggers, bikers, boaters, golfers, fishermen, picnickers, etc., has not been taken into consideration. I believe as soon as Auger Falls is up to speed, there will be a significant increase in traffic, and I believe our officials are putting many of the above mentioned in danger by allowing increased traffic on a road that does not meet city and state code, as well as code for parking, restrooms, etc. I have personally witnessed, on many occasions, heavy pedestrian use on the canyon grade at the same time vehicles are backed up in both directions, yet there is no designated walking trail to ensure walkers' safety.

It is my opinion that if our elected and appointed officials approve the zip line even though the infrastructure is already stressed, they are using poor judgment and vision. Please contact your county commissioners by calling 736-4068 and/or email commiss@co.twinfalls.id.us. Future generations will thank you.

Beware of Bar Games

I was in a local lounge the other night and played pull tabs. The owner's daughter was working and playing pull tabs, too. She informed my friend and I that a $200 winner was still in the box. My friend and I bought the remainder of the tickets and there were no winners. When we asked her why she lied, her response was, "Oh sorry, I just called my mom and she told me people took some home and they might have the winner."

I left feeling robbed. I called the Idaho Lottery Fraud number (733-9937) and they informed me that it was OK for a bar to deceive Idaho people. Once a bar buys the ticket, it can do whatever it wants with them. Well, if bars are allowed to rip people off, then people should be informed.

I'm so outraged and in shock. In most states, winners over $50 are marked off the flares so people know what they are buying.

People who play Lottery know that the odds are against them, but to be deceived on top of it is an outrage. Please inform people what they are up against!

New Twitter Service Does Away with Ad Reps

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) • Buying ads on Twitter is about to get easier for small businesses as the online messaging service adds a key piece to its moneymaking model.

Twitter is unveiling a long-awaited automated system that will enable advertisers to manage their marketing campaigns and budgets without having to deal with sales representatives.

Before Twitter opens the system to all comers later this year, the self-service approach announced Thursday will only be available to advertisers who accept or use American Express cards. To get the ball rolling, American Express Co. will buy $100 in Twitter ads for each of the first 10,000 qualified businesses in the U.S. that sign up at http://ads.twitter.com/amex.

General Motors posts its biggest profit ever, $7.6 billion, but it may have a hard time breaking this record in 2012.

The bailout of GM and Chrysler Group LLC, begun by George W. Bush and finished by Barack Obama, remains a major issue in this year's presidential campaign. It's so politically charged that even a Super Bowl ad celebrating Chrysler's rebirth caused arguments.

GM, which released its earnings Thursday, performed best in its home territory, posting a $7.2 billion pretax profit in North America. GM's cost cuts, and its outlook for this year helped to push up the stock price by almost 9 percent to $27.08. The company said it trimmed costs by $500 million in the fourth quarter alone mainly by consolidating advertising agencies and engineering operations. A prediction that costs wouldn't rise this year wowed investors, especially since other automakers have forecast rising costs, said Itay Michaeli, an analyst for Citi Investment Research.

"That was a very pleasant surprise," he said.

GM also was optimistic about sales and revenue. It sees its global market share holding steady at 11.9 percent, and if global auto sales rise as expected this year, GM's slice of that would also increase.

That's especially promising, since GM managed to make money last year with industry-wide sales in the U.S. at a historically low 12.8 million. Sales this year could rise to 14 million.

The company expects to charge more for its cars and trucks this year, but warned that the prices could be pressured as the market shifts toward smaller, lessexpensive vehicles.

Stronger Job Market May Boost Economy

BY CHRISTOPHER S. RUGABER AND DEREK KRAVITZ Associated Press

WASHINGTON • The healthier job market that's lifted the economy in recent months shows no signs of slowing.

Applications for unemployment aid are near a four-year low, raising expectations of further hiring gains. The news Thursday helped catapult the Dow Jones industrial average to its highest close since May 2008.

More jobs and tame inflation are giving consumers more buying power. Their higher spending could further boost growth and lower the unemployment rate for February for a sixth straight month.

Even the troubled housing market is benefiting. Builders expect improved sales in the near future. In response, they're planning to break ground on more homes.

"The housing starts unemployment claims numbers add to the belief that the economy is shifting gears," said Joel Naroff, president of Naroff Economic Advisers. "The decline in the unemployment rate is real, and it should continue."

A series of positive economic reports Thursday reinforced that message:

- Weekly applications for unemployment benefits fell to a seasonally adjusted 348,000, the Labor Department said. That's the lowest level since March 2008. Unemployment applications have dropped 11 percent in four months.
- Builders broke ground in January on a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 699,000 homes, the Commerce Department said. That nearly matches November's three-year high. Single-family home construction cooled off slightly after a big jump in December.
- Factory activity in the Philadelphia region grew in February at the fastest pace in five months, a survey by the Philadelphia Federal Reserve Bank found. That followed a report that showed a third straight month of factory growth in the New York region.
- Wholesale prices were largely unchanged in January, Commerce said. While gas prices are rising, they've been offset by falling costs for electricity, home heating oil and natural gas. Most economists see inflation as little threat.

Many analysts are growing more optimistic about the job growth the government will report next month for February. Some say the net job gains could match or top January's. Employers added 243,000 net jobs in January, the most in nine months. In the past three months, the economy has produced an average of about 200,000 jobs.

Payroll Tax Cut Faces Senate Opposition

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON • Capitol Hill negotiators Thursday officially unveiled hard-fought compromise legislation to prevent 160 million workers from getting slapped with a payroll tax hike, but it ran into turbulence in the Senate, where Republicans withheld support and several Democrats attacked it.

The measure would also extend jobless benefits and is a top election-year priority for President Barack Obama. It generally won backing from his Democratic allies in Congress. But it's getting only grudging support from House Republicans and even less from Obama's GOP rivals in the Senate, where party negotiators shunned the measure and its $89 billion impact on the budget deficit over the coming decade.

"The typical American family will still see an extra $40 in every paycheck, keeping nearly $1,000 of their hard-earned money this year," Obama said in a statement. "And millions of Americans who are out pounding the pavement looking for new work to support their families will still be able to depend on the vital lifeline of unemployment insurance."

But support in the Senate, where Democrats control 53 votes, seemed soft. It will take 60 votes to advance the measure, and Democratic vote counters braced for defections during voting, expected today. They also worried that Senate GOP leader Mitch McConnell of Kentucky wasn't rounding up Republican votes.

Meanwhile, in the House, the top Republican said the $143 billion measure won't do anything to help the economy.

"Let's be honest, this is an economic relief package, not a bill that's going to grow the economy and create jobs,"

House Speaker John Boehn-

er, R-Ohio, said. But after losing a fight over the legislation at the end of last year, Republicans were determined to clear it off of the political agenda and focus voters on Obama's record rather than their battles with him. "It was impossible to break through on the politics," Rep. Greg Walden, R-Ore., said.

But several Democrats also came out publicly against the bill and others have privately signaled they're likely "nay" votes. Most noteworthy was Sen. Tom Harkin, who came out in "vehement opposition" to the measure over cuts to Obama's health care law and the reduction in a payroll tax that's dedicated to paying Social Security benefits. Deficit spending would make up for the lost revenue, but that was little solace to the Iowa liberal.

"Make no mistake about it, this is the beginning of the end of the sanctity of Social Security," Harkin said.

WYO. PANEL ADVANCES BILL TO GAIN CONTROL OF WOLVES

BY BEN NEARY Associated Press

CHEYENNE, Wyo. • A bill to change Wyoming's wolf management law to end federal protection for the animals in the state cleared its first committee hearing Thursday, even as several lawmakers expressed their frustration that the process of gaining state control has been dragging on for years. Gov. Matt Mead and U.S. Secretary of Interior Ken Salazar agreed last year on a plan to turn over wolf management to Wyoming. The move would end federal protections for wolves under the Endangered Species Act.

The deal calls for wolves to be protected as trophy game animals in a flexible zone outside Yellowstone National Park but classified them as predators that could be shot on sight elsewhere in the state.

It requires Wyoming to maintain at least 10 breeding pairs of wolves and at least 100 individual animals outside of Yellowstone and the Wind River Indian Reservation.

The federal government could turn over wolf management to the state by the end of September, if the Legislature endorses the plan, Jay Jerde, a lawyer with the Wyoming Attorney General's Office, told members of the Senate Travel, Recreation, Wildlife & Cultural Resources Committee on Thursday.

Steve Ferrell, the governor's wildlife policy adviser, warned the committee that any substantive changes to the plan would likely prompt the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to restart the process of soliciting public comment.

Wyoming has fought for years to try to get state control of wolves, engaging in rounds of unsuccessful lawsuits and failed negotiations. The federal government accepted a similar delisting agreement from the state in 2007 only to repudiate it as soon as a federal judge criticized it.

Mead and other state officials have expressed frustration with the growing number of wolves that they say are taking a heavy toll on other wildlife and livestock in the state. The governor said in his State of the State Address that wolf numbers are increasing 10 percent a year.

The federal government reintroduced wolves to Yellowstone National Park in the mid-1990s. Although the federal agency said at first that it would be satisfied with 150 wolves and 15 breeding pairs in the Northern Rocky Mountains, the agency has steadily increased its assessment of how many wolves are necessary to sustain a viable, breeding population.

Snow-ed Under: CSI Men Fall at Home

BY STEPHEN MEYERS smeyers@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • All Fabyon Harris could do was lay on the ground and Brandon Vega stole the ball from the College of Southern Idaho's leading scorer, dropping Harris to the ground in the process, and flipped it ahead to Teigbe Bamba, who slammed it home emphatically with two hands.

Bamba hit a 3-pointer at the buzzer moments later to close out the first half and drop the Golden Eagles in a 16point halftime deficit from which they would never recover.

Snow College was an 18-wheel tractor trailer Thursday night, driving right through the hearts and pride of the No. 4 Golden Eagles to win 82-62, handing CSI its first home loss since an 89-87 setback against Western Nebraska last season.

"Tonight was a night where we needed to have a great attitude and we didn't bring it," said CSI head coach Steve Gosar. "The things that defined us the last seven games were gone. We didn't block out, we didn't share the ball on offense. We gambled on defense. We didn't rotate on defense. We weren't a team."

Coming into the game, CSI boasted the second-stingiest defense in the Scenic West, giving up just 68 points a game on 38 percent shooting.

Connor Van Brocklin though, hit back-breaking shot after back-breaking shot to score 22 points, including five 3-pointers. The SWAC's leading scorer, Travis Wilkins, scored 13 points, Vega had 13 and nine assists and the Badgers shot 49 percent, most shots coming on penetration to the basket.

Snow (19-7, 6-5 SWAC) took a 14-11 lead early on a Wilkins' 3 and led 44-28 at halftime over a shell-shocked CSI team, which never got closer than 13 the rest of the game.

"The only thing I can say is that I apologize to the fans and the administration for this effort. I am responsible for the team and how they come out and they didn't play how we expect them to play," Gosar said. "This is one of the sickest feelings I've had in my stomach as a coach."

Harris led CSI with 18 points and Rafriel Guthrie scored 16, but the CSI offense was stagnant most of the night with players settling for long jump shots or reckless drives to the hoop. The Golden Eagles had jus eight assists and turned the ball over 16 times. CSI leads the conference in

Bubbly 'Kid' Gary Carter Dies at 57

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK • Gary Carter was nicknamed "Kid" for good reason.

His smile, bubbly personality and eagerness to excel on a ballfield made him a joy to watch at the plate and behind it.

Even his Hall of Fame bronze plaque at Cooperstown shows him with a toothy grin — the Kid forever.

The star catcher, whose single for the New York Mets in the 1986 World Series touched off one of the most improbable rallies in baseball, died Thursday. He was 57.

Carter was diagnosed with a malignant brain tumor last May, two weeks after finishing his second season as coach at Palm Beach Atlantic University. Mets spokesman Jay Horwitz said Carter died at a hospice in the West Palm Beach, Fla., area.

"I am deeply saddened to tell you all that my precious dad went to be with Jesus today at 4:10 p.m., Carter's daughter Kimmy Bloemers wrote on the family website. "This is the most difficult thing I have ever had to write in my entire life but I wanted you all to know." Carter was an 11-time All-Star and three-time Gold Glove winner. His bottom-of-the-10th single in Game 6 of the 1986 Series helped the Mets mount a charge against the Boston

Red Sox and eventually beat them. With curly, blond locks flaring out from beneath his helmet, and a rigid, upright batting stance, Carter was immediately recognizable. "His nickname 'The Kid' captured how Gary approached life," the Mets said in a statement. "He did everything with enthusiasm and with gusto on and off the field. His smile was infectious.... He was a Hall of Famer in everything he did."

Carter played nearly two decades with the Mets, Montreal, San Francisco and the Los Angeles Dodgers. He led the Expos to their only playoff berth and was the first player enshrined in Cooperstown wearing an Expos cap.

"Gary was one of the happiest guys in the world every day," Mets teammate Mookie Wilson once said.

Carter was known as much for his effervescent personality as his talents. He earned his nickname as an eager teen in his first major league camp and the label stuck for the rest of his career, and beyond.

"An exuberant on-field general with a signature smile who was known for clutch hitting and rocksolid defense over 19 seasons," reads his Hall plaque.

He was especially pumped during the biggest moment of his career. The powerful Mets were down to their last chance in the '86 Series when Carter stepped up with two Please see CARTER, S6

Wood River Cruises Into Semis

BY DAVID BASHORE

dbashore@magicvalley.com

BOISE • Haylee Thompson is at her most nervous in the locker room right before the game.

She sure found a positive outlet Thursday.

Thompson scored the first six points of Wood River's Class 4A state quarterfinal against Century, finishing with a game-high 16 as the Wolverines cruised 34-19 to reach tonight's semifinal at Timberline High School.

"I had some jitters, and I think that helped me run the floor," Thompson quipped after the win. "On the first day there are a lot of nerves, but a quick start helps against any team."

Wood River (14-9) helped its own cause defensively, denying Century any points until the final minute in each of the first two quarters on the way to a 22-5 halftime lead.

Wood River held Century (11-14) to 19 percent from the floor (7-for-36). While the Utah State-bound forward anchored the Wolverines' offensive paint, Kaitana Martinez balanced the floor with an 11-point effort. "Whatever it takes to help us win, whether that's me scoring or dishing the ball, that's what I'll do.

Today it was more dishing the ball," said Martinez, who added five assists, five steals and four rebounds. "Experience really helped us. They looked pretty nervous, and we just focused on ourselves and what we do well?

The Wolverines guaranteed themselves a trophy game for the second straight season with the win. They'll play Middleton, a 40-31 winner over Madison, tonight at 6:15 to try and get to the title game for the second year in a row.

Those two teams met last year in the championship game, with the Vikings winning 47-33 to claim their second straight title.

Middleton has won 47 games in a row and will vie for its fifth consecutive championship game appearance, but the Wolverines are optimistic that they can be the team to finally thwart the Middleton machine.

"We just need to take what their defense gives us and make sure we execute the plan our coaches put together," Martinez said.

Tale of Two Halves Dooms Richfield

BY JOHN ENGLE

Special to the Times-News

BOISE • Through one half of play Thursday, Richfield looked to be on its way to the semifinals of the Class 1A Division II semifinals

The Mackay Minders had other ideas, rallying in the second half for a 31-25 victory while erasing a seven-point halftime deficit.

"(The girls) play a lot better than they did in the first half. I told them that they're a better team, and that if they want this game they're going to have to take it," said Miners head coach Tanya Barker.

To the delight of their coach, the Miners recovered after halftime, reducing the lead to one entering the fourth quarter.

The rapid recovery can be attributed to post Bailey Woodbury, who in the third quarter, refused to let the game slip away. "I wasn't really feeling it in the first half but my shot was really on in the second half, so I wanted the ball more," said

Behind 17 points, 14 rebounds and five steals by senior Sydney Webb, Declo beat Nampa Christian 52-39 to advance to the semifinals of the girls Class 2A state basketball tournament at Kuna High School.

"I felt we had to focus on this game instead of worrying about maybe a state championship game," said Webb. "We needed to focus more on the first game and take it a game at a time. Each game is going to get tougher, so we need to keep playing our best and not let down even when things get tough."

MARSH VALLEY BOGS DOWN FILER

BY DAVID BASHORE dbashore@magicvalley.com

MIDDLETON • Sometimes, if you're good enough at one aspect of basketball, you don't need to tip your hand with the rest.

Marsh Valley showed why it's still undefeated on Thursday, using a relentlessly aggressive transition game to wear down Filer 66-37 and advance to the Class 3A girls basketball state semifinals.

The Eagles (23-0) were in transition basically the entire game, turning turnovers and defensive rebounds into layups almost at will.

"They're fast and they're aggressive. It caught us offguard and made us look a step slow, which isn't the type of team we are," said Filer coach Kody Ketterling. "We didn't play that badly, we just didn't shoot well and the turnovers killed us."

Filer (15-8) only committed one more turnover than did Marsh Valley, but a good chunk of those came on breaking up the Eagles' transition game off a Wildcat turnover or missed shot. Few were generated in Marsh Valley's offense, unlike at the other end.

Shaylyn Brown had a game-high 17 to pace Marsh Valley, which came at Filer in waves. The Wildcats held their own briefly in the first quarter before the Eagles got the lead to 18-8, and the deficit ballooned to as big as 34 after that.

Audrey Croy had nine points to lead Filer, while Katie Hughes scored seven and Cassidy Ferrell added

Filer will try to avoid going two-and-out for the second year in a row when it PRIEST plays RIVER/FRUITLAND LOS-ER in an elimination contest today at 3 p.m.

"I think we'll be fine. We're still getting better," Ketterling said. "The girls are upset, and it's the kind of upset about being a better team than that. They'll be ready."

drive the ball and get the foul every time. Once they started getting aggressive, a lot started happening for us," said Barker.

The fourth quarter of play brought something new to the fans watching at Nampa High School, a lead change. Mackay was able to capture their first lead of the game on their first attempt of the fourth, and maintained that lead until the final buzzer.

Although Mackay struggled to find their identity at the start of the game, Barker says the Miners always had their plan in mind.

"We had one goal in mind, and that was to shut down Sasha Kent," said Barker. "She's a big player for them and she's pretty much the only one on that team that can do serious damage."

Richfield began the game with four takeaways, and the Tigers jumped to an early three-point lead that held for the majority of the first quarter. Mackay didn't earn its first bucket until 3:06 was left in the first quarter, but were bailed out from a three pointer made by Woodbury to even the score. Long range shooting allowed Richfield to maintain the lead, 9-6, despite multiple missed layups.

"We just couldn't make any shots. We played regular defense and that's kind of what we're know for. When you hold a team to 31 points, you expect to win," said Richfield head coach Buck Hendren. They did a good job of sagging on defense and taking Sasha (Kent) away from the basket."

In the second quarter, turnovers continued to plague the Miners. Because of their self-inflicted pain, Richfield was able to go on an 8-0 run to stretch their lead to a nine points with two minutes remaining in the period, before settling for a seven-point edge at halftime.

Richfield moves to the consolation bracket, where it will play Clark Fork today at 8 p.m.

"It's tough, you know. When you have high standards and high goals to lose is hard," said Hendren. "It's just a matter of getting refocused tomorrow. I told the girls we still have the chance to bring home some hardware. You can't go back. Hopefully after tonight, we can get over the loss and come back in practice tomorrow and get ready to go."

Second Half Soothes Carey's First-half Frazzles

NAMPA • The Panthers had come too far to see their state title hopes shattered in the first half of the opening

Although it trailed by double digits at halftime, the Carey girls basketball team never quit and rallied to a 46-37 victory against Tri-Valley on Thursday at Nampa High School.

Carey (16-7) advances to play in the semifinals at 1:15 p.m. today against (Summit Academy-North Gem).

Micaela Adamson led Carey with 18 points, six rebounds and three assists, while Morgan Parke had 10 points and five boards.

"I just think we came in, not cocky, but almost a little too confident," said Carey senior Nicole Gomez. "Last year we didn't even make it to state and it sucked. It was nerve wracking to see us losing in the first half and I didn't know what would happen, but we pulled it out. We did it."

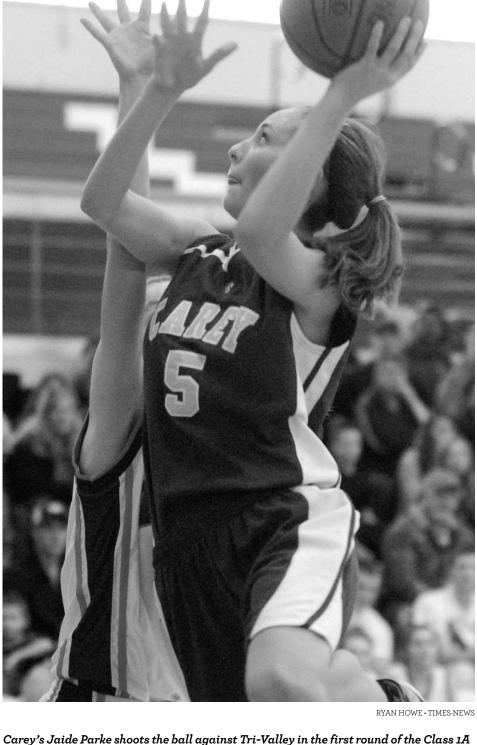

Tri-Valley's defense frustrated Carey in the first half, not allowing Panther point guard Jaide Parke to get on track. Parke shot just 3 of 15 from the field, finishing with eight points and eight rebounds. It wasn't until Carey amped up its own defense and switched to man-toman that the Panthers finally came alive.

"We needed to get in man to get us going. We weren't playing aggressive enough," said Adamson.

Tri-Valley's biggest lead was 12, but Carey outscored the Titans 18-5 in the third quarter, mostly by looking to Gomez, Adamson and Morgan Parke in the paint.

"We spread it out and tried to get something going to boost our confidence and tried to get something inside," Adamson said. "We weren't even really running through anything in the first half, we'd shoot it first pass and it wasn't really working. We just needed to calm down and play our

Dietrich Needs a Second (Quarter) to Blow Out Clark Fork

BY JOHN ENGEL For the Times-News

NAMPA• Defending Class

1A Division II state champion Dietrich looked ordinary as it opened its title defense Thursday at Nampa High School.

For a quarter, anyway. The Blue Devils took a tie game after one quarter, built the lead to 14 at halftime and extended it all the way to the final buzzer in routing

Clark Fork 62-32. Moriah Dill scored a game-high 22 points to lead three Dietrich players in double figures. Charley Bingham and Kendra Mc-Connell each finished with 10 points. Brocklynn Thornton scored nine points to lead Mackey

Clark Fork stayed in the game on strong 3-point shooting by Celeste Komanec. But Bingham was Komanec's equal, and when the 3s weren't available for the Wampus Cats, the rout was on.

Dietrich's defense clamped down in the second quarter, surrendering just one basket in the quarter and went into halftime with a 29-15 lead.

"We play really good together as a team," Dietrich head coach Acey Shaw said. "Our defense was really

The Wampus Cats struggled to gain any momentum on offense, turning the ball over 23 times. Clark Fork didn't receive any relief from its defense, either, giving up 33 points in the second half.

And once Dietrich started converting from close to the basket, things really got grim for the Wampus Cats. Dietrich shot just 5-for-21 from 2-point range in the first half, but improved to nearly 50 percent (8 of 17) in the second half. The Blue Devils' efforts inside allowed them to get open looks on the perimeter, making 3 of 4 shots from 3-point range in the second half.

"(Moriah Dill) was really tough on the boards," Shaw said. "The reason why we're so tough is because when one of us has a weak game, someone else steps up and plays tough."

Dietrich will play Mackay today at 3 p.m.

tion offense. With time winding down in the first half, Declo's Jennifer Bott scored in the low post on an assist by Webb. Then Garrity Searle picked the Trojans' point guard's pocket and fed Tenesia Schroeder for a layup as Declo went into halftime ahead 27-22. Daliss Pickup, Wilson and Webb each scored in the paint during a 7-0 run in the third quarter to put Declo up by double digits.

Pickup finished with nine points and seven boards, point guard Chancey Knopp had 10 points and the Hornets forced Nampa Christian (14-8) into 26 turnovers.

"We survived and we move on," said Declo coach Dennie Smyer. "We're in the winners' bracket and playing for a blue Idaho (trophy) instead of a black. Butte County is going to be tough, they're a buzzsaw, they throw a lot of kids at you."

JEROME • The inside battle between the two senior post players from the two teams, Jake Hollifield of Jerome and Taylor Carson of Burley epitomized the school-ofhard-knocks district tournament game between the Tigers and Bobcats. Hollifield scored nine points and pulled down seven defensive rebounds as the Tigers came out with the win 43-38. "It's a tough job guarding Hollifield," said Carson who tossed in seven points. "He is a great post player and fun to try to stop. It's a fun battle with my goal to front him and make him work to get open."

Jerome's largest lead was five points (7-2) and there were six lead changes and four ties. The Tigers held a 23-18 margin in rebounds. After Jerome held a slight edge at the half, 18-15, the second half found each team trying to figure the best offensive attack at the others

Duke's Quinn Cook (2) drives to the basket against North Carolina State's Alex Johnson (3) during the first half of their game Thursday at Cameron Indoor Stadium in Durham, N.C.

Duke Rallies Past Upstart Wolfpack

ASSOCIATED PRESS

DURHAM, N.C. • Seth Curry scored 21 of his season-high 26 points in the second half, and No. 5 Duke rallied from 20 points down with 11:33 to play and beat North Carolina State 78-73 on Thursday night.

Freshman Austin Rivers added 16 points on 4-of-13 shooting for the Blue Devils (22-4, 9-2 Atlantic Coast Conference). They used late rallies of 13-0 and 20-3 to erase that huge deficit and keep pace with No. 8 North Carolina and No. 20 Florida State atop the league standings.

Lorenzo Brown scored 19 points to lead the Wolfpack (18-8, 7-4), who trailed 76-73 with the ball in the final seconds with a chance to force overtime.

But Brown missed a contested 3-pointer from the corner with about 7 seconds left, and Curry hit two free throws with 2.2 seconds to go to seal N.C. State's 14th straight loss at Cameron Indoor Stadium.

NO. 7 MICHIGAN STATE 69, NO. 15 WISCONSIN 55 EAST LANSING, Mich. •

Draymond Green had 20 points and 10 rebounds, Keith Appling scored 20 points and Michigan State moved back into a firstplace tie in the Big 10 with No. 6 Ohio State.

The Spartans led 31-19 at halftime and built a 53-33 lead midway through the second half. This was their sixth win over a ranked team this season, most in Division I.

Wisconsin's Jordan Taylor missed 10 of his 13 shots and was held to 13 points.

NO. 20 FLORIDA ST. 48, VIRGINIA TECH 47 TALLAHASSEE, Fla. •

Michael Snaer's 3-pointer with 2.6 seconds left capped Florida State's rally from a 15-point deficit with 14 minutes to play and kept the Seminoles in a first-place tie in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Florida State (18-7, 9-2) trailed 45-37 with 1:29 left in the game, but Virginia Tech missed 5 of 6 free throw attempts over the final 1:09.

Snaer, who had made only 3 of his 10 previous shots, hit the game-winner from nearly the identical spot he did in a win over Duke on Jan. 21. Ian Miller's 3 from the corner with 44 seconds left got the Seminoles within 47-45.

Erick Green led Virginia Tech (14-12, 3-8) with 18 points and was nearly fouled as he launched a last-second desperation shot that bounced off the rim as the buzzer sounded.

TWIN FALLS • They could have wilted.

Snow College's Becca Rees hit a 3-pointer from the corner with about seven minutes remaining and the Golden Eagles' lead - one time as large as 12 - was down to two.

Instead, the College of Southern Idaho women's basketball team responded.

Mechela Barnes hit a pair of free throws, Kylee Schierman swatted Erica Martinez and Tayllor Gipson hit her fourth 3-pointer of the game and the Golden Eagles pushed the lead back to 10 on their way to beating Snow

"We talked about getting three straight stops on defense and Gipson hit some big, big shots," said CSI women's head coach Randy Rogers. "Really, that's what it came down to. I didn't do anything. The lead was only two and we got it back up to 10 pretty quick there. The girls stepped up and closed out the game."

And with the win, the Golden Eagles (14-12, 6-5 Scenic West) closed in on chasing down that No. 2 spot in the Scenic West standings. They sit a game back of Snow (14-11, 7-4), which plays Saturday in Coeur d'Alene against North Idaho. The Cardinals rallied to beat Salt Lake 49-40 Thursday night.

CSI hosts Salt Lake (14-10, 5-6) Saturday at 3 p.m.

Gipson's fourth 3-pointer gave the Golden Eagles a 58-48 lead with four minutes left and Snow never recovered. Gipson shot 4-for-7 from deep, breaking out of a month-long shooting slump to score 20 points, 15 in the second half.

CSI led 34-24 at halftime, but Snow pulled the score to 40-37 on a Martinez 3 to cap a 13-6 start for the Badgers. Martinez, the SWAC's second leading scorer at 18.8 points per game, scored nine points in the second half, but finished with just 12 on 7for-17 shooting as Gipson kept on her hip all game.

"I thought Gipson did a pretty good job on Martinez. We know she's going to get her points, so I asked Gipson to defend her and let Schierman shut down Wells, who hurt us last time," Rogers Schierman held Wells to just nine points and CSI's defense shut down Danielle Lockhart in the second half, limiting her to just two points after scoring eight in the first half.

CSI raced out to a 10-0 lead to start the game, fueled by seven Mechela Barnes points. The sophomore guard scored 20 points and Chakala Carthen had a double-double of 11 points and 12 rebounds.

"Overall we had a great defensive effort tonight and Chakala really attacked the glass," Rogers said. "We put together a pretty complete game."

Carter said he had just one thought in mind: "I wasn't going to make the last out of the World Series."

True to his word, he delivered a clean single to left field off Red Sox reliever Calvin Schiraldi. Kevin Mitchell followed with a single and when Ray Knight also singled, Carter scampered home from second

As Carter crossed the plate, he clapped his hands, pointed at Wilson on deck and clapped again. Moments later, Bill Buckner's error scored Knight for an amazing 6-5 win. Carter rushed from the dugout to join the celebration at home plate, catcher's gear already Overshadowed by the rally was the fact that Carter had tied the game with a sacrifice fly in the eighth. Then in Game 7, Carter drove in the tying run in the sixth inning, and the Mets went on to win their most recent championship.

Carter homered twice over the Green Monster at Fenway Park in Game 4 and totaled nine RBIs in that Series. Since then, only two players have gotten more in a World Series (Mike Napoli for Texas in 2011 and Sandy Alomar Jr. for Cleveland in 1997 each had 10).

Overall, Carter hit .262 with 324 home runs and 1,225 RBIs with the Expos, Mets, San Francisco and the Los Angeles Dodgers. He set the major league record for putouts by a catcher, a testament to his durability despite nine knee operations.

"Driven by a remarkable enthusiasm for the game, Gary Carter became one of the elite catchers of alltime," Commissioner Bud Selig said in a statement. "Like all baseball fans, I will always remember his leadership for the '86 Mets and his pivotal role in one of the greatest World Series ever played."

Three Best Bets

Gypsy Jazz

If your own feelings for '80s music are fonder than mine, Canadian gypsy jazz trio The Lost Fingers are a good bet. The trio's 2008 debut album – which reinvented '80s numbers in the swinging style of jazz manouche - reached platinum status in Canada. Not satisfied with the Montreal International Jazz Festival, the Calgary Stampede or the Vancouver Winter Olympics, now the acoustic trio will perform in Twin Falls on Wednesday, with bass, guitars and vocals.

Talking Shop

The fledgling Magic Valley Camera Club is starting to make a little noise: On Thursday, it's bringing Sun Valleybased Western photographer David R. Stoecklein to Twin Falls for a lecture and inviting the public. Stoecklein is known for his photos of ranches and cowboys; he'll show images from throughout the West and share photography tips. It's the start of what the club hopes will be a regular series of public speakers.

Best of Burley

Burley High made an excellent showing at the National Forensic League's state qualifying competitions. And that suggests you'll find some polished performances at Thursday's dessert theater fundraiser put on by Burley High students. They'll pair a selection of desserts with a selection of speeches and dramatic interpretations. "Expect to laugh heartily, shed a tear or two, and learn a lot about the caliber of our students," teacher Dusty Fisher said.

Cast in ever-larger roles during several years in JuMP, Solomon is ready for her time on stage as Calamity Jane. The effervescent preteen has some pretty powerful lungs, too, so watch for her small vocal solo.

A videographer's first quinceanera expo will gather vendors who cater to Hispanic girls' coming-of-age parties.

BY NATALIE DICOU

TWIN FALLS • Albert Astorga is hoping to make it easier for Magic Valley's Hispanic families to plan quinceaneras, elaborate birthday parties for daughters turning 15. His first Quinceanera and Party Expo will be held this weekend.

"It's almost like a wedding," Astorga said of the cultural event that ushers a girl into womanhood. "It's something that for the parents has a lot of emotional value and traditional value." In south-central Idaho, parents usually spend $5,000 to $15,000 on their daughters' quinceaneras, buying dresses, renting limos, hiring live music, and the list goes on, said Astorga, whose expo brings those vendors into one place.

Quinceanera and Party Expo will be held at Lente Loco Studios, 136 Second Ave. S. in Twin Falls, from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. Feb. 18 and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Feb. 19. A fashion show starts at 5 p.m. Feb. 18. Admission is free.

Wes Pearson, owner of Big Diamond Limousine, another vendor, has been in business for three years. He works about 10 quinceaneras a year.

"I didn't even know they existed till I started," Pearson said. Now quinceaneras are among his favorite events to chauffeur.

"They're really out to have fun," said Pearson, who hopes to make more connections at the expo with families holding quinceaneras.

The event is free and familyfriendly. There will be a balloon-making clown and a fashion show.

Speech Competitors Sweeten their Fundraiser

BURLEY • Burley High School's speech and drama department will hold a dessert theater fundraiser at 6 p.m. Feb. 23 on the stage of the King Fine Arts Center.

Tickets are $10; purchase in advance at the high school's front office or from a speech/drama student, or at the door beginning at 5:30 p.m. Guests will sample a variety of desserts and a variety of dramatic interpretations, speeches and panels.

the Featured in evening's entertainment will be presentations by the five Burley High students who recently participated in the National Forensic League's (NFL) state qualifying competitions in Rexburg.

• Spencer Atkins, a junior, was chosen as one of two students to represent the Mountain River Division and the state at the league's national competition in Indianapolis in June. Atkins cut a full-length musical down to a 10minute humorous interpretation of "Once Upon a Mattress."

• Noel Nelson, a senior, earned Second Alternate in Original Oratory with a piece she termed "Nerdatory." Nelson wrote and memorized the 10-minute speech in about two weeks. Noel will attend the national competition if two of the three speakers above her drop out.

• Anson Call, a junior, first performed his dramatic interpretation "Telephone Man" at a competition at Idaho State University in January. His piece made it to the final round at both ISU and the national qualifying competition.

• Larissa Fisher, a senior, is in her first year of competitive speech. She developed an original oratory on empathy loss. Her speech made it to the semifinal rounds of the national qualifying competition.

• Tegan Durfee, a sophomore, will share her dramatic interpretation "13 Things About Ed Carpolotti." At a competition at ISU, Tegan advanced to the semifinals and garnered enough points her first time out to gain a spot on the national qualifying team.

Each school is allotted a number of spots at the NFL competition based on how many times and how many students have participated to earn school points. So the other students who will perform Feb. 23 are as much a part of these NFL accomplishments as the students who attended the competition, a school press release

Dessert theater proceeds support the cost of attending competitions. The team has been coached by both substitute teacher Dusty Fisher and Burley High's resident drama teacher, Richard Call.

"Those who attend can expect to laugh heartily, shed a tear or two, and learn a lot about the caliber of our students and what makes them want to speak out," Fisher said in the release. "The hard part is going to be turning all of this wonderful talent into a twohour performance."

Hailey Rancher's Art Attracts Multistate Gallery Attention

BY KAREN BOSSICK For the Times-News

KETCHUM • Theodore Waddell is twirling faster than a tornado this spring as he rushes from one exhibition opening to another.

The Hailey rancher and internationally recognized artist will have a six-month exhibition of more than 26 paintings and works on paper at the Denver Art Museum beginning in May. He'll have another one open in Amarillo, Texas, that month. And he just returned from Fallon, Nev., where an art center is showing five decades of his work going back to a cloth collage he created as a fifth-grader.

Tonight he will attend a new solo exhibition at Ketchum's Gail Severn Gallery, 400 First Ave. N., featuring his distinctive Western landscapes of horses, cattle and sheep painted in a blend of abstraction, impressionism and realism.

"Life is good," said Waddell, still catching his breath from his return from Nevada. "And my work is always changing, thanks to new tools, like new 6-inch-wide brushes made to apply tar to roofs. They allow me to do some very interesting things you can't do with other brushes."

Waddell will Ketchum's Gallery Walk from 5 to 8 p.m. today. He also will do a free Artist Chat and walk-through of his work at Gail Severn Gallery at 10 a.m.

Saturday. Joining him will be Kris Cox, whose sculptural paintings that explore the symbolic notion of time will be featured at the gallery.

Making the rounds tonight to chat with artists and sip wine? Here are a few more of tonight's Gallery Walk attractions:

Those who have seen Woody Allen's "Vicky Cristina Barcelona" will recognize the unique painting style of Spanish artist Agusti Puig in his "Woman" exhibition at Gallery DeNovo, 320 First Ave. N. Puig is known for the calligraphic dance he performs while pouring buckets of thick paint to create his abstract images of the human form.

Gallery owner Robin Reiners is donating a percentage of sales from the exhibition to Expedition Inspiration Fund for Breast Cancer Research in honor of her mother-in-law, who recently received treatment for breast cancer.

"With all the fundraisers that go on here, this is a unique way to reach out to the public," said Krista Detwiler, marketing director for the Ketchum-based Expedition Inspiration. "And the art is so unique."

The Toneri-Hink Gallery, 400 Sun Valley Road, is spotlighting the delicate India-flavored earrings and necklaces of Gurmukh Khalsa, an architectural designer for Hailey's Power Engineers. Khalsa said she exper-

Short, Not So Sweet'

(Self-published, $10.37)

BY ANDREW WEEKS

aweeks@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • "During long winters at Lake Tahoe, marathon reading gave me the idea of trying creative writing on my own," writes Vaughn Phelps in the "about the author" section of his newest book, "Short, Not So Sweet," a follow-up to last year's "Short, But Sweet."

The new book, available at Amazon.com and Hastings in Twin Falls, is a mix of short stories and flash fiction with a smattering of nonfiction, historical monographs and essays. "Some ... are total nonsense," Phelps writes on the back.

At the end of some stories, for instance, he'll have an unrelated blurb like this one: "Over two hundred million Dr. Seuss books have been sold." And at the end of the book under Part IV he jokes with his readers: "Just kidding. There's no part four. You have to make that up for yourself."

But in the mix of stories are some classy observations of nature, such as this one after Phelps writes about receiving news of a new granddaughter and reminiscing about riding through the wilds of Idaho: "These beautiful virgin woods, so dense that the light from ever reaching the overhead canopy keeps sun-

needle-covered ground and makes it hard to distinguish dawn from sundown ..."

Phelps, a member of the Idaho Writers League who considers himself an author similar to popular humorist Patrick McManus, said he's been writing short stories for 30 years.

"They just got shorter and shorter, and now most of them are flash stories," he told the Times-News, noting that he originally published the stories on a blog. There's enough stories for five books, he said. He is working on compiling his third, "Heads and

OBITUARIES

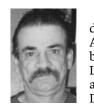

Joseph 'Joe' Valerio D'Ambra

July 12, 1947-Feb. 13, 2012

GOODING • Joseph "Joe" Valerio D'Ambra, 64, a resident of Gooding, passed away Monday, Feb. 13, 2012, at his home in Gooding.

Joe was born in Attleboro, Mass., on July 12, 1947, to Anthony Frank D'Ambra Sr. and Lena F. Leonelli. Joe later moved to California with his family. Joe learned to be a mechanic from his father, Tony, and brother, David. Joe started a mobile truck repair company and loved his work helping people from Arizona to California who were broke down in the middle of the desert. This work gave Joe so much satisfaction.

Joe married Dorothy (Dotty) in 1984. They then moved to Arizona and lived there until Dotty passed away. After that, Joe moved to Idaho to be closer to his family. Joe loved his family, especially his father, Tony, and brother, David.

Joe is preceded in death by his father, Anthony F. D'Ambra Sr.; mother, Lena F. D'Ambra; his wife, Dorothy H. D'Ambra. Joe leaves behind his brothers, Anthony F. D'Ambra Jr. (Patricia) of Idaho, Stanley R. D'Ambra (Grace) of California and David D'Ambra (Donna) of Idaho; sisters, Ann Beck of Texas and Donna D'Ambra of Idaho. Joe also leaves behind too many nieces and nephews to list, all of whom he loved very much; and his special friend, Kim.

Joe is now with our Lord and at peace.

A celebration of Joe's life will be held at a later date. Cremation arrangements are under the direction of Demaray Funeral Service, Gooding Chapel. Condolences may be sent to the family by visiting the obituary link at www.demarayfuneralservice.com.

Danny E. Smith

Feb. 22, 1947-Feb. 12, 2012

HEYBURN • Danny Eugene Smith, 64, of Heyburn, Idaho, left this earth Sunday, Feb. 12, 2012, at home surrounded by his family.

Danny was born Feb. 22, 1947, to Emma Jacobsen and Gale D. Smith in Culver City, Calif. Danny attended schools in California and Salt Lake and later moved to Oakley, where he graduated from high school in 1964. His favorite hobbies were working on old cars and playing music in a band with his brother.

He married Helen Hines of Oakley in 1973 and, to this union, four children were born, Shannon, Corrie, Shane and Chance. They later divorced. He spent the last 10½ years with his loving companion, Linda Beck, and together they made many wonderful memories. He worked in the farming industry for many years while raising his family. In later years, he got to pursue his passion and start a painting business with his son, Chance. He loved painting with Chance and taught him to be the best he could be.

Danny was preceded in death by his father, Gale D. Smith; his mother, Emma J. Smith; and his brother, Ralph G Smith. He is survived by his loving companion, Linda Beck of Heyburn; daughters, Shannon (Jerry) McGuire and kids, Colby, Courtney and Cody of Burley, Corrie Simon and kids, Kaidan and Bradie of Heyburn, and Shane Clower and kids, Mason and Bailee of Idaho Falls; son, Chance Smith and daughter, McKenize of Pocatello; his brother, Dennis (Kitty) Smith of Oakley; his Great-Aunt Lib; and many nieces and nephews.

The family would like to send out a special thank you to the wonderful hospice nurses that gave such wonderful care to our dad.

The date of the viewing published in Wednesday's obituary was incorrect. The viewing will be held today, Feb. 17, from 6 until 8 p.m. at the Morrison-Payne Funeral Home, 321 E. Main St. in Burley. In keeping with Danny's wishes, cremation will follow.

Former UM Journalism Dean Nathaniel Blumberg Dies

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) • Nathaniel Blumberg, the legendary former dean of the University of Montana School of Journalism, died Tuesday at a Kalispell hospital six days after suffering a stroke at his home in Bigfork. He was 89.

Blumberg, a demanding teacher who influenced a generation of journalists, wrote his own obituary, saying about his students that he "took great pride in their professional success, their contributions to journalism in Montana and the nation, and their strong sense of public service in their chosen careers."

He began the Dean Stone lectures more than 50 years ago, bringing in top journalists from across the country to speak to students. Blumberg started the Montana Journalism Review, the nation's first such publication, several years before Columbia University debuted a similar magazine. KUFM Radio, the Montana Newspaper Hall of Fame and UM's radio and television department all were begun while Blumberg was dean from 1956-68.

Blumberg, a Rhodes Scholar as a student, continued teaching at UM for another 23

"He was a very demanding teacher," said Carol Van Valkenburg, professor emerita at the School of Journalism. "He just got after you. He wasn't worried about hurting your feelings, he was worried about your being the best you could be?"

"He had us all terrified;" said Printer Bowler, a journalism school student from 1959-64 and now a visiting lecturer. "I remember when I was editor of (the student newspaper) the Kaimin we had a bad typo on the front page - I think we misspelled somebody's name – and we could hear him stomping down the hall as soon as the paper came out.

"He came in the Kaimin office and ripped us all up one side and down the other. I was so shook up I went home, drank half a bottle of wine and never went back to school until the next day," Bowler

But, he added: "We never had another front-page typo again while I was there?

Peggy Kuhr, a former student of Blumberg and current dean of the school, called Blumberg "a force" who was "incredibly demanding and incredibly smart and dynam-

Former Missoulian reporter Ginny Merriam said the criticism would continue after graduation, but praise and encouragement were added for stories Blumberg and colleague Robert McGiffert felt were well-reported and well-written.

Kuhr said, "we all continued to get notes and letters after we left. I'll bet he wrote hundreds of thousands of notes in his lifetime?"

"We get to sing, 'Show us the treasure or we'll shoot you.' It's pretty fun," Solomon said.

Blossoming talent within JuMP also includes Barrett Manning, 15, of Manning is cast as Skip Webster, the flaky-ex high school sweetheart of Heather Fairchild, played by Tana Hufstetler of Twin Falls.

While Skip works to win back Heather's favor, the wax figures at the museum where he landed his first job are stirred to life. History and chaos ensue, lessons are learned and romance

"This is my sixth or seventh show, and I've occasionally helped out with other theater groups," Manning said.

Ana Carpenter, vice president of the JuMP Co. senior board, said Manning's current role showcases his progress.

"I'm really excited because he has come so far and really blossomed. His talent has really taken everyone by surprise," Carpenter said.

Hufstetler, 14, was another surprise contender for a lead role. She doesn't take private voice or dance lessons but participates in music at school. Although she's been in JuMP before, Hufstetler said she never felt "very talented, or that I could sing like some of the other girls."

"When the director told me that I had a really good voice and could sing it was like, 'wow,' something came over me that I'd never felt," Hufstetler said. "Before I always compared my talent to everyone else, and this has been eye opener."

ANSWER: Some players might try to come to a perfect stop in three spades, but the practical call is to bid four spades at once, hoping to reach a sound game, or persuade the opponents to let it through. Since you have what passes for opening values and a good fit, bid four spades.

journey for peace." ${f T}{f O}{f D}{f A}{f Y}$ IN HISTORY

Today is Friday, Feb. 17,

On Feb. 17, 1972, President

Richard M. Nixon departed

the White House with his wife, Pat, on a historic trip to China, which he called "a the 48th day of 2012. There are 318 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:

On this date:

In 1801, the U.S. House of Representatives broke an electoral tie between Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr, electing Jefferson president; Burr became vice president.

In 1864, during the Civil War, the Union ship USS Housatonic was rammed and sunk in Charleston Harbor, S.C., by the Confederate hand-cranked submarine HL Hunley, which also sank.

In 1865, Columbia, S.C., burned as the Confederates evacuated and Union forces moved in. (It's not clear which side set the blaze.)

In 1904, the original twoact version of Giacomo Puccini's opera "Madama was poorly Butterfly" received at its premiere at La Scala in Milan, Italy.

In 1933, Newsweek was first published by Thomas J.C. Martyn under the title "News-Week"

In 1947, the Voice of America began broadcasting to the Soviet Union.

In 1959, the United States launched Vanguard 2, a satellite which carried meteorological equipment on board. In 1964, the Supreme Court, in Wesberry v. Sanders, ruled that congressional districts within each state had to be roughly equal in population.

In 1986, Johnson & Johnson announced it would no longer sell over-thecounter medications in capsule form, following the death of a woman who had taken a cyanide-laced Tylenol capsule.

In 1988, Lt. Col. William Higgins, a Marine Corps officer serving with a United Nations truce monitoring group, was kidnapped in southern Lebanon by Iranian-backed terrorists (he was later slain by his captors). In 1992, serial killer Jeffrey Dahmer was sentenced in Milwaukee to life in prison (he was beaten to death by a fellow inmate in Nov. 1994).

Ten years ago: President George W. Bush opened a three-nation Asian tour in recession-wracked Japan, where he urged Prime Minister Junichiro Koizumi to follow through on longpromised economic reforms. The new Transportation Security Administration took over supervision of aviation security from the airline industry and the Federal Aviation Administration. Ward Burton took advantage of Sterling Marlin's blunder for his first victory in the Daytona 500. (Marlin, who appeared in control of the race, was penalized for getting out of his car and pulling briefly on a damaged fender during the stoppage.)

Five years ago: Senate Republicans foiled Democratic bid to repudiate President George W. Bush's deployment of 21,500 additional combat troops to Iraq. Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice made a surprise visit to Baghdad. At Camp Pendleton, Calif., Marine Lance Cpl. Robert B. Pennington was sentenced to 8 years in military prison for his role in the kidnapping and killing of an Iraqi civilian. Former French Cabinet minister Maurice Papon, convicted of complicity in crimes against humanity for his role in deporting Jews during World War II, died near Paris at age 96.

One year ago: A group of Democratic Wisconsin lawmakers blocked passage of a sweeping anti-union bill, refusing to show up for a vote and then abruptly leaving the state in an effort to force Republicans to the negotiating table. Iowa high school wrestler Joel Northrup defaulted on his first-round state tournament match rather than face Cassy Herkelman, one of the first girls ever to qualify for the event, saying that wrestling a girl would conflict with his religious beliefs.

THAT SCRAMBLED WORD GAME

by David L. Hoyt and Jeff Knurek

HOROSCOPE Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Love is a two-way street. If you are filled with ardor, be sure that the object of vour affection shares your feelings. Be passionate about attaining your goals without clashing over duties and rules.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): True love is not concerned with boundaries. If someone says that he or she wants to be "just friends," then go with the flow. It is more important to be in complete harmony than to get your way.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Love may be blind, but romance accentuates other senses. Feel your way along using your plentiful intuition. A special someone is likely to melt into pliable putty under your sensitive ministrations.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Find creative ways to express the poetry in your heart. Don't let minor disagreements upset your serenity. Soothing music or dancing cheek to cheek can put amorous couples into "the mood."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Fluff up your mane. You can take pride in your accomplishments without making other people jealous. Go ahead and pursue amorous activities with your mate, but don't make a promise until tomorrow.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Keep your distance RUPERT 2 bdrm apt. Major appls, when you throw red meat into the lion's den. You are in top form when using your industriousness in a creative or romantic venue. However, there could be conflict over possessions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Singles who bump into an alluring new someone might have to pass up the chance for romance due to previous commitments. Cash could be burning a hole in your pocket when thrift is called for.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Unlock the door to love and remove the chain. Gaze into someone's eyes, ignoring all that someone's minor flaws. Build a solid foundation for bliss by being sensitive to the wants and needs of others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Seek the best and the highest. Because you are optimistic and cooperative, you can make valuable contacts with people who have both the ways and the means to assist you. Achieve your aspirations.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Real love plays out best on a glamorous stage set, not on a racetrack. Go to the theater and get swept away in a sea of romantic fantasy or turn up the music and get in synch with the rhythm. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Unlimited possibilities are not always a possibility. Without some boundaries the structure of your life falls apart. Loved ones love you but they also expect you to be loyal, dutiful and responsible. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Aim for the highest. It might be better to wait until you can afford the very best than to settle for something less than perfect. Judgment and timing could be off center regarding love or money.

DEAR ABBY: My father died suddenly a year ago. My sister went to his house and discovered something that deeply disturbed her. Dad was secretly gay. There were lots of materials in his home that I'm sure he never intended for us to find. Personally, I find his interests fascinating, but my sister was unhinged by it. After all, she was the one who made the discovery.

Now she's obsessed with finding out if Dad was having relations with men while Mom was alive, and if he did, did Mom know about it. I have tried telling her that there were probably lots of things that happened between our parents that are none of our business, but my sister can't let it go. She also seems upset that my reaction isn't the same as hers. I'm glad Dad was fulfilling his needs, especially in old age.

My sister was always "Daddy's girl." Any suggestions on how I can help her? - DAD'S SON IN MIAMI

DEAR SON: I'm not sure you can. But a trained therapist might be able to. Your sister's discovery was a shock because "Daddy's girl" now realizes she didn't know her father as well as she thought she did. She's reacting almost as if she, as well as her mother, may have been cheated on.

It is almost impossible to determine who knew what and when, if both the individuals are dead. I hope, with time, your sister will be able to focus on the good times she had with her father and her obsession will lessen.

DEAR ${f A}$ BBY Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I have a coworker, "Amber" who has always been large. She has looked like she was pregnant the entire two years I have known her. She can also be a liar and an attention-seeker.

I am pregnant for real. Soon after Amber found out, she began telling our coworkers that she, too, is pregnant - with twins.

She has said this before, and then she faked a miscarriage. She is now bringing ultrasound pictures to work that I discovered she had downloaded from Google Images. Everyone knows Amber is lying, but she keeps it going like she believes it herself. Abby, should I try to save her the embarrassment and tell her that everyone knows she's faking? Or should I just sit back and see where the lying gets her? - REALLY EXPECTING IN CHICAGO

DEAR REALLY EXPECT-Your co-worker appears to be mentally disturbed. This is something that should be discussed with Amber's supervisor, so perhaps an intervention can be done and she can get the help she needs. As much of a concern as this is for you, it should be even more so to her employer.

Because there is no way to predict how she might react if her fantasy is threatened, you should NOT be the person to question it. If she's taking time from work for OB/GYN appointments, her employer could request a note from the doctor.

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating "Jared," who is the nephew of my sister's husband. Due to the family situation, this is a very weird relationship. I was widowed at 22. I am now 27, and this is the first relationship I have had since my husband died. I'm not sure what to do.

Is it wrong to date Jared? How do I introduce him to family and friends? My sister always refers to him as her nephew. That makes me feel like my relationship with him is incestuous.

- MIXED UP IN WISCONSIN DEAR MIXED UP:

Because Jared isn't a blood relative, your relationship with him is not incestuous. Introduce him to family and friends as Jared, the friend you're dating. If the relationship becomes more serious, introduce him as Jared, your boyfriend or fiance. But please stop feeling guilty about your relationship because you're doing nothing wrong.
