McFall, Chatterton Seek GOP Nod for Jerome County Sheriff

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

JEROME • Jerome County voters must choose between two men who believe they can solve the county's law-enforcement woes as the Republican nominee for sheriff.

Dan Chatterton is challenging incumbent Jerome County Sheriff Doug McFall for the Republican nomination during the May 15 primary election. The winner will face independent candidate Ken Rushing, a Jerome police officer, in the November general election.

The county sheriff's position is a four-year elected term with an annual salary of $52,584.

McFall says he's done a fine job as sheriff, but admits there's room for improvement.

"The day you think you know all the answers is the day you stop having an open mind," he said.

Since taking office four years ago, McFall said he's improved the working relationship between the Jerome Police Department and his office. He's deputized city officers to give them jurisdiction throughout the county and sent his deputies to trainings on finding drugs and wanted criminals during regular traffic stops.

McFall said the county's aging jail is in dire straits. County voters will be asked during the May primary to provide up to $10.7 million in bond issue funding to build a new, 120-bed county jail in southern Jerome.

The current county jail holds about 30 inmates, while the county pays to house a daily overflow of about 20 to 50 inmates elsewhere.

Official: Kohl's Coming to Twin Falls

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI

TWIN FALLS • A Kohl's department store is slotted to be one of the tenants of a planned shopping center along the south rim of the Snake River Canyon, Twin Falls Community Development Director Mitch Humble said Thursday.

This is the first confirmed tenant for the recently approved center, planned for an empty 25-acre strip behind Golden Corral, between Blue Lakes Boulevard and Fillmore Street in north Twin Falls.

The project was recently approved by the Twin Falls City Planning and Zoning Commission. However, after facing concerns from local residents, Twin Falls City Council members plan to discuss a possible review of the P&Z's decision during its Monday meeting.

Canyon Park Development LLC declined to confirm or deny Thursday that Kohl's was one of the planned development's tenants.

However, the developers are in the process of talking to six possible tenants for the center, said Tina Luper, project administrator for Neilsen & Co., which manages the Canyon Park project.

A Kohl's spokeswoman said no announcement has been made yet about a new store in Twin Falls.

"At any given time, Kohl's is reviewing sites in communities nationwide," said spokeswoman Maggie Lund. "We do not comment on real estate speculation."

Based in Menomonee Falls, Wis., Kohl's operates 1,134 stores in 49 states, five of which are in Idaho.

Wells Takes Plea Agreement in Voyeurism Case

The former Castleford teacher will face jail time, five years of probation for filming female students showering in Moscow.

MOSCOW-PULLMAN
DAILY NEWS

MOSCOW • Former Castleford High School teacher Roger Wells accepted a plea agreement Wednesday, admitting to secretly videotaping high school girls as they showered in his Moscow hotel room.

Wells, 34, was charged in December with video voyeurism and destruction, alteration or concealment of evidence — both felonies — following an investigation started when the boyfriend of a Castleford High student gave Twin Falls police a video camera he claimed Wells used to record the girl showering.

Wells was in Moscow while Castleford students attended a June 7-10, 2011, FFA convention.

Castleford Superintendent Andy Wiseman said Wells resigned from his teaching job three days after the conference, citing rumors about him at the school. He was employed by the district for 10 years.

Under the plea agreement,

Wells will plead guilty to video voyeurism, while the charge for destroying evidence will be dropped. He will face Latah County jail time to be decided during sentencing, will be placed on five years of probation and must complete sex-offender treatment.

He is scheduled for sentencing June 25.

According to a probable cause affidavit, Wells, a former agriculture teacher and junior varsity girls basketball coach at Castleford High, allowed several girls to use his hotel bathroom's shower because they claimed the University of Idaho facilities weren't clean enough.

Smith Takes Top Prize at Scholarship Finals

TWIN FALLS • Whitney Smith's musical theater stole the show and a $5,000 scholarship Thursday night at this year's Danny Marona Performing Arts Scholarship Finals.

Singer and piano player Andrew Bortz, of Twin Falls, placed second and won $2,500, while Sammie Howard, of Twin Falls, also worked a musical theater performance into a third-place finish and a $1,500 scholarship.

dozen students who sought scholarship funds at the annual competition. Five judges critiqued the actors, comics, dancers, musicians and singers, using a 10-point system that factored in overall presentation, execution and stage appearance.

Smith, of Twin Falls, performed "The Girl in 14-G." Speaking earlier this month, she said she "wanted to do something fun this year; not just something that impressed the judges, but something the audience would enjoy."

me saying I want this palace," he said. "It's important for officer safety to have patrol officers and administrative officers all in the same building."

Responding to Chatterton's criticism that his department should use existing office space for its administrative offices instead of building them into the new jail, McFall said the new building would allow both jail deputies and administrative staff like himself to respond to jail disturbances.

"If we're far away, someone could be dead," he said.

As for improvements outside the jail, McFall said he'd like to spend more time on Jerome County's east end and increase his employees' salaries to match what's paid in similar counties. McFall said he spends the county's taxpayer money like it's coming out of his own bank account. He waits for sales, clips coupons and looks for cheaper options online.

"If that's not like running a business, I don't know what is," he said of Chatterton's criticism of his department's spending.

Chatterton, a 27-year law enforcement veteran who last served in 2007 as a Jerome Police Department sergeant, said he'll expand the things that are working and change those that aren't.

One of Chatterton's main contentions regards the number of inmates in the county jail and the idea that the county needs a new lockup. To reduce the jail's population of nonviolent inmates, Chatterton would like to see more criminals monitored electronically or put on work release.

As for the Jerome County Jail bond issue, he believes the people have already spoken in thrice failing to meet the 66.7 percent supermajority approval needed to fund a new jail.

"They have a majority, but it's not large enough," he said. "They need another answer, but they keep recycling it. Saying you'll get sued and close the jail is not an answer."

Chatterton said he won't be the kind of sheriff to attend every event or party, but will be there when victims need him. He added that the sheriff's office should operate more like a business.

Chatterton's law enforcement career hasn't been without controversy, which isn't a bad thing, he said.

"It's not necessarily good to have no controversy," he said. "You want someone who's going to stand up for himself."

In 1994, Chatterton sued the city of Twin Falls for suspending him while he was a Twin Falls police officer. That suit was later settled out of court. In 2003, Chatterton sought more than $800,000 in lost wages and other damages from Jerome County, the city of Jerome and other parties based on what he called unfounded allegations that he pointed a gun at Jerome Police Officer Gregory Johnson during a joking conversation in 2000.

Chatterton dropped that case in 2005 after all parties failed to meet a paperwork deadline, he said.

the decline.

The National PTA organization claimed about 12 million members at its peak in 1960s, according to the Associated Press. Now, there are 5 million members — about 1 million fewer than a decade ago.

At I.B. Perrine Elementary School in Twin Falls, PTA member Leona King hasn't had problems finding other parents to volunteer.

"I've noticed that we can get lots of volunteers," she said.

Sawtooth Elementary School Principal Randy Rutledge said there's also good participation in his Twin Falls school's parent-teacher organization.

"It's stayed fairly stable over the last 25 years," he said, but notes there are more working parents now.

In Idaho and elsewhere, that demography plays a role: Compared to the PTA's heyday, there are many more single and working parents. And that can mean more obstacles to getting parents involved at their child's school.

Anna Scholes — a pharmacist — volunteers as president of the parent-teacher association at Twin Falls' Vera C. O'Leary Middle School. It's the first year the group has been affiliated with the National PTA.

She said enough parents step up and help out when asked. But not many show up to the association's meetings.

Between 15 and 25 parents typically come to the group's monthly noontime meetings. For a school with about 900 students, Scholes said that's a low attendance rate.

"It's really hard to get people to come to meetings," she said.

Evening meetings don't work either, she said, because many parents are taking their children to activities such as sports practices or music lessons.

"Parents are sometimes overwhelmed by all the things they need to do," she said.

Lydia Jackson, co-president of the PTO at Jefferson Elementary School in Jerome, said finding a meeting time that works for most people is a "huge challenge."

To address that, her group provides babysitting at its monthly meeting.

Jennifer Tingey, in her second year as Sawtooth Elementary's PTO president, said volunteer opportunities can be flexible to accommodate working parents.

"There's a whole gamut of things where people can be involved as they need to be," she said.

At O'Leary, the parent-teacher association's largest project this year is working to raise $100,000 to resurface the school's track.

To raise money for school projects, a regular group of parent volunteers sells ice cream and candy at the school every Tuesday.

At Sawtooth Elementary, PTO members help with writing the school newsletter, escorting field trips and working during the school's science fair.

Plus, there's usually a couple of large fundraisers each year. In the past, money raised went toward playground equipment, classroom technology and school crossing guards.

"I really appreciate their help," Rutledge said.

Tingey got involved in the school's PTO shortly after moving to Twin Falls. It was a way to meet other parents and teachers at the school, then grew into more as she took over as the organization's president.

"There are not a lot of people who want to step up to put in that much time," she said.

Sometimes, it's easy to get "downed by fundraisers," she said, and forget that money goes toward helping children.

"I would just like see parents more excited about helping the kids," Tingey said.

Jackson said whatever time parents can give is appreciated. And, it makes life easier for school employees.

"Every little bit counts," she said.

The boyfriend of one of the girls, who according to court records had been staying in Wells' room due to a disciplinary matter, told Twin Falls police he'd found a small video camera inside a coffee packet on the bathroom counter.

When he approached Wells about the camera, he said Wells stomped on the camera and then began to break it apart with a pocket knife.

The affidavit states Wells admitted to Twin Falls investigators he was attempting to videotape the girl "with the intent of seeing her naked for his own sexual arousal."

Twin Falls County Jail Inmate Charged with Meth Possession

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismsmith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A Twin Falls County Jail inmate is charged with two drug crimes for allegedly possessing drugs in the jail.

It's the second time this month that jail deputies say they've found drugs on an inmate.

On the morning of April 2, deputies received a tip of inmates in cell block 100 using methamphetamine and planning to move the drugs to another location in the jail.

Deputies believe one ounce of meth was smuggled into the jail and inmate Roel Garza Jr. still possessed half of it that morning. But the complete circumstances of what happened before deputies became involved are unclear, said Capt. Doug Hughes, Twin Falls County Jail administrator.

According to court documents, after the tip the 10 inmates in cell block 100 were placed in a holding cell with video surveillance while deputies searched the empty cell.

Deputies took inmates from the holding cell one at a time to strip-search and interview them, court documents state. Garza was the seventh inmate searched and allegedly told deputies he was going to throw away some toilet paper. When he was told not to, deputies said Garza dropped two rolled-up pieces of toilet paper near a drain in the floor and said they weren't his.

No contraband was found on Garza during a strip search, but he allegedly admitted to using meth before entering the jail and said he was under the influence during the search.

Garza

Once all the inmates were searched, the holding cell was cleared. As deputies examined it, they reported finding a baggie containing meth in the area were Garza was standing, along with the items they say he dropped.

The next day, deputies examined the evidence and said one of the rolled pieces of toilet paper contained 1.2 grams of marijuana, while the other contained two small baggies of methamphetamine. According to court records, the meth found weighed 4.8 grams and inmates were buying it for $40 a hit.

Garza was first brought to the jail after being arrested on a probation violation warrant, Hughes said.

Now, he's being held on $30,000 bond for charges of possession of a controlled substance and possession of a controlled substance by an inmate. A preliminary hearing is scheduled for April 27.

On April 3, inmate Janelle Renee Harrington, 44, of Lincoln, Neb., was allegedly found with morphine. In that case, she came to spend a few days in jail as part of a court compliance program.

Two instances of inmates found with drugs in the jail so close together is unusual, Hughes said. Generally, deputies discover drugs two or three times a year.

"The problem exists when they come in on minor charges," he said.

It's jail policy not to strip-search people brought in on minor charges like driving without privileges.

"At this point in time you have to have some sort of reasonable suspicion there would be something," he said.

However, that could change following a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision that allows strip-searches for minor offenses.

"We're waiting to see what our attorneys want us to do," Hughes said.

After Idaho Cougar Flap, Calif. Bill Would Ban Bear Hunts with Dogs

BY TRACIE CONE
Associated Press

FRESNO, Calif. • A decades-old fight is brewing again over legislation to ban the use of dog packs to chase bears and bobcats up trees so a hunter can kill them.

The latest measure, scheduled for a Senate committee hearing next week, comes after the state's top fish and game official was criticized this year for a hound-hunting trip Idaho.

Dan Richards shot a mountain lion that had been chased up a tree. A photo of him with the dead cougar was printed in a hunting publication.

Many were outraged because mountain lions are a protected species in California, but Richards maintained that he violated no hunting laws in Idaho.

Opponents of dog packs for hunting say the practice is unsportsmanlike because the targeted animal has little chance of eluding the hunter no matter how far it runs.

The California Houndsmen for Conservation, the state's leading hound-hunting group, decried the measure, which is being pushed by the Humane Society of the United States.

"This bill has no merit, is founded on misconceptions that are promoted with propaganda" and is not something lawmakers should spend time on, group president Josh Brones wrote in an email.

Dan Richards, California Fish and Game Commission president, walks to a meeting March 7 at Mission Inn in Riverside, Calif.

The bill's co-author said Richards' hunting trip helped revive the issue for him.

"I actually thought that this inhumane practice would have been banned in California already, like it is in Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and other pro-hunting states," Sen. Ted Lieu said.

"It's completely unnecessary," he added.

The bill was co-authored by Sen. Pro Tem Darrell

Steinberg, a Democrat. Gov. Jerry Brown hasn't weighed in, but Lieu said he believes he has support in the Democrat-majority committee.

It's not the first time such a bill has been floated in the California legislature, but on two previous tries it didn't advance past the committee.

Fourteen other states have similar prohibitions. The California bill would still allow hound hunting for other animals, including wild boar.

Less than 1 percent of California's 36 million residents own hunting licenses, and it wasn't immediately clear how many of them are hound hunters. A question posed to Brones about the number of hound hunters was not immediately answered.

Brones said the bill was "political retaliation" over legislators' inability to oust Richards, a Republican real estate developer appointed by then-Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Forty Assembly members signed letters asking for Richards' resignation. Lieu and Lt. Gov. Gavin Newsom also wrote letters asking for his ouster. Richards' term expires in January.

Most Popular Baby Names in Idaho: Olivia, William

BOISE (AP) • Most Idahoans are turning to tried and true names for their newborns; a select few are opting for more distinctive monikers derived from worldwide leaders and ancient conquerors.

The state bureau of vital records reveals Olivia and William were the most popular baby names in Idaho in 2010.

The Spokesman-Review reports that other top names for girls are Emma, Sophia, Ava and Abigail;

Samuel, Logan, Ethan, Jacob round out the top-five for boys.

Some parents picked ambition over popularity, including a girl named Espn — also the title of the sports network known as the Worldwide Leader in Sports — and a boy named Genghis, the name of an ancient Mongolian warrior.

The motivation behind others is less clear: W'dbln, Hemi, Oo, Character, Dagger, Laugh and King Tiberius.

BLM Agrees to Study Pickens' Wild Horse Plan

BY SCOTT SONNER
Associated Press

RENO, Nev. • Federal land managers agreed Thursday to spend the next two years studying a proposal by the wife of oil tycoon T. Boone Pickens to establish an eco-sanctuary for nearly 1,000 wild horses across more than 900 square miles of Nevada.

The Bureau of Land Management will conduct a formal environmental assessment of proposal offered by Madeleine Pickens and her non-profit group, Saving America's Mustangs, as a way to minimize the need to round up excess animals on the public range, BLM Director Bob Abbey said.

The agency also will analyze potential economic and social effects of the reserve that would stretch across more than 580,000 acres of mostly public and some private property Pickens recently bought south of U.S. Interstate 80 between Wells and the Utah line.

Under the proposal, Saving America's Mustangs would improve and maintain fencing and water wells and oversee management of the eco-sanctuary horses, which would remain under federal ownership.

Saving America's Mustangs (SAM) also would provide Western history, wild horse-related education and promote ecotourism at the site to be known as "Mustang Monument" about 70 miles southeast of Elko.

"We look forward to the day when you can come to Mustang Monument and behold the wonders of that beautiful piece of heaven in northern Nevada, and the magnificent wild horses that will spend their lives there," Pickens said in a statement to supporters on the group's Web site on Thursday.

Abbey said the BLM-managed public lands that would be part of the proposed eco-sanctuary — 530,000 acres known as the Spruce grazing allotment — would continue to be publicly accessible for a variety of outdoor activities, including big game hunting. He said the proposal may provide a way to help the BLM reduce the size of overpopulated herds while ensuring healthy rangeland conditions.

"The selection of SAM's proposal for environmental analysis furthers our overall effort to improve management and control costs of the Wild Horse and Burro Program," Abbey said. He noted that the BLM is preparing to publish a new wild horse and burro management strategy in the coming weeks.

The strategy, among other things, calls for the establishment of eco-sanctuary partnerships.

Federal Waste Cleanup Resumes at INL

BOISE • A federal cleanup project in southeastern Idaho resumed this week after a nearly two-year hiatus.

The retrieval of transuranic waste at the Idaho National Laboratory was suspended in July 2010. That was six months after about 20 workers were exposed to radioactive waste when a plywood box broke open, though site managers said the doses were below acceptable levels.

The project at the Advanced Mixed Waste Treatment Facility was put on hold after a second incident, which also involved the retrieval of a wooden box.

Last year, a new consortium led by Babcock and Wilcox and URS Corp. won a $417 million contract to finish up cleanup of the transuranic waste. The group, which calls itself the Idaho Treatment Group, took over for the existing contractor, Bechtel BWXT Idaho.

ISU to Pick New Faculty Governance This Fall

BOISE • Faculty governance at Idaho State University will again be revamped under a plan endorsed by the state Board of Education.

The board voted Thursday to approve the recommendation from school President Arthur Vailas, who called for the election of a new Faculty Senate this fall.

The board voted last year to dissolve the previous Faculty Senate, which been at loggerheads with Vailas. The university then elected new, temporary faculty leaders to work with Vailas to adopt a new constitution.

The provisional Faculty Senate was due to sunset this month, or upon the completion of constitution. But the two sides appeared far from a consensus in February, when faculty reported they had reached an impasse with Vailas.

Vailas recommended work on the constitution continue with a new, permanent Faculty Senate.

Police Nab Suspect in Moscow Lab Break-in MOSCOW • Police say an eastern Washington man is suspected of breaking into a federal research lab in northern Idaho and trying to steal about $2,800 in equipment.

Moscow police say 20-year-old Michael Murphy, of Clarkston, Wash., was taken into custody early Wednesday on suspicion of burglary. Officers were called to the USDA Rocky Mountain Research Station in Moscow just before 1 a.m. to investigate a reported disturbance.

The Moscow-Pullman Daily News reports officers say they found Murphy near a broken window holding a bag filled with stolen items including digital cameras, laser measuring tools, digital recorders and headphones.

Police Chief David Duke says an additional charge of grand theft may be added to the complaint against Murphy.

Park Sex Offender to Serve 12 Years

CALDWELL • A Halloween theme park employee convicted of sexual battery against a minor in Idaho will serve more than a decade in prison.

Prosecutors say 29-year-old Joshua

Stueckle of Oregon had sexual contact with two teens last year, one he met while working at Haunted World in Nampa.

A district judge sentenced Stueckle Wednesday to at least 12 years in prison.

Prosecutors say Stueckle came to Idaho and began sexual relationship with a 16-year-old girl he met online; he subsequently had sex with another teen girl he met at Haunted World.

Police arrested Stueckle in October after one girl told detectives about a sexual encounter with Stueckle in Caldwell.

One charge was dropped in exchange for his guilty plea. He could serve as many as 30 years in prison.

Truck Driver Robbed at Gunpoint Along I-15

BUTTE, Mont. • Officials in Beaverhead County say the driver of a semi-trailer reported he was robbed of his wallet at gunpoint after stopping for a short break at an Interstate 15 exit near Dell, about 30 miles north of the Idaho border.

Sheriff Jay T. Hansen says the driver reported he was walking near his truck shortly before noon Wednesday when a man and a woman, possibly in their 30s, parked in front of the semi. The Montana Standard reports the man brandished a firearm while the woman demanded the driver's wallet. Hansen says the couple left traveling southbound on the interstate.

The suspects were driving an older, white Chevrolet extended cab pickup truck with "Chevrolet" in black letters on the tailgate. The truck had a temporary license.

N. Idaho Teen Pleads Not Guilty to Murder Charge

SANDPOINT (AP) • A northern Idaho teen accused of killing a romantic rival has pleaded not guilty to first-degree murder.

The Bonner County Daily Bee reports the case against 19-year-old Austin Blake Thrasher will go to trial in July. Thrasher appeared in Idaho's 1st District Court earlier this week.

He is among three Bonner County residents charged in the death of 19-year-old Michael Wyatt Smith.

Thrasher's wife, 22-year-old Jennifer Thrasher, and 19-year-old Christopher Garlin face accessory to murder charges.

Detectives received a tip in January that a man was picked up on the pretense of attending a party and driven to the woods, then shot and buried. Smith's body was later found north of Sandpoint.

Authorities allege Thrasher killed Smith over a 16-year-old girl the two had both been seeing.

No Consensus over Idaho Field-burning Rule Changes

BOISE (AP) • An advisory panel of farmers, health advocates and state regulators has agreed that field burning can be allowed on some weekends, but members are still debating other changes to state rules governing the annual practice.

Field burning is common in the state, but especially among bluegrass growers in northern Idaho. Setting fields ablaze helps clean up stubble and prepare the soil for the next crop.

But the practice has been criticized in recent years and regulated by the state after a watchdog group raised concerns about public health. A group called Safe Air For Everyone argued the burning can create life-and-death situations for people diagnosed with asthma and other health conditions.

In 2007, Safe Air For Everyone won a lawsuit banning agricultural field burning and the following year the parties reached an agreement allowing burning under certain conditions.

The Idaho Department of Environmental Quality is seeking to ease some of those restrictions.

But the Spokesman-Review reports that the advisory panel has not yet agreed on how or whether to lower air quality standards and rules governing weekend burning.

Nathan Riggers, president of the Nezperce Prairie Grass Growers Association, said farmers in his area typically don't burn on weekends because the public expects them not to, and they're able to accomplish all their field-burning on weekdays. But he said they don't oppose more flexibility for Southern Idaho farmers who may need weekend burn days because of air quality conditions.

UI Confirms Deal with Slain Student's Family

BY JESSIE L. BONNER
Associated Press

BOISE • The University of Idaho and the family of a graduate student who was gunned down by a professor she had previously dated have reached a settlement, according to a joint statement issued late Thursday.

Financial terms weren't disclosed, but Katy Benoit's family plans to donate all proceeds of the settlement to charitable causes, primarily through a memorial fund established after the 22-year-old's death in August. A statement issued by school President Duane Nellis, Benoit's parents Gary and Janet, and Benoit's brother, Andy, detailed actions that are being taken to make the campus safer as part of the settlement.

"While nothing can undo Katy's tragic loss of life, we find comfort in taking the first of what will be many steps in following through on our original mission: bringing as much good from this situation as possible," the statement said.

Benoit had complained to the university last June about 31-year-old assistant psychology professor Ernesto Bustamante, saying she broke off their relationship after he pointed a loaded gun at her head on three separate occasions, threatening her life.

Bustamante resigned Aug. 19, three days before police say he went to Benoit's off-campus home in Moscow and shot her 11 times while she stood on her back porch. Bustamante then checked into a hotel before turning a gun on himself, according to police.

Benoit's family filed a $3 million tort claim against the university in December, saying the school "negligently and recklessly" hired, retained and supervised Bustamante.

The university knew that he engaged in abusive sexual relationships with female students and "failed in its duty to prevent Bustamante's sexual harassment of Katy Benoit," according to the family's claim.

The Associated Press reported Tuesday that a settlement had been reached, according to two people with knowledge of the settlement who spoke on the condition of anonymity.

The university and the Benoit family did not confirm or comment on the agreement until late Thursday, issuing a statement several hours after the deal was approved by the state Board of Education during a meeting on the Moscow campus.

In the joint statement, the university and Benoit's family said actions being taken in the wake of the tragedy include a newly revised university policy that more strongly discourages relationships between faculty and students, along with improved sexual harassment training for students, staff and faculty.

OUR VIEW

Residential Zoning a Jolt to Heart of Downtown

Last week, the Twin Falls City Council made a zoning change that will make all the difference. At its April 9 meeting, the council set the stage to allow row houses, duplexes and condominiums in downtown. (The change affects Twin Falls’ downtown and Old Towne areas. Downtown runs the length of Main Avenue and includes surrounding streets, and Old Towne encompasses a southeast portion of town that’s home to Woody’s and Red’s Trading Post.)

Opening the doors for more people to live downtown could very well be the jolt the heart of Twin Falls needs to start beating again.

After we published an article on the change, readers on Magicvalley.com weighed in.

One reader wrote, “Twin Falls Downtown is stuck at a crossroads with the development of the northern retail corridor, which includes the Magic Valley Mall and all the areas along Blue Lakes.

“There is only so much retail development a community can sustain. Downtown was the economic hub and retail center for many years; however, its time now seems to have passed. ...”

Twin Falls is booming along Blue Lakes Boulevard and with the approval of Canyon Park North on the horizon, more and more retail dollars are being spent along that corridor.

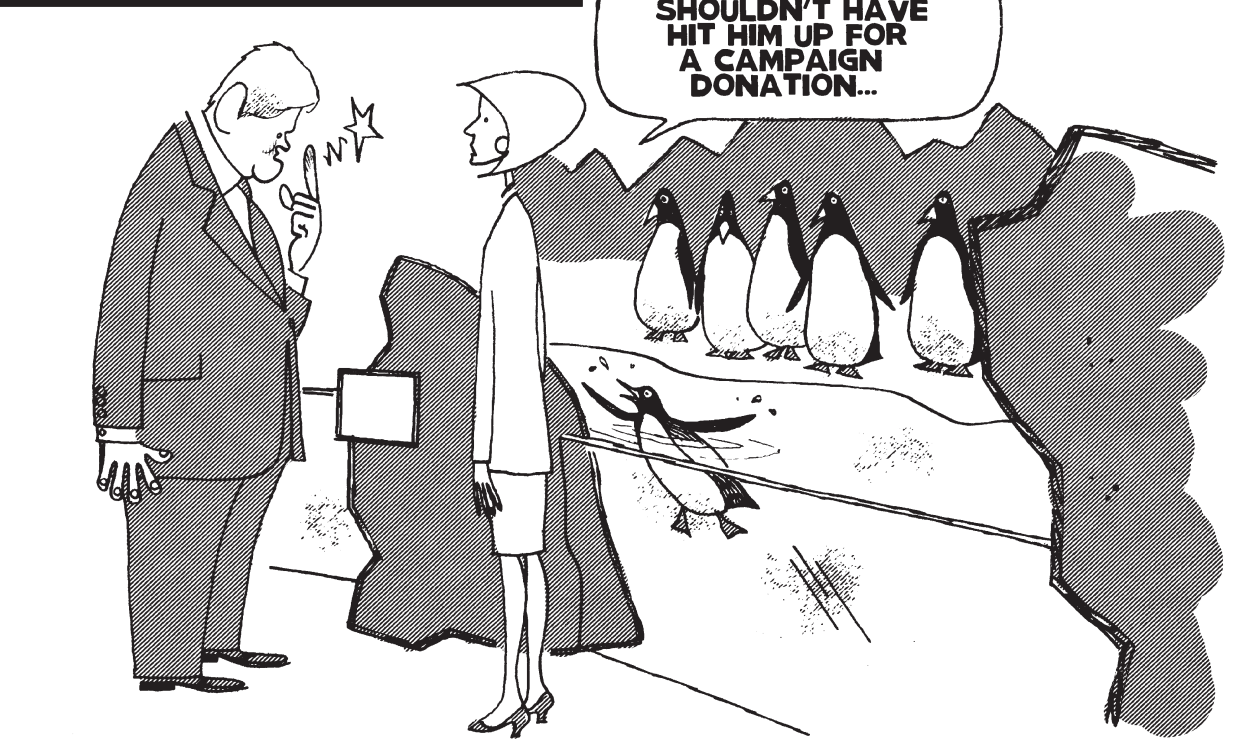

But we disagree with the suggestion that downtown’s time has passed and it should be abandoned in favor of other parts of town.

At first glance, Twin Falls has the kind of downtown that many communities dream about — a pedestrian-friendly, tree-lined Main Avenue, framed by historic buildings.

But, as we’ve said in editorials countless times, downtown is hurting. Past efforts to revitalize the area have fallen flat for lack of vision and funding, or self-destructed under the pressure of infighting.

A walk down Main Avenue these days is encouraging. Buildings are under renovation. On First Friday, people spill onto the sidewalks from the doors of open businesses. And, this move by the City Council to invite people to live downtown is a great showing of political will. We have every reason to believe that the council’s April 9 vote is a turning point in a longtime struggle to revitalize downtown.

Mr. Thayne Gallegos, I applaud your efforts to study one of our nation’s key issues.

However, to broaden your knowledge, let me offer some readings that will clearly enhance your understanding: “Ain’t Nobody’s Business If You Do” by Peter McWilliams, “From Freedom to Slavery” by Gerry Spence, “Resist Not Evil” by Clarence S. Darrow, “The State vs. The People” by Claire Wolfe and, of course, “Unintended Consequences” by John Ross.

When you get through those, I guarantee you’ll understand our nation’s problems much better and have knowledge way beyond the norm.

Actions Speak Louder Than Words in Twin Falls Sheriff Race

I have an issue with the sheriff’s race this year. I do my best to be open-minded, properly research the candidates and make an educated decision when I vote. I’ve checked out websites, Googled, reached out to both candidates and, of course, consulted the trusty ol’ rumor mill.

Jack Johnson seems to have a good resume. On paper, he’s well educated, properly trained for a cop, nice guy. The problem is I have absolutely no idea what his plans are in order to fulfill the requirements and expectations of a sheriff! Apparently, he hangs his hat on training deputies. OK. And? What are his plans fiscally? Plans on eradicating the drug problem? The list of questions goes on and on. I tried contacting Jack Johnson and got no response. So I’m left to make my decision based on knowing he’s got a well-written resume.

Sheriff Carter’s website doesn’t show a resume in “proper format.” Instead, he chose to explain it with proof. Website links, endorsements, photos, not to mention the best advantage of all — he’s fully qualified and trained in the position as a whole. I’ve read about him initiating the importance of uniting all local police agencies. I’ve seen the improved K9 units to help with the drug problem. I’ve read about money being returned to the commissioners at the end of the year, not overspending. Most importantly, when I reached out to Sheriff Carter to give him the opportunity to address the issues I had, he responded with respect and full disclosure on my questions. I understand why he has such a long list of supporters from civil servants to business people to average Joes publicly supporting him.

On May 15, I will be voting to keep Tom Carter as sheriff. Actions speak louder than words.

Levon Helm, Key Member of The Band, Dies at 71

BY MICHAEL HILL

Associated Press

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) • With songs like "The Night They Drove Old Dixie Down," "The Weight" and "Up on Cripple Creek," The Band fused rock, blues, folk and gospel to create a sound that seemed as authentically American as a Mathew Brady photograph or a Mark Twain short story.

In truth, the group had only one American — Levon Helm.

Helm, the drummer and singer who brought an urgent beat and a genuine Arkansas twang to some of The Band's best-known songs and helped turn a bunch of musicians known mostly as Bob Dylan's backup group into one of rock's most legendary acts, has died. He was 71.

Helm, who was found to have throat cancer in 1998, died Thursday afternoon of complications from cancer at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York City, said Lucy Sabini of Vanguard Records. On Tuesday, a message on his website said he was in the final stages of cancer.

Helm and his bandmates — Canadians Rick Danko, Garth Hudson, Robbie Robertson and Richard Manuel — were musical virtuosos who returned to the roots of American music in the late 1960s as other rockers veered into psychedelia, heavy metal and jams. The group's 1968 debut, "Music From the Big Pink," and its follow-up, "The Band," remain landmark albums of the era, and songs such as "The Weight," "Dixie Down" and "Cripple Creek" have become rock standards.

Early on, The Band backed Dylan on his sensational and controversial electric tours of 1965-66 and collaborated with him on the legendary "Basement Tapes," which produced "I Shall Be Released," "Tears of Rage" and many other favorites.

The son of an Arkansas cotton farmer, Helm was just out of high school when he joined rocker Ronnie Hawkins for a tour of Canada in 1957 as the drummer for the Hawks. That band eventually recruited a group of Canadian musicians who, along with Helm, spent grueling years touring rough bars in Canada and the South.

They would split from Hawkins, hook up with Dylan and eventually call themselves The Band — because, as they explained many times, that's what everyone called them anyway.

In some ways, The Band was the closest this country ever came to the camaraderie and achievement of the Beatles. Each of the five members brought special talents that through years of touring, recording and living together blended into a unique sound.

The tall, lanky Robertson was an expert blues-rock guitarist and the group's best lyricist, his songs inspired in part by Dylan and by the stories Helm would tell him of the South. The baby-faced Danko was a fluid bassist, an accomplished singer and occasional writer. The bearish Hudson was a virtuoso and eccentric who could seemingly master any instrument, especially keyboards, while the sad-eyed Manuel's haunting falsetto on "Whispering Pines," "Tears of Rage" and others led Helm to call him the group's lead singer.

But for many Band admirers, that honor belonged to the short, feisty Helm, whose authoritative twang once was likened to a town crier calling a meeting to order. He not only sang "Dixie Down," he inhabited it, becoming the Confederate Virgil Caine, "hungry, just barely alive," his brother killed by the Yankees, the South itself in ruins. It was the kind of heart-breaking, complicated story and performance that had even Northerners rooting for the proud and desperate Virgil.

"The Weight" and many other songs were true collaborations: Helm's voice was at the bottom, Danko's in the middle and Manuel on top. Helm — the group's musical leader on stage — played drums loose-limbed and funky, shoulders hunched and head to the side when he sang.

JONATHAN FRID, ACTOR IN "DARK SHADOWS", DIES AT 87

BY ROB GILLIES

Associated Press

TORONTO (AP) • Jonathan Frid, a Canadian actor best known for playing Barnabas Collins in the 1960s original vampire soap opera "Dark Shadows," has died. He was 87.

Frid died Friday of natural causes in a hospital in his home town of Hamilton, Ontario, said Jim Pierson, a friend and spokesman for Dan Curtis Productions, the creator of "Dark Shadows."

Frid starred in the 1960s gothic-flavored soap opera about odd, supernatural goings-on at a family estate in Maine.

His death comes just weeks before a Tim Burton-directed version of Dark Shadows is due out next month starring Johnny Depp as Barnabas Collins. Frid has a cameo role in the new movie in which he meets Depp's character in a party scene with two other original actors from the show.

Pierson said Burton and Depp were fans of Frid, who played a vulnerable vampire in one of the first sympathetic portrayals of the immortal creatures.

ABC - ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE PHOTO

Jonathan Frid, in a scene from 'Dark Shadows' in 1970. Frid, a Canadian actor best known for playing Barnabas Collins in the vampire soap opera, has died. He was 87.

"Twenty million people saw the show at its peak in 1969. Kids ran home from school and housewives watched it. It had a huge pop culture impact," Pierson said.

Pierson said Frid, whose character was added in 1967, saved the show and stayed on until the end of its run in 1971. He said Frid was never into the fame and fortune and just wanted to be a working actor. He said he loved the drama and finding the flaws and the humanity in his characters.

SENIOR

Q. What exactly is "self-neglect" and how can I watch for it in my elderly aunts and uncles?

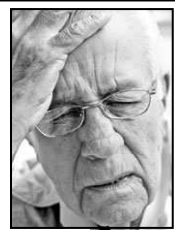

A. Self-neglect is a term that describes situations in which older adults put themselves at high risk. There are many reasons why a person might neglect themselves. For example, she may have a disorder which impairs her judgment or memory. Or, he could have a chronic disease. Sometimes it is hard to distinguish between the right to be independent (and to make one's own decisions) and self-neglect. Signs that you can look for include: hoarding; unwillingness to take vital medications or refusal to seek medical treatment for a serious illness or condition; poor hygiene; not dressing to fit the temperature outdoors; a change (for the worse) in housekeeping practices; confusion; or dehydration. If you notice a family member exhibiting these signs, you may want to investigate further to see if it is truly time to intervene on his or her behalf.

'Rousing' Success in the Making?

Idaho-bred colt with bloodlines to past Kentucky Derby champions will get his shot at historic upset at Churchill Downs.

THE IDAHO STATESMAN

BOISE • It didn't take long for the young chestnut horse to stand out among its peers at Parma's Tree Top Ranches.

"He was special from the time he was a few months old. He just had an elegant look to him," said Dan Kiser, horse manager at the ranch. "He was always kind of in charge with the other colts. I knew pretty early."

Rousing Sermon proved Kiser's appraisal correct in Southern California races last year as a 2-year-old. When he earned enough winnings in graded-stakes races this year to qualify for the May 5 Kentucky Derby, it didn't take long for his owners — Treasure Valley businessman Larry

Williams and his wife, Marianne — to decide to make their first Run for the Roses.

"We just determined that we better do it while we could," Larry Williams said. "We don't know how we'll run. We know we have a good horse. Do we have a great horse? We've always been willing to take a chance. That's what we're doing."

The couple opened Tree Top Ranches more than a decade ago, raising cattle and horses. When Kiser, a former horse trainer at Les Bois Park, arrived 10 years ago, he discussed long-term goals with Larry Williams.

"This was one of our goals, to get a horse in the Kentucky Derby," Kiser said.

NFL DRAFT

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Andrew Luck poses in a photo shoot prior to the NFL combine earlier this year. The next uniform the Stanford quarterback wears will belong to the Indianapolis Colts.

Plenty of Luck Involved for Colts

A source close to the team says Indy will cast its lot with the Stanford quarterback when it chooses 1st in next week's NFL draft.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS • The secret is out.

Andrew Luck will be the Indianapolis Colts' new quarterback.

A person with direct knowledge of the situation said Thursday that the Colts have notified Luck that they plan to take the Stanford quarterback with the No. 1 pick in next week's NFL draft barring some unforeseen event between now and then. The person spoke on condition of anonymity because the team has not publicly disclosed its plan.

It's hardly a surprise that the Colts are turning to Luck as the cornerstone of their massive rebuilding project. Luck was projected as the No. 1 pick in the 2011 draft before returning to school for his fourth season. He gave up his final year of college eligibility to enter this year's draft, which was dubbed the Andrew Luck Sweepstakes from the start.

Contract negotiations are not expected to begin before the draft, the person familiar with the situation told the AP. Will Wilson, Luck's agent, did not immediately respond to phone messages or text messages Thursday.

"We've exhausted the process," new Indy general manager Ryan Grigson told reporters Wednesday. "We've pretty much made up our minds and we're going to go from there. We feel good about it and we'll go from there."

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Bengals Bodacious Through Air

Idaho State's three quarterbacks combine to throw for 479 yards and six touchdowns, leaving Kramer to wonder about his team's ability to defend.

BY MARK LIPTAK
For the Times-News

POCATELLO • Before Idaho State's second scrimmage of the spring, head coach Mike Kramer was asked if things were easier this time around as opposed to last year when he walked into the program.

Kramer gave a typical Kramer answer.

"You remember the first time you were on a slide as a kid? It was terrifying. But after you did it once it was like 'Woo-hoo! Let's do it again!'" he said. "It's gone a lot smoother this year, I know the players and they know me and my staff now."

Kramer then saw an offensive explosion as his three quarterbacks combined to throw 48 times, completing 36, for 479 yards and six touchdowns in the 90-minute scrimmage.

Last year's starter, Kevin

Yost, threw for 142 yards and two touchdowns on 11 of 16 passing. Brad Kragthorpe was 11-for-15 with a touchdown and 127 yards passing while Arias had the best day statistically, throwing for 210 yards and three touchdowns on 14 of 17 passing.

They were helped significantly by the return of receiver Cameron Richmond. Richmond suffered a season ending knee injury at Washington State and looked like he was trying to make up time for the lost year. In the scrimmage he pulled down six passes for 118 yards and two touchdowns including a 68 yard screen.

"Having Cam Richmond back with two years of eligibility bodes well for this football team," Kramer said. "He is getting a lot more confident."

After missing the first scrimmage Luke Austin returned to catch seven passes for 78 yards and two touchdowns. All-American wide receiver Rodrick Rumble caught five passes for 71 yards.

ISU only ran the ball 15 times, divided almost equally between Daniel McSurdy (8 carries) and Aaron Prier (7 carries).

PREP TRACK AND FIELD

Sprinting Past the Tape

Kimberly's 4x100 relay team sets new season Class 3A standard, but it's conference rival Buhl that edges Bulldogs for team title. Gooding triumphs on girls side.

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

DECLO • Alan Cazeau is Kimberly's anchor — in more ways than one.

Cazeau runs the anchor leg in the Bulldogs' 4x100 relay team, which posted a 44.1-second time at Thursday's Brad Matthews Track and Field Invitational at Declo High School. Not only was it the team's personal best, but it's also the fastest time registered in the state's 3A classification this season, according to track and field website athletic.net.

"My relay team is awesome," said Cazeau, who also won the 400-meter race and the long jump Thursday. "They get me so far ahead and I just have to cruise it in. It really takes the pressure off me."

Cazeau is the senior leader on the team, which includes juniors Winton Miller and Austin Quinn and sophomore Caleb Taylor. The youngsters look up to Cazeau.

"I love having him out there to compete with because he pushes us a lot. He's a hard worker," said Miller, who also took home gold in the 100, 200 and 4x200 events.

Added Cazeau: "As a freshman I had older guys push me, and it's nice to be a mentor to these young guys and help push them, too. It's one of the reasons I wanted to continue on and be better."

Despite Kimberly's highlights, rival Buhl edged team bragging rights, scoring 140 points to the Bulldogs' 135. One glaring difference-maker was in the throws, where Buhl got a first and second-place finish by Taylor Oppedyke in the discus and shot put, respectively. Meanwhile, Kimberly tallied zero team points in those events.

On the girls' side, Gooding topped the team scores with 117 points, led by Rachel Youren, who garnered victories in the 1,600, 3,200, triple jump and as a member of the Senators' 4x400 relay.

Filer's girls were runner-up with 110 points, thanks in part to Katie Hughes and Sierra Koyle. Hughes won the shot put and discus, and then helped the Wildcats finish first in the 4x100. Hughes also teamed up in the 4x100 to go along with her victory in pole vault.

Other highlights included

Declo's Myca Burch, who swept victories in the 100, 200 and 400-meter sprints. After racing relays in past years, the senior has picked up the 100 and 200 for the first time this season. So far, the move has been a success, as she's finished no worse than second in her sprint events this season.

LEAPS AND BOUNDS AHEAD

Carey's Rivera adds to his lengthy list of meet victories by claiming triple and long jumps at his school's invitational

BY DAVID BASHORE
dbashore@magicvalley.com

CAREY • It's been a great spring to be Charlie Rivera.

The Carey senior has dominated the triple jump event on a weekly basis, including a monster jump of more than 44 feet a week ago.

While Thursday wasn't an improvement on that, Rivera claimed another win on his home track, jumping 40 feet, 7 inches at the 15-team Carey Invitational.

Thursday's jump was actually the lowest high mark he's recorded in competition this season.

"I've had a great spring. The thing I worked on the most was strength and working out the steps and it worked out," said Rivera. "It wasn't an improvement but hopefully this was my blank week, and I can throw down those long ones when they matter at the end of the season."

Rivera's season best of 44-4, which is also a school record, was set last week at the Monte Andrus Invitational in Twin Falls. According to track and field website athletic.net, it's the third-longest jump in the state and nearly 4 feet longer than the next closest Class 1A jumper, Eli Berndt of Lighthouse Christian, who finished second Thursday.

Rivera also won the long jump with a leap of 20-6.75.

Another runner having a dominant spring is Richfield senior Sasha Kent, who has picked up right where she left off last May. Kent won the girls' 800 by more than 20 seconds, crossing in 2:25.

It's the second time she's run the 800 this season as she works toward running all three distances races at the district, and she hopes state, events. Kent won all three events at the 1A state meet last year. She completed a different kind of triple on Thursday, adding wins in the 400 (1:04) and 1,600 (5:42).

"I've got some goals this year, obviously winning state again and getting some school records," said Kent, whose time was seven seconds off the school's 800-meter record. "I think I can get to 2:18 if I get to state, because the adrenaline is really pumping in those races."

Castleford junior Ty Zimmers is also right where he wants to be in his season-long progress. Zimmers was fast out of the blocks to win the boys' 100 in 11.5 seconds, and later won the 200 meters in 23.8.

"I'm pretty happy with where I'm at, hoping to get a little lower by the end of the season," said Zimmers. "I've improved (the 100) and my 200 time, and I just ran my race today"

Wadsworths Trade Top Spots in Rodeo

BY DIANE PHILBIN
For the Times-News

Kimberly senior Jade Wadsworth held the top spot in the boy's all-around standings after the first two rodeos but was replaced by his freshman brother, Derek after week two.

With an off weekend in Filer last week by Derek Wadsworth, who fell from first to fourth place, Jade Wadsworth is back at the top with 98 points and a new name has emerged in the all-around race.

Colton Baratti from Filer, already competing in bull riding and team roping with Filer teammate Kyndal Stradley, added a third event, tie-down, last weekend and with the additional event, immediately has shown positive results. With the good showing last weekend, Baratti accumulated 37 points and moved up from fifth to second with a total of 89 points.

Oakley senior, Parker Kimber is third with 85 points. In the boy's rookie race, Derek Wadsworth with 82 points holds a considerable lead Klancy Krenka of Castleford.

Oakley senior Jacee Bedke, with 134 points, has maintained the same position in the girls all-around standings from week one. Like the big move made by her Filer teammate, Baratti, Cara Vierstra advanced from ninth to second after picking up 63 points for a total of 111 points.

In the girls rookie standings, Minico cow-girls, Jaylee Stimpson (72) and Charly Ball (71) sit 1-2.

District VI travels to Rupert this weekend for performances on Friday night at 7 p.m. with slack to follow and at 1 p.m. on Saturday with slack to follow.

"I never really got the chance before because I was needed at other places on the team," Burch said. "It's scarier (than relays) because it's all on me, it's not a group effort. I like doing my own because I feel better about myself when I do good."

Oakley senior Addie Bedke prefers the 100-meter hurdles. After all, she finished third at state last year in the event. But there's a chance 300 hurdles might become her new favorite.

Bedke won both events Thursday, running 16.6 seconds in the 100 and a personal-record 49.4 in the 300.

"I definitely feel like I'm progressing. I've been working hard... to improve my starts and putting things in perspective," said Bedke, who says her focus is to "attack" out of the blocks and run through hurdles rather than over.

"It wasn't my best time (in the 100 hurdles), but I think I'll be able to do a lot better this year (at state). My absolute goal is to break into the teens," Bedke said. "I will reach that goal."

For all the individual dominance, no team controlled proceedings as much as Camas County, as the Mushers topped the boys and girls team standings in what amounted to a district meet preview — Thursday's competition featured all District IV schools except Raft River, Oakley and Community School.

Camas County finished seven points better than Lighthouse Christian in the boys standings (91-84), while the girls beat Carey by 22 points (111-89).

Woman Charged in Death of Marine's Wife. A woman charged Thursday with first-degree murder in the slaying of a Camp Pendleton Marine's wife left a suicide note before paramedics found her with self-inflicted wounds, authorities said. Jessica Lynn Lopez, 25, could face a maximum sentence of life in prison if convicted of killing 22-year-old Britany Dawn Killgore, whose body was found Tuesday in brush near a Southern California lake. Lopez, who pleaded not guilty Thursday, was discovered with the note in a San Diego hotel room, prosecutor Patrick Espinoza said.

The 10 men and six women and their attorneys overflowed defense tables and the jury box as they entered the pleas before U.S. District Court Judge Dan Polster in response to an updated indictment. — Associated Press

Rubio Shrugs off Veep Talk, but Wait till 2016

Wherever Sen. Marco Rubio goes, talk of vice president follows — whether he's inadvertently referring to himself as the second in command or insisting to questioners that he'd rather stay in the Senate. The Florida Republican called himself vice president at a Thursday morning forum sponsored by National Journal, saying, "If I have done a good job as vice president ..." He quickly corrected himself. It was unclear whether the slip was intentional. Later in the day, he told reporters that he'd prefer to remain in Congress but left open the possibility of an ambitious political future in 2016 or beyond. "I am really committed to doing a good job in the Senate," Rubio told reporters. "If I do a good job in the Senate, three, four, five, six years from now, I'll have a different opportunity ... to do things inside of government and outside of government." — Associated Press

GOP Pushes Business Tax Cut Through Divided House

BY ALAN FRAM
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Republicans rammed an election-year, $46 billion tax cut for most of America's employers through the House on Thursday, ignoring a White House veto threat in a debate both parties used to show voters how they would bolster the economy.

The near party-line 235-173 vote moved the bill to the Senate, where Democrats controlling the chamber are sure to ignore it. But the measure's inevitable demise was secondary to the chance it gave each side to offer its prescriptions for creating jobs, echoing the battle that seems certain to dominate this fall's contest for the White House between President Barack Obama and Republican Mitt Romney.

"This is straight-up something to help small businesses keep more of their money while they're having so much difficulty keeping the lights on, and instead giving them the ability to grow," said House Majority Leader Eric Cantor, R-Va., the measure's sponsor.

"This is not about mom and pop," said Rep. Sander Levin, D-Mich. "It's about popping the cork for wealthy taxpayers."

Eighteen Democrats and 10 Republicans defected from their party's positions on the bill.

The vote was the second partisan tax showdown in the Capitol this week, prompted by Tuesday's deadline for filing tax returns to the Internal Revenue Service. On Monday Democrats failed to push a "Buffett Rule" tax on the rich through the Senate, another outcome that was preordained but served political purposes for both sides.

The House GOP measure would let employers with fewer than 500 workers deduct 20 percent of their domestic earnings this year — a calculation that would let businesses show a smaller income before determining the taxes they owe. More than 99 percent of U.S. employers have workforces that size, Census Bureau figures show, but that didn't stop Republicans from naming the legislation the "Small Business Tax Cut Act."

Democrats argued that the bill was too unfocused, providing the tax cut if a company hired no new employees or even if it fired some. They also complained that it was too generous to wealthy individuals owning small firms and to extremely successful businesses.

One estimate by the nonpartisan Tax Policy Center said 49 percent of its tax breaks would go to taxpayers with income exceeding $1 million. Using a narrower way of calculating earnings, the Joint Committee on Taxation, Congress' nonpartisan tax analyst, said 18 percent of the benefits would go those making over $1 million and 57 percent would go to taxpayers earning $250,000 and up.

SCANDALS HAMPER OBAMA'S MESSAGE

ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Barack Obama waves as he arrives on the South Lawn of the White House on Wednesday in Washington.

Three recent flare-ups feed a story line that can erode public confidence in Washington institutions, fuel a perception of federal excess.

BY JIM KUHNHENN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • It isn't Mitt Romney who's giving Barack Obama fits as the president pivots to re-election mode. It's those federal bureaucrats carousing in Las Vegas, the Secret Service consorting with Colombian prostitutes and U.S. soldiers posing with bloody enemy corpses.

The scandals are taking a toll. They are distracting embarrassments that are dominating public attention while Obama seeks to focus on difficulties abroad and jobs at home. And they are giving Republicans an opportunity to question his competence and leadership, an opening for Romney in a race so close that any advantage might make a difference.

Even if the Democratic president escapes being defined by these flare-ups, they still feed a storyline that can erode public confidence in Washington institutions, fuel a perception of federal excess and frustrate Obama's argument that government can be a force for good.

The White House response has been textbook — a mix of outrage and deflection.

"The president has been crystal clear since he was a candidate about the standards that he insists be met by those who work for the federal government and on behalf of the American people and for the American people," says White House spokesman Jay Carney.

But taken altogether, the events have overwhelmed the president's agenda. The Secret Service scandal broke while Obama was in Cartagena last weekend for a Summit of the Americas with more than 30 Western hemisphere leaders. Back home the headlines and the news anchors were hardly focusing on the summit, instead playing up the fact that 11 Secret Service agents and uniformed officers had been sent home on accusations of misconduct.

By the time the president got home, General Services Administration officials were appearing before congressional committees about a lavish Las Vegas conference and junkets to resorts, and more evidence of excess was beginning to emerge. Obama's attempts to draw attention to his efforts against oil market manipulation on Tuesday and to help the economy on Wednesday were drowned out by further Secret Service revelations and by the publication of gruesome photos depicting GIs with the bodies of Afghan insurgents.

"Even though you may not be losing ground because it's not the White House taking the hits, you're no longer gaining ground because the White House doesn't get its message out," said Ari Fleischer, a former spokesman for President George W. Bush.

Obama quickly tried to put distance between himself and the accounts of misbehavior. White House spokesmen avoided getting into specifics, instead citing investigations under way and referring reporters to the Secret Service or the GSA or the Pentagon.

"If it's at an agency, White Houses do their best to keep it arms' length and let the agency take the hits and deal with it," Fleischer said. "I think that's what's going on here."

Yet, the president can't turn his back on the problems, either, and is ultimately held responsible for restoring the reputations of troubled agencies.

"Part of the president's job is to protect the institutions of government," said Paul Light, an expert on government bureaucracies and professor of public service at New York University. "He is administrator in chief whether he likes it or not."

Some Republicans were folding the Secret Service and GSA episodes together with Solyndra, a solar firm that received a half-billion dollar federal loan and was touted by the Obama administration before declaring bankruptcy last year.

"Presidents are to be held responsible," Sen. Jeff Sessions, R-Ala., said Thursday. "They also need to be responsible for insisting that from the top to the lowest employee that not one single dollar will be wasted in this government," he added. "I don't sense that this president has shown that kind of managerial leadership."

What's more, each of the recent events also works in its own corrosive way.

The GSA's $823,000 Las Vegas conference, complete with gourmet food, clown and mind reader, have given Republicans ammunition to attack government bloat.

NYC Basement Searched for Boy Missing Since '79

Police and the FBI searched a Manhattan basement Thursday for the remains of a 6-year-old boy whose 1979 disappearance on his way to school helped launch a missing children's movement that put kids' faces on milk cartons. Ethan Patz vanished on May 25, 1979, after leaving his family's SoHo apartment for a short walk to catch a school bus. A forensic team planned to dig up the concrete floor and remove drywall partitions to find blood, clothing or human remains in the building, just down the street from Ethan's home, police spokesman Paul Browne said. — Associated Press

Norway Killer Played Game to Sharpen Aim

BY KARL RITTER AND JULIA GRONNEVET
Associated Press

OSLO, Norway • Anders Behring Breivik knew it would take practice to be able to slaughter dozens of people before being shot by police. In a chilling account, the far-right fanatic claimed Thursday that he sharpened his aim by playing the video game "Call of Duty: Modern Warfare" for hours on end.

Breivik told an Oslo court he also took steroids to build physical strength and meditated to "de-emotionalize" himself before the bombing and shooting rampage that left 77 people dead. He figured he had no more than a 5 percent chance of not being killed by police.

His lack of remorse and matter-of-fact description of weapons and tactics — he even considered using a flame thrower — were deeply disturbing to families of the victims, most of whom were teenagers.

"They perceive him as evil and dangerous and reopening wounds," said

Mette Yvonne Larsen, a lawyer representing the bereaved.

"It's one thing to read explanations, it's quite another to hear a person present such a message," Larsen said. "I am personally quite shocked."

Breivik testified that he prepared for his attacks by cutting off contact with the outside world and devoting himself to video games. He said he played "World of Warcraft" for 16 hours a day while living with his mother in 2006 and, starting in January 2010, played "Call of Duty: Modern Warfare," primarily to get a feel for how to use rifle sights.

Christopher Ferguson, a clinical psychologist at Texas A&M International University, said that although some research suggests action games can improve "visuospatial cognition," it's difficult to say whether Breivik could have improved his accuracy by playing "Modern Warfare."

"Let us keep in mind too that he was shooting kids on an island from which they could not escape easily," said Ferguson, whose research involves the Doritos tacos boosts sales at Taco Bell stores • Taco Bell's new take on the taco, featuring orange Doritos dust, has helped put the sizzle back in its U.S. sales after a nearly yearlong slump stemming from a short-lived lawsuit that caused the chain some queasiness. Sales at Taco Bell stores open at least a year — an indicator of a restaurant chain's health — rose 6 percent for the first quarter. Its parent company, Yum Brands Inc., on Thursday predicted even more robust sales gains for the Mexican-style chain in the current quarter.

Starbucks to Stop Using 'Crushed Bug' Dye

NEW YORK (AP) • Starbucks Corp. says it will stop using a red dye in its drinks that is derived from crushed bugs.

The Seattle-based coffee chain said in a blog post on its website Thursday that it made the decision to reformulate its drinks after feedback from consumers prompted a "thorough" evaluation.

The company says it will swap out cochineal extract, which is made from the juice of a tiny beetle, and instead use lycopene, a tomato-based extract.

Cochineal dye is widely used in foods and cosmetics products such as lipstick, yogurt and shampoo. Starbucks had used the coloring in its strawberry flavored mixed drinks and foods like the raspberry swirl cake and red velvet whoopie pie.

The company says the items will be reformulated by the end of June.

An online petition on Change.org asking the chain to stop using the bug-based dye had collected more than 6,000 signatures. The petition was started by a South Carolina woman who wanted to inform consumers that the chain's strawberry drinks weren't vegan-friendly.

Rumors Swirl of Smaller iPad, which Jobs Detested

Rumors of a smaller iPad, or 'iPad mini' have percolated ever since the first iPad was launched two years ago.

BY PETER SVENSSON

Associated Press

NEW YORK • Apple generates more gossip than the Kardashians.

There's a constantly spinning mill of rumors about Apple products, most of which turn out to be untrue. What's unusual this week is that talk has revived of a smaller iPad model, an idea company founder Steve Jobs derided publicly a year before he died.

Apple and its suppliers aren't commenting. Rumors of a smaller iPad, or "iPad mini" have percolated ever since the first iPad was launched two years ago. This time around, they're fed by media reports from South Korea, China and Taiwan, saying Apple has ordered Samsung screens that are 7.86 inches measured on the diagonal. That would make for a screen about half the size of the current iPad, which has a diagonal measurement of 9.7 inches.

• Why it's a good idea: A smaller tablet would help Apple further its lead in the tablet market.

"From a competitive standpoint, we believe an iPad mini with a lower price point would be the competition's worst nightmare," says Shaw Wu, an analyst at Sterne Agee. "Most (competitors) already have a tough enough time competing against the iPad 2, as well as the new iPad."

Apple has successfully fended off competitors who have tried to sell tablets in iPad's size range. But last year, Amazon.com Inc. figured out how to crack Apple's stranglehold on tablets by making a half-size, no-frills tablet. The result was the Kindle Fire, which sells for $199 — basically, the cost of production. Amazon has sold millions of them.

Apple sells the iPod Touch for $199, but its screen is about a quarter of the size of the Kindle Fire — a big disadvantage for people who want to enjoy books, movies and games. It also sells the older iPad model for $399. It has nothing in between.

Price isn't the only reason customers might prefer a smaller tablet. A 7-inch model would fit in many handbags, unlike the current iPad.

Wu says he's seen evidence of Apple experimenting with both smaller and larger tablet screens since 2009, and doesn't sense that the release of an iPad mini is "imminent."

• What it might cost: It could be hard for Apple to make money from an iPad-quality 7-inch tablet that sells for $299. Analysts at IHS iSuppli estimate that a smaller tablet would cost around $250 to produce, a figure that doesn't include development costs, packaging or patent royalties. That suggests Apple would price it at $329 or $349.

"The first thing you always have to keep in mind is: Apple is not going to sell an unprofitable product," says Rhoda Alexander at iSuppli.

• Why it's a bad idea: A smaller iPad would be a headache for software developers.

"Going to a different screen size ends up being a ton of work," says Nate Weiner, the creator of Pocket, an application that stores Web pages and other material for later reading.

"If you take, for an example, an interface built for the iPad and try to cram it into the Kindle Fire, it just doesn't fit," he says.

However, developers who have already adapted their programs to the Kindle Fire or other 7-inch tablets wouldn't face a big hurdle in adapting to a third Apple screen size, Weiner says.

• What Jobs thought: Apple's late CEO made a rare appearance on an October 2010 earnings conference call to launch a tirade against the 7-inch tablet Samsung Electronics Inc. was set to launch as the first major challenger to the iPad.

"The reason we wouldn't make a 7-inch tablet isn't because we don't want to hit a price point, it's because we don't think you can make a great tablet with a 7-inch screen," Jobs said. "The 7-inch tablets are tweens, too big to compete with a smartphone and too small to compete with an iPad."

He said the resolution of the display could be increased to make up for the smaller size, but that would be "meaningless, unless your tablet also includes sandpaper, so that the user can sand down their fingers to around one quarter of the present size."

"There are clear limits of how close you can physically place elements on a touch screen before users cannot reliably tap, flick or pinch them. This is one of the key reasons we think the 10-inch screen size is the minimum size required to create great tablet apps," he said.

Jobs failed to mention Apple's success developing apps that use taps, flicks and pinches on the iPhone, with its 3.5-inch screen.

Momentum in U.S. Hiring, Home Sales Appears to Slow

BY CHRISTOPHER S. RUGABER AND DEREK KRAVITZ

Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Momentum in U.S. hiring and home sales appears to be slowing, according to fresh data.

The average number of people seeking U.S. unemployment benefits over the past month is at a three-month high. And fewer Americans bought previously owned homes in March after mild weather boosted sales in the previous two months.

A possible weakening in two critical elements of the U.S. economy suggests growth could stay modest this year.

"We are in for a few more quarters of moderate growth before stronger gains might appear," said Joel Naroff, president of Naroff Economic Advisors. More hiring is needed to drive up wages and salaries and fuel the recovery, he added.

The Labor Department said Thursday that weekly applications dipped last week by 2,000 to a seasonally adjusted 386,000. But that was only after the department revised up the previous week's data to show 8,000 more people applied for benefits than first estimated.

The four-week average, a less volatile measure, rose last week by 5,500, to 374,750. That's the highest level in three months, although it is still 9 percent lower than the level from September.

Unemployment benefit applications have started to tick up in recent weeks after months of steady declines. When applications fall below 375,000, it generally suggests hiring will be strong enough to lower the unemployment rate.

Economists said temporary layoffs stemming from the spring holidays may have inflated the figures. Many school employees are laid off during spring break and are eligible to file for benefits.

Elaborate Prom Invitations Get New Name: Prom-posals

BY BETH J. HARPAZ
Associated Press

NEW YORK • Never mind a text that meekly asks “will u go 2 prom w/me?”

Today’s teenagers are taking a cue from elaborately staged wedding proposals, inviting each other to prom with flash mobs, scavenger hunts, homemade music videos and even airplane banners flying over the beach.

And while coming up with clever or romantic ways to ask someone to prom isn’t an entirely new concept, the effort and expense going into the big ask these days has given rise to a new term: Prom-posal.

“This year is the first time we’ve done prom invitations,” said Remy Colin, owner of Aerial Messages, a company that charges $600 for a plane to fly a banner with a message on it. “It’s expensive as hell for a high schooler who doesn’t have any money, but we’ve done two in the past three months,” one in Myrtle Beach, S.C., and one in Tampa, Fla.

Alex Chichkov, 17, arranged for a plane trailing “Come to prom with me, Kayla?” to fly over a student fundraiser his girlfriend Kayla Bennett was attending at King High School in Tampa in March.

“I’ve seen it for weddings and I wanted to do something huge or unique,” said Alex, a senior who paid for the flyerover with money he earned working at a family business. “I didn’t want to do anything generic. In the history of the school, no one has done anything that big. It’s going to be my only prom, first time ever, last time ever, with someone who’s been my girlfriend for two and a half years, so it deserves to be that big.”

The plane flew over a student Relay for Life event, which raises money for the American Cancer Society, right before the talent show, while a sound system played a Michael Buble cover of the Frank Sinatra song, “Come Fly With Me.”

“Everyone was cheering and she had the biggest smile on her face,” Alex said. Naturally, Kayla said yes.

Rebecca Leet, 17, had an audience of over 250 people for a prom-posal from her boyfriend, Joe Nelson, 18. Rebecca and Joe both worked on a school performance of “Thoroughly Modern Millie” at Collierville High School in Collierville, Tenn. At the end of the show, their teacher, Keith Salter, told the audience to stay put for one more thing.

Joe came out on stage, got down on one knee and pulled out a box with a ring in it. “It’s not what you think!” Salter quickly assured the audience, as some gasped, thinking it was a teenage marriage proposal.

Then Joe popped the question — the prom question. “She got all teary and said yes,” Joe said. “It made

People for Pets –MVHS, Inc. and the Twin Falls Animal Shelter are making an urgent plea to Landlords in the Magic Valley and all over Southern Idaho. Please consider allowing long term pet owners to rent at your properties, these families have obviously taken very good care of their pets to have kept them this long. The Twin Falls Animal Shelter is overwhelmed at the number of owner surrendered older cats and dogs. It is heart breaking from many perspectives: It is a devastating and emotionally traumatizing to all who are involved. The size of the pet should not be a factor in the decision as to whether or not to allow it at the rental property, as it is the individual pets training and love that determines its behavior /care.

Help us keep families and pets together during these most difficult of times. Statistically, even in Ada county, landlords are responding to this crisis by welcoming pets at their rental properties.

Our pet food pantry is almost completely depleted : for those who don't know about this program, it is a supply of donated cat and dog food that we are able to give to those persons who are in need of pet food.

Cruise Line: Captain Was Never Told about Drifting Boat

BY JUAN ZAMORANO AND JEFF BARNARD
Associated Press

RIO HATO, Panama • A Panamanian man and his two friends had been drifting for 16 days in an open fishing boat in the Pacific Ocean when they saw a huge white ship. They would be saved, they thought, and Adrian Vasquez began waving a dark red sweater.

Birdwatchers with powerful spotting scopes on the promenade deck of the luxury cruise ship Star Princess saw a little boat adrift miles away. They told ship staff about the man desperately waving a red cloth. The cruise ship didn't stop, and the fishing boat drifted another two weeks before it was found. By then, Vasquez's two friends had died.

"I said, 'God will not forgive them,'" Vasquez told AP as he recalled the encounter in the waters off South America. "Today, I still feel rage when I remember."

Princess Cruises, based in Santa Clarita, Calif., said Thursday a preliminary investigation showed that their ship did not stop and word of the disabled boat never made it to Capt. Edward Perrin or the officer on duty.

If it did, the company said, the captain and crew would have altered course to rescue the men, just as the cruise line has done more than 30 times in the last ten years. The company expressed sympathy for the men and their families.

On Feb. 24, the three men set out for a day of fishing from Rio Hato, the site of a former U.S. Army base guarding the Panama Canal on the Pacific Coast. They were on their way back, happy with their catch, when the motor died.

Vasquez recalled seeing the ship — "It was big. It was white" — on the morning of March 10.

Vasquez remembered jumping up and waving the sweater. He raised it over his head, dropped it down to his knees, over and over and over. Though near death, Elvis Oropeza, 24, joined in, waving an orange life jacket.

"We felt happy, because we thought they were coming to rescue us," he said.

Three Best Bets

Incredible Energy

Don't know many Creole classics? You won't get them out of your head after Wednesday's concert by Jeffery Broussard & The Creole Cowboys. Led by an accordion master, the band interprets Louisiana standards and performs its own contemporary zydeco. I might not make it to the Creole cooking class that precedes their Twin Falls show, but I can't wait to hear that fiddle.

The Ways of Water

Twin Falls folks have to drive to see it, but an art exhibit opening tonight in Ketchum takes all of its inspiration from Magic Valley's famous falls. For "Shoshone Falls: 3 Perspectives," artists photographed the rushing water and constructed walk-in structures of crinkled, twisted paper. In a companion exhibit opening next week in Hailey, you'll find computer-manipulated images of Shoshone Falls and its manmade structures. A great place to ponder the landmark you thought you knew.

Get the Blues

A fledgling Jazz Club dinner series will feature a Southern California duo Saturday night in Twin Falls. Diva Denise Carter, a powerful singer with a gospel background and earthy styling, and John Pagels, a classically trained guitarist with a blues riff, will perform "At Last: Tribute to Etta James" for the dinner show. Expect blues, R&B and pop music as you dine on pork ribs or blackened trout.

For details, see the calendar inside.

'Uncommon Land'

Magic Valley Symphony will honor Idaho and its artists with a pops music night.

BY ANDREW WEEKS
aweeks@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • If you've always had the impression that symphonies weren't for you, think again.

The Magic Valley Symphony on April 27 will perform its "Ida-Hoe-Down," a pops concert with a bit of country.

Country, as in landscape. The concert includes a slide show of landscape photographs submitted by Idaho artists in the symphony's "Wild About Idaho" photo contest.

The music will be approachable, said Paula Sinclair, symphony board president. "It will be an opportunity for people who don't think they like symphonies to give us a try."

Music will be a combination of recognizable pieces such as Aaron Copland's "Rodeo" and the Boston Pops Orchestra's "Pops Hoedown," as well as pieces created by Magic Valley composers such as College of Southern Idaho music professor George Halsell's "Fanfare for an Uncommon Land."

The fanfare, first introduced to listeners during an October concert, received a positive response, Sinclair said.

"The audience loved the fanfare," she said. "We opened the season with it, and we're going to close the season with it."

A main attraction will be "The Snake River Canyon Suite," a musical tribute about the Gem State spun from Ferde Grofe's "The Grand Canyon Suite." The audience also will hear music director and conductor Ted Hadley's "Huckleberry Jam," a piece he composed in 2008 for Filer and Jerome middle schools.

And there will be some surprises, Hadley said.

You can count on those. Darth Vader made an appearance during a concert in April 2011.

THERE'S PLENTY OF HUMOR IN DATING

BY NATALIE DICOU
Times-News

TWIN FALLS • Bring a date to a show that makes fun of dating, say cast members of an upcoming College of Southern Idaho production.

Next week students will open their performance of V.B. Leghorn's "Collective Dating," a collection of 12 scenes about wacky dating scenarios.

"We're making fun of the different types of dating: Internet dating, speed dating, blind dating," said Danielle Briscoe, who plays a cave-woman in "Predating," a vignette based in pre-historic times.

"It's 12 scenes about dating through the ages," said director Tony Mannen, noting "Predating" depicts early man inventing the wheel as a way to impress women.

"Let's not confuse this with Shakespeare because it's not," Mannen said. Instead, it's a show aimed at people who want to "leave their blues behind and have a good time at the theater."

There are two versions of the show. The audience will see six scenes one night, and then the other six the next night.

Cast member Alix Van Noy explained why it's a great place to bring a date: "Come learn what not to do."

Crazy Neighbors? You Can Relate to This Script

BY BLAIR KOCH
For the Times-News

TWIN FALLS • Engaged but not in love, and aspiring for fame, Michael Caldwell listens to the voices in his head and heads to New York City, leaving his Ohio hometown and a fiancée far behind.

"Mixed Nuts," by Simon Donoghue and Nancy Manera, opens as a simple coming-of-age tale. But the Canyon Ridge High School Thespians preparing to bring the play to the school's stage April 25-28 decided on this script because of its slapstick comedy and fun characters.

"I was looking for something different," said director and drama teacher Chris Carey. She read a variety of scripts for the spring production before bringing four selections to class so students could weigh in.

The Thespians is a young theater company. The school, which opened its doors in fall 2009, doesn't yet have a strong identity, but every show hones its reputation.

"I want to be an outlet for these kids and be the group that thinks outside the box. Canyon Ridge should do the scripts that other schools haven't done ... we want to be unique and do shows that aren't recognizable to the community," Carey said.

Open House Shows Off Remodeled Hailey Theater

BY KAREN BOSSICK
For the Times-News

HAILEY • Footlight Dance instructor Hilarie Neely can't get enough of the view from the stage of the newly remodeled Community Campus theater.

"The theater has such a sense of intimacy it didn't have before," she said. "Before, it seemed so cavernous. Now, you feel you're reaching every single person in the theater, even though it seats 500."

Neely's sentiments will be put to the test Wednesday evening when the newly christened Wood River High School Performing Arts Theater at 1050 Fox Acres Road is unveiled.

The open house starts at 5:30 p.m. There'll be desserts from Chartwell's Cafe and tours of the Community Campus. Kids can play in a bouncy house while adults listen to performances from the B-Tones men's singing group and Sun Valley Summer Symphony music students.

A ribbon cutting and performing arts showcase in the new theater will follow at 7 p.m. The Wood River High drama program will present a preview of its "Seussical Jr." play, and the school's orchestra, band and choir will perform.

The remodeling takes the project from a school lecture hall built in 1978 to a first-rate theatrical setting that can accommodate every need in the community, including lectures, plays, dance and choral music, Neely said.

"Before, the sound would get lost and we would strain to hear what kids were singing or saying. We didn't have a sound system so we had to bring in speakers," she recalled.

The new auditorium has 494 seats, compared with 590 in the old facility. The new configuration allows more room between the back of one seat and the front of the next. Handles can be removed on six aisle seats to allow people to transfer out of wheelchairs. There also are six spots for wheelchairs.

And the floor is slanted more than the old one, allowing those in the back a better view of the stage.

The new theater also features a lobby entrance, ticket booth, orchestra pit, makeup and dressing rooms, a lighting catwalk above the audience and two catwalks above the stage.

Lecturers will be able to operate the projection screen from the lectern. And events can be projected into other rooms in the Community Campus in the event of overflow crowds.

Behind the stage is a black box experimental theater for one-person performances and small chamber recitals. An adjacent classroom can accommodate 15 to 20 Summer Symphony School of Music students.

The digital lighting and sound systems were designed so that students can learn to operate them, said Mike Chatterton, the Blaine County School District's financial manager.

The remodeling was done for $1.54 million from a 10-year, $59.8 million plant facilities levy approved by Blaine County voters in 2009. Sawtooth Construction and Ruscitto-Latham-Blanton architects controlled costs so well that the project will likely come in $40,000 under budget, Chatterton added.

While school performances have priority, the new facility offers the opportunity to bring more outside performances to the Wood River Valley, said Teresa Gregory, the Community Campus building coordinator.

"For me this is a place of celebration," she said. "I've never lived in a place like this where we have such an ability to be connected to the arts. In other places the arts are often too expensive or too hard to get to. This theater honors the excellence of our school system. And it celebrates who we are as a community."

McClusky

TWIN FALLS • Dr. David A. McClusky will speak on "Three Generations of the Family Doctor in the Magic Valley" for the fourth lecture in the Magic Valley Arts Council's 2012 Brown Bag Lecture Series.

The free public lecture is at noon April 27 at the Twin Falls Center for the Arts, and it's a chance to learn about local history while you munch your lunch. Bring it with you to listen to McClusky's account of medical changes of the past 94 years through the lives of three generations of Magic Valley doctors and their patients.

Then: one antibiotic, no X-rays, no treatment for cancer, home deliveries, house calls by horse and buggy. Today: hundreds of antibiotics, MRIs, CT scans, heart stents, blood thinners, cancer cures, no house calls, computer-assisted medicine.

McClusky, a native of Twin Falls, graduated from the University of Idaho in 1966, served in the U.S. Air Force from 1966 to 1970, received his medical degree from Northwestern University Medical School in 1976, and returned to Twin Falls as a general surgeon in 1982.

He was a general partner and owner of Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital from 1983 to 2002, was the medical adviser to the Idaho State University Physician Assistant Program, and has served on the Idaho Board of Medicine since 2005, chairing it since 2009. He's also a member of the St. Luke's Magic Valley foundation board, president of the Mustard Tree Clinic and Wellness Center board and a member of the governor's Idaho Health Care Summit.

Kids May Apply for Summer Writing Camps

TWIN FALLS • The Log Cabin Literary Center, a Boise-based center for literature arts and an incubator for beginning writers, is accepting applications for this summer's youth writing workshops, set for June 11-15 on the College of Southern Idaho campus.

All participants work in groups of eight to 12 and are published in the book "Words Work Wonders."

• "Word Play," for students going into grades three and four, runs 9 a.m. to noon in Shields 104. Students will engage the five senses, play with language as a path to writing imaginative poems and stories, and learn fun activities to jump start their writing.

• "Cabin Writers," for students going into grades five and six, runs either from 9 a.m. to noon or 1-4 p.m. in Shields 105. Students will discover how art, music, nature and their own inner voice lead them to stories and poems. They will learn to use figurative language, sensory description and musical devices and to write in a variety of genres.

• "Urban Ink," for students going into grades seven through nine, runs 1-4 p.m. in Shields 104. Professional writers will teach students to create unique characters and develop their voices through fiction, poetry and creative nonfiction. Students will discover techniques for continuing to write after camp ends.

Tuition is $125 through May 2 and $145 after May 2, and scholarships are available. Register: Jan@TheCabinIdaho.org or 331-8000.

Mixed Nuts

As crazy as Michael's situation is, he's simply the cherry atop the fruit salad established by the apartment residents long before his arriving. His landlord, Edna, played by Shanna Madsen-Stowman, 16, arrives on the scene in a fluffy pink bathrobe and matching slippers, and Marshall Ryan, played by sophomore Ivan Kranjc, 16, emerges as an olive.

"Marshall is an actor specializing in playing inanimate objects, a professional fruit and vegetable guy," Kranjc said.

The show will definitely define a humorous side to the Canyon Ridge High School Thespians but will showcase the cast's dedication as well.

"To get the Russian accent for my character it's been a lot of work, a lot of listening and a lot of practice," said Amber Callen, cast as Tanya Romanov, a Russian dancer who breaks into scream therapy. Tanya also has a romantic eye on Michael. "I have a CD that I've been practicing with because I want the accent to be credible and real."

The cast has nailed the crazy part, and the Callen's accent sounded pretty good, too.

Ticket Sales Open for S.V.'s Summer Concert Series

KETCHUM • Two South African superstar acts will kick off the Sun Valley Center for the Arts' Summer Concert Series, followed by a multilingual band with an international cult following and a pair of notable singers.

This year's concerts feature Johnny Clegg and Ladysmith Black Mambazo on Aug. 6 at River Run Lodge; Pink Martini on Aug. 13 at River Run; and a return engagement by Bonnie Raitt with guest Mavis Staples on Aug. 30 at Sun Valley Pavilion.

Tickets range in price from $30 to $95, and series ticket purchasers save 10 percent. Sun Valley Center members can buy tickets now, and sales open to the public April 27.

Singer-songwriter Clegg and Ladysmith Black Mambazo — touring together for the first time — bring a Zulu beat to western audiences. The vocalists of Ladysmith are best known for their work on Paul Simon's "Graceland," while Clegg has performed around the world.

The Oregon-based band Pink Martini mixes up Brazilian samba, some 1930s-style French jazz, maybe a little '60s lounge music.

Raitt's sold-out 2006 concert had people buzzing for months, the Sun Valley Center said. Raitt, who released her 19th album, "Slipstream," this spring, is noted for her bluesy voice and emotive slide guitar playing. She'll be joined by Staples, a gospel and R&B singer.

Buy tickets at sunvalleycenter.org or 726-9491, ext. 10.

Apply for Summer Theater Camps

TWIN FALLS • The College of Southern Idaho is taking registrations for CSI Theatre Camp (ages 8-18) and CSI Junior Theatre Camp (ages 5-8). Both will take place in CSI's Fine Arts Theatre the second week in July.

In this summer camp, kids learn how to use stage makeup to create bruises, gashes and wrinkles. They learn how to swing a sword, take a fake punch and fall without getting hurt. They spend mornings building and decorating an entire room, then learn how to speak like an Englishman or a Southern belle in the afternoon.

For kids of any experience level, Theatre Camp teaches what goes into a play — on stage and behind the scenes — in a hands-on environment. Age-appropriate breakaway classes include stage makeup, set construction, stage lighting, stage combat, acting, audition preparation and musical theater.

On the last day of camp, students showcase their work by putting on a play for friends and family.

Early registration (post-marked by June 25) is $150; registration after June 25 is $180.

The camp runs from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. July 9-13. Students bring their own lunches for the first four days. There will be a pizza party on the last afternoon of camp before the final production, set for 5:30 p.m. July 13 in CSI's Fine Arts Theatre.

Junior Theatre Camp, a two-day afternoon camp, introduces younger students to theater. No experience is required. Junior campers get a behind-the-scenes tour of CSI's Fine Arts Center and learn the basics of stage direction, expressing emotions, face painting, stage voice and movement, and costumes, and they prepare a short performance for parents.

Junior Camp cost is $50. Its runs 12:30-5 p.m. July 12-13. After a pizza party, the students perform at 5:15 p.m. July 13 in the Fine Arts Theatre.

Camp directors Jud and Tamara Harmon are co-owners of Random Acts of Theatre, and they act, direct, produce and tech design for local productions. In addition to their work with RAT and the CSI theater department, the Harmons have taught local students in schools, JUMP Co. and CSI's Community Education Center.

Registration forms and information: csi.edu/communityed, 732-6288 or email to cbarigar@csi.edu.

Martha Stewart's Recipe for a New PBS Show

NEW YORK (AP) • Martha Stewart is cooking up a culinary master class for public television.

The TV host, author and media mogul announced Thursday that she'll launch a new PBS series this fall called "Martha Stewart's Cooking School."

Each weekly half-hour will feature Stewart in the kitchen demonstrating classic cooking techniques. She says she will illustrate the building blocks of recipes, from roasting to poaching to braising.

The series, inspired by Stewart's best-selling book of the same name, will air on PBS stations across the nation.

Stewart's daily talk show, which aired in syndication before moving to cable's Hallmark Channel two years ago, is ending this summer.

Symphony

This month's concert is a tribute to the Gem State. Photos displayed during the concert give a good smattering of Idaho's rugged and colorful landscape and showcase its talented artists — photographers, musicians and composers, Hadley said.

The photo contest received nearly 400 entries, Hadley said. The symphony picked seven winners; their photography will be displayed on panels during the show. Several pieces that did not make the final seven will be in the slide show.

Winning photographer Chad Chorney of Twin Falls is excited to attend the con-

Tulips are not the only spring flowers that bloom from bulbs. There are many others that brighten the landscape once winter snows disappear. Spring brings blooms in white, yellow, purple, blue, pink and sometimes orange, and the flowers' bright colors are a welcome sight after a long, gray winter. Most spring flowers do come from bulbs or corms. They need to be planted in the fall and go through a cold period to activate their growing process.

The leaves of the plant are similar to grass, with a silver stripe running down the middle. Crocuses grow very close to the ground and like sun but will tolerate partial shade.

Hyacinth

The hyacinth is probably one of the most fragrant spring flowers. The star-shaped flowers grow on a column. They may grow up to twelve inches high and come in several colors including pink, white, blue and creamy yellow. The leaves are very narrow and there are only four to six of them per plant. Hyacinths grow from a bulb and should be planted in full sun in the fall.

Crocus

Crocus flowers grow in an elongated, star-like fashion and look like a trumpet when not fully open. The flowers grow in a variety of colors including purple, yellow, orange and white, and some have stripes. Crocus flowers grow from a corm that should be planted in the fall about three inches deep in clusters.

Combined Notice

Notice to Public of No Significant Impact on the Environment And Notice to Public of Request for Release of Funds

City of Twin Falls Publication Date: April 20, 2012
305 3rd Ave. East, P.O. Box 5079
Twin Falls, ID 83303-5079
208-735-7245

These notices shall satisfy two separate but related procedural requirements for activities to be undertaken by the City of Twin Falls.

Request for the Release of Funds

On or about May 8, 2012, the City of Twin Falls will submit a request to the Idaho Department of Commerce, State of Idaho, administering agency for the release of Idaho Community Development Block Grant (ICDBG) funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383), as amended, to undertake the following project:

Industrial Water Capacity Improvements Project
Construction of transmission lines and installation of a variable speed pump and back-up generator.

City of Twin Falls, Twin Falls County, Idaho
Estimated Cost of Project: $ 4,492,000.00

FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT

The City of Twin Falls has determined that the project will have no significant impact on the human environment. Therefore, an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA) is not required. Additional project information is contained in the Environmental Review Record (ERR) on file at the City of Twin Falls, 305 3rd Ave. E. where the ERR can be examined and may be examined or copied weekdays 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

PUBLIC COMMENTS ON FINDING

Any individual, group, or agency disagreeing with this determination or wishing to comment on the project may submit written comment to the City of Twin Falls for receiving and responding to comments. All comments received by May 7, 2012 will be considered by the City of Twin Falls prior to authorizing submission of a request for release of funds. Comment should specify which Notice they are addressing.

RELEASE OF FUNDS

The City of Twin Falls certifies to the Idaho Department of Commerce that Greg Lanting, in his official capacity as Mayor consents to accept the jurisdiction of the federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental review process and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The Idaho Department of Commerce's approval of the certification satisfies its responsibilities under NEPA and related laws and authorities, and allows for the City of Twin Falls to use ICDBG funds.

OBJECTIONS TO STATE RELEASE OF FUNDS

The Idaho Department of Commerce will accept objections to its release of funds and the City of Twin Falls certification for a period of fifteen (15) days following the anticipated submission date or its receipt of the request (whichever is later) only if they are on one of the following bases:

- The certification was not executed by the certifying officer.
 - The City of Twin Falls has omitted a step or failed to make a decision or finding required by HUD regulations at 24 CFR part 58;
 - The City of Twin Falls has committed funds or incurred costs not authorized by 24 CFR Part 58 before approval of the release of funds by Idaho Department of Commerce.
 - Another Federal agency acting pursuant to 40 CFR Part 1504 has submitted a written finding that the project is unsatisfactory from the standpoint of environmental quality.
- Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedures at 24 CFR Part 58 and shall be addressed to:
- Dennis Porter, Community Development Manager
Division of Economic Development
Idaho Department of Commerce
700 West State Street
PO Box 83720
Boise, ID 83720-0093
Telephone: 208-334-2650, Ext. 2145
- Potential objectors should contact the Idaho Department of Commerce to verify the actual last day of the objection period.
- /s/ Greg Lanting, Mayor, City of Twin Falls
- This Notice to the Public, the Finding of No Significant Impact, and the Request for Release of Funds can be provided in a format accessible to persons with disabilities and/or persons with limited English proficiency upon request.

Final Notice and Public Explanation of a Proposed Activity in a 100-Year Floodplain

This is to give notice that the City of Twin Falls has conducted an evaluation as required by Executive Order 11988 Floodplain, in accordance with HUD regulations at 24 CFR 55.20 Subpart C Procedures for Making Determinations on Floodplain Management, to determine the potential affect that its activity in the floodplain will have on the human environment. The City's Industrial Water Capacity Improvements project is funded in part by an Idaho Community Development Block Grant. The project scope of work includes the construction of 24-inch water transmission main lines and will encompass less than one acre of floodplain along Highland Avenue East and Eastland Drive South. The proposed project is located in the City of Twin Falls. The City of Twin Falls has considered the following alternatives and mitigation measures to be taken to minimize adverse impacts and to restore and preserve natural and beneficial values:

A. No Action - The "No Action" alternative is not practicable. The City must deliver additional water to the water tank located on Hankins Road to support the development existing and occurring on the southeast area of the community. Without the construction of the proposed water line, the City will be unable to supply the quantity of water that is necessary to support existing demand and the proposed development that is supported from the Hankins water tank.

B. Alternative Routes - Regardless of the route taken from the South Washington to the Hankins tank, the new water line must cross the Perrine Coulee. Therefore, no alternative route is possible without crossing a special flood hazard area. The City of Twin Falls has reevaluated the alternatives to building in the floodplain and has determined that it has no practicable alternative. This activity must be located in the floodplain because no practical alternative is applicable. Environmental files that document compliance with steps 3 through 6 of Executive Order 11988 are available for public inspection, review and copying upon request at the times and location delineated in the last paragraph of this notice for receipt of comments.

Written comments must be received by the City of Twin Falls at the following address on or before April 28, 2012: City of Twin Falls, P.O. Box 1907, Twin Falls, Idaho 83303-1907 and 208-735-7256, Attention: Troy Vitek, City Flood Plain Administrator, during the hours of 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Comments may also be submitted via e-mail at tvitek@tfdid.org.

This Notice can be provided in a format accessible to persons with disabilities and/or persons with limited English proficiency upon request.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

Notice of Realty Action: Proposed minor boundary revision at Minidoka National Historic Site, Jerome County, Idaho. The National Park Service is considering adding approximately 88.51 +/- acres of land that lies adjacent to the existing westerly boundary for the Minidoka National Historic Site. The proposed land addition is identified as parcel nos. 2, 3 and 4 in property survey recorded on 07/30/2009 under instrument no. 2093795 and identified as tax parcel nos: RP08S19E2300A and RP08S19E329001A.

The inclusion of this land within the park boundary will enable the current conservation easement holder to donate and convey its interest in the subject land to the National Park Service for the benefit of preserving and telling the Minidoka Internment Camp story that took place during WWII. The Camp's hospital and Army barracks designated as Blocks 2, 4, 6, 8, and 10 were situated on this 88.51-acre parcel.

Further information on this proposal is available from the National Park Service, Columbia Cascades Land Resources Program Center, 168 South Jackson Street, Seattle, Washington 98104; Attention: Mr. Rick Wagner (206) 220-4100. Public comments will be accepted, in writing, at his address until May 25, 2012.

The action to proceed with the boundary revision will become the final determination of the Department of the Interior, in the absence of any subsequent action to modify or vacate the proposal.

SUDOKU

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

DEAR ABBY: My two children were in a terrible car accident and were both airlifted to a children's hospital. My son was released two weeks later, but my daughter is still there, suffering from traumatic brain injury.

Abby, I was driving the car. Why can't my daughter have the life I took away from her? Why is she being punished and not me?

— ANGUISHED MOTHER

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ANGUISHED: You're asking a question that philosophers have pondered for centuries — why bad things happen to good people. In many cases the answer is simply "fate."

While you feel your daughter is being punished instead of you, I say the guilt you're carrying IS punishment and it is not healthy for you or your child. Please don't waste time flogging yourself, because your daughter needs you. Counseling may help you to come to terms with what happened. I hope you'll consider it, as you will need every ounce of strength you can muster to help her in the months ahead.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 16 and well below the average height for females. It bothers me a lot. I'm treated like a 5-year-old. I get picked up all the time, and it's awkward talking to people because they look straight down at me — and they never let me forget it.

I try to act cool about it, but honestly, I'm losing sleep over it. I'm really self-conscious, and when I get upset people just laugh at me and say I'm "cute." What should I do?

— LOOKED DOWN UPON IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR LOOKED DOWN UPON: No one has the right to pick you up or touch you in a familiar way without your permission. If this is happening at school, tell the principal about it because it could be classified as a form of bullying. It will then become the school administrator's job to make clear to your classmates that their behavior is not appropriate. If it's happening outside of school, your parents should be told so they can help you put an end to it.

P.S. If you work to develop your mind, you can accomplish what many short people have done — compensate by becoming a mental giant. Do that, and you'll become a role model that people of every size will look up to.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I are in a serious relationship. Not long ago we got on the topic of marriage and what we are looking for. He comes from a religious family and I do not. His mother says if we don't get married in a church with a religious ceremony, she won't consider me her daughter-in-law and we won't be a married couple.

I want a civil ceremony, something outside and casual. Thankfully, my boyfriend agrees with me. We're just not sure how to deal with his mom and her point of view. What should we do?

— LOOKING TO THE FUTURE IN NEW YORK

DEAR LOOKING TO THE FUTURE: What you should do depends upon to what degree you want to placate his mother. Having the casual ceremony you want in the setting of your choosing, and afterward having your union blessed in a clergyman's study, might be a workable compromise.

DEAR ABBY: What is a polite way to say: "My husband is NOT a bum; he's a hard-working, stay-at-home dad until he can find a job that offers not only benefits, but also enough extra money to afford child care, and it's none of your business?"

— BRING IN THE DOUGH, HE BAKES

DEAR BAKER'S WIFE: Don't get angry. Tell the person, "My husband is a very hard worker. His JOB took a vacation."

THE ACES ON BRIDGE® Bobby Wolff

"What quiverings in the distance of what light May not have lured him with high promises, And then gone down?"
— Edwin Arlington Robinson

When Poland defeated the U.S. squad in the Mindsports Olympiad four years ago, this was one of the bright spots for America.

In one room (not shown here), Jeff Meckstroth played three no-trump after opening one no-trump, hearing a transfer to spades, and then being offered a choice of games.

Meckstroth put up dummy's heart king on the low-heart lead, played a club to hand and a spade to dummy's queen, which held. He then cashed his clubs, noting the discard of a spade and a diamond from West. Then came the spade ace, the king dropping from West, who was next thrown in with a heart to be endplayed in diamonds. In the two-card ending, Meckstroth made his game by putting up the diamond queen when West led the suit.

In the closed room the auction went as shown, with West's overcall having indicated at least five hearts.

The attack was a low heart, which declarer, Krzysztof Martens, won in hand and continued with all four club tricks. Bob Hamman, appreciating what would happen in the endgame, made the thoughtful discards of two low diamonds, baring his king. Martens continued with the spade jack, covered by the king and ace. Next came the spade queen, and Martens, like Meckstroth, exited with a heart, expecting that Hamman would then be endplayed in diamonds. But after cashing his hearts, Hamman produced the spade nine: one down.

ANSWER: Pass. With a marginal hand over a pre-empt, you should tend to act with shortness and pass with length. While you would overcall one spade over one club, I'm not sure I would bid two spades over a weak two diamonds, and for sure I feel I'm a spade or a top honor short of bidding over a three-club pre-empt in direct seat. I might balance with this hand — but that's another story!

IF APRIL 20 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: The cosmic lights are green between now and the end of July for a delightful romance, a blossoming career or just quietly achieving material success without sacrificing your spiritual values. Make your most important decisions this spring, especially about your love life, and put crucial activities into motion in late July while you have cosmic protection in your part of the cosmic pie. In September and October, you shouldn't push your luck; people, especially those in authority, are likely to look at you with a critical eye. Those are very poor months to take on new obligations, make commitments or decisions.

HOROSCOPE
Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Facts speak for themselves. A complete list of pros and cons can't always help you make a decision. The blinders may come off; you may take a dim view of someone who has proved to be a hypocrite.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Row, row, row your boat. You are willing to travel gently down any stream. You may feel the need to express yourself creatively. Use your imagination as a tool to simplify the most difficult of tasks.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Anticipate someone's desires. Sensitivity to the wants and needs of others makes you seem brilliant, even on the job. If you are willing to go the extra mile, you may earn a bonus in your paycheck.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): For a few hours you might be consumed by doubts or feel isolated from others. Keep your faith turned on high and by tomorrow your worries will be banished by the kindness of a sensitive lover.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The world turns. You may alter your viewpoint when a new person enters your life. This could be someone who doesn't stay in your life long, but still has a strong impact on your outlook.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take the initiative and put a few more irons in the fire. You might get the most accomplished if you can find a way to work behind the scenes or in a private area. Avoid unnecessary interruptions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You like your name in lights. You don't care what is said about you as long as your name is mentioned. You might be happier if you take pride in gaining respect, rather than notoriety. Your critics could have a great day.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): No namby-pamby putting needed. Be decisive in your actions. Let others know exactly where you stand. A brief bout of pessimism might undermine your confidence just when you need it the most.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Save a valuable piece of information; put it to good use at a later date. Caution might be warranted when faced with a financial obligation. Life will become more carefree and comfortable soon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Missed manners are minded. When you become familiar with someone in your daily life, it is easy to omit the "please" and "thank you." These little formalities, however, do add grace to social wheels.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Today your talents may stand out when put to a test. Your efforts receive rave reviews. Only spend your money on things that will stand the test of time. Enjoy more free time when restraints fall away.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Overcome your instincts. You sometimes find it difficult to compete because you fear that you may hurt someone's feelings. To secure important objectives, it may be necessary to fight for the lead.
