Several local school districts adjust to four-day weeks

BY JULIE WOOTTON

SHOSHONE • In Shoshone, Fridays are quieter days around school buildings.

That's because school isn't in session. Last week, some high schoolers took part in an afternoon homecoming parade.

And most teachers were on a field trip in Grand View learning about a program used at a school.

It's the second year the Shoshone School District operates on a four-day school week.

Superintendent Rob Waite said the decision to switch to a shorter week wasn't made in isolation.

"The four-day week was really part of our overall plan to increase instructional time," he said, and improve student achievement with limited resources.

Even though students aren't in school on Fridays, they still end up spending more time in class.

School days are longer. As a result, students spend nearly 30 more hours in class over the

Financial Effect

The Gooding School District reported these approximate savings during the 2009-10 school year:

- Transportation: $60,000
- Utilities: $52,000
- Substitute costs: $30,025
- Employees took 376.5 fewer days of leave from July 1, 2009, to June 30, 2010.
- Revenue from a 5 percent increase in average daily attendance: $93,535

Illegal Water Use Prompts Severe Fine

American Falls man's illegal water use prompted a protest from the Twin Falls Canal Co. and $220,000 in state fines.

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

AMERICAN FALLS • State water officials issued more than $220,000 in fines to an American Falls man for irrigating without a proper water right.

The severe penalty is part of the Idaho Department of Water Resource's strict message to those who try to use the state's valuable resource illegally, said Gary Spackman, IDWR director.

"The message should be out there to people: You don't irrigate without a water right," Spackman said. "There will be both monetary penalties and curtailment. That's the stance the department has taken."

After developing more than 2,000 acres of new farmland, Lance Funk applied for a water permit in December 2011. The permit was protested by the Twin Falls Canal Co. and later thrown out by IDWR.

Funk then applied for a permit to the Idaho water supply bank in March. However, while state officials reviewed his application, Funk continued to irrigate without permission from IDWR.

In July, IDWR sent Funk a notice of violation for irrigating more than 2,000 acres in 2012 and close to 530 acres in 2011 without a water permit.

Parasite Spreads in Magic Valley

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Public health officials are reporting more cases of a parasite causing diarrhea and abdominal pain throughout the Magic Valley.

As a result, the South Central Public Health District is asking the public to take precautions to prevent the spread of cryptosporidiosis, a parasite that can spread through swimming pools and other recreational water.

Crypto cases have been reported in Gooding, Lincoln and Twin Falls counties over the past 10 days, according to a SCPHD news release.

"Even with the end of summer approaching, people are still using area pools, lakes and rivers," said Mary Jensen, SCPHD epidemiology manager, in a statement. "If you've been ill with diarrhea, we can't emphasize enough how important it is to stay out of recreational waters for at least two weeks after your symptoms resolve."

Individuals usually contract cryptosporidiosis by swallowing water contaminated with human stool or animal waste. A frequent symptom is watery diarrhea with abdominal cramping along with dehydration, weight loss, fever, nausea and vomiting.

Most infected individuals recover

From Vendors to Avid Customers

The Stevenses are recognized for their involvement with T.F. Farmers Market.

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • When Diane and Charles Stevens take a stroll around the Twin Falls Farmers Market, they usually run into a few friendly faces.

With a stop at the llama vendor and a quick hello by the coffee hut, it becomes clear the two are regulars and favorites at the Saturday market.

Perhaps it's because the two have been involved with the market since its inception close to 20 years ago. Or maybe it's because Diane's mustard and sea salt are huge hits at the market.

But after spending six months a year for the past several years devoted to the market, the Stevenses are taking a step down.

"It's always an honor and a pleasure to serve when you're appreciated," Diane said Saturday, while being presented with a plaque recognizing their service.

New TFFM President Kim Cohen said she was honored to work with the couple over the years.

ED GLAZAR • FOR THE TIMES-NEWS

Carl Hatfield, a past president of the Twin Falls Farmers Market, presents Diane and Charles Stevens with a plaque Saturday in Twin Falls, honoring the 20 years of work the couple has done with the market.

"They did an excellent job," Cohen said. "Diane was the one who helped make all of this possible right in the very beginning."

When the market first opened, it was scrunched between the city chamber of commerce and sidewalk, she said. But as interest started to grow, so did the amount of vendors.

Diane and Charles speak fondly of their time spent every weekend at the farmers market. They're encouraged that interest continues to grow and that the current location on the College of Southern Idaho campus is an ideal fit for the community.

They've spent their Fridays through Sundays devoted to prepping and recovering from Saturday's sale, but now it's time to focus on something else.

With two grandchildren on the way, Charles and Diane hope to spend their weekends with family. Instead of vendors, they describe themselves now as "avid customers."

"The market takes a huge chunk of your time," Charles said. "We need a break."

A Team Player

Coach, as a servant-leader, can have a big influence on his team. Coach John van Vliet, who led Lighthouse Christian High School to a state championship last year, is a servant-leader. He teaches his team players to serve each other. When the team believes in themselves, there is proper execution, discipline, effort, and preparation. It's in playing the game together with each player's unique contribution that gives the team greater protection and a better opportunity to succeed.

The game of football is about making right choices. In the middle of the season, Lighthouse began exercising their hearts in a new direction. The team started forming some new habits, which eventually led to a state championship.

Van Vliet talked about when he played the game himself and how his reliable backup could always be depended upon. His teammate "had his back" and gave his best even without a starting role.

A team player gives positive encouragement and trust to his teammates. The coaches take care of teaching and correction much like a loving father who wants the best for his kids, and the team goes shoulder to shoulder to get the job done.

What I particularly liked about Coach van Vliet is that he doesn't give up on a player because he makes a mistake. He not only wants to correct but develop and restore that player. He seeks to help the individual player free himself from any behavior that might block his potential.

This attitude of serving others can be taken from the football field into life. Consider how team-play gives us a purpose beyond ourselves. Imagine what a difference it would make in any situation if we all pulled together and did whatever it took to succeed. We can bring this team concept into our marriages, families, businesses, and communities and see the positive difference it will make.

Lloyd Bakewell
Words of Encouragement

We may have to build bridges and tear down walls to better understand each other, but it will be worth it. Last year's Lighthouse Christian football team chose to honor God with both effort and attitude, and it paid off.

When it came to training, their ex-marine "drill sergeant" asked them to undergo the strict discipline of his boot camp "field of dreams" until they were physically and mentally ready to play the game. "No pain, no gain!"

The Lighthouse story with Coach van Vliet and his football staff and players is about what can be achieved with team effort that is given for the good of others.

This lesson may not be activated overnight, but with our personal best and the support and encouragement we give each other, it will lead to more productive lives.

It's about giving our heart and soul to the game and learning to serve and appreciate our teammates. Together, we can build a stronger and better world in which to play the game of life.

The team player who serves well in a caring community will experience success. Respond at loy-dandruth@q.com.

Wildfires Spark Evacuations

BOISE (AP) • Authorities issued evacuation orders Sunday for Idaho residents in the path of two wildfires where expected strong winds and low humidity could make firefighting difficult.

The Lehmi County Sheriff issued an evacuation order early Sunday for residents along U.S. Highway 93 from Quartz Creek to North Fork threatened by the Mustang Complex of wildfires on the Montana border that officials fear could spread with high winds. Law enforcement officials Sunday morning were going door to door notifying residents of about 400 homes.

On the other side of the state along the Oregon border, fire officials said evacuations were taking place ahead of the 2.5-square-mile Sheep Fire. Officials advised residents in the vicinity of Florence to evacuate as well as residents and recreationists along U.S. Forest Service Roads 221 and 441. About 150 personnel are assigned to the blaze but officials said firefighters have been pulled off fire lines to protect buildings.

Fire officials said the 408-square-mile Mustang Complex of fires on the eastern edge of the state is about two miles from the community of North Fork. The lightning-caused fire started July 30 and is 16 percent contained. More than 1,100 personnel are assigned to the blaze.

"Today will be a test of our operational objectives for sure," said fire information officer Bill Swartley. "We're probably looking at a 24-hour wind event here."

The National Weather Service issued a Red Flag Warning for noon to 9 p.m. Sunday for the region, predicting winds of more than 25 mph combined with low humidity.

Fine

Later in August, the department sent Funk another notice for illegally irrigating 50 acres of land he had been leasing.

After consulting with the department, Funk was ordered to pay $227,248 in fines. However, the department did approve his water supply bank permit for the remainder of 2012 for a fine of $70,000.

"I was reluctant to approve his water bank permit so he could continue an illegal use of water but because the water supply bank permit had been issued in the past, we allowed it to happen," Spackman said.

Funk said his relationship with the department still remains on "good" terms. He plans on reapplying for a water permit for next year.

"We don't really have any issues with the department, I can't really say we were surprised we got the notice of violation," Funk said. "We were just trying to work through it. We had our applications turned in. It is what it is."

Brian Olmstead, manager of the Twin Falls Canal Co., said he approved of the department's reaction to the water use violation.

The canal company relies on spring flows. If someone begins tampering with the amount of water available in the Snake River, that has an impact on all water users relying on the Eastern Snake

Plain Aquifer, Olmstead said.

"I think he was getting the cart ahead of the horse," he said. "He (Funk) was diverting first and then trying to get the water right, that's backwards."

If Funk applies for a new water permit, Olmstead said he would protest the application again.

"We think the aquifer is more fully allocated," he said. "It's not that you can't develop new ground, but it has to be done where it doesn't harm existing water users."

Fridays

course of a school year, Waite said.

Shoshone isn't the only south-central Idaho school district with a four-day week. Others include Hansen, Gooding and Bliss.

Like Shoshone, the Hansen School District made the switch last year.

Superintendent Susan Scherz said responses from parents and community members are mixed, which is normal.

"It seems to be a mixed bag," she said.

Scherz, who is in her first year as Hansen superintendent, said it normally takes three to five years to fully implement and adjust to a large change.

Some parents and teachers love the shorter week, she said, because it provides flexibility.

"For others, it's frustrating," Scherz said. For elementary school teachers, it can be more challenging to plan out school days.

In Hansen, students have most Fridays off. But if there's a Monday holiday, students are sometimes in school on Fridays.

"It's a traditional four-day school week with a twist," Scherz said.

Why They Made the Switch

The Gooding School District has operated a four-day school week since 2009.

"At the time, one of the driving forces was financial," Superintendent Heather Williams said.

The school district, she said, was hit hard when North Valley Academy — a public charter school — opened its doors in Gooding.

Williams said the district wasn't financially in a position to take the loss in enrollment, particularly in the midst of the economic downturn.

Even though that was the catalyst for making a change, discussion about a four-day week began at least four years earlier.

In Hansen, Scherz said financial reasons and scheduling conflicts played a role.

"Part of it has been an attempt to be more efficient with money," she said.

And when it comes to attendance, students don't have to miss a school day if they're traveling for sports or other activities on Friday.

What Happens on Fridays?

When the Gooding School District moved to a shorter week, a concern was what students would do on Fridays.

Initially, community groups came together to offer activities. But Williams said they found interest from students and parents waned after a while.

"After the first year, most parents and families were busy," she said.

There are still some enrichment opportunities for students on Fridays, such as a youth advisory council, clubs and sports.

School district dollars, though, are focused on "getting all kids to standards," Williams said.

There's "Friday school" for students who need more targeted remediation. Each school determines which students need extra help.

But some parents opt their children — particularly in first and second grades — out of Friday school. And a handful of students end up getting behind, Williams said.

Shoshone schools also offer tutoring and enrichment activities for students.

Waite said each teacher is responsible for planning three activities over the course of the year.

Schools are also open every Friday and teachers are available to help students with homework.

In Hansen, the school district schedules one Friday per month for student tutoring.

Scherz said Friday tutoring for high schoolers made a huge difference in the number of students who passed their classes last year.

The school district is also scheduling one Friday per month for professional development for teachers. That's a change over last year.

"It sounds like there weren't a lot of trainings scheduled for teachers," Scherz said.

The goal this year, she said, is more specific planning for how to use training time.

Council to Look at Downtown Parking

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Tonight, the Twin Falls City Council will consider approving a request to refinancing water and wastewater loans for projects dating back to 2002.

According to staff reports, refinancing the loans would save the city about $900,000.

The council will also discuss updating its parking ordinances to reflect changes to downtown parking rules, including setting public parking lot hours from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, adding a three-hour time limit and allowing the City Council to set fees for monthly parking passes.

The council will also consider awarding a $2.75 million contract to Sawtooth Construction Inc. for the Kimberly/Highland Water Extension project.

The Twin Falls City Council meets at 5 p.m. today at the City Council Chambers, 305 3rd Ave. E., Twin Falls.

Pilot Dies at Air Show

MOSCOW (AP) • A pilot performing at an air show at a Republican Party fundraiser is dead after crashing a few miles north of Moscow.

The Latah County Sheriff's Office says 60-year-old Randy Humble of Moscow died in the crash around 5:30 p.m. Saturday near the town of Viola.

Latah County Republicans were holding their annual fundraiser and picnic at the time.

The sheriff's office says witnesses reported hearing the aircraft's engine revving loudly just before it crashed.

The pilot was alone in the plane and died at the scene.

The FAA will launch an investigation into what caused the crash.

Visitors to the National Sept. 11 Memorial in New York walk last year around its twin pools.

WTC Memorial to Cost $60M a Year

NEW YORK (AP) • With its huge reflecting pools, ringed by waterfalls and skyscrapers, and a cavernous underground museum still under construction, the National Sept. 11 Memorial and Museum at the World Trade Center is an awesome spectacle that moved and inspired some 4.5 million visitors in its first year.

But all that eye-welling magnificence comes with a jaw-dropping price tag. The foundation that runs the memorial estimates that once the roughly $700 million project is complete, the memorial and museum will together cost $60 million a year to operate.

The anticipated cost has bothered some critics and raised concerns even among the memorial's allies that the budget may be unsustainable without a hefty government subsidy.

By comparison, the National Park Service budgeted $8.4 million this year to operate and maintain Gettysburg National Military Park and $3.6 million for the monument that includes the USS Arizona Memorial at Pearl Harbor. Running Arlington National Cemetery, which has more than 14,000 graves and receives 4 million visitors a year, costs $45 million annually.

Officials at the 9/11 memorial say they face unique challenges that make comparisons to other national memorials difficult.

The foundation plans to spend at least a fifth of its operating budget, or around $12 million per year, on private security because of terrorism fears. Visitors to the memorial plaza pass through airport-like security, and armed guards patrol the grounds.

"The fact of the matter is that this was a place that was attacked twice," said Joseph Daniels, the foundation's president and chief executive.

Just operating the two massive fountains that mark the spots where the twin towers once stood will cost another $4.5 million to $5 million annually, said the foundation's spokesman, Michael Frazier.

Foundation officials didn't respond to requests for information about other costs at the site, including the anticipated expense of running the museum, which is still unfinished and might not be anytime soon.

The museum was supposed to open this month, but construction all but ceased a year ago because of a funding squabble between the foundation and the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

Iraq's VP Convicted, Sentenced to Hang

BAGHDAD (AP) • Iraq's fugitive Sunni vice president was sentenced Sunday to death by hanging on charges he masterminded death squads against rivals in a terror trial that has fueled sectarian tensions in the country. Underscoring the instability, insurgents unleashed an onslaught of bombings and shootings across Iraq, killing at least 92 people in one of the deadliest days this year.

It's unlikely that the attacks in 13 cities were all timed to coincide with the afternoon verdict that capped a months-long case against Vice President Tariq al-Hashemi, a longtime foe of Shiite Prime Minister Nouri al-Maliki. Still, taken together, the violence and verdict could energize Sunni insurgents bent on returning Iraq to the brink of civil war by targeting Shiites and undermining the government.

Al-Hashemi fled to Turkey in the months after the Shiite-led government accused him of playing a role in 150 bombings, assassinations and other attacks from 2005 to 2011 — years in which the country was mired in retaliatory sectarian violence that followed the 2003 U.S.-led invasion that ousted Saddam Hussein's Sunni regime. Most of the attacks were allegedly carried out by al-Hashemi's bodyguards and other employees, and largely targeted government official, security forces and Shiite pilgrims.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Iraq's Vice President Tariq al-Hashemi speaks to the media as he leaves a meeting Sunday in Turkey.

The vice president declined to immediately comment on the verdict after meeting with the Turkish Foreign Minister Ahmet Davutoglu in Ankara. He said he would "tackle this issue in a statement" in coming hours.

The politically charged case — which was announced the day after U.S. troops withdrew from the country last December — sparked a government crisis and fueled Sunni Muslim and Kurdish resentment against al-Maliki, whom critics say is monopolizing power.

Congress Returns for Session

WASHINGTON (AP) • Fresh off a five-week vacation, lawmakers return to Washington on Monday for a truncated pre-election session in which Congress will do what it often does best: punt problems to the future.

They face a slew of deadlines and the prospect of a debilitating "fiscal cliff" in January, yet are expected to take a pass on the big issues of taxes and spending cuts. Their focus seems to be on the bare minimum, preventing a government shutdown when the budget year ends Sept. 30.

Democrats controlling the Senate and their House GOP rivals also will try to set up votes intended to score political points or paint the other side with an unflattering brush two months before the election. Their efforts are sure to be overshadowed by the presidential campaign.

Topping the agenda of substantive business is a six-month temporary spending bill to finance the government's day-to-day operations. The annual appropriations process on Capitol Hill collapsed about midway through the campaign season. The stopgap measure would give the next Congress time to fashion a full-year plan. There would be no more sure way of driving Congress' approval ratings even lower than for lawmakers to stumble into a government shutdown right before the Nov. 6 vote.

House Speaker John Boehner, R-Ohio, and Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, D-Nev., hope to present the measure this week, with a House vote as early as Thursday. The measure also will ensure a steady flow of money into disaster aid accounts.

Chicago Parents Plan for Kids Staying Home

CHICAGO (AP) • With Chicago teachers poised to go on strike for the first time in a quarter century, parents spent Sunday worrying about how much their children's education might suffer.

Teachers said they would walk off the job Monday if no deal was reached with the nation's third-largest district by midnight on issues such as pay and evaluations.

Obama Vies for Health Care Edge in Florida

BOSTON (AP) • Mitt Romney said he would retain some popular parts of the new health care law he has pledged to repeal, while President Barack Obama focused attention in all-important Florida on the Republican ticket's stand on Medicare, an issue that's been more favorable to Democrats.

Romney also said it was a "mistake" for congressional Republicans to go along with the White House on a budget deal that has set up big automatic spending cuts in defense and elsewhere in the new year. His running mate, Rep. Paul Ryan, helped steer that agreement through Congress.

Health care grabbed the spotlight Sunday, less than months from Election Day in the deadlocked race.

Romney, appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press" for the first time in the campaign and the first time since June 28, 2009, said he would replace Obama's health overhaul with a plan entirely his own, yet would keep some popular provisions.

"I'm not getting rid of all of health care reform. Of course, there are a number of things that I like in health care reform that I'm going to put in place," Romney said in the interview taped Friday and Saturday. He cited coverage for people with medical conditions and new insurance marketplaces.

Romney's aides said that was consistent with his previous position that those who haven't had a gap in coverage shouldn't be denied coverage.

But the comments brought renewed attention to the similarities between Obama's plan and the one Romney championed when he was Massachusetts governor, which included both protections for health conditions and an individual mandate that the Republican has since railed against.

The GOP nominee, who attended church in Boston before debate practice sessions, didn't offer specifics for how he'd deal with the affordability of insurance, but suggested competition would help bring down costs. For seniors, Romney has called for restructuring Medicare by giving retirees a government payment that they would use to choose between traditional Medicare and private insurance.

Obama, campaigning for a second day in Florida, tried to move past a weak jobs report Friday and highlight the impact of Romney's proposals on older workers and those nearing retirement.

Dorothy McGuire of McGuire Sisters Dies at 84

BY BOB CHRISTIE
Associated Press

PHOENIX • Dorothy McGuire Williamson, who teamed with sisters Christine and Phyllis for a string of hits in the '50s and '60s as the popular McGuire Sisters singing group, has died. She was 84.

Williamson died Friday at her son's home in the Phoenix suburb of Paradise Valley, daughter-in-law Karen Williamson said. She had Parkinson's disease and age-related dementia.

The McGuire Sisters earned six gold records for hits including 1954's "Sincerely" and 1957's "Sugartime." The sisters were known for their sweet harmonies and identical outfits and hairdos.

They began singing together as children at their mother's Ohio church and then performed at weddings and church revivals. They got their big break on Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts show in 1952 where they continued to perform for seven years.

The group made numerous appearances on television and toured into the late 1960s, making a last performance together on The Ed Sullivan Show in 1968. Dorothy stepped back to raise her two sons, Williamson said. Christine also raised a family while Phyllis pursued a solo career, according to a 1986 profile in People Magazine after the trio reunited and began doing nightclub and Las Vegas performances again.

The sisters last performed together in the mid-2000s, and are featured on a 2004 PBS show called "Magic Moments — Best of 50s Pop."

McGuire was married for 53 years to Lowell Williamson, a wealthy oilman. The couple had two sons, Rex and David.

In addition to her husband and sons, she is survived by two step-children and nine grandchildren.

Fire Ignites Near Country Club

TWIN FALLS • Fire closed Golf Course Road west from its intersection with U.S. Highway 93 for more than an hour beginning at 9:15 p.m. Sunday, authorities said.

Jerome County Sheriff Doug McFall said the blaze was contained and extinguished along its perimeter by 10:05 p.m. However, several hot spots remained and fire officials were working to put them out late Sunday.

He estimated the road would be re-opened by 11 p.m. or shortly afterward.

McFall said it had to be closed because "huge fireballs were blowing into the road."

No motorists were injured, and no structures or livestock were apparently harmed, he said.

The fire sprang up west of the road down from the

Dockworkers Begin Contract Negotiations

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) • Dockworkers and grain terminal operators have begun contract negotiations with far higher stakes than in the disputes that caused chaos at the Port of Portland this summer, diverting ships and clogging cargo as far away as Idaho and India.

The grain talks involve Puget Sound terminals and operations on the Columbia River — the nation's top wheat export outlet.

The talks are being watched by farmers across the Northwest and Midwest.

If the negotiations fail to replace a contract that expires Sept. 30, wheat, soybeans and corn would back up across the U.S. grain belt, affecting tens of thousands of jobs and billions of dollars in exports, The Oregonian reported.

The talks are the latest dispute over jobs and working conditions between employers and the International 42,000-member Longshore and Warehouse Union, which is striving to preserve and extend its jurisdiction as employers automate ports and try curbing labor expenses.

Neither the union nor the Pacific Northwest Grain Handlers Association, which represents four companies employing the longshoremen, would talk.

Jack's Urban Meeting Place in Boise Gets a New Look

BOISE (AP) • The artists' renderings of the six-story JUMP building shows elements of whimsy, like spiraling tube slides and a group of fountains.

The overall design has been tweaked to blend better with Downtown Boise and to make the inside spaces more efficient and operational for users, says Kathy O'Neill, community programs coordinator for the project. Bathrooms, more lobby space and storage areas have been added.

Other changes include concrete construction instead of steel for the above-ground parking garage, shorter slides and subtler colors.

On July 18, the Boise Design Review Committee recommended that the Planning and Zoning Commission approve the changes.

Passers-by should see the helix-shaped building begin rising from the ground about Thanksgiving, O'Neill says.

Jack's Urban Meeting Place has been in the works since about 1999.

It honors its namesake, the late J.R. Simplot, an Idaho farm boy who became a billionaire by founding what became one of the world's largest agribusiness companies.

JUMP is planned as a museum, event venue and general space for the public to enjoy and learn new skills and crafts. The landscape around the building will feature a park atmosphere.

The project also includes studios for dance, multimedia, cooking and meetings, plus an area for banquets and organizational gatherings.

JUMP is expected to be completed by the summer of 2014.

"We're right on schedule," O'Neill says.

Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney after a disappointing jobs report that could dampen the traditional bounce in the polls President Barack Obama may have gotten from the Democratic convention

Why Do We Even Have a President?

Vigor! Setting out to sell the unrattified Constitution to a

Kenneth C. Davis

Special to The Washington Post

wary nation nearly 225 years ago, Alexander Hamilton argued that the executive of this newly designed government must possess that trait above all else. Chances are, Hamilton's vision of a "vigorous Executive" did not include Theodore Roosevelt skinny-dipping in the Potomac River, Ronald Reagan chain-sawing brush on his ranch or George W. Bush careening down mountain-bike paths. He certainly didn't imagine Barack Obama playing hoops.

But in this election year, as the nation nears the 225th anniversary of Constitution Day — which marks the document's adoption on Sept. 17, 1787 — it is worth remembering that the very idea of a president was once as novel as the republic itself.

Today, we take the presidency for granted. From Rose Garden photo-ops and the commander in chief bounding down the steps of Air Force One, to the annual Kabuki performance called the State of the Union, the office and its trappings seem as if they always existed.

But in that steamy Philadelphia summer of 1787, as the Constitution was secretly being drafted and the plan for the presidency invented — "improvised" is more apt — the delegates weren't sure what they wanted this new office to be. To patriots who had fought a war against a king, the thought of one person wielding great power, at the head of a standing army, gave them the willies.

Still, Hamilton asserted in the Federalist Papers that this experimental executive must have "energy" — a quality characterized by "decision, activity, secrecy and dispatch." Hamilton knew that the times demanded bold action. Operating under the Articles of Confederation, a weak Congress had dithered through crisis and conflict, unable to collect taxes or raise an effective army. And the presidents of Congress — 14 of them from 1774 to 1788 — wielded nothing more threatening than a gavel. They couldn't even answer a letter without congressional approval.

As the delegates to the Constitutional Convention sweltered behind closed windows, in the same Pennsylvania State House where the Declaration of Independence had been adopted 11 years earlier, they disagreed about many things. But no issue caused greater consternation than establishing an executive office to run the country.

Would this executive department be one man or a council of three? What powers would the executive have? How long would he hold office? How would the executive be chosen? And how would he be removed, if necessary? (Without an answer to this question, Ben Franklin warned, the only recourse would be assassination.)

On these questions, the record points down a tortuous path filled with uncertainty and sharp division. While some delegates feared creating a presidency that could become a "fetus of monarchy," others called for an executive who could negotiate treaties and make appointments — or command an army if the nation was threatened. Or at least answer the mail.

An erudite Scotsman and signer of the Declaration, James Wilson of Pennsylvania, railed against the idea of an executive council, saying it would contain "nothing but uncontrolled, continued and violent animosities."

Another hotly contested question was who would choose the executive. Some, such as Connecticut's Roger Sherman, thought democracy was one short step from mob rule. "The people . . . should have as little to do as may be about the government," Sherman asserted. "They lack information and are constantly liable to be misled."

While Wilson offered direct election by the people, some preferred allowing the national legislature to make the choice. This idea riled another key framer, Pennsylvania's Gouverneur Morris, a wealthy transplanted New Yorker, who thought that election by the legislature would lead only to "intrigue, cabals and faction."

As the debates bumped along through the summer, there was one certainty. As Franklin said early in June, "The first man put at the helm will be a good one." No one doubted that he meant George Washington, sitting in front of the room and presiding over the meeting. Despite any other squabbles, the beloved leader of the American Revolution would occupy the office they later decided to call "president," a word rooted in the Latin "praesidens" (meaning "to sit before") and first used in America at Harvard in 1640.

Apart from that, many burning questions were still unsettled in late August, when, in timeworn congressional tradition, the delegates punted. The questions of the executive were handed over to a Committee of Eleven, which included a delegate from each of the states in attendance and dealt with a variety of issues left unresolved by the convention as a whole. On Sept. 4, the committee put forward a plan for a president chosen for a four-year term, with the authority to make treaties and appointments (subject to Senate approval), among other loosely specified powers. He would command the army, but Congress would declare war. And they proposed a voting system that placed the choice in the hands of "electors" whose selection would be left to the legislatures of the individual states, later to be called the Electoral College.

Over the course of more than 200 years, presidential power has swung widely as America's chief executives have been more or less "vigorous." Powers implied or never imagined by the framers have been exerted and buttressed, often with congressional and judicial acquiescence. But the three-way tug-of-war between the branches has averted what those framers dreaded most, as Franklin warned: "The executive will always be increasing here, as elsewhere, till it ends in monarchy."

A Quiet Year for Idaho

This election year, hot nationally, is a down cycle for Idaho. Politically, that is, in a way that has nothing to do with specific parties or candidates. This is a year when relatively little on the state level is on the ballot — no governor (or other statewides) or senator.

It happens once every 12 years, every third presidential election. The last low cycle was in 2000, before that 1988, before that 1976. Sort of a political Halley's comet effect.

That usually means a subtly lower level of energy, and lower level of attention from outside; national people, political, journalistic and money types, are interested in a state first if it's a presidential battleground (as Idaho clearly is not) and secondly if it has a strong Senate or gubernatorial race up. After that, attention usually shifts to other states. Oregon, which is in a near-down cycle this year (no governor or Senate, but a few statewides) is in a similar position. Washington, with a runaway Senate race but a very hot contest for governor, gets more national interest.

Randy Stapilus

This can matter, because the outside influence has effects on races down below. Contact nationally is diminished a little. Campaigns are sometimes a little smaller and less noisy, budgets sometimes (not always) a little lower. In-state attention to the campaigns often seems to be down, just a little.

Does this translate to a partisan benefit for anyone? Generally, doesn't seem so, at least based on past cycles. And that has been more or less the case in the last few down cycles.

In 2000, Republican dominance established in most of the previous decade was quietly maintained. That year, Republicans gained three legislative seats, which was the average change over the course of the three previous cycles. The first district U.S. House race was interesting because then-Representative Helen Chenoweth-Hage was opting out, and Republicans had an energetic primary contest. But the November general election was an easy win for now-Governor C.L. "Butch" Otter.

In 1988, remembered now as a relatively good Democratic year in Idaho, the numbers actually show something of a holding pattern. There was no partisan legislative seat change at all, and very easy re-elects for both U.S. Representatives, Republican Larry Craig and Democrat Richard Stallings.

In 1976, there was a gain of five Republican legislative seats, which balanced an eight-seat gain by Democrats in 1974 with a 10-seat gain by Republicans in 1972. (Seats tended to shift around a little more in those days.)

This year, there's little expectation in Idaho that the November results will leave very great difference in the state's elective offices, either the U.S. House or Legislature, more likely a continuation of existing trend lines.

Of course, the presidential election this year might give down-ballot Republicans some boost. That might be countered, in a few legislative races, by competitive races in districts where Democrats ran reasonably strong but lost in the Republican wave year of 2010.

But if this isn't one of those years when political attention flows Idaho's way, there's some reason for that.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Obama's Action Wins Reader Over

Why all the complaining about President Obama?

I didn't vote for him; then, he gave more weeks of unemployment to those who were out of work or refused to take lower-paying jobs or part time. How about Cash for Clunkers? A lot of people got rid of their old junky cars to get cars better on gas mileage, etc. Then Michelle Obama is trying to get people (kids) to exercise and eat healthy. The $250 one-time deposit for Social Security benefits to the elderly and disabled. We don't agree on ObamaCare, but Obama said he would do things and he did! While he is president, Bin Laden was taken down by U.S. forces!

All we hear from Romney is how he will change Medicare, not to put higher taxes on the rich (which he and his family is) than with the rich, expensive horses they own. The expensive properties and how he jokes about being a millionaire. It's not just a middle class problem; there are us (poor folks) who also will cast our votes in November 2012.

We will vote for Obama this year as Romney's outrageous comments and those who forget how they were able to collect more weeks of their unemployment benefits — all because of President Obama's caring about all Americans, not just the rich!

Work Ethic Is Valued

The articles in the Times-News on employment have been interesting.

Last fall on the local news channel, they were talking about the employment beginning to pick up and were interviewing an owner of a small company in Boise that was hiring. He said that out of 10 employees, he was lucky to find one that did their job, showed up every day, always showed up on time, etc.

With so many looking for employment, I thought it would be easy to find "good" employees; obviously not. So apparently work ethic is a huge need in those seeking employment. I remember my first real job when I turned 16. My prospective employer asked, "do you want to work or do you just want a job?"

Food for thought.

The Rest of Ruby Ridge

Remembering Ruby Ridge, Times-News, Aug. 20, is a good thing; however, some additional comments should be made.

Randy Weaver did refuse to cooperate with the federal snitch program and he did saw-off some shotgun barrels, but the steel portion of the weapon, the barrel, was within the purview of the law; what wasn't though was the overall length of the weapons, which were a quarter of an inch too short. So, for a quarter of an inch of wood stock, his family was shot to pieces.

Mr. Weaver was continually accused by the media of shooting Marshal Degan, and that justified martial action, but it's not true. He never fired a weapon at anyone, ever in his life. It happened like this: The Weavers were under constant observation by a fully battle-ready federal combat team. One or more members of the combat team were spotted by the Weaver's dog Spike and did what dogs do, ran up to one or more of them. Spike was machine-gunned, didn't die but with his back broken, he began to yelp and whine.

Mr. Weaver's son, Sammy, 14, but looking about 10, fired into the undergrowth where this group of well-trained heavily armed government fighters were lurking behind cover and camouflage. Then the boy turned with the intent of obeying his father's request, "Come on home, Sammy. Come on home, son."

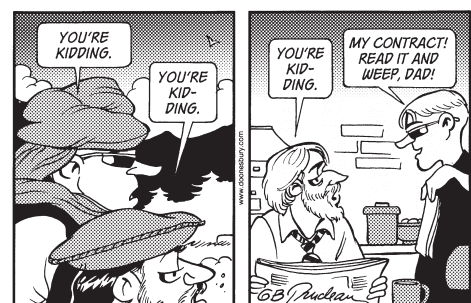

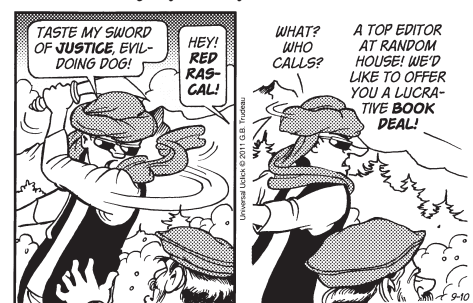

Sammy yelled, "I'm coming, Dad." Those were his last words before these federal heroes let loose, nearly shooting off his arm and hitting him in the back a number of times.

If that wasn't enough for these geniuses, another hero blew Vicky's head off. Not one official was held accountable.

What would happen to the average citizen if they caused the death of two people and their dog with firearms?

Drill Bits on Rover Could Contaminate Mars Water

LOS ANGELES TIMES

LOS ANGELES • For all the hopes NASA has pinned on the rover it deposited on Mars last month, one wish has gone unspoken: Please don't find water.

Scientists don't believe they will. They chose the cold, dry equatorial landing site in Mars' Gale Crater for its geology, not its prospects for harboring water or ice, which exist elsewhere on the planet.

But if by chance the rover Curiosity does find water, a controversy that has simmered at NASA for nearly a year will burst into the open. Curiosity's drill bits may be contaminated with Earth microbes. If they are, and if those bits touch water, the organisms could survive.

The possible contamination of the drill bits occurred six months before the rover's launch Nov. 26.

Under the agency's procedures, the box should not have been opened without knowledge of a NASA scientist who is responsible for guarding Mars against contamination. But Planetary Protection Officer Catharine Conley wasn't consulted.

"They shouldn't have done it without telling me," she said. "It is not responsible for us not to follow our own rules."

Those rules required sterilization of any part of Curiosity that will touch the surface of the planet, including the drill bits and all six of the rover's wheels.

Private Schools Opt out of Vaccines

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) • Parents who send their children to private schools in California are much more likely to opt out of immunizations than their public school counterparts, an Associated Press analysis has found, and not even the recent re-emergence of whooping cough has halted the downward trajectory.

More troubling to public health officials is that the rate of children entering private schools without all of their shots jumped by 10 percent last year, while the opt-out figures held steady in public schools for the first time since 2004.

Public health officials believe an immunization rate of at least 90 percent in all communities is critical to minimizing the potential for a disease outbreak. About 15 percent of the 1,650 private schools surveyed by the state failed to reach that threshold.

Parents cite a variety of reasons for not immunizing their children, among them: religious values, concerns the shots themselves could cause illness and a belief that allowing children to get sick helps them to build a stronger immune system. Likewise, there's no single explanation that accounts for why so many more parents who send their children to private schools apparently share a suspicion of immunizations.

Saad Omer, a professor of global health at Emory University in Atlanta who has studied vaccine refusal in private schools, surmised more private school parents are wealthy and have the time to spread five shots over a series of years and stay home should their child get an illness like chickenpox. Neal Halsey, a professor of pediatric infectious diseases at the Johns Hopkins University, said parents who choose private schools are likely to be more skeptical.

Bibi Reber, whose children attend the Waldorf-inspired Greenwood School in Mill Valley, had her children vaccinated only for what she sees as the deadliest diseases. Greenwood has a 79 percent opt-out rate among its kindergartners.

"I don't think dirt or getting sick makes you a weak person; your immune system needs to work with things," said Reber, whose children attend the Greenwood School in the San Francisco Bay area town of Mill Valley. "We certainly don't want to go back to having polio, but on the other hand, I don't think we need to eradicate all the childhood diseases"

Public health officials say that, regardless of why parents choose not to vaccinate their children, the result is the same: an increased risk of an outbreak of whooping cough or other communicable diseases.

Shell Begins Drilling in Chukchi Sea

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) • More than four years after Royal Dutch Shell paid $2.8 billion to the federal government for petroleum leases in the Chukchi Sea, a company vessel on Sunday morning sent a drill bit into the ocean floor, beginning preliminary work on an exploratory well 70 miles off the northwest coast of Alaska.

Drilling began at 4:30 a.m., said Shell Alaska spokesman Curtis Smith. Shell Alaska vice president Pete Slaiby called it historic.

"It's the first time a drill bit has touched the sea floor in the U.S. Chukchi Sea in more than two decades," Slaiby said in a prepared statement. "This is an exciting time for Alaska and for Shell. We look forward to continued drilling progress throughout the next several weeks and to adding another chapter to Alaska's esteemed oil and gas history"

Federal officials estimate Arctic waters in the Chukchi and Beaufort seas hold 26 billion barrels of recoverable oil and 130 trillion cubic feet of natural gas. Interior Secretary Ken Salazar announced Aug. 30 that Shell would be permitted to begin preparation work at the Chukchi site even though the company's spill response barge has not been certified and is not positioned nearby.

The company is authorized to drill narrow pilot holes 1,400 feet below the ocean floor and roughly 4,000 feet above a petroleum reservoir.

Tropical Storm Leslie Brushes Past Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) • Tropical Storm Leslie's outer bands buffeted Bermuda with gusty winds and rain, swirling to the east of the British enclave Sunday and then heading on a path expected to take it to Canada's Newfoundland later in the week.

The government reopened the L.F. Wade International Airport in the early evening after keeping it closed for most of the day due to tropical storm winds. Major airlines already had canceled flights to the British Atlantic territory of about 65,000 inhabitants.

As Leslie moved away from Bermuda into the northern Atlantic, the Bermuda Police Service said there were no reports of any major damage or injuries. Bus services resumed.

But scattered power outages affected hundreds of customers during the day, and some roads were littered with tree branches and other debris. At least one street pole fell in central Hamilton.

Government officials were breathing a sigh of relief since Leslie had several days earlier been forecast to be a Category 2 hurricane as it passed Bermuda, possibly as a direct strike.

"Despite a few power outages and cancelled flights it will be business as usual tomorrow. I would ask the public to remain cautious as there may be loose tree limbs and debris, and the ocean is still dangerous for swimming," said National Security Minister Wayne Perinchief.

Schools will not hold classes Monday, and sea ferry services were suspended while the fleet and docks are inspected.

Most residents were taking the effects of the storm in stride. The territory has tough building codes and its people are used to strong storms.

Skepticism over Testosterone Marketing Blitz

WASHINGTON (AP) • "Are you falling asleep after dinner?"

"Do you have a decrease in libido?"

"Have you noticed a recent deterioration in your ability to play sports?"

"It could be Low-T."

Welcome to the latest big marketing push by U.S. drug companies. In this case, it's a Web page for Abbott Laboratories' AndroGel, a billion-dollar selling testosterone gel used by millions of American men struggling with the symptoms of growing older that are associated with low testosterone, such as poor sex drive, weight gain and fatigue.

AndroGel is one of a growing number of prescription gels, patches and injections aimed at boosting the male hormone that begins to decline after about age 40. Drugmakers and some doctors claim testosterone therapy can reverse some of the signs of aging — even though the safety and effectiveness of such treatments is unclear.

"The problem is that we don't have any evidence that prescribing testosterone to older men with relatively low testosterone levels does any good," says Dr. Sergei Romashkan, who oversees clinical trials for the National Institute on Aging.

Low testosterone is the latest example of a once-natural part of getting old that has become a target for medical treatment. Bladder problems, brittle bones and hot flashes have followed a similar path: from inconvenient facts of life, to ailments that can be treated with drugs.

Baby boomers are living longer and looking for ways to deal with the infirmities of old age. Life expectancy in the U.S. today is 78 years, up from 69 years a half-century ago. And companies have stepped up their marketing to the older crowd.

Doctors say that's led to an increase in men seeking treatment for low testosterone. Prescriptions for the hormone have increased nearly 90 percent over the last five years, according to IMS Health. Last year, global sales reached $1.9 billion.

Former marathon runner Damon Lease, 50, had been complaining of low energy and depression, for which his doctor prescribed a combination of four psychiatric drugs. But since he started taking twice-a-week testosterone injections in May, he says he's been able to stop taking two of the medications and hopes to eliminate them completely.

Despite its rising popularity, testosterone therapy is not completely new. Testosterone injections were long used for men with hypogonadism, a disorder defined by low testosterone caused by injury or infection to the reproductive or hormonal organs.

But the latest marketing push by drugmakers is for easy-to-use gels and patches that are aimed at a much broader population of otherwise healthy older men with low testosterone, or androgen deficiency. The condition is associated with a broad range of unpleasant symptoms ranging from insomnia to depression to erectile dysfunction.

Witness Testifies about Organ Harvesting in Serbia

BELGRADE, Serbia (AP)

• A Serbian prosecutor said Sunday that a witness has come forward and testified "in detail" about how ethnic Albanian rebels allegedly harvested organs for trafficking from Serbs taken captive during a war in Kosovo, claims Albania and Kosovo have previously denied.

"We have a witness who testified about a medical procedure, done in northern Albania, that consisted of harvesting organs from Serbs kidnapped during the 1998-99 conflict in Kosovo," said Serbia's War Crimes prosecutor Vladimir Vukcevic.

The alleged witness — a former Kosovo Albanian rebel whom Vukcevic did not identify by name — claims to have participated in a surgery involving harvesting a heart from a Serb captive in northern Albania and transporting it to the airport near Tirana, Albania's capital, Vukcevic told the Associated Press.

"We estimate that the information this witness has given is true," Vukcevic said, adding that Serbian prosecutors have been checking the witness' claims for more than a year.

Fla. Officer in Obama Motorcade Struck, Killed

BY MATT SEDENSKY
Associated Press

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. • A motorcycle police officer who was part of President Barack Obama's motorcade to a campaign event in Florida died Sunday after being struck by a pickup truck.

Officer Bruce St. Laurent, 55, was a 20-year veteran of the Jupiter Police Department and one of several officers from agencies across Palm Beach County helping with security for the president's visit.

He was ahead of the motorcade on Interstate 95 preparing to shut down the highway when he was hit by the Ford F-150, Palm Beach County Sheriff's spokeswoman Teri Barbera said. He was taken to nearby St. Mary's Medical Center and was pronounced dead.

Jupiter Police spokesman Sgt. Scott Pascarella, told The Palm Beach Post he trained St. Laurent when he was a new officer.

"We didn't lose a co-worker. We lost a friend," Pascarella told the newspaper. "He would do anything for anyone."

Barbera said an investigation was ongoing and no charges had yet been filed against the driver.

Obama was on the second day of a bus tour through the key swing state and made a campaign appearance Sunday at the Palm Beach County Convention Center.

White House press secretary Jay Carney said the president didn't see the accident, but he was notified of the officer's death and said "our thoughts and prayers are with the officer's family."

The Post also reported that St. Laurent had been a motorcycle officer for 18 years and in 2005 he earned a Distinguished Service Award by the Traffic Safety Committee of the Palm Beaches.

The newspaper reported that in 2001, he was injured when a vehicle he was chasing suddenly stopped and he rammed into it. The two occupants were later arrested, one on a charge of driving with a revoked license and the other for having an outstanding warrant for reckless driving.

Ariz. Bicyclist Dies in Utah-to-Wyoming Race

BY MARTIN GRIFFITH
Associated Press

A bicyclist competing in a race from Logan, Utah, to Jackson Hole, Wyo., crashed on a bridge in Wyoming and fell about 35 feet to his death into the Snake River.

Robert Verhaaren, 42, of Mesa, Ariz., was participating in the annual LoToJa race when he swerved to avoid a pothole and crashed on Highway 89 about eight miles from the finish line Saturday afternoon, Teton County sheriff's deputies said.

The 206-mile race also was marred by serious accidents in Idaho and Wyoming that sent two bicyclists to the hospital and by flat tires experienced by roughly 200 cyclists early on, said race spokesman David Bern.

He said it's the first fatality in the 30-year history of the race, which is billed as the longest one-day bicycle race in the country sanctioned by USA Cycling. This year's event drew 1,500 competitors from across the nation.

"It was devastating for us to lose a member of our LoToJa family," Bern told The Associated Press. "Unfortunately, these things go along with bicycle racing. Cycling is not for the risk averse."

Sheriff's deputies said when Verhaaren swerved to miss the pothole, he crashed into a guardrail and was catapulted over it into the river.

The victim was a highly experienced cyclist who had competed in the event at least twice before, organizers said.

Bern said it was the first major accident on the bridge in the race's history, and organizers would discuss it with Wyoming Department of Transportation officials.

"After every race, we discuss what worked and what didn't, what do we need to change and what do we need to improve," he said. "We had less crashes this year than usual, but the ones we had were more serious."

Another cyclist was seriously injured in a crash on the descent from Strawberry Summit in southeastern Idaho, while another was severely injured in a crash near Wyoming's Alpine Junction about 45 miles from the finish line.

Less than 20 miles into the race, cyclists began experiencing an unusually high number of flat tires. They were blamed on thorny weeds by some cyclists and on very small nails by others.

Riders also had to deal with horses on the road and smoke from a Wyoming wildfire during the race.

"It was strange stuff going on, stuff I don't normally see (at LoToJa)," Bern said.

China Quake Survivors Await Shelter, Expect Rain

Survivors of two earthquakes that killed 80 people in a mountainous area of southwest China are desperately waiting for more aid to arrive as jolting aftershocks keep fears high and hinder rescue efforts.

More than 11,000 tents, 10,500 quilts, 6,000 coats and other supplies including bottled water and rice have been delivered to Yiliang and more are on the way, Xinhua said, citing the rescue headquarters.

The first magnitude-5.6 quake struck just before 11:30 a.m. Friday and was followed by an equally strong quake shortly after noon. Though of moderate strength, the quakes were shallow. Such quakes often cause more damage than deeper ones.

BEIJING (AP) • Survivors of multiple earthquakes in southwestern China waited for shelter and other supplies on Monday amid forecasts of heavy rains that are likely to hinder ongoing search efforts.

The earthquakes on Friday in a mountainous area toppled thousands of homes and sent boulders tumbling down slopes, killing 81 people and injuring more than 800.

The region was expected to be hit by medium to heavy rains on Monday and Tuesday, bringing the threat of rain-triggered landslides that could cause more casualties and complicate search efforts, Xinhua cited rescuers as saying.

Footage from China Central Television showed rescuers and sniffer dogs running past steep slopes because of the risk of fist-sized stones tumbling down. It also showed an ambulance stuck in stones and debris.

A resident of Luozehe town, close to where the quakes struck, said he and others were evacuated to a more central area of the county. "It's quite hot here. There isn't enough drinking water or tents," said Wu Xuehong, who described seeing dead livestock after farm buildings collapsed.

They struck a region of small farms and mines near the border between Guizhou and Yunnan provinces, where some of China's poorest people live.

About 60,000 residents from Jiaokui town in Yiliang county, about 2 miles from the epicenter of one of the earthquakes, had been evacuated to open spaces, an official surnamed Guo said by telephone from the township government office.

Guo said only the older survivors had tents, and that food, water, cotton quilts, clothes and medicine were also needed.

The official Xinhua News Agency cited local authorities as saying mobile phone services in the quake-hit areas had been basically restored.

RGIII Dazzles in First NFL Game as the Redskins Beat the Saints, 40-32 • S3

Magic Valley's Athletes of the Week

11-man football: Torin Brunson, Gooding. Brunson rushed 19 times for 223 yards and two scores as Gooding thrashed county rival Wendell 54-6 on Friday.

8-man football: Eli Berndt, Lighthouse Christian. Berndt hauled in an impressive 15 passes for an eye-popping 337 yards and four touchdowns in a 46-30 win over Hansen on Friday.

Volleyball: Sierra Starley, Twin Falls. Starley led the Bruins to a conference win over Burley on Thursday, adding 15 kills and 22 digs Saturday against Jerome in the championship of their home tournament.

Boys soccer: Federico Mendez, Gooding. Mendez had a big week, scoring four goals Wednesday in an 8-3 win over Bliss and adding two more in a 7-0 win Friday over Declo.

Girls soccer: Allison Simmons, Twin Falls. Simmons pitched two more shutouts this week to post an overall streak of five. It was broken Saturday, but the scoreless string surpassed 400 minutes.

Boys cross country: Chase England, Wood River. England's run of 17:57 at the Bob Shay Invitational was the only time under 18 minutes in the field, as he crossed nearly 30 seconds ahead of his nearest rival.

Girls cross country: Laurel Fiddler, Community School. Fiddler's time of 22:05 won the 1A-2A varsity race at the Bob Shay Invitational by more than 90 seconds and was nearly 50 seconds faster than the 3A-4A winning time.

Sportsweek for Sept. 10

If you can only attend one sporting event per day this week, here's what you can't miss:

Monday

There's a packed field in the High Desert Conference boys soccer standings, and the Community School will held to Wendell trying to get a precious win. Kickoff is at about 6:15 p.m.

Tuesday

The last three Great Basin Conference girls soccer seasons have hinged on one matchup: Twin Falls-Wood River. Round 1 between these two is at Sunway Soccer Complex at 4:30 p.m.

Wednesday

For those willing to make the trip north, Buhl visits the Community School for yet another critical High Desert Conference matchup at the Sagewillow fields. Kickoff is at around 6:15 p.m.

Thursday

A dozen teams descend upon Magic Mountain for one of the bigger small-school cross country events in the area. Hosted by Kimberly, this event starts around 4 p.m.

Friday

Minico, on short rest after its adventure in California, opens Great Basin Conference play against Mini-Cassia rival Burley, which crosses the river to tangle with the Spartans at 7 p.m.

Saturday

Two of the better boys soccer teams in the area lock horns when Jerome visits Buhl for a cross-classification match. Kickoff is scheduled for 1 p.m.

What We Learned: Week 2

TWIN FALLS • It's a common saying in football that a team's first game is the building point, and the biggest improvement comes between the first and second game.

By the time a team has played three games, you start to get a general idea of what that particular team is going to be for the rest of the season.

We're not there just yet across the board, but some of the area squads have hit that third game, and we're starting to get some ideas about how they should fare the rest of the way.

Some of these teams have gotten to that plateau, some have not, but here are five things we learned from the second "full" week of high school football:

1. Declo looks poised to run the regular-season table. I'm not going to say Declo's going to pitch eight regular-season shutouts, but I am starting to wonder when those first points will hit the board. If Buhl doesn't do it this week, it could be a while, as Declo would be past the most difficult portion of its regular season schedule and already has back-to-back shutouts in the bag. If the Hornets get past Buhl, I don't see a loss the rest of the way. The downside to all this? The 2A District IV champion gets, in all likelihood, reigning champion Grangeville on the road in the state quarterfinals.

ASHLEY SMITH • TIMES-NEWS

Declo High School junior Hayden Hanson (4) catches the ball on his way to a touchdown during their game with Kimberly on Friday night.

2. The Snake River Conference looks like a four-team race for two playoff spots. Hagerman and Butte

County are at another level (see No. 4 below), but Grace has also gotten off to an undefeated start at 3-0 and bagged a precious conference win against Shoshone last week. Hansen gets started

EL DORADO HILLS, Calif. • McClymonds gave us Hammer pants. Minico contributed to SpongeBob SquarePants.

McClymonds High is in Oakland, home to three pro sports franchises. Minico High is in Rupert, home to Christmas City, USA.

Oakland crams 390,000 residents into 55 square miles. Minidoka County spreads its 20,000 people across 760 square miles.

The Bay Area ranks in the top 5 for worst traffic congestion in North America. Rupert has three stop lights.

McClymonds' roster includes names like Da'jon, Daishawn, Lavon and Shaqan. Minico's names are Trevor, Tanner, Nathan and Matt.

Oakland public high schools: 19. Minidoka: 1. Oakland has about three dozen smog check stations. Minico often catches the unpleasant whiff of the sugar beet factory.

Oakland's annual celebrations include Art & Soul Festival, Chinatown StreetFest and the Oakland International Film Festival. Minidoka's annual cultural celebration is the county fair.

McClymonds' football claim-to-fame is putting multiple players in the NFL. Minico's football claim-to-fame is alumnus Bill Fagerbakke, who played Dauber in the TV show "Coach." He's also the voice of Patrick Star on SpongeBob.

Miles, Bachman Big Winners at MVS

BY LINDA BRITTSAN
For the Times-News

TWIN FALLS • Although he started from the rear of the nine-entrant field, Street Stocks driver Dale Miles was able to put his number at the top of the scoreboard just 30 laps later to take the main event win Saturday night at Magic Valley Speedway.

After an early caution brought on a restart in the Street Stocks main Justin Boyd led the pack around the one-third mile track. By Lap 6, Miles was on his outside looking to take over the race; just two laps later he would gain the position. From there Miles began to pull away from the field, leaving Ernie Hall and Jason Todd, who had also worked their way up from rear starting positions, to fight it out for second. As the race continued caution-free Miles was able to protect the big lead he had created for himself and convincingly took the checkered flag 3.873 seconds ahead of Hall.

His win came only after some quick adjustments before the main.

"I had a fast car but I didn't make ride height - only two cars in the whole class did - so I had to throw my setup totally out the window. But with 20 years experience I knew how to raise my car but keep my setup as close as possible," Miles said. "I did put my wife (Billi Miles) three wide and ran her up in the dirt, but I think she understood."

Griffin Shines as Redskins Down Saints, 40-32

NEW ORLEANS • Robert Griffin III began his NFL career by connecting on 19 of 26 passes for 320 yards and two touchdowns, and the Washington Redskins handed the Saints a 40-32 loss in their first game since the bounty scandal that overshadowed New Orleans' offseason.

Griffin completed his first eight passes, including an 88-yard touchdown pass to Pierre Garcon, tying for the second-longest scoring pass by a quarterback making his NFL debut.

Rookie running back Alfred Morris rushed for 96 yards and two touchdowns. Aldrick Robinson, making his NFL debut, had a touchdown catch among four receptions for 52 yards.

Drew Brees uncharacteristically struggled with accuracy, completing only 46 percent of his throws with two interceptions. But his 339 yards passing and three TDs kept the Saints in the game until his last desperate pass was picked off by Reed Doughty near the Redskins' goal line.

BEARS 41, COLTS 21
CHICAGO • Jay Cutler threw for 333 yards and two touchdowns and Michael Bush added a pair of scoring runs to spoil quarterback Andrew Luck's debut.

Brandon Marshall had nine catches for 119 yards and a touchdown in his first game since being reunited with Cutler, and Matt Forte ran for 80 yards and a score.

BRONCOS 31, STEELERS 19
DENVER • Peyton Manning made a successful return from a year's sabbatical, leading the Broncos past the Steelers. The four-time MVP coming off four neck surgeries completed 19 of 26 passes for 253 yards and two touchdowns.

He got a big assist from another free agent, cornerback Tracy Porter, whose 43-yard interception return of a Ben Roethlisberger pass with 2 minutes left sealed the win.

Washington Redskins quarterback Robert Griffin III (10) passes in the second half of an NFL football game against the New Orleans Saints at the Mercedes-Benz Superdome in New Orleans on Sunday.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manning, jettisoned by the Indianapolis Colts in March after missing all of last season with a nerve injury that weakened his throwing arm, hit Demaryius Thomas with a 71-yard touchdown toss for his first as a Bronco. It was his 400th career TD toss.

49ERS 30, PACKERS 22
GREEN BAY, Wis. • San Francisco's defense smothered Aaron Rodgers and the Green Bay offense for most of the game, then made one last stand to stop a late rally.

David Akers tied an NFL record when he kicked a 63-yard field goal to the end the first half, with the ball bouncing off the crossbar and going through the uprights.

EAGLES 17, BROWNS 16
CLEVELAND • Michael Vick overcame four interceptions by throwing a 4-yard touchdown pass to Clay Harbor with 1:18 left in the nerve-racking win.

Vick led the Eagles on a 91-yard scoring drive, capping it with his short toss to Harbor on his career-high 56th pass. Before Vick rallied his team, he played poorly and showed rustiness after playing just 12 snaps during preseason because of injuries.

VIKINGS 26, JAGUARS 23, OT
MINNEAPOLIS • Rookie Blair Walsh kicked four field goals, including a 55-yarder as regulation time expired and another one in overtime, and Adrian Peterson returned from a left knee injury to lift the Vikings.

Peterson ran 17 times for 84 yards and two touchdowns for the Vikings, who led for most of the second half until Blaine Gabbert's 39-yard touchdown heave with 20 seconds left in the fourth quarter put the Jaguars back in front.

For the first time since the NFL's new overtime scoring rule was installed last season, the first team on the board didn't immediately run off the field a winner.

After Walsh's 38-yard kick, the Vikings had to play defense again while the Jaguars had their chance to match. But Gabbert was hurried into a fourth-down overthrow, spoiling the debut for new Jaguars coach Mike Mularkey.

LIONS 27, RAMS 23
DETROIT • Matthew Stafford threw a 5-yard touchdown pass to Kevin Smith with 10 seconds left.

Stafford made up for a shaky game by leading an 80-yard, nine-play, game-winning possession that included three passes of at least 18 yards.

Sam Bradford directed a go-ahead drive that set up Greg Zuerlein's 46-yard field goal and put the Rams ahead 23-20 with 1:55 left. But coach Jeff Fisher's debut ended with a loss because the Rams could not shut down Stafford in the end.

JETS 48, BILLS 28
EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. • Mark Sanchez threw three touchdown passes, including two to rookie Stephen Hill, and the Jets eased concerns about their offense.

The Jets sprinkled in their wildcat package with Tim Tebow, who was mostly quiet but recovered a late outside kick by Buffalo, and Jeremy Kerley had a touchdown catch and a punt return for a score. Antonio Cromartie also took one of New York's three interceptions of Ryan Fitzpatrick to the end zone.

It was the most points the Jets have scored in a season opener. That's from a team that had many wondering what to expect after the first-team offense failed to score a TD in the first three games of the preseason.

TEXANS 30, DOLPHINS 10

HOUSTON • Arian Foster had two touchdown runs, Matt Schaub threw a TD pass to Andre Johnson, and Houston's defense dominated rookie Ryan Tannehill and Miami.

Tannehill threw three interceptions in a 6-minute stretch late in the first half, and the Texans opened impressively in what they believe can be a Super Bowl season.

PATRIOTS 34, TITANS 13

NASHVILLE, Tenn. • Tom Brady threw for 236 yards and two touchdowns, and the defending AFC champions won easily.

Brady may have suffered a broken nose when he was sacked in the second quarter by Kamerion Wimbley, but he didn't miss a play.

FALCONS 40, CHIEFS 24

KANSAS CITY, Mo. • Matt Ryan threw for 299 yards and three touchdowns, one of them to Tony Gonzalez in his return to Kansas City.

Ryan also ran for a TD, while Julio Jones caught six passes for 108 yards and two scores.

BUCCANEERS 16,

PANTHERS 10

TAMPA, Fla. • Tampa Bay's rejuvenated defense came up with two interceptions against Cam Newton and the Buccaneers won their debut under coach Greg Schiano.

CARDINALS 20,

SEAHAWKS 16

GLENDALE, Ariz. • Kevin Kolb replaced injured John Skelton and led Arizona on the deciding touchdown drive, throwing 6 yards to Andre Roberts for a score with 4:59 to play.

Aided by two pass interference penalties, Seattle drove to the Arizona 4 in the final seconds. But rookie Russell Wilson threw three straight incompletions and the Cardinals held on.

Adding to the confusion, Seattle appeared to have called a timeout when it had none remaining, but that turned out to be a mistake by the replacement officials working the game.

against Butte County this week (have fun with that, Huskies), while Shoshone, Raft River and Challis are behind the 8-ball already after losing last week. The top three look in good position to earn three of the five playoff berths on offer for the seven-team conference. That leaves four for two. Shoshone and Hansen can score with just about anyone but can't seem to keep many teams from scoring. Raft River is growing into its own even though it got shut out at Hagerman. Challis is the wild card, but a 58-8 loss to Butte County isn't exactly an auspicious start.

3. Jerome can be a reasonably good football team if it ever stops shooting itself in the foot. Two touchdowns allowed in the first three minutes put Jerome in tough position against Century a couple games ago. Against Bishop Kelly, Jerome didn't just shoot itself in the foot, it unloaded the entire clip. The Knights, who I have at No. 2 on my 4A ballot this week, probably would have won anyway, but the Tigers didn't make it difficult in any way for their guests. Jerome can only hope it's getting the lion's share of its mistakes out of the way early. That, or I might have jumped the gun after their Zero Week obliteration of Mountain Home.

4. Hagerman and Butte County are on a collision course for Oct. 12. The reigning 1A-I champions have outscored their first two opponents 102-8. The division newcomers have outscored theirs 98-8 and have shown no signs of struggling to adjust from 11-man ball. Both teams have an overwhelming majority of key players back from last season and speed up and down the roster. The final score could be 12-8 or 52-50, neither would surprise me. Which Pirates will win? Your guess is as good as mine.

5. Friday's Carey-Dietrich game isn't necessarily for the Sawtooth North title. The Panthers and Blue Devils have had this date circled for some time, and in the opinion of most, the winner has the inside track for the title in the Sawtooth Conference's northern division. But after a couple of down years, looks like Mackay may have something to say about that. On Friday the Miners mercy-ruled a Rockland team expected to contend for a playoff berth out of the South Division, showing a real statement of intent. Based on the last two years, the winner of the Carey-Dietrich game can feel confident about its chances, but it might not be the foregone conclusion we originally thought.

McClymonds has won a Grammy with alumnus MC Hammer. Minico has won an Emmy with alumnus and journalist Lou Dobbs.

I'm told McClymonds' list of notable alumni also includes Bill Russell, Paul Silas, Frank Robinson and the Pointer Sisters. I didn't verify all those, but I'm like the Republican Presidential race — I won't let my column be dictated by fact-checkers.

Minico's elevation: 4,157 feet above sea level. McClymonds: 13 feet.

According to Wikipedia, Oakland "offers a wide variety of cuisine... which reflect(s) the city's ethnically diverse population. Minidoka has Stevo's.

Malcom X once spoke at McClymonds High School. Asking Minico players about Malcom X is like watching a Jaywalking segment on The Tonight Show.

None of McClymonds' current roster has ever been to Idaho. What comes to mind when Warriors star Lavance Warren is asked about Idaho?

"Big people," he said. "And potatoes."

Regardless of their differences, for one beautiful blue-sky afternoon in the suburbs of Sacramento, the game of football brought these communities together. Cool thing about football is, strap on a helmet and you can't tell who has dreadlocks and who has a mullet. For two-and-a-half hours Saturday, they were no longer inner-city kids and farm kids.

They were just kids.

Which brings us back to pants.

Whenever we faced a big-time opponent, my high school football coach used to give us the same pep talk, "Those guys are no different than you. They put their pants on the same way you do — one leg at a time."

Doesn't matter if those pants are Hammer or square.

For the Super Sixes, the Championship was on the line between drivers Bob Bachman and Jason Skyberg.

Bachman started seventh in the 13-car main event race with Skyberg just two positions behind. Bruce Gillogly led the race from Lap 7 to Lap 20, but a caution would then pack up the field for a restart. Bachman, who had quickly worked his way through the field, took the opportunity to take over the race but Gillogly kept the pressure on, wanting to get the position back. Meanwhile Skyberg had moved into third and was hoping another caution would give him the opportunity to get the win and the series title. It was not to be, however, and Bachman not only crossed the finish line first, the championship was his.

"I kind of messed up in the heat race and wrecked, but we got this car put back together with baling wire and duct tape," Bachman said. "In the main I just wanted it. As the laps were winding down I knew we had a faster car and I wanted the championship. Now I am tied with Dean Waltman for championships with five, and that means the world to me."

Chad Everett took over the Hornets main event race at Lap 6 and held on to the lead to finish 1.597 seconds in front of points standings leader Jeff Peck. Lane Walker, second in the standings, finished third followed by Jason Quale and Kris McKean.

In Jr. Stingers action Justice Coates easily took the win in the first main event race of the night, and Devri Browne skillfully held off Hailey Douglas for her first main event victory of the season.

The Thunderdogs victory also went to Everett, who drove the White Lightning car to its first main event win of the season.

ALBION ALLOTMENT DIVISION FENCE INSTALLATION

The U.S. Forest Service, Sawtooth National Forest, Minidoka Ranger District is proposing to construct approximately 2.5 miles of barbed wire fence. The project is located in T12S, R25E, Sec 31 and T12S, R24E, Sec 26. This project is the installation of a division fence along the ridge on the West side of Howell Canyon from the existing drift fence below the lower overlook to the existing fence just north of the Thompson Flat Campground along Forest Road 561. This will be a barbed three wire and steel post constructed fence. There will be approximately 1/3 of the fence that will lay-down to prevent excessive damage from occurring during the winter. This fence is intended to help control livestock movements and to improve resource condition in the Howell Canyon area.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

On 10/31/2012 at the hour of 2:00 PM of said day, (recognized local time), on the front steps of the Jerome County Courthouse, 300 North Lincoln, City of Jerome located in Jerome County, State of Idaho.

William L. Bishop, Jr., as successor trustee, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, payable, for certified funds, or the equivalent, which is lawful money of the United States of America, all payable at the time of sale in compliance with Section 45-1506(9) Idaho Code, the following described real property, situated in Jerome County, State of Idaho, and described as follows, to-wit:

Lot 11 in Block 5 of Magic Meadows No. 4 Subdivision, to the City of Jerome, Jerome County, Idaho, as the same is platted in the official Plat thereof, now recorded in the Office of the Recorder of said County.

The Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above-referenced real property, but for purposes of compliance with Section 60-113 Idaho Code, the Trustee has been informed that according to the County Assessors office, the address of 823 20th Ave E, Jerome, ID 83338 is sometimes associated with said real property.

Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the deed of trust executed by Chance L Craig, an Unmarried Man, as grantors to William L. Bishop, Jr., as successor trustee, for the benefit and security of Washington Federal Savings, recorded September 6, 2007, as Instrument No. 2075438 Mortgage Records of Jerome County, Idaho.

THE ABOVE GRANTORS ARE NAMED TO COMPLY WITH SECTION 45-1506(4)(A), IDAHO CODE. NO REPRESENTATION IS MADE THAT THEY ARE, OR ARE NOT, PRESENTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THE OBLIGATION.

The default(s) for which this sale is to be made is the failure to pay when due, under the Deed of Trust note, the following:

The monthly payments for Principal and Interest Due from 1/1/2012 through 6/1/2012; and all subsequent payments until the date of sale or reinstatement.

These payments include interest at a fixed rate. The current rate is 6.500%

Total: $4,390.00

Accrued Late Charges $184.03

Property Inspection Fee $25.00

TOTAL DEFAULT $4,599.03

The sum owing on the obligation secured by the said trust deed consists of the principal balance of $78,715.63, together with any advances plus foreclosure fees and costs. All delinquent amounts are now due, together with accruing late charges and interest, unpaid and accruing taxes, assessments, trustee's fees, attorney's fees, and any amounts advanced to protect the security associated with this foreclosure.

SUDOKU

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow with four teenagers. My husband died four years ago, and I have been seeing "Ken" — a wonderful man — for 18 months. He is four years older than I am, has never been married and has no kids. He had very little contact with mine until I was sure the relationship was serious.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

Ken has proposed and we have set a date for a year from now, but my children are extremely unhappy. They say they don't know him and aren't comfortable around him. Ken is quiet and shy, the opposite of me. We have big decisions to make regarding homes and employment over the next few months.

I realize that life is precious. I'm happy with my decision to marry, but the kids are trying to make me feel guilty and make no attempt to get to know Ken. When he comes over, they barely say hello. They say they hate me, and once they leave for college they'll never return. I know they miss their dad, but how can I get them to see it's OK for me to move on? How can I foster a relationship between them and their future stepdad, help them to move on and accept my happiness?

The kids and I have gone to counseling and were discharged after progress was made, but things have slipped back since I started dating. They refuse to return to counseling. Please help.

— NEW HAMPSHIRE WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: You are the mother of four immature teenagers who are afraid of change and view your fiancé as a threat. In a few years all of them will be away at college and, I hope, will have matured enough that they no longer feel the need to "punish" you for not remaining a grieving widow for eternity.

It would be helpful if Ken had a more outgoing personality and could relate to your children. If he's willing, some counseling for the two of you might help so he can learn and you can get some tips. The bottom line, however, is that you are the parent in that household. Your children do not have to "love" Ken, but they DO have to treat him with respect and consideration. If love grows from that — terrific. If not, so be it.

DEAR ABBY: I have taught English at the junior and senior high school level for 19 years. As I grow older, I find it more and more difficult to be a good disciplinarian, and I'm afraid that I am shortchanging my students. I no longer have the motivation to be a good teacher.

I would go back to school to do something else, even though I am 45, but my husband has recently been placed on disability. Any suggestions for how the "old gray teacher" can evolve into something else? I have tried employment agencies in the area where I live, but they have not been much help.

— THE WORST TEACHER IN LOUISIANA

DEAR TEACHER: You may be suffering from burnout or from a mild depression. If you haven't already done so, discuss your feelings with the head of the English Department or your principal. With your husband not working, your stress level must be high, and it could have a lot to do with the way you feel. Some sessions with a counselor might help you find yourself again. And while you're at it, inquire about career counseling at either a local college or your alma mater.

DEAR ABBY: Would you please settle a dispute in my family? I am a stay-at-home wife and mother of two boys. I do everyone's dirty laundry. When someone leaves something in the pockets of clothes (like wallets, papers, etc.), who do you think should be responsible for removing said articles — the person placing the clothes in the hamper or the person doing the wash?

— LAUNDRESS IN SPRINGTOWN, TEXAS

DEAR LAUNDRESS: Both!

THE ACES ON BRIDGE Bobby Wolff

"You may tempt the upper classes With your villainous demitasses, But Heaven will protect the working girl."

— Edgar Smith

When defending against a major-suit game, you might be tempted to try to cash an ace in another suit. But sometimes you have to resist temptation.

Not every North-South reached four spades in this deal from the 2002 European Teams Championships. Those who did, but did not receive a club lead, had no difficulty in coming to 10 tricks by way of five spades and five diamonds. However, in the match between Israel and Poland, Michael Barel had no problem leading clubs after Yoram Aviram's helpful hint in the auction. The four-club call guaranteed heart support and showed where his values lay. Aviram's bid led Barel to the best lead, the club ace. East overtook the club jack continuation, then cashed the club king. It must have been tempting to continue with the heart ace, as West's overcall promised no more than a six-card suit. But when West pitched a low heart, Aviram realized that his partner had started with a seven-card suit, and the heart winner was not going to stand up. Had West started with six hearts, he would have pitched a high heart.

Equally, with his trump holding of 10-9-8, Aviram appreciated that West only needed to hold the spade jack or queen, be it doubleton or singleton, for the contract to be defeated. So he continued with a fourth round of clubs, and sure enough, West ruffed with the spade jack, elevating East's trump holding to the setting trick.

ANSWER: Lead the spade jack. When leading partner's suit, lead the top of a two-card sequence. The spade jack might cost you a trick in the suit if partner were short, but when your side has nine-plus cards in a suit, leading the top honor should be safe and more revealing than a low card.

CONNECT

IF SEPTEMBER 10 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You may feel as though you are holding the weight of the world on your shoulders and must fight to defend your position during the next few weeks. Take care of problems that crop up and pass every cosmic test by being super-conscientious. Don't be fooled into thinking that you can escape from obligations or that there is an easy way out. Don't start crucial new business ventures or projects until after the first of the year when smooth sailing is guaranteed and the cosmic lights turn green.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Solve problems using pearls of wisdom. Your mind is racing like a finely crafted machine, but you must be careful not to offend anyone with your sharp wit. You could race past the facts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Put your faith in reliable business practices and maintain high standards. If your eggs are all in one basket, be alert for bumps. This isn't the best time to finalize an important agreement or contract.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): The fine print might not be fine with you. Keep one eye on your obligations and the other one on the little slips of paper that come through the mail slot. A crucial notice could easily be overlooked.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Schemes and dreams cooked up with a friend may have endless potential. You appear more talented and desirable than usual. This could be a good time to impress a new admirer or meet a new employer.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Take the time to develop good financial plans and use friends and gurus as a sounding board before implementation. An impetuous bit of carelessness can be costly or waste resources.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): There is nothing wrong with asking for proof to back up claims. This isn't the time to give someone a second chance just to keep the peace. Remember: "Fool me once, shame on you. Fool me twice, shame on me."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Make sure you aren't playing a shell game with hard-earned money. Take extra precautions when making major purchases, loans or signing contracts. Tighten your belt and wait out confusing conditions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Don't be sidetracked by mirages; just keep on trucking. Your industriousness and creative flair can make a favorable impression on others. Press the pedal to the metal and zoom, zoom, zoom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): It isn't always easy to separate fantasies from facts — and they are far from the same thing. It is possible that your suspicions are unfounded, but it is always wise to double check facts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You can't scheme things into being. Plots and plans have their places, but won't always produce a re-sounding success. Use acceptable benchmarks and traditional planning methods to reach benchmarks.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Read the small print thoroughly. A bill might show up in the mail and require attention, but under these stars you could miss a crucial detail. Put extra effort into networking and making new connections.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You'll get by with a little help from your friends. A knack for making and sustaining friendships could be your best asset in the next few days. When fairness is called for, you'll be a friend indeed.

Today is Monday, Sept. 10, the 254th day of 2012. There are 112 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On Sept. 10, 1912, the jungle character Tarzan made his debut as "Tarzan of the Apes" by Edgar Rice Burroughs was first published in The All-Story magazine. (The novel was published in book form in 1914.)

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1608, John Smith was elected president of the Jamestown colony council in Virginia.

In 1813, an American naval force commanded by Oliver H. Perry defeated the British in the Battle of Lake Erie during the War of 1812.

In 1846, Elias Howe received a patent for his sewing machine.

In 1919, New York City welcomed home Gen. John J. Pershing and 25,000 soldiers who'd served in the U.S. First Division during World War I.

In 1932, New York's Independent City Owned Rapid Transit Railroad, later known as the IND, began service.

In 1939, Canada declared war on Germany.

In 1945, Vidkun Quisling was sentenced to death in Norway for collaborating with the Nazis (he was executed by firing squad in October 1945).

In 1962, the U.S. Supreme Court ordered the University of Mississippi to admit James Meredith, a black student.

In 1963, twenty black students entered Alabama public schools following a stand-off between federal authorities and Gov. George C. Wallace.

In 1972, at the Munich Olympics, the U.S. Olympic basketball team lost to the Soviets, 51-50, in a gold-medal match marked by controversy because officials ordered the final three seconds of the game replayed, enabling the Soviets to win; the U.S. protested, to no avail. Frank Shorter of the United States won the men's marathon.

In 1979, four Puerto Rican nationalists imprisoned for a 1954 attack on the U.S. House of Representatives and a 1950 attempt on the life of President Harry S. Truman were freed from prison after being granted clemency by President Jimmy Carter.

In 1987, Pope John Paul II arrived in Miami, where he was welcomed by President and Mrs. Reagan as he began a 10-day tour of the United States.

Ten years ago: The Bush administration raised the nationwide terror alert to yellow, its second-highest level, closed nine U.S. embassies overseas and heightened security at federal buildings and landmarks in America on the eve of the Sept. 11 anniversary. Florida's first big test of its new elections system turned into a nightmare as polling stations opened late and problems cropped up with new touchscreen voting machines. Switzerland became the 190th member of the United Nations.

Five years ago: Gen. David Petraeus, the top American commander in Iraq, told Congress he envisioned the withdrawal of roughly 30,000 U.S. troops by the summer of 2008, saying the surge in U.S. troops had met its military objectives "in large measure." Academy Award-winning actress Jane Wyman, 90, died in Palm Springs, Calif.

One year ago: On the eve of the 10th anniversary of 9/11, former Presidents George W. Bush and Bill Clinton paid tribute to the 40 passengers and crew who fought back against their hijackers aboard Flight 93 during a ceremony dedicating the first phase of a memorial in Shanksville, Pa. A pair of NASA probes — named Grail-A and Grail-B — rocketed toward the moon on the first mission dedicated to measuring lunar gravity and determining what's inside Earth's orbiting companion.

Oscar- and Emmy-winning actor Cliff Robertson died in Stony Brook, N.Y., a day after turning 88.
