Jogger Hit by Car in Jerome

TIMES-NEWS

JEROME • An 18-year-old male jogger struck by a vehicle Wednesday is recovering in a Boise hospital, according to the Jerome County Sheriff's Office.

The man was jogging west on the frontage road off Interstate 84 exit 168, when he was hit by a vehicle traveling the same direction. The jogger was taken to Boise by air ambulance and is being treated for his injuries, according to the sheriff's office.

The driver of the vehicle reported the accident, according to the sheriff's office.

Jerome County Sheriff's Office Chief Deputy Jack Johnson said the incident is still under investigation. Deputies haven't been able to interview the victim to determine if they should press charges on the driver, Johnson said.

The names of the driver and jogger have not been released, and deputies were still working to notify the man's family of his injuries on Thursday, Johnson said.

The man didn't have identification on him and it took some time to identify him, Johnson said.

GOP Digs into Party Platform

BY MELISSA DAVLIN

TWIN FALLS • Small phrases can have big impacts.

That was the recurring theme surrounding platform discussions on the first day of the Idaho Republican Party's state convention, which runs through Saturday in Twin Falls. The debates were a warm-up to today's onslaught of meetings, where convention participants will consider adopting proposed platform changes and resolutions.

Thursday, the first day of the convention, offered a light schedule, with campaign lessons and a Platform Committee meeting where participants broke into subcommittees to discuss proposed changes.

Platform planks are party positions on major topics, but don't necessarily result in state policy changes.

The Idaho GOP's platform has received attention in recent years for changes including abolishing the 17th Amendment, which allows citizens to elect their United States senators, and support for a closed primary system.

Though the Thursday subcommittees took votes on changes, nothing will be finalized until Saturday, when all the convention delegates vote on the document.

Still, Thursday's discussion provided debate on hot topics, including eliminating support for "sound currency," which supports backing up all U.S. currency with gold or silver. After a long debate, the committee voted to keep the plank. Participants also voted

GOP Delegates Descend on Twin Falls from Far and Wide

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Cars from across the state flooded the parking lot at the College of Southern Idaho Thursday with bumper stickers touting Mitt Romney, Ron Paul, Republican women and gun rights.

Once inside the Fine Arts Center lobby, state Republican Convention attendees from near and far had a chance to check in and check up on fellow political junkies from around the state.

Some gathered to talk state and national politics or their favorite – and least favorite – politicians. Others went through goodie bags handed out to each delegate and took turns taking photos with a life-sized, cardboard cutout of Mitt Romney.

Lathen Sonnenberg traveled from Latah County for his first convention experience. Sonnenberg said he helped count votes in the May caucus and caught the politics bug.

"For the first time in my life, I felt like I had an active part in politics," he said.

In the past, Sonnenberg said he paid attention to politics and voted for both Republican and Democratic candidates in the past.

"You want to support the candidate with your ideals," he said.

Now, he's hoping participation in the convention will broaden his political knowledge.

ISP Trooper Cited in Wendell Crash

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

WENDELL • An Idaho State Police trooper was cited for inattentive driving after being involved in a crash in Wendell just after 6 p.m. Wednesday, Gooding County Sheriff Shaun Gough said Thursday morning.

Trooper Leslie Nye of Heyburn was driving a 2000 Dodge Charger patrol car, heading north on North Idaho Street near the intersection of West Main Street near the Maverik Country Store. That's when he rear-ended a Dodge pickup driven by Dave Fisher of Wendell, Gough said.

Fisher had stopped to make a left turn into the Maverik when he was rear-ended, Gough said. Fisher is a former Wendell police chief.

Gough said there was extensive damage to the patrol car, but no one was injured in the crash.

BUHL MAN CHARGED WITH AGGRAVATED DUI IN CRASH THAT INJURED FRIEND

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

BUHL • A game of chicken on the highway landed one man in the hospital and another in court.

Rodney James Paulson, 29, and Shaun Craig Cramer, 33, are childhood friends and began swerving into each other's lanes on U.S. Highway 30, northwest of Buhl, at about 5 p.m. on April 14, according to a report from Idaho State Police.

According to the report, Cramer said he was traveling westbound and noticed a red Dodge traveling eastbound with Paulson driving. Cramer saw Paulson cross into his lane then return to the eastbound lane, the report stated. Then, according to the report, when he was about a quarter mile from Paulson, Cramer crossed into the eastbound lane and then returned to his lane. Paulson then crossed completely into Cramer's lane and when Cramer tried to avoid Paulson by changing lanes the two collided.

"Paulson crossed back into the eastbound lane in front of Cramer's Ford causing Cramer to crash into the driver's side of Paulson's Dodge," a trooper wrote in the report.

According to the report, Cramer received a seven- to eight-inch-long, and one-inch-wide gash on his scalp that exposed his skull in some places. A passenger in the car had bruising on her lower back.

When troopers arrived on the scene, emergency responders told them they smelled alcohol on Paulson's breath, but his injuries prevented him from performing any field sobriety tests, according to the report. Paulson was given a blood test that was returned to the Idaho State Patrol on May 11 with a result of 0.155, nearly twice the legal limit for driving.

On June 13, aggravated drunken driving charges were filed and a warrant was put out for Paulson's arrest.

Paulson was arraigned in Twin Falls County 5th District Court on Thursday and released on his own recognizance. A June 29 preliminary hearing is scheduled.

Fire Crews Respond to Small Kimberly Fire

TIMES-NEWS

KIMBERLY • Firefighters responded to a small wildfire just south of Kimberly near Rock Creek Road.

The U.S. Bureau of Land Management sent four engines, a water tender and a dozer to respond to the estimated 10-acre wildfire called the Indian Springs fire, said Kyli Gough, a BLM spokeswoman.

A single engine air tanker was on the scene but left shortly after arriving, she said.

The cause of the fire is still unknown. Crews contained the fire by 2 p.m. and controlled it by 6 p.m., Gough said.

The Rock Creek Rural Fire Protection District also responded to the fire.

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • The Republican Liberty Caucus is sponsoring a free showing of "Gerrymandering" at 8:30 p.m. today at the Lamphouse Theater, 223 5th Avenue South in Twin Falls.

The documentary explores how those in power affect the redistricting

The film showing comes after last week's dismissal of a lawsuit in which Buhl resident Rick Martin accused Twin Falls County Prosecutor Grant Loebs of gerrymandering. Martin is the head of the local Republican Liberty Caucus.

Castleford, Cassia Co. High Schools Receive Education Network Grant

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Four area schools will receive state grants to help them better use the Idaho Education Network.

Castleford, Declo, Oakley and Raft River high schools were chosen last week as recipients of the Innovation Program Awards.

Award recipients will receive upgraded or additional interactive video conferencing systems to enhance the use of the network.

The IEN now has interactive video conferencing equipment and high-speed networks in more than 200 of Idaho's public high schools.

The system allows schools to collaborate with other districts to expand class offerings, provide access to dual-credit classes with colleges and universities, and provide professional-technical classes.

T.F. STREET PROJECT DELAYED WHEN WORKERS FIND SECOND ROADWAY

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Road work on Twin Falls' Minidoka Avenue has been extended through Wednesday after workers replacing a section of pavement found another roadway beneath it.

The city streets department will now remove all of the older road in a three-block section from Jerome Street South to Murtaugh Street South, according to a Thursday press release.

Before that, the road was expected to reopen today.

When the road is reopened on Wednesday, it will consist of packed gravel until street workers can lay new pavement. The city asks drivers to travel at slower speeds and use caution while driving on the gravel.

Businesses next to the project can still be accessed by taking Jerome, Ketchum or Liberty streets from Second Avenue South.

CSI to Hire New Welding Instructors For Next Year

BY JULIE WOOTTON
jwootton@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Two College of Southern Idaho welding instructors were placed on paid leave in April, and they won't return next year.

CSI spokesman Doug Maughan said last week that Juan Martinez's contract wasn't renewed and Kent Parish resigned May 31. They were put on leave due to a personnel issue.

Parish told the Times-News he was cleared at the conclusion of the investigation. The claim brought against him, he said, was unfounded and he didn't do anything wrong.

Parish said he's disappointed with the way administrators handled the investigation – and that played a large role in his resignation.

CSI's Executive Vice President Jeff Fox said he can't comment on the investigation because it's a personnel issue. Parish said CSI administrators asked him to come back next year, but he didn't agree with the terms.

"Some of the stipulations were not to my liking," he said. Parish was informed about being placed on leave while he was preparing for student midterms and the welding department's annual spring auction. He said he was asked to leave the building immediately.

He said initially, he was told the leave would only last for a few days. But as time passed, he said he wasn't kept informed about what was happening.

Parish said his career with CSI is over and the situations around the investigation damaged "a really good program that I developed, in my opinion."

Interim welding instructors continue to teach summer classes. As for next year, the college's two welding positions are advertised under the employment section on the college's website.

One position is advertised for nine months with a $37,000-$39,000 salary, while the other is for 11 months with a $45,000-$48,000 salary.

The application period closes Sunday. Candidates must have welding experience and qualification for an Idaho Professional-Technical postsecondary teaching credential.

A Spillway Comes Together

Workers install a rebar grid at the base of the south gated spillway at Minidoka Dam, part of an overhaul set to conclude in 2015. Care is taken to clean and prepare the foundation to prevent leakage under the spillway.

Bureau of Reclamation Resident Engineer Eduardo Lopez-Owsley explains the timeline Thursday for construction on the Minidoka Dam spillway project from the top of the new south gated spillway. This portion of the spillway will contain 12 gates and is the main water control structure for the dam.

A Putzmeister Telebelt, one of two in the western United States with a conveyor belt designed to telescope out 130 feet, is used to place concrete Thursday.

Dozens of swallows who are nesting on the new concrete structure of the Burley Irrigation District head works feed Thursday on mayflies.

Crews work Thursday on a portion of the spillway designed in an S shape to accommodate the water flows. This portion of the spillway is 300 feet wide and 50 feet deep, and will have 12 gates.

Police Report Shows Jones Lost Control of Vehicle

BOISE (AP) • Idaho State Police investigators say the single-vehicle crash involving State Controller Donna Jones was caused when she veered off the roadway then lost control as she tried to correct course.

The 73-year-old elected official suffered severe injuries in the May 25 accident and is still recovering in a Boise hospital rehabilitation unit.

Details of the crash and causes are contained in an Idaho State Police report obtained by The Associated Press Thursday.

Investigators confirm Jones was wearing a seatbelt as she lost control, ultimately causing her Cadillac Escalade to roll once before stopping in the I-84 median near Heyburn.

The report details the extensive damage to the SUV and efforts to rescue Jones from the driver's seat.

Jones, a Republican, is serving her second term as Idaho's chief financial officer.

The Idaho GOP's 2012 state convention got under way Thursday — and the closed

dozens of people working around the clock, coordinating government entities, and farmers bent on getting water — not to mention ensuring all the materials and work meet exacting standards.

But one of the biggest hurdles to overcome may be the weather. It can halt work, ground cranes and wreak havoc with concrete, which must have its core and surface temperatures maintained within a 36-degree range.

Too hot or too cold always mean extra work for the crews.

“That’s why we started night placements of concrete because it was getting too hot in the afternoon,” Lopez-Owsley said. “When it gets hot the concrete starts setting up quicker and is harder to work with.” Too cold and it has to be heated.

Large Trucks, Long Nights

The project at the dam, which lies about 18 miles northeast of Rupert, includes demolishing the existing 2,237-foot-long pier and stop log structure and replacing it with a roller-compacted concrete gated spillway. The structure will include control gates for the Burley and Minidoka irrigation districts.

Construction began in November and could last until March 2015. Money for the $21.3 million project comes from both irrigation districts, which passed bond issues, and from federal dollars.

Each section of the spillway will have 12 gates and requires nearly 2 million pounds of concrete. Three sections receive concrete every two weeks, with crews working continuously for 12-15 hours until each placement is complete. The work usually begins at midnight and ends at noon.

LAURIE WELCH • TIMES-NEWS

From the south, an overview of the current construction site near the Burley Irrigation District head works shows the work in progress on the south gated spillway. The old pedestrian bridge, on the left, will remain as a fishing access. The upstream coffer dam, put in place to ensure the construction area remains dry, is shown on the right along with the old spillway.

The concrete is delivered to the site by ready-mix trucks, with the sand and aggregate coming from a local quarry and the concrete from Oregon. Each truckload carries eight cubic yards and a new truck arrives every 20 minutes.

Workers spend the long days placing the concrete, vibrating it for consolidation and to make sure it reaches the form, then testing to make sure the concrete is within specifications.

Samples are also tested for another 56 days as the concrete hardens. Temperature sensors are placed at the core and surface of the concrete, and cylinder samples are periodically tested for hardness.

If the concrete doesn’t meet standards, it could spell disaster.

“It could be complete demolition of structure, it could be that radical,” Lopez-Owsley said.

‘Always Preparing’

At the foundation of the spillway other crews, who work four 10-hour shifts, meticulously clean the loose soil and basalt rock to prevent leakage under the spillway. They also install a rebar grid to secure the foundation, pull forms away from hardened concrete or build new forms.

The gated section of spillway is slated for completion by July. Then, the control gate operating hardware will be installed in the fall.

Once the irrigation season is over, two gates will be installed on the completed BID head works. The head gates will then be installed for MID.

“We are always preparing for the next concrete placement or working on the previous one pulling forms off,” Lopez-Owsley said. “Sometimes there are little deficiencies that need to be patched but these guys are getting so good that it’s minimal.”

“Their workmanship is the best. They are an experienced crew and they are very proud of their work.”

Today, the Platform Committee will meet again, as will the Rules, Resolutions and Credentials Committees. The Platform Committee will consider the proposed changes from the subcommittees, and the Credentials Committee will hear complaints against the delegations from Twin Falls, Benewah, Gooding and Ada counties.

Resolutions give guidance to Idaho’s elected officials, and the committee will hear 16 today. Among the proposals: Dissolving the Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Education, eliminating the closed primary system and support for establishing new missions at Mountain Home Air Force Base.

21 Idaho Districts Impose Teacher Contracts

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOISE • At least 21 Idaho school districts are unilaterally imposing contract terms on teachers after failing to reach agreement with local unions.

Local districts that imposed contracts include Kimberly and Cassia County. The Times-News was unable to confirm other districts' status Thursday.

The districts' ability to impose contracts without negotiating with unions comes under Idaho's new school reform laws, which rolled back most collective bargaining rights for teachers and limited contracts to one-year terms. It also limited contract negotiations to salary and benefits only and shifted budget money from salaries to merit bonuses.

State Schools Superintendent Tom Luna said it was good news that just 21 out of 130 school districts and charter schools weren't able to reach agreement by the deadline.

"They said there would be strikes, there would be walkouts, there would be lawsuits — none of that has happened," Luna told The Spokesman-Review. "If you measure this against the doomsday scenario that they painted, I think this is very positive news."

Carrie Scozzaro, a high school art teacher and outgoing president of the Lakeland Education Association in Kootenai County, said teachers feel like they're no longer being listened to as professionals.

"There's that sort of hopelessness of not being part of the process and being accused of being part of the problem, which is frustrating," she said.

In the Lakeland School District, 96 percent of the union members rejected the district's last offer on salaries and benefits for the coming years. That offer, like the past four years, included no base salary increase but some small thaws in the multiyear pay freeze.

Other districts that unilaterally imposed contract terms include Kellogg, Mullan and Wallace in northern Idaho and Middleton, Cascade, Idaho Falls, Nampa and Caldwell in southern Idaho.

In 2011 — the first year the new laws were in effect — a couple of Idaho school districts unilaterally imposed contract terms. That hadn't happened in the previous four decades that districts had met with local teachers associations for collective bargaining.

Luna said the laws give local school boards the authority to resolve labor and management disputes, which was in keeping with the concept of local control.

Penni Cyr, president of the Idaho Education Association, said members across the state are frustrated that the new talks are limited to salaries and benefits, preventing teachers from addressing issues like overcrowded classrooms and learning environments.

"That's devaluing them as professionals who know what children need to succeed," Cyr said.

Idaho voters will decide in November whether to keep the new law or repeal it through a referendum.

Rep. Simpson Renews Efforts to Help Sheep Industry

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOISE, Idaho • U.S. Rep. Mike Simpson of Idaho has again gone to bat for Idaho's sheep industry in Congress after a federal judge blocked his previous attempt to keep grazing alive on the Payette National Forest.

The Lewiston Tribune reports the Republican congressman is sponsoring a new bill to block grazing closures in 2012 meant to protect wild bighorn sheep from disease transmitted by their domestic cousins.

Earlier this month, U.S. District Judge B. Lynn Winmill ruled Simpson's bill from December 2011 couldn't be used to block the closure of 7,700 acres of grazing allotments on the forest.

So Simpson has tinkered with the measure's language, in a bid to make his intent clear: He doesn't want the 7,700 acres closed through 2013.

In 2010, the Payette National Forest announced plans to shutter grazing allotments, starting with 54,000 acres last year followed by additional shut-downs this year and next that would encompass about 94 percent of bighorn habitat on the forest.

"To imagine that there is strong evidence about any cancer resulting from 9/11 is naive in the extreme."

Donald Berry, a biostatistics professor at the University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center in Houston, saying payouts to cancer patients could take money away from those suffering from illnesses more definitively linked to Sept. 11.

OUR VIEW

A Possible Chance to Protect Open Space in Twin Falls

Months ago, a woman stood up in the Twin Falls City Planning and Zoning Commission meeting and again in the Twin Falls City Council meeting asking each board to reconsider decisions to approve a large shopping center on the canyon rim. Though the council went as far as to order mediation among the developers and those who had concerns about the shopping plaza, there was little else that could be done.

The land was purchased decades ago and zoned for commercial development. Though economic hard times put brakes on the development for the past few years, there was really no stopping it. Plans were drawn and tentative agreements were made with retail giants to lease space in the new development.

Neighbors on the rim wrote up petitions, sent in letters to the editor and protested in interviews with every media outlet who could listen. But, as we said in an editorial at the time, it was too late. If the residents of Twin Falls wanted to preserve open space on the rim, they should have done so in the '70s when the land was on the real estate market. That's when decisions about the future are really made.

On June 19, the Twin Falls City Parks and Recreation Commission toured a beautiful stretch of property along Rock Creek.

The 21-acre former Day Dream Ranch property on Addison Avenue West was offered to the city of Twin Falls for $675,000.

The commission toured the land with the purpose of deciding whether it could be purchased by the city and preserved as open space and park land for the future.

"Any time there is canyon rim property or canyon bottom property for sale, we look at it," said Dennis Bowyer, Twin Falls Parks and Recreation director.

After the tour, the Parks and Rec commission submitted a recommendation to the City Council, asking the city to consider purchasing the property for community park land. The issue has not been discussed by the full city staff or council yet and a decision has not been made about when it will appear on the council agenda. The soonest it would appear on the agenda is July, if it makes it that far.

The property, sitting on the south side of Addison next to the former hospital (now called County West), is ideally located to get the city closer to its goal of connecting with the county's Rock Creek Park, Bowyer said. "That's been our goal for decades."

The Parks and Rec department envisions extending its trail system into the park, and setting up a fishing area along Rock Creek, possibly partnering with a private fish farm, with the College of Southern Idaho or with Idaho Fish and Game, Bowyer said.

The city has already shown its commitment to providing open space and outdoor recreation through its 2002 purchase and recent development of Auger Falls.

Including Auger Falls, the Twin Falls Parks and Recreation Department now oversees 1,300 acres of land, according to its website.

Day Dream Ranch is a truly unique property sitting inside the city limits.

Bowyer was right when he said, "If we don't buy it, we may never have a chance again."

There are few cities in the United States that have this kind of property within their city limits — Rock Creek in our backyard and the Snake River Canyon in our front yard. It would be a shame to see 21-acres of creek-side open space go to development when it could have become a natural community asset.

Yes, the asking price of $675,000 is a lot of money and there is no money set aside for purchase of park land.

But when we ask ourselves if we can afford it, we must also ask if we can afford not to buy it?

SKILL THE TIMES-PICAYUNE

THEIR VIEW

Kill Corporate-Income Tax in Return for Capital-Gains Hike

The following editorial appeared on Bloomberg View:

What if we told you there's a way to make the U.S. tax system fairer, get corporations out of politics, improve our global competitiveness, bring home more than $1 trillion in offshore earnings, increase wages, and the double taxation of company profits and improve returns for many shareholders?

You'd say we were dreaming. But all this could be achieved if Congress would agree to a simple deal: Lower marginal rates, tax long-term capital gains and dividends at the same rate as regular income, and eliminate the corporate-income tax.

Under current law, long-term capital gains and dividends are taxed at a preferential top rate of 15 percent, as opposed to the top rate on labor income of 35 percent. This is quite favorable to the wealthy, who earn more of their income from investment. It leads to such famous distortions as Warren Buffett having a lower tax rate than his secretary.

It also leads to herculean tax-avoidance efforts, as the rich hire armies of accountants to manipulate their incomes to get the preferential rate. And then there's the matter of inheritance: When the wealthy die, any gain in their investments passes untaxed to their heirs.

Further, the current system often amounts to double taxation, since income earned by a business is subjected to the 35 percent corporate rate, then taxed again when it's paid out as a dividend.

Although taxing capital has long been anathema to many economists — on the theory that it discourages investment and thus economic growth — recent studies are casting doubt on their assumptions. The Congressional Research Service found in 2010 that reductions in the capital-gains tax are "unlikely to have much effect" on long-term growth and "would mostly benefit very high income taxpayers." Leonard E. Burman, a public administration professor at Syracuse University, has found that capital-gains rates "display no contemporaneous correlation with real GDP growth during the last 50 years."

In a recent working paper published by the National Bureau of Economic Research, economists Thomas Piketty and Emmanuel Saez argue that the old consensus that taxing capital is always and everywhere a bad thing fails to fully account for the effects of inheritance and tax avoidance. In the real world, with inequality widening, they suspect the optimal tax on capital isn't necessarily zero: It could even be higher than the optimal tax on labor.

On the other side of the bargain, the corporate-income tax has been subjected to so many distortions that it's no longer effective. As a share of gross domestic product, the amount it brings in has been declining since the 1950s. This is partly because loopholes and preferences keep proliferating, which means most companies now pay a much lower effective rate.

The tax prompts executives to take outsized pay, because their salaries are a deductible expense. It reduces wages, meaning that its burdens fall heavily on labor. It makes attracting investment in a world of mobile capital more difficult. And then there's the double-taxation problem — which encourages companies to pass along their tax expense to consumers and employees, and discourages dividend payments. Eliminating the corporate-income tax in exchange for a higher capital-gains rate would make the tax system fairer, simpler and more rational. It would eliminate inducements to tax avoidance and yield further benefits for investors such as pension funds and 401(k) accounts that already pay no capital-gains taxes and would see better dividends.

Ending the tax breaks for specific industries would also help get the government out of the dread practice of "picking winners and losers" and providing corporate welfare.

Much of the vast corporate lobbying apparatus would be rendered moot, and companies could finally repatriate the more than $1 trillion in overseas earnings they're holding to avoid taxation.

Most crucial, there's a revenue mismatch: Total savings to taxpayers of preferential treatment for capital gains and dividends in 2011 was about $158 billion, according to the Joint Committee on Taxation. How much of that would go to the Treasury under this reform would depend on investor behavior, but it probably wouldn't make up for what the corporate-income tax brings in.

That's why this deal must be a first step toward a more aggressive overhaul. As we've argued before, tax reform should simplify the code, lower marginal rates and prudently phase out all or most tax expenditures.

Taxes on capital should be treated as a unified system — rates should be low and simple, and fair in the way they are applied to similar kinds of economic activity. Perhaps that's a lesson we need to relearn every 25 years or so.

ONLINE COMMENTS

In response to the article "21 Idaho Districts Impose Teacher Contracts," a Mag-icvalley.com reader wrote: toolfan4439: "Tom Luna doesn't respect the profession of teaching. His goal is to align himself with private companies that want a slice of the education budget. In just a few years, he will leave Idaho in a mess and go off to make a million dollar salary."

An online reader commented on the article, "GOP

Convention a Chance to Move Past Recent Fights:" SKC_ID:

"Focus on the end game, which is getting Barack Obama the h out of the White House."

Not a very classy remark made by Idaho's First Lady. I really wish she had said something like — Focus on the end game, which is creating jobs and stimulating the economy. The GOP has been blinded to the needs of our nation because of their main focus — to make our President look bad, no matter what it takes.

How much better off we would be if the GOP would have been more open to passing some of the many job creating bills that our President has introduced instead of blocking them all...

Online readers often post words of encouragement in response to obituaries. This comment was posted on "Obituary: Ralph Black Peters:"

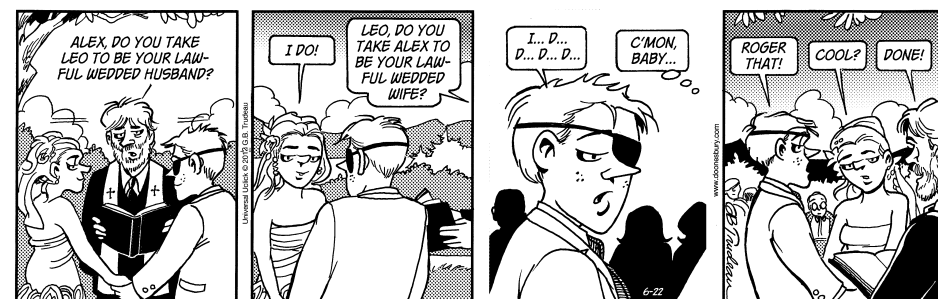

speedwheeler: "To Ralph, Tom and Family whom were my neighbors in Jerome Idaho. My condolences to your family over the loss of your father Ralph. I wasn't aware of his pilot years in a Mitchel bomber. Now I know why he was so outspoken about my injury in Army. ... I wish you God speed to an American hero. To the youth of this nation, this is the type of man that should be your hero. God bless you. Scott Cannedy and family."

Nampa Fire Implements First-ever Burn Ban For City, Fire Protection District

BY KATY MOELLER
kmoeller@idahostatesman.com

NAMPA • Nampa firefighters have been unusually busy on wildfires and providing mutual aid for agencies responding to wildfires over the past several weeks, so the department has implemented a ban on all outdoor open burning in the city and fire protection district. "Due to the numerous fires and large quantity of dry fuels that we are currently experiencing we have taken this drastic measure as we believe this is currently the most effective way to protect our community," Nampa Fire Deputy Chief

Doug Strosnider said in a news release. Strosnider told the Statesman the department has never done this before because of concern about explosive fire threat. He's not sure when the ban will be lifted. "Some of these are very preventable. If we're not out tending to those, we're ready for other emergencies," Strosnider said. "We've got an abundance of fuels — much greater than we typically have," Strosnider said. Nampa Fire has been called to or assisting on a couple of wildfires each day in recent weeks.

NAMPA MAN TO SPEND AT LEAST 20 YEARS IN PRISON FOR LEWD CONDUCT WITH 15-YEAR-OLD

IDAHO STATESMAN

NAMPA • Ricardo Ozuna Jr., 35, of Nampa will spend 20 years to life in prison for lewd conduct with a 15-year-old girl, 3rd District Judge Bradley Ford ruled Thursday. Ozuna, a registered sex offender, also must pay a $5,000 fine, and the sentence will run consecutive to a 2002 lewd conduct sentence out of Ada County, Canyon County Prosecutor Bryan Taylor said. Ozuna was on parole when he met the Canyon girl online on May 28, 2010, according to court records. Ozuna picked the victim and her underage friend up, took them to his house and gave them alcohol, Taylor said.

According to court records, the victim got drunk and passed out, then awoke to find Ozuna having sex with her. Ozuna has continuously denied committing the crime. "This is not me or who I am," he said at sentencing. "I am just a sacrificial lamb." But Judge Ford disagreed, calling Ozuna a predator who exploited a young girl who was impaired by alcohol. Taylor said this crime was "eerily similar" to Ozuna's Ada County case, which also involved a young girl he met online and provided with alcohol. "The defendant violated parole three times and is a tremendous danger to the community," Taylor said.

Two Sentenced for Bank Fraud, Identity Theft

BOISE (AP) • A federal judge has sentenced two people convicted for running a bank fraud and identity theft scheme in northern Idaho. The sentences were handed down this week against 27-year-old Michelle Mason of Sandpoint and 32-year-old Charles Baker, of Tucson, Ariz. Mason was ordered to serve 48 months in federal prison for conspiracy to commit bank fraud and one count of identity theft. Baker was sentenced to eight months in prison. They pleaded guilty earlier this year to stealing mail near Old Town, then directing others to open bank accounts to obtain cash from a variety of banks. Their scheme involved forging checks stolen in the mail then withdrawing money from cash machines. The judge also ordered Mason to repay more than $37,700, and that Baker should pay $22,600 in restitution.

Gooding Woman Pleads Guilty to Embezzling $500K

KETCHUM, (AP) • A 50-year-old Gooding woman has pleaded guilty to embezzling more than $530,000 over a period of seven years while working at a real estate brokerage in Bellevue. The Idaho Mountain Express reports former real estate agent and Sun Land Investments office manager Tracy Dalin pleaded guilty Monday in 5th District Court. The agreement allows Dalin to withdraw her guilty plea on the embezzlement charge if Judge Robert J. Elgee imposes a sentence greater than the four to 12 years the prosecution plans to recommend when Dalin is sentenced on Sept. 10. She cannot withdraw her guilty plea on a forgery charge. A separate restitution hearing is set for Aug. 20. Randall has said Dalin previously transferred some of the money she had taken back into company accounts.

Boise Police Make Arrest in Race Team Bike Theft

BOISE (AP) • Authorities in Idaho have arrested a Boise man accused of stealing 13 bikes from a professional women's cycling team as it was planning to race in a competition last month. Michael Anthony Lawrence was arrested Thursday by officers who say they caught the 19-year-old stealing car tires. Police say Lawrence cut the lock on California-based Team TIBCO's trailer at a Boise motel May 22 and stole the bikes that are worth $110,000. Despite fears the team would be without bikes for the Exergy Tour two days later, they were all recovered ahead of the starting gun. Officers say they'd been investigating Lawrence before the bike heists and a search of Lawrence's Boise home recovered additional stolen goods he was reselling over the Internet.

Court Throws out FCC Penalties for Cursing, Nudity

BY MARK SHERMAN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Broadcasters anticipating a major constitutional ruling on the government's authority to regulate what can be shown and said on the air-waves instead won only the smallest of Supreme Court victories Thursday.

The justices unanimously threw out fines and other penalties against Fox and ABC television stations that violated the Federal Communications Commission policy regulating curse words and nudity on television airwaves.

Forgoing a broader constitutional ruling, however, the court concluded only that broadcasters could not have known in advance that obscenities uttered during awards show programs on Fox stations and a brief display of nudity on an episode of ABC's "NYPD Blue" could give rise to penalties. ABC and 45 affiliates had been hit with proposed fines totaling nearly $1.24 million.

Broadcasters had argued that the revolution in technology that has brought the Internet, satellite television and cable has made the rules themselves obsolete. The regulations apply only to broadcast channels.

The justices said the FCC is free to revise its indecency policy, which is intended to keep the airwaves free of objectionable material during the hours when children are likely to be watching.

Sandusky's son says his father abused him

BY MARK SCOLFORO AND GENARO C. ARMAS
Associated Press

BELLEFONTE, Pa. • Lawyers for one of Jerry Sandusky's adopted sons said the man has told authorities the former Penn State assistant football coach abused him.

The lawyers issued a statement Thursday naming Matt Sandusky, one of Jerry Sandusky's six adopted children, and saying that the 33-year-old had been prepared to testify on behalf of prosecutors at his father's sex abuse trial.

"During the trial, Matt Sandusky contacted us and requested our advice and assistance in arranging a meeting with prosecutors to disclose for the first time in this case that he is a victim of Jerry Sandusky's abuse," Andrew Shubin and Justine Andronici wrote in the statement. "At Matt's request, we immediately arranged a meeting between him and the prosecutors and investigators."

"This has been an extremely painful experience for Matt and he has asked us to convey his request that the media respect his privacy. There will be no further comment."

The statement was issued after jurors in the ex-coach's child sex abuse trial began deliberating 48 charges against him. The jurors are sequestered during deliberations.

Lawyers for Matt and Jerry Sandusky and prosecutors did not immediately respond to requests for comment. Matt Sandusky went to live with Sandusky and his wife, Dottie, as a foster child and was adopted by them as an adult.

Shortly after the former coach's arrest in November, Matt Sandusky's ex-wife went to court to keep her former father-in-law away from their three young children. Jill Jones successfully obtained a restraining order forbidding the children from sleeping over at their grandparents' home.

VIDEO SHOWS ZIMMERMAN'S ACCOUNT OF FATAL FIGHT

Some of the neighborhood watch leader's statements are in question.

BY MIKE SCHNEIDER

ORLANDO, Fla. • George Zimmerman appears believable when he re-enacts for police what he says led to the fatal shooting of Trayvon Martin, but some of his statements are questionable, lawyers who reviewed the footage said Thursday.

Even a detective who interrogated the neighborhood watch leader pointed out inconsistencies in his story, particularly Zimmerman's claim that Martin punched him and slammed his head onto the ground when the teenager had no prior history of violence.

The video and audio tapes released by Zimmerman's attorney give Zimmerman's most detailed account yet of what led to the Feb. 26 shooting, but it still leaves unanswered whether the shooting was justified.

The evidence was released almost a week before Zimmerman's second bond hearing on a second-degree murder charge, and on the heels of unflattering telephone calls capturing Zimmerman and his wife talking in code about using money collected for a defense fund to pay credit cards.

In one of the audio recordings, detective Chris Sereno asked Zimmerman whether he was profiling the black teen, a claim Martin's parents have made.

"You know you are going to come under a lot of scrutiny for this," Sereno said. "Had this person been white, would you have felt the same way?"

"Yes," said Zimmerman, who has a white father and Hispanic mother.

Zimmerman claims he shot the unarmed 17-year-old Martin in self-defense, under Florida's "stand your ground" law.

Martin's parents have said Zimmerman was the aggressor. They said Martin was walking back from a convenience store through the gated community in Sanford when Zimmerman spotted Martin and started following him.

In the video, Zimmerman said he grabbed his gun from a holster on his waist before Martin could get it, and shot Martin once in the chest as they fought on the ground outside the townhomes. After firing, Zimmerman said he thought he missed.

"He sat up and said, 'You got me. You got me, or something like that,'" Zimmerman said.

Zimmerman said Martin had been on top of him, slamming his head against the ground and smothering his mouth and nose with his hand and arm. The tape shows two butterfly bandages on the back of Zimmerman's head and another on his nose. There are red marks on the front of his head.

"It felt like my head was going to explode," he said.

SWEDEN ON ALERT, EXPLOSIVES FOUND NEAR NUKE PLANT

BY LOUISE NORDSTROM
Associated Press

STOCKHOLM • Sweden ramped up security at its three nuclear power plants Thursday after a small amount of explosives without a triggering device was found on a forklift on the grounds of the country's largest atomic power station, authorities said. Police were investigating possible sabotage, but insisted that even if there had been a blast it would not have posed any great danger.

Bomb-sniffing dogs detected the explosives in a routine check Wednesday afternoon by security staff in the power plant's industrial area near its high-security enclosure. Police declined to describe the amount or type of explosive.

Bomb technicians said the material lacked a detonating device, meaning there was no danger of an imminent explosion.

SOURCE: ESRI

"But even if it would have been equipped with a detonator, a potential blast would have had pretty limited effects — the truck would have received some damage and perhaps some passers-by would have been injured, but it wouldn't have harmed the plant in any way," police spokesman Tommy Nyman said.

With police providing little information, a terror expert speculated it might have been an attempt to test the security system of the Ringhals power plant with a later attack in mind.

Debate over Fire Retardant Toxicity Rages in West

BY MEAD GRUVER
Associated Press

CHEYENNE, Wyo. • Add another concern for the tanker plane pilots who barnstorm low over treacherous terrain, in vintage aircraft, to bomb fire retardant around raging mountain wildfires: Endangered species.

New U.S. Forest Service rules for the use of fire retardant in dozens of national forests seek to prevent the millions of gallons of fire retardant spread over the landscape every year from poisoning streams and killing off protected plants and fish.

Forest Service officials insist the new rules won't hinder firefighting. The company that operates almost half of the U.S. private fleet of large tanker planes agrees, for the most part.

"It is an increasing workload, there's no doubt about that," said Dan Snyder, president of Missoula, Mont.-based Neptune Aviation Services, which operates eight Lockheed P2V planes.

"It may reduce the speed at which they can affect the fire because they do need to take those few extra minutes to study the charts and plan on how they can put the retardant on the ground and still comply with the rules."

The group that brought about the changes by filing suit says the rules aren't as big of an issue as whether fire retardant even works.

The Forest Service has never proven in the field that fire retardant is effective, said Andy Stahl, executive director of Forest Service Employees for Environmental Ethics in Eugene, Ore.

"Why use it if it's not effective? If it's not effective, I don't care if it's environmentally benign. It's a waste of money and firefighters' lives," Stahl said.

"The case for retardant use is not sufficiently strong to offset the environmental effects."

Rubbish, say Forest Service officials, who cite decades of rigorous laboratory testing and relate the accounts of plenty of ground and aerial firefighters who insist that fire retardant not only works, it works well.

Jo Marie Tyler

Dec. 9, 1918-June 16, 2012

BOISE • Jo Marie Tyler, from Boise, passed away Saturday, June 16, 2012, at the age of 93.

Jo was born Dec. 9, 1918, to Frank and Delphia McNiel in Green Forrest, Ark. She lived in Arkansas until her family moved to Jerome, Idaho. She graduated from Jerome High School in 1936. After graduation, the family moved to Twin Falls, where she met the love of her life, Harry Tyler. They were married in 1939. They had one son, Robert, born in 1948. Jo worked at CC Anderson's in Twin Falls (which later became the Bon Marche and is now known as Macy's) for many years and worked for the same store after the family moved to Boise. She continued to work and became a manager/buyer prior to retirement.

A family cabin was built by Harry and Rob on West Mountain, with Jo's close supervision. Some of the family's happiest, best and memorable times were spent there. Their grandsons love to go to the cabin with Jobee and PeePa, the boy's special names for their grandparents. Jo loved to play golf with Harry and friends. They were members of the Crane Creek Golf Course prior to Harry's retirement. They also had a group of friends called the Cronies. The group traveled around to golf tournaments all over southern Idaho. Harry and Jo enjoyed playing bridge and met monthly either in Twin Falls or Boise for many years. They played gin rummy together on nearly a daily basis.

After both Harry and Jo retired, they spent their winters in Arizona enjoying the warm weather and playing golf. Jo and Harry were inseparable after they retired. She had some difficult times after she lost Harry in 1993 after 52 years of marriage, but she traveled with friends and was able to play golf and cards for several years.

Jo is survived by her son, Rob and his wife, Lynn with Emmett; her two grandsons, Scott and Casey (wife Deborah); and her great-granddaughters, Zoe and Althea. Casey and Deborah lived with Jo and helped to take care of her for the last two years, which was greatly appreciated.

The family would like to thank the very special friends that looked out for Jo while she continued to live at home, including Marty, Pauline, Jimmy and Helen. We would also like to thank the wonderful people at the Elks Rehabilitation Hospital and Wound Center, Serenity Assisted Living and St. Luke's Home Health and Hospice. The hospice nurses were incredible during the last few days of Jo's life.

A memorial service will be held under the direction of the Potter Funeral Chapel at 2 p.m. Monday, June 25, at St. Michael's Cathedral on Eighth and State in Boise. Instead of flowers, the family would appreciate donations to St. Luke's Home and Health Hospice or your favorite charity.

Treasury's Rise on Worries of Economic Slowdown

NEW YORK (AP) • Treasury's are regaining their appeal to investors after economic reports from the U.S. and China signaled a global economic slowdown.

A report said manufacturing fell in China this month, and the Federal Reserve's Philadelphia branch reported a sharp contraction in manufacturing in the Northeast.

The reports sent prices of oil and stocks sharply lower. Traders rushed to safe investments such as U.S. government bonds. The Dow Jones industrial average fell 251 points, while crude oil fell 3.5 percent.

The price of the benchmark 10-year Treasury note on Thursday rose 40.6 cents for every $100 invested. The yield, which moves in the opposite direction, fell to 1.62 percent from 1.63 percent late Wednesday.

Insurance Rebates to Idaho Total $1.1M

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Close to 32,600 Idahoans will receive health insurance rebates because insurers didn't spend enough on medical care, the Obama administration announced Thursday.

Under a provision in the Affordable Care Act, insurance companies are required to spend 80 percent of premium dollars on medical expenses and quality improvement. The remaining 20 percent can be spent on administrative costs like salaries or advertising.

If insurers fail to meet the required 80 percent, they must rebate their customers for the difference. A little more than $1.1 million will be distributed to 16,000 Idaho families covered by a policy. The state's average rebate amount is $70.

Consumers will receive a notice from the insurance company explaining the 80/20 rule and whether their company met the new standard. If they didn't, insurers must disclose how much of the difference they did or didn't spend on medical care.

Nationally, the federal law will provide Americans with more than $1 billion in rebates, according to the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services.

Insurance companies must provide the rebates by Aug. 1 unless the U.S. Supreme Court strikes down the health care reform law.

Senate Passes Farm Bill

BY JIM ABRAMS

Associated Press

WASHINGTON • The Senate on Thursday completed a five-year, half-trillion-dollar farm bill that cuts farm subsidies and land conservation spending by about $2 billion a year but largely protects sugar growers and some 46 million food stamp beneficiaries.

The 64-35 vote for passage defied political odds. Many inside and outside of Congress had predicted that legislation so expensive and so complicated would have little chance of advancing in an election year.

Senate Republican leader Mitch McConnell called it "one of the finest moments in the Senate in recent times in terms of how you pass a bill."

The bipartisanship seen in the Senate may be less evident in the House, where conservatives are certain to resist the bill's costs, particularly for food stamps. Food stamp spending has doubled in the past five years, and beneficiaries have grown from by about 20 million to 46 million. The program's budget is now about $80 billion a year, comprising 80 percent of the spending in the farm bill.

While overall spending on programs covered by the bill has climbed because more people are receiving food stamps, the committee head, Sen. Debbie Stabenow, D-Mich., and the top Republican, Sen. Pat Roberts of Kansas, said the bill would save $23 billion over the next 10 years compared with spending under the current farm bill.

That comes from replacing four farm commodity subsidy programs with one, consolidating 23 conservation programs into 13, and ending several sources of abuse in food stamps.

The biggest change comes from eliminating direct payments to farmers whether they plant crops or not. The program, which costs about $5 billion a year, has lost much of its support at a time of $1 trillion federal deficits and when farmers in general are prospering.

More Americans than Forecast File for Jobless Benefits

BY SHOBHANA CHANDRA

Bloomberg News

WASHINGTON • More Americans than forecast filed applications for unemployment benefits last week, indicating the labor market continues to struggle.

The level of dismissals may raise concern the slowdown in payrolls reported in the past few months will be prolonged, limiting consumer spending. Federal Reserve policy makers Wednesday expanded a program to replace short-term bonds with longer-term debt in a bid to spur growth and trim a jobless rate that's exceeded 8 percent for 40 consecutive months.

"Momentum is slowing," said Ryan Wang, an economist at HSBC Securities USA in New York, the only economist in the Bloomberg survey to correctly forecast the level of claims. "Companies have curtailed demand for labor. This means less income growth. That's a restraint on consumer spending."

Estimates in the Bloomberg survey ranged from 371,000 to 390,000. The Labor Department revised the previous week's figure up to 389,000 from an initially reported 386,000.

Poll Finds Public Wants Health-Law Revisions Rather than Repeal

BY HEIDI PRZYBYLA
Bloomberg News

WASHINGTON • Republicans have pledged to “repeal and replace” President Barack Obama’s health-care overhaul. If the Supreme Court strikes down the law, they may struggle to deliver on the second part of their vow.

A plurality of Americans, 43 percent, say they want to retain the 2010 law with only small modifications, while 15 percent say the measure should be left alone, a Bloomberg National Poll shows. One-third say it should be repealed.

The court will rule in the next week on the constitutionality of the law, the centerpiece of which is the mandate that most Americans buy insurance or pay a fine.

A rejection of all or part of the Affordable Care Act would be a setback for Obama, undercutting his biggest legislative victory. It would also present a challenge to Republicans. With elections approaching, House Republicans are signaling they have no immediate replacement to offer.

“If you’re out to get more votes in six months, coming forward with a detailed program is not the optimal strategy,” said Henry Aaron, health-policy scholar at the Brookings Institution in Washington. Republicans have little to gain in proposing a comprehensive plan since it may draw criticism from health-care providers or consumers, he said.

House Speaker John Boehner, R-Ohio, said on Tuesday that the House would take a “step-by-step approach” to revamping health care.

A number of the law’s features are popular. Laetitia Adam, a 33-year-old independent voter from Miami, said she supports the inurance mandate as well as the provision allowing children up to age 26 to stay on their parents’ health plans.

“For the most part, I agree with the law as it is,” Adam, a respondent to the June 15-18 poll, said in a follow-up interview. “You can’t afford to get sick without insurance,” said the graphic artist. The law just “needs to be made more simple.”

Get a Green Lawn with Green Lawn Care by Shannon Dauphin, All About Lawns Columnist

Many homeowners believe that fertilizers and pesticides are the only way to keep their lawn looking green and beautiful. But those same ingredients that make your lawn lush and green can be dangerous to your family, pets, and neighbors, not to mention the long-term impact the chemicals can have on the environment.

Get Peace of Mind with Green Lawn Care

Green lawn care can be much easier than traditional lawn care, and the benefits to the environment are clear. Your lawn can be just as lush and full without all the chemicals.

- Use native plants and grasses. Since they are attuned to the environment already, you don’t need to use fertilizer, and they are often naturally resistant to insects in the area.
- Use an integrated pest management program. Instead of bringing in pesticides, bring in favorable bugs and insects that eat the ones you don’t want hanging around, and let them do the work for you.

- Use heavy mulch around trees and plants to help hold in water and prevent weeds from sprouting. If you do have weeds come up through the mulch, pull them by hand and add fresh mulch to prevent new weeds.
- Leave grass clippings on the ground after mowing, and sprinkle compost over your lawn from time to time to “top dress” it. This takes the place of fertilizer and might actually work better.
- Set mower blades high and keep grass longer to discourage insects and weeds without using a single drop of pesticides.
- If you absolutely must use a pesticide or fertilizer, look for organic ones that do no harm to the environment, and spot treat only.

You might find that organic lawn care gives you a lush, beautiful lawn, with the added bonus of more time on your hands. Why not enjoy that time in your gorgeous backyard?

Three Best Bets

Just Don't Bump Their Elbows

Yes, it's fine to approach the plein-air artists as they paint outdoors around Buhl and along its River Road today and Saturday. In fact, they expect your questions. "None of these people are rude at all. It's a good group," said water-color artist Joyce Deford, an organizer of this weekend's Snake River Paint Out. Tonight's one-hour quick draw contest — with a live model — should be good spectator fun, too. And it might advance your own artistic aspirations. "Right now plein-air is hot all over the country," Deford said. "That's what all of the galleries want."

Trains and Classic Cars

Idaho history expert Arthur Hart will lecture Saturday near Filer about the railroads that once covered the state with a network of steel rails. And the audience could be surprisingly large. Among the crowd will be Classic Cruisers car owners, on the first stop of a historical tour that will continue on to Centennial Park and the Hunt camp. Others at the lecture might head next to the Filer fairgrounds for a demonstration of miniature trains and all of the Filer Fun Days attractions. Chief among those, of course, is the chicken drop.

Lovelorn '50s Teens

It's likely you'll know someone in the huge JuMP Co. cast: almost 70 Magic Valley children and teens. And it's almost certain you'll know the characters in their story. "Happy Days, A New Musical," which is on stage in Twin Falls today and Saturday, brings back Fonzie and the gang of 1950s teens from the TV hit. This time, they're mounting a wrestling match and a dance contest to save the malt shop from demolition.

BUHL FIESTA FEATURES SALSA, PINATA CONTESTS

BY BLAIR KOCH
For the Times-News

BUHL • Instead of risking rain and wind, the fledgling Buhl Fiesta is moving indoors Saturday.

This year the Buhl Chamber of Commerce-sponsored event will take place in the Buhl Catholic Church's Immaculate Conception Church Hall, 1631 Poplar St.

Two years ago, the chamber held the new event at the rodeo grounds. Although attendance was steady early on, a storm blew in and ruined the rodeo and evening music, event chairwoman Patricia Beltran said.

The chamber didn't have much luck last year, either. "We moved it to Main Street and it rained. We had to cancel the event," Beltran said. Most disappointing: The Fiesta had advertised a salsa contest which drew more than 20 contestants.

"We couldn't announce the winners or anything, although we did judge the salsa and give the prizes," Beltran said. Please see FIESTA, E2

Plan to Go

What: Buhl Chamber of Commerce's Buhl Fiesta
When: 4-10 p.m. June 23
Where: Buhl Catholic Church's Immaculate Conception Church Hall, 1631 Poplar St.
4 p.m.: Mayra Lopez, Hispanic Heritage Scholarship Pageant. Also, the beer garden will open at 4 p.m.; cost is $3. Dinner served at $6 per person: Chile Colorado from Garibaldi's, chicken fajitas from Juanita's Taco Bus, rice and chips from Roberto's, beans from La Plaza and salsa from Tacos El Korita, all in Buhl.

4-5 p.m.: Best Salsa Contest
5 p.m.: Pinata Contest, and a pinata for children to break.
5-6 p.m.: Mayra Lopez.
6-7 p.m.: Hispanic Heritage Dancers.

TWIN FALLS • Follow the smell of kettle corn and the beat of music to the heart of the city all summer long.

The 13th annual Twin Falls Tonight concert series opened June 20 with a crowd of around 600 who flocked to hear the tunes of the Jason Lugo Band. The series of free, outdoor music runs Wednesday nights through Aug. 22, with a break on July 4.

This year concert organizers combined forces with Market on Main, a weekly farmers market started last year, to increase traffic to both events; market nights shifted from Fridays to Wednesdays.

"This is the heart of the city," said Robin Dober, chairwoman of the Twin Falls Tonight committee. "Twin Falls started downtown, and we need to celebrate that."

Twin Falls Tonight also saw an increase in funding this year, which allowed it to add three more weeks to its schedule.

In the past, the series lasted for six weeks, Dober said, and often people requested more dates. To host a night in the concert series costs $3,000 — donated by local businesses and sponsors.

"Some of the sponsors have stepped up, and we got some new sponsors," Dober said. "This is a big step up."

With the addition of Market on Main, organizers hope the Wednesday-night event will eventually stretch the length of

Hailey Artist Revives Old Techniques for Stunning Surfaces

BY KAREN BOSSICK
For the Times-News

HAILEY • Katharine Sheldon deftly lays a sliver of gold leaf onto her painting of a woman's head, forming a halo. She lays another atop a robe made by mixing egg yolk with natural pigments.

Sheldon is finding that she digs this ancient art form centuries after fresco was the art du jour.

"What I like about it is that it's very organic," she said. "It's earth. It's green. I'm not exposing myself to chemicals like oil paints that are going to make me sick. And I like the look of pigments imprinted into plaster. That's what made fresco so interesting in the Renaissance."

Sheldon, who lives in Hailey, incorporated fresco into her repertoire this spring when the College of Southern Idaho-affiliated Sawtooth Institute needed someone to demonstrate the egg tempera and fresco techniques used during the 13th and 14th centuries for an "Art of Siena" symposium.

Sheldon was only too happy to include it in her quiver of tools for her Creative Paint Finishes business, which couples Old World techniques with modern materials and technology.

The artist creates custom surface treatments for walls and ceilings. She does trompe l'oeil, an art technique by which she fools the eye into thinking a painting is an actual flower vase in an alcove or a window opening onto a French garden.

She's done murals turning children's walls into aquariums and imprinted leaves

KAREN BOSSICK • FOR THE TIMES-NEWS

Frescoes of plaster and egg tempera are one of many creative finishes that artist Katharine Sheldon can offer her clients.

into the surfaces of walk-in closets. She's made wooden bookshelves look like marble, painted what resembles fabrics on walls, and painted mosaics and floor canvases on cement floors.

She's endowed countertops with cracked, aged finishes and applied decoupage to walls. And she's treated ceilings so that it seems as if you're looking into the sky.

Sheldon typically charges $60 an hour for faux art. Her starting price for jobs measured by the square foot is $2.50 per square foot.

Dixie Grant, who has a condo in Ketchum and a home in the Wood River Valley, said there are not enough adjectives to describe Sheldon's work. "She transformed my house and condo with wall finishes, and amazing finishes. She's always learning new techniques — she put a combination of shredded cotton and silk mixed with gold mica and specks of silver on my 12-foot ceiling. Not only does it twinkle at night, but it dampens the noise you get when you get a crowd in the house.

"She also made my soapstone countertops, which I couldn't stand, look like granite. I love to take people in and pull back the shower curtain to show them old contrasted with the new. Everybody is like 'Wow!'"

Sheldon began her exercise in creativity one winter when she bought a book on faux finishes and decided to try her hand at each.

"Now I go wherever my mind can take me," said Sheldon, who studied art at Bethel College and the University of Minnesota. "This has been an amazing journey that has taken me from being a house painter to a creator able to use my art background. I love the fact that creative options seem endless. Every time I turn around I get led down a different road."

A construction worker who saw a wooden bookshelf she had painted to resemble marble told several interior designers about it, and soon they were calling Sheldon for stenciling and glazing.

"My clients say, 'See this picture out of this magazine? We want our wall to look like that.' I've even put a ski map of Bald Mountain on an 8-by-8-foot magnetic wall so the client could put magnets on the ski runs he'd skied," she said.

Another client wanted the look of wooden beams but didn't want to spend the money to take the roof off. Sheldon painted wood grains on his concrete beams at less than 1 percent of what the real deal would have cost.

Most recently she restored tabletops for GLOW Live Food Cafe in Ketchum, covering the original scratches and leaving them looking like high-end tables with textured stone. She also painted a mural on the wall touting the cafe's penchant for using raw foods.

"She's an amazing artist. I like her sense of colors and the organic quality to her work," owner Molly Peppo Brown said. "She suggested refurbishing the tables when I remarked how they were looking so battered, and it saved me a lot of money because the tables I'd been considering are super expensive."

Sheldon said her work has taught her respect for ancient craftsmen.

"You look at the old trompe l'oeils that have weathered the years. There's a depth to them that can't be compared," she said. "They have an amazing attention to detail. The amount of time the artists put into them blows me away."

Univ. of Ariz. Presents Play Based on T.F. Author's Book

TWIN FALLS • The University of Arizona's etc... Educational Theatre Co. in Tucson will produce a play based on a book by Twin Falls writer Patricia Santos Marcantonio.

"Red Ridin' in the Hood and Dos Cuentos" is based on three stories from Marcantonio's children's book, "Red Ridin' in the Hood and Other Cuentos," a retelling of traditional fairy tales with Latino characters.

The etc... production will feature "The Piper of Harmonia," a retelling of the Pied Piper with lizards; "Blanca Nieves y los Siete Vaqueritos," the Snow White story set in old Mexico and told by puppets; and "Red Ridin' in the Hood," taking place in a modern barrio where Roja meets a wolf in a low-rider.

Tour dates in Arizona are Oct. 12, 19 and 26 and Nov. 2, 9, 16 and 30, Marcantonio said. Etc... was created to give students the opportunity to produce plays and educational programs for young audiences, according to the university.

"Red Ridin' in the Hood," published by Farrar, Straus and Giroux, New York, won the 2007 Anne Izard Storyteller's Choice Award, was named a Commended Title by Americas Award for Children's and Young Adult Literature, and earned a Starred review from the American Library Association and Best Collections to Share, 2005 Wilde Awards.

said. "But we couldn't display the salsa or winners."

What else is different this year? The event doesn't have an admission fee as it did in the beginning. The 2012 Fiesta is free to attend, although you'll pay a charge for dinner and the beer garden.

"The first year, we had the rodeo," Beltran said, so the event had more costs to cover then.

The salsa contest will be back this year, and although last year's event fizzled Beltran hopes the change of venue will take care Mother Nature's lack of cooperation.

"Now that we're having the Fiesta inside we don't have to worry about it. The Fiesta can go on as planned and hopefully the community will come out and enjoy the event," she said.

Kyle Hauser was surprised at the spread of salsas presented last year — in a variety of colors, textures and intensities. "Some were really hot!" Contestants can drop off their salsas for the contest at 4 p.m. Saturday, and prizes will be awarded for the top three.

Chamber administrator Michelle Olson said organizers are also giving a pinata contest a try.

"We figured if people wanted to make them we'd judge them," she said. "People can just bring their pinatas to the Fiesta and enter them there. We'll also have a pinata for the kids to break, and we'll give out candy, too."

The one-day event also features live music and traditional dance performances.

about eight vendors were north of Shoshone Street selling crafts and food. Dober predicts produce stands will start to pop up as summer starts rolling. "Our goal is to build on vibrancy here," said Tony Prater, co-chairman of revitalization group Downtown Alive, the market's organizer. "As the people move back and forth between the two ... the foot traffic is great. Our hope in being together is that people would walk downtown."

Leanne Orr of Filer hopes people make the connection and stroll down Main Avenue to visit her stand called Another Look, selling homemade women's accessories. Last year she had her booth out during the Friday-night Market on Main.

"When it all comes together it should be amazing," Orr said.

Connie Gill owns CGS Laserworks in Burley and specializes in laser-engraved gifts and custom barn wood frames. Her stand frequents Art in the Park events throughout summer. Gill decided to bring her wares to downtown Twin Falls even though she didn't know about the concert series. "I will try to frequent it this year and see how it goes," Gill said.

Susan Buhler owns Poindexter's, a costume store on Main Avenue, and said she noticed how the event is growing closer to her business. "I noticed they increased this and it's getting bigger ... hopefully someday it will warrant three blocks."

and 1K races at 8 a.m. Pre-registration starts at 7 a.m.; for information call Ken Young, 731-8956. Registration is $5 for participants 17 and younger and $20 for adults.

Winners of the 5K and 1K in the male and female categories will receive the coveted trophies: horseshoes painted gold. In the past, the fun run celebrated other symbols of agriculture.

"The themes in the past have been sugar beets, spuds and beans," said Ken Young, Golden Horseshoe Fun Run organizer. "The idea shows what the fairgrounds brings to Filer ... and reflects the economic impact of the fairgrounds in Filer, and plus it's lucky."

Filer High School cross country and track teams sponsor the run. Young coaches both sports at the school.

After the race Saturday, walk over to catch the parade that starts at 11 a.m. The parade averages 60 to 70 floats, with awards given to the top three in each category. A lunch will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Saturday, and all money from the fish fry, pancake breakfast and lunch benefits events and organizations in the Filer community. Through money raised at last year's Filer Fun Days, the Kiwanis Club awarded seven $500 scholarships this year.

The afternoon is filled with free activities for children of all ages, including face painting, a dunk tank and Don's Mini Train.

But the highlight of that afternoon, of course, is a Filer favorite: the chicken drop. It starts at 3 p.m. near the free stage, and you'll pay $1 a spot or $2 for three spots. If you hold the winning square where the chicken chooses to relieve itself, you win $100. "Sometimes that money has to be split four ways," Cowger said.

Throughout Saturday will be live entertainment on the free stage. Local singer Misty Kalbfleisch will perform at noon, and Officer Morgan Case of the Twin Falls County K-9

Division will host a demonstration at 1 p.m.

A benefit dinner to help Filer resident Rex Miller cover medical expenses will start at 5 p.m.

On Sunday, a 10 a.m. service hosted by the Ministerial Association of Filer will be followed by an 11:30 a.m. spaghetti dinner sponsored by the Nazarene Men's Group. Throughout Sunday afternoon, food and craft vendors will be available as well as free activities for children.

"I look forward to Filer Fun Days because of my grandchildren," Cowger said. "It's about family and getting together to have a good time."

More than 4,300 U.S. Army reservists and National Guard members are spending three weeks in the mountains and desert scrub of Fort Hunter Liggett, Calif., about 160 miles south of San Francisco. The troops, including some from Twin Falls and Boise, are fine-tuning their skills for possible deployment to war. In a three-part series, Times-News reporter Steve Kadel follows them through simulated battles, eats with them in camps replicating Afghanistan outposts, and reports on the increasing role reservists will play in U.S. military readiness.

SUNDAY, JUNE 24: An up-close look at simulated battles to hone soldiers' survival skills.

MONDAY, JUNE 25: Profiles of two soldiers from Twin Falls, both teachers at Canyon Ridge High School.

TUESDAY, JUNE 26: Top officers at Fort Hunter Liggett discuss the increasing role reservists will play in U.S. military readiness.

Liquid Lizard (s12) overtakes Wa'tch Me Go (s137) in a 2.5-litre hydro race during the 35th Annual Idaho Regatta in 2010 at the Burley Municipal Golf Course Marina. These boats race at speeds of 100 mph and offer exciting side-by-side racing.

Your Primer to the Idaho Regatta

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • It's fun, fast and loud. The roar of race engines can already be heard on the Snake River, meaning the race for American Powerboat Association Flatbottom National Championships are under way.

The best boat racers in the world, along with thousands of fans, have converged on Burley this weekend for the 37th Annual Idaho Regatta. But unless you're a boat race junkie, chances are you don't know the difference between a K-Boat and a Crackerbox.

Relax, we're here to help. While you kick back, work on that suntan and enjoy the races, here's a rundown of the 12 classes you'll be watching.

K Racing Runabouts (K-Boats) – The granddaddy of them all, these boats run supercharged engines where anything goes. They have 1,200 horsepower and hit 140 mph in the straightaways.

Super Stocks – Probably the best racing you'll see all weekend because this class has so much parity. It's a driver's class, since the boats are well-matched (100+ mph). Powered by 427 cubic inch big block Chevrolet engines.

Pro Stocks – Similar to Super Stocks, and the same hull may be used for both classes. Reaching speeds up to 120 mph, Pros use non-supercharged, 500 cubic inch engines. Fun to watch.

Crackerboxes – Wild and wacky, Crackerboxes are always a crowd favorite. One of the oldest runabout classes, Crackerboxes feature two-person teams of a driver and a passenger sitting side-by-side, and the engine sits in front of the crew. It's a shorter boat that skips and jumps across the water.

Grand Nationals – It's not a sprint, it's a marathon with these V-drive boats. Powered by U.S.-made automotive or light truck Chevrolet or Chrysler engines, Grand Nationals is an endurance race, leaving the crowd in suspense to see who can hold on for 20 laps.

Comp Jets – Similar to Grand

Nationals in hull design, but instead of a V-drive propeller, Comp Jets use a jet drive. Idaho Regatta reps expect 16 boats in this class this weekend.

Sportsman Entry – New to the Idaho Regatta this year, this entry-level runabout class uses small block engines. Max speeds of 85 mph. Witness history as this weekend's Regatta hosts this class's first-ever national championship.

Hydroplanes – They glide across the water on a cushion of air

KING JAMES CROWNED AT LAST

NBA Finals MVP has triple-double in clinching Game 5 rout of Thunder

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MIAMI • The decision is final: LeBron James made the right call coming to Miami.

Finally an NBA champion, it's all worth it now.

James had 26 points, 11 rebounds and 13 assists, and got the kind of help that was worth leaving home for, leading the Heat in a 121-106 rout of the Oklahoma City Thunder on Thursday night to win the NBA Finals in five games.

Best player in the game, best team in the league.

James has found it all since taking his talents to South Beach.

"It means everything," James said moments after the win. "I made a difficult decision to leave Cleveland but I understood what my future was about ... I knew we had a bright future (in Miami). This is a dream come true for me. This is definitely when it pays off."

He left the game along with Dwyane Wade and Chris Bosh for good with 3:01 remaining for a round of hugs and the start for a celebration he's been waiting for since arriving in the NBA out of high school as the No. 1 pick of the 2003 draft.

James hopped up and down in the final minutes, shared a long hug with opponent Kevin Durant, and watched the confetti rain down from the rafters.

The Heat took control in the second quarter, briefly lost it and blew it open again in the third behind their

Mills Deals, Clubs Green Sox to Win

TIMES-NEWS

IDAHO FALLS • Jake Mills shrugged off a two-run home run in the first inning, striking out 15 while not walking a batter Thursday as the Burley Green Sox mercy-ruled Bonnevillie 14-2 in seven innings.

Mills also went 3 for 5 with four RBIs at the plate. His two-run single in the second helped fuel a five-run outburst and his two-run single in the third helped the Green Sox establish a 10-2 lead.

Jackson Kunz went 4 for 4 with a double, stolen base and three runs scored, while Brett Denker went 3 for 4 with four RBIs.

The Green Sox improved their record to 10-4 and host the Buhl Tribe on Tuesday.

Bruins' Harris Wins Gatorade State Award

TIMES-NEWS

Twin Falls High School cross-country and track distance runner Erik Harris was named the state Gatorade Track and Field Athlete of the Year, the sports drink company and ESPN HS announced Thursday.

With the honor, Harris automatically becomes a finalist for Gatorade's national award, which will be announced later this summer.

Harris won state titles in two events at the state track and field championships in May, taking first in the 800 and 3,200. He missed an unprecedented sweep of the distance events by losing the 1,600 by .01 seconds.

"Erik Harris is the best runner ever to come through Twin Falls High School," Bruins coach Marty Grindstaff said. "While he hates to lose, he is the ultimate good sport when he is beaten, which says a lot about his character."

Harris has signed with Brigham Young University to run cross country in the fall.

Brittany Owens, a jumper from Borah High in Boise, took home the girls honor.

to lead the Cowboys offense. He was aided by Zayne Slotten's two-run single in the fifth, when the Cowboys pulled to within 6-3. Jason Byce also had two hits for Twin Falls.

Starting pitcher Wyatt Berg labored through six innings, throwing 113 pitches while striking out seven and walking three. He gave up nine hits, which led to six runs, five of them earned.

JEROME CYCLONES 18, TWIN FALLS COWBOYS (A) 3

The Cyclones batted around in the fourth, sixth and seventh innings in cruising to a victory against the Class A Cowboys.

Every Cyclone starter scored a run, while the big hits came from Kevin Bos' three-run double in the sixth, and Dylan Harrison's pair of two-run triples in the second and sixth. Twin Falls was forced to use four pitchers as a result of the Cyclones' plate success.

Ethan Bragg got the win in middle relief, going 4 1-3 innings, striking out two and walking four. The two hits he gave up led to two runs, only one of which was earned.

The Cowboys got an RBI single from Jason Bride, and teammate Landon Jones earned an RBI by reaching base safely on an error in the fifth.

James Finally Validates Hype, Promise with Title

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MIAMI • LeBron James looked at the crowd, knowing he had just a few moments left on the court for the season.

He waved his arms to them. They roared back. Moments later, he was atop the stage at center court, wearing a champions' hat and T-shirt, and waving a champions' towel. He smiled. He danced.

For the first time in nine years, he enjoyed the ultimate relief. Maligned for so long, by so many, it brought him to this moment. On Thursday night — with a triple-double, no less, 26 points, 13 assists and 11 rebounds — LeRon James got his NBA title.

"You can't win," Heat coach Erik Spoelstra said, speaking about James, "unless you win."

That's no longer an issue. The man who was called heartless, callous, narcissistic, cowardly and selfish — and that was just in one scorned, angry letter from Dan Gilbert, the man who used to pay him to play for the Cleveland Cavaliers — will forever be called something else.

He's a champion. "When he gets involved in something, business, basketball, he puts everything he has into it," longtime associate Maverick Carter said. "And this year, during the playoffs, he took it up another notch. He dedicated himself even more. I don't think he's any more dedicated than he was last year, but he found ways this year to channel it better, to limit his distractions and it raised his focus."

It raised the city of Miami, and raised the Heat back to the mountaintop as well.

Much like this drive to the basket against Oklahoma City and Game 5, nothing stands in front of LeRon James in securing his legacy as one of the all-time greats after he finally won his first title.

And next fall, James will be there when they raise a second championship banner.

"He's one of a kind," Heat forward Shane Battier said. "One of a kind."

Vilified for both exercising his right to leave Cleveland and for the manner in which he announced the move, James came to Miami for this very thing. It took two years — one more than many people expected. The change of address didn't come with a change in stature. He remains one of the world's most polarizing and best-paid athletes, with his annual income recently estimated by Forbes to be $53 million.

But apparently, when it comes to James, enormous money and fame is not enough to satisfy everyone. A guy who is already a lock for the Hall of Fame — and might only be halfway or so through his career — needed a championship as validation.

Fairly or unfairly, that was the deal. And that title is now his.

DETROIT • Quintin Berry hit a tiebreaking RBI single in the 10th inning to give Detroit a 2-1 win over St. Louis on Thursday.

Ramon Santiago and Jhonny Peralta hit one-out singles off Victor Marte (0-1), who then grazed Austin Jackson's jersey with a pitch. Berry followed with a base hit up the middle through a drawn-in infield.

Cespedes connected with no outs off Josh Lindblom (2-1) for his seventh homer of the season. Oakland has won eight of nine after holding the NL's best team to eight total hits in the three-game series.

role players, James content to pass to wide-open 3-point shooters while the Thunder focused all their attention on him.

Bosh and Wade, the other members of the Big Three who sat alongside James as he promised titles at his Miami welcoming party two summers ago, both had strong games. Bosh, who broke down in tears as the Heat left their own court after losing Game 6 last year, finished with 24 points and Wade scored 20. The Heat also got a huge boost from Mike Miller, who made seven 3-pointers and scored 23 points.

The disappointment of losing to Dallas in six games last year vanished in a blowout of the demoralized Thunder, who got 32 points and 11 rebounds from Durant.

In the clincher it was Miller, banged-up from so many recent injuries that he practically limps from the bench to scorer's table when he checks in. He made his fourth 3-point of the half right before James' fast-break basket capped a 15-2 run that extended Miami's lead to 53-36 with 4:42 remaining in the first half. James had 15 points, five rebounds and five assists at halftime, with the Heat ahead 59-49.

Durant added 11 rebounds for the Thunder, who made a remarkably early trip to the NBA Finals just three years after starting 3-29. With Durant, Russell Westbrook, Serge Ibaka and James Harden all 23 or younger, the Thunder have the pieces in place for a lengthy stay atop the Western Conference.

Five at CSI Earn NJCAA Honors

The College of Southern Idaho had five sophomore student-athletes recognized by the National Junior College Athletic Association for their outstanding work in the classroom.

Taylor Wilkinson (volleyball) and Andrew Freter (baseball) earned the NJCAA's highest honor, the Pinnacle Award for Academic Excellence, by maintaining a 4.0 GPA throughout their respective CSI playing careers.

By finishing with a cumulative GPA of 3.6 or higher, Tyler McCarty and John White (baseball), and Nikki Brailsford (softball) earned the Exemplary Academic Achievement award.

Boise State Jumps on Kramer Bandwagon

Boise State University is adding its support to one of the more puzzling omissions on the national sports scene, notably, getting Idaho alumnus and longtime Green Bay Packer great Jerry Kramer inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

"In addition to being one of the greatest football players of all time, Kramer also is an outstanding citizen of Boise and a true ambassador of Idaho," wrote Kustra in his June 15 letter to the Hall of Fame's Senior Selection Committee. "His commitment, volunteerism, and loyalty to our community are values shared by Boise State University and qualities we feel are equally important as his athletic accomplishments."

The best support for Kramer's induction comes from his selection to the NFL's 50-year all-time team in 1969. Every other member of that team has been enshrined in the Hall except for Kramer, who earned five first-team All-Pro honors and played in three Pro Bowls while helping the Packers to two Super Bowl victories and three NFL championships.

"Boise State University is proud to join the long list of supporters who feel Jerry Kramer deserves to be in Canton for one simple reason. He played football the old-fashioned way — he earned the right to be in Canton," Kustra said.

Boise State is encouraging its fans to contact the Hall and urge for Kramer's induction. They can do so by writing to the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Attn: Senior Selection Committee, 2121 George Halas Drive NW, Canton OH, 44708.

Idaho's Kiser Earns Academic A-A Honors

Hannah Kiser, a distance runner from Wenatchee, Wash., was selected as a Capital One Academic All-America honoree, the fifth Vandal track and field competitor to win the honor since 2008.

After finishing 13th in the 3,000 meters at the NCAA Indoor Championships, Kiser was a second-team All-America selection from the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association. She also broke the school and Western Athletic Conference record in the same event. Kiser also helped Idaho's distance medley relay team win the WAC crown.

In her career, Kiser was a six-time WAC champion and an eight-time first-team WAC selection in either cross country, indoor or outdoor track and field.

Ronaldo, Portugal Top Czechs in Quarters

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WARSAW, Poland • Cristiano Ronaldo scored on a powerful header in the 79th minute, sending Portugal to the European Championship semifinals with a 1-0 victory over the Czech Republic on Thursday.

Ronaldo hit the post twice, then finally delivered. He headed a cross by Joao Moutinho straight at the ground and up past the flailing hands of Czech goalkeeper Petr Cech.

This was Ronaldo's third goal in two games and it rewarded the Portuguese for the relentless pressure they applied all match.

"We had a lot of chances," said Ronaldo. "We had a great unity on the pitch and that is why we have reached our goal."

Portugal will play Spain or France in the semifinals in Donetsk, Ukraine, on Wednesday. It is one victory from its second European Championship final in eight years.

Ronaldo already provided some leadership and two goals to get past the Netherlands in group play, and his encore Thursday was huge.

His goal finally punished the tactics of the Czechs, who had parked most of their players in front of Cech for much of the game.

"The Czechs didn't have a single chance," Ronaldo said.

The strategy worked for a while. In first-half injury time, Ronaldo deened a cross from Raul Meireles on his chest, turned and with two touches set up a right-foot shot that had Cech beaten before it crashed against the near post.

In the 49th, Ronaldo again clipped the post on a free kick from 25 yards out.

By then, Ronaldo had hit the post four times in two games. When he finally scored and was mobbed by teammates, he went over to the TV camera with a beaming smile and offered a victory kiss.

"We have suffered," Portugal forward Nani said. "But we always wanted to win and that's what we showed. We were superior, then we scored and we really deserved this result."

BACK TO WORK: HARVIN RETURNS TO VIKINGS' MINICAMP

ASSOCIATED PRESS

EDEN PRAIRIE, Minn.

The sun was bright, the breeze was blowing and smiles were abundant as the Minnesota Vikings wrapped up their offseason program.

Percy Harvin was back on the field Thursday morning, laughing with teammates and participating fully in the last practice of minicamp.

That frustration with the organization he described sternly but vaguely earlier in the week was not apparent by his demeanor. Harvin's request to be traded, followed by his absence Wednesday afternoon from the mandatory session, was shelved for a while even if it's unresolved.

"It's a new day today," head coach Leslie Frazier said, ever eager to try to avoid talking about his star wide receiver's still-unexplained discontent. "The fact that he was engaged and working to help us win, that's where my focus is. Just glad that he was participating in what we're doing. You move forward."

Harvin declined to be interviewed as he jogged to the locker room — "talk later," he said — but tweeted an hour later to say, "I'm really clueless on the crazy reports." Harvin went on to declare Thursday's practice "great" and told his fans he'd see them in Mankato, where the Vikings report to training camp July 26.

He wasn't specific about his promised arrival, but he sure made that sound like he's not planning to hold out. "I just assume that he'll be here," quarterback Christian

Ponder said. "It's not my job to handle it. The front office will handle it, and they're going to do a great job. We know that Percy is a heck of a player, and we like being around him, and he's been out here practicing like nothing's wrong, and that's what we like to see. He still cares about being here."

“Wickedness is always easier than virtue; for it takes the short-cut to everything.”
— Samuel Johnson

The German Women's Team won their round robin group at the 1st World Mind Sports Games. When they met the Netherlands, the runners-up in their section, the contract at both tables was three no-trump.

Both Wests found the only lead to give declarer problems — a spade. Each South took East's jack with the ace and continued with a club toward dummy. The West players both correctly ducked. This play was not just trying to restrict declarer's communications, but was also hoping for a suit-preference signal from partner as to the best continuation after West won the club ace. The order of East's play in the club suit should help West out.

Declarer has eight tricks, so needs just one more from the red suits. At one table, after West won the club ace, she cashed the diamond ace, then led the queen — the right play if East had started with four diamonds to the king along with either the nine or eight. It was a nice idea, but not in this layout.

At the other table, West continued with a heart to East's ace, and back came a diamond. Declarer ducked, so West won the queen, then the ace, but that gave South her ninth trick.

The only return to defeat declarer is another spade. South wins and plays a heart honor. East captures this, then puts declarer in dummy with a club. Declarer must cash her black suit winners, but in the process, she will squeeze herself and lose the last three tricks.

ANSWER: In this auction, there are many (including me) who play two hearts as natural and invitational, showing five hearts and an approximate 10-count. So to cue-bid, you must bid two diamonds now, a call that simply sets up at least a one-round force and may help you to reach spades if your partner has four of them.

DEAR ABBY: I have been happily married to my college sweetheart for 20 years. "Mark" is a great husband, a good father, and we are very compatible. He is the kind of man who brings me flowers for no reason, and who'd rather be home cooking dinner with me than almost anywhere. I know he loves me and our children.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

Recently, a woman called our house, identified herself as "a friend," and told me Mark has been "playing around" all over town and she thought I should know I was married to a "pervert." She hung up before I could comment. Mark swears he is not, and never has, had an affair.

Of course, I believe the man I have known for 25 years over a complete stranger, but this has been very upsetting. I now question my decision to be a stay-at-home mom and wonder if someone may be out to get me. I have become nervous in crowds, fearful that someone is watching me or us when we're out together. Mark is trying to be there for me and says we will go to marriage counseling or whatever I need.

Abby, I am happy in my marriage. Yet I feel violated, depressed and resentful that a stranger has the power to make me question my own happiness. Can you help me?

— SAD WIFE
IN NEW YORK

DEAR WIFE: The prank you have described could have been perpetrated by a high school student dialing randomly, or a disgruntled person with a grudge against your husband — or even you — for some imagined slight.

You feel violated because you HAVE been. People can exercise power over us only if we allow it. You have a husband who loves you and a marriage many people would envy. I don't think you need marriage counseling. However, some sessions with a mental health professional might be helpful in putting this unpleasant incident behind you.

P.S. I assume this was a one-time thing. If the calls persist, the phone company and the police should be notified that you're being harassed.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I separated two years ago. For the past year, I have been dating one man exclusively. We have a wonderful relationship that has great potential. Never have there been two people with more in common.

There is one problem. I have no children and he has three. Two are adults — responsible, good people. The youngest, "Erik," is 18, and he's the problem. He dropped out of school, doesn't work, refuses to even try to find a job and doesn't have a driver's license.

Erik has stolen money from me and also from his father to buy drugs and alcohol. Basically, the kid is good for nothing. He doesn't even have any friends left.

My boyfriend realizes his son's problems, but has essentially given up on him. I can't blame him. It has reached the point where I can't even stand to be around the kid. It doesn't look like he'll ever get a life and move on. Please tell me what to do.

— AT A LOSS
INNOVA SCOTIA

DEAR A FRIEND: You and your boyfriend are overdue for a frank discussion. You could have a good relationship with this man if he agrees to insist that his son get counseling and drug treatment. Be firm and do not allow him to sidestep his son's obvious addiction. But if he refuses, you should move on.

IF JUNE 22 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: The year ahead offers a chance for you to feel younger than your years and to get in touch with your spiritual needs. Some people have money, some have faith and some have luck. You are blessed by all three as this summer unfolds. You have the ability and opportunities to make key improvements in your life and financial condition in August. In October you may be filled with ambition but that is a time to lay low and get organized. Put any big business or career push on the back burner until November.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Destiny is not a matter of chance; it is a matter of choice. You might be pressured into making crucial choices that radically affect your future. Think carefully before putting important plans into motion.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Being supportive doesn't necessarily create dependence. Just accept the inconvenience when people in your circle vacillate between hot and cold. You may need to agree with the disagreeable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Every setback prepares you for a more glorious comeback. Be grateful for those who point out mistakes and the error of your ways, as these can give you clues as to what needs work before you can succeed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Tune up the bank account. If you do some careful addition, you will see which subtractions are unnecessary. Someone close might be going through an emotional upheaval and need your support.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Even Eden had a snake or two. Even though your kind heart is stirred to perform a good deed, be sure you know who and what you are dealing with. Only listen to advice from your most trusted advisers.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Anyone who plays dirty is bound to get muddy. One of your most loyal companions is clear-sighted and will remind you of your higher duty and moral obligations before you can do any damage.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): What worries you masters you. Those wise words can wake up your will to win. You prefer to find ways to compromise and attain harmony; there are times when you must fight your own lack of competitiveness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Put your hands out and get ready for a slap from the ruler. The universe has a way of punishing those who transgress, but it isn't always what you expect. Your ready hands may receive a gift instead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Simplify complexities. It could be a perfect time to get down to fundamental wants and needs. Learn to be more spontaneous, but remember you may need to keep some things secret.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The world might be a better place if it were modeled on Walden Pond. You would do well to take to heart the words of Thoreau, who once said, "We make ourselves rich by making our wants few."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Greet your guru. When the tensions of the world get you down, you may yearn to escape to a world where peace reigns supreme. Rather than making your mark in the world, try to make no marks at all.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Before you burn any financial bridges, be sure you know who really lit the match. A profound feeling of pressure may be brought to bear on you. Before you take action reflect on whether it is a mere reaction.

SUDOKU

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.
