HANSEN • Sherry Deadmond and her husband, Floyd, sat in camp chairs outside their motor home Friday morning, watching a fire crew fill up an engine with gas.

Residences and campgrounds in the South Hills were evacuated in response to the Cave Canyon Fire. The couple came to the Rock Creek General Store at around 1:30 a.m. Friday after sheriff's deputies showed up at their house.

Though it was just a warning notice and not a mandatory evacuation at that point, Sherry said they didn't want to take any chances.

"We just got as much stuff as we could in our motor home," she said.

They're among a number of South Hills residents and recreationists uprooted by the fire, which grew to 80,000 acres Friday during a tumultuous day. Estimates varied as to the number of people affected by the flames, from 40 residents to 40 homes. But one thing appeared likely – they wouldn't return anytime soon.

TWIN FALLS • Two men face charges following a shooting in Wendell Thursday night that sent one man to the hos-

Mark Anthony Perez Jr., 22, was charged with felony aggravated battery with a deadly weapon after allegedly shooting Mozes Jimenez, 22, three times. Separately, Ricky Jimenez Jr., 19, was charged with carrying a concealed weapon without a license, carrying a concealed weapon while under the influence and minor consumption.

According to a court affidavit from the Wendell Police Department, a Wendell woman called police after receiving threatening text messages from Mozes Jimenez, who said he was going to shoot the woman and Perez.

After sending the messages, Mozes Jimenez allegedly came to the woman's house and broke down her door, then grabbed the woman by her hair and threw her on the floor.

According to the affadavit, Perez fought with Jimenez while the woman ran out of the apartment for help. After hearing shots, the woman called police Perez later turned himself in, the affadavit states, telling police he took the gun to his sister's home in Jerome.

Solving the Sleepless Child

ASK ST. LUKES

My daughter is 7 years old and has a really hard time falling and staying asleep. Do you have any suggestions to help her with this problem?

- Mary, Rupert

Answered by Dr. Kathryn Reese, St. Luke's Clinic, Pediatrics:

any children have trouble falling asleep and staying asleep. One of the most important things you can do is establish a regular bedtime and wake-up time, even on the weekends. A bedtime routine is also helpful in establishing regular sleep patterns. About an hour before bedtime, you can have your child take a bath or shower, eat a non-sugary snack - perhaps something with protein — and spend at least a half-hour reading to them or snuggling with them prior to bedtime.

Make bedtime a relaxing, comfortable experience and establish a good sleeping environment in the room. See that the room's lighting is soothing, with just a reading light on. The American Academy of Pediatrics does not recommend that children have a television in their room. Don't have your child watch exciting movies or play video games right before bedtime. Having a television in your child's bedroom, even with the sound down, can make it difficult for your child to go to sleep. Even with your eyes closed, eyes can register dark and light flashes from the television. This is not restful. The bedroom should be a comfortable temperature for sleeping. It's best not to have a lot of stuffed animals in the bed. Your child could have one favorite stuffed animal or blanket for comfort, which may make them feel relaxed and safe. You as a parent can help your child unwind by not having the television blaring or having loud conversations. Some children are soothed by the sound of white noise, such as a fan or humidifier. These noises are much more soothing than television or music as they are constant. White noise can also be a diffuser between other household noises.

Make bedtime a special time, so that your child has time to wind down and feels comfortable and in a restful mood where they can drift off to sleep naturally.

During the day, make sure your child gets enough exercise and enjoys outside activities so that they are tired and ready to go to sleep at bedtime. If possible, if your child can be active until at least an hour before you begin your bedtime routine, that will help ensure a more restful night. It is also important not to send your child to bed as a threat or punishment. This does not create a restful routine or make bedtime a positive experience.

If these techniques are not helpful, it would be best to talk with your pediatrician or primary care physician to see if there are other conditions that could be contributing to your child's sleeplessness.

While horses are traditionally part of farms and rodeos, Drage said ATVs have taken over much of the work around farms for most people.

"Everybody's got so much ground now," he said. "Horses are a little obsolete."

Having an event centered around something other than animals brings a wider audience to the fair, too Drage said."

"We're appealing to the non-agricultural kids" he said. "It gives them something to do." Events have varied over the years, but many of the events are similar to a traditional rodeo, like barrel racing.

The motorized version of the rodeo also had a wheelie popping Fairgrounds in Carey. contest, drag

"They ride around and beat on each other," Drage

When 5-year-old Nicole Samaniego entered the barrel racing contest Thursday night, her ATV riding experience totaled just three days.

Samaniego said she liked the race and was able to practice beforehand.

"It was good," she said of her performance, even though she went the wrong way around one barrel.

Matt Hoskins said his 7year-old son Cameron has ridden dirt bikes for about two years, but entered this year for the first time.

"I went a little slow," Cameron said of his race. "I didn't want to slip."

Along with barrel racing, Cameron entered a drag race. Cameron said he liked the rodeo and wants to enter again next year.

Carey native Allen Peck said he's been riding a bike since he was 7 or 8 years old and participates in ATV rodeo every year. Before rodeo the started, Peck said he entered barrel racing contests in high school.

"It's а good chance to get out with the friends you normally ride with," he said.

Peck said the race was fun, but also a chance to get competitive.

"When it comes down to it you want to win," he said.

Scott Simpson, who just moved to Carey from Twin Falls last week, entered the rodeo for the first time and agreed there was a competitive edge to the event.

"You've got to beat everyone else's times," he said.

Simpson said he moved to Carey to be near family and heard about the rodeo interviewing While Perez's sister, police received another call of shots fired in Wendell. According to the affidavit, police found Ricky Jimenez Jr. walking on 5th Avenue East in Wendell.

Shooting

After refusing to lift up his shirt and show police waistband, Ricky Jimenez Jr. admitted he had a gun, the affadavit states. The responding officer drew his firearm and ordered Jimenez on the ground, then took him into custody.

During an interview, Ricky Jimenez Jr. said he was walking from his grandmother's house, where Mozes Jimenez, his cousin, went after being shot. He reportedly told police he carried the gun with him because he was scared following the shooting.

It wasn't clear from the affadavit if Ricky Jimenez's gun, a Walther PPK, was actually fired. The affadavit states the PPK had one bullet in the magazine and none in the chamber. The gun allegedly used by Perez, a Rossi .357 Magnum, was reportedly found with three unfired bullets and three casings from fired bullets.

According to the affidavit, Ricky Jimenez Jr. during the interview "stated that the shootings are not over in Wendell (and) that Surenos from Jerome and Twin Falls are responsible." He also claimed he and Perez are both Nortenos, and said the shooting was drug-related.

Nortenos and Surenos refers to two groups of rival gangs originating in California.

Mozes Jimenez was transported to Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise with two shots to his abdomen and one shot to the head. He was in critical condition Friday, according to Gooding County Sheriff Shaun Gough.

Perez and Ricky Jimenez Jr. were both arraigned Friday in Gooding County 5th District Court. Perez next has a preliminary hearing set for Aug. 16. Ricky's jury trial was scheduled for Oct. 11, with a pretrial conference preceding on Oct. 1. Both men were held in separate jails — Gooding and Jerome, respectively – to avoid conflict.

All three parties in the case have past criminal records, according to online court records. A Minidoka County bench warrant was issued last month for Mozes Jimenez for allegedly violating his probation from a 2011 burglary conviction.

Minidoka Fire Complex Officials Optimistic

BY LAURIE WELCH

lwelch@magicvalley.com

OAKLEY • Fire management and public lands officials met Friday at Howells Opera House in Oakley to provide a snapshot of the current fire situation and answer questions from the public during a town hall meeting.

Questions posed included what the plan is for restoring burned grazing allotments on public land to when residents will be allowed back in their homes.

Beth Lund, incident commander for the Minidoka Complex Fires, said although multiple fires in the Great Basin slowed the initial response of teams to the fires, officials are optimistic they should have them contained in another day or two.

"I'm pretty confident that by tomorrow we'll finish up and then go into mop up," Lund, who earned her firefighting spurs as one of the first women on a Hot Shot crew, said. Hot Shot crews are some of the best trained crews, which fight fire on extremely rugged terrain.

Lund said rain help curb some of the fire activity Friday but grasses will dry out and reignite in an hour. Juniper will dry in about three Lund said the Cave Canyon Fire, which is the largest in the complex with more than 80,000 burned acres burned, spread out in every direction, growing in size by more than 34,000 acres in a day.

"It especially liked to run downhill at night," said

Rancher Walt Mullens asked what the plan was for grazing allotments destroyed by fire.

Scott Nannenga, forest ranger for the Forest Service Minidoka Ranger District said in the short term burned grazing allotments will be rested but the fire in the long term will be beneficial.

"In two years some should have great stands of grass," Nannenga said.

Jenifer Arnold, associate district manager for the Twin Falls District Bureau of Land Management, said the BLM will identify areas that need to be reseeded or rested and if a portion of an allotment is burned a fence may be put up so the unburned ground can be grazed.

Both public lands officials said plans are already in place for rehabilitation of the burned areas.

Lund said the fire incident management team will rehabilitate dozer lines and any other damage caused by firefighting efforts.

John Larimer, who lives on Rock Creek Road, asked when he would be allowed back in their homes.

Lund said fire officials and the county sheriff's would need to confer before a decision is made when to let residents return to their homes.

"We don't want to let you back and then have to take you back out again," Lund Displaced? Need Help?

The American Red Cross of Greater Idaho is accepting case work for those evacuated from the fire.

People who need a place to stay, food, clothes and shoes can stop by the office at 253 4th Ave. N. in Twin Falls. Or, call 1-800-853-2570.

There was some worry about the amount of available rooms in the area since weekend travel has many hotels already booked solid, said Roger Hinton, Red Cross district manager.

The Red Cross is currently in need of monetary donations but it does not accept clothing or household donations, said spokeswoman Barbara Fawcett.

A site to shelter horses has also been arranged. For details, call Cody Demers, 208-969-0979.

MINIDOKA COMPLEX FIRES

Cave Canyon: The fire has grown to more than 80,000 acres west of Oakley. It is still active with only 10 percent contained Friday. Two hotshot crews and aviation crews responded as of Friday.

Deer Hollow: Located west of Interstate 84 just north of the Utah border, flames increased to almost 4,000 acres.

Eightmile: The 211-acre fire is contained and resources have been moved to help fight the Deer Hollow Fire. Hot Well: Six miles southeast of Declo, flames have burned close to 3,000 acres. No containment has been set at this time. OTHER FIRES

Flat Top 2: As of Friday, the fire had burned up to 140,900 acres northeast of Kimama in southern Lincoln County. Fire crews have contained 40 percent of the flames but have not set a time for full containment.

Highway 30: The almost 1,880-acre fire near the Bliss rest stop was controlled at noon Fri-

Berger: Fire crews have contained the 77-acre fire north of Hollister and expected to control the flames by Friday evening. North Hollister: Fire crews quickly contained and controlled a fire less than one acre near Hollister on Friday. Halstead: Flames have increased to more than 43,000 acres just north of Stanley. Beetle-killed tree have helped spread the flames across the Stanley-Challis Forest. At this time, fire crews expect the fire to be contained by Oct. 16. Halstead fire crews are also tackling the Bench Fire. That 290-acre fire

Storms Subside, Air Quality Drops

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI kkruesi@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Fire crews responding to multiple wildfires across southcentral Idaho haven't received many favors from the weather lately.

Friday's thunderstorms ignited several wildfires across dry and fuel-heavy

But the storms are expected to pass, said Colin Baxter, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service in Boise.

Dry and hot temperatures are expected to return today and Sunday, Baxter said.

And if you think the air feels a little muggy lately, you can blame the fires for that, too.

"We're having more matter in the air with all ash from the fire so it's going to feel a little heavier," Baxter said.

With more than 12 fires burning across the Magic Valley, air quality dropped to moderate in Twin Falls and unhealthy in the Ketchum area, according to the Idaho Department of Environmental Quality.

Health officials do not expect air quality to improve over the weekend. In order to reduce your exposure to smoke, officials advise the following:

• Avoid outdoor exercise or heavy work when air quality reaches healthy" indexes. • Older adults, small children, those with respiratory conditions or heart disease, and those more sensitive to poor air quality, should stay indoors.

• Drink plenty of water. Hydration helps dilute phlegm, which makes it easier to cough smoke particles out. Expect to cough when there's smoke outside; it's the body's way of clearing out your lungs.

• Switch to eyeglasses if you wear contact lenses in smoky environments.

LOCAL BRIEF

Second TV Burglary Suspect Arrested

TWIN FALLS • Another man suspected of stealing big-screen TVs from a Twin Falls electronics store has been arrested.

Jose Adrian Ramirez, 25, was arraigned Thursday in Twin Falls County 5th District Magistrate Court on charges of burglary, conspiracy to commit burglary and grandtheft. Mel Quale's Electronics on Kimberly Road in Twin Falls was burglarized late July 29. Video surveillance shows two men exit a brown pickup, then smash a store window using a cinderblock. The menthen begin grabbing big-screen TVs and loading them into the bed of the pickup. Earlier this week police arrested Joe Willy Hernandez, 25, on charges of burglary, conspiracy to commit burglary and grand theft.

Elsewhere at the general store, emergency response officials worked to set up an incident command center.

The county's incident command trailer arrived around 11:15 a.m. Friday. Emergency responders anticipated moving 30-40 families, said Jackie Frey, emergency services coordinator for Twin Falls County.

As fire crews attempted to contain the flames, structures were still threatened in the area and the evacuation order remained in effect, said Traci Weaver, a U.S. Forest Service spokeswoman for Great Basin

A few livestock shelters were destroyed Thursday night, but there weren't any reports of homes damaged, she said. Part of Rock Creek Road — which leads up to the Magic Mountain recreation area - was closed. Sheriff's deputies were stationed at the Friday's rain helped put out fire activity on the north side of the fire, but none of the west end received moisture, Weaver said.

Due to mandatory maintainence and required pilot downtime, fire crews were unable to access some air support for most of Friday. Aircraft Evacuee Day Wert said she was upset she had been told no information on what was going on or where to go once she and her husband Daryl were forced to leave their home. She was also upset that an evening information session was held in Oakley and not closer to the evacuated areas.

"Does anybody notice we're still evacuated?" Wert said.

Another major worry has been housing horses affected by the fire. Cody Demers of Kimberly offered to house horses in some extra corrals on his property.

Demers said he'd received phone calls Friday, but no one had brought by any horses. Those affected by the fire who need a temporary place to bring their horse can call 969-which comes with a set of standards for the garbage companies and an annual performance review process, was implemented after the city designated an official commercial garbage hauler in April, which barred two competing companies from renewing existing accounts.

The new performance standards will be implemented for the residential contract as well as the commercial contract.

One of the companies, Total Waste Management, subsequently filed a civil lawsuit against the city. Heyburn officials reacted to the lawsuit by voiding the exclusive contract and proposing a licensing regime.

The version of the new standards approved by the council was modified since the last meeting to include suggestions from TWM's lawyer, Keith Roark, to remove some of the requirements.

"Well, I feel we need it in place to protect the city and we have bent over backwards to be fair with all the haulers," Gallegos said.

PSI Environmental Systems District Manager Josh Brown said his company supports the new rules. Dave Abrahamson of Western Waste Services questioned why other trucks operating in Heyburn that sometimes spill agricultural waste were not subject to any licensing requirements by the city.

"We will not have problems complying with these standards. We impose standards on our business much higher than they are asking for," Tina Santos said after the meeting. Santos is a Seattle attorney and family member of the owners of TWM. "Our concern was why are they doing this now?"

Gasoline prices are displayed Friday in Chicago.

GAS PRICES SPIKE SUDDENLY IN THE US

Prices rose 34 cents

since July 1.

NEW YORK (AP) • A surprise surge in gasoline prices is taking some of the fun out of summer. The national average for a gallon of gas at the pump has climbed to $3.67, a rise of 34 cents since July 1. An increase in crude oil prices and problems with refineries and pipelines in the West Coast and Midwest, including a fire in California, are mostly to blame. Analysts don't expect gas prices to get as high as they did in April, when 10 states passed $4 a gallon and the U.S. average topped out at $3.94. But this is still unwelcome news in this sluggish economy, since any extra money that goes to fill gas tanks doesn't get spent on movies and dinners out. The rising prices could also put pressure on President Barack Obama in the heat of his re-election cam-

When Phil Van Schepen recently went to fill up his dry-cleaning delivery van in Coon Rapids, Minn., he found a Post-it note a driver before him had placed on the pump faulting Obama for high gasoline prices.

"It's a reminder of his energy policies overall, which I don't agree with," said Van Schepen, who buys about 100 gallons a week and finds he is spending about $40 more than he did in early July. Still, he said the Post-it "was a bit much" because the president isn't responsible for gasoline prices.

Analysts and economists agree, saying prices for crude oil and wholesale gasoline are set on financial exchanges around the world based on supply and demand and expectations about how those factors may change.

The price at the pump in the U.S. fell more than 60 cents per gallon during the spring as the global economy slowed.

But crude oil is climbing again, rising to $94 a barrel from a low of $78 in late June. Production outages, sanctions and fears violence in Syria could escalate into a wider regional conflict have driven up oil prices.

Syrian Rebels Low on Guns

AZAZ, Syria (AP) • Syrian rebels were running low on ammunition and guns Friday as government forces tried to consolidate their control over Aleppo, the country's largest city and a deadly battleground for more than two weeks.

seemingly intractable, 17-month-old conflict in Syria has defied all international attempts to calm the bloodshed.

"The warplanes and helicopters are killing us. They're up there in the sky 15 hours a day," said Mohammad al-Hassan, an activist in Aleppo's Salaheddine district, the main rebel stronghold in the city. "It's warplanes against Kalashnikovs, tanks fight ing against rifles," he said. "I don't know how long this situation can be sustained."

As Syrian soldiers bombarded rebel positions in Aleppo from the ground and air, diplomats said former Algerian foreign affairs minister and longtime U.N. official Lakhdar Brahimi has emerged as a strong candidate to replace Kofi Annan as U.N. peace envoy to Syria.

Annan announced his resignation last week, ending a frustrating six-month effort that failed to achieve even a temporary cease-fire as the country descended into civil war. Activists say some 20,000 people have been killed.

Sikhs Mark Mass Shooting

OAK CREEK, Wis. (AP) • They removed the bloodstained carpeting, repaired shattered windows and painted over gunfire-scarred walls. But Sikh Temple of Wisconsin members left a single bullet hole.

As thousands Friday mourned the six victims gunned down before a prayer service, the temple's members worked late the previous night to remove all but the one trace of the shooting. The waist-high bullet hole in a door jamb near the main prayer room was left as a memorial to the six slain worshippers.

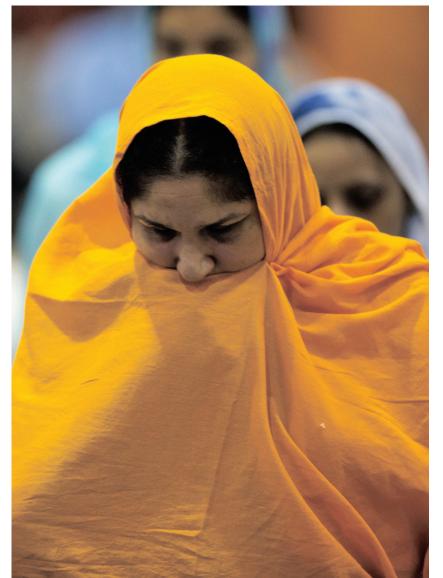

"We will put a plaque here," Harpreet Singh, the nephew of one of the victims, said Friday. "We will make sure they are never forgotten."

As Singh showed the Assoicated Press the bedrooms where his uncle and a priest were killed, he frequently paused with his hands on his hips and looked around in silence.

Army veteran Wade Michael Page used a 9 mm pistol Sunday to kill five men, one woman and wound three other people, including a police officer, in the ambush on the temple. He took his own life after exchanging gunfire with officers, including one he shot nine times.

The carnage could have been much worse, Singh said. At the first sound of gunfire outside, two children raced into the kitchen and warned people to take cover. Thirteen women were there preparing meals for the day.

The pantry, a side room off the main kitchen, has only enough standing room for about three or four people comfortably. But the 16 waited in petrified silence for almost two hours, doing their best to ignore the smoke wafting throughout the room from food burning on the stove.

A woman mourns Friday at the funeral and memorial service for the six victims of the Sikh temple of Wisconsin mass shooting in Oak Creek, Wis.

Fort Hood AWOL Soldier Gets Life Term

WACO, Texas (AP) • Naser Jason Abdo sat in court with his hands shackled and a white cloth secured over his mouth and neck. The soldier who went AWOL and plotted to kill other troops outside a Texas Army post remained defiant Friday as he was sentenced to life in prison, not asking for mercy and vowing to never end what he considers his holy war.

"I will continue until the day the dead are called to account for their deeds," Abdo said in a low, gravelly voice through the cloth mask.

A federal judge sentenced Abdo, 22, to two life terms plus additional time. The federal prison system offers no chance of parole. He was convicted of planning what he claimed would have been a massive attack on a Texas restaurant filled with troops from Fort Hood.

In court, Abdo referred to Maj. Nidal Hasan – the Army psychiatrist soon to be tried in a deadly shooting rampage at that Army post as "my brother." He said he lived in Hasan's shadow despite "efforts to outdo him." Abdo became a Muslim at age 17. Outside court, prosecutor Mark Frazier said Abdo had come close to carrying out the attack. U.S. Attorney Robert Pitman compared the plot to recent mass shootings at a movie theatre near Denver and a Sikh temple in suburban Milwaukee.

"In the wake of the tragic events in Colorado and Wisconsin, this is yet another reminder that there are those among us who would use or plan to use violence to advance their twisted agenda," Pitman said.

Arguing for a life sentence, Frazier had said Abdo still presented a threat. Abdo's mouth was covered in court, Frazier said, because he had earlier spat his own blood at agents believing he was infected with HIV. That belief turned out to be wrong.

"He felt it was his duty to take lives, even after incarceration," Frazier told the court.

Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney campaigns Wednesday in Des Moines, Iowa.

Romney Shifts Strategy for His Campaign

BOSTON (AP) • Mitt Romney faces urgent tasks as he heads into a new phase of the White House race: Repair an image damaged by negative Democratic advertising and shift the trajectory of a campaign that's seen him lose ground to President Barack Obama.

He's got opportunities, starting with a big battleground-state bus tour beginning Saturday. Then comes his critical runningmate announcement and the TV hoopla of a national convention, where he'll accept the Republican nomination he's sought for nearly a decade. If the past few days are any indication, Romney will spend the coming weeks trying to gain ground by dragging Obama down on a host of issues. It's a shift away from the all-economy, all-the-time strategy of the past several months.

"Doesn't America deserve better than a president who will say or do anything to stay in power?" asks Romney's latest ad that seeks to undercut Obama's character.

That spot — and another that accuses Obama of moving to "gut welfare reform" by dropping work requirements is part of an effort to use Romney's huge cash stockpile to undermine his Democratic rival.

Delaware Yanks License of Waterboarding Doctor

THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER

PHILADELPHIA • Delaware state officials have suspended the license of an internationally known pediatrician accused of "waterboarding" his 11-year-old daughter. Melvin Morse, 58, poses a "clear and immediate danger to the public health," declared a filing published on the website of the Board of Medical Licensure and Discipline.

Morse, who has written several best-sellers about near-death experiences and appeared on numerous TV talk shows, was arrested Tuesday at his Georgetown home after his daughter told investigators Morse waterboarded her as a punishment.

Waterboarding is the practice of causing a person to feel as if they are drowning. Used as a form of torture, waterboarding was banned in the U.S. in 2009.

CHEERS AND JEERS

JEERS to the Department of Health and Welfare for not streaming Monday's working group meeting on potentially expanding Medicaid in Idaho.

It's one of the biggest decisions facing the state in the coming year and there is huge public interest.

Reporters across the state, including those at the Times-News, had hoped to listen to the meeting and share what we learned with our readers.

At the health insurance exchange meeting the week before, 60 people showed up and reporters from across the state were able to listen to the meeting and share the discussion with readers across the state. There is massive public interest on both sides as we move forward and the Department of Health and Welfare should recognize that these discussions should not take place in a vacuum.

JEERS to anyone who makes references to the media about shooting a public official — in jest or otherwise.

CHEERS to the Twin Falls-based Snake River Basin Adjudication court for setting an example for other states across the West. The court is dedicated to resolving water ownership. The court was charged with resolving more than 158,000 water claims dispersed throughout 44 different basins. The court only has 600 claims left with plans to be finished by spring 2013.

Idaho has been able to streamline its water dispute process in a way other states have not. New Mexico has been trying to resolve water disputes as early as the 1950s and they still don't have an end in sight. Montana has been in the process since the 1970s. Idaho began the process since the late 1980s.

The scary thing for her she said was that all of the officers had their guns drawn and aimed and that she was very scared

This is a recipe for disaster should something out of protocol happen and officers start to shoot with my own wife in the line of fire. There was no reason at all that six cars needed to swoop in like that especially when it had been established that the guy ended up cashing his check peacefully with a new license from the DMV.... After Geothermal Flop, Office Looks for Funding

BY JOHN MILLER

Associated Press

BOISE • Idaho's state energy office is running out of cash because geothermal leasing royalties never materialized and federal stimulus cash it's relied on since 2009 is dry-

Among possibilities discussed to cover the Office of Energy Resources' expenses: a surcharge on Idaho utility customers' power bills.

"I think it's safe to say, everyone anticipated there would be substantially more geothermal development than we've seen."

John Chatburn, director of the Office of Energy Resources

Director John Chatburn has been told by the governor to pursue other funding options, while lawmakers say the agency is facing serious questions about its future.

"No. 1, are we going to continue?" said Rep. George Eskridge, Republican cochairman of the Legislature's Energy, Environment & Technology interim committee. "I don't think we'll find any support for doing it through" general taxpayer

In the 2012 session, behind-the-scenes discussions included an addition to Idaho residents' power bills, Eskridge said.

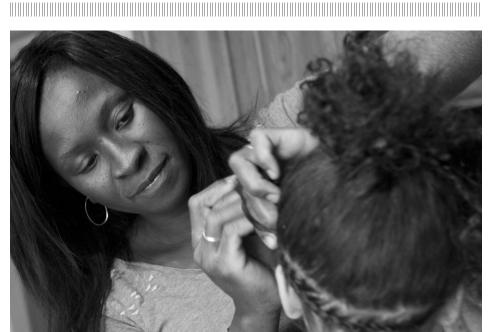

Chatburn said nothing's decided.

"The governor just asked me to have a conversation with utility, industry and other stakeholders," he told The Associated Press. "We're looking for creative solutions. I think it's safe to say, everyone anticipated there would be substantially more geothermal development than we've seen."

In 2008, lawmakers directed what they thought would be a gold rush of geothermalpower leasing royalties from projects on Bureau of Land Management territory. At the time, Boise-based U.S. Geothermal Inc. had just completed its 10-megawatt plant near Malta, and surveys estimated Idaho had plenty of underground hot water waiting to be tapped.

But geothermal prospects have dimmed. Renewables incentives are ending, and Idaho is awash in cheap electricity as natural gas prices are low and the economy stutters along.

Hair Braider Wins Lawsuit Challenging Utah's Rules

The state wanted her to obtain a cosmetology license in order to provide the service.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) • A Utah woman who braids hair to supplement her family's income won a federal lawsuit against the state over its licensing process for her craft, arguing state regulations violated her right to earn a

A federal judge ruled this week that the state's requirement that Jestina Clayton get a cosmetology license to braid hair was "unconstitutional and invalid" because regulations are irrelevant to Clayton's profession.

Clayton, 30, sued last year after she found it would be illegal to run a hair-braiding business without a license, in part because of public health and safety concerns. Clayton said she learned how to braid hair as a 5-yearold in her West African home country of Sierra Leone, and she was doing it at her suburban Salt Lake City home to support her three children – ages 7, 5 and 1 – while her husband finishes school.

"I'm excited. I can't believe it," Clayton said of the ruling. "You go in with the hope, but sometimes things don't go your way."

U.S District Judge David Sam in Salt Lake City said Utah's cosmetology licensing requirements are so disconnected from hair-braiding "that to premise Jestina's right to earn a living by braiding hair on that scheme is wholly irrational and a violation of her constitutionally protected rights."

Sam said the state couldn't

The season that kids dream of and pray for ended for the 2012 Whitecaps on Aug. 7 in Brewster, Mass.

The Cape Cod Baseball League is the most prestigious summer ball league in the country, and from coast to coast people know what the league is about with its raw talent. The best summer of any player's life lies here in the Cape.

Playing in the Cape Cod was more than an honor; it was a blessing to have such an opportunity to play in such a great league. More than 250 active major league players have played a year or more in the Cape.

Buhl's Chance Henderson runs drills during football practice Friday in Buhl.

BUHL HOPES TO AV NUMBERS GAME Low player turnout, increased SCIC competition could make 2012 a tougher climb for Indians.

BY DAVID BASHORE

dbashore@magicvalley.com

BUHL • Low numbers is nothing new when it comes to Buhl football.

Less than 40, though, is a cause for concern. Thirty-eight players strapped it up Friday morning for the Indians' first practice of the season, ahead of their season-opening game with Burley on Aug. 31.

"We feel actually really good. We're small in numbers but people are going to step it up this year and do a good job," senior Taylor Oppedyk said. "We're going to be intense, because if we're low on numbers everyone's got to step it up and be intense so we can keep up with the competition."

The competition in the Sawtooth Central Idaho Conference figures to be fiercer this season. Filer's bouncing back from an 0-8 campaign, but Buhl also has traditional rival Kimberly and surging Gooding, returning to the SCIC after a two-year stint in the 2A ranks, to contend with.

While Buhl will break in a new quarterback, expected to be junior Kade Crossland, the Indians return bulk on the offensive line and a couple of key skill guys in Devon Privett and David Murdoch.

The key, if they want to win the title, is to stay healthy above all else.

"It's hard to do sometimes, like last year we had some trouble staying healthy, but hopefully this year we can get a little better (luck) with it," said Murdoch, a senior running back. "I think (the conference teams will) all be pretty close. There might be a few errors here and there from all the teams but it's going to be pretty close no matter what."

Twin Falls' Bruce Quale currently leads the point standings for the traveling series but is looking to gain ground on the competition while driving at his hometown track. Quale has motored his way to numerous championships at MVS however the RMCS title has eluded him thus far in his career.

Quale will have to make sure he keeps 2010 RMCS champion Steve Jones well behind him in the main event race. Jones also has several MVS track titles to his name and lies just 45 points behind Quale in the standings.

With only three events remaining in the season for the RMCS drivers, Rick Fowble, also of Twin Falls, holds on to fifth position in the points battle. Look for local drivers John Newhouse, Jeff Wade and TJ Woodhall to also compete in the series' highest lap count race of the year.

Making up for rainouts, both the Super Stocks and Street Stocks drivers will be facing double main events.

For senior quarterback Garrett Sant and Co., it's an opportunity for redemption after last season didn't finish according to plan.

"I've been looking forward to this forever," Sant said about his senior year. "About the time school starts, maybe I'll start soaking it in, but after missing basically the whole year, it is extra motivation for me. I want to get back at it and remind people I'm still here."

Shoshone is down on numbers from last season, graduating a handful of seniors and not bringing in quite as many kids into the program. But the ones that started practice this week are eager to make their marks on the program and the conference as a whole.

"I'm hoping for really big things," said junior running back/linebacker Edgar Ramos, who makes the move to varsity this season. "It's hard coming up from a JV team, but I think it's going to be better on varsity this year."

With Shoshone's slump, the Indians didn't play many meaningful games toward the end of the season in 2011. That figures to change, as the Snake River Conference now gets five of its seven teams into a crossover playoff with District III, similar to Class 4A's old Great Eight system.

With Butte County and Hagerman the clear conference favorites, it opens up access to the other five teams to try and win their minileague, or even crack the top two if any of them can spring an upset.

"Everyone Butte County and Hagerman are the favorites (to get through) but you've got the rest of us all fighting for those three other spots," Sant said. "We've got a lot of room but we've just to win some of those close games that we didn't down the stretch. If there's just two seeds it's a lot different, but with three through five now, games like last year where we played Raft River and it wasn't meaningful, all of a sudden those are really meaningful games."

LeGarrette Blount finished off the drive with a 1-vard touchdown plunge on fourth-andgoal. Martin ended the Bucs' second possession with a 2yard run early in the second quarter. He finished with 21 vards on seven carries.

Ryan Tannehill had a promising debut for Miami, completing 14 of 21 passes for 167 yards, including an 11yard touchdown to tight end Charles Clay in the third quarter.

David Garrard was scheduled to start for Miami after being listed first on the depth chart, but his agent confirmed Friday he's slated to have knee surgery.

keep the ball away from the Browns.

The Lions' last shot ended when rookie Kellen Moore was intercepted by David Sims at the Cleveland 36 with 34 seconds left.

CHIEFS 27, CARDINALS 17 KANSAS CITY, Mo. • Jamaal Charles took a solid hit to the left knee on his very first carry, then bounced right up and helped Kansas City score touchdowns on its first two possessions.

Charles, the NFL's secondleading rusher in 2010, had 12 vards on three carries and caught one pass for 11 yards in his first action since ACL surgery on the left knee last September. Two other key starters who also sat out last season with ACL surgery safety Eric Berry and tight end Tony Moeaki - also played with no apparent problem, a huge relief for fans and coaches.

reading about my experience. The Magic Valley is where my journey started and it will always be home. I'm looking forward to my third season as a Washington State Cougar as I continue down the road of hard work and dedication that will hopefully lead us to Omaha and the College World Series, and my dream of playing professional baseball.

so fast on legs that were amputated beneath the knees before his first birthday.

The crowd packed into the Olympic stadium roared their support. His fellow runners showed theirs afterward with hugs and pats on the back.

He was a runner, and that was all. That was more than OK, because that's all Pistorius ever wanted to be.

Accepted for what he does, not for the way his missing legs force him to do it.

"Just a regular guy to me," U.S. runner Tony Mc-Quay said. "I don't even look down and see what he's running with down there. Doesn't matter to me. I know Oscar's heart. Oscar's a great guy."

Pistorius has gotten about everything he can out of his J-shaped Cheetahs blades, but it still doesn't give him the push to start a race like runners with calf muscles or the ability to make a turn like runners who have ankles.

At first glance, you'd think he should be some sort of superman, bounding past other runners on his springs. The reality is, the blades help level the playing field but don't give him any special advantage. He still has to be a supremely trained athlete to even compete against the world's best on two good legs.

The best thing about it all in London may have been just how normal it seemed. That was all Pistorius could have asked out of an Olympics he had to fight to be in. The medals could wait for another time - say Rio, four years from now, when Pistorius thinks he will really be in his prime. This was more about competing hard and being accepted and, if they awarded a gold for that, Pistorius would have it around his neck.

"This week has just been one of the biggest blessings for me," Pistorius said. "It's taught me a lot. I've been inspired by so many athletes. Just to have had that opportunity to step outside, it's been absolutely phenomenal. I'm sure in a week I'm going to have the same emotions that I'm going to have in 40 or 50 years' time."

Pistorius isn't going to be the only one who has memories. Eighty thousand people in the stadium kept their eyes trained on him while he tried unsuccessfully to catch even one runner while the team from the Bahamas overtook the U.S. on the last lap to win the gold medal. Flashes went off throughout the stadium as he ran; it didn't matter than he was last.

His teammates will savor this night, too.

"Ten or 20 years from now we will still remember the day we ran with Oscar," said L.J. Van Zyl, who handed the baton off to Pistorius for the final lap.

Pistorius said he hasn't had a chance to reflect on what the week meant, though he believes it will inspire others with disabilities to try to perform beyond what people think they can do.

He never came close to winning a medal in his two races, but he achieved his goal of running in a 400meter semifinal.

"Far beyond my expectations," Pistorius said, referring to his Olympic experience. "If I took all the positive things I thought might come out of this and multiply it by 10, it still couldn't come close."

More positive things could follow. Pistorius is competing in the Paralympics later this month, where he will defend his 100, 200 and 400 titles from Beijing and try for four gold medals.

Rich Get Richer: Lakers Obtain Howard

LONDON • At long last, Dwight Howard got what he wanted.

So did the Orlando Magic. A new beginning for both awaits.

It took four teams, 11 other players, five draft picks and countless rounds of talks over many months, but finally, the Magic decided the time was right to start over without the NBA's best center and end a saga that has dogged the franchise for what seems like an eternity.

Howard is off to play alongside Kobe Bryant in Los Angeles, after a megadeal was worked out Thursday and completed Friday after the NBA reviewed and approved the particulars. As far as the other headliners involved, Andrew Bynum leaves the Lakers for Philadelphia and Andre Iguodala is heading to Denver.

"Are we taking a step back? Absolutely, we are," Magic general manager Rob Hennigan said. "But we're taking a step back with a vision."

The Lakers were set to introduce Howard later Friday in Los Angeles.

"I know LA is excited about the deal and rightfully so," Bryant wrote on his Facebook page Friday, before the deal was formally announced and before he and the U.S. men's basketball team played a semifinal game at the London Olympics. "The Lakers landed a piece that will hopefully carry the franchise long after I'm gone. I have spoken to Dwight Howard already and we are locked and loaded to bring back the title."

The Magic, they might not be saying that for years.

And they know it, too. After an offseason when the Magic fired coach Stan Van Gundy and general manager Otis Smith, they're now truly beginning anew. In 1996, the Magic watched Shaquille O'Neal sign as a free agent with the Lakers. At least this time, when they lost someone with the "Superman" nickname, they got something back.

"Next season, and really subsequent seasons, are going to be about getting better every day," Hennigan said.

Orlando got guard Arron Afflalo and forward Al Harrington from Denver, forward Moe Harkless and center Nikola Vucevic from Philadelphia, and forward Josh McRoberts and guard Christian Eyenga from the Lakers. The Lakers acquired Howard, guard Chris Duhon and forward Earl Clark from Orlando. The Magic also traded guard Jason Richardson to Philadelphia

Tiger Woods Shares Lead at PGA Championship

ASSOCIATED PRESS

KIAWAH ISLAND, S.C. • The major known as "Glory's Last Shot" turned into one last chance for Tiger Woods.

On the toughest scoring day in PGA Championship history, Woods made putts from one end of Kiawah Island to the other Friday for a 1under 71 that gave him a share of the lead with Vijay Singh and Carl Pettersson going into the weekend.

"It was tough out there wow," Woods said. Wow, indeed.

In relentless wind that began at sunrise and whipped up the Atlantic waters with 30 mph gusts, par never looked better in this championship. There were more rounds in the 90s - two of them by club pros – than in the 60s. There were 41 players who failed to break 80, a list that included Rickie Fowler, Matt Kuchar and Hunter Mahan.

Singh, a three-time major champion who hasn't won in nearly four years, scratched out five birdies in a remarkable round of 3-under 69. Only three other players managed to break par in the second round - Michael Hoey of Northern Ireland at 70, and Woods, Phil Mickelson and Ian Poulter at 71.

It's the second time this year that Woods has had a share of the lead in a major going into the weekend. He missed one chance at Olympic Club in the U.S. Open, when he stumbled to a 75-73 to tie for 21st. He was in the penultimate group at the British Open until a triple bogey on the sixth hole of the final round took him out of the One last major, one last shot.

"I've been in this position many times over my career," he said. "Again, we're just at the halfway point. We have a long way to go?"

Six players were atop the leaderboard on this day of survival. Singh was the first to post at 4-under 140, and it didn't look as though anyone would be able to even match that as the wind never let up on The Ocean Course.

PGA Championship at a Glance

KIAWAH ISLAND, S.C. (AP) • A brief look at the second round of the 94th PGA Championship on Friday on The Ocean Course at Kiawah Island (All times MDT): LEADING: Tiger Woods, Carl Pettersson, Vijay Singh and at 4-under 140. TRAILING: Ian Poulter at 3-under 141. TIGER TALES: Woods had two putts completely circle the cup and looked ready to spin out before falling back in. He is leading a major halfway through for the second time this season. ON THE REBOUND: Singh was the only player to shoot in the 60s, finishing with a 3under 69. He's winless in nearly four years, MAJOR REPORT: U.S. Open champion Webb

Simpson missed the cut with rounds of 79 and 72. SHOT OF THE DAY: Carl Pettersson hit a wedge shot from the sand about 20 yards out on No. 1 for birdie. RYDER CUP: The top eight Americans in the Ryder Cup standings after the PGA Championship automatically qualify for the team. Hunter Mahan (No. 9 in the standings), Rickie Fowler (No. 12) and Brandt Snedeker (No. 13) missed the cut.

KEY STATISTIC: The scoring average for the second round was 78.11, the highest since the PGA Championship switched from match play to stroke play.

NOTEWORTHY: There were only four scores under par on Friday after 44 players broke par in the opening round.

QUOTEWORTHY: "if you had a golf course like this and you asked me to go and play golf in windy conditions, I'd say no, I'm not going to play. I guess nobody is going to go out and play in conditions like this. But it is a major, and we have to go out there and just struggle" Vijay Singh.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

LSU's Mathieu Kicked off Team for Violating Rules

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BATON ROUGE, La. • Heisman Trophy finalist Tyrann Mathieu was kicked off LSU's football team Friday for breaking an athletic department rule, a blow to the Tigers' national championship hopes three weeks before their season opener.

The junior defensive back nicknamed Honey Badger for his tenacious style, small stature (5-foor-9, 175 pounds) and blonde streak of hair rose from obscurity to become one of college football's biggest stars last season.

He was a sleeper Heisman candidate as the Tigers won the Southeastern Conference championship and reached the BCS title game. They are among the favorites to win the title this year, and remain so even without Mathieu.

At a news conference Friday, coach Les Miles would not specify the reason Mathieu was dismissed. "We'll miss the guy," Miles said. "The football team's got to go on. We'll have to fill the void." Athletic Director Joe Alleva said Mathieu, who was suspended for a game in 2011 after failing a drug test, violated an athletic department rule and had his scholarship revoked.

"Being an athlete is a privilege," Alleva said. "It's a privilege and you have to follow the rules to take advantage of that privilege. And unfortunately, he doesn't have that privilege here anymore.

"He really is a good kid. It's a shame. But I told him this morning that he has the rest of his life and his life is still ahead of him. He still has a tremendous opportunity to do good things and I encouraged him to do those good things, and I think he will." Alleva said the violation did not involve law enforcement and Mathieu could stay at LSU and pay tuition.

But Alleva said that was unrealistic. "He's not going to stay in school," he said. The Tigers are No. 1 in the coaches' preseason poll. The AP college football poll will be released Aug. 18

The Tigers open the season at home Sept. 1 against North Texas. Their only big nonconference test comes the next week when Washington and star quarterback Keith Price visit Tiger Stadium. LSU opens SEC play on the road Sept. 22 at Auburn and renews its rivalry with Alabama on Nov. 3 in Death

Magic Valley churches say attendance at services has dropped, but involvement in church activities and outreach is growing.

TWIN FALLS • In recent years' economic scare, did division run rampant? No, the opposite proved to be true among people of faith in the Magic Valley.

Congregations across south-central Idaho reported unification among churchgoers who supported each other and the community during individual hardships.

Still, over the past five years attendance at services has declined, and membership numbers haven't increased as much as people with a looser affiliation attending church activities and performing outreach. And lately, that involvement has begun to fill the pews again.

"It's a traditional cycle," said the Rev. Jeff Cooper, pastor of First Baptist Church in Twin Falls. "Every church has ebb and flow over a period of time, not just now. There are ups and downs, but we are currently increasing."

The congregation saw many people leave throughout the economic downturn due to new out-of-state employment. But in recent months, new members have filled vacant seats at Sunday services.

Many Backgrounds

St. Ignatius Orthodox Christian Church is known for reaching out to those of different socioeconomic backgrounds. Member and Parish Council president Kurt Hefner said the congregation includes Serbian, Romanian, Bulgarian and Ethiopian people. He attributed some of the multi-nationality membership to the College of Southern Idaho Refugee Center.

"A lot of people are brought up in other countries with the beliefs we teach," Hefner said. "They come to this country and we are able to help them feel more at ease."

Despite being between priests, membership has stayed steady, with attendance sporadic. Hefner said advertising, visiting priests and special events helped draw attendance.

"We consistently have between 25 and 30

he email arrived out of the blue: "I'm Andrew Jones and I represent the Luke Dowler band. They've had a cancellation and would like to play at your church."

Coincidence, or God acting anonymously?

I'd just returned from a youth mission trip to North Dakota; this solicitation seemed to be God's hand directing us to go deeper with young people.

After their performance, over a Mexican dinner, the band discussed their perceptions of young people and faith. Mike Murray, who'd just played songs that recounted his experiences in a South African AIDS ministry, offered this: "Young people are concerned about justice issues and want to be involved in actions that make a difference."

difference."

Research tells us that the church's fights about church governance, the differences between denominations or about the kind of music we sing don't matter to young people. They yearn for a faith that is lived out — whether through opportunities for mission or through help on issues of daily life. What they yearn for, Dowler explained to me, is to encounter people whose lives have been transformed, people who can speak authentically about the difference God makes.

The experience on our mission trip confirmed that. Nearly 300 people (youth and adults) came from all across the nation to paint homes on the Standing Rock Indian Reservation. But they also came to be transformed.

"Look, I am making all things new!" (Rev. 21:5) formed the core of our reflections throughout the week. And everyone had opportunities to reflect theologically on that. Youth leaders were present to help and to reflect how Jesus had made things new in their own lives.

For years, Christianity was about orthodoxy, right belief. The post-modern world in which we are all being pulled (some kicking and dragging!) favors a "belief in action" approach to faith that is more similar to Jesus' life than we may be willing to admit. "Orthopraxis" (right action) is what speaks to young people.

Beginning with an inward conviction (about who one is and who God is) should result in outward manifestations of God's love in the world. Eliza Doolittle sang about this in My Fair Lady: "Show me!"

When our words and actions — about our brothers and sisters as well as our enemies — are more consistent with our faith, then people both young and old cannot help but respond.

people attend services," Hefner said. "Sometimes on special events like weddings, Christmas, celebrations and such we'll have as many as 100 people."

Sense of Belonging

Membership has been steady at Immanuel Lutheran Church in recent years. The congregation is primarily middle-aged but recently saw an increase as it reached out to young adults and encouraged a children's

"The Christian church is aging," said the Rev. Roger Sedlmayr. "Membership has increased slightly, though. People want to find a place for worship, support and encouragement."

Immanuel Lutheran started a young family ministry group in April and will resume in the fall. Meeting once a month, the group has helped younger members feel more active and comfortable.

'Members of the congregation wanted it," Sedlmayr said. "When things are led by members of the congregation it tends to go well."

New Mentality

Membership has remained stable at Twin Falls Reformed Church, but lead pastor Brian Vriesman said there is more and more of an affiliation rather than people joining as a member.

"A possible cause is that the significance of belonging to a group has changed. There's been a changing of mentality," he described. "People are comfortable with affiliating, but not committing. To sign on the dotted line, so to speak."

Meeting the needs of the members is what keeps them coming - especially those who didn't grow up in church and can "shop" for churches.

That's not to say people aren't devoted. The mixture of people in congregations brings different walks of life, constraints, challenges and schedules.

"We try to do a better job of assimilating, placing likeminded people into communities so they can develop relationships with people from similar life stages," Vriesman said.

Pulling Together

Senior Pastor David Mowry of Twin Falls Church of the Nazarene said the church felt a slight impact with the economic struggles, but a light seemed to shine from the darkness.

"During hard times people pull together what they can," Mowry said. "When faced with struggles, it makes people stand back and look at who they depend on. Hardships can build who we are and what we trust in."

Participation frequently hinges on relationships with leadership, fellow churchgoers and seeing the relevance of church. "If people don't make friends and develop a sense of community, it's not as successful," Mowry said. "Making connections, seeing the gifts of the work we do together, helps move them from being an observer to an investor."

Getting Involved

Pastor Dwayne Kluchesky, better known by his congregation as Pastor K, strives to get the Twin Falls Seventhday Adventist Church more involved in the community.

Aside from Twin Falls, Kluchesky serves The Olive Tree Ministry Center and a Buhl church congregation. Twin Falls, he said, has more of a staid and aging population that is set in its ways.

"They have their own opinions on things and trying to change in that setting is difficult," Kluchesky said. "Church attendance ranges from 40 to 80 any given Saturday, but we hit a wall because when new people join or transfer they are challenged."

The lack of youth leadership and getting people to commit to running the youth program has become a struggle in making the church as successful as it

The Buhl congregation, while smaller in size, is huge in commitment.

"One year ago we had 15 people attend on average," Kluchesky said. "Now we have 30."

He attributes this to families moving into the area who want to get involved in the community.

Working Together

• One thing that appealed to the Rev. Nate Dreesmann of First Presbyterian Church in Jerome about his congregation is seeing members working together to reach out to others.

"We're a cross-generational church that has a great desire to be proactive and help others in the community without strings," he said. "We have about 110 members on average and we are very kingdom-minded. If people have an itch, we'll figure out how to scratch it."

 Ministry involvement has been a highlight for many churches. Grace Baptist Church in particular has seen a slight increase in membership due in part to ministry activities.

"People are more proactive in their ministries and coming to meet with me about new ministries," said senior pastor Mark Sjostrom. "One couple is doing an orphan-care ministry that is reaching into Africa?

• The variety of ministries and activities at Community Christian Church has helped the 50 or so active members stay engaged in the congregation. Average attendance on Sundays is 55-65.

Creating activities like Kids Day Out every other week, serving a continental breakfast and having a full band has increased the draw to the church as well.

"We've revamped a lot of things in a new way, with a new purpose and freshness," he said. "It has really helped as well as reaching out to the community?

teachers, day care workers and custodian. Volunteers serve in leadership in many capacities, the most visible being our worship leader Mike Redman and church moderator Paulette Ellis. Our church government is handled with a church deacon board and officers.

As an ABC/USA church we are governmentally autonomous with no outside influences making decisions on how we worship or conduct church business.

What are your core

As American Baptists we believe that Jesus Christ is Lord and Savior, and that the Bible is the divinely inspired word of God that serves as the final written authority for living out the Christian faith.

We partake of two ordinances: believers' baptism and the Lord's Supper.

We support religious freedom and respect the expressions of faith of others.

As "the church with heart" we love God (the great commandment) primarily through worship, we love one another (the great commitment) primarily through small groups, and we love all people (the great commission) primarily through ministry and mission.

What's a typical service

Our worship is a celebration of who God is. Our music is lead by a praise team and summer worship leader, Andrew Bortz, with many contemporary songs, including original songs by church members, hymns and any music that brings God glory.

From time to time we worship with a presentation of drama, dance and art. Messages are designed to connect biblical truth with daily life, hoping that people have an encounter with God, not just a cognitive exercise.

We celebrate communion on the first Sunday of the month. Our Christcentered worship is connected to a yearly theme, which currently is "It's About Time," seeing what the Bible teaches us related to time.

Do you offer child care?

During our early service we offer Sunday school and children's church halfway through the later service. Nursery is always provided.

Do you have a children's ministry?

Besides huge yearly events like the Happy Harvest Festival, Breakfast with Santa and a hoppy New Year's celebration, we have an amazing Awana program. We are beginning our third year expanding the ages and adding live music for worship. In the summer we have a great Vacation Bible School and encourage all of our kids to go to church camp at Cathedral Pines.

Describe your youth ministry.

The youth ministry is full of fellowship and good times. Events like tubing in Boise, going to a corn maze, movie marathons and the like. They also do a youth mission trip nearly every summer. Weekly activities include Bible studies and small groups. This fall our youth band will play live for Awana's worship. We seek to grow disciples through our children's and youth and adult ministries.

What other programs do you provide?

We have a thriving Sunday school from nursery through adult as well as small groups that meet in homes throughout the week. From time to time we offer Bible studies on various topics. We communicate through social media including a Facebook page for the church and one for the youth, a blog by the pastor and a church website.

What about community service?

We have people involved through sweat equity or financial support with Valley House, the Salvation Army, Love Inc, Good Sam, the pregnancy crisis center and just about anywhere there is a need.

We have adopted Lincoln Elementary School where we have provided food for teachers meetings, gift bags for teachers and painted the outside playground equipment and given assistance to families in need.

We offer college scholarships through four local high schools annually for people going into helping vocations.

What mission work does your church do?

The youth go on an annual mission trip somewhere in the U.S. and next summer hope to do a mission trip exchange where youth from another state will come to Twin Falls to work in our community.

We have women's missionary societies that assist in missionary support, and we host missionaries during our worship serv-

We are a very strong financial supporter of mission work throughout the U.S. and the world through our American Baptist Home and International missionaries.

Am I Wrong Because I Like Helping at Church but not Participating in Groups?

Rabbi Avi Weinstein, head of Jewish Studies, Hyman Brand Hebrew Academy: People have different temperaments, and one should not necessarily be favored over another. The desire to contribute should always take one's personality into account.

The sage Hillel declared: "Do not separate yourself from the community!"

I always wondered why he didn't articulate this sentiment differently. Why didn't he say, "Be a part of the community," or "Join the community?"

Hillel understood that the natural state of things is that one is born connected. We are born into relationships, so the first act is to deny this, to deny being a part of something greater than yourself.

A great sage, Rabbi Yehuda Loew of Prague, once declared that one is less alive if one is not living in relation to others.

That being said, a person needs to choose how one connects to his or her community. Some do it by helping out and others by joining groups; both are connecting each in his or her own way.

Joining a sacred community and helping that community further its mission is an honorable way to show that one is part of something larger. Such a person has not separated herself but has connected in a profoundly meaningful way that suits her temperament and contributes to the well being of all.

Sunday Service Will Install Lutheran Pastor in Jerome

BY JOHN E. SWAYZE

For the Times-News

JEROME • Thirty-seven years of ministry have placed the Rev. Lance Jennings face to face with a world that needs to know the gospel's message of saving grace. As the new pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Jerome, his goal is to feed the congregation's faith through word and sacrament while assisting members' efforts to reach out to the community.

"Life is fragile, and people have been shattered by the experience," Jennings said. "Sometimes you need to become like a father or brother to them, but through everything, I've always held onto the words of Philippians 4:13.

A service to install Jennings as pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran will be at 3 p.m. Sunday. The sanctuary is at 1301 N. Davis St.

Jennings, 63, grew up attending worship services at a mission church in Michigan. As a sophomore in high school, he began seriously thinking about his future's direction. A few mentoring words from his minister helped things come into focus. "I didn't know about going to college or what I should do, but he thought I would make a good pastor," Jennings said. "That set me off on the path toward a masters of divinity, ordination into the ministry in 1975 and 22 years of service as a chaplain in the U.S. Air Force." That time took Jennings around the globe ministering to the spiritual needs of service men and women, as well as teaching English in Africa and working in the mortuary at Dover Air Force Base in Delaware.

"Being in places like Africa really taught me the importance of giving back," he said. "It's an honor, but working at Dover was pretty tough. You're responsible for helping make sure the remains of our fallen soldiers are treated respectfully, and then you act as escort."

Jennings came from Alaska to serve as St. Paul's interim pastor while the congregation interviewed other potential candidates.

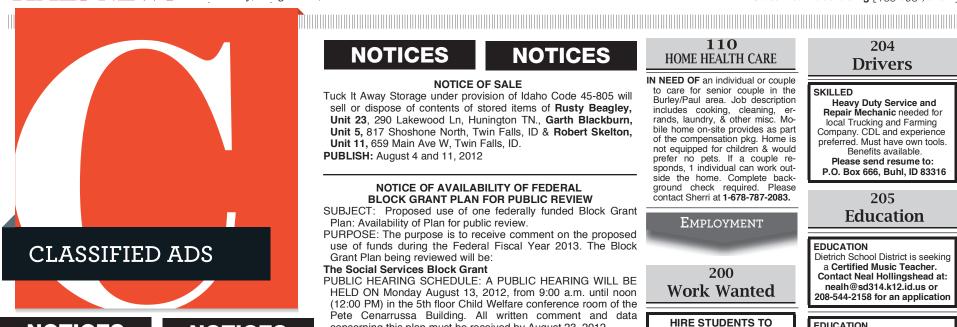

"I wasn't serving a congregation at the time so agreed to fill the church vacancy," he said. "Now, it seems this is where God wants me to be in his

St. Paul's selection committee member Veronica Lierman said that a year and a half later the congregation realized he was the best fit for its

"He has led us in a very encouraging way," Lierman said. "After about nine months of conducting interviews and a lot of prayerful consideration, we approached him about staying as our pastor and he accepted the call."

Regular Sunday services are conducted at 10:30 a.m.; Sunday School and Bible classes are at 9 a.m. Call the church at 324-2842 for information.

A wild, remote, recreational property in the middle of 'nowhere", yet about an hour from Boise, Ketchum and 3.5 h. from SLC, located in the pristine Bliss Valley Idaho, hunting Section 45. It is ten miles N of Bliss and totally surrounded by BLM with the closest two neighbors 2.5 & 5 miles away, with no city lights or any lights visible, only the big bright stars. The main house (The Lodge) is an elegantly rustic cedar structure with total living space of about 7000 sq. ft., 5 large bedrooms, each with full bath and 2 large Party in Mineral Geothermal Pool guest bath houses with easy pool access. The lodge, a three bedroom guest house, and a house on a mote are all geothermally-heated. The Hot Springs are gushing out 1,300,000 gallons/day of 160° F of healthy Mineral Geothermal Spring Water, naturally alkalined at 9.6 pH.

Your very private health resort, hunting club or tranquility retreat. There Is No Other Place Like It!

Today's Highlight:

On Aug. 11, 1962, Andrian Nikolayev became the Soviet Union's third cosmonaut to fly in space as he was launched on a 94-hour flight.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:

In 3114 B.C., the current cycle of the Mayan "Long Count" calendar began. (By some estimates, the cycle will end, and a new one will begin, on Dec. 21 of this year.)

In 1786, Capt. Francis Light arrived in Penang to claim the Malaysian island for Britain.

In 1860, the nation's first successful silver mill began operation near Virginia City, Nev.

In 1909, the steamship SS Arapahoe became the first ship in North America to issue an S.O.S. distress signal, off North Carolina's Cape Hatteras.

In 1934, the first federal prisoners arrived at Alcatraz Island (a former military prison) in San Francisco Bay.

In 1942, during World War II, Pierre Laval, prime minister of Vichy France, publicly declared that "the hour of liberation for France is the hour when Germany wins the war."

In 1952, Hussein bin Talal was proclaimed King of Jordan, beginning a reign lasting nearly 47 years.

In 1954, a formal peace took hold in Indochina, ending more than seven years of fighting between the French and Communist Viet Minh.

In 1965, rioting and looting that claimed 34 lives broke out in the predominantly black Watts section of Los Angeles.

In 1984, during a voice test for a paid political radio address, President Ronald Reagan joked that he had "signed legislation that will outlaw Russia forever. We begin bombing in five min-

In 1992, the Mall of America opened in Bloomington, Minn.

In 1997, President Bill Clinton made the first use of the historic line-item veto, rejecting three items in spending and tax bills. (However, the U.S. Supreme Court later struck down the veto as unconstitutional.) Ten years ago: Dr. Steven J. Hatfill, a bioweapons expert under scrutiny for anthrax-laced letters, fiercely denied any involvement and said he had cooperated with the investigation. (Hatfill was never charged, and the Justice Department ended up agreeing to pay $5.8 million to settle a lawsuit Hatfill had brought against the government for wrongly implicating him.) US Airways filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection. (US Airways emerged from bankruptcy in 2003, but returned to it in 2004 before reemerging in 2005.) Karrie Webb won her third Women's British Open title.

Five years ago: President George W. Bush welcomed French President Nicolas Sarkozy to his family's estate in Kennebunkport, Maine. Former Massachusetts Gov. Mitt Romney won an easy and expected victory in a high-profile Iowa Republican Party Straw Poll. Funerals were held in Newark, N.J., for three college or college-bound students shot to death in a schoolyard. Big Ben's bongs fell silent as workers began a month of maintenance work on the iconic London clock and its world-famous bell.

One year ago: Minnesota rivals Tim Pawlenty and Michele Bachmann sparred bitterly during an eight-candidate Republican debate in Ames, Iowa; Mitt Romney sought to stay above the fray as he focused on President Barack Obama, saying, "Our president simply doesn't understand how to lead and how to grow the economy."

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

"In the fell clutch of circumstance, I have not winced nor cried aloud...."

— W.E. Henley

The auction in today's deal is worth a second glance. Whether you play standard methods, or play two diamonds as a gameforce, it would be a mistake to assume that the rebid of two hearts promises six hearts. It suggests either six hearts or a rebidable five-card suit with no better alternative. With a minimum hand, opener strives to make a descriptive call at his second turn, which could be to raise partner, bid notrump, or introduce a second suit economically. Bidding three clubs should show extras or a good second suit.

Hence, North cannot raise hearts immediately, but his indirect route suggests a doubleton honor — perfect from South's perspective.

Against four hearts, West leads the spade queen and continues with a low spade. After declarer ruffs the third round of spades, he could simply draw trump now, planning to duck a diamond if trumps were 3-3. But if he does so, the 4-2 trump break will leave him reliant on diamonds splitting, and today is not his lucky day.

So the question is whether declarer can do any better by tackling the side suits before drawing trump. The answer is yes: Declarer can improve his chances by leading a club toward the queen at trick four. This is almost without risk, as neither defender has shifted to a club. What it does is give him a third chance for his contract. Now if West wins the club king to play another spade, declarer can take the ruff in dummy and retain trump control.

ANSWER: A cuebid of two diamonds might sound like a strong hand, but if you had opening values, you'd start by doubling here. So the cuebid should be a limited but shapely hand with both majors — exactly like this hand. Note that this principle only applies over a response in no-trump (and not to a suit bid) by your RHO.

HOROSCOPE Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The more you stretch, the more limber and supple you become. If you have been under pressure all week long, you will find that a brisk swim or a few hours on the golf course might lift up your spirits.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Relax. You don't have to have your hand on the rudder all of the time. Your companions, family members or supporters know how to get the job done and will be happy to take over when needed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Even the most doubtful friendship can prove beneficial. If you hobnob with the local black sheep, you might end up enriched by valuable insights and find proof that you can't judge a book by its CANCER (June 21-July 22): Don't brood over injustice. Your sensitivity to the hardships of others is enhanced. A pet rescue commercial could easily tug on your heart and persuade you to adopt a dog or make a sizable donation.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Tie up loose ends and turn them into a bow. Get major financial matters wrapped up while favorable conditions are at hand. This could be a good time to purchase items of lasting quality and dura-

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): All's well that ends well. A quick apology solves a problem. Use brainpower as well as intuitions to work things out. Some short outings or errands can refresh your enthusiasm and give you food for thought.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): This weekend, focus on being a good sport and team player. Join with others to handle routine tasks or invite a friend along on what might otherwise be a boring errand. Share your knowledge and experiences.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Play it fair and square. Make sure that you take the high road and you'll beat the competition fairly. You experience the best results in love or financial matters if you are honest and above-

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Woolgathering could be productive. Your concentration on inspiring works can give you the impetus to achieve a dream or complete a pet project. Write down your ideas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Take time to unwind. Since you are more relaxed and sociable than usual, it is a good time to pair up with a special someone for a romantic outing. Ask for favors now; you are destined to be pampered.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Mingle to be singled out. Fame and fortune can be achieved by making some important new contacts. Accept an invitation to a club or group activity. Don't cling to the past or refuse to try something new.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You've got the gift of gab whether wooing the object of your desires or selling brushes door to door. As even arduous work can be fun with you around, you can expect friends flock to your side.

DEAR ABBY: I have been teaching for 30 years in the same school district. I can't tell you how many times 30to 45-year-old men have come up to me and said, "You don't remember me, do you?" When they were in elementary school, they were not sporting facial hair and didn't have receding hairlines. Still, I feel bad not being able to make their day by spouting off their first and last names.

DEAR ABBY Jeanne Phillips

All of my students are special to me. However, although some of these men attended my school, not all of them were in my classroom. I'm flattered they recognize me, but what's the best way to respond in a situation like this?

Also, could you give your readers some suggestions about how to approach former educators so we won't have to rummage frantically through the file cabinets of our brains trying to decide which child from the past this grown-up might be?

- STRUGĞLING TO RECALL IN ARKANSAS DEAR STRUGGLING:

When someone approaches you and says, "You don't remember me, do you?" an appropriate response would be, "Refresh my memory!" Said with a smile, it shouldn't be offensive.

This potentially embarrassing problem can easily be avoided if the former student simply says, "Mrs. Jones, it's so nice to see you. I'm 'John Smith' and you were my teacher in 1991."

DEAR ABBY: We have some neighbors who recently bought a large parrot they keep in a cage in their backyard. This bird squawks so loudly we can hear it inside our home with the windows closed, and we are no longer able to enjoy our own backyard or patio.

Their yard is fenced in, so I haven't met or even seen these neighbors. For the life of me, I cannot understand how someone could subject others to this kind of intrusion. It is so disrespectful. We can only assume the bird is kept outside so they don't have to listen to its loud screeching inside their own

The bird squawks loudly bout every 10 to 15 seconds and it goes on for hours usually in the mornings and evenings. My nerves are rattled and I'm not sure how much more of this I can take. I hesitate to call the authorities because I am worried about the consequences. What would you suggest?

- FOR THE BIRDS IN FLORIDA

DEAR F.T.B.: Unfortunately, some people decide to buy parrots without first researching what's involved in their proper care and maintenance. Parrots are gregarious creatures and must be kept socialized with another parrot or with the humans who care for them. They also require mental stimulation to remain psychologically healthy.

Because their natural habitat is the rainforest, they have loud voices so they can communicate over long distances. Your neighbors obviously didn't take that into consideration when they bought the bird and decided to house it outside.

Inform them politely about the noise problem their bird is creating and ask that they house it inside. If they refuse, inform the Humane Society or the local Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to ensure that the enclosure is being kept clean, and that the bird is being fed a healthy diet and has access to clean water. As a last resort, if necessary, inform local law enforcement that your neighbor's parrot is creating a sound nuisance.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

WARNING

When purchasing a vehicle, make sure that the title is in the name of the seller. Under Idaho motor vehicle code a vehicle cannot be sold unless the title is in the name of the seller (exception: Idaho licensed dealer). The seller shall provide the new purchaser a signed bill of sale showing the following: Full description of the vehicle, vehicle identification number, amount paid and name(s) and address of the new purchaser. The bill of sale must be signed, dated and show actual mileage at the time of sale. If you have any questions, please contact your local assessor's office.
