Rupert Family Awaits Return of Fallen Soldier

A graveside service in Rupert is planned, but a date remains uncertain.

RUPERT • A graveside service in Rupert is planned for a U.S. Army soldier killed Thursday in Afghanistan, though its date remains uncertain.

Minico High School graduate Chris Workman, 33, was killed along with three other soldiers Thursday in a Blackhawk helicopter crash in the Garmsir District of Helmand Province in southern Afghanistan. The U.S. Army Blackhawk helicopter crashed while responding to a call to evacuate seven wounded Afghan police officers who were injured during a suicide bombing at a checkpoint.

Larry Hansen, of Hansen Mortuary in Rupert, said Monday that a graveside service for Workman is planned at the Rupert Cemetery. But it could take weeks before Workman is returned to Idaho, he said. A funeral in Boise will precede the burial in Rupert.

All funeral details are still pending, Hansen said, adding that Workman has been returned to the U.S. and is in Delaware.

Workman grew up in Rupert, where his family owns a car dealership. He graduated from Idaho State University with a bachelor's degree in business administration.

He lived in Boise prior to following his Army career to Hawaii two years ago.

GOP Hears from Hopefuls

Candidates for Twin Falls County sheriff both see drugs, school visits as key issues.

BY ALISON GENE SMITH

TWIN FALLS • Speeches by both candidates seeking to become Twin Falls County sheriff on the GOP ticket highlighted a Monday evening meeting of the Twin Falls Republican Women.

Incumbent Sheriff Tom Carter and challenger Jack Johnson, the chief deputy at the Jerome County Sheriff's Office, joined local legislators and candidates from several districts at the Turf Club in Twin Falls.

Johnson, a 27-year law enforcement veteran, spoke first, noting his leadership in groups like the Boy Scouts of America and the Twin Falls Optimist Club.

If elected, Johnson said he intends to have deputies in county schools regularly, whether it's daily or weekly — though he can't promise that until he's in the sheriff's chair, looking at the budget.

LOCAL DAIRY GOES GREEN

Dan De Kruyf, who co-owns Kowz R Us Dairy near Castleford, poses next to solar panels on his dairy.

Solar Trendsetter

Castleford dairy's solar panels are another step in the industry's slowly growing green movement.

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

CASTLEFORD • It took 30 solar panels, but Dan De Kruyf is now a dairy trendsetter.

He's cut his annual propane use by 134 gallons, and by the end of the year, he will have eliminated almost 30 tons worth of carbon emissions at his Castleford dairy.

"As dairy farmers, our margins are tight," said De Kruyf, co-owner of Kowz R Us Dairy. "I'm trying to be fiscally responsible and be a good steward of our resources as well."

Now other dairies are starting to take notice, said Carl Simpson, president of Renewable Energy NW, the company that approached De Kruyf about installing the solar panels.

"They want to do it because of this success at Kowz R Us Dairy," Simpson said. "We have at least eight other dairies that have expressed interest in setting up a similar project."

De Kruyf's solar panels are designed to heat more than 400 gallons of 55-degree well water to 165 degrees. The dairy uses the hot water to sanitize holding tanks and milking areas multiple times a day.

"Energy prices are only going up," he said. "It doesn't hurt to diversify where our power comes from."

The majority of the project was paid through a collection of grants from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, U.S. Treasury and Idaho Power. The total amount came to a little more than $53,600.

And while more dairies are looking to solar panels to cut costs and carbon emissions, this isn't the first environmental trend the industry has been part of.

In 2008, anaerobic digesters slowly caught on as a tool to reduce methane emissions and harness a renewable energy source. However, a lack of successful projects has made the industry wary of jumping on board with them, said Bob Joblin, a partner with AgPower Group that manages and develops digesters on behalf of several Jerome dairies.

Dairies were able to pay for the cost of digester installation with the help of tax incentives and grant programs, Joblin said. However, those incentives face cuts from Congress.

"We have to explain why the others failed,"

TWIN FALLS • Longtime Twin Falls City Council member Lance Clow is stepping down, and the council is giving Twin Falls residents one week to apply to replace him.

Council won't review Canyon Park development vote. See A5.

Clow is running unopposed for an open Idaho House seat in District 24. In the face of his imminent departure, he said, he wanted to give a new council member a say in the upcoming budget-setting process.

"As I contemplate the important work ahead for the city council, specifically the budget and Strategic Plan, I realize that it is important that these plans be developed by the council members who will be charged with implementation," Clow said in a statement.

Clow served on the council for 19 years, including 6 years as mayor. This is Clow's first campaign for the Legislature.

Kimberly Schools Name Schroeder Superintendent

BY JULIE WOOTTON
jwootton@magicvalley.com

KIMBERLY • Kimberly High School Principal Luke Schroeder has been selected as the school district's new superintendent.

Schroeder

The Kimberly School District's board of trustees announced the appointment Monday after making a decision during their Thursday meeting.

Schroeder will take over for current Superintendent Kathleen Noh, who is retiring June 30.

"I have very big shoes to fill with the departure of Kathleen Noh and I am very appreciative of the mentorship she has provided," Schroeder wrote in an email to the Times-News. "I look forward and am honored to lead the district in which I was educated and have spent the majority of my professional career."

Schroeder's one-year contract begins July 1 and he'll make $77,899 per year.

He said he's always been interested in the superintendent position. To prepare for the transition, he said he plans to spend as much time learning from Noh as he can.

"The first goal is to continue the district in the direction it's going," he said.

Schroeder also cited the state's Students Come First reforms and upcoming new Common Core Standards as areas he'll focus on.

Idaho is among more than 40 U.S. states moving toward adopting the more rigorous Common Core Standards in English/language arts and math. They'll be taught in classrooms for the first time during the 2013-14 school year.

"We want to make sure we're preparing kids for their post-secondary goals," Schroeder said.

Schroeder is a 1989 Kimberly High alumnus and earned a Bachelor of Arts degree from Boise State University in 1994. He earned an educational specialist degree from the University of Idaho in 2010.

He was hired as a social studies teacher at Kimberly High and later became dean of students.

Noh is finishing up her last couple of months as superintendent – the end to a nearly 25-year career in Kimberly. She has been superintendent for four years.

The Kimberly School District has nearly 1,500 students enrolled at three schools.

Quilt to be Raffled for Wounded Soldier

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A quilt sporting law-enforcement logos from across the country will be raffled off in support of Army Pvt. Terrence "Bo" Jones, a Twin Falls soldier who was severely wounded in Afghanistan in February.

Tickets for the quilt are now on sale for $10 each, with the drawing planned for July 7.

Jones lost both legs and nearly lost his arm Feb. 7 after stepping on an anti-personnel mine while on foot patrol in southern Afghanistan.

Twin Falls Police Officer Rick Van Vooren got the idea to raffle a quilt to support a soldier before he learned about Jones. After hearing Jones' story, Van Vooren decided Jones was the right person to help.

Van Vooren and Emmett Police Officer Ryan Bertalotto started collecting law-enforcement patches from across Idaho and the nation several months ago to be made into a quilt.

"There's patches on there from agencies that no longer exist, like the Hazelton Police Department," Van Vooren said.

Van Vooren attempted to gather patches from each state, and at last count was only missing a few.

"We have Rhode Island, Alaska and Vermont," he said. "Those were kind of tough to get."

Iowa-based Code 4 Public Safety Emblems, a company specializing in custom-designed badges and patches, was instrumental in gathering all the patches for the quilt, Van Vooren said. Bertalotto also donated several patches from his extensive personal collection of Idaho emblems.

Jamie Jones, who works in the records department at TF-PD, sewed the quilt with materials that will last, Van Vooren said. The center square of the quilt features a large 9/11 commemorative patch, he said.

Jones is recovering at the Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, Texas. On April 6, he was awarded a Purple Heart for his service. Jones is a member of the 1/25 Stryker Brigade Combat Team based out of Fort Wainwright in Alaska.

Raffle for 'Bo' Jones

Tickets are now on sale for the quilt raffle to benefit Army Pvt. Terrence "Bo" Jones, who lost both legs while serving in Afghanistan.

Tickets are $10 each. The drawing will be held July 7.

Water covered a portion of U.S. Highway 30 between Buhl and Hagerman early Monday.

MORNING CANAL BREAK CAUSES U.S. 30 FLOODING

TIMES-NEWS

BUHL • A break in a canal along U.S. Highway 30 between Buhl and Hagerman caused water to cover the highway early Monday morning.

Emergency dispatchers began receiving calls at 6:22 a.m. about water on the highway near its intersection with 4500 North Road, said Twin Falls County Sheriff's spokeswoman Lori Stewart.

"It looks like rodents got in and did some digging," she said.

One trailer house was damaged and partially flooded in the incident and the Idaho Transportation Department directed traffic until the flooding was contained.

"Luckily for us it looks like there's little to no damage to the roadway," ITD spokesman Nathan Jerke said.

ITD crews spent Monday morning putting out signs and alerting drivers to the water, which didn't cause a closure of U.S. 30, Jerke said.

The water was only a few inches deep but covered a wide swath of roadway.

ITD will continue to monitor the area to ensure the water caused no long-term damage.

"It's a watch-and-see-situation," Jerke said.

Twin Falls in the House, he had enjoyed serving on the council.

"I hope my contributions have made a positive impact on this city," he said.

Council members reacted to the announcement with surprise and praise for Clow.

"You will be sorely missed," said Mayor Greg Lanting. "There's no doubt about it."

Councilwoman Rebecca Mills-Sojka asked if one week was enough time for people to make the decision to apply for the opening.

Lanting dismissed the concern. If people aren't paying enough attention to city government to see the announcement in time, "I don't think I'm going to select you anyway," he said.

State code doesn't give a timeline for filling council vacancies, giving discretion to the mayor. According to code, appointees serve only until the next general election.

After the meeting, City Manager Travis Rothweiler added to the praise.

"Obviously, Lance has done a great job serving our community," Rothweiler said. "The next person...

How to Apply

Interested in applying for the soon-to-be open City Council seat?

Submit a letter of interest and a resume to Mayor Greg Lanting, P.O. Box 1907, Twin Falls, ID 83303, or to trothweiler@tfid.org, by 5 p.m. on April 30.

Emailed resumes should have a clear subject line so they don't get lost in the shuffle, said City Manager Travis Rothweiler.

Candidates must be 18 years or older and United States citizens who have resided in the city for at least 30 days.

Applicants must appear before a selection committee at 7 p.m. May 1. Each applicant has three minutes to explain why they are interested in serving on the council.

The committee will select applicants for further questioning in following days, and the full council will consider applicants on May 7.

Workman's parents, John and Anna Workman, did not return phone calls Monday.

Workman's older brother, Harry Workman, of Kuna, said the family has been asked not to speak with the media until they receive military clearance. He said he also wanted to refrain from commenting out of respect for his parents.

"I don't want to break their hearts," he said.

Idaho National Guard Col. Tim Marsano said U.S. Department of Defense officials will not release any information "until they are 100 percent sure of what they are dealing with and all the next-of-kin are notified."

Marsano said the Workman family preferred not to speak with the media at this time.

"They've requested that I help them with this matter," Marsano said.

CSI Welding Instructors Remain on Leave

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • With spring semester winding down, two College of Southern Idaho welding instructors remain on paid administrative leave.

Juan Martinez and Kent Parish were put on leave April 12 and college administrators continue to investigate a personnel issue.

CSI spokesman Doug Maughan said Monday that he doesn't have any updates on the situation. He anticipates the investigation could last for the rest of the semester.

Welding classes continue as normal. Jim Schlund, a retired CSI instructor, was hired last week to temporarily oversee the students.

Maughan said Schlund is a certified professional technical instructor with decades of experience in diesel technology and corresponding welding skills.

But he can't certify students' end-of-the-semester projects since he's not a certified welding inspector. Maughan said college employees are working to find at least one inspector by the end of the week.

Both Martinez and Parish are CWIs, meaning they could evaluate student projects to see if they've mastered different types of welding.

CSI's spring semester will end in just a few weeks. Finals week ends May 10 and graduation is scheduled for May 11.

Hansen Residents Advised to Boil Water as Precaution

TIMES-NEWS

HANSEN • Hansen residents are being advised to boil their water following a weekend power outage that led to low water pressure.

The advisory is only a precaution and not a mandatory order, Mayor Joe Ratto said Monday. If tests from Monday and today come back clean, it could be lifted soon.

The advisory is standard procedure following events like Sunday's, when a power outage and problems with a backup generator dropped the city's water pressure to 5 pounds per square inch. That raised the possibility of suction pulling contaminants back into the pipes, Ratto said, prompting the advisory and the tests.

Visit Magicvalley.com and read Wednesday's Times-News for updates on the situation.

LAS VEGAS (AP) • He had a Las Vegas wedding to attend, but Bryan Dalia was hung over from some marathon partying the night before. Swaying with the gentle rocking of a bus named Hangover Heaven, he was starting to feel better. Dalia, from Caldwell, N.J., was one of the first patients on the rollout day of a mobile treatment center for tourists who spent the night before drinking in all the nightlife Las Vegas has to offer. For a fee, they get a quick morning-after way to rehydrate, rejuvenate and resume their revelry. Doctor and board-certified anesthesiologist Jason Burke calls his fledgling business a medical practice on wheels, analogous to a physician with an RV offering X-rays, MRIs or mammograms, a mobile dentist, or a blood bank bus set up in an office building parking lot.

High Court Hears Arizona Immigration Dispute. The Supreme Court will referee another major clash Wednesday between the Obama administration and the states, this one over Arizona's crackdown on illegal immigrants. The case could add fuel to the partisan split over tough state immigration laws backed by Republicans but challenged by the administration.

Defense Says Edwards Did Not Break Law. Two portraits of John Edwards emerged in opening arguments Monday at the trial of the disgraced politician, who is accused of breaking campaign finance laws by accepting more than $900,000 in illegal contributions to help conceal an extramarital affair during his 2008 bid for president. The prosecution portrayed Edwards as a liar and a deceiver who went to great lengths to cover up his affair in order to protect his campaign.

HUGE STICKER SHOCK IN STUDY OF HOSPITAL BILLS

BY LINDSEY TANNER
Associated Press

CHICAGO • What do hospitals charge to remove an appendix? The startling answer is that it could be the same as the price of a refrigerator — or a house. It's a common, straightforward operation, so you might expect charges to be similar no matter where the surgery takes place. Yet a California study found huge disparities in patients' bills — $1,500 to $180,000, with an average of $33,000. The researchers and other experts say the results aren't unique to California and illustrate a broken system. "There's no method to the madness," said lead author Dr. Renee Hsia, an emergency room physician and researcher at the University of California, San Francisco. "There's no system at all to determine what is a rational price for this condition or this procedure." The disparities are partly explained by differences among patients and where they were treated. For example, some had more costly procedures, including multiple imaging scans, or longer hospital stays. A very small number were treated without surgery, though most had appendectomies. Some were sicker and needed more intensive care. But the researchers could find no explanation for about one-third of the cost differences. Other developed countries have more government regulation that prevents these wild disparities. U.S. critics of that kind of system favor more market competition, yet the study illustrates that "the laws of supply and demand simply do not work well in health care," said Dr. Howard Brody, director of the Institute for the Medical Humanities at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston and a frequent critic of skyrocketing medical costs. The study was published Monday in the journal Archives of Internal Medicine. President Barack Obama's health care overhaul, now in the hands of the U.S. Supreme Court, would have little effect on the kinds of disparities seen in the study, policy experts say.

Social Security Heading for Insolvency even Faster

BY STEPHEN OHLEMACHER AND RICARDO ALONSO-ZALDIVAR
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Social Security is rushing even faster toward insolvency, driven by retiring baby boomers, a weak economy and politicians' reluctance to take painful action to fix the huge retirement and disability program. The trust funds that support Social Security will run dry in 2033 — three years earlier than previously projected — the government said Monday. There was no change in the year that Medicare's hospital insurance fund is projected to run out of money. It's still 2024. The program's trustees, however, said the pace of Medicare spending continues to accelerate. Congress enacted a 2 percent cut for Medicare last year, and that is the main reason the trust fund exhaustion date did not advance.

Treasury Secretary Timothy Geithner speaks at a news conference on the Social Security and Medicare Trustees Reports, Monday at the Treasury Department in Washington.

The trustees who oversee both programs say high energy prices are suppressing workers' wages, a trend they see continuing. They also expect people to work fewer hours than previously projected, even after the economy recovers. Both trends would lead to lower payroll tax receipts, which support both programs. Unless Congress acts — and forcefully — payments to millions of Americans could be cut. If the Social Security and Medicare funds ever become exhausted, the nation's two biggest benefit programs would collect only enough money in payroll taxes to pay partial benefits. Social Security could cover about 75 percent of benefits, the trustees said in their annual report. Medicare's giant hospital fund could pay 87 percent of costs. "Lawmakers should not delay addressing the long-run financial challenges facing Social Security and Medicare," the trustees wrote. "If they take action sooner rather than later, more options and more time will be available to phase in changes so that the public has adequate time to prepare."

US-Afghan Security Pact Sends Warning to al-Qaida

BY PATRICK QUINN
Associated Press

KABUL, Afghanistan • A new strategic partnership that commits the U.S. to defend Afghanistan militarily for 10 years after most foreign forces leave in 2014 is intended to signal that the U.S. will not tolerate a resurgent al-Qaida or attacks launched by militants from neighboring Pakistan. The agreement, parts of which were read out Monday in the Afghan parliament, is big on symbolism but light on substance. It leaves out specifics, including how much funding the U.S. will provide to support Afghan security forces or how many U.S. troops will stay on after the withdrawal deadline. Afghanistan, for its part, insisted on approving any American military operations after 2014 and barred the U.S. from using its soil to attack other countries, such as neighboring Pakistan, where the Taliban, al-Qaida and al-Qaida-linked militants all have staging bases. "In the end, of course, the U.S. and allied interests differ from those of most Afghans," said Andrew Exum, a senior fellow at the Center for a New American Security, a think tank in Washington. "The United States is most concerned with dismantling al-Qaida, while Afghans are most concerned with what infrastructure and financing the United States and its allies will provide beyond 2014." After 10 years of U.S.-led war, insurgents linked to the Taliban and al-Qaida remain a threat and as recently as a week ago launched a large-scale attack on the capital, Kabul, and three other cities. Both groups operate from within Afghanistan. It took 18 months of painstaking, often tense negotiations to hammer out the accord, which was reached Sunday and lays out for the first time the relationship the U.S. will have with Afghanistan once the majority of U.S. troops have gone home. It builds on hard-won understandings reached recently on the controversial issues of control over detainees and the conduct of night raids by U.S. special forces. Exum said the Obama administration had hoped to have the agreement finalized last summer, but Afghan leaders were reluctant to agree to a continued U.S. military presence beyond 2014.

Romney Roadmap Leaves Voters Guessing

BY STEVE PEOPLES

BOSTON • Mitt Romney's roadmap for governing the country is so vague that it has even Republican allies questioning his intentions. "You have to campaign to govern, not just to win," Indiana Gov. Mitch Daniels said in recent days after endorsing Romney. "Go ahead and have the confidence in the voters to explain the fix we're in and then tell them with some specificity what we can do to get out of it in a way that's good for everybody. Romney doesn't talk that way." It's a sentiment other Republicans decline to express so publicly, and Daniels later downplayed his comment. But it's one that accurately describes the presumptive Republican presidential nominee's general aversion to detail. In between heaping criticism on President Barack Obama, Romney spent the primary season sketching a broad conservative vision for leading the country should he win the White House. Supporters cheer his general plans for lower taxes, smaller government, a stronger military and a reduced Romney and his aides have been specific, the former Massachusetts governor offers little significant change from the Democratic president he says is killing the American dream.

GASOLINE CAUSES FIRE AT AGRI-SERVICE

TWIN FALLS • A minor fire gasoline fire started Monday afternoon in the main service shop at Agri-Service, at 3204 Kimberly Road in Twin Falls, said Linda Brittsan, a service clerk at the business.

The Twin Falls Fire Department got the call at 2:19 p.m., after an employee was working on a Rototiller and gasoline inside the shop ignited.

Brittsan was in the office when she heard shop employees yelling about the fire. She and others attempted to put the blaze out with fire extinguishers, but an alarm in the building also alerted firefighters. "We just mopped it up, it's a minor deal," Battalion Chief Ron Aguirre said. "But there was lots of smoke inside."

Damage to the building was minimal and confined to the work area, Aguirre said. The exact cause of the fire remains under investigation.

IDAHO TEXTING BAN KICKS IN JULY 1

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) • A new state law banning texting while driving goes into effect in July, but some law enforcement officials say enforcing the rule could be tough.

Kootenai County Sheriff's Maj. Ben Wolfinger told the Coeur d'Alene Press that while he thinks the bill is a good idea, it will be difficult to enforce because officers won't be easily able to tell whether someone is texting or dialing. He says the law allows drivers to dial phone calls.

Idaho Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter signed the legislation this month.

Boise Military Base Ramps up Efforts to Go Green

BOISE (AP) • Members of the Idaho Army and Air National Guard in Boise have ramped up efforts to conserve energy and minimize their environmental impact, yielding significant savings and accolades in recent years.

Investment in green technology and large-scale recycling highlight environmental policy priorities at the base at Gowen Field that stem from high ranking leaders and are carried out by soldiers and airmen throughout the facility.

Maj. Jim Hawkes, an environmental manager at Gowen Field, told The Idaho Statesman that goals of conserving, minimizing waste and preventing pollution are a year-round effort.

"We celebrate Earth Day every day with little stuff," Hawkes said.

That includes switching to efficient light bulbs, controlling building temperatures with a computer and cleaning up old fuel spills.

And it also includes an emphasis on recycling that in 2011 kept 1,000 tons of paper, plastic, metal and wood out of the local landfill.

Reducing the cost of waste disposal helps the base's bottom line, according to Gowen officials.

Last year, more than 250 cubic yards of cardboard boxes and packing material were donated locally and reused by area businesses, saving nearly $1,500 in disposal costs.

Council Declines to Review Canyon Park Plan

BY MELISSA DAVLIN

TWIN FALLS • The Twin Falls City Council won't review a city Planning and Zoning Commission decision to approve a plat for the Canyon Park North development.

Canyon Park, a planned shopping center to be located on the canyon rim near Golden Corral, sparked a wave of public dissent from citizens concerned about how the development would affect visitors' enjoyment of canyon rim trails. Earlier in April, the P&Z approved a preliminary plat for the development.

The council decided to hold Monday's discussion after hearing citizen concerns last week.

On Monday, Councilman Chris Talkington made a motion to review the decision, and wondered about geological stability around the proposed site.

Mayor Greg Lanting and Councilwoman Rebecca Mills-Sojka agreed with Talkington.

"I don't see the harm in reviewing what Planning and Zoning did," Lanting said. "It doesn't mean we're going to overturn what they did."

The council voted 4-3 against Talkington's motion, with council members Shawn Barigar, Jim Munn, Lance Clow and Don Hall voting against the motion.

Johnson also intends to solve more property crimes in Twin Falls County. That in turn helps solve drug crimes, he said.

Educating kids about the dangers of new synthetic drugs like spice and bath salts will help lower the rates of drug crimes and save lives, he said.

"They can kill immediately," he said of the drugs.

Carter also spoke on battling drugs throughout the county.

"We've made headway," he said, but saying the drug problem can be totally solved is unrealistic, he added.

One thing that's helped curb drug crimes locally is doubling the number of K-9 units working in the sheriff's office from two to four, including one in the jail, Carter said.

Making deputies available to county schools has had a positive impact, he said, adding he would like students to have a positive relationship with police.

Carter also pointed out his budgeting experience, saying he has given money back to the county each year.

Mya Goodman, president of the Twin Falls Republican Women, said both candidates were able to get their views and goals across but have different styles.

"They have differing leadership skills," she said. "That will be interesting to see."

Candidates in two contested legislative races also spoke. District 23 Sen. Tim Corder, R-Mountain Home, talked about the value of small government, and of the need for Idaho to protect industries like mining and timber from federal rules and environmental groups. His opponent, Sen. Bert Brackett, R-Rogerson, emphasized important new laws such as the ban on texting while driving. He said he and Corder, both incumbents in the district, have voted the same on many issues, but he's the consistent, conservative, dependable candidate.

In District 25, two newcomers with agricultural backgrounds are seeking a House seat, vacated by retiring Rep. Sharon Block, R-Twin Falls. Farmer and dairyman David Funk spoke about bringing new businesses to the area, offering the new Chobani Greek yogurt plant as an example of what the area's agricultural base can attract. Clark Kauffman emphasized his 30 years as a farmer and said a vote for him would be a vote for new leadership in the House.

Judge: DA Can Subpoena NY Occupy Protester Tweets

NEW YORK (AP) • An Occupy Wall Street protester can't stop prosecutors from getting his tweets, a judge has ruled in a clash over the bounds of privacy in an age of living publicly on social networks. In a ruling punctuated with Twitter users' beloved hashtag marks, the judge said prosecutors weren't overreaching by seeking Malcolm Harris' public tweets for weeks before and months after his Oct. 1 disorderly conduct arrest on the Brooklyn Bridge, as well as the user information surrounding the Twitter account he used at the time.

"There is, in fact, reasonable grounds to believe the information sought was relevant and material to this investigation," Manhattan Criminal Court Judge Matthew A. Sciarrino Jr. wrote in a decision Friday.

Wal-Mart Faces Big Challenges Amid Bribery Charges

BY ANNE D'INNOCENZIO
Associated Press

NEW YORK • Allegations that Wal-Mart Stores Inc. covered up the findings of an internal probe that proved its Mexican subsidiary bribed officials in that country could have huge implications for the world's biggest retailer and its executives.

The alleged bribery scheme was revealed by The New York Times, which reported that Wal-Mart failed to notify law enforcement after the company's investigators found evidence of millions of dollars in bribes given to Mexican officials in exchange for getting building permits faster and other favors to help it aggressively expand in the region. If Wal-Mart violated the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, which forbids paying bribes to foreign officials, the company could face fines of hundreds of millions of dollars. Top Wal-Mart executives could lose their jobs — or worse, go to jail. And the retailer could suffer a public relations nightmare if a lengthy investigation ensues. "Unlike prior bad PR stories in recent years, this will be a material distraction for Wal-Mart on multiple fronts," said Charles Grom, a retail analyst at Deutsche Bank.

The Times reported on Saturday that Wal-Mart top brass learned of the bribery campaign in 2005 when a former company executive provided details about how it was used to help the retailer expand rapidly in Mexico. The paper said Wal-Mart officials launched an investigation, but shut it down despite a report by its lead investigator that Mexican and U.S. laws likely were violated. Over the weekend, Wal-Mart said it had disclosed the findings of its investigation to the U.S. Department of Justice and the Securities and Exchange Commission in December, and that it met with officials from both agencies to discuss the company's ongoing investigation. But, according to the Times, Wal-Mart only did so after being informed that the paper was looking into the allegations.

'Cash Mob' Catches on in Shoshone

BY STEVE KADEL
skadel@magicvalley.com

SHOSHONE • No one danced, but it was a party nevertheless.

Saturday's "cash mob" in Shoshone was modeled after "flash mobs," which use social media to urge people to gather at a particular time and place for impromptu dancing. In this case, profits for small business owners took the spotlight.

"We were swamped," said Claudia Reese, who owns the Second Time Around antique mall. "We were busy all day long."

Salli Hubbs, owner of Fresh Country Hair and Back Door Fabrics, was the other recipient of extra customers. Her shops are a drive from Shoshone, but seven local residents made the trek to mingle with tourists from Boise.

"It was worth it for me," Hubbs said. "It was (financially) beneficial and it gets my name out there."

Karma Fitzgerald of Shoshone organized the event, which was the first cash mob for Shoshone. She got backing from the Lincoln County Chamber of Commerce, which spent a total of $85 between the two owners' stores. Fitzgerald said she heard about the phenomenon on a news program.

"I thought it would be a great way to support local businesses," she said. "I picked these two because Salli and Claudia are good friends of mine and if it was a total failure they wouldn't be mad."

"I'm just an average Joe citizen. I believe we need to care for our local businesses or they won't be here."

Word of mouth from her Facebook page did the trick. Fitzgerald is already planning another cash mob to help the Hill City Store west of Fairfield on Saturday.

"It took off faster than I thought it would," she said of the first event.

Fitzgerald hopes to work with a Twin Falls cash mob group to promote businesses throughout Magic Valley without duplicating each other's efforts. The Lincoln County Chamber will help spread the word.

"We think this cash mob thing is a great opportunity for people to shop," said Payson Reese, chamber president. "Hopefully it will continue throughout the summer and winter."

Apple's Squeeze Hits Phone Companies, Competitors

BY PETER SVENSSON
Associated Press

NEW YORK • Apple is set to report another record quarterly profit on Tuesday, continuing the relentless string of results that's made it the world's most valuable company. Those profits don't come out of thin air: A range of businesses — from the company's wireless carrier friends to its PC-making foes — are seeing their profits melt away and flow to Apple's bottom line.

Apple's success is good for the U.S. economy, and some businesses, like software developers and memory-chip makers, have benefited from the disruption Apple is causing. But its enormous gains have resulted in others' pains, sometimes in unexpected places.

Wall Street analysts expect Apple Inc. to post a profit of $9.2 billion for the January to March quarter when it reports on Tuesday. That's roughly in line with the profit expected from the world's largest oil company, Exxon Mobil Corp.

The majority of the profit will come from iPhone sales, especially now that three of the four national U.S. wireless carriers — AT&T, Sprint, and Verizon — sell the phone.

"There is almost no part hidden to us in this aircraft. We recovered part of the data that had been erased. There were many codes and characters. But we deciphered them by the grace of God."

Gen. Amir Ali Hajizadeh, the chief of the aerospace division of Iran's powerful Revolutionary Guards in a statement saying Iran had recovered data from an American spy drone that went down in Iran last year, including information that the aircraft was used to spy on Osama bin Laden weeks before he was killed.

The 'New' Charles Colson

After Richard Nixon lost the 1960 presidential election to John F. Kennedy and the California governor's race two years later (when he uttered the immortal line to the media, "You don't have Nixon to kick around anymore") the former vice president knew he must reinvent himself to run for president again in 1968.

Thus was born "the new Nixon," an attempt to transform himself from "the old Nixon" the public didn't like, into a warmer, softer, more approachable person. As it turned out, the "new Nixon" was simply the "old Nixon" with a new coat of political paint.

Not so with Charles W. Colson, who died last Saturday at age 80. Colson, was an ex-Marine and Nixon's "hatchet man" who enjoyed going to any lengths to ensure his boss got his way, including re-election in 1972, as the Watergate scandal was just breaking.

No one doubted Colson's political shrewdness. Here's an example. He once told me that Nixon wanted a book hyped because it exposed what he considered bias at CBS News. Colson said he obtained the supposedly secret list of bookstores The New York Times used to determine its "best sellers" and then sent people into those stores to buy the book, which made The New York Times list for one week before disappearing. But, said Colson, Nixon was satisfied.

That and more occurred before the "new" Charles Colson was born ... again. Unlike Nixon who sought to transform himself by his own political strength and for an earthly agenda, Colson was transformed by a higher power and not by his own efforts. First, though, he had to descend to the depths. He told James Rosen of Fox News that after being a Marine captain and a White House special counsel, the "worst blow of his life" was standing in the federal courthouse in Washington, D.C., and hearing a court officer speak the words, "The United States vs. Charles W. Colson."

Colson plead guilty in 1974 to an obstruction of justice charge relating to attempts to discredit Daniel Ellsberg, a former Marine and military analyst, who three years earlier had released "The Pentagon Papers," a top-secret account of U.S. military activities during the Vietnam War, to The New York Times. Colson served seven months in federal prison, but before he went to jail, he said he accepted Christ as payment for his sins.

The world was stunned. Some laughed in derision, thinking Colson was trying to obtain a "stay out of jail" card. Others said none of the Nixon officials should be forgiven for their "high crimes and misdemeanors."

When Colson got out of prison he founded Prison Fellowship, a Christian organization that recruits volunteers to "visit those in prison" in response to the command of Jesus, conduct Bible studies behind prison walls and help ex-convicts find jobs after their release so they won't return to crime and jail.

It has worked. According to Prison Fellowship (www.prisonfellowship.org), prisoners who take part in their faith-based programs have a much lower recidivism rate than other prisoners.

In 1983, Colson established Justice Fellowship, a Christian-based criminal justice reform group. Through Justice Fellowship, Colson became a leading prison reformer, taking positions one doesn't usually associate with Republicans. He criticized the death penalty, mostly for being unequally applied (though he believed in it for rare cases). He opposed the incarceration of nonviolent, non-dangerous offenders, believing restitution was a more redemptive approach for both perpetrator and victim.

I once asked him if he would ever seek a pardon. He replied, "I have the only pardon I need," referring to God. In 2000, he accepted a restoration of his civil rights from then-Governor Jeb Bush of Florida, but was never pardoned by a president. President George W. Bush awarded him the Presidential Citizens Medal in 2008 for his work in prisons.

In one of his many books, "Who Speaks for God?" Colson warned against attaching a heavenly kingdom to the political agendas of the age. He also urged Christians to think and act more like Jesus.

Readers Support Designated Open Spaces Prohibiting Development

We asked: In an effort to address concerns about commercial development on the Snake River Canyon Rim, do you think Magic Valley communities should designate open spaces where development is prohibited?
84% — Yes, Cities should designate open spaces
16% — No, Cities should not designate open spaces
Total Votes: 927

In Sunday's edition, we ran a story about religious "reverts" titled "A Former Burley Woman Chronicles Her Return to a Faith She'd Discarded." Online readers responded:

Jim Bob: "I'm sorry to hear anyone that freed themselves from religious oppression would be capable of throwing themselves back at it. The bible is the greatest piece of anti-religion literature available and you people cherry pick the nice sweet things from it and repudiate anything that falls outside the norm according to our standards today. Well, that's just the old testament"

"As science continues to make breakthroughs, religion is left to make excuses. The earth is only 6k years old. Dinosaurs were put here to test our faith. A man lived inside of a fish. A virgin bore a child.

"I suppose there is a moral to this story and it goes something like 'Faith isn't a requirement.'? Someone down on their luck can deny god but once they are back on their feet doing well they can embrace their lord and savior again? Are all religious people this fickle?"

"Always more questions than answers with religion and their practices..."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Jerome Needs Community-minded Sheriff

I am not political and all of you who know me will know that. But I have to say that is changing in some ways.

I chose to come to Jerome and to this valley for a reason. I chose to raise my family here for those same reasons. I lived in larger areas; I wanted my family raised in a small community with family values. We have seen this small town take on large area politics and government, and I do not want to see this happen.

We have removed from office and law enforcement the "old school" people and processes and gone to the "younger, power hungry" group. This is not how this community made it where we are or how we think. We need to get back to values and family and a caring, protect and serve process of life. It worked for a very long time and it will again if we stand up and demand it.

I am asking my friends to seriously think and research the people running for Jerome County sheriff and vote. Vote for a change in how things are run, how law enforcement and our community address our family as we truly are one family and not just neighbors. This is a community of hard-working people with strong family values; we need to vote to make our voice heard that we want someone who knows that.

We are a community who is here to help others when they are down, and we need a sheriff who believes that and agrees. If you are not sure who has these values, I can tell you that there is one man running who is open to take the time to explain his values and vision and tell you openly and honestly how he sees and believes things need to change. That person will have my vote!

If you have questions, ask him in person, on Facebook or any time; I am sure you will see what I'm talking about. I will be voting for Dan Chatterton.

Johnson Has Integrity Needed To Be Sheriff

I would like to ask you in joining me to vote for Jack Johnson in the Republican primary on May 15.

I have known Jack for many years and am proud to call him a friend. Jack has more than 27 years of continuous law enforcement in the Magic Valley and has never been asked to leave or been terminated in any of his positions.

Jack exhibits what we should expect from the highest law enforcement official in our county. Over the years, Jack has worked with our youth and volunteered many hours of service to our community. Jack believes that you should lead by example as today's youth are tomorrow's leaders. Jack obeys and follows the laws that are set by our great state of Idaho and defends the U.S. Constitution both personally and in his law enforcement roll.

Jack Johnson not only has the ethics and integrity to be sheriff but he also has the administrative and budgeting experience. Currently Jack is chief deputy of Jerome County sheriff's office and has proven that he is a great leader and administrator.

Please join me on May 15 in voting for Jack Johnson for Twin Falls County Sheriff.

$71 Is a Lot to Working Families

This is in response to Mr. Shawn Barigar:

In the paper on March 30, it said you went to the Legislature and talked in favor of a tax cut for "your Idaho constituency"; it says "this is a key issue to them." Hmm-mm? What about the other (working people)?

Yes, we are all Idaho "constituency!" But not all of us have a business. There are more of us that don't have a small business or a big business than the other way around! Are you sure this will put money into our economy? Like bailing out the banks was going to help get the housing market back where it needed to be?

And then, how dare you say, "While $71 for a family won't seem like much..." I am guessing that you have never had to work for your money or lived paycheck to paycheck! That "never will miss" $71 you refer to could make the difference between food or doctor visit or paying a power bill or heat.

I could go on about this, but maybe you can see my point. If it had not been for my mother caring for my children before and after school, I would have had to pay day-care. I would not have been able to do it. I had a great boss who also worked with me. He let me work extra hours to pay the bills. That $71 is important — maybe not to you, but to a lot of us!

And being president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and on city council — isn't that a bit of a conflict of interest? Which one gets the feather in your hat — city or state? Who wins — rich or working class? As normal not the working class and if you think about it, that $71 going to the working class would end up in the business person's pocket anyway — which would benefit everyone, not just the elite.

TAMI BILLMAN
Twin Falls
(Editor's note: Barigar testified in favor of a $35 million tax cut for businesses and Idaho's highest individual tax bracket. The tax cut passed the Legislature, and a family of four with standard deductions making $100,000 a year will see $71 in relief.)

OBITUARIES

Guy Conrad Bonar

Aug. 20, 1914-April 17, 2012

QUINCY, Wash. • Guy Conrad Bonar, our beloved father, brother, grandfather, great-grandfather and friend, passed away peacefully Tuesday evening, April 17, 2012, following a sudden illness.

Well-known around Moses Lake and the Quincy area, Guy's big western Stetson hat was his familiar trademark, often referred to as "Big Hat," "Tom Dooley" and even "John Wayne." A patriot who loved his country and what it stands for, he was most admired for his gregarious personality, warmth, wit and loveable nature. He dedicated his life to his late wife, Mabel of 71 years, and his extended family. He never hesitated to lend a helping hand to family or friends in need, valuing friendship, honesty and integrity above all other virtues. In recent years, he enjoyed daily get-togethers, visiting and swapping stories at Bob's Cafe and Friday luncheons with his Mae and sister-in-law, Mildred "Mickey" Bonar, at the Senior Center of Moses Lake.

Guy was born in Bryant, Okla., on Aug. 20, 1914, to his parents, Frank Albert and Ethel Jane (Carter) Bonar. In 1918, his family moved to Buhl, Idaho, where his father and mother homesteaded a tract of land along the rim of the Snake River Canyon. Guy's father died at a very early age and, in 1928 at the tender age of 14, Guy assumed responsibility for farming and caring for his mother, two sisters and one of his brothers. In 1938, he married Mabel (Mae) Dorothy Skidmore of Rexburg, Idaho, in a family ceremony at Harry and Mildred (Skidmore) Bonar's place in Mountain Home, Idaho. Their two children were born in Buhl, Idaho, Larry in 1939 and Donna in 1940.

In 1942, Guy and his family moved to Rexburg, where he worked in a family partnership raising sheep. When the government reduced the amount of public-owned grazing lands, he sold his interest and returned to Buhl in 1945. He and Mae rented and operated the Robert (Bob) Bonnichson Farm at Deep Creek, four miles west of Buhl. During this time, he bought and developed a dry farm in the Roseworth area, south of Castleford near Three Creek. In 1955, he followed opportunities in the Columbia Basin, where he and Mae bought 160 acres near Adams Road and commenced farming and cattle-feeding operations in 1956. On April 11, 1968, he sold out and moved to Moses Lake. There he worked in construction and, in the late 1970s, bought 200 acres east of Moses Lake and farmed there for two years and sold off the land. In the early 1980s, he bought a tract of land along Lower Crab Creek east of Moses Lake and developed land home sites known as Sun Ridge Estates. He owned pasture on the east side of Crab Creek, where he ran cattle during the early spring and summer. At the completion and sale of all home sites in Sun Ridge, he and Mae retired.

Guy is preceded in death by his wife, Mae in 2010; his parents, Frank Albert and Ethel Jane Bonar; brothers Harry Conrad, Everett Haskell, Charles Stanley, Ivan Lee and Kenneth Albert; sister, Elsie Marie; and granddaughter, Shelley Annette Bonar. He is survived by his sister, Martha Pauline Bonar of Boise, Idaho; son, Larry James Bonar and wife Sharon of Snohomish, Wash.; daughter, Donna Lee Beauvais of Burlington, Wash.; five grandchildren, Brian James Bonar and wife Sonya of Lynnwood, Wash., Suzanne Ailene Morris and husband Sam of Sammamish, Wash., Christopher Bartholomew Romano of Anacortes, Wash., Valli Dawn Johansen of Renton, Wash., and Tanya Lee Peak, Olympia, Wash.; eight great-grandchildren, Aryele DeAnn Peak of Aberdeen, Wash., Tara Romano of Anacortes, Wash., Kayla Nicole, Mackenzie Claire, Isaac Austin, Mason Curtis, Luke Ryan, Riley Cole and Asher Kai Bonar of Lynnwood, Wash., and Jakob Austin Morris of Sammamish, Wash.

Services will be held Friday, April 27, with the graveside ceremony to take place at 12:30 p.m. at the Quincy Valley Cemetery, followed by a memorial service officiated by Pastor Shaun McNay at 1 p.m. in the Quincy Pioneer Church. A reception will be held at the Reiman-Simmons House, located next to the church, immediately following the service. Location of the cemetery and church is one-half mile west of city center on Highway 20.

In lieu of flowers, remembrances may be made to The Cambridge, 321 "H" St. SW, Quincy, WA, 98848. Services are under the direction of Scharbach's Columbia Funeral Chapel in Quincy, Wash. Please leave a memory for the family or sign their online guestbook at www.scharbachs.com.

Company Aims to Strike it Rich by Mining Asteroids

BY SETH BORENSTEIN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • A group of high-tech tycoons wants to mine nearby asteroids, hoping to turn science fiction into real profits.

The mega-million dollar plan is to use commercially built robotic ships to squeeze rocket fuel and valuable minerals like platinum and gold out of the lifeless rocks that routinely whiz by Earth. One of the company founders predicts they could have their version of a space-based gas station up and running by 2020.

The inaugural step, to be achieved in the next 18 to 24 months, would be launching the first in a series of private telescopes that would search for rich asteroid targets.

Several scientists not involved in the project said they were simultaneously thrilled and skeptical, calling the plan daring, difficult — and highly expensive. They struggle to see how it could be cost-effective, even with platinum and gold worth nearly $1,600 an ounce. An upcoming NASA mission to return just 2 ounces (60 grams) of an asteroid to Earth will cost about $1 billion.

But the entrepreneurs announcing the project Tuesday in Seattle have a track record of making big money off ventures into space. Company founders Eric Anderson and Peter Diamandis pioneered the idea of selling rides into space to tourists and, Diamandis' company offers "weightless" airplane flights.

Investors and advisers to the new company, Planetary Resources Inc. of Seattle, include Google CEO Larry Page and Executive Chairman Eric Schmidt and explorer and filmmaker James Cameron.

The mining, fuel processing and later refueling would all be done without humans, Anderson said.

"It is the stuff of science fiction, but like in so many other areas of science fiction, it's possible to begin the process of making them reality," said former astronaut Thomas Jones, an adviser to the company.

The target-hunting telescopes would be tubes only a couple of feet long, weighing only a few dozen pounds and small enough to be held in your hand. They should cost less than $10 million, company officials said.

The idea that asteroids could be mined for resources has been around for years. Asteroids are the leftovers of a failed attempt to form a planet billions of years ago. Most of the remnants became the asteroid belt between Mars and Jupiter, but some pieces were pushed out to roam the solar system.

Asteroids are made mostly of rock and metal and range from a couple of dozen feet wide to nearly 10 miles long. The new venture targets the free-flying asteroids, seeking to extract from them the rare Earth platinum metals that are used in batteries, electronics and medical devices, Diamandis said.

Water can be broken down in space to liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen for rocket fuel. Water is very expensive to get off the ground so the plan is to take it from an asteroid to a spot in space where it can be converted into fuel. From there, it can easily and cheaply be shipped to Earth orbit for refueling commercial satellites or spaceships from NASA and other countries.

In the past couple of years, NASA and other space agencies have shifted their attention from the moon and other planets toward asteroids. Because asteroids don't have any substantial gravity, targeting them costs less fuel and money than going to the moon, Anderson said in a phone interview.

There are probably 1,500 asteroids that pass near Earth that would be good initial targets. They are at least 160 feet (50 meters) wide, and Anderson figures 10 percent of them have water and other valuable minerals.

"A depot within a decade seems incredible. I hope there will be someone to use it," said Andrew Cheng at Johns Hopkins University's Applied Physics Lab, who was the chief scientist for a NASA mission to an asteroid a decade ago. "And I have high hopes that commercial uses of space will become profitable beyond Earth orbit. Maybe the time has come."

Space experts said such a bold project has huge startup costs. Diamandis and Anderson would not disclose how much the project will cost overall. Diamandis said by building and launching quickly, the company will operate much cheaper than NASA.

But still the costs are just too high, said Purdue University planetary geologist Jay Melosh, who called space exploration "a sport that only wealthy nations, and those wishing to demonstrate their technical prowess, can afford to indulge."

Suspended Midwives Agree to $5M Deal

BY JOHN MILLER
Associated Press

BOISE • Two midwives have agreed to a $5 million settlement with a couple who sued them for medical malpractice after their baby suffered permanent brain damage, an attorney said Monday.

Coleen Goodwin and her daughter, Jerusha Goodwin, reached the agreement to avoid a jury trial, said Eric Rossman, attorney for Adam and Victoria Nielson. The trial had been set to begin on Monday in Boise.

The Goodwins, who own a birthing center in Meridian, had their licenses to practice midwifery suspended last month after three babies died. The cases that led to their suspensions were separate from the Nielson's claim.

The Nielsons said their daughter was born without oxygen at The Baby Place in June 2008, leading to permanent brain damage.

"If we had to go to jury trial today, I think a jury verdict would have reflected what they stipulated, if not more," Rossman said shortly after the agreement was reached.

The Goodwins' attorney, James F. Jacobson, didn't return a call seeking comment.

How much money will ever be paid is unclear; the Goodwins, like all other Idaho midwife practices, do not carry costly malpractice insurance and are planning to seek bankruptcy protection, Rossman said.

Their bankruptcy lawyer, Steve French, didn't return a call seeking comment, but the federal bankruptcy court records indicated that no case had been filed by Monday morning.

The Goodwins' licenses were suspended on March 23, after three babies whose mothers began to give birth at The Baby Place later died. Investigators said that in the case of a June 2011 death, Coleen Goodwin delayed paramedics from entering the patient's room for about four minutes.

NV Energy Drops China Mountain Project after Grouse Delay

BY CY RYAN
Las Vegas Sun (MCT)

CARSON CITY, Nev. • More studies by the federal government on the future of the sage grouse has prompted NV Energy to pull out of developing a major wind energy project touted to supply 100,000 homes.

NV Energy was working with RES America Development to build the China Mountain Wind Project with anywhere from 170 to 200 wind turbines in Twin Falls County, Idaho, and Elko County, Nev.

NV Energy says it has spent $6 million on the project.

The project would be developed on about 25,000 acres of Bureau of Land Management property, and 10,000 acres belonging to private parties and the Idaho Department of Lands.

But the BLM notified the companies in March it has deferred work on its environment impact statement. It said the project encompasses 42 percent of the sage grouse population in the western United States.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service determined it wants to re-evaluate the status of the bird by 2015. The BLM says it will complete its analysis in 2014.

A draft environmental impact statement by the BLM released in April 2011 said the project "could have more than minor adverse effects to sage-grouse due to the importance of the involved habitat" and population issues in the area of south-central Idaho and Northern Nevada.

The BLM said, "We believe it wiser to defer continued work on the project so that it can be considered in the context of, and informed by, the analyses and decisions in the Idaho Resource Management Plan resources."

NV Energy then decided to terminate its part in the project and has notified the state Public Utilities Commission.

The Las Vegas-based utility has signed a stipulation with the staff of the PUC and the Bureau of Consumer Protection to bow out of the project. The agreement says it is not a determination that NV Energy "prudently or responsibly administered the project."

The PUC staff and the consumer bureau say they retain the right to examine and challenge the money invested in the project if NV Energy tries to collect it in a future rate increase. The company says it spent $6 million on the project.

The stipulation is expected to be presented to the PUC on Wednesday.

Nevada reported last month it reached the mandate set by the state Legislature in supplying renewable energy to its customers. The company said it hit 16.7 percent when the obligation was 15 percent in the past year.

Idaho Man Missing after Rafting Accident

STANLEY • Officials in central Idaho are looking for a man who was thrown into the Salmon River after the raft he was in struck a partially submerged log over the weekend.

Steven Herrett told Custer County officials that he and Mark McCoy of Stanley entered the river late Saturday to go fishing. KIFI-TV (<http://bit.ly/1505fd>) reports the raft hit a log and forced the men into the swift-moving water. Herrett was able to reach the shore, but he could not locate McCoy. Herrett's dog also is missing.

Sheriff's Deputy Justin Mitchell was called at about 10 p.m. Saturday. The county search and rescue crew along with other search crews, deputies, river rafting guides and Stanley residents joined the search Sunday.

The search effort resumed Monday morning.

 Minico head football coach Tim Perrigot comes from a family of educators, which inspired him to further his work in the classroom.

HEAD OF THE CLASS

Minico's Tim Perrigot goes the extra mile in the classroom by earning his doctorate, becoming the only current head football coach in the state to do so

BY RYAN HOWE
 rhowe@magicvalley.com

RUPERT • Tim Perrigot begins his 196-page dissertation with the words of Knute Rockne. "Football is a game played with arms, legs and shoulders but mostly from the neck up." For 20 years in coaching, Perrigot had a hunch that was true. Now after completing his doctoral research on the topic, he's 100 percent convinced. "There is absolutely a relationship between academic achievement and athletic success," said Perrigot. "You use qualitative research not to identify a relationship, but to study that relationship. I found that athletics and activities

That's because most guys who are doctors are not stupid enough to be coaching still.

Minico football coach Tim Perrigot, downplaying his status as the sole head football coach in the state with a doctorate.

are important and there are academic benefits associated with extracurricular participation."

Perrigot recently completed his Doctorate in Educational Leadership from the University of Idaho, making him the only current head football coach in Idaho who has earned the title "Dr." "That's because most guys who are doctors are not stupid enough to be coaching still," Perrigot joked.

Perrigot, who is also the principal at West Minico Middle School, had several motives to earn his doctorate, which took him about four years to complete. The son of teachers, Perrigot has always felt education was important. He was also inspired by his college football coach, Dr. Carl "Duke" Iverson at Western State College in Gunnison, Colo.

But most importantly, he hopes to set an example. "I think it's important that I send the message to my own children and to the kids I'm coaching that you need to be educated," Perrigot said. "It's valuable."

Not only is the doctorate a high personal achievement for Perrigot, but also the wider implications of his doctoral research can be valuable to all coaches, teachers, athletes, administrators, school boards and communities.

Perrigot traveled throughout the Northwest to study five football programs that have achieved a state championship plus an academic state title in the same season. His findings form the core of his dissertation, titled, "Gridiron and Grades: Perceptions of Championship Coaches on the Relationship Between Academic Achievement and Athletic Success."

Minico's May Inks With Snow College

TIMES-NEWS

RUPERT • After sifting through numerous suitors, Minico High football standout Brady May narrowed his college choices down to two: Weber State and Snow College. In the end, May's desire to play at the Football Bowl Subdivision level was the deciding factor. "It would have been awesome to go to Weber because they have a great program and coaches, but once you're there, you're there," May said. "The biggest reason why I picked Snow College was because of the chance to play Division I after."

Santo Sides With CSU

TWIN FALLS • They briefly met two years ago at the College of Southern Idaho coaches' clinic and now Gerson Santo and Larry Eustachy will be linked together for the next two seasons.

Santo, a 6-10 forward from Brazil, signed a National Letter of Intent with Colorado State University Monday, becoming Eustachy's first signee as head coach of the Rams — a position he took April 11 after leaving Southern Mississippi.

Jerome, Buhl Split in Softball

BY STEPHEN MEYERS
 smeyers@magicvalley.com

BUHL • A deep fly ball off the bat of Buhl slugger Kendyl Hamilton looked destined for either a routine out or a home run over the fences 200 feet away.

The ball soared high in the air as right fielder Alexis McClure tracked it down, but she lost her footing at the wall and the ball bounced off her glove.

Hamilton rounded first and dug in for second, but the ball took a fortunate bounce into the glove of Jerome centerfielder Kyle Fullmer for the out right at the fence.

"I thought she took it off the head," said Jerome coach Adam Reynolds. "I asked her what it hit and she said it bounced off her glove. That was a fun play."

Jerome made all the right moves — like that catch in centerfield — to win the opener between the nonconference opponents 11-2, before dropping the second game 5-2.

Bruins Fall to Class 5A Middleton

TIMES-NEWS
MERIDIAN • The Twin Falls baseball team dropped just its third game of the season Monday, falling 8-7 to Class 5A Meridian.
 The Bruins (16-3) led 7-4 heading into the seventh inning, but Meridian scored four runs in the bottom of the frame off reliever Lee Johnson.
 Twin Falls jumped out to a 6-0 lead after the first inning - taking advantage of four Meridian errors - but the Bruins couldn't get the bats going the rest of the game.
 The Bruins are at Wood River on Thursday for a Great Basin Conference doubleheader.

 At first glance, the five schools seem to have little in common. They range in size from their state's highest classification, to the lowest. Some are private, others public. They are economically diverse.
 But Perrigot discovered all shared the same traits.

 While Perrigot's research focused on football, he said the implications apply to all sports and activities.
 Armed with this research, will Perrigot lead Minico to state championships on the field and in the classroom? Perrigot acknowledged those are his goals; however, no single magic formula exists to make it happen.

 Instead, the doctor-coach has gleaned ideas from his research that will hopefully garner similar results.

- d. Applicant: William Arkoosh

j. Deadline for filing motions to intervene and protests, requests for cooperating agency status, comments, terms and conditions, recommendations, and prescriptions: Due to the small size and particular location of this project, the close coordination with state and federal agencies during the preparation of the application, and the public and agency review of the project under the previous license issued for this site, the 60-day timeframe in 18 CFR 4.34(b) for filing comments, terms and conditions, recommendations, and prescriptions will be shortened. Instead, comments, terms and conditions, recommendations, and prescriptions will be due 30 days from the issuance date of this notice. Further, the date for filing motions to intervene and protests will be due 30 days from the issuance date of this notice. All reply comments are due 45 days from the issuance date of this notice.

All documents may be filed electronically via the Internet. See 18 CFR 385.2001(a)(1)(iii) and the instructions on the Commission's website <http://www.ferc.gov/docs-filing/efiling.asp>. Commenters can submit brief comments up to 6,000 characters, without prior registration, using the eComment system at <http://www.ferc.gov/docs-filing/ecomment.asp>. You must include your name and contact information at the end of your comments. For assistance, please contact FERC Online Support at FERCOOnlineSupport@ferc.gov or toll free at 1-866-208-3676, or for TTY, (202) 502-8659. Although the Commission strongly encourages electronic filing, documents may also be paper-filed. To paper-file, mail an original and seven copies to: Kimberly D. Bose, Secretary, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 888 First Street, NE, Washington, DC 20426.

The Commission's Rules of Practice require all intervenors filing documents with the Commission to serve a copy of that document on each person on the official service list for the project. Further, if an intervenor files comments or documents with the Commission relating to the merits of an issue that may affect the responsibilities of a particular resource agency, they must also serve a copy of the document on that resource agency.

k. This application has been accepted for filing and is now ready for environmental analysis.

l. Project Description: The Little Wood River Ranch II Project consists of: (1) a 220-foot-long, 12-foot-wide rock rubble diversion dam, impounding a 9.1-acre reservoir on the Little Wood River; (2) a 3,900-foot-long feeder canal; (3) a concrete intake structure having two parallel 5-foot-diameter, 120-foot-long steel penstocks; (4) a 60-foot-long, 20-foot-wide, 25-foot-high concrete and steel power house containing two hydraulic Francis turbines with a total installed capacity of 1,230 kilowatts; (5) a 1,600-foot-long tailrace canal; (6) a 2.2-mile-long, 12.5-kilovolt transmission line; (7) an access road; and (8) appurtenant facilities. The average annual generation is estimated to be 5,600 megawatt-hours.

m. Due to the applicant's close coordination with federal and state agencies during the preparation of the application, completed studies, agency comments, and discussion of issues under the previous license process for this site, we intend to waive scoping, shorten the notice filing period, and expedite the license process. Based on a review of the application, resource agency consultation letters, and comments filed to date, Commission staff intends to prepare a single environmental assessment (EA). Commission staff determined that the issues that need to be addressed in its EA have been adequately identified during the pre-filing period, which included a public meeting and site visit, and no new issues are likely to be identified through additional scoping. The EA will consider assessing the potential effects of project construction and operation on geology and soils, aquatic, terrestrial, threatened and endangered species, and cultural and historic resources.

n. A copy of the application is available for review at the Commission in the Public Reference Room or may be viewed on the Commission's website at <http://www.ferc.gov> using the "eLibrary" link. Enter the docket number excluding the last three digits in the docket number field to access the document. For assistance, contact FERC Online Support. A copy is also available for inspection and reproduction at the address in item h above.

Register online at <http://www.ferc.gov/docs-filing/esubscription.asp> to be notified via email of new filings and issuances related to this or other pending projects. For assistance, contact FERC Online Support.

o. Any qualified applicant desiring to file a competing application must submit to the Commission, on or before the specified intervention deadline date, a competing development application, or a notice of intent to file such an application. Submission of a timely notice of intent allows an interested person to file the competing development application no later than 120 days after the specified intervention deadline date. Applications for preliminary permits will not be accepted in response to this notice.

A notice of intent must specify the exact name, business address, and telephone number of the prospective applicant, and must include an unequivocal statement of intent to submit a development application. A notice of intent must be served on the applicant(s) named in this public notice.

Anyone may submit comments, a protest, or a motion to intervene in accordance with the requirements of Rules of Practice and Procedure, 18 CFR 385.210, .211, and .214. In determining the appropriate action to take, the Commission will consider all protests or other comments filed, but only those who file a motion to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules may become a party to the proceeding. Any comments, protests, or motions to intervene must be received on or before the specified comment date for the particular application.

All filings must (1) bear in all capital letters the title "PROTEST", "MOTION TO INTERVENE", "NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE COMPETING APPLICATION," "COMPETING APPLICATION," "COMMENTS," "REPLY COMMENTS," "RECOMMENDATIONS," "TERMS AND CONDITIONS," or "PRESCRIPTIONS;" (2) set forth in the heading the name of the applicant and the project number of the application to which the filing responds; (3) furnish the name, address, and telephone number of the person protesting or intervening; and (4) otherwise comply with the requirements of 18 CFR 385.2001 through 385.2005. All comments, recommendations, terms and conditions or prescriptions must set forth their evidentiary basis and otherwise comply with the requirements of 18 CFR 4.34(b). Agencies may obtain copies of the application directly from the applicant. A copy of any protest or motion to intervene must be served upon each representative of the applicant specified in the particular application. A copy of all other filings in reference to this application must be accompanied by proof of service on all persons listed in the service list prepared by the Commission in this proceeding, in accordance with 18 CFR 4.34(b) and 385.2010. You may also register online at <http://www.ferc.gov/docs-filing/esubscription.asp> to be notified via email of new filings and issuances related to this or other pending projects. For assistance, contact FERC Online Support.

o. A license applicant must file no later than 60 days following the date of issuance of this notice: (1) a copy of the water quality certification; (2) a copy of the request for certification, including proof of the date on which the certifying agency received the request; or (3) evidence of waiver of water quality certification.

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks ago I got a memorial tattoo done for my beloved grandma. It's on my arm and says "in loving memory" at the top. Gram's portrait is underneath, and a beautiful poem my grandpa wrote for her is under the portrait. The tattoo artist did a phenomenal job! It looks just like her and I was thrilled with the results.

The problem is, I posted a picture on Facebook of the tattoo, and out of the blue a distant cousin sent me a message telling me that the tattoo was "selfish and attention-seeking behavior"! He said he was hurt in more ways than one because of it.

Abby, I don't understand. I love this tattoo. I wanted to honor the woman who meant so much to me. Did I honor her the wrong way like he says? Was I selfish? I'm so hurt, I guess I'm just looking for some input into this. My friends and family say he's jealous and not to give it another thought, but I'm obsessing. Please help.

— HONORING GRANDMA

DEAR HONORING GRANDMA: Please accept my sympathy for your obviously heartfelt loss. Your family and friends are correct that your cousin's comments are out of line. You are not responsible for your cousin's feelings, so stop obsessing. Whatever has hurt him "in more ways than one" is not your tattoo, or anything you posted on Facebook.

You say he is distant. Keep it that way and concentrate on something positive like the fact that you have honored your grandmother's memory. Then go on and build a happy and constructive life. I'm sure that is what she would want you to do.

DEAR ABBY: My neighbors' teenage sons ask to borrow our lawn mower and other yard tools so they can make money cutting the grass for other neighbors. What do we do?

— LOVE THY NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: How responsible are the boys? If they can be trusted with your lawn mower and other yard tools and you're kind-hearted, allow them to use the items with the understanding that they will be returned to you in the same condition in which they were borrowed. Then have them cut your lawn as a way of showing their appreciation.

DEAR ABBY: My co-worker "Oscar" is a grouchy, bitter man. His cubicle is close to mine, so I can hear everything he says. He constantly talks about other employees and even about the owners of the company. Oscar's general bitterness and poor attitude constantly bring me down. I have tried tuning him out, unsuccessfully. I don't like being subjected to this daily, but I don't know what I can do about it. Please help.

— NEEDS POSITIVITY IN LEXINGTON, KY.

DEAR NEEDS POSITIVITY: The first thing you should do is tell Oscar that you can hear every word he's saying because he may not know that he's being overheard. Tell him his conversations are distracting and ask him to stop. If he does not comply, complain to a supervisor. And if your complaint is not acted upon, bring headphones, if it's allowed, so you won't be subjected to the daily dose of negativity.

Today is Tuesday, April 24, the 115th day of 2012. There are 251 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On April 24, 1962, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology achieved the first satellite relay of a television signal, using NASA's Echo 1 balloon satellite to bounce a video image of the letters "M.I.T." transmitted from Camp Parks, Calif., to Westford, Mass.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1792, the national anthem of France, "La Marseillaise", was composed by Captain Claude Joseph Rouget de Lisle.

In 1800, Congress approved a bill establishing the Library of Congress.

In 1898, Spain declared war on the United States. (The United States responded in kind the next day.)

In 1915, what's regarded as the start of the Armenian genocide began as the Ottoman Empire rounded up Armenian political and cultural leaders in Constantinople.

In 1916, some 1,600 Irish nationalists launched the Easter Rising by seizing several key sites in Dublin. (The rising was put down by British forces almost a week later.)

In 1932, in the Free State of Prussia, the Nazi Party gained a plurality of seats in parliamentary elections.

In 1953, British statesman Winston Churchill was knighted by Queen Elizabeth II.

In 1960, rioting erupted in Biloxi, Miss., after black protesters staging a "wade-in" at a whites-only beach were attacked by a crowd of hostile whites.

In 1970, the People's Republic of China launched its first satellite, which kept transmitting a song, "The East is Red."

In 1980, the United States launched an unsuccessful attempt to free the American hostages in Iran, a mission that resulted in the deaths of eight U.S. servicemen.

In 1986, Wallis, Duchess of Windsor, for whom King Edward VIII had given up the British throne, died in Paris at age 89.

In 1997, comedian Pat Paulsen died in Tijuana, Mexico, at age 69.

Ten years ago: After an extraordinary meeting at the Vatican sparked by a sex abuse scandal, American Roman Catholic leaders agreed to make it easier to remove priests who were guilty of sexually abusing minors. Michael McDermott, a software engineer who'd claimed he was insane when he shot to death seven co-workers, was convicted of murder in Cambridge, Mass., and automatically sentenced to life in prison without parole.

Five years ago: In a harsh exchange, Vice President Dick Cheney accused Democratic leader Harry Reid of personally pursuing a defeatist strategy in Iraq to win votes at home — a charge dismissed by Reid as President George W. Bush's "attack dog" lashing out. Seven people were killed by a tornado in Maverick County on the Texas-Mexico border. European astronomers announced they had found a potentially habitable planet outside the solar system. Warren Avis, the founder of Avis Rent A Car, died in Ann Arbor, Mich., at age 92.

One year ago: Pope Benedict XVI offered an Easter Sunday prayer for diplomacy to prevail over warfare in Libya and for citizens of the Middle East to build a new society. Taliban militants staged a massive jailbreak in Kandahar, Afghanistan, as some 480 inmates escaped through a tunnel that had been dug over a matter of months. Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, 86, who'd served as South Vietnam's unofficial first lady early in the Vietnam War, died in Rome.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

"A slip of the foot you may soon recover, but a slip of the tongue you may never get over."
— Benjamin Franklin

In today's deal from last year's Yeh Brothers Cup, the point was made that one should not pull a takeout double from fear alone. Particularly if both sides are vulnerable, the benefit of going plus may almost equal the cost of letting a doubled partscore make. If a few doubled contracts do not make, you probably are not doubling enough.

That said, the pain when you double the opponents into game and don't defend accurately may be the critical factor that suggests caution in this area. And the following deal exhibits that theme nicely.

After Huub Bertens' double of three clubs, Jack Zhao judged well not to run to three hearts. At this vulnerability he must have figured that he had every chance of a decent penalty. Right he was ... in a sense.

The defenders cashed two spades and two diamonds, leaving West on play. At this point West was tempted to lead a high diamond to let East discard, but that turned out to be fatal. Either major suit would work to disrupt declarer's entries and to prevent declarer from shortening his trumps.

On West's top diamond play, East threw a spade, and declarer, Frankie Karwur, ruffed in hand, overtook a heart to run the club jack and 10 as East ducked. Then he ruffed another diamond to hand and went back to a top heart. With the lead in dummy, he could score his club ace and queen, whatever the defense did.

ANSWER: You cannot bid no-trump without a heart stop, and a negative double almost guarantees four spades, so it should be your choice only if nothing else seems attractive. I'd guess to bid two clubs, assuming partner will be able to bid no-trump, repeat diamonds, or raise clubs, any of which wouldn't disturb me.

IF APRIL 24 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Success will be yours over the next four to six weeks if you get a chance to widen your social network by participating in groups, organizations, and community functions. Because you shine as a friend to many, many will be delighted to be generous with you as the summer unfolds. If you need assistance or a favor, someone will be there to provide just what you need in September. That is a good month to make key decisions or changes. By November and December, you may have developed a more ambitious attitude. Be prepared to buckle down to determined and concentrated effort, especially where your career is concerned.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your creativity is accentuated today. Just because you are creative and enterprising, however, doesn't mean you should forget to display good manners. Leave ample room for future negotiations.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): It is good to be on the cutting edge. But it is the little things that push you over the precipice. Your fearless approach works fine, but you might feel that others are placing undue pressure upon you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Honesty is the best policy even when you see ways to manipulate the truth. You may be sharp as a tack with figures and a diligent investigator when research is needed, but people could let you down.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Warm and friendly attitudes generate doglike devotion. Mingle with co-workers and be aggressive about sales. Don't be alarmed if someone thinks you are amorous when you are merely being sociable.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Trust is the name of the game. Sharing a confidence might not be in your best interest. Don't blab a secret or offer unsolicited advice. Focus on honoring commitments and polishing off your public image.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Keep a fan handy to cool off those who grow hot under the collar. Something sensitive could be blurted out by accident and set off a chain reaction. Extra cash might burn a hole in your pocket.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The prodding of passions could put you in a predicament. When you want something, it seems imperative to have it now. It is wise to hold off on making credit card purchases, loans and promises.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Let your true colors keep shining through. Stick to facts and figures, and don't embellish the facts when your hard-earned pennies are at stake. Delegate authority to free your schedule.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): People will admire you more for assertiveness than for insincerities. Don't take aggravations too seriously. What might appear to be firm grounds for an argument might only be an illusion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your best bet is to keep busy doing whatever it is you do best. Temporary tempests brewing in public teapots can be averted. Be aware that people may be quick to lose their cool under these stars.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You trust others and expect them to trust you. You aren't going to be happy unless that special someone pays attention to you. Any cold shoulder makes you more determined to dazzle your audience.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Friendly competition adds spice to romance. You won't mind flirting to make the time pass by more quickly but home is where the heart is. A little horsing around is acceptable under the right circumstances.
