TWIN FALLS • The iconic Perrine Bridge is going to cause headaches for commuters this summer.

Resurfacing on the bridge will reduce traffic to one lane each way for half of June. The project is one of several the Idaho Transportation Department is undertaking in the next few months.

Nathan Jerke, public information officer for the ITD's District 4, said the work on the bridge will cause delays for at least 16 days.

While there has been minor work throughout the years, this is the first time the ITD has resurfaced the bridge since its 1976 opening, Jerke said.

The repair work doesn't mean the Woman Wakes to Swarm of Bees

People are seeing more bees this year than usual, but the swarms are mostly harmless.

BY MELISSA DAVLIN

TWIN FALLS • Petra Rico woke up to unwelcome guests on Monday morning.

The lawn of her house, located at the corner of 3rd Avenue West and Fillmore Street in Twin Falls, was carpeted in bees.

Unfortunately for apiphobes, bee swarms are common in the spring. Though the masses of stingers look, and sound, intimidating, they're mostly harmless if left alone, said Sam Day, owner of Cook Pest Control in Twin Falls.

When Rico found the bees, she tried calling the police, but they're not in the beekeeping business. So she waited in her home, afraid to leave lest she get stung.

When the bees were still there a couple hours later, she had her husband turn on the sprinklers. That was a mistake.

"They're all riled up," she said. Instead of sitting in a

Kirk Tubbs sweeps honey bees into a box to relocate to his berry farm. If you find a bee swarm in your yard, contact a bee keeper or leave the bees alone. They'll likely leave within a day.

Know Your Swarms

What should you do when you wake up to a swarm of stinging insects? It depends. If the insects are bright yellow, have separated bodies and are flying in groups of about 50, they're most likely wasps or something else, said Wes Pearson, owner of Magic Valley Pest Management in Twin Falls. Call a pest management company.

If there are hundreds concentrated together, they're probably honey bees, Pearson said. Unless they're threatening, leave them alone. They'll take off in a few hours, said Sam Day, owner of Cook Pest Control.

You can also call beekeepers like Kirk Tubbs of Tubbs' Berry Farm. Tubbs gathers swarms and establishes them on his property to help pollinate his berries. Reach him at 961-0969.

Wild Bear Wanders through Gooding

GOODING • A Gooding woman got a surprise Saturday evening when she spotted a small bear crossing her driveway.

Rosemary Anderson, who lives near 1500 East and 2100 South in Gooding County said she went outside to close her garage door when she noticed the bear about 15 yards away.

Along with her granddaughter and cat, Anderson said she watched the bear until it was out of sight and then went outside to see it go down a ledge near her house.

"I felt sorry for the poor thing, he's probably looking for his mother," she said.

Anderson said the bear was about three and a half feet tall while walking on all fours and had a rusty

Sage Grouse May Delay Wood River Power Lines

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI

KETCHUM • A future transmission line project south of the Wood River Valley has become the next to face potential delays due to its location on priority sage grouse habitat.

Since 2007, Idaho Power Co. officials have been working with community leaders to upgrade the Wood River Valley's electrical grid. When planning first began, sage grouse conflicts weren't the major issue they are today, said Brett Dumas, environmental supervisor with Idaho Power.

That all changed in 2010 when federal officials declared the bird a candidate for endangered species protections. A year later, a federal judge approved a settlement requiring officials to make a final decision about listing the bird by 2015.

With state officials and private landowners working to improve the bird's population and avert a listing, Idaho Power has put off deciding if it needs a third transmission line in the southern region of the Wood River bridge's condition is dangerous, Jerke emphasized. All Idaho bridges are inspected at least once every two years.

The type of asphalt the contractor is using takes about four days to set, Jerke said, and they can only pour small sections at once.

"There will be some times where it looks like nothing is happening out there, but it's required cure time," Jerke said.

The ITD is also repairing pedestrian hand rails and cat walks on the bridge.

Unfortunately for thrill seekers, the construction will hinder BASE jumping, Jerke said. The department planned the construction for June so it wouldn't conflict with the Magic Valley Air Show traffic.

The project will take a minimum of 16 days, though weather could cause delays, Jerke said. During construction, the ITD is encouraging motorists to plan for extra travel time or use alternate routes if possible.

Alternate Route

To avoid Perrine Bridge, use Hansen Bridge instead. To get there, take Kimberly Road east until you reach the bridge.

HEATING UP

Temperatures soared Monday but will now cool off until Memorial Day.

BY STEVE KADEL
skadel@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Monday's 94-degree temperature drove the Gonzalez family out of their house on Twin Falls' Main Avenue West and into the yard.

Aleides and Rosalba Gonzalez sat under a tree and enjoyed ice cream drinks to keep cool while Javier, Alides' husband, bustled around doing some chores.

"Usually we keep out of the house because there's no air conditioning," he said. "Lots of times we go to Dierkes Lake and have a barbecue."

Twin Falls residents are breaking out all the warm-weather equipment as summer nears and temperatures rise. That means sprinklers for the lawn, wading pools for the children, and lounge chairs spread out in the shade for adults.

On Second Avenue West, Kelvin Long was in his element as the mercury rose during the afternoon.

"I'm from California and I love the heat," he said. "I can't wait until it really starts heating up and there are thunderstorms."

Long has already adopted his summer strategy — wearing a white undershirt and sipping from a two-liter bottle of soda.

Lots of other people have opted for ice cream lately, hitting shops selling the frozen treat all over Twin Falls. Eder Pacheco of Cold Stone Creamery said the increase in customers has been noticeable.

"It's hot and that's when people like ice cream," he said. "Last weekend was huge."

Sales of ice cream and cold beverages might slow during the next few days. The National Weather Service in Boise called for highs around 70 today and 60 on Wednesday and Thursday. There's a chance of showers throughout the week and snow showers are even possible Thursday in southern Twin Falls County, according to the NWS forecast.

Things will rebound in time for Memorial Day. The weather service predicts dry conditions and warm temperatures Monday.

Health Heroes to Be Announced Wednesday

TWIN FALLS • The Magic Valley's newest heroes may not have superpowers, but they possess the ability to promote the health of southern Idahoans.

On Wednesday, the South Central Public Health District plans to announce the winners of the 14th annual Health Heroes.

Nominees are individuals or groups who worked to protect, promote and enhance the health of Magic Valley's citizens in 2011.

The awards luncheon will take place at 11:30 a.m. at the health district's Twin Falls office, 1020 Washington St. N., in the Katz Conference Room. Attendees are asked to use the north entrance of the building.

CSI Board Approves $2M Increase for Tech Center

BY JULIE WOOTTON
jwootton@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • It will cost nearly $2 million more than planned to build an Applied Technology Innovation Center at the College of Southern Idaho.

The college's board of trustees unanimously approved a budget increase for the project Monday evening.

Now, the total cost estimate is about $8.5 million. That's up from the original $6.6 million budget.

The college will transfer $4.1 million from its plant facilities fund to pay for the project. Another $4.4 million will come from an Economic Development Administration grant.

Trustee Karl Kleinkopf asked if it's a problem to take more money than expected from the fund.

"We're OK with this," Vice President of Administration Mike Mason said.

Construction on the ATIC building is slated to begin this fall, just north of the Canyon Building on CSI's Twin Falls campus.

The building will bring the college's technical programs under one roof, including

During their meeting, College of Southern Idaho trustees also:

- Learned that agriculture professor Terry Patterson has been hired as CSI's new dean of technical instruction. He'll replace Todd Schwarz, who took a job as the state's administrator of professional-technical education.
- Approved rate increases for the Eagle Hall dorm and North View Apartments next year. Dorm room rates will increase $25 per semester — the first rate increase since 2008. The cost for dorm meal plans will also increase 4 percent. North View Apartment rates will increase by about 5 percent — the first rate increase since 2005.
- The increases are in line with votes by the college's Dormitory Housing Commission in April.
- Awarded a bid to Right Systems Inc. for $25,785 for a specified network access controller. The system provides security checks for devices connecting with CSI's wireless network.
- Approved various fund transfer requests — largely donations, including from student groups and the athletics department.
- Approved a new mission statement for the Head Start/Early Head Start program.

wind energy, manufacturing technology, environmental technology, drafting, and air conditioning, refrigeration and heating technology.

The facility will be 41,630 square feet. It's larger than the 29,770-square-foot facility that was originally planned.

The reason for the increase: Adding space in order to include more programs in the facility. There's also space to accommodate one new program in the future.

The larger budget also includes the cost of work surrounding the building — such as a parking lot and sidewalk — as well as moving utilities in case there's a need to expand the facility in the future.

T.F. Woman Charged with DUI after March Crash

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • A 27-year-old Twin Falls woman has been charged with excessive driving under the influence connected to a March crash.

Karly Jean Diage was arraigned on the charge Monday in Twin Falls County 5th District Court.

At 10:22 p.m. March 12, Idaho State Police responded to a crash at Idaho Highway 50 and 3800 East Road — near the Hansen Bridge — that required extrication. One of the vehicles was a tan 1999 Chevrolet Malibu driven by Diage that had damage to the front passenger side. According to a police report, Diage had slurred speech and had a hard time processing information. Trooper Chris Pohanka wrote in the report that Diage smelled of alcohol and said, "they hit me," when she was asked what happened.

The other vehicle involved was a red 2006 Ford Fusion with severe front-end damage. That car was driven Kallie Anna Carney, with her husband Gary Kit Carney and their 15-month-old daughter as passengers.

The three were transported to St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center. Troopers later checked on Kallie, who was pregnant, and found no immediate problems with the pregnancy as a result of the crash.

According to the report, both Kallie and Gary were travelling toward Twin Falls when they noticed the Malibu approaching on 3800 East. Gary told police the car looked like it wasn't slowing down, the report said.

According to police, Diage was also taken to St. Luke's to be examined for injuries and get a blood draw, but refused to answer questions.

On April 30, police received the blood test results back which showed Diage's blood-alcohol content to be .298, the report said.

A pretrial hearing is scheduled for June 12.

Man Injured in Accidental Shooting on Friday

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismsmith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Twin Falls police officers responded to the emergency room at St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center Friday at 9:15 p.m. for a call about an adult male who was being treated for a gunshot wound.

Officers learned the man, identified as Kade R. Baugh, 21, was shot accidentally by one of his friends, Anthony G. Parsons, 21, in the 600 block of Eden Street North in Twin Falls.

"The friend picked up a .357 magnum that he believed was unloaded and shot the victim in the back," a statement released Sunday from Twin Falls police said.

Baugh was treated at St. Luke's for non-life-threatening injuries, the report said. As of Monday afternoon, Baugh was still in the hospital in good condition. The incident is still under investigation, but police said there is no indication of foul play.

Lt. Craig Stotts said no charges have been filed at this point.

This is the second case of an accidental shooting in Twin Falls in recent months. The first incident was March 24, when police responded to Rosewood Drive for a report of an accidental shooting. In that case a man accidentally shot his brother while looking at a 9 mm semi-automatic handgun with a group of men.

"The Twin Falls Police Department would like to remind everyone that firearms are not toys. They should always be treated with caution and every firearm should be treated as if it is loaded. Never point a firearm at anyone or anything in jest or for play," police said in the statement. "If you have firearms in your home, please keep them in a safe or secure them with a gun lock. If you are interested in gun safety, please contact your local law enforcement agency to see if they offer any gun safety training."

Twin Falls Council's Question: What Should a City Fund?

BY MELISSA DAVLIN
mdavlin@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Dreaming big has a price tag.

At Monday's Twin Falls City Council meeting, council members started early budget talks — weighing their own priorities with ideas from the public on what they would like to see from the city. The discussion of bike paths, fair compensation for city employees and infrastructure improvements turned toward whether the city can afford those amenities without a tax increase.

During the budget discussion, City Manager Travis Rothweiler summarized community input on the state of Twin Falls for the council, including what residents like, what they don't like and what they want to see in the future.

Comments on recreation and wellness, such as bike paths, walking trails and parks, came up most frequently. But plenty of people expressed concerns about infrastructure and other issues, Rothweiler said.

The council also talked about its own priorities, which included public safety and employee pay.

But realistically, making improvements costs money.

Although they agreed with some of the input, council members Jim Munn and Rebecca Mills-Sojka said they were hesitant to increase the tax burden on citizens to pay for the amenities.

Councilman Shawn Barigar said reasonable tax increases aren't necessarily a bad thing. "Taxes are the price that citizens pay for the services they demand," Barigar said.

Councilwoman Suzanne Hawkins said while she understood that people want improvements, she wondered if they would be willing to pay more for them.

State code allows cities to raise taxes up to 3 percent annually, something Twin Falls hasn't always done in recent years, Rothweiler said.

The discussion is part of the budget-setting process, and isn't binding.

Three-vehicle Crash Briefly Closes Highway, but No Serious Injuries

TIMES-NEWS

BUHL • A three-vehicle collision closed U.S. Highway 30 for about 45 minutes Monday between Buhl and Filer, but caused no serious injuries, according to Idaho State Police.

ISP investigated the crash at U.S. 30's intersection with 1700 East Road at about 4:40 p.m., according to a press release. Investigators say Cassidee E. Kippes, 17, of Buhl, was eastbound on U.S. 30 and preparing to turn left onto 1700 East, stopped in a 1997 Nissan pickup truck. Behind her, Elizandro F. Brito, 75, of Twin Falls, had just come to a stop in a 1997 Saturn passenger car.

Ernesto Ayala-Guarderrama, 24, of Wendell, was also eastbound on U.S. 30 in a 2001 Ford Mustang. According to ISP, Ayala-Guarderrama failed to yield in time and rear-ended the Saturn, which then hit the pickup.

A passenger in the Saturn — Enequina C. Brito, 60, of Twin Falls — was taken to St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center with minor injuries.

All people involved wore seatbelts and alcohol was not a factor in the crash. ISP continues to investigate the incident.

colored coat.

Bears are uncommon in the Gooding area, said Regan Berkley with Idaho Department of Fish and Game.

"It's pretty unheard of for a bear to go there," she said. Chances are very good it's just a young bear. He's looking for a place to be, trying to find his spot in the world. He just got a little wayward."

Berkley said Fish and Game has gotten several calls about the Gooding bear.

"We're keeping track of it," she said.

Rangers are doing hazing to scare the bear enough that it doesn't return and encouraging it to head to a less populated area, she said.

In general, bears don't want much to do with humans, and are easily scared away with loud noises like clapping or a horn honking.

"The last thing you want is for it to feel cornered or trapped," Berkley said. "If the bear isn't leaving, give us a call."

This time of year when people are cooking outside, it's important to keep grills clean and make sure food and garbage are cleaned up quickly.

"Please make sure there are no food odors a bear could be attracted to," Berkley said.

In the meantime, Anderson and her family will be a little more careful.

"We probably won't let the grandkids sleep outside in sleeping bags," she said.

Police Search for Mountain Lion Roaming Boise

BOISE • Police and wildlife officials are actively searching for a mountain lion that has been seen in and around downtown Boise.

Idaho Department of Fish and Game officials believe the 70-pound juvenile male is the same cat that was seen picking at a deer carcass in the front yard of an east Boise home Friday night.

The cat was seen Monday near Boise State University, causing school officials to post a note on the website urging students to be aware. The critter was also seen near a grocery store closer to the downtown area.

Wildlife officials say it's common for mountain lions to follow rivers like the Boise River or an irrigation canal into more urban areas. They say, however, it's rare for mountain lions to stick around neighborhood areas.

carpet, they flew in circles and chased a pedestrian down the street. It took awhile, but they calmed back down.

Eventually, Kirk Tubbs of Tubbs' Berry Farm collected the swarm. Both Tubbs and his 6-year-old son Caleb wore beekeeper suits as they guided the hundreds of workers and drones into two boxes. Tubbs planned to transplant them into a new hive on his property.

Without a beekeeper, the best thing to do is let them be, Day said. Bee swarms are made up of displaced bees from an overpopulated hive. When that happens, the queen makes a second queen, then sends her and up to half of the hive away to form a new colony.

When left alone, they're docile. But if they're agitated, they turn territorial to protect their queen, Day said.

Wes Pearson, owner of Magic Valley Pest Management in Twin Falls, said he's had 10 honey bee calls in the last week — more than he sees most years.

The weather this winter and spring has been ideal for honeybees, Tubbs said.

"Things have been just right for them," he said.

Unless they're causing a threat, Pearson won't eliminate them. He recommends contacting beekeepers like Tubbs to collect them.

"Bees are pretty scarce and we need them for pollination," Pearson said. "They are very beneficial to the environment."

Day agreed. "Honeybees are one of the most beneficial insects we have," he said. "Don't spray them. Don't try to kill them. Don't rile them up. Just leave them alone."

Valley, said Brett Dumas, environmental supervisor for the utility.

"We're holding off on the long-term plan," Dumas said. "We don't really have enough information right now."

The Wood River Valley upgrade was split into two parts. In the northern region, Idaho Power is adding a redundant power line to protect residents against blackouts.

In the south, Idaho Power planned to replace two transmission lines with higher-capacity lines. A possible third line was also proposed as a backup energy source for the southern region.

Dumas said he doesn't expect the northern project to be delayed, since most of the redundant line is located on private land.

But the southern project is primarily located on federal land and requires going through an extensive permitting process with the U.S. Bureau of Land Management.

The BLM could decide to delay approving the permits until the agency finishes amending its sage grouse management plans, said Jessica Gardetto, spokeswoman for the BLM office in Boise. For example, the BLM put a two-year delay on a decision regarding the China Mountain Wind Project in south Twin Falls County because of its proposed location in priority sage grouse habitat.

"We don't have a hard and fast moratorium on approving transmission line projects but we do have to take a close look at how it could affect sage grouse habitat," Gardetto said. "If we feel it could impact the area then we would probably put a delay on the project instead of denying them a permit."

Head of U.S. Nuclear Safety Agency to Step Down

BY MATTHEW DALY
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • The embattled chairman of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission resigned Monday after a tumultuous three-year tenure in which he pushed for sweeping safety reforms but came under fire for an unyielding management style that fellow commissioners and agency employees described as bullying.

Jaczko

Gregory Jaczko stepped down ahead of a potentially blistering report due out soon from the agency's inspector general, which has been investigating his actions for more than a year.

Jaczko, 41, led a strong response to the nuclear disaster in Japan and was a favorite of industry watchdogs, who called his emphasis on safety a refreshing change from previous agency chiefs who were close to the nuclear industry or who came from it.

But scientists, fellow commissioners and many rank-and-file staffers said Jaczko had created a chilled working environment at the NRC, which oversees safety at the nation's 104 commercial nuclear reactors.

In an extraordinary public rebuke, four fellow commissioners sat next to Jaczko last December and told Congress he was an intimidating bully whose actions could compromise the nation's nuclear safety. The four commissioners said women at the agency felt especially threatened.

No disciplinary action was taken against Jaczko, who strongly denied the allegations.

An inspector general's report released last summer said Jaczko had intimidated staff members who disagreed with him and withheld information from members of the commission to manipulate their decisions on critical votes. A follow-up report is due in the next few weeks.

Jaczko said in a written statement that it was the right time to step down, adding that he hoped his successor would keep a strong focus on safety. Jaczko said he will continue to lead the commission until his successor is confirmed.

96 Yemeni Soldiers Killed in Bombing.
A Yemeni soldier detonated a bomb hidden in his military uniform during a rehearsal for a military parade, killing 96 fellow soldiers and wounding at least 200 on Monday in one of the deadliest attacks in the capital in years. Al-Qaida's branch in Yemen claimed responsibility, saying in an emailed statement the suicide attack was intended to avenge a U.S.-backed offensive against al-Qaida in a swath of southern Yemen last year.

White House Concentrates Power over Drones

BY KIMBERLY DOZIER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • White House counterterrorism chief John Brennan has seized the lead in choosing which terrorists will be targeted for drone attacks or raids, establishing a new procedure for both military and CIA targets.

The effort concentrates power over the use of lethal U.S. force outside war zones within one small team at the White House.

The process, which is about a month old, means Brennan's staff consults with the State Department and other agencies as to who should go on the target list, making the Pentagon's role less relevant, according to two current and three former U.S. officials aware of the evolution in how the government goes after terrorists.

In describing Brennan's arrangement to The Associated Press, the officials provided the first detailed description of the military's previous review process that set a schedule for killing or capturing terror leaders around the Arab world and beyond. They spoke on condition of anonymity because U.S. officials are not allowed to publicly describe the classified targeting program.

One senior administration official argues that Brennan's move adds another layer of review that augments rather than detracts from the Pentagon's role. The Pentagon can still carry out its own internal procedures to make recommendations to the secretary of defense, the official said.

The CIA keeps its own list of targets, though it overlaps with the Pentagon's. It never included the large number of interagency players the Pentagon brought to the table for its debates Dharun Ravi, left, looks on as his mother, Sabitha Ravi, cries as she reads a statement during a sentencing hearing for Ravi in New Brunswick, N.J., Monday.

Ex-Rutgers Student Gets 30 Days in Webcam Case

A judge also gave 20-year-old Dharun Ravi three years of probation, but the prosecutor calls the sentence 'insufficient' and plans to appeal it.

BY GEOFF MULVIHILL
Associated Press

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. • A former Rutgers University student who used a webcam to spy on his gay roommate was sentenced Monday to just 30 days in jail — a punishment that disappointed some activists but came as a relief to others who feared he would be made a scapegoat for his fellow freshman's suicide.

Dharun Ravi, 20, could have gotten 10 years behind bars for his part in a case that burst onto front pages when Tyler Clementi threw himself to his death off the George Washington Bridge.

Instead, Superior Court Judge Glenn Berman gave Ravi a month in jail, placed him on three years' probation and ordered him to get counseling and pay $10,000 toward a program to help victims of hate crimes.

"Our society has every right to expect zero tolerance for intolerance," the judge said.

Prosecutor Bruce Kaplan said he will appeal the sentence, calling it insufficient.

The tear-filled sentencing touched on many of the issues that made the case heart-wrenching and legally complicated: anti-gay bullying, teen suicide, hate-crime laws in the fast-changing Internet age, and the uses and abuses of technology in the hands of young people.

Ravi did not speak in court but shed tears as his mother pleaded with the judge not to send him to prison. Afterward, Ravi, his family and his lawyers left court without comment. He is expected to appeal his conviction.

In handing down the sentence, the judge quoted an email from Clementi himself describing Ravi's conduct as "wildly inappropriate."

At the same time, Berman pointed out that Ravi was not charged in Clementi's suicide. He said Ravi has spent 20 months in "exile" since his arrest. And he suggested "hate crime" is a misnomer for what Ravi was convicted of: "I do not believe he hated Tyler Clementi."

He also said he has examined the bias intimidation laws in 39 states and found that New Jersey's is among the broadest. Most, he said, are used only to increase the sentences of people convicted of violent crimes.

In Joplin, a Senior Year to Remember

BY ALAN SCHER ZAGIER
Associated Press

JOPLIN, Mo. • There were tearful remembrances for lost classmates and jokes about spending their senior year in a converted department store.

But most of all for Joplin High School's Class of 2012, a chorus of rousing cheers and joyous celebrations marked their completion of high school under circumstance none of them could have envisioned just one year ago.

Monday night's graduation, which featured commencement speeches by President Barack Obama and Missouri Gov. Jay Nixon, capped a senior year for the 428 members of the Class of 2012 marked by tragedy, turmoil and perseverance.

The president visited southwest Missouri the day before the anniversary of the country's deadliest single tornado in six decades. The May 22, 2011, twister killed 161 people, injured hundreds more and destroyed thousands of buildings, including Joplin High. Five other Joplin schools were also destroyed, with four more among the damaged structures.

The twister arrived hours after last year's high school graduation, forever defining the Joplin High Class of 2011 and their younger classmates as well. The tornado's victims included two Joplin High students, sophomore Lantz Hare and senior Will Norton, a school system secretary and several younger students.

"They had to grow up the night of the storm," Joplin High principal Kerry Sachetta said. "They saw things they never should have had to see."

The high school seniors who assembled Monday night at Missouri Southern State University's campus gym also encountered a label

they sought both to embrace and avoid, a refrain overheard in whispers or uttered bluntly at soccer games, summer camps and national academic competitions: Here come the tornado kids from Joplin.

School officials vowed to return to class on time. They turned a vacant big-box retail store at the city's only mall into a temporary Joplin High for juniors and seniors, with freshmen and 10th-graders at another location across town. A middle school relocated to an industrial park warehouse.

"I'm proud to be a member of the Northpark Mall graduates of 2012," senior class president Chloe Hadley joked. "We have been through the unbelievable, and have become stronger and closer than ever before."

Despite the less than ideal location, Joplin students embraced their return to a school they saw as a refuge, a safe haven in a town otherwise gone awry, said Joplin High English teacher Brenda White.

C.J. 'Jiggs' Bartholomew

Nov. 17, 1925-May 19, 2012

GOODING • C.J. "Jiggs" Bartholomew, 86, a lifelong resident of Gooding, Idaho, died Saturday, May 19, 2012, at Oak Creek Rehabilitation Center in Kimberly after a short illness.

Clifford was born in Iliff, Colo., on Nov. 17, 1925, to Mike and Maude Bartholomew. The family moved to Jerome in 1927, where Jiggs attended schools in Shoshone and Dietrich. In 1942, Jiggs was drafted by the Cincinnati Reds organization at the age of 17 as a southpaw pitcher. He left baseball to serve as an Army medic in Camp Barkley, Texas, and Staten Island, N.Y. After his discharge from the Army, he returned to baseball and married Mary "Eileen" Porterfield in Columbia, S.C., in 1947. He held a variety of jobs throughout his life; was a member of the Nampa Police Department; truck driver for Wycoff out of Salt Lake City, Utah; owned Jiggs Conoco Station for many years on Main Street and worked as a foreman on the 101 Ranch in King Hill. Jiggs finished his working career at the State School for the Deaf and Blind, when he retired at the age of 62.

Jiggs was an avid outdoorsman and enjoyed hunting, fishing, camping and family outings with his constant companion and best friend, Eileen, by his side. From a week in the Smokey Mountains to an evening drive — just to take in the scenic sites and treasures of the Idaho he loved so much. He fished all over the state with many fishing holes named after family members. He always had a smile on his face and his hand raised high to say "hello." With five granddaughters, his time fishing on his own pole was limited, but he had five girls that to this day love to fish.

Jiggs is survived by his wife of 65 years, Eileen; his three children, Connie Bell of Culver City, Calif., Monty Bartholomew of Gooding and Crystal Foss (Doug) of Wendell; five granddaughters, Nikki Bell, Summer Foss, Joy Bell, Sharona Foss and Amber Foss; eight great-grandchildren; and numerous nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents, Mike and Maude Bartholomew; brother, Lesley Bartholomew; and two sisters, Betty Adamson and Effie Fisher.

A memorial graveside service will be held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, May 24, at the Elmwood Cemetery in Gooding. Arrangements are under the direction of Demaray Funeral Service, Gooding Chapel. Condolences may be sent to the family by visiting the obituary link at www.demaryfuneralservice.com.

Della Kidd

Jan. 6, 1925-May 19, 2012

BURLEY • Della Kidd went to be with her sweet husband Saturday, May 19, 2012. We are so thrilled to know they are together once again having a wonderful reunion!

Max (Mike) Kidd, her husband of 68 years, passed away March 15, 2012. He was the love of her life, always happiest when they were together. They met while she was in high school. She said he was the most handsome of all, AND he could waltz like none other! On June 9, 1943, they were married by Judge Henry Tucker; her sister, Reva, was their witness. Della was 18 years old and Mike was 23. On June 9, 1954, they were sealed in the Idaho Falls Temple.

Della was born Jan. 6, 1925, in Rupert. She was the daughter of Jacob and Sarah Fidelia Babbit Straubhaar. Della was the fifth of eight children born to this marriage. There were also four half siblings born from the marriage of her father, Jacob and his deceased wife, Lena. Della went to the Rosston School in the village of Jackson. This school had students from the first through the eighth grade. She had a great love of family and appreciation for hard work. She shared many stories of living on the farm and how they were all expected to work the fields and help out in the home.

Della was a member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. She held numerous positions in the church she so dearly loved. She was Relief Society president, ward organist, MIA president and Primary teacher. Della and Mike were dance directors for 26 years, including stake dance directors. They loved this calling! They taught hundreds of youth for countless hours, every dance one could imagine. From the Hokey-Pokey, to the Charleston, Jitter-Bug, Waltz and on and on! They had a great time creating many memories for all the young people who were privileged to learn from them. Della was secretary for M.H. King in the general office for 34 years before her retirement.

She was a wonderful example to all as to her dedication and hard work. She always put her best in every project. She was known for her beautiful homemaking skills, her meticulous gardening, her joy in scrapbooking (always a camera in hand!). Her amazing embroidery work, ceramics and decorating for Christmas! Her favorite time of the year! She loved her home, her "honey" and her family. She loved positive and joyful people. She was loved in return. We will miss her.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Mike Kidd; her parents, Jacob and Sarah Straubhaar; her sisters, Pearl Elliott, Lena Martsch and Reva Moultrie Black; her brothers, Max and Ernest Straubhaar. She is survived by her sisters, Edna Hoskins and Joyce Heinze. She is also survived by many nieces and nephews.

We wish to give special thanks for all the love and support to Parke View Care Center; Shauna Krauss and staff, Horizon Hospice; Erica Critchfield and Staff, and Dr. Miranda and staff.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Parke View Rehabilitation and Care Center.

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday, May 23, at the LDS 8th Ward building, 2050 Normal Ave. in Burley, Idaho, with Bishop Larry Kloepfer officiating. Burial will follow at Gem Memorial Park in Burley. A visitation will be held from 6 until 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 22, at the Morrison Funeral Home, 188 S. Highway 24 in Rupert, and from 10 to 10:45 a.m. Wednesday at the church prior to the funeral. Arrangements are under the care and direction of Morrison Funeral Home and Crematory.

Idaho National Lab Leader Reaches Out to State

IDAHO FALLS (AP) • The head of Idaho National Laboratory is reaching out to top Idaho leaders in an effort to strengthen the relationship between Idaho and the sprawling research facility in the eastern Idaho desert.

INL Director John Grossenbacher said he's never approached Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter about the state taking an unprecedented ownership stake in the complex, a move he said would bolster partnerships and collaboration between the lab and government agencies.

"I have been an advocate for a long time of a much closer relationship between the federal government and the state relative to INL," Grossenbacher told the Post-Register in a story published Sunday.

"There is no legal framework for such a thing. My point has been the days of the federal government having a reservation on the state without the state's full involvement in what's going on are past," he said.

INL, which has research buildings in Idaho Falls and a bigger complex east of the city, is owned and operated by the U.S. Department of Energy, and managed under a contract by Battelle Energy Alliance.

Otter spokesman Jon Hanian said Grossenbacher's invitation for greater state involvement comes at a time when members of the Leadership in Nuclear Energy Commission — appointed by Otter in February — are contemplating a greater role for INL in the state's overall economy. Members of the commission toured INL facilities last week in preparation for submitting a reporter to Otter by Jan. 1.

Grossenbacher didn't provide any specifics for what would be an appropriate state investment. He said one potential benefit to a partnership is getting certain state agencies, such as the Department of Environmental Quality, closer to the science and technology being developed by INL research teams.

"Why don't, or could we, embed the DEQ within the lab instead of DEQ being outside the lab," Grossenbacher said.

Idaho Department of Commerce Director Jeff Sayer, who also heads the LINE Commission, said the panel's objective is identifying how or what kind of role the state can play in the nuclear energy renaissance and INL's role in that resurgence.

"It's almost like the government wants to come and rewrite the Bible and, to me, that's a position that I don't think the government should take."

Missionary John Tolo in a statement saying while he supports the idea of some kind of legal recognition for same-sex couples, marriage is a sacred template for raising and caring for children as God intended

The Citizen and the Government

In the Aesop Fable "The Grasshopper and the Ant," there are moral, economic and political lessons for our time, or any other.

As the story goes, the lazy grasshopper wiles away his summer days singing and hopping and having an all-around good time while industrious ants work and march and struggle to carry kernels of corn to their anthills, storing up for the winter to come.

As you would imagine, the inevitable happens. Come winter, the ants have plenty of food to see them through the cold, fallow months. The fun-loving grasshopper has nothing. The grasshopper begs the hardworking ants to share their bounty, but they refuse.

Let's begin with the political lesson. Government, the grasshopper in this little morality tale, is constantly trying to get its citizens, the ants, to cough up more and more of what they've earned by the sweat of their brows so that it might pay for its own needs.

The latest of many recent examples occurred last week in Maryland where the majority Democratic legislature passed another tax increase on "the rich."

Democratic Governor Martin O'Malley and the legislators have lowered the definition of "rich" from the arbitrary $250,000 established by President Obama, to $100,000 for individuals and $150,000 for couples filing jointly. Maryland residents will now be slapped with a new tax on top of already high state and local taxes, tying the state's new state-local tax bracket, according to the Washington Post, with that of "...the District's for fourth-highest in the nation." Especially in the expensive Maryland suburb of Washington, D.C., incomes of $100,000 and $150,000 are barely middle class.

The tax hike caused the Democratic comptroller, Peter Franchot, to protest. Franchot told Washington radio station WMAL his fellow Maryland Democrats "try to be loyal and want to be supportive of their party, but they're becoming very frustrated with this long list of almost indiscriminate tax increases that we're faced with on an annual basis."

Only if the tax-and-spend "grasshoppers" start feeling the heat from the taxpaying "ants" are they likely to reverse course. Some of that heat may soon be coming from people who are fed up enough to act. There are reports of wealthy individuals and some businesses from states with high taxes, including Maryland and certainly California, moving to states with a lower state tax, or no state tax at all.

The economic lesson is this: Human nature has demonstrated that if government can squeeze more money out of its citizens without having to cut wasteful spending, it will; and if citizens can get other people's money without having to earn it, they will become addicted to government and come to regard the sustenance as an entitlement.

Compare the huge number of ineffective and wasteful government programs with The Marshall Plan of 1948, which established the Economic Cooperation Administration, the intent of which was to provide $13.3 billion in U.S. aid to Western European countries to rebuild industry and put people back to work after World War II. Much of Europe is in crisis today because it has become a victim of its own welfare state. Instead of industry, there is indolence. Economies are in trouble because government, not the individual, has become supreme. France just elected a socialist president, rejecting necessary austerity. The European gravy train has derailed.

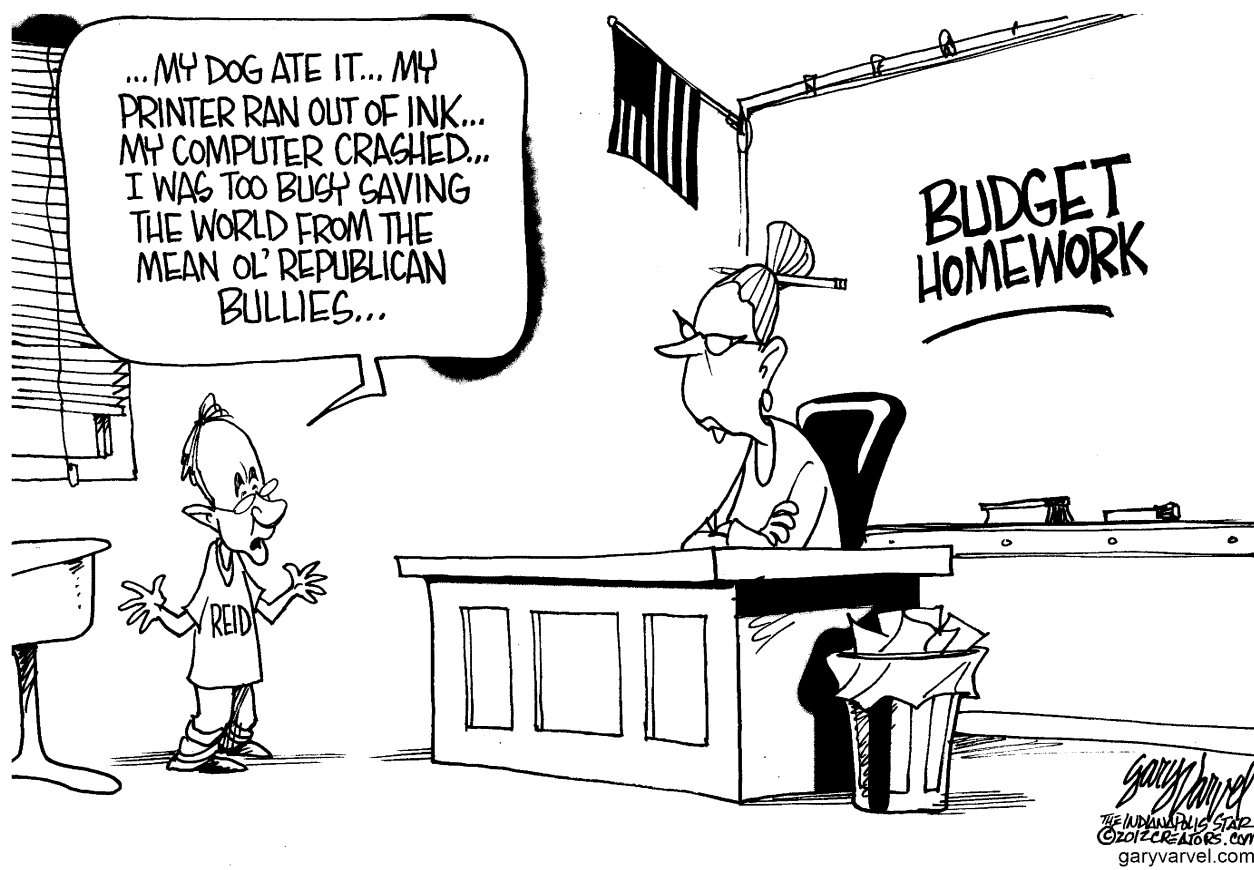

In America, too, many of our domestic programs merely sustain people in poverty rather than help them to become self-sufficient. Liberal politicians, especially, think this is perfectly fine because addiction to government means addiction to them and to the perpetuation of their liberal agenda.

The moral lesson is this: When government takes money from people who earn it, government has a responsibility to spend it wisely and in ways that achieve the ends set down in our founding documents. Chief among these is that noble sentiment found in the Preamble to the Constitution about promoting "the general welfare." By "spreading the wealth around," rather than teaching and encouraging individuals to build wealth for themselves, government robs people of the joy produced by human initiative; indeed it takes from them one of the building blocks that makes us unique among living things: the dignity and reward of work.

The moral, political and economic lessons of the past are in fables and reality to teach the present and ensure a better future. By ignoring them, Europe and America risk repeating costly mistakes and suffering the consequences.

Do You Want the Good News First?

I've spent the last week traveling to two of America's greatest innovation hubs - Silicon Valley and Seattle - and the trip left me feeling a combination of exhilaration and dread. The excitement comes from not only seeing the stunning amount of innovation emerging from the ground up, but from seeing the new tools coming on stream that are, as Amazon.com's founder, Jeff Bezos, put it to me, "eliminating all the gatekeepers" - making it easier and cheaper than ever to publish your own book, start your own company and chase your own dream. Never have individuals been more empowered, and we're still just at the start of this trend.

"I see the elimination of gatekeepers everywhere," said Bezos. Thanks to cloud computing for the masses, anyone anywhere can for a tiny hourly fee now rent the most powerful computing and storage facilities on Amazon's "cloud" to test any algorithm or start any company or publish any book. Startups can even send all their inventory to Amazon, and it will do all the fulfillment and delivery - and even gift wrap your invention before shipping it to your customers. This is leading to an explosion of new firms and voices.

"Sixteen of the top 100 best-sellers on Kindle today were self-published," said Bezos. That means no agent, no publisher, no paper - just an author, who gets most of the royalties, and Amazon and the reader. It is why, Bezos adds, the job of the company leader now is changing fast:

"You have to think of yourself not as a designer but as a gardener" - seeding, nurturing, inspiring, cultivating the ideas coming from below, and then making sure people execute them. The leading companies driving this trend - Amazon, Facebook, Microsoft, Google, Apple, LinkedIn, Zynga and Twitter - are all headquartered and listed in America. Facebook, which didn't exist nine years ago, just went public at a valuation of nearly $105 billion - two weeks after buying a company for $1 billion, Instagram, which didn't exist roughly a year and a half ago. So why any dread?

It's because we're leaving an era of some 50 years' duration in which to be a president, a governor, a mayor or a college president was, on balance, to give things away to people; and we're entering an era - no one knows for how long - in which to be a president, a governor, a mayor or a college president will be, on balance, to take things away from people. And if we don't make this transition in a really smart way - by saying, "Here are the things that made us great, that spawned all these dynamic companies" - and make sure that we're preserving as much of that as we can, this trend will not spread as it should.

Maybe we could grow as a country without a plan. But we dare not cut without a plan. We can really do damage. I can lose weight quickly if I cut off both arms, but it will surely reduce my job prospects. What we must preserve is that magic combination of cutting-edge higher education, government-funded research and immigration of high-IQ risk-takers.

They are, in combination,

America's golden goose, laying all these eggs in Seattle and Silicon Valley. China has it easy right now. It just needs to do the jobs that we have already invented, just more cheaply. America has to invent the new jobs - and that requires preserving the goose. Microsoft still does more than 80 percent of its research work in America. But that is becoming harder and harder to sustain when deadlock on Capitol Hill prevents it from acquiring sufficient visas for the knowledge workers it needs that America's universities are not producing enough of. The number of filled jobs at Microsoft went up this year from 40,000 to 40,500 at its campus outside Seattle, yet its list of unfilled jobs went from 4,000 to almost 5,000. Eventually, it will have no choice but to shift more research to other countries. It is terrifying to see how budget-cutting in California is slowly reducing what was once one of the crown jewels of American education - the University of California system - to a shadow of its old self. And I fear the cutting is just beginning. As one community leader in Seattle remarked to me, governments basically do three things: "Medicate, educate and incarcerate."

And various federal and state mandates outlaw cuts in medicating and incarcerating, so much of the money is coming out of educating. Unfortunately, even to self-publish, you still need to know how to write. The same is happening to research. A new report just found that federal investment in biomedical research through the National Institutes of Health has decreased almost every year since 2003. When we shrink investments in higher education and research, "we shoot ourselves in both feet," remarked K.R. Sridhar, founder of Bloom Energy, the Silicon Valley fuel-cell company. "Our people become less skilled, so you are shooting yourself in one foot. And the smartest people from around the world have less reason to come here for the quality education, so you are shooting yourself in the other foot."

The Labor Department reported two weeks ago that even with our high national unemployment rate, employers advertised 3.74 million job openings in March. That is, in part, about a skills mismatch. In an effort to overcome that, and help fill in the financing gap for higher education in Washington State, Boeing and Microsoft recently supported a plan whereby the state, which was cutting funding to state universities but also not letting them raise tuition, would allow the colleges to gradually raise rates and the two big companies would each kick in $25 million for scholarships for students who wanted to study science and technology or health care to ensure that they have the workers they need. This is not a call to ignore the hard budget choices we have to make. It's a call to make sure that we give education, immigration and research their proper place in the discussion.

Investment in our collective institutions and opportunities is the only way to mitigate the staggering income inequalities that can arise from a world where Facebook employees can become billionaires overnight, while the universities that produce them are asked to slash billions overnight. As I've said, nations that don't invest in the future tend not to do well there.

Say What? Kraft's New Name Elicits Jokes

NEW YORK (AP) • "MONDEWHAAAAT?"

The sarcasm was palpable in the one-word headline that appeared in The New York Post on the day after Kraft Foods revealed that it planned to name its new global snack business "Mondelez," an interpretation of a mash-up of the Latin words for "world" and "delicious." But that wasn't the only dig.

One blogger teased that she would've been "stifling giggles" if she'd been in meetings to determine the name. A Forbes contributor suggested a trick for remembering how to say it: "Just think Bush Administration Secretary of State. You know, Mon-de-leza Rice." Crain's Business Chicago tittered that it bears close resemblance to a vulgar Russian term for a sexual act.

AAA: More Mountain State Travelers This Holiday

LAS VEGAS (AP) • AAA predicts about 1.6 percent more residents in mountain states will take trips this Memorial Day weekend compared with last year.

AAA expects about 2.5 million residents of Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming to travel at least 50 miles over the holiday, mostly by car.

The travel group's forecast released Monday shows the average mountain states family of four will spend $652 over the weekend and travel about 677 miles.

Nationwide, 34 million people are expected to travel at least 50 miles during the final weekend in May. That's an increase of 1.2 percent.

Memorial Day airfare is projected to be about 7 percent lower than in 2011, while hotel rates are expected to be up 8 percent.

Forced to Fly Solo, Even on Family Vacations

Airlines are setting aside more rows for passengers willing to pay extra for a better seat.

BY SCOTT MAYEROWITZ

Associated Press

NEW YORK • If you're flying this summer, be prepared to kiss your family goodbye at the gate. Even if they're on the same plane.

Airlines are reserving a growing number of window and aisle seats for passengers willing to pay extra. That's helping to boost revenue but also making it harder for friends and family members who don't pay this fee to sit next to each other. At the peak of the summer travel season, it might be nearly impossible.

Buying tickets two or more months in advance makes things a little easier. But passengers are increasingly finding that the only way to sit next to a spouse, child or friend is to shell out $25 or more, each way.

With base fares on the rise — the average roundtrip ticket this summer is forecast by Kayak.com to be $431, or 3 percent higher than last year — some families are reluctant to cough up more money.

"Who wants to fly like this?" says Khampha Bouaphanh, a photographer from Fort Worth, Texas. "It gets more ridiculous every year."

Bouaphanh balked at paying an extra $114 roundtrip in fees to reserve three adjacent seats for him, his wife and their four-year-old daughter on an upcoming trip to Disney World.

"I'm hoping that when we can get to the counter, they can accommodate us for free," he says.

Airlines say their gate agents try to help family members without adjacent seats sit together, especially people flying with small children. Yet there is no guarantee things will work out.

Not everyone is complaining.

Frequent business travelers used to get stuck with middle seats even though their last-minute fares were two or three times higher than the average. Now, airlines are setting aside more window and aisle seats for their most frequent fliers at no extra cost.

"The customers that are more loyal, who fly more often, we want to make sure they have the best travel experience," says Eduardo Marcos, American Airline's manager of merchandising strategy.

For everybody else, choosing seats on airline websites has become more of a guessing game.

To travelers who haven't earned "elite" status in a frequent flier program, flights often appear full even though they are not. These casual travelers end up paying extra for an aisle or window seat believing they have no other option.

But as flights get closer many of the seats airlines had set aside for those willing to pay a premium do become available — at no extra cost.

"Airlines are holding these seats hostage," says George Hobica, founder of travel site AirfareWatchdog. "The seat selection process isn't as fair as it used to be."

Employees' Use of Cellphones While Driving Becomes a Liability for Companies

BY ASHLEY HALSEY III

The Washington Post

One was a lumber salesman who crippled a 78-year-old woman. Another was driving a toy company's van when he killed a college sophomore. When a cable company guy rammed a stopped car at 71 mph, a woman and her mother died. A driver in a company car didn't react when traffic slowed, re-arranging a Honda in a chain-reaction crash that killed a 32-year-old woman.

All four drivers were using their cellphones. At a time when the National Safety Council estimates that about one-quarter of all crashes involve cellphones or texting — about 1.2 million accidents a year — these four crashes had something else in common.

The companies that employed those drivers were sued. Distracted-driving lawsuits now are part of the legal landscape, and the lawyers who bring them are increasingly going after the deep pockets of corporations that let their employees talk or text while behind the wheel.

Juries are making it worth their while: One awarded $21.6 million to the Florida family of the Honda driver.

And a federal magistrate ordered an Alabama trucking company to pay $18 million for an accident that happened when one of its drivers reached for a cellphone.

Many corporations are eager to settle once they discover they are facing lawyers armed with the smoking gun of cellphone records.

The Arkansas lumber company whose salesman crippled the 78-year-old woman paid a $16.1 million settlement. And International Paper settled for $5.2 million after an employee on a cellphone caused a collision that cost a woman her arm.

Todd Clements, a Texas lawyer who sued the cable company for the accident that killed two women, thinks companies are wise to settle without a jury trial.

"People think there's a good defense here by saying, 'Everybody does it,'" Clements said. "Well, that's not true, because the jury doesn't want everyone to do it. They just want to do it themselves. It's a huge disconnect."

Facebook's Stock Down after IPO

Facebook's stock is tumbling well below its $38 IPO price in the social network's second day of trading as a public company on Monday. Facebook's stock finished at $34.03, down 11 percent from Friday's closing price of $38.23. The company lost nearly $10 billion of its market value, and is now worth around $96 billion, about $2 billion below Amazon.com Inc. "There must have been some sober second thoughts about this," said Brian Wieser, an analyst at Pivotal Research Group who was first to come out with a "Sell" rating on Facebook's stock on Friday.

Fort Hood Bomb Plot Suspect Masked in Court

WACO, Texas • A soldier accused of planning to bomb Fort Hood troops wore a mask in court for the first time Monday as jury selection began in his federal trial.

Pfc. Naser Jason Abdo has been accused of biting through his lip and spitting blood on a deputy U.S. marshal and a sheriff's deputy who were escorting him after a court hearing last month. Officials reported a previous blood-spitting incident on a jailer.

Abdo, 22, wore an oval mask over his nose and mouth Monday, while several U.S. marshals standing near him wore protective glasses.

McLennan County Sheriff Larry Lynch said he couldn't comment on why Abdo was wearing a mask, and a gag order prevents attorneys from discussing anything about the case publicly.

Sheriff: Gang Started Miss. Prison Riot

JACKSON, Miss. • A gang fight in a prison for illegal immigrants quickly escalated into a riot involving as many as 300 inmates, some lashing out with sticks or homemade knives as the uprising spread through the sprawling prison, a sheriff said.

A guard was beaten to death and at least 20 other people were injured. The riot began Sunday afternoon and lasted into the night, with inmates dragging mattresses and wood to an outdoor recreation yard to set ablaze, Adams County Sheriff Chuck Mayfield said.

While law enforcement agencies from several counties waited outside the Adams County Correctional Facility in Natchez, authorities inside responded with tear gas and tactical units. They slowly corralled the inmates into a yard and searched them. By 2:45 a.m. Monday, all prisoners were back in their cells and the prison was locked down.

Mayfield said it's not clear if the violence began within a gang or it was a dispute between rival groups, but "once it got started, it spread like wildfire."

The prison holds nearly 2,500 low-security inmates, with most serving time for coming back to the United States after being deported, said Emilee Beach, a prison spokeswoman. Some of the inmates have also been convicted of other crimes, but their offenses were not immediately clear.

The facility is owned by Nashville, Tenn.-based Corrections Corporation of America, one of the nation's largest private prison companies.

Obama: Allies on Course to End Afghan War

CHICAGO • President Barack Obama and leaders around the globe locked in place their exit path from the war in Afghanistan on Monday, affirming they will close the largely stalemated conflict at the end of 2014 but keep their troops fighting and dying there for two more years in the meantime.

Obama, presiding over a sprawling war coalition summit in his hometown, summed up the mood of all the nations by saying the Afghanistan that will be left behind will be stable enough for them to leave but still loaded with troubles.

Afghan forces for the first time will take over the lead of the combat mission by the middle of 2013, a milestone moment in a long, costly transition to control. Even as backups, though, U.S. forces and all the rest will face surprise attacks and bombings until the war's end.

"The timetable that we've established is a sound one," Obama insisted at a news conference. "Are there risks involved in it? Absolutely?"

Champlin, Mathews Sign With College of Idaho

The two Kimberly baseball stars played together in Little League.

BY STEPHEN MEYERS
smeyers@magicvalley.com

KIMBERLY • They were classmates in kindergarten and have been teammates since Little League, so it came as no surprise to family and friends that Kimberly seniors Seth Champlin and Clay Mathews will continue their baseball playing careers together.

Both are heading to the College of Idaho as Mathews has already signed his letter of intent to the NAIA school and Champlin expects to sign sometime this week.

“I yelled at Clay because he already signed his,” Champlin joked. “I was like, ‘Clay, we’ve got to do a big media thing and sign it together.’”

Mathews and Champlin have had their hearts set on playing for the College of Idaho since they began their college searches as juniors.

Each player reached out to the C of I coaching staff and in October they worked out with the Yotes coaching staff.

“I played with the team and they said I could play for them if I got accepted into the school,” said Mathews, who pitched and played shortstop for Kimberly and expects to play infield for the Yotes.

PLAYER SAFETY ON OWNERS’ AGENDA

BY BARRY WILNER
Associated Press

With the Saints bounty case moving to grievance hearings and court, NFL owners will talk about player safety when they meet on Tuesday.

The issue is on the agenda for the owners’ session in Atlanta, where Commissioner Roger Goodell is certain to be asked about Saints linebacker Jonathan Vilma’s defamation lawsuit against him. Meanwhile, Goodell’s authority for administering discipline is being challenged by the players’ union, Vilma and three other players suspended for their roles in the pay-for-hits system.

That’s the hot topic, but hardly the only topic. Owners also will discuss several bylaw changes that were tabled in March, including designating one player suffering a major injury before Week 2 of the season as eligible to return from injured reserve, and moving the trading deadline back two weeks to after Week 8.

Atlanta Falcons President Rich McKay, chairman of the competition committee, expects both measures to pass.

“There were good ideas and suggestions, no resistance,” he said at the last meetings. “We’ll work on the language.”

The language from the players punished in the bounty case has been strong and challenging of the league’s findings. Vilma’s lawsuit claims Goodell made false statements that tarnished the linebacker’s reputation and hindered his ability to earn a living playing football. Vilma has been suspended for the 2012 season.

The suit in U.S. District Court in New Orleans claims Goodell, “relied on, at best, hearsay, circumstantial evidence and lies” in making comments about Vilma while discussing the NFL’s bounty investigation.

The union filed a grievance with an arbitrator asserting that Goodell has no power to discipline players for actions that occurred before the league’s current labor agreement was signed last August.

Vilma and current Saints teammate defensive end Will Smith, plus former Saints Anthony Hargrove, a defensive end now with Green Bay, and Scott Fujita, a linebacker now with Cleveland, have appealed their suspensions. Smith got four games, Hargrove eight and Fujita three.

Their appeal asks another arbitrator to decide if the players should be punished for the system that the league says ran for three years and paid improper cash bonuses for hits that injured targeted opponents. The

See Ya, Stan

The Orlando Magic fired coach Stan Van Gundy on Monday and agreed to part ways with general manager Otis Smith.

Smith and Van Gundy’s relationship with Dwight Howard was the centerpiece of a soap opera that weighed down the franchise all season after the All-Star center requested a trade.

The Magic lost in the first round of the playoffs for the second straight year. Orlando went 37-29 in the regular season but was eliminated in five games by Indiana after a rash of late-season injuries that included back surgery for Howard. Orlando went 5-12 without him.

Van Gundy coached the Magic for five seasons. He finished with a 259-135 record, going 31-28 in the playoffs. NBA Roundup, S3

Jerome’s Nutsch Finds Her Calling with Vandal Track and Field

This Jerome graduate has gone from a walk-on to qualifying for this weekend’s NCAA Division I West Regional in the hammer throw.

BY STEPHEN MEYERS

MOSCOW • Sarah Nutsch still can’t believe it. She’s gone from a walk-on at the University of Idaho who had never thrown the hammer in her life, to getting ready to compete at this weekend’s NCAA Division I West Regional in Austin, Texas.

“It is crazy. I never thought that I was going to get this far,” said Nutsch, who travels to Texas with 12 teammates for the meet, which begins Thursday.

A 2008 Jerome graduate, Nutsch hadn’t even picked up a hammer — much less tossed one 100-plus feet — until she set foot on the Vandals’ campus as a bewildered, overwhelmed freshman.

You see, Nutsch was a pole vaulter in her early years on the Tigers’ track team. That wasn’t working out as well as she wanted it to, she said, so she was encouraged by the Jerome coaching staff her senior year to pick up the shot and discus.

She turned out to be a natural in the events, finishing second at the Class 4A state meet in the discus and sixth in the shot put.

Still, she hadn’t even thought about competing collegiately until her Jerome coach, Elmer Musgrave, dropped a note to Idaho head coach Julie Taylor and her husband, the Vandals’ throwing coach, Jim Taylor.

Manning Looks Good in Broncos’ First OTA Workout

The 14-year veteran participated in his first full practice in more than 16 months.

BY ARNIE STAPLETON
Associated Press

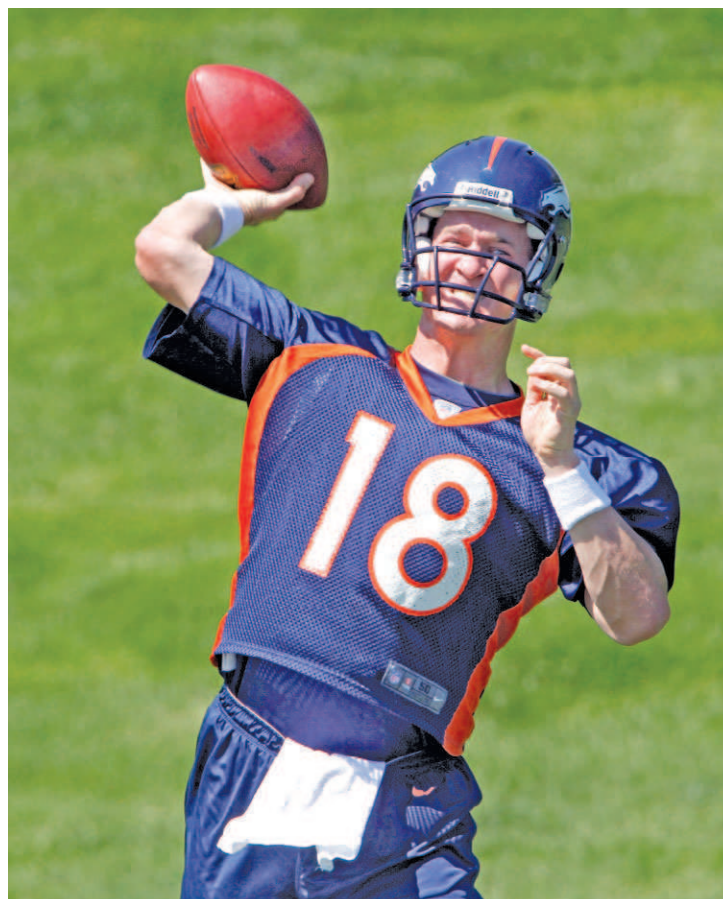

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. • His passes were hitting receivers in stride and right between the numbers, not skipping off the ground or whizzing behind their heads like so many of Tim Tebow’s.

The Denver Broncos got their first real taste of Peyton Manning on Monday with a spirited, fast-paced workout, the four-time MVP’s first full practice in more than 16 months.

“It felt good to be out there. It’s been a while for me,” Manning said. “It’s been about a year and a half since I’ve been in uniform, been in an organized practice. So, it felt good to be out there. And it will be a good film to study.”

Monday also was the first chance for the media to get a look at the progress Manning has made since a series of neck operations sidelined him all of last season and led to his release from the Indianapolis Colts.

And Manning looked great, showing zip and accuracy on his passes, comfort under center, complete command of his offense and no ill effects from the nerve injury that caused weakness in his throwing arm. “Man, it feels good to know he’s going to be on my side because what I saw today, he’s going to give us some good work,” star cornerback Champ Bailey said. “And we might not see a quarterback like that all year.”

Manning became the most prized free agent in NFL history following his release from the Colts after 14 seasons. His signing in Denver led to Tebow’s trade to the New York Jets, despite a thrilling run to the playoffs guided by the younger QB.

The Broncos and a handful of other suitors watched Manning throw during his whirlwind free agency tour in March, but before Monday, reporters had to rely on his receivers for updates on his progress. Manning had refused to talk about it.

“Well, you guys got to see him today,” tight end Jacob Tamme said.

And he looked like the Manning of old. His throws, most of which were intermediate, were strong and on target. His only deep pass was true, too, hitting Matthew Willis in stride before being broken up by cornerback Tracy Porter at the goal line.

Watching his pinpoint passes zip around Dove Valley, one never would have guessed he’d been forced to take a sabbatical and go under the scalpel multiple times

Moyer Appears in 50th Stadium as Rockies Lose

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MIAMI • Giancarlo Stanton hit a grand slam off Jamie Moyer in a five-run fourth inning, Mark Buehrle was dominant after a shaky first and the surging Miami Marlins beat Colorado 7-4.

Austin Kearns tied a career best with four hits for the Marlins, whose 15-5 record in May leads the majors.

Buehrle (4-4) worked 7 2-3 innings, giving up four runs and four hits in the first and one more hit the rest of the way. Heath Bell pitched the ninth for his sixth save in 10 chances.

Moyer (2-4) allowed nine hits and six runs in 3 2-3 innings in his debut at Marlins Park, the 50th big league stadium in which the 49-year-old has appeared during his career.

Troy Tulowitzki hit a two-run homer and Michael Cuddyer had a two-run double for the Rockies.

NATIONALS 2, PHILLIES 1 PHILADELPHIA

• Gio Gonzalez allowed three hits over six shutout innings and Ian Desmond homered and drove in both Washington runs to lead the Nationals to a 2-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies on Monday night.

Gonzalez (6-1), a former Phillies farmhand, struck out seven of the first nine batters and finished with nine strikeouts. That upped his total to 35 over his last four starts, all wins, in 25 innings.

Bryce Harper had two hits for Washington.

Sean Burnett came in with one out in the ninth after Nationals closer Henry Rodriguez allowed runners to reach second and third and escaped a jam to earn his second save. Ty Wigginton hit a sacrifice fly off Burnett, but Placido Polanco lined out with two on to end it.

Kyle Kendrick (0-4), making his second start in place of injured Vance Worley, allowed two runs and five hits in six innings. It was the third straight loss for the Phillies, who have dropped four of five to Washington this season and 12 of the last 15 meetings overall.

REDS 4, BRAVES 1 CINCINNATI

solo shots in a row by Cincinnati — and allowed only two hits over eight innings for a victory against Atlanta.

Drew Stubbs hit two of the career-high four homers allowed by Braves starter Mike Minor (2-4). All the runs scored on solo homers at one of the majors' most hitter-friendly ballparks.

Leake (1-5) finally got his first victory in eight starts this season, doing a little bit of everything. He struck out a season-high six and retired 14 in a row after Juan Francisco homered in the first inning.

PIRATES 5, METS 4 PITTSBURGH

• Neil Walker

scored on Clint Barmes' tiebreaking sacrifice fly in the eighth inning and Pittsburgh rallied against Johan Santana and the New York Mets.

Mike McKenry tied it with a two-run homer in the seventh off Santana and Walker made it all the way to third in the eighth when his long drive off Jon Rauch (3-3) glanced off the glove of center fielder Kirk Nieuwenhuis for an error and rolled to the wall. One batter later, Barmes hit a fly to right and Walker just beat the wide throw from Lucas Duda.

CARDINALS 4, PADRES 3 ST. LOUIS

• Tyler Greene hit a go-ahead, two-run homer in the eighth inning, trumping Jesus Guzman's two-run double in the top half, and St. Louis beat San Diego to snap a four-game losing streak.

Jaime Garcia allowed two runs in seven-plus innings for the injury-riddled Cardinals, who maintained their half-game lead in the NL Central over Cincinnati. St. Louis has won just three of its last 11.

Yadier Molina hit a broken-bat single with one out in the eighth off Andrew Cashner (2-3). With two outs, Greene homered to right-center for his third hit.

American League ROYALS 6, YANKEES

NEW YORK • Felipe Paulino blanked New York for the second time in a month, and Mike Moustakas and Jeff Francoeur hit two-run homers to lead the Kansas City Royals over the reeling Yankees 6-0 on Monday night.

New York's bats fizzled once again, going 0 for 13 with runners in scoring position with five strikeouts and a foulout. Booed repeatedly by their increasingly impatient fans, the Yankees lost for the sixth time in seven games and at 21-21 have their worst record at this point in the season since they started 20-25 in 2008 — the only time since 1994 that New York failed to make the playoffs.

RED SOX 8, ORIOLES 6 BALTIMORE

• David Ortiz homered in the sixth inning to start Boston's comeback from a three-run deficit, and the Red Sox got three hits from Will Middlebrooks in a victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Dustin Pedroia had two RBIs and Mike Aviles scored the go-ahead run in the seventh to help Boston secure its ninth win in 11 games. The Red Sox are tied with the New York Yankees in the AL East cellar but are at .500 (21-21) for the first time since April 30.

BLUE JAYS 6, RAYS 2 ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.

• Kyle Drabek overcame command issues to win for the first time on the road this season, Yonel Escobar hit a tiebreaking homer and the Toronto Blue Jays beat the Tampa Bay Rays.

Drabek (4-4), who entered 0-3 with a 5.23 ERA away from home, allowed two runs and three hits in six innings. The right-hander walked six, struck out three and had three wild pitches. Escobar put Toronto in front 3-2 on a solo homer off Jeremy Hellickson (4-1) in the sixth. Hellickson gave up five runs — two earned — and eight hits over 7 1-3 innings.

union argues that the arbitrator, Stephen Burbank, and not Goodell should hear the four players' appeals.

On other issues, the NFL has informally looked at further changes to kickoff returns, considered the most dangerous play in football. It already has altered the defenseless player rules to include offensive and defensive players, and there even have been suggestions about eliminating the three-point stance for line play. Equipment issues also could be discussed at these meetings, with a close eye on concussions. Dozens of lawsuits have been filed against the league by former players and their families claiming the league didn't warn them about the long-term effects of head trauma.

himself pitching for C of I.

"Honestly, I don't know what my role will be," Champlin said. "Whatever they want me to do, I'll do it and I'll do whatever it takes to get on the field."

Champlin and Mathews will join a successful College of Idaho program, which has gone 41-19 this season en route to qualifying for this weekend's NAIA World Series, which kicks off Friday in Lewistown.

The Yotes open the tournament against Point Park (Pa.) at 10 a.m. on Friday.

"They have a really good program and it feels great to know that I get to play for a few more years. Ever since Cal Ripken (league), I've wanted to go on and play college baseball," said Mathews, who will room with Champlin next year. "It's also pretty cool to keep playing with Seth."

since his last game, a wild-card playoff loss to the Jets in January of 2011.

"Oh, no. Absolutely not," Bailey said. "You know, it's not live, but from what I see right now, the guy hasn't missed a beat."

Coach John Fox said Manning's "getting better every day."

And so are the Broncos, on account of Manning's presence.

"He definitely raises all boats, that's for sure, and that's not just with the young players, (but also) the veterans," Fox said. "We're excited where that is and what's he's done to raise those boats."

Eric Decker and Demaryius Thomas and the other young receivers have all been refining their route-running so as not to endure Manning's famous wrath.

Nutsch

"He (Musgrave) asked me if I was interested in planning on going to college, which I was, but not really to do track," Nutsch said. "She (Julie) emailed me and I called her and we talked about the possibility of walking on."

Nutsch joined the team in the fall of 2008 and Julie had her throw all the events — the shot put, discus, hammer and javelin. It was the hammer for which she showed the most promise.

So Nutsch became a hammer thrower that fall.

"Honestly I was scared. It was a big decision and a great opportunity handed to me. I was 18 and I was scared," Nutsch said. "I was pretty much a new thrower. I didn't know what was going on."

She redshirted her freshman year, practicing with the team every day but unable to compete for the Vandals in competitions. Nutsch had days in practice where she would struggle with the new technique.

"It was just difficult. In high school, if I had struggled through a practice, I could just come home and talk to my parents about it. If practice didn't go the way I wanted it to here, I had to get through it," Nutsch said. "I had to grow. I had to grow on my own to make myself strong."

After her redshirt year, Nutsch returned the next fall for preseason conditioning stronger and more confident in her throwing technique. She opened up her hammer-throwing career with a toss of 140 feet in practice as a true freshman, but she improved steadily over the next two years, throwing 177 feet coming into this season.

Now, she has a personal-best toss of 187 feet, which she accomplished in late April at the Beach Invitational in Long Beach, Calif. That throw was good enough to land in the top 48 in the West Region, qualifying her for this weekend's NCAA preliminary meet.

"It was my last throw and coach told me to be very aggressive. I decided I would hold onto that sucker for as long as I could before letting it fly," Nutsch said. "They pulled the tape and everything and my heart just like dropped when I heard the distance. Right then, I knew I had a chance of making it to the first round of nationals."

Not bad for an athlete who didn't even earn a scholarship until her third year in the program, as a redshirt sophomore.

"It's crazy to think about that day four years ago, throwing the hammer the first time and now I'm making it to nationals," Nutsch said. "As a walk-on, a lot of people kind of undermine you. They say, 'Oh, you're just a walk-on. I'm on scholarship.' But I was thinking that I have just as much potential as anyone else and I knew I had the ability."

Nutsch's goal this weekend is to hit 190 feet, which inches her closer to the school record of 194 feet, 6 inches. Voted the women's team captain this season by her teammates, she said she plans on staying calm and throwing as if she has nothing to lose.

The top 12 combined marks from the West Regional and the East Regional in Jacksonville, Fla., qualify for the NCAA Championships June 6-9 in Des Moines, Iowa.

Though she's a long shot to make the NCAA Championships, Nutsch is proud of how far she's come since picking up a hammer for the first time nearly four years ago.

"I don't really think it's true. Here I am, within arm's reach of the school's record," Nutsch said. "It's been awesome!"

GARAGE SALE SEASON IS ON!

Place your garage sale ad in the Times-News. 6 lines of text, 3 days, $26. Deadline is Wednesday at 1:00pm.

IF MAY 22 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Your path ahead during the next four to six weeks may be filled with bliss if you remain realistic and keep your feet planted firmly on the ground. A romantic encounter could seem too good to be true so let time pass and be sure you can trust your feelings. Those who are not good for you will have a tough time getting too close, so use that as a measuring stick to gauge the benefits of a new person, situation or idea. This is a good time to interview for a new job or make an important change. Trouble and obstacles will be more likely to knock on your door in August or September. Plan ahead so that you won't be forced to make crucial changes or decisions then.

HOROSCOPE Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Ignore surface appearances; you know you can't judge a book by its cover. Your bright ideas might not illuminate all the dark corners. Handle your pennies carefully and wait to sign crucial agreements.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): All that is gold does not glitter; not all those who wander are lost. You don't need to be a member of the "Fellowship of the Ring" or a Tolkien devotee to recognize the difference between fact and fantasy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Some poems don't rhyme. You might be briefly disconcerted when what you consider beautiful doesn't imbue anyone else with a sense of wonder or when what you expect is not what you receive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Shift gears, don't grind them. People want to see results, not hear about your fabulous fantasies. Don't let frustrations, misunderstandings or a temporary disenchantment with others hold you back.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may dance to the beat of a different drummer. George Carlin once said, "Those who dance are considered insane by those who cannot hear the music." Forgive those who do not understand.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Discern and debate to distinguish the real issues. The difference between the facts and what you hope and wish them to be could be the difference between lightning and a lightning bug.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): In love, remember that deep roots are not touched by a frost. Old, reliable relationships will not be upset or overturned by passing stress. Social events might not be exciting, but can be enriching.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You can follow the words of Winston Churchill who said, "A pessimist sees the difficulty in every opportunity; an optimist sees the opportunity in every difficulty." Sidestep conflicts with a boss.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Fantasy is a way of understanding reality. Disneyland is a great place to visit because when you are ready for reality, you simply get back in your car and leave. Fantasy in daily life can't be escaped as easily.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): "Faith is taking the first step even when you can't see the whole staircase." A man named Martin Luther King Jr. said these words. They should encourage you to rise above discontentment today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): If you toss too many pennies in the wishing well, eventually your pockets will be empty. Hold off on completing transactions that involve major expenditures and avoid signing credit applications.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): HOLD OFF on key decisions. If you can't handle a relationship at its best, you surely won't be able to handle it at its worst. Your expectations might be much too high, so you could experience disappointment.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

Bobby Wolff

*“Of thee I sing, baby,
You have got that certain thing,
baby...”*

— Ira Gershwin

There is a lot of talk in the bridge press about the increasing average age of bridge players, and speculation about whether this signals the eventual death of our game. For the past 15 years or so, there has been an international series for Under-20s, and it is to their ranks that we must look for our players of the future.

The USA has been moderately successful in putting out decent teams in the schools categories, and the junior players of a decade ago are rising to the top in national events — but there is still a way to go.

Declarer in today’s deal from the UK was a then 18-year-old Ben Paske, playing with his 16-year-old brother, Tom.

Against three no-trump, West chose to lead his own heart suit rather than his partner’s spades. (A spade would have been no more successful.) Declarer ducked the first heart and won the continuation. He then tried the club ace and king. When that suit failed to break, marking West with the missing queen, declarer played a diamond to the king, a diamond to his jack and cashed the diamond ace and six.

Now all that was needed was to exit with the spade jack. East won his queen but had only spades left. When he played the spade king, declarer ducked. Now, East had no option but to lead another spade, allowing declarer to take the marked finesse for his ninth trick.

ANSWER: This one is a no-brainer. West doubled for takeout, which East converted to a penalty double. How much more unsuitable a dummy could you put down here? Remove to two clubs, and if you are wrong, you can tell your partner that you were playing the percentages with your action.

A BRAND NEW WAY TO SEARCH FOR YOUR NEW HOME

DEAR ABBY: I’m a 42-year-old woman who has been living with my boyfriend, “Matt.” He has asked me to marry him, and I said yes. The problem is, Matt is still married.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

Matt and his wife have been separated for eight years. I keep telling him to get in touch with her and see if she filed for divorce, but he keeps putting it off.

I really do love this man, Abby. Matt is good to me and to my children and grandchildren, but sometimes I don’t know what to think or do. I want us to buy a house, but I’m scared that if we do, she’ll try to take it from us. He says she wouldn’t. Please give me some advice.

— LADY IN WAITING IN LOUISIANA

DEAR LADY IN WAITING: I hate to be the bearer of bad news, but a marriage proposal from a man who is still married means nothing. I urge you to PLEASE consult a lawyer before putting money into any joint financial ventures with this man. He may be “good” to you, your children and grandchildren, but he hasn’t been completely forthright.

Your concerns are justified. Listen to your woman’s intuition. It’s sending you an important message.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, I adopted a dog from my local Humane Society. “Brandy’s” approximate age at the time of adoption was 16 years. I had two wonderful years with Brandy before he died.

What I would like to share with your readers is, when you consider adopting a pet, please don’t rule out an animal based strictly on age. Older animals can make excellent additions to a family. They deserve our love and kindness, too.

— MISSING BRANDY IN JUNEAU, ALASKA

DEAR MISSING: I’m sorry that you and Brandy were not able to have more years together, but bless you for sharing your heart and home with a pet that many might have overlooked.

Older animals can provide a great deal of love and joy. They also are usually housebroken — something to consider for anyone for whom puppyhood and adolescence might prove too destructive.

The local shelter is an excellent place to find a mature companion.

DEAR ABBY: The letters that have appeared in your column about safe driving prompt this one. I hope you will consider my experience worth sharing.

I have poor depth perception. I make adjustments for this problem and check the distance between me and the car in front of me by looking at the distance on the road and not at the car.

I began to notice that the cars coming at me were “fuzzy” and that I had to close one eye to have a clear image of them. Then I realized I was doing the same thing while watching television. I mentioned it to my optometrist, and she checked my eyes and found that I had double vision. The adjustment to my prescription was so slight that you would not notice it, but I can now see clearly with my new glasses.

— CLEARLY FOCUSED IN MINNESOTA

DEAR CLEARLY FOCUSED: Your letter was an eye-opener. Thank you for giving me the opportunity to remind readers to have their vision checked every year — and to report any changes in vision to the doctor immediately.
