Battle over Health Law Reaches High Court

Challenge from 26 states and a small business group puts court smack in the middle of a heavily partisan fight.

BY MARK SHERMAN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • The monumental fight over a health care law that touches all Americans and divides them sharply comes before the U.S. Supreme Court today. The justices will decide whether to kill or keep the largest expansion in the nation's social safety net in more than four decades.

Two years and three days after President Barack Obama signed into law a health care overhaul aimed at extending medical insurance to more than 30 million Americans, the high court begins three days of hearings over the law's validity.

The challenge from 26 states and a small business group puts the court smack in the middle of a heavily partisan fight over the president's major domestic accomplishment and a presidential election campaign in which all his Republican challengers oppose the law.

If upheld, the law will force dramatic changes in the way insurance companies do business, including forbidding them from denying coverage due to pre-existing medical conditions and limiting how much they can charge older people.

The law envisions that insurers will be able to accommodate older and sicker people without facing financial ruin because of its most disputed element, the requirement that Americans have health insurance or pay a penalty.

Another major piece of the law is an expansion of the government-funded Medicaid program for low-income Americans that will provide coverage to more than 15 million people who currently earn too much to qualify.

By 2019, about 95 percent of the country will have health insurance if the law is allowed to take full effect, the Congressional Budget Office estimates. About 50 million Americans currently lack health insurance coverage.

Reams of court filings attest that the changes are being counted on by people with chronic diseases, touted by women who have been denied coverage for their pregnancies, and backed by Americans over 50 but not yet old enough to qualify for Medicare, who face age-inflated insurance premiums until they become eligible for the government's health insurance program for seniors at age 65.

Republicans are leading the fight to kill the law either by the court or through congressional repeal. They say the worst fears about what they derisively call "Obamacare" already have come to pass in the form of Who's Watching the Crosswalk?

With finances tight, the Twin Falls School District has turned to students to fulfill the need for school crossing guards.

BY JULIE WOOTTON
jwootton@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • On Friday morning, 11-year-old Shantara Stevens stood outside Lincoln Elementary School waiting for her classmates to arrive.

Just after 8 a.m., she gripped a hand-held stop sign as it swung at her side.

When two students arrived at the intersection of Third Avenue North and Buhl Street North, the 11-year-old sprang into action. With her school backpack still on, she walked into the middle of the crosswalk and held up the stop sign so students could cross.

"Lately, I just get people to safety," she said about her job.

Stevens is a member of Lincoln Elementary's "Pride Patrol" — a group of fourth- and fifth-grade students who volunteer as student crossing guards and help with other tasks around the school.

Within the Twin Falls School District, Lincoln and Harrison elementary schools are the only ones with student crossing guards.

The district pays for five adult crossing guards, but it's not enough to cover all the schools in Twin Falls.

"We could certainly use more, but we can't afford more," Superintendent Wiley Dobbs said.

Students help fill that gap, but they don't have the same level of responsibility as adults.

Adult crossing guards are placed at the busiest intersection near the school. Students are monitored by adult volunteers and work at quieter intersections where they're supposed to direct pedestrians, but not traffic.

The Twin Falls School District has a long history — spanning decades — of using student crossing guards.

"It's worked pretty well for us," Dobbs said.

In the 1990s, the school district hired adults as crossing guards for the first time. Since then, the number of employees hasn't changed — even with the district's increasing enrollment.

Not just any student is selected to be a crossing guard. Fourth- and fifth-graders must go through an application process.

Lincoln Elementary School counselor Donna Graybill said students must also get recommendations from a teacher and parents.

At Harrison Elementary, students write an essay about why they want to do the job and why they should be chosen. School mentor Kambra Hayes said school employees interview students, and look at their grades and attendance.

Programs are designed to give students leadership opportunities. Students are expected to take their job seriously and there are penalties if they don't.

If Lincoln Elementary students get three strikes — for behaving inappropriately or not showing for their shift — they're not allowed to be in the Pride Patrol anymore.

Tower Bids, Service Grants on Twin Falls Council Agenda

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Emergency radio calls out of Shoshone Falls Park and the initial bid request for a communications tower to fix the problem have one thing in common — so far, their answers have come back non-responsive.

With the Twin Falls Police Department working to fill some of the gaps in its emergency radio coverage, the city requested bids to build a new communications tower at the police gun range in northeast Twin Falls. But bids for the job came in too high for the city's liking, and today the Twin Falls City Council will be asked to take the next step in getting the tower built.

Two bids came in response to the city's March 8 request — $172,000 from White Cloud Communications and almost $194,000 from Idaho Tower Construction Co.

Not good enough, TFPD officials say. They're requesting that the city reject both bids and seek new ones.

Also Tuesday, the city will consider the process of awarding its budgeted $100,000 in Municipal Powers Outsource Grant funding. The grants are provided to organizations that provide services that the city is legally allowed to provide, but doesn't.

There are 15 applicants that provide services outlined in Idaho Code within the city currently seeking the grant funding.

In Other City Council Business Today

Also during today's Twin Falls City Council meeting, held at 5 p.m. at Council Chambers, 305 Third Ave. E.:

Police business: Twin Falls Police Department Communications Specialist Teri Blair and Officer Asmir Kararic will be presented Idaho Peace Officer Standards and Training certificates, while Samir Smiriko will be sworn into the force.

Appreciation: Outgoing Planning and Zoning Commission members Kevin Cope, Eric Mikesell and Jim Schouten will be presented certificates of appreciation.

Appointments: The council will consider the appointments of Misty McEwen to the Twin Falls Housing Authority and the reappointment of Kevin Dane and Ryan Horsley to the Parks and Recreation Commission.

Strategy: The council will consider entering into a strategic planning consultation services contract with Boise-based Kushlan and Associates. The city has budgeted $28,500 to update its strategic plan this year.

Rupert Man Killed In Fatal Elmore County Crash

IDAHO STATESMAN

BOISE • Donald L. Reynolds, 20, of Rupert was killed in a fatal crash on Interstate 84 in Elmore County early Sunday morning. Elmore County deputies responded to the single-vehicle crash at 3:42 a.m. near milepost 97.

Reynolds was driving a 2005 GMC pickup truck that went off the highway and rolled. Reynolds was not wearing a seatbelt and was ejected from the vehicle, according to a release. He died at that scene. Officials said alcohol was not a factor in the crash.

Magic Valley's Students of the Week

Academic • Raft River Wynter Holtman

Wynter, a junior, maintains a grade-point average of 3.95. She is involved in National Honor Society, Gold Card Renaissance, is the junior class president and was in the recent spring production of "Calamity Jane." Wynter participates in three sports and has helped her school achieve Academic State Champions more than once. She enjoys volunteering her time, especially when little kids are involved. She plans to attend college and pursue a degree in early childhood education.

Athlete • Shoshone Kelcie Hutchins

Kelcie, a senior, has been very active in Shoshone athletics since fifth grade. She's been involved in volleyball, basketball and track. She has been captain of the volleyball and basketball teams. She participated in the 1A/2A All Star Game and the District 4 All-Star Basketball game her senior year. She was also selected All-Conference three straight years in volleyball and basketball. She has won numerous athletic awards for her sports teams.

Kelcie plans to attend Boise State University to study sports medicine.

Artist • North Valley Lisa McHan

Lisa, in ninth grade, enjoys art. When asked about her artistic background, she replied, "I have been interested in art ever since I can remember. Ever since I was a little girl I have always been drawing as much as I can."

She added, "When I am painting I feel like I can let everything let go. It frustrates me but after I am done with it I feel proud of myself."

Lawn Project Causes Brief Gas Line Scare in Buhl

Homeowner nudges gas meter with Cat skid steer loader, dislodging line.

TIMES-NEWS

BUHL • A Buhl resident working in his backyard accidentally broke the gas line to his house early Sunday evening, prompting a response from the Buhl Fire Department.

Fire Chief Mark Korsen called it "a very minor leak" that did no damage. No one was evacuated from the area, according to dispatchers with the Southern Idaho Regional Communications Center.

The man, whose name was not available Sunday, was working on his property at 220 Eighth Ave. S. with a Cat skid steer loader to level the backyard. Korsen said the loader's front-end bucket nudged the gas meter.

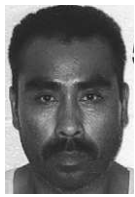

"It moved the line just a little, about 3 or 4 inches," prompting the leak, Korsen said.

Intermountain Gas Co. employees responded in addition to fire personnel.

Health Care

higher costs and regulations, claims that the law's supporters dispute. All the Republican presidential candidates promise to repeal the law if elected.

"Obamacare has already proven unpopular and unaffordable," House Speaker John Boehner said on the law's second anniversary last week.

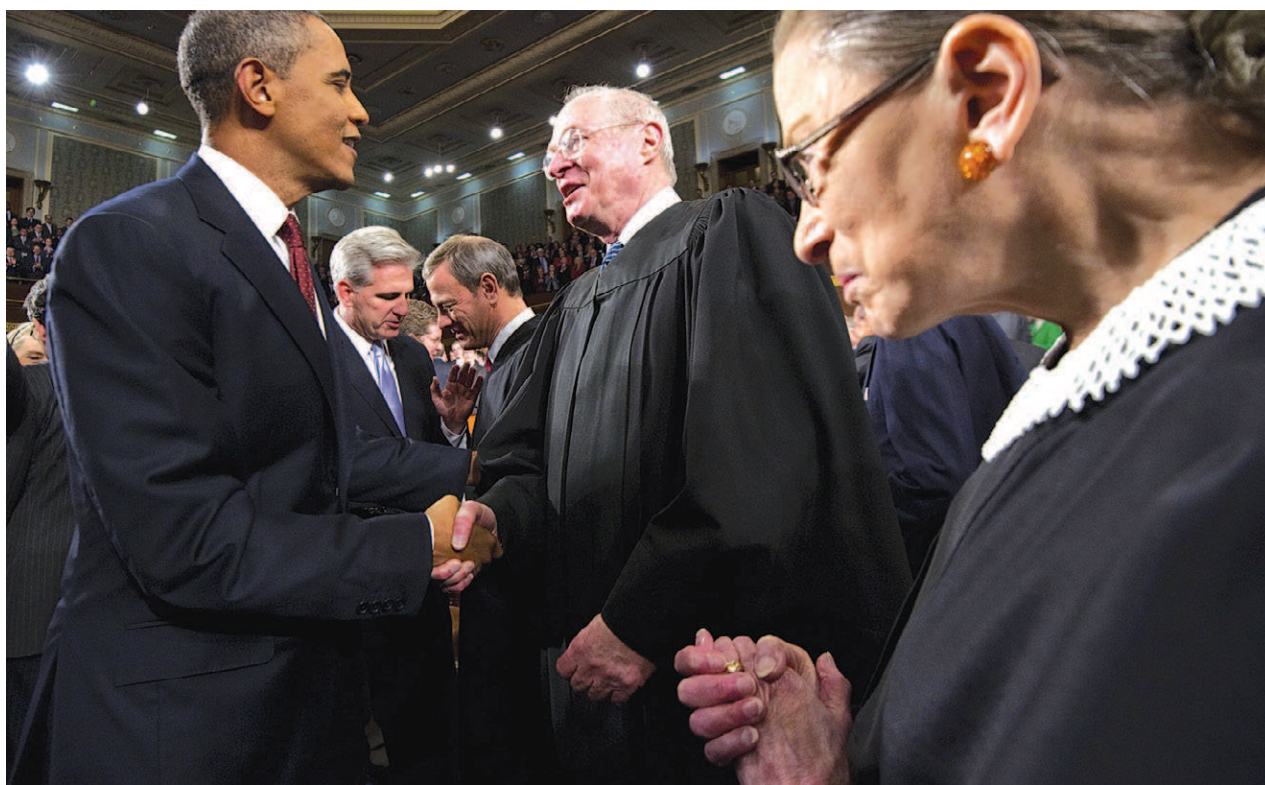

Polls have consistently shown the public is at best ambivalent about the benefits of the health care law, and that a majority of Americans believe the mandatory insurance requirement is unconstitutional.

The administration's public education campaign has come under strong criticism from its allies who say the White House has been timid in the face of relentless Republican attacks.

Washington lawyer Walter Dellinger, who served in the Clinton administration Justice Department, said opponents have succeeded in keeping the focus on the insurance requirement instead of two provisions that will keep insurers from discriminating against sicker and older people. "The other two are very popular, and no one discusses them," Dellinger said.

The White House has belatedly begun touting parts of the law already in effect, including allowing children to stay on their parents' insurance plan until age 26 and reducing older Americans' prescription drug costs.

Having rarely talked about the law since he signed it, Obama issued a brief statement Friday. "The law has made a difference for millions of Americans, and over time, it will help give even more working and middle-class families the security they deserve."

The main event before the court is Tuesday's argument over the constitutionality of the individual insurance requirement. The states and the National Federation of Independent Business say Congress lacked authority under the Constitution for its unprecedented step of forcing Americans to buy insurance whether they want it or not.

The administration argues Congress has ample authority to do what it did. If its action was rare, it is only because Congress was dealing with a problem that has stymied Democratic and Republican administrations for many decades: How to get adequate health care to as many people as possible, and at a reasonable cost.

The justices also will take up whether the rest of the law can remain in place if the insurance mandate falls and, separately, whether Congress lacked the power to expand the Medicaid program.

The court also will consider whether the challenge is premature under a 19th century tax law because the insurance requirement doesn't kick in until 2014 and people who remain uninsured wouldn't have to pay a penalty until they file their 2014 income taxes in early 2015.

Taking this way out of the case would relieve the justices of rendering a decision in political high season, just months before the presidential election.

The justices like to say they give the same attention to the small cases as the big ones. But everything about the court's handling of health care suggests there is no doubt among the court's six men and three women about the significance of what they are about to decide.

The six hours of argument time is the most scheduled since the mid-1960s. The court will release audio recordings of the arguments on the same day they take place. The first time that happened was when the court heard argument in the Bush v. Gore case that settled the 2000 presidential election. The last occasion was the argument in the Citizens United case that wound up freeing businesses from longstanding limits on political spending.

Outside groups filed a record 136 briefs dealing with the four issues the court will take up over the next three days.

Justice Clarence Thomas, remarking on the sheer volume of the health care filings, noted they filled a large mail bin. "I said, 'Oh my goodness, look at all that work,'" Thomas told law students at Wake Forest University. The school posted a video of his talk.

The case arrives at a high court in which ideology and political affiliation align for the first time in generations. The four Democratic appointees make up the liberal wing, while the five justices named by Republican presidents form a cohesive conservative majority on several key issues.

The partisan battle lines were drawn early on. The law passed Congress, controlled by Democrats in 2009 and 2010, without a single Republican vote.

Republican elected officials filed suit in federal court the very day Obama signed the bill into law.

Even in the courts, the first decisions fell along party lines. Democratic-appointed judges uniformly upheld the law or dismissed suits against it, while Republican appointees in Florida and Virginia struck it down.

But in federal appeals courts, one Democratic appointee joined in the decision that struck down the insurance requirement. In two other opinions, conservative Republican-appointed judges voted to uphold the law.

Despite calls for Thomas, from liberal groups, and Justice Elena Kagan, from conservatives, to step aside, it appears all the justices will take part in the historic case.

Obama campaigned on a promise of offering affordable health care to all Americans, emphasizing that the U.S. was the only developed nation without a comprehensive national health care plan for all its citizens. The U.S. spends about two-and-a-half times as much on health care as other industrialized countries, but it does no better on life expectancy and other measures than nations that spend far less.

Crosswalks

"We have pretty high expectations for the kids," Graybill said.

Students get training on how to be a crossing guard. One challenge is for students to establish their authority.

Some of their peers don't always listen when children about their same age ask them to use the marked crosswalks. And at Harrison Elementary, Hayes said sometimes a car will drive right around a student crossing guard who's standing in the middle of the road. School administrators report license plate numbers to the Twin Falls Police Department.

The challenges don't stop students from applying for patrol programs. At Lincoln Elementary, there were about 35 student volunteers midway through the school year.

Beyond crossing guard duty, students volunteer as "peer mediators" if there's a playground conflict and deliver backpacks full of food to classrooms.

Cynthia Reyes, 10, said she Lincoln Elementary School fifth-grader Shantara Stevens waves to a friend from her crosswalk posting on Friday.

likes leading students to the cafeteria for breakfast in the morning.

It's a large time commitment for Stevens, a fifth-grader, who volunteered every day last week as a morning crossing guard at Lincoln.

"The kids really enjoy doing it because they get to help keep people safe," Hayes said.

IDAHO BRIEFS

Retailers Argue for Online Tax

Concerns over "new tax" and states' authority have plagued efforts to tax Internet sales.

BY SVEN BERG
Post Register

IDAHO FALLS • Eastern Idaho's brick-and-mortar retailers are fed up with "showroomers" and "fit-lifters" so much so that they've taken their problem to Washington, D.C.

Representatives for Farr's Jewelry, Idaho Mountain Trading and Ferrell's Clothing in Rexburg returned recently from a trip to the nation's capital. While there, they asked Idaho's congressional delegation to support bills that would remove one of the incentives for what they call "showrooming" and "fit-lifting."

Showrooming is the process of viewing products such as televisions and computers in the showroom of a brick-and-mortar store with the help of the store's personnel, only to use information gleaned in the process when buying products online.

Fit-lifting is a similar process, but refers to products that fit, such as shoes and clothing. The fact that the term is derived from the word "shoplifting" says something about how retailers feel about people who do it.

One of the advantages to buying goods from an Internet retailer is that they're exempt from Idaho's sales tax. While consumers save money, the sloped playing field frustrates local, storefront retailers.

"It puts us at a distinct disadvantage," said Richard Napier, owner of Idaho Mountain Trading in Idaho Falls.

Besides retailers' bottom lines, Napier said, Idaho's budget is losing out on some $35 million of revenue each year.

Idaho's Legislature has considered several bills aimed at taxing Internet purchases. None of the measures have been successful. Resistance has largely come from consumers protesting what they consider a proposal for a new tax.

Retailers dispute the claim that taxing online purchases would amount to a new tax, since it would be the same sales tax that standard retailers collect and remit.

Another concern is whether states have the right to tax Internet sales.

To that end, several efforts are afoot in Congress that would authorize states to require sales-tax collection and remittance on Internet sales. Idaho's congressional delegation has yet to sponsor or vocally support any of the bills.

Napier said representatives for each member of the delegation were receptive during his meetings with them.

Both Idaho Sens. Mike Crapo and Jim Risch have claimed neutral ground and won't say whether they would vote for or against the measures. Crapo wants state legislators to make up their minds before he comes down on either side, spokesman Lindsay Nothorn said.

"If this is the version they want, then I think we'd probably get on board," Nothorn said.

Ketchum Pursues Green-building Code

KETCHUM • City officials in the central Idaho resort town of Ketchum are proposing a new green-building ordinance that would require construction companies to follow environmentally-friendly requirements.

A city planner last week presented the proposed ordinance to the city council.

The council in 2010 listed as a priority the developing of a green-building code, and city leaders last year appointed a team to study green-building codes and educate the public.

Initial ideas for the code were developed in December and January.

Officials tell the Idaho Mountain Express that the code would require builders to incorporate energy-efficient and sustainable features.

City officials are predicting the building code will be accepted by the construction community.

Idaho Women Pay More for Health Insurance

BOISE • The National Women's Law Center says women in Idaho pay hundreds of dollars more annually for health insurance than men pay.

The center says Idaho's best-selling insurance plans add more to a 40-year-old woman's insurance premiums than anywhere else in the nation.

The Idaho Statesman reports that the center concluded price disparities are so unpredictable and prevalent that it's "difficult to see how actuarial justifications could explain the difference."

Montana, Washington and Oregon outlaw charging women more for health insurance, but Idaho lets insurers factor in a person's sex, age and tobacco use when setting insurance premiums.

But gender-based insurance ratings are being phased out by the 2010 health care reform law.

Hill Pledges Help to Reps Seeking Senate Seats

BOISE • Senate President Pro Tem Brent Hill has offered some of the 8 Republican House members running for the Idaho Senate the promise of moral support — and more importantly, financial assistance.

Hill, of Rexburg, sent a note to GOP representatives aiming to switch chambers come November's general election.

In a copy obtained by The Associated Press, Hill pledged to Rep. Jim Patrick of Twin Falls that the Senate Republican Political Action Committee would make a financial contribution following the primary election May 15.

On personal stationery, Hill also informed Patrick he was pleased about his intention to run — and that the Twin Falls lawmaker seems a natural fit for the 35-member Senate.

1 Dies, 1 Escapes Duplex Fire

BOISE • Boise police say a man died Sunday morning and a woman had to be treated for smoke inhalation after a fire at a duplex.

Police and the Ada County coroner are investigating the cause of death of the man. Police say he used a wheelchair and was unable to escape the blaze. Firefighters found him deceased in the residence.

Neighbors reported the fire at 2:37 a.m. When firefighters arrived they found one side of the duplex on fire, but were able to prevent flames from spreading to the adjacent duplex.

The man's name has not been released.

Stink Bomb Costs Idaho Man

ASOTIN, Wash. • An Idaho man has been fined $1,440 and ordered to perform 200 hours of community service after setting off a stink bomb in the Asotin County Courthouse in Washington state.

The Lewiston Tribune reports that 45-year-old Charles A. Rogers also has to cover attorney fees. On Thursday he pleaded guilty to second-degree malicious mischief, a felony, following the Oct. 11 incident.

Rogers says he was frustrated that day because he had just left District Court where he was fighting an animal cruelty charge that authorities say involved leaving his dog in his car.

Authorities say the courthouse was evacuated after Rogers broke the novelty item and a sulfur smell filled the second floor.

CSI COLLEGE OF SOUTHERN IDAHO SUCCESS stories

Kayla Griffin,
CSI Student

"I was accepted to a college in San Francisco, but I realized I was too far away from home and wanted to be close to my family. I looked into CSI and realized it fit everything I wanted.

Everyone at CSI was so friendly. My professors were amazing. No matter how many students were in a class, each professor took the time to help everyone on a one-to-one basis.

If I could start over, I would pick CSI without even looking at other schools. It has definitely been one of the best experiences of my life.

Afghans: U.S. Paid $50K Per Shooting Spree Death

There have been no violent protests since the March 11 shootings, but demands for justice on Afghan terms have been getting louder.

BY MIRWAIS KHAN AND HEIDI VOGT

Associated Press

KANDAHAR, Afghanistan • The U.S. paid $50,000 in compensation for each villager killed and $11,000 for each person wounded in a shooting rampage allegedly carried out by a rogue American soldier in southern Afghanistan, Afghan officials said Sunday.

The families were told that the money came from President Barack Obama. The unusually large payouts were the latest move by the White House to mend relations with the Afghan people after the killings threatened to shatter already tense relations.

Army Staff Sgt. Robert Bales is accused of sneaking off his base on March 11, then creeping into houses in two nearby villages and opening fire on families as they slept.

The killings came as tensions between the U.S. and Afghanistan were strained following the burning of Qurans at a U.S. base in February. That act — which U.S. officials have acknowledged was a mistake — sparked riots and attacks that killed more than 30 people, including six American soldiers.

There have been no violent protests following the March 11 shootings in Kandahar province's Panjwai district, but demands for justice on Afghan terms have been getting louder since Bales was flown out of the country to a U.S. military prison. Many Afghans in Kandahar have continued to argue that there must have been multiple gunmen and accused the U.S. government of using Bales as a scapegoat.

U.S. investigators believe the gunman returned to his base after the first attack and later slipped away to kill again.

That would seem to support the U.S. government's assertion that the shooter acted alone, since the killings would have been perpetrated over a longer period of time than assumed when Bales was detained outside his base in Kandahar province's Panjwai district.

But it also raises new questions about how the suspect could have carried out the pre-dawn attacks without drawing attention from any Americans on the base.

Bales has been charged with 17 counts of premeditated murder and other crimes and could face the death penalty if convicted.

French Gunman's Brother Charged, Denies Role.

Cheney's Transplant Reopens Age Debate.

Doctors say it is unlikely that former Vice President Dick Cheney got special treatment when he was given a new heart at age 71 that thousands of younger people also were in line to receive. Still, his case reopens debate about whether rules should be changed to favor youth over age in giving out scarce organs. As it stands now, time on the waiting list, medical need and where you live determine the odds of scoring a new heart. — Associated Press

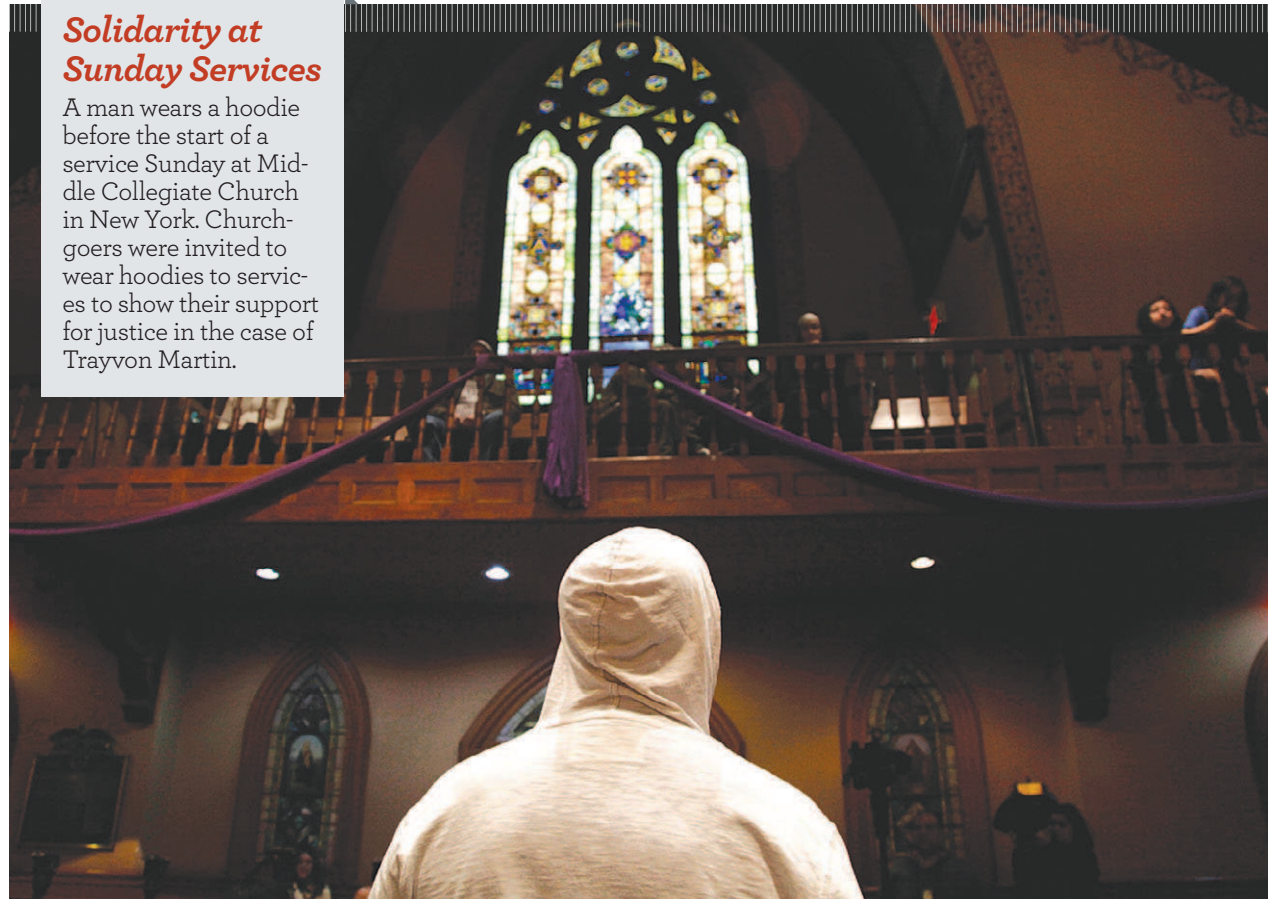

Pope Urges Mexicans to Seek Pure Heart

MEXICO CITY • Pope Benedict XVI donned a sombrero Sunday and stayed away from politics in his first open-air Mass in Latin America, urging Roman Catholics in Mexico to seek a pure heart and avoid “superficial and routine temptation.” A crowd estimated by the quasi-official Notimex news agency at 400,000 people gathered under a blazing sun for the Mass in Guanajuato state. On the third day of a six-day trip that also will take him to Cuba, the pontiff only tangentially touched on the violence roiling Mexico, saying he was aware of the “moments of both pain and hope” coursing through the region's people. Mustering strength limited by his age but walking without a cane, the 84-year-old Benedict sought to uplift Mexicans, saying the power of Christ is based on the ability to reach out to people's hearts, not in the power of armies “to make others submit to force or violence.” — McClatchy Newspapers

Solidarity at Sunday Services

Congregants Wear Hoodies, Remember Trayvon Martin

From Florida to Atlanta, New York and Chicago, messages from pulpits couldn't help but touch on a seemingly avoidable tragedy that continues to be rife with more questions than answers.

BY KYLE HIGHTOWER
Associated Press

EATONVILLE, Fla. • Wearing hooded sweatshirts similar to the one that Trayvon Martin wore on the night he was killed, many preachers and worshippers echoed calls for justice Sunday in the shooting death of an unarmed black teenager in Florida last month.

The one-month anniversary of Martin's death is Monday. He was shot while wearing a “hoodie” as he walked home on a rainy night in a gated community. The neighborhood watch volunteer who shot him, 28-year-old George Zimmerman, is the son of a white father and Hispanic mother, and the demands to charge him in Martin's slaying have grown ever louder. He had called police to report the hooded figure as suspicious; the 17-year-old Martin was carrying a bag of Skittles and a can of iced tea, talking to his girlfriend on his cellphone.

In African-American and other religious centers from Florida to Atlanta, New York and Chicago, messages from pulpits couldn't help but touch on a seemingly avoidable tragedy that continues to be rife with more questions than answers. But while the call continued for the arrest of Zimmerman, there were also pleas to use the incident to spark a larger movement.

“How do we turn pain into power?” the Rev. Jesse Jackson asked a standing-room only congregation of hundreds while preaching at Macedonia Missionary Baptist Church in Eatonville, Fla., about 20 miles from the site of the Sanford shooting. “How do we go from a moment to a movement that carries favor?”

Jackson preached a sermon entitled “The Substance of Things Hoped For.” He called for Martin's “martyr” death to be used as an opportunity to revive the Civil Rights Commission and draw attention to long-standing issues. Very young children and teens sat in the choir behind him.

“The blood of the innocent has power,” Jackson said to shouts of “Amen” and loud clapping.

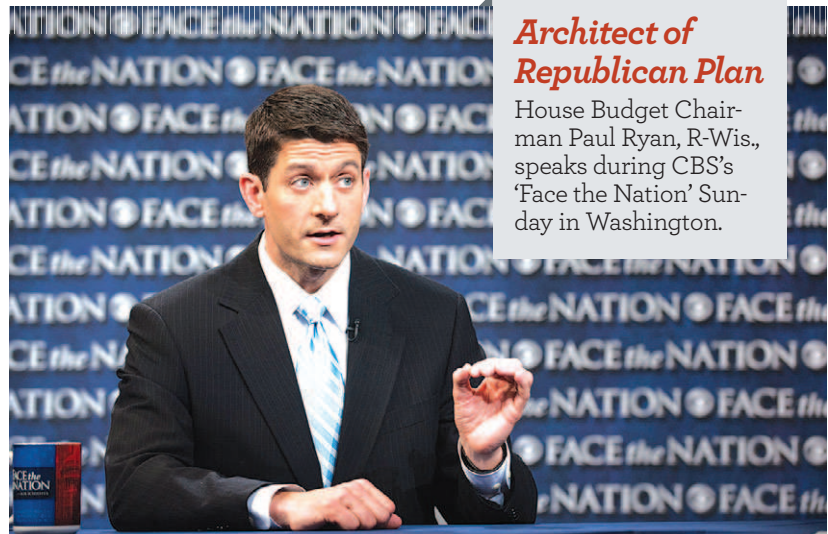

Jackson invoked the names of Emmett Till, the 14-year-old boy bludgeoned and shot to death in Mississippi in 1955 for supposedly whistling at a white woman, and slain civil rights figures Medgar Evers and Martin Luther King, Jr.

OBAMA SQUEEZES N. KOREA TO CHANGE

President Barack Obama is broadening a squeeze play on North Korea from the heart of the tensely divided Korean peninsula, pressuring China to show more influence and warning the North that it is headed toward a “dead end” of isolation. Obama sought for a second day Monday to contrast the success of the South to the impoverished North, whose nuclear and missile tests have kept its neighbor on edge and itself on the wrong side of the world community. Looking into the North from near the border was like witnessing a “time warp” of despair, he said. — Associated Press

House GOP Budget Plan Heats Up as Campaign Issue

BY STEPHEN BRAUN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • The new debt-slashing budget plan pushed by House Republicans heated up as a presidential campaign issue Sunday as the proposal's architect, Rep. Paul Ryan of Wisconsin, sparred with top Democrats over its political fallout and downplayed the possibility he could be tapped as a vice presidential candidate.

Senior White House adviser David Plouffe dismissed the GOP plan Sunday as “a lot of candy, not a lot of vegetables,” and charged that it would be “rubber-stamped” as law if leading Republican presidential hopeful Mitt Romney is elected.

“This is really the Romney-Ryan plan,” Plouffe said, adding that its mix of across-the-board tax cuts and stiff budget cuts “shows huge tax cuts on millionaires and billionaires paid for by seniors and veterans.”

Ryan tried to tamp down speculation that he could be tapped for the No. 2 spot on the GOP ticket, although who will be the nominee is far from settled.

Quake Hits Central Chile; No Reports of Deaths

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) • A magnitude-7.1 earthquake struck central Chile Sunday night, the strongest and longest that many people said they had felt since a huge quake devastated the area two years ago. There were no immediate reports of deaths or major damage.

The quake struck at 7:30 p.m. about 16 miles north-northwest of Talca, a city of more than 200,000 people where residents said the shaking lasted about a minute.

Buildings swayed in Chile's capital 136 miles to the north, and people living along a 480-mile stretch of Chile's central coast were briefly warned to head for higher ground.

Residents were particularly alarmed in Constitucion, where much of the coastal downtown at the mouth of a river was obliterated by the tsunami caused by the 8.8-magnitude quake in 2010.

Panic also struck in Santiago and other cities, with people running out of skyscrapers, and many neighborhoods were left partly or totally without electrical power.

Lillian Violet Osterhout

Aug. 18, 1916 - March 23, 2012

DECLO •

Lillian Violet Osterhout, a 95-year-old Declo resident, passed away Friday, March 23, 2012, at Countryside Care Center in Rupert.

Lillian was born Aug. 18, 1916, in Island Cassia, Idaho, the daughter of Irene and William O. She was the oldest of seven children. She attended schools in Oakley, Idaho, where she graduated from Oakley High School in 1930. She married Winn Osterhout on Oct. 30, 1943. They were later sealed in the LDS Temple on Aug. 27, 1953. Through this union, they raised five children — two daughters and three sons. They were able to share 29 years together. She lost her husband early in life and never remarried.

Lillian enjoyed spending a lot of her time with family and friends. Lillian loved bowling with her husband and was also very involved with VFW where she was president and district president in the latter years. She enjoyed many camping trips with family, some in Yellowstone. She loved raising a garden and canning, playing in her flower beds. She also loved crocheting beautiful afghans for her family. Later in life she traveled several times to her children's homes in Arkansas, Washington and Utah. Lillian worked many jobs and later retired from J.R. Simplot in Heyburn in 1982.

Lillian is survived by her siblings, Rachael Martindale of Boise, David (Rhea) Okelberry of West Bountiful, Utah, Betty Osterhout of Declo, and Dick (Betty) Okelberry of Ogden, Utah; her children, Cheryl (Butch) Baxter of Arkansas, Clyde (Gloria) Osterhout of Washington, Mike Osterhout of Idaho, Keith (Becky) Osterhout of Idaho, and Joye (Kerry) Nelson of Utah; and sisters in-law, Pat Okelberry and Donna Okelberry. She is also survived by 13 grandchildren, 24 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren with two more on the way. Several nieces and nephews also survive her.

She was preceded in death by her parents; her husband; three brothers, Verl, Joseph (Elda), Myron; brothers-in-law, Blaine and Devon; and daughter in-law, Shirley.

Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. Tuesday, March 27, 2012, at the Declo Stake Center, 213 West Main in Declo with Bishop Garth Searle officiating. Burial will follow in the Gem Memorial Gardens in Burley.

Friends may call Monday evening from 6-8 at the Morrison Funeral Home, 188 South Hwy 24 in Rupert and from 12-12:45 p.m. on Tuesday at the church prior to the funeral service.

Arrangements are under the direction of Morrison Funeral Home in Rupert.

Idahoans Who Served on Same Ships Finally Meet

BY DAVID COLE

Coeur d'Alene Press

POST FALLS • In the U.S. Coast Guard, Vernon Green and Eugene Ostlund were like two ships in the night.

They served on four of the same ships stationed in Seattle, including the last coal-burning lightship on the West Coast, the 135-foot Lightship 92, which was built in 1908 and decommissioned in June 1951.

But they never crossed paths.

That changed this month. Before they met, all they knew about each other was they had both served aboard the Lightship 92. They didn't know they had both served on three other common ships.

Green, 81, a resident of Kootenai County, and Ostlund, 78, of Coeur d'Alene, met for the first time March 16 at GW Hunters Steakhouse in Post Falls.

They were glad to have found each other, spotting each other's names in a Lightship veteran newsletter. They wanted to meet because they are the last of the coal-burning Lightship seamen they could find. Lightships are used in waters where a lighthouse can't be built, acting as a lighthouse. "There can't be a lot of real Lightship sailors still around," Ostlund said.

They planned to meet at the steakhouse at noon, but they almost missed each other again.

They had both been waiting in different parts of the restaurant for an hour before they finally found each other.

They laughed about old pals they both knew in the Coast Guard in the late 1940s early 1950s. They sipped coffee. They laughed some more.

They shared stories about lost teeth, running aground in the fog, and getting drunk on liberty.

It's remarkable they never ran into each other.

"You've got to remember, the Coast Guard was a small outfit" back then, Green said.

Vernon Green, left, and Gene Ostlund look at photos of crew members March 16 at a Post Falls restaurant. Green and Ostlund served on the same Coast Guard ships in the early 1950s in the Pacific Northwest and met for the first time March 16.

Their fondest memories were of Lightship 92, which operated during their service in and around the mouth of the Columbia River.

The ship had two large boilers for making steam, and 90-ton coal bunkers and coal ports on both sides.

"The stoking was done by hand," Ostlund said.

The washing machine was a 10-gallon milk can, with salt water, salt-water soap and a toilet plunger as the agitator.

Ostlund also said Lightship 92 had "a million cockroaches."

While on station, the ship burned one ton of coal a day. While moving at a rate of six to eight knots Lightship 92 burned a ton of the black fuel an hour. Many of the Lightships then were becoming diesel burners.

About a dozen men were assigned to Lightship 92 at a time, and usually had about eight men on board.

Green, originally from Sioux City, Iowa, said his best memory being in the Coast Guard was meeting his late wife in Seattle.

"Those were the fun days," Green said.

They were married for 53 years. Green served from

Hoodies

"There's power in the blood of Emmett Till! There's power in the blood of Medgar Evers! There's power in the blood of Dr. King!" declared the 70-year-old Jackson, who marched with King.

Jackson made a direct plea to change the "Stand Your Ground" self-defense law that many believe authorities in Florida used to avoid arresting him.

Amid the outcry over the lack of charges against Zimmerman, the Sanford police chief and state's attorney in the case have both stepped aside. The U.S. Justice Department has opened a civil rights probe into the shooting, and a grand jury is scheduled to meet April 10 to consider evidence in the case.

Zimmerman's attorney has said he believes the case falls under Florida's stand-your-ground law, which dictates that a person has the right to stand his or her ground and "meet force with force" if attacked. Attorney Craig Sonner has said Zimmerman is not a racist.

After Jackson's sermon, congregants said the civil rights activist's message resonated. "This kind of activism never stopped in the church, that's what they do for us in the black community," said 34-year-old Nacia Bradley of Orlando. "That's what they're here to do."

Budget

"I would have to consider it, but it's not something I'm even thinking about right now because right — I think our job in Congress is pretty important," Ryan said. "And what we believe we owe the country is, if we don't like the direction the president is taking us, which we don't, we owe them a specific sharp contrast and a different path that they can select in November. And doing this in Congress is really important."

The House GOP debt-reduction plan, unveiled last week with minimal Democratic congressional support, is quickly sharpening as a line of division for the fall campaign, pitting GOP and tea party pressure for a reined-in budget against White House and Democratic Party alarms about a weakened Medicare system and tax relief for the wealthy.

"This is a sharp, clear difference with two different futures," Ryan said. Despite growing signs that the U.S. economy is struggling back to life, Ryan threw down a marker for the fall national election, saying that the GOP plan is the only alternative to a looming debt crisis versus Obama's "path of debt and decline."

The GOP proposal — endorsed by Romney last week during a meeting with GOP congressional leaders — would slice $5.3 trillion from President Barack Obama's budget over the coming decade through tax reforms and sweeping program cuts. The plan aims to shrink U.S. deficits by $3.1 trillion over the next decade, reducing tax burdens while cutting Medicaid payments and shifting oversight to states and sharply cutting other domestic programs.

OPINION

"If I had a son, he'd look like Trayvon."

President Barack Obama on the fatal shooting of Trayvon Martin, a black teenager, by neighborhood crime-watch volunteer George Zimmerman in Sanford, Fla.

Notion of 'Food Police' Taken to a New Level

Are there no limits on government's power, no place where it cannot go?

New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg, a former Republican, but in name only, has decided to limit food donations to city charities, including homeless shelters, because the government is unable to measure the nutritional value of the food.

Who in city government believes that a homeless person with no access to money other than what he or she might panhandle cares about nutrition? If they are able to scrounge up a few bucks on the streets, does anyone seriously think they're headed to a grocery store to buy carrots and arugula? Any food, including "unhealthy" fast food would be their preferred choice.

As reported in the New York Post by Jeff Stier, a senior fellow at the National Center for Public Policy Research, Seth Diamond, the commissioner of the Department of Homeless Services, claims Mayor Bloomberg is simply being "consistent" with his goal of improving nutrition for all New Yorkers. "A new interagency document," writes Stier, "controls what can be served at facilities — dictating serving sizes as well as salt, fat and calorie contents, plus fiber minimums and condiment recommendations."

Will government permit ketchup on fries? Maybe it will allow ketchup, which liberals mocked Ronald Reagan for correctly calling a vegetable, but not fries, unless they are unsalted, and then just a few. No super sizing it.

Who will police this? If a homeless man wants salt on his food, will a city official wrestle the shaker from his hands? Will he be arrested by the salt police if he rebels? Will a woman who has not eaten in days be told she can't have a second helping because the government won't allow it under its new portion-control regulation? Will she be fined if she eats more? How will the government collect the fine if she has no money?

What effect will this new requirement have on restaurants, some of which have donated surplus food to local food banks and charities for years? Will they have to first comply with government dietary regulations before they donate anything? Mire the process in red tape and bureaucracy and the restaurants won't think it's worth the trouble to donate at all.

It takes the notion of "food police" to a new level.

Stier tells the story of Glenn Richter and his wife, Lenore, who for 10 years have led a team of volunteers from their Upper West Side Orthodox synagogue. "They brought freshly cooked, nutrient-rich surplus foods from synagogue events to homeless facilities in the neighborhood." Many recipients, Richter says, are seniors recovering from alcohol and drug abuse.

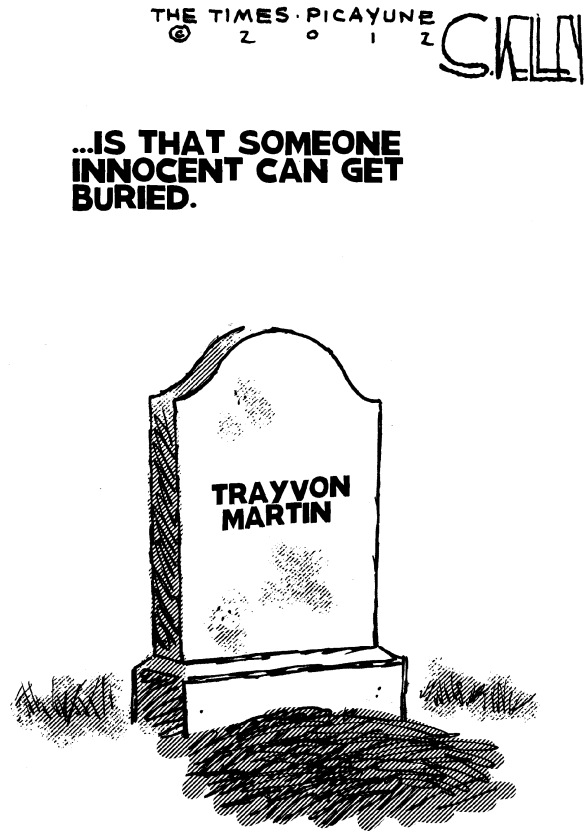

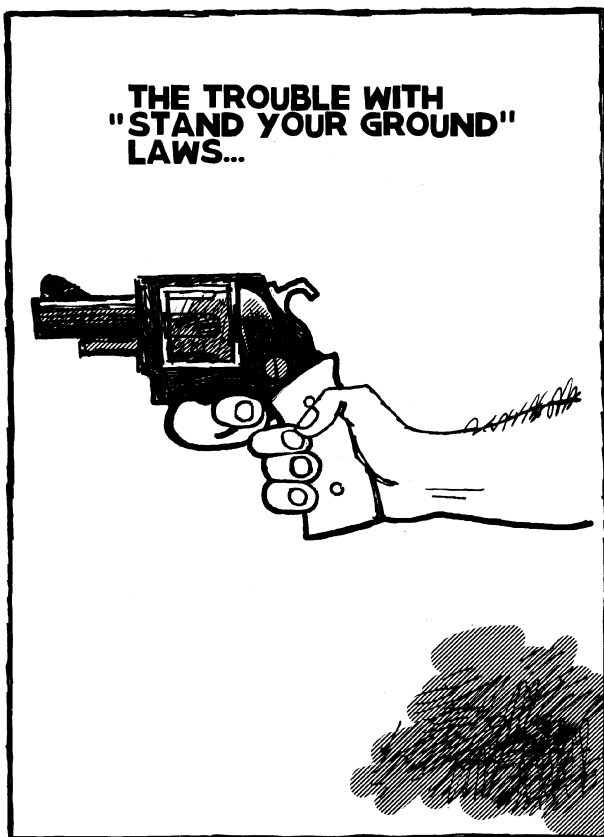

Last month, writes Stier, employees at a local shelter "turned away food he brought from a bar mitzvah." It didn't conform to the new regulations.

I know the rationale. If the homeless eat nutritional food, it could reduce their health problems and presumably lower the cost of health care.

But more than the issue of salt and portion size is the greater issue of liberty, which is being slowly but steadily eroded by big government that wants to save us from ourselves. The freedom to choose what to eat, drink, smoke and a lot of other things — and to accept the benefits and consequences that go with these choices — are the wedge issues that government uses to snake its way into new areas of our lives.

Our Founding Fathers issued many warnings about the dangers of growing and intrusive government, which they sought to control with the Constitution. Among the best was from Thomas Jefferson: "Most bad government has grown out of too much government."

No better example of that can be found than in what Mayor Bloomberg has forced on the hungry of New York City.

Dump Daylight Saving Time, Most Say

We asked: The Legislature printed a bill to exempt Idaho from observing daylight saving time. Sponsor Rep. Wendy Jaquet, D-Ketchum, hopes the legislation will help propel a national discussion on getting rid of the time change. Do you think Idaho should exempt itself from daylight saving time?

As of 8 p.m. Saturday
67% — Yes, Idaho should exempt itself from daylight saving.
33% — No, Idaho should not exempt itself from daylight saving.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thank You for Supporting Levy

On behalf of the Cassia County School District Board of Trustees and school district personnel, I want to thank the community for supporting the levy on March 13.

The community approved a two-year levy including $681,244 for the 2012 to 2013 school year and $681,244 for 2013 to 2014. The levy funds will be used to defray a portion of general fund expenditures the school district incurs in providing school/program budgets for instructional materials, services, supplies, and equipment; property/liability insurance; transportation; technology and Internet; and utilities.

The levy funds are greatly appreciated as school budgets have been reduced in recent years. Reduced state and federal revenues forced school districts to reduce salaries and/or reduce the number of staff members. The Cassia School District has done both. As the state revenues show some improvement, the district is still adjusting for prior reductions and additional planned reductions imposed by state and federal sources. A consistent supplemental levy brings a measure of stability to a budget process fraught with uncertainty.

Our educational community includes all schools in the district and the communities where they are located. The school district boundaries include almost all of Cassia County with the exception of the Jackson area and the northeast portion of the county adjacent to Power County. There are portions of Oneida and Twin Falls counties included within the Cassia district. Ours is a diverse community having varied interests that has consistently shown considerable support for county schools.

Thanks to the community for your support of students and staff in the schools.

GAYLEN SMYER, PH.D.

Forest Service Puzzles Reader

It's remarkable that for decades our Forest Service has kept a historical sign posted on the winding Galena climb, which commemorates with ambiguous wording, early trapper Alexander Ross in 1824 discovering this gateway to the Sawtooths.

Certainly he "discovered" the jagged summit for his fellow explorers, but I wonder what the Sheepeater Indian who zinged a grouse with an arrow up there on the same day (as reported by Ross) would think about this discovery hoopla if he was able to gain a visionary glimpse into the future.

Another challenge at the summit is at the elevation sign, as vandals have unhinged it several times. Although I'm mostly against government total awareness programs, this is a case where I've become sick of seeing this sign stolen so much that it would be refreshing to see our highway department set a clever trap by imbedding a transmitter into the sign to catch some culprits.

Further aspects of the pass I'm puzzled about are at the remodeled overlook parking lot. Whatever happened to the landline the Forest Service was going to install there? Well, at least for now, our community has some dedicated ham radio enthusiasts to help patch this communication gap.

Another harsh fact up there is that the restrooms are gone! On top of that, as pleasant as the new remodel appears cosmetically, the upper end no longer has barriers to prevent motorists from sliding off the edge. Back in the era when Al Ross was writing his traveling memoirs, rugged mountain men probably would have empowered themselves to haul up excess railroad ties and spike them in as guardrails to ensure no one rolled off the rocky overlook. It would be nice if the Forest Service could find it in their budget to follow similar safety procedures.

Demand Removal of Smart Meters

We are rapidly becoming a fascist/Marxist police state. President Obama on March 16 issued another unconstitutional executive order which calls for martial law, confiscation of private property and forced labor without due process under Janet Napolitano and the Department of Homeland Security. This is another blatant violation of the Constitution as all legislative powers were granted to Congress.

We see the 10 planks of the Communist Manifesto being implemented openly. Saul Alinsky's "Rules for Revolution" are being used to implement Marxist totalitarianism by working to destroy our constitutional republic. The result will be the loss of individual rights to the all-powerful central police state resulting in death, tyranny and slavery.

A global information surveillance grid is being constructed. CIA director David Petraeus has indicated the smart meters and "smart" appliances and gadgets are effectively bugging devices in our own homes. New processors give practically every household appliance an Internet connection. The National Security Agency is building a heavily fortified $2 billion facility in Utah to form a Global Information Grid. The facility is to be functional in September 2013.

Petraeus said, "Items of interest will be located, identified, monitored and remotely controlled through technologies such as radio frequency identification, sensor networks, tiny embedded servers, and energy harvesters" all connected to "high-power computing."

The result is warrantless wiretapping of domestic communications as NSA plugs into telecommunications and utility companies switches.

Congress must overturn un-American executive orders which attack our privacy and individual rights guaranteed under our Constitution. Americans, demand that "smart meter" bugging devices be removed.

ANALYSIS

With La. Win in Hand, Santorum Eyes Wis.

BY PHILIP ELLIOTT AND KASIE HUNT
Associated Press

GREEN BAY, Wis. • Another victory in hand but still badly trailing rival Mitt Romney, Republican presidential hopeful Rick Santorum vowed to continue his campaign despite an increasingly steep climb to the nomination.

Santorum, buoyed by Saturday's win in Louisiana's primary that boosted his spirit but did little to narrow the delegate gap, urged his supporters to stick with him even as much of the GOP establishment has coalesced around Romney's increasingly inevitable coronation. Even in the face of the political headwinds, the former Pennsylvania senator seemed unwilling to acknowledge it would take a dramatic change in momentum to deny Romney his turn as the GOP nominee.

"Even though a lot of folks are saying this race is over, the people in Louisiana said, 'No, it's not.' They still want to see someone who they can trust, someone who's not running an Etch a Sketch campaign, but one who has their principals written on their heart, not on an erasable tablet," Santorum said Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation." "And I think that's what helped us deliver the win in Louisiana, and I think we're going to do very well up here in Wisconsin, too."

But it's going to be a tough fight, for sure. Romney remains far ahead with 568 delegates to Santorum's 273, according to an Associated Press tally. Newt Gingrich follows with 135 and Ron Paul has 50.

Short the 1,144 delegates it will take to clinch the nomination ahead of the convention this summer in Tampa, Fla., Romney enjoys an organizational and fundraising advantage over his closest rival. For instance, Santorum isn't even on the ballot for the primary in the District of Columbia, for its April 3 primary — the latest illustration of how the under-funded underdog struggles to keep pace with Romney's years-in-the-making campaign.

Earlier Saturday, Santorum said he wanted to debate Romney without trailing competitors Gingrich and Paul on stage.

"This race has clearly gotten down to two candidates that can win the nomination," Santorum told reporters in Milwaukee. "I'd love to have a one-on-one debate."

1990 Abortion Battle Easily Eclipses 2012

It took awhile, but Idaho Republicans finally remembered the lessons of overreaching on abortion, says one Idaho Statesman writer.

BY DAN POPKEY
Idaho Statesman

BOISE • Think the ultrasound battle of 2012 is epic? Join me at 1990 Memory Lane, when Idaho was the epicenter of a national struggle over abortion rights.

On March 30, 1990, Gov. Cecil Andrus vetoed House Bill 625, which would have been the toughest anti-abortion law in the country. The story was prominent on network news shows that night, in the days before the atomization of cable TV. For weeks, Boise was a regular dateline in the New York Times, USA Today and Washington Post. The Senate debate was broadcast live on C-SPAN.

"It began early, engaged national interest groups on both sides and consumed the whole session," said former GOP Rep. Pam Ahrens, who co-chaired a two-day joint State Affairs Committee hearing that drew 1,500 people to Boise State's Jordan Ballroom. "Compared to 1990, this year seems like a flash mob."

The National Right to Life Committee wrote HB 625, hoping it would be the instrument to overturn Roe v. Wade. National potato boycotts were threatened; the glass doors to the governor's office broken by a mob; and Richard Wilkins, a professor and abortion foe at BYU Law School, urged a veto on constitutional grounds.

Andrus, anti-abortion throughout a long career, suddenly became a champion in the eyes of the National Organization for Women and National Abortion Rights Action League.

After the national spotlight dimmed, Idaho Republican women sent the men running their party a message: Democrat Andrus was re-elected with 68 percent of the vote; his party won a 21-21 tie in the Senate; and Larry LaRocco became the first Democrat to capture the 1st Congressional District in 26 years.

Andrus told me the 2012 GOP was used again by what he called "national and Idaho right-wing crazies," but appears to have cut its losses by backing away from the ultrasound mandate and canceling a House hearing on Senate Bill 1387.

"They're slow learners over there," Andrus said. "It's not only politically correct, but it's the right thing to do. They need to take that piece of garbage and put it in the round file."

LaRocco agreed. "This is still a gift to Democrats, but wiser heads prevailed. Somebody probably said, 'You've got to remember 1990! If this bill had passed, you'd have had three, five, seven days of marches around the Capitol, just like 1990.'"

Opponents of HB 625 held candlelight vigils for nine days between passage of the bill and the veto, the crowd growing from hundreds to thousands.

"They circled the entire Capitol block," said Sen. Denton Darrington, R-DeClo, one of six lawmakers who served in 1990 still in office today.

Darrington, who voted for HB 625, recalls leaving the Capitol at night and being astounded by the crowd, both for its size and bipartisan composition. "There were all these people on the sidewalks holding their placards. People didn't cat-call us. We found friends in the line and greeted them. It was a peaceful protest, a very solemn protest."

It took years before the candle wax vanished from the south front steps, despite efforts of maintenance crews. "The saying was, 'You can tell your friends by the wax on their shoes,'" said LaRocco. "They were all there. And they included moderate Republican women."

HB 625 would have outlawed between 93 and 98 percent of all abortions, which would have been limited to victims of incest; women who'd reported a rape to police within seven days; or cases where a physician certified that continuing a pregnancy would cause death or "severe and long-lasting physical health damage."

This year's SB 1387 doesn't go that far, but the specter of requiring vaginal ultrasounds to determine gestational age and heart rate before early-term abortions crossed the line, even for the deeply conservative Idaho House.

"The smacking thing was the mandate," said Rep. Maxine Bell, R-Jerome, who was in the House in 1990 and voted for HB 625. "I'm grateful that we care about the unborn, but I don't think this was the vehicle to stop abortions."

Another blow last week came when Sen. Chuck Winder, R-Boise, made unfortunate remarks about rape and abortion in his closing debate on the bill Monday, which soon went viral.

Winder's words branded the Idaho Legislature as hostile to women and prompted doubts in the minds of anti-abortion conservatives. "I district is heavily Republican, LaRocco said Mace will at least draw resources from the GOP. "Until now, Winder had a free ride," LaRocco said. "Mace could become a national figure and raise $50,000 or $100,000. I'm sending him money and I've never met the guy!"

Ahrens said Republicans moved swiftly once they saw their re-election in jeopardy. "There's a tolerance point that's crossed and then you get a real gut reaction," said

"People didn't cat-call us. We found friends in the line and greeted them. It was a peaceful protest, a very solemn protest."

Sen. Denton Darrington, R-DeClo, recalling the protest over anti-abortion legislation in 1990 think plenty of people said, 'Man, do we really want to do that to these teenage girls?'"

Thirty-five percent of women terminating pregnancies in Idaho are 19 and under; another 34 percent are 20 to 24. Idaho's abortion rate is already low, one-third the national average.

The political risk is real. In Virginia, the Legislature's approval rating dropped 19 percentage points after it passed a similar bill March 1. By a 72 percent to 22 percent margin, Virginians said government should not make laws that try to convince women seeking an abortion to change their minds. That was precisely the aim of SB 1387's proponents.

LaRocco noted that the bill drew a Democratic challenger for Winder, newcomer James Mace. While Winder's the former 14-year lawmaker. "That's when the passion comes out. What were quiet feelings get expressed at election time?"

House State Affairs Committee Chairman Tom Loertscher was in the House in 1990 and remembers that election as the worst GOP showing since 1958.

He also recalls how Idaho returned to its Republican nature just two years later, once the message had been received. "We took it back in a big way," said Loertscher, R-Iona.

Loertscher, who supports SB 1387, now has it in a drawer. He hasn't yet pronounced its demise. But after 18 years of GOP dominance, it's a pretty sure bet he and his fellow GOP leaders won't fiddle with reviving Democratic prospects again.

Study: Use Bear Spray for Grizzlies, Not Guns

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) • A bear expert says a study has found that people using bear spray during grizzly bear encounters are injured far less often than people using firearms.

University of Calgary's Steve Herrero tells the Missoulian that 98 percent of those who used bear spray walked away unharmed, and no people or bears died.

He says 56 percent of those who used firearms were injured, and 61 percent of the bears died.

The firearms study involved 269 incidents with 444 hunters. The bear spray study had 72 incidents with 175 people, though some of those might have been less dangerous encounters.

Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks bear manager Mike Madel says the results are pretty persuasive.

BODY SPOTTED IN LAKE

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) • Unsafe ice Sunday was slowing the recovery of a body spotted in Spirit Lake.

People walking along the shoreline of the lake spotted the partially submerged body and a 911 call reached the Kootenai County Sheriff's Office at about 11:45 a.m.

Marine deputies and divers responded to a small cove of the lake.

The sheriff's office says responders could see a small portion of the back side of what appeared to be a person in the water.

Investigators were called in to process the scene.

Senators Ask for Probe of Password Requests

BY MANUEL VALDES
Associated Press

SEATTLE • Two U.S. senators are asking Attorney General Eric Holder to investigate whether employers asking for Facebook passwords during job interviews are violating federal law, their offices announced Sunday.

Troubled by reports of the practice, Democratic Sens. Chuck Schumer of New York and Richard Blumenthal of Connecticut said they are calling on the Department of Justice and the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to launch investigations. The senators are sending letters to the heads of the agencies.

The Associated Press reported last week that some private and public agencies around the country are asking job seekers for their social media credentials. The practice has alarmed privacy advocates, but the legality of it remains murky.

On Friday, Facebook warned employers not to ask job applicants for their passwords to the site so they can poke around on their profiles. The company threatened legal action against applications that violate its long-standing policy against sharing passwords.

A Facebook executive cautioned that if an employer discovers that a job applicant is a member of a protected group, the employer may be vulnerable to claims of discrimination if it doesn't hire that person.

Personal information such as gender, race, religion and age are often displayed on a Facebook profile — all details that are protected by federal employment law.

"We don't think employers should be asking prospective employees to provide their passwords because we don't think it's the right thing to do. While we do not have any immediate plans to take legal action against any specific employers, we look forward to engaging with policy makers and other stakeholders, to help better safeguard the privacy of our users," Facebook said in a statement.

Not sharing passwords is a basic tenet of online conduct. Aside from the privacy concerns, Facebook considers the practice a security risk.

The senators also want to know whether two court cases relating to supervisors asking current employees for social media credentials could be applied to job applicants.

Cameron Dive Reaches Deepest Spot on Earth

ASSOCIATED PRESS

HONOLULU • Hollywood icon James Cameron has made it to Earth's deepest point.

The director of "Titanic," "Avatar" and other films used a specially designed submarine to dive nearly seven miles, completing his journey a little before 8 a.m. Monday local time, according to Stephanie Montgomery of the National Geographic Society.

He planned to spend about six hours exploring and filming the Mariana Trench, about 200 miles southwest of the Pacific island of Guam.

"All systems OK," were Cameron's first words upon reaching the bottom, according to a statement. His arrival at a depth of 35,756 feet came early Sunday evening on the U.S. East Coast, after a descent that took more than two hours.

The scale of the trench is hard to grasp — it's 120 times larger than the Grand Canyon and more than a mile deeper than Mount Everest is tall.

Cameron made the dive aboard his 12-ton, lime-green sub called "Deepsea Challenger." He planned to collect samples for biologists and geologists to study.

"It's really the first time that human eyes have had an opportunity to gaze upon what is a very alien landscape," said Terry Garcia, the National Geographic Society's executive VP for mission programs, via phone from Pitlochry, Scotland.

The first and only time anyone dove to these depths was in 1960. Swiss engineer Jacques Piccard and U.S. Navy Capt. Don Walsh took nearly five hours to reach the bottom and stayed just 20 minutes. They had little to report on what they saw, however, because their submarine kicked up so much sand from the ocean floor.

"He is going to be seeing something that none of us have ever seen before. He is going to be opening new worlds to scientists," Garcia said.

One of the risks of a dive so deep is extreme water pressure. At 6.8 miles below the surface, the pressure is the equivalent of three SUVs sitting on your toe.

Explorer and filmmaker James Cameron emerges from the hatch of the 'Deepsea Challenger' during testing of the submersible in February 2012 at Jervis Bay, Australia.

Cameron told The Associated Press in an interview after a 5.1 mile-deep practice run near Papua New Guinea earlier this month that the pressure "is in the back of your mind." The submarine would implode in an instant if it leaked, he said.

But while he was a little apprehensive beforehand, he wasn't scared or nervous while underwater.

"When you are actually on the dive you have to trust the engineering was done right," he said.

The dive site, which is at the deepest point in the Mariana Trench, is named Challenger Deep after the British naval vessel that used sound to first measure its depth.

The film director has been an oceanography enthusiast since childhood and has made 72 deep-sea submersible dives. Thirty-three of those dives have been to the wreckage of the Titanic, the subject of his 1997 hit film.

Dill Named 1A Division II Player of the Year

TIMES-NEWS

Dietrich senior Moriah Dill has been named the Class 1A Division II girls basketball player of the year for a second straight season.

The all-state teams and players of the year are tabulated by a statewide coach vote submitted to the Idaho Statesman, which published the full list Sunday.

Dill was joined on the 1A Division II all-state first team by teammate Charley Bingham, as well as Richfield's Sasha Kent and Carey's Jaide Parke.

Other first-teamers from District IV were Jake Hollifield of Jerome and Eric Harr of Twin Falls (4A boys); Haylee Thompson of Wood River (4A girls); Ryan Karel of Filer (3A boys); Chris Popoca of Glens Ferry (1A Div. I boys); Karli McHone of Glens Ferry (1A Div. I girls); and Baley Barg of Carey and Jakob Howard of Dietrich (1A Div. II boys).

Second-teamers included Twin Falls' Robert Sanchez (4A boys); Josie Jordan of Twin Falls and Kaitana Martinez of Wood River (4A girls); Declo's Sydney Webb (2A girls); Glens Ferry's Wilder Jones and Shoshone's Garrett Sant (1A Div. I boys); Castleford teammates Cody Hansen and Mitch Howard, and Murtaugh's Humberto Pacheco (1A Div. II boys); and Carey's Micaela Adamson and Dietrich's Ellie Dalton (1A Div. II girls).

The College of Southern Idaho women's basketball team had four commits on the all-state teams: Dill, 3A player of the year Sarah Viehweg of Marsh Valley (reported by the Statesman), 4A first-teamer Alli Furniss of Rigby and 2A second-teamer Cassidy Skidmore of West Jefferson (both reported by the Post Register).

NBA

HAWKS BEAT JAZZ IN 4 OT

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA • Joe Johnson scored 37 points, Josh Smith added 22 and the Atlanta Hawks ended Utah's six-game winning streak with a 139-133 victory Sunday night in the NBA's first quadruple-overtime game since 1997.

The four overtimes tied for the third-longest game in NBA history. It was the ninth NBA game to go four OTs and the first since Phoenix beat Portland 140-139 on Nov. 14, 1997.

Al Jefferson finished with 28 points and 17 rebounds, and Paul Millsap had 25 points and 13 boards for the Jazz before both players fouled out in the final overtime.

Atlanta has won four straight and six of seven. The Hawks improved to 30-20 and moved one-half game ahead of Indiana for fifth place in the Eastern Conference.

Johnson ended the first quarter with 18 points after going 8 of 8 in the period. He missed eight of his next nine shots, including a potential game-winning runner with 3 seconds left in regulation, before hitting a 3-pointer that forced the third overtime.

With 16.9 seconds remaining in the fourth OT, Johnson's 20-foot jumper over C.J. Miles gave the Hawks a 135-131 lead.

Jeff Teague, who had 18 points and nine assists, added a pair of free throws with 13 seconds to go to make it 137-133. Johnson's two free throws sealed the victory with 5.5 seconds remaining.

Smith fouled out with 1:57 left in the first overtime.

Zaza Pachulia, who pulled down 20 rebounds, hit a short jumper in the final seconds of the second quarter that gave the Hawks a 17-point lead, their biggest of the game.

ORLANDO, Fla. • Tiger Woods finally brought the buzz back to the very thing that made him famous — winning.

Two weeks after another injury scare, Woods looked dominant as ever in that red shirt on Sunday to win the Arnold Palmer Invitational.

It was his first PGA Tour victory since a sex scandal at the end of 2009 led to one of the greatest downfalls in sports. And with the Masters only two weeks away, Woods looks more capable than ever of resuming his pursuit of Jack Nicklaus in the majors.

Woods closed with a 2-under 70 for a five-shot win over Graeme McDowell.

The question two weeks ago was when he could play again. Now, it's whether he can get back to being the player who once ruled golf.

Kentucky beats Baylor in South Regional Kentucky's Michael Kidd-Gilchrist waves a towel after defeating Baylor on Sunday.

ATLANTA • Kentucky could've cut the nets down at halftime.

Actually, the Wildcats probably would've been good skipping the ceremony altogether.

A South Regional title is fine, but what matters to this bunch of future NBA stars is breaking out the scissors in the Big Easy.

Top-seeded Kentucky advanced to the Final Four for the second year in a row with a 82-70 blitzing of Baylor, setting up a Bluegrass showdown with rival Louisville in the national semifinals Saturday at New Orleans.

Michael Kidd-Gilchrist scored 19 points, Anthony Davis added 18 points and 11 rebounds, and Terrence Jones dazzled in all the overlooked areas to lead the Wildcats (36-2) on Sunday.

For all the hoopla sure to surround the next game in its basketball-crazed state, Kentucky won't consider the season a success unless it wins

ST. LOUIS • Nothing personal, Roy.

Tyshawn Taylor broke out of his slump in a big way Sunday, scoring 22 points and leading Kansas back to the Final Four with an 80-67 victory over former coach Roy Williams and top-seeded North Carolina.

The second-seeded Jayhawks (31-6) will play Ohio State on Saturday in their first Final Four appearance since winning the 2008 national championship.

"It's awesome," center Jeff Withey said. "There's no better feeling than this right now." And how's this for symmetry? Kansas began this year's tournament in Omaha, Neb., the same place as four years ago.

STEWART WINS RAIN-SHORTENED RACE

ASSOCIATED PRESS

FONTANA, Calif. • When dark clouds ominously obscured majestic Mount Baldy north of Auto Club Speedway early in Sunday's race, NASCAR's drivers all realized they were probably in for a short day on a long track.

Nobody did a better job racing until the raindrops fell than Tony Stewart.

Stewart got his second NASCAR victory of the season when rain shortened the race at Auto Club Speedway by 71 laps, extending the defending Sprint Cup champion's unusually strong start.

Kyle Busch finished second, and Dale Earnhardt Jr. added to his good start to the season in third.

"You hate to have it end with rain like that," Stewart said. "But we've lost some that way, and we didn't back into the lead."

Stewart has won seven of the last 15 races, including Las Vegas last month, in a remarkable stretch of dominance for a driver who rarely gets rolling until summer.

Although Stewart sees nothing special about his approach to the new season, he's clearly focused. Stewart and new crew chief Steve Addington didn't mention the rain to each other until moments before it hit one end of the 2-mile oval, but they had already done the work necessary to win.

"It's been nice to get off to a good start this year the way we have," said Stewart, who has been even more impressive this year despite firing crew chief Darian Grubb last December. "The history shows the last 13 years, we haven't had the strongest start the first third of the year, but I'm really excited about the start we've got going. Daytona was probably our weakest race, and I know I made decisions trying to make things happen and it didn't work out. I'm really proud of what Steve and all our guys have done."

Stewart's Chevrolet passed Busch 44 laps before the race was stopped when the looming rain clouds finally burst and halted a race run entirely on green flags to that point. Although a few drivers weren't happy when the race was called off after a delay of just over 30 minutes amid steadily worsening rain, Stewart collected his 46th career win and his second at Fontana.

Boxing Writer Bert Sugar Dies of Cardiac Arrest

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOUNT KISCO, N.Y. • Bert Sugar, an iconic boxing writer and sports historian who was known for his trademark fedora and ever-present cigar, died Sunday of cardiac arrest. He was 75.

Jennifer Frawley, Sugar's daughter, said his wife, Suzanne, was by his side when he died at Northern Westchester Hospital. Sugar also had been battling lung cancer.

"Just his intelligence and his wit and his sense of humor," Frawley said when asked what she will remember about her father. "He was always worried about people. He was always helping people."

Sugar was inducted into the International Boxing Hall of Fame in 2005. According to the hall's website, Sugar wrote more than 80 books, including "The 100 Greatest Boxers Of All Time." He also appeared in a handful of films, including "The Great White Hype" starring Samuel Jackson.

"Around ringside, it's not going to be the same with Bert not there," said Jack Hirsch, the president of the Boxing Writers Association of America.

Sugar was born in Washington, D.C., in 1936. He graduated from Maryland and went to law school at Michigan. He passed the bar in his hometown and worked in advertising in New York City before he got into writing in the 1970s.

"Bert was obviously a showman in the way he did things outwardly, very flamboyant, but in quiet moments I found him to be an extremely modest individual," Hirsch said.

Sugar said arrangements for a memorial service are still pending and anyone wishing to honor Sugar should make a donation to the boxing hall. "He was really a brilliant man," she said.

two more games — culminating in a national title.

"I'm not satisfied yet," Kidd-Gilchrist said.

This group sure has the look of a champion, shaking off an early blow by the Bears (30-8) — a very good team with a daring fashion sense that was simply no match for coach John Calipari's latest group of Fab Freshmen. Kentucky took control with an early 16-0 run and led by 20 at halftime.

"This team is better than I thought," Baylor coach Scott Drew said. "This is the best team we faced all year ... probably in a couple of years."

Two years ago, Baylor lost to eventual national champion Duke in another regional final.

"Duke was a good team," Drew said, "but Kentucky is better."

The Wildcats beat Louisville 69-62 on New Year's Eve, but now they'll meet with the highest stakes ever. Kidd-Gilchrist shrugged when someone asked about playing the Cardinals.

"I'm just worried about us," he said. "That's it. I don't worry about anybody else."

Calipari, in his third season at Kentucky, just keeps recruiting the best high school players in the land, molds them into a top team, then sends most of 'em on to the NBA.

Kansas

As the game ended, Taylor — much maligned for his shooting struggles during the first three games of the NCAA tournament — ran to Kansas fans and raised both arms in the air. Travis Releford tossed his sweatbands into the crowd.

"This is what you come to Kansas for," Taylor said. "It's a great feeling, but it's just one step."

Taylor led five Jayhawks in double figures.

Player of the year candidate Thomas Robinson added 18 points and nine rebounds, and Elijah Johnson kept up his blistering pace in the tournament with 10 points, including a 3-pointer with 3:07 to play that sparked Kansas' 12-0 run to end the game.

Withey made two monster blocks to deny the Tar Heels during the final run — including one that set up a big three-point play by Taylor.

Taylor came up with the rebound after Withey swatted away a shot by John Henson and streaked downcourt for a layup, getting fouled by Stilman White in the process.

As the Kansas-heavy crowd roared, Taylor butted his head into Robinson's chest.

He made the free throw to give Kansas a 74-67 lead with 1:59 left, and the Jayhawks cruised from there.

District VI Rodeo Off to a Fast Start

BY DIANE PHILBIN

dphilbin@magickvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • It is that time of year when truck and horse trailers stream into various arenas for high school rodeo. For District VI, the first stop was at the College of Southern Idaho over the weekend.

In rodeo, every contestant wants to be No. 1 and with each new year, there are many new faces vying to be the best.

For rookies Jaylee Stimpson of Minico and Klancy Krenka — from Wells, Nev., but competing for Castelford — the performances by the two made it clear that they're there to win. High school rodeo is nothing new for the young cowboy and cowgirl, who have been on the rodeo trail before.

Krenka recorded a pair of wins on Saturday, scoring 51 points in bareback aboard J8 followed by posting an event — fastest 6.20-second run in steer wrestling. He also finished sixth in team roping with partner Mason Lamb of Oakley.

One of the best performances of the weekend came from Stimpson. She finished first in poles on Friday with the fastest time of the weekend at 20.847 seconds. She added a fourth and fifth in breakaway, a sixth in goats, a ninth in barrels, and joined with Tegan Alger from Filer for a fourth in team roping.

"I was nervous and freaking out all day Friday," Stimpson said. "But when I got to CSI, I was calm. Poles is probably my favorite event because I have a good pole horse that I trained myself. My sister, Tianna, told me to only concentrate on one goal at a time and have a good mental game."

A year ago, Bandee Tubbs was one of the top freshman standouts in the district and knows what the rookies must be experiencing.

She offered advice to the new freshmen: "Try not to be nervous, know your game and don't be overconfident. Do what you need to do and believe in yourself."

Speaking for herself, she hopes to be able to take the knowledge she gained as a rookie and apply it to the current year.

"I really learned how to compete and to take what I worked on in the practice pen to the arena," said the Filer sophomore, whose efforts placed her in the top 10 in all four of her events. "My goals this year are to work harder to improve in every event, to practice everyday, stay mentally tough and make it to state and nationals."

After the weekend, Oakley senior Jacee Bedkee sits at the top of the girls all-around standings after a first in breakaway roping and team roping with Jared Roe (Filer), a second and fourth in poles, an eighth in barrels, and a seventh in goats. Jade Wadsworth of Kimberly leads the boys after finishing with two thirds in tie-down, a third in steer wrestling, and a third and fifth in team roping with his brother, Derek.

District VI returns to CSI next weekend with performances at 7 p.m. both Friday and Saturday.

Medlin leads Utah St. into CIT final

ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOGAN, Utah • Preston Medlin scored 26 points and Brockeith Pane had 20 points and 10 assists to lead Utah State past Oakland 105-81 in the semifinals of the CollegeInsider.com tournament.

Morgan Grim added 18 points and 10 rebounds for the Aggies (21-15), while Danny Berger had 17. It was Medlin's 30th double-figure game for Utah State this season.

Utah State will play Mercer for the title on Wednesday night.

The Grizzlies (20-16) were led by Reggie Hamilton's 23 points and Travis Bader scored 22. Corey Petros had 10 rebounds.

The Aggies shot 70 percent from the field in the first half and 64 percent for the game. The Aggies also shot 75 percent, 12 of 16, from 3-point range in the game, well above their 36 percent average on the season.

Hamilton came into the game as the nation's leading scorer at 26.3 points per game, but made 6 of 21 attempts from the field, four from beyond the 3-point line. Sophomore Bader was nine of 15 from the field, with 12 points coming from the 3-point line.

Woods

Woods refused to acknowledge this as his first PGA Tour win in 923 days, dating to Sept. 13, 2009, at the BMW Championship. He counts the unofficial Chevron World Challenge last December. Even so, this was significant — a full tour event against a strong field, and a performance so clean that he was never seriously challenged on the back nine.

The final hole was a mere formality, and Woods tapped his putter on the ground waiting for his turn, knowing that 30 months without a win on the PGA Tour was about to end. He walked off the green with his arm extended, waving his cap to a raucous gallery.

"It does feel good. It feels really good," Woods said before signing his card. "It's been a lot of hard work."

The only thing missing was the host himself.

Palmer's blood pressure increased during the final round from new medications, and he was taken to the hospital about 15 minutes before the tournament ended as a precaution. Alastair Johnston, vice chairman at IMG and his longtime business manager, said Palmer would be kept overnight. "Nobody is overly concerned," he said.

Woods goes to No. 6 in the world, returning to the top 10 for the first time since May 22.

He finished at 13-under 275 for his 72nd PGA Tour win, one short of Nicklaus for second place on the career list. But that's not the record Woods wants. He has 14 majors, four short of the Nicklaus standard, and he tries to end a four-year drought at the Masters, which starts April 5.

"I am excited, no doubt," Woods said. "I'm looking forward to the momentum I've built here."

NOTICE OF PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD CONCERNING FISCAL YEAR'S 2013 WATER QUALITY AND DRINKING WATER LOAN AND GRANT PRIORITY LISTS AND ASSOCIATED INTENDED USE PLANS (IUPS)

This notice is given to fulfill the public information requirements of Idaho's rules for administration of drinking water and water quality construction grant and loan programs.

The Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) has scheduled a comment period concerning the following documents, which, upon final DEQ Board acceptance will govern the state fiscal year 2013:

1. The draft State Drinking Water Loan Intended Use Plan (IUP) which contains the Loan Project Priority List and the Drinking Water Quality Planning Grant Priority List
2. The draft State Water Quality Loan Intended Use Plan (IUP) which contains the Loan Project Priority List and the Water Quality Planning Grant Priority List

DEQ will award grants and loans from these four lists in priority order, to the highest ranked projects that are ready to proceed. Awards will be made to fully utilize all available funding.

The purpose of the comment period will be to give interested parties an opportunity to comment on the grant and loan lists.

Copies of the lists and IUPS are available for public review at the following locations:

PUBLISH: March 20, 26 and April 2, 2012

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE Loan No.: 0005625744 T.S. No.:

12-00013-5 On June 26, 2012 11:00 am, In the lobby of Land Title & Escrow, 1411 Fillmore Street., Suite 600 Twin Falls, ID 83301 in the County of Twin Falls, State of Idaho, Fidelity National Title Insurance Company, as Trustee, on behalf of WELLS FARGO BANK, N.A., AS TRUSTEE FOR OPTION ONE MORTGAGE LOAN TRUST 2002-2 ASSET-BACKED CERTIFICATES, SERIES 2002-2, the current Beneficiary, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale, the following described real property, situated in the County of Twin Falls, State of Idaho, and described as follows: THE WEST 65 FEET OF THE EAST 130 FEET OF LOTS 13 AND 14 IN BLOCK 1 OF HIGHLAND VIEW TRACT, TWIN FALLS COUNTY, IDAHO, ACCORDING TO THE PLAT THEREOF, RECORDED IN BOOK 2 OF PLATS, PAGE 9, IN THE OFFICE OF THE COUNTY RECORDER OF SAID COUNTY. The Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above referenced real property, but for purposes of compliance with Section 60-113 Idaho Code, the Trustee has been informed that the address of: 1618 HIGHLAND AVE E, TWIN FALLS, ID, is sometimes associated with said real property. Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrance to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the Deed of Trust executed by GILBERT GONZALES JR, A MARRIED MAN AS HIS SEPARATE ESTATE, as original grantor(s), to FIRST AMERICAN TITLE COMPANY, as original trustee, for the benefit and security of OPTION ONE MORTGAGE CORPORATION, A CALIFORNIA CORPORATION, as original beneficiary, dated as of January 10, 2002, and recorded January 16, 2002, as Instrument No. 2002-000962 in the Official Records of the Office of the Recorder of Twin Falls County, Idaho. Please Note: The above grantor(s) are named to comply with section 45-1506(4)(A), Idaho Code, No representation is made that they are, or are not, presently responsible for this obligation set forth herein. The current beneficiary is: WELLS FARGO BANK, N.A., AS TRUSTEE FOR OPTION ONE MORTGAGE LOAN TRUST 2002-2 ASSET-BACKED CERTIFICATES, SERIES 2002-2, (the "Beneficiary"). Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining unpaid balance of the obligations secured by and pursuant to the power of sale contained in that certain Deed of Trust. In addition to cash, the Trustee will accept a cashier's check drawn on a state or national bank, a check drawn by a state or federal credit union or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, savings association or savings bank specified in the Idaho Financial Code and authorized to do business in Idaho, or other such funds as may be acceptable to the trustee. DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a grandmother who has her 7-year-old grandson sit in a baby car seat when she's driving? The boy weighs 65 pounds and is 4 1/2 feet tall. His parents don't want to cause a rift with her, as she helps them after school. He looks ridiculous and must feel embarrassed in front of his friends. Should relatives intervene?

— GRANNY'S NEIGHBOR

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR NEIGHBOR: I took your question to a public affairs specialist with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. He said that children through the age of 12 should always ride in the back seat. He also reminded me that seat belts were designed for adults, not children.

According to the NHTSA, the 7-year-old should be in a "booster" seat. A booster seat positions the seat belt so it fits properly over the shoulder and chest — the strongest parts of the child's body — so it won't cut him or her on the neck or face in case of an accident.

The NHTSA used to recommend that children 8 to 12 years old or 4 feet 9 inches and under use a booster seat. However, it NOW recommends that parents visit its website, www.nhtsa.gov, to choose a correct seat. Click on the child safety section, and you'll find an area titled "Which Car Seat Is the Right One for Your Child." There are also videos in this section showing parents how to install the seats correctly.

The recommendations are national and do not vary among the states. And yes — this information should be shared with the child's parents and the grandmother in order to ensure the boy's safety.

DEAR ABBY: At the age of 2, I was diagnosed with Type 1 diabetes. I have been involved with the American Diabetes Association since I was 6. As its 2012 National Youth Advocate, I'd like to invite your readers to join me by participating in the 24th Annual American Diabetes Association Alert Day tomorrow, March 27.

Alert Day, held on the fourth Tuesday in March, is a one-day "wake-up call." On that day, the American public is invited to take the Diabetes Risk Test to find out if they are at risk for developing Type 2 diabetes. It's a serious disease that strikes nearly 26 million children and adults in the United States. Many of them don't know they have it.

Unfortunately, people are often diagnosed with Type 2 diabetes seven to 10 years after it has settled in their system. By then, the major symptoms have already developed and harmed the body, so early diagnosis is critical.

Please urge your readers to "Take it. Share it." Let them know they can protect their health and stop this disease by taking the free risk test. Just answer a few simple questions and share the fact with everyone you care about that there is a test. If they take it, they could be saving lives.

— LOGANNICOLE GREGORY, 2012 A.D.A. NATIONAL YOUTH ADVOCATE

DEAR LOGAN: Congratulations on your selection as the 2012 National Youth Advocate. Readers, because diabetes is a serious — but manageable — condition, and there are simple ways to find out if you could be at risk, please pay attention to Logan's message. Visit the American Diabetes Association Facebook page, go to stopdiabetes.com or call 800-342-2383.

Animated Windmill

Built primarily from fir plywood, this decorative farm-style animated windmill responds to even light breezes with four blades and a vane. For a touch of whimsy, as the wind turns the blades it drives a whirligig shaped like a merry old carpenter sawing a log. The completed windmill stands nearly 7 feet tall at the tip of the uppermost blade and measures about 20 inches wide at the base.

Today is Monday, March 26, the 86th day of 2012. There are 280 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On March 26, 1982, groundbreaking ceremonies took place in Washington, D.C., for the Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1804, the Louisiana Purchase was divided into the Territory of Orleans and the District of Louisiana.

In 1812, an earthquake devastated Caracas, Venezuela, causing an estimated 26,000 deaths, according to the U.S. Geological Survey.

In 1827, composer Ludwig van Beethoven died in Vienna.

In 1874, poet Robert Frost was born in San Francisco.

In 1892, poet Walt Whitman died in Camden, N.J.

In 1912, an explosion at the Jed Coal & Coke Co. Mine in West Virginia claimed the lives of 83 miners.

In 1937, a 6-foot-tall statue of the cartoon character Popeye was unveiled during the Second Annual Spinach Festival in Crystal City, Texas.

In 1958, the U.S. Army launched America's third successful satellite, Explorer 3.

In 1962, the U.S. Supreme Court, in Baker v. Carr, gave federal courts the power to order reapportionment of states' legislative districts, a 6-2 decision that eventually led to the doctrine of "one man, one vote."

In 1979, a peace treaty was signed by Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and witnessed by President Jimmy Carter at the White House.

In 1992, a judge in Indianapolis sentenced former heavyweight boxing champion Mike Tyson to six years in prison for raping a Miss Black America contestant. (Tyson ended up serving three years.)

In 1997, the bodies of 39 members of the Heaven's Gate techno-religious cult who'd committed suicide were found inside a rented mansion in Rancho Santa Fe, Calif.

Ten years ago: Yasser Arafat decided not to attend a key Arab summit in Beirut, Lebanon; his Cabinet accused Israel of trying to "blackmail" the Palestinian leader with tough conditions for allowing him to go. Arthur Andersen chief executive Joseph Berardino resigned, bowing to mounting pressure as a result of the accounting firm's role in the Enron scandal. President George W. Bush nominated Dr. Richard Carmona to be surgeon general.

Five years ago: The military concluded that high-ranking Army officers had made critical errors in reporting the friendly fire death of Army Ranger Pat Tillman in Afghanistan, but that there was no criminal wrongdoing in the shooting of the former NFL star by fellow soldiers. (The findings were rejected by Tillman's family.) Australian detainee David Hicks pleaded guilty before a military tribunal at Guantanamo to helping terrorists fight the United States in Afghanistan. (Hicks was sentenced to seven years in prison; all but nine months' prison time was suspended. Hicks was returned to Australia to serve out his term, and was freed in December 2007.)

One year ago: More than 250,000 people took to London's streets to protest the toughest spending cuts since World War II; riot police clashed with small break-away groups and arrested more than 200 people. Former Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro, the first female major party nominee for the office, died in Boston at 75. Harry Wesley Coover Jr., 94, known as the inventor of the popular adhesive Super Glue, died in Kingsport, Tenn.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE® Bobby Wolff

"Alas, regardless of their doom, The little victims play! No sense have they of ills to come, Nor care beyond today."

— Thomas Gray

Today's deal presents a problem for South at teams. When your partner doubles three clubs, should you settle for the safe plus by passing, or should you go for the big prize by trying three no-trump?

In an Australian event, Marlene Watts (North) and Jamie Ebery (South) were one of the few pairs to go plus — almost legitimately — here. Against three no-trump, West started off well enough by leading a heart; East won and shifted to clubs to the jack and queen. Back came a low heart now, East winning again and continuing clubs — fatally. He should have inferred from his partner's play of a low heart at trick three that West had four hearts, and have continued the suit.

Ebery put up the king, losing to the ace, and pitched a spade from dummy. Then he won dummy's heart ace and carefully cashed the spade king and the diamond king. He then led a diamond to his ace, discovering the 5-1 break and getting a perfect count of the hand.

Now he ran the clubs, coming down to the spade ace and two small diamonds in dummy, with two small spades and the diamond queen in hand. East, who had to discard from his doubleton spade queen and the diamond J-10, elected to pitch a spade.

Since East was known to have two diamonds left, declarer crossed to the spade ace and came back to the diamond queen to score his long spade at trick 13 — a perfect crisscross squeeze.

ANSWER: You have no reason to try to be a hero in positions like this. A heart lead is unlikely to cost, and your own suits have already been bid by other players, so you might as well opt for the suit that your partner has bid. He can hardly complain if that works out badly.

IF MARCH 26 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You may be inspired to make major changes in your life in the year ahead. Your popularity is kicked up a few notches between now and the end of June, so new people and groups could play a large part in the new sense of excitement in your life. You might not control your destiny, since some things outside your control may change in the summer. By waiting until September and early October to launch your most important plans or to commit to key relationships you will find that better judgment and luck places the potential for success in your hands.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Even the Empire State Building was once just a blueprint. No one would have built the tallest buildings without the inspiration to exceed the status quo. Write down your ideas, as they may pay off in the future.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A penny saved is a penny earned, but love must be given to be earned. With both Venus and the Moon in your sign, your thoughts might turn to romance or ways to bring a smile to the face of a loved one.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Commitment can be inspiring. The friends who offer exciting ideas or the new goals you tackle can enrich your day. A special someone has the potential to exceed your expectations in the romance department.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Stick to what you know. Hold on to a solid sense of values in tempting circumstances. Your calm and reliable reactions give loved ones a safe anchor that keeps affection from drifting away.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Dreams can be translated into reality. You may be motivated by new people, new activities or entertainments. When you are spurred into activity, it will be time to think about the limitless possibilities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It is time to connect all the dots. You can't believe everything you hear or read, so don't be gullible about your money or your heart. Your efforts to please other people might be based on false information.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): One of your faults is constantly comparing yourself to others. Just because you don't have a Rolls-Royce or 4-carat diamond, or make as much money as your neighbor, doesn't make you worth less.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): People who are jealous of you are actually paying you a compliment. The hints of envy you sense show that they think you are better than they are. Don't let an obsession with success blind you to kindnesses.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): When people think you are better than you are, don't prove them wrong. The more intentional you are in nurturing your personal growth and living up to expectations, the more you have to offer.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Never be so focused on what you're looking for that you overlook what you actually find. Stick with conventional wisdom in your assessments and leave wishful thinking behind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): If you want something to happen, you're the one who must take action. That is so important to remember if you spend much of your time dreaming. For dreams to come true, you must take steps in reality.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Never be ignorant of your own ignorance. Ignorance isn't bliss; it's a lack of knowledge. What you know is valuable, but knowing what you don't know is even more valuable. Fill in the gaps.

Big M Middlekauff's Quote of the Day
"Losers live in the past. Winners learn from the past and enjoy working in the present toward the future."
Denis Waitley
