3 SHOT, 1 DEAD

ONE SHOOTING VICTIM DROVE HIMSELF TO BURLEY HOSPITAL

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A man who died as a result of gunshot wounds during a Tuesday night altercation south-east of Murtaugh was transported by air ambulance to St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center before he died at the hospital, said Lori Stewart, spokeswoman for the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Office. Meanwhile, another suspect went in an entirely different direction. Stewart said one man involved in the Tuesday shooting drove himself to Cassia Regional Medical Center in Burley, while another man injured in the shooting was transported by ground to St. Luke's. Emergency dispatchers got the call Tuesday at 8:52 p.m. of an altercation with shots fired. Dispatchers overheard on a police scanner Tuesday night said a caller reported people looking like they were trying to shoot each other. Twin Falls and Cassia county deputies, Twin Falls police and Idaho State Police converged on a single-wide trailer home at 2900 N. 4809 E. When they arrived, they found the two injured men and an SUV fully engulfed in flames, Stewart said. St. Luke's would not release a condition update on the patients without being provided their names. Law officials have yet to publicly identify the deceased and injured victims. Late Thursday morning, Twin Falls County Prosecutor Grant Loeb said no charges have been filed in the case, as investigators continue to determine exactly what happened. The name of the deceased man won't be released until the coroner confirms who he is and next-of-kin are notified, Stewart said.

Budgets, Planning Define Lincoln Co. Sheriff's Race

BY ALISON GENE SMITH

SHOSHONE • Lincoln County Sheriff Kevin Ellis faces a challenger next month who wants to see more long-term planning in the county. His opponent, Mike Bright, is a reserve Lincoln County deputy, an emergency medical technician and the county's emergency management coordinator and deputy coroner. Both men seek the job as Republicans in the May 15 primary election. The winner is currently unopposed in the fall general election. The sheriff's position pays $42,538 a year. Ellis is finishing his first term as sheriff. When he ran in 2008, he wanted to increase the number of hours the sheriff's office was staffed and bring drug education into schools. Four years

Nuclear Waste Cleanup Continues

Once a source of anger in the Magic Valley, the public opinion tide is turning for INL.

IDAHO FALLS • As the Idaho National Laboratory prepares to take on another nuclear waste project, officials also hope they're making just as much headway on gaining the public's trust. Starting next month, contractors at the Idaho National Laboratory will begin treating 900,000 gallons of radioactive liquid waste, then shipping it out of the state. The project is the latest step in a multi-decade effort to remove nuclear waste from INL and the state, laid out in a 1995 court settlement involving the U.S. Department of Energy, the U.S. Navy and Idaho officials. The liquid waste is currently being stored in underground tanks that were built during the Cold War for spent nuclear fuel reprocessing.

The DOE received approval to open a new $570 million facility to treat the spent fuel, said Rick Craun, the project's federal director. It matters to residents of the Magic Valley because the tanks are positioned a few hundred feet above the Eastern Snake Plain Aquifer, a major source of southern Idaho drinking water, said Brad Bugger, spokesman for DOE. CSI Housing Board Approves $6.18 Million Apartment Contract

BY JULIE WOOTTON

TWIN FALLS • A new student apartment complex near the College of Southern Idaho is one step closer to becoming a reality. The college's Dormitory Housing Commission voted unanimously Thursday to award a $6.18 million construction contract to Starr Corp. Now, the item will go to CSI's board of trustees for final approval May 21. Some preliminary site work is slated to begin in early May. The complex will be located on 8.5 acres of land between Falls Avenue West and Robbins Avenue West in Twin Falls. It's a "design build," meaning Starr Corp. is responsible for all aspects of the project. The company completed the design phase and is now the general contractor overseeing the construction phase. MAN DIES AFTER JUMPING FROM ROCK CREEK CANYON BRIDGE

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Several agencies responded Thursday afternoon to a call about a man who jumped from the Old Towne Bridge at Rock Creek in southern Twin Falls.

"It was a suicide, unfortunately," Twin Falls Police Capt. Anthony Barnhart said.

The man parked his vehicle and ran to the middle of the bridge before jumping, Barnhart said. There were numerous witnesses, including busy traffic on the bridge and other people nearby.

The call came in at 2:14 p.m. and Twin Falls police responded, along with Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies, Twin Falls County Search and Rescue and the Twin Falls Fire Department.

The bridge, formerly the site of the Singing Bridge, was never closed but police moved onlookers away from where they were working and the edge of Rock Creek Canyon.

Sheriff

later, there are sheriff's deputies on duty nearly 24 hours a day and Ellis has secured a grant to pay for a deputy in the county schools, he said.

"I'm a working sheriff," he said. "You'll see me out on wrecks, taking statements. In a small agency, it's essential."

Being a smaller county means a smaller budget, but crimes happen everywhere, and a high-profile event can eat up a budget in no time.

A major crime like the March 2011 home invasion in Dietrich can easily take 2,000 hours to work, but Ellis said he gets help from other agencies where he can.

Careful budgeting also helps. Ellis said last year he came in $35,000 under budget partly because fuel prices didn't rise as high as he projected.

While some wonder why Lincoln County doesn't have its own jail, Ellis said it wouldn't be cost-effective to build or run one. State jail regulations say that even if there's only one inmate, there must be two jailers on duty at all times. That would cost much more than the $45 a night per inmate Ellis currently pays to house prisoners elsewhere, he said.

In his next term, Ellis wants to cut costs of transportation for those inmates by looking into video arraignments. That way, inmates won't need to be transported back to the Lincoln County Courthouse for each appearance. Another goal is emphasizing his deputies' physical fitness.

Challenger Bright said he doesn't see enough planning for the future of Lincoln County.

"There's no planning to bring more stability to the county," he said.

If elected sheriff, his main goal would be planning for the long term — five to 25 years out.

"It shows that we want to grow and bring more people and businesses," he said. Bright said he would be deeply involved in the community and try to get Lincoln County residents more involved in their local government.

"I'd sit down with citizens and county commissioners and draft plans of where to go, how to get there and what resources are needed," he said.

A change is needed in Lincoln County, Bright said, but it most likely won't happen quickly. The county doesn't need a jail now, he said, but could 20 years down the road. If elected, he would see that the sheriff's office is prepared for the possibility and would construct a plan to make it happen.

Bright said he would also seek better training to slow the drugs coming through the county. Drugs travel through on the five highways that cross Lincoln County, he said.

"We can't completely stop it but we can curb it with better training," he said.

Building better relationships between deputies and residents is also a priority, Bright said.

"If you don't know your law enforcement officers and can't confide in them, the battle is lost," he said.

"We've never had a leak in those tanks but now that we're no longer reprocessing the spent fuel, we want to get it all out," Bugger said.

The DOE has completed more than 950 milestones tracking the course of the cleanup, including unearthing almost three acres of buried waste and dismantling more than 2 million square feet of buildings contaminated with radioactivity.

There's still quite a bit of waste left to remove, but Bugger said spreading word of INL's current accomplishments helps establish a certain amount of trust among regulators and the public.

"We delivered on our commitments," Bugger said. "We've done what we've said we would do and that's helped change the attitude."

INL has constantly followed through on its promises, said Susan Burke, INL coordinator for the Idaho Department of Environmental Quality. DEQ oversees INL's activities for the state and monitors water and air quality near the facility.

"It just seems logical that you're going to build up confidence with the public if you do what you say you're going to do," she said.

DEQ will always be a regulator first when it comes to INL, Burke said. But she noted the two organizations have moved closer to a partnership.

"I think it's mostly been done in keeping us aware on how it's going over there and what they're thinking on how they're approaching something," Burke said. "There's room for discussion on some things."

Beatrice Brailford from the Snake River Alliance, a nuclear watchdog organization, praised DOE's efforts.

"In the early days of the cleanup, people had some wacky ideas on how to get rid

Thousands of drums holding radioactive waste are seen in the Advanced Mixed Waste Treatment project in August 2010 at the Idaho National Laboratory.

At a Glance: INL Cleanup

The Idaho National Laboratory, managed by the U.S. Department of Energy, is now in its 17th year of nuclear waste cleanup following a court settlement with the state of Idaho. A look back:

1995 • Settlement agreement reached between the state of Idaho, U.S. Navy, and DOE that requires DOE to meet certain waste cleanup obligations. Among them: transuranic waste stored at INL must leave the state of Idaho by 2018.

2006 • Amid a dispute over the terms of the agreement, a federal judge rules that the DOE must remove all buried waste from the INL site.

2008 • Due to definition disputes of "all," the state agrees to a new deal that allows DOE to seal and leave in place some waste in specific areas.

2012 • By the end of this year, 900,000 gallons of radioactive liquid waste stored at INL should be treated and removed.

Mishaps Pause Some INL Progress

The Idaho National Laboratory has attracted headlines this month for another matter — safety issues at its research and development facilities.

About 800 workers at the Materials and Fuels Complex are spending two weeks evaluating mistakes made during two accidents last week. Among them, a 3,000-pound piece of a metal shutter shield fell from a crane near an employee.

The mishaps weren't on the cleanup side, but it has faced its own occasional setbacks. Also last week, retrieval of transuranic waste resumed after a nearly two-year hiatus. The work suspension came in 2010 after about 20 workers were exposed to radioactive waste when a plywood box broke open, though site managers said the doses were below acceptable levels. A new contractor, a consortium led by Babcock and Wilcox and URS Corp., has since taken over the contract for the transuranic waste from former contractor Bechtel BWXT Idaho.

Jail Issue at Center of Jerome Candidate Debate

skadel@magicvalley.com

JEROME • Sixty-five people turned out Wednesday night to hear Jerome County government candidates discuss issues including a proposed new jail, the Snake River Canyon Park, education funding and illegal immigration.

The event at Jerome Public Library was sponsored by the Jerome Civic Club and Citizens Protecting Resources.

Candidates for both county and legislative contested races in May's Republican primary attended to offer their thoughts. None of the races have contested Democratic primaries.

Most of the discussion centered around what to do about the Jerome County Jail, with Sheriff Doug McFall and challenger Dan Chatterton staking out different positions. Also on the primary ballot, Jerome County residents will be asked for a fourth time to allow the county to build a new jail.

Chatterton, who has 27 years of law enforcement experience, said elected officials should abide by the will of voters — though a majority have supported previous jail votes, they've fallen short of the two-thirds approval needed to fund construction. He said "other options" should be considered, such as a private firm building a jail or the county pursuing a regional lockup with other counties.

McFall, wrapping up his first four-year term as sheriff, looked at past jail votes differently.

Jail Meetings

Jerome County officials have organized two informational meetings on the county jail ahead of the May 15 vote on funding a replacement facility.

The meetings will be on May 3 and 10, starting at 7 p.m. both days at the Jerome County Judicial Annex, 233 W. Main St., Jerome.

Illustrations of the jail proposal and its estimated effect on property taxes will be among the information presented.

"We are listening to the voters," he said. "The majority each time has voted for the jail."

Jerome County Commissioner Cathy Roemer also expressed support for a new jail, saying, "There's no way I would not be on board." Inspections of the current jail convinced Roemer, a member of the Idaho Jail Standards Committee, of the need.

Her challenger, Sam Harris, agreed, calling the jail too small and "dilapidated" with "horrible conditions."

County Commissioner Roger Morley, also seeking reelection, is another proponent of a new jail, although he said it should be approved by voters. State law could also allow the county to seek a judge's permission to take on the debt of building the new facility.

He noted two upcoming informational meetings to discuss the jail.

"We have every detail in the world," Morley said, adding that past votes have been hurt by criticisms that jail backers lacked specifics. County commissioners and a private construction adviser whose company specializes in jails will speak, he said.

On another issue, candidates for county office agreed that development of the park on the north rim of the Snake River Canyon should move forward.

House District 25

Attendees also heard from Clark Kauffman and David Funk, both newcomers seeking a state House seat in District 25, which after redistricting now covers Jerome and rural Twin Falls counties.

Both Kauffman and Funk said a federal work program that allows non-citizens to do agricultural work in the United States is valuable to the Magic Valley. However, each said the practice, known as the H-2A program, has become too encumbered by regulations.

"It's a good program if we could streamline it," Funk said. "It's a great arrangement, but it has become bogged down."

Asked his priorities for the next session if elected, Funk said they include strong schools, a strong agricultural base and growth.

Kauffman named protecting Idaho's water and keeping the area's infrastructure strong to attract commerce.

CSI Complex

"This is a very acceptable way to build buildings," said CSI Trustee Bob Keegan, also a member of the housing board.

Starr Corp. is also responsible for staying within the budget. If it is exceeded, the company must pick up the cost.

The company has selected about 25 subcontractors for various aspects of the project, including insulation, plumbing, flooring and roofing.

Vice President of Administration Mike Mason said the original goal was to keep spending on the project around $6 million. However, some additional site work factored into the contract.

The contract includes appliances — except washers and dryers — and landscaping around the complex.

About 82 percent of the money spent will go to local companies, Mason said.

Construction on the new apartment complex is scheduled to last about one year, ending in summer 2013. It will include 40 two-bedroom units.

Originally, the complex was slated for construction east of the CSI Expo Center near the Green Acres Subdivision.

However, more than 300 residents signed a petition opposing the project and dozens testified against the proposal during Twin Falls City Council meetings last year.

Last spring, City Council members rejected a zoning change that would have allowed apartments at the first proposed location.

After college administrators chose a new location for the complex, the council approved a zoning change in October to allow the revised project to move forward.

Also Thursday

During its Thursday meeting, CSI's Dormitory Housing Commission approved rate increases for students that will go into effect during in July — the start of fiscal year 2013:

- A 4 percent cost increase for student meal plans in the Eagle Hall on-campus dorm.

- A 2 percent increase in room rates for students living in Eagle Hall. The cost of living in a double room will go up $25 per semester.

Vice President of Administration Mike Mason said it's the first room rate increase since 2006.

A double room in the dorm currently costs $1,175 per semester, not including a meal plan.

- An approximately 5 percent rental rate increase for the college's Northview Apartments.

It will now cost students $400 per month for a one-bedroom apartment, $500 per month for a two-bedroom apartment and $570 per month for a three-bedroom apartment.

It's the first time since 2005 that rent will increase.

Diesel Stolen from Chobani Construction Site

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Police say there have been two instances of diesel fuel theft from the Chobani Greek yogurt plant construction site in the past two weeks.

Between 50 and 75 gallons of fuel were taken in the first instance, on April 18. The victim was Donahue McNamara Steel, which estimated the value of the missing fuel at about $300, said Twin Falls Police Capt. Matt Hicks.

Late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning, between 300 and 400 gallons of diesel fuel was stolen from Jackson Trucking. The fuel's estimated value is $1,700, Hicks said.

"The people in charge of the site have taken steps to try to eliminate theft in the future," Hicks said.

The fuel was stored in large containers that each contractor would use to fill their equipment for the day. The containers have been moved and now are monitored around the clock by staff, Hicks said.

There are currently no suspects, but Crime Stoppers will pay up to a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a suspect.

TFSD Looks to Fill Two Vacant Job Positions

BY JULIE WOOTTON
jwootton@gmagicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Twin Falls School District administrators want to fill two job positions that were left vacant this year.

The district is accepting applications for a director of secondary education and an at-risk student coordinator.

Superintendent Wiley Dobbs gave school board members an update on the hiring process during a Wednesday night meeting. The board voted in March to advertise the positions.

Dobbs told the Times-News that there's a "good number of applicants" so far for both positions, which weren't filled this year due to budget constraints. District administrators are working to narrow down the candidate pool.

The at-risk coordinator will keep track of student drop-out rates and design interventions for students who are at risk of not staying in school.

"It's such a critical position," Dobbs said, adding that the world isn't a kind place for high school dropouts.

If the school district loses students, it also leads to a loss in state funding.

"I believe that we can prove it pays for itself," Dobbs said about the job position. Once a new at-risk coordinator is hired, the position will likely start in August.

The job will pay between $37,487 and $40,147 annually, depending on experience.

In regards to a director of secondary education, Dobbs said he hopes to bring a candidate recommendation to the school board at the end of May.

The position has been vacant for about two years since former Director Mary Lu Barry retired in 2010.

The secondary education director will focus partly on preparing for more rigorous English/language arts and math standards.

Idaho is among more than 40 U.S. states moving toward adopting the new Common Core Standards, which will be taught in classrooms for the first time during the 2013-14 school year.

The director could receive $59,708 to $90,518 a year, depending on experience.

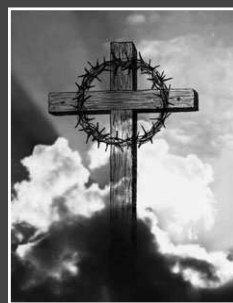

Dobbs said filling the two job positions comes with a front-end cost, but he expects it will be a good investment by recapturing the funding the district is currently losing.

In addition to filling the two positions, the district is also looking for a new director of educational technology and operations. Current Director Kirk Brower will retire in August.

STATE WARNS OF FLOODING RISKS

TIMES-NEWS

BOISE • The Big Wood River is among several Idaho rivers at risk of flooding today and Saturday, the Idaho Bureau of Homeland Security warned.

Warm temperatures, melting snowpack and steady rain are causing rivers to rise, according to a BHS news release. The agency encourages Idahoans to prepare for rising waters, noting that most rivers reaching flood stage will peak during the two days.

Thursday, the Coeur d'Alene and St. Joe rivers in north Idaho were already at flood stage. Others at risk included Henry's Fork and the Clearwater, Payette and Weiser rivers.

BHS advises residents to keep aware of possible flooding, including in their local media, and consider what they'll do if flooding occurs. River levels can be monitored at the River Forecast Center — www.nwrfc.noaa.gov/rfc — and Idahoans can sign up to receive emergency alerts and warnings through the Idaho State Alert and Warning System at http://isaws.org.

Idaho's Full Prisons Getting More Crowded

POCATELLO (AP) • The state's already full prisons are getting more crowded as the inmate population grows at a significantly increased rate.

The inmate population has increased more in the past nine months than during the previous five years, according to numbers reported by the Idaho State Journal in a story published Thursday.

More than 370 inmates were added to Idaho prisons during the first nine months of the current fiscal year, which started in July. About 220 inmates were added to the state's prisons during the previous five years.

Idaho's prison population now totals 7,951 with about 700 overflow inmates housed at county jails, which are at or near capacity throughout southeastern Idaho.

Caribou County Sheriff Ric Anderson said the overflow program has worked out well for his jail. It raises nearly $600,000 a year housing inmates for the state, money that will go toward a new, modern detention facility for the county, Anderson said.

The state is currently renting 26 jail beds to house inmates at the Caribou County Jail in Soda Springs.

"We have plenty of space in the jail to house the inmates, so it's a good program for us," he said. "Every once in a while we will have more inmates than we do beds, but when that happens we have transportable cots that we bring in to utilize until the number goes back down."

The Bannock County Jail in Pocatello is also at capacity. The facility does house state prisoners but not as part of the state's overflow program, said Capt. Kevin Fomesbeck of the Bannock County Sheriff's Office.

"They are here either because they need to be in court here in the county or they are parole violators and we are holding them until we can get them sent back to Boise," Fomesbeck said.

Lawmakers included $1.5 million in the Idaho Department of Correction's budget for next year to cover the cost of housing overflow inmates in county jails.

In the past the state has been forced to send inmates to out-of-state prisons to avoid overcrowding.

Rep. Hart Loses Tax Fight in Idaho Supreme Court

BY JOHN MILLER
Associated Press

BOISE • The Idaho Supreme Court on Thursday unanimously rejected Rep. Phil Hart's appeal in his battle with the state over more than $53,000 in unpaid taxes, interest and penalties.

What's more, they ruled the tax-protesting Hart, a Republican from Athol who is also fighting the federal Internal Revenue Service over his obligations, must pay the state's legal costs because his arguments for legislative immunity were based on a flawed reading of the Idaho Constitution.

"None of this court's decisions support his assertion that he had more than ninety-one days to file a Board of Tax Appeals appeal, nor did Hart offer any reasoned basis for us to blaze a new trail in the law," justices wrote in their seven-page decision.

Hart referred reporters seeking comment to his campaign Facebook page, but no statement was available late Thursday afternoon.

His attorney, Starr Kelso, didn't respond to a request for comment.

The amount of legal costs for state and the Idaho Board of Tax Appeals that would be billed to Hart wasn't immediately available. The state will bill at $150 per hour for its lawyer, in addition to expenses for travel to northern Idaho.

The justices' ruling affirms a lower court decision and tosses aside Hart's basic claim that his status as a state legislator granted him protection from meeting deadlines in his ongoing case with the State Tax Commission.

Hart had argued his months-late appeal of an order to pay his tax debt should be allowed because the deadline because it overlapped with his legislative responsibilities in Boise.

Justices rejected his bid for special treatment, writing that Hart is "just a taxpayer, with no greater privilege than his constituents."

Hart has been battling the state and federal government over income taxes for several years.

In his case pending in U.S. District Court over more than $550,000 in unpaid taxes to the IRS, a judge earlier this month rejected a bid to halt the federal government's efforts to seize Hart's home in northern Idaho to help satisfy his debt.

In that case, the U.S. Department of Justice contends Hart illegally transferred his rural log cabin to a trust named after his daughter in a bid to shield it from federal seizure.

A Hart ally who oversees the trust tried to have the IRS lawsuit dismissed, arguing that federal attorneys missed a deadline and violated Idaho's statute of limitations.

On April 3, U.S. District Court Judge Edward J. Lodge ruled the federal government wasn't subject to the state limits.

The home has long been under scrutiny.

Hart built it with timber he took illegally from Idaho state endowment land in 1996, before he took office eight years ago. In 2010, Hart finally paid the state $2,450 to cover a portion of its $22,827 claim against him, calling it a "voluntary donation." He has conceded he made a mistake when he took the timber.

Hart, who authored the book "Constitutional Income," stopped paying income taxes in 1996 when he filed a lawsuit against the IRS contending the tax is unconstitutional.

To some who share Hart's beliefs, he's become a darling and a hero, but his stubborn resistance to paying taxes has also helped attract three Republican opponents in a crowded May 15 primary who want to end his state legislative run at four terms.

Feds Prepare for Another Busy U.S. Fire Season

BY SUSAN MONTOYA BRYAN
Associated Press

TIJERAS, N.M. • More than 100 large fires have swept across parts of the nation already this year, and the head of the U.S. Forest Service said Thursday the rest of the 2012 fire season is expected to be just as active as last year's, which saw historic wildfires on hundreds of square miles in Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and elsewhere.

Forest Service Chief Tom Tidwell said the Southwest continues to be dry, but the middle part of the U.S. up into the Great Basin, approaching southern Idaho, could be in for a more severe season as drought marches across a bigger swath of the country.

"We need to understand the conditions that we're facing today. They're different than what we used to deal with," he told The Associated Press before a national conference call on the federal government's efforts to prepare for the season.

"These prolonged droughts, they affect the fire behavior that we see, and the more erratic weather that we're seeing, especially throughout the country this spring, those are the things we have to factor in," Tidwell said.

Federal scientists are monitoring weather patterns and trying to make accurate predictions so resources can be placed in the areas where they're needed most. And the Forest Service is working to add three more large air tankers to its fleet this year and 10 more next year.

"We take this responsibility very seriously. We know lives and property depend on it," U.S. Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack said during the conference call.

IDAHO BRIEFS

Man Shocked During Home Invasion Dies

POCATELLO • The Idaho State Police says a 26-year-old man who broke into a Pocatello home by diving through a closed window has died a day after police used a stun gun to subdue him.

ISP Capt. Eric Dayley says Kevin Benglan died at about 6 p.m. Wednesday at Portneuf Medical Center. An autopsy was planned Thursday.

Benglan was taken to the hospital by ambulance Tuesday after police used a stun gun in an attempt to subdue and arrest him after he broke into a home and exhibited violent behavior.

Dayley says Benglan had no pulse after being shocked. Emergency crews were seen administering CPR as he was being loaded into an ambulance.

Salvos Traded Before Tamarack Investor Hearing

BOISE • Federal prosecutors and the lawyer for an indicted former Tamarack Resort suitor exchanged legal salvos ahead of a hearing where a judge will entertain discussion of the defendant's freedom pending trial.

The hearing on Matthew Hutcheson is set for 11 a.m. on Friday in the U.S. District Courthouse in Boise.

Hutcheson remains out of jail following not guilty pleas to charges including that he bilked investors of $5 million.

But prosecutors called for Friday's hearing to reconsider terms of his release.

That's because they say Hutcheson's father-in-law violated a court order by inappropriately marketing a golf-course loan linked to the criminal case to investors.

Meanwhile, Hutcheson's attorney, Dennis Charney, says Hutcheson's father-in-law, Brad Mason, didn't violate conditions — and informed the investors the note was tangled up in the proceedings.

OUR VIEW

7 + 3 Doesn't Add Up

At this past Monday's Twin Falls City Council meeting, 19-year Councilman Lance Clow announced that he was stepping down. Certainly, this should not have come as a surprise. Clow is unopposed, both in the primary and general elections, in his quest to become a state representative for District 24. Barring a last-minute write-in campaign of unparalleled proportions, Clow is in fact the district's new representative in Boise.

So why does it seem that Mayor Greg Lanting and the remainder of the council were caught so off-guard? Why did the council agree to a plan that forces them to replace Clow within only seven days? Why did Lanting summarily dismiss concerns voiced by the most recent council appointee, Rebecca Mills-Sojka, about the short window given for people to apply? Why the rush?

At Monday's meeting, Lanting defended his plan to cram the selection process into a single week by basically saying that city residents who weren't paying attention this week didn't deserve to be considered. Well, Mayor Lanting, what about concerned citizens who might be on vacation? What about concerned citizens who might be traveling on business? Certainly you must admit that a professional who travels on business might have the necessary skills to be an effective council member.

The decision is curious in light of some of the praise bestowed upon Clow Monday. "Obviously, Lance has done a great job serving our community," City Manager Travis Rothweiler said. "The next person ... who has the opportunity to serve in that seat, will have an opportunity to also create a legacy like Councilman Clow did."

If the city is serious about finding a person who has the capacity to build his or her own legacy, why create an arbitrary and incredibly foolish seven-day window to identify this person?

But it gets better. After rushing to submit a letter of interest and resume to our esteemed mayor by 5 p.m. next Monday, those same applicants will have 180 seconds the next day to convince Lanting, Don Hall and Jim Munn that he or she is the right person for the job. That's the process; a three-minute speech, prepared in less than seven days, designed to convince our council that they're prepared to replace a 19-year "legacy."

The mayor — no, make that the entire City Council — should be ashamed of the artificial expediency placed on what Lance Clow probably thought was a pretty darn important job.

A few weeks back, the council thought about taking some time to review a city Planning and Zoning Commission vote on the Canyon Rim development project. They didn't, but at least they called a time-out to admit the possibility that a city board might have made a mistake.

Their seven-day, three-minute charade is a mistake. Their frivolous decision to identify the "best and the brightest" to replace Councilman Clow in a week should be objected to, fought, reconsidered and changed.

The people of Twin Falls deserve more.

ONLINE COMMENTS

Online readers responded to "Letter to the Editor: Sheriff Carter Shows Disregard for the Law":
Patander: "I found the Times News article of April 16, 2012 (on the Twin Falls County Sheriff's race) very informative. Bottom line 'the two men have many of the same issues at the top of their lists, like improving the relationship between law enforcement and area youth...' Although I am a strong advocate for continuing education, results speak volumes. Replacing an efficient public official with someone with virtually the same goals after only one term does not preserve community confidence. I care about the unscrupulous practice of mudslinging that has become normal in the election process. Inform yourself of the real issues and vote accordingly."

Online readers responded to "Letter to the Editor: Obama's Order Must Be Repealed":
Jim Bob: "As was posted in response to Ray as well. If you CAN read I suggest you DO! Thanks "Come on! Enough with the fear mongering and hyperbole.
 "Obama's executive order is nothing new. It's essentially identical to EO 12919 issued by Clinton in 1994. In fact, the only real change Obama made to Clinton's EO 12919, is removing several responsibilities from FEMA, and placing them under the DHS (which didn't exist in 94). And Clinton's EO 12919 was just an amendment to EO 10789, issued in 1958 by President Eisenhower, was later amended by EO 13286, issued in 2003 by George W. Bush. Bottom line: It's standard EO stuff for the last (almost) 60 years, and Obama's executive order brings nothing new to the table. Furthermore, the text of Obama's EO, NEVER mentions any seizure of property or martial law... not even once.

 "I'm not even a fan of Obama, but here you are Ray getting all kooky, making me have to defend the man from silly accusations. When the options are research vs tin-foil hat, always go for the research first."

Online readers responded to "Letter to the Editor: Jerome Can't Afford Four More Years of Sheriff McFall": SolarX: "If anyone gets a chance they should check out McFall's truck. It truly is a sight to be seen. While he gets nice new shiny radios, lights, etc his deputies continue to go without such as treadless tires, vehicle maint, current training, etc

 "Now don't get me wrong. It's important as Sheriff to have a tricked out truck. Maybe if he gets re-elected he will be able to continue dumping money on useless stuff.
 "As far as the jail is concerned a new one won't solve anything. Bigger, better, more expensive jails don't fix the underlying issues. ... Laws need to be rewritten and the way our society views crime and punishment needs to be drastically changed.
 "Neither McFall or Chaterton are able to or willing to try and change this."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Canyon Park Fix: Change Its Configuration
 Those that spoke at the city council meeting April 9 were not opposing the development of Canyon Park North so much as its configuration and placement next to the walking trail.
 The backs of the 35-foot-high buildings would form a "fortress" along the canyon rim, blocking Twin Falls' magnificent canyon views. There would be limited access only on the two ends. Easy access and safety not only will be gone to those that frequent the walking trail but will be denied to shoppers. Volunteers from the visitor center would have to warn tourists the dangers of walking the trail after dusk, due to the lengthy corridor.
 This development could be a beautiful draw to our city if well thought out.

 I made myself available to him at his convenience. I never received a reply to my letter, not even a "form" letter, which would, at least, be one better than nothing at all. I do not know who would make a better sheriff, Tom Carter or Jack Johnson.
 I do know to be completely ignored by an elected official is not acceptable.

 I am a retired deputy sheriff from Twin Falls County. I have been avidly watching the sheriff's race this year. I have personally worked with both Jack Johnson and Tom Carter. I hope that the voters see Jack Johnson has the best qualifications in management, training and 27 years of experience for the position of Twin Falls County sheriff.

Support for Tom Carter Comes from All Corners
 As a resident of both Twin Falls and Nevada, I have a vested interest in the politics affecting Twin Falls County.
 I have had several dealings with Sheriff Carter and have always been impressed with both his professionalism and his accessibility. Since I'm not always in Twin Falls, I rely on information I obtain from the Internet. I've been to both candidates' websites and, as expected, Tom's supporters have come out in huge numbers to endorse him and the job he's done.
 That being said, when I went on www.magicvalley.com to see what they had to say, the poll they have on it is, quite frankly, ridiculous. How credible is it if you can vote over and over on the same poll?
 If you have a question about who's actually supporting Tom Carter, go to his website and look at all of the people that have proudly put their name behind him. The fire department, Fraternal Order of Police, Filer Reserve Police, more current and retired police officials than you can count, city and county leaders, the list goes on and on. These are the people behind the man that is by far the best man for the job.

Johnson Brings Change for the Better
 I'm voting for Jack Johnson for Twin Falls County sheriff.
 I have lived in Twin Falls County all my life and have had the privilege to get to know Jack Johnson. He patrolled and supervised the patrols in all areas of the county. He always took the time to get to know the people in the area he was working and became their friend. As a supervisor, he made sure that the areas he was responsible for had patrol coverage. I can't tell you how important that type of service is to the residents.
 Jack will be an excellent sheriff. He will change the sheriff's department for the better.
 I'm going to vote for Jack Johnson; please join me.

Idaho's Aging Workforce Creates New Challenges

BY BILL ROBERTS

The Idaho Statesman

BOISE (AP) • Mark Slusser, an Idaho Power engineer who has developed and improved power-delivery systems for the company for nearly 30 years, will retire in July. When he goes, his knowledge and expertise will go with him.

And his replacement isn't yet in sight. Whoever it is, "they are going to need to ask a lot of questions," he said.

Slusser, 59, is on the leading edge of what many businesses believe will be a workforce-shifting exodus as baby boomers head for retirement over the next several years.

At Idaho Power, more than 25 percent of the company's 2,000 employees are people who could retire today. Within a decade, that is expected to grow to 60 percent.

"It's something we've been seeing for quite some time, and we've been spending a fair amount of time on this issue," said Darrel Anderson, the utility's president and chief financial officer.

The workforce drain is on the minds of human resources directors nationally. A poll released by the Society for Human Resources Management and AARP earlier this month shows nearly half those responding said their companies are ramping up training and cross training, and about a third are working on succession plans or hiring retirees as consultants in an attempt to ease the looming skills gap.

Idaho's population isn't aging quite as fast as the rest of the nation's, according to demographic data from the Idaho Department of Labor. But the state is expected to pick up the pace over the next several years, and that could have implications for the workplace.

The number of Idahoans between ages 60 and 64 is expected to reach 100,306 by 2021, a 35 percent increase from 2008. The number from ages 65 to 69 is expected to grow by 71 percent to 95,203.

Idaho's aging population is driven by a couple of forces: more retirees coming to the state and, to a lesser degree, a brain drain caused by students who go to college elsewhere and don't return, said Bob Uhlenkott, chief research officer for the Idaho Department of Labor.

"Unemployment rates are going to fall just because we don't have the available workforce," Uhlenkott said. "A workforce shortage in the next decade is going to be the real issue we face."

State leaders are considering a plan to make training money available for companies facing declining workforces because of retirements. Idaho's Workforce Development Council, a group of state department heads, educators and business people, will meet next month to consider funneling money from its Workforce Development Training Fund.

The fund has $16 million from unemployment-insurance taxes levied on Idaho businesses. It is typically used to help companies expand or to retain people to prevent layoffs. Most recently the state committed $1 million to a California garden and pet supply wholesaler that plans to move some back-office operations to Boise beginning in June.

Workforce money is generally used for businesses that produce goods or services sold outside of the business's region so that the money brings in new revenue instead of recirculating the same dollars. The one exception is health care, which the council last year agreed to help with training money to meet a shortage in services.

The out-of-state restriction would likely stay in place for retiree-replacement training money, said Dwight Johnson, a state Department of Labor assistant deputy director for policy and planning. If the restriction were lifted, "it would swamp the fund," Johnson said.

The plan is also meant to help Idaho reduce its unemployment rate, which was 7.9 percent in March, when nearly 62,000 people were jobless. The proposed use of funds would last until the unemployment rate falls below 7 percent, Johnson said.

Anderson, a council member, supports the idea but thinks the state should consider using the money as an incentive for developing specific abilities, such as technology-related skills, and not just to fill a labor gap. "I think that is a good use of resources," Anderson said.

It is too soon to tell whether the company would use those training funds, he said. He wants to see the final proposal.

Brian Greber, a Boise State University adjunct professor of economics, questions whether putting state resources into training workers to replace those who are retiring is a good use of the money. Greber thinks businesses spend too much time worrying about older workers leaving their companies, when it is younger employees who contribute heavily to turnover. He cites his own experience as a timber executive in Boise.

Titleholder of Longest with Bullet in Head Dies

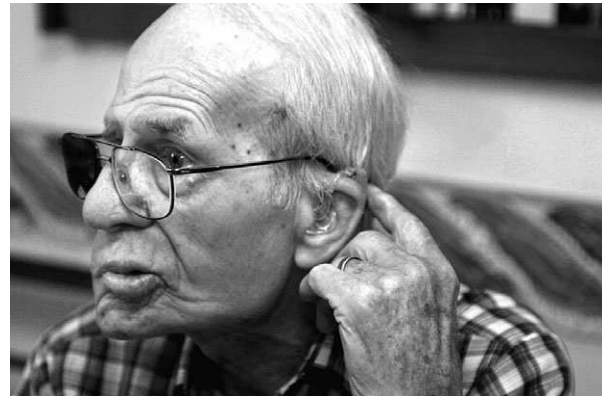

TURLOCK, Calif. (AP) •

The man who holds the Guinness World Record for living the longest with a bullet in his head has died in Central California at age 103.

The Modesto Bee reports that William Lawlis Pace died in his sleep at a Turlock nursing home on Monday — 94 years and six months after his older brother accidentally shot him with their father's .22 caliber rifle in 1917.

Pace learned in 2006 that he had been crowned the world record-holder in the category of unwanted cranial ammunition acquisition.

His son told a newspaper during a birthday party for his father last year that

The injury damaged one of his eyes and facial nerves, but did not prevent Pace from working as a cemetery custodian.

Senate OKs Renewing Violence Against Women Act

BY LAURIE KELLMAN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • The Senate overcame election-year gender politics Thursday to pass a bill renewing the government's main domestic violence program.

The 68-31 vote marked the first time since the Violence Against Women Act first passed in 1994 that its renewal has drawn opposition in the Senate, reflecting the increasing polarization of the chamber and hair-trigger political sensitivities over women's issues in this presidential and congressional election year.

"In 2012, we should be beyond questioning the need for the Violence Against Women Act," Vice President Joe Biden said in a statement. He urged the House to act quickly so President Barack Obama can sign the renewal into law.

But the path there could be equally tricky. Majority Republicans are writing their

Crapo

Risch

How They Voted

On Thursday, Idaho Sen. Mike Crapo voted for, and Sen. Jim Risch voted against, renewing the Violence Against Women Act. Both are Republicans.

own version, which is likely to resemble a GOP alternative widely rejected by the Senate.

Twice renewed without opposition in the Senate, the bill of programs to prevent domestic violence and sexual abuse ran headlong into the partisan warfare that has shut or slowed legislative business since the 2010 elections. Not helping smooth the way: the broader political fight for pivotal female voters and the Democrats' election-year narrative that accuses Republicans of waging a "war on women."

The bill would reauthorize the Violence Against Women Act for five years with funding of $659.3 million a year, down $136.5 million annually from the last act, which has expired. The money pays for such programs as legal assistance for victims, enforcement of protection orders, transitional housing and youth prevention programs.

Democrats sought to expand the law by adding protections certain to draw conservative opposition. One would explicitly name gays, lesbians and transgender people to the group of those protected under the law. Another would raise the cap on visas granted to abused legal and illegal immigrants from 10,000 to 15,000. A third would expand the authority of Native American officials to handle cases of abuse of Indian women by non-Indians.

The bill drew 61 co-sponsors, more than enough to block filibusters and set up a political dare to Republicans: Vote no, and you're waging a "war against women."

The strategy raised hackles among Republicans, who insisted they had women's interests at heart, too. Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., said the narrative was a distraction from issues Democrats would rather not discuss, such as the economy and gas prices.

"We face an abundance of hard choices," said McCain, the GOP's 2008 presidential nominee and a leading supporter of Republican hopeful Mitt Romney this year. "Divisive slogans and declaring of phony wars are intended to avoid those hard choices and to escape paying a political price for doing so."

To prove it, Republicans offered alternatives that would delete the references to gays, lesbians and transgender people, keep the cap on visas at its current level and allow tribal authorities to go to federal court for protective orders on behalf of abused Native American women.

But the Senate rejected the options overwhelmingly. And in the end, even its sponsor, Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison of Texas—and McCain—were among the 15 Republicans who voted for the final Democratic bill.

The 31 Republicans who voted no said they support the spirit of the act but had problems with the Democratic rewrite that was up for consideration.

Sen. Jim DeMint, R-S.C., for example, said he opposed the bill in part because he believes abused women are best served by state and local governments.

And Sen. Jon Kyl, R-Ariz., said he voted 'no' because he believes the tribal provisions in the bill would be unconstitutional. Under the measure, Native American officials would be allowed to arrest, prosecute and imprison non-Indians, who cannot vote in tribal elections or have a say in crafting laws that could be used against them, Kyl said.

EPA Official Apologizes for 'Crucify' Remark

Republicans and conservatives say comments prove that Obama administration policies are harming energy industry and the economy.

BY RAMIT PLUSHNICK-MASTI
Associated Press

HOUSTON • A top administrator for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has apologized for using the word "crucify" two years ago when describing the agency's enforcement policies, and for saying it makes examples of bad players in the oil and gas industry.

EPA Region 6 administrator Al Armendariz, who oversees Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and New Mexico, issued a written apology Wednesday after video surfaced of him at a meeting in May 2010 in the tiny town of Dish.

The video shows Armendariz answering a question about the agency's enforcement policies. In the Middle Ages, he tells the crowd, the Romans would enter a troublesome village, "take the first five guys they saw and crucify them." Then the town would be "really easy to manage for the next few years," he said.

The EPA also makes "examples of people who are not complying with the law, you make examples out of them, use it as a deterrent method," Armendariz continued. "Companies that are smart see that and they don't want to play that, and they decide at that point that it's time to clean up."

To some Republicans and conservatives, the comments justified their long-standing allegation that the EPA under President Barack Obama has stepped up enforcement to a point where it is harming the economy and the energy industry. The EPA also has become a popular target on the camaign trail, and Republican presidential contender Mitt Romney has in the past called for EPA chief Lisa P. Jackson to be fired.

Armendariz's apology was issued Wednesday by the EPA's headquarters in Washington.

"I apologize to those I have offended and regret my poor choice of words. It was an offensive and inaccurate way to portray our efforts to address potential violations of our nation's environmental laws," he said. "I am always and have been committed to fair and vigorous enforcement of those laws."

Cynthia Giles, the assistant administrator for enforcement and compliance assurance, also issued a statement.

"Strong, fair and effective enforcement of the environmental laws passed by Congress is critical to protecting public health and ensuring that all companies, regardless of industry, are playing by the same rules," she wrote.

Dems, GOP Swap Charges in Student Loan Fight

Lawmakers are missing no chances this election season to portray themselves as seriously addressing voters' concerns about economy.

BY ALAN FRAM
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • House Speaker John Boehner accused President Barack Obama on Thursday of conduct "beneath the dignity of the White House." The top House Democrats said Boehner considers the health of women "a luxury."

In a measure of the sharp elbows both parties are throwing this election year, note that those words were exchanged over legislation whose basic purpose they say they agree on: preventing interest rates on millions of federal student loans from doubling to 6.8 percent this summer.

Their chief remaining dispute is how to pay for the $5.9 billion cost of keeping those rates low. When it comes to that, each side has in effect taken a political hostage: House Republicans would cut spending from Obama's prized health care overhaul law, Senate Democrats would boost payroll taxes on owners of some private corporations and House Democrats would erase federal subsidies to oil and gas companies.

Thursday's partisan blasts were the latest, vivid example of how lawmakers are missing no chances this election season to portray themselves as seriously addressing voters' concerns about the economy and other issues while accusing the other side of blatantly playing political games.

The rhetoric intensified Thursday, a day before the House was set to vote on a GOP-written bill that would keep current 3.4 percent interest rates on subsidized Stafford loans intact for another year. The measure would be paid for by carving money out of a preventive health fund established by Obama's health care overhaul law — a measure most Democrats consider a prized accomplishment worth fighting for.

Obama spent two days this week barnstorming through three college campuses in North Carolina, Colorado and Iowa, using campaign-style speeches before cheering throngs of students to complain that Republicans are dragging their feet

Convicted

Former Liberian President Charles Taylor takes notes as he waits for the start of a hearing to deliver a verdict Thursday at the Special Court for Sierra Leone in Leidschendam, Netherlands.

Verdict Sends Warning to Tyrants

Former Liberian President Charles Taylor found guilty of war crimes and crimes against humanity for arming Sierra Leone rebels in exchange for "blood diamonds."

BY MIKE CORDER
Associated Press

LEIDSCHENDAM, Netherlands

• Former Liberian President Charles Taylor became the first head of state since World War II to be convicted by an international war crimes court, a historic verdict that sends a message that tyrants worldwide will be tracked down and brought to justice.

The warlord-turned-president was found guilty on Thursday of 11 counts of war crimes and crimes against humanity for arming Sierra Leone rebels in exchange for "blood diamonds" mined by slave laborers and smuggled across the border.

Judges at the Special Court for Sierra Leone said Taylor played a crucial role in allowing the rebels to continue a bloody rampage during that West African nation's 11-year civil war, which ended in 2002 with more than 50,000 dead. Ten years after the war ended, Sierra Leone is still struggling to rebuild.

The rebels gained international notoriety for hacking off the limbs of their victims and carving their groups' initials into opponents and even children they kidnapped, drugged and turned into killers. The rebels developed gruesome terms for the mutilations that became their chilling trademark: They would offer their victims the choice of "long sleeves" or "short sleeves" — having their hands hacked off or their arms sliced off above the elbow.

Secret Service Investigating Another Overseas Trip

BY ALICIA A. CALDWELL
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Expanding the prostitution investigation, the Secret Service acknowledged Thursday it is checking whether its employees hired strippers and prostitutes in advance of President Barack Obama's visit last year to El Salvador.

The disclosure came not long after the Homeland Security secretary assured skeptical senators that the recent prostitution scandal in Colombia appeared to be an isolated incident.

Secret Service spokesman Edwin Donovan said the agency was investigating allegations raised in news reports about unprofessional behavior that have emerged in the aftermath of the Colombia incident. The latest, by Seattle television station KIRO-TV, quoted anonymous sources as saying that Secret Service employees received sexual favors from strippers at a club in San Salvador and took prostitutes to their hotel rooms ahead of Obama's visit to the city in March 2011. Prostitution is legal in both Colombia and El Salvador.

Separately, The Washington Post this week cited unnamed "confidants" of the Secret Service officers implicated in Colombia saying senior managers had tolerated similar behavior during previous official trips.

Pakistan Deports Bin Laden Family to Saudi Arabia

ISLAMABAD • Pakistani authorities deported Osama bin Laden's three widows and his children to Saudi Arabia early today, less than a week before the first anniversary of the unilateral U.S. raid that killed the al-Qaida leader in his hideout in a military town. The departure of the family closed another chapter in an affair that cemented Pakistan's reputation as a hub of Islamist extremism and cast doubt on its trustworthiness as a Western ally. Once outside Pakistan, the wives may be willing to share any information they have about how bin Laden managed to evade capture in the country for nearly a decade following the Sept. 11, 2001, terror attacks in the United States.

Lesbian Scout Leader Ousted in Ohio; Parents Support Her

BY JOHN SEEWER
Associated Press

The first-graders in Ohio Pack 109's Tiger Scouts didn't know or care their den mother was a lesbian — at least not until the Boy Scouts of America threw her out over the organization's ban on gays.

Now, parents who were aware of Jennifer Tyrrell's sexual orientation well before she took the boys on campouts and helped them carve race cars for the annual Pinewood Derby have rallied to her defense in a case that has re-ignited the debate over the Scouts' policy.

"I teach my children to judge people on their actions," said Rob Dunn, a father in Bridgeport, a village of about 2,000 across the Ohio River from Wheeling, W.Va. "Whether you agree with their lifestyle or not."

The Boy Scouts of America, whose oath calls for members to be "morally straight," maintains that as a private organization it has the right to exclude gays and atheists from its ranks.

That stance was upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court in 2000 but has led many state and local governments to deny support for the Scouts.

on blocking the interest rate boosts.

By Thursday, Boehner, R-Ohio, had had enough, accusing Obama of using taxpayer money to launch political attacks on Republicans for a problem that GOP lawmakers were already working to address.

“Frankly, I think this is beneath the dignity of the White House,” Boehner told reporters. He added, “For the president to make a campaign issue and then to travel to three battleground states and go to three large college campuses on taxpayers money to try to make this some political issue is pathetic. And his campaign ought to be reimbursing the Treasury for the cost of this trip.”

Boehner also accused Obama of waging “a fake fight to try to game his own re-election.”

White House spokesman Jay Carney defended the travel as an effort to champion an important policy issue. He said by taking a high-profile stand in favor of extending the student loan rate, Obama succeeded in winning Republican support.

“It is eminently obvious that the president was out talking about a policy issue,” Carney said. “This is official business. And he did it effectively.”

The Pentagon says the Boeing 747 that is usually used as Air Force One costs $179,750 an hour to operate.

Despite the party-line divisions, some members of each party were considering defecting in Friday’s vote.

The conservative Heritage Action for America was lobbying Republicans to oppose the GOP bill and let interest rates rise, saying to do otherwise would burden taxpayers. And party leaders were pressuring Democrats to vote against the Republican measure, with some Democrats eager to vote to keep student loan rates low despite the health care cuts.

Obama’s budget would protect the 3.4 percent rates for a year. There are 7.4 million low- and middle-income students with subsidized Stafford loans, and the administration says the higher rates would cost each an average $1,000 over the life of the loan.

MEXICO SEIZES 68,000 U.S. GUNS IN 5 YEARS

The U.S. government said Thursday that 68,000 guns recovered by Mexican authorities in the past five years have been traced back to the United States. The flood of tens of thousands of weapons underscores complaints from Mexico that the U.S. is responsible for arming the drug cartels plaguing its southern neighbor. Six years of violence between warring cartels have killed more than 47,000 people in Mexico.

Overdose Antidote Is Put in Addicts’ Hands

BY DENISE LAVOIE
Associated Press

WEST BRIDGEWATER, Mass. • Steve Wohlen lay on his front lawn, blue, unconscious and barely breathing, overdosing on heroin.

His mother ran outside, frantically assembling a pen-like canister. Her heart pounding, she dropped to her knees and used the device to deliver two squirts up her son’s nostrils.

Within minutes, his eyes opened, color returned to his face, and he sat up — brought back from a potentially lethal overdose by a drug commonly known by its old brand name, Narcan.

The drug, widely sold under its generic name, naloxone, counteracts the effects of heroin, OxyContin and other powerful painkillers and has been routinely used by ambulance crews and emergency rooms in the U.S. for decades. But in the past few years, public health officials across the nation have been distributing it free to addicts and their loved ones, as well as to some police and firefighters.

Such giveaways may have saved more than 10,000 lives since the first program was started in 1996 in Chicago, according to a survey by the Harm Reduction Coalition, a national group that works to reduce the consequences of drug use.

Opponents say that making the antidote so easily available is an accommodation to drug use that could make addicts less likely to seek treatment. The objections are not unlike those raised decades ago when addicts were first issued clean needles to curb the spread of AIDS. But Wohlen and his mother see things differently.

“I just didn’t want to be that mother standing next to that casket,” Linda Wohlen said.

Supporters of the distribution programs say getting naloxone into drug users’ homes saves lives that might otherwise be lost waiting for an ambulance.

“The question has always been: How can we get people treated before they die? If an overdose of the drug is taken at home, you won’t have enough time to get that patient to the emergency room before respiratory depression leads to death,” said Dr. Russell Portenoy, chairman of pain medicine at Beth Israel Medical Center in New York.

The problem has become more urgent: Heroin overdose deaths in the U.S.

nearly doubled over the last decade, from 1,725 in 1999 to 3,278 in 2009, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. During the same period, deadly overdoses from opiate-like drugs, including painkillers, have nearly quadrupled, from 4,030 to 15,597.

Naloxone works by blocking certain drug receptors in the brain. It has no effect on alcohol or cocaine overdoses but can be used against such painkillers as OxyContin, Percocet and Vicodin.

Normally available only by prescription, it is issued to people like Linda Wohlen through 50 programs in more than 188 locations around the country, including Baltimore, New York and San Francisco, according to the survey, published in February by the CDC.

War Crimes

The 64-year-old Taylor will be sentenced next month after a separate hearing.

The court has no death penalty and no life sentence. Judges have given eight other rebels as much as 52 years in prison.

The verdict was hailed by prosecutors, victims and rights activists as a watershed moment in efforts to end impunity for leaders responsible for atrocities.

The ruling “permanently locks in and solidifies the idea that heads of state are now accountable for what they do to their own people,” said David Crane, the former prosecutor who indicted Taylor in 2003 and is now a professor of international law at Syracuse University. “This is a bell that has been rung and clearly rings throughout the world. If you are a head of state and you are killing your own people, you could be next.”

U.N. Secretary General Ban Ki-moon hailed the judgment as “a significant milestone for international criminal justice” that “sends a strong signal to all leaders that they are and will be held accountable for their actions,” said U.N. deputy spokesman Eduardo del Buey.

U.S. State Department spokeswoman Victoria Nuland said Taylor’s prosecution “delivers a strong message to all perpetrators of atrocities, including those in the highest positions of power, that they will be held accountable.”

Scouts

Male scout leaders who are gay have long been barred, but instances of women being excluded are not well-documented and probably rare.

A lesbian couple in Vermont were told two years ago that they could no longer be involved with their son’s Scout troop.

Because of the policy, Tyrrell said she only reluctantly allowed her 7-year-old son to join up in Bridgeport, where she lives with her partner and their four children. Told, she said, by the local cub master that it didn’t matter that she is a lesbian, she was drafted to lead the pack in September.

Tyrrell told parents at their first meeting about her sexual orientation. Some already knew her because she had coached youth baseball and volunteered at school, organizing class parties and reading to children.

“She wasn’t trying to hide anything,” said Dunn, whose son is among the dozen or so members of the boys-only pack. “Nobody I know of has ever made a single complaint against her.”

Tyrrell said she was removed in April, right after she was asked to take over as treasurer of the local Boy Scout troop — which oversees Tiger Scouts, Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts — and she raised questions about the finances.

She said the Boy Scout Council for the region told her she had to resign because she is gay.

“In this case, the policy was understood by her and her fellow volunteers but not followed,” said Deron Smith, a spokesman for the Boy Scouts of America at its headquarters in Irving, Texas. “When a fellow pack leader made a complaint about it, to a local Scouting professional, they followed the policy.”

Government Backs Off New Limits on Child Labor on Farms

WASHINGTON (AP) • Under heavy pressure from farm groups, the Obama administration is dropping an effort to prevent children from doing hazardous work on farms owned by anyone other than their parents.

The Labor Department says it is withdrawing proposed rules that would ban children younger than 16 from using most power-driven equipment. The rules also would prevent those younger than 18 from working in feed lots, grain bins and stockyards.

The agency says thousands of comments have expressed concern about the impact of the changes on small family-owned farms. Many farm groups have complained that the rules would upset traditions in which children often work alongside relatives other than parents to learn how a farm operates.

Exxon Mobil's profit drop in first quarter • It was an especially tough quarter for Exxon Mobil. The company produced less oil and natural gas. Profits dropped at its chemical plants and U.S. refineries. And its overall net income fell 11 percent, the first decline in quarterly earnings since late 2009. The results, announced Thursday, signaled a tough year ahead for Exxon and the rest of the petroleum industry. Even after spending billions of dollars hunting for oil at the bottom of the ocean, in the frigid waters of the Arctic and deep underground in North American shale rock, Big Oil is failing to keep up with growing world oil and gas demand.

EPA Fines Idaho Milk Products $52,000

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

JEROME • A Jerome dairy processing facility will pay close to $52,000 in fines for failing to report its prior use of toxic chemicals.

The Environmental Protection Agency announced Thursday that Idaho Milk Products didn't disclose its use of nitric acid in 2009 on time. Nitric acid is one of the toxic chemicals that must be disclosed under the agency's right-to-know laws called the Toxics Release Inventory Program.

According to court documents, Idaho Milk Products used 300,000 pounds of nitric acid and manufactured more than 25,000 pounds of nitric compounds in 2009. The company eventually filed the appropriate documents for using the chemical, but did so 360 days late.

“Communities have a right to know what chemicals companies are using and potentially releasing into the environment. Accurate and timely numbers from companies are the foundation of these rules so citizens have access to the most current information.”

Kelly Huynh, manager of the Toxics Release Inventory Program at EPA in Seattle

“Communities have a right to know what chemicals companies are using and potentially releasing into the environment,” said Kelly Huynh, manager of the TRI program at EPA in Seattle, in a news release.

“Accurate and timely numbers from companies are the foundation of these rules so citizens have access to the most current information.”

Nitric acid must be monitored because it can harm the eyes, skin, respiratory system and teeth, explained EPA officials.

As of 2010, close to 300 dairies across the United States used nitric acid as a cleaning agent.

The failure to disclose was a result of an “oversight,” according to an Idaho Milk Products statement.

The facility has corrected the situation by improving its reporting process and creating a new position designed to oversee environmental compliance, according to its statement.

“We strive to exceed industry standards with the quality of our products and the way we do business,” said Kent Giddings, general manager of Idaho Milk Products, in the written statement. “We are committed to conduct ourselves with competency and compliance to government and industry standards.”

SENATE AG COMMITTEE APPROVES 5-YEAR FOOD AND FARM PLAN

BY JIM ABRAMS
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • The Senate Agriculture Committee on Thursday approved a half-trillion dollar farm and food plan that ends the practice of paying farmers for crops they don't grow.

The five-year bill, which would supplant the current farm act set to expire in September, also shifts the agricultural safety net to crop insurance, consolidates conservation programs and takes aim at abuses in the federal food stamp program.

The measure would cut the federal deficit by $23 billion, when compared with spending projections under the current farm bill, with $4 billion of that coming from the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, or food stamps. That's accomplished by such steps as ending misuse by college students and cracking down on retailers and recipients trafficking in benefits. Food stamps, now received by more than 46 million Americans, take up about 80 percent of the spending in the bill.

The 16-5 vote was the first step in what could be an arduous road to presenting the president with a new bill before the old one expires in five months. The Senate Democratic leadership must decide how to fit the bill into a crowded floor schedule, and then the bill faces what could be considerable resistance in the House, where the Republican majority is pressing for more extensive cuts to food stamps and other farm bill programs.

Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Debbie Stabenow, D-Mich., and the top Republican on the panel, Sen. Pat Roberts of Kansas, also must deal with a rebellion from Southern senators, who say the dramatic shift from direct payments to a system based on crop insurance and a new federal risk management program discriminates against Southern crops, particularly rice and peanuts.

As currently written, said Sen. John Boozman, a Republican from the rice-growing state of Arkansas, the bill “will have a devastating impact on Southern agriculture.”

Of the five voting against the bill, four were Southern Republicans. The fifth was Sen. Kirsten Gillibrand, D-N.Y., who expressed concerns about cuts to food stamps and to changes in dairy policy. “We realize we are not there yet,” said Stabenow, who added that she had talked to Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, D-Nev., on Wednesday about advancing the bill to the floor.

The biggest change under the bill would be the end of direct payments, which aren't tied to a farmer planting a crop and cost about $5 billion a year, replacing them with a “shallow loss” program that pays farmers when modestly decreasing yields or declining prices result in a farmer's revenue falling below historic averages.

For more serious losses, farmers would rely on crop insurance. On average, 60 percent of crop insurance premiums are subsidized by the government.

Outbuilding Manufacturer to Employ up to 75 in Jerome

BY MELISSA DAVLIN
mdavlin@magicvalley.com

JEROME • A Tennessee-based manufacturer of outbuildings is opening a manufacturing and retail facility in downtown Jerome, bringing up to 75 jobs to the area within a year of opening.

Old Hickory Buildings will be located in the building previously occupied by the Con Paulos Chevrolet Dealership. General manager Marc Yoder said a public grand opening celebration will be announced in coming weeks.

Initially, the company will hire about 10 workers on a temporary basis, said Micah Austin, Community Development Director for the City of Jerome. The company will evaluate those workers on a trial basis for two weeks. If those workers perform well, the company will keep them on, Austin said.

Depending on demand, Yoder estimated the company would hire between 35-75 employees within a year of opening, Austin said. Wages start at about $10-12 per hour. The company is not yet hiring, but will post openings on the Idaho Department of Labor website.

Austin said the City of Jerome was prepared to offer an incentive package to the company, depending on which building they wanted to lease. But because the former Con Paulos building was ready to go, the city paid only a $75 planning and zoning fee for the company, Austin said.

Saturday at CSI

Whether gleaming curves or bottle rockets are more your style, College of Southern Idaho is the place to take your family on Saturday. The CSI Car Show — which last year drew thousands of spectators — features 100 vehicles, including some never before displayed in Magic Valley. Elsewhere on campus, International Astronomy Day promises make-and-take astronomy projects, daytime observatory viewing and an evening star party.

Dramatic Choices

Options abound for theater lovers this weekend. In a thoughtful mood? Choose "The Women" at Twin Falls High and its satirical commentary on societal roles. Looking for comedy? You'll find it in the romantic but crazy "Mixed Nuts" at Canyon Ridge High, the rollicking "Once Upon a Mattress" at Jerome High and "Collective Dating" at CSI, exploring the wacky side of romance.

Musical Standouts

IT'S TIME TO VOTE

Get your strolling shoes on and make the rounds of Twin Falls businesses to help judge this year's Art & Soul contest.

BY ANDREW WEEKS
aweeks@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A 9-foot-tall praying mantis watched passers-by at the corner of Fillmore Street and Cheney Drive West.

People didn't fear the large insect. After all, it wouldn't bite them.

"Violin Praying Mantis" is a metal sculpture created by Gooding resident Jacob Novinger as an entry in this year's Art & Soul of the Magic Valley contest. The citywide art contest kicks off today and runs through May 5, and anyone who strolls the streets of Twin Falls to pursue the art can help decide the winners.

It is the second year the Art Guild of Magic Valley and the Magic Valley Arts Council have sponsored the event. And, director Art Hoag said, it's bigger and better than last year.

This spring, 178 artists entered their work, compared with last year's 94, and $30,000 will be given away in prizes this time, compared with $10,000 in the contest's first year. Artists came from around Idaho and even from neighboring states.

Money comes from artist fees — $50 each — and sponsor and venue fees — $100 each — plus donations from area residents and businesses, Hoag said.

The contest is not only a way to get artists and their work recognized, but to promote area businesses.

"I think that people are getting a better idea about what the contest is about," Hoag said. "It's about getting community involvement in a collaborative effort."

The artists' work is scattered throughout Twin Falls in 45 businesses, he said. Don't just view the art; let the businesses know you appreciate them.

ED GLAZAR • FOR THE TIMES-NEWS

A metal blue heron sculpture, displayed on the corner of Twin Falls' Shoshone Street and Main Avenue, is a contender in the Art & Soul of the Magic Valley contest that launches today.

Today's Events

- Noon, opening ceremony at the Art & Soul of the Magic Valley office, 3151 Filer Ave. E., Twin Falls.
- 6-8 p.m., opening-night celebration at Main Street Plaza, 132 Main Ave. S., Twin Falls. Live music by Tully Stroup and Jonah Ruf; refreshments.

How to Vote on the Art

Forty-five venues are sponsoring 178 artists in this year's Art &

Soul contest.

At any venue, pick up a map that lists where art is displayed. After you make the rounds to view the art, stop by the Art & Soul office at 3151 Filer Ave. E. in Twin Falls to register and vote on your five favorite pieces. "We want to make sure each person votes only once," organizer Art Hoag said.

The artist with the most votes wins. What if there's a tie? "We'll have to figure that out if it happens," Hoag said.

You can vote any day but Sunday during the contest period,

April 27 through May 5.

Better Deals at Happy Hour

'Happy hours' around Twin Falls have become earlier and longer and offer discounts on better food — but you're still not guaranteed to find a crowd.

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI

TWIN FALLS • Happy hour has run out of patience waiting on 5 p.m.

Gone are the days of having only a brief window of time to grab a cheap drink. Instead, Happy hour is breaking out of its stereotypical shell and becoming an array of options for discounted fine dining.

Many local happy hours start at 3 p.m. and stretch into the early evening. And rather than filling the menus with cheap, fried foods, chefs and bartenders are including an impressive list of bar food items and specialty cocktails.

Of course, it can be a little tricky navigating an earlier happy hour. One too many drinks and you might need to call a taxi to take you home before 6 p.m. On the other hand, one too many mozzarella sticks and you'll throw off your eating schedule for the rest of the night. However, a midafternoon happy hour isn't designed for people to overindulge but to offer a quick bite for less, said Lynn Sheehan, executive chef at Cucina Gemelli in Twin Falls.

"There's a whole tradition of using your local pub as your living room," Sheehan said. "And that's what we're trying to do here. That's the audience we're trying to attract."

Cucina Gemelli's three-hour "happy hour" begins at 3 p.m. every Monday through Friday. Pop in at the start time and chances are you won't be met with a giant crowd. However, what it lacks in people, the restaurant makes up in offering a high-quality appetizer and drink for $7, Sheehan said.

There are still traditional items like potato chips, but they're homemade

L.A. TRUMPETER HEADLINES CSI JAZZ FESTIVAL'S COMEBACK

BY BLAIR KOCH
For the Times-News

TWIN FALLS • With many accolades under its belt — including superior ratings at a high school music festival for 32 years running — Burley High School's Jazz 1 ensemble is arguably one of the best student music groups in the Magic Valley.

That doesn't mean perfection comes easily. On May 3, the 20-student ensemble will share the stage with Grammy-winning trumpeter Wayne Bergeron of Los Angeles at the College of Southern Idaho Jazz Festival. To prepare for the moment, director Steve Floyd is whipping his young players into shape.

"We're opening the concert with 'Chameleon,' and it is excruciatingly difficult," Floyd said. "We've spent 30 to 45 minutes on just one measure ... the music is incredibly full of notes, and everyone has to play the exact same notes at the exact same time."

Learn the Intricacies of Ancient Tools

TWIN FALLS • Prehistoric technology may sound like an oxymoron to anyone who doesn't understand the craftsmanship of ancient tools. But after a Twin Falls presentation by anthropologist Daniel Meatte at 7 p.m. May 1, the term will make a lot more sense. Meatte has studied and written extensively about the first people who lived in the Northwest, their tools and hunting techniques. He is the archaeology program manager for Washington State Parks. His books and studies are quoted frequently in anthropology textbooks and scientific papers, said organizers of his free public lecture, "Understanding Prehistoric Technology." Meatte is expected to bring replicas of ancient tools and weapons to his presentation at the Herrett Center's Rick Allen Room. The audience will have a chance to handle and see the craftsmanship up close to better understand how early man used bone, wood, minerals, sinew, pigments, feathers and oils to create gear. Meatte will explain the intricacies in these tools, some of which were perfected over hundreds or thousands of years. Information: 732-6655.

Jazz

The jazz standard wasn't written in a tricky key. But with up to 16 notes per measure, and a distinctly syncopated rhythm, the choice has proven a challenge.

"If you ever get the opportunity to see 'The Lion King' in L.A., Wayne Bergeron is the guy sitting in first chair. He's the best trumpet player in L.A., which means he's among the best in the world," Floyd said. "The kids are excited and nervous ... they know it has to be perfect."

Buhl High School bands director Donald Moore doesn't lead a jazz band but encouraged his students to buy tickets to the festival's evening concert.

Bergeron's resume reads like a copy of Billboard magazine and the television guide. He's worked with musicians from Green Day to Ray Charles, Michael Buble and Beyonce. His signature high-octave trumpet playing has been featured on television hits like "Phineas and Ferb," "Jeopardy!" and "Family Guy," and he has contributed to soundtracks including "Toy Story 3," "Despicable Me" and "Confessions of a Shopaholic."

and Doc Severinsen and said he was blown away when hearing the trumpeter play.

"I first heard Wayne when he was playing lead trumpet with Gordon Goodwin's Big Phat Band," Moore said of the Gene Harris Jazz Festival in 2005, adding that Bergeron has played with so many ensembles and tracks that he possibly heard him earlier without realizing.

"If you've turned on the radio or watched television, you've heard Wayne Bergeron play," said CSI Jazz Band director Paul Pugh, who is spearheading the May 3 festival in Twin Falls.

During the day, judges will critique a few local jazz ensembles in CSI's Fine Arts Auditorium, and the public may watch. That evening's concert, which Bergeron headlines, will feature the CSI Jazz Ensemble and Burley High School's Jazz 1.

"Not only is this a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for students to get to play with Wayne, but it's a great opportunity for the public, too," Pugh said.

The concert program includes a mix of jazz styles, from a Latin percussion arrangement of "Friend Like Me" from the movie "Aladdin," to slower trumpet ballads and jazz waltzes.

If the festival is successful, Pugh wants to arrange another next year.

"CSI had a jazz festival years ago, and I'd like to bring it back," Pugh said. "Being able to draw top-tier, world-renowned musicians like Wayne Bergeron not only helps establish the festival but the music program at CSI."

Planetarium Show Explains Rare Venus Transit

TWIN FALLS • A rare sky event is coming up June 5, and a new planetarium show debuts this weekend to explain the phenomenon.

A transit of Venus — when the planet appears to pass directly in front of the sun — hasn't been seen from this side of the Earth since 1882 and won't be again until 2117, a College of Southern Idaho press release said. It's one of the rarest of the predictable astronomical events.

The Faulkner Planetarium at CSI's Herrett Center for Arts and Science on April 28 will debut a show called "When Venus Transits the Sun." That day's showings will be part of the center's Astronomy Day activities, which run from 10 a.m. until midnight.

Rick Greenawald, Faulkner Planetarium manager, said June 5 will be only the seventh time that such a transit has been observed. It wasn't until the 1769 transit that astronomers were able to accurately gauge the distance between Earth and sun.

The Faulkner program will explain the significance of the Venus transit, how it can be safely observed, what makes it so rare and what scientists can learn from it even today. It will show at 2, 3 and 7 p.m. April 28. After that, its regular schedule will be at 7 p.m. Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays, as well as 2 and 3 p.m. Saturdays.

Admission to the Faulkner Planetarium is $4.50 for adults, $3.50 for seniors and $2.50 for students and children older than 2. Information: Herrett Center, 732-6655 or csi.edu/herrett.

Ernest Hemingway Granddaughter Displays Art

KETCHUM • Joan "Muffet" Hemingway — the eldest daughter of American writer and conservationist Jack Hemingway and granddaughter of Ernest Hemingway — is showing a couple dozen pieces of her work through May and June at The Coffee Grinder in Ketchum.

Coffee Grinder owner Nicola Potts will hold a reception celebrating the Joan "Muffet" Hemingway Spring Art Show from 5 to 7 p.m. May 5 at the iconic coffee shop, Fourth and Leadville streets.

Joan Hemingway, now a Magic Valley resident, grew up in Ketchum and, dating back to 1976, was a regular customer at The Coffee Grinder where she used to make daily sojourns for a latte and scone.

"She was always an artist and a fashionista, too," Potts said. "She studied fashion and she was always wearing the latest."

Part of the proceeds from artwork sales will go to The Wild Gift. The Ketchum-based program supports young social entrepreneurs who create sustainable living projects, said its director, Deborah Knapp. One young man, for instance, renovated a historic grange to provide a space for local farmers and artisans to sell goods.

Hemingway said she will also use part of the proceeds to benefit a charity of her choice, which she did not name.

"I thought this art show would be a way for Muffet to connect with the community," Potts said. "I hope that anyone who's known her or anyone who just enjoys her art will sign a little guest book that I have here."

Hemingway's works add a touch of spring to Ketchum's homey little coffee shop as the snow melts away from the mountains surrounding Sun Valley.

Her pastel pink-and-green floral works are simple yet profound. One depicts flowers comprised of big bold strokes with simple round circles on top.

Other works are taken from about 30 portraits that she did of "Papa" Hemingway, the grandfather who often entertained Joan on his knee during her early years.

A few of the portraits of her grandfather feature the acclaimed author of "The Old Man and the Sea" with fish in hand. Another shows him in the beret he wore while in Spain during the Spanish Civil War.

Others are of a dog, an angel, even Jesus.

Hemingway, now 61, lives a "very happy, very private life," Potts said.

"This artwork is a way for her to express herself," Potts said. "And it really shows what a bright space she's in. I especially love her self-portrait. I can see her face in it."

The painting is meant to "bring feelings of the quiet serenity of mornings in a small town where the glorious sunrise is not obstructed by tall buildings," Urry said.

Cycle Therapy owner Robin Seastrom said she's excited to meet new customers as they come in to see the art.

"Come and have a yogurt" at Kiwi Loco, she said, "and ride a bike."

Shop owner Jayne Fischer said she's sponsoring four other pieces of art, including "Sepia Significance," a life-like oil painting by Kathy Lilyford of Buhl. It's of an attractive woman dressed Western style.

Once she agreed to sponsor the ceramic tile, Fischer said, the western theme was set.

She's excited to see the other art in the contest and meet new people as they come into her store.

Former M.V. Artist Returns to Show Off Women-Themed Work

BY BLAIR KOCH
For the Times-News

TWIN FALLS • Before moving from the Magic Valley more than a decade ago, Donna

Merchant-Crooks made an impact with her art as a certified drug and alcohol counselor.

Merchant-Crooks, 58, (formerly Donna Davis) now lives in Pagosa Springs, Colo., but will visit Twin Falls to present her traveling art show, "Can You Hear Me Now?" on May 3 at the Church of the Ascension.

"Idaho is a place that once you leave you'll spend the rest of your life wanting to return to," said Merchant-Crooks, who raised children in Hansen and still has family in the area.

The self-taught artist will weave stories while unveiling eight original pieces during the sit-down presentation. Although the female form is prominent in each, the variety showcases Merchant-Crooks' talent as a painter, bronze sculptor and wood carver.

Her work has been featured at Pagosa Springs' Art in the Garden Festival, Pagosa Center for the Arts and Wild Spirit Gallery, as well as the International Arabian Horseshow in Scottsdale, Ariz. Some of her pieces fetch several thousand dollars; a $4,000 wood carving of mustangs, inspired by her time as a backcountry cook in Idaho's Frank Church wilderness, is listed on her website, Merchant-crooks.com.

Morgan Jeno of Twin Falls remembers working with the artist decades ago, through New Beginnings Counseling and Consulting in Twin Falls.

"Donna was an art therapist in the same building, and her work is incredible," Jeno said.

Jeno recalled a child abuse awareness project that Merchant-Crooks was a part of; artwork by abuse survivors was displayed in Twin Falls.

"It was inspirational," Jeno said, adding that Merchant-Crooks' compassion is reflected in her work.

Joan Dalton-Boyd also remembers Merchant-Crooks' work and said the show should be well received locally.

"Donna can do anything," she said. "I love her work... it is inspirational, and I think people will really connect with it. She's a great humorist and a wonderful presenter. People will see her heart and humor, her compassion in her work."

Dalton-Boyd hopes the show inspires local artists.

"Here is an artist that took her work beyond our area and is now successful and highly sought after. We're lucky to be able to see her work showcased locally," she said.

Merchant-Crooks hopes the audience will "find their own voice" in the pieces presented.

The show begins with a painting of a woman's eyes peering through a burka. Here Merchant-Crooks is referring to Middle Eastern women who found themselves stripped of social standing.

"These were educated women, lawyers and doctors even, who ended up on the bottom of the totem pole," she said. "It can happen here."

The final piece is a bronze sculpture of a woman standing atop a horse's rib bone. For the artist, the horse represents female power and the rib is symbolic of protecting "our hearts and very breath."

"She's outside of what protects her and fully vulnerable yet on the cutting edge. She's arched back and not just talking to the world but to herself. 'Can You Hear Me Now' is a statement ... about coming into your own power and speaking in your own voice."

Learn about Historical Hells Canyon Mailboats

TWIN FALLS • Historian Carol Simon-Smolinski will speak on "Mailboats of Hells Canyon: The Early Years" at noon May 18 in the Twin Falls Public Library's community room, 201 Fourth Ave. E.

The free event is in conjunction with "The Way We Worked," a Smithsonian exhibit hosted by Magic Valley Arts Council and the Idaho Humanities Council. In the late 1910s, weekly Snake River mailboats went from Lewiston to Johnson Bar and became the lifeline for miners, homesteaders and ranchers. The boats were designed for the challenges of the Snake River, the intrepid captains who piloted them, and the national and international attention the mail service attracted, lecture organizers said. Simon-Smolinski is a scholar of Pacific Northwest history, specifically north-central Idaho. Her work includes articles, books and videos on topics ranging from the Lewis and Clark Expedition to

Idaho's ethnic heritage and the 19th- and 20th-century transportation, economic and social histories of Clearwater Valley and Hells Canyon. She is Asotin County representative to the Washington governor's Lewis Clark Trail Committee and a founding member of the Clearwater Snake Lewis Clark Trail Bicentennial Committee. Simon-Smolinski recently concluded 16 years as history instructor at Lewis-Clark State College to return full time to private research, writing and consultant work.

Daffodil

Daffodils have a sunny appearance. They have six lower petals in white or yellow. A trumpet-like set of petals that form a cup come from the center and can be white, pink, yellow, orange or a bright orange-red. There are even some daffodils that have a green cast to them. The leaves are shiny green and very narrow, and the flowers grow on stalks about twelve to fifteen inches in height. They enjoy full sun and are planted from bulbs during the fall. Plant the bulbs about six inches deep and six inches apart.

Allium

The allium, also called the flowering onion, is a member of the onion family but is ornamental. The bulbs should be planted in the autumn at a depth of eight inches deep about one foot apart. The leaves are long and narrow, about eighteen inches high and two inches wide, and are a beautiful blue-gray color. A stalk emerges from the leaves about three to four feet tall and at the top grows a globe-like flower. The flowers that appear on that globe are tiny and a beautiful lavender color.

Grape Hyacinth

Grape hyacinths look like little tiny clusters of grapes on a stalk. The flowers are oval and cluster together at the top of a long, slender stalk. There may be twelve to twenty flowers in the cluster. Grape hyacinths do not get very big, growing only to about six inches high. Some do get taller, but rarely get more than one foot high. The leaves are slender and dark green and the flowers are purple or white. These flowers also grow from a bulb that is small and should be planted in the fall three inches deep and four inches apart.

Iris

There are many different Iris types, the most common being Dutch Iris and Bearded Iris that grow in the late spring. The iris grows from a bulb planted in the fall at five inches deep and six inches apart. The plant grows up to two feet high and has dense, lance-like leaves that might top two feet themselves. The dainty flowers grow at the top of stalks and look silky and frilly. The bearded variety have a fuzzy beard that comes from the center of the flower. They come in many colors, including white, yellow, orange, blue and purple, as well as several that combine two colors. They should be planted in full sun, and they spread from year to year. If they do not flower, it is time to pull some up and give others some room.

Dairyman Halted Mid-meet by Rain

BY DAVID BASHORE
dbashore@magicvalley.com

GOODING • Usually they're called track and field meets. This one was field and track.

All six field events and only three track events got in at the Dairyman Invitational on Thursday, before a biting cold rain and brisk wind prompted meet officials to wave it off.

Two of the three running events brought out exciting finishes, however, beginning with the boys medley relay, which Buhl won narrowly over Declo and Wendell.

Sophomore Kellen Gillins, the Indians' anchor, felt Declo's Kai Garner all over him throughout their 800-meter run, but he kept Garner just behind him the whole way.

"I couldn't really see him but I could hear him right behind me. I just kept running and tried to keep ahead," said Gillins, who brought Buhl home in 3:49, just ahead of Declo. "The time isn't as good as some of the ones we've ran, but since it's so wet and cold, we'll take it. Just have to be the fastest on the track!"

TEEN SPIRIT

What Oakley's Bedke sets out to do, she usually does it pretty well, whether in athletics, in the classroom or in life.

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

OAKLEY • Crouched at the starting line, staring down the hurdles in front of her, one word is on Addie Bedke's mind: Attack.

"Just that one word, attack, puts everything into a different perspective," Bedke said. "When I get into those blocks I look at those hurdles and I'm like, 'You're going down!'"

It's the same attitude with which Bedke attacks her daily to-do list.

Carpe diem is a phrase created for people like Bedke, who squeezes every last drop out of each day.

The do-it-all Oakley senior is poised to challenge for gold medals at state in the 100- and 300-meter hurdles. Her best times this season (16.1-second 100 and 49.4-second 300) rank in the top two in Class 1A, according to Athletic.net.

Bedke runs the hurdles with urgency, almost as if she has somewhere else she has to be. And that could very well be the case.

Besides track, Bedke also competed for Oakley in basketball and volleyball.

She's a member of the drill team.

She's an accomplished pianist, an excellent cook, sews, and is close to completing her certified nurse assistant training.

She is the salutatorian of her senior class, holding down a 3.99 grade point average.

She's Oakley's student body president, homecoming queen and has acted in some school plays.

BOISE STATE'S M&M BOYS

Broncos double all-time first-round draft pick total as McClellin, Martin go to Bears, Bucs, respectively

FROM TIMES-NEWS AND WIRE REPORTS

NEW YORK • The Boise State football program doubled its fun on Thursday night during the first round of the NFL draft.

The Broncos also doubled their history.

After Shea McClellin (Chicago, No. 19 overall) and Doug Martin (Tampa Bay, No. 31 overall) were picked in the first round, Boise State's list of first-round draft pick alumni grew from two to four. Previously, Ryan Clady (2008) and Kyle Wilson (2010) were the program's only other such picks.

"Shea and Doug's selection in the first round is a testimony to the hard work and commitment they have shown throughout their career as Broncos," Boise State head coach Chris Petersen said in a press release. "We are excited for both players and know they will do an outstanding job representing Boise State at Chicago and Tampa Bay."

The Bears wasted no time addressing a need on defense after concentrating more on other areas in free agency and trades, including the blockbuster deal that brought Pro Bowl receiver Brandon Marshall from Miami.

There were a number of ways for the Bears to go in the draft, with issues on both lines. That Chicago went for a defensive end was hardly a surprise given its issues up front.

The Bears tied for 19th last season with 33 sacks but were 28th against the pass in part because of a lack of pressure, and with McClellin in the mix, maybe the load will be lightened a little on Julius Peppers. Teams still figure to key on him, but with someone else possibly causing some havoc, he might not see quite as many double teams.

McClellin was Boise State's defensive MVP in 2011 when he registered seven sacks, 12.5 tackles for loss and 50 tackles (30 solo). His junior year

Reserves Power Jazz to Win in Finale

Portland forward Craig Smith and Utah center Enes Kanter (o) battle for a rebound during the first half of their game Thursday.

SALT LAKE CITY • Rookie Alec Burks scored 18 points and NBA Slam Dunk champ Jeremy Evans led a 10-0 fourth-quarter run as the playoff-bound Utah Jazz beat the Portland Trail Blazers 96-94 Thursday night.

Utah finished the season on a five-game winning streak and will face top-seeded San Antonio in a first-round Western Conference matchup starting Sunday.

J.J. Hickson scored 20 points and Jonny Flynn added 18 to lead the injury-depleted Blazers, who didn't qualify for the post-07 season.

Evans rarely plays but saw extensive action as Jazz coach Tyrone Corbin played his starters sparingly. Evans finished with 13 points, 10 rebounds and three blocks. Josh Howard added 12 points and six rebounds in his most extensive action for Utah since undergoing knee surgery in late March.

Wesley Matthews had a chance to win it for Portland but his 3-pointer missed with 2.4 seconds left.

Corbin sat power forward Paul Millsap as a precaution so he would be rested for the playoff-savvy Spurs. Three other starters exited in the first quarter.

Still, it was enough to beat the Blazers, who are but a shell of the team they once were.

Portland's season started with the retirement of All-Star guard Brandon Roy and another injury to former No. 1 overall draft pick Greg Oden, and was interrupted by several major trades, the firing of coach Nate McMillan and injuries to top players such as LaMarcus Aldridge.

Gooding's Rachel Youren is among the fastest in the 2A classification in the girls 3,200 meter event, and on Thursday she outkicked Richfield's Sasha Kent, the reigning 1A champion.

Unlike Gillins, she had no complaints about her time: Youren scored a season-best 11:53.

"I actually like the rain, as long as it's not too terrible," said Youren. "It's good to have a tough race like that, and I thought I could outprint her at the end, but she's a really good sprinter too."

Eventually, though, the conditions became too much to handle, and the meet was abandoned after the high hurdles.

By that time the field events, generally the most difficult in wet conditions, were over. But with district meets a couple of weeks out, nobody wanted to risk injury to athletes warming up, cooling down, and trying to warm up again.

"It's really rough out here," said Gooding senior Derek Evans, who cleared 11 feet in the pole vault and promptly called it a day. "I've been using stickum and it's not helping at all. Guys are slipping on the pole on the way up and we're landing in a big pool of water. There's nothing to gain from a day like this unless the weather's this bad at state."

Buhl's boys and Gooding's girls topped the truncated team standings.

NINTH INNING HOMER DROPS ANGELS

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seattle's Chone Figgins hits an RBI double against Detroit for the go-ahead run in the seventh inning of the Mariners' win on Thursday.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. • Brandon Allen hit a two-run, pinch-hit homer in the ninth inning to lift the Tampa Bay Rays over the Los Angeles Angels 4-3 on Thursday.

Albert Pujols went 1 for 4, ending his hitless streak at 21 at-bats when the Angels' slugger rolled a grounder up the middle to beat a three-man defensive shift. He was thrown out attempting to stretch the single into a double.

Pujols' hitless streak was the longest of his career, surpassing a 0-for-18 stretch from Aug. 29-Sept. 4, 2010.

Pujols, with 445 homers, has not gone deep in 19 games this season, a span of 76 at-bats. Dating to Sept. 22, Pujols has not hit a home run in 105 at-bats, tying his longest regular-season drought from April 23-May 23, 2011.

RED SOX 10, WHITE SOX 3 CHICAGO • Kevin Youkilis hit a grand slam, Jarrod Saltalamacchia homered twice and the Boston Red Sox roughed up Philip Humber in a 10-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox on Thursday night.

Youkilis, mired in an early-season slump, hit his second career slam into the right-field bullpen during a five-run third inning against Humber, who was making his first start since pitching a perfect game in a 4-0 victory at Seattle on Saturday.

MARINERS 5, TIGERS 4 DETROIT • Chone Figgins hit a tiebreaking double in the seventh inning that was misjudged by right fielder Brennan Boesch, and Seattle completed a three-game sweep of Detroit.

Figgins' drive to right-center scored Brendan Ryan, who reached on a two-out walk from Pick Porcello (1-2). Former Tiger Charlie Furbush (1-1) got the win with a perfect inning of work.

ROYALS 4, INDIANS 2 CLEVELAND • Luis Mendoza pitched into the sixth inning and Kansas City's bullpen made a lead stand up in the win over Cleveland.

Jeff Francoeur had a go-ahead single in a three-run fifth for the Royals, who won consecutive games for only the second time this season.

ORIOLES 5, BLUE JAYS 2 BALTIMORE • Adam Jones led off the eighth inning with a tiebreaking homer and the Baltimore Orioles beat the Toronto Blue Jays 5-2 on Thursday night, completing a three-game sweep with their fourth straight victory.

Jones ripped the first pitch from Casey Janssen (1-1) into the first row of the left-field stands, barely eluding the leap of Eric Thames. It was his sixth homer of the season.

National League METS 3, MARLINS 2

NEW YORK • Justin Turner drew a bases-loaded walk in a sensational 13-pitch at-bat and Kirk Niewenhuis hit an RBI single with two outs in the ninth inning as the New York Mets rallied past Heath Bell and Miami.

Pitching for the first time in a week, and working in a steady drizzle, Bell (0-3) couldn't find the plate. The All-Star closer walked four and threw a whopping 46 pitches.

GIANTS 6, REDS 5 CINCINNATI • Angel Pagan hit a three-run homer in the ninth inning, lifting San Francisco to the win over Cincinnati.

Joaquin Arias led off the ninth against Cincinnati closer Sean Marshall (0-2) with a walk, and Ryan Theriot followed with a single. After pinch-hitter Brett Pill struck out, Pagan lofted a 1-2 pitch into the left field seats to snap the Giants' losing streak in Cincinnati at seven.

Banquet

Kylee Schierman joined in on the act, speaking in her best Southern drawl, "The first time we ever saw a rodeo, boy were we wowed!"

The trio talked about their relationship with the CSI softball team, which so passionately cheered at every home basketball game, and they poked fun at the CSI men's basketball players, who "never touch the lines" during sprints.

CSI men's basketball head coach had something to say about that.

"I have the best coaching staff in the country and I always ask them if the guys are hitting every line. It's nice that it was brought to my attention they weren't hitting every one," Gosar said.

Sophomores from all of the CSI athletic programs — men's and women's basketball, volleyball, baseball, softball, rodeo, as well as cheer and dance — were honored by each of their coaches and presented a plaque with their photo.

CSI baseball player Andrew Freter took home the presidential award for most outstanding male athlete, while volleyball player Beth Carey was named most outstanding female athlete.

Freter is the Golden Eagles' ace this season, carrying a 5-2 record and a 4.23 ERA in 55 1-3 innings. He also has a 4.0 GPA.

After being honored by his coach, Boomer Walker, Freter talked about the adversity the team faced in the 2010-11 season following the death of Devon Austin in September 2010.

"We went through a lot as a team last year. Devon died and four days later we went, the entire team, to Coeur d'Alene for his funeral," Freter said. "That was a really expensive trip and it was really gracious of Joel (Bate, CSI athletic director) to put that together for us. It really showed how close a family CSI is."

Carey led the Golden Eagles to the Region 18 Tournament championship and an NJCAA national tournament appearance this season, while pacing CSI with 291 kills. The Australian will play for the University of Portland next season.

The final awards given were to Tyler Hansen and Nikki Brailsford, who both won the CSI "Rudy Awards," honored for their hard work and dedication.

Bedke

And to top it all off, she works on her family's ranch — 10-hour days in the summer are typical — baling hay, moving cattle and fixing fence.

"Sometimes I do go insane," Bedke laughed. "I have a lot on my plate but I usually do pretty well juggling all of it."

Is there anything she's not good at?

After a moment of thought, Bedke finally thought of something: "I'm not good at tennis," she said. "But I've only tried that once."

Bedke credits her family and religion for keeping her grounded.

"Sometimes it gets very, very stressful and I don't know what to do and then sometimes I break down. My mom always gets me through those times," Bedke said. "My dad has always taught me if you're going to do something, you might as well do it well."

It's easy to trace where Bedke's work ethic comes from.

"I think the main reason I'm able to do everything is, since I've grown up on a ranch I've learned how to work hard," Bedke said. "Work comes before play in my family. If there's work to be done, then you go and work and that's all there is to it, no questions asked."

Addie is the fourth of Eric and Marcie Bedke's five children, and the only girl.

"She came equipped. She's self-motivated and organized. We haven't pushed her to do everything," said Marcie Bedke, adding that as parents they've had to rein Addie in, or else she would probably take on even more.

"She's got a little perfectionist in her and yet she can also be really laid back," Marcie Bedke said. "She has her moments, like all humans do, but 99 percent of the time she's pleasant, cheerful, good-natured and positive. She's fun to be around and fun to support. She's made it a fun ride."

What's more, Bedke has been extra busy lately applying for scholarships while deciding which college to attend — probably either Utah State or BYU-Idaho.

Just another item to add to her To-Do list.

"I'm involved in a lot of things, but I always try to be pointing in the right direction and not get caught up in worldly things," Bedke said. "I just enjoy being busy. I love everything that I do and I wouldn't give it up for anything."

We are pleased to present to you this year's Annual Quality Water Report. This report is designed to inform you about the quality water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water.

We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water. Our water wells draw from the Snake River Aquifer.

We have a wellhead protection and a source water protection plan available at our office that provides information about potential sources of contamination.

We are pleased to report that our drinking water meets Federal and State requirements.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Public Works Director Walt Appell at 324-9669. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. If you want to learn more, please attend any of our regularly scheduled council meetings. They are held on the 1st and 3rd Tuesday of every Month at 5:30 PM in the Council chambers located at 100 East Avenue A.

City of Jerome routinely monitors for constituents in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. This table shows the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1st, 2011 to December 31st, 2011. All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some constituents. It's important to remember that the presence of these constituents does not necessarily pose a health risk.

A copy of this report will be available at City Hall, 152 East Avenue A; Jerome Public Library, 100 1st Avenue East; Public Works Facility, 4th Avenue West. The report can also be found on our webpage at www.ci.jerome.id.us

BCS Takes Big Step Toward Playoff

ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. • College football is on the verge of finally having a playoff, its own version of the final four.

For the first time, all the power brokers who run the highest level of the sport are comfortable with the idea of deciding a championship the way it's done from pee-wees to pros.

being considered alone signaled a shift in thinking for the BCS. In a memo leading up to these meetings, the term "four-team event" was used to describe creating two national semifinals and a championship game.

Hancock said the commissioners will present a "small number" of options for a four-team playoff to their leagues over the next month or so at conference meetings. He estimated that between two and seven configurations are being considered.

It'll be up to each conference to determine which plan it likes best. The commissioners will get back together in June and try to come up with a final version, and eventually the university presidents will have to sign off on it.

And he warned that if no agreement is reached, the fallback could be sticking with an overhauled version of the old system, which aims for a No. 1 vs. No. 2 championship game.

But that's a longshot. "It's great to get to a point where there seems to be general consensus that a four-team, three-game playoff is the best route to go," Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner John Swofford said.

"The next challenge obviously is figuring out a format that brings consensus where we can truly make that work. The more this narrows, the more challenging it gets."

They want to limit it to four teams. That's for sure. Now they have to figure out how to pick the teams, where and when to play the games and how the bowls do or do not fit in. The new postseason format would go into effect for the 2014 season.

As for the 14-year-old Bowl Championship Series, it's on life support. Any chance that it survives past the next two seasons? "I hope not," said Southeastern Conference Commissioner Mike Slive, who pitched a four-team playoff four years ago but was shot down at this same hotel beachside hotel.

"This is a seismic change for college football," BCS Executive Director Bill Hancock said after the 11 conference commissioners and Notre Dame's athletic director wrapped up three days of meetings in south Florida.

That Hancock actually used the word playoff when describing what was

was his most statistically impressive campaign, with nine sacks, 13.5 tackles for loss and fumble and interception returns for touchdowns.

Tampa Bay clearly had Martin in mind, trading its second-round pick (No. 36 overall) and swapping fourth-round picks with Denver to move back into the first round. Martin was the next-to-last pick of the first round at No. 31, but the second running back taken overall, behind Alabama's Trent Richardson, who went to Cleveland at No. 3.

The Browns traded up with Minnesota to get in position to draft Richardson, the "first" player taken Thursday after it had been publicly known for days that Indianapolis would draft Stanford quarterback Andrew Luck with the first overall pick, with Washington taking Baylor quarterback Robert Griffin III at No. 2.

Martin averaged 5.56 yards per carry and scored 43 touchdowns while rushing for 3,431 in four seasons at Boise State. He gained 1,299 yards and scored 16 TDs as a senior.

Martin was just the seventh player in school history to eclipse 4,000-career all-purpose yards, finishing his Bronco career with 4,885, the fifth-most in school history. His 1,892 all-purpose yards in 2011 - including his school-record 301 against Arizona State en route to most valuable player honors in MAACO Bowl Las Vegas - ranked sixth on the all-time Boise State list.

PROPOSED ACTION: The Idaho Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) is proposing to submit revisions to the Idaho Regional Haze State Implementation Plan to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). The "TASCO Revised BART Determination" and "Final Modeling Memorandum" are intended to revise Appendix F of the Regional Haze Plan as it relates to TASCOS BART determination and visibility impacts.

The 30-day comment period begins April 27, 2012 and concludes May 30, 2012.

AVAILABILITY OF MATERIALS: The Regional Haze Plan documents are available for public review on DEQ's website at http://www.deq.idaho.gov. Printed materials will be made available upon request at DEQ's State Office in Boise.

HEARING: A public hearing has been scheduled May 30, 2012 at 3:00 MDT, at the Department of Environmental Quality, Conference Room A, 1410 N. Hilton, Boise, ID.

SUBMISSION OF WRITTEN COMMENTS-ASSISTANCE ON TECHNICAL QUESTIONS: Anyone may submit written comment regarding this proposal. DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a baby shower for a dear high school friend and his wife. The day after the shower, she posted a slideshow on Facebook titled "Thanks for All Our Gifts" with a picture of each gift and who gave it. She has had numerous miscarriages and held this shower at five months, knowing the baby is not yet at a viable stage.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

While I feel sympathy for her fertility issues, and especially for her husband who desperately wants to be a father, I think this is a bid for attention. I am disgusted at how she seems to be bragging about her haul, yet prepping everyone to give her an outpouring of support if there is another tragic loss.

Who does this? I am

... SPEECHLESS IN NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR SPEECHLESS: Most baby showers are given four to six weeks before the mother's due date. However, it's possible that your friend's wife had hers at five months because, with her history of miscarriages, she's excited that her pregnancy seems to be progressing well and she's thinking positively about the outcome. I hope it works out well and so should you.

As to her method of thanking everyone for the gifts, she may never have been taught that individual thank-you notes should have been sent to each guest. Because it is clear that you are closer to the husband than the wife, perhaps you should tip him off that it's still not too late for them to do the right thing and suggest he help her with them.

DEAR ABBY: I have been divorced from my wife for almost a year, with another year of separation preceding that. We divorced because of arguments, not because of abuse, adultery or substance abuse issues. The divorce actually seemed to take on a life of its own.

Because I have a small son with her, I desperately want to attempt a reconciliation. She is reticent about it, however, mainly because I believe she's getting pressure from her family. How can I persuade her to go out with me so we can rekindle the spark we once shared?

— MISSING MY OLD LIFE

DEAR MISSING: Before a couple can successfully reconcile, they must first resolve the problems that caused the separation in the first place. That would be the way to begin. However, are you aware that not once in your letter did you say that you still love your ex-wife? If the reason you want to "rekindle the spark" is that you miss being with your child and the comforts of being married — but not her — then I don't think you have much chance of success.

DEAR ABBY: My child's best friend has a parent who is constantly late (to the tune of hours, not minutes). I understand that the child is not at fault, but my child's feelings are hurt by the blatant disregard of the other parent's tardiness. How do I help this parent (whom I adore otherwise) to understand that disappointing my child through poor time management is not acceptable to our family without hurting both children?

— WATCHING THE CLOCK

DEAR CLOCK WATCHER: If you haven't told the parent that it is hurtful when your child is kept waiting for hours for a play date, you should. And if that doesn't bring the desired result, your child should be encouraged to move on to some other activity and/or another companion.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

Bobby Wolff

*"Battles nor songs can from oblivion save,
But Fame upon a white deed loves to build."*

— Lizette Reese

In today's deal from last year's Yeh Cup in Wuxi, China, three hearts looks to be high enough. But Agustin Madala bid game and received a diamond lead to East's king, a spade shift to West's ace, and a second diamond. He rose with dummy's ace, pitched his diamond loser on a top spade, then finessed the heart jack, noting West's seven. Now he played a club, ruffed a diamond as East threw a club, took a second top club, and played dummy's remaining top spade to pitch his last club.

Next came a second diamond ruff as East pitched his last spade, and since the defenders' only plain-suit cards were spades, declarer could safely exit with the heart jack, knowing that if East won and had a spade to lead, declarer would be able to ruff low and not be overruffed. As the cards lay, East won and played back a heart, letting Madala finesse and claim his contract.

East had only one chance to make declarer's life harder. When the fourth diamond was led from dummy, ruffing low would have given up any hope of getting a second trump trick. But might East have given declarer a losing option by ruffing high?

Declarer has to overruff, then has to read whether to exit with a high trump or a low one, depending on whether the remaining heart honor is bare or the nine is falling. I think declarer should get this right; if West has false-carded with the trump seven from 9-7-x, good luck to him.

ANSWER: A bid of one spade would show at least five, but you can double to show four spades and values, typically with diamond tolerance. You are very much at the minimum end of the range for this action, but if you do not bid now, you may never get an easy and relatively safe chance to show values.

Today is Friday, April 27, the 118th day of 2012. There are 248 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On April 27, 2011, powerful tornadoes raked the South and Midwest. According to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, more than 120 twisters resulted in 316 deaths across parts of Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1521, Portuguese explorer Ferdinand Magellan was killed by natives in the Philippines.

In 1777, the only land battle in Connecticut during the Revolutionary War, the Battle of Ridgefield, took place, resulting in a limited British victory.

In 1805, during the First Barbary War, an American-led force of Marines and mercenaries captured the city of Derna, on the shores of Tripoli.

In 1822, the 18th president of the United States, Ulysses S. Grant, was born in Point Pleasant, Ohio.

In 1865, the steamer Sultana exploded on the Mississippi River near Memphis, Tenn., killing more than 1,400 people, mostly freed Union prisoners of war.

In 1932, American poet Hart Crane, 32, drowned after jumping from a steamer into the Gulf of Mexico while en route to New York.

In 1941, German forces occupied Athens during World War II.

In 1967, Expo '67 was officially opened in Montreal by Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson.

In 1972, the Apollo 16 mission to the moon ended safely.

In 1973, Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray resigned after it was revealed that he'd destroyed files removed from the safe of Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

In 1982, the trial of John W. Hinckley Jr., who had shot four people, including President Ronald Reagan, began in Washington. (The trial ended with Hinckley's acquittal by reason of insanity.)

In 1992, the new Federal Republic of Yugoslavia was proclaimed in Belgrade by the republic of Serbia and its lone ally, Montenegro. Russia and 12 other former Soviet republics won entry into the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank. Betty Boothroyd became the first female Speaker of Britain's House of Commons.

Ten years ago: South African entrepreneur Mark Shuttleworth arrived at the international space station for an eight-day, seven-night cruise that had cost him $20 million. A biker brawl at Harrah's Casino in Laughlin, Nev., left three bikers dead and 12 others wounded. Derek Lowe of the Boston Red Sox pitched a no-hitter against the Tampa Bay Devil Rays (final score: 10-0). Mattel toy company co-founder Ruth Handler, creator of the Barbie doll, died in Los Angeles at age 85.

Five years ago: President George W. Bush and visiting Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe threatened stronger punitive actions against North Korea if it reneged on a promise to padlock its sole nuclear reactor. A judge in Madrid indicted three U.S. soldiers in the 2003 death of Jose Couso, a Spanish journalist who was killed when their tank opened fire at a hotel in Baghdad. (The U.S., which found the use of force was justified, has refused to hand over the soldiers.) The government reported economic growth slowed to a near crawl of 1.3 percent in the first quarter of 2007. Master cellist Mstislav Rostropovich died in Moscow at age 80.

One year ago: An Afghan officer, Col. Ahmed Gul, killed eight U.S. airmen and one U.S. civilian during a routine meeting at an Afghan air force headquarters compound in Kabul. Responding to critics' relentless claims, President Barack Obama produced a detailed Hawaii birth certificate in an extraordinary attempt to bury the issue of where he was born and confirm his legitimacy to hold office.
