

It's Time to Vote

It's time to shape your future, Magic Valley. With 20 contested primary election races and eight bond issue measures spread across south-central Idaho ballots, today is the time to make your voice heard. Here's what you need know before heading to the polls.

Where Do I Vote?

Head to your general election precinct — the same place you'll vote during the November presidential election. Polls are open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Some polling places have changed due to redistricting. If you're unsure of where to vote, visit idahovotes.gov or call your county clerk.

What if I'm Not Registered?

Good news. You can register to vote at the polls. Bring current photo identification and proof of residence within your precinct — like a utility bill in your name. As long as you're 18 and have lived in the state for 30 days, you can register at the polls. You'll be asked to declare party affiliation, as Idaho's Republican primary is closed for the first time. Only GOP voters can vote on the Republican ticket, but anyone can choose to vote on the Democrat ticket and on non-party races. Unaffiliated voters can declare new party affiliation at the polls, but if you're a registered Democrat or Republican, it's too late to switch parties.

Where Do I find Out Who Won?

You're there. Visit Magicvalley.com after the polls close for live election night coverage, including a chat with Times-News political reporter Melissa Davlin and other staff. We'll have the most comprehensive local election coverage, with updates on Magicvalley.com as soon as they become available — even after our print deadline. With more than 10 stories planned, Wednesday's Times-News will wrap up all the changes the election brings.

TWIN FALLS • High school senior Lizbeth Ayala thought it would be difficult to figure out how to register to vote and find information about candidates. But the 18-year-old discovered the process wasn't as intimidating as she thought. "It's actually pretty easy," she said. Part of the reason is that Ayala and her classmates at Magic Valley High learned about today's Idaho primary election during government class. Ayala voted for the first time Friday during early voting at the Twin Falls County Courthouse. With identification card in hand, she waited in line with other students from Twin Falls' alternative school to check in. "I believe one vote can make a difference," she said.

T.F. Co. Sheriff's Candidate Fired

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Twin Falls County sheriff's candidate Kelly Hassani says he was fired Monday from his job as a senior investigator with the sheriff's office. Hassani has been on disability for nearly two years after suffering neck injuries in a July 2010 vehicle accident. According to Hassani, the county contacted him a few weeks ago and asked what accommodations he would need to continue working. "Basically, because of the problem with my neck, I can't sit very long, I can't lift a lot," Hassani said. "I can easily do desk duty, no problem at all." But, Hassani said, the county fired him. He was told to turn in his gun and badge on Monday. Twin Falls County Sheriff Tom Carter declined to comment Monday night on Hassani's employment status, stating it's a personnel issue. Hassani, who is challenging Carter for Twin Falls County sheriff as an independent, said he believes his candidacy is a factor in his firing, though he was told that wasn't the case. Carter faces Jack Johnson in today's Republican primary election. The winner of that race will face Hassani in November.

Twin Falls Co. Republicans Decry More 'Deceptive' Campaign Material

mdavlin@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • More potentially misleading political fliers are showing up in Castleford. The materials, which promote Rick Martin for the Republican Castleford Precinct Committeeman, say they're paid for by the Republican Central Committee of Twin Falls County, Inc. But the real central committee is called the Twin Falls County Republican Central Committee, and has nothing to do with the fliers, said chairwoman Gretchen Clelland. In a press release, Clelland called the campaign material deceptive, and said no official Twin Falls Republican organization supports Martin or his tactics, which have included using altered sample ballots as campaign material. Martin said he created The Republican Central Committee of Twin Falls County, Inc., two years ago in response to a disagreement with the official central committee, and now uses it as a political action committee to collect funds. Martin said his strategies are legal and ethical. "I'm trying to run a positive campaign," he said.

Milk Tanker Spill Blocks U.S. 30 for Hours

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • East-bound U.S. Highway 30 was blocked for three hours between Filer and Twin Falls Monday morning after a tanker overturned, spilling 6,000 gallons of milk.

The commercial truck's driver, 43-year-old John Taylor of Hansen, was transported to St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center with minor injuries, according to an Idaho State Police release.

At about 7:04 a.m., Taylor's vehicle left the right shoulder of the highway near milepost 214 for unknown reasons, after which Taylor overcorrected, causing the vehicle to overturn, according to ISP.

Taylor was wearing a seat belt and alcohol is not a factor in the crash, the ISP report states.

BURLEY BOY KILLED IN SATURDAY CRASH

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • A Burley boy died Saturday after he was struck by a car south of Burley.

Brandon Wayne Wright, 5, was pronounced dead at Cassia Regional Medical Center after he was transported to the Burley hospital by ambulance, according to a Cassia County sheriff's report.

Wright is the son of Wayne Jack and Janet Moosman Wright.

According to the report, the child ran into the roadway at 137 S. 200 W. as a car was passing at about 4:58 p.m.

Marilyn Whiting, 65, of Burley, was driving a 2000 Mercury Marquis on 200 West Road when her vehicle struck the child. Wright was apparently attempting to cross the road near his home, according to the sheriff's report.

Driver inattention was listed on the report as a contributing circumstance. Whiting was not cited.

A funeral for Wright is planned at noon Saturday at the Star LDS Church, 100 S. 200 W., Burley. Burial will be in the Pleasant View Cemetery. The funeral is under the direction of Rasmussen Funeral Home.

T.F. Council Starts Thinking Budget

BY MELISSA DAVLIN
mdavlin@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • The direction of the city's future isn't just about dreaming big. It all goes back to the money.

The Twin Falls City Council received an update on the city's budget on Monday. While the city is in good shape for this fiscal year, Twin Falls City Manager Travis Rothweiler told the council that it should start thinking about the city's long-term needs.

The city is currently working on a strategic plan that helps policy makers shape where they want

Twin Falls to go in the next 15 years.

"There's an advantage to looking at a longer approach as far as fiscal years," Rothweiler said. That will allow the city to focus on big-picture improvements, like infrastructure.

To do that, council members need to start thinking of their priorities, Rothweiler said. That doesn't mean coming up with exact numbers for specific departments right now — that comes later — but thinking of what they'd like to focus on.

The council also heard an update on the city's revenues and expenditures.

In Other Business

Also Monday, the Twin Falls City Council:

- Held a promotion ceremony for Staff Sgt. Arnold Morgado and Sgt. Dan Clements of the Twin Falls Police Department.
- Presented a plaque to the Boys and Girls Club of Magic Valley and Cactus Petes for their Arbor Day service.
- Approved a letter of support for an Auger Falls water habitat restoration project by the Army Corps of Engineers.
- Set a public hearing for testimony on raising the city pool rates. The public hearing will be June 4.
- Heard testimony from Tim Leatherby, owner of Leatherby Tools, on how he thinks the city could be more business-friendly.

Most are on track or better than projected for the first six months of the 2012 fiscal year, said Chief Financial Officer Lorie Race.

The city starts the budget-setting process next week.

BURLEY • Cassia County sheriff's detectives are still searching for two employees who were reported missing from the Alpine Garden Inn in Burley on May 4.

Cassia County Sheriff Randy Kidd said Monday that detectives are still following leads but there were no new developments in the case over the weekend.

A felony warrant for grand theft with a $250,000 bond has been issued out of Cassia County for James Duane Ambrose, 55. He is suspected of stealing a vehicle from the motel. He was last seen in the Las Vegas area a couple of weeks ago.

Russ Taft, 54, is also missing. According to a press release issued by Kidd's office, "it is feared that he may be the victim of a violent act."

"We are still investigating that so I can't go into detail," Kidd said. "But some of the evidence leads us to believe that."

According to the press release, several search warrants have been served and several searches conducted during the attempt to locate the two men.

Anyone with information on either man should contact the Cassia County Sheriff's Office at 878-2252 or Crime Stoppers at 678-2900.

Voting

She's among high school seniors around the Magic Valley who are voting for the first time.

At Magic Valley High, government teacher Melanie Hutchinson takes her students who are 18 to vote during the school day. She said it's the most convenient time.

"These kids are busy," she said, especially those who are parents or who have jobs.

Students followed local election news during their three-week government class and had a chance to meet a few candidates in contested races.

Both Twin Falls County Sheriff Tom Carter and challenger, Jerome County Sheriff's Chief Deputy Jack Johnson, paid a visit to Hutchinson's class Friday to talk with students.

Hutchinson said she told her students that it was an opportunity to interview the candidates.

"If they meet the candidates, they are more likely to vote," she said.

Students also met Democrat Nicole LeFavour and Republican Chick Heilesen, who are both running for the U.S. House District 2 seat.

Timothy Cameron, 18, a student in Hutchinson's government class, said he enjoyed meeting the candidates. He voted for the first time Friday.

In Jerome, 18-year-old Mara Sant said she's planning to vote today for the first time. "I'm all excited," she said.

The Jerome High School senior said she plans to vote for candidates based on who will make a difference in the position and not on popularity.

Jerome High government teacher Terry Waitley said his classes focus more on politics at the national level, especially since it's a presidential election year.

But some local and state election questions come up. Waitley said some of his students were confused by Idaho's closed GOP primary system.

Many of his students, though, aren't old enough to vote yet. And some who are 18 don't plan to vote today. "Some students probably won't vote in the primary because they won't want to declare a political party," Waitley said.

In Filer, 18-year-old Josh Holt said last week that he wasn't sure if he'd vote in today's election. He hasn't registered, but was considering doing so at a polling place.

If not, he said he will vote in the general election this fall.

"I feel it's my duty," the high school senior said.

Holt got a taste of the political scene this fall when he went to Ron Paul's campaign event in February at Twin Falls High School.

Three of his classmates from Shane Hild's advanced placement government class at Filer High School also went — Andrew McNaylor, Andrew Lanford and Teft Williams. They aren't old enough to vote today, but will all be 18 by the November general election.

Lanford uses an app on his smartphone to read national political news. Williams said he's researching the presidential candidates to see where they stand on issues and won't vote based on "who looks best on TV."

TWIN FALLS MAN CHARGED FOR ALLEGED GUN THREAT

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A 25-year-old Twin Falls man is charged with aggravated assault for allegedly threatening a woman with a loaded gun during an argument.

Police were called to an apartment in the 600 block of Paradise Place in Twin Falls for a call about a fight at about 1 a.m. Saturday.

Twin Falls Police Officer Adam Dixon wrote in his report that he waited outside to listen for any fighting and knocked on the door when he heard none.

A man identified as Holdon Beckstead answered the door but refused to talk about the situation, the report states.

"I entered the residence and observed a black firearm and two magazines on a table in the kitchen," Dixon wrote in the report.

A woman in the residence, who was being treated by paramedics, told Dixon she and Beckstead started arguing at about 7 p.m. Friday and the fight quickly turned physical. After escaping the fight, the report states the woman said Beckstead pulled her into the house while holding a gun.

"He continued by taking the gun and pointing it at her then tossing it on the table," the report said. "He told her if she didn't shut up he would hurt her or anyone that came to the door."

Officers observed scratches and bruising on the woman and found there was a magazine in the gun loaded with nine rounds of .40 caliber ammunition and one round in the chamber.

Beckstead was arrested and booked into the Twin Falls County Jail and held on a $15,000 bond. A pretrial hearing is scheduled for June 5.

Woman Allegedly Caught Driving Without Privileges En Route to Court

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A Twin Falls woman has been arrested for a charge of driving without privileges after an officer allegedly saw her driving to court to be sentenced for similar charges. Robin Ridinger, 38, was arraigned on the charge Monday in Twin Falls County 5th District Court.

In a police report, Officer Joel Woodward wrote he was on patrol at about 10 a.m. April 10 in the 900 block of Maurice Street when he noticed a blue 1982 Toyota four-door car pulling out of a residence.

Woodward said he recognized the vehicle and knew one of the owners was incarcerated for possessing meth, the report states.

Woodward wrote that he decided to follow the vehicle, which eventually traveled to the Twin Falls County Courthouse. The report said Woodward went into the courthouse at about 10:35 a.m., found that misdemeanor sentencing hearings were happening and decided to attend. Woodward wrote in the report that he saw the woman who was driving the car sitting in the back of the courtroom. After he heard her name called to approach the judge, Woodward said he left the courthouse and asked dispatch to check the woman's license status. It came back as suspended through July 6, the report said.

According to online court records, Ridinger was sentenced that day to spend two days in jail and pay about $500 in fines and fees for driving without privileges and failing to provide proof of insurance in a separate case.

Woodward requested a warrant for Ridinger's arrest. She was later arrested and held in the Twin Falls County Jail on $1,000 bond on the new charge. A pretrial hearing is scheduled for June 5.

'We Will No longer Spend Resources'

WASHINGTON (AP) • Ron Paul, the congressman from Texas and a favorite of tea partiers, effectively ended his presidential campaign Monday but urged his fervent supporters to continue working at the state party level to cause havoc for presumptive Republican nominee Mitt Romney.

In an email to supporters, Paul urged his libertarian-leaning backers to remain involved in politics and champion his causes despite the apparent end of his presidential aspirations. "Moving forward, however, we will no longer spend resources campaigning in primaries in states that have not yet voted," Paul said in his statement. "Doing so with any hope of success would take many tens of millions of dollars we simply do not have. I encourage all supporters of liberty to make sure you get to the polls and make your voices heard, particularly in the local, state and congressional elections, where so many defenders of freedom are fighting and need your support."

GOVT ADOPTS LANDMARK STRATEGY TO FIGHT ALZHEIMER'S

BY LAURAN NEERGAARD
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • The Obama administration adopts a landmark national strategy to fight Alzheimer's on today, setting the clock ticking toward a deadline of 2025 to finally find effective ways to treat, or at least stall, the mind-destroying disease.

But work is beginning right away: Starting today, embattled families and caregivers can check a new one-stop website for easy-to-understand information about dementia and where to get help. The National Institutes of Health is giving the green light to some major new studies of possible therapies, including a form of insulin that's squirted into the nose.

And the world's top Alzheimer's scientists gathered this week to decide what other research should take place next in order to meet that ambitious 2025 deadline.

"These actions are the cornerstones of an historic effort to fight Alzheimer's disease," Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen Sebelius said in a statement. She was announcing the steps Tuesday at the meeting of researchers.

The first National Alzheimer's Plan comes at what many scientists think is a pivotal moment. Alzheimer's is poised to become a defining disease of the rapidly aging population. But researchers are pushing for a big change in how potential therapies are tested, by trying them in people who don't yet have full-blown Alzheimer's symptoms, when it may be too late to help.

"There's a sense of optimism" thanks to some new discoveries, Dr. Francis Collins, director of the National Institutes of Health, told scientists at the Alzheimer's Research Summit on Monday.

But, "we need to figure out exactly where is the best window of opportunity" to battle back Alzheimer's, Collins added. He noted that cardiologists don't test cholesterol-lowering drugs on people already near death from heart failure.

Americans Train Ugandans for Somalia Mission

BY DAVID RISING
Associated Press

KAKOLA, Uganda • American military advisers in Uganda are drawing on lessons learned from Iraq and Afghanistan to help train African Union soldiers to fight Somalia's most powerful insurgent group, al-Shabab.

Earlier this year, a small contingent of U.S. Marines joined American military contractors at a training base nestled in Uganda's rolling countryside about 2 1/2 hours drive from the capital, helping fill gaps where the al-Qaida-linked fighters have found weaknesses. The base, called Singo, was built by the U.S. and is a key part of the Obama administration's strategy to bring stability to Somalia.

The United States has sent in only small units of Special Forces to attack al-Qaida members in Somalia or hostage-taking pirates since U.S. troops withdrew from the nation in 1994, while other African countries have deployed thousands of troops to bring order to a country plagued by lawlessness, insurgents and hunger.

Many of the American trainers give firsthand knowledge of what works and what doesn't from years of learning to deal with improvised explosives, fighting insurgents in cities and other experiences from Iraq and Afghanistan.

Al-Shabab militants recently figured out how to take out AU tanks with the help of makeshift obstacles and traps, so a group of about 20 Marine reservists is now in the middle of a 10-week program teaching Ugandan forces combat engineering skills, like ways to quickly bridge trenches to permit the tanks to pass.

On a recent day at the base, three U.S. military medical specialists showed how to properly apply a tourniquet in a combat situation and other medical skills. The State Department's training program also includes marksmanship, urban warfare and explosives handling.

"We've been experiencing some really ugly things for the past 10 years, so we're taking that experience over here," said Maj. Mark Haley, 41, from Knoxville, Tennessee. "We're giving these guys some real important skill sets to keep them alive when they get sent over there."

FAMU Marching Band Suspended another Year

BY GARY FINEOUT
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. • Florida A&M University's prestigious marching band, scarred by the hazing death of one of its drum majors, won't be taking the field for at least another year.

At a school where people attend football games just for the Marching 100 halftime show, where students enroll just for a shot at playing on the field, such a move is like saying the Alabama Crimson Tide won't play football for a year. The full impact on enrollment and the school community can't immediately be measured, but students and alumni said it's a move they support to make sure hazing is rooted out.

FAMU President James Ammons said Monday that the band, which has performed at Super Bowls and in inauguration parades, should not take the field again until a new band director is hired and new band rules are adopted. Among the rules being considered: Academic standards for band members, more chaperones on out-of-town trips and limits on how long a student can remain in the band.

Ammons also said that it is "critical" that all ongoing investigations into the band be wrapped up before moving forward. He said he will reevaluate his decision next year, but made no promises when the band would return.

"Although the band is a part of the university, this decision was for Florida A&M University," Ammons told The Associated Press. "I just felt after listening to all the advice and all the positions that people had this decision was in the best interests of the long-term growth and development of Florida A&M University."

ATLANTA • Aimee Copeland, a Georgia grad student, is fighting for her life because of the flesh-eating bacteria that infected her after she gashed her leg in a river two weeks ago. One of her legs was amputated and her fingers will be too, her father says, because of the spreading infection.

She has a rare condition, called necrotizing fasciitis, in which marauding bacteria run rampant through tissue. Affected areas sometimes have to be surgically removed to save the patient's life.

How Often Do People Get These Infections?

The government estimates roughly 750 flesh-eating bacteria cases occur each year, usually caused by a type of strep germ.

However, Aimee Copeland's infection was caused by another type of bacteria, Aeromonas hydrophila. Those cases are even rarer. One expert knew of only a few reported over the past few decades.

Do Most People Survive?

Yes, but about 1 in 5 people with the most common kind of flesh-eating strep bacteria die. There are few statistics on Aeromonas-caused cases like Copeland's.

How Does it Happen?

The germs that can cause flesh-eating disease are common in warm and brackish waters like ponds, lakes and streams. They are not a threat to most people. An infectious disease expert at Vanderbilt University, Dr. William Schaffner, said: "I could dive in that same stream, in the same place, and if I don't injure myself I'm going to be perfectly fine. It's not going to get on the surface of my skin and burrow in. It doesn't do that?"

But a cut or gash — especially a deep one — opens the door for flesh-eating bacteria.

How Can People Avoid It?

Prompt and thorough medical care should stop the infection before it spreads. A wound can look clean, but if it's sutured or stapled up too soon it can create the kind of oxygen-deprived environment that helps these bacteria multiply and spread internally. Once established, these rare infections can be tricky to diagnose and treat.

Also, Aeromonas is resistant to some common antibiotics that work against strep and other infections, so it's important that doctors use the best medicines.

Are Some People More at Risk?

Yes, people with weakened immune systems are. Copeland's family has not said whether she had some type of medical condition that could have made her more vulnerable and relatives could not be reached for comment Monday. Her doctors, meanwhile, have refused interviews.

Greek, European Woe Could Cause Problems for U.S.

BRADLEY KLAPPER AND DAVID MCHUGH
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Your 401(k) could sink again. A plummeting euro may make it harder for American companies to sell goods overseas. Credit could be tightened.

These are all potential complications of a European debt crisis that risks spiraling out of control. And in today's interconnected global economy, Greece's troubles could over time become a headache for all of Europe and by extension the rest of the world.

All this because Greece is at a crossroads, unable to form a government and decide whether it will continue on a path of harsh austerity measures or walk away from its debts and give up on the euro. That would leave many European countries holding their debts and shake the foundations of a currency used by 331 million people.

Here's what a Greek debt default and exit from the 17-nation eurozone might mean for people in the United States:

Banks

The short-term financial consequences of Greece defaulting may be limited across the Atlantic. American banks already have sharply reduced their exposure to Greece by more than 40 percent to $5.8 billion, according to the government, and Cornell University economist Eswar Prasad said he foresees little immediate blowback for the U.S. financial sector.

But the concern is that market speculation would then fall on the far larger economies of Spain and Italy. Both are deep in the red and heavily dependent on credit markets to stay afloat. And their debts are held by Europe's big banks.

Economists call this threat contagion. Scared investors sell off their assets in Europe's most troubled economies and the governments struggle to access credit while falling into deeper recession. A crisis as bad as Greece's in a bigger nation would have severe global implications.

Markets

Many pension funds, insurance companies and other big investors have dumped or written off investments in Greece such as government bonds. But there's no telling how the markets will respond to a default.

For investors who have already faced a half-decade of turbulence, this weekend's failure in Greece to form a new government led Monday to steep market drops across Europe. Britain's FTSE slipped 2 percent, while Germany's DAX was off 1.9 percent and France's CAC 40 fell 2.3 percent. In the U.S., the Dow Jones industrial index was down 0.8 percent at 12,714.

Trade

Exports have been a bright spot for the U.S. economy, and Europe has played a big role. More than half of U.S. foreign investment and a fifth of all American exports go to the European Union. A significant slowdown there could mean less revenue for U.S. companies, less expansion at home and lost jobs for American workers.

"Right now, the best case scenario in Europe is a recession," said Chad Moutray, economist at the Washington-based National Association of Manufacturers. "Any of the worst case scenarios threaten our growth strategy."

U.S. Politics

Any new economic crisis presents a problem for Obama, even if Europe's problems are largely beyond his control.

Higher unemployment, a surge in gas prices or collapsing stock portfolios in the United States would undermine the president's argument that he has slowly but surely guided the U.S. out of its worst downturn since the Great Depression. His November showdown against Republican candidate Mitt Romney is still too close to call and will hinge on the economy.

Pakistan Foreign Minister Hina Rabbani Khar talks to reporters after her press conference in Islamabad, Pakistan on Monday. Khar indicated Monday the time has come to reopen the country's Afghan border to NATO troop supplies, saying the government has made its point by closing the route for nearly six months in retaliation for a deadly U.S. attack on its troops.

Pakistan Official: NATO Supplies Should Resume

BY SEBASTIAN ABBOT
Associated Press

ISLAMABAD • Pakistan's foreign minister suggested Monday that the country should reopen its Afghan border to NATO troop supplies, saying the government has made its point by closing the route for nearly six months in retaliation for U.S. airstrikes that killed 24 Pakistani troops.

Reopening the border risks a domestic backlash in Pakistan given Washington's refusal to apologize for last year's attack, which it says was an accident. But it could help ensure Pakistan has a role in the future of Afghanistan as NATO prepares to retool its strategy there during a major conference that starts Sunday in Chicago.

Pakistan's presence would benefit the U.S.-led coalition as well, since the country is seen as key to striking a peace deal with the Taliban and their allies in Afghanistan that would allow foreign troops to withdraw without the nation descending into further chaos.

The supply line running through Pakistan to landlocked Afghanistan will be key to that withdrawal as NATO pulls out more than a decade's worth of equipment. It has been critical for shipping in supplies as well, although the U.S. has reduced its reliance on Pakistan in recent years by using a more costly route through Central Asia.

Shams Shahwani, a senior official in Pakistan's Petroleum Tanker Owners Association, said he was contacted Monday by Petroleum Ministry officials who told him the NATO supply route will likely be opened by Wednesday evening. They told him to assemble his tankers in Karachi so they are ready to start transporting petroleum.

Pakistani Foreign Minister Hina Rabbani Khar said the government made the right decision to close the border to NATO to send a message to Washington that the attack on its troops in November was unacceptable.

"It was important to make a point. Pakistan has made a point and now we can move on," Khar said at a news conference in Islamabad when asked whether she believed Pakistan should reopen the supply route.

The U.S. welcomed Khar's comments, but said the two countries have yet to reach a final deal.

"Our team is still in Islamabad working on the land-route issue," U.S. State Department spokeswoman Victoria Nuland told reporters in Washington. "My understanding this morning is that they have made considerable progress but they are still working."

Pakistan's defense committee of the Cabinet, which is responsible for deciding the fate of the supply route, was scheduled to meet Tuesday to discuss the issue and could authorize its reopening.

The U.S. and Pakistan still disagree on the circumstances that led U.S. helicopters to strike two Pakistani army posts on the Afghan border, with the Pakistani military claiming the attack was deliberate.

The incident fueled already rampant anti-American sentiment in Pakistan and plunged the troubled relations between the two countries to an all-time low, threatening the vital, if spotty, anti-terrorism cooperation Washington has received since 2001 in exchange for billions of dollars in American aid.

Pakistan not only retaliated by blocking NATO supplies, but it also kicked the U.S. out of a base used by American drones targeting Taliban and al-Qaida fighters in the country's tribal region along the Afghan border.

Reality TV, Religion Give Birth to Top Baby Names

BY STEPHEN OHLEMACHER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Reality TV is giving birth to some of the most popular baby names. No, not Snooki. But Mason, as in Kourtney Kardashian's son, jumped 10 spots to become the second most popular name for newborn boys in 2011.

The more traditional Sophia is the new top name for girls, while Jacob is No. 1 for boys for the 13th straight year, according to the list released Monday by the Social Security Administration.

Kardashian, the reality TV star, gave birth to Mason in December 2009 following a heavily publicized pregnancy. In 2010, Mason jumped from No. 34 to No. 12. Last year, 19,396 baby boys were named Mason, an increase of nearly 4,600, by far the biggest jump for any name.

"It shows what we're paying attention to, what we're thinking about," said Laura Wattenberg, creator of the website babynamewizard.com. "Today, you can't walk through a supermarket without learning more than you hoped to know about the Kardashian family. That's just reality!"

Rounding out the top five for boys: William, Jayden and Noah. Michael came in sixth, the lowest ranking since 1948.

Isabella, which had been the top girl's name for two years, dropped to second place in 2011. Emma, Olivia and Ava rounded out the top five.

The Social Security Administration provides lists of baby names dating to 1880 on its website. The top two names that year were John and Mary. John is now No. 27 and Mary has fallen to No. 112 — the lowest for both names.

The list, which also includes top baby names by state, draws millions of viewers. The agency hopes that people go to the website to see the baby names and stay to learn about other services, said Social Security Commissioner Michael J. Astrue.

Top girl names tend to be more volatile — changing from year to year — while the top boy names are more stable, Astrue said. William, for example, has been a popular boy's name for more than 100 years, never falling out of the top 20. Mason is the exception, entering the top 100 for the first time in 1997.

Britain Bedeviled by Binge Drinking

BY SYLVIA HUI
Associated Press

LONDON • The girls slumped in wheelchairs look barely conscious, their blond heads lolling above the plastic vomit bags tied like bibs around their necks.

It's an hour to midnight on Friday, and the two girls, who look no older than 18, are being wheeled from an ambulance to a clinic set up discreetly in a dark alley in London's Soho entertainment district.

They're the first of many to be picked up on this night by the ambulance, known as a "booze bus," and carried to the clinic — both government services dedicated to keeping drunk people out of trouble, and out of emergency rooms.

Binge drinking has reached crisis levels in Britain, health experts say, costing the cash-strapped National Health Service 2.7 billion pounds (US$4.4 billion) a year, including the cost of hospital admissions related to booze-fueled violence and longer-term health problems. Unlike all other major health threats, liver disease is on the rise in Britain, increasing by 25 percent in the last decade and causing a record level of deaths, according to recent government figures.

Doctors believe rising obesity is combining with heavy drinking to fuel the spike in liver disease, which is hitting more young people than ever.

"Undoubtedly professionals are seeing more (patients) in their late-20s to mid-30s, which would have been unusual 20 years ago," said Chris Day, a liver disease specialist at Newcastle University.

OBITUARIES

S. Keith Stoddard

March 19, 1926-May 10, 2012

BURLEY • It is with love and reverence that the family of Samuel Keith Stoddard announces that he passed peacefully on Thursday, May 10, 2012, at the age of 86 years after an extended illness.

Keith Stoddard, beloved father, grandfather and great-grandfather, was a self-reliant, hard-working, honest and kind man. Born March 19, 1926, in Rexburg, Idaho, he was the second youngest child of Roy Glenn and Phyllis Jane (Oldham) Stoddard, who owned and operated a sawmill in Island Park. He attended high school in Rexburg, finishing later by correspondence. Just after his 18th birthday, Keith and his older brother, Gordon, joined the U.S. Navy. Because of Keith's poor eyesight, he was accepted under "limited duty" and would not go overseas or into combat. In 1945, he met and married Fae Williams. She joined him at Farragut, Idaho, where he was enrolled in dental technician school. He graduated top of his class both from the Hospital Corps School and the dental school. Keith was assigned to a naval base in California with a large dental practice where he assisted the dentist.

In the spring of 1946, he was honorably discharged from the Navy and, in September, registered at the University of Idaho Southern Branch at Pocatello in pre-dental school. He attended school under the G.I. Bill and was able to take flying lessons at the Pocatello Municipal Airport, since it was a course offered at the university. He continued on to receive a private license and own his own plane. By 1948, Keith was running out of money and decided to give up the dream of being a dentist. For the next 12 years, Keith was involved with the life insurance business. He was a successful agent, staff manager and regional sales office manager. In 1960, he had an opportunity to enter a partnership with T.C. Blacker and Jack Madison, who co-owned a furniture store in Burley. Keith and Fae worked hard in the furniture business and, by the late 1960s, were able to buy out their partners. The store was renamed "Stoddard Appliance and Furniture." They owned and operated it for 19 years. Fae and Keith took a part-time job in 1980 after selling the furniture store. They went to work for Jill's Flower Haus delivering silk floral arrangements to 15 western states. They retired in 1988 and enjoyed five years of traveling. They spent winters in St. George, Utah, and summers at home in Burley. In 1993, Fae and Keith took pleasure in living at Star Valley, Wyo., care-taking a cabin in the Alpine Village.

Keith was an active member of the community. He ran for city councilman. He served as president of the local chapter of the Kiwanis Club, lieutenant governor and governor of the Utah-Idaho District from 1978 to 1980. He also belonged to a local group called the "Singing Ks." They represented the state of Idaho at the World's Fair in New York City and performed in the rotunda of the National Capitol in Washington, D.C., as well as the Kiwanis Convention in New York City. Keith was very proud of these accomplishments. He and Fae were hospice volunteers at Cassia Regional Medical Center for several years. He was active in a flying club and shared an airplane with the members. He was recognized by the Idaho

Safe Pilot Program for his safety record.

As a lover of the outdoors, in his earlier years, he had a passion for fishing, especially on Johnny Sack's Creek in the Henry's Lake Flats. He enjoyed snow skiing with his family. He was an instructor at Pomerelle and a member of the ski patrol. He excelled at golf and was proud of his single digit handicap. Keith and Fae were world travelers and particularly found pleasure going across the continent in their travel trailer with friends. Keith was an active and faithful member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, serving in numerous capacities which included branch president and bishop. He and Fae completed a one-year mission at the St. George Temple Visitor Center and Historical Sites in Utah. Keith was a loving and devoted husband to Fae, writing in his memoirs that marrying her was the best thing he'd ever done in his life. They were married 63 years and raised four children.

He is survived by his daughters, Leslie Fae Stoddard, Jamie (LeRoy) Fink and Laurie Ann Stoddard, as well as his son, Samuel (Veronica) Stoddard. He is also survived by his grandchildren, Johanna (Dan) DeJong-Palhegyi, Hettie DeJong, Zachary (Betty) Fink, Eli Fink, Jared Stoddard, Emily (Than) Stoddard-Boves, Mollie Stoddard and Clinton Kerbs; and great-grandchildren, Rustyn Yazdanpour, Soraya Yazdanpour, Emily Wright, Ethan Wright, Vivienne Fink, Genevieve Fink, Lucy Rose Rivet-Stoddard, Demetrios Boves, Drissa Kerbs and Miles Kerbs. Keith is also survived by his sister, Shirley Parker; and numerous nieces and nephews and their children. He was preceded in death by his sweetheart and loving wife, Fae; his parents; a sister, Lila Stoddard; and his brothers, Gordon and Lynn Stoddard.

Keith's family would especially like to thank Intermountain Home Care, Rosetta Home, Highland Estates and the Warren House staff for the kindness and care that was given to him during the past two years of his life.

The family welcomes you to join them at a funeral service to be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, May 19, at the Rasmussen Funeral Home, 1350 E. 16th St. in Burley, where friends may call from 6 until 8 p.m. Friday, May 18, and from 10 until 10:45 a.m. Saturday. Burial will follow at Gem Memorial Gardens, with military rites provided by the Mini-Cassia Veterans Organization.

In lieu of flowers, the family would request a donation be made to Burley Special Olympics or Intermountain Home Care.

"Younger voters aren't looking for a party label. They're looking for someone to present a solution for how things are going to get better."

USDA Celebrates 150 Years

One hundred and fifty years ago, in the midst of a great Civil War, President Lincoln signed legislation to establish a Department of Agriculture in order to "acquire and to diffuse among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with agriculture, and to procure, propagate and distribute among the people new and valuable seeds and plants." Armed with these broad mandates, the "People's Department," as he called it, set about to serve American farmers and a mostly rural American landscape. At that time, almost half of all Americans lived on farms, compared with about 2 percent today. The population in 1862 was then about 31.4 million and today, that number has increased tenfold to almost 313 million people.

Over the last 150 years, through the department's work on food science, agricultural research, nutrition assistance, bio-fuel production, economic and community development, natural resource conservation, international trade, credit, and a host of other issues, the USDA still fulfills Abraham Lincoln's original vision — touching the lives of every American, every day in almost every way.

By any measure, it's been a very successful 150 years for USDA. Americans benefit from safe, abundant and reasonably priced food. We produce 85 percent of what we consume and therefore enjoy food security. Our food, fuel and fiber industries provide employment for more than 20 million Americans. Agricultural exports continue to post significant trade surpluses which, in turn, have generated almost 1 million jobs alone.

As we look to the decades ahead, USDA must continue to contribute to the strength and health of the nation by becoming a more modern and effective service provider. We must tighten our belt, just as many Americans are doing with their household budgets. In the past few decades, American agriculture has become one of the most productive sectors of our economy, thanks to farmers, ranchers and growers adopting technology, reducing their debt and effectively managing risk.

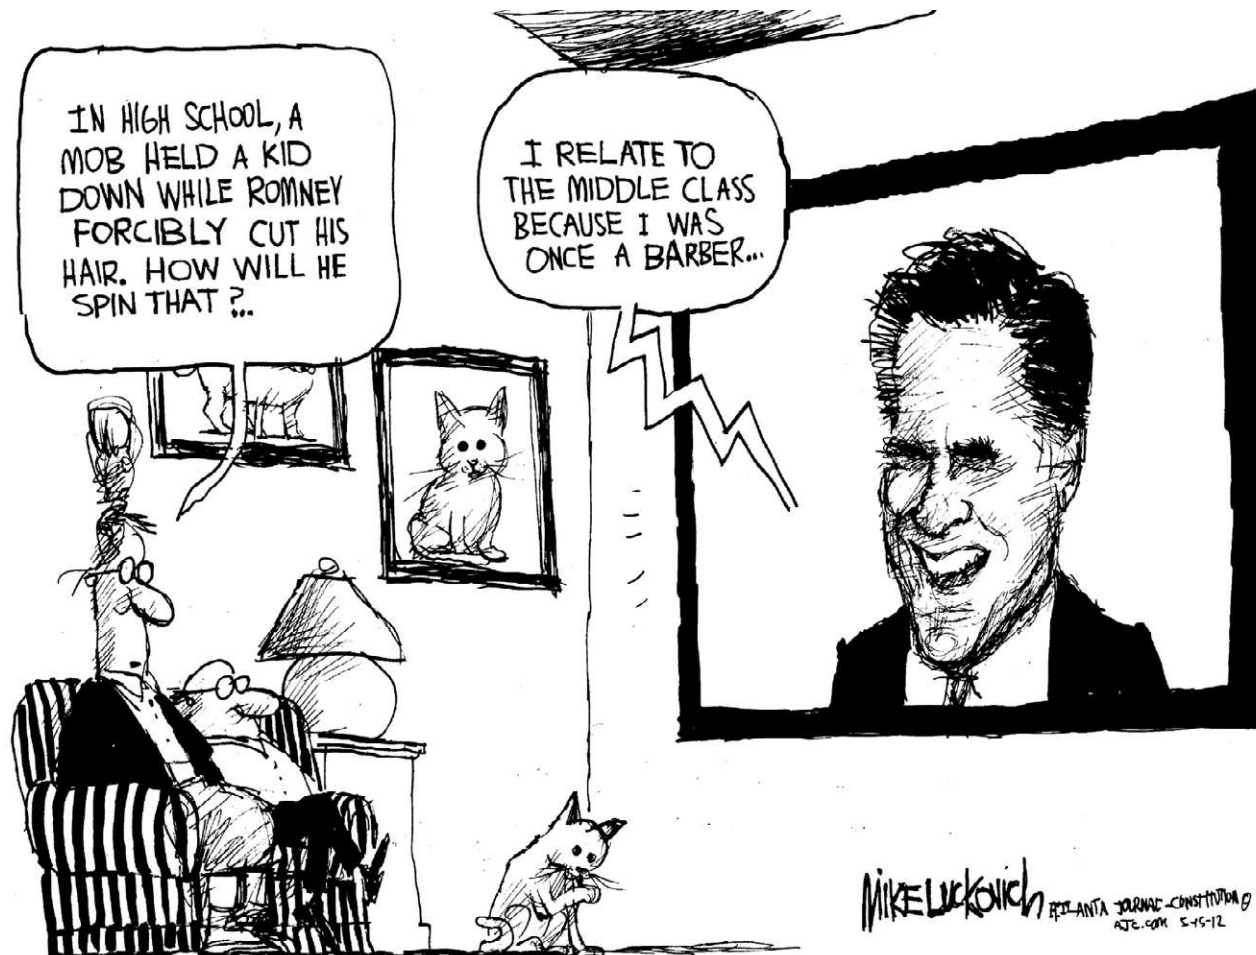

USDA is adopting these same lessons in its Blueprint for Stronger Service, announced by USDA secretary Tom Vilsack earlier this year. The Blueprint for Stronger Service aims to build a modern and efficient service organization that is closely aligned with technological innovations and better suited to respond to 21st century agricultural challenges.

The challenges ahead are many, both for USDA and American agriculture, but by focusing on a strong safety net for farmers and ranchers, supporting policies that encourage sustainable productivity, and by promoting vibrant markets that help feed consumers at home and abroad, the "People's Department" will continue to help create jobs, support working families, strengthen rural communities, and build on the success and productivity of the America's farmers and ranchers.

Abortion Industry Wants Women to Remain Uninformed

Often, in a vacuum of information, mothers choose abortion and later wonder in anguish why nobody told them the truth. The Ultrasound Bill had the potential to save the lives of babies and empower women with information that could save them from the devastating torment experienced by so many post-abortion women.

Some people wonder why the abortion industry is so opposed to letting a pregnant patient see her own ultrasound. Ultrasound provides the most objective, factual information possible. It is a picture worth a thousand words. Ultrasound is unbiased science that delivers unbiased information. With that knowledge, a woman is empowered. So much so in fact, that she might exercise her freedom of choice and choose to terminate her business relationship with that doctor.

Abortion businesses cannot tolerate women walking out the door; neither can the entire pro-abortion ideology.

So the American Civil Liberties Union and Planned Parenthood pulled out all the stops and skillfully blasted fear, misinformation and chaos into the dialogue. Some in the press chose to help keep the chaos churning.

I do know that not one Idaho senator takes his/her job lightly. Those who cast a "yes" vote did so thoughtfully with a calculus that included facts, knowledge that women deserve the truth, and pro-woman, pro-life principles.

They knew that the Ultrasound Bill could protect Idaho women from the agony of an uninformed decision and protect unborn babies from a silent scream.

Why is a Dog Allowed to Terrorize Residents in Cassia County?

I am at my wit's end regarding a vicious dog that is allowed to freely roam my neighborhood. Since I moved into this house a year ago, I have had to call Burley Animal Control seven times and the Cassia County Sheriff's Office three times on this dog. Animal control picked up the dog once and drove it back to the owner's house. Surprise, surprise, the dog was out roaming the streets again within the hour. Nothing else was done.

The sheriff's office has responded quickly each time I've called. I've filled out two citations against the owners so far, but the dog is still running the neighborhood. I was told by two different deputies that the first citation is a verbal warning, the second is a $50 fine and the third can result in the dog being seized and destroyed. Why is this dog still around? I feel like I've been paid lip service by the city and nothing more!

This dog urinates and defecates in my yard, digs holes underneath my porch and in my flower beds, chases my cat, barks and charges at myself and my children, chases children at the bus stop, and even goes after people who are trying to walk their dogs down the street. My neighbor had to mace this dog to get it to leave her, her dogs and her husband alone!

I had to call the sheriff's office again last week because the dog came after my 4-year-old daughter when I was unloading her from our car. I had to place myself between her and the dog in order to keep the dog from biting her. The dog finally left after my husband was forced to kick it to get it away from us. This is ridiculous! Does someone have to be bitten in order for something to be done? It's just a matter of time before this dog attacks and seriously hurts or kills someone!

To Save Our Country, We Must Save the Family

The most serious problem we face as a nation is the breakdown of the family unit and failed leadership of fathers who have their priorities mixed up or are absent from their children's lives. We cannot continue to put things ahead of people and allow ourselves to be controlled by a commercialized media.

We only get one chance to raise our children right. The forming of our children's character and conscience is our No. 1 priority. If we as fathers make the sacrificial effort now, while our children are still young, we can later enjoy the honor they bring us as confident, responsible, considerate men and women who strive to pass on our values to their own children.

As we men provide understanding, affection, gratitude, support and appreciation for our wives, we form a strong, united team to build healthy families.

We can't underestimate our children. We lead and teach their step-by-growth into maturity, always expressing our confidence in them. Kids tend to become what we expect. Even when we have to correct them, we never waiver in our belief that they'll someday grow into excellent men and women.

We pull our teenagers up to adult reality. Teach them how to balance a checkbook, pursue a job, work professionally, please their boss and deal respectfully with the opposite sex. Show them how to buy good clothes, take care of them and dress well. Hold them accountable for their commitments. Do not let them hurt themselves by their inexperienced judgment. When they start thinking like responsible adults, we will trust them across the board to make their own adult decisions.

To save our country, we must save the family. This requires the leadership of fathers who are present to lead them by our example into responsible adulthood.

How the Major U.S. Stock Indexes Fared on Monday

NEW YORK (AP) • The ongoing political stalemate in Greece rattled financial markets worldwide on Monday, driving U.S. stocks lower.

The euro sank to a three-month low against the dollar and borrowing costs for Spain and Italy jumped as bond traders anticipated that financial stress could spread far beyond Greece. The Dow Jones industrial average closed down 125.25 points, or 1 percent, at 12,695.35. The Standard & Poor's 500 index fell 15.04 points, or 1.1 percent, to 1,338.35. The Nasdaq composite average dropped 31.24 or 1.1 percent, to 2,902.58.

MARK LENNIHAN • ASSOCIATED PRESS

A man arrives at a JPMorgan Chase office building in New York Monday. JPMorgan, the largest bank in the United States, is seeking to minimize the damage caused by a $2 billion trading loss, disclosed Thursday by CEO Jamie Dimon.

NO SIGN OF SHAREHOLDER REVOLT AGAINST DIMON

BY PALLAVI GOGOI

Associated Press

NEW YORK • JPMorgan Chase CEO Jamie Dimon owned up to stock analysts and went on TV to accept blame for a $2 billion trading mistake. Next he faces shareholders, who are considerably less wealthy since the blunder was disclosed.

While Dimon may be greeted by some colorful protesters when he arrives for the JPMorgan annual meeting in Tampa, Fla., on Tuesday, the shareholders themselves are unlikely to call for his head.

For them, facing the crisis without Dimon might be a bigger nightmare than the trading loss itself.

"When a bank is dealing with this sort of a challenge, you want someone of his caliber to shepherd it through," said longtime JPMorgan shareholder Michael Holland, chairman and founder of money manager Holland & Co.

That has not been a universal opinion since Thursday, when Dimon disclosed to analysts that the bank had lost $2 billion by making a bad bet with so-called credit derivatives.

Investors lopped almost 10 percent off JPMorgan's stock price the next day, and 3 percent more on Monday. Since Dimon made the announcement, almost $20 billion in market value has evaporated.

Over the weekend, Elizabeth Warren, architect of the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau and a Senate candidate from Massachusetts, called for Dimon to give up his board seat at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

And on Monday, White House press secretary Jay Carney, without singling out Dimon, said that Washington can't prevent "bad decisions being made on Wall Street."

He pointed out that it was the bank and its shareholders, not bailout-weary taxpayers, who were suffering this time.

Dimon will be talking to shareholders from a position of weakness for the first time. He has built a reputation as a cost-cutting zealot and an expert at keeping risk under control.

USPS Halts Closure of 600 Urban Stations

BY DAVID PITT

Associated Press

DES MOINES, Iowa • The U.S. Postal Service said Monday its decision to halt the closing of more than 3,700 post offices includes roughly 600 urban and suburban postal branch offices and satellite stations.

The facilities in many cities serve as neighborhood post offices. The Postal Service announced last year that it was looking at closing up to 252 mail-processing centers and 3,700 post offices, many of them in rural areas, as part of a plan to save some $6.5 billion a year.

It backed off the plan to close the 3,700 post offices last week, saying it would no longer close thousands of rural post offices but would keep them open with shorter hours. The mail agency on Monday reiterated that about 600 branches and satellite stations in urban and suburban locations will be kept open.

"Any proposals to close these facilities have been placed on hold and will not close at this time," said a statement from Richard Watkins, Postal Service spokesman in the Kansas City area. "Going forward, the Postal Service will evaluate how best to incorporate them into long-term plans for effective and efficient retail service."

Nuclear Engineers Gather for Utah Conference

BY PAUL FOY
Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY • Scientists and engineers from 37 countries gathered Monday at a Salt Lake City conference to discuss how to extend the life of nuclear power plants worldwide.

The need to keep reactors operating safely was underscored by the tsunami that devastated a nuclear power plant in Japan last year, officials said at the opening of the conference.

"There is a need to urgently respond to public confidence" in nuclear power, said Alexander Bychkov, deputy director general for the International Atomic Energy Agency and head of its department of nuclear energy.

The organization's Utah conference is bringing together the best minds in nuclear plant safety. Nearly 300 were registered for the start Monday of the four-day conference. Idaho Gov. Butch Otter was on hand to invite conference-goers to a tour Friday of the Idaho National Laboratory, which is working to make new generations of reactors safer and more economical to operate.

"Nuclear must be an important part of our energy future," Otter said Monday. "We need to deal with these difficult and challenging issues in a way that the public can embrace."

The lifecycle of a nuclear power plant is generally considered to be 40 years, but 71 of the 104 operating units in the U.S. have received license extensions to operate for 60 years, said Brian Holian, director of the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission's license renewal branch.

However, many components of a nuclear power plant need to be dug up or replaced. Holian projected images of corroded plumbing, blistered concrete and stressed electrical cables that could escalate dangers in the event of an accident.

"Aging management is a continuous program. It's not sufficient to just say you have a program and a book on the shelf," he said.

The International Atomic Energy is holding its first U.S. conference on aging nuclear power plants in Salt Lake City. Previous conferences were held in Budapest in 2002 and Shanghai in 2007.

The conference involves highly technical sessions for hours each day, along with panel discussions and an exhibition.

Bychkov said 354 of the world's 436 nuclear reactors are 20 years or older.

In the U.S., many were initially licensed to operate for 40 years, but 10 of them have already reached that milestone and continue to operate, Holian said.

Another 15 U.S. reactors approaching 40 and are seeking license extensions, he said.

Judge Blocks Helicopter Hazing of Wild Bison

BY MATT VOLZ
Associated Press

HELENA, Mont. • A federal judge has blocked Montana officials from using a helicopter to drive bison back into Yellowstone National Park.

U.S. District Judge Charles Lovell's temporary restraining order Monday follows arguments by wildlife advocates that federal and state officials had not properly studied how the use of helicopters affects grizzly bears.

Grizzlies are threatened under the federal Endangered Species Act, and the Alliance for the Wild Rockies says the flights can drive bears from their habitat.

Attorneys for the state and federal defendants say the Interagency Bison Management Plan calls for a halt to hazing operations when they encounter a grizzly.

The Montana Department of Livestock twice last week hazed bison with a helicopter. Officials had planned one more operation on Tuesday for 70 bison that remain in the Hebgen basin.

Man Says Rattlesnake Bit Him at Walmart in Wash.

LEWISTON (AP) • A man says he reached down to pick up a stick lying in the gardening aisle of a Walmart in eastern Washington state, only to discover that it was a rattlesnake that then bit his hand.

Mica Craig says he was shopping in the outdoor garden department of a Clarkston store when he was bitten Saturday. The 47-year-old man says it latched onto his hand and that he screamed, shook loose the snake and stomped it to death.

The Lewiston Tribune reports a bystander drove Craig to an emergency room in nearby Lewiston. Craig says he was treated with six bags of anti-venom and was told that his hand could be permanently disfigured.

He says doctors expect him to remain hospitalized until Tuesday.

SUSPECT ARRESTED IN BOISE BANK ROBBERY

BOISE (AP) • The 64-year-old man arrested on suspicion of robbing a Boise bank last week was still on probation for robbing a loan business in 2006.

Boise police found Jerry C. Tudehope at a relative's house Friday, a day after a Bank of the West branch was robbed.

Tudehope is expected to make an initial appearance in court Monday.

In the 2006 case, police say Tudehope wore a Halloween mask and sunglasses while robbing a clerk and knife-point at a Cash Store in Boise. He pleaded guilty to robbery and was sentenced to 15 years in prison. Idaho Department of Correction records show he was released in February.

Court records and Idaho Statesman archives say Tudehope pleaded guilty to trying to rob an Albertsons store in 1995 and was sentenced to seven years on probation.

College of Idaho Votes to Bring Back Football

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CALDWELL • The College of Idaho will revive a football program that was discontinued in the late 1970s, officials said Monday.

The board that governs the state's oldest private liberal arts college voted to reinstate football during a meeting last week. The decision was not made public until Monday, when college officials issued a statement shortly before holding a press conference on campus.

The program won't compete until the fall of 2014, school officials said.

The college hopes to tap into some of the enthusiasm surrounding the nearby Boise State football program. The idea is that the College of Idaho could attract students who wouldn't make the cut at Boise State or the University of Idaho in Moscow, but could thrive at an NAIA college.

Those athletes are now going to places like Carroll College in Montana and Willamette University in Oregon, according to College of Idaho athletic director Marty Holly. He'd like to see those students stay closer to home so their families can see them play.

"There are many smart, young student-athletes who want to play football and would love a chance to play near their families and get an education that will set them up for a lifetime of success," Holly said in the school's statement.

Holly and College of Idaho President Marv Henberg plan to meet with Frontier Conference officials next month. The college is pursuing an associate membership with the conference, where the Coyotes would compete in football only.

The proposal to resurrect the football program was touted as a way to boost enrollment, fundraising and the school's profile. The college plans to immediately launch a fundraising campaign to help with the startup costs.

"We believe that football is going to be a shot of adrenaline for The College of Idaho and for the Treasure Valley," Henberg said.

The college would need a new locker room facility, with coaching offices and a weight room. School officials hope to partner with Caldwell to upgrade the city-owned Simplot Stadium, which was built in 1966 and seats less than 6,000.

The college's original program started in 1917 and produced four NFL players. Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter and U.S. District Judge Edward Lodge also played for the Coyotes, who were 225-221 during the program's history.

Gooding boys, Declo's Gibby storm to early lead after first day of Class 2A tournament

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

POCATELLO • After the first round of the Class 2A state golf championship Monday, only six strokes separate the top three boys teams.

The girls competition, however, is nowhere near as close.

Gooding's boys posted a 338, four shots better than Soda Springs. Castleford is third and well within striking distance at 344.

The Senators, who finished 14 strokes behind Castleford at last week's District IV championship, came on strong Monday, led by Jacob Becker's 7-over-par 79, which is good enough for fourth place individually. Zach Woods shot an 83 and is tied for ninth.

"I was scrambling on the first nine; it was kind of up-and-down the whole round," Becker said. "The greens are kind of hard to read. Some putts went that way when you think it's going the other way."

Becker wasn't the only golfer lamenting the difficult greens at Pocatello's Highland Golf Course.

"The toughest part about this course is definitely the greens," said Greg Harper, whose Declo team is in fifth place and eight strokes out from earning a trophy. "Everyone who plays this course will say that."

Bruin Girls Keep Cool And Slim Lead

BY DAVID BASHORE

BLACKFOOT • Sydney Lee was in the process of imploding.

On the seventh hole at Blackfoot Golf Course, she clipped the top of a tree and the ball ricocheted into the water. Frazzled by the bad luck — a foot higher and her shot would have cleared the tree — she then three-putted to take a 7 on the par 3 hole.

A seemingly innocent swig of drink turned it all around.

"Caryssa Leon, our freshman, left a message on my Gatorade that said, 'forget the bad holes," Lee said. "Drink after that hole I took a drink and saw the note. I went out and parred the next hole."

The note, a tradition that Twin Falls girls golfers have to spur each other on, may have saved Lee's round. It also may have kept the Bruins in an unlikely title chase.

Bad Breaks Don't Bust 3A Contenders

BY STEPHEN MEYERS
smeyers@magicvalley.com

PRESTON • If each of them could replay a couple bad holes, Kade Crossland, Jed Olyer and Stephen Clements just might be leading the Class 3A state golf tournament.

But such is the game of golf.

"I didn't hit it bad; I just had a lot of bad breaks," Clements said.

Crossland, Buhl's defending 3A state champion, sits in a tie for third place after a first-round score of 74 at Preston Golf and Country Club — three shots back of Marsh Valley's Dallin Davids.

Oyler of Filer is tied for fifth at 75 and Kimberly's Clements is just outside the top-10, shaking off a horrific front-9 to salvage a 79.

His teammate, Matt HoChee is right in the mix at the top, tied with Oyler as the Bulldogs sit in third place in the team standings with 326 points.

Clements, who shot a 70 to win last week's district tournament, got off to a ragged start Monday, shooting 9-over on the front nine.

He landed behind a tree off his tee shot on holes No. 1, No. 3 and No. 5, left without a clean shot to the green each time.

Appearances Are Deceiving at Preston GC

TIMES-NEWS

PRESTON • At first glance, the Preston Golf and Country Club doesn't look very challenging.

The fairways are wide. There isn't much water or sand and outside of a few holes, trees aren't much of an obstacle.

Where it gets tough is on the greens.

"The greens have big old humps on them," said Filer golfer Jed Oyler.

"There's a lot of undulation, so you can be putting and the break is just insane. You have to aim like five feet left of the hole and you end up missing it right," said Filer golfer Lexi Meyerhoeffer. "They're fast going downhill and there are a lot of greens sloping away from the player, which makes it hard to approach."

Meyerhoeffer shot a 94 and Stephen Clements, who shot 1-under on the back nine to salvage a 79, had half a dozen birdie putts within 15 feet that he couldn't sink.

"They're tough, I probably only made a couple good putts. I just couldn't get the putter going,"

Clements said. "They're tricky?"

Meyerhoeffer, who never played the course until Monday, admitted that it will be nice to play today with a round of these greens under her belt.

"But I don't know how much it will help," she said.

Play In Preston, Stay In Logan

"It's a weird place for sure. I'm not really sure why it's here," said Kimberly golfer Stephen Clements of playing the 3A state tournament in Preston.

Located 182 miles southeast of Twin Falls, Preston is closer to the Utah border than it is Pocatello.

That's why the Kimberly, Filer and Buhl teams elected to stay in the Hampton Inn in Logan, Utah, which is 27 miles away.

"It's an easy drive. It just made more sense to stay there," said Buhl golf coach Mitch Oparnico. "Most of us have never been here before."

The Preston Golf and Country club doesn't have a driving range, so the team's had to hit at the Spring Creek Driving Range a few miles down the road, which was basically a pasture, said Filer golfer Jed Oyler.

"The grass was up to here," Oyler said, raising his hand halfway up his leg.

Harr Quietly Shoots 83, in Ninth Place

Sierra Harr, the Class 2A girls state champion from a year ago, is in ninth place in the boys field after shooting an 83 Monday.

"It's way better because it's more competition. It's a lot funner to play against more competitive people," Harr said.

Harr said chasing a team championship is just as exciting as winning an individual title. The Wolves are in third place, just six strokes behind the leaders from Gooding.

"It's OK if I'm not winning it because I'm playing for the team, not for myself," Harr said.

As far as how she was received by her first-round foursome, Harr didn't notice anything out of the ordinary.

"It's hard to tell because nobody really says anything (on the first tee)," Harr said. "They're all quiet, so you don't know if they're like, 'Is she really a girl?'" I don't know if they know I'm playing for the boys team."

Declo Boys Look For Rebound

The Declo girls have won a trophy in each of the last three years (a third-place and two fourths) and are in good position to win the 2A tournament, sitting 49 strokes in the lead.

According to Declo golfer Zach Smyer, the Declo boys score of 364 is the teams worst of the season. Still, the Hornet boys are in fifth place and just eight strokes out of trophy contention.

"We missed a lot of putts. I think our team will play a lot better tomorrow and we'll have a shot at taking a trophy home," Smyer said.

Bruin Boys Keep It Clean

BY DAVID BASHORE

dbashore@magicalvalley.com

BLACKFOOT • Twin Falls put the debate to bed early. Now it's just a matter of whether the Bruins can back it up today.

The Bruin boys team had to "discard" a 1-over 73 on Monday, evidence of their skill as they shot their way to a team 3-under 285 on the first day of the Class 4A championships at Blackfoot Golf Course.

On a narrow-fairwayed course that punishes inaccuracy, Twin Falls did the best at navigating the course with few errors.

"Just keep it in the fairway at all costs," said Matthew Frank, one of three Bruins to card an even-par 72 to tie for fourth after the first round. "If the driver isn't working, just use a hybrid. I probably shot that 3-hybrid off of five tees today."

Twin Falls was led by junior Kyle Miley, who worked around some rough tee shots to shoot a 3-under 69, a stroke off the lead.

One of the only exceptions was Raft River junior Zach Zollinger, who said he played the greens better Monday than he did in his practice round Sunday. Consequently, he shot a 6-over 78 to put him in third place, just four strokes off the leader, Tristan Coles of Ririe.

"I personally thought it was pretty good," said Zollinger, the District IV champ. "I was more confident with my putting today."

After going 4-over on the front nine, Zollinger birdied 10 and then eagled 11 by sticking a 120-yard gap wedge within 10 feet of the pin. He will join Becker in the final foursome today.

"There's not much pressure. I don't feel as much pressure as the Ririe kid because he's leading it," Zollinger said. "I can play my own game; he's got to worry about it."

Mitch Howard was Castleford's top player, tied for fifth place with an 81. Last year's girls champ, Sierra Harr is tied for ninth in the boys competition.

"I struggled on the back side. I couldn't putt," Howard said. "The greens are really fast and they break a lot, and you can't get them to sit down when you throw a shot in there... I'm going to go out (Tuesday) and try to play for my team."

While the boys individual and team titles are very much up for grabs in today's

Class 4A Boys

District IV team scores Canyon Ridge (335):

Braden Luper 78, Michael Curtis 78, Jon Grayer 85, Michael Chapple 94, Austin Schmah 98.

Twin Falls (285): Kyle Miley 69, Matthew Frank 72, Alec Perkins 72, Connor Meyerhoeffer 72, Alec Meyerhoeffer 73.

Miley left a few strokes on the course due to some bad luck with the putter, but he seemed happy enough with the round.

"My short game saved me today," he said. "I wasn't hitting the ball very well but the short game was there and I did have a few one-putts, which helped me out."

Frank, Alec Perkins and Connor Meyerhoeffer carded 72s, with Alec Meyerhoeffer shooting the 73 after double-bogeying 18.

That was good enough to build a 17-shot lead over Shelley coming into today's final round.

"Throwing out a 1-over means our team did really well," Miley said. "We prefer to start out in front."

While the Bruins are in prime position to defend their team title, Canyon Ridge will need a major improvement in Day 2 if the Riverhawks are going to repeat last year's trophy performance. They shot a team score of 335, last among nine teams and 16 shots off the nearest competitor.

Michael Curtis and Braden Luper led the team, each shooting 6-over 78.

"I thought we shot pretty good, just had some bad holes," Curtis said. "We just have to focus on taking our time, making putts and playing with heart."

The tournament concludes today, with the second round starting at 8 a.m. The top four teams — Twin Falls, Shelley, Midleton and Century — will pit their five golfers in the same groups to battle out the trophy hunt.

final round, the girls competition is nearly out of reach.

Declo senior Jacqueline Gibby fired a 5-over-par 81 to take a 13-stroke lead and the Hornet girls are 49 strokes ahead in the team standings.

"I just tried to calm down and I played a lot better than I did last week (at districts)," said Gibby, who won the District IV title by shooting a 100. "It was better than I thought it would be. I took deep breaths. I double-bogeyed a hole and I just thought, 'OK, just shake it off.'"

Declo's Chloe Kidd (102) and Ryley Payne (104) joined Gibby among the Top 10 on the leaderboard, as did Katie Buschhorn (103) of Valley.

"I just have to be solid tomorrow and I'll be OK," Gibby said. "I'll feel good about whatever I get as long as I play solid."

Bruins

Expected to have little more than an outside shot at the Class 4A team title, they sleep on just a one-shot deficit to Bishop Kelly.

Lee and Katherine Reed both shot an 83, and Emma Bride followed that with an 85. Kelsey Sharp's 97 gave the Bruins a 348 for the round.

That gives them huge hope that today, they can once again ascend to champion status in girls golf.

"We all feel like we could have shot three or four shots better. Sydney took a (quadruple bogey) and I did too," said Reed. "It's just all about relaxing and having a good time out there."

Wood River's Jennie Williams shot 90 on the first day, putting her 13th.

An interesting battle shapes up for today's final round. The top four teams will be paired together, as players battle for team glory, and medalist honors as well.

Reed and Lee are tied for fourth, four shots off the lead, while Bride is eighth. Bishop Kelly has three golfers in the top 10, while Moscow has two.

Twin Falls will look to balance the individual race with the team effort, knowing there's a 22-stroke gap to Moscow in third place.

"We're really just shooting for the team," Reed said. "It would be icing on the cake if we won the team title and finished in the top five individually."

"I had no choice but to punch out to the fairway," Clements said. "It was tough."

His play (and luck) turned around on the back-9, where he shot 1-under.

Crossland — who won the title last season after shooting a Day 175 — was at 1-over through No. 16, but finished bogey-bogey, with a 3-putt on the 18th.

"I'm disappointed with that finish. That wasn't good at all," Crossland said. "I just need to come back tomorrow and get off to a good start. I'm still right there."

Oyler had one disastrous hole on No. 8.

The 540-yard Par 5 features a wide, straight fairway, but a grove of trees sits directly in the center about 280 yards from the tee box. The fairway splits at the trees — and to the far right is Hwy. 34 — the far left a ditch. Oyler aimed left of the trees, but pushed his shot too far as it landed in the out of bounds marker near the ditch. He would triple bogey the hole.

"I can't do that again," he said. "Outside of that hole, I played pretty well today."

Kellogg leads the team standings with 313 points and Marsh Valley is second at 318.

On the girls side, Filer's Lexi Meyerhoeffer struggled with her shot, carding a 94.

"I just had a really rough day today. I don't know; I could have played worse and I'm excited to come back tomorrow and redeem myself today," Meyerhoeffer said.

Bodemeister looks to improve on his runner-up finish to I'll Have Another at the Kentucky Derby when he runs in the shorter Preakness Stakes on Saturday.

Bodemeister Off to Run in Preakness

ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. • Bodemeister is headed to the Preakness to challenge I'll Have Another after their memorable finish in the Kentucky Derby.

Bodemeister set a blistering early pace in the Derby only to be caught in the final 100 yards by I'll Have Another and finish second, giving owner Ahmed Zayat his third runner-up finish in the race in the last four years. Zayat was on hand Monday to watch Bodemeister to make sure the horse was ready to travel to Baltimore for Saturday's race.

"He looks fantastic," Zayat said. "He couldn't look any better. In fact, he gained weight since Derby, which is amazing. ... My heart, he deserves a chance to come and redeem himself in an American classic, but you have to weigh that against the best interest of the horse. I wanted to come with my son Justin to see for myself that he is the same Bodemeister.

"He's actually doing better. He's happier"

Trainer Bob Baffert said Bodemeister came out of the Derby well. He's pleased

Anti-Danica Rhetoric Deplorable

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHARLOTTE, N.C. • Danica Patrick raced 513 laps around Darlington Raceway last weekend.

What did you do?

Chances are, if you're an ardent NASCAR fan, you might have snickered at the very mention of her name. You probably grumbled about the attention she received all weekend, and your level of anger likely grew every time her bright GoDaddy green car was shown on TV.

It's OK; Patrick learned to ignore the haters long ago.

If she paid attention, she never would have chased her dreams of being a professional race car driver. If she listened to the criticism, she probably would have hung up her firesuit years ago.

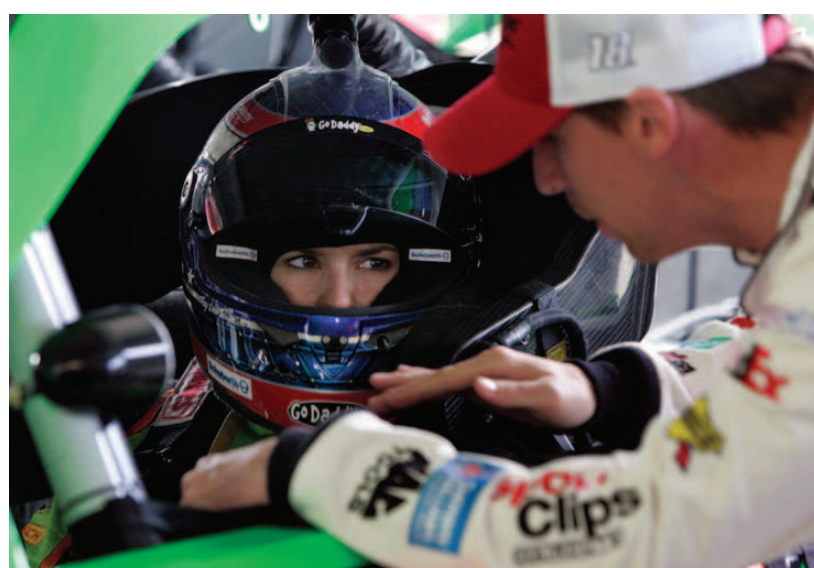

And now, with Twitter? The vile spewed at her in 140-character bursts, well, a weaker woman might crawl under the covers and never come out again.

But that's not Patrick. She strong and she's brave and she rolled into Darlington, NASCAR's oldest superspeedway and the track known historically for separating the men from the boys, and didn't back down from the challenge.

She's not celebrated for any of that, at least not among the majority of racing fans. They instead fixate on her one win in 115 IndyCar starts, and now her struggles in NASCAR.

Sure, her progress in NASCAR has been slow, but people seem to forget that racing cars is hard. If just anyone could do it, that guy zipping down the interstate with his flashy rims could have run at Darlington on Saturday night.

Patrick didn't pick Darlington for her second Sprint Cup Series start. The bright idea belonged to Tony Danica Patrick, here talking with Denny Hamlin, has earned the respect of her peers, but hasn't come close to doing likewise in the minds of Sprint Cup fans.

Stewart, a three-time NASCAR champion generally regarded as one of the most versatile drivers on the planet. Even so, his 13-year resume lacks a Cup win in 20 career starts at Darlington.

"I want her to just as run as many laps as possible," Stewart said. "The more time she can spend on track the more experience she is going to get. The good thing running both divisions ... and not have too many problems, then it's a lot of valuable experience that when we come back here next year, doing it full-time, it should be very valuable."

In the end, Patrick finished a respectable 12th in the Nationwide race, her Darlington debut. She was 31st the next night, six laps down from winner Johnson. But a 172-lap green-flag run put her a lap down early, and her mission for that moment on was to stay out of the way of traffic while also trying to turn fast laps and not let the track itself defeat her.

All in all, it was a successful weekend.

Sadly, not everyone views it that way.

There's a strong resentment toward Patrick that really has to end. It's mean-spirited — sexist in some cases — and even though it doesn't bother her, it is harmful to little girls everywhere who maybe dream of being race car drivers.

You don't have love Patrick, and just like any other driver, it's OK to hate her, too. But she deserves respect for what she's trying to do from the people watching from their couches and hiding behind a computer screen.

Patrick completed two races at Darlington last weekend. What did you do?

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Florida State Mulls Benefits of Big 12 Switch

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The president of Florida State University says moving the athletic program from the Atlantic Coast Conference to the Big 12 has several drawbacks to be considered.

FSU president Eric Barton sent an email to those who have asked him about the possibility of the Seminoles switching conferences. The email was obtained by The Associated Press and several other news organizations.

He writes that negotiations between the school and the conference are not taking place. While he lays out both possible pros and cons for a move, he makes a strong case for staying in the ACC, where the Seminoles have competed since 1992.

NFL

Quarterback Jay Cutler says his right thumb is fine and he can't wait to return to lead a significantly upgraded Bears offense.

Cutler said he's recovered from offseason surgery to repair the fractured thumb. He suffered the injury late last November against San Diego while making a tackle on Antonio Cason, who had just picked off the Bears quarterback.

Baseball

Speaking softly, nervously and in detail, Brian McNamee testified about the life-changing moment when, he said, he first gave Roger Clemens a "booty shot" of steroids.

The government's star witness in the Clemens perjury retrial took the stand and told the jury that he injected one of baseball's most successful pitchers with steroids about eight to 10 times when they were with the Toronto Blue Jays in 1998.

"I knew what I was doing was illegal," McNamee said. "I wish to God I could take it back."

Clemens is charged with lying to Congress when he testified in 2008 that he had never used steroids or human growth hormone. The first attempt to try him last July ended in a mistrial when prosecutors showed the jury a snippet of videotaped evidence that had been ruled inadmissible.

Hockey

Dale Hunter is finished as coach of the Washington Capitals after less than one full season, telling the team he wants to return to his family in Canada.

Hunter says: "It was the right thing to do."

Today is Tuesday, May 15, the 136th day of 2012. There are 230 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On May 15, 1972, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace was shot and left paralyzed by Arthur H. Bremer while campaigning in Laurel, Md., for the Democratic presidential nomination. (Wallace died in 1998; Bremer was released from prison in November 2007 after serving 35 years of a 53-year sentence for attempted murder.)

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1602, English navigator Bartholomew Gosnold and his ship, the Concord, arrived at present-day Cape Cod, which he's credited with naming.
In 1776, Virginia endorsed American independence from Britain.
In 1862, President Abraham Lincoln signed an act establishing the Department of Agriculture.
In 1911, the Supreme Court ruled that Standard Oil Co. was a monopoly in violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act, and ordered its breakup.
In 1930, registered nurse Ellen Church, the first airline stewardess, went on duty aboard an Oakland-to-Chicago flight operated by Boeing Air Transport (a forerunner of United Airlines).
In 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a measure creating the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, whose members came to be known as WACs. Wartime gasoline rationing went into effect in 17 Eastern states, limiting sales to three gallons a week for non-essential vehicles.
In 1963, astronaut L. Gordon Cooper blasted off aboard Faith 7 on the final mission of the Project Mercury space program.
In 1970, just after midnight, Phillip Lafayette Gibbs and James Earl Green, two black students at Jackson State College in Mississippi, were killed as police opened fire during student protests.
In 1972, the United States returned the prefecture of Okinawa to Japanese administration.
In 1975, U.S. forces invaded the Cambodian island of Koh Tang and recaptured the American merchant ship Mayaguez. (All 40 crew members had already been released safely by Cambodia; some 40 U.S. servicemen were killed in the operation.)
In 1987, President Ronald Reagan told a gathering of out-of-town reporters at the White House he did not consider himself "mortally wounded" by the Iran-Contra affair. (The president got to relive his radio-announcer days when he complied with a reporter's request to read aloud a promo for Nashville station WSM.)
In 1991, Edith Cresson was appointed by French President Francois Mitterrand to be France's first female prime minister.

Ten years ago: The White House acknowledged that in the weeks before the Sept. 11 attacks, President George W. Bush was told by U.S. intelligence that Osama bin Laden's terrorist network might hijack American airplanes, but that officials did not know suicide hijackers were plotting to use planes as missiles. Financier Martin Frankel pleaded guilty in New Haven, Conn., to 24 counts of securities fraud and racketeering, admitting that he'd looted insurance companies of more than $200 million. (Frankel was later sentenced to nearly 17 years in federal prison.)
Five years ago: The Rev. Jerry Falwell, who'd built the Christian right into a political force, died in Lynchburg, Va., at age 73. President George W. Bush chose Lt. Gen. Douglas Lute to oversee the fighting in Iraq and Afghanistan as a war czar. Prime Minister Bertie Ahern became the first Irish leader to address the joint houses of the British Parliament.
One year ago: Thousands of Arab protesters marched on Israel's borders with Syria, Lebanon and Gaza in an unprecedented wave of demonstrations, sparking clashes that left at least 15 dead.

DEAR ABBY: One of my friends, "Max," cheats at golf. Otherwise he's witty, interesting and fun to be around. He moves his ball closer to the hole on the green and "improves" his lie when he thinks no one is looking. I have tried to overlook Max's transgressions, but others in our golf group talk and joke behind his back. How should I go about stopping the problem without stressing our friendship?
— FLORIDA GOLFER

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR GOLFER: What you have described is considered a terrible breach of golf etiquette. What it shows about Max is a serious lack of ethics. Because you feel close to him, take him aside and tell him privately as a friend that it's time to knock off the cheating because the others are onto him, and he's making himself a laughingstock.

DEAR ABBY: I have been part of a book club for almost 20 years. We began as a group of six teachers who wanted to share our friendship and love of reading. Over the years, members have come and gone, but five of the original group remains. We're now a group of nine.

Our dilemma is that many of the women don't bother to read the monthly selection but still attend the meetings. Granted, the meetings are very social. Everyone brings food to enjoy while we discuss books and anything else going on in our lives. However, the core group finds it annoying when some members don't even attempt to read. It happens month after month.

We have said on many occasions we expect everyone to read. Our discussions are livelier and more interesting when everyone shares her thoughts, but some don't make the effort or threaten to drop out of the book club.

We don't want anyone to drop out. We are all friends. Are we expecting too much because as teachers we regard it as a "homework assignment" not being completed? What can we do? I'd like your opinion so I can share it at the book club.

— PENNSVILLE, N.J., READER

DEAR READER: If certain members of your book club are no longer doing the required reading and regard the gatherings as social affairs, why not make some of the meetings — say, every other month — devoted solely to discussing the book you are reading, while the rest will be strictly social? There will be less disappointment for the readers, and you can still meet as friends without anyone being inconvenienced.

DEAR ABBY: I have a good friend, "Renee," who is Canadian and a permanent resident of the United States. We don't always agree on things, but one thing really bugs me about her. She's always saying how "nice" Canadians are and how rude Americans are.

On a recent trip we took to Canada, she commented about a cashier who was nice to us by saying, "That cashier wouldn't have been so nice if we were in America." When I try to point out evidence to the contrary, Renee shrugs it off and calls it an exception to the rule.

How should I politely ask her to knock off bashing Americans?

— LOVE IT OR LEAVE IT

DEAR LOVE IT OR LEAVE IT: Do it by "politely" pointing out to Renee that it is rude to make comments that make others uncomfortable, and if Canadians are as "nice" as she says they are — and that includes her — she'll quit putting down Americans because you find it offensive.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE Bobby Wolff

"Opinions cannot survive if one has no chance to fight for them."
— Thomas Mann

After the Teams medals were settled at the 1st World Mind Sports Games in 2008, there were further events to occupy the Juniors — a Pairs Championship and an Individual. This hand is from the Pairs, and not many pairs reached slam.

More often than not, if there is a choice of fit, contracts — especially high-level ones — play better when trumps split evenly. This hand is an exception: Six spades, a 5-4 fit, is the place to rest, not six hearts — the 4-4 fit.

After Radu Nistor and Bogdan Vulcan of Romania had landed neatly in their best contract, West led the diamond ace — nothing else is better. Nistor ruffed in hand, then played a low spade to the queen, whereupon the 4-0 break came to light.

With no possibility of 13 tricks, declarer needed to secure 12. There would be no problem if hearts broke 3-2, but, if possible, he had to guard against a 4-1 or 5-0 break. There were two straightforward chances — clubs might be breaking 3-3, or the hand with four or more hearts also held four or five clubs.

So, Nistor's next step was to duck a club. Back came a diamond, which Nistor ruffed with the jack. He then drew the rest of the trumps by cashing the king, finessing the nine, and cashing the ace.

At this point, he played dummy's last spade, which squeezed East out of his heart or club guard, and so the slam came home.

ANSWER: The two-heart call is forcing for one round, since your cue-bid set up a force until a suit is agreed upon. Over this bid it looks sensible to invite game by raising to three hearts, natural and invitational. If your partner passes, you surely won't have missed game.

IF MAY 15 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You have the tiger by the tail where business, career and your professional life are concerned. During the next two to three weeks, you are wiser than usual and can put important plans into motion or just grasp the brass ring on the merry go round called life. Whomever you meet will be a benevolent influence and whatever you start will thrive. You might become known as an astute businessperson as the summer begins, but could lose your momentum if you insist on an exotic vacation or a fling with a passing fancy. In August, keep your nose to the grindstone and don't take risks with your job, your finances or a new relationship.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Temper friendliness with common sense. You sometimes forget that not everyone is on board with your priorities. As you speed around getting things done, you may be humming, "zoom, zoom, zoom."

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Precision may be a necessary component of prettiness. If you want your presentation to shine or your appearance to dazzle, you should pay attention to the small but crucial details today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Save the best for last. When you have several choices, you have a chance to be more discriminating. If you savor the best as you wrap up a project, a meal or a conversation, you'll leave with a good feeling.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Stand by your man or woman. You might find that a special someone is under the spell of a magnificent obsession. That passion for something other than yourself may make you doubt the solidity of the relationship.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Each to his or her own. You may have a yen to adopt a fashion that is flattering on a friend, but don't try the same tactics financially. Your future needs might not be met if you merely follow the leader.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Don't take a chance that it won't last. Calculated risks require calculation, so don't just throw your coin in the fountain and make a wish. This is a time when your diligent research could pay off.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Good fences make good neighbors. It is a good idea to remain respectful of the rights of others — especially when personal territory or possessions are involved. Patience is a key to making efforts worthwhile.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Good manners have meaning. You will find that others in your vicinity are overly concerned with how things look. Give someone a hug when sincerely needed, but remain respectful of privacy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If you are friendly and outgoing, others may drop a valuable idea in your lap or help you achieve key objectives. Maintain a professional demeanor in social situations when the boss is watching.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A passion for perfection pushes you to perform with peak precision. You might be more concerned with performing tasks to achieve your ambitions rather than how you make others feel.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Fight off the demons of desire. You may be provoked by an impetuous craving to put something in the shopping cart, but common sense tells you that you may stretch the budget too far to get it.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): The eyes are bigger than the stomach. You should be aware that instant gratification isn't the best way to build lasting bonds. Let your hair down with friends after business hours.
