TWIN FALLS • Nervous children anxiously approached Pierre Jackson for an autograph and hoped they could get a picture with him, too.

Jackson, the former College of Southern Idaho star, didn't hesitate, gobbling up the middle-schoolers with enthusiasm and asking their mom to take a

"Here you go, dudes," Jackson said as he handed Preston and Brady Nelson autographed Baylor University posters. "Let's take these pictures"

The former CSI star is back in town for the weekend, and dozens of people shuffled in and out of La Fiesta Mexican Restaurant Friday night to chat with the Baylor University junior.

The 5-10 guard autographed Baylor team photos, basketballs and magazines and talked hoops with CSI boosters and fans.

"Pierre has been part of our family the last two years. He said he wanted to come back to visit, so I decided to put together this meet and greet," said Renee Marsing, Jackson's former booster parent. "I knew so many people were following his time at Baylor and would like to see him again."

A number of boosters peppered Jackson with questions about playing at Baylor this year and how next year's team will look.

"Kansas was the craziest road game. They had all these chants, 'Rock Chalk' and stuff

Daniel Brown Returns Home

TWIN FALLS • As the wind howled Friday afternoon at Joslin Field, Magic Valley Regional Airport, U.S. Army Sgt. Daniel Brown's closest family members gathered around his casket.

They placed their hands on it as an Idaho Army National Guard chaplain said a prayer.

Brown's body was returned to his family during a private honorable transfer ceremony. Dozens of Brown's family members stood outside as the charter plane carrying Brown arrived from the Dover Air Force Base in Delaware.

Pilots made preparations and then lowered the brown casket with an American flag secured to its top.

"When remains of a fallen comrade are removed, it's an important moment," said Col. Tim Marsano, public affairs officer for the Idaho

A funeral service for U.S. Army Sgt. Daniel Brown — which the public is invited to attend — is scheduled for 4 p.m. today at the College of Southern Idaho's gymnasium. It will be followed by burial with full military rites at Sunset Memorial Park in Twin Falls.

Several roads will be closed for Brown's funeral procession.

Starting at CSI, the procession will travel down Falls Avenue to Locust Street North, down Lo-

Starting at about 5 or 5:30 p.m., the following closures are expected and could last two hours:

- Blue Lakes Boulevard at its intersection with Falls.
- Kimberly between Eastland and the entrance to Sunset Memorial Park.

Other closures are possible.

Dems' Caucus Not Just for Show

With a seated president, Idaho Democrats' presidential caucus will be more about local representation this year.

BY MELISSA DAVLIN
mdavlin@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • It's no surprise who the Democratic presidential nominee will be.

Though President Barack Obama is the only candidate attendees can pick for the Idaho Democratic Presidential Caucus on April 14, there are more reasons to participate, party officials said. Among them: A chance to become a delegate to the national convention in September and maybe, just maybe, meet the commander in chief. Still, some local organizers are skeptical that will be enough to draw participants.

On the surface, there isn't much of a reason to attend the caucus, said Kent Jensen, one of the organizers of the caucus in Minidoka and Cassia counties. While Idaho had a huge turnout for the 2008 caucus, "it's really not as big a deal as it was four years ago," Jensen said.

But Larry Grant, chairman of the Idaho State Democratic Party, said there are plenty of other reasons to go. At the county caucuses, attendees select delegates to represent them at the state convention, held June 14-16 in Boise.

There, party members will help craft the state party's platform and pick delegates to go to the September national convention in North Carolina.

Kathy Tanaka, organizer of the Lincoln County caucus, was worried about finding someone to be a delegate. The state party doesn't pay for people to attend either the state or

Murder Suspect Lara Deemed Incompetent

BY LAURIE WELCH

Lara

BURLEY • A man charged with first-degree murder for allegedly strangling his wife in their Burley home has been deemed not competent to assist in his own defense.

Jose Antonio Lara, 29, was charged after his wife, Joann Lyn Lara, 25, was found dead on the couple's bedroom floor Jan. 11. He was slated for a preliminary hearing in Cassia County Magistrate Court Friday, but a psychiatric evaluation report that came back Thursday changed the course of the case.

"Further proceedings will be stayed," 5th District Magistrate Judge Rick Bollar said Friday.

Based on the report by Twin Falls psychologist James Tyson, Lara is not competent to assist in his defense. The Idaho Legislature banned the use of insanity as a defense in 1882, but a defendant must be able to assist in their defense in order to stand trial. Idaho does not allow an insanity defense.

Bollar said the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare has 90 days to prepare a plan of treatment for Lara and report back to the court.

"This will be a restorative plan," Bollor said.

If Lara is restored to competency following treatment, he will be returned to court to face charges. If not, commitment proceedings will be initiated or Lara will be released.

Lara's attorney, Keith Roark, said Lara's psychiatric evaluation wasn't ordered until last week due to a miscommunication. Roark and Cassia County Prosecutor Al Barrus did not receive the report until Thursday afternoon.

According to court records, Joann Lara was found with a thin cord wrapped around her neck, which displayed "significant ligature marks." Jose Lara allegedly told detectives that he and Joann had been arguing when he took a black belt away from her and used it to strangle her from behind.

Sleeplessness May Be Caused by Sleep Apnea

I have difficulty sleeping. What could be occurring and is it treatable?

— Mary, Twin Falls

Answered by Kurt Bywater, Team Lead, PS-GT/CRT, St. Luke's Magic Valley, Sleep Institute

Sleep is as important as the air we breathe, water we drink, food we eat and exercise.

Sleep apnea is one of the most common and treatable conditions for those who have difficulty sleeping. Some common signs and symptoms of sleep apnea are chronic snoring, pauses in breathing, gasps for breaths, waking up with a racing heart, high blood pressure and restless sleep.

Sleep apnea refers to a breathing pause that lasts at least 10 seconds. Sleep apnea occurs when the muscles in the back of the throat fail to keep the airway open, despite efforts to breathe.

It's also typically accompanied by a drop in your oxygen saturation of 4 percent or more. When your oxygen level drops, your heart works harder to compensate. Adrenaline kicks in, making your heart race, which could lead to heart failure.

How can you tell if you have sleep apnea? Do you lose energy during the day? Are you irritable, moody, and have excessive daytime sleepiness? Does your difficulty in sleeping disrupt your daily life? If so, you may have sleep apnea.

How do I check for sleep apnea? Talk to your primary care physician about your difficulty in getting a good night's rest. They may suggest that you take a sleep test, which can determine whether you have sleep apnea.

With the sleep test, you could also find out there are potentially other causes of your difficulty sleeping — it could be restless leg syndrome, narcolepsy or other health ailments that require a different course of treatment.

Sleep apnea is treated by using a Continuous Positive Airway Pressure machine that provides a gentle, quiet stent of air to keep your airway open while you sleep. It is approximately 85 percent effective in the treatment of sleep apnea.

If you have a mild case of sleep apnea, you could be fitted with a custom-fit mouth guard that will increase the airway size. Surgery is also another treatment possibility.

Regardless of the cause of your difficulty sleeping, these tips may help: Set a schedule and go to bed at the same time each night, exercise 20-30 minutes per day, and avoid caffeine, nicotine and alcohol.

Relax before bed and make sure your room temperature is comfortable for sleeping. Don't eat two to three hours before your regular bedtime and try to sleep until the sun comes up.

If these techniques don't get you back into a good sleeping pattern, see your primary care physician for guidance.

states such as Oregon — to pay their respects to Brown and his family.

Marsano said the group, which includes veterans, also attends military events to shield the mourning family if protesters are in attendance.

As the motorcade left the airport, the Patriot Guard Riders followed behind on their motorcycles. Others in attendance stood by the side of the road, holding American flags on poles.

After the motorcade passed, Kimberly resident

Kristy Dean prepared to leave as her son waited inside the car.

Dean never knew Brown or his family, but said it was her duty to come honor him.

"I just feel so much for the families," she said, as she cried.

Twin Falls residents Cindy and Roy Hale also arrived outside the airport about 15 minutes before the charter plane arrived. They said they wanted to be there for Brown's family.

They went to church with Brown's family in Jerome years ago and watched him grow up.

"They are just like family to us," Cindy Hale said.

national convention, and no one she has talked to is eager to go, she said.

"Nobody can afford to do that," Tanaka said.

Grant said that for people in the Magic Valley, a trip to Boise shouldn't be a problem. He did acknowledge that Democrats in outlying counties, like in the northern or eastern parts of the state, would have a harder time making it to the event.

While the party doesn't pay for travel or accommodation, it does try to set up Boise home stays for out-of-towners, Grant said.

Sally Boynton Brown, communications director for the Idaho State Democratic Party, said during non-election years, the conventions travel throughout the state to reach rural party members.

Etha Carruthers of the Twin Falls Democratic Party said nationwide, caucus attendance is hitting 10 percent of what it was in 2008. For Twin Falls, that would mean about 80 people showing up Saturday, she said — easily enough to find willing delegates.

Already, Twin Falls and Jerome Democrats have expressed interest in attending the state convention for various reasons, she said.

"For some people, it's writing the platform, and for some people, it's just a chance to go and be part of the whole experience," Carruthers said.

Wendell Cracks Down on Door-to-door Sales

BY BLAIR KOCH
For the Times-News

WENDELL • In an effort to protect citizens from getting conned or harassed, the Wendell City Council on Thursday passed an ordinance updating its regulations on peddlers and soliciting private residents.

Last year, some Gooding County residents had horse tack stolen after a door-to-door magazine subscription sales crew came through the area, Mayor Brad Christopher said.

"What we're trying to prevent is the fraud," Christopher said.

The city has had an ordinance on the books since the late '50s banning peddlers, but it was out of date, he said.

"In 1958, Wendell had a city jail and the ordinance was written so that if you were caught you were thrown into it and you also had to work for $5 a day," he said. "We don't have a jail anymore and so it's cheaper to update the ordinance versus build a jail. Plus, the old ordinances didn't have exemptions."

The new ordinance passed unanimously by the council allows civic, school and political groups to solicit residents, as well as certain non-profits and legitimate businesses.

Sales under court order, businesses with established clientele, the selling of newspaper subscriptions, and marketing farm or garden products are a few examples of allowable exemptions, as long as they have obtained the correct license through City Hall.

A violation will be a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $150 to $1,000 and possible jail time.

In other business, the council learned the fundraising drive for the city's animal shelter is making progress.

Shelly Harral, deputy city clerk and member of Anything's Pawsable, which is raising funds for the shelter, reported that almost $4,000 of the $9,000 needed had been raised.

The group has been selling cinder block sponsorships and holding bake sales and barbecues to raise the funds.

It will hold another community bake sale from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. today at Simerly's, 280 South Idaho St.

"We hope everyone brings something out," she said.

After hearing how well the group is doing, other city departments decided to donate nearly $1,000 to the cause.

Public Works Director Joe Durham said the quicker the permanent shelter is built, the "better public works will be," as dogs are now kept in a makeshift shelter in his department's space.

and there was blue everywhere," Jackson told fans. "We have talent coming back next year and got some good, young guys coming in, so we should be pretty good."

Dale Fuller and his son Teverin came to La Fiesta with a basketball in hand, which Jackson signed when he first walked into the restaurant.

A Twin Falls native, Dale has been a fan of CSI "all his life," and said he thinks that Jackson ranks in the top 10 of all-time greatest CSI players.

"He's my favorite," Teverin Fuller said. "He's really quick and always plays as hard as he can every time out."

Earlier in the day, Jackson met up with the current Golden Eagles squad at the CSI gymnasium, sporting a neon green T-shirt accompanied by the neon green Adidas basketball shoes that became famous as part of Baylor's "Electricity" uniforms worn during the Big 12 and NCAA tournaments.

"These are the shoes, man. I like them a lot," Jackson said. "We wore some really cool stuff. We were like a hot topic around the world. We were trending on Twitter. I like the uniforms, they stand out."

Jackson paired up with his former CSI teammates and a recruit visiting from Bend, Ore., to play in a good old-fashioned pickup game of shirts versus skins.

The 5-10 guard showed off his pretty shooting stroke from 3-point land and his hops that won CSI's and Baylor's slam dunk contests the last two years.

"He looked alright out there I guess," joked CSI head coach Steve Gosar. "I don't think he missed a shot the entire time he was out there."

"I was looking forward to seeing a lot of old faces and a lot of happy people," Jackson said. "This is like my second home. The support out here has been amazing. Those were a couple of great years, living in Twin. I had to come back and see all my fans and great people!"

Twin Falls Police Warn of Jamaican Phone Scam

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Police say some Twin Falls residents have become victims of a phone scam.

Victims reported receiving a call from an 876 area code, out of Jamaica. The caller tells the victim they have been chosen as the winner in a lottery or contest and must send a few thousand dollars in order to claim millions of dollars in winnings.

The scammers are targeting the senior population, police said in a news release.

“Once they have gotten you involved in the scam they will continue to call you and make threats to your family if you don’t send the money,” the news release said.

Police became aware of the scam after getting a call from an elderly woman who had become a victim, Twin Falls Police Sgt. Luke Allen said.

Police warn residents to be wary of anyone calling about a prize or lottery if you haven’t entered a contest.

Once a victim has sent money to a scammer, it’s difficult, if not impossible, to recover the funds, police said.

Any victims of this or other scams may contact Twin Falls Police at 735-4357.

Rape, Assault Case Progresses against Burley Man

Arthur Martin Tjaden has pleaded not guilty and will be arraigned Tuesday.

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • A Burley man will face a district court judge for charges of rape, aggravated assault and false imprisonment after his alleged victim testified Friday that he raped her and held a gun to her chin on separate occasions.

Arthur Martin Tjaden, 44, is charged with felony rape with resistance overcome by force or violence and misdemeanor false imprisonment in a case for which he’s being held on $100,000 bond. In a separate case involving the same alleged victim, he’s charged with felony aggravated assault with a deadly weapon and an enhancement penalty for use of a deadly weapon while committing a felony.

Tjaden has pleaded not guilty to all charges and will be arraigned Tuesday in Cassia County 5th District Court.

On Friday, Tjaden — his hands and feet shackled — turned to watch the female relative he’s accused of tormenting as she moved to the witness stand.

The woman told Cassia County 5th District Magistrate Judge Rick Bollar that Tjaden had forcibly raped her in mid-January and had held a pistol under her chin and threatened to kill her in February.

She testified Friday that Tjaden would not allow her to get a driver’s license or go anywhere without him and would not allow her to have any friends.

Tjaden’s attorney, Keith Roark, questioned the woman regarding a calendar that she alleges she kept and marked the dates of the alleged incidents on.

“You’re telling me you destroyed that calendar?” Roark asked.

The woman said she threw away the January page after a drink was spilled on it and threw away the rest of the calendar when she moved.

Roark also questioned the woman about the sequence of dates and how soon she told anyone about the alleged incidents.

The woman was allowed to clarify issues through the use of a language interpreter.

New Charges Against Alleged Fair Arsonist

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A Filer man appeared in court Friday morning for charges stemming from a fire that he and several juveniles allegedly set at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds.

Roman Barbier, 19, waived his preliminary hearing, but his charges were amended from arson in the third degree to arson in the second degree. A charge of burglary was also added.

According to Twin Falls County sheriff’s deputies, Barbier and a group of juveniles entered a beef barn being used to store camp trailers at the Filer fairgrounds on the afternoon of March 24, with the intent to set fire to the trailers.

Twin Falls County sheriff’s deputies came to the assistance of Filer police after hearing about a large fire at the fairgrounds over the radio.

By the time they arrived, Filer Fire Department personnel had extinguished the flames, but deputies noted lighter fluid and fire damage on a tire cover two trailers away from a camper that was completely destroyed by fire.

Filer police were able to identify a juvenile male from video surveillance and brought him in for questioning.

The boy told police he and several others, including Barbier, entered the barn to play.

According to deputies, Barbier admitted to starting the fire after spraying WD-40 in the bedroom of a 26-foot trailer.

A 17-year-old male has also been charged with arson in the second degree.

Barbier is scheduled to be arraigned in district court on April 18.

CHEERS AND JEERS

Serving Alcohol to Minors Is Inexcusable

JEERS to the increasing number of people in Twin Falls County willing to serve alcohol to minors. According to numbers from the Twin Falls County Sheriff’s Office, the number of citations for dispensing alcohol to minors this year has already topped 2011 numbers and we aren’t even halfway through the year. At this pace, we’re on track to set a record for contributing to alcohol consumption among our youth. That’s an accomplishment of which no one in this community should be proud.

CHEERS to Dr. Stanley Mogelson, who has been giving his time to help the Twin Falls County Sheriff’s critical response team. The St. Luke’s Magic Valley Medical Center cardiologist told the Times-News, “I thought Twin Falls has been good to me and this was an opportunity to give something back to Twin Falls.”

Mogelson was officially deputized as the sheriff’s tactical medical officer on Jan. 24. Mogelson is the first doctor to volunteer in this capacity. He met another physician in Arizona who worked with the SWAT team in her home county, and it inspired him to approach the Twin Falls County Sheriff’s Office with a proposal to offer his services.

Mogelson’s presence on scene might mean the difference between life and death for victims with traumatic injuries while they wait for paramedics to arrive.

On his own time and with his own money, Mogelson has pursued new skills and additional certifications to be of help to the team.

As one Magicvalley.com online commenter wrote: “Very cool! Good for you, doc, for showing your colleagues that there is time to give back. Very impressive!”

JEERS to the Twin Falls City Council who tried to be inclusive during its recent grant award process, but ended up hurting feelings instead. In the past, the same six organizations have been funded with money from the $100,000 Municipal Outsource Powers Grant. The grant is designed to fund organizations that provide services the city could, but doesn’t.

This year, the city made an effort to advertise the grant and 15 nonprofits responded with applications. But, in the end, the same six organizations from previous years received funding, with the addition of the Twin Falls Senior Citizens Center.

It seems the process got a lot of people’s hopes up unnecessarily. Advertising the grant money in an attempt to be inclusive was commendable, but the end result undercut the message the council hoped to send.

Next year, if the city chooses to publicize this round of grant funding, it must be very clear about the purpose of the funding and the kind of organizations it plans to support.

LETTERS OF THANKS

Jerome Senior Center Proud of Its Community

The Jerome Senior Center hosted a Pool Tournament and Italian Bake-off dinner March 16 to benefit its Senior Nutrition programs. This event was hugely successful with more than 150 members of this community attending.

We would like to extend our gratefulness to the following businesses for their donations: Moss Greenhouses, Garibaldi’s, Dominos, Dairy Queen and Bernie’s Custom Cue and Repair.

The center would also like to thank all the volunteers who donated a lot of their time and own money to cook for this crowd. We would also like the members of the Freewill Baptist Church to know how grateful we are for all that you do for us, and we consider you not only friends but family.

Due to the generosity of everyone involved, we are able to continue to serve the seniors of Jerome. We would like everyone to know we are so proud to be part of this community.

Thank you for your support.

The rapidly rising cost of health care, an aging population and the high prevalence of chronic disease among older adults makes evidence-based programs like Living Well in Idaho particularly important now.

The CSI Physical Education Department, in association with the Idaho Health and Welfare Physical Activity and Nutrition Program, expresses a hearty thank you to the following sponsors of Living Well in Idaho class sites throughout this school year:

Twin Falls Ascension Episcopal Church, Rupert First Christian Praise Church, Buhl Middle School, Jerome Senior Center, Twin Falls First United Methodist Church, Twin Falls Reformed Church, St. Luke’s MSTI and Valley Vista Village Apartments.

Without the generosity of these organizations, we would not have had the accessibility to health promotion programs that engage participants in self-care activities that can encourage behavior change, risk reductions and living better on a daily basis.

Utahns Buy Nearly 1 in 5 Idaho Lottery Tickets

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) • Nearly one-fifth of Idaho's traditional lottery ticket revenues come from sales to Utah residents, who trek across the border from the state that outlaws all forms of gambling.

An analysis of Idaho Lottery Commission financial data from 2011 shows 19.4 percent of lottery ticket sales came from sites on the Utah border, The Salt Lake Tribune reported.

The store owners say the vast majority of those sales come from Utahns.

Alexis Daniels, manager of the Top Stop Chevron in Malad, Idaho, says 99 percent of the store's lottery tickets are sold to Utahns. Top Stop is the top-selling lottery store in Idaho — especially busy amid high-jackpot drawings like the $656 million Mega Millions record set last week.

"I'd just like to say thank you to all the people from Utah who come up to buy tickets," Daniels said.

The data showed Utahns play scratcher and pull-tab games far less often. The stores along the border sold 6 percent of the state's scratch cards and 3 percent of its pull tabs.

For all lottery games combined, border stores accounted for 10.5 percent of Idaho's lottery revenue.

U of I Faculty Backs Plan to Give Domestic Partners Benefits

MOSCOW (AP) • Gay and lesbian partners of employees working for the University of Idaho would receive health insurance benefits under a plan being pushed by the institution's faculty governing board.

The University of Idaho Faculty Senate voted this week to recommend a policy to extend benefits to domestic partners. During a brief discussion, no faculty member at the meeting voiced disagreement with the policy's goal of treating employee spouses and partners equitably, according to a story published by The Moscow-Pullman Daily News (<http://bit.ly/HjtGRs>).

"It's time for the University of Idaho to take leadership on this issue," said Don Crowley, chairman of the political science department.

Given that the state does not recognize gay marriage or domestic partnerships, determining who qualifies for the benefits would be left to the discretion of the university.

The Idaho Constitution defines a heterosexual marriage as the only valid, legal union in the state and has been interpreted as prohibiting public or government entities from providing same-sex benefits to partners.

But Idaho courts have yet to interpret whether the law conforms with the U.S. Constitution.

"If the Idaho Constitution is interpreted as prohibiting us from (providing partner benefits), then the Idaho Constitution probably is in violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment," Crowley said.

The faculty tried to extend benefits to domestic partners in 2010 by providing job-placement assistance to the domestic partners as well as spouses of employees.

But the plan was rejected by President Duane Nellis, who expressed personal support for the policy but said the wording exposed the university to legal risks.

Nellis declined to weigh in Friday on the most recent proposal.

"I am waiting for feedback from our legal department at this time," he said in a statement issued to The Associated Press.

Drilling Fees Pay for New National Forest Lands

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Offshore drilling fees are financing the purchase of $41.6 million worth of new national forest lands in 15 states.

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack said Thursday the 28 different purchases from North Carolina to Oregon will protect clean water and fish and wildlife habitat, absorb private inholdings within wilderness areas, and support outdoor recreation spending that contributes $14.5 billion annually to the economy.

In Idaho, projects include the $3.5 million purchase of an old homestead within the Frank Church River of No Return Wilderness Area, protecting streams where three protected fish species live. Another $1 million will buy habitat for threatened steelhead and bull trout, Canada lynx, elk, and portions of the Nez Perce National Historic Trail in the Clearwater National Forest.

Nationally, the purchases from willing sellers represent about 20,000 acres, which were chosen from 68 applications.

The money comes from the Land and Water Conservation Fund, created in 1964. Congress taps mitigation fees paid by companies drilling for offshore oil and gas to finance the fund year to year. The fund is capped at $900 million a year. Other federal agencies also use it.

Projects are typically proposed by local organizations and evaluated by the U.S. Forest Service. Purchases often are arranged with help from organizations like the Trust for Public Lands and Nature Conservancy.

IDAHO BRIEFS

Otter Signs $35 Million Tax Cut

BOISE • Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter has signed off on a $35 million tax cut for Idaho's corporations and high-income earners.

Otter signed the measure Thursday, essentially marking a victory after making tax relief one of his chief priorities for lawmakers in the 2012 Legislature.

The measure cuts the top individual tax rate from 7.8 percent to 7.4 percent and the corporate rate from 7.6 percent to 7.4 percent.

Idaho's improving economy is projected to generate a $105 million surplus in fiscal year 2013. The extra cash enabled lawmakers on the final day of the session to strike a deal splitting the funds between Otter's tax cut, rainy-day savings and restoring cuts to teacher salaries.

The benefit to a family of four with a gross income of $100,000 is about $71.

Governor Signs Texting Ban

BOISE • Texting drivers caught by police will face a fine come midsummer.

Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter on Thursday signed a statewide ban on texting-while-driving, an infraction that will set violators back $85.

The measure bars motorists from using smartphones and other handheld devices to review, prepare or send written communications.

With the new law, which takes effect July 1, Idaho joins 35 states and Washington D.C. in prohibiting drivers from texting.

Idaho National Guard Troops Poised to Deploy

BOISE • About 60 members of the Idaho National Guard are getting ready to head overseas to take part in combat missions in Afghanistan.

Col. Tim Marsano says about 60 troops from Company A, 1-168 General Support Aviation Battalion will deploy Saturday, with the first stop scheduled for Ft. Hood, Texas. The unit is based at Gowen Field in Boise and includes pilots and support crew assigned to eight Black Hawk helicopters.

The crew will train and prepare in Texas for two months before starting a yearlong assignment in Afghanistan. The crew focuses on rescue missions and transporting personnel and equipment.

Deputy Dies after Accident

BOISE • A southeastern Idaho jail deputy who was hospitalized after a boating accident earlier this week has died.

The Bonneville County Sheriff's Office issued a statement Friday saying 46-year-old Mark Weaver of Hamer succumbed to injuries he sustained during the accident Wednesday at Mud Lake. A witness reported Weaver fell into the lake off a sinking boat at about 1 p.m.

Emergency medical responders found Weaver wearing a life jacket, but face down in the 48-degree water.

Former Hospital Official Charged with Theft

GRANGEVILLE • The former president of a Grangeville hospital foundation has been charged with 10 felony counts of grand theft and computer crimes for allegedly withholding or transferring money from organization into her personal account.

The criminal complaint filed against Laurie Anne Rockwell, 50, does not state how much money is missing from Syringa Hospital Foundation events, thrift store and tuition assistance funds. But the charges allege Rockwell took more than $1,000 from each account between January 2008 and January 2011 and deposited the cash into her personal accounts.

The case was investigated and is being prosecuted by the Idaho Attorney General's office. Rockwell is married to Idaho County Commissioner James Rockwell.

Man Pleads Guilty to Making Bomb Threat

LEWISTON • A northern Idaho man who doused himself in gasoline and threatened to set off bombs in downtown Lewiston faces up to five years in prison.

The Lewiston Tribune reports (<http://bit.ly/13Inbp>) 45-year-old Fredrick D. Purdin pleaded guilty Wednesday to falsely reporting an explosive in a public place, which is a felony, and calling 911 to report a false alarm, a misdemeanor.

Police say Purdin threatened to set off explosives last August in parking lots adjacent to the Lewiston Police Department station and the Nez Perce County Courthouse. A bomb squad was called in from eastern Washington and found materials that could be used to make an explosive, but not an actual device.

Purdin's sentencing is scheduled for May 16.

Spartan Softball Earns a First

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

RUPERT • Minico defeated Canyon Ridge for the first time ever on the softball diamond with a 7-3 Great Basin Conference victory Friday.

“Yesterday we came to practice prepared to work and I really think that showed today,” said Minico pitcher Kaylee Kostka. “Girls were doing their jobs and I’m really pleased with the effort today.”

Canyon Ridge (7-2 overall, 3-1 GBC) left nine base runners stranded as Kostka worked out of a few jams, most notably in the second and seventh innings.

The Riverhawks had two on with no outs in the second, but Kostka escaped with a groundout and a pair of strikeouts.

In the seventh, Canyon Ridge loaded the bases with one out, bringing the potential game-tying run to the plate. But the Riverhawks ended the game with two weak ground balls back to the pitcher.

All but two of Minico’s runs were unearned.

“They came to play and we didn’t,” said Canyon Ridge coach Lyle Hudelson. “Wind, snow, rain – it doesn’t matter, you’ve got to come to play.”

It would take a lot more than Friday’s brisk wind to rattle Kostka, who will enter the Air Force Academy after graduation next month. She struck out five batters and allowed two earned runs on nine hits.

“It’s all a mental game. You can’t go out there and psyche yourself out... You

Best Laid Plans Go to Waste

CSI’s hopes of gaining ground on Salt Lake reduced to rubble after Bruins sweep twinbill.

BY DAVID BASHORE
dbashore@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • That didn’t go according to plan.

The 13th-ranked College of Southern Idaho softball team came into this weekend’s series with No. 3 Salt Lake Community College with aspirations of overhauling the Bruins for first place in the Scenic West Athletic Conference. After Salt Lake’s 13-3, 4-1 sweep Friday, the Golden Eagles enter today hoping only to gain back the ground they just lost.

It was the Bruins’ day from the opening moments, when Malia Campos led off with a triple. Five batters later Tanisha Anderson cracked a two-out, two-strike pitch over the right-field wall for a grand slam. Salt Lake added another slam in the third inning to push the lead to 11-1 and the game was effectively over.

“It was just a bad pitch, where we thought we could get out of the inning, and we left a curveball over the middle of the plate,” said CSI coach Nick Baumert. “A great start can really get you into the flow, and Salt Lake took full advantage of that.”

Jyl Eckstein gave up 11 runs, nine earned, in 2-3 innings of work.

About the only light moment for CSI was when Nikki Brailsford homered in the bottom of the fourth and the team

Boise State Inks Two-Game Series vs. Utah State

BY PATRICK SHELTRA
psheltra@magicvalley.com

BOISE • With no games scheduled against its in-state rival for the foreseeable future, the Boise State football team is taking the next best approach toward non-conference scheduling and playing the nearest Football Bowl Subdivision team in Utah State.

BSU on Friday announced a home-and-home series with the Aggies, with the Broncos traveling to Logan, Utah on Sept. 27, 2014, with Utah State making a return trip to the blue 364 days later.

“We have a lot of respect for coach (Gary) Andersen and what he has accomplished at Utah State the last three seasons,” Boise State head coach Chris Petersen said. “He has the Aggies playing at an extremely high level and this adds another quality opponent to a stretch where we will be playing the most difficult schedules in Bronco football history.”

The Aggies are coming off their best season in a generation, capped by a 24-23 loss to Ohio in the Famous Idaho Potato bowl. USU finished 7-6, but four of its losses were by a combined nine points, including a four-point setback at defending national champion Auburn and near-soul-crushing losses vs. Colorado State and at BYU.

Boise State has won the last 10 games, including the last six when both were members of the Western Athletic Conference. The 2014 matchup joins games against Ole Miss and BYU, while the 2015 slate substitutes Washington for Ole Miss.

In other scheduling news, several reports out of Boise and Gainesville, Fla., confirmed that the Vandals will open the 2014 season at Florida.

Fred Couples doffs his hat after completing the second round at the Masters, becoming the oldest player to ever lead the historic tournament.

Couples’ Effort One For Ages, Aged

ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUGUSTA, Ga. • All signs pointed to this being a Masters for the ages.

This wasn’t what anyone had in mind – 52-year-old Fred Couples, silver hair and still cool as ever, drawing the loudest cheers Friday on his way to becoming the oldest player atop the leaderboard going into the weekend at Augusta National.

“Very shocking, and it was a great day,” Couples said after a 5-under 67, which gave him a share of the lead with Jason Dufner. “There was a lot going on there, and for me to be a part of it, it’s really amazing.”

The buzz going into the Masters was built around all the best players on top of their games, and that element was very much in place. Rory McIlroy charged up the leaderboard. Lee Westwood is right there. So is Sergio Garcia and even Phil Mickelson.

Missing from the mix – another surprise – was club-kicking Tiger Woods. Just two weeks after Woods won Bay Hill by five shots and became an instant favorite for a fifth green jacket, he couldn’t make a putt and then hit only two greens on the back nine. He kept dropping the club out of his hands in disgust, and it reached a boiling point on the par-3 16th when he turned and kicked his 9-iron some 15 yards.

Woods didn’t make a birdie after the third hole and shot 75, his highest score at Augusta since 2004.

“I can do this,” Woods said. “I’ve just got to be patient.”

The eight-shot deficit was not nearly as daunting as the 39 players ahead of him – especially McIlroy, who was only one shot back.

The 22-year-old U.S. Open champion started this tournament with a double bogey and has been trending upward ever since. McIlroy made two early birdies and was on his way. He drove the ball with authority, allowing him to take on the flags. With a tough par save on the 18th, he shot a 69.

“I wouldn’t say I’m in a position to win yet, but we’ll see what happens tomorrow,” McIlroy said. “I feel like I’ve

Jefferson, Harris Lift Jazz Over Warriors

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SALT LAKE CITY • Al Jefferson scored 30 points and Devin Harris added a season-high 28 to lead the Utah Jazz over the Golden State Warriors, 104-98 Friday night to snap a two-game home losing streak.

Gordon Hayward’s late jumper and steal sealed the win for the Jazz (29-27), who are ninth in the Western Conference but only three games out of the No. 5 spot.

David Lee led the Warriors with 26 points while Klay Thompson added 23 on 9-of-16 shooting.

Harris missed Wednesday’s 107-105 loss to Phoenix because of a sprained left ankle. He started strong with 12 first-quarter points and scored the first 10 points of the fourth quarter.

The Warriors committed 17 turnovers.

Utah led 96-86 with 5:15 remaining before the Warriors went on a 7-0 run, with Lee hitting a jumper and Thompson following with a pair, including a 3-pointer to pull Golden State within 96-93 with 2:58 left.

Jefferson’s 11-footer stopped the run, then Paul Millsap followed with a fast-break layup and Hayward hit a long jumper.

Thompson hit another 3, then a long jumper to pull the Warriors within 102-98, but Hayward sank a pair of late free throws for the final margin.

Friday’s win actually hurt the Jazz in their bid to collect on a pair of potential lottery picks in June. They own Golden State’s first-round pick unless the Warriors finish as one of the seven-worst teams.

Golden State (21-33) entered the game with the ninth-worst record.

The Jazz will lose their own first-round pick to Minnesota if they make the playoffs.

Utah won the game with a 38-30 advantage on points in the paint and 25-14 edge on the fast break.

The Jazz trailed by as many as 13 points in the second quarter, but went on a 25-14 run to take a 55-53 lead. A tip-in by Lee at the buzzer sent the teams into the break tied at 55.

The Jazz started the second quarter cold, going scoreless during a 4-minute span, while Golden State hit four 3-pointers to fuel a 14-2 run.

Bruins Nearly Pitcher Perfect in Sweep

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Andrew Freter and Eric Holdren gave the College of Southern Idaho baseball team the kind of pitching performance it's been screaming for all season.

Freter allowed two hits Friday in the opener of the Golden Eagles' doubleheader with Utah State University-College of Eastern Utah, Holdren scattered four in Game 2, and each allowed one run as CSI took two wins, 2-1 and 11-1 at Skip Walker Field.

"Andrew gave up seven hits and six earned (runs) in his last start, so he had some motivation. Three of his last four starts have been really good for us," said CSI coach Boomer Walker. "Eric threw it as well as he has thrown it since he's been here. We haven't had a day where we've had two real consistent pitching performances since we've opened up league, so that was great to see."

Billy-Bob Ward hit a solo homer in the opening win, and that proved to be the difference as the teams traded runs on passed balls later on and Freter outdueled Kort Christoffersen for the win.

The Golden Eagle offense exploded in the nightcap, piling up 10 runs through the first four innings. Chase Harris went 3-for-3 while Tanner Morache, Carter Yagi and Twin Falls High School grad Jayson Welker each added two hits.

Welker ended the game with a bases-loaded hit that got past the left fielder and could have scored more runs, but the first one to cross the plate invoked the 10-run rule.

"We got off to a pretty good start. Their kid was making some good pitches, we just had a couple of really good at-bats and were able to scratch some runs across," Walker said. "As well as Eric was throwing the (defensive) innings were real quick, and it gave the offense some momentum."

The wins moved CSI percentage points ahead of Southern Nevada for third place after the Coyotes lost two games at Salt Lake Community College. CSI and Southern Nevada play in Henderson, Nev., next week.

The series with USU-Eastern concludes today at noon.

Jazz

A 6-0 Utah run, fueled by Jefferson's tip-in and Hayward's three-point play, got the Jazz within seven.

Utah pulled even with 43 seconds left in the half on back-to-back three-point plays by Jamaal Tinsley and Jefferson, and took the lead on a pair of free throws by Hayward, only to see Lee tip in Dorell Wright's airball at the buzzer.

Harris' return proved critical. He had 12 points in the first quarter alone, hitting a 3-pointer and sinking 7 of 8 free throws.

The Warriors kept pace early behind rookie guard Charles Jenkins, who had eight points in the first quarter on 4-of-6 shooting, and Lee, who started 4 of 5.

Friday was the fourth meeting between the teams, with the Jazz having won two of the previous three, including a 99-92 overtime victory March 17 and an 88-87 win Jan. 7.

Utah entered the game having won nine of the last 11 games against the Warriors in Salt Lake City.

Both teams were missing key players, with the Jazz still without Josh Howard and Raja Bell and Golden State minus Andrew Bogut and Stephen Curry.

Millsap started for Utah despite a stomach ailment that kept him in the bathroom all morning. He finished with 12 points in 39 minutes.

have to go out there and do what you can do and then what happens, happens," Kostka said.

Breeann Bingham led Minico at the plate, going 2-for-3 with an RBI. Cheyenne Hegsted and Kostka each drove in a run, while Samantha McGhie had two RBI.

"We had a couple breaks go against us, but we didn't let anything bother us and they battled hard," said

Minico coach David Joyce.

Minico, which mustered only six wins all last season, is 4-3 (2-0 GBC) and playing with increasing confidence.

"We don't want to get too ahead of ourselves," Kostka said. "We play each inning, each ball, just one at a time, and I think that's what's really making a difference."

assembled along the third-base line and "Tebowed" as she crossed home plate. But at that point the score was 13-3, and Salt Lake still ended the game via the mercy rule an inning later.

In Game 2, CSI had the bases loaded with nobody out in the bottom of the fourth and the score tied at 1. But the next three batters couldn't scratch a run home and when the Bruins took the lead in the top of the fifth, CSI sensed its chance had come and gone.

Nellie Makings was tagged with the hard-luck loss, scattering five hits and allowing just two earned runs. But CSI managed seven hits and couldn't do any more scoring than Alyana Watson's RBI groundout in the third.

"You get runners on first and third and then (catcher Averie Schroeder) works a walk and all you're hoping for is a deep fly ball and we go pop-up, strikeout, strikeout. We just didn't do enough things well," Baumert said. "It's a good opportunity for us to bounce back and get after a Top 5 team, and we see what it's going to take to compete at that kind of level."

The two teams resume their four-game series today at noon.

Notes: Game 2 was delayed for about half an hour after Salt Lake's Trina Gomez was injured during a collision with CSI shortstop Lea Hopson while Gomez tried to take second base. Gomez, who slid headfirst into Hopson's leg, appeared to suffer a neck injury and was taken off the field on a backboard into a waiting ambulance as a precaution. She did have movement in her extremities.

7 Injured, over 2 Dozen Missing after Jet Crash

BY ZINIE CHEN SAMPSON
Associated Press

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. • A fighter jet that malfunctioned just after takeoff hurtled into a Virginia Beach apartment complex on Friday in a spectacular crash that sent flames and black smoke billowing from the rubble.

The two pilots managed to eject just before impact, suffering minor injuries along with five others on the ground. Several residents described hearing a loud explosion and looking out their windows to see the red and orange blaze. In the confusion that followed, two men helped one of the bloodied pilots from the two-seat F-18 Hornet move to safety.

“Oh, my God, I heard three really loud explosions, then the black smoke went up high in the sky,” said 71-year-old Felissa Ezell, who lives in a townhouse near the crash site.

By evening, emergency crews were searching through the charred remains of the complex, where some 40 apartment units were damaged or destroyed. No fatalities had been reported.

Seven people, including the pilots from nearby Naval Air Station Oceana, were taken to a hospital. All except one of the pilots were released by late afternoon.

Virginia Beach Fire Department Capt. Tim Riley said more than two dozen residents remained unaccounted for, although all but the six most damaged apartments had been searched.

“What I’m praying for, what I’m thinking about now is that we don’t find any more victims,” Virginia Beach Mayor Will Sessoms told reporters.

The plane had dumped loads of fuel before crashing, though it wasn’t clear if that was because of a malfunction or an intentional maneuver by the pilots, said Capt. Mark Weisgerber with U.S. Fleet Forces Command. The jet went down less than 10 miles from Oceana.

National PTA Seeks to Reverse Drop in MembershipBY DAVID CRARY
Associated Press

When Otha Thornton, president-elect of the National PTA, signed up to help lead the PTA at Maryland’s Meade Senior High School in 2005, the chapter had about 25 members. Within two years, membership soared to 400 as the school community mobilized to boost morale and academic performance. Now he’s trying to rekindle that spirit on a larger scale as the PTA strives to reverse a steady decrease in its national membership.

“I tell parents: ‘Other people are making choices for you and your children. We need you at the table,’” said Thornton, who will become the National PTA’s first male African-American leader next year.

By any measure, the PTA is one of the most venerable and iconic of America’s volunteer-based nonprofits. It was founded in 1897 as the National Congress of Mothers and at its peak in the 1960s claimed about 12 million members.

Membership plummeted in the late 60s and 1970s, in part because of the racial rifts caused by school desegregation, then stabilized. But it has dropped steadily over the past 10 years from about 6 million to under 5 million.

Demography is part of the reason: Compared to the PTA’s heyday, there are many more single parents and working mothers now who feel they can’t spare extra time for engagement at their children’s schools.

In this Thursday photo, Gary Parkes, president of the PTA at Carmel Elementary School stands in an empty classroom in Woodstock, Ga. Parkes said he and many other parents in the local organization would like to sever ties with the National PTA and become an independent parent-teacher organization, but had been told by the school district that this would not be allowed.

But the PTA’s shrinkage can’t be explained only by such factors, given that parents are active at tens of thousands of schools in independent parent-teacher organizations not affiliated with the PTA. Factors driving this trend include frustration with having to pay state and national PTA dues, and disenchantment with the PTA’s role as a vocal advocate on such issues as charter schools, juvenile justice and home-schooling.

“We’re still strong, but it is a concern,” the current national president, Betsy Landers, said of the membership decline. “We’ve chosen to try to attack it in several different ways.”

One initiative involves expanded use of social media. Members are being kept up-to-date via podcasts on National PTA Radio, some meetings and training sessions are being conducted through Skype, and members with expertise as bloggers or tweeters are being recruited as “social media ambassadors” to enhance the PTA’s online presence.

Landers, of Germantown, Tenn., hopes these tactics will help cut costs while also enticing more parents to join.

“We’re really trying to give our members the information they seek in a way they prefer,” she said.

Syrian
Refugees Flee
Violence, Talk of Mass GravesBY ANDREA GLIOTI AND ELIZABETH A. KENNEDY
Associated Press

REYHANLI, Turkey • After days of relentless shelling and sniper attacks, thousands of Syrian refugees streamed across the border into Turkey with horrific accounts Friday of mass graves, massacres and burned-out homes.

The latest reports of escalating violence fueled accusations that President Bashar Assad is rushing to stamp out as much of the year-old uprising as he can before a U.N.-brokered cease-fire next week.

The trigger for the new waves of refugees was an offensive in Idlib province, which borders Turkey and has become increasingly rebellious against the Assad regime.

Activists reported about 100 dead in the villages of Taftanaz and Killi in recent days.

A photograph provided to The Associated Press by a Syrian activist showed at least a dozen corpses wrapped in blankets in what appeared to be a mass grave in Taftanaz. The AP could not verify the authenticity of the photograph, but witnesses also described a mass grave.

“They destroyed the whole village,” a refugee who asked to be identified by only one name, Anas, told the AP on Friday after fleeing Killi. “If he has to kill, Bashar would even kill 1 million people. He doesn’t care.”

Hikmet Saban, another Syrian refugee who reached Turkey, described the devastation in Taftanaz, located several miles outside the city of Idlib.

“Helicopters and tanks are bombing continuously,” he told Turkey’s state-run Anadolu agency. “Taftanaz has been burnt to the ground for three days.” Activists posted video they said showed a helicopter gunship firing a missile at Taftanaz and a mosque hit by shelling.

The escalating violence has dimmed hopes that the fighting, which the U.N. says has killed more than 9,000 people, will end anytime soon. The country appears to be spiraling toward civil war — a fearsome development that could bring a regional conflagration.

A vital geopolitical linchpin, Syria borders five other nations and has close ties to Iran and powerful militant groups, such as Lebanon’s Hezbollah.

Assad last week accepted a cease-fire deadline brokered by international envoy Kofi Annan, which calls for his forces to pull out of towns and cities by Tuesday and for everyone to lay down their arms by 6 a.m. local time Thursday.

Western leaders have cast doubt on Assad’s intentions, suggesting he is playing for time and is not serious about the plan, which aims to pave the way for talks between the regime and the opposition on a political solution.

Syria denies that the revolt is a popular uprising at all, saying instead that it is facing a foreign conspiracy by armed gangs and terrorists who want to destroy the country.

The revolt began in March 2011 with mostly peaceful protests, but the violent government crackdown has led many to take up weapons. A fighting force called the Free Syrian Army, made up largely of army defectors, is determined to bring down the regime by force of arms.

On Friday, Syria’s state-run news agency, SANA, appeared to acknowledge the recent spike in violence, but again blamed terrorism.

Md. High Court Hears
Lesbian Divorce CaseBY JESSICA GRESKO
Associated Press

ANNAPOLIS, Md. • Maryland routinely grants divorces for couples who married in other states, and divorces for same-sex couples should be no different, lawyers for a lesbian couple told the state’s highest court Friday.

The case involves two women who were married in California and denied a divorce in 2010 by a Maryland judge who said their marriage was not valid in the state.

Maryland does not currently allow same-sex weddings, but lawyers for the women told the seven-member court that it would be unprecedented for the state not to recognize gay marriages performed elsewhere.

“If you’re validly married somewhere else, the rule in Maryland is your marriage is going to be respected in Maryland, and that’s what we’re asking the court to do here,” said Shannon Minter, legal director for the National Center for Lesbian Rights in San Francisco.

Judges in Maryland have been inconsistent about granting divorces for gay couples. Lawyers said judges have granted divorces for about half a dozen gay couples, but their clients and at least two other couples were denied. As a result, some couples are waiting for a ruling from Maryland’s high court before filing for divorce, the lawyers said.

The Court of Appeals’ ultimate decision may have limited effect because same-sex weddings, and by extension divorces, are set to start in the state in January. Opponents of the law passed this year are seeking to overturn it in a potential voter referendum. The Maryland Marriage Alliance says it has collected 20,000 of the nearly 56,000 signatures needed to get the issue on the ballot.

The high court’s judges asked about that potential referendum and its effect on the current case. Lawyers said the outcome of any referendum was not relevant. They said it will only address whether voters want to allow same-sex marriages in Maryland, not whether the state should recognize same-sex unions performed elsewhere. Even if voters decide not to allow same-sex marriages, state courts should grant divorces for same-sex couples, the lawyers said. They cited Wyoming and New Mexico as states with similar practices.

Pope Marks Good Friday

BY FRANCES D’EMILIO
Associated Press

ROME • Pope Benedict XVI encouraged those threatened by unemployment and other economic woes to draw courage and strength from the suffering of the crucified Jesus Christ as the pontiff presided over a Good Friday candlelit Way of the Cross procession at the ancient Colosseum.

Benedict, who turns 85 on April 16, didn’t carry the cross during the hour-long procession itself. Instead, he listened intently to meditations on suffering that he asked an elderly Italian couple to compose for the traditional ceremony. Then, as the final reflection was read aloud, the pontiff was handed the slender, lightweight wooden cross, which he held steadily for a few minutes.

Thousands of tourists, pilgrims and Romans jammed the boulevard outside the Colosseum and the ancient Roman Forum to pray with him on a mild, cloudy night and listen to hymns.

Faithful clutched candles and prayer books. A few held palms or olive branches they had saved from Palm Sunday, which opened solemn Holy Week ceremonies in the Catholic church.

“The experience of suffering and of the cross touches all mankind. It touches the family, too,” the pope said in a brief homily at the end of the procession, which he observed from an elevated landing.

Pope Benedict XVI, right, receives the cross as he presides over the Via Crucis (Way of the Cross) procession on Good Friday in Rome, Friday.

Dressed in red robes to symbolize the blood shed by Jesus, the pope added that “these days, too, the situation of many families is made worse by the threat of unemployment and other negative effects of the economic crisis,” such as worry about the future of young people.

But Benedict advised families to “look to Christ’s cross. There we can find the courage and strength to press on.”

Unitarians to Discuss Resurrection's Meaning

TWIN FALLS • On Easter Sunday, in the churches all around us, our Christian brothers and sisters are celebrating the resurrection of their Savior, an event that they believe happened more than 2,000 years ago. What are we Unitarian Universalists to do, we who take great pride in our right to believe or not believe, we who are skeptics, doubters or unashamed non-believers?

The early Christians, who were the source of many of the religious traditions of Easter, borrowed liberally from the Pagan religions that were all around them. Many religions that were practiced long before Christianity had at its center a revered figure of a dead and resurrected god(ess).

There must be some reason that people, century after century, return again to this story of resurrection. On this Easter, we will strive together to move past the "words," with all of their baggage and discover what lessons and secrets the empty tomb and the risen Jesus might hold for us as Unitarian Universalists.

The Magic Valley Unitarian Universalist Fellowship will meet at 10:30 a.m. Sunday at the Twin Falls Senior Center, 530 Shoshone St. W. in Twin Falls.

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

Stock Market Closed on Friday

U.S. Borrowing Up but Consumers Shy Away from Plastic

BY DEREK KRAVITZ
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Americans took out more loans to buy cars and attend school in February but used their credit cards less frequently for the second straight month.

The Federal Reserve said Friday that consumers increased borrowing by $8.7 billion, the sixth straight monthly increase.

The jump in borrowing was driven by $11 billion increase in the category that mostly measures demand for auto and student loans. Borrowing on credit cards fell by $2 billion after a $3 billion decline in January.

Total consumer borrowing rose to seasonally adjusted $2.52 trillion. That's nearly at pre-recession levels and up from a post-recession low point of $2.39 trillion reached in September 2010. Borrowing had tumbled for more than two years during and immediately after the recession.

Consumer borrowing rose by $18.6 billion in January, following similar gains in December and November. The gains for those three months were the largest in a decade.

A rise in borrowing could suggest that consumers are feeling more confident about the economy. However, few are comfortable enough to step up credit card use. Consumers carried $799 billion in credit card debt in February — 15 percent less than they held in December 2007, the first month of the Great Recession. And student loan debt surpassed the $1 trillion mark for the first time at the end of last year.

Steven Wood, chief economist at Insight Economics, said February's borrowing increase was strong. But he noted that it was the smallest increase since October.

"Consumers still appear to be reluctant to use their credit cards," Wood said in a note to clients.

Ketchum Officials See Steady Rise in 'Tourist Tax' Receipts

KETCHUM (AP) • Officials in Ketchum say their local option sales tax receipts have risen steadily over the past six months.

March totals for the so-called "tourist tax" show a 4.5 percent increase compared to March 2011. Officials see the hike as a good sign for an economy so closely tied to the ski and recreation industry.

The Idaho Mountain Express reports that LOT receipts are up 4.7 percent in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1 compared to a year ago.

The city collects a 2 percent sales tax on lodging and liquor sold by the glass, and 1 percent on retail sales.

Despite the positive news, figures show slower growth in lodging receipts. Room receipts increased by just 1 percent in March and are down 15 percent since October.

Deadline Approaching for Income Tax Returns

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Idahoans have until April 17 to file their 2011 individual income tax returns, while property taxes are due the week before, according to an Idaho State Tax Commission release.

Both state and federal tax returns are due on April 17 this year, as the normal April 15 deadline falls on Sunday and April 16 is the Emancipation Day holiday, observed in Washington, D.C.

Homeowners who qualify for the "Circuit Breaker" Idaho Property Tax Reduction or Idaho Property Tax Deferral programs must submit applications by April 16.

Proposed bonuses for 300 Kodak employees • Eastman Kodak Co. is seeking permission to pay about 300 executives and other employees a total of $13.5 million in bonuses to persuade them to stay with the company as it reorganizes under bankruptcy protection. The Rochester, N.Y.,-based photography company said the targeted employees have knowledge and skills critical to help the business emerge from Chapter 11 and would be difficult to replace if they left to pursue other offers. They include 119 middle managers who would share $8.5 million of the sum.

U.S. Job Market Takes Spring Break after Hiring Binge

Economists are still encouraged by the hiring trend: Each month from January through March has generated an average of 212,000 jobs.

BY PAUL WISEMAN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • The U.S. job market took a breather in March after its best hiring stretch since the Great Recession.

Employers added 120,000 jobs last month — half the December-February pace and well short of the 210,000 economists were expecting. The unemployment rate fell from 8.3 percent in February to 8.2 percent, the lowest since January 2009, but that was largely because many Americans stopped looking for work.

Still, few economists expect hiring to fizzle in spring and summer, as it did the past two years. And they blamed seasonal factors for much of Friday's disappointing report from the Labor Department.

"We don't think this is the start of another spring dip in labor market conditions," said Paul Ashworth, chief U.S. economist with Capital Economics.

The report was also closely watched in political circles. If employers retreat on hiring, consumers could lose confidence in the economy and potentially dim President Barack Obama's re-election hopes.

Ashworth and other economists cited the weather for the latest jobs report. A warm January and February allowed construction companies and other businesses that work outdoors to hire workers a few weeks earlier than usual, effectively stealing jobs from March. It helps explain a 7,000 drop in construction jobs.

Alan Amdahl, who has run his own construction company in Sioux Falls, S.D., for three decades, said a mild winter helped contribute to a flurry of new remodeling jobs. He started hiring in January.

"Our winter didn't really exist," he said. "It's just incredible. People didn't hibernate."

Economists also say the numbers can bounce around from month to month. Consistently creating 200,000 jobs a month is tough. The economy hasn't put together four straight months of 200,000 or more new jobs since early 2000.

Economists are still encouraged by the recent hiring trend: Each month from January through March has generated an average of 212,000 jobs.

Anthony Chan, chief economist at JP Morgan Wealth Management, noted strong growth among businesses that are especially sensitive to the economy's health. Hotels and restaurants hired 39,000 workers. Manufacturers added 37,000.

The factory hiring is especially welcome. Expanding factories create more jobs at the mines that produce raw materials, in warehouses and at trucking companies.

Government jobs, which declined by an average of 22,000 a month last year, fell just 1,000 in March. An improving economy is generating tax revenue and easing budget problems at city halls and statehouses across the country.

Current TV Countersues Keith Olbermann, Seeks Damages

BY ANTHONY MCCARTNEY
Associated Press

LOS ANGELES • Current TV offered its rebuttal to a scathing lawsuit filed by Keith Olbermann by filing a countersuit Friday detailing alleged bad behavior by its former talk show host and seeking a judge's ruling that he is not entitled to any more money from the network.

The network's filing accuses Olbermann of breaching his contract by disclosing terms of the lucrative deal, refusing to cooperate in promoting the show and taking days off without permission.

The countersuit comes one day after Olbermann sued his former employer, claiming it violated his agreement, engaged in shoddy production values and owed him more than $50 million.

"Current seeks a determination that it is no longer obligated to pay a dime to Mr. Olbermann who, having already been paid handsomely for showing up sporadically and utterly failing to keep his end of the bargain, now seeks to be paid tens of millions more for not working at all," the filing states.

The network and Olbermann have been at odds for months, and the dispute has escalated in the days since the former "Countdown" host was fired last week.

Olbermann's attorney Patricia Glaser said of Current's countersuit: "No merit. No defense. And in our view, no problem."

Current's suit claims Olbermann has damaged the network and will continue to do so. It seeks unspecified damages.

The networks' filing paints Olbermann as a petulant figure after he was hired to be Current's signature host, rejecting seven limousine companies, refusing to cooperate in promotional discussions and taking vacations with little notice.

The complaint claims Olbermann wrote to Current co-founder Joel Hyatt to complain about a problem with a guest, "Give me a name so I know which of them to kill with my bare hands," and threw a glass mug on the set, which prompted a complaint from the set's landlord.

After two days of court filings, it was clear neither side was pulling punches in its description of the other.

Olbermann's lawsuit reportedly attacked the network and described Hyatt and co-founder Al Gore as "dilettantes portraying entertainment industry executives."

U.S. Execs at Bailed-out Firms Get 10% Pay Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) • Top executives at three companies bailed out by U.S. taxpayers during the 2008 financial crisis were ordered to take pay cuts by the federal government.

The Treasury Department says nearly 70 executives at American International Group Inc., Ally Financial Inc. and General Motors Co. had their annual compensation reduced by 10 percent. The CEOs of each company had their pay frozen at 2011 levels.

All three companies have yet to repay what they received from the $700 billion bailout and therefore are subject to pay cuts.

AIG still owes taxpayers around $50 billion. General Motors owes about $25 billion. Ally Financial owes about $12 billion.

CAIRO • A former strongman of ousted President Hosni Mubarak's regime announced his presidential candidacy Friday, shaking up an already heated race that is emerging as a contest between two long-time rivals — former regime officials and Islamists who have surged in influence.

Omar Suleiman, one of the most powerful figures of Mubarak's regime, had said earlier this week that he would not run. But he said he changed his mind after hundreds of people rallied in Cairo to support a bid.

The announcement drew outrage from youth activists who spearheaded the popular uprising that toppled Mubarak last year and have since been disappointed by the continued influence of members of his ex-regime. Liberals and revolutionaries have been largely squeezed out of the presidential race. Some have vowed to boycott the May 23-24 balloting altogether.

"I find it incomprehensible that one of the top figures of the old regime, who should be on trial right now as a criminal, is actually considering running for president," said Mohammad Radwan, who took part in last year's mass protests.

The 75-year-old former general must get 30,000 signatures by Sunday's official filing deadline or the backing of at least 30 parliamentarians in order to run. Suleiman could be the ruling generals' preferred candidate, someone who would try to keep the old political system intact and protect the privileges of the military.

Suleiman, who appeared on television on Feb. 11, 2011, to announce that Mubarak would step down and hand power to the country's military leaders, served as Egypt's intelligence chief for 18 years at a time when the regime was accused of carrying out torture and human rights abuses against dissenters. He also was longtime a confidant of Mubarak.

That makes him suspect in the eyes of many Egyptians, who had hoped to stamp out the old regime altogether and usher in a transition to democracy.

A win for Suleiman would largely keep control of Egypt in the hands of the military. Egypt's last four presidents have all been military men.

His decision also was the latest surprise in the first presidential race since Mubarak was ousted after nearly 30 years in power.

Last week, the Muslim Brotherhood, Egypt's most organized Islamist movement, named its chief strategist and financier Khairat el-Shater as a candidate, reversing an earlier pledge not to participate in the election. The long-outlawed Brotherhood already controls about half of the seats in parliament and would completely dominate the political arena if el-Shater wins.

The Brotherhood's Freedom and Justice Party posted Suleiman's announcement on its official Facebook page, with five photos of Suleiman smiling and shaking hands with top Israeli officials to the backdrop of the Israeli flag.

"This is a bullet to the Egyptian revolution," Brotherhood party spokesman Ahmed Khairy said. "His candidacy means that the revolution is not moving down its natural path and it means that the Egyptian citizen will pay the price!"

ly after the uprising began, is well known and respected by U.S. officials and has traveled to Washington many times. He was the point person on both the U.S. relationship and the Israel-Egyptian relationship under Mubarak, once a close U.S. ally.

Suleiman's entry in the race is likely to be welcomed by Egyptians who fear their country might be slipping into chaos after a turbulent year of deadly protests against the military's continued rule that have battered the economy. His insider knowledge of the political system could make him one of the front-runners in the crowded field.

Jobs Report Leaves Obama, Romney Campaigns Wary

WASHINGTON (AP) • The nation's steady-but-modest job growth presents political challenges for both of November's all-but-certain presidential rivals.

Republican Mitt Romney needs an ailing economy to fully exploit his image as a "Mr. Fix-It" who can restore the nation's financial health, as he turned around the troubled 2002 Winter Olympics. President Barack Obama needs job-creation momentum to persuade voters that things are moving in the right direction, even if millions of people remain unemployed.

Friday's neither-hot-nor-cold jobs report leaves both campaigns unsure of whether they can sell their narratives. Employers added 120,000 jobs last month, about half the December-February pace and well short of the 210,000 economists were expecting. Still, the unemployment rate declined from 8.3 percent in February to 8.2 percent, the lowest since about the time Obama took office.

DEAR ABBY: I am a teenager who has recently discovered that my dad has been having sexually explicit conversations with women online for at least 10 years. He is usually withdrawn from the rest of the family, and I strongly suspect it's because he cares more about his online fantasies than he does about his life with my brothers, my mother and me.

I don't know what to do. I can no longer look him in the eye. I don't respect him; I pity him. I'm afraid to tell anyone in my family because of the drama it will cause, and don't want to tell him because I know it will change our relationship. Still, I don't think I can keep this to myself.

I have considered seeing a therapist, but I don't know how I can do that without giving my parents an explanation about why I'm going. What do you think I should do?

- CONFLICTED
TEEN IN NEW YORK

DEAR CONFLICTED: You have been exposed to a large dose of information you shouldn't have, and for that you have my sympathy.

If you feel you need to discuss this with a therapist, then you definitely should.

As I see it, you have several options. The first would be to talk to a counselor at school and ask if counseling is available that way. If it isn't, then tell your father you need it, and why. And if he refuses, tell your mother everything.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 23-year-old college junior, double-majoring in English and education. Although I am pretty advanced in my degree field, I'm having second thoughts about my decision. Every day it seems as if I invest all my time and energy into something I don't even want to be a part of.

I have a very adventurous spirit. I want to constantly be doing, going and discovering. Part of me says I'm an adult and I should ignore the explorer part of me. But it's hard to say that change isn't possible because we're talking the rest of my life. How can I connect passion with occupation - especially at this stage of the game?

- GYPSY SOUL

DEAR GYPSY SOUL: By thinking out of the box. There are various options in the field of education, and one of them is teaching English in foreign countries. Start looking for opportunities in that area, and you may be able to also fulfill your urge for adventure. Another option that comes to mind would be joining the Peace Corps or Teach for America. Please consider what I am suggesting and do some research on your own.

DEAR ABBY: Is it ever proper to wear your napkin tucked into your shirt collar when dining out, instead of placing it on your lap? Traditionally, a napkin is placed on the lap to prevent soiling of the clothing, I would guess. But some plus-sized folks and women with large bustlines don't usually have food reach their laps, just their shirts. So what do you think?

- JUST WONDERING
IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR JUST WONDERING: Your napkin belongs in your lap when dining out, regardless of what size you are. According to Emily Post, "an exception can be made for the elderly or infirm." So if you are neither of those, consider carrying a stain remover "pen" with you in case there is a slip twixt the fork and the lip.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

"He that wrestles with us strengthens our nerve and sharpens our skill. Our antagonist is our helper."

— Edmund Burke

In today's six clubs, South shook his head reflectively as dummy came down, thinking that he should have been in the grand slam. A few seconds later he was shaken awake when he cashed the club king and realized he had an inevitable trump loser.

After winning the opening lead with his diamond ace, he cashed the heart ace and played a club to the king. The heart king and queen followed, allowing declarer to throw both his losing diamonds away. After the spade ace and king both stood up, South advanced the spade eight.

West did the best he could when he discarded a diamond, and declarer ruffed low in dummy. Now came the club queen, and after nine tricks (three spades, three hearts, one diamond and two clubs), a four-card ending had been reached, with the lead in dummy. North had four losing red cards, declarer held the A-J-9 of clubs and the spade queen, and West had three clubs to the 10 and a diamond.

Now declarer led a heart from dummy and ruffed high. To avoid being endplayed in trumps at the next trick, West undertruffed, a defense that would have been good enough had East held the master spade. (South would have led a spade to East, and West would have scored his club 10.) But when declarer led his spade queen, West could score only one of the last three tricks whatever he did.

ANSWER: The simple route here is to bid Stayman, planning to bid two hearts over a response of two diamonds. This would be the equivalent of Crawling Stayman over a no-trump opening bid to suggest a weak hand with both majors. If partner shows a major, I'd guess to jump to game.

In 1969, the Supreme Court, in Stanley v. Georgia, unanimously struck down laws prohibiting private possession of obscene material.
In 1972, mobster Joe Gallo was shot to death by rival gangsters during his 43rd birthday celebration at a New York City restaurant.

In 1978, President Jimmy Carter announced he was deferring development of the neutron bomb, a high-radiation weapon.

In 1983, space shuttle astronauts Story Musgrave and Don Peterson took the first U.S. space walk in almost a decade as they worked in the open cargo bay of Challenger for nearly four hours.

Ten years ago: Israeli troops fought fierce battles with Palestinians in the West Bank, encountering stiff resistance in the Jenin refugee camp and in Nablus. Actor John Agar died in Burbank, Calif., at age 81.

Five years ago: A Russian rocket carrying American billionaire Charles Simonyi roared into the night skies over Kazakhstan, sending its three occupants on a trip to the international space station. "B.C." comic strip creator Johnny Hart died in Nineveh, N.Y., at age 76. Actor Barry Nelson died in Bucks County, Pa., at age 89.

One year ago: A man shot and killed 12 children at the Tasso da Silveira public school in Rio de Janeiro; the gunman, a onetime student at the school, shot himself after being cornered by police. A powerful aftershock struck Japan near the same area that had been devastated by a mighty earthquake and tsunami nearly a month earlier; no giant wave or loss of life was reported.

IF APRIL 7 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Group dynamics can figure prominently in your daily activities for the next few weeks. Since you are also more ambitious than usual, blend your desire for social activities with something business related. Join a club or organization that learns about investing or concentrates on social issues close to your heart. You may be inspired to reach higher in the material world, but must study and work diligently to earn whatever you win. Pay your bills on time, get regular health checkups and take no chances between now and August. Write down your ideas; in November you might be able to put them into motion under auspicious circumstances.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): When you compete for someone's attention, you send a message that may be misinterpreted. You may need to re-evaluate your intentions because you could be competing for the sake of winning, not for love.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): The new ring leaves a green band on your finger. You need to keep a close guard on your wallet today because you might make a mistake and purchase what looks good, but isn't quite as advertised.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Speak up and let others know just what it is that you want. You won't need to embellish the truth to get your point across, because others find you mesmerizing. Someone hangs on your every word.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Get the lowdown before you find yourself at a low point. You could be misled by false assumptions and embarrassment. For instance, you can't wear shorts to a formal dinner. Check the details in advance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Slow down the pace. During the holiday weekend, the stars may bring you in closer contact with old friends or the elderly. You may be forced to adjust your attitude to meet the expectations of others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Try something completely unique and different. Just be discreet about spending because it will be tempting to spend more and get less. Don't make any irrevocable commitments under these stars.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Poker players often say that you shouldn't bluff with an empty hand. At family gatherings keep confidential information to yourself. Don't be fooled by flattery or inaccurate statements from others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Someone is apt to perform a verbal sleight of hand. Not everything you hear is accurate. This is not the time to co-sign a loan for a friend or to take a new romance home to meet the family.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Fantasies can be fantastic until they become a reality. A new romance could not live up to your expectations. Although your social life is booming you might not receive complete satisfaction.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): True love needs some fantasy. If someone says that he or she wants to be "just friends," however, then go with the flow. It is more important to be in complete harmony than to get your way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Seeing is believing. Take the latest news and views heard through the grapevine with a grain of salt. Someone might be simply beating around the bush using the wrong end of the stick.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You'd rather fight than switch. Express physical dominance within acceptable social situations. You could get a gang of friends together for a night at the bowling alley or a pickup basketball game.
