Firefighters battle the Balanced Rock Fire on Sunday near Hagerman. The fire grew to 6,000 acres before U.S. Bureau of Land Management crews and other firefighters contained the blaze on Monday afternoon.

CASTLEFORD • This weekend, the Magic Valley was a tinderbox with three wildfires burning more than 6,500 acres of federal and state

Fire crews expected to have all the wildfires controlled by Monday mid-afternoon but a jump in fire activity throughout the night had crews working into the evening, said Kyli

Gough, a spokeswoman with the Bureau of Land Management. Late Monday, crews responded to a fire on private property outside King Hill.

The Balanced Road Fire west of Balanced Rock near Castleford began burning on Sunday afternoon and had damaged close to 1,100 acres as of Sunday night. By Monday, the fire had jumped close to 6,000 acres before fire crews had the fire fully controlled, Gough said.

Twin Falls Community Development Director Mitch Humble pointed out that the agreement with the developers goes beyond what is normally required for development.

That still didn't satisfy those concerned about the planned strip mall. The main argument: The Snake River Canyon is a unique asset to the community and should be preserved.

Many of those testifying questioned developers on why they decided to put the buildings' backs toward the canyon instead of following the lead of Canyon Park East, where the parking lot and building fronts face the canyon.

The council also approved the planned unit development agreement, as well as adopted an ordinance for a required zoning change.

The passages didn't come without dissent from the council. Councilwoman Rebecca Mills-Sojka agreed with many of those who testified that the beauty of the canyon should be preserved.

"I just don't think, from a community design standpoint, it makes sense to add more traffic and more dense development on the edge of the canyon rim," Mills-Sojka said.

Mayor Greg Lanting also had misgivings about putting the shopping center at the canyon.

"I want the people of Twin Falls to know that if this doesn't turn out, this is permanent," he said. "I don't want to be remembered as the person who voted for it."

Councilman Shawn Barigar pointed out that this property has been zoned and destined for commercial development for years. He said the undeveloped sage brush, dirt and lack of trails is a detriment.

Lanting voted against the PUD agreement, and Mills-Sojka voted against all three Canyon Park-related actions.

T.F. Council Holds off Raising Pool Rates

mdavlin@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • It might soon get spendier to swim in Twin Falls. On Monday, the Twin Falls City Council held a public hearing on a request to approve city pool rate increases.

YMCA managers requested 5 percent increases for monthly and annual pool. Daily admission fees would go up by 25 cents.

The rate increase would help pay for programs, expanded pool times and staff wages, said YMCA aquatics director John Pauley.

No members of the public came to the hearing, but council members took the opportunity to ask Pauley questions.

Initially, they were sympathetic to the pool's request. But they also expressed concern about the impact on families.

During discussion, Councilman Chris Talkington moved to only apply the daily admission increase to adults. The council voted down the amendment 3-4, with council members Shawn Barigar, Jim Munn, Suzanne Hawkins and Don Hall voting against it.

In the end, the council hesitated to raise rates without a full understanding of the budget and how the pool would be impacted without the rate increase.

"It's going to be very, very difficult for me to explain to the community why I voted to raise rates without a good understanding of the pool budget," Munn said.

The council didn't vote on the request, and may consider it at a later meeting.

Twin Falls Loses Power to All 4 Water Pumps

Residents asked to conserve water, not to water lawns.

TWIN FALLS • Strong winds have downed a major power line that powers pumps that feed the City of Twin Falls water system.

At about 10 p.m. Monday, city public works officials were notified that the four pumps that transfer water from the Blue Lakes to the city's water system were not functioning.

As of 11 p.m. Monday night, city officials said Idaho Power was on the scene, trying to repair the power line. However, strong winds made it difficult for crews to repair the power line.

"We are asking residents to turn off their sprinkler systems and conserve water," said city manager Travis Rothweiler. "Right now there is no time frame as to when they expect to restore power."

until he's nearly 50.

JEROME • If he plays his cards right, Taylor Cnossen could be living a fairly normal life in about a year. If not, he could be in prison

Cnossen, 20, was sentenced Monday for his part in robbing the Jerome Wendy's restaurant, allegedly with Nikolas Maria, 18, on Jan. 26.

Jerome County 5th District Judge John Butler sentenced Cnossen to a year in the state's retained jurisdiction program and said he would recommend him for the Therapeutic Community Rider Program, which will include intensive rehabilitation and education.

Butler went beyond the state's recommendation of 10 to 15 years in prison, sentencing Cnossen to 15 to 30 vears if he doesn't successfully complete the rider.

Jerome County Prosecutor Iohn Horgan argued Cnossen should go straight to prison. "This is robbery. A robbery using a gun and a knife," Horgan said.

The victim, Wendy's manager Kody Rumsfelt, who was alone the night of the robbery, had no way of knowing whether Cnossen and Maria intended to use their weapons on him, Horgan said.

Horgan said he was struck at how matter-of-fact Cnossen relayed his version of the facts in the case and said he was appalled at a pre-sentence investigator's recommendation that Cnossen be sentenced to the rider program. "This young man needs to go to prison for a long time," he said.

Defense attorney Loren Bingham said beyond this incident, Cnossen's record was free from felonies and the robbery marked a "stupid" but out-of-character time in his life.

Bingham said Cnossen had family support and noted his parents, sister and fiancé were all in the courtroom Monday morning.

"These people were shocked to disbelief that Taylor would be involved in this," Bingham said.

Before Butler gave his judgment, Cnossen told the court he regretted making the decision and said he would stay out of trouble.

"How can you promise me you'll stay out of trouble?" Butler asked.

Since being in jail, Cnossen said he's learned trouble isn't the way to go. He said he planned to go to church, stay away from drugs and alcohol, find full-time work and concentrate on making the right decisions.

Butler said he wanted to give Cnossen a chance to prove he can return to society, but spoke to him harshly.

"I'm struck by your age. I can't get beyond that," Butler said. "You're a selfish young man."

Cnossen must also pay $7,510 in court costs and fines along with $1,041 in restitution to Wendy's.

Maria is scheduled in court for a preliminary hearing in the case on Wednesday.

"We're protecting the area from development but ownership remains in the hands of private landowners," she said.

While development has been halted inside the SNRA, outside communities have benefited, said Lisa Horowitz, community and economic development director for the city of Ketchum.

"Ketchum almost serves as a portal," Horowitz said. "It's the last place for people to purchase supplies before heading up into SNRA."

Its location has also provided an opportunity for hotel and lodging business to thrive, Horowitz said.

Already this year, four new hotels have been approved in Ketchum and two existing hotels have been granted city funds for renovation, she said.

As SNRA prepares for another 40 years, developing partnerships will be critical for the area's sustainability, said Gary O'-Malley, executive director for the Sawtooth Society, a nonprofit dedicated to preserving and enhancing the SNRA.

Since its inception in 1994, the nonprofit spent close to $600,000 toward preserving trails and keeping the SNRA's lodge open, O'Malley said.

"Forty years ago, it was a momentous coming together and partnership to get SNRA started," O'Malley said. "The same type of partnership formed the bond between the SNRA and the Sawtooth Society. It's a unique situation for

However, he noted the current jail endangers prisoners and staff, making a solution critical. Voters shot down a $10.7

million construction proposal last month. That followed the first veto in 2009 and two more in 2010.

A majority of voters in each election favored taxing themselves to build a new jail, but the numbers didn't quite reach the required 66.7 percent supermajority needed for the bond issue to pass.

Commissioners briefly talked Monday about trying another vote in November. Roemer said she wasn't against considering the idea, although it would be better to analyze the "mood of the voters" before committing to that date.

"I'm not sure next November is the right time," she said. "There have to be more studies done."

He rattled off a list of problems with the 40-year-old jail, including electrical wiring hazards, plumbing issues, security risks, lack of housing for female prisoners and overcrowding.

Retrofitting the building would require gutting the structure, Leonard said, and that costly work would result in even fewer beds for prisoners than now exist. There is serious risk of fire from an overtaxed electrical system, he added. "Everywhere I go, all I see is electrical outlets overloaded with equipment that has to be run."

In addition, there is the risk of prisoners escaping or receiving contraband when they go outside to access the exercise area, Leonard said.

City: Refinancing Loans Will Save $1M

BY MELISSA DAVLIN mdavlin@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • The city of Twin Falls is refinancing two outstanding loans with the Idaho Department of Environmental Quality: One for $6.4 million for the water treatment plant and one for $8.5 million for the wastewater treatment plant.

The original loans were issued at a 4 percent interest rate, and the maturity date was 2022. Refinancing at a lower interest rate saves the city nearly a million dollars.

The Twin Falls City Council approved the refinancing on Monday at its weekly meeting. At the meeting, the council also awarded a $1.2 million contract to PMF Inc. for work on the intersection of Eastland Drive and Addison Avenue. The work, which is expected to start in mid-June and end in late summer, will close Eastland south of Addison during phase one, and reduce twoway traffic to one lane each way in phases two and three. Also Monday, the council appointed Dave Benefiel to the Traffic Safety Commission for a three-year term and granted a request to Amalgamated Sugar to build a a structural addition taller than what the city normally allows. The council also waived a requirement to install a sprinkler system for the addition, as the business requested.

Old Firefighting Plane Cause for Concern

BY BRIAN SKOLOFF AND SCOTT SONNER

Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY • Once a Cold War-era submarine attack plane, the Lockheed P-2V has for years been both a mainstay of the nation's aerial firefighting arsenal and a cause for concern.

Flying in the turbulent, unforgiving skies above raging wildfires, the planes have crashed at least seven times from either mechanical problems or pilot error, causing 16 deaths, dating back to 1990 when they were slowly added to the nation's firefighting fleet.

The latest crash in Utah that killed two pilots and a crash-landing by another one of the same planes in Nevada, both on Sunday, have renewed calls for the federal government to speed up efforts to modernize aircraft used to drop fire retardant.

All of it, just as the busiest part of the wildfire season begins in the West.

"As the air tanker fleet continues to atrophy, it's going to reduce the country's ability to get there early, which is why so many of these fires mushroom," Sen. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., chairman of the Forestry Subcommittee, said Monday.

Wyden led a push in March by a group of senators from the West to get the U.S. Forest Service to bring newer planes into service.

On Sunday, a tanker went down in western Utah as crews battled a lightningsparked wildfire that jumped the Nevada border about 150 miles northeast of Las Vegas.

Iron County Sheriff Mark Gower said Monday it appeared a wing tip hit the ground in a rocky canyon. The plane practically disintegrated, leaving a 600-yard debris field, he said.

Authorities said ground crews tried to keep the fire from overwhelming the wreckage to give officials enough time to confirm the pilots had died, but flames soon swept through.

The men's bodies were eventually recovered later in the day.

By Monday, the fire had grown to 8,000 acres with 15 percent containment, authorities said. Crews didn't expect full containment until Sunday.

The weekend weather was windy and hot, creating "explosive fire conditions," said Tom Harbour, the U.S. Forest Service's fire and aviation operations director. The terrain is rolling hills with pine, juniper and cheat grass, a thin wispy weed that carries fire quickly.

The plane, owned by Neptune Aviation Services of Missoula, Mont., was built in 1962, according to federal aviation records, but had been modified to fight fires and was among only a handful of air tankers available nationwide.

Another P-2V, this one owned by Minden Air Corp. in Minden, Nev., was fighting a wildfire south of Reno on Sunday. Its crash-landing at Minden-Tahoe Airport.

The government previously had relied primarily on C-130 cargo planes for firefighting efforts but started slowly adding P-2Vs to the fleet in the early 1990s, then began relying much more on the planes after two C-130 crashes in 2002.

The number of large firefighting aircraft has steadily dwindled since 2004, when the Forest Service grounded 33 air tankers after a number of high-profile crashes.

Two of those involved the wings falling off the aircraft as they were fighting fires.

Bank of America Begins Dismantling Tamarack Ski Lift

BY JOHN MILLER

Associated Press

BOISE • Just seven years after helping install the onemile-long Wildwood Express at Tamarack Resort, Paul Johnston is now pulling the $4 million high-speed chairlift off the mountain, the latest victim in the Idaho vacation getaway's financial collapse.

Bank of America's leasing division is paying Johnston, president of Highlander Ski Lift Services & Construction, to dismantle the lift after being stiffed by Jean-Pierre Boespflug, Tamarack's majority owner, when his money ran out in 2008.

Tamarack, 90 miles north of Boise, is now in foreclosure proceedings in state court, and Boespflug, a native Frenchman, disappeared last year.

Johnston has 22 years of experience building chairlifts - and occasionally taking them apart — and said he isn't celebrating this lift-repossession job just a few miles south of his U.S. headquarters in McCall, Idaho. But he concedes that he hated watching for the last three years as the Wildwood Express simply rocked idly in the wind.

"I'm in the ski lift business, not the ski lift removal business," Johnston told The Associated Press. "Ultimately, as sad as I am to remove it, it's sadder to see a large $4 million machine sit there and grow cobwebs. There are a lot of interested parties. It's like buying a used car. It's a lot cheaper, but it's a used car with very low miles?

Some Tamarack lifts operated on a limited basis in 2011 and 2012, but Wildwood's haven't whisked

The Wildwood Express's main cable has already been spooled onto big reels, while its four-person chairs are snugly in boxes, awaiting comment.

Johnston estimates that he'll be finished with everything in a couple of months, leaving only concrete foundations. He's still waiting on the helicopters he needs to tow off 18 lift towers extending 1,700 vertical feet up the mountain.

"It's fire season," Johnston said. "We're having a tough time getting helicopters

IDAHO BRIEFS

Judge Denies Execution Delay for Inmate

BOISE • A federal judge has denied the latest request to delay the execution of Idaho death row inmate Richard

The ruling issued Monday was part of a federal lawsuit filed in April by Leavitt and three other death row inmates over Idaho's newest lethal injection procedures. Leavitt, who is scheduled to be put to death next Tuesday, has at least one other appeal pending in federal court.

U.S. District Judge Edward J. Lodge noted the nearing execution date, narrowing his decision Monday only to Leavitt's claims. No execution dates have yet been scheduled for the other three plaintiffs - Thomas E. Creech, James H. Hairston, and Gene Stuart.

Lodge says those inmates will have additional time to respond to a motion from state officials seeking to dismiss the case.

Police Investigate Vehicle Fires

MERIDIAN • Authorities in southwestern Idaho say several vehicles in a Meridian neighborhood were set on fire late last week in what appears to be arson.

Police Sgt. Brian Caldwell says four vehicles were set ablaze and three were damaged beyond repair.

KTVB-TV reports PJ Chapman is among residents who awoke early Friday morning to find their vehicles had been set on fire. Chapman's pickup truck was destroyed and down the street, a sport utility vehicle was also targeted. Some residents in the neighborhood say they usually leave their car doors unlocked at night, and police say that may have aided in the arson. Officers who investigated found all of the vehicles that were burned had unlocked doors.

Idaho Reaches Settlement with Insurer Aflac

BOISE • State officials say Idaho will receive $200,000 as part of a regulatory settlement with the insurer Aflac

On Monday, the Idaho Department of Insurance said Aflac will have to submit compliance reports to the state every six months as part of the agreement.

The agency says the settlement followed an extensive examination of Aflac practices that identified several areas of concern, including the handling of client claims, among other issues. Other alleged problems were found with practices and cross-border sales.

Police to Return Special Tricycle to Boise Man

BOISE • Police say a Boise man with special needs will be reunited with a customized tricycle that served as his only mode of transportation until it was stolen a month ago.

Brian Gorman reported the recumbent tricycle missing in early May, saying it had been taken from the tree where he usually locks it. Boise police later found several pieces of the bike in at least two separate locations.

The Idaho Statesman reports police helped repair the tricycle, which is valued at $3,000, and it will be returned Monday to Gorman.

Baby Moose Gets Lost in Rexburg

REXBURG • A baby moose was reunited with its family after getting lost in the southeastern Idaho town of Rexburg.

State wildlife officials say the moose calf appeared to be less than a week old and was found at an apartment complex late last week. The calf's mother and twin sister had been spotted earlier that day at a storage facility in

The Rexburg Standard Journal reports the moose were reunited at a wildlife area in Fremont County.

Idaho Department of Fish and Game officer Andrew Sorensen said he appreciated the public's help in notifying wildlife officials about the moose family's predicament, citing two tips that were called in that day.

Jury Selection to Begin in Jerry Sandusky Trial

BY GENARO C. ARMAS

Associated Press

BELLEFONTE, Pa. • Picking 12 people to decide Jerry Sandusky's fate in the child-molestation case that brought down coach Joe Paterno and scandalized Penn State could prove a monumental task in a county where practically everyone went to the university, works there, knows someone there or is a fan of the football team.

Jury selection is set to begin Tuesday in the case against Sandusky, the 68-year-old former assistant Penn State football coach accused of sexually abusing 10 boys over 15 years. The proceedings will take place in Bellefonte, about 10 miles from State College, home of the university.

The prosecution and defense will have to Sandusky find jurors who say under oath they can be impartial - potentially a tall order given the extraordinarily heavy news coverage of the scandal, the area's strong connections to Penn State, and the wide reach of the youth charity Sandusky ran.

Whether those Penn State ties work to the advantage of the defense or the prosecution remains to be seen.

Prosecutors, though, were so concerned that they asked Judge John Cleland to bring in prospective jurors from another county.

Cleland rejected the request but said he would reconsider if a jury isn't selected in a reasonable amount of time.

The proceedings will begin with a pool of 200 prospective jurors out of a county of 154,000 people. They will be questioned about their feelings about Sandusky and the case, and about any personal ties to the opposing lawyers or to the defendant, who for more than 30 years ran a charity in State College where prosecutors say he met his young

The defense opposed bringing in an out-of-town jury.

Edward Schwartz, a jury consultant in Lexington, Mass., said he suspects the defense will try to shape the case in such a way that the jury will take out its frustration about Paterno's firing and Penn State's tarnished image on the prosecutors who brought the charges.

There's risk in such a strategy, however: The jury could instead blame Sandusky for "single-handedly bringing down the reputation of an institution they love and they feel an attachment to;" Schwartz said.

Officials: CIA Drone Strike in Pakistan targets al-Qaida's No. 2 WASHINGTON (AP) • A

CIA drone strike Monday targeted al-Qaida's second in command, Abu Yahia al-Libi, in Pakistan, but it was unclear whether he was among those hit, U.S. officials said.

Fewer than five people were hit in two days of strikes in Pakistan during a period of a half-dozen strikes in less than two weeks, as the U.S. pushed ahead with the controversial drone program despite Pakistani demands to stop. The officials spoke on condition of anonymity to describe the classified drone program.

U.S. officials said they did not know yet whether al-Libi was among those killed, but said they were 'optimistic."

The White House maintains a list of terrorist targets to be killed or captured, compiled by the military and the CIA and ultimately approved by the president.

Poll: More NYC adults against ban on large sugary drinks

NEW YORK (AP) • About half of New Yorkers say Bloomberg's proposed ban of sugary drinks over 16 ounces from the city's eateries is an example of government going too far, while 42 percent say it would be good health policy, according to a poll released Monday.

Of the 500 adults surveyed Sunday for the NY1-Marist poll, 53 percent said the proposal is a bad idea, while 42 percent praised the concept - which would make New York the first American city to so directly attempt to limit portion sizes in an attempt to fight obesity. Forty-five percent of those polled said they think the ban would help people lose weight, while 52 percent said it wouldn't make a difference.

Last week, Bloomberg proposed limiting portion sizes of sugary drinks to 16 ounces at the city's restaurants, delis, food trucks, movie theaters and sporting arenas. Regular soda and sports drinks would be affected, while diet sodas wouldn't. Any drink that's more than half milk or more than 70 percent juice would be exempt.

Schools Turn Their Noses up at 'Pink Slime'

NEW YORK • The nation's school districts are turning up their noses at "pink slime," the beef product that caused a public uproar earlier this year.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says the vast majority of states participating in its National School Lunch Program have opted to order ground beef that doesn't contain the product known as lean finely textured beef.

Only three states — Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota – chose to order beef that may contain the filler.

The product has been used for decades and federal regulators say it's safe to eat. The filler is made of fatty bits of beef that are heated then treated with a puff of ammonia to kill bac-

Israel Asks Arabs to Open Emails at Airport

JERUSALEM (AP) • When Sandra Tamari arrived at Israel's international airport, she received an unusual request: A security agent pushed a computer screen in front of her, connected to Gmail and told her to "log in."

The agent, suspecting Tamari was involved in pro-Palestinian activism, wanted to inspect her private email account for incriminating evidence. The 42-year-old American of Palestinian descent refused and was swiftly expelled from the country.

Tamari's experience is not unique. In a cyber-age twist on Israel's vaunted history of airport security, the country has begun to force incoming travelers deemed suspicious to open personal email accounts for inspection, visitors

Targeting mainly Muslims or Arabs, the practice appears to be aimed at rooting out visitors who have histories of pro-Palestinian activism, and in recent weeks, has led to the expulsion of at least three American women.

It remains unclear how widespread the practice is.

However, asked about Tamari's claims, the Shin Bet security agency confirmed she had been interrogated and said its agents acted in accordance with the law.

Israel has a long history of using ethnic profiling, calling it a necessary evil resulting from its bitter experience with terrorist attacks. Arab travelers and anyone else seen as a risk are often subjected to intense questioning and invasive inspections, including strip searches.

The security procedures appear to be getting stricter: Recent searches of journalists at official events have been invasive enough to create a series of mini-uproars and walkouts — a situation that has dovetailed with increasing concerns that the government is trying to stifle dissent.

Diana Butto, a former legal adviser to the Palestinian Authority and a fellow at the Harvard Kennedy School of Government, said the policy of email checks, once used sporadically, appears to have become more widespread over the past year.

Butto said agents typically want to see people's itineraries, articles they have written or Facebook status up-

When Tamari refused to log in, she said, an interrogator told her, "'Well you must be a terrorist. You are hiding something."

Tamari said she was searched, placed in a holding cell and flown back to the U.S. the following day.

"The idea that somebody my age, a Quaker, on a peace delegation with folks from the U.S., would be denied entry – that never crossed my mind,"

Wis. Recall Finally Goes to Voters

Gov. Scott Walker is only the third governor in U.S. history to face a recall vote; Wisconsin voters will decide his fate today in the polls.

BY SCOTT BAUER

Associated Press MADISON, Wis. • The battle over Gov. Scott Walker's agenda has attracted millions of dollars from out of state, campaign volunteers from across the country and months of concentrated attention from the two major political parties. But today, the only voices that matter will be those of Wisconsin voters deciding whether to keep Walker or fire him and hand his job to the Milwaukee mayor. After more than a year in the national spotlight, both sides are preparing for a razorthin margin.

Polls show Walker, a Republican just 17 months into his term, with a small lead over Democrat Tom Barrett.

"You know what distresses me?" state Sen. Mark Miller said to a group of Democratic volunteers last week in Madison. "It's close. It's so darn close?

During Monday's first campaign stop, Walker said he expects a close race, too, and he's focused on turning out voters who supported his efforts to take on publicemployee unions.

"We want to move on and move forward," Walker said at a plastics plant near Madison. He was joined by his wife, Tonette, who wore a button that read "Luv My Gov."

Walker is only the third governor in U.S. history to face a recall vote. The other two lost, most recently California Gov. Gray Davis in 2003. Wisconsin's recall election is a rematch of the 2010 governor's race in which Walker defeated Barrett by 5 percentage points.

Walker's lieutenant governor, Rebecca Kleefisch, and three Republican state senators also face recall votes today. In addition, voters will fill a fourth state Senate seat after the Republican incumbent resigned rather than face the recall.

Anger over Walker and his conservative agenda began building almost as soon as he took office in January 2011. Just a month into his term, Walker took the state by surprise with a proposal to effectively end collective bargaining rights for most state workers. The recall idea emerged soon thereafter.

But the recall petition drive couldn't officially start until November, months after Walker signed the union changes into law. Organizers hit the streets a week before Thanksgiving and spent two months gathering more than 900,000 signatures about 360,000 more than were needed to trigger the election.

Grim Search for Dead After Nigerian Crash

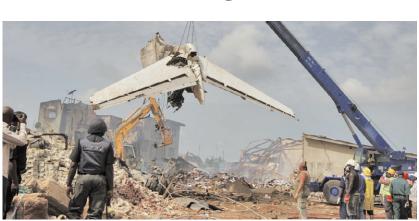

BY JON GAMBRELL Associated Press

LAGOS, Nigeria • A crane hoisted the tail section of a commercial jet from the smoldering debris of a shattered neighborhood Monday in a search for the dead from a crash that killed all 153 people aboard and an unknown number on the ground.

Apartment buildings, small businesses and roadside shops were smashed to bricks and rubble Sunday when the Dana Air MD-83 plowed into the area about five miles short of Lagos' Murtala Muhammed International Airport.

Pilots on the flight from Nigeria's capital Abuja to its largest city of Lagos radioed the tower that they had engine trouble shortly before the crash, but the exact cause remained unclear. The weather was clear at the time.

Nigerian President Goodluck Jonathan wept as he visited the Iju-Ishaga neighborhood, where emergency workers wore masks to block the stench of the dead and the acrid smoke. A backhoe clawed at the debris looking for the dead.

A crane lifts up the tail of a crashed commercial airplane in Lagos, Nigeria, Monday.

Jonathan pledged to make air travel safer, but the crash called into question the government's ability to protect its citizens and enforce regulations in a nation with a history of aviation disasters. By nightfall, searchers with police dogs recovered 137 bodies, including those of a mother cradling an infant, according to Nigeria's National Emergency Management Agency. Rescuers acknowledged they still didn't know how many people died in the wrecked apartments and smaller tin-roofed buildings along the narrow streets of Iju-Ishaga. "The fear is that since it happened in a residential area, there may have been many people killed," said Yushau Shuaib, a federal emergency management spokesman.

Some U.S. citizens were aboard the flight, State Department spokesman Mark Toner said, but he could not provide a firm number.

The Oakton, Va. resident was arrested last year, along with former stock trader Garrett Bauer of New York and a third man, in what the U.S. Attorney's Office characterized as a scheme out of the 1987 movie "Wall Street" which coined the phrase "greed is good."

Starbucks Buys Bakery to Improve Food Offerings

Shows Dissent against Execs

NEW YORK (AP) • Wal-Mart's final shareholder vote for its board of directors showed unprecedented dissent against key executives and board members, including CEO Mike Duke,

All of the company's nominees were re-elected. But the rise

According to results released by Wal-Mart Monday, 13 percent of the 3.4 billion shares were voted against the re-election of Duke to the company's board. Nearly 13 percent went against Chairman Robson Walton, the son of founder Sam

Walton, and 15.6 percent went against former CEO Lee Scott. A little over 13 percent of the shares were cast against Christopher Williams, CEO of The Williams Capital Group.

in votes against key leaders underscores how the bribery case could distract the world's largest retailer as it tries to continue

The Seattle-based coffee shop chain says baked goods from La Boulange will start replacing its current lineup early next year, starting with iconic French pastries such as the croissant.

Starbucks also says it plans to make the San Francisco-area bakery into a national presence in the years ahead.

"We'll take it one store at a time, starting in metropolitan areas around the U.S. where there's demand," said Cliff Burrows, president of Starbucks Americas.

For now, Burrows said the primary objective of the deal is to meet growing customer expectations in terms of food quality.

Food has become an important part of Starbucks' revenue stream in recent years, with the segment now generating $1.5 billion a year. About a third of the purchases in its U.S. locations include a food item.

La Boulange, which also serves salads and sandwiches in a casual sit-down setting, has 19 locations in the Bay Area.

The deal positions Starbucks to enter a fast-growing segment of the restaurant industry currently dominated by Panera Bread Co., which offers freshly baked bread, sandwiches and salads in a sit-down setting for slightly higher prices than most fast-food chains. St. Louis-based Panera has about 1,500 locations, up from about

1,000 five years ago. Sales have grown by 73 percent over that same time, according to food industry researcher Technomic Inc.

With the acquisition of La Boulange, Starbucks says it hopes to popularize the French bakery experience in the U.S. the same way it brought the experience of the Italian espresso bar to the masses.

"After more than 40 years, we will be able to say that we are bakers too," CEO Howard Schultz said in a statement.

statement.

The acquisition of Bay Bread LLC, the parent company of La Boulange, is expected to close in the fourth quarter and dilute Starbucks' earnings by 2 cents per share in the second half of the fiscal year. For the full year, Starbucks has said it expects earnings per share to be between $1.81 and $1.84.

As Starbucks faces increasing competition from fast-food chains serving specialty coffees, the company has increasingly tried to increase its profits through an expanding mix of consumer products, such as its ice cream and Tazobranded K-Cup portion packs.

This holiday season Starbucks plans to sell a single-cup coffee machine called Verismo that lets people brew lattes and other drinks at home. And moving beyond its iconic cafes, the company earlier this year announced plans to open its first Evolution Fresh Inc. juice store.

Starbucks shares rose $1.75, or 3.4 percent, to close at $53.90. They fell $1.40 or 2.6 percent in after-hours trading following the announcement of the La Boulange deal.

Economic Outlook Darkens After Jobs Report

WASHINGTON (AP) • Faced with a fizzling job market, many economists have turned more pessimistic and no longer think U.S. economic growth will accelerate later this year.

Friday's surprisingly bleak jobs report for May followed a spate of weak U.S. economic datalast week. Manufacturing activity slowed, an index of home contracts fell and consumer confidence tumbled. Mounting troubles in Europe and elsewhere have heightened economists' concerns.

Julia Coronado, an economist at BNP Paribas in New York, said she now expects growth of 2.2 percent this year, down from her previous forecast of 2.4 percent. She also revised down her estimate of growth in the April-June quarter to a 2.2 percent annual rate, from a 2.5 percent rate.

"We keep hoping that we're going to turn a corner and move into a stronger phase of recovery, and the door keeps getting slammed shut," Coronado said nado said.

After the jobs report Friday, JPMorgan Chase sharply reduced its growth forecast for the July-September quarter to a 2 percent annual rate, down from 3 percent. It cited the weaker U.S. hiring and a likely drop in U.S. exports related to slower growth overseas.

And JPMorgan Chase now forecasts growth of 2.1 percent for 2012, down from 2.3 percent.

bank UBS have also marked down their expectations since Friday's jobs report.

As a general rule, it takes about 2.5 percent growth to generate enough hiring to keep up with population growth and prevent the unemployment rate from rising. The reduced forecasts suggest that hiring may not strengthen much this year.

After months of fitful expansion since the recession ended three years ago, many analysts had expected the economy to begin strengthening steadily.

Last month, the National Association for Business Economics said its latest survey of economists found rising expectations for job gains and housing construction. And in April, the Federal Reserve raised its forecast for growth this year to nearly 2.7 percent, from a January estimate of 2.5 percent.

Now, it looks as if the recovery is stumbling again.

The biggest blow was Friday's jobs report. It said employers added only 69,000 jobs in May, the fewest in a year. The government also said far fewer jobs were added in the previous two months than first thought — 11,000 fewer in March and 38,000 fewer in April. And the unemployment rate rose to 8.2 percent from 8.1 percent, the first increase since last June.

Less hiring means fewer Americans have money to spend. That holds down consumer spending, which drives about 70 percent of the economy and helps fuel job growth. And a rising unemployment rate tends to reduce confidence. That can further shrink spending.

Kids Could Someday Get on Facebook, without Lying

NEW YORK (AP) • Though Facebook bans children under 13, millions of them have profiles on the site by lying about their age.

The company is now testing ways to allow those kids to participate without needing to lie. This would likely be under parental supervision, such as by connecting children's accounts to their parents' accounts.

Like many other online services, Facebook prohibits kids under 13 because federal law requires companies to obtain parental consent if they want to collect infor-they want to collect information about those children. Such information collection is central to Facebook. Every photo or status update a kid posts on Facebook could count as information collection. Many companies consider the parental-consent requirement too burdensome, so they simply ban all children under 13 instead

But that ban is difficult to enforce. In many cases, parents themselves help children skirt it by setting up profiles for them and lying about their ages. There are an estimated 7.5 million kids under 13 on Facebook, out of more than 900 million users worldwide.

900 million users worldwide. In a statement, Facebook noted that many recent reports have highlighted "just how difficult it is to enforce age restrictions on the Internet, especially when parents want their children to access online content and services."

"We are in continuous dialogue with stakeholders, regulators and other policymakers about how best to help parents keep their kids safe in an evolving online environment," the company said.

Few details are available on the nature of Facebook's tests, which The Wall Street Journal reported on in Monday's editions. Relaxing the ban on younger children could be a long way off, or never get implemented, as happens with many features that Facebook tests.

that Facebook tests.
The report comes just two weeks after Facebook began trading stock as a public company. Its stock price has fallen in part because of concerns about its ability to keep increasing revenue and make money from its growing mobile audience.

To James Steyer, the CEO of the nonprofit Common Sense Media, Facebook's discussions on permitting young kids to join is about expanding its audience — and profits. "With the growing concerns and pressure around Face-book's business model, the company appears to be doing whatever it takes to identify new revenue streams and short-term corporate profits to impress spooked shareholders," Steyer said in a statement.

GOP Running Away from Green Legacy

itt Romney certainly has his weaknesses as a candidate, but his biggest challenge in attracting independent swing voters will be overcoming a well-earned reputation for saying whatever the Republican base wants to hear. Having watched him in the primaries, you have to wonder whether there is any issue in which he would turn to the far-right in his party and say: "I'm sorry. You have this wrong. Here's the hard truth..."

One place he could start to change that perception is with the issues of energy, conservation and the environment. In recent years, the GOP base has fallen into a knee-jerk "drill, baby, drill" attitude that clean energy is for sissies and protecting the environment only hurts jobs, therefore, conservatism and conservation can't mix. Last week, Romney traveled to a remote coal-mining town, Craig, Colo., where he trashed President Barack Obama's green jobs record, while addressing workers wearing caps that said "Coal(=)Jobs." Yes, it does, for lung doctors.

This obsession with coal and oil strikes me as wrongheaded for three reasons. First, there is a more intelligent conservative energy strategy: a campaign to develop an energy mix that is "American, diverse and clean." Put the GOP behind whatever fuel sources or technologies the marketplace produces - be they natural gas, wind, wave, solar, nuclear, efficiency, biofuels or sequestered coal - provided they're produced in America, give us diversity of supply and steadily move us to cleaner air.

Second, this slavish devotion to coal and oil, and sneering at environmentalism, contradicts the GOP's long tradition of environmental stewardship that some Republicans are still proud of: Teddy Roosevelt bequeathed us national parks, Richard Nixon the Clean Air Act and the Environmental Protection Agency, Ronald Reagan the Montreal Protocol to protect the ozone layer and George H.W. Bush cap-and-trade that reduced acid rain.

Does the GOP really think it will attract the idealism of next-generation voters with mottos like "Coal(=)Jobs"? And, finally, the GOP's Tea Party base has grown more hostile than ever to conservation just when some big conservation groups have redefined their missions - from protecting nature for its own sake, a noble goal, to also protecting our "natural infrastructure" that provides jobs, food and securi-

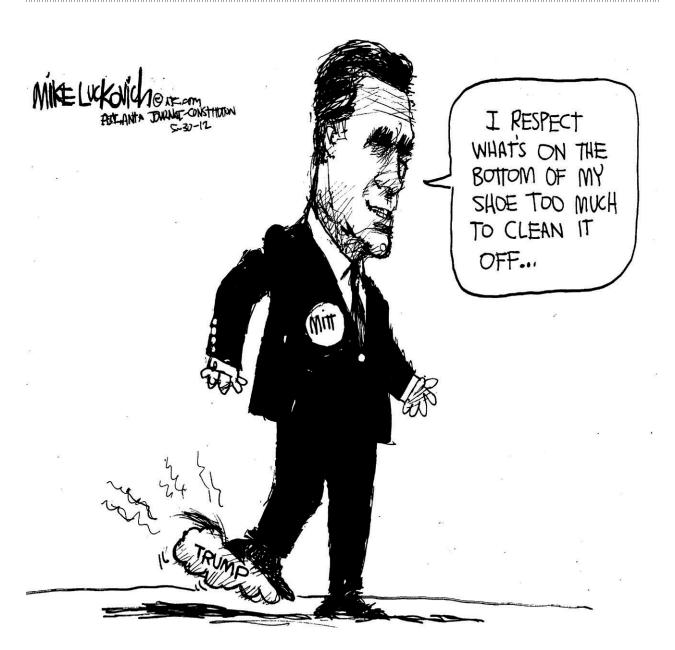

The conservancy has broadened its emphasis from buying up natural land and locking it away so it can never be despoiled to building lasting economic partnerships between those who control "natural infrastructure" and those who benefit from it - so both will have the interest and means to preserve it. For instance, the conservancy is working with cities in South America to organize large groups of water users - bottling plants, hydroelectric dams and water utilities - to finance the protection and restoration of watersheds upstream from their facilities. Planting trees that hold water like a sponge or protecting forests and natural vegetation that keep pollutants out of the water and prevent runoff is a much cheaper and more effective way to conserve water than building more reservoirs or treatment plants. And paying those upstream to protect this natural infrastructure gives them a sustainable means to do so.

Meanwhile, Conservation International (my wife is on the board) was founded 25 years ago to preserve biodiversity in the world's greatest ecosystems. But some three years ago, explained its co-founder Peter Seligmann, "we realized that despite our intensive efforts to protect biodiversity, extinction rates were accelerating, fisheries were collapsing and the climate was changing. Just putting wilderness lands away in the conservation pantry was not going to work because, as people were more threatened, they would just grab it."

So, said Seligmann, "we officially changed our mission from protecting biodiversity alone to supporting human well-being by restoring and maintaining ecosystems that provide services to humanity." Once you show what healthy ecosystems provide for people, "conservation" takes on a whole new meaning: healthy farms depend on pollinators, healthy rivers on the forests that filter the water and prevent soil erosion, healthy fishing grounds on preserving the coral reefs where fish spawn, healthy coastal areas on the reefs and mangroves that blunt storm surges, $healthy \ hydroelectric \ power \ on \ water \ from \ cloud \ forests.$ Good stewardship of natural infrastructure(=)jobs, security, food and water. That's why conservationists and conservatives actually have more in common than ever today, depending on how Republicans define "conservative." They can run away from a proud legacy of environmental stewardship by defining "conservative" as aligning the GOP with the cheapest dirty fuels and dying industries and do whatever their lobbyists dictate. Or they can define "conservative" as protecting our natural infrastructure to promote clean growth - in the spirit of Teddy Roosevelt and press for the cleanest fuel mix U.S. technology can produce. Over to you, Gov. Romney.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Supreme Court Must Distinguish Protections from Financing

On May 31, George Wills had the chutzpah to opine that "Reasons for the Supreme Court to reconsider Citizens United are non-existent." Not arguable, not weak, but "non-existent." Recall it was a sharply divided 5 to 4 ruling, utterly predictable given the transparent political leanings of recent Justices. The same day, a major AP story reported counter arguments articulated by former Justice John Stevens, including ones advanced by conservatives in subsequent cases.

Wills' derogation of the hypothetical ignored Jeffery Toobin's May 21 New Yorker autopsy of perhaps history's worst days of oral arguments before the Supreme Court (http://www.newyorker.co m/reporting/2012/05/ 21/120521fa_fact_toobin?pr intabletrue). The Atlantic Wire's John Hudson hinted that a politically-charged uncollegial court backdrop was Justice Roberts' motivation for preventing publication of Justice Souter's thermonuclear dissent, rumored to air SCOTUS laundry regarding elevation of political over legal agendas (http://www.theatlanticwire.com/politics/2012/05/how-justicesouter-almost-leftsupreme-court-blaze-glory/52300/).

Stevens noted that SCO-

TUS rejected a free speech challenge from humanitarian aid groups when protection could benefit terrorist organizations: "the fact that proposed speech would indirectly benefit a terrorist organization provided sufficient basis for denying First Amendment protection." Stevens noted several categories of "nonvoters" are denied identical consideration and protection based upon free speech; thus, if some "nonvoters" are not treated identically, congress can determine which categories are covered. SCOTUS earlier this year upheld lower court rulings preventing non-citizen contributions to federal elections, therefore "identity of some speakers may provide a legally acceptable basis for restricting speech," i.e. contributions.

A friend recently said "I'll believe corporations are people when Texas executes one." Crude, but direct. Individual billionaires as much as corporations can corrupt democracy. It is time The Court and Constitution distinguish modern first amendment protections from political financing. Stevens pointed out that debates are not and should not be auctions. Voters should read and consider supporting the proposed Constitutional amendment to correct this absurd situation (http://www.sanders.senate.gov/petition/?uidf1c26 60f-54b9-4193-86a4

Corruption Intimidation Turning Idaho into Police State

Hi, I am Mandy and I am desperate to draw attention to the very real atrocities being employed by the police and judicial representatives of Jerome not to mention several other counties. They appear to be using terrorist-style tactics against their own citizens simply to show their supremacy and maintain a fear-based hold over single mothers and lower-income level citizens. I feel the fact that more than 50 percent of Idaho revenue is taken in by the judicial system is reason for the people to be frightened. The level of corruption throughout our so-called justice system in this region is just bone chilling; I would appreciate the opportunity to shine some light on the situation, the numerous examples just I alone have personally witnessed would make any one's stomach

I would appreciate any feedback and or instruction on how to have these issues brought out in the media. I am hoping that with just a little public awareness we could perhaps keep the "good ole' boy's club" law enforcement band on up the chain from making Idaho a police state. We are already so close to slipping over that line as it stands and I don't think most of us even realize.

Thank you for your time and please, if you can offer any support or advice, I would be most grateful and assure you the story I have to tell would shock and terrify people into taking action.

I know it certainly has

ONLINE COMMENTS

In response to the "Reader Comment: Public Must Speak for the Canyon," one Magicvalley.com reader wrote:

SnakeRiver: "Build, baby, build! The canyon is beautiful, but so is the prospect of bringing in more jobs and taxes for the city. The scenery of the canyon, though breathtaking, cannot and will not bring to Twin what this development will bring. Twin Falls is a growing community. Chobani is coming (it's here, actually) and other businesses will follow. We are growing up, folks. No longer are we a dusty little town of farmers. We are an up and coming community...."

Online readers also responded to the "Letter to the Editor: Times-News Should Not Be Charging to Read Its Website:"

SKC_ID: "The Times-News is the first site I visit each morning. I enjoy the online version of the paper, and I really don't mind the low fee that I pay to view it. I'm sure the decision to charge online users was not an easy one, and I respect their reason for doing it."

484436: "We don't mind paying for TN online. I am surprised they didn't do it sooner. Not much for free anymore. I like the online comments to be able to read how other folks think about issues here in our Valley. TN isn't afraid to take an unpopular stand about issues and I don't always agree but they have a right to their opinion, too."

magicvalleyresident: "I was discouraged when I found out that I would be charged to view the website after viewing 15 free pages every 30 days. But after doing research it is becoming common to be charged to view online news, and in Times-News' defense it is a very fair price to pay. ..."

OBITUARIES

Lela O'Neil

April 14, 1913-May 24, 2012

GOODING • Lela O'Neil, 99, a resident of Gooding, Idaho, passed away Thursday, May 24, 2012, in Hermiston, Ore. Lela had been staying with her daughter, Gail Lortie and family in Stanfield, Ore. Lela was born April 14, 1913, to Dal and Ida Baldwin in Soldier (Fairfield), Idaho, and lived there until after her marriage to John Denny on Aug. 23, 1931. Six daughters were born to this union. They later divorced and, on Sept. 2, 1951, she married Rex O'Neil, a widower, with a family of 10 children. This marriage combined the 16 children ranging in age from 21 years of age to 2 years of age. The courage needed to accept such a challenge would seem to most to be insurmountable, but it was to be just the beginning of the journey they would take for the next 58 years.

Lela managed the accounts for Rex when he purchased the Baldwin Garage in Fairfield and still found time early mornings to mark targets for him when he trained for rifle competitions at Camp Perry, Ohio. When Rex was gone on those trips, Lela would get busy with her hammer and nails making alterations to the family home. Each summer was spent camping at Big Smokey, leading to yet another career change for Rex and an additional challenge for Lela. While he was employed by the U.S. PS, Lela cooked for the regional fire crew, a talent honed to perfection in earlier years cooking for the Rod and Gun Trail Rides.

Lela spent many happy years after Rex's retirement traveling to Arizona in winter and spending the summers living and working on the Joseph D. Pavkov farm in Gooding. She could be found in her kitchen providing "yunch" to whoever showed up hungry at the door. She could also be counted on for waffles for breakfast come Sunday morning and a hot cup of coffee and a warm cookie during an afternoon visit.

Music was another lifelong love for Lela. She and Rex took lessons and enjoyed giving recitals on their Lowery Organ well into their 90s. Lela loved her family, her music and fishing and hunting, but her greatest love was for her husband. She supported him in everything he did and remained his most enthusiastic supporter until his death in 2010.

Lela was preceded in death by her husband, Rex; her parents; three siblings, Lon Baldwin, Ina Krahn and Clettis Etter; two daughters, Shirley Lanman and Faye Gandy; and one son, Jack Lee. She is survived by her daughters, Afton (Hugh) Koonce of Fairfield, Idaho, Margaret Norris of Pendleton, Ore., Gail (Ralph) Lortie of Stanfield, Ore., Evelyn Miller of Gooding, Idaho, Dawn Lee (Mike Kast) of Bliss, Idaho, Barbara Haggard Menden, Utah, Deana (Richard) Croft of Paradise Valley, Ariz., Joan (Joe D.) Pavkov of Gooding, Idaho, Phyllis (Jay) Mcfarland, of Palm Coast, Florida; Kathy (Richard) Shea of Olympia, Washington; Wanda Van-Netta, of LaPine of Oregon, Carol Peterson of Boise, Idaho, Judy (Leonard) Swisher of Clarkia, Idaho; and numerous grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandchildren.

TWIN FALLS • On Tuesday, May 29, 2012, Jerry left this world and was ushered into heaven to be with his Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Jerry was born Jan. 3, 1955, in Blackfoot, Idaho, to Jerry W. Ulrich Sr. and Rosella Ulrich. Jerry was the little brother of two doting sisters, Deborah and Cathy, who adored him. Six years later, he was no longer the baby but the older brother to Michele and a year later to his brother, Eric. Jerry attended his elementary and junior high school years in both Twin Falls, Idaho, and Las Vegas, Nev. He attended high school in Las Vegas, graduating from Western High School in 1973. While attending CCSN, he went to work for Clark County, Nev., starting as a drafter in the civil engineering department. He held various positions in the engineering department before retiring in June 2001. In October 2003, Jerry went to work for the city of Twin Falls and worked there until being diagnosed with ALS in April

Jerry loved to play baseball and football as a child until an eye disease forced him to stop playing contact sports. As a teen, he started playing golf at the municipal golf course in his neighborhood by finding balls and selling them in order to pay for a round, a passion that was shared by his lifelong best friend, Randy Clements. On June 9, 1979, Jerry married the love of his life, Brenda. They were married for 32 years, with a deep love for each other always keeping God at the center of their marriage. In 1986, they became foster parents and continued fostering children for 15 years, loving each child as their own and adopting three beautiful girls whom he

back to Twin Falls, living close to his Uncle John and Aunt Wanda and their family, enjoying their company and playing a "friendly" game of golf with his Uncle John. After moving to Twin Falls, the family started attending Lighthouse Christian Fellowship. Jerry considered the people there his "family." Jerry also enjoyed the special kindness from the people he worked with at the city of Twin Falls, often overwhelmed and humbled by their concern and caring for him.

Jerry is survived by his wife, Brenda; daughters, Cherilynn Ulrich, Tiffany Ulrich and Alexis Ulrich; two grandchildren, Christian and Jada; brother, Eric (Kim); sisters, Deborah Buckner, Cathy Hunt (Roger) and Michele West; father and mother-in-law, Charles and Alice Gladden; brother in-law, Charles R. Gladden; sisters-in-law, Dona Merritt and Sandra Prandy; his best friend, Randy Clements (wife Susan, daughter Michelle, granddaughter, Mandalyn); his Uncle John and Aunt Wanda and their family; and Alice and Kenny Clements and all of the Murphy family who always treated him as their own. Jerry had numerous uncles, aunts, cousins, nephews, nieces and friends whom he loved and treasured. Jerry was preceded to death by his father and mother.

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, June 9, at Lighthouse Christian Fellowship. Burial will follow at Sunset Memorial Park. Arrangements are under the direction of Rosenau Funeral Home (www.rosenaufuneralhome.com).

June 30, 1935-May 30, 2012

GOODING • John "Jack" Hastings Goeckner, 76, of Gooding, passed away Wednesday, May 30, 2012, in his home surrounded by his family and friends.

Jack, the eldest son of Ben and Audrey Goeckner, was born June 30, 1935. He graduated from Gooding High School in 1954. He married the love of his life, Carol Rae Byram, on Aug. 10, 1957, and settled in Wendell for several years. Jack was on the National Ski patrol for Soldier Mountain Ski Area for many years and passed the love of skiing on to his children and grandchildren. Jack was a "Jack of all trades," lumber man, mechanic, welder and truck driver, but his true passion was farming. He bought a small acreage in Gooding, where he eventually moved and carried out his dream.

Jack is survived by his children, Karrie Rose James and Berney Goeckner of Gooding; grandchildren, and Riley Goeckner of Gooding. He is also survived by four great-granddaughters; one greatgrandson; and his brother, Dick (Linda) Goeckner of Wendell.

Dusty James of Boise, Cody (Jennifer) James of Wendell, Chase (Melissa) Goeckner of Jerome, Cade Goeckner of Wendell, and Dakota

Jack touched everyone he met in one way or another. He will be greatly missed for his common sense and know-how but, most of all, his great desire to have a "good time.

A memorial service will be held this summer on the South Fork of the Boise River, where Jack and Carol Rae will once again be together. Cremation arrangements are under the care and direction of Demaray Funeral Service, Gooding Chapel. Condolences may be shared with the family by visiting the obituary link at www.demarayfuneralservice.com.

SENIO

Here are more tips for active retirees who are planning trips to interesting and even exotic vacation

A. Last week we wrote about the importance of having a pre-travel visit with your physician 4-6 weeks before you leave. Remember to tell the doctor about any illnesses you have and the medicines that you are taking. In addition to any routine vaccines you need, consider getting a tetanus booster before you travel. You should also receive other vaccines recommended for the countries you will be visiting. These may include vaccines for hepatitis, typhoid, polio, or yellow fever. Recommended vaccines are listed by country on the Centers for Disease Control website at www.cdc.gov/ Features/SeniorTravel. Seniors should discuss their detailed travel plans with their doctors and, if necessary, alternatives to vaccination. If you take medicines regularly, pack enough for your planned trip, plus a few days' extra in case of travel delays.

Boise Woman Found Guilty in Death of 2-year-old

BOISE (AP) • A Boise woman has been found guilty of causing the injuries that led to the 2009 death of a 2-year-old boy she was watching at her day care center.

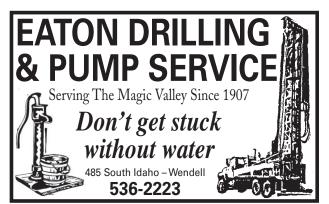

Katherine Stanfield, 57, was found guilty Monday of first-degree murder in the death of Wyatt Fesler, the son of her daughter's boyfriend. The boy died of a brain injury on Dec. 13, 2009, two days after he was injured.

Stanfield's attorneys asked that she be allowed to remain free on bond pending her Aug. 21 sentencing, but the judge ordered her immediately taken into custody.

Jurors heard from eight medical experts during the monthlong trial.

Prosecutors argued the pronounced bleeding and swelling in the boy's brain, along with other injuries, showed he died as the result of aggravated battery.

They also pointed out that Stanfield told police, neighbors and teachers several different versions of what happened, tried to listen in on police interviews of other children and checked into a local hotel when she thought she was going to be arrested.

CSI Men Add Two Transfers

BY DAVID BASHORE

dbashore@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • When you're short on experience, you just have to manufacture some. College of Southern Idaho men's basketball coach Steve Gosar announced Monday the signing of two transfers into the Golden Eagles program for the 2012-13 season.

Gosar confirmed that Billy Reader and Trevor Ritchie will join the program this fall, adding veteran players to a squad that returns just two players – guard Sebastian Michineau and reserve Jon Pulsifer who saw time during last year's Region 18 title run.

Reader, a 6-foot-9 center coming from the University of Montana, played sparingly for the Grizzlies last season, averaging about 5 minutes a game. His size will be invaluable to a team that lost everything on the interior from last year's squad.

"Other than (fellow signing Montarius Hall), he's the only other big guy we have right now," Gosar said. "Billy has a chance to play right away for us. He's a really skilled low-block scorer. He's been at Montana, and (Grizzlies coach) Wayne Tinkle does a good job of developing their big men. Billy's developed the last few years and has gotten a lot better."

Ritchie averaged 27 minutes per game at NCAA Division II's Colorado School of Mines. The 6-foot-4 swingman scored 11.0 points and dished out 3.1 assists a night.

THUNDER ROLL

SAN ANTONIO • Kevin Durant scored 27 points and the Oklahoma City Thunder are on the brink of the NBA Finals, beating the San Antonio Spurs 108-103 in Game 5 on Monday night and moving within a victory of a series knockout.

Russell Westbrook added 23 and the Thunder took a 3-2 lead in a wildly entertaining Western Conference finals. Looking invincible while carrying 20-win streak a week ago, the Spurs have lost three straight and are on the verge of a stunning collapse.

Manu Ginobili scored 34 in a smashing return to the starting lineup. But trailing 106-103 and the Spurs down to their last shot, Ginobili missed an off-balance 3-pointer in the final seconds.

Game 6 is Wednesday night in Oklahoma City, where the Thunder can punch their ticket to the NBA Finals in the place they haven't lost all postseason.

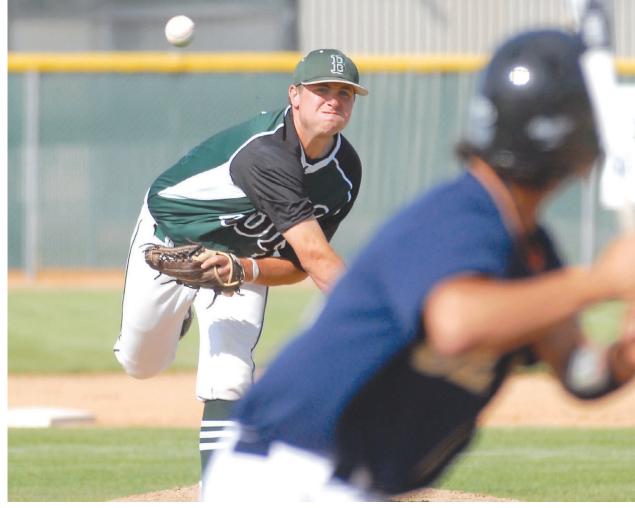

They're bringing home just what they needed: the must-win on the road if they're going to pull this series out.

BURLEY • Jake Mills is happy to be home.

The Burley Green Sox are even happier to have him back.

Mills, a 2011 Burley High graduate, is home for the summer after finishing his freshman season pitching at Miles Community College. He had a solid American Legion Baseball season debut Monday with eight strikeouts in the Green Sox's 12-2 win over the Jerome Cyclones.

"I'm just looking forward to helping the younger kids out, getting some work in and getting ready for my second year of college ball next year," said Mills, who went six innings, allowing five hits and two walks.

'(Burley Coach Devin) Kunz said I was welcome anytime. I have one more year left and I thought I might as well. It's the last time playing with these guys and I will cherish this last time playing legion. Summer ball is always a lot of fun."

LOS ANGELES • Jonathan Quick made 22 saves in his third shutout of the postseason, Anze Kopitar had a goal and an assist, and the Los Angeles Kings rolled to the brink of the franchise's first NHL title, beating the New Jersey Devils 4-0 in Game 3 of the Stanley Cup finals on Monday night to take a 3-0 se-

Alec Martinez scored the opening goal, and Jeff Carter and Justin Williams added late power-play goals as the Western Conference champion Kings moved one win away from finishing one of the most spectacular playoff runs in league history.

Eighth-seeded Los Angeles improved to 15-2 in the postseason and jumped to a 3-0 lead in its fourth straight series a first in NHL history.

Game 4 is Wednesday in Los Angeles.

Martin Brodeur stopped 17 shots, but the Devils couldn't beat the spectacular Quick or his penalty-killers, who turned aside six power plays.

New Jersey must accomplish just the fourth comeback from an 0-3 series deficit in NHL playoff history to win its third title.

Dallas Baptist ends its season at 41-19.

DBU took a 1-0 lead on Joel Hutter's RBI single after freshman starter Cy Sneed (8-5), a Twin Falls High School graduate, retired the Bears 1-2-3 in the first inning — only the second time in five tournament games Baylor had gone down in order.

But Sneed didn't make it out of the second inning. The Bears used two hits, three walks, a hit batsman and a sacrifice fly to score three runs and take a lead they never gave up.

Baylor starter Josh Turley pitched four innings on two days' rest, allowing two runs, before Newman (4-3) came on in the fifth and shut the Patriots down the rest of the way

Morneau Powers Twins Past Royals

ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. • Justin Morneau and Josh Willingham each hit tworun homers, Trevor Plouffe also went deep and the Minnesota Twins held off the Kansas City Royals 10-7 on Monday night.

Cole De Vries (1-1) lasted five shaky innings to pick up his first major league victory in his third career start. He got plenty of help from Jamey Carroll, who reached base four times with two RBIs, and Ben Revere, who also drove in a pair of runs.

The game was tied 4-all in the fifth when Morneau belted his homer off Will Smith (1-2), also making his third big league start. Ryan Doumit grounded out before Plouffe's homer, which gave Minnesota a three-run cushion and chased Smith.

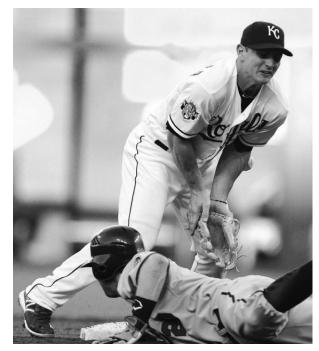

The Twins survived two runs in the ninth by Kansas City to wrap up their sixth win in seven games. Matt Capps got Johnny Giavotella to ground out with the tying run on deck to finish it.

CARDINALS 5, METS 4 NEW YORK • Allen Craig hit a tiebreaking, two-run homer in the eighth inning and the St. Louis Cardinals found a bit of missing pop, stopping their season-worst losing streak at five.

The Cardinals have never been swept in a four-game series in New York. The World Series champions had been outscored 19-1 by the Mets and no-hit by Johan Santana before salvaging the finale at Citi Field.

Craig connected one out after Matt Holliday hit a leadoff single against Jon Rauch (3-5) for a 5-3 lead.

Minnesota Twins baserunner Brian Dozier (20) dives back to second base while Kansas City Royals second baseman Johnny Giavotella tries to handle a pick-off throw during the second inning of Monday's game in Kansas City, Mo.

Marc Rzepczynski (1-3) wound up with the win despite allowing Scott Hairston's eighth career pinchhit homer in the seventh.

DODGERS 4, PHILLIES 3 PHILADELPHIA • Elian Herrera hit a tiebreaking RBI single off Jonathan Papelbon in the ninth inning to lift Los Angeles.

Placido Polanco hit a tying, two-run homer to help the Phillies rally from a 3-0 deficit against Clayton Kershaw, but it wasn't enough.

Dee Gordon ripped a triple to right-center to start the ninth against Papelbon (0-2). Herrera followed with a grounder through the shortstop hole to put major league-leading Los Angeles ahead to stay.

Papelbon is 15 for 15 in save opportunities, but hasn't fared as well in non-save situations.

GIANTS 3, CUBS 2 SAN FRANCISCO • Ryan

Vogelsong won his fourth straight decision, Buster Posey scored the go-ahead run on a double-play grounder in the seventh inning and the Giants beat the Cubs for a four-game sweep.

Brandon Crawford hit an RBI double and drove in another run on a fielder's choice to back Vogelsong (4-2). Cubs reliever Carlos Marmol (0-2) was hit with a line drive on Angel Pagan's infield single in the seventh but stayed in the game after being checked out, then walked Brandon Belt on four pitches to load the bases for Joaquin Arias, who hit into a double play that scored a run.

Oklahoma City pulled it off behind their stars. James Harden scored 20, joining Durant and Westbrook as the only Thunder players in double figures.

Harden hit the biggest shot, draining a 3-pointer with 28.8 seconds left that pushed Oklahoma City's lead to five. He admitted afterward that the ball was supposed to go to Durant but had no choice but to let go with the shot clock winding down and Spurs rookie Kawhi Leonard in his

He was also named the Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference's freshman of the year.

"He had a really good freshman year for them, just wanted the chance to go Division I," Gosar said of Ritchie. "He does everything really well: shoots well, passes well, puts it on the deck and has a good basketball IQ."

Both will be third-year sophomores, and both played high school ball near Portland.

"They're really good friends that knew each other growing up," Gosar said. "They've always wanted to play together."

The signings bring CSI's current crop of 2012-13 players to 10. The school is allotted five more scholarship players, and up to two of those can be foreign players.

Sharapova Stumbles to French Open Win

BY HOWARD FENDRICH

Associated Press

PARIS • On days like these, when so little goes right and so much goes awry, Maria Sharapova tosses away the strategies and scouting reports her coach devises and, well, does whatever it takes to win.

Locked in a three-set, 3-hour struggle at a wet and windy French Open on Monday, Sharapova's right, racket-swinging wrist was aching - and that, she insisted, was the least of her problems.

After dropping a total of five games in three matches that averaged less than an hour each, Sharapova moved into the quarterfinals at the only Grand Slam tournament she hasn't won by dispensing with tactics and swinging away until she finally pulled out a 6-4, 6-7 (5), 6-2 victory over 44thranked Klara Zakopalova of the Czech Republic.

Sharapova said her wrist, which she repeatedly flexed during the match and fiddled with at her news conference afterward, shouldn't be an issue going forward.

Kings survived another solid performance early in Game 3 by the Devils, who had ample opportunity to take an early lead.

New Jersey has been pretty good in the finals, but nothing has been able to slow down these Kings, who seem destined to become the first No. 8 seed to win the Stanley Cup.

The Devils had never lost three straight Stanley Cup finals games in the franchise's five appearances. New Jersey hadn't lost three straight games this season since late February.

The Kings had to survive their early nerves from playing in front of their title-starved fans, and they barely hung on at times against the Devils' dynamic forechecking in the first two periods. They got another peerless performance from Quick, who has allowed just 24 goals in 17 playoff games — just two in the finals.

The Kings even got something from the power play that has been their weakest feature during the postseason, going 6 for 77 before Game 3. Carter scored his sixth goal of the postseason on a splendid setup pass from longtime teammate Mike Richards early in the third period and Williams followed 2:32 later with a slick goal in the slot, practically blowing the roof off the sold-out build-

Martinez scored his first career playoff goal early in the second period, and Kopitar followed about 10 minutes later with his third goal in four games off a spectacular pass from captain Dustin Brown.

The Kings could celebrate their first title at home, but their only weakness in this charmed postseason has been Game 4. They're 10-0 on the road in the postseason, but failed to close out Vancouver and Phoenix at home in Game 4s.

Burley

Burley leadoff hitter Jackson Kunz went 3-for-4, including a back-breaking two-run triple with two outs in the sixth to extend the Green Sox lead to 6-2.

Burley ended the scheduled nine-inning game via run rule in the seventh as Jerome relief pitchers struggled to locate the strike zone. The Green Sox scored six runs in the inning after loading the bases with no outs. Hunter Breshears

Brett Denker drove in another run. The other three runs came from bases-loaded walks and a hit batsman. The game didn't appear roped a two-run single, and headed for a lopsided finish early on, as Jerome starter Ethan Bragg was impressive with six strikeouts through four innings.

The Cyclones' runs came on a two-out RBI single in the first by Kevin Bos and a two-out double by Cody Bowman in the second.

"Tip the hat to some of the Jerome hitters. They put up those run in the first and were seeing the ball well," said Mills, adding that he settled in after that. "It was a lot different than pitching at Miles. The weather was different and this field is a little deeper than what we have at Miles, so we had a little bit more give."

LEGAL NOTICE

The Idaho Department of Fish and Game was informed by the Bureau of Fisheries and Regional fishery managers that, through May 29, angler surveys indicate that about 30 percent of the State's harvest share of hatchery Chinook salmon 24 inches or more in length (adults) returning to the Clearwater River drainage has been harvested. Flows and water clarity in the Clearwater River are ideal for angling success and harvest rates are increasing rapidly. Angler preference is overwhelmingly in favor of management actions likely to extend fisheries in the Clearwater River until early July.

NOTICES

To slow harvest rates and increase the likelihood that the harvest share for adult hatchery Chinook salmon in the fishery will not be reached before early July, the adult portions of bag and possession limits must be reduced. Therefore the Bureau of fisheries recommends that, effective June 2, limits for adult Chinook salmon caught and kept in the Mainstem Clearwater River and the Middle Fork Clearwater River be changed to one per day and three in possession.

Pursuant to his authority under Idaho Code Section 36-106(e)(6) (A), the Idaho Department of Fish and Game Director hereby reduces the adult portions of daily and possession limits for Chinook salmon fisheries in the Mainstem Clearwater River from the Camas Prairie Bridge in Lewiston upstream to the South Fork Clearwater River and in the Middle Fork Clearwater River from the confluence with the South Fork Clearwater River upstream to the confluence of the Lochsa and Selway Rivers to one adult salmon per day and three adult salmon in possession effective at the start of fishing on Saturday June 2, 2012.

Copies of Order 12-11 are available at the Idaho Department of Fish and Game headquarters, 600 South Walnut, PO Box 25, Boise, ID 83707.

Bobby Wolff

DEAR ${f A}$ BBY Jeanne Phillips

Well, the time came that I felt I did love and trust him, so I went ahead and had sex with him. After one month, Gavin decided he was sick of me! It seems like as soon as we started having sex, things started going downhill. I feel so hurt and used, I'm now starting to view sex negatively.

I know I'm young and have years of relationships in front of me. But are all men just out there for sex? If they are, it just doesn't seem worth it.

- HURT AND CONFUSED DEAR HURT AND CON-

FUSED: You have my sympathy. It appears that Gavin was more interested in the challenge you presented than in a lasting relationship. Not all men are that way, but most in your age group are because they are not yet emotionally or financially ready for a marriage commitment. Remember that, and you may avoid future heartache.

DEAR ABBY: I am 23, happily married and have two children. My question involves my 4 l/2-year-old, "Shelly," who is the result of a previous relationship. Her biological father left me after he found out I was pregnant. When I was almost ready to deliver, he called and asked me to come back to him, which I did, only to get dumped again one week before Shelly's birth.

Since then, I have married a wonderful man I met days before Shelly was born. He has adopted her, and he is the only daddy she has ever known.

My question is: When would be the best age for me to tell her about this?

- CLUELESS IN MICHIGAN DEAR CLUELESS: Your

daughter should be told as soon as she's old enough to understand the difference between "biological" father and "adoptive" father. And when you do, tell her that her daddy fell in love with you both at the same time.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for one week. We have been together for three years. The problem is his last girlfriend. She was married three years ago, but will not leave him alone.

It never fails that when we are out, and she and her husband are at the same place, she confronts my husband about how sorry she is for the past and wants him to take her back. He tells her it is over. Her husband knows that she does not love him but loves my husband.

I am so tired of this, Abby. What do I need to do the next time this happens? Do I call her and tell her to leave him alone?

- STEAMING IN GARDEN CITY, KAN. DEAR STEAMING: Do not call her. The next time it happens, your HUSBAND should tell her he is not interested, that he is happily married now, and that she is making herself and her husband look ridiculous.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me if there are any "rules" about a divorced woman wearing her wedding rings on her right hand. I am divorced, but my wedding rings are beautiful and I'd like to wear them on my right hand. Clear this up for me, please.

MAKING SURE IN IDAHO DEAR MAKING SURE: No rule of etiquette forbids

you from wearing your wedding rings on your right hand if you wish — many divorcees (and widows) do. Enjoy!

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

"Oh I get by with a little help from my friends..."

- Lennon and McCartney

I apologize in advance for the personal set of deals this week from last year's Senior Trials, but most of them show my teammates in a good light rather than

Here is one example: In this deal I played three no-trump after introducing my clubs as a passed hand. I received the lead of the heart five and decided to rise with the ace in case East won the king and shifted to a spade, which I thought could set up too many winners for the defenders.

I cashed the diamond ace at trick two to find exceedingly bad news. Hoping for the best, I ran the club queen, which held, then led out the diamond 10 to West's queen. Back came a heart to East's king, and the defenders cleared hearts, leaving me with just eight tricks. Although there was no legitimate play for nine tricks, this looked like a depressing result, but fortunately, I had teammates to help me out.

In the other room, South opened three clubs and North used Blackwood, driving to slam. East, Arnie Fisher, found a Lightner double for the diamond lead, and South (in need of a swing) redoubled. West, Fred Hamilton, obediently led a diamond, and Fisher ruffed and returned a trump. Declarer went up with the ace and cleared the trumps, but still had to lose a trick in the majors for a penalty of 1,000 and a gain for our team of 14 IMPs.

IF JUNE 5 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You face a superior lineup of planetary assistance as the summer unfolds. Business and finances may become more important to your happiness in July and August and since you focus on success, you will find it. In late August and early September, you more easily find the good in everyone and this may mean you can become involved with people who open the doors of opportunity for you or who offer sound advice. Those who are good for you will come closer, and you will be protected from those who don't have your best interests in mind. Plan ahead so that you can initiate any crucial plans or enterprises in that time period.

HOROSCOPE Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): If Plan A doesn't work, remember that the alphabet has a lot more letters. Rather than losing your temper or rushing into action when things don't go your way, it makes more sense to look for alternatives.

TAURUS (April 20-Mav 20): Like a flat tire, a bad attitude prevents you from going anywhere until you change it. You might imagine that you are involved in a business situation, but it is more likely you are on a wild goose chase.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Listen to the views of those you can respect, not random opinions from just anyone. Choose what you hear by turning off input from those who don't have your best interests at heart, just like you turn the channel on the TV.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Pull out a plum. With your fingers in so many pies it is easy to pick the wrong one to concentrate upon. Pay attention to the little details, as you could locate a clue that shows you where the profit lies.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): If you don't shape your world, someone else will. You don't need to be belligerent to achieve your ends, but you don't need to sit there and simply put up with conditions that are not of your choosing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Money is meant for spending, but maybe not so quickly. During the next several days when the emphasis is on finances and possessions, find ways to refine your sense of what lasting value means.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A kiss is something you can borrow and always give back. The planets are amorous and flirtations are possible. However, kindness and warmth could be mistaken for an invitation by the wrong person. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Even the darkest night ends with a sunrise. Your fantasies may hit a roadblock built of business necessity. This is a good time to economize. The workplace might be part of your social agenda.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If you choose to follow your heart, don't forget to take your brain. Under these stars, self-sufficient work environments leave something to be desired. No one wants to work alone.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): With a little care and attention, the grass on your side of the fence can be just as green. Making major changes might not be necessary. Re-evaluate what you already have and plan to make improvements.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Live life by choice, not by chance. You may be challenged to act as a helpmate or provide support when partners or loved ones take foolhardy risks. You, however, can rein in your own impulsive nature.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): If you change so people will like you, they will only like someone who is a fake. If you are simply yourself, the right person will be attracted to you. You may be tempted to compete in social situations.
