Number of Motorcycle Deaths Down Statewide, Stay Low in Magic Valley

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • While motorcycle deaths have dropped statewide in Idaho in the last year they have remained the same in the Magic Valley.

According to a study by the Governors Highway Safety Association, Idaho is one of the top five states that reduced motorcycle deaths in 2011, with a 48 percent reduction rate.

According to Steve Rich, a research analyst principle at the Idaho Transportation Department, there were 28 motorcycle deaths in Idaho in 2010. That number dropped to 17 in 2011.

In the Magic Valley, which is known as ITD Region 4, three people died in motorcycle crashes in 2010 and three more in 2011, Rich said.

So far, statewide there have been three through the month of April. Another fatal motorcycle crash was reported by Idaho State Police on Tuesday near Inkom.

In contrast to Idaho's dropping numbers, the report by the Governors Association reveals, nationwide, no progress was made in reducing motorcycle deaths in

Idaho Death Row Inmate to Be Executed Tuesday

BY JESSIE L. BONNER
Associated Press

BOISE • More than a quarter century after Danette Elg's mutilated body was found on a punctured waterbed in her bedroom, her family still declines to publicly talk about her and what happened.

The southeastern Idaho woman was a licensed private pilot who loved the outdoors, fishing and hang-gliding. At the time of her death, she had been the only female to graduate from the Idaho State Aeronautical School, according to her obituary.

Her convicted killer, Richard Leavitt, 53, is scheduled to be put to death by lethal injection June 12, barring any last-minute court intervention.

In the days before the scheduled execution, Elg's family kept their grief private. She was raised by her mother, Thelma, who died in 2006, and her stepfather, Richard Bross, who currently resides in Boise. Bross declined comment and other relatives didn't return phones calls from The Associated Press.

Leavitt's immediate family, including his parents and son, still reside in the small southeastern Idaho town of Blackfoot, where Elg was murdered.

Tim Leavitt, who at 31 is the same age as Elg at the time of her death, told the AP on Friday that he was just

T.F. Council, URA Both Plan to Discuss Parking

BY MELISSA DAVLIN
mdavlin@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Parking is on the minds of Twin Falls decision makers.

Today, the Urban Renewal Agency considers the future of a former city-owned parking lot, located at Third Street and Gooding Avenue. Later in the evening, the Twin Falls City Council will reconsider adopting proposals from the 2011 parking commission.

The parking commission formed last year to discuss potential solutions to downtown.

One of their recommendations: If the city disposes of any parking lots downtown, they should replace that lost parking.

But when the city council approved sale of the parking lot at Third Street and Gooding to the URA, it made no moves to replace that parking, raising objections from Sarah Taylor, parking commission participant and co-owner of the Historic Ballroom in downtown Twin Falls.

At a May 29 council meeting, Taylor testified that she was "extremely disheartened" to hear about the city's plans to shed more parking spaces, adding that her business had submitted proposals to use the parking lot for their customers.

Taylor may soon have another chance at use of the parking lot. If the URA approves the $57,800 purchase of the parking lot, URA Executive Director Melinda Anderson will work with the board to develop a request for proposals on utilizing the property.

The agency will look at how applicants plan to use the lot, and weigh the overall picture, like how much the

"The agency does not have a profit motive. It has a development motive," Anderson said.

The Historic Ballroom isn't the only business with its eye on the lot. Alan Horner, CEO of First Federal, said his company is considering putting in a proposal to accommodate a potential expansion.

The expansion is "a long way from a definite go," Horner said, but the lot may go toward more employee parking.

Taylor's concerns about fewer parking spaces may get addressed in another avenue, as the council reconsiders the parking commission's recommendations tonight.

At the same May 29 meeting, Councilman Shawn Barigar asked Twin Falls city staff to schedule a discussion on reconsidering the parking commission's recommendations, including disabling downtown parking meters. That initial discussion is happening this evening.

2011. About 4,500 people died in motorcycle crashes nationwide, in 2010 and 2011, the report said.

Stacey "Ax" Axmaker, director of the Idaho STAR Motorcycle Safety Program, said the drop suggests efforts being made in training, motorist awareness and riding sober are working.

Axmaker said the STAR program will continue to offer skill training for riders of all levels, increasing motorcycle awareness and encouraging riders to wear protective gear.

STAR training has been associated with a 79 percent reduced crash risk while riding a motorcycle in Idaho, according to a statement by the group. The study, which looked at all 7,738 motorcycle crashes in Idaho from 1996 to 2010, also found an 89 per-four years old when his father, who goes by "Rick," was arrested. The son maintains that his father is innocent, though he has never read the case.

"I'm my dad's kid. I know I'm not capable of murdering someone. There's no way I could take someone's life, so I don't think there's any way he could either," said Tim Leavitt, who as a young adult was briefly incarnated with his father.

On Sept. 25, 1985, a jury in Bingham County found Richard Leavitt guilty of attacking, sexually mutilating, and murdering Elg at her home. She had been stabbed 15 times with exceptional force on or about July 17 of the previous year, prosecutors said.

A day or so before her death, she called 911 to report a prowler had tried to enter her home and told police she suspected Leavitt, an acquaintance. When police arrived they found signs of attempted entry but nothing else.

There were four days between Elg's murder and the discovery of her body and during that time, authorities said Leavitt was exceedingly interested in her whereabouts. He claimed Elg's co-workers had called him after she didn't show up at work, though authorities couldn't confirm those phone calls.

Leavitt finally received permission to enter Elg's home with police and the body was discovered. Leavitt's blood was found in the bedroom, and he later claimed that he'd gotten a nosebleed when he was at Elg's house several days before her death.

Additionally, prosecutors said, Leavitt received medical treatment for a serious cut to his finger on or about the same night Elg is believed to have died at her home and gave "shifting versions" of the story behind his injury, according to court documents.

Tim Leavitt was also imprisoned after pleading guilty to statutory rape, he said, and was incarcerated with his father at the Idaho State Maximum Security Institution south of Boise. The Idaho Department of Correction confirmed that both Leavitts were being held at the institution from February 2003 to April 2004.

In prison since the age of 19, Tim Leavitt said he had just turned 22 when he joined his father at the same facility. While incarcerated, they talked about how the execution day would eventually come, he said, and now it appears to have arrived.

"For me, it's more of a relief," he said. "I'm glad dad's not going to be in prison anymore."

But for many others, though, that day will bring justice, maybe some closure. Retired U.S. attorney Tom Moss was Bingham County prosecutor in 1984 and said what Leavitt did to Elg is an image that has yet to escape him.

"It was the ugliest crime scene I've ever seen," Moss told KTVB-TV.

Judge Orders New Counsel in Sarah Johnson Case

KETCHUM (AP) • A central Idaho judge has ordered that a new attorney be appointed for a woman who was convicted of killing both her parents when she was a teenager and is now serving two life sentences without possibility of parole.

The Idaho Mountain Express reports that 5th District Court Judge G. Richard Bevan last week ruled 25-year-old Sarah Johnson is entitled to new legal counsel as she attempts to get a new trial.

Johnson was 16 in 2003, when prosecutors say she shot Alan and Diane Johnson with a rifle at the family's Bellevue home. She was found guilty by a jury of two counts of first-degree murder and was sentenced in 2005.

The Idaho Innocence Project contends Johnson hasn't had competent counsel and that new DNA analytical techniques could prove she didn't kill her parents.

"Sarah needs competent counsel to help her, so it is a good first step," said Boise attorney Dennis Benjamin, who has been working without charge on Johnson's case for the past year. "The judge had to review the proceedings and decide there was sufficient meat there."

Benjamin and co-counsel Deborah Whipple filed motions in April, asking Bevan to vacate a decision denying Johnson a new trial that he made more than a year ago.

Bevan's decision doesn't reopen Johnson's post-conviction case. He ordered that Johnson's new attorney be chosen from attorneys with public defender contracts with Blaine County.

"It is extremely rare that a 16-year-old girl, with no history of violence, kills both parents at close range, and the doubts raised at trial could potentially be answered by new DNA testing," said Greg Hampikian, director of the Idaho Innocence Project.

Blaine County has spent about $1.1 million on Johnson's legal case.

Motorcyclist Dead after Colliding with Other Rider in Western Idaho

BOISE (AP) • Idaho State Police say a 68-year-old Washington state man has died after colliding with another motorcyclist on Idaho Power Road in Adams County in western Idaho. Police say John S. Mc-

Cree of Port Orchard, Wash., died Saturday after being flown to Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise. Police say McCree was traveling south on a 2006 Kawasaki motorcycle when a 2009 Yamaha motorcycle traveling north and being driven by 51-year-old Anthony M. Weil of Lacey, Wash., crossed the double yellow center line on a curve and collided with McCree.

Weil was taken by ambulance to Saint Alphonsus Medical Center in Baker City, Ore. Police say both men were wearing helmets, and the crash remains under investigation.

Utah Wildfire Where Fatal Crash Occurred Contained

BY MARTIN GRIFFITH
Associated Press

Crews have contained a 10-square-mile wildfire on the Utah-Nevada border where a firefighting air tanker crashed last week, killing both crew members. Cooler weather helped firefighters in their battle Sunday against two wildfires in southern Utah.

The lightning-caused White Rock Fire in eastern Nevada and western Utah, about 150 miles northeast of Las Vegas, was 100 percent contained Friday night after a weeklong battle, officials said. Most of the fire was in Nevada.

A Lockheed P2V air tanker was dropping retardant on the fire when it crashed June 3 into a mountain slope a quarter mile inside Utah, killing pilots Todd Tompkins and Ronnie Chambless, both of Boise, Idaho.

Federal investigators have recovered a cockpit voice recorder from the air tanker that may provide clues into the cause of the crash.

In southern Utah, calmer winds and cooler temperatures allowed firefighters to make progress on the 2,018-acre Box Creek Fire near Greenwich and the 2,076-acre Lost Lake Fire near Teasdale. The Box Creek blaze was 40 percent contained, while the other fire was 50 percent contained.

While the fires posed no immediate threats to homes, the Salt Lake Tribune reported about 25 Monroe Meadows homes remained evacuated Sunday in the Box Creek blaze. Fire officials were hopeful the homes would be spared.

14 Dachshunds Perish in S.W. Idaho House Fire

FRUITLAND (AP) • A southwestern Idaho couple says 14 dachshunds have died in a house fire in Fruitland.

Karen and Robert McCombs operate Dachshund Idaho Rescue.

They tell the Idaho Statesman the fire Saturday afternoon started on the front porch of the single-wide trailer they were renting and spread so fast they couldn't get it under control.

They and their 16-year-old son were able to escape and save three dachshunds and an Akita.

The American Red Cross provided vouchers for three nights at a nearby motel.

BOISE (AP) • The 2009 winner of Mrs. Idaho America remained at Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise on Sunday after sustaining a head injury in a fall several days earlier.

Mrs. Idaho America Director Sher Finke tells the Idaho Press-Tribune that Hilton fell about 12 feet onto rocks while fishing at a dam near Hell's Canyon on Wednesday.

Hilton was transported by helicopter to Boise where she underwent surgery for head trauma.

Finke says Hilton was kept sedated after the surgery and on Saturday had been transferred out of the intensive care unit.

Hilton lives in Boise with her husband and their three children.

Cosey died May 30 of complications from surgery at Vanguard Weiss Memorial Hospital in Chicago, said his daughter Mariama Cosey.

Pete Cosey's musical journey began early, his daughter said, noting that Cosey's father died when he was 9 years old.

"That's how he dealt with his father's passing... and if I had to pick one instance in his life that just really rocked his world, that was it," she said. "I think he tried to spend his time trying to communicate with my granddaddy."

In the 1960s, Cosey was a member of the studio band at Chess Records in Chicago, where he played on Waters' "Electric Mud" and Howlin' Wolf's "Howlin' Wolf Album." Cosey also worked with Etta James and Chuck Berry.

He took a creative approach to stringing and tuning his guitars, and liberally applied the distortion pedal to his licks. He started to develop his unique sound as a teenager in Arizona, where he would play in the mountains near Phoenix, according to a Chicago Tribune article.

His explorations of sound drew the attention of one of jazz's legendary minds, Miles Davis.

In an interview with music writer George Cole, published on Cole's "The Last Miles" website, Cosey said Davis sought him out, wanted him at the front of the band and told him to turn up his guitar's volume.

Cosey ended up playing on many of Davis' boundary-pushing recordings in the 1970s, including "Dark Magus," "Agharta" and "The Complete on the Corner Sessions."

Cosey was also in Martin Scorsese's 2003 blues documentary, "The Blues: A Musical Journey."

In recent years, health problems had slowed Cosey, but he had been playing music in children's hospitals and schools, according to the Chicago Tribune.

Cosey's daughter said that, to her father, music was a language.

Dorothy Ida 'Dot' Christopherson

Feb. 7, 1922-May 29, 2012

SALMON • Dorothy Ida "Dot" Christopherson, 90 years of age, beloved mother, grandmother, great- and great-great-grandmother, passed away in Salmon, Idaho, on May 29, 2012, of heart failure.

She was born Dorothy Ida Ott on Feb. 7, 1922, to Clarence and Mary (Anderson) Ott in Jerome, Idaho. She attended grade, middle and high school in Jerome, where she graduated high school with the class of 1939. In 1941, she married her lifelong partner and the love of her life, Bud Christopherson. Bud and Dot lived for several years in Gibbonsville, Idaho, in a log cabin they built with their own hands. She tended her small children as well as maintaining the household and a few farm animals while Bud worked as a laborer and part-time hunting guide.

Dot and Bud moved to Jerome during the World War II years. After he was discharged from the U.S. Navy, they moved around for a few years following electrical work and living in various towns in California, Utah and Idaho. The couple eventually moved to Arco, Idaho, where all of the children attended grade school and high school. He worked as an electrician for the Atomic Energy Commission and Dorothy was a full-time mother and homemaker. During their time in Arco, she enjoyed bowling, dancing, playing cards and going out with friends. She also helped out as an election official in local elections.

The couple especially enjoyed family reunions and family outings with her sisters and in-laws, many of whom lived in Idaho. They would often go camping, hunting and fishing with their relatives. After he retired, Dorothy and Bud spent many years as "snowbirds," where they would summer at their home in Arco, then later at Featherville, Idaho, and would winter in Arizona and California in a travel trailer. When traveling became too physically taxing, they sold their Featherville home and bought a house in Jerome, Idaho, where they lived until Bud passed away in 2009. She then moved to Salmon, where her daughter, Pat, granddaughter, Heather, and great-granddaughter, Jazzy, would be around to help her.

She was a warm and friendly woman, and a faithful loving wife and mother. She was loved by all who knew her. Her presence in this world will be greatly missed by all who knew her.

She is survived by her two daughters, Jean (Virgil) Hughes of Reno, Nev., and Pat (John) McKinney of Salmon, Idaho; three sons, Jim (Dale) of Bainbridge Island, Wash., Monte of Idaho Falls, Idaho, and Dan of Pocatello, Idaho; two sisters, Helen Hepworth of Jerome, Idaho, and Ellen Hancock of Buhl, Idaho; 10 grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; six great-great-grandchildren; and numerous great-nieces and nephews.

Per her wishes, services will be held at a later date for family only. Arrangements are under the direction of Jones and Casey Funeral Home of Salmon.

SCENK BREAKS SAWTOOTH RECORD

BY RYAN HOWE
 rhowe@magicvalley.com

RUPERT • Rupert distance runner Alice Schenk broke the women's solo record at the 21st annual Sawtooth Relay Saturday.
 Schenk, 54, finished the 61.9-mile course from Stanley to Ketchum in 12 hours, 50 minutes, 53 seconds. The previous women's record was 14:11:27 set by Kedron Holland in 2006.

The weather was so poor, event organizers cancelled the post-race awards ceremony.
 "This weather is what I train in. I would have liked to break out the shorts at one point, but it just didn't happen," Schenk said.
 Her average pace was 12:16 per mile; however, that included her strategic walk up Galena Summit in order to save her legs to run the 33 miles that followed.

Schenk also became the first woman to win the Sawtooth Relay solo category.
 "I ran hard, I knew I was going to get the women's record, but I think God just put the icing on the cake. I had no idea I could beat the men," Schenk said. "I was so excited, I was jumping around like a little kid."
 Schenk accomplished the feat despite frosty temperatures, wind, snow and hail.

Schenk praised her support crew, consisting of her daughter Sarah Schenk and friends Shawna Adams and Tammy Quintanar, who kept her spirits up through various antics, such as dangling a carrot from a stick, wearing fake goatees and performing songs and dances.
 "I had the best crew. I laughed so hard, so often and so much," Schenk said.

ALAN ROGERS - CASPER (WYO) STAR-TRIBUNE

CSI Men in Second after Day One

TIMES-NEWS
 AND STAFF REPORTS

CASPER, Wyo. • Thanks to two strong efforts by Orin Larsen, the CSI men's rodeo team is in second place in the standings after the opening go-round of the College National Finals Rodeo at the Casper Events Center, scoring 110 points to Sam Houston State's 190.

Larsen registered a pair of top-10 finishes, taking fifth in bareback riding with 76.5 points and seventh in saddle bronc riding with 74.5 points. Teammate Bradley Dyck took 12th in bareback with 71 points, while a third CSI cowboy, Tyler Nelson, was tossed from his ride and didn't score.

 "It's unfortunate," CSI coach Steve Birnie said of Nelson's ride, "but it does happen."
 CSI's best discipline, however, came in bull riding. Trent Richardson finished fourth, falling off his bull as the 8-second buzzer sounded to score 80 points, while Trasen Jones finished tied for eighth with 74. A third CSI cowboy, Johnny Owens, was bucked off.

 "We had a little tough luck with a couple of kids but a pretty good start to the week and we're excited about that," Birnie said. "We just have to keep things rolling and see how things turn out."
 Those three events were the only ones taking place Sunday on the men's side. On the women's side, Chuck Povey took seventh in breakaway roping (2.8 seconds), while Lindsay Davis' 3.2-second time was good for a tie for 14th. Another CSI cowgirl, Korinne Balls, failed to score.

 There are 7 a.m. slack performances on Monday and Tuesday before the competition again begins in earnest on Tuesday night at 7 p.m. Nightly performances will continue through Friday night, with Saturday hosting the championship round, also at 7 p.m.

High School Football Camp Begins Today at CSI

BY PATRICK SHELTRA
 psheltra@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • One of the bigger high school football camps in the state is ready to invade the College of Southern Idaho campus this week.
 The Southern Idaho Football Camp, which has been conducted by former Century High School head coach Nate Borchert for the past 15 years, is in its second year all over the CSI campus and begins its four-day run this afternoon.

 That CSI does not have a football stadium or field on campus is hardly an obstacle for Borchert.
 "Anywhere there's green grass. All you need is a 40-yard field," Borchert said. "It's worked great (having it at CSI). We've had it at several different locations and we're trying to make it feasible for Idaho teams to come out and compete."

Local teams like Jerome and Canyon Ridge have what is basically a week-long day camp, but for out-of-staters like Cyprus, Utah, and Wells, Nev., those teams will either stay in the dorms at CSI or at the Red Lion hotel.

Police: Three Killed in Shooting Near Auburn

ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUBURN, Ala. • Investigators were searching Sunday for a gunman who killed three people — including two former Auburn University football players — and wounded three others at a pool party near campus after several men got in a fight over a woman, authorities and witnesses said.

One of the wounded was shot in the head and critically hurt. Another was a current player, Eric Mack.

Desmonte Leonard opened fire at the Saturday night party at an apartment complex near the university, Auburn Police Chief Tommy Dawson said. Federal marshals and police were searching for Leonard, who faces three counts of capital murder.

Slain were Edward Christian, who had not been playing because of a back injury, and Ladarious Phillips, who had previously quit playing football. The other person killed was 20-year-old Demario Pitts.

Police Chief Tommy Dawson

Officials also said Xavier Moss and John Robertson were wounded. Robertson had been shot in the head and was in critical condition; Moss was released from the hospital.

Police emphasized that the shootings didn't appear to have anything to do with some of the victims being former or current players on the university's powerhouse football team, which won the national championship in 2010.

“The only connection that the Auburn football team has to this is they are victims of a brutal shooting. Sometimes the young men get a bad rap, I feel like, but they are the victims today,” Dawson said.

Police urged the suspect to turn himself in. Authorities are also searching for two other persons of interest.

Dawson said he did not know why the party was being held or what sparked the fight.

“Them being football players really has nothing to do with this. They're victims of a shooting,” Dawson said.

Turquorius Vines, 23, said he was at the pool party Saturday evening at the University Heights apartments with one of his friends, Pitts. He said he and his friend were approached by two other men who started arguing with them over a woman.

Vines said he punched one of the men, while Pitts hit both of the men over the head with a bottle. Either one or both of the two men then started shooting, he said. He said Pitts was shot and killed, while two others also were hit by gunfire. Vines said he had never met the men he was arguing with.

“It's like I lost a lung,” Vines said of losing his friend. “I don't know how I'm going to survive this.”

Several emergency vehicles converged overnight around the University Heights apartment complex where many students live. The building was swathed in yellow police tape.

It appeared that the shooting happened in an archway near the apartment complex information center, near the edge of the parking lot. Five uniformed officers guarded the area, which was sealed off with crime scene tape, and a handful of crime scene investigators were at work.

Cowboys Sweep Treasure Valley

TIMES-NEWS

The Twin Falls Cowboys' Class AA team swept the Treasure Valley Stars on Sunday in a doubleheader, 6-3 and 10-2.

Leading 5-0 in the opener, the Cowboys were challenged after giving up three runs in the bottom of the sixth. Zayne Slotten's leadoff solo home run in the seventh gave his team some breathing room and accounted for the final score. Three errors helped lead to four of Twin Falls' six runs.

Thomas Corr had a two-run single in the sixth inning.

Michael Garcia went the distance, striking out six and walking three.

In the nightcap, the Cowboys were again the beneficiary of shoddy defense, combining their four hits with four Stars' errors to score eight runs in the second inning. Jason Byce and Tyler Walters each had three hits, with Byce connecting on a pair of doubles for the Cowboys' only extra-base hits of the game.

Casey Merrit scattered eight hits in going the distance, striking out six and walking just one. Both of the runs he surrendered were unearned.

LOGANO WINS AT POCONO RACEWAY FOR 2ND TITLE

ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONG POND, Pa. • Joey Logano stood on top of the No. 20 high-fiving everyone he could reach in Victory Lane. Beverages were sprayed, fists were pumped and throaty shouts of celebration could be heard well down the 2½-mile track.

It's what winning a Sprint Cup race is all about. It's what Logano has waited years to truly experience. Not rain or Mark Martin would deny him this feeling.

Logano gave a crafty Martin a well-timed nudge out of the way in the closing laps Sunday at Pocono Raceway to clinch his first victory since 2009 and become the first Sprint Cup driver this season to win from the pole.

The one-time prodigy and the grizzled veteran pushing hard down the stretch was a duel to remember at Pocono. “I didn't stop screaming until I got to Victory Lane,” Logano said. “You work so hard to do this.”

This one felt like the first time for Logano after his only other career win in 125 Sprint Cup starts was a rain-shortened victory at New Hampshire. Wins count the same in the record book. But they sure do feel different.

“When you cross the line and you've won the race, to me, it's an amazing feeling,” Logano said.

Logano had the top car all weekend, posting the fastest practice time Friday and then taking the pole Saturday.

Logano, once a much-hyped phenom when he broke in with Joe Gibbs Racing, was under pressure to produce victories in the final year of his four-year contract.

Logano's win continues a recent uptick of solid results in the Cup series. He has insisted this season his contract status has not added pressure.

Bradley Scores Decision Win Over Pacquiao

ASSOCIATED PRESS

LAS VEGAS • Timothy Bradley promised to shock, though the biggest shock in his fight with Manny Pacquiao came from the judges' scorecards.

In a fight Pacquiao seemed to have in hand, two judges decided otherwise, giving Bradley a split decision Saturday night and ending the Filipino fighter's remarkable seven-year unbeaten run.

Promoter Bob Arum fumed, the crowd at the MGM Grand arena boomed, and Pacquiao seemed stunned when the decision was announced. Arum said there would be a November rematch, though he blasted the way the decision went down.

“I've never been as ashamed of the sport of boxing as I am tonight,” said

Bradley came on strong in the later rounds, winning five of the last six rounds on two scorecards and four on the third. He won 115-113 on two scorecards, while losing on the third by the same margin. The Associated Press had Pacquiao winning 117-111.

“I did my best,” Pacquiao said. “I guess my best wasn't good enough.”

Pacquiao tried to turn the fight into a brawl, using his power to hurt Bradley in the early rounds. But Bradley changed tactics in the middle rounds and used his boxing skills to win enough rounds to take the narrow decision for the welterweight title.

It ended a 15-fight winning streak by Pacquiao dating to 2005 that turned him into a boxing superstar and made him a national hero in the Philippines.

“I thought I won the fight,” Bradley said. “I didn't think he was as good as everyone says he was. I didn't feel his power.”

Camp

Although camp participation has grown under Borchert, there were 30 coaching changes in the state and summer camps aren't always high on a new coach's to-do list.

“The first year, a new coach is just trying to get organized,” Borchert said. “The second year you get things going and the third year, you actually go to a camp.”

There are exceptions, like Jerome's Sid Gambles, although Borchert noted that Gambles has been a long-time camp instructor.

“It's an easy transition for him” Borchert said. “He helped out when it was at Idaho State and he's helped out when it came to CSI.”

With fellow Great Basin Conference rivals Minico and Canyon Ridge participating, the first-year head coach of the Tigers is eager to see what his competition has in store, as well as getting his players on the same page.

“I know we did some stuff in the evenings last week so we didn't look like fools this week,” Gambles said. “It will be kind of good to see where we're at, where we need to adjust.”

The Thunder have home-court advantage and won't have the pressure from pundits and critics to deliver a title that the Heat have had on their shoulders for nearly two years.

Forget LeBron vs. Kevin Durant; the decisive matchup in this series is in the paint with the Heat's Udonis Haslem and Bosh against the Thunder's Kendrick Perkins and Serge Ibaka.

Oklahoma City will get better defense and rebounding — the dirty work not often supplied by superstars — from its inside duo, and after the teams defend home court for the first four games, the Thunder break through with a road win in Game 5 and clinch the title at home in six games.

And if this forecast turns out wrong, it only puts us in the same corner as so many weathermen.

THE MUSE: Floyd “Money” Mayweather is serving a short jail term on a domestic violence charge, the Klitschko brothers won't fight to unify the heavyweight division and now the event's of Saturday night, which left many fight fans disgusted once they were done examining how the fix possibly could have been in for this fight, vowing never to watch boxing again.

In most sports, that kind of trifecta would be viewed as bad news. In boxing, it's just another ring at the circus. NBC has the Olympics; boxing is best suited for TMZ.

The following is easy for this corner to say, since it didn't plunk down $54.99 to watch the fight on pay-per-view, but bad decisions have always been a part of boxing. Remember Holyfield-Lewis? Or Roy Jones in the 1988 Summer Olympics? And while it wasn't a decision, Sonny Liston could have been knocked down by a feather in his second fight against Muhammad Ali, given how he affectionately caressed the canvas that night.

What was the one consistent in all of those ignominious moments? The fans came back. And if Mayweather-Pacquiao gets scheduled, the fans will come back for that fight too.

It was an old circus pro that reportedly said there's a sucker born every minute. P.T. Barnum's sentiments fit boxing fans like Everlast gloves over a fist. The big difference between boxing fans and suckers is that boxing fans recognize when they are part of the con. They just don't care.

On Perry Swisher

News reports have proffered a shorthand description of Perry Swisher, who died Wednesday, as a legislator, utilities commissioner and newspaperman, which is accurate. But nowhere near explanatory.

The closest anyone has come to describing Swisher in a single sentence may be this, from a 1979 profile of him in the Lewiston Tribune upon his departure from that paper:

"As a journalist, legislator, gardener, publisher, guru, crusader, advisor to the mighty and the molested, critic, bard, counselor wondrous, administrator, confessor, orator, pundit laureate and consummate pain in the posterior – to place the adjective 'former' in front of those titles is not to know the man – Perry Swisher has been handing down observations and decrees ever since he presided over his Owyhee County birth 55 years ago."

He was 88 when he died, and the description still fit. And still leaves out so much.

Swisher made his mark at Pocatello, as a reporter, political activist and candidate (not mutually exclusive then). He became a businessman, running a bookstore and a weekly newspaper. That paper, the Intermountain, covered regional and state politics, and Swisher wrote nearly all of it for more than a decade. His range was tremendous, from detailed commentary on government to "Madame Fifi," an Ann Landers parody. (Great reading about the time and place even now.) The only business he ran that made money, he once said, was a restaurant – nicely located across the street from a movie theatre, toward which the fans' exhaust was directed.

But his sense of public service was strong enough that he won legislative office regularly as a Republican in Democratic Bannock County. In 1966, after more than two decades of intense political and governmental work, he threw away his livelihood and his standing in his political party to mount a hopeless run for governor as an Independent because, he felt, someone had to be out there supporting the newly-enacted sales tax, which the voters were about to either sustain or reject. (They voted aye. Swisher is one of the main reasons Idaho has a sales tax.) In the next decade, he returned to the legislature for one term as a Democrat, but this was no usual conversion: He could be as harsh about his new party as his old one.

He was an unpredictable speaker because he never stopped thinking and learning. A cup of coffee with Swisher was a journey on a switch-back trail through first one topic (say, low-head hydro), across to another seemingly unrelated (the rate of worker compensation) to yet another (maybe a local election in Burley) and on and on – it was to see the connections and causal relationships, different angles of lighting, otherwise not obvious at all. This journalist was always a wonderful interview, partly because of his absolute blunt candor with a twist. He described Lewiston as "caught in a time warp," a place where the mayor should be Rod Serling and all the cars should have tailfins. On appointment to the utilities commission Swisher, who strongly favored utility regulation, said he wasn't a "consumer advocate" because he didn't approve of heedless consumption. He was a font of ideas, and of thinking them through to reach practical conclusions.

Swisher was unique. His legacy in thought and practice that will influence Idaho for a long time.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Families do not Function Well with Single Parents

Hi, Dave; you visited California on your recent vacation. What did you find?

I found contrasts as I first visited my old business partner and his family in San Jose for a week. His daughter was graduating from college; his younger daughter was doing well in school and, despite the slow economy, his business was surviving. I observed a very functional family pulling together and doing well.

My second visit was to see my niece in Los Angeles, where I stayed a week at her house. She was a single mother trying to work and raise two boys. The 20-year-old did not work nor attend school and got up at noon every day. The 11-year-old had changed drastically since my last visit three years prior. After school, he played video games for many hours and only did homework after constant urging by his mother. The rent on their house of 600 square feet was $1,500 a month, and the grandfather had to pay the rent or the family would have been homeless. I have known my niece for more than 50 years, and she is a college-educated, hard-working, honest girl that is having it hard as a single parent.

The third family my wife and I visited was my brother and sister-in-law in Fallbrook. They were doing very well in all aspects of family life as the wife worked as a very successful human resource manager at a local enterprise while the father took care of the boys, ages 7 and 11. The boys were respectful of the parents and did well in school.

The families where the mothers and fathers worked together had happy, functional families. The single parent had too much to handle.

Is this not a microcosm of what has caused the major social ills of today? Just my opinion.

Canyon Park Development Contradicts City's Plan

Disappointment and rage come to mind when I think of the city council's approval of the Canyon Park development.

A development with a strip mall along the canyon rim with a huge building blocking the view of the canyon and having loading docks facing the canyon doesn't sound like it is in conformance with the Twin Falls City Comprehensive Plan. I don't live in the neighborhood close to the canyon, but I am a citizen of Twin Falls and enjoy the beauty of the canyon.

A man from Mississippi, who doesn't even live in Twin Falls, is given permission to build a strip mall on our canyon? I can't believe it.

The Comprehensive Plan states: "The Canyon Rim area is a particularly important resource area that is under pressure to accommodate a range of uses and needs. Any changes to the Canyon Rim area should be carefully considered to ensure that the integrity of the area is not compromised – the edges of the community should be preserved to the greatest degree possible to maintain a strong link with the natural systems inherent to the area."

It also stated seven keys for improved community design and enhancing Twin Falls, three of those being: (1) Protect and Preserve the Canyon Rim Experience, (2) Improve the Sense of Arrival into the Community, (3) Protect and Preserve the Traditional Landscape at Rural Fringes.

The Canyon Rim District needs protection and who better to do that than our city council and planning and zoning. Just because a developer wants to do something, do we give it to him at all costs to our community? Why have a Comprehensive Plan if, at the whim of a developer, all is changed?

The site can be developed commercially in a way that is sensitive to the values of the community as stated in the Comprehensive Plan. The current proposal does not represent those values. If we want people to come to Twin Falls, make it a unique, beautiful place to live.

It's Time to Question City Code Regarding Property Lines

If you own property within the Twin Falls City limits, you may not be aware that the property between the sidewalk and street belongs to the city. This means that the trees on that property are also not yours. However, the city requires you to care for its property (City Codes 8-1-5, 8-4-4).

When is the last time the city thanked you for spraying, watering, mowing, raking or otherwise tending to its property at your own cost? If the city trees adjacent to your property are in need of repair, pruning or altering for the sake of safety, that is also your responsibility (at your cost), but you must follow the city's explicit guidelines (see the City Tree Ordinance)!

These ordinances have been in place for a very long time, and I think it is time they be questioned. The city needs to take responsibility for its own property as we must for ours. I don't know what rights the city is citing in requiring you to care for public property that is adjacent to your private property.

The city has two very large trees in front of my property, both of which drop branches at every strong wind. Three of which have been 4 to 6 feet in diameter and one of which has left a 5-inch diameter hole in my lawn from the impact. Other large branches have landed within inches of my car.

It's time for the city ordinance to be questioned, and it's time for the city to own up and be responsible for its own property.

Why is it so Hard to Find a Rental in Twin Falls with Pets?

What is wrong with the people of Twin Falls, Idaho? Why are there so many against pets?

I lived there for eight months in a nice duplex and, at the time, I had two little poms. The landlord readily accepted pets; he was an exception.

Adults and children do more damage to property than I have ever seen caused by pets. When is the first or last time anyone that rents out a home to someone that had a pet that broke windows, knocked holes in the walls, soiled the carpet with engine oil or some other substance?

I know plenty of people that have a number of rentals, and the stories that I have heard and damages that I have seen (mind you) all caused by the humans that rented the property. Isn't it just so unfair that people can spoil it for everyone by their neglect and destruction of not only their own property, but everyone else's too.

I'd rather rent to responsible people that have pets. Do a background check on potential tenants and look for criminal activity and history as well as responsible behavior.

Come on, give the pets a fair shake. If the owners are decent and don't neglect their pets as a lot of people neglect their kids and/or pets. I'd like to move back to the Magic Valley, either Jerome or Twin Falls, but no one allows pets.

Women of INL Reflect on Challenges, Progress

BY SVEN BERG
Post Register

IDAHO FALLS (AP) • Women shouldn't let prejudice hold them back in the male-dominated world of science and engineering, say three who ought to know.

As employees in various stages of their careers at Idaho National Laboratory, Mary Dee Grimm, Kathryn McCarthy and Shannon Bragg-Sitton have navigated that world their entire professional lives.

Instead of being a liability, being a woman can have its advantages, they said. Where some men tend to fade into the background, women's exploits tend to catch attention and be remembered, said McCarthy, director of the lab's technical integration office for the Light Water Reactor Sustainability program.

"If you're different, you stand out, so a lot of times people will remember you; which is good because they'll remember you for other opportunities," McCarthy said. "It can also be bad because if you screw up, they'll remember you then, too."

That's not to say women have an easier path than men.

McCarthy, who's spent 21 years at the lab, said women still face a double standard for behavior, especially in group settings such as meetings and conferences.

"Sometimes, in some situations, a confident, motivated woman is perceived in a negative sense where a man who behaves exactly the same way is not," she said.

In 50 years of working around engineers for the federal government's lab, Mary Dee Grimm has seen women make plenty of strides.

When she first arrived, straight out of high school, it was a rarity to see a woman who held a post any higher than administrative support at the lab. That's changed, as McCarthy can attest, but Grimm admits old perceptions die hard.

"It goes back to, maybe, that women are perceived as more dramatic or more sensitive or more reacting — the emotional side of it," Grimm said. "And Kathy's right. You can see a gentleman kind of get upset or raise his voice, where if a female does, it could be perceived as 'Oh, she's just a little bit emotional today.'"

Bragg-Sitton likes to focus on the benefit of being a woman in a room — or lab space — full of men. She looks at things differently than they do, she said. A fresh point of view can be a contribution in itself when it helps the collective avoid the traps of groupthink, she said.

But ideas aren't enough. "You also have to have the confidence to speak out and say it," said Bragg-Sitton, who's been at the lab for a year and a half.

Grimm recalled one woman who wasn't afraid to speak her mind. The Shannon Bragg-Sitton, a senior nuclear engineer at Idaho National Laboratory, explains a project that tests different types of materials' viable as nuclear fuel cladding on June 5 in Idaho Falls. Bragg-Sitton said her gender can work to her and others' advantage in job settings.

"Sometimes, in some situations, a confident, motivated woman is perceived in a negative sense where a man who behaves exactly the same way is not."

Kathryn McCarthy, director of INL's technical integration office for the Light Water Reactor Sustainability program woman, whose name Grimm didn't share, held a position as assistant to a high-level manager in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

The position itself wasn't a breakthrough for women, but the woman's intelligence and force of personality made her influential, Grimm said.

"We were all scared to death of her, but that's OK," Grimm said. "From that point on it's been a consistent change of more women in higher positions, in different positions."

All three women are mothers, and all three said people close to them have been crucial in allowing them to advance their careers.

McCarthy's husband cut back his working hours when it became clear that her career would take precedence.

Bragg-Sitton's husband quit his job to stay home and care for their children.

Grimm's network of family and close friends gave her the space to keep working in a time when both men and women questioned her place in society.

Bosses, too, have become more accommodating, partly due to self-interest, Bragg-Sitton said.

"You're going to tend to stick with a boss that is supportive of your family decisions and recognizes that family is first," she said.

For all the progress that the lab, specifically, and the professional science and engineering world have made, however, women's place in that world seems to have stalled somewhat, McCarthy said. During the past decade, the percentage of women in academic engineering programs around the country has remained stagnant at less than 20 percent, she said, and no one's sure why.

Women make up less than a quarter of INL's 4,000-person staff. Only 14 percent of the lab's technical positions are occupied by women. But Bragg-Sitton, Grimm and McCarthy agreed that while some institutions are resistant to the arrival of women in positions of authority and influence, they generally have felt welcome at INL.

None of the women regretted pursuing a career. Their decisions may have raised some eyebrows with co-workers, friends and society at large, but they've made for happier families, the women said.

$42 Million Bear Lake Resort in Utah Planned

GARDEN CITY, Utah (AP) • Plans for a $42 million resort on the shores of Bear Lake in Rich County have cleared another hurdle.

Logan's Herald Journal reports the Garden City Town Council and the planning commission have voted to approve the preliminary plat for the first several phases of the Waters Edge Resort, a planned unit development.

Waters Edge, a Holiday Inn resort franchise, would include an 84-room hotel, 70 condominiums, 5,000 square feet of conference space and 40,000 square feet of commercial space.

If completed as envisioned, it would be Bear Lake's largest resort.

Developer Norman Mecham, of Garden City-based Vista Realty, can apply for building permits after turning in final plans and having them approved by engineers.

Appeal Filed over Elko County Forest Travel Plan

BY MARTIN GRIFFITH
Associated Press

RENO, Nev. • An environmental organization is appealing the Humboldt-Toiyabe National's Forest's travel management plan for Elko County, contending that its adoption "caved to pressure from sagebrush rebel extremists."

The Center for Biological Diversity maintains that the U.S. Forest Service plan would nearly double the road and trail mileage open for motorized use in the Jarbidge, Mountain City and Ruby Mountains ranger districts of northeast Nevada.

"This plan sacrifices our watersheds, streams and habitats for wildlife and endangered species to a vocal minority of noisy, high-powered (off-road vehicle) users," Rob Mrowka, the group's Nevada spokesman, said in a statement.

Humboldt-Toiyabe spokeswoman Christie Kalkowski said a "thorough analysis" of all issues raised by the organization's administrative challenge will occur, and Forest Supervisor Jeanne Higgins would reach a decision on the appeal by July 16.

District Rangers Wendy Fuell and Gar Abbas, who oversee national forest land in the rural county, have offered the organization a chance to attend an informal meeting to clarify the issues as part of the appeal process, Kalkowski added.

"(The National Environmental Policy Act) process can be complicated. We do make mistakes and check things," she told The Associated Press.

The vast majority of national forest roads in the county will remain open to motorized vehicles and only some will be closed under the plan released in April by the Forest Service.

The plan for the first time recognizes more than 900 miles of roads and trails in the county as part of the national forest system. It keeps open another 1,085 miles of existing authorized roads and closes about 225 miles of road.

The decision means nearly 2,000 miles of national forest roads and motorized trails will be open for public use in the county — more than 90 percent of all such mileage on the three ranger districts there.

Mrowka said the vast majority of trails being authorized for motorized use were created by "renegade riders," without the consent of the Forest Service and without consideration for their impacts on natural resources.

"This isn't about kicking motorized users off the forest," he said. "It's about reason, common sense and the long view."

"Protecting ecosystem health while still providing for some motorized use should be the goal. Under the current situation, there are still almost 1,100 miles of motorized roads and trails open to the public. It's too bad the Forest Service chose such a destructive and unbalanced plan."

The Forest Service's travel management plans were initiated during the administration of former President George W. Bush amid an explosion of new roads spurred by the growing popularity of off-highway vehicle travel.

Winds Put Damper on Desert Rave in Vegas

LAS VEGAS (AP) • High winds put a damper early Sunday on a desert rave in Las Vegas featuring more than 100 dance music performers.

Electric Daisy Carnival organizers say they were forced to shut down their acts for the night at 2:45 a.m. out of safety concerns for an estimated 90,000 fans.

Wind gusts of up to 30 mph prompted a temporary shutdown of the festival around 1 a.m. The acts resumed for a short time, but officials later ordered an end to the night's festival.

Fans were allowed to stay and listen to music from temporary sound systems until 5:30 a.m. from the infield grass of Las Vegas Motor Speedway.

The three-day festival is scheduled to continue as scheduled, with gates opening at 7 p.m. Sunday until 5:30 a.m. today.

Hundreds Evacuated as Colo., N.M. Fires Spread

BY KRISTEN WYATT
Associated Press

LAPORTE, Colo. • Firefighters on Sunday were fighting wildfires that have spread quickly in parched forests in Colorado and New Mexico, forcing hundreds of people from their homes and the evacuation of wolves from a sanctuary.

The Colorado fire, burning in a mountainous area about 15 miles west of Fort Collins, grew to 22 square miles within about a day of being reported and has destroyed or damaged 18 structures.

Strong winds, meanwhile, grounded aircraft fighting a 40-square-mile wildfire near the mountain community of Ruidoso in southern New Mexico. Crews were working to build a fire line around the blaze, which started Friday and has damaged or destroyed 36 structures.

It wasn't immediately clear how many of the structures lost were homes. "We're still trying to take a tally," Kerry Gladden, public information officer for Ruidoso, said late Sunday afternoon.

In Colorado, the fire sent up heavy smoke, obscuring the sun and creating an eerie, orange dusk in the middle of the day. The smell of smoke drifted into the Denver area and smoke spread as far away as central Nebraska, western Kansas and Texas.

The latest New Mexico fire is smaller than the Whitewater-Baldy fire — the largest in the state's history — but it's more concerning to authorities because it started closer to homes, said Dan Ware, a spokesman for the New Mexico State Forestry Division. He said the number of Ruidoso evacuees was in the hundreds, but he didn't have an exact figure.

Gladden said preliminary evacuations could be issued for some areas closer to town due to wind shifts.

Karen Takai, a spokeswoman for the Ruidoso fire crews, said smoke is heavily impacting the community of Capitan, about 5 miles to the northeast. She said Capitan and others could also face evacuation.

"Any communities around this fire have the potential of being evacuated," she said. "If I lived in Capitan, I definitely would be prepared. Don't wait until the sheriff's office comes knocking at your door and tells you to evacuate."

Elsewhere Sunday, firefighters were battling a wildfire that blackened 6 square miles in Wyoming's Guernsey State Park and forced the evacuation of between 500 and 1,000 campers and visitors. Cooler weather was helping firefighters in their battle against two other wildfires in southern Utah.

In Colorado, authorities sent nearly 1,800 evacuation notices to phone numbers but it wasn't clear how many residents had to leave. About 500 people had checked in at Red Cross shelters. Larimer County Sheriff Justin Smith said there was an unconfirmed report of a person unaccounted for, but he wouldn't elaborate.

An official speaks with Brittany Harrington at a road closure near her home on Highway 287, due to a wildfire burning in a mountainous area about 15 miles west of Fort Collins, Colo., on Sunday.

Authorities say it's the worst fire seen in Larimer County in about 25 years. It spread as fast as 1 1/2 miles an hour Saturday, skipping over some areas but burning intensely in trees in others. Flames were coming dangerously close to deputies who were telling some residents to evacuate, Smith said.

Kathie Walter and her husband helped friends several miles away evacuate from the Colorado fire on Saturday. When they got home, they were surprised to get a call warning them to be ready to evacuate just in case. But Walter didn't want to wait.

"Smoke was coming in hard. We could not see flames or orange or black smoke. But we didn't need to see anymore. We just said 'Hey, let's get out of here,'" she said.

They evacuated with their five cats and two dogs. They had a head start. After a wildfire in the area last year, they had left two suitcases packed in their garage.

Creflo Dollar Denies Punching, Choking Daughter

COLLEGE PARK, Ga. (AP) •

Megachurch pastor Creflo Dollar staunchly denied Sunday that he punched and choked his 15-year-old daughter in an argument, telling his congregation the allegations made in a police report are nothing but "exaggeration and sensationalism."

"I will say this emphatically: I should have never been arrested," Dollar said in his first public appearance two days after police charged him with misdemeanor counts of simple battery and cruelty to children.

The pastor got an enthusiastic ovation from the packed church as he took the pulpit Sunday at the World Changers Church International in metro Atlanta. He addressed the criminal charges head-on for several minutes before moving on to his sermon.

"I want you all to hear personally from me that all is well in the Dollar household," Dollar said.

The 50-year-old Dollar is one of the most prominent African-American preachers based around Atlanta, with 30,000 members in the Atlanta area and a ministry of satellite churches across the U.S.

Annie Oakley's Gun Fetches $143,400 at Texas Auction

BY CHRISTOPHER SHERMAN
Associated Press

McALLEN, Texas • A shotgun that once belonged to Western sharpshooter and entertainer Annie Oakley sold for more than $143,000 at an auction in Dallas on Sunday.

The trove of about 100 of the icon's items headlining Heritage Auctions' "Legends of the Wild West" event brought in nearly $520,000, according to the auction house.

The items included several guns, her Stetson hat, photographs and letters. Oakley's great-grandnieces put up the items and had inherited them from their mother, who died in 2009.

One of those descendants, Terry Holcomb, said, overall, the auction's success left her with a positive feeling, but "there's a little bit of melancholy and sadness that goes with it."

The items had been passed down through generations. Holcomb remembers shooting the guns for target practice on Sunday mornings in California's Santa Monica Mountains and wearing Oakley's Stetson hat — which sold for $17,925 — for Halloween.

But Holcomb said seeing how excited some of the buyers were with their purchases made her feel good.

One man who flew in from Odessa to bid on one of two Marlin .22 caliber rifles — one sold for $71,700, the other for $83,650 — asked Holcomb and her sister, Tommye Tait, to sign his catalog after buying one of the rifles.

"He said his kids couldn't wait to shoot it," Holcomb said.

COURTESY OF HERITAGE AUCTIONS - ASSOCIATED PRESS

The sisters inherited the items from their mother, Billie Butler Serene, who died in 2009 at the age of 95.

Serene was raised by her grandparents, and her grandfather, William Butler, was the brother of Oakley's husband, Frank Butler, a marksman who became Oakley's manager. Oakley and Frank Butler frequently visited and Oakley taught Serene how to handle a gun.

Holcomb said she grew up hearing stories about Oakley without fully realizing her impact.

"I've not ceased being amazed by her enduring legacy," she said.

Lift for Markets from Spain Rescue Could Be Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) • A $125 billion plan to rescue Spain's banks won't solve Europe's debt crisis or ease the pain of double-digit unemployment across the continent.

But it is likely to calm financial markets and buy time for European policymakers to work with other weak economies threatening the stability of the 17 countries that use the euro.

Europe still has plenty of troubles to address in the three other countries that have already received financial help — Greece, Portugal and Ireland. In Greece, voters could elect a government next week that will refuse to live up to the terms of the country's $170 billion rescue package. Portugal is combating a toxic combination of high debt and 15 percent unemployment. Ireland is cleaning up a banking mess a lot like Spain's. Then there's Italy, the eurozone's third-largest economy, where government debt is piling up as the economy stagnates.

"We still have some pretty fundamental problems to solve," says Nicolas Veron, senior fellow at the Bruegel think tank in Brussels. "We need more radical solutions than this one."

Official: Egypt's Mubarak in Critical Condition

CAIRO (AP) • Hosni Mubarak is slipping in and out of consciousness eight days after the ousted Egyptian leader was sent to prison to begin serving a life sentence, a security official said on Sunday.

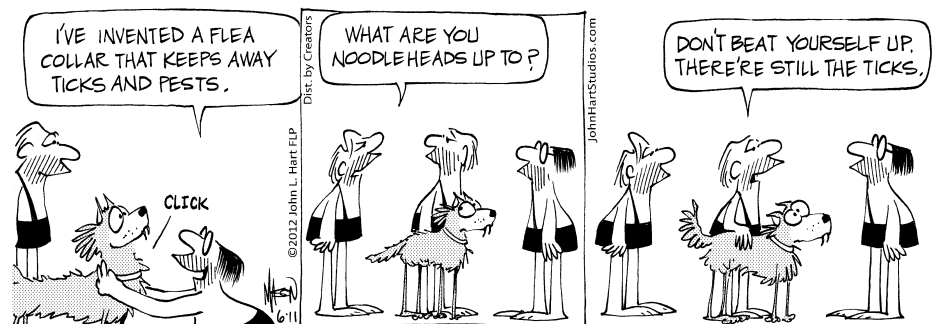

With rumors of the former president's death spreading rapidly, authorities granted the wife, former first lady Suzanne Mubarak, and the couple's two daughters-in-law special permission to visit him in Cairo's Torah prison early that morning.

"The former president's health is in decline, but now it's stable in its deteriorated state," the official said. Since his wife's visit, Mubarak has suffered from an irregular heartbeat and required assistance in breathing.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE® Bobby Wolff

"Mankind always sets itself only such problems as it can solve ..."
 — Karl Marx

Sometimes an easy game suddenly develops unexpected problems. Here you pick up one of your best hands of the decade, but to compensate for that, your partner has one of his worst. His three-club bid showed 0-4 points, and his three-spade call at his third turn suggested no feature he wanted to emphasize.

Accordingly, you come to a stop in four spades. When West leads the club queen, you ruff, then cash the spade ace, getting news of the 4-0 break.

With three possible diamond losers, you cannot afford to play ace and another diamond or a 4-1 break outside would doom you immediately. So you cross to the spade jack and finesse the diamond queen, the best safety play against a 4-1 diamond break. If the finesse holds, you'd draw trump and play on diamonds for 10 or 11 tricks.

When the finesse loses, you ruff the next club and play the diamond ace, crossing your fingers. When both opponents follow suit, you can play a third diamond. West wins and plays a third club, but now you discard the heart four. If the defenders lead a fourth round of clubs, then dummy's spade six would still be in place to take care of the ruff, and the hearts would provide the entry back to hand to draw the rest of the trumps.

If West exits with a heart, you can simply draw trumps and claim the rest.

ANSWER: On an auction of this sort, you should lead clubs rather than diamonds, because your partner has gone out of his way to direct the lead. A club lead may either cash out the suit for your side, or set up winners when your partner has a side-entry in one of the majors.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a middle-aged, divorced man in a one-year relationship with a wonderful woman. "Alexis" is bright, pretty, fun, responsible, affectionate, and yes, I do love her. She also insists that I move in with her. She wants us to start our life together under one roof — hers.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

I'm having a hard time with all of this — selling my home, selling most of my belongings, changing my work-from-home routine and giving up the independence of living alone with my mutts. Alexis still has a minor child at home, which is an issue because I feel I have "been there, done that."

I don't think the timing is right, and I have told her as much several times. But she's soon back in "sell your house and move in" mode. Alexis is beginning to think I will never make the move. (She may be right.) I'll probably lose her if I don't give in. Any suggestions?

— STAYING PUT IN OKLAHOMA

DEAR STAYING PUT: Before selling your home and most of your possessions, consider putting the things you want to keep in storage and renting out your home for a year. That way, if things don't work with Alexis — and they might not — you won't have given up everything. Another plus: By then your house may have risen in value and you'll get a better price for it. But do nothing in haste or because you feel you are being pressured.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently moved to a new area and are becoming friendly with the people in the neighborhood. My husband works as an education director for the local synagogue and, because he is in this field, we have agreed to keep our new home a kosher home and follow the strict rules of kashrut. We will allow no food in the house that has not been prepared in a kosher kitchen using food approved by the Orthodox Union.

My question is, if people decide to stop to introduce themselves and bring something homemade as a welcoming gesture, how do I politely and tactfully decline their gift if they do not keep a kosher kitchen?

— NEW ON THE BLOCK IN CALIF.

DEAR NEW ON THE BLOCK: Smile at your food-bearing neighbor and say, "Thank you. We keep a kosher home and want to know if you do, too." If the answer is no, explain that while it looks delicious and you appreciate the gesture, you can't accept the food because of your strict observance of your religion.

DEAR ABBY: On Jan. 23 you printed a column "Recognizing the Signs of a Stroke Can Help Save a Life." Well, in our family it sure did. After my husband and I read it, we had our three children (19, 16 and 14) also read it. Then we hung it on the wall in the kitchen.

Our 16-year-old son, Charlie, was taking his 87-year-old grandfather out shopping not long afterward, and not a mile from the house our son noticed rapid changes in his grandfather. Grandpa said, "I'll be fine, just take me home." Of course our son, for the first time, did not listen to him. He pulled the car over and proceeded to call 911. A couple of weeks of physical and occupational therapy, and they say Grandpa will be good to come home. Thank you so much for putting that in your column.

— CATHERINE IN GARDINER, N.Y.

DEAR CATHERINE: You're welcome. I'm pleased to know — as I'm sure the writer of the letter I printed will be — that it turned out to be so helpful to you. Your son is a hero, not only because he saved his grandfather, but also because he calmly took control of the situation in an emergency.

A GREAT WAY TO SEARCH FOR YOUR NEW HOME!

Today is Monday, June 11, the 163rd day of 2012. There are 203 days left in the year.

Today's Highlights:
On June 11, 1962, three prisoners at Alcatraz in San Francisco Bay staged an escape, leaving the island on a makeshift raft. Frank Morris and brothers Clarence and John Anglin were never found or heard from again.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1770, Captain James Cook, commander of the British ship Endeavour, discovered the Great Barrier Reef off Australia by running onto it.

In 1776, the Continental Congress formed a committee to draft a Declaration of Independence calling for freedom from Britain.

In 1919, Sir Barton won the Belmont Stakes, becoming horse racing's first Triple Crown winner.

In 1922, the groundbreaking documentary feature "Nanook of the North," produced by Robert J. Flaherty, premiered in New York.

In 1937, eight members of the Soviet Red Army High Command accused of disloyalty were put on trial, convicted and immediately executed as part of Josef Stalin's Great Purge.

In 1942, the United States and the Soviet Union signed a lend-lease agreement to aid the Soviet war effort in World War II.

In 1963, a Buddhist monk (Thich Quang Duc) set himself afire on a Saigon street to protest the government of South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem.

In 1971, the year-and-a-half-long occupation of Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay by American Indian activists ended as federal officers evicted the remaining protesters.

In 1977, Seattle Slew won the Belmont Stakes, capturing the Triple Crown.

In 1987, Margaret Thatcher became the first British prime minister in 160 years to win a third consecutive term of office as her Conservatives held onto a reduced majority in Parliament.

Ten years ago: Congressional investigators released a report which said Clinton administration workers had defaced equipment and left behind prank messages as they vacated the White House in Jan. 2001; but the investigators failed to uncover the widespread problems alleged by some Republicans. Rock star Paul McCartney and Heather Mills were married in a remote Irish castle. (The couple divorced in 2008; McCartney married again in October 2011.) The very first episode of "American Idol" aired on Fox Television with hosts Ryan Seacrest and Brian Dunkleman and judges Simon Cowell, Paula Abdul and Randy Jackson. (The winner of the first season was Kelly Clarkson.)

Five years ago: Republicans blocked a Senate no-confidence vote on Attorney General Alberto Gonzales. A divided panel of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said the Bush administration could not use new anti-terrorism laws to keep Ali al-Marri, a legal U.S. resident, locked up indefinitely without charging him. (The issue was rendered moot in 2009 when the Obama administration ordered al-Marri turned over to civilian authorities.) Sen. Larry Craig, R-Idaho, was arrested at the Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport in a restroom sex sting. (Craig, who denied soliciting an undercover police officer, later pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and paid a fine.) Actress Mala Powers died in Burbank, Calif., at age 75.

PAINTING

IF JUNE 11 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Your ambitions are stirred, but you could become overly competitive during the next four to six weeks and inadvertently offend the very people you hope to impress. Tone it down and wait until August to make business or financial decisions, as your judgment about money and business will be better. In September, consider joining a club or organization that can help you network with other like-minded individuals. A get-rich scheme or other stimulating idea could pique your interest in October. Use your enthusiasm for a vacation, but avoid jumping into action on your fantasies in November when your gullibility can cause problems.

HOROSCOPE
Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Act like you are invincible and others may actually believe it. Your creative energies are running high, so make the most of it. Hold off on making any major purchases or investments until conditions improve.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Don't put off until tomorrow what you can accomplish today. Avoid slacking off over the next few days as there is a chance to make a real mark with your achievements. Walk away from confrontations.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): The greatest achievements in history all began with a good idea. Don't let your good ideas go to waste. Write them down and even if you can set things in motion now, you can work on it later.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Show off your star power. Others have come to rely on you as the one who can get the job done, so don't prove them wrong. Intimate discussions with a special someone may spin around in endless circles.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Raise the value of your own stock. Invest in yourself by showing that you are the model of hard work and efficiency. Just going through the motions is not enough if you want to climb the ladder.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The best solution is often the simplest. Don't make solving problems more complicated than it needs to be. Improve your karma by volunteering your time to a worthy cause or public event.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Show a little mercy. Don't keep someone over a barrel after you've gained the upper hand. If you bleed them dry, you will see no long-term benefits. Show a little kindness and compassion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Play it safe. Adventures and flings are likely to find poor results, so your best bet is to stick with the routine for now. Don't start anything new in regard to finances or relationships for a few days.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Do or do not, there is no try. Approach every challenge that you face with the confidence that you will succeed and it will be so. Doubt is your worst enemy and should be pushed from your mind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Don't cry over spilled milk. A grave mistake may have you feeling down, but there's nothing you can do about it now but move on. Hold off on sealing the deal until any lingering doubts have subsided.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Signals can get crossed. Don't act under the assumption that everyone who casts a friendly smile your way wants to start a romance. Spending should be kept in check except for necessities.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): An open mind has few enemies. The more receptive you are to the ideas of others, the better you'll get along. Being around someone who thinks outside the box may provide some valuable new insights.

GREEN MIDDLEKAUFF'S QUOTE OF THE DAY

"Life is one big road with lots of signs. So when you riding through the ruts, don't complicate your mind. Flee from hate, mischief and jealousy. Don't bury your thoughts, put your vision to reality. Wake up and live!"
