Weather Doesn't Do Firefighters Any Favors

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI

kkruesi@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Firefighters continue to have no rest as local weather conditions create the perfect opportunity for sparks to ignite across the Magic Valley.

The National Weather Service issued a red flag warning for Wednesday and today.

"This particular threat is for lightning," said Josh Smith, meteorologist with the National Weather Service out of Boise. "These particular storms are dry, not a lot of precipitation going along with them."

While the weather patterns are typical for this time of year, the amount of dry fuel has everyone worried, said Julie Thomas, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Forest Service.

She said Forest Service firefighters remained busy throughout the summer. In the Sawtooth National Recreation Area, she said, firefighters already responded to a 25-acre fire.

"Compared to a rangeland fire, that might not seem like a lot, but for a forest fire that's pretty significant," she said.

The U.S. Bureau of Land Management also remains busy, said Kyli Gough, a spokeswoman for the agency.

After largely quashing the 216,000-acre Kinyon Road Fire near Castleford, firefighters responded to other smaller fires nonstop, she said.

"We had crews ready to respond to the Kinyon Road Fire, but we sent them out to other fires on Tuesday, and it just hasn't stopped from there," she said.

Firefighters could catch a break this weekend. High temperatures and sporadic wind patterns will continue to the weekend, Smith said. However, by Saturday, the Magic Valley should expect cooler temperatures and chances of rain.

"That will be a very, very good thing for them," he said.

DEVELOPERS, COUNTIES DISAGREE OVER TAX EXEMPTION

BY MELISSA DAVLIN mdavlin@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Some Idaho developers hoping to take advantage of a new tax exemption are facing disappointment.

Over the last two weeks, county boards of equalization - county commissioners meeting under a different hat — considered appeals of new assessed property values. One of the issues that came up: disagreements between developers and county commissioners over interpretation of a new law.

In Twin Falls County, commissioners considered 150 appeals, Commissioner Terry Kramer said. Of those, 66 related to a new exemption for Idaho developers.

Under the new law, passed in March, developers can make site improvements to an undeveloped property, like adding water lines or gutters, without incurring a higher assessment - and, with it, a much higher tax rate. Previously, the higher tax rate discouraged some developers from adding improvements.

But who does the law apply to? That's where things get confusing.

The commissioners interpreted the law to mean the exemption applies only if the original developer is still in possession of the property. In cases of conveyance — where the property changes hands - the exemption no longer applies and the assessment is higher, Kramer said.

Celebrity-watching is fine sport on the first day of Allen & Co. business conference.

SUN VALLEY • There was Facebook Inc. CEO Mark Zuckerberg, looking like a college student in jeans, beat-up running shoes and Tshirt as he snacked on a sandwich and bottled water in a Sun Valley Village cafe.

Outside, Hollywood producer Eric Eisner's wife, Stacey, walked past in a bright yellow flowered skirt and matching purse, stopping long enough to rave about Sun Valley, which she called "amazing, beautiful." Spotting a friend, she called out, "I got sunburned. I'm going inside, but call us."

At the same time, Direct TV CEO Mike White was in the midst of negotiations for a contract extension for programming with Viacom.

"We're far apart," White admitted. "They are asking a billion dollars over five years. That's just not fair to our customers. We just want a fair price. These things eventually get worked out."

Celebrity-watching was at a frantic pace Wednesday during the first day of the annual Allen & Co. conference that brings media and technology kingpins together to wheel and deal. The exclusive affair began in 1983 under sponsorship by the private investment firm owned by Herbert Allen Jr.

And deals are struck. Last year, Zuckerberg huddled with Newark, N.J., Mayor Cory Booker and the social-network mogul soon donated $100 million to Newark schools. The conference also was the place where the merger between AOL and Time Warner was hatched a decade ago.

It's almost a phantom gathering as far as the public is concerned. Representatives of the host Sun Valley Resort take a closed-mouth approach leading up to the kickoff, not even discussing the conference dates. Media representatives are kept 50 yards from the Limelight Room convention center where closed-door meetings take place.

FIRES IN MAGIC VALLEY

What's Burning Now?

Firefighters remained busy on Wednesday, working on current and new wildfires across the Magic Valley.

Wapi Fire • Eight miles northeast of Minidoka, fire officials believe the wildfire consumed 160 acres. No containment or control estimates were set Wednesday evening. The BLM sent five engines and air support to help put out the flames.

Mammoth Cave Fire • Starting around 8:30 a.m. on Wednesday, BLM officials began tackling the 14.5-acre wildfire. The fire was contained and expected to be controlled . Wednesday evening. Shoshone Rural Fire Department responded to the fire, along with two BLM engines and one water tender.

engines and one water tender; the Malta Rural Fire Department also responded to the fire.

Laidlaw Park Fire • After burning close to 8,100 acres, firefighters expected to control the fire Wednesday evening. Air support was called off the scene, but two engines were still helping to monitor the fire.

Rabbit Springs Fire • The 2,000-acre fire was contained Tuesday evening and fully controlled Wednesday. Most resources were released, including air support.

Little Birch Creek Fire Full control of the 933acre fire is expected at 11 a.m. today. Seven BLM engines, two dozers, a Cedar City Hot Shot crew, a Cache Peak fiveperson hand crew and a hand crew from Medford, Ore., were on scene Wednesday.

Rock Creek Fire • This fire southwest of Hailey burned almost 125 acres, but was expected to be fully controlled by Wednesday evening. No air support remained on the scene.

"The law as it was written said if a conveyance takes place, that property loses exemption," Kramer said.

That's the case even when the property changes from one corporation to another.

But Twin Falls developer Brad Wills, who drafted the legislation, said that wasn't his intent. It's not uncommon for developers to convey properties between their own corporations, he said.

"If you talk to any land developer, it's a matter of when we sell it. We convey the title to a third party, and it's sold," Wills said. In that case, the assessment would be higher.

But if they convey the property to their own corporation, the same developer still owns the property and the exemption should still apply, he said.

Jerome County Commissioner Charlie Howell said he and his fellow commissioners considered about 30 appeals. As in Twin Falls County, many of those concerned the developer's exemption.

Kramer said Twin Falls County upheld most of the contested assessments. Developers may still appeal to the State Board of Tax Appeals.

Wills said he discussed the differences with county commissioners and understands where they're coming from, especially because the Idaho State Tax Commission interpreted the law the same way.

"We're going to have to go back to the Legislature and have this clarified," Wills said.

U.S. Border Patrol to Close T.F. Office

BY ALISON GENE SMITH alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • The United States Border Patrol announced Wednesday it will close its office in Twin Falls, along with eight other offices around the country.

All the offices are "interior" stations, according to a statement released by the Border Patrol office.

Billings, Mont., Riverside, Calif., and six Texas offices - Abilene, San Angelo, Dallas, San Antonio, Lubbock and Amarillo.

Bill Brooks, a spokesman for the agency, said two agents currently work at the Twin Falls office. It wasn't decided where they would be transferred.

The office will close in about six months, Brooks

The goal of the office closures is to concentrate resources in the immediate border areas, the statement from the Border Patrol said.

"These deactivations are consistent with the strategic goal of securing America's borders, and our objective of increasing and sustaining the certainty of arrest of country illegally," the agency stated.

Although agents won't be stationed in the area, the statement said the Border Patrol would maintain strong and meaningful partnerships with local law enforcement and Customs Enforcement and would continue to actively share intelligence.

CSI Offers Workshop on College Placement Exam

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Students enrolling at the College of Southern Idaho this fall can take advantage of summer workshops explaining the Compass test, the college's placement exam that all students must take.

The test helps CSI advisers place students in the classes that best match their skills. The workshops address the test, what its scores mean, who needs to take it and how to prepare for it, said Carla Wherry, CSI college success facilitator, in a press release.

Workshops are offered as either one four-hour session or two two-hour sessions, depending on the CSI location.

- In Twin Falls, the college offers workshops from 7-9 p.m. the second and fourth Monday and Wednesday of each month.
- In Burley, workshops are held from 7-9 p.m. the second Monday and Wednesday of each
- Just one workshop is scheduled in Gooding, from 5-9 p.m. Aug. 8.
- One session is planned for Hailey from 5-9 p.m. Aug. 6.

Admission is free but seating is limited. To register, call Wherry at 732-6525 or email cwherry@csi.edu. For the locations of CSI's campuses, visit www.csi.edu.

Kimberly Officials Make Renewed Pitch for Grant

BY DAVE WILKINS

For the Times-News

KIMBERLY • Kimberly officials hope a presentation before the governor's Economic Advisory Council will get the city back on track for a $500,000 grant to revitalize the downtown

In a presentation Wednesday in Pocatello, city representatives made a 12.5minute pitch and then answered questions from panel members for about 30 minutes, said Kimberly Mayor Tracy Armstrong.

"It went great," he said. "They didn't award us anything yet, but we should know within a couple weeks."

The $500,000 block grant would cover most of the project's estimated $900,000 price tag.

Handicapped parking spaces and wheelchairfriendly ramps are a major part of the proposed project. Other features include replacing aging sidewalks and streets, upgrading storm drainage, improving pedestrian safety, new street lights and landscaping.

The city's original block grant application was put on standby status following the resignation of City Administrator Polly Hulsey in April. Hulsey was the city's contact person with the Idaho Department of Com-

City Attorney Resigns

William R. Hollifield resigned as Kimberly city attorney, a position he has held since 1979.

Mayor Tracy Armstrong said Hollifield submitted his resignation Monday.

We have a lot of respect for Mr. Hollifield and are thankful for the service that he provided to the city of Kimberly for 33 years," he said.

Armstrong did not elaborate on the reasons for Hollifield leaving, and Hollifield did not immediately return a call seeking comment.

Twin Falls County Prosecutor Grant Loebs will handle all the city's criminal cases, infractions and misdemeanors until a replacement is found, Armstrong said.

The City Council will consider a long-term contract proposal submitted by Loebs, he said.

merce, the agency administering the grant.

The city then resubmitted the grant, was re-scored and found to be competitive, Armstrong said.

"As a result, we were invited to make a presentation to the governor's Economic Advisory Council," he said.

If the city does get the grant, design work could begin as early as September. Construction would take three to six months, but wouldn't begin until sometime next year.

In other business, the city has reduced its projected annual population growth rate for the next 20 years from 4.5 percent per year to 2.7 percent per year.

While the city has the capacity to add more residential customers to its sewer system, its ability to add industrial customers - especially those that produce lots of wastewater much more limited.

"We don't have the capacity right now to accommodate that," Armstrong said. "So we have to scale back our growth rate."

In a related matter, the City Council on Tuesday approved a request from the Kimberly School District to reduce its annual sewer bill to $6,285 per year. The rate works out to about 32 cents per month for each student, faculty member and staffer in the district.

believe Ann Romney when she says she's tougher than she was even four years ago. And nobody who's raised five boys and gone up against both breast cancer and multiple sclerosis, as she has, wasn't any hothouse orchid to begin with. Recently, the presumptive Republican nominee's wife told the Miami Herald that what she most wants the public to know about her is "that I am pretty direct and pretty honest and I don't pull any punches." Message received! After your latest remarks about President Obama wanting to "kill Romney," though, you might consider dialing back on the kapow.

Now, nobody who is in the public eye every day gets off gaffe-free or phrases everything just as intended.
Thank goodness, too, or our tightly scripted politics would be even more devoid of humanity and our elections even more in thrall to those scary voices in the ads.

But was Ann Romney's over-the-top assertion that Obama's campaign strategy can be summed up in two words - "kill Romney" - even an oopsie? I don't think so, because later in the same joint CBS interview with her husband, she interrupted him to repeat herself.

Asked about the president's suggestion that Romney lacks compassion, she said, "It makes you realize they're going to do everything they can to destroy Mitt. ... I feel like all [Obama's] doing is saying, 'Let's kill this guy."

Goodness, madam, didn't we agree to demilitarize the language of politics after Gabby Giffords was shot last year? I don't think Ann Romney was being intentionally incendiary, so much as gleefully clueless.

Given the very real safety concerns every president faces, Ann Romney's words make her seem more cosseted - protected, seemingly, from the worries Michelle Obama has to deal with in that regard - than Democrats have portrayed her to be.

And although nothing is more natural than taking criticism of one's mate to heart, has she so soon forgotten her guy's own take-no-prisoners handling of his fellow Republicans during the primary season?

Then there's this: So far, nothing the president has said about Mitt matches the meanness of his fellow Republican Newt Gingrich's Florida robocalls accusing Romney of denying kosher food to Holocaust survivors in nursing homes.

The worst Obama's said about his rival, in the ad that pegged him as a "vampire capitalist" - was on a par with, and inspired by, Rick Perry calling him a "vulture capitalist." Romney hasn't been shy about criticizing the president, either, of course. For instance, saying that Obama, "almost sounded like he's more frightened that Israel might take military action than he's concerned that Iran might become nuclear."

The question about her response to criticism couldn't have caught Ann Romney off-guard. In fact, I doubt she has ever given an interview in which she wasn't asked how she deals with "attacks" on Mitt.

The two most predictable questions for aspiring first ladies are these: What worthy cause will you make your own? (Never, ever has an interesting answer been supplied in response to that one, which seems to have been inspired by the Miss America pageant.) And, what does she make of those nasty, unfair things the other side is saying about her man?

There usually is some oomph in the answer to that second one. But Ann Romney distinguished herself, saying, "Early on, we heard what their strategy was; it was 'kill Romney.' That was the memo that came out from their campaign. It's like, 'Not when I'm next to him, you better not.'"

The Romneys shared a good long laugh over her response. Then, she made good on her promise to be "pretty honest and pretty direct" — by hinting that Mitt would probably not be picking a female running mate. Yes, I'm aware that all the headlines said the opposite, but what she said is that they're going to pick someone "Mitt will enjoy spending time with" who "has the same personality type" he does. Then, asked about the possibility of a female running mate, she said, oh yes, she likes that option, too.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Why Do I Have to Pay for Things I am Against?

With one hand I shake my fist at the government for encroaching on my God-given rights. I hold out the other for my CRP payment. I complain about how people on welfare abuse it. I'm forced to pay for their beer and chips. And yet, I'll get government help to buy my house or run my business, forcing someone else to foot the bill.

I get angry about how illegals expect me to pick up the tab for their health care. And I expect someone to pick up the tab for my child's education. I get cranky that I am forced to pay for auto companies and banks that can't make it on their own. Still I won't reject money forced out of the people's hands in the same way so that my business can make it.

I hate it when the government forces me to pay for stuff I don't agree with! It doesn't seem to care how I feel about it. I have to pay my taxes or they will take away my property and put me in jail. But I am very thankful that it forces others to benefit me, so I don't talk too loud or point my finger. I am alarmed and angry that the government has the power to force me into its new health care system. I will have to pay for things that I am against. And yet, with my actions for a very long time, I have been telling the government that if the cause is noble enough (in other words if it benefits me) I will turn a blind eye as it overruns my life and that of every other American.

'Business as Usual' Approach to Local Politics Politicians and the press should take nothing for granted. My campaign is in full swing with many volunteers and the local and state Democratic Party behind it. We look forward to good press coverage and a more level playing field. State government will serve us all better with a more informed electorate and a balanced Legislature.

I say this because on July 9, the Times-News ran an article about my race with Steve Hartgen for House Seat 24B and his aspirations to be in GOP leadership. The coverage upset several of my supporters. At first, I chalked this up to loyalty to me or to the Democratic Party. After further thought, I decided to respond because it seems to be more than that.

Democrats are working hard and have created a bigger presence in Twin Falls and the Magic Valley. We believe that a large part of the electorate here has no voice in the Legislature. As the dominant party, Republicans, have become complacent, content with status quo. Those who were upset by the article feel that we aren't given a fair shake and perhaps the Times-News gives into this "business as usual" approach to local politics.

IDAHO

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP) • A newspaper must provide information that could identify an anonymous reader who typed a disparaging online comment about the chairwoman of the Kootenai County Republicans, an Idaho judge has ruled.

An attorney for Tina Jacobson subpoenaed the identities of three people who commented about Jacobson under assumed names on a Spokesman-Review blog.

Under the name "almostinnocentbystander;" one commenter questioned whether $10,000 reportedly missing from the Kootenai County Central Committee might be "stuffed inside Tina's blouse?'

District Court Judge John Luster ruled Tuesday that the First Amendment does not protect defamatory speech.

He ordered the newspaper to provide information establishing the identity of "almostinnocentbystander." But he also ruled the paper did not have to provide similar information for the other two readers because they did not make defamatory comments.

The Spokesman-Review is based in Spokane, Wash., and also circulates widely in nearby northern Idaho.

The two other commenters wrote under the names "Phaedrus" and "outofstatetater."

The comments were deleted from Huckleberries Online after Spokesman-Review blogger Dave Oliveria discovered them, but the first post was visible for about 2 ½ hours.

In late April, Jacobson filed a lawsuit against "John and/or Jane Doe." Her attorney, C. Matthew Andersen, subpoenaed the commenters' names so the suit could proceed, and the newspaper responded with a motion to quash that request.

In a hearing last month, Jacobson's attorney argued that the posts hurt his client's reputation, and he sought to have the judge order the newspaper to provide identifying information about the people who made the comments.

The newspaper's attorney, Duane Swinton, argued at the June hearing that the blouse comment "wasn't nice" but that it was made on a blog site "where people express opinions, sometimes airing outrageous views."

Gary Graham, editor of The Spokesman-Review, said he was disappointed with Luster's decision but he has not yet decided whether the newspaper will pursue an appeal.

"However, we are glad the judge ruled that we don't have to provide information about the two people who simply commented on the original posting," Graham said.

Ada County Hires Help to Probe Dynamis Deal

BOISE, Idaho (AP) • Ada County has enlisted an outside prosecutor to scrutinize complaints over alleged irregularities in a contract with a company aiming to build a wasteto-energy plant at the local landfill.

The Idaho Statesman reported Mark Hiedeman, Bannock County's prosecutor, will lead the probe into the contract between Ada County and Dynamis.

A group calling itself Citizens for a Safe Environment and a Transparent Government filed a complaint in June, asking Ada County Prosecutor Greg Bower to investigate.

Ada County has given Dynamis $2 million to help design the project, and critics contend meetings prior to the deal may have violated Idaho's open meetings law. Since Bower's staff counseled county commissioners on the project and helped craft the contracts, he sought a special prosecutor to avoid a conflict of interest.

"I have full faith that (Hiedeman) and his team will produce a thorough report that addresses the allegations at hand," Bower said Tuesday.

County Commission Chairman Rick Yzaguirre said in a statement that all activities in conjunction with Dynamis were legal, and he hopes the investigation puts to rest accusations of impropriety against the project at the county landfill.

"All activities surrounding the Dynamis contract were conducted within the strict confines of the law, and we look at this inquiry as a way to once and for all put an end to false allegations that critics of the project have spread throughout our communities," Yzaguirre said in a new release.

Ada County signed the contract with Dynamis two years ago.

Since then, the company has won a power purchase agreement with Idaho Power for its electricity, but has yet to begin building. It's still seeking regulatory approval from the state Department of Environmental Quality and has yet to apply for a building permit.

Foundation: No Politicians at 9/11 Anniversary

NEW YORK (AP) Politicians will be excluded from speaking at this year's Sept. 11 anniversary ceremony at ground zero, following a year in which families have expressed concern that political struggles are hindering progress on a 9/11 museum at the World Trade Center site.

The foundation that controls the 9/11 memorial told family members that this year the reading of victims' names by relatives will be "the exclusive focus of the program," according to a letter sent to families Wednesday and shared with The Associated Press.

It was the first indication that the reading of the names would continue to be part of the ceremony as the 11th anniversary approaches. Some family members protested after New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg, the foundation's chair, said he wasn't sure if the names should be read individually now that they are on display at the memorial at ground zero.

Construction of the museum planned to accompany the memorial has slowed amid financial and political disagreements between the powerful forces that control the space. The foundation is responsible for the memorial and museum, while the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey - jointly controlled by the governors of both states – owns the site.

Disagreements over the site have intensified in recent weeks, with some family members accusing New York Gov. Andrew Cuomo and New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie of betraying the dead, and others accusing Bloomberg and the foundation of blocking progress and allowing costs to spiral out BOISE, Idaho (AP) • Boise County authorities issued a voluntary evacuation order Wednesday for people living near a wildfire burning in the forest about 25 miles northeast of Idaho's capital city.

The order issued by the Boise County Sheriff Department specifically targeted residents living within a mile of the Avelene Fire, which grew to 250 acres by Wednesday afternoon. The fire, located about 25 miles northeast of Boise, was among several fires that flared up Wednesday due to lightning strikes.

Fire crews managed to build lines around 50 percent of the perimeter, but hot temperatures and high winds Wednesday night provoked concern among law enforcement, said Dave Olson, spokesman for the Boise National Forest.

"Progress was definitely made today," Olson said. "But the bad news is ... the fire behavior is going to be more active late Wednesday."

Elsewhere, about 100 firefighters were dispatched to contain a fire burning in thick, dense forest 10 miles east of Donnelly.

Two additional small blazes were reported burning in the foothills just northeast of Boise near a populated area. They were likely started by storms that rolled through the area Wednesday morning and brought lightning and thunder but little rain.

Steve Niedbalski shows his drought and heat stricken corn while chopping it down for feed Wednesday in Nashville, Ill. Farmers in parts of the Midwest are dealing with the worst drought in nearly 25 years.

New Crop Technology Helps Limit Corn Losses

BY DAVID PITT Associated Press

DES MOINES, Iowa • For months, Illinois farmer David Kellerman held out hope for rain, even as the worst drought in nearly 25 years spread across the country.

He finally gave up when the temperature hit 108 three days in a row. Corn won't develop kernels if it gets too warm during pollination, and Kellerman knew the empty cobs in his fields would never fill out. Just after the Fourth of July, he and the neighbor he farms with took an extraordinary step: They cut down the entire crop and baled the withered plants to use as hay for their cattle.

Almost a third of the nation's corn crop was damaged by heat and drought, and a number of farmers in the hardest hit areas of the Midwest cut down their crops midway through the growing season. But the nation could still see one of the largest harvests in U.S. history, thanks to new plant varieties developed to produce more corn per acre and better resist drought.

Kellerman said he was surprised his corn fared as well as it did, growing to a decent height even though there had been less than an inch of rain since mid-April. The dirt in the area where he farms near Du Bois, Ill., has the consistency of dust, but it wasn't until the extreme heat "fried" the plants, that he lost hope.

"Genetics are much better," he said. "Corn five years ago would never have lasted this long."

Corn production has been improving steadily for decades, the result of scientific advances going back to the introduction of the first commercial hybrid in 1923. Genetic engineering accelerated the process in recent years and allowed the development of some strains that borrow DNA from other species for pest resistance.

Another California City Opts for Bankruptcy

SAN BERNARDINO • In this sweltering Southern California city, officials tried to keep the budget in check by selling assets, cutting spending and asking public employees to take a hit as tax revenues dwindled.

But San Bernardino officials found themselves staring at a bleak prospect Tuesday night: Vendors hadn't been paid and cash was running out to make payroll, threatening to shut down the city altogether.

That prompted elected officials in the city of 210,000 people to take the bold and sudden move of authorizing the city attorney to seek federal bankruptcy protection, becoming the third California city poised to do so in less than two weeks.

"The city needs breathing room and the bottom line is we cannot default on payments to our employees without violating the law," City Attorney James Penman told the council ahead of the contentious vote.

In historic visit, Clinton reaches out to Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) • Decades after the U.S. gave Laos a horrific distinction as the world's most heavily bombed nation per person, Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton pledged Wednesday to help get rid of millions of unexploded bombs that still pockmark the impoverished country - and still kill.

The U.S. dropped more than 2 million tons of bombs on the North Vietnamese ally during its "secret war" between 1964 and 1973 — about a ton of ordnance for each Laotian man, woman and child. That exceeded the amount per person dropped on Germany and Japan together in World War II. Four decades later, American weapons are still claiming lives. When the war ended, about a third of some 270 million cluster bombs dropped on Laos had failed to detonate. More than 20,000 people have been killed in Laos since then by ordnance, according to its government, and agricultural development has been stymied.

Clinton, gauging whether a nation the U.S. pummeled in wartime can evolve into a new foothold of American influence in Asia, met with the prime minister and foreign minister, part of a weeklong diplomatic tour of Southeast Asia. The goal is to bolster America's standing in some of the fastest growing markets of the world, and counter China's expanding economic, diplomatic and military dominance of the region.

UK: 3,500 More Troops Assigned to Olympics

BY DAVID STRINGER Associated Press

LONDON • Britain put an extra 3,500 military personnel on standby Wednesday to protect venues at the London Olympics, after a private contractor said it may not be able to provide enough security guards on time.

The contractor, G4S, had been enlisted to provide the bulk of the 13,200 private security guards across 100 venues, but said in a statement that it may not hit its target because of problems recruiting and training staff.

In a statement, the government ministry in charge of crime and security said the troops would be ready to be deployed to cover any shortfall.

"We have agreed to offer help to G4S by revising the level of military support," the Home Office said.

Defense Secretary Philip Hammond will confirm the full details to Parliament on Thursday in an official written ministerial statement, the Home Office said.

G4S insisted that it still hopes to be able to supply the guards, but Britain's government is putting the troops on alert to be quickly deployed if the contractor cannot meet its obligations.

"This has been an unprecedented and very complex security recruitment, training and deployment exercise, which has been carried out to a tight timescale," the company said in a statement. "We have encountered some issues in relation to workforce supply and scheduling over the last couple of weeks, but are resolving these every day."

The firm said it accepted "that the government has decided to overlay additional resources." It was not clear what, if any, penalties the company would face if it failed to meet its contract.

Main opposition Labour Party lawmaker Tessa Jowell, Olympics minister in the previous government, said the news was a concern with the London Games due to begin on July 27.

"This is clearly a serious problem, and we have to understand how this problem arose," she said.

Britain has committed $857 million) for venue security, covering arenas in London and a number of additional locations across Britain.

Newborn Panda Dies of Pneumonia at Tokyo Zoo

TOKYO (AP) • A baby giant panda died at a Tokyo zoo on Wednesday, less than a week after becoming the first to be born at the facility in 24 years. The birth created excitement across Japan, and the nation was mourning the baby's death.

Tokyo's Ueno Zoo said the male panda, which had not been named, died of pneumonia Wednesday morning. A zookeeper found the baby, who was born last Thursday, lying belly up and not breathing, on his 7-year-old mother's chest.

It was pronounced dead an hour later, after resuscitation efforts failed. It was 6 inches long and weighed only 4.4 ounces.

In a news conference broadcast live, Yutaka Fukuda, the zoo's chief panda keeper, said milk accidentally entered the baby's airway while its mother, Shin Shin, was breast-feeding. Traces of milk were found later in the baby's bronchial tube.

The baby panda had been kept in an incubator for three days before being sent back to Shin Shin on Tues-

"They peacefully spent the night and the baby was doing fine just this morning," Fukuda said, tears welling up in his eyes. "It happened so suddenly, and it's such a pity?'

The panda was the first to be born at the zoo since 1988 and was conceived naturally. Giant pandas have a low birth rate, and artificial insemination is common in captive breeding programs.

His mother was brought from China just before Japan's tsunami and earthquake disasters last year.

After 48 weeks of treatment, 88 percent of patients receiving a combination of dolutegravir and two other drugs had undetectable levels of virus in their blood, compared with 81 percent of those getting Atripla, Londonbased Glaxo and Shionogi of Osaka said Wednesday. The difference in efficacy was primarily the result of more patients on Atripla dropping out because of side effects, the companies

The study, dubbed Single, is the second of four late-stage trials to be reported this year that Glaxo plans to use in filing for regulatory approval of dolutegravir. Atripla is the world's best-selling AIDS pill, bringing in $3.2 billion last year for Foster City, California-based Gilead.

Dolutegravir is being developed by Glaxo and Pfizer's ViiV Healthcare Ltd. joint venture with Shionogi. Shionogi and Viiv will split the profits from sales of dolutegravir. As Glaxo owns 85 percent of ViiV, it will take 42.5 percent of profit from the drug and New York-based Pfizer 7.5 percent.

If approved, dolutegravir would be the second in a new class of HIV medicines called integrase inhibitors that work by blocking the virus's ability to replicate. Merck & Co.'s raltegravir, marketed as Isentress, is the only approved integrase inhibitor.

black voters - 95 percent backed Obama in 2008 but he's trying to show independent and swing voters that he's willing to reach out to diverse audiences, while demonstrating that his campaign and the Republican Party he leads are inclusive.

The stakes are high. Romney's chances in battleground states such as North Carolina, Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania – which have huge numbers of blacks who helped Obama win four years ago - will improve if he can cut into the president's advantage by persuading black voters to support him or if they stay home on Election Day.

As for Romney's contention that his policies would help "families of any color" more than Obama's, White House spokesman Jay Carney said the president has pursued ideas that help support and expand the middle class after a devastating recession, and that as part of that, black Americans and other minorities have benefited.

Obama spoke to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People during the 2008 campaign, as did his Republican opponent that year, Sen. John McCain. The president dispatched Vice President Joe Biden to address the group on Thursday. Obama is scheduled to address the National Urban League later this month.

For the past year, Romney's campaign sought to avoid any overt discussion of race. When the issue has popped up, as with talk in Republican circles about running ads about the Rev. Jeremiah Wright, Obama's controversial former pastor, Romney's team worked to quickly distance him from the topic. The campaign is mindful both of the sensitivities of Romney being a white man looking to unseat the nation's first black president and of Romney's Mormon church's complicated racial history, having barred men of African descent from the priesthood until 1978.

But on Wednesday, Romney confronted race headon, with a bold assertion that he'd be a better president for the black community than one of their own.

Within minutes of taking the stage, Romney made note of his opponent's historic election achievement - and then accused him of not doing enough to help African-American families on everything from family policy to education to health care.

"If you understood who I truly am in my heart, and if it were possible to fully communicate what I believe is in the real, enduring best interest of African-American families, you would vote for me for president," Romney said to murmuring from the Romney added: "I want you to know that if I did not believe that my policies and my leadership would help families of color - and families of any color — more than the policies and leadership of President Obama, I would not be running for president?"

It wasn't long after that the murmurs turned to boos when Romney pledged to repeal Obama's health care overhaul.

"I am going to eliminate every non-essential, expensive program that I can find and that includes Obamacare," Romney said, standing motionless as the crowd jeered for 15 seconds. He then noted a survey from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce as support for his position, and was greeted with

RANCH BECOMES FOCUS FOR RUSSIAN ADOPTION OUTRAGE

BY MATT VOLZ Associated Press

HELENA, Mont. • On one side of the gate stood a group of Russian government officials with a Moscow television crew in tow, demanding entry into the ranch that one of them called "a trash can for unwanted children."

On the other side, indoors and away from the camera, were Joyce Sterkel and the 25 adopted children under her care at the Ranch For Kids in remote northwestern Montana.

In the decade that the ranch for troubled adopted children from foreign countries has operated, it has been lauded by parents, advocates and the press as a refuge for adoptive parents to bring their children when they have nowhere else to go. But on June 28, some of the outrage and suspicion that Russians have toward U.S. adoptions of their children landed on its doorstep.

At Sterkel's gate were Russian children rights ombudsman Pavel Astakhov and human rights envoy Konstantin Dolgov. Astakhov claimed in comments carried by the news agency RIA Novosti that the children at Sterkel's ranch near the Canadian border were completely isolated from the outside world and questioned whether they were getting the necessary care or treatment.

Sterkel, who bristles at Astakhov's claims and says he is wrong on every count, suspected she was being set up for a made-for TV confrontation for political gain in Russia. She decided they wouldn't step foot on her property without State Department officials, parental permission and an independent film crew on hand to document the visit.

Dolgov spoke of the Montana visit in July 5 comments carried by the Interfax news agency.

"We regret that we have been denied access. For all our respect for American law we think there are channels which must allow Russian officials to visit Russian citizens. All of these children are Russian citizens," he

Sterkel said she is concerned they will try to make good on their promise to try again after a bilateral adoption agreement between the U.S. and Russia wends its way through the ratification

"This is a test case. This is to test the integrity of the bilateral agreement to see if they have the muscle to come onto American soil and push their way in," Sterkel said. "I think they want to see if they really can come in and visit children without parental consent."

Rep. Jesse Jackson Treated for 'Mood Disorder'

CHICAGO (AP) • U.S. Rep. Jesse Jackson Jr. is under intensive medical treatment for a "mood disorder," his office announced in a brief statement Wednesday, more than a month after the Chicago Democrat quietly went on a medical leave of absence.

The statement gave no details about where Jackson was being treated. Staff members said the statement was from Jackson's physician but that the doctor's name and location would not be released because of federal privacy laws.

"The Congressman is receiving intensive medical treatment at a residential treatment facility for a mood disorder," the statement said. "He is responding positively to treatment and is expected to make a full recovery."

Jackson's office also noted that reports about Jackson being treated for "alcohol or substance abuse" weren't true.

Jackson, 47, went on medical leave June 10, but his office did not disclose it publicly until weeks later.

Opposition: Syria's Iraq Ambassador has Defected

ISTANBUL (AP) • The Syrian ambassador to Iraq has defected and will seek asylum in Turkey, the most senior diplomat to abandon the regime since the uprising against President Bashar Assad began 16 months ago, a Syrian opposition figure said Wednesday.

ambassador, Nawaf Fares, is heading to Turkey, said Khaled Khoja, a member of the opposition Syrian National Council. If confirmed, it would be the second major defection to hit the Assad regime in less than a week.

"It's certain. He has defected. He declared his defection," said Khoja, who is based in Istanbul. Asked for details, Khoja said the information came from his own sources on the ground in An operator who answered the phone at the Syrian Embassy in Baghdad said there was nobody at the embassy. When asked if the ambassador is currently in Iraq, the operator said he did not know.

House spokesman Jay Carney said the U.S. had no confirmation of the defection of Syria's ambassador to Iraq as of Wednesday afternoon. But he said other recent high-level defections from the Assad regime were "a welcome development."

Outgoing Leader Says Islamists Won't Rule Libya

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) • Liberal parties held a lead Wednesday in partial results from Libya's first parliamentary election, on the same day the head of the interim government stated his country would not be ruled by Islamists.

Up to now Islamists have taken leadership roles in other countries that experienced Arab Spring revolts, like Egypt and Tunisia.

The overthrow of longtime ruler Moammar Gadhafi left Libya without a cohesive regime. Gadhafi, who was captured and killed in October, opposed democracy in Libya and ruled virtually by himself. Saturday's election was a major step toward reform.

Libyans went to the polls to elect a National Assembly that will name a new government.

Partial results released by the election commission show that the Alliance of National Forces, a coalition of liberals led by former Prime Minister Mahmoud Jibril, maintains a lead. Jibril was the international face of the opposition during the uprising last year.

According to the official results, the liberal alliance finished far ahead of the Muslim Brotherhood's Justice and Construction Party in the eastern city of Benghazi, the country's second largest and the birthplace of the uprising. It also beat out Islamist parties in western cities as far away as the country's border with Tunisia.

Some 2.7 million Libyans, making up more than 60 percent of eligible voters, cast their ballots for the first time in more than five decades on Saturday in the first nationwide vote since the downfall of Gadhafi.

"What happened in Libya was a miracle," National Transitional Council chief Mustafa Abdul-Jalil told The Associated Press.

Suicide Attack on Police Cadets Kills 10

BY AHMED AL-HAJ

Associated Press

SANAA, Yemen • A suspected al-Qaida suicide bomber detonated his explosives among a crowd of Yemeni police cadets as they were leaving their academy Wednesday, killing at least 10 of them, according to security officials.

The Interior Ministry said al-Qaida was behind the bombing, which struck in the capital Sanaa. Security officials said 20 cadets were wounded, including three critically. They were leaving the Police Academy for a weekend with families when the bomber hit at the facility's southern gate.

The Interior Ministry identified the attacker as Mohamed Nasher al-Uthy from the province of Amran, about 45 miles northwest of Sanaa. It said he lost the lower part of his body in the blast and died of his wounds minutes later. No other details were provided.

Twelve suspects were arrested in connection with the bombing, according to security officials. There was no immediate claim of responsibility, but al-Qaida's branch in the impoverished nation on the southern tip of the Arabian peninsula frequently targets security forces.

The capital was on high alert after the attack, with security forces setting up checkpoints around the city and searching cars. Security was also beefed

The attack came after the army last month recaptured several militant-held towns in the country's south, following a months-long campaign to retake territory the militants seized during last year's political turmoil that swept the country in the wake of an Arab Spring uprising.

Conservation Group Warn of Northwest Rail Traffic Spike

BY MATTHEW BROWN Associated Press

BILLINGS, Mont. • A conservation group predicted that ambitious Asian export plans by U.S. coal mining companies could lead to a more than tenfold spike in coal trains through the Northwest.

The Western Organization of Resource Councils said in a report released Wednesday that roughly 60 coal trains per day could pass through cities including Billings and Spokane, Wash. Smaller increases would be seen in Seattle, Portland and other major cities across the region.

That could tie up rail lines, cause environmental problems and leave local governments on the hook for costly rail crossing improvements, the group said.

The fuel would come primarily from Montana and Wyoming. That's a 1,500mile haul via Idaho to deepwater ports in Oregon, Washington and British Columbia.

"Make no mistake about it, this is a huge, huge increase in volume like we've never seen before in this part of the world," said Terry Whiteside, one of the authors of the report.

U.S. coal exports reached their highest level in decades last year -107 million tons. The sharp rise came even as the domestic market has been foundering due to competition from cheap natural gas and tightening pollution regulations.

For now most of export coal is moving through ports on the East and Gulf coasts. But Arch Coal, Peabody Energy and other major coal miners are pushing aggressively for more West Coast ports.

But representatives of the coal and rail industries said the resource council's report erroneously assumed all pending West Coast coal ports will proceed.

That would entail 170 million tons of coal shipped annually.

"They're assuming all of them will be built and all of them will be operating at full capacity and (the coal) will be traveling on one railroad. That's just not realistic," said Suann Lundberg with Burlington Northern Santa Fe Railway.

Can Fracking Pollute Water? Study Attempts to Answer

BY KEVIN BEGOS

Associated Press

PITTSBURGH • A new study being done by the Department of Energy may provide some of the first solid answers to a controversial question: Can gas drilling fluids migrate and pose a threat to drinking water?

A drilling company in southwestern Pennsylvania is giving researchers access to a commercial drilling site, said Richard Hammack, a spokesman for the National Energy Technology Laboratory in Pittsburgh. The firm let scientists conduct baseline tests, allowed tracing elements to be added to hydraulic fracturing fluids and agreed to allow follow-up monitoring. That should let scientists see whether the drilling fluids move upwards or sideways from the Marcellus Shale, which is 8,100 feet deep at that spot.

"It's like the perfect laboratory," Hammack said.

Hammack said he believes this is the first time such research has been done on a commercial gas well.

"Conceptually, it sounds like a really great idea;" said P. Lee Ferguson, a Duke University civil and environmental engineering professor who is not involved with the project. "I have wondered about this since I started thinking about fracking. Which compounds are mobile and which aren't?"

The Marcellus Shale is a gas-rich rock formation thousands of feet under large parts of Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio and West Virginia. Over the past five years, advances in drilling technology made the gas accessible, leading to a boom in production, jobs, and profits - and concerns about pollution.

The gas is pulled from the ground through a process called hydraulic fracturing, or fracking, in which large volumes of water, plus sand and chemicals, are injected deep underground to break shale apart and free the gas.

Environmentalists claim the fluids associated with drilling could rise and pollute shallow drinking water aquifers. The industry and many government officials say the practice is safe when done properly, but there have also been cases where faulty wells did cause pollution.

Ferguson cautioned that no single study will answer all questions about fracking and the potential for pollution.

"The complicating factor is some of the compounds don't act in the same way underground," he said of fracking fluids, as well as the fact that there are substantial differences in geology throughout the Marcellus region.

Hammack said the study is designed to see whether the fracking fluids or naturally occurring salty brine from deep underground reach a testing area located at about 4,000 feet.

"We're just looking for any indication of communication between the two zones," he said.

If the fluids do rise, more research will be needed, he said. If they don't reach the 4,000-foot level, there will be no need to test drinking water aquifers, which are closer to the surface.

Your Campfires aren't Allowed Here

Federal and state agencies implement fire restrictions in south-central Idaho.

TWIN FALLS • When outdoors this summer, be aware that Stage 1 Fire Restrictions are in effect in southcentral Idaho until further notice.

The restrictions, which went into effect Monday, are implemented by federal and state agencies managing public lands in the area, and include south of Highway 20 to the Utah and Nevada border, including all of Twin Falls, Lincoln, Cassia, Minidoka, Jerome and Gooding counties; parts of Blaine and Camas counties that fall south of Highway 20; and parts of Oneida and Power County in the Minidoka Ranger District of the Sawtooth National Forest.

Under the restrictions, the following acts are prohibited on the restricted state and federally managed lands, roads and trails:

- Building, maintaining, attending or using a fire, campfire or stove fire except within a designated recreation site, and only within a fire structure provided by the administrative agency.

Thousand Springs State Park

BY TETONA DUNLAP tdunlap@magicvalley.com

HAGERMAN • Driving on Interstate 84, you might have passed over Malad Gorge in the Thousand Springs State Park without knowing it.

"If you don't stop you might drive by it your whole life," said the park's manager, David Landrum.

Thousand Springs State Park is an oasis. Like mirages, some areas can be a little tricky to find. But when you do, you'll enjoy varied worlds thriving in a desert setting.

To fully experience and appreciate this park, be prepared to spend an entire day or more exploring. It's comprised of six separate and unique areas: Malad Gorge, Billingsley Creek, Vardis Fisher Day Use, Ritter Island, Earl M. Hardy Box Canyon and Niagara Springs.

So decrease your cruising speed, take exit 147 and follow the brown and white signs past the fields of corn to Malad Gorge.

Why the Scary Names at Malad Gorge?

The deep Malad Canyon and the Devil's Washbowl were created by a combination of volcanic activity and erosion. Look for the face in the rocks near the washbowl's rim near the foot of the waterfall underneath Interstate 84 to find out why it's called Devil's Washbowl. From the footbridge, many say it looks like the face of the devil being washed by the Malad River's murky waters.

Though the waters below the 60foot waterfall churn muddy, they transform downriver to pristine, clear blue waves, Landrum said, because of many springs that sprout from either side of the canyon to mix with the word that means "sick water," and the river received its name when trappers boiled beaver using the water and got sick. Landrum doesn't blame the water, but rather the method: Roasting the animal would have allowed the fat and toxins to drip off, but they all remained because of boiling.

What's the Malad Experience Like?

The day use area of Malad Gorge is family-friendly with a playground, restrooms and picnic tables and shelters. Every two weeks on Tuesday this area is flood irrigated — a treat for young children. Locals bring their children to wade in the cool waters because it's all grass underneath and easy on bare feet.

But if you are bringing children, be wary of the gorge; there are few barriers between the edge and the 250foot-deep chasm. A tale of warning: Landrum said a local business was filming a commercial on the bridge near the Devil's Washbowl when an expensive camera fell victim to strong winds that are frequent in the gorge. It's somewhere in the waters below.

Looking for an adventure? Kayakers have been known to make their way down the gorge, but go at your own risk. There isn't a trail down to the Malad River, but you can access the lower river by an Idaho Power service road off Highway 30.

On the east side of I-84 you can visit Kelton Trail to see a portion of the Oregon Trail.

How about Nature Watching?

In the Malad Gorge Unit you might spot a redtail hawk or golden eagle. Native plants also thrive beside the road winding the canyon: bluebunch

AT THE RANGE

Twin Falls gun club is a popular place to practice your aim and make new friends.

BY ANDREW WEEKS aweeks@magicvallev.com

TWIN FALLS • The blast of guns shattered the afternoon quiet as shooters took aim at orange disks flying across the horizon.

Terry Hancock stood in the clubhouse's shade while several feet away his wife, Rita, lifted her shotgun at the clay targets.

"Nice shot," Terry said after Rita nailed one. And when she missed the next target: "Whoops, what happened there?'

Trapshooting is like that: Sometimes you hit the target dead on, other times it escapes.

That's one reason for the Twin Falls Rod and Gun Club, of course — so gun enthusiasts can practice their aim. The other, unofficial reason is so gun buffs can have fun with their peers.

It's a social scene as much as a place to practice, board member Tara Ortman said.

Open on Thursdays and Sundays, the club is visited by a number of elderly folks, some to join in the shooting, others to watch and visit with friends.

Those who shoot often do so in the mornings, then go inside the clubhouse for lunch or card games before hitting the range again in the after-

"We have members up into their 90s," Ortman said. "And we have young kids."

On July 5, a handful of club members were at the range to practice trap and skeet shooting. Watchers sat in the shade on the clubhouse patio. Laughter, with the bang of shotgun blasts, wasn't far

When Rita finished shooting, she opened her shotgun to make sure it was unloaded, placed it against a gun rack, and joined her husband and Ortman in the shade.

"He's pretty good," she remarked about a com-

A couple of minutes later, she and Ortman were laughing about some of the quirky things that go on at the range — like Ortman's catchy, contagious chuckle.

Visit a Club

The Twin Falls Rod and Gun Club, 230 Federation Way, Twin Falls, has started its sixweek skeet and wobbles league. To join the league or for information about shooting at the club, call 734-0639.

Cost to join is $35 per person per year; $50 for a family. Cost for non-members to shoot is $6 a round, which includes 25 disks.

The club is open 10 a.m. to dusk Thursdays; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays. Other clubs that might be closer to you

Be sure to look for a mosslike plant growing along the canyon rim called cow-pie buckwheat. This is a rare plant found in only four locations in Idaho.

And don't forget to notice the block faulting structure of the Malad Canyon caused by years of soft sedimentary rock erosion.

Where Should Horse Owners

If you're a horse person you'll love the Billingsley Creek Unit. This portion of Thousand Springs features an indoor horse riding arena with an entrance fee of $5 per vehicle or unlimited pass for $10. It's open to the public, and if you already paid the $5 fee at one of the self-collection boxes you don't have to pay again to use the arena.

"When the weather is not nice this place is hopping," Landrum said.

When the weather is pleasant, you can walk, ride or bicycle behind the riding arena. A large field is mowed to create a path for both horses and people. Before the afternoon heat hits, Landrum has spotted locals walking or riding bikes around the

Also on the Billingsley Creek property is a garden center available to the public for dinners, weddings and proms; reserve it for a whole day for $100. A nearby greenhouse is free to use if you want to start summer plants in the win-

Why Visit Vardis Fisher's Old Home?

Vardis Fisher was an Idaho author known for his 1965 novel "Mountain Man," the basis for the movie "Jeremiah Johnson."

The ruins of Fisher's home sit on a hill overlooking Hidden Lake. Jutting from the burned remains of a crumbling foundation is the brick chimney of Fisher's living room. Some afternoons you might find a group of high school students diving into the teal waters of Hidden Lake. The pond is fed by springs that flow from the adjacent hillside, turning the waters vivid hues of blue and green the perfect setting for looking writers inspiration.

The pond is not stocked, so it may be difficult to catch a fish. Local water rescue units often train here by snorkeling in the clear waters.

This area is not easily accessible and requires you to park in the lot at the gate and hike about 500 yards down to the Fisher home site. A small path is cut into the hill by years of foot traffic. There are no restrooms or other facilities at the Vardis Fisher Day Use

Park Basics

Thousand Springs State Park is comprised of six separate areas: Malad Gorge, Billingsley Creek, Vardis Fisher Day Use, Ritter Island, Earl M. Hardy Box Canyon and Niagara

Admission: For $5 per vehicle, you get all-day pass to all six of the park's areas and any state park in Idaho. In 2013 you will have the option (ask for it!) to purchase a $10 Idaho State Parks Passport sticker when renewing your vehicle registration, allowing you to visit all 30 state parks for a year.

Getting around: Take exit 147 from Interstate 84. You can access the park's various areas from the Thousand Springs Scenic Byway (U.S. Highway 30), but signage there is Inside the self-collection admission box at Malad Gorge you'll find a map for that unit of the park. (There are also self-collection boxes at Billingsley Creek, Box Canyon and Niagara Springs.) If an employee or volunteer is inside the Malad Gorge kiosk, he or she can give you a map that's especially helpful, as some of the park's six areas are a 10- to 15-minute drive from each other.

For a sure thing, download a map at the park's website:

parksandrecreation.idaho.gov/parks/thousandsprings.aspx

Amenities: There is no overnight camping in the park and no RV hookups. (Tent camping is allowed with prior approval in Niagara Springs, but only for groups of 20 or more such as Scout groups or family reunions; cost is $10 per tent.) Picnic tables and shelters are first-come, first-served unless you reserve one (208-837-4505) for $26.50; they tend to fill up quickly with calls coming in the first of the year.

Tours: You can schedule free van tours of the park by calling ahead (208-837-4505). For handicapped or elderly visitors, van tours are helpful as some locations such as Box Canyon are not easily accessible.

Information: Visit Thousand Springs State Park on Facebook for weather updates, park news and photos.

What Will I Find at Ritter Island?

This island in the Snake River belonged to Minnie Miller, who ran a technologically advanced dairy for its day and was known for her prize-winning Guernsey cows. The Island became known as Ritter Island after Miller sold the farm to Judge Willis W. Ritter in 1954.

Ritter Island was closed for a month this spring because of a lack of park manpower, but it's now open 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Fridays-Mondays. Harlan McGhee is the new park ranger assigned to the island and has spent weeks prepping it for visi-

Four houses on the property are being remodeled to be rented for weddings or reunions. Tours of the barn once considered state-ofthe-art because it had indoor plumbing — are available now. Ritters Island is handicapped accessible except for upper-level tours of the barn.

On the property you will also find cherry orchards, peaches and pears. You can sample the cherries, but watch out for bugs - the park doesn't spray the trees.

Is Box Canyon Worth the Walk?

Earl M. Hardy Box Canyon is a great area to see golden eagles in the winter, and you can watch for white pelicans throughout July.

But to get to the Box Canyon overlook you have to park at the gate and walk just less than a mile across shadeless desert. It is not handicapped accessible; call ahead to arrange a van tour. The only facilities here are portable toilets.

Yes, it's worth the walk. When you reach the overlook, you'll find a clear pool below that seems to spring from the canyon walls. Landrum has seen YouTube videos of people kayaking the aquamarine waters in the bottom of Box Canyon, but beware: Poison ivy grows thick. People have even caught crawdads in the canyon's waters. To reach the bottom of the canyon – and view a 20foot waterfall from a platform there — follow the rim and find the rough walking trail that takes you down.

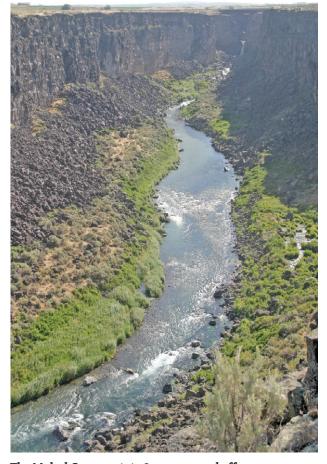

What's Best on a Hot Day?

Down in the 350-footdeep Snake River Canyon, Niagara Springs offers relief from the beating sun. Stand in front of the springs and let the waterfall's spray cool your face. Don't forget to look up; you might spot the courtship dance of the redtail hawk as male and female dive and swoop. Be cautious: This area has rattlesnakes.

To get from Interstate 84 to this area, take exit 157 and head south on 1950 East.

In the Niagara Springs Unit you'll find restrooms, grills, picnic tables and a group picnic shelter, and someday Landrum would like to see a disc golf course here. There is year-round fishing in nearby Crystal Lake, including handicapaccessible fishing and rest-

Most Idaho Chinook Seasons Still Open

BOISE • Hey anglers, there's still time to try your luck at catching chinook salmon. Though some Idaho waters have closed to chinook fishing, many are still open.

The daily limit in the following waters is four chinook, only one of which may be an adult. The possession limit is 12 fish, only three of which may be adults. Waters open until further notice include:

- Clearwater main stem, lower: from the Camas Prairie Railroad Bridge at Lewiston upstream to the Cherry Lane Bridge.
- Clearwater main stem, middle: from the Cherry Lane Bridge upstream to the Orofino Bridge.
- Clearwater main stem, upper: from the Orofino Bridge upstream to the South Fork Clearwater River.

- North Fork Clearwater: from its mouth upstream to Dworshak Dam (See Special Restrictions on Page 4 of 2012 the Idaho Department of Fish and Game Seasons and brochure).
- Middle Fork Clearwater: from its confluence with the South Fork Clearwater upstream to the confluence of the Lochsa and Selway rivers.

In all the above waters, the statewide season limit is 20 adult salmon during any 2012 salmon seasons occurring before Sept. 1.

Salmon seasons and limits may change on short notice, so check the salmon hotline at 855-287-2702 or the online salmon seasons and limits page at fishandgame.idaho.gov/public/fish/?get-Pagello.

man said to her friends: "Did you hear I beat the boys on my team by 21 birds?" She performed a little jig, moving her legs and waving her arms as she told the story.

"See what I mean?" Rita said. "We have fun here."

The clubhouse, on Federation Way near the Snake River Canyon rim, is popular not only for hunters but for people who like to shoot for no other reason than target practice. Some who use the club are retired folks, or children who are learning to hunt and handle a gun.

The young people are the fun ones to watch because they're excited about learning, Terry said, noting that the club is a great place to teach gun safety.

"See how he's holding his gun?" he asked, pointing to a man with his shotgun's barrel open. "That's how you carry the guns here, so people know they're not loaded."

Gun safety is paramount, he said, and is one of the main things children and adults learn at the club.

Mike March, an occasional waterfowl hunter, joined the club in 2007 after prodding from a friend.

"He was a trapshooter and kept talking about how much fun it is, and so I finally came out to give it a try," March said. "I was hooked."

March often brings his 11year-old son, and father

"It's a fun thing we can do together," he said. "A lot of people come out for the camaraderie. ... And to be honest, trapshooting is a challenge. I'm still trying to comprehend and master this game."

In trap, shooters take aim at clay disks that are released from a "trap house" and fly several feet into the air and into the distance. Competitors, who get points for every disk shot, rotate their shooting spots after every five targets.

The club also offers skeet and wobbles shoots, which are more complicated and challenging, Ortman said. The club recently started a six-week skeet and wobbles league and offers womenonly leagues.

Advice for newbies? "Get in a lot of practice," Terry said. "And talk with someone who shoots a lot, get some pointers from them."

But that's the thing about the club, Rita added: You have to ask.

Club members, some who also shoot at clubs in Burley and Jerome, like to help fellow shooters for a couple of reasons, she said: Better shooters make better competition, and members are friendly folk.

"Everybody is nice," Rita said. "They're willing to help you, but they're respectful. They won't butt in but will help if you ask ring your thumb as close to your eye as possible before it gets blurry.

With average vision, it will be about three inches away. On a clear day in the Magic Valley, the jagged skyline of the Pioneer Mountains is visible about 80 miles to the north. The Pioneers are 1.7 million times farther away than your thumb.

The range of distances you can see in space is, for lack of a better term, astronomically larger. Within our galaxy, the farthest stars you can see without a telescope lie around 50 billion times farther away than our nearest celestial neighbor, the moon.

This Sunday, a grouping of celestial objects in the pre-dawn sky will span nearly the full range of galactic naked-eye distances.

In the east at 5 a.m., the nearest object will be the most prominent: the waning crescent moon, 250,500 miles away. The next nearest is Venus, the brilliant "star" to the lower right of the moon, 44 million miles distant. Jupiter, above the moon and Venus, is 526 million miles away.

It's a big jump after that. Aldebaran, the reddish eye of Taurus the Bull (just to the upper right of Venus) is 65 light years, or 383 trillion miles from us. The smattering of stars to the upper right of Aldebaran is the Hyades cluster, 151 light years (888 trillion miles)

Game and Fish Rejects Unlimited Lion Hunting

LANDER, Wyo. (AP) • The Wyoming Game and Fish Commission has considered and rejected a proposal to allow unlimited hunting of mountain lions in part of the Black Hills.

The western Black Hills have a dense cougar population compared to elsewhere in Wyoming.

The Casper Star-Tribune reports that the Game and Fish Department proposed a new lion hunt area by splitting an existing area in two. One new area would have had an unlimited lion quota.

The commission decided Tuesday to establish the new hunt area but to set a limit of 25 lions in that area.

Commission members say they didn't want to give the impression they didn't care if cougars were extirpated in that area. They also suggested it would be difficult to impose a limit later after not having one.

Biologists Count More Hoback Cutthroat

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) • Biologists say the number of cutthroat trout in the Hoback River has surged in the years since a fish stocking program was phased out.

The Wyoming Game and Fish Department discontinued the stocking program in 2005. The agency also has discontinued a number of other trout stocking programs around the state.

The Jackson Hole News & Guide reports that Game and Fish biologists had discovered that hatchery-raised cutthroat often weren't surviving the winter.

Wild trout apparently have a higher survival rate. Between 2006 and 2011, the average number of cutthroat caught and counted on one section of the Hoback surged almost 50 percent compared to the previous five years.

Biologists say Hoback River cutthroat not only are more numerous, they tend to be bigger than they were before.

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

Stocks Close Lower Again

NEW YORK (AP) • The stock market mostly recovered from an afternoon slump to end with slight losses.

In minutes from their latest meeting, released Wednesday afternoon, Federal Reserve officials said they saw a variety of threats to the U.S. economy, including a slowdown in China and a looming budget crunch in Washington. The Fed also didn't signal that new steps to stimulate the economy were on the way.

The Dow Jones industrial average dropped as many as 118 points shortly after the 2 p.m. release of the Fed's minutes. Thanks to a recovery in the last hour it was down just 48 points at the closing bell.

NBC in Talks to Buy Microsoft Stake in MSNBC Website

LOS ANGELES (AP) • NBC News is negotiating to buy Microsoft's portion of MSNBC.com, potentially severing a joint venture that began nearly 17 years ago. An NBC News spokeswoman said Wednesday by email that "conversations are taking place" but "there is no deal."

Microsoft declined to comment. The deal would break up a venture first announced in 1995. Back then, Microsoft Corp. said it would invest $220 million for a 50 percent stake in the MSNBC cable channel and website.

The TV partnership dissolved in 2005 and NBC acquired a majority stake. But the sides continued to share ownership of MSNBC.com, a popular news website.

The company's profit matched Wall Street's estimate but revenue fell short of the expected $2.83 billion, according to FactSet. Marriott's results improved worldwide despite slowing economic growth. Revenue per available room rose 6.7 percent. It expects that metric — a key measure of performance for hotel companies — to grow 6 to 8 percent this year. The company now predicts profit of $1.65 to $1.75 per share for all of 2012. Analysts ex-

House Dems Fall Short in Blocking Food Stamp Cuts

BY JIM ABRAMS Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Democrats fell short in efforts Wednesday to block cuts to the food stamp program as the House Agriculture Committee moved ahead on a half-trillion-dollar bill to fund farm and nutrition programs over the next five years. Similarly, a Republican attempt to make deeper cuts to the program was defeated.

The program that helps feed 46 million people at a cost near $80 billion a year, about 80 percent of farm bill spending, was the dominant issue as committee members tried to advance one of the larger and more expensive bills that Congress is taking up this year. Democrats insisted that any cuts to the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program would result in people going hungry. Republicans said they were merely trying to bring efficiency to a program to ensure that anyone who is qualified for food benefits will receive them. The committee's draft measure would save $3.5 billion a year from current spending levels through such steps as ending the practice of direct payments for nonactive farmers and consolidating conservation programs. Of that, $1.6 billion in savings would come from tightening eligibility rules and ending abuses in the food stamp program.

The Senate version of the farm bill passed last month on a bipartisan vote would save about $2.3 billion a year, with $400 million coming from the food stamp program.

The House and Senate must reach a compromise before the current farm bill expires at the end of September.

House GOP leaders have not committed to bringing the legislation to the floor, where its chances of passage are clouded. Conservatives are balking at the price and Democrats are unhappy with prospective food stamp cuts.

In earlier votes Wednesday, the committee also rejected amendments affecting the sugar and dairy industries.

The panel defeated, on a 31-15 vote, a proposal by Rep. Jim McGovern, D-Mass., that would have eliminated all the proposed cuts to food stamps. The cuts, he said, would deprive some 2 million to 3 million people of food assistance and would "literally take food away from hungry people." Rep. Joe Baca, D-Calif., told his colleagues, "I once relied on food stamps." Without that aid, he said, "I wouldn't have been able to feed my son and my wife."

Electric Rates Not Falling Along with Fuel Costs

BY JONATHAN FAHEY

Associated Press

NEW YORK • A plunge in the price of natural gas made it cheaper for utilities to produce electricity. But the savings aren't translating to lower rates for customers. Instead, U.S. electricity prices are going up.

Electricity prices are forecast to rise slightly this summer. But any increase is noteworthy because natural gas, which is used to produce nearly a third of the country's power, is 43 percent cheaper than a year ago. A long-term downward trend in power prices could be starting to reverse, analysts say.

"It's caused us to scratch our heads," says Tyler Hodge, an analyst at the Energy Department who studies electricity prices.

The recent heat wave that gripped much of the country increased demand for power as families cranked up their air conditioners. And that may boost some June utility bills. But the nationwide rise in electricity prices is attributable to other factors, analysts say:

- In many states, retail electricity rates are set by regulators every few years. As a result, lower power costs haven't yet made their way to customers.
- Utilities often lock in their costs for natural gas and other fuels years in advance. That helps protect customers when fuel prices spike, but it prevents customers from reaping the benefits of a price drop.
- The cost of actually delivering electricity, which accounts for 40 percent of a customer's bill on average, has been rising fast. That has eaten up any potential savings from the production of electricity.

Utilities are building transmission lines, installing new equipment and fixing up power plants after what analysts say has been years of under-investment.

This may reverse what has been a gradual decline in retail electricity prices. Adjusted for inflation, the average retail electricity price drifted mostly lower since 1984, when it was 16.7 cents per kilowatt-hour.

"The ratepayer is going to have to foot the bill," says David Wright, vice chairman of the South Carolina Public Service Commission and president of the National Association of Regulatory Commissioners.

The average U.S. residential electricity price is expected to be 12.4 cents per kilowatt hour for the June-to-August period, up 2.4 percent from the same time last year. For the full year, electricity prices are expected to rise 2 percent.

In a typical summer month, that would mean an extra $3 on a residential bill, which includes the cost of generating the power and delivering it to a home, plus local taxes and fees.

Electricity pricing is complicated, and it differs from state to state. In states where power providers are allowed to compete, such as Texas, Pennsylvania and New York, customers can shop around for cheaper electricity, although delivery charges are still set by regulators.

Natural gas has plummeted in price because of a dramatic increase in U.S. gas production over the past few years and a warm winter that allowed supplies to build up.

Born March 14, 1922, in Marysville, Idaho, Delma was one of nine children of Robert and Lucy Cherry. Growing up in the Depression was difficult, but the family was very close, hardworking and fiercely protective of one another. Everyone knew the Cherry girls were just as tough as the Cherry boys and Delma was no exception.

She married Harry B. Richards on May 29, 1946. The first 20 years of their marriage was spent in Idaho, Utah and Nevada, and Harry was often on the road. Delma worked many jobs while raising their five children, including employment in a tank depot and the Ore-Ida plant. After graduating from business college in Twin Falls, she settled the family in Wendell, Idaho, and worked in a local bank, then as a medical receptionist, first for Dr. Holsinger in Wendell and, upon his retirement, then for Dr. Sloat in Jerome, Idaho. Delma loved working in health care until her own retirement.

She was an active, devoted member of the Bible Baptist Church in Jerome, where many generations passed through her Sunday school class. She also began the church's first Junior Church, where kids worshipped in their own service rather than sitting in the adult congregation. In total, Delma taught Bible Baptist

Delma loved her little house in Wendell and tending the garden there, but she moved to a small senior apartment in Jerome when caring for the yard became too much. In 2007, she suffered a debilitating stroke that cruelly affected her body but not her sense of humor or tenacious will. Both of those qualities were firmly intact upon her passing. Delma is survived by one sister, Donna (Cherry) Mc-Cutcheon of Crescent City, Calif.; five children, Michael Dennis Nash of Jerome, Idaho, Carol Ann Blamires of Silver Lake, Wash., Jeanne Lou Richards of Oak Harbor, Wash., Duane Lynn Richards of Hillsboro, Ore., and Daniel (Hoby) Bill Richards of New Meadows, Idaho; and numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren. and the outdoors. More than 60 years ago, he fell in love with Betty Jean Johnson, his high school sweetheart, and they married in 1952. In 1957 as a young family, they relocated to the Los Angeles, Calif., area. He established his own business, VIP Pools. Juggling the responsibilities of seven retail stores, construction and maintenance was a true testimony to his brilliant business mind. As a result of a detour during a hunting trip to Montana in 1974, he discovered his beloved farm in Buhl, Idaho. By spring of the following year, his family had settled in what he fondly referred to as "paradise." Dad was truly a larger-than-life character. One statement that may sound cliche is "born too late," a century or so maybe. The truth is that he always had a timeless way about him, classy and classic, tough, sharp and ruggedly handsome.

We celebrate life lessons learned from the original practitioner of tough love before long anyone thought to coin the phrase. Dad was tough and loving at the same time, always.

We celebrate the star athlete, the avid hunter, fisherman and fighter whose depth of passion for life is only matched by his grit and resolve.

We will forever celebrate his abundant life, one filled with compassion, determination, caring and commitment.

It is a gift to be part of his family and our privilege to be called Kippes!

Celebrate Fred's life with us by living every day to the fullest through caring for your family and loved ones. Life is very precious. Take time to enjoy it; in your coming and going, remember how you came to be here. Show appreciation for the gifts of God in nature and in how our lives intertwine. Understand that our lives are the greatest gifts we will ever receive, as it is only through a sincere appreciation of these gifts and a humble understanding of the supreme sacrifices made to provide them that we are made worthy of them.

We want to offer our sincere thanks to Visions Hospice.

A celebration of Fred's life will be held in the fall. We love you, Dad!

Miley 5-over After Two Rounds at Junior Worlds

TIMES-NEWS

SAN DIEGO • Twin Falls High School senior-to-be Kyle Miley carded a 3-over par 75 on Wednesday, sliding to 5-over par at the midway point of the Callaway Junior World Golf Championships.

Miley shot a 5-over 41 on the front nine but rallied on the back for birdies on Nos. 13 and 16 to salvage the round. He ended the second round tied for 14th overall, out of 200 golfers who started the tourna-

Beau Hossler, the 17year-old Mission Viejo, Calif., resident opened eyes at the U.S. Open last month, shot 1over. He yielded the lead to Aaron Wise of Corona, Calif., who sits at 5 under after shooting a tournament-best 67 on Wednesday. Only two golfers shot under par in the second round.

The tournament continues through Friday.

District IV Track Trio Heads to Pocatello

TWIN FALLS • Three District IV prep stars have signed to continue their track and field careers at the NCAA Division I

Idaho State University announced Wednesday that Kimberly sprinter/jumper Alan Cazeau, Minico sprinter Marlee Chandler and Richfield distance runner Sasha Kent each signed a National Letter of Intent to run for the Bengals during their college careers.

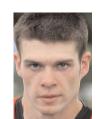

Cazeau was a sprint and long jump specialist at Kimberly, leading the Bulldogs to second place in the 2012 Class 3A championships while successfully defending his long jump title, helping Kimberly win the 4x100 relay and finishing third in the 100 meters.

Chandler participated in the sprints for Minico in 2012 but opted to focus on the 400 meters in the district meet due to a troublesome thigh injury. It paid off as she won the 4A championship in the event.

Kent took the distance triple crown at the 1A championship meet in each of the last two seasons, finishing her career with six state championships for the Tigers. She finished second in all three events her sophomore season.

Trade Talk Should Heat Up in Second Half

ASSOCIATED PRESS

There was a public outcry when R.A. Dickey did not start the All-Star game, a journeyman for the Chicago White Sox threw a perfect game and the Pittsburgh Pirates of all teams were in first place as the first half of the baseball season drew to a close.

What's next, postseason baseball in the nation's capital? It sure looks that way.

An eventful and unexpected first half that included Dickey knuckling his way to stardom with the Mets, Phil Humber's out-of-nowhere perfecto for the White Sox and the Yankees muzzling former slugger Reggie Jackson after some disparaging comments about Alex Rodriguez is only expected to get more intriguing as the season rounds second and heads for third.

The non-waiver trade deadline is looming at the end of the month, and the Baltimore Orioles and White Sox got ahead of the curve by acquiring Jim Thome and Kevin Youkilis, respectively, to bolster their offenses. Milwaukee's Zack Greinke, Philadelphia's Cole Hamels and Arizona's Justin Upton could be headed elsewhere as the contenders and pretenders separate them-

"There's several teams involved in races right now," said Detroit manager Jim Leyland, whose Tigers joined the Phillies and Red Sox on the list of bigspending underachievers in the first half of the season. "There's probably going to be a lot of teams that would like to go out and get somebody. But the more teams that want to get something, the tougher it is to get it?

And there's even more motivation for deals to be made in the first year of baseball's expanded postseason. The Fall Classic will be a little wilder this time around. A new format kicks in this year that adds an extra wild card team to each league. That means 10 teams will have a chance to get in and go for it all.

The Orioles, who trail the Yankees by seven games in the AL East, haven't been to the postseason since 1997, the Pirates haven't been there since 1992 and the nation's capital hasn't hosted a playoff baseball game since 1933, when Mel Ott homered in Game 5 of the World Series to help the New York Giants beat the Senators for the championship.

Andrew McCutchen (22) and the Pittsburgh Pirates are one of the stories to watch as the second half of the Major League Baseball season kicks off on Friday.

That was long before Natitude, long before "that's a clown question, bro" and certainly way before the All-Star game decided home-field advantage in the World Series. It's a new day, and if Bryce Harper and the Nationals or Andrew McCutchen and the Pirates somehow Buc the odds and make it to the Series, they'll be hosting the party after the National League beat the AL 8-0.

With so much on the line from here on out, the game in Kansas City could be one of the last nights of baseball without any juice for quite a while.

"We're playing for a lot more here," Pirates manager Clint Hurdle said. "We're playing for a city, the goal being to re-bond the city with its ballclub."

HOT RACES: The Yankees hold a seven-game lead over Baltimore in the AL East, but it's still early and every division is up for grabs. Here's a few of the races that are expected to remain tight until the final • NL Central: The Pirates are just one game ahead of the Reds and only 21/2 games ahead of the defending champs in St.

• NL West: The Dodgers looked like the class of the league at the start of the season, but injuries to stars Matt Kemp and Andre Ethier have brought them back to the pack. And the Giants, just half a game back, are brimming with confidence after Pablo Sandoval, Melky Cabrera and Matt Cain led the NL to an 8-0 win in the All-Star game.

• AL West: The Rangers may be the best team in baseball, but the Los Angeles Angels have rebounded from a slow start to show that this will be no runaway. The Rangers lead by 4 games in search of their third straight AL crown.

TRADE BAIT: Several big names figure to be trading places by the end of the month as teams look for that extra edge to push them into the postseason.

 Felix Hernandez, RHP, Mariners: Seattle has been adamant that it is not considering moving King Felix. But if they ever would, now may be the time. The 26-year-old is 6-5 with a 3.13 ERA and is signed through 2014. He's already topped 1,500 innings pitched in his young career and the Mariners appear nowhere close to contending.

· Francisco Liriano, LHP, Twins: Got off to a horrendous start to the season and was moved to the bullpen. But it's what have you done for me lately, and the lefty who will be a free agent this winter is 3-2 with a 2.74 ERA and .175 opponents' batting average since rejoining the rotation. Last-place Twins need young assets, and Liriano may be best trade

 Cole Hamels, LHP, and Shane Victorino, OF, Phillies: The Phils already moved Charlie Manuel favorite Jim Thome. Now these two mainstays, who are eligible for free agency at the end of the season, could be available for the right price.

 Carlos Quentin, OF, Padres: Any team looking for some proven power should consider Quentin, who topped 20 homers in each of the past four years for the White Sox. In his first season in spacious Petco Park, Quentin has just seven homers and could benefit from a change of scenery.

KEY INJURIES: These guys better get healthy if their teams expect to have a chance to play into Octo-

• Evan Longoria, 3B, Rays: Longoria is on the shelf with a torn left hamstring that could keep him out for a while. In the meantime, the Rays will try to stay within shouting distance of the Yankees and the wild card without their leader.

• Kemp, OF, Dodgers: He has emerged as perhaps the best player in the game, a "five-tool guy" who has given the Dodgers their swagger. But he's played in just two games since May 14 because of a strained left hamstring, the kind of injury that can linger if it's not taken care of properly.

· Stephen Strasburg, RHP, Nationals: He has shown no ill effects coming off Tommy John surgery, which will make the second half all the more intriguing for the Nationals their voung flamethrower. GM Mike Rizzo has said that the team intends to hold Strasburg to an innings limit and will shut him down once he reaches that point to try to avoid another major arm injury. But if the Nats are in contention for a title, will they be able to hold true to that?

Kimberly is looking for Seth Champlin's replacement.

No. 4: Oakley at Gooding, Aug. 24 – Welcome to 11-man football, Oakley. Gooding's return to 3A comes against the school that took its place in the Canyon Conference, and the Senators' air-raid-style offense should put the Stephan Ortiz-less Oakley secondary to an early test.

No. 3: Twin Falls at Canyon Ridge, Oct. 12 -Also known as Service Bowl IV. Canyon Ridge is taking its fourth shot (with its third coach) at the rival Bruins. The Twin Falls Class of 2013 doesn't want to be the one that finally loses to the Riverhawks.

No. 2: Minico vs. Mc-Clymonds, Calif., Sept. 8 The last time Minico faced California opposition, it worked out pretty well, when the Spartans beat Colfax in the Rocky Mountain Rumble. But this trip is to Sacramento, and it's against the twotime reigning Oakland Section champion.

No. 1: Minico at Twin Falls, Oct. 26 - On paper, it looks like this game will decide the Great Basin

Kade Kress and the Hagerman Pirates take on Butte County on Oct. 12, in the biggest eight-man game of the year in the Magic Valley.

Conference championship for the third straight season. Minico has won six straight in the series, four of them by six points or fewer.

Top Five Eightman Games

No. 5: Shoshone at Raft River, Oct. 19 - With Districts III, IV, V and VI expanding for cross-over playoffs, there's more access to the state-sanctioned portion of the playoffs (quarterfinals on). With the Snake River Conference getting five out of its seven teams into the cross-over, this game should take on more meaning than in recent years.

No. 4: Carey at Dietrich, Sept. 14 – Both teams lose a lot from their high-caliber squads from a year ago. The question is which team can better replace its graduated stars. This appears to be the game to decide Sawtooth Conference North Division supremacy. Dietrich hasn't beaten Carey since 2003, an 11game stretch during which the Panthers have amassed a 542-118 scoring edge. No. 3: Castleford at Hagerman, Aug. 31 -Last year this game came down to a goal-line stand, with Hagerman prevailing on its West End rival's turf. It served both well, as both earned state trophies at season's end. Will this year provide similar drama/success?

No. 2: Butte County at Lighthouse Christian, Oct. 19 - By this time Butte County, a 2A quarterfinalist returning most of its athletes, should have the eight-man game largely figured out after dropping to 1A Division I this season. The Pirates will come to Twin Falls for a rare late-season marquee nonconference game against the 1A Division II champion.

No. 1: Hagerman at Butte County, Oct. 12 -This duo, which will occupy the top two slots in my preseason 1A Division I ballot, are generally viewed as the two front-runners for both the Snake River Conference championship and the state title. Tasty.

Thomas Voeckler of France crosses the finish line to win the 10th stage of the Tour de France cycling race in Bellegarde-sur-Valserine, France, Wednesday.

Voeckler Wins Tour's 10th Stage in Alps

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BELLEGARDE-SUR-VALSERINE, France • Thomas Voeckler nearly

opted out of the Tour de France weeks ago because of an injured knee. Two days before the start, he was pained even more over allegations of doping by his French team.

On Wednesday, the crowd-pleasing Frenchman gave his response by winning the 10th stage.

An in-your-face, trashtalking atmosphere dominated as riders entered the Alps on Wednesday with Bradley Wiggins retaining the yellow jersey by squashing attacks by rivals one of whom complained that the Briton wasn't being respectful.

The mood was decidedly sour before the 120.9mile ride began along three hard climbs, after Tuesday's rest day was marred by an arrest by French police of a Cofidis team rider over a Marseille doping probe.

Doping cases past and present have cast a shadow over this Tour.

Voeckler, too, was burdened by the issue of doping. Two days before the Tour start, a French newspaper brought to light a previously unknown probe of his Europear team on allegations of improper use of a controlled corticoid by its riders during last year's Tour - a claim the team vigorously denies.

Some fans in Belgium, where the Tour started on June 30, booed Europear riders following the news.

Voeckler's victory was "really special because we had criticism before the Tour, because it really hurt me," he said. His victory "is a part of my answer not my revenge - an answer" to the critics.

Wiggins, too, and his Team Sky sent a message on Wednesday: Getting the yellow jersey off him won't be easy. Italy's Vincenzo Nibali, one of several rivals who tried to strip it, complained of a lack of respect from the Briton.

At several points during the stage, Wiggins came under attack from his biggest rivals, but nearly all failed to make up any ground. Nibali tried to surge ahead in a big descent, Belgium's Jurgen Van Den Broeck attempted to jump ahead on the day's big climb, and reigning champion Cadel Evans tried to shake Wiggins near the end - to no avail.

"Wiggins looked at me at the finish and I really did not like the way he did it," said Nibali, who won the Spanish Vuelta in 2010 and is fourth overall at the Tour. "He also gestured with his hand in an unpleasant way.

"They are really strong at the moment, but he should show more respect for his competitors," Nibali

Sky has controlled the Tour in a style reminiscent of that of the former U.S. Postal team of Lance Armstrong, who is facing allegations by U.S. anti-doping officials that he used performance-enhancing Wiggins has bristled at the comparison of the teams in social media.

On Wednesday, notably after the new Cofidis case, the Briton said he understood questions on doping in cycling "from some parts of the media," but insisted he got to where he is through hard work.

"I don't feel like I have to sit here and justify to everyone ... To me, it's them pissing all over everything I've done by just saying 'he's cheating' – or whatever. And that's what really gets to me," he said.

Wiggins also echoed comments in the past by Armstrong, who repeatedly said he never failed a drug test and said during his career that he was the world's most-tested athlete for doping.

"Tested by the UCI -God knows how many times a year, God knows how many times on this race, and on the Dauphine; blood tested every morning and all that," Wiggins said, referring to international cycling's governing body UCI and the Criterium du Dauphine race. "What more can I do than that?"

For the first time in the Tour, the peloton scaled the 10.9-mile Grand Colombier pass – classified as one of the hardest climbs in pro cycling in part for two tough patches with steep, 12 percent gradients.

Voeckler, who once had the yellow jersey taken off him by Armstrong and wore it again last year for 10 days, earned his third Tour stage victory in a decade-long career competing in cycling's premier race.

Near the finish, Voeckler dusted off a breakaway group, beating runner-up Michele Scarponi of Italy by 3 seconds. Jens Voigt of Germany – at 40, the oldest rider this year — was third, another 4 seconds slower.

Voeckler said he didn't ride for about 10 of the 20 days immediately preceding the Tour start because of knee pain that still hasn't fully gone away – and almost kept him from competing altogether.

"It was pretty straightforward today," said Wiggins, the Team Sky leader. "Fortunately the break went pretty early and we didn't have to go crazy (chasing it) ... it all sort of went to script today, re-

Wiggins finished the stage 3:16 behind Voeckler, in 13th place, in a group including most of his rivals in the quest to win the yellow jersey when the Tour ends in Paris on July 22.

With Wiggins under a close escort by his Sky teammates, only Van Den Broeck was able to erase 32 seconds with a surge late in the stage. The Belgian trails Wiggins by 4:48 in eighth place.

Overall, Wiggins leads Evans by 1:53. Wiggins' teammate, Christopher Froome, is 2:07 back in third place. Nibali is fourth, 2:23 back, and Russia's Denis Menchov fifth, 3:02 behind. Riders embark today on what Wiggins calls the hardest stage this year — a relatively short 92-mile trek from Albertville to La Toussuire, but with two of the toughest climbs in pro cycling and an uphill finish.

dusky's arrest, it remains unclear how top university offiback at least 14 years that Sandusky was behaving inappropriately with boys he met through his charity, bringing them on campus and forcing them into sex

Among those who will be scouring the Freeh report are school officials trying to repair Penn State's shattered reputation and ex-players and alumni who remain outraged over Paterno's ouster in the wake of Sandusky's arrest. The Hall of Fame coach died from lung cancer in January, two months after school trustees fired him for what they called a failure of leader-

Paterno himself offered a passionate defense of the university and its football program in the letter that surfaced for the first time

Wednesday. The Paterno family said the letter was given in draft form to a few former players around December. One of the ex-players circulated it to other former players on Wednesday, and it was posted on the website Fighton-State.com, which covers the

"Over and over again, I have heard Penn State officials decrying the influence of football and have heard such ignorant comments like Penn State will no longer be a 'football factory' and we are going to 'start' focusing on integrity in athletics," Paterno wrote. "These statements are simply unsupported by the five decades of evidence to the contrary – and succeed only in unfairly besmirching both a great university and the players and alumni of the football program who have given of themselves to help make it great."

Paterno also wrote, "This is not a football scandal and should not be treated as one." Among those receiving Paterno's 712-word missive Wednesday was former linebacker Brandon Short, now an investment banker in Dubai. He told The Associat ed Press that he will be looking to the Freeh report to find "some clarity, hoping that it is a fair assessment of what happened, and we would love to see answers." He added, "Let's see the report and save all judgment and innuendo until after we've read it."

Penn Staters for Responsible Stewardship, an alumni watchdog group that has been highly critical of the school's board of trustees, issued a 95-point checklist of issues it said it expects to be covered in Freeh's report "in order for it to be considered a credible, valid summary of the case."

Lawyers for the young men who testified against Sandusky, and others planning lawsuits, will be reading the findings for what it might mean regarding civil litiga-

Joel Feller, part of a legal team that represents several victims in the case, including three who testified against Sandusky, said Wednesday he will look for clues about "who knew what and when."

"I think the Freeh report will be a good starting point to allow the plaintiffs' lawyers to determine who the key people are and what information they had," he said. "An important part of that is to figure out when they knew it, and more importantly why appropriate steps were not taken to stop this ongoing conduct of Sandusky."

The Freeh report is expected to delve deeply into the handling of a 2001 report from Mike McQueary, a graduate assistant who told Paterno he had seen Sandusky with a young boy in the football team shower. Paterno, in turn, alerted athletic director Tim Curley, who investigated the report along with Gary Schultz, a university vice president who oversaw the campus police department. Curley and Schultz ultimately decided not to alert law enforcement or child welfare authorities. Curley, who's on leave, and the now-retired Schultz are awaiting trial on charges they lied to a grand jury investigating Sandusky and failed to report the McOueary complaint to civil authorities as required. After a 50-minute meeting in Harrisburg with the judge overseeing their case, Schultz's lawyer said Wednesday he won't be among those who call up the Freeh report the minute it is posted.

"I don't expect I'll be reading it for a while," said Pittsburgh attorney Tom Farrell. "I've got other things to do."

The NCAA, meanwhile, said Wednesday that it will decide on whether to take action at the "appropriate time." The governing body said it has already been collecting information from Freeh's probe, and that Penn State will have to formally respond to questions from NCAA President Mark Emmert after Freeh reveals his findings. The NCAA is reviewing how Penn State exerted "institutional control" in relation to the Sandusky matter, and whether university officials complied with policies that pertain to honesty and ethical conduct. The NCAA could open a more formal investigation that may expose Penn State to sanctions.

AUSTIN, Texas • The U.S. Anti-Doping Agency on Wednesday granted Lance Armstrong an extension of up to 30 days to contest drug charges while the seven-time Tour de France winner challenges the case in federal court.

The move erases the Saturday deadline for Armstrong to either send the case to arbitration or accept sanctions from USADA, which would likely include a lifetime ban from cycling and other sports along with stripping the Tour titles he won from 1999-2005.

Armstrong this week sued in U.S. District Court in Austin to block the case from moving forward, arguing that USADA's arbitration process violates his constitutional rights and that the agency doesn't have jurisdiction over the alleged doping viola-

Granted the extension, Armstrong attorney Tim Herman on Wednesday withdrew a request for a temporary restraining order while Judge Sam Sparks reviews the complaint and a request for an injunction.

USADA accused Armstrong in June of performance-enhancing drug use throughout much of his career. Armstrong insists he is innocent and says he never failed a drug test.

Travis Tygart, USADA's chief executive, predicted Armstrong's lawsuit will be dismissed.

"USADA believes this lawsuit, like previous lawsuits aimed at concealing the truth, is without merit and is confident the court will continue to uphold the established rules which are compliant with federal law and were approved by athletes, the U.S. Olympic Committee, and all Olympic sports organizations," Tygart said in a statement.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

On Thursday, September 13, 2012, at the hour of 10:15 a.m., of said day (recognized local time), in the lobby of Land Title & Escrow, Inc., 211 West 13th Street, Burley, Idaho, G. Troy Parkinson, a member of the Idaho State Bar, as Successor Trustee, will cause to be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash or cashier's check (cash equivalent) in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale in compliance with Section 45-1506(9) Idaho Code, the following described real property, situated in the County of Cassia, State of Idaho, and described as follows to wit: LOT 17 AND THE SOUTH 5 FEET OF LOT 16 IN BLOCK 2 OF

THE FAIRMONT PARK DIVISION NO. 1 TO THE CITY OF BURLEY, CASSIA COUNTY, IDAHO, AS THE SAME IS PLATTED IN THE OFFICIAL PLAT THEREOF, NOW OF RECORD IN THE OFFICE OF THE RECORDER OF SAID

TOGETHER WITH all existing or subsequently erected or affixed buildings, improvements and fixtures; all easements, rights of way, and appurtenances; all water, water rights and ditch rights (including stock in utilities with ditch or irrigation rights); and all other rights, royalties, and profits relating to the real property, including without limitation all minerals, oil, gas, geothermal and similar matters.

The Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above-referenced real property, but for purposes of compliance with Section 60-113, Idaho Code, the Trustee has been informed that, according to the County Assessor's Office, the address of 2617 Brentwood Avenue, Burley, Idaho 83318, is sometimes associated with said real property.

Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession, or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the Deed of Trust executed by ROBERT SCOTT BRAY and SHANNON G. BRAY, Husband and Wife, as the Grantors, for the benefit and security of ZIONS FIRST NATIONAL BANK, as Beneficiary, recorded April 10, 2001, as Instrument No. 274354, records of the County Recorder of Cassia County, Idaho

THE ABOVE GRANTORS ARE NAMED TO COMPLY WITH SECTION (45-1506)(4)(a) IDAHO CODE. NO REPRESENTATION IS MADE THAT THEY ARE, OR ARE NOT, PRESENTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS OBLIGATION.

The default for which this sale is to be made is the failure to make payments when due under Promissory Note, together with all subsequent payments until the date of sale or reinstatement. The principal balance owing on the obligation secured by said Deed of Trust is $33,239.64 and interest has accrued, and continues to accrue, on the principal balance at the rate of $4.10 Per Diem. Also due are delinquent and unpaid taxes for the year 2011.

All amounts are now due, together with unpaid and accruing monthly payments and interest, accruing taxes, assessments, trustee's fees, attorney's fees, costs and advances made to protect the security associated with this foreclosure. Beneficiary elects to sell or cause the trust property to be sold to satisfy said obligation. Any and all personal property described in the Deed of Trust may be sold with the Property pursuant to Idaho Code 28-9-604.

The Successor Trustee has duly recorded a Notice of Default (which Notice was recorded on April 17, 2012, as Instrument No. 2012-001653, Records of Cassia County, Idaho) and has mailed a copy of said Notice, accompanied by the canary yellow Notice Required By Idaho Law, by certified mail, return receipt requested, to all persons entitled to notice. Dated this 14th day of May, 2012. G. Troy Parkinson, Successor Trustee Attorney for Beneficiary (801) 524-1000

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE SALE

Reference is made to that certain trust deed made by Eddie W. Durfee and Rendi Durfee, Grantor(s), to Land Title & Escrow, Inc., trustee, in favor of Washington Mutual Bank, FSB, as beneficiary, recorded 09/15/1997, in the Records of Cassia Idaho as Instrument No. 251135, which was subsequently assigned to Green Tree Servicing, LLC on 08/05/2011 under Instrument No. 2011-003227, and Katrina E. Glogowski, Glogowski Law Firm, PLLC being the successor trustee, covering the following described real property situated in the above-mentioned county and state, to wit: RPAMC04002002AA/RPAMC040020020A; McCullough's Add T 5554 in Lot 2 Blk 2/McCullough's T 4016 of Lot 2 Blk 2; Commonly known as 524 S Main, Albion, ID 83311. Both the beneficiary and the trustee have elected to sell the said real property to satisfy the obligations secured by said trust deed and notice has been recorded pursuant to section IRC 45-1505 (3): the default for which the foreclosure is made is the grantor's failure to make payments as follows: Delinquent Payments From Mar, 2012 thru May, 2012 of $352.21 each for a total of $1,056.63; late charges of $52.83; and estimated advances of $3,500.00; for a grand total of $4,609.46* This amount is estimated and needs to be confirmed prior to the submission of a payment as regular monthly payments, advances and other charges continue to accrue during the pendency of this notice. Installment of principal and interest plus impounds and/or advances which became due on 03/10/2012 plus amounts that are due or may become due for the following: late charges, delinquent property taxes, insurance premiums, advances made on senior liens, taxes and/or insurance, trustee fees, and any attorneys' fees and court costs arising from or associated with beneficiaries effort to protect and preserve its security must be cured as a condition of reinstatement. By reason of the default, the beneficiary has declared all sums owing on the obligation secured by the trust deed immediately due and payable, those sums being the following, to wit: $26,130.84 with interest thereon at the rate of 12.5% beginning on 03/10/2012, plus late charges, until paid; plus prior accrued late charges; plus advances of $0.00, together with title expenses, costs, trustee's fees and attorneys' fee incurred herein by reason of said default; and any further sums advanced by the beneficiary for the protection of the above described real property and its interest therein. Whereof, notice is hereby given that Katrina E. Glogowski, Glogowski Law Firm, PLLC, the undersigned trustee will on 10/09/2012 at the hour of 12:00pm MT, at front steps of the Cassia County Courthouse, 1459 Overland Ave, Burley, ID 83318 sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash the interest in the said described real property which the grantor had or had power to convey at the time of the execution by him of the said trust deed, together with any interest which the grantor or his successors in interest acquired after the execution of said trust deed, to satisfy the foregoing obligations thereby secured and the costs and expenses of sale, including a reasonable charge by the trustee. Notice is further given that any person named in IRC 45-1506 has the right to have the foreclosure proceeding dismissed and the trust deed reinstated by payment to the beneficiary of the entire amount then due (other than such portion of said principal as would not then be due had no default occurred), together with the costs, trustee's and attorney's fees and curing any other default complained of in the Notice of Default by tendering the performance required under the obligation or trust deed, at any time prior to five days before the date last set for sale. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee, and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. 06/05/2012, by Katrina E. Glogowski, Glogowski Law Firm, PLLC, 2505 Third Ave Ste 100, Seattle, WA 98121, (206) 903-

DEVICE, AND CROSS CONNECTION; AND AMENDING 13.29.020 CROSS CONNECTIONS PROHIBITED; AND REPEALING SECTION 13.29.020 DISCONTINUANCE OF WATER SERVICE; AND REVISING SECTION 13.29.060 INSPECTION OF NEW CONSTRUCTION/OCCUPANCY; AND REVISING SECTION 13.29.020 INSPECTION OF EXISTING BUILDINGS, STRUCTURES AND IMPROVEMENTS; AND REPEALING SECTION 13.29.080 REPAIR AND MAINTENANCE OF EQUIPMENT; AND ADDING SECTION 13.29.100 CERTIFIED BACKFLOW TECHNICIAN; AND REPEALING SECTION 13.29.120 RECORDS; AND ADDING SECTION 13.29.140 ENFORCEMENT; PROVIDING FOR SEVERABILITY; PROVIDING FOR AN EFFECTIVE DATE. WHEREAS, the City of Jerome has a duty to protect the public's health and welfare by controlling cross connections or other sources or potential sources of contamination to the City's public water

WHEREAS, by Ordinance No. 1025 adopted in 2007 the City has enacted a backflow prevention ordinance to safeguard a public drinking supply for the residents of the City of Jerome; and WHEREAS, required amendments and the repeal of certain provisions of the backflow prevention ordinance will better assist management by City's Public Works Department to properly maintain and enforce the appropriate city ordinance to better protect the citizens in the administration of water supply protection through implementation of the backflow prevention ordinance; and

WHEREAS, the City of Jerome needs to make the proper amendments for the proper administration and management by the Public Works Department for oversight of backflow prevention issues. BE IT THEREFORE ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF JEROME, IDAHO, AS FOLLOWS:

13.29.010: DEFINITIONS:

BACK PRESSURE: A pressure, higher than the supply pressure, caused by a pump, elevated tank, boiler, or any other means that may cause backflow.

BACK SIPHONAGE: The flowing back of used water or other liquids, mixtures or substances into the distribution pipes of a public drinking water supply system from any source other than the intended source, caused by the reduction of pressure in the public drinking water supply system.

Backflow - the flow other than in the intended direction of flow of any foreign liquids, gases, or harmful or offensive substances into the distribution system of the City water supply as a result of reduced or reversed pressure Backflow prevention device - a device or assembly that, when property installed between the City water supply system and the terminus or point of ultimate use, will prevent backflow.

Backflow Assembly Tester - Individuals licensed pursuant to Title 54, Chapter 24 Idaho Code and IDAPA 24.05.01 Rules of the Board of Drinking Water and Waste Water Professionals.

Cross connection - any physical arrangement whereby the City water system is connected with any other water supply system, sewer, drain, conduit, pool, storage reservoir, or any other source of water supply which contains or may contain contaminated water, sewage or other waste or liquids which may be harmful to human health or which may deleteriously affect the City water supply. DIRECTOR: For section 13 of the Jerome Code signifies the Public Works Director. All other references refer to the Public Works Director of the city. (Ord. 1025, 2007)

13.29.020: CROSS CONNECTIONS PROHIBITED:

Unlawful contamination or Cross Connections: It is unlawful for the owner, tenant, occupant, lessee or other user of City water to introduce or permit the introduction of pollution or contamination of any kind into the City water supply system. It is unlawful for any person to install or maintain any cross-connection with the City of Jerome. Failure to remove a cross connection or to install a backflow prevention device approved by the City, as the director may order, within fifteen (15) days of the order, shall result in the discontinuation of potable water service until compliance with this chapter is made. (Ord. 634 2, 1980) 13.29.040: WATER SUPPLY PROTECTION:

No potable water service connection to any premises shall be installed or maintained by the city, unless the water supplying the premises is protected as required by this chapter. It shall be the responsibility of the owner of occupiable premises to effect installation and inspections as required herein, and to immediately give notice to the director. (Ord. 1025, 2007) 13.29.050: DUTY TO INSTALL AND INSPECT ANNUALLY:

It shall be the responsibility of the owner of a property where drinking water is consumed to purchase, install, test and maintain backflow prevention devices or assemblies commensurate with the degree of hazard wherever it will be possible for a cross connection to exist. Each owner shall have a licensed inspection and operational test made at least once a year, by June 1st, at the owner's expense. Where the city deems the hazard to be especially significant, the city may require the owner to have such inspections and tests at a more frequent interval. All such tests shall be made according to the standards set forth by the state of Idaho department of environmental quality. Test reports will be made in triplicate, with copies going to the owner, the director and to the licensed tester. (Ord. 1025, Backflow Prevention Devices: A. Backflow prevention devices shall be installed by the property owner, tenant, occupant, lessee or other user of City water where the nature and extent of the activities conducted or the materials used or stored on the premises would present a hazard to public health or be deleterious to the quality of the City water should a cross-connection occur. Even though cross-connections may not exist at the time, backflow prevention devices shall be installed under circumstances including, but not limited to, the following:

Premises having an auxiliary water supply:

Premises having internal cross-connections that are not correctable, or having intricate plumbing arrangements which make it impracticable to ascertain whether or not cross-connections exist; Premises where entry is restricted so that inspections for cross-connections cannot reasonably be made;

Premises having a history of cross-connections being established or re-established;

Premises on which any industrial fluids or other objectionable substance is handled in such a fashion as to create an actual or potential hazard to the City water supply; Premises having pumps or pumping devices which may affect the pressure within any line connected to the City water supply.

B. All backflow prevention devices shall be installed by the property owner at his/her expense, and shall be of a type commensurate with the degree of hazard which exists or which could exist.

An air-gap separation or reduce pressure principle backflow prevention device shall be installed where the public water system may be contaminated with sewage, industrial waste of a toxic nature, or other contaminant which could cause a public health hazard. In all other cases where the contaminant may be objectionable but not hazardous to the public health, a double check valve assembly, an air-gap separation, or a reduced pressure principle backflow prevention device shall be installed. All devices installed must be approved by the Foundation for Cross-Connection Control and Hydraulic Research of USC (USC). All backflow prevention devices and the installation thereof shall be approved by the City Public Works Director or his duly authorized representative. C. Degree of Hazard shall be determined by one of three reference manuals (Most Current Edition):

The USC Cross Connection Control Manual

Northwest Section AWWA Cross Connection Control Manual United Plumbing Code

4. Idaho Department of Environmental Quality

D. All backflow prevention devices installed pursuant to this Chapter, except atmospheric vacuum breakers, shall be inspected and tested by a licensed tester at the time of initial installation and annually thereafter, or more often if deemed necessary by the City.

1. Testing of devices must be done by licensed tester who must follow the most recent test procedures as approved by USC; and submit proof of testing along with a photograph of each backflow prevention assembly tested to the City Public Works Director/assigns.

Whenever a backflow prevention device is found to be defective, it shall be repaired, overhauled or replaced with 15 days at the owner's expense and according to USC guidelines.

The City Public Works Director/authorized representative shall retain adequate records of all inspections, tests or repairs made pursuant to this chapter. The City has the right to disallow or reject any test results from a non-licensed tester or those who repeatedly submit inaccurate or fraudulent test results.

E. If a backflow prevention device is found to be necessary, the owner, tenant, occupant or lessee of the property shall apply in writing to the City Building Department for an installation permit, specifying the type and location of such device or devices. It shall be unlawful to install, relocate, or remove a backflow prevention device without a permit. Installation must conform to the most current Uniform Plumbing Code (UPC) as adopted by the State of Idaho.

Revised Inspection of New Construction/Occupancy: No building, improvement or other structure shall be connected to the City water supply after the effective date of this Chapter, unless and until such structure has been inspected and signed off on the occupancy permit by the City Public Works director or designee and found free of any be subject to the same inspection as new inspection.

Revised Inspection of existing buildings, structures or Improvements:

The City Public Works Director, or his designee, shall make an inspection of any building, improvement of any structure that receives water from the City water supply, and until such structure has been inspected and signed off on the occupancy permit by the Director or designee, no occupancy permit will be issued. Any change to occupancy or the designated use shall also constitute a water quality

13.29.090: ACCESS FOR INSPECTION:

All water systems connecting to the city public drinking water system shall be open for inspection at all reasonable times by authorized representatives of the city in order to determine whether cross connections or other structural or sanitary hazards including violations of this chapter exist.

In order to make such determination, the inspection shall include access to above ceiling areas, pits, paneled interior areas, or their locations where cross connections might exist. Each owner and/or any occupant shall be responsible to provide a route of access across the property for inspection purposes that is free from litter, overgrowth, the threat of a vicious animal, or other hindrance that may be detrimental to the safety of the inspector or obstructive to ease of access. (Ord. 1025, 2007) 13.29.100: LICENSED BACKFLOW ASSEMBLY TESTER:

All tests of Backflow Prevention Devices shall be conducted by a licensed backflow technician, certified in accordance with rules and regulations of the Idaho Department of Environmental Quality. who will be responsible for the competence and accuracy of all tests and reports. Such technician shall be responsible to:

A. Assure that acceptable testing equipment and procedures are used for the testing, repairing or overhauling of Backflow Prevention Devices.

B. Make reports of such testing and/or repair within required times to the owner and the Director on a form approved for such use by the City.

Include in all reports, a list of any materials or replacement parts used. Assure that replacement parts are equal in quality to original parts and that any testing, repair or replacement does not change the design or operational characteristics of the assembly.

Maintain their license in current condition and all testing equipment in proper operating condition. Provide equipment calibration reports annually to the City of Jerome.

G. Be equipped with and competent to use all necessary tools, gauges, and other equipment necessary to properly test and maintain backflow prevention devices. H. Tag each double check valve, pressure vacuum breaker, reduced pressure backflow assembly or other Backflow Prevention Device showing the serial number, date tested, and by whom, together with the technician's license number.

I. Inspect high hazard air gap assemblies.

J. Comply with all OSHA standards on confined spaces, including procedures for entering such spaces and required safety equipment. 13.29.110: NOTIFICATION OF PUBLIC:

The City shall use reasonable means to notify its customers of the hazards of cross connections and the need for annual inspection of backflow prevention devices. (Ord. 1025, 2007) 13.29.130: VIOLATIONS:

Service of water to a consumer on property found to be in violation of this chapter shall be discontinued by the city after written notice of the violation to both the owner and/or consumer, in accordance with other applicable provisions of this code. A violation exists if:

A. Backflow prevention devices required by this chapter for control of cross connections are not installed, tested, or maintained, as required herein. It is found that a backflow prevention device has been removed or bypassed.

An unprotected cross connection exists on the premises of the owner.

The periodic system inspection required herein has not been conducted.

A false report or false information is provided to the city by or on behalf of the owner or consumer, with regard to a cross connection or backflow prevention device. Termination of water supply:

Whenever a cross-connection or other source of contamination to the water supply is found, or it is determined that a backflow prevention device is necessary, the City shall cease delivery of water to such premises and the water supply shall not be resumed until the cross-connection or source of contamination is eliminated or a backflow prevention device has been installed in accordance with this ordinance. Where written notification of a deficiency is provided by the City, and the owner fails to take the required corrective action within fifteen (15) days after the date of mailing such notice, the city shall immediately commence proceedings to discontinue water service unless the City Administrator or Director authorizes a longer time for completion. (Ord. 1025, 2007)

Section 13: Section 13.29.140 of the Jerome Municipal Code is hereby adopted as follows: 13.29.140 ENFORCEMENT:

The City of Jerome shall have the authority and responsibility to enforce the provisions of this chapter and the state statutes regarding cross connections when applicable.

The City of Jerome shall inspect or cause to be inspected all backflow prevention assemblies installed pursuant to the requirements of this chapter. For new facilities, permanent water service shall not be provided until all backflow prevention assemblies have been tested and are operational.

D. Except in cases where the testing of backflow prevention assemblies must be delayed until the installation of internal production or auxiliary equipment, the City of Jerome shall not approve a certificate of occupancy until all backflow prevention assemblies have been tested and are operational.

E. The City of Jerome may, without prior notice, suspend water service to any premises when the City of Jerome finds such suspension is necessary to prevent or stop an actual threatened backflow, which presents or may present imminent and substantial danger to the environment, the public water supply, or the health and welfare of any person. As soon as practicable after the suspension of service, the City of Jerome shall notify the owner or person in charge of the premises of the suspension in person or by certified mail, return receipt requested. When time permits, the City of Jerome may notify the owner or person in charge prior to suspending water service will be or was discontinued without further notice, the reason for discontinuance, and the ability to request an administrative review regarding the reasons for discontinuance with fifteen (15) days from the date of notice. Services are not reinstated upon request for an administrative review.

The person presents proof, satisfactory to the City of Jerome that the actual or threatened backflow has been eliminated and its cause determined and corrected; The persons pays the City of Jerome for all costs the City incurred in responding to the actual or threatened backflow; and

3. The person pay the City of Jerome for all cost the City will incur in reinstating service.

F. A person commits an offense if the person reinstates water service to any premises for which the City of Jerome has suspended water service in order to prevent or stop an actual or threatened backflow which presents, or may present imminent and substantial danger to the environment, the public water supply, or the health and welfare of any person, except as directed by the City of Jerome. 13.29.141 SEVERABILITY:

If a part of ordinance is invalid, all valid parts that are severable from the invalid part remain in effect. If a part of the ordinance is invalid in one or more of its applications, the part remains in effect in all valid applications that are severable from the invalid applications.

13.29.142: This ordinance shall be effective following passage and publication as required by law. PASSED BY THE COUNCIL this 3rd day of July, 2012

NOTICE OF CORRECTION OF ASSESSMENTS OF SOUTHWEST IRRIGATION DISTRICT FOR 2012

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Directors of SOUTHWEST IRRIGATION DISTRICT have set the 26th day of July, 2012, at 4:00 o'clock P.M. as the time to meet to correct assessments at the Grant Wyatt residence, 340 South 400 West, Burley, ID 83318.

The Board of Directors of Southwest Irrigation District has determined the following amounts for the purposes stated should be levied for the year 2012:

CASSIA COUNTY: 1. Regular Operation and Maintenance: $5.50 per irrigable acre of lands within the District EXCEPT on those lands annexed into the District by Order dated December 28, 2006, and recorded as Instrument No. 312926 in the office of the Cassia County Recorder (Southwest #3) and Order dated May 14, 2009 and recorded as Instrument No. 2009-002669 on May 27, 2009 (Southwest #4), the Levy should be $6.50 per irrigable acre, and 2. Bond Debt Service: $4.50 per irrigable acre on all lands within the District.

TWIN FALLS COUNTY:

1. Regular Operation and Maintenance: $5.50 per irrigable acre of lands within the District EXCEPT on those lands annexed into the District by Order dated December 17, 2010. and recorded as Instrument No. 2010-025308 in the office of the Twin Falls County Recorder and Order dated April 27, 2011, and recorded as Instrument No. 2011-008777, the Levy should be $6.50 per irrigable acre.

2. Bond Debt Service: $4.50 per irrigable acre on all lands within the District.

The Levy is for operating the District to obtain water by purchase or lease, and generally to pay obligations of the District and to retire Bond debt

Because the District does not have a convenient office, copies of the assessments will be at the office of Parsons, Smith, Stone, Loveland and Shirley, LLP, 137 West 13th Street, Burley, Idaho, for inspection.

PUBLISH: July 5, 12, 19 and 26, 2012

LEGAL NOTICE

The Idaho Department of Fish and Game was informed by the Bureau of Fisheries that by close of fishing on July 8 anglers will have harvested more than 90 percent of the sport fishery share of adipose fin clipped salmon destined for the Rapid River Hatchery. The fraction of fishery encounters of fish that originate from other hatchery and natural populations upstream is increasing. The fraction of Rapid River Hatchery returns in the harvest in the Lower Salmon River is highest in the Park Hole section from the U.S. Highway 95 Time Zone Bridge upstream to the Mouth of Short's Creek. The fraction of hatchery and natural returns from the South Fork Salmon, Middle Fork Salmon, and Upper Salmon rivers at this point in the season is highest in the river sections of the Lower Salmon River upstream and downstream of the Park Hole section.

To reduce interceptions of hatchery and natural origin fish destined for terminal areas other than the Little Salmon and Rapid rivers while still providing access to harvestable hatchery fish destined to the Little Salmon and Rapid Rivers the Fisheries Bureau recommends closing the section of the Lower Salmon from the mouth of Short's Creek upstream to the uppermost boat ramp at Vinegar Creek and the sections from the Rice Creek Bridge upstream to the U.S. Highway 95 Time Zone Bridge to fishing for Chinook salmon.

Pursuant to his authority under Idaho Code Section 36-106(e)(6) (A), the Idaho Department of Fish and Game Director hereby closes the section of the Lower Salmon River from the mouth of Short's Creek upstream to the uppermost boat ramp at Vinegar Creek and in the sections from the Rice Creek Bridge upstream to the U.S. Highway 95 Time Zone Bridge to fishing for Chinook salmon effective the end of fishing on July 8, 2012.

Copies of Order 12-12 are available at the Idaho Department of Fish and Game headquarters, 600 South Walnut, PO Box 25, Boise, ID 83707.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGE OF WATER RIGHT TRANSFER NO. 78001

STATE OF IDAHO, DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION,

216 S DATE ST, SHOSHONE, ID 83352 has filed Application No. 78001 for changes to the following water rights within CASSIA County(s): Right No(s). 43-2572, 43-12925; to see a full description of these rights and the proposed transfer, please see www.idwr.idaho.gov/apps/ExtSearch/WRFiling.asp.The purpose of the transfer is to change a portion of the above rights as follows: Application proposes transferring a 10 acre (0.20 cfs) portion of a groundwater irrigation right from a farm located approximately 8.75 miles north of Malta to provide water for the Cotterell Rest Area and Port of Entry facility located adjacent to Interstate 84 approximately 13.0 miles north and 2.0 miles west of Malta. The transferred right will be diverted from an existing well and a new well to be drilled at the facility to provide additional water for the rest area and port of entry and also allow for the irrigation of landscaping and a "living snow fence" located adjacent to the facility and along Interstate 84. The transfer will also modify the existing water right at the facility to allow for the diversion of water from both the new and existing well and to more accurately reflect the actual locations of use.

For additional information concerning the property location, contact Southern Region office at (208) 736-3033. Protests may be submitted based on the criteria of Idaho Code Sec. 42-222 Any protest against the proposed change must be filed with the Department of Water Resources, Southern Region, 1341 Fillmore St, Suite 200, Twin Falls ID 83301 together with a protest fee of $25.00 for each application on or before July 23, 2012. THENCE SOUTH 00°10'32" WEST, 181.33 FEET TO THE REAL POINT OF BEGINNING

The Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above referenced real property, but for purposes of compliance with Section 60-113 Idaho Code, the Trustee has been informed the address of 1009 Burley Ave., Buhl, ID, is sometimes associated with the said real property.

This Trustee's Sale is subject to a bankruptcy filing, a payoff, a reinstatement or any other conditions of which the Trustee is not aware that would cause the cancellation of this sale. Further, if any of these conditions exist, this sale may be null and void, the successful bidder's funds shall be returned, and the Trustee and the Beneficiary shall not be liable to the successful bidder for any damages.

Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possessions or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the Deed of Trust executed by Robert J. Larsen, a widower, as Grantor(s) with Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc. as the Beneficiary, under the Deed of Trust recorded September , 2006, as Instrument No. 2006022109, in the records of Twin Falls County, Idaho. The Beneficial interest of said Deed of Trust was subsequently assigned to DLJ Mortgage Capital, Inc., recorded June 15, 2012, as Instrument No. 2012-011186, in the records of said County.

THE ABOVE GRANTORS ARE NAMED TO COMPLY WITH SECTION 45-1506(4)(a), IDAHO CODE. NO REPRESENTATION IS MADE THAT THEY ARE, OR ARE NOT, PRESENTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS OBLIGATION.

The default for which this sale is to be made is the failure to pay the amount due under the certain Promissory Note and Deed of Trust, in the amounts called for thereunder as follows:

Monthly payments in the amount of $941.36 for the months of February 2012 through and including to the date of sale, together with late charges and monthly payments accruing. The sum owing on the obligation secured by said Deed of Trust is $71,055.08 as principal, plus service charges, attorney's fees, any and Beneficiary to protect their security interest, and interest accruing at the rate of 11.75% from January 1, 2012, together with delinquent taxes plus penalties and interest to the date of sale.

The Beneficiary elects to sell or cause the trust property to be sold to satisfy said obligation. Dated this 19th day of June, 2012.

Tammie Harris Trust Officer for Just Law, Inc.

DEAR ABBY: "Wants to Do the Right Thing" (April 18) asked about using email to thank those who donated to a fundraiser for her son, who has bone cancer. What is wrong with that?

DEAR ABBY Jeanne Phillips

I have been there. One of my twin boys was diagnosed with cancer at age 2. I was grateful for all the help my family and friends gave me, but I did not always have the time or energy to devote to writing thank-you cards.

You really have to have experienced this kind of longterm stress and trauma to understand. It takes all the strength you have to just get through each day without breaking down. For larger donations, I would write a card when I could or print some out on my computer. Sometimes I recruited a friend or family member to handle thank-you notes. People always ask, "What can I do?" Well, assign them this task!

Another way of thanking people was through a blog, like CaringBridge. These free websites were a great way to keep in touch with people and let them know what was going on. I often posted general notes of thanks there, then emailed everyone who contributed with a link to the site. The truth is, it was difficult to accept charity and help from others, and I often found myself overwhelmed by the outpouring of love and support. – TRULY THANKFUL

IN NEW YORK DEAR TRULY THANK-

FUL: Thank YOU for your heartfelt letter and helpful suggestions. I reminded "Wants" that writing personal thank-you notes was the proper thing to do, but not all readers agreed. Their comments:

DEAR ABBY: Any spare time that mom has needs to be spent with her family or taking care of herself. They are going through a very difficult time. I believe that in this day and age, the majority of people would understand and not expect a thank-you note for their donation. So a quick email of thanks would be more than appreciated. Email is more acceptable now, especially among younger people. If this is all she has time for, it's better than no thank-you at all.

- KELLYIN WINCHESTER, VA DEAR ABBY: To that mother of the child with cancer: Instead of writing thankyou notes to all the people who help you in the community, please spend that time with your son. Someday, return the favor with some other family's child. Many families in our town cope with childhood cancer. We help each other. It is important that you spend every precious moment with him, not writing cards. We all understand. PAYINGIT FORWARD IN CLYDE, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: You correctly advised "Wants" that a handwritten, personal note was in order. However, having found myself in this position, I sometimes first send out a quick "blanket" email to all the donors: "Dear Friends and Family, you are great to contribute to our cause. Please forgive this email reply, but we want you to know right away how much your support means to us. You'll be hearing from us personally as soon as possible." This acknowledges the generosity immediately, while relieving some stress for the writer at a busy time.

-WISEIN WASHINGTON

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "Wants" that her son should write some of the letters if he's old enough. The notes should be to people he knows. Folks won't expect a thankyou right away.

- CANCER SURVIVOR INOKLAHOMA DEAR ABBY: Handwrite

those notes. Make them brief. Following my wife's death two years ago, I handwrote about 400 thank-yous to those who had sent cards and flowers or made donations. It was cathartic for me, and it recognized the efforts of those who contributed.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

"True nobility is exempt from fear: More can I bear than you dare

.. — William Shakespeare

Curiously, the way to beat three spades today is by leading dummy's short suit. However, although Tom Hanlon and Hugh McGann of Ireland did not find this lead when representing Europe in the 2008 Buffett Bridge Cup against the USA, they still found an ingenious way to defeat Against three spades Hanlon led a low heart to the two and king — McGann couldn't be certain that South did not hold the singleton jack. At trick two, Mc-Gann found the fine switch to a low diamond, which declarer elected to win in hand. Had he taken it with dummy's ace instead, he would have been better placed.

Next came the trump king. If West wins this, then whether he returns a trump or a diamond, declarer can duck a club and later have two clubs available for diamond discards. But Hanlon withheld his ace, and now South could not chance playing another trump, as the defenders could then remove dummy's trump and knock out the diamond ace before the clubs were set up.

Declarer therefore continued with three rounds of clubs, East pitching a diamond on the third. In with the club queen, Hanlon essentially returned a diamond. Since it was still unsafe to lead another trump, declarer continued with a fourth round of clubs. On this, McGann, to deter his partner from returning a heart, discarded the heart ace! Hanlon duly trumped the club and returned a diamond for East to overruff dummy. The trump ace was the defenders' fifth trick

IF JULY 12 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You will be feeling much more optimistic and contented as the next few months unfold. New friendships and a wider range of contacts can brighten your life between now and mid-August. Your genuine sincerity and friendliness will attract a plentitude of helpful, influential people willing to grant favors or offer sound advice in September and October. You are more astute about business and financial matters in November. Be grateful for abundance and remember to fulfill promises as your actions this year can make a permanent improvement in your life.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Resolve to do more than you are asked and miracles will begin to happen. When you are particularly careful and accurate about the details, those in high places won't be able to point their finger at you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Keep mutual understanding in mind. It is your duty to follow through with reciprocity of favors - especially when you are part of a team or group. The understanding is implicit in the relationship.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): When your heart is in the right place, others appreciate everything you do. Be creative in some way, whether brainstorming an artistic project, mowing the yard in patters or rearranging the furniture.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Perception is in the eye of the beholder. You are a huge inspiration to other people. Hold your head a little higher and put that spring back in your step even when you have extra obligations.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Send suspicions to the woodshed. You are more likely to get your way by positive thinking and letting your fantasies run wild. You can dream, but remain responsible about your obligations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You have a firm grasp of detail that makes this a good time to balance the checkbook. If reminded that you lack experience or education, schedule some quality time to correct any deficien-

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Live long and prosper. Live your life as though you were on "Star Trek." Enjoy exploring the outer limits of your imagination. Enhance your reputation by being a stickler about the small details.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Head 'em off at the pass. Make a point to be sincere and helpful toward others to ward off any potential resentment. Keep in mind that while you like to look at rainbows, someone else might be cleaning up after the rain.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Life seems to be just a bowl of cherries and vou have the ability to sit back and enjoy them. Luxury purchases may not prove quite satisfactory if purchased today, but go ahead and browse.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Ambition is the name of the game. You excel at strategizing, plotting and planning your approach, so that you can achieve your goals. You may be challenged to control all of the key as-

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Love is like playing a violin. Sometimes the music stops when a string breaks, but you can always pick it back up again to continue the melody. Keep on humming and someone will join in.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Act as an agreeable ambassador, without agreeing to anything crucially important until it has been thoroughly scrutinized. By being direct and completely aboveboard, you can overcome any objections.

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday
