OAKLEY • Mike Broecker with the Bureau of Land Management wiped sweat from his blackened face Monday as he kept an eye on a crackling fire burning along a ridge at Cave Canyon. A short distance up the road, a fawn rested in the fire's ashes taking advantage of a small spot of shade.

By 4 p.m., the lightning-caused fire had burnt a mosaic of charred patches in the canyon west of Big Cottonwood Wildlife Management Area. The fire started at 8:47 p.m. on Sunday.

Ninety percent of the estimated 5,000 burned acres are on the Minidoka Ranger District of the Sawtooth National Forest and about 10 percent are on Bureau of Land Management ground, said Matt Grinder with the Forest Service.

Richard Gerhardt, left, Dan Fairbanks and Jose Morra prepare to pave an entrance to a business at the intersection of Eastland Drive and Addison Avenue on Monday.

Officials say it's perception not reality that there's more road construction this year than usual. The projects are just located in higher traffic areas.

TWIN FALLS • Outside Purity Spa Salon Boutique, a message is displayed on an outdoor sign in all caps: "Honk if U Hate Road Work?"

The business — located near the intersection of Eastland Drive and Addison Avenue — is also advertising discounts to attract customers to the location surrounded by orange cones and construction equipment.

Manager Ellen Tatton said employees don't like the road construction. Business has slowed down since road work started in mid-June, she said.

At Lighthouse Christian Fellowship, school principal Kevin Newbry said he doesn't think construction has affected activities too much.

In addition to church happenings, Lighthouse is the site of a refugee student summer program and sports practices.

Newbry said road work has to be done and there's never a perfect time.

"It's just one of those necessary evils," he said.

The $1.3 million road project at Addison Avenue and Eastland Drive is one of the largest this summer. It's scheduled for completion at the end of September.

The road work will likely still be in progress after school starts. There are a few schools in the area, including Lighthouse Christian School, Bridge Academy and Vera C. O'Leary Middle School.

Twin Falls city engineer Jackie Fields said the contractor is motivated to finish earlier than the scheduled date.

"We recognize that it's difficult to take down the intersection of Addison and Eastland," she said.

Fields said she thinks there

Other Area Projects

City of Twin Falls:

At the intersection of Falls Avenue and Eastland Drive, there will be more changes to traffic control as road work progresses.

Twin Falls city engineer Jackie Fields said there are limited closure times and the goal is to keep as much access as possible. She estimates construction will wrap up in three or four weeks.

Work is nearly done at the Filer Avenue and Eastland Drive intersection.

Idaho Department of Transportation:

Crews started a seal coating project Monday on the Perrine Coulee Bridge on U.S. Highway 93/Pole Line Road. Traffic is reduced to one lane in each direction between Canyon Crest Drive and Harrison Street. Work is scheduled to wrap up by the end of the week.

Other ITD projects this summer include asphalt reconstruction on Highway 93 in southern Twin Falls County near Rogerson and road reconstruction on Highway 75 north of Shoshone.

What's Coming Next Year?

City of Twin Falls:

A road reconstruction project is planned for Eastland Drive between Kimberly Road and Orchard Drive.

Idaho Department of Transportation:

One of the largest projects will be resurfacing the Perrine Bridge. The project was delayed, but Jerke said a start date hasn't been set. Also, a road reconstruction project is planned for about 3.25 miles of road between Ketchum and Hailey.

Jerome County Fair Parade Today

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismsmith@magicvalley.com

JEROME • As the Jerome County Fair kicks off today, about 70 groups are signed up to strut their stuff and rev their engines in the Jerome County Fair Main Street Parade.

The parade consists of dance troupes, marching bands, cheerleaders, a children's choir, local dignitaries and floats from political parties, said fair manager Kathleen Diederich.

"And, of course, horses," she said. There will also be plenty of decorated vintage cars, she said.

The parade begins at 5 p.m. at Tiger Drive on Main Street in Jerome and will travel for more than a mile straight down Main Street ending at Date Street, Diederich said.

Twin Falls City Council Discusses Canning Recycling Incentives

BY MELISSA DAVLIN
mdavlin@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Do you need an incentive to recycle? And is that incentive worth increased monthly rates?

On Monday, the Twin Falls City Council held a public hearing on a proposal to increase sanitation fees to cover costs of the city's streamlined recycling and incentive program. While council members supported recycling, some wondered if the Recycle Bank incentive program is necessary.

When the city introduced one-bin recycling in 2011, it subsidized the cost from reserve funds, and have steadily increased rates while weaning off that subsidy, said Financial Officer Lorie Race.

Jerome County Continues to Define Cities' Impact Zones

BY JULIE WOOTTON
jwootton@magicvalley.com

JEROME • Jerome city and county officials are working closer to a decision on impact zones.

County Commissioner Cathy Roemer said an agreement has been reached with the city on Jerome's area of impact map, but a formal vote hasn't been taken.

During a meeting Monday, Jerome County Commissioners heard updates but didn't take action. Commissioner Charlie Howell wasn't present for the discussion.

Art Brown, Jerome County's planning and zoning administrator, presented details of the city of Jerome's impact zone proposal that he'd like to see addressed.

He said he doesn't want to hinder negotiations with the city, but is just pointing out red flags.

"I'm here to help," he said.

Roemer plans to set up another meeting with city officials quickly to clarify items raised by Brown.

Last month, Jerome County halted land division and confined-animal feeding operation permits in certain areas for up to six months.

During that time, city and county officials are meeting to discuss changes to the areas of impact in Jerome, Hazelton and Eden.

Areas of impact are where cities and counties overlap or cities exert some influence because

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

U.S. Stocks Rise; Knight Capital Gets Lifeline

NEW YORK (AP) • U.S. stocks edged higher on a day marked by uncharacteristic quiet following a turbulent week.

In the absence of major economic news, stocks were riding a tailwind of optimism from the most recent U.S. job numbers released last week and hope for more action by European authorities to address that region's debt crisis.

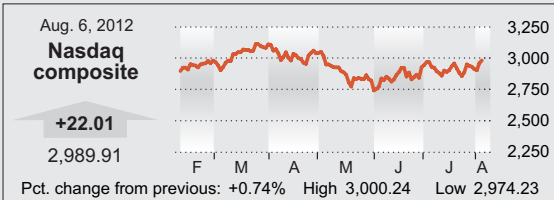

On Monday, beleaguered stock trading company Knight Capital Group said it has lined up $400 million in financing that will allow the firm to continue to operate. Knight was fighting for survival after a disastrous software glitch in its systems sent the trading of dozens of stocks into chaos last week.

Best Buy's stock soared after its founder offered to buy the company.

The Dow Jones industrial average closed up 21.34 points at 13,117.51. The broader Standard & Poor's 500 index added 3.24 points to 1,394.23. The index came within half a point of 1,400, where it hasn't traded since May 3.

The Nasdaq index rose 22.01 points to 2,989.91.

Markets fell the first four days of last week after investors were disappointed by the lack of specific action from central banks in Europe and the U.S. to support the economy. The Dow lost 197 points from Monday through Thursday.

are about the same number of road projects around Twin Falls as past summers. Some are located in areas with more traffic.

But when it comes to seal coating and slurry sealing, the city is covering more than 413,000 square feet — about a 25 percent increase over last year, according to a press release last month.

Nathan Jerke, Idaho Transportation Department District 4 spokesman, said the number of highway projects this summer is similar to past years.

But the scope of the projects has changed.

Instead of season-long projects, the department has shorter projects in south-central Idaho — usually, one month or less.

“We’re doing more maintenance projects, but not a lot of reconstruction,” Jerke said.

Road projects are a norm during the summer months. Fields said that’s because of the ideal weather conditions.

Frozen ground doesn’t compact well, she said, which makes road projects difficult during cold weather months. Also, concrete needs to be protected so it doesn’t freeze.

At the Addison and East-land intersection, Fields said there are traffic capacity problems and ruts in the road.

The project includes putting in concrete at the intersection. Pedestrian ramps will better accommodate those in wheelchairs or who are visually impaired, Fields said.

Crews are also doing some water line work and updating traffic light signal heads.

Bonnie Bratvold, store manager at Kmart, said the road construction hasn’t impacted the business, but more cars are using the parking lot. “My biggest concern that I want to get out there is safety in the parking lot,” she said.

Deborah Silver — who works at Hayes & Silver CPAs — said employees at the business are using neighboring businesses’ parking lots. And customers are parking near Kmart.

“We are having quite the time with the construction,” she wrote in an email to the Times-News. “The jackhammering was difficult to work through. A couple of things fell off the wall and there are pictures askew throughout the building.”

Silver said there have been some complaints, but people realize the road work must be done.

“The city contacted us early about the project and they have done a great job of keeping us in the loop,” she said. “We are looking forward to the finished project.”

CURIOS MIND

ASHLEY SMITH • TIMES-NEWS

A view of a school-zone sign along Harrison Street in Twin Falls on Monday.

Why the Differing School Speed Zone Signs?

Q. Why is there a difference in school speed zone signs?

A. It’s easy to recognize a school zone. Signs pop up in the blocks surrounding school buildings. One sign might say the speed limit is 7 a.m. to 4 p.m., one is from dawn to dusk, and the other is just a flat rate no matter what the time it is.

The difference depends on budget, citizen request and interest.

“Almost all the signs have a speed limit of 20,” said Josh Palmer, Twin Falls public information officer. “Unfortunately, some of the state highways cut through the school zone.”

That raises the speed limits to 25.

Not too long ago speed limits were all 25 in school zones. As times changed so did traffic and therefore the limit was lowered to 20 in most areas.

The street department has restrictions to follow state and federal policies. However, requests do come in for blinking lights and signs designating certain requirements.

If there’s room in the budget, the city will try to adapt what they can to meet the school’s needs.

Q. What are curfews in the city of Twin Falls?

A. It depends on how old you are and what day it is. Adults, 18 and older, can stay out as late as they want. On Friday and Saturday nights, teenagers around 16 and 17 have to be in by 11:59 p.m. until 5 a.m. the next day. Sunday through Thursday nights, the curfew changes to 10:59 p.m. to 5 a.m.

Younger than 16 pushes the times back an hour, with curfew being 10:59 p.m. to 5 a.m. Friday and Saturdays and 9:59 p.m. to 5 a.m. Sunday through Thursday.

“The Code reads that way to show that kids are OK to be out the whole ten o’clock hour (10:00 to 10:59) but as soon as it turns 11 p.m. they must be off public walkways and roadways,” explains Crime Prevention Officer Dan Heil.

However, there are exceptions and officers can, and do, use discretion.

Heil said that while they do respond to noise disturbances, if a teen is heading to or from work, for example, they won’t give them a hard time as long as it’s feasible and they may ask for their employer’s information.

Same goes with a teenager that is with their parent or legal guardian.

An older brother is not OK, Heil warns.

Shoshone Falls Boat Ramp to Be Closed Today, Tomorrow

TWIN FALLS • Twin Falls County Parks and Waterways and the city of Twin Falls Parks and Recreation Department will temporarily close the boat ramp at Shoshone Falls Park for maintenance. Work crews will close the boat ramp Tuesday, Aug. 7, with maintenance work expected to be completed Wednesday, Aug. 8.

Workers will be repairing the surface of the current ramp that is deteriorating. Work crews decided to conduct work earlier in the week to avoid the weekend rush of boating enthusiasts. It was also considered an ideal time because water levels are low enough for workers to lay concrete.

The boat ramp is owned and maintained by Twin Falls County because it is on a waterway, but the city of Twin Falls manages the area because it is part of the city-owned park.

For more information, call the City of Twin Falls Parks and Recreation Department at (208) 736-2265.

Diederich said the parade is about the same size as last year’s.

Floats judged to be in the top three will be announced at the pig wrestling competition, she said.

This year, fair organizers had to cut off the number of people in the pig wrestling event to just 60 teams, down from last year’s event where nearly 70 teams competed.

Also for the fair’s opening day, hypnotist Richard Barker will take the free stage at 6 p.m., she said.

Man Arrested in Quale's Burglary

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • After an electronics store owner posted video surveillance on Facebook of his store being burglarized, he got information that led to the arrest of one of the suspects.

Mel Quale's Electronics on Kimberly Road in Twin Falls was burglarized late July 29. The video surveillance shows two men exit a brown pickup, and then smash a store window using a cinderblock. The men then begin grabbing big-screen TVs and loading them into the bed of the pickup.

According to a police report, someone told the store owner who the truck might belong to after watching the video. Later, police interviewed the truck owner who said he loaned it to his nephew, Joe Hernandez, 25.

When police later arrived at Hernandez' house, in the 400 block of Fifth Avenue West, the truck suspected to have been used in the burglary was parked outside the house, the report states.

In an interview at the Twin Falls Police station, Hernandez allegedly admitted there were two flat-screen TVs in his house that he claimed he found in the back of his pickup on the morning of July 30, the report states.

According to the report, Hernandez named two other men who were involved in the burglary and admitted to choosing Quale's because it was "an easy getaway."

According to the report, the TVs in Hernandez' home matched two of the TVs missing from Quale's.

At the house of one of the men named by Hernandez, police found two more TVs that matched those allegedly stolen, but could not locate the suspects.

Hernandez was charged with burglary, conspiracy to commit burglary and grand theft. He was held on a $50,000 bond and a preliminary hearing is scheduled for Aug. 20.

Twin Falls Creates Property Tax Calculator

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • The city of Twin Falls has created a property tax calculator for homeowners to show the portion of taxes paid to the city for 2012 and the projection for 2013.

The calculator shows only the amount owed to the city of Twin Falls, and does not include taxes to the county or other taxing districts. The calculator applies only to owner-occupied homes eligible for the homeowners exemption.

To use the calculator, visit tfd.org and click on "Calculate Your Property Tax."

Gun Shop Manager to Discuss How He Grew His Business • A5

Aide: Syrian PM's Break Months in Planning

BY BRIAN MURPHY AND JAMAL HALABY

Associated Press

BEIRUT • Syria's prime minister began planning his break from the regime two months ago when Bashar Assad offered him the post and an ultimatum: Take the job or die.

The full scope of Riad Hijab's carefully executed flight to the rebel side — described by an aide who escaped with him to Jordan — reverberated Monday through Syria's leadership. Hijab became the highest-ranking government official to defect, emboldening the opposition and raising fresh questions about the regime's ability to survive the civil war.

Although Assad has been hit by a string of embarrassing defections of military and political figures, they have yet to cause visible changes in the regime's abilities on the battlefield. The loss of high-profile government officials, however, suggests fissures are reaching deep-into the ruling system and could force Assad to retreat further behind a cadre of loyalists as fighting flares on several fronts.

"Every defection is another door closed for Assad and another one open for the rebels," said Mustafa Alani, an analyst at the Gulf Research Center based in Geneva. "It may not be the tipping point for the regime, but each breakaway is another crack."

Hijab and an entourage of family members were expected to head next to the Gulf state of Qatar, a key backer of the Syrian rebels, in a further sign of the regional brinkmanship and gambits over Assad's fate. Gulf states and Turkey have strongly backed the rebel forces while Assad has counted on support from a dwindling list of allies such as Iran and Russia.

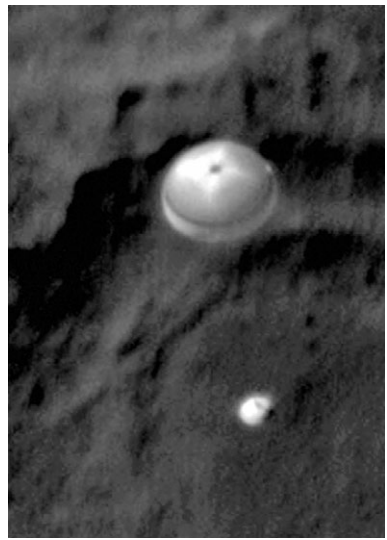

Ahmad Kassim, a senior official with the rebel Free Syrian Army, initially said Hijab defected along with three other ministers, then later said two other ministers had left. However, Hijab's spokesman, Mohammad Otari, said he fled the country alone.

Hijab's defection is a humiliating blow for Assad after a string of generals and ambassadors has peeled away. Like nearly all prominent defectors so far, Hijab is a member of Syria's majority Sunnis — the Muslim sect which forms the bedrock of the more than 17-month uprising.

His break suggests that elements of the Sunni elite — long a pillar of Assad's rule — could be growing uneasy with the relentless bloodshed and the hardline policies of Assad's minority Alawite community, which dominates the regime's inner circle. The Alawite sect is an offshoot of Shiite Islam.

In Washington, White House Press Secretary Jay Carney said "the Assad regime is crumbling from within" and predicted "Assad's days are numbered." Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton is expected to arrive in Turkey later this week for meetings on Syria.

NASA Cheers Mars Landing, Welcomes New Photos

BY ALICIA CHANG AND SETH BORENSTEIN

Associated Press

PASADENA, Calif. • NASA celebrated the precision landing of a rover on Mars and marveled over the mission's first photographs Monday — grainy, black-and-white images of Martian gravel, a mountain at sunset and, most exciting of all, the spacecraft's white-knuckle plunge through the red planet's atmosphere.

Curiosity, a roving laboratory the size of a compact car, landed right on target late Sunday night after an eight-month, 352-million-mile journey.

Cheers and applause echoed through NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, and engineers hugged, high-fived and thrust their fists in the air after signals from space indicated the vehicle had survived the harrowing descent through Mars' pinkish atmosphere.

JPL Director Charles Elachi likened the team to Olympic athletes: "This team came back with the gold."

"Everybody in the morning should be sticking their chests out and saying, 'That's my rover on Mars,'" NASA Administrator Charles Bolden said on NASA TV.

Extraordinary efforts were needed for the landing because the rover weighs one ton, and the thin Martian atmosphere offers little friction to slow a spacecraft down. Curiosity had to go from 13,000 mph to zero in seven minutes, unfurling a parachute, then firing rockets to brake. In a Hollywood-style finish, cables delicately lowered it to the ground at 2 mph.

At the end of what NASA called "seven minutes of terror," the vehicle settled into place almost perfectly flat in the crater it was aiming for.

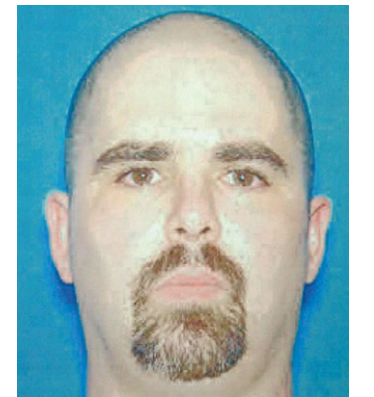

"We have ended one phase of the mission much to our enjoyment," mission manager Mike Watkins said. "But another part has just begun."

The nuclear-powered Curiosity will dig into the Martian surface to analyze what's there and hunt for some of the molecular building blocks of life, including carbon.

It won't start moving for a couple of weeks, because all the systems on the $2.5 billion rover have to be checked out. Color photos, panoramas and video will start coming in the next few days.

But first NASA had to use tiny cameras designed to spot hazards in front of Curiosity's wheels. So early images of gravel and shadows abounded. The pictures were fuzzy, but scientists were delighted.

Gunman in Sikh Temple Attack Was White Supremacist

Associated Press

OAK CREEK, Wis. • Before he strode into a Sikh temple with a 9mm handgun and multiple magazines of ammunition, Wade Michael Page played in white supremacist heavy metal bands with names such as Definite Hate and End Apathy.

The bald, heavily tattooed bassist was a 40-year-old Army veteran who trained in psychological warfare before he was demoted and discharged more than a decade ago.

A day after he killed six worshippers at the suburban Milwaukee temple, fragments of Page's life emerged in public records and interviews. But his motive was still largely a mystery. So far, no hate-filled manifesto has emerged, nor any angry blog or ranting Facebook entries to explain the attack.

Oak Creek Police Chief John Edwards suggested Monday that investigators might never know for certain why the lone attacker targeted a temple full of strangers.

"We have a lot of information to decipher, to put it all together before we can positively tell you what that motive is — if we can determine that," Edwards said.

Page, who was shot to death by police, joined the Army in 1992 and was discharged in 1998. He was described Monday by the Southern Poverty Law Center as a "frustrated neo-Nazi" who had long been active in the obscure underworld of white supremacist music.

Page wrote frequently on white supremacist websites, describing himself as a member of the "Hammerskins Nation," a skinhead group rooted in Texas that has offshoots in Australia and Canada, according to the SITE Monitoring Service, a Maryland-based private intelligence firm that searches the Internet for terrorist and other extremist activity.

In online forums, Page promoted his music while interacting with other skinheads. He posted 250 messages on one site between March 2010 and the middle of this year, and appeared eager to recruit others. In March 2011, he advertised for a "family friendly" barbecue in North Carolina, extolling those online to attend.

"If you are wanting to meet people, get involved and become active, then you really need to attend," he wrote, according to SITE. "Stop hiding behind the computer or making excuses!"

In November, Page challenged a poster who indicated he would leave the U.S. if Herman Cain were elected president, writing in reply, "Stand and fight, don't run."

In an April message, Page said: "Passive submission is indirect support to the oppressors. Stand up for yourself and live the 14 words," a reference to a common white supremacist mantra.

Tea Party Focused on Coming GOP Senate Primaries

BY DAVID A. LIEB

Associated Press

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. • Sarah Palin is mounting an aggressive campaign in Missouri — in television and radio ads, in automated telephone calls, even serving barbecued pork sandwiches at a rural political picnic. She's urging residents to vote for Sarah — Sarah Steelman, one of three Republicans in a prickly U.S. Senate primary.

Fresh off a resounding Republican runoff victory by Ted Cruz in Texas, Palin and the tea party movement now are trying to capitalize in primaries this month in Missouri, Wisconsin and Arizona. But they may pose a more difficult test than in Texas, where the charismatic Cruz waged an outsider's campaign against the Republican establishment's pick of Lt. Gov. David Dewhurst.

In Tuesday's primary in Missouri, conservative loyalties are fractured among a trio of candidates all preaching a smaller-government message while splitting the endorsements of conservative celebrities. In Wisconsin, the would-be tea party beneficiaries are up against a political icon — former four-term Gov. Tommy Thompson. In all three states, millionaire businessmen are self-financing campaigns focused more on a Main Street message of job-creation than a direct tea party appeal.

The uncertain outlook shows that winning as a tea party candidate still takes a combination of factors, even in states where Republicans are conservative and getting more so. Holding sole claim to the tea party label is a big help, along with strong campaign skills and vulnerable opponents.

Few hopefuls manage to have all three.

"The voters in Missouri are conservative like Texas, so I certainly hope it's going to help," Steelman said a day after Cruz's victory on July 31, as she passed out newly printed fliers featuring Palin's face and Steelman's 12-point platform to a lunchtime crowd at a Jefferson City diner.

She and other Republican candidates have taken notice of Cruz's powerful coalition — featuring Palin and other tea party stars such as South Carolina Sen. Jim DeMint and Kentucky Sen. Rand Paul; talk-show personalities Glenn Beck and Sean Hannity; and financially stacked political groups such as the Club for Growth and Freedom-Works for America. But she, and the multiple conservative contenders in the other states, are splitting the key endorsements with their opponents, creating a murkier picture for voters.

Pfizer, J&J End Development of Alzheimer's Drug

NEW YORK (AP) • Pfizer Inc. and Johnson & Johnson said Monday they are ending development of a once-promising drug designed to treat Alzheimer's disease after the treatment failed in two late-stage clinical trials.

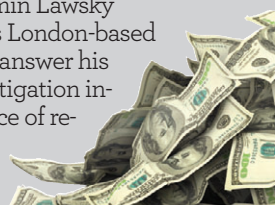

The companies hoped their drug bapineuzumab would slow the decline in physical and mental function for patients with Alzheimer's. However the drug did not work better than a placebo in two late-stage trials in patients who had mild to moderate Alzheimer's disease. Johnson & Johnson made a big bet on bapineuzumab in 2009, agreeing to invest up to $1.5 billion initially.

The drug is designed to prevent the buildup of plaque in the brain. Current treatments for Alzheimer's can only temporarily ease symptoms of the disease, which include increasing memory loss, confusion, wandering and aggression.

Best Buy Founder Offers to Buy Company, Take It Private

BY MAE ANDERSON AND BREE FOWLER
Associated Press

NEW YORK • Best Buy's co-founder is looking to make a buy of his own, offering to take the electronics seller private only months after leaving as the company's chairman.

Best Buy Co. said it would consider the offer but called it "highly conditional." And analysts are skeptical that former Chairman Richard Schulze's opening offer of $24 to $26 per share would get a deal done and that it could be tricky to line up investment firms to help pay for it.

It's the latest twist in the Minneapolis company's struggles to stay relevant as more people buy electronics online. Over the past year, it has announced a major restructuring plan and fired CEO Brian Dunn amid allegations that he had an inappropriate relationship with a female employee.

Best Buy is trying to avoid the fate of its rival Circuit City, which went bankrupt in 2009, partly because of changing shopper habits.

The offer values the company at as much as $8.84 billion. Schulze already has 20.1 percent of the stock in the company, so paying for the rest of shares would mean coming up with about $6.9 billion.

Schulze resigned as chairman in May, after Dunn's departure. A company investigation found that Schulze knew about the inappropriate relationship and failed to alert the board or human resources.

Schulze had been expected to stay on the board until the company's annual shareholder meeting in June, but he resigned unexpectedly before the meeting and said he was exploring options for his hefty stake in the company. Analysts had been expecting a possible bid since that announcement.

"Immediate and substantial changes are needed for the company to return to its market-leading ways," Schulze said in a statement. "It is my strong belief that Best Buy's best chance for renewed success is to implement with urgency the necessary changes as a private company."

Schulze's offer would represent a 36 percent to 47 percent premium over the company's Friday closing stock price.

Schulze said he would have preferred to pursue a deal privately but went public with the offer for the sake of speed.

"I am deeply concerned that further delay and indecision will cause additional loss of both value and talented leaders who are now uncertain of the company's future," Schulze said in a statement.

Ryan Horsley, owner of Red's Trading Post — Idaho's oldest gun shop — stands behind the counter Monday in Twin Falls.

HIGH CALIBER BUSINESS

Gun shop manager to discuss how he grew business from $200,000 to $4 million a year.

BY STEVE KADEL
skadel@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Ryan Horsley admits he knew nothing about firearms when he became general manager of a Twin Falls gun shop in 1998.

But he knew enough about marketing to boost annual sales from $200,000 to more than $4 million since taking over.

With that kind of success, Horsley can joke about those early days. He recalls asking an employee whether a .30-06 was a handgun or a rifle.

"You gotta start somewhere," he said with a laugh Monday.

Horsley will share his marketing knowledge Thursday noon at the Shiloh Inn during an address to the Magic Valley Advertising Federation. Part of his advice will be to embrace online sales, which now account for 70 percent of his company's revenue.

Red's Trading Post has a rich history. It was established in 1936 by Horsley's great-grandfather and is the oldest gun shop in Idaho. The 10,000-square foot store at 203 Fifth Ave. S. has changed with the times.

"We had a lot of guns here that were dogs — oddball calibers," Horsley said of the inventory when he came aboard.

He began catering to local customers wanting traditional hunting guns while also bolstering the online presence.

"We have a great reputation online and we want to build on that," said Horsley, who runs the 10,000-square-foot store with his mother, Terry, and 12 employees.

The company maintains a website at redstradingpost.com but that's not where most Internet sales are made. Horsley has found GunBroker.com and eBay more lucrative because they have wider audiences.

"You can't generate that kind of traffic" on a company website, he said.

Red's offers a perpetual online auction and posts 20 photos of each gun. Horsley said they buy used guns and take others on consignment, with used weapons selling much faster than new ones.

On the other extreme, the store features high-end guns not offered elsewhere. Horsley said he sees a niche there because "other dealers are playing it safe" with run-of-the-mill inventories.

One model that is sold exclusively by Red's is the Super SASS, a discontinued semi-automatic sniper model that Horsley acquired through negotiations with the manufacturer. It costs $3,000 but isn't the most expensive gun on display.

That honor goes to the Armalite AR-50A1 with a $3,999 price tag. It's a single-shot, .50-caliber weapon.

Red's also has an $8,000 consignment model listed online, but it's not kept out for customers to touch.

Horsley studies successful marketing strategies used by other companies, and not just those in the firearms industry. He adopts tactics used by companies in other industries if they work.

"We continually ask what we can do better as far as product," Horsley said. "We ask what's new and what's exciting."

There's another trait common to all profitable businesses, he added.

"It's having a great staff," Horsley said. "We have a bunch of people who make me look good."

'Olympics Effect' Hits Magic Valley Gymnasiums

TWIN FALLS • The success of the U.S. Olympic women's gymnastic team has some Magic Valley businesses' cash registers doing back flips.

Interest in youth gymnastic classes has surged since the Americans won a gold medal in team competition at the London Olympics.

"I'm almost in panic mode," joked LeeAnn Gonzales, owner of Pure Energy Gymnastics in Jerome.

She said so many children have been signing up for classes during the Olympics that she's scrambling to find enough space and instructors. It's not unusual for Pure Energy to double its enrollment during the Olympics, she said, but this summer there's a twist.

"This is the first year I've had a ton of boys calling," Gonzales said.

BrightStar Care Gets Accreditation

TWIN FALLS • Healthcare staffing agency BrightStar Care of Twin Falls has received accreditation by the Joint Commission, a not-for-profit organization that accredits and certifies more than 18,000 healthcare programs in the United States.

BrightStar, which also has locations in Pocatello and Idaho Falls, provides medical and non-medical homecare.

"In becoming accredited, BrightStar was evaluated against a set of national standards by a Joint Commission team of surveyors experienced in the delivery of home care services," said Margherita Labson, executive director of Home Care Accreditation for the Joint Commission. "Achieving accreditation demonstrates BrightStar's commitment to provide high quality and safe care to its patients."

H. Wayne Bosh, co-owner of BrightStar, said the organization views accreditation from the commission as "another step toward excellence."

Miles Wins DAISY Nursing Award

KETCHUM • Registered nurse Marvin Miles, who works in outpatient infusion, is the first recipient of a new award designed to highlight the compassionate care and other extraordinary contributions of nurses at St. Luke's Wood River.

The award is part of the DAISY Foundation's program to recognize the super-human efforts nurses perform every day, according to a news release.

Twice a year, a nurse will be selected by St. Luke's Wood River's nursing administration to receive The DAISY Award. At a presentation given in front of the nurse's colleagues, physicians, patients and visitors, the honoree will receive a certificate commending her or him for being an "Extraordinary Nurse." The honoree also will be given a sculpture called "A Healer's Touch," hand-carved by artists of the Shona Tribe in Africa.

"We are proud to be among the hospitals participating in the DAISY Award program," said Suzanne Miller, director of Patient Care Services/Nursing. "Nurses are heroes every day. It's important that our nurses know their work is highly valued, and The DAISY Foundation provides a way for us to do that."

Verizon Expands 4G Network

TWIN FALLS • Verizon Wireless is expanding its 4G LTE network to Twin Falls in the coming weeks, the company said in a news release.

Residents and visitors in Twin Falls and north along I-84, including Jerome, are the latest to receive Verizon's fastest 4G LTE speeds, which are already currently available to the Boise-Nampa area, Idaho Falls, Rexburg, Burley, and Blackfoot.

Customers will experience speeds up to 10 times faster than before with 4G LTE, the news release said. Verizon Wireless customers can utilize 4G LTE on smartphone and tablet devices including the new iPad, Samsung Galaxy Nexus and Droid RAZR MAXX.

Are You Happy? Ben Bernanke Wants to Know

BY CHRISTOPHER S. RUGABER

Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Ben Bernanke wants to know if you are happy.

The Federal Reserve chairman said Monday that gauging happiness can be as important for measuring economic progress as determining whether inflation is low or unemployment high. Economics isn't just about money and material benefits, Bernanke said. It is also about understanding and promoting "the enhancement of well-being."

Bernanke and Fed policymakers rely on reports on hiring, consumer spending and other economic data when making high-stakes decisions about the $15 trillion U.S. economy. The Fed's dual mandate is to maintain low inflation and full employment.

"We should seek better and more-direct measurements of economic well-being," Bernanke said Monday in a video-taped speech shown to a conference of economists and statisticians in Cambridge, Mass. After all, promoting well-being is "the ultimate objective of our policy decisions."

Bernanke acknowledged that many people aren't too happy right now. Unemployment rose in July to 8.3 percent, and economic growth has slowed sharply from the start of the year. He called the recovery "frustratingly slow" when he testified to Congress on July 17.

Aggregate statistics can mask important information about how individual Americans are faring, Bernanke says.

His speech Monday was the latest foray into a relatively new specialty in economics known as "happiness studies." Bernanke attracted widespread notice when he spoke about the economics of happiness in a May 2010 commencement address at the University of South Carolina.

In that speech, he said research has found that once basic material needs are met, more wealth doesn't necessarily make people happier.

"Or, as your parents always said, money doesn't buy happiness," Bernanke said then. "Well, an economist might reply, at least not by itself."

In his remarks Monday, Bernanke turned to the more practical - and difficult - task of measuring a subjective emotion. So far, most efforts have involved surveys in which people are asked about whether they are happy and what contributes to their happiness.

Those surveys have found some consistent answers: physical and mental health, the strength of family and community ties, a sense of control over one's life, and opportunities for leisure activity.

The Kingdom of Bhutan has been tracking happiness for four decades. The tiny Himalayan nation stopped tracking gross national product in 1972 and instead switched to measuring Gross National Happiness.

Bernanke sketched out a few other questions he would like to know: How secure do Americans feel in their jobs? How confident are Americans in their future job prospects? How prepared are families for financial shocks?

These indicators "could be useful in measuring economic progress or setbacks as well as in explaining economic decision-making," Bernanke said.

It's safe to say that Bernanke wouldn't expect a great deal of optimism if those questions were asked now.

The Fed has said it plans to keep its key short-term interest rate near zero until late 2014, an indication that it expects the economy to stay weak for another two and a half years. And Fed policymakers appeared to signal after its two-day meeting last week a growing inclination to take further steps to lift the economy out of its slump.

Bernanke's own definition of happiness might baffle some. He called it a "short-term state of awareness that depends on a person's perceptions of one's immediate reality, as well as on immediate external circumstances and outcomes."

Olympic story," said Hamdi Ulukaya, Chobani president and CEO. "We grew our company from five people to over 1,200 strong during one of this country's worst economic crisis in decades. Our story proves that the American dream is alive and well."

"If you believe in something, work hard and never give up, anything is possible. We are who we are today because of the people who helped make this happen - our employees, community, farmers and fans. This campaign is for them."

Chobani, which is Greek for "shepherd," reportedly anticipates $1 billion in sales this year. Still, it is small compared with other sponsors such as Nike and Budweiser. And ads during Olympic telecasts aren't inexpensive.

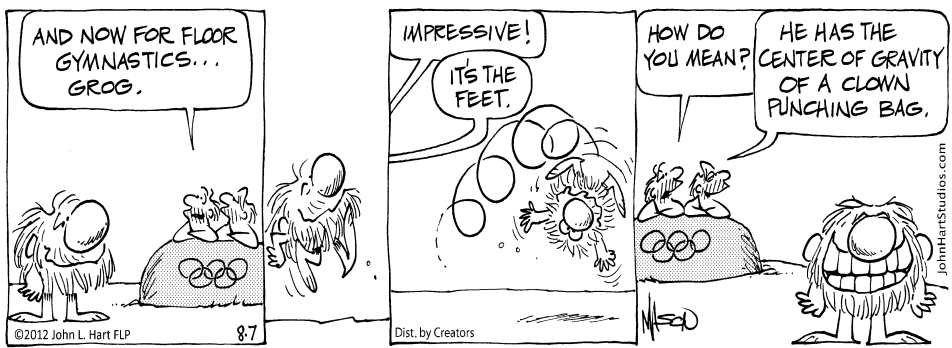

Media researcher Nielsen Holdings reported that a 30-second commercial spot on NBC during the 2008 opening ceremony cost $320,000. Current prices have not been released.

Get It Right On Gas

We are in the midst of a natural gas revolution in America that is a potential game changer for the economy, environment and our national security – if we do it right.

The enormous stores of natural gas that have been locked away in shale deposits across America that we’ve now been able to tap into, thanks to breakthroughs in seismic imaging, horizontal drilling and hydraulic fracturing, or “fracking,” are enabling us to replace much dirtier coal with cleaner gas as the largest source of electricity generation in America.

And natural gas may soon be powering cars, trucks and ships as well. This is helping to lower our carbon emissions faster than expected and make us more energy secure. And, if prices stay low, it may enable America to bring back manufacturing that migrated overseas. But, as the energy and climate expert Hal Harvey puts it, there is just one big, hugely important question to be asked about this natural gas bounty: “Will it be a transition to a clean energy future, or does it defer a clean energy future?”

That is the question – because natural gas is still a fossil fuel. The good news: It emits only half as much greenhouse gas as coal when combusted and, therefore, contributes only half as much to global warming. The better news: The recent glut has made it inexpensive to deploy. But there is a hidden, long-term, cost: A sustained gas glut could undermine new investments in wind, solar, nuclear and energy efficiency systems – which have zero emissions – and thus keep us addicted to fossil fuels for decades.

That would be reckless. This year’s global extremes of droughts and floods are totally consistent with models of disruptive, nonlinear climate change. After record warm temperatures in the first half of this year, it was no surprise to find last week that the Department of Agriculture has now designated more than half of all U.S. counties – 1,584 in 32 states – as primary disaster areas where crops and grazing areas have been ravaged by drought.

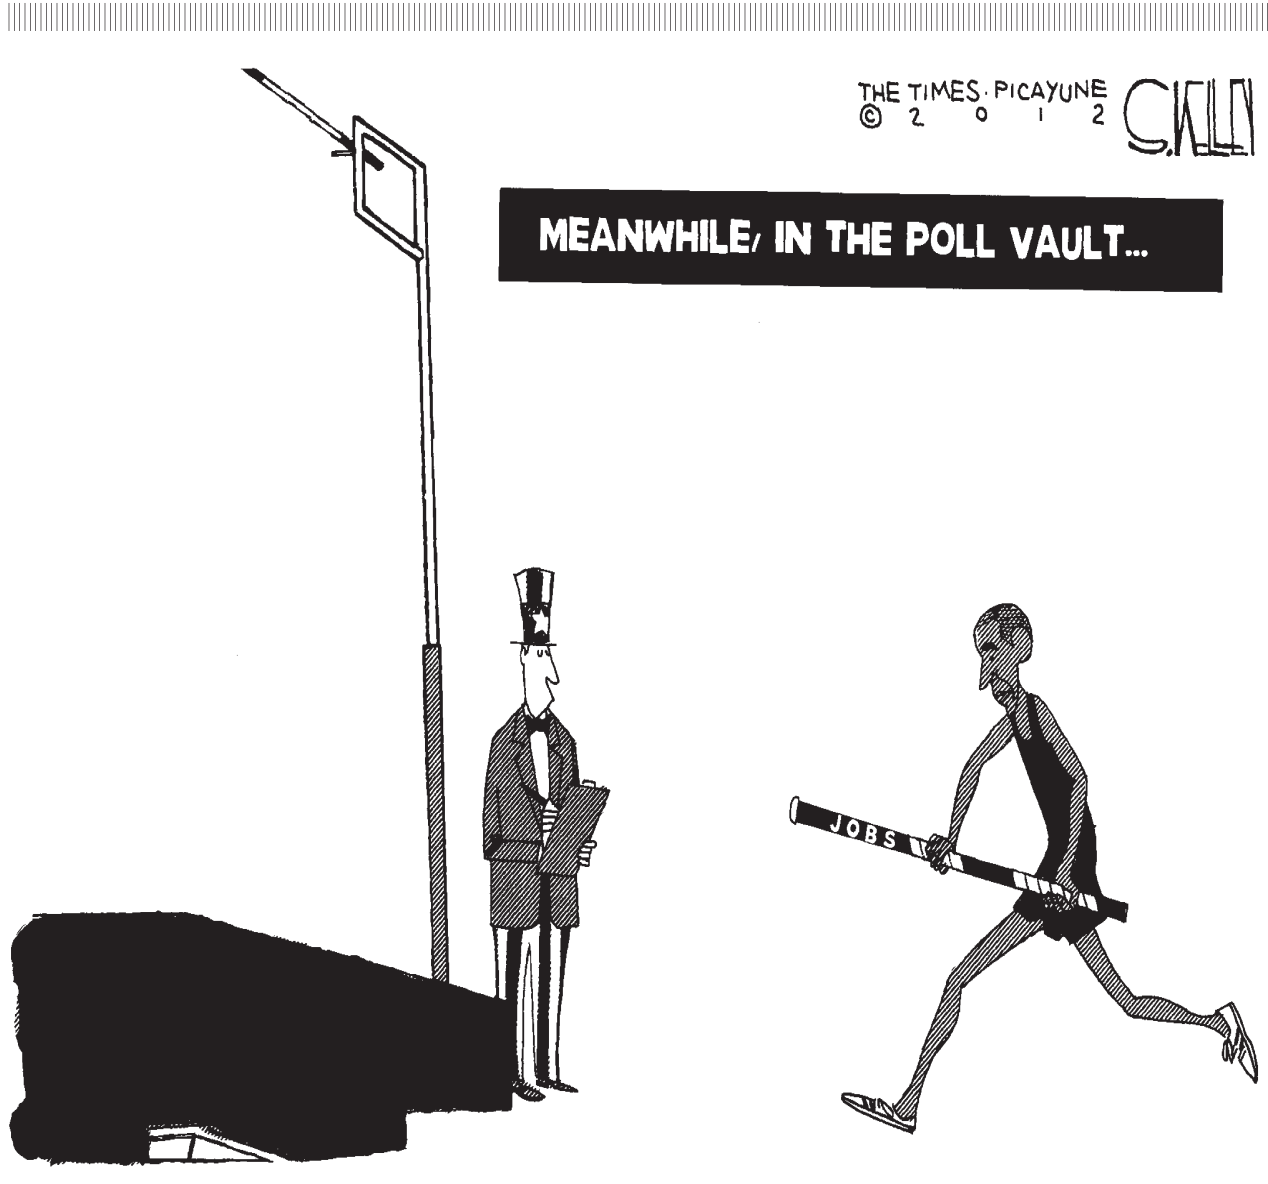

That is why on May 29 the British newspaper The Guardian quoted Fatih Birol, the chief economist for the International Energy Agency, as saying that “a golden age for gas is not necessarily a golden age for the climate” – if natural gas ends up sinking renewables. Maria van der Hoeven, executive director of the IEA, urged governments to keep in place subsidies and regulations to encourage investments in wind, solar and other renewables “for years to come” so they remain competitive.

Moreover, while natural gas is cleaner than coal, extracting it can be very dirty. We have to do this right. For instance, the carbon advantage can be undermined by leakage of uncombusted natural gas from wellheads and pipelines because methane – the primary component of natural gas – is an extremely powerful greenhouse gas, more powerful than carbon dioxide. The big oil companies can easily maintain high drilling standards, but a lot of fracking is done by mom-and-pop drillers that do not. The standards that can make fracking environmentally OK are not expensive, but the big drillers want to make sure that the little guys have to apply them, too, so everyone has the same cost basis.

On July 19, Forbes interviewed George Phydias Mitchell, who, in the 1990s, pioneered the use of fracking to break natural gas free from impermeable shale. According to Forbes, Mitchell argued that fracking needs to be regulated by the Department of Energy, not just states: “Because if they don’t do it right, there could be trouble,” he says. There’s no excuse not to get it right. “There are good techniques to make it safe that should be followed properly,” he says. But, the smaller, independent drillers, “are wild.” “It’s tough to control these independents. If they do something wrong and dangerous, they should punish them.”

Adds Fred Krupp, the president of the Environmental Defense Fund who has been working with the government and companies on drilling standards: “The economic and national security advantages of natural gas are obvious, but if you tour some of these areas of intensive development the environmental impacts are equally obvious.” We need nationally accepted standards for controlling methane leakage, for controlling water used in fracking – where you get it, how you treat the polluted water that comes out from the fracking process and how you protect aquifers – and for ensuring that communities have the right to say no to drilling. “The key message,” Krupp said, “is you gotta get the rules right. States need real inspector capacity and compliance schemes where companies certify they have done it right and there are severe penalties if they perjure.”

Energy companies who want to keep regulations lax need to understand that a series of mishaps around natural gas will – justifiably – trigger an environmental backlash to stop it.

The conversation continues 24/7 on Magicvalley.com.

An online reader responded to the article, “$2.2M of Pot Found in Jerome,” drugwarfighter: “Using the cops formula for valuing the marijuana they confiscate, the bag of acorns I have in my garage is worth several million dollars. All I have to do is plant the acorns, wait 50 years for the acorns to grow into huge oak trees, harvest the lumber and use the lumber to make expensive oak furniture.”

“Maybe I should store the acorns in a safe.”

In response to the article, “Officials: Sikh temple shooter white supremacist,” an online reader wrote: mjacobson: “I went to school for ten years with a friend who is Sikh, his father worked with my father and they were wonderful people. An online reader sympathized with the author of the letter to the editor, “Open Letter to the Person Who Robbed My Home:” 304000: “I’m so sorry that happened to you. This town is easily traveled about via foot or bike but it is very dangerous to do so. We can and must do better.”

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

McKeon’s Comments on Defense Spending Biased, Driven by Self-Interest

I was disappointed to read the biased and unbalanced opinion letter by Howard P. McKeon, California 25th District Representative, run as Special to the Washington Post on Aug. 1, 2012, titled “Obama, Democrats Play Chicken with Military Budget.”

I had expected the editorial staff to have better researched the contributor and his claims, masquerading as facts. Mr. McKeon’s claim that President Obama and Democrats are endangering national security and harming the individuals who serve in the armed forces by not taking action to avoid sequestration is disingenuous and the equivalent of a magician’s slight of hand. By attempting to distract attention away from the needed and appropriate defense cuts, Mr. McKeon thinks he can get away with protecting his privileged position as chairman of the Armed Services Committee and the vast amount of campaign contributions he receives from the numerous defense industry firms.

It is not surprising that someone representing a district heavily populated with defense industry firms and who receives more than 50 percent of his campaign contributions (more than a quarter of a million dollars), from defense industry related firms and individuals, would be attempting to protect the currently excessive defense budget component.

Some basic facts are Congress, including Mr. McKeon, agreed to and passed the sequestration alternative to kick in if agreement on a budget could not be reached. Eliminating the Pentagon from sequestration by trading off cuts in other areas will put the Pentagon on track for a 16 percent spending increase. (Given our financial health as a nation, how can anyone endorse a 16 percent increase in any area?) America’s military expenditure is 41 percent of the total military expenditure in the world – 41 percent of the world spend!

America spends more than $600 billion on defense annually, more than the next 17 countries combined. That includes China and Russia in those 17 countries. China spends 17 cents for every $1 that America spends. It is likely that sequestration is the only way that defense spending will ever begin to be reigned in and cut to appropriate levels, because rational defense cuts and budgeting have always been torpedoed by senators and representatives, like Mr. McKeon, with heavy defense spending in their districts and states and heavy defense campaign contributions in their pockets.

Magi-Cats Feline Rescue has Rescued Many Cats, Kitten over the Past Two Years

To the readers in the Mini-Cassia and Twin Falls counties, I want you to know there is a fine rescue group who is making a difference. The Magi-Cats Feline Rescue has rescued many cats and kittens over the past two years.

These rescues are evaluated by veterinarians, tested for leukemia, spayed or neutered, vaccinated to include rabies and fully socialized.

These felines are available for adoption at Pet Smart in Twin Falls for a small fee of $60. Any fee collected from adoptions is returned to the charity.

These cats and kittens are in need of loving homes, as many have been abandoned and left for dead in some situations.

Remember, all are socialized, completely healthy and all are rescues.

Currently, Twin Falls residents pay $16.34 for sanitation, which includes garbage collection, recycling and street sweeping. Depending on if the council wanted to continue using reserve funds to subsidize the cost, that rate would increase by as much as $2 per month in fiscal year 2013.

Much of the increased cost is to pay for the Recycle Bank incentive program, which rewards recyclers with points that they can exchange for gift certificates, coupons or magazine subscriptions.

But that incentive might not be necessary.

While more than 80 percent of Twin Falls residents recycle at least once a month, less than 1,000 actively use the Recycle Bank program, said Councilwoman Rebecca Mills Sojka.

The council didn't make a decision on whether to raise the rates, but will revisit the discussion before approving the 2013 budget on Aug. 20.

City Budget

The council also approved the maximum spending amount of $50.2 million for the upcoming fiscal year.

The amount accounts for new construction revenue and a 3 percent maximum statutory increase in property taxes, as well as adding $1 million of the city's foregone balance to those taxes.

The maximum spending limit doesn't mean the city will spend the full amount, explained city manager Travis Rothweiler. It only means the city cannot spend more than that amount in the coming fiscal year.

Though the tax rate is increasing, the actual dollar amount that most homeowners will pay will go down due to lower property values, Rothweiler said. Commercial taxpayers will likely see a bigger difference, with some paying about 10 percent more to the city, Rothweiler said.

The council's approval of spending part of the city's $1.5 million in foregone balance diverted from the city's original budget proposal, which left the amount untouched.

Idaho tax law allows taxing districts that have not raised taxes by 3 percent to collect the amounts they passed up in future budgets.

Councilman Jim Munn moved to include the additional $1 million in the maximum spending limit and discuss potential ways to spend it.

The council will hold a public hearing on the proposed budget on Aug. 20.

Air Show Update

Twin Falls airport manager

Bill Carberry gave an unofficial update on the Magic Valley Air Show, reporting that revenues are outpacing expenditures.

The 2008 air show had a deficit of more than $49,649, picked up by city and county taxpayers. That total doesn't include about $40,000 in security that the city provided.

The council approved a total of $65,000 in advance funding to organizers for the 2012 show on the condition it be paid back. On Monday, Carberry said he's confident that will happen.

"It was just a tremendous success," Carberry said. "People had a great time out there."

of containment for the blaze is still unknown.

He said there were initially two fires that merged.

"They are basically working the north end of the fire to keep it from spreading," said Grinder.

Crews battled the blaze with three single-engine air tankers, one air attack plane, a lead plane, one engine, one dozer and three hand crews along with Sawtooth Hot Shots and Oakley Rural Fire Department.

Forest Service Ranger Scott Nannenga, with the Minidoka Ranger District, said the fire was mainly burning juniper and native brush and grasses, although some aspen stands have burnt.

Burning off some of the juniper is usually good for the forest, said Nannenga.

"We don't need to put out all the fires," Nannenga said.

One-hundred years ago, before every fire was suppressed — fire would have kept the juniper thinned out.

"Losing some of the juniper is sometimes good," Nannenga said. "Losing the soil from erosion is the worst problem."

Animals found in the area include big horn sheep, sage grouse, mule deer, wild turkey, mountain lions, coyotes and migratory birds along with other birds, rabbits and squirrels.

The area is a popular recreational destination for motorized off-road vehicles as well as hiking, mountain biking and hunting.

Nannenga said the fire season started early this year due to a low snow pack that left little moisture for the plants.

"Normally, the fire season starts about mid-August," Nannenga said.

Eleven Wildfires Burning in Northern Nevada

ELKO DAILY FREE PRESS

ELKO • Eleven major fires were burning in north and central Nevada, mostly in the Winnemucca and Battle Mountain areas, as of Monday.

The largest of the blazes, 7,000 acres, is 20 miles southeast of Alamo, Nev., according to the National Interagency Fire Center. It is 0 percent contained.

A fire 25 miles north of Battle Mountain has burned 5,000 acres and is 70 percent contained. A 3,000-acre fire in the same area is threatening structures and is 0 percent contained.

Another 3,000-acre blaze was burning 25 miles east of Denio, Nev.

Closer to Elko, the Lutz fire has burned an estimated 1,200 acres 25 miles south of Wells. Structures are threatened and road closures are in effect.

Smaller fires are burning 31 miles northwest of Winnemucca, 20 miles northwest of Battle Mountain, 22 miles southeast of Winnemucca, 5 miles southeast of Winnemucca, 25 miles southwest of Winnemucca, 55 miles northwest of Winnemucca and 65 miles northwest of Winnemucca.

The fires were started Sunday afternoon by lightning. The same storm system started dozens of small fires in the Elko, Nev. area, many of which were doused by rain.

the Raft River Rural Fire Department.

• Kyli Gough with the BLM Twin Falls District said two fires merged into one 7,000-acre blaze Monday near Kamima, which is about 20 miles north of Burley, just north of the Minidoka County Line. The Shale Butte fire was about 2,500 acres while the Flat Top Two fire ballooned from four to 2,000 acres Monday. The two, about eight miles northeast of Kamima, are now referred to as the Flat Top Two Fire. The fire is estimated to be contained at 8 p.m. Wednesday and under control at 8 p.m. Friday.

Now, nine engines, two water tenders, three dozers, two single engine air tankers and one helicopter are battling the fire with help from the West End Rural Fire Department. A group was been sent out to establish a base camp for the fire, Gough said.

• East Hollister: A fire that burned about three miles northwest of Hollister was contained at 10 a.m. Monday and was expected to be controlled at 8 p.m. Monday, according to the BLM update. The fire, which started at about 7:30 p.m. Sunday was assisted by Filer, Salmon Tract and Rock Creek Rural Fire Departments. Those departments have since gone home. No structures were threatened, but the 750-acre blaze came close to some agricultural fields. Six engines and a dozer responded to the fire.

• Hotwell: A 60-acre fire six miles southeast of Declo is expected to be contained at 8 p.m. today and controlled by 8 p.m. Wednesday.

• South Hotwell: This fire is just four acres, burning south of the Hotwell fire. "We're hoping to contain it Monday at 8," Gough said.

• Oakley Reservoir: This fire was about 20 acres and grew to 100 throughout the day. The fire was contained at 100 acres and firefighters expected to have it under control by 10 Monday night. Three engines, one dozer, and one helicopter were battling the blaze.

• IA 15: An engine responded Monday morning to another fire, seven miles east of Hollister to determine what resources were needed to respond. The fire ended being a tree that caught on fire and was quickly put out, Gough said.

• Hannah: A 50-acre fire five miles north of the Nevada border near the Sawtooth National Forest was under control by 10 a.m. Monday.

OBITUARIES

Richard H. Flinn

Oct. 17, 1923-July 23, 2012

CANBY, Ore. • Richard H. Flinn, of Canby, Ore., and formerly of Twin Falls, Idaho, passed on to join his Lord and Savior on Monday, July 23, 2012, after a short illness.

Richard, or Dick, as he was known to his friends and family, was born in Twin Falls, Idaho, on Oct. 17, 1923, to Richard H. and Florence (Hesp) Flinn. He attended Union School and then Twin Falls High School. He joined the Army and served aboard the most decorated hospital ship of World War II, the USHS Marigold. There was a book written about the exploits and the meritorious service of this ship called "A Medal for Marigold." It was a time in his life of which he was always very proud but spoke little of until later years. It was such a joy to his family to watch his expressions when they took him to see the World War II Memorial in Washington, D.C. Finally, it was the time to share all the stories of his experiences aboard that ship and the hundreds of men he was a part of saving.

After the war, he married Ruth E. Johnson, with whom he had been first-grade sweethearts. Their relationship was a beautiful and shining example for anyone who knew them. They were truly soul mates. Dick Flinn was a talented builder of many of the beautiful homes in Twin Falls, Boise and in Sun Valley, Idaho. He loved working with wood and passed that love on to his son and his grandsons.

He is survived by his wonderful wife, Ruth; daughters,

Roberta Flinn of Canby, Ore., and Shannon and Rick Liddell of Dakota Dunes, S.D.; son, Kurt and Ruth Flinn of Meridian, Idaho; grandchildren, Dr. Travis and Angela Liddell of North Carolina, Erin and Jim Schneider of Chicago, Ill., Keri and Jim Pentland of Boise, Idaho, Jennifer Flinn of Meridian and her fiancé, Travis Mankle, and Jason and Rayna Flinn of Meridian, Idaho; and foster granddaughter, Jaque Johnson of Nampa, Idaho. He is also survived by six great-grandchildren; six foster great-grandchildren; and two sisters, Francis Putzier of Twin Falls, Idaho, and Patty Eastman of Mesa, Ariz.

He deeply touched the lives of many around him who still called him dad and grandpa, including Nancy Montana of Canby, Ore., and her son, Phillip Montana. Dick Flinn will always be remembered walking the mountains he loved, effortlessly casting a fly rod over his favorite beaver pond or writing house plans on napkins in a restaurant and then turning the scribbles into a beautiful home or playing tirelessly with his grandchildren. He will be missed by his family and friends but never forgotten.

The family would like to thank the caregivers who cared for dad for the last several years, including Gwen Lyman, Kelly Rain and Susan Jones.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests any remembrances be sent to Oregon Food Bank or the Union Gospel Mission in Portland, Ore.

VanDoren 'Van' Ernest Reed

June 1, 1935-Aug. 2, 2012

CASTLEFORD • VanDoren "Van" Ernest Reed, 77, of Castleford, passed away at his home Thursday night, Aug. 2, 2012.

Van was born June 1, 1935, in Hollywood, Calif., to Ernest and Blanche Reed. He attended school there until the age of 9. With his sister, Sandra, and his parents, they moved to the family farm of his grandparents, Tom and Anna Dell Reed. After graduating from Castleford School in 1953, he attended the Twin Falls Business College. He was in the Buhl National Guard for four years and spent four years in the Army Reserve. He began farming with his father in 1954. After the death of his father in 1957, he continued farming the family farm until his retirement in 1996. Van was known for keeping the farm neat and farm machinery and pickups in excellent condition.

He is survived by his sister, Sandra Helsley; niece, Vicky (Lou) Probasco; nephew, Mark (Kim) Helsley; great-nieces, Samantha (Brad) Hite and Andrea (Eric) Williams and their children, Tyler and Aubrey Hite, and Cheyanne Williams.

A private graveside service will be held at Sunset Memorial Park in Twin Falls, Idaho. Arrangements under the direction of Farmer Funeral Chapel in Buhl.

Keith M. Staker

Nov. 17, 1935-Aug. 2, 2012

HEYBURN • Keith M. Staker, 76, of Heyburn, passed away Thursday, Aug. 2, 2012, at Cassia Regional Medical Center in Burley surrounded by his loving family. In the early hours of that day a call came from the range above for a loving, caring, good-hearted cowboy. Keith was ready to meet that request and left this earth to be with his Heavenly Father.

He was the fourth child of Sherman Gilbert and Cherrizade "Cheddie" Moncur Staker. Keith was born Nov. 17, 1935, in his grandfather's house on a farm near Paul, Idaho. Life as a child during the Depression was a struggle. The young family moved often to find work. Keith often referred to those years as a sequel to the "Grapes of Wrath." Yet, he never complained and considered all of these events as part of the journey. Keith graduated from Heyburn High School in 1955. He worked hard to save money for college and for his marriage to his high school sweetheart, LuDene May, in 1957. From this union, four wonderful children were born, Becky Lynn, Michael Keith, Karen Lee and Lisa Gay.

Keith attended BYU for two years to study American history. Family obligations took top priority, and they moved to Burley to engage in farming. Keith and LuDene later divorced. In 1974, he began his 40-year journey with his wife, Carolyn Sue. They moved to Boise, where Keith started a lengthy career in fertilizer and agriculture sales. He began his career with NH3 in Nampa. He later joined the sales staff at Union Fertilizer and Seed as an agriculture consultant and eventually became a partner in the company. When the company was sold to Land View Fertilizer, Keith remained a sales rep until the age of 72. Keith took great pride in helping his customers meet their agricultural goals. He considered all of them friends.

When he retired, it was his dream to have a ranch near his son so they could farm and ranch together. A farm became available next to Michael's, and he purchased it for his retirement years. His final journey involved building a new home and fixing the ranch to meet his long-term dream. Even though his time was limited, the journey to the destination was worth the wait. Keith and Carolyn enjoyed camping with the kids, traveling, a game of golf, family gatherings and spending time together. He enjoyed fishing and hunting with his brother and his son. They had many fun adventures. Keith was a lifelong member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

He was preceded in death by his parents; his brother, Gib; sister, Jerry; oldest daughter, Becky; and granddaughter, Jamie Lynn, affectionately called "Jim-Bob." Keith is survived by his wife, Carolyn Sue; sister, Janice Bessler; son, Michael (Gayla) Staker; daughter, Karen (Dave) Jenkins; and daughter, Lisa (Doug) Thurman. Also surviving are his grandchildren, Amanda Staker, J.C. (Lindsey) Fuquay, Clint (Hailey) Fuquay, Layth Jenkins and Jackie Thurman; and two great-grandchildren.

Through the years and the tears, we will hold your memory near and dear to our hearts. You were a wonderful husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather. You will be missed by all of us. It is time for us to let you go to a place of peace and comfort. Your cowboy spirit will live with us forever.

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 9, at the Grand View LDS Church in Grand View, Idaho, with Bishop Allen Merrick officiating. Family and friends may call one hour prior to the service.

The family suggests in lieu of flowers, donations may be made to a charity of your choice.

Arrangements have been entrusted to the care of Hansen Mortuary in Rupert, Idaho.

Carrie Alice Bartlett

April 1, 1918-Aug. 5, 2012

BUHL • Carrie Alice Bartlett, 94, of Buhl, passed away at Woodland Assisted Living on Sunday, Aug. 5, 2012.

Carrie was born April 1, 1918, in Gooding, Idaho. Her parents were Hirom and Etta Mink. She had nine brothers and sisters. She was the fifth child. She is survived by sisters, Laura McCabe of Filer and Virginia Bright of Filer; and sister-in-law, Betty Mink of Wendell.

Carrie attended school in Gooding, Idaho. She married Oscar Bartlett on Sept. 7, 1935. They lived at West Point in Wendell, Idaho, farming and raising cattle. They later moved to Buhl, Idaho. Carrie and Oscar had seven children and one stepson. Her first child passed away shortly after he was born. Then they were blessed with a son, Ralph of Alaska. Then all girls, Arlene (John) Kiser of Hagerman, Jackie Jensen (deceased), Maxine (Dean) Haumont of Buhl, Juanita (Jim) DeVall of Rupert and Mary (Barry) Buckendorf of Utah. She was proud of her children's accomplishments and achievements, and thought the world of her sons-in-law and grandchildren.

Our mother will always be remembered for making our school clothes, canning and preparing daily meals. She was such a hard worker and spent all her days raising her family, baby-sitting for everyone plus her grandchildren. She did all this with no complaining. Words cannot express the kindness she gave all of us. She was truly beautiful inside and out. Carrie had 25 grandchildren and lots of great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Oscar; two sons, Alvin and Marvin; daughter, Jackie; granddaughter, Brooke; two grandsons, Joseph and Evan; and daughter-in-law, Joan.

A graveside service will be at 11 a.m. Friday, Aug. 10, at the Wendell Cemetery. A viewing will be from 4 to 7 Thursday, Aug. 9, at Farmer Funeral Chapel in Buhl.

Kathy Marie Stimpson

Aug. 1, 1951-Aug. 5, 2012

BOISE • Kathy Marie Stimpson was born on Aug. 1, 1951, to Don and Jean Watson in Twin Falls, Idaho. Her spirit passed to the next life in a Boise hospital on Sunday, Aug. 5, 2012.

Carrie was survived by her high school sweetheart and husband, Kerry; her five children; 18 grandchildren; both parents; and her six siblings.

Kathy will be remembered most for her kind and generous nature to all around her. She was a very loving wife, mother and grandmother who sacrificed regularly for the happiness of her family. Kathy had many hobbies, talents and interests but foremost was her desire to spend time with her family. She had a love for her Savior, Jesus Christ, and now is able to enjoy his company in the next life. Kathy, your family loves you and will miss you dearly.

A public viewing will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 8, at the chapel she attended weekly of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 5751 S. Five Mile Road in Boise, Idaho. A funeral service will follow at 1 p.m. A graveside service will be held following the funeral at approximately 5 p.m. at the Shoshone Cemetery. Funeral services are under the direction of White Mortuary in Twin Falls.

Having More Retirement Accounts Is Not The Same As Having More Money.

When it comes to the number of retirement accounts you have, the saying "more is better" is not necessarily true. In fact, if you hold multiple accounts with various brokers, it can be difficult to keep track of your investments and to see if you're properly diversified.* At the very least, multiple accounts usually mean multiple fees.

Bringing your accounts to Edward Jones could help solve all that. Plus, one statement can make it easier to see if you're moving toward your goals.

* Diversification does not guarantee a profit or protect against loss.

To learn why consolidating your retirement accounts to Edward Jones makes sense, call your local financial advisor today.

FOOTBALL BEGINS

Lions Embark on Quest to Repeat.

BY DAVID BASHORE
dbashore@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Lighthouse Christian football coach John van Vliet kept a watchful eye over his team during the opening day of fall practice Monday, speaking words of correction and encouragement as he deemed necessary.

The message was identical to this time last year, but there was an added sense of expectation.

That's because a year ago, van Vliet was trying to blend two schools' athletes into one unit following the demise of Magic Valley Christian. On Monday, the reigning champs donned their cleats and hallmark white helmets with a businesslike demeanor.

"We've got a target on us," senior receiver/defensive back Eli Berndt said.

Lighthouse Christian came out of nowhere to win the 1A Division II championship in its first ever trip to the postseason. The Lions won't catch anyone napping in 2012.

That's OK, though. Even though they lose a handful of key components in last year's magical playoff ride, success has brought a couple of new elements to at the Twin Falls private school.

"The guys who were on that team have gotten more confident because we know we can do that," Berndt said. "And there are new guys who are excited to work hard and help the team too."

That added combination, the Lions hope, will gear them up as they work toward their ultimate goal of repeating as champions. It won't be easy. In previous years District IV teams motivated themselves by imagining what perennial power Carey was doing. Now, Lighthouse Christian's name will be plugged into that conversation between coach and player. The Lions seem to be even-keel, and ready for the challenge. "Defending the championship is what we're excited about," sophomore running back/linebacker Adam Taylor said. "This group is jelling together really well, we just need to keep working and getting better."

Burley Rallies for Class A Title

TIMES-NEWS

POCATELLO • Nobody can say Burley didn't earn it.

The Green Sox played two more games than anybody else, fighting their way through the losers' bracket to be the last team standing after they beat Rocky Mountain for the second time in as many days, 8-5 Monday to win the Class A American Legion state championship.

Burley (39-6) was down to its final two outs against the Avalanche, when Jason Boehmer singled home Jake Mills to tie the game. Two batters later Taylor Carson doubled in Boehmer and Jackson Kunz and the Green Sox had precious breathing space.

Mills got the final three outs to kick off celebrations for Burley, which last won the Class A title in 1999, when it also won the regional tournament.

"It was stressful. Your mind works in different ways, saying that we made a heck of a run and that's OK because we're on our seventh game, but you want to win a state championship because no matter what they can't take that away from us," said Burley coach Devin Kunz. "These kids have come a heck of a long way since we got here in 2009 and it's great to see them enjoy this. It's nice to be a district champion and it's nice to have earned a state championship. You can see it in the parents and the community, and it's awesome."

The last local team to win an American Legion state title in either division was Buhl, which won the Class A crown in 2001.

Both teams advanced to this week's Northwest A Regional Tournament, which begins Friday in Burley.

Filer Hoping for Progress in Building Program

BY DAVID BASHORE
dbashore@magicvalley.com

FILER • As the Filer football team went through its group calisthenics in preparation for Monday's season-opening practice session, second-year coach Bill Reynolds was quick to note an increase in player turnout from 2011.

It might not be something for a more established program to hang its hat on, but numbers are an encouraging sign for where Filer wants to go.

The Wildcats didn't win a game last season, and they lost almost all of their most productive players to graduation. But what the team lacks in experience, it hopes to make up for with intangibles.

"We've been out here working hard this summer in the weight room, had 20 to 40 guys five days a week," said varsity newcomer Kaden Fisher.

"This is my last season and we haven't had a good season in what seems like forever, so hopefully we can get some things going this year. I think we've got the leadership pretty much down. We've just stepped up like we were supposed to, and the other kids seem to be listening."

Filer senior Brock Mason

"We've got a lot more kids that are devoted, and kids with heart this year, and that's two good things to have."

That vacuum of senior leadership has been dealt with quickly and authoritatively.

The incoming seniors have had no issue stepping into the gaps left by their predecessors, and the younger kids — looking to someone older to show them how things ought to be done — are gravitating toward the experienced veterans.

"This is my last season and we haven't had a good season in what seems like forever, so hopefully we can get some things going this year," said senior Brock Mason. "I think we've got the leadership pretty much down. We've just stepped up like we were supposed to, and the other kids seem to be listening."

This season's success may not be measured in wins and losses. It's all about building the next few planks in the program's platform.

"Be consistent, ball control and tackling," Fisher said.

Morgan's Last-gasp Strike Stuns Canada

MANCHESTER, England • On the verge of missing the gold-medal game for the first time, the U.S. women's soccer team caught a break when the referee made a call rarely seen in the sport.

Then the Americans put together a final winning surge, inspired by the familiar — a pep talk from co-captain Abby Wambach.

"I know I've said this before," she said she told her teammates during extra time. "But it really does just take one moment and one chance, one moment of brilliance for somebody to do something individually spectacular."

The moment came beyond the 90 minutes of regular time, beyond the scheduled 30 minutes of extra time. In the third and final minute of injury time, with goalkeeper Hope Solo already preparing for a penalty kick shootout, Alex Morgan looped in a 6-yard header on a long cross from Heather O'Reilly, giving the U.S. a 4-3 win over Canada in the Olympic semifinals at Old Trafford.

"I don't have much to say because I need to wrap my head around what just happened," Solo said. "And that's the truth of the matter. We tend to keep things interesting."

Next comes the game the U.S. players have been eyeing for more than a year, a rematch with Japan on Thursday at Wembley Stadium with gold on the line. The top-ranked Americans lost to Japan on penalty kicks in the World Cup final last summer, a stunning blow that became a source of motivation as the players prepared for the London Olympics.

"This is redemption for us," midfielder Carli Lloyd said. "We know how hard it was for us after that game. It hurt us for a really long time."

The Americans overcame three one-goal deficits, all due to Christine Sinclair goals in the 22nd, 67th and 73rd minutes. Megan Rapinoe scored in the 54th and 70th minutes, and Wambach in the 80th for the U.S., leaving Sinclair and Wambach tied at No. 2 with 143 international goals apiece, both chasing Mia Hamm's world record of 158.

It was the sequence that led to Wambach's tying goal that left the Canadians fuming. It started when goalkeeper Erin McLeod was whistled for holding the ball more than six seconds, a call even U.S. coach Pia Sundhage said she had never seen before.

That gave the Americans an indirect free kick inside the area. Rapinoe took the kick and rammed it into the Canadian wall, the ball glancing off the arm of Marie-Eve Nault. Referee Christiana Pedersen of Norway then awarded the U.S. a penalty kick, which Wambach converted off the left post.

McLeod said she did not receive the usual warning from the referee about holding the ball too long, although she said the linesman had told her at the start of the second half not to slow down play.

"I think the referee was very one-sided," McLeod said. "It was an interesting sequence of events. I think we outplayed the Americans the entire game. I think it's unfortunate the calls went the way that they did. Of course, the Americans are a great soccer team, and today we were better, and the luck went their way."

Canada coach John Herdman said he felt the referee also missed a hand ball in front of the U.S. goal.

Suhr Brings Home Pole Vault Gold

LONDON • Jenn Suhr walked with a purpose over to the stands to see her husband...

Yes, they've come a long way together. From training in a pair of huts connected together to form a jumping pit...

Suhr, who won the silver medal in Beijing and has since fought through an Achilles injury and a long, mysterious illness...

"It's very emotional," she said. "It's something you work very hard for for four years. And heartbreak and joy and some more heartbreak."

ever I thought of, I started crying. I knew it was going to be emotional."

She vaulted 15 feet, 7 inches (4.75 meters) to defeat Cuba's Yarisleys Silva...

In men's basketball, Kevin Durant helped the U.S. team put away Argentina with one impressive shooting burst.

Durant scored 17 of his 28 points during the Americans' 42-point third quarter...

Carmelo Anthony made a 3-pointer in the final second of the big third while taking what he and the U.S. bench right behind him felt was a cheap shot...

The Americans (5-0) will play Australia (3-2) in a quarter-final game Wednesday.

Also Monday, American judo fighter Nick Delpopolo apologized after he was expelled from the Olympics for doping...

Delpopolo is the first of the 10,500 London Games athletes to fail an in-competition doping test.

In gymnastics, Gabby Douglas was nowhere near the podium this time. The all-around champion, who also helped the United States to team gold...

"Toward the end of the Olympics, you get mentally and physically tired and you're just like drained," Douglas said. "I tried to fight through it as much as I could."

"The ref, she will have to sleep in bed tonight after watching the replays," Herdman said. "She's gonna have to live with that. We will move on from this. I wonder if she will be able to."

Canada, seeking the country's first Summer Games medal in a traditional team sport since 1936, will play France for the bronze on Thursday at Coventry.

The U.S. team has played in the title match in every Summer Games since women's soccer was introduced in Atlanta in 1996, winning the gold in 1996, 2004 and 2008, and the silver in 2000.

But in many ways this win was reminiscent of the landmark comeback victory against Brazil in last year's World Cup...

With that kind of history, she knew her teammates could rally against the Canadians.

"Even when they scored their third goal, there was something in me that knew that we had more, that we could give more," Wambach said.

The result maintains the Americans' dominance of their neighbor to the north, extending their unbeaten streak against Canada to 27 games (23-0-4).

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on October 30, 2012, at the hour of ten o'clock a.m. of said day, at the offices of the Trustee, Alliance Title & Escrow Corp., 1411 Falls Avenue East, Suite 1315, Twin Falls, Twin Falls County, Idaho, said Trustee will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash in lawful money of the United States of America, all payable at the time of sale, the following described real property situated in the County of Twin Falls, State of Idaho, and described as follows, to wit:
Lot 1 in Block 4 of Bowden Terrace Subdivision, Twin Falls County, Idaho, according to the plat thereof, recorded in Book 11 of Plats, Page 31 in the office of the County Recorder of said County.

The Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above described real property, but for purposes of compliance with Idaho Code Section 60 113, the Trustee has been informed that the street address of 709 DIAMOND DRIVE, KIMBERLY, IDAHO, may sometimes be associated with said real property.

Said sale will be made, without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances, to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the Deed of Trust executed by MICHAEL S. LEE and VICTORIA L. LEE, husband and wife, as Grantor, and ALLIANCE TITLE AND ESCROW, as Trustee, and HOPKINS WESTERN FUND, LLC, an Idaho Limited Liability Company "as trustee for the benefit on a parity for all Series "W" Debenture Holders," as Beneficiary; said Deed of Trust having been filed of record on December 6, 2006, as Instrument No. 2006-030993, Official Records of Twin Falls County, Idaho. The beneficial interest of said Deed of Trust was assigned for purposes of security to IDAHO INDEPENDENT BANK, an Idaho banking corporation, by an Assignment for Security dated September 30, 2009, and filed of record on October 8, 2009, as Instrument No. 2009-022831, Official Records of Twin Falls County, Idaho. The naming of the above Grantor(s) is done to comply with Idaho Code Section 45-1506(4)(a); no representation is made as to the responsibility of Grantor(s) for this obligation.

The default for which the sale is to be made is that a breach of the obligation for which the transfer in trust is security has occurred, in that Grantor has failed to pay property taxes prior to delinquency as required by the Deed of Trust; and Grantor has failed to reimburse Beneficiary for property tax advances in the amount of $1,054.30 advanced on March 27, 2012.

The balance owing as of the date hereof on the obligation secured by said Deed of Trust is the amount of $77,812.74 in principal; plus accrued interest at the rate of ten and one-half percent (10.5%) per annum from April 7, 2012; plus default interest pursuant to the Note at the rate of five percent (5%) per annum from May 14, 2012, until the default is cured; plus the remaining balance of $5,614.67 due under a forbearance agreement; plus service charges, late charges, and any other costs or expenses associated with this foreclosure as provided by the Deed of Trust or Deed of Trust Note, or by Idaho law.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

Bobby Wolff

Director to young man watching the bridge tournament: "Would you care to kibitz, sir?" Young man: "No thanks, I'll just watch."

Anon.

Jeff Rubens and Robert Ewen's latest book, "It's All in the Game," mixes humor and technical material. Here, one of his characters, the doctor, is watching his friend in the South seat when today's deal pops up.

Against four spades, West led the diamond two, an obvious singleton, which was taken by dummy's ace. Declarer cashed the two top hearts to shed a diamond. What would you expect him to do next?

The doctor was surprised to see his friend trump a small heart with the spade eight in hand. Clubs were now led, East winning the king and cashing the diamond queen, on which West discarded a heart. East continued with a third round of diamonds, which South was forced to ruff with the 10.

East won the next club with the ace and played a fourth round of diamonds. Declarer again ruffed high, this time with the jack. He now trumped a club in dummy, played off the ace and queen of spades, and was left with the spade king for the final trick.

The doctor promptly asked about the strange play in hearts at the fourth trick. "Why, it was necessary to make the contract," replied his friend. "Had I not ruffed that heart early in the play, West would have discarded his remaining hearts on the diamonds. On the 12th trick, dummy would be forced to lead a heart. West's spade nine would become a winner en passant."

ANSWER: Your partner's three spades should be initially interpreted as looking for a spade stopper for no-trump. But he may also be cuebidding, looking for slam, about to bid again. Either way, you should have no problem if you cuebid four clubs. Since you limited your hand at your previous turn, your partner won't expect you to have significant extras.

Today is Tuesday, Aug. 7, the 220th day of 2012. There are 146 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On Aug. 7, 1942, U.S. and other allied forces landed at Guadalcanal, marking the start of the first major allied offensive in the Pacific during World War II. (Japanese forces abandoned the island the following February.)

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1782, Gen. George Washington created the Order of the Purple Heart, a decoration to recognize merit in enlisted men and non-commissioned officers.

In 1882, the famous feud between the Hatfields of West Virginia and the McCoy's of Kentucky erupted into full-scale violence.

In 1912, Theodore Roosevelt was nominated for president by the Progressive Party (also known as the Bull Moose Party) in Chicago. New Jersey Gov. Woodrow Wilson accepted the Democratic presidential nomination at his summer home in Sea Girt. Sergei Prokofiev premiered his Piano Concerto No. 1 in D-flat major in Moscow.

In 1927, the already opened Peace Bridge connecting Buffalo, N.Y., and Fort Erie, Ontario, Canada, was officially dedicated.

In 1947, the balsa wood raft Kon-Tiki, which had carried a six-man crew 4,300 miles across the Pacific Ocean, crashed into a reef in a Polynesian archipelago; all six crew members reached land safely.

In 1959, the United States launched the Explorer 6 satellite, which sent back images of Earth.

In 1961, Yale psychology professor Stanley Milgram began conducting his controversial human behavior experiments concerning obedience toward authority figures.

In 1962, President John F. Kennedy awarded FDA official Dr. Frances O. Kelsey the Distinguished Federal Civilian Service Medal for her diligence in blocking approval of thalidomide, a sedative found to cause severe birth defects.

In 1964, Congress passed the Gulf of Tonkin resolution, giving President Lyndon B. Johnson broad powers in dealing with reported North Vietnamese attacks on U.S. forces.

In 1971, the Apollo 15 moon mission ended successfully as its command module splashed down in the Pacific Ocean.

In 1989, a plane carrying U.S. Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Texas, and 14 others disappeared over Ethiopia. (The wreckage of the plane was found six days later; there were no survivors.)

In 1998, terrorist bombs at U.S. embassies in Kenya and Tanzania killed 224 people, including 12 Americans.

Ten years ago: Former ImClone Systems chief executive Samuel Waksal was indicted in New York on charges of obstruction of justice and bank fraud in addition to previous securities fraud and perjury charges. (Waksal later pleaded guilty and was sentenced to more than seven years in prison; he was released in February 2009.) Alvaro Uribe (ooree'-bay) was sworn in as president of Colombia as guerrillas launched a mortar attack in the capital, killing 21 people.

Five years ago: San Francisco's Barry Bonds hit home run No. 756 to break Hank Aaron's storied record with one out in the fifth inning of a game against the Washington Nationals, who ended up winning, 8-6.

One year ago: The Treasury Department announced that Secretary Timothy Geithner had told President Barack Obama that he would remain on the job, ending speculation he would leave the administration. Four adults and three children were killed by a gunman in Copley Township, Ohio; the shooter died in a gunfight with police. Former New York Gov. Hugh Carey, 92, died on Shelter Island, N.Y.

IF AUGUST 7 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You are so talented at handling your money and your business affairs in October that it is one of the very best times to make key financial decisions. Life might seem more glamorous and fantasy filled in late October and early November. You may capture the heart of a new love or just enjoy enriching experiences such as an exotic vacation. Take advantage of lucky breaks and helpful advice in December and January when your guardian angel is watching over everything you do. If something doesn't work out as planned it probably wasn't good for you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Remember to delegate authority. One person can't take care of all the details all the time. Oversee the things you value, but be willing to let someone else handle details that are not crucial to success.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Let the professional you sparkle. When so much energy is devoted to career, business, public appearances and professional image, you might forget that not everyone is a competitor. Give love a chance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Teamwork can mean two people or 10 or 20 people. You might you get the most accomplished when working in a group. Group activities take up plenty of precious time but offer numerous benefits.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Display your high regard for someone with a fabulous flair. Those in close connection may hesitate to display intimacy. Make a public show of affection by sending flowers or holding someone's hand.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Meet a challenge with brains, not brawn. You have a tendency to flirt just for the sake of flirting, but may take it too seriously if you don't get a reaction that you hoped to receive. Don't push your luck.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Success breeds success. Gather assistance from those with an admirable track record or who are associated with achievement. When you engage in a flirtation, you may be may be tempted to spend money.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Head on down that lazy river and take your time. It's a rather good day to get an extra helping hand or minor favors. Wait another day to put major initiatives into action or discuss mutual business goals.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): View opposition as a sign of progress. You can conquer problems once you are aware of them and you are able to find a spot where you can compromise. Honest toil and sportsmanship work wonders.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): There is no impossible mission in your datebook. You will find someone who can lend a helping hand when needed within a group of friends, coworkers or through your family connections.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You can climb the highest mountains, but it can be lonely at the top. You can win top honors through sheer stamina and determination, but must remember to take time out for your friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Stamp out trouble before it starts. Take charge of situations that are smoldering and put the fire out by being straightforward and honest. This is a good time to ask for forgiveness and mend fences.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): To sleep, perchance to dream. You might sense a psychic link with someone who lives far away, has an age difference — or even with someone who is not yet quite in your radar. True love might knock on your door.

Found: Female adult Shih Tzu mix tan with black ears found at Sawtooth apts. in Buhl 8-5-12. Call to identify. If not claimed she will be available for adoption 8-8-12.

Available for Adoption: "Arnie" Male Labrador mix 8 month old puppy. He is already neutered and current with all his vaccinations. This is a great dog. Very mellow, knows commands, leash trained and loves kids & other dogs!

"Ollie" Male Australian Shepherd & Rottweiler mix 5 months old puppy. This is a very sweet pup. Plays well with the other dogs and is starting on his leash training. He is black & tan colored and has a medium coat.

"Cricket" female young adult Min Pin & Chihuahua mix. She is black with tan & white markings. A little shy but once she warms up to you she is a sweet girl.

"Oakley" female Border Collie mix young adult. She is a very nice mature girl. Playful, but not really hyper like the younger dogs. She does know commands and seems to be house broke.

"Jax" male Black Labrador mix about 6-8 months old. He has a little brownish color on his back. Really playful happy guy!

Please if you have been thinking of adopting don't wait. These dogs have been in our shelter waiting for a long time for their forever families.

We are having 10% off of all our black dog adoptions. The adoption fee is $75 and includes spaying/neutering and the first set of vaccinations.

REPAIRS</

DEAR ABBY: I am one of nine employees who work in a jewelry store owned by "Tom" and "Carol," a husband and wife. Tom is having an affair with "Angie," our bookkeeper. I know, because I have heard him talk about it to my co-workers. Carol is suspicious and has approached each of us to ask if anything is going on between them. So far we have covered for them.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

Abby, we are getting tired of covering for our boss. It creates tension to lie to Carol, and personally, I feel a lot of guilt over this.

Some of us have suggested to Angie that she quit, but she has no intention of doing so.

Should we tell Carol what we know, tell Angie's husband, or just keep our mouths shut and continue working in these uncomfortable circumstances?

— UNEASY IN NEW YORK

DEAR UNEASY: I don't blame you for feeling uneasy. You have been placed squarely in the middle. It is unfair for your boss to expect you to lie for him, and equally unfair that his wife is asking you to be her stool pigeon.

Carol probably knows what's what. She shouldn't be putting her employees on the spot to obtain proof that Tom's fooling around. If she questions you again, simply say, "Sorry, I have nothing to say." I assure you, she'll get the message.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with someone who has no manners? A relative of my husband's has been dating a woman for more than a year. They are both in their 30s, and there's a strong possibility they will marry.

Whenever a group of us get together to go out for dinner, on vacation or anywhere, she puts a damper on the entire event. She won't converse (and it's not because she's shy), she never smiles, she just sits with her arms crossed and is absolutely miserable.

She has been to our home for dinner on a couple of occasions. Afterward she gets up from the table and never, ever, says please or thank you. She's the most immature, self-centered, unpleasant human being I have ever met. Even our children comment on her rudeness — in addition to the group of people we go out with. She is even rude to my mother-in-law, but her boyfriend just doesn't see it.

They say that love is blind — but THAT blind? It has reached the point that we don't want to associate with this couple. Would I be out of line to say something to her (particularly when she is in my home) about her lack of manners, and if so — what do you suggest I say? (I know what I'd LIKE to say!)

— FUMING IN DELAWARE

DEAR FUMING: From your description of this unhappy young woman's body language, it is obvious that she's desperately uncomfortable in social situations with you and "the group." It is possible that she suffers from a social phobia of some sort.

Rather than confront her about her "bad manners," make a date to see her alone. Then, in the kindest way possible, try to get her to open up about what's bothering her.

If that doesn't work, then talk to your husband's relative about your concerns. His girlfriend may suffer from emotional problems that could be helped with counseling or medication.

As a last resort, curtail your invitations to them.

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.
