Wildfires Continue to Burn

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Fire crews continued to fight multiple wildfires south-central Idaho across Thursday.

The Minidoka Complex in Cassia County remained of deep concern to fire officials, who reported that a lack of resources caused by the nation's busy fire season set back some of their efforts.

Meanwhile, the Flat Top 2 Fire extended its grasp to cover 135,000 acres of remote desert near Kimama.

Here's what was burning Thursday night:

MINIDOKA COMPLEX FIRES

Cave Canyon: The 30,642-acre fire is burning west of Oakley. The fire remains active, with only 10 percent of it contained as of Thursday; firefighting efforts have been focused so far on protecting private structures.

Deer Hollow: Near the Utah border, the flames have burned 1,500 acres west of Interstate 84. The fire continues to grow in all directions due to a lack of resources to fight it.

Eightmile: This 211-acre fire was contained, and its four smokejumpers moved to help on the Deer Hollow Fire.

Hot Well: Now up to 3,045 acres just six miles southeast of Declo, it is 20 percent contained. Three hand crews were ordered Thursday as difficult terrain hampered

Jerome County, ISP Seize More Marijuana

BY NATE POPPINO

JEROME • Another week, another marijuana grow.

Thursday's find by local law enforcement, however, was a bit un-

The Jerome County Sheriff's Office and Idaho State Police announced Thursday they found a marijuana growing operation tucked in the edge of the Snake River Canyon, at the very southwest end of Jerome County.

The discovery was the product of an ongoing investigation, said Jerome County Sheriff Doug McFall.

"We've been working leads for the last several months, and it finally came together and we located it this morning from the top of the canyon," he said.

In contrast with recent finds hidden in farm fields, this operation was much more sophisticated, Mc-Fall said. An irrigation system fed the plants, which law enforcement could only access via a boat ride and a 1/4- to 1/2-mile hike.

Investigators with the Mini-Cassia Drug Task Force helped McFall's team and ISP seize the plants Thursday. They were still counting them in the late afternoon, but McFall said the grow was sizeable and of high quality with plants as tall as 9 feet.

"For this area, it was a fairly large operation," he said.

Local law enforcement hasn't always had an easy time tracking down marijuana growers. But Mc-Fall said investigators do have leads on the people behind Thursday's grow and have identified suspects. He characterized the growers' methods as still somewhat typical.

"I think they've probably been doing this for years in different locations," he said. "This may be a location used for several years and they never got caught."

But in the Magic Valley, large marijuana fields spring up more often in the middle of farmers' plots than off on their own. In those cases, marijuana growers attempt to sneak their plants into already-irrigated fields, hide them amid crops such as corn, then harvest them before the farmers who own the fields get their own crops.

North Side law enforcement has already seized about 5,300 marijuana plants in recent weeks. On Aug. 1, the Jerome County Sheriff's Office found about 1,100 plants in a corn field while searching for plants in a fixed-wing aircraft. The week before, Idaho State Police received an anonymous tip directing them to more than a dozen growing sites in Gooding County.

Air Waves Get Thinner for Police

TWIN FALLS • A big change is happening across the country affecting law enforcement, firefighters and other emergency responders, but if all goes according to plan, the general public won't notice anything.

Public safety agencies in the Magic Valley have less than six months to become compliant with the new Federal Communications Commission mandate that they switch their communication systems from a wide-band to narrowband system. Traditionally, emergency radio communications have been licensed to operate on 25 kHz. By Jan. 1, 2013, all license holders are required to switch to equipment designed to operate on channel bandwidths of 12.5 kHz or less

Agencies in the four county region served by SIRCOMM are about 95 percent complete in the transition, said SIRCOMM

Kathleen Carr, a dispatcher with the city of Twin Falls, works at the facility on Thursday.

Director John Moore. The majority of the agencies SIRCOMM works with have already switched to the narrowband or have at least upgraded their radios so they can switch later, Moore said.

"We have a few more repeaters that need to be reprogrammed," Moore said of the last phases. He said they should be reprogrammed within the next month or two.

Roadwork Starts at Jerome Intersection

BY JULIE WOOTTON

JEROME • Jerome drivers can expect more road construction over the next couple months.

Traffic rerouting started Thursday for a road reconstruction project at the intersection of South Lincoln Avenue and Nez Perce Avenue. "Because of all the heavy truck traffic through that intersection, the pavement has become rutted," city engineer Rick Wuori said.

Crews are reconstructing the intersection with concrete, which Wuori said will have a longer lifespan.

The project will continue in phases until October. The west half of the intersection is currently closed to traffic.

In addition to reconstructing the road, crews will replace a section of sewer lines in the area that need to be "upsized to meet future needs," Wuori said.

A paving and sewer expansion project on East Nez Perce Avenue is mostly done, with the exception of some clean-up work. The road reopened to traffic Thursday.

Construction continues at the

Suspect Evades Police, Still at Large

BY ALISON GENE SMITH alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A suspect was still at large Thursday after Twin Falls police shut down several blocks on Washington Street South late Wednesday during a search.

Police attempted a traffic stop after an officer recognized John Valenciano Jr. as having a warrant out for aggravated assault with a weapons enhancement, Lt. Craig Stotts said.

The officer reportedly saw Valenciano get out of his Maroon Pontiac Grand Am after parking at the Oasis Stop 'N Go at 820 Washington St. S., Stotts said. Stotts said Valenciano dropped what appeared to be a handgun, picked it up and put it in his waistband before run-

Twin Falls Staff Sgt. Terry Thueson said officers set up a perimeter around an area covering Washington Street South to Grandview Drive and Orchard Avenue to Park Avenue. All officers were recalled from the perimeter by 1 a.m. Thursday.

A woman in the vehicle,

Tiffany Paiz, was arrested ning into a for possession of paraphernearby field. Several ofnalia and an invalid driver's license, Stotts said. responded to the scene and

According to Stotts, Valenciano can be extradited back to Twin Falls from any state in the country and also has a misdemeanor probation violation for shoplifting. He had been arrested and arraigned on the assault charge in March; it wasn't immediately clear at what point the warrant was issued, as online court records show the case as currently sealed.

Valenciano's aggravated assault charge stems from a December alleged home invasion on Main Street in Filer. Crickett Ray, 18, and Brydon Walker, 19, told police they had been attacked by several men who had entered their home. Another woman, Debra Tonihka, 52, was found lying on the ground in the home and Romar Garza, 25, was also present.

Walker told police he invited Garza over and a man he knew as "Juan" had come along.

Later, Tonihka identified Juan as Valenciano.

As the police interviewed the victims, they reported smelling marijuana inside the home. Ray was sentenced to serve two years of probation and Walker was placed in the state's retained-jurisdiction program, after both pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana.

Valenciano was arrested in March on the aggravated assault charge.

Mini-Cassia Men Sentenced to Federal Prison for Trafficking Meth

TIMES-NEWS

POCATELLO • Two Mini-Cassia men received prison sentences Wednesday for trafficking meth.

Chief U.S. District Judge B. Lynn Winmill sentenced Rupert resident Leland Dean Johnson, 31, to 151 months in prison and Burley resident Dean Rivera, 44, to 57 months in prison. Both were ordered to also serve five years of supervised release, and Rivera must also complete 200 hours of community service.

According to plea agreements, Johnson made arrangements to sell meth to an individual on two separate occassions in 2011. During the second transaction, Johnson referred the individual to Rivera, who also sold him meth.

On April 25, both pleaded guilty to the charges.

The indictment was the result of a joint investigation of the Organized Crime and Drug Enforcement Task Force, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives, and the Drug Enforcement Administration.

Part of Tuesday evening's public meeting was used to evaluate the city's budget position over the past 10 months and hear projected funding requests from individual departments. The 2012-13 budget year begins in October.

Early budget figures are not yet available, but that will soon change.

"We'll have a tentative budget by next week, but it'll have to be published for two weeks and then adopted after a public hearing," said Filer City Clerk Shari Hart.

A second budget-building workshop is scheduled for 4 p.m. Monday in the city office council chambers on Main Street.

For agencies that haven't yet switched to the narrowband, Moore said SIR-COMM will continue to support wide and narrow bands for some time. SIR-COMM is also helping to foot the bill of the switch to narrowband and helped out any way they could.

"The majority of all the agencies had problems with the cost of radios," he said. "The four county disaster coordinators were able to assist with homeland security grants to help pay for radios."

While the rest of SIR-COMM-served agencies operate a UHF radio system, Jerome County Sheriff's Office deputies use a 700 mHz trunking system.

Jerome County Sheriff Doug McFall said his system is also ready to make the switch.

"We went ahead and got rid of the radios that don't work with narrowband," he said.

McFall said he used grants and saved money by buying lightly used equipment and was able to buy enough radios for the office's vehicles, command post and base stations.

"All the radios we have that could not be narrowbanded have been replaced," Lt. Craig Stotts with the Twin Falls Police said.

Stotts said the department has known about the deadline for a long time and has been implementing the changes in phases. Along with acquiring the new radios and preparing make the narrowband switch before the new year, Stotts said police have been focusing on improving communication on the north side of the city.

The department had started work preparing for a large radio tower to be placed at the Twin Falls Police Department gun range in northeast Twin Falls to help communications there, Stotts said.

Development on the north side of the city, including multi-story hotels, Walmart and St. Luke's, make it difficult for signals from handheld radios to reach back to dispatch, he said. The goal is to have the tower up and completed by Oct. 1, he said.

Twin Falls County Emergency Management Director Jackie Frey said the county has secured more than $2.5 million in grants to help pay for new radios and other communications equipment for agencies to help them meet the mandate. In order to get the grants, the agencies were required to do training with the National Incident Management System, Frey said.

"Part of that is that they are required to do incident command training and specific training that will support their ability to respond to disasters and work coherently with all partners," she said.

Frey said police, fire and paramedics across the county have worked diligently and proactively to complete the training in order to get the grants.

"Twin Falls County is looking very good," she said.

Frey said she worked closely with large agencies like the City of Twin Falls and smaller ones like Castleford to ensure they were on track to get the new equipment.

In Cassia County, Sheriff Randy Kidd said the dispatch center has been preparing for the change for a couple years and everything is on track so far. Over the past few years, agencies have replaced their radios with new ones that were able to be narrowbanded.

"Most everything is already switched over," Kidd said. "All our repeaters have the capability to switch."

Kidd said agencies in Cassia County contract with a radio service that will make the switch when the time comes.

"They've got it right on track," he said.

Kidd said everything has gone smoothly so far and he doesn't foresee a change in the amount of area able to be covered by the radios.

Delaware Doctor Accused of 'Waterboarding' Daughter

BY RANDALL CHASE Associated Press

DOVER, Del. • A Delaware pediatrician who has appeared on national television to discuss his research involving near-death experiences with children is charged with endangering the life of his own daughter,

Dr. Melvin Morse and his wife, Pauline, were charged with several felony counts Tuesday after their 11-yearold daughter told investigators her father had subjected her to "waterboarding" several times by holding her face under a running faucet.

Acting upon a complaint by the Delaware attorney general's office, state officials on Thursday ordered the emergency suspension of Morse's medical license.

Morse, who has authored several books and articles on paranormal science and near-death experiences, has appeared on shows such as "Larry King Live" and the "The Oprah Winfrey Show" to discuss his research, which also has been featured on an episode of "Unsolved Mysteries" and in an article in "Rolling Stone" magazine.

Morse's Web http://spiritualscientific.co m, is strewn with ramblings about God, love, family and

At the time of Tuesday's arrest, Morse, 58, was out on on misdemeanor charges of assault and endangering the welfare of a charges child. Those stemmed from a July incident in which authorities allege Morse grabbed the 11year-old by the ankle and, as 6-vear-old watched, dragged her across a gravel driveway, took her inside the family's home and began spanking her.

When she was interviewed again Monday, the older girl told investigators that beginning in 2009, her father had disciplined her by what he told her was "waterboarding." State police said the girl was subjected to such punishment at least four times and that her mother witnessed some of the incidents but did not stop them.

Joe Hurley, an attorney representing Morse on charges stemming from the driveway incident, cast doubt on some of the latest allegations.

"Whatever's being described is not waterboarding," said Hurley, who has not spoken to Morse since Tuesday's arrests. "I think that's an attention-getter. I'm not sure where that came from or how that developed."

Hurley said the 11-year-old has some "opposition issues" and had complained to her parents several years ago about being abused by a half-sibling. He said the parents contacted authorities and the half-sibling was arrested, but that the girl confessed months later that the incident never happened and that she just didn't want the half-sibling living in the Melvin Morse was being held Thursday on $14,500 secured bail. His wife was released previously on $14,500 unsecured bail. Both were ordered to have no contact with their two daughters or with each other. They face a preliminary hearing on Aug.

OPINION

"I actually like the name because I do care. That's why we fought so hard to make it happen."

President Barack Obama on how his health care plan is referred to as "Obamacare."

OUR VIEW

100 Years of Head, Heart, Hands and Health

Editor's note: Do you have 4-H memories to share? Email them to Editor Autumn Agar at aagar@magicvalley.com and we'll run them in the Sunday Ag section.

The mission statement of 4-H proclaims that "4-H empowers youth to reach their full potential; working and learning in partnership with caring adults."

Although it existed in some form prior to 1912, this organization was first called 4-H one hundred years ago. Now having nearly 90,000 clubs and more than six million members in the United States, county fair season seems to be the very best time to honor their history and appreciate the impact they have on thousands of south central Idaho youth — and adults.

In the past week, the Times-News published a column and numerous "fair" articles that succinctly illustrate the value of 4-H. Last Sunday, in a column written by W. Lenore Mobley, she reminisced about her 4-H experience when she was a girl - 64 year ago. She fast-forwarded to the '70's when she was a 4-H leader. "For several years," Mobley wrote, "I enjoyed teaching these neighborhood girls. Out of this club came an avid seamstress, a horticulturist, a photographer, a teacher and a horse trainer/rider. My rewards were many."

A day earlier in a story about the Minidoka County Fair we told the story of 18-year-old Staci Branaum who returned from her first year at college to help out. "After being in 4-H for nine years," Branaum said, "I guess it's just habit."

These two examples — from a 77-year-old and an 18-year-old — present a microcosm of the 4-H experience, and provide solid evidence that the mission of "empowering youth to reach their full potential" is much, much more than a slogan. It's what 4-H really is.

We encourage you to visit a nearby county fair in the next couple weeks and witness 4-H members in action. Without them, none of the nearby fairs would exist as we've come to enjoy them. As fairgoers, you may have seen 4-H-ers for years without really seeing them.

This year, stop and take a minute to see them — and watch them - and appreciate them. A century of service to our communities deserves to be acknowledged.

Papa John's Founder Warns Obamacare Will Lead to Price Spikes

s a New Yorker born and raised, I can't officially approve of national chain pizzas. But if you must order one, Papa John's is clearly the best. And the chain's CEO, John Schnatter, is not only raising money for Mitt Romney, he's warning that Obamacare will cause your pizza-eating experience to suffer:

On a conference call last week, Schnatter said the health care law's changes — set to go into effect in 2014 - will result in higher costs for the company – which they vowed to pass onto consumers.

"Our best estimate is that the Obamacare will cost 11 to 14 cents per pizza, or 15 to 20 cents per order from a corporate basis," Schnatter said. Stipulating for a moment Matthew Yglesisas that this is true, doesn't it seem like a rather small price to pay? Papa John's website is currently offering to deliver me a large pepperoni pizza for $14.08 and Schnatter is warning me that the problem with Obamacare is... a onetime price increase of less than I percent! That seems eminently reasonable.

What's more, it's well within the range of the kind of price swings Papa John's is going to have to expect just based on the vagaries of the weather, which impacts the price of ingredients, and the ups and downs of the oil market. There's just nothing there.

People are Often Stronger than They Realize

Ann Lancaster's July 23 Times-News letter states, "It's recommended to not run scared when the wolf arrives ... our wonderful state of Idaho is near the top of ratings for suicide in our nation ... What would be the harm to have more encouraging stories in our Times-News?"

Why is Idaho's suicide rate so high, especially among teenagers? There are many reasons for this, but amazingly, there are no public discussions about even the most basic physical, emotional or external causes. Not knowing them keeps people unhappy from the very beginning, and it becomes generational.

During the first two dozen years of my life, I was often frightened, hungry, homeless, because different breeds of twolegged wolves were always chewing on me. I overcame seemingly impossible odds with patient loneliness. Eventually, I clawed myself out that man-made hell, singlehandedly, even though there was no one to console or mentor me. Suffering strengthened me physically, emotionally, spiritually.

Psychotherapist Belleruth Naparstek concluded in "Invisible Heroes" that some trauma survivors gain joy, compassion, generosity, heightened creativity, survivor power and spiritual connection. I am convinced such a connection has often guided me. I have addressed diverse audiences and visited with hundreds of patients with physical or emotional problems. Many people can be much stronger than they real-

After reading my memoir, "Heroes from the Attic: A Gripping True Story of Triumph," an Idaho juvenile probation officer emailed me: "You changed my thinking where juvenile offenders are concerned. Every day now, I reflect either consciously or subconsciously that my clients chose to commit their crimes and often blame their circumstances for their crimes, rather than their own free will. When I find myself making excuses for them, I now remind myself that there are many of us, who, despite our dismal childhoods, chose not to engage in criminal activity."

Wildfire Sparks Voluntary Evacuation South of Hansen

TIMES-NEWS

Due to imminent threat from the Cave Canyon Fire, the Twin Falls and Cassia County sheriff's departments are implementing a voluntary evacuation of the residents and recreationists in Rock Creek Canyon and Dry Creek Road from Foot Hills Road south.

The voluntary evacuation applies to the areas near 2900 North, south of Hansen, shortly after 10 p.m., according to emergency dispatchers. Campgrounds south of Hansen and Murtaugh were being closed late Thursday night and all nonessential traffic to the South Hills was being cut off.

Scanner traffic indicated people who evacuated were meeting at the Rock Creek General Store.

Lori Stewart with the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Office said county Emergency Management was trying to arrange a place for evacuated people to go.

Harley Davidson and Bicycles to be Given Away in 'Paul Palooza'

PAUL • The Paul City Council discussed Tuesday how a shiny Harley Davidson is one of the many prizes available at the annual Paul Palooza celebration, being held at the Paul Community Park, at 637 West Ellis St., Aug. 25.

The Harley will be donated by Leonard and Betty Martin in memory of their late daughter, Brenda Williams.

Public Works Director Rich Rau said there will also be a bicycle giveaway, a meal including a potato bar, kettle corn, snow cones and baked goods for sale. The meal will be offered with a free will donation expected.

Rau said the park is nearing completion after 5 years of hard work, fundraising and grant acquisition. Many donations have been given so far, and many more are still needed. The council discussed progress on the park, with the restrooms moving toward a completion goal of September. The splash park is due for completion Oct. 15 and the sewer Nov. 1.

Rau also made known that there would be a day and night golf fundraiser, with the proceeds going to the community park, to take place September 15. He recommended cleaning the water tank, something which is done every few years, which council approved.

The mayor was absent from the meeting due to firefighting, with numerous forest fires burning in the area. Attorney Kent Fletcher stated that in regards to the budget, the yearly expenditures were $18,000 less than last year.

"We haven't had new beds in years," he said. "We're really appreciative of this gift."

Cordier is one of the 12 Magic Valley organizations that received a grant from First Federal Charitable Foundation on Thursday. The foundation distributes grants twice a year.

This year's first round of grant amounts varied from $1,200 to $4,500. The total amount given was more than $30,700, leaving $30,000 to be distributed in December.

The money will go on to fund appliances, sound equipment and renovation projects, said Rex Lytle, chairman of the foundation's board of directors.

The Jerome Public Library plans on using its $1,995 to purchase a DVD/CD cleaning machine, said Patty Metcalf, library director.

"DVDs and CDs only make up 5 percent our total collection but they are 30 percent of our monthly check outs," she said. "When something comes back damaged, we have had no choice to throw it out and replace or remove it from our collection. Now we don't have to do that."

Obama Reassures Family of Efforts to Free Bergdahl

BY JOHN MILLER Associated Press

BOISE • President Barack Obama called the parents of an American prisoner of war to assure them that he and the U.S. Department of Defense were doing everything in their power to free Army Sgt. Bowe Bergdahl three years after his capture in Afghanistan.

The soldier's father, Bob Bergdahl, told The Associated Press on Thursday through a spokesman that the family is now confident that everything that can be done to return their son to U.S. control is being done.

"The president reassured us of that," Bob Bergdahl said, in a message relayed through Idaho National Guard Col. Tim Marsano.

An administration official, speaking on condition of anonymity because he wasn't authorized to discuss the matter publicly, confirmed separately that called Obama Bergdahls on Memorial Day weekend.

The president contacted Bob Bergdahl and his wife, Jani Bergdahl, weeks after they expressed frustration that the U.S. government wasn't doing enough to secure their son's freedom. In early May, the Bergdahls complained the president hadn't contacted them personally following their son's capture.

But on May 27 - the weekend he was contacted by Obama - Bob Bergdahl told an annual holidayweekend motorcycle rally held in Washington, D.C., on behalf of POW/MIA awareness that he was pleased with the U.S. government's efforts to bring his son home.

A Garden Tool for Every Job

by Alex Russel, All About Lawns Columnist

What's in a Name? The right lawn and garden tools can help make gardening the enjoyable hobby it was meant to be. You don't need to settle for a broken down or useless tool when there are so many functional and handy garden tools available to fit any budget.

Here's a list of five helpful lawn and garden tools that you really can't afford to be without.

1. Lawn Edger. Draw the line with a lawn edger. Without this tool, the line between your lawn and sidewalk or driveway will look raggedy. You don't need a fancy or high-tech lawn edger. In the case of this garden tool, low tech is fine. You'll want a lawn edger that's easy to use and gives you a sharp, clean line between the lawn and pathway.

2. Garden Cart. If your broken-down wheelbarrow is on its last wheels, or if you detest gardening just because of the heavy lifting, a garden cart could give you a new lease on life. This convenient carry-all is big enough to transport all of your shovels and hand tools, several potted plants, or a bunch of lawn debris. Garden carts are much more stable than wheelbarrows. A good garden cart can handle uneven terrain, roots, and curbs without tipping.

3. Garden Shears. Select a pair of garden shears that fit comfortably in your hand. Garden shears, sometimes called clippers, are used for pruning, shaping, and removing foliage or branches. You don't need to buy the most expensive shears, especially if you're new to gardening, but do be sure that the ones you choose can hold up to fairly thick foliage.

4. Fertilizer Spreader. This is a must-have tool for anyone the least bit interested in having a green lawn. The good news is that there are plenty of effective fertilizer spreaders for under $50.00. Hand spreaders work well for most home applications of fertilizer, and some even have shoulder straps to make the job easier. Broadcast spreaders can be wheeled around the yard and are good for larger areas.

5. Round Point Shovel. The round point shovel is perhaps the most versatile and widely used shovel. You can use it to dig, scoop, or shovel dirt from one point to another. These come in various sizes, with smaller sizes available for smaller gardeners (time to get those kids out there and working!). You can plant a tree and move landscaping materials from point A to point B with a good round point shovel.

Top-ranked Eagles Begin Fall Practice

BY DAVID BASHORE dbashore@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • With so many returners and a No. 1 preseason ranking, it was only natural that the College of Southern Idaho volleyball team's first official practice would be a meatgrinder. By normal first-practice standards, Thursday's workout was intense. But that's just the expectation, and while one three-hour stretch is too small a sample size to make a definitive conclusion, the players look up for the challenge.

"You looked at that 2010 team, and they came in trying to follow the 2009 (championship) team and got the No. 1 (preseason) ranking, and they were like, 'How are we ever going to live up to that?' This team embraces it," said CSI coach Heidi Cartisser. "It's just different this year. They're hungry and they're ready to demand excellence."

From the moment the team left for its retreat Monday, players said, there started a bond that they hope will lead them to preserve their No. 1 ranking from wire to wire.

"I just think we're more comfortable with each other this year, where last year we were all quiet and trying to get to know each other and it took us a long time to mesh," said sophomore outside hitter Emily Ottinger. "We knew finishing sixth last year, that we could do better, and we're excited to get a chance to show it."

All of that should translate to more on-field success, but what really opened the team's eyes to its potential was a trip to Gold Beach, Ore., for its team camp and mini-passing league tournament. Obviously passing league and the regular season are two entirely different animals, but Wendell's performance against the reigning Oregon 2A champions - Gold Beach has two titles and four championship appearances in the last five seasons – has given the Trojans cause for optimism despite winning two games in

"We have a pretty good start going, and going to Gold Beach was pretty exciting," quarterback Alex Swainston said. "It showed us a lot and how good we can be this year, instead of last year when we weren't too good." An added benefit to Wendell's trip was playing against 4A Brookings-Harbor, which plays in Oregon's third-highest classification. The Trojans equated Brookings-Harbor's offense to that of Melba, Wendell's season-opening opponent Aug. 24.

"I think we can step up and play well against that kind of offense," Bowers said.

GOODING • Even at the Class 3A level, things are looking up for the Gooding football program.

The Senators are back after two years at the Class 2A level, their last season finishing with a state quarterfinal loss to eventual champion Grangeville.

But they built on that experience and brought back most of the principals from that team, adding even a few more kids, in part due to the excitement of the program's trajectory.

"We've had a good productive summer, a lot of kids out, and that's a great thing for us," junior lineman Cole McGinnis said.

To call McGinnis' summer productive might be an understatement. He visited several regional colleges' Junior Day camps, as well as the Northwest Elite Football Camp in June.

"It's fired me up a lot with the camps I've been to this summer, and the competition I saw there, it helps me get a lot better," he said.

Unusually, it's a lineman that's the standout in Gooding's preseason camp, and that's even considering the glut of talent the Senators have returning from last year's team.

The returning group has Gooding thinking about making state in its first year back in the 3A ranks, and some dare to dream of winning the Sawtooth Central Idaho Conference championship in its first year back in the conference. While there's a gap between 2A and 3A play in some districts, District IV hasn't seen a huge difference at the top end over the last few years. With Kimberly and Buhl both losing key players from last season's playoff teams, it could be setting up for the Senators to at the very least make things interesting.

"We've got a lot of guys back and we think we can make it to the playoffs," said running back Kyle Rison. "We just need to win a couple conference games, and hopefully we can win the

The U.S. women's soccer team won its third straight Olympic gold medal Thursday, beating Japan 2-1 in a rematch of last year's World Cup final and avenging the most painful loss in its history.

Carli Lloyd scored early in both halves, Solo leaped and dived to make saves, and the entire roster found the redemption it had been seeking since that penalty kick shootout loss in Germany last summer.

Before 80,203 at Wembley Stadium, a record crowd for a women's soccer game at the Olympics, the teams put on a back-and-forth, don't-turn-your-head soccer showcase, proving again that these are the two premier teams in the world.

Women's soccer is still in its formative stages in Britain, but the match proved more than worthy for the hallowed grounds of the beautiful game.

And the Japanese perhaps played just as beautifully as the Americans, using their speed and discipline to dominate possession and scoring chances for long stretches before finally cutting a 2-0 deficit in half with about a half-hour to go.

Idaho Connections Finish up at Olympic Games

TIMES-NEWS STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

LONDON • Rotten luck was the story of the day Thursday for the final two Olympians with Idaho connections.

Bishop Kelly alumnus Nick Symmonds ran a personal-best time of 1 minute, 42.95 seconds, as well as finishing ahead of 2011 world indoor champion, Ethoipia's Mohamed Aman.

LONDON • When the stakes are the biggest, the spotlight most bright, Usain Bolt is as good as gold.

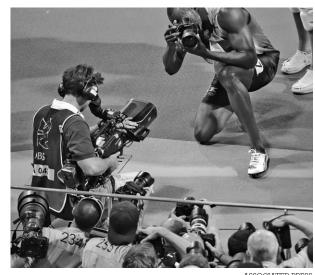

Good as there's ever been. Putting the field far enough behind that he could slow up over the last few strides and put his left index finger to his mouth to tell any critics to shush, Bolt won the 200 meters in 19.32 seconds Thursday night, making him the only man with two Olympic titles in that event.

He added it to the 100 gold he won Sunday, duplicating the 100-200 double he produced at the Beijing Games four years ago. The only difference? In 2008, Bolt broke world records in both.

This time, Bolt led a Jamaican sweep, with his training partner and pal Yohan Blake getting the silver in 19.44, and Warren Weir taking the bronze in 19.84 more than a half-second behind the champion.

"The guy is just on another planet right now," Wallace Spearmon, the American who finished fourth in 19.90, said between sobs of disappointment.

Afterward, Bolt had plenty of energy left, dropping to the track to do five pushups one for each of his Olympic gold medals so far. Ever the showman, he bent down and kissed the track, then did it again a few minutes later, and also grabbed a camera from someone in the photographers' well and Usain Bolt is one of four men to sweep the 100, 200 and 4x100 relay in a single Olympics, and if Jamaica can defend its gold medal in the relay, he will become the first man to do it twice. The other male Olympians — all Americans — to capture triple gold in the sprints:

He did all those things? And even if Bolt didn't manage to break his own world records at these Olympics (his 9.63 Sunday was the second-fastest 100 in history, behind only his 9.58 from 2009), he certainly has managed to reinvent sprinting.

Unusually tall for a sprinter, the 6-foot-5 Bolt towered over the 5-11 Blake and 5-10 Weir as they posed together with Jamaican flags after their 1-2-3 finish. Bolt uses his long, long strides to propel himself past opponents. The sixth-fastest of eight entrants out of the blocks in the 200, he had made up the stagger on at least two other finalists before the turn.

Ottinger joked about finally being one of the short ones at 6-0, but it's certainly a great problem to have.

"It's going to help us have a huge block and let us hit over the other team's block a lot of the time," said the 6foot-4 Bierma, a Portland State University transfer. "To come from a program where it's going to be tough to make the national tournament and go to one that's one of the teams that could win it, it's exciting. We can't wait to get started?

Yuki Ogimi answered in the 63rd minute, and Asuna Tanaka nearly had the equalizer in the 83rd – only to be thwarted when Solo flung her entire body to the left to push the ball The U.S. team has won four of the five Olympic titles since women's soccer was introduced at the 1996 Atlanta Games, settling for mere silver at the 2000 Games in Sydney. In the first half, Japan was unfortunate not to have a penalty kick awarded for a clear hand ball by U.S. midfielder Tobin Heath, who stuck out her left arm to stop a free kick inside the area.

Japan also had two shots hit the crossbar, one off the left hand of a leaping Solo, who was kept consistently busy for the first Lloyd extended the lead with a 20-yard right-footer just inside the left post after a long run with the ball through the middle of the Japanese defense.

Ogimi soon cut the deficit to one after a mad scramble in front of the net. Captain Christie Rampone saved a shot off the line, but the ball went to Homare Sawa, who fed Ogimi for the tap-in.

Another scramble followed after U.S. defender Amy LePeilbet saved yet another shot off the line in the 74th minute, but this time her teammates were able to corral the ball before a Japanese player could pounce on it. Boxx was back into the

GORDON'S GLEN HOPES RENEWED

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. • Since a blown engine knocked him out of the Daytona 500 to start the Sprint Cup season, it's taken Jeff Gordon 20 races to drive into contention for NASCAR's postseason.

And he's there, finally. After notching his first victory of the season last week at Pocono, Gordon holds one of two wild cards and would make the 10-race Chase for the Sprint Cup championship if it began this week.

"I don't think a lot of people have really even put much emphasis and recognize, other than ourselves, how consistently we've been top-five, top-10 the last eight weeks," Gordon said as he turned his focus to Sunday's race on the road course at Watkins Glen. "That's what's moved us up into the position we're in. That's what put us into position to win that race."

It's been a rough road for the four-time Cup champi-

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jeff Gordon isn't No. 1 in the Sprint Cup points standings just yet, but with the way the four-time Cup champion has raced as of late, including winning his first race of the season Sunday at Pocono, he is in prime position to make the Chase field.

on, who has run up front much of the season only to see his team's efforts go for naught. Through the first 14 races of the 36-race season, Gordon's average finish was an uncharacteristic 20.714, placing him outside the top 20 in points.

Two wild cards for the Chase are awarded to the drivers with the most wins outside the top 10, but only those in the top 20 are eligible.

Before his 86th career win last week - he finally had a stroke of luck when leaders Jimmie Johnson and Matt Kenseth tangled on a restart and Gordon slipped past unscathed into first, getting the victory when rain prevented the completion of the race -Gordon was an afterthought at best to make the Chase.

It's the wackiest season he's had since becoming a full-time Cup driver in 1993:

• In March at Bristol, the exhaust on teammate Dale Earnhardt Jr.'s car cut a tire on Gordon's No. 24 Chevrolet and Gordon limped home

• Only half a lap from winning at tiny Martinsville in April, he was wrecked during a green-white-checkered finish and ended up 14th despite leading 328 laps.

• Gordon won the pole at Talladega, but a late crash doomed him to a 33rd-place

• At Darlington, Gordon, third all-time with seven wins at the tricky egg-shaped speedway, had two flat tires and came home 35th.

 Seemingly in the clear of a late accident at Daytona a month ago, Gordon was hit from behind while heading to pit road but salvaged a 12thplace finish.

Instead of conceding, Gordon and his Hendrick Motorsports team have persevered despite more than a few tense moments between Gordon and crew chief Alan Gustafson.

"When you go through something like that, it really tests you," said Gordon, who's reeled off six top-six finishes in seven races. "It tests every aspect of the team, personalities. It either pulls you apart or it brings you closer together. It's brought us closer and stronger together."

Watkins Glen International's high-speed, 2.45-mile layout with its 11 turns has been both good and bad to Gordon, the all-time leader in NASCAR with nine road course victories. He has four wins - second to Tony Stewart's five triumphs six top-fives, nine top-10s, and two poles.

Although Gordon's last victory at The Glen was in 2001, he's been in contention since, most memorably in 2007. Gordon led 51 of the race's 90 laps and was two car-lengths ahead of Stewart with just two laps remaining, but a classic battle between NASCAR's two most successful road racers disappeared in the blink of an eve. Gordon spun off course on his own entering the first turn of lap 89 and finished ninth as Stewart celebrated in Victory Lane.

Daly Makes Surprise Showing on Leaderboard

ASSOCIATED PRESS

KIAWAH ISLAND, S.C. • There are plenty of people rooting for John Daly to continue his latest surprise run at the PGA Championship, including another big-hitter in Tiger Woods.

Daly dusted off his long drives and showed the touch around the greens that won him two majors, including his breakthrough victory in the 1991 PGA, shooting a 4-under 68 on Thursday to finish two strokes behind early leader Carl Pettersson.

The 46-year-old Daly has lived off sponsor invites as he shuttles between the PGA and European tours. Recently, though, he has felt his game improve enough that he isn't that surprised by his round at The Ocean Course.

"I've been playing good, just trying to keep it at my own pace, just be myself and play golf," said Daly, coming off a five-place tie for fifth last week in the Reno-Tahoe

That's always been good enough for some, like Woods, who was just 13 when he first played with Daly. Tiger was in awe of Big John's power even then, sharing a story of a midiron, uphill, par-5 shot that Woods swore hit the center of the green and bounced out of bounds.

"I've never seen anybody hit the ball that hard," said Woods, who has some length to his game, too.

Daly used his length to navigate the 7,676-yard layout by 2 yards the longest in major championship golf — and a short game that kept him near the top. He briefly gained a share of the lead at 4 under with an eagle on the par-5 11th, then gave back a stroke a past might have unnerved Daly for additional mistakes.

This time, Daly held firm with two more birdies on the way in. He saved par from left of the green on the difficult 18th, rolling in a 12-footer to stay two behind Pettersson.

It was only the third time in his past 29 rounds at the PGA Daly qualifies as a past champion - that he has broken 70. He hasn't made the cut since 2007 or finished better than 32nd since gaining the Wanamaker Trophy 21

"It's just a course I feel I've got to take it on," Daly said.

One thing he hasn't lost is his popularity with fans. He had almost as many followers as Woods and the cheers for his good shots were just as loud. "I saw John Daly was up near the top," South Carolina Gov. Nikki Haley said. "That's exciting."

Daly thinks people plug into his struggles - the relationship problems, the gambling, the run-ins with authority because they've been there in some fashion, too. When Daly has the driver going, it's a magic his fans feel as well.

"Everybody's life is up and down. It's how we battle to get through it," Daly said. "I think people relate to that."

Woods could relate even as a teenager still unsure of his golf game. Woods and Daly were paired in third round of an event at the Texarkansa Country Club in 1989. Teen Tiger, all of 107 pounds then, was 3-under par at the turn and four in front of Daly, who'd driven all night from his home in Blytheville to play. Daly turned up his game down the stretch, finishing with birdies on three of the last four holes to shoot a 70 – two strokes better

Dale Olson, Hollywood Publicist, Dies at 78

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) • Veteran Hollywood publicist Dale Olson, who represented such Hollywood legends as Marilyn Monroe, Gene Kelly and Alfred Hitchcock, and such current A-listers as Clint Eastwood, Shirley MacClaine and Steven Spielberg, is dead at age 78.

Spokesman Harlan Boll said Olson died early Thursday at a Burbank hospital after a long battle with cancer. Despite his struggle, Olson continued working until recently.

Perhaps Olson's most notable role was as the spokesman for Rock Hudson during the actor's widely publicized, ultimately fatal bout with AIDS in 1985. Olson is also credited with helping to launch the "Rocky," "Rambo," "Superman" and "Halloween" film franchises. He led numerous winning Oscar campaigns and was active in the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences and The Actors Fund.

Other Hollywood greats represented by Olson included Steve McQueen, Laurence Olivier, Tony Curtis and more.

Russian Theater Director Fomenko Dies at 80

BY VLADIMIR ISACHENKOV Associated Press

MOSCOW (AP) • Pyotr Fomenko, a renowned Russian stage director who founded one of Moscow's leading theaters, has died. He was 80.

Fomenko, who staged more than 60 plays in Russian and foreign theaters during his career, died Thursday in Moscow, his theater said. The cause of death wasn't immediately known.

Fomenko began his career as an actor in 1958. He became a director in the 1960s, staging performances at several Moscow theaters.

Some of his productions were banned by Soviet authorities for being politically provocative. He moved to then-Soviet Georgia and then to Leningrad in the 1970s, eventually taking the helm of the Leningrad Comedy Theater in the 1970s, but lost the job in 1981 after another fallout with authori-

In 1993 Fomenko founded his own theater, building a troupe from students at Moscow's theater academy, where he also worked as a teacher. The Pyotr Fomenko Workshop Theater quickly became popular thanks to his innovative approach to works by Shakespeare, Chekhov and other classics. The company performed at different Moscow locations before finally moving into its own quarters in 2000.

He was highly regarded by colleagues, who admired his vision and wit and praised him as a pioneer who took Russian theater to a new level. Even with his achievements, Fomenko said that he saw failure as a challenge and valued it more than success. "A failure is sometimes more useful and more important both as a survival test and a source of feeling for drama," he said in a recent documen-

He said his job sometimes gave him "moments of pure happiness when tears would well up in my eyes."

President Vladimir Putin expressed his condolences, saying that Fomenko was "one of the leading figures in Russian and international theater" and calling his death an "irreparable loss?"

Funeral arrangements weren't immediately known.

Google Hit with Record $22.5M Fine

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) • Google is paying a $22.5 million fine to settle the latest regulatory case questioning the Internet search leader's respect for people's privacy and the integrity of its internal controls. The penalty announced Thursday by the Federal Trade Commission matches the figure reported by The Associated Press and other media outlets last month. It's the most that the FTC has ever fined a company for a civil violation.

The rebuke resolves the FTC's allegations that Google Inc. duped millions of Web surfers who use Apple Inc.'s Safari browser.

Google assured people it wouldn't monitor their online activities, as long as they didn't change the browser settings to permit the tracking.

Google broke that promise, according to the FTC, by creating a technological loophole that enabled the company's DoubleClick advertising network to shadow unwitting Safari users. That tracking gave DoubleClick a better handle on what kinds of marketing pitches to show them. The FTC concluded the contradiction between Google's tracking and its privacy assurances to Safari users violated a vow that the company made in another settlement with the agency in October.

The latest settlement doesn't affect a separate FTC inquiry over whether Google is abusing its dominant position in Internet search to highlight its services over rivals and drive up advertising prices.

The company acknowledged that DoubleClick was tracking Safari users, but insists the monitoring wasn't by design.

All Google wanted to do, according to the company, was create a way for Safari users to press on a button to signal they recommended an ad. Google said it didn't realize its tinkering altered Safari's automatic privacy settings in a way that allowed for broader surveillance.

Rare WWII Naval Dispatch to be Auctioned

MILLVILLE, Pa. (AP) • Chief Yeomen Robert W. York knew he was clutching a piece of history as he hurried to find his boss aboard the USS Holland, which was trolling the Pacific days after the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

In his possession was a dispatch from President Harry S. Truman's navy secretary, dated Aug. 15, 1945, that read: "All hands of the United States Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard may take satisfaction in the conclusion of the war against Japan."

Japan had surrendered. World War II was over. York and his mates could go home.

York kept that historic 8inch-by-6.5-inch piece of paper in a shoebox for the next six decades. He died in February at age 91, and now his son is auctioning it off in Pennsylvania on the 67th anniversary of V-J Day, the end of the war with Japan.

"It was the most treasured of all the things he had," said Bob York, 65. "He viewed this as not being a piece of paper; he viewed this as saving his life and hundreds of thousands of other men's lives. It was like salva-

Canadian fishermen boiling mad over Maine lobsters.

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) •

Tensions between lobstermen in Maine and Canada are boiling over in a dispute caused not by too few lobsters, but by too many.

A huge and potentially record-breaking haul in Maine and Canada this year caused a crash in wholesale prices. Fearing for their livelihood, Canadian fishermen in the past few days have angrily blocked truckloads of Maine lobsters from being delivered to processing plants in Canada that turn out lobster products for U.S. supermarkets and restaurants. Unless something is done to prop up the price of lobster, "we'll go down the hole," warned Eugene Robichaud, a fisherman in Richibucto, New Brunswick.

The blockades have brought Canada's lobsterprocessing industry to a nearstandstill, put thousands of $% \left\{ 1,2,\ldots ,n\right\}$ employees out of work, sent shockwaves through Maine's lobster industry and led to calls for Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton to intervene.

Portland lobsterman Greg Griffin said he gets $2.35 a pound for his catch, a dollar less than a year ago.

"At what point is going out and bringing in lobster no longer viable?" he

The dispute isn't expected to have any immediate effect on lobster prices in the United States. National restaurant chains such as Red Lobster that buy processed lobster typically make their purchases and determine their menu prices far in advance.

But the troubles shine a light on the workings of the lobster business in North America's cold northern waters, and the way Maine's industry and Canada's depend on each other.

New Book Details Soviet Plans for Germ Warfare

THE WASHINGTON POST

In the Soviet playbook for allout war with the United States, the wasting of U.S. cities by nuclear bombs was to be followed by something equally horrifying: waves of plagues to kill any survivors. Soviet scientists spent decades preparing for the second attack, concocting new kinds of biological weapons.

None of these weapons were used during the Cold War, but a new book suggests the dangers posed by the program never abated. The authors reveal details about the achievements of Soviet weapons scientists from multiple-drug resistant anthrax to "stealth" bugs that elude detection and they say the strains probably still exist inside the freezers of military laboratories inside Russia.

The book also suggests that U.S. intelligence operatives may have inadvertently fueled the Soviets' experimentation with germ warfare, in part by spreading false stories that convinced communist leaders that the United States was also secretly making such weapons after the U.S. program was officially halted in 1969.

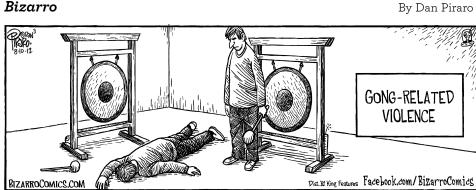

At minimum, Soviet officials appear to have increased production of an anthrax weapon because they falsely believed that the United States was doing the same, contend the authors of "The Soviet Biological Weapons Program," an, 890-page history of the Soviet Union's 65-year effort to develop the tools for germ warfare

Is Liking Something on Facebook Protected Free Speech?

BY JUSTIN JOUVENAL The Washington Post

Daniel Ray Carter Jr. logged on to Facebook and did what millions do each day: He "liked" a page by clicking the site's thumbs up icon. The problem was the page was for a candidate challenging his boss, the sheriff of Hampton, Va.

That simple mouse click, Carter says, caused the sheriff to fire him and put him at the center of an emerging First Amendment debate over the ubiquitous digital seal of approval: Is liking something on Facebook protected free speech?

Carter filed a lawsuit claiming his First Amendment rights were violated, and his case has reached the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 4th Circuit. This week, Facebook and the American Civil Liberties Union filed briefs supporting what they say is Carter's constitutional right to express his opinion, signaling the case's potentially precedent-setting nature.

Now Arriving: Your Flight

NEW YORK (AP) • U.S. airlines are more punctual and less likely to lose your bag than at any time in more than two decades.

Travelers still have to put up with packed planes, rising fees and unpredictable security lines, but they are late to fewer business meetings and are not missing as many chances to tuck their kids into bed.

Nearly 84 percent of domestic flights arrived within 15 minutes of their scheduled time in the first half of the year — the best performance since the government started keeping track in 1988.

The improvement over the first six months of 2011, when 77 percent of flights were on time, is mostly a result of good weather and fewer planes in the sky because of the weak economy.

Airlines are also doing a better job of handling bags. Fewer than three suitcases per 1,000 passengers were reported lost, damaged or delayed from January through June, a record low.

The interest was sparked by a lower court's ruling that "liking" a page does not warrant protection because it does not involve "actual statements." If the ruling is upheld, the ACLU and others worry a host of Webbased, mouse-click actions, such as re-tweeting, won't be protected as free speech. "We think it's important as new technologies emerge ... that the First Amendment is interpreted to protect those new ways of communicating," said Rebecca K. Glenberg, legal director of the ACLU of Virginia. "Pressing a 'like' button is analogous to other forms of speech, such as putting a button on your shirt with a candidate's name on it."

Samuel Butler

Facebook's like button appears next to many differsite, from photos of a friend's kids to an organization's page to news articles. When someone clicks the button, an announcement is posted on his or her profile that piece of content. The like is usually displayed to the user's Facebook friends as well. Facebook says there are more than 3 billion likes and comments registered

7 Reasons to Catch the GOODING OUNTY FAIR

BY TETONA DUNLAP

tdunlap@magicvalley.com

GOODING • It's fair season, and that means cowboys, carnivals and crowds. But looking for a celebration that stands out from the rest? Visit the Gooding County Fair, Aug. 15-18 at the Gooding fairgrounds. Here's why.

The name Gooding Pro Rodeo says it all. This is where some of the best come to compete. "It's like a prelude to the National Finals Rodeo," fair manager Don Gill said. This year's rodeo boasts about 455 contestants including 170 former national finalists and world champions, Gill said. The rodeo, at 8 p.m. Aug. 16-18, is a popular event; Gill said they often have to turn away 200 to 300 people. So buy your tickets

There is often as much fungoing on in the bleachers as in the arena. A big screen shows replays and music blasts during the competition, so expect to see a lot of people dancing.

"It's not your typical rodeo experience," Gill said. Keep the party going after the rodeo. Country music artist Tony Marques will perform at 10 p.m. Aug. 16-18 at the free stage. Marques, who has opened for national recording artists during events such as NASCAR, National Finals Rodeo and the Pro Bull Riders Association, was also the house band at Toby Keith's I Love This Bar and Grill in Las Vegas in 2005-09.

The two-hour Gooding County Fair parade - at 7 p.m. Aug. 15 on 14th Street and Main Street usually draws a crowd of 4,000 people. This year the theme celebrates the 100th anniversary of 4-H in Idaho. So, Gill said, you can expect a lot of farm animals

After the parade, make your way to the carnival, because Aug. 15 is dollar night from 5 p.m. to midnight. Instead of riding the Ferris wheel for $2 or $3, you can ride for a buck

Can't wait for the rodeo? For free, you can watch bullriders in action right outside Rowdy's Pub and Grill in downtown Gooding, at 7 p.m. Aug. 15. Bullriding takes place every Wednesday night there, but following the Aug. 15 bullriding will be a free street dance at 9:30 p.m. at the Zeppes parking lot.

Support the youth at the 4-H & FFA Market Animal Sale, 10 a.m. Aug. 18 at the beef barn. There, 151 children will sell their sheep, beef, pigs and goats. Even if you can't afford to take home a whole cow, you can donate money to go directly to these young farmers.

Check out the celebration at the "Buyer Appreciation Barbecue and 100 years of 4-H in Idaho Birthday Bash," at 1 p.m. Aug. 18 at the covered area near the fair's stage. This barbeque will celebrate the anniversary, recognize market animal buyers and honor both "Century Families" — those involved in 4-H for 100 years or more — and the oldest living Gooding 4-H member.

Sarah Butler, Gooding County 4-H program coordinator, said this is the only fundraiser for the year. Advance tickets are available at the Gooding County extension office for $5; tickets are $6 on the day of the lunch. Family tickets are $20, available only in advance.

Fair Basics

- · Admission to the Gooding County Fair, Aug. 15-18,
- · Rodeo tickets are available now at Valley Country Store in Gooding; pre-sale rodeo tickets are $9 for Aug. 16 and $11 for Aug. 17-18. Tickets at the gate are $10 for Aug. 16 and $12 for Aug. 17-18.
- Visit extension.uidaho.edu/gooding for the 4-H and FFA schedule, or call the fair office at 208-934-4529.

Magic Valley Reined Cow Horse Association has corralled competitors from nine states for this weekend's show in Rupert.

RUPERT • What started out as everyday ranch work for man and steed is now competition.

And it's free to watch horses and riders in action at the Magic Valley Reined Cow Horse Association's annual Futurity, Derby and Horse Show, Aug. 10-12 at the Minidoka County Fairgrounds.

Reined cow horses and riders from Idaho, Oregon, California, Nevada, Washington, Montana, Utah, Colorado and Wyoming travel to this Rupert event to compete. The working cow horses compete in three events: reining, herd work and fence work.

In reining, riders guide horses through a precise pattern of circles, spins and stops. Herd work, or cutting, is judged on how well they can cut a cow from the herd and handle it. Fence work demonstrates ability to control the cow along a fence.

Horses are rated on accuracy, timing and responsiveness.

"This is one of the better reining cow horse shows in the Intermountain area in terms of number of riders and prize money," said MVRCHA president Brad Bowlen.

Enjoy Free Bluegrass in Heyburn Park

HEYBURN • With its high-pitched caterwauling and driving guitar lines, the 1981 "Crazy Train" remains an Ozzy Osbourne classic.

Covers of Ozzy's music are played all over the world, but Twin Falls-based acoustic group Front Porch Flavor gave "Crazy Town" a bluegrass twist. Front Porch Flavor, which will be the closing act for Saturday's Snake River Bluegrass Festival in Heyburn, had help from a smart-aleck fan in deciding to cover the Ozzman, said lead singer Renee Andrew-Lewis.

The free bluegrass festival in Heyburn's Riverside Park is a good opportunity to enjoy a plethora of stringed instruments played by musicians rooted in bluegrass, gospel, old country and rock, against the backdrop of the Snake

"All of our songs are covers ... but covering Ozzy came from a fan's smart remark about, 'Why don't you play any Ozzy Osbourne?" Andrew-Lewis said. Around $40,000 in prize money will be awarded, Bowlen said, and the competition usually draws more than 100 entries.

The event's name refers to the competing horses' ages. Futurity horses are younger (3 years old) and less experienced than derby horses (4 or 5 years). In the horse show are older, experienced horses. To participate, all owners and riders must be members of the MVR-CHA or the National Reined Cow Horse Association.

The local group's membership includes professional horse trainers to people who simply enjoy riding horses.

Randy Dill of Wendell has been a member for more than 20 years of the association's 30-year history.

"This association outdates all of us in it," Dill said.

Though Dill is not a professional - "I always take my young horses to a trainer," he said - he owns several horses and rides often.

Dill will compete in the amateur class. "It's a sport that takes a lot of time to get these horses trained," Dill said. "I just

He trains his reined cow horses with cows and buffalo he owns. He said his buffalo are trained to be more gentle so they don't smash into fences when used for cutting and fence work practice.

"Once you start doing this, everything revolves around your horse," Dill said. "You plan your life according to your ride and it becomes a part of life."

everyone loves it." The band enjoys "changing stuff up," as Andrew-Lewis calls it. The song's basic tune is kept, but everyone adds instrumental riffs and accents of their own. "At the end, everything we play has an island/bluegrass feel to it.

"We add a lot of strings, acoustic guitar, mandolin, banjo. There is a lot of pickin'. Two of the guys in the band can play five different instruments, so they switch instruments a lot," she said.

The bluegrass festival, in its fourth year, has a dedicated following, committee member Chris James said. He expects about 350 people, in line with past years.

"We chose bluegrass because it's actually pretty popular but not something you get to hear on the radio, and we have a small number of people who have traveled to the festival year after year," James said. "They come from Montana, Utah, Nevada ... all to listen to fun, upbeat, toe-tapping music."

To score great views of the stage, James suggests arriving early with a lawn chair or blanket to lay on the grass. Many listeners bring picnic lunches or grab a bite at one of the on-site vendors.

In addition to music in the park's amphitheater, the festival features vendor booths and children's activities. In lieu of an entry fee, organizers suggest a non-perishable food donation for the South Central Community Action Partnership's Burley office.

The agency's Mini-Cassia outreach coordinator, Minerva Espino, said its stockpile of foodstuffs starts to get low this time of year. "Anytime people donate it has an impact and helps stretch (the making) of food boxes. It helps."

In addition to canned food items the agency needs dried goods, like pasta and macaroni and cheese, Espino said.

Last year the festival donated about 350 items to the agency.

Sun Valley Arts Festival Gathers 100 Artists from around the U.S.

BY KAREN BOSSICK For the Times-News

KETCHUM • Where's Barbie? You'll find the iconic doll at the Sun Valley Center Arts and Crafts Festival this weekend. But before she turned up there, she was at the Eiffel Tower, a Paris carousel, Place de Concorde and Monet's Garden.

Sun Valley photographer Sue Dumke is debuting her Barbie collection at the 44th annual Sun Valley art festival, held today through Sunday at Ketchum's Atkinson Park.

The Barbie collection is her newest foray in a portfolio that includes tropical floral images, Buddhas on glossy metallic paper and Hemingway haunts, which culminated in a profile of Ernest Hemingway made up of 34,000 tiny pictures that is sitting outside Atkinsons' Market in Ketchum this summer.

Dumke said she found a Barbie and began taking pictures of the doll as a lark.

"Now she goes with me everywhere even to Oman," she said. "And I've also shot pictures of Kate and William, Marilyn Monroe and Audrey Hepburn dolls in various places."

The festival — one of the top 100 outdoor juried festivals in the nation - will feature more than a hundred booths of fine arts and crafts, including vintage saddle leather and turquoise pieces made by a Jackson Hole, Wyo., couple; custom rocking chairs and handmade desk chairs by a Nevada man; and glasswork, fiber, jewelry and sculpture made by artists from throughout the U.S.

Local artists joining Dumke include photographers Marybeth Flower and Joe Bauwens, who create abstract landscapes on watercolor paper.

"I think of my work as painting with my camera," said Flower, who takes thousands of photos before she prints

Margery Friedlander of Hailey is a newcomer to the show. She will have monotypes, each of which requires drawing and etching on up to eight copper etching plates printed with different colors of ink.

"I'm a process person. I like problem solving and that's what this is about," she said. "At times I have to work in reverse, but I love it. I can lose myself doing this. It's like meditation for me."

Three Bartenders Perform Irreverent 'The Bible'

 $\textbf{KETCHUM} \bullet \textbf{They've taken}$ on the complete works of Shakespeare. Now, three classically trained Main bartenders in Ketchum are about to sum up the Good Book from those fig leaves to the final judgment.

Matt Gorby, Steve D'-Smith and Will Hemmings will present "The Bible: The Complete Word of God (Abridged)" on Aug. 12-15 and 19-22, along with a special performance at 7 p.m. Aug. 25, at the nexStage Theatre, 120 S. Main St. in Ketchum.

The irreverent 90minute spoof will start at 7 p.m. Sundays and Mondays and 9:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

"The Bible" was created by three British chaps following their success with "The Complete Works of William Shakespeare (abridged)." The play insists that God has a sense of humor. After all, it points out, He led the children of Israel throughout the Middle East for 40 years and had them stop in the one place with no oil.

"People from all denominations will love it - I don't care whether you are Catholic or atheist, Muslim or Jew, Protestant or purple people eater," Gorby said.

Tickets are $15 at the door or at 208-726-4857. Anyone purchasing a ticket once can return with friends for additional showings.

"If there were dreams to sell, What would you buy? Some cost a passing bell; Some a light sigh....

- Thomas Beddoes

In today's deal North-South were playing that if South doubled at his second turn, it would show any hand with three-card heart support. So South's twodiamond rebid denied three-card heart support, and North decided to bid game in diamonds without further ado. A reasonable alternative would have been to bid three spades at his second turn. South would then have bid three notrump, which would come home today easily enough.

How would you play the diamond game when West leads the spade two to the ace and East returns a low spade? Were you tempted to make the "cost-nothing" play of inserting the 10? Do that, and, as the cards lie, you would go down! The problem is that you would use up an entry to dummy prematurely.

To make the contract, you must rise with the spade king. You then cash the heart ace and finesse the trump queen successfully. Your aim now is to set up a long heart.

You ruff a heart and play a trump to the ace, East showing out. A second heart ruff is followed by a spade ruff with dummy's last trump. You then ruff a fourth round of hearts.

It makes no difference whether West overruffs with his master trump or discards on the trick. Either way, you will be able to cross to dummy with the club ace and discard your club loser on the heart that you have established.

ANSWER: You do not have enough to drive to game, but it would be cowardly not to suggest your invitational values. The easiest way to do this is to jump to two no-trump at once. Since a call of one no-trump could show an 11- or 12-count, your call suggests the values you have and will let partner decide where to go from here.

DEAR Abby Jeanne Phillips

Our problem is, my husband seems to be intimidated by my sexuality. In the past, I have told my husband what pleases me. My comments made him feel inadequate, and he has completely given up. We haven't had sex in two years. He says he would rather pleasure himself so he doesn't have to worry that he isn't "doing it right."

I am a normal, red-blooded woman, and I need sex several times a month. Is that so wrong? I have resorted to having an affair with a man whose wife isn't interested in sex, but I would prefer having a sex life with my husband.

I think my husband knows I am unfaithful. However, he accepts it because it's easier for him to deal with than having sex with me. Is there anything I can do to make my husband try again?

- DESPERATELY SEEKING SEX DEAR DESPERATELY:

Having affairs may temporarily satisfy your sexual needs, but it can only damage your marriage further. If ever there were candidates who could benefit from sex therapy, it is you and your husband. Even though he may be reluctant to face this problem, insist that he see a therapist with you. Please don't wait — it could save your marriage.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 17 and have been best friends with "Alana" for five years. We do everything together. We like the same things, and we're so close that we finish each other's sentences. She's like a sister to me.

However, the difference between us is that Alana gets crushes on boys that never work out, whereas multiple boys have liked me. After each crush falls through, Alana says her life is awful and it must be her fault. When I try to tell her it's not her fault and she's a wonderful person, she ends the conversation.

It hurts me set, but sometimes I feel lost about what to do. What can I do to help my friend know she's a beautiful person inside and out, and she doesn't need a boy to be happy? I love her and just want her to

- BEST FRIENDS IN RANCHO PALOS VERDES, CALIF.

DEAR BEST FRIENDS: Until Alana learns for herself that she doesn't need a boy to be happy, she will continue developing crushes that don't work out. Boys are attracted to girls who appear to be happy and confident, and your friend appears to be neither. Much as you might like to, you can't fix this for her. But once she finally gets the message, she will probably realize that someone she never took the time to notice has a crush on HER.

DEAR ABBY: I gave birth to a son almost 40 years ago. His biological father would not help me, so I placed the baby for adoption.

Here's the problem: People are always asking me if I have any children. Should I lie and say no, or try to explain? Legally, my son does not belong to me. Please tell me what to say to my questioners.

- SINCERELY CONCERNED DEAR CONCERNED:

Usually people ask that question only as a way to make conversation. Your personal history is nobody's business. If you prefer not to give a detailed explanation about your personal history, simply say no.

IF AUGUST 10 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Determination, perseverance and a refusal to take 'no' for an answer can help you achieve great success in the year ahead. In the fall your business acumen is at a peak so that is a good time for financial decisions or career evaluations. New friends, a more active social life, and even a romantic interlude can brighten November. Important opportunities may arrive in February, so plan ahead if you hope to make major life changes as that is a time when things that are beneficial for you will run smoothly. You should receive some extra help from the universe and can expect that your truly sincere prayers will be an-

HOROSCOPE Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Carve out a new career path with creative genius. Take care of necessities early, leaving time to celebrate tender twosomes in the evening. A relationship could arrive at a satisfactory conclusion.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Dance to your dreams. Budding romances thrive and blossom under these planetary alignments. Add sensitivity and sympathy to the mix when dealing with others to achieve the best results.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Friends are friends through thick and thin. Make an effort to be tolerant, charitable and openhanded with casual acquaintances as well as loved ones and they will respond in kind.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Put pleasure before business. These celestial conditions may have you singing "You Light up my Life" in a duet with a special someone. Plan to take some time out for some tender moments.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Trust your intuitions and people will learn to trust you. Your sympathy for those with problems makes you the "go-to" person. Your understanding and kindly demeanor will earn you extra support.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You have ample creative talents — even if they lurk beneath the surface. If you get a chance to take Friday off to enjoy a long weekend, you'll find that entertainments and romance run more smoothly than usual.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You feel confident right down to your toes. Your gentle flirtatiousness might warm someone's heart. Remain sensitive to the feelings of others, especially family members, for the next several days.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Dance your socks off. Put your business techniques on the back burner and get out there to enjoy a happy hour or two. Set your sights on achieving constructive and worthy goals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Good intentions should be applauded. Those who mean well and are sympathetic toward you will be willing to help you make the very wisest decisions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Use a spirit of kindness and compassion as you forge forward in the business world. You and your special sweetheart could be in perfect attunement throughout the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your attractive ways could draw others closer like a magnet that meets a straight pin. This can be a good time to purchase bigticket items such as major appliances, artwork or even a new set of wheels.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Treat yourself to a fabulous new outfit or stylish haircut. Your powers of attraction are at a peak and you possess perfect taste about your appearance. Make time to participate in social outings or events.
