THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

Dow Climbs after Jobs Report

NEW YORK (AP) • An encouraging report on the labor market and better sales from Costco and other retail stores helped push the stock market higher Thursday. The government said that 367,000 Americans sought unemployment benefits for the first time last week. That's an increase from the previous week but fewer than economists had forecast. The Dow Jones industrial average gained 80.75 points to close at 13,575.36. The Standard & Poor's 500 index climbed 10.41 points to 1,461.40. The Nasdaq composite rose 14.23 points to 3,149.46.

Six-vehicle Crash Ties Up Blue Lakes

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • A six-vehicle accident slowed traffic to a crawl during the lunch hour on Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

The crash was in the 1100 block of Blue Lakes, said City of Twin Falls spokesman Josh Palmer. The call about the crash came in at 12:11 p.m., Palmer said.

Twin Falls police and fire departments responded to the scene, he said. Several people said they were injured and one person who was complaining of back pain was transported the hospital, Palmer said. Two lanes on Blue Lakes were closed while the crash was cleaned up and four vehicles were towed. Police cleared the scene about 1 p.m.

Woman Claims Man Punctured Tires after Saying Racial Remark

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A Twin Falls man was arrested this week for charges related to an alleged racial incident earlier this year.

James R. Skinner, 56, pleaded not guilty Wednesday to one count of malicious injury to property.

On June 1 at about 7:15 p.m., police responded to Jimmy John's Gourmet Sandwiches at 1139 Addison Ave. E. in Twin Falls for a call about damaged property.

Police spoke to a woman who said a man in his 50s with a teal Mazda pickup was in the parking lot. According to the woman, who is black, he looked at her and said she had a nice tan, the report states.

According to the report, the woman told police she asked the man if he was talking to her friend and the man replied, "No, I was talking to you."

The woman then asked the man if he had a problem with it, and he allegedly replied that he did and said he had a problem with her "explicitly) relatives," the report states.

Then, the man allegedly looked the woman up and down and said he could "fix the situation," the report states.

According to the report, the woman told police she threw her drink in the man's face in a fit of rage. The woman then said she went inside the store to call her boyfriend. When she looked outside, the woman said she saw the man puncturing the tires on her friend's car.

According to the report, the woman said the man had moved his car to the north end of the parking lot.

On her way out of the restaurant, the woman said she grabbed a broom and began hitting the hood of the man's car, but he drove away and she was unable to get a license plate number.

On July 2, the woman's friend contacted police and said she saw the man who was involved in the incident and was able to get his license plate number.

Later, the woman was able to identify the man from a photo lineup, the report states.

On Sept. 4, a warrant was issued for Skinner's arrest for malicious injury to property. He was arrested Wednesday and after entering his plea was released without bond.

A pretrial conference is scheduled for Oct. 23.

Gooding County Sheriff Shaun Gough looks through the missing person file for Fred Miller, who disappeared in 1968.

Recycle Your Old Tires This Saturday

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Don't know what to do with your old tires? Why not try recycling?

On Saturday, Southern Idaho Solid Waste is collecting used tires free of charge at any of its facilities. Transfer stations and the Milner Butte Landfill will also be open normal business hours for the company's tire amnesty day.

The company will accept four passenger car or pickup tires per person and disposal fees will be waived, but only if the rims are removed. Tires with rims or large truck, tractor and implement tires will still be accepted but charged the regular prices.

The event is part of an effort to prevent breeding grounds for mosquitoes and rodents often found in discarded used tires.

Last year, Milner Butte Landfill recycled more than 265 tons of tires, according to the waste district's news release.

The district covers seven south-central Idaho counties: Blaine, Cassia, Gooding, Jerome, Lincoln, Minidoka and Twin Falls.

For details on locations and hours, visit www.sisw.org or call 208-432-9082.

Gooding Cases That Stopped Cold

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismsmith@magicvalley.com

GOODING • Some cases may never be solved.

Gooding County Sheriff's Office investigators fear that may be the case with several mysteries still in their hands. But the sheriff's office isn't giving up on these cold cases:

Rose Migdal

Wyoming woman Rose Migdal went missing near Gooding on Oct. 20, 1993.

Migdal's vehicle was found, high-centered in the desert southeast of Gooding. But for years her remains were never located. Then in 1998, a shepherd kicked what he thought was a soccer ball.

It turned out to be a skull, said Gooding County Sheriff Shaun Gough.

Migdal's remains were discovered spread across an acre in the desert.

How she died remains a mystery. In 2009, investigators took another look at the case and checked out a hunch that Migdal was murdered for money.

"It was a lead that went nowhere," Gough said.

For now, Gough said there's nothing to show foul play might have been involved in her death.

"I think she high-centered her car in the desert, got mad and started walking and succumbed to the elements," he said.

Fred Miller

According to the Idaho State Police Missing Persons Clearinghouse, Fred Miller's disappearance is the oldest missing-person case in Idaho.

Miller was last seen at 8 p.m. on Aug. 16, 1968, according to the original police report, filed by then-Gooding Sheriff Bill Bunn. The report states Miller, an irrigator, didn't show up for work the next day. His wife hadn't seen him either. The sheriff's office sent messages to police in every state to be on the lookout, the report states.

"Every sheriff since has worked on it," Gough said.

In the 1980s, deputies dredged the Snake River below the Upper Salmon Dam in hopes of finding Miller's 1960 white, four-door AMC Rambler.

"I was brand new at the time," Gough said.

A decade later, deputies dug up a backyard in Gooding County. Neither search found anything.

In 2007, Miller's families' DNA was checked against a body found in Oregon in 1973. Still, no match.

The most recent development in the case happened less than a year ago, Gough said. In January, he got a call from a researcher in Texas who was working on matching DNA to unidentified bodies.

"She wanted to know if the Gooding sheriff's office had any of Fred Miller's DNA," he said.

The office didn't, but Gough offered to get a sample from Miller's children.

"If a body turns up, they'll be able to match," he said.

Louis Neguelouart

Louis Neguelouart's vehicle was impounded by the Nevada State Patrol when they found it abandoned 15 miles north of Las Vegas in Jan. 1986. Neguelouart himself has never been found.

According to a report, a wing window on the vehicle was punched out. The keys were inside, along with Neguelouart's belongings, and nothing mechanically appeared to be wrong.

Neguelouart was last seen in Gooding on Jan. 12, 1986. His boss said he picked up his paycheck, but on Jan. 16,

First Security Bank in Gooding told police Neguelouart's account was overdrawn by $56.

"Several bodies have been found in Nevada but dental records never matched up," Gough said.

Clues in the disappearance have been sparse.

"We don't even know who to contact for DNA," he said.

Unknown Victim

While many cases have few or no suspects, one in Gooding County has no known victim.

In 2000, convicted serial killer Tommy Lynn Sells admitted to killing a woman near Bliss, but no body was ever found, Gough said.

Sells also confessed to killing two people in Twin Falls County, among 61 killings nationwide in the late 1980s.

In March 2000, Texas Rangers brought Sells to the area in an attempt to locate a body, Gough said. Sells claimed he buried the woman south of Bliss, but in 1993 a landslide completely changed the landscape of the area.

"The whole mountain moved," Gough said. "A huge area slid."

Gough said he remembers the day Sells was brought in and the trip out to the site.

"He looked around and said 'Well, this has all changed,'" Gough said. "We didn't tell him about the landslide. We were like, wow, he's been here."

New American Citizen Organizes Voter Fair

BY MELISSA DAVLIN
mdavlin@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A Twin Falls resident and recently naturalized American citizen is hoping to drum up excitement for the election, especially among fellow immigrants and young voters.

Liyah Babayan, owner of Ooh La La Fashion Boutique, is hosting a voter information fair from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday in downtown Twin Falls.

Babayan got her citizenship in 2008, shortly after the presidential election. She remembers feeling disappointed that her citizenship paperwork went through too late to vote for the next president, and is excited to do so for the first time this year.

But she's worried that other naturalized citizens are wary of the democratic process. Some come from countries where voters are intimidated, or minority political views are held against them, she said.

"For some new voters, there's a lot of personal anxiety they have to overcome because of what they've experienced in their motherlands," Babayan said.

Babayan wants to change that perception.

"I'm trying to encourage them to really participate and exercise their democratic power," Babayan said.

The fair will run concurrently with Oktoberfest — which is also 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday in downtown — though the two events aren't connected, Babayan emphasized.

The election information event is non-partisan, and will have information on how to register as well as representation from both Republican and Democratic parties.

Democratic legislative candidate Rosemary Fornsell said she is attending the fair, and that she is supplying sample ballots.

"We should have four or five different groups of people there," Fornsell said.

'Hats Off to Mrs. Matthews' Raises $8,635 for Cancer Battle

TIMES-NEWS

WENDELL • Wendell schools raised $8,635 for a kindergarten teacher who is battling cancer.

Melinda Matthews received the check Wednesday during a special assembly at Wendell Elementary School.

School district superintendent Greg Lowe said Matthews "thanked everyone from the bottom of her heart" at the assembly.

"As superintendent, I can say that she is one of the very, very best kindergarten teachers I have ever seen," he wrote in a statement. "Last year, she was runner-up for Idaho Teacher of the Year."

Matthews will miss about two to three months of school due to cancer treatments. She plans to return to teaching afterward.

Elementary school teachers Lonette Brown and Lana Lamm launched the fundraising project.

Star Corp. — the contractor for the new elementary school building — donated all the funding to buy hundreds of hats that read "Hats Off to Mrs. Matthews."

The hats were sold at Wendell schools, around the community and at the Homecoming game. Wrist bands were also donated by Star Corp. and sold.

All funds from the hats and wrist band sales went to Matthews.

Jerome Therapy also got on board and donated $3,000. Many people bought hats for more than $10 — sometimes, for as much $200.

Members of the Filer Fire Department rescue a volunteer during a mock mass casualty training exercise on Thursday at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds. The scenario involved a severe wind event with damaged cars and bleachers tipped over.

PREPARING FOR THE WORST

Emergency management agencies meet for full-day, mass-casualty preparedness exercise.

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismsmith@magicvalley.com

FILER • Lorena Gomez, a senior at Filer High School, had blood smeared across her face and severe injuries on her arms at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds on Thursday.

"I fell off a ride," she said. Gomez was just one of dozens of actors who helped the Twin Falls County Emergency Management team carry out a full-scale mass casualty exercise.

In December 2011, wind tipped over a set of bleachers at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds. No one was in the bleachers at the time but if they had been, it could have been a disaster.

The training scenario on Thursday had 20 people injured or killed after wind knocked over the bleachers, an RV and caused a car accident, said Lori Stewart, spokeswoman for the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Office.

Agencies ranging from the Filer School District and the Twin Falls County Fair staff to police, fire, paramedics, coroner's office and others all worked together to respond to the practice event.

Gomez is in the National Honor Society and spent the day as a disaster victim at the fairgrounds. While it was cold outside for the exercise, Gomez said she enjoyed seeing what the emergency responders went through.

Twin Falls County Department of Emergency Services Coordinator Jackie Frey said the full-scale exercise was a good chance to bring all the agencies together.

"We can look at our communication shortfalls," she said.

Salvation Army Maj. Eddie Patterson said that while the group provides food, clothing and other items during a real disaster, they prepared breakfast and lunch for everyone involved in the mock exercise Thursday.

The event was also a good chance for Salvation Army volunteers to meet and work with first responders, he said.

As the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Office's public information officer, Lori Stewart waited at her office this morning until she was called to respond to the fairgrounds for the faux emergency.

Then, Stewart met with the incident commanders and briefed the media — played by actors — who made it to the scene before she did.

In a real incident at the fair, newspaper and television reporters would most likely already be present covering some kind of fair event, Stewart said.

Something that can't be played out in an exercise is the mass hysteria that can happen in a large-scale emergency.

"There are thousands of people at the scene," she said.

Keeping everyone out so emergency responders can do their jobs is difficult, she said.

Rollover Killed Heyburn Man

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • A Heyburn man died Wednesday after he was ejected Tuesday during a one-vehicle rollover crash south of Burley.

Melbert J. Taylor, 48, was driving his 2002 white GMC pickup north on State Highway 27 when he lost control of the vehicle Tuesday evening at 600 South Road, according to a Cassia County sheriff's report.

Taylor was taken to Cassia Regional Medical Center and transferred by air ambulance to Portneuf Medical Center in Pocatello, where he later died.

Hospital staff at Portneuf Medical Center never responded to a request by the Times-News for an update on Taylor's condition. But a death notice submitted by Hansen Mortuary and several friends and family of Taylor said Taylor died Wednesday in Pocatello.

According to the sheriff's report, the officers at the scene estimated Taylor's speed at 77 mph in a 65 mph speed zone. The pickup rolled two times, landing on the driver's side.

Taylor was not wearing his seatbelt, according to the report.

Road Project to Take Place in Twin Falls

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Road and water line work will cause traffic delays next week in Twin Falls.

On Sunday, the southbound lane of Locust Avenue between Falls Avenue and Spruce Street will be closed for repaving. Flaggers will control traffic, though it is best to avoid the area.

On Monday, the intersection of Pole Line Road and Bridgeview Boulevard will be closed for roadwork.

Also Monday, crews will install waterlines as part of the Kimberly/Highland Water Extension Project. Crews will work on Meadowview Lane between Fourth Avenue and Kimberly Road, and on Kimberly Road between Meadowview Lane and Eastland.

BURLEY • A Burley woman injured in a home explosion Saturday continues to recover in a Salt Lake City hospital.

Amy Wood, wife of Rep. Fred Wood, R-Burley, received second- and third-degree burns on her face, hands and feet when a basement room exploded.

"Amy is doing very well and progressing very nicely," Fred Wood said Thursday.

The couple was eating dinner when they heard a loud noise before an explosion erupted in the secure room used to contain guns, reloading equipment and other valuables. The blast lifted up a patio slab that was the roof of the vault room and collapsed an overhead awning.

Amy Wood was in the backyard when the explosion occurred. Fred Wood was not injured.

"We couldn't be happier with the care here and the progress she's making," Wood said. "She's making remarkable progress."

State Deputy Fire Marshal Ivan Hibbert said Thursday his report on the incident is not completed and it could be the end of next week before it will be filed.

No Charges in March Parking Lot Fatality

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • Prosecutors will not file charges against a Heyburn man involved in a fatal March crash in a factory parking lot west of Burley.

Cassia County Prosecutor Al Barrus said there will be no charges filed at this time against Daniel Hood, in large part due to a limit in state law on when vehicular manslaughter can be charged.

Hood was driving a pickup truck into the McCain Foods USA plant parking lot March 2 when he crashed head-on into another vehicle, killing the driver, Santiago Maestas, 59, of Albion.

"We've decided we can't file charges at this time unless other information comes in to the office," said Barrus. "But we're not closing off that possibility."

Hood's pickup landed on top of the cab of Maestas' truck, crushing Maestas as the two vehicles collided.

Maestas was leaving the parking lot at the plant while Hood was picking up his wife at the end of her shift, according to a report by a Cassia County sheriff's deputy.

Blood tests showed Hood had alcohol in his system, but he was not over the legal limit to drive, Barrus said.

In order for Barrus' office to file a valid vehicular manslaughter charge, state law requires the incident to have occurred on a highway, street or bridge or on public or private property open to the public.

The McCain crash occurred past the plant's guard house, Barrus said. Thus, it was on private property not open to the public, which precludes his office from filing charges.

Hood also allegedly had a seizure after the crash, Barrus said.

"But that's something our office could have worked through if we would have found a way to press charges," Barrus said.

Barrus said his office spent months reviewing the case.

"This is a tough case. We really looked hard at it," he said. "And I feel really sorry for the family."

Former UI President Named Cal State Chancellor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) • The California State University system named a new chancellor Thursday to head the nation's largest collection of four-year colleges as it faces significant financial and academic headwinds.

CSU officials said Timothy P. White, former president of the University on Idaho, will take charge of the Cal State system, which has 427,000 students on 23 campuses.

White, 63, will replace Charles B. Reed, who is retiring after 14 years. White plans to start the new job in late December when the 71-year-old Reed steps down.

Born in Argentina, White moved to Northern California as a boy and was the first in his family to go to college.

complaints Thursday from reform supporters that taxpayer-backed facilities are being improperly mixed with politics.

The Idaho Education Association on Aug. 9 filmed a portion of a campaign ad criticizing Superintendent of Public Instruction Tom Luna's reforms at Woodrow Wilson Elementary in Caldwell.

The reforms are the subject of a Nov. 6 recall bid.

"I'm sure this is the most romantic place you could imagine, here with me."

OUR VIEW

Gooding Water Bond Should Go to a Vote

Those pesky voters. They don't know what's good for 'em. At least, that's the sense we get from the Gooding City Council, which would rather hire a lawyer and go to court than hold an election.

At stake is a water improvement project that costs at least $7 million. According to Mayor Duke Morton, the upgrade is needed because pipe is rotting in the current water delivery system, sediment has risen so high that water has trouble moving and water has flooded some residential basements.

Some residents oppose the project because repaying the bond will effectively double water rates. We can understand that. When people hear their bills are going up, they want to make sure there's a good reason.

This scenario plays itself out year after year in towns across the United States. Bond measures are proposed to pay for city improvements. People vote on whether they're willing to foot the bill. But in Gooding, the mayor and council don't want a vote. Instead, they'll go to a judge and request the ability to bypass voter approval.

To make matters worse, when 30 residents showed up at a public hearing in hopes of finding answers, they were provided none. The mayor and councilors refused to speak or answer questions.

Now it's been a long time since we've attended a high school civics class, but we seem to remember that governments acting without the consent of the people weren't considered democracies. We also seem to remember some very smart people a couple hundred years ago formed a nation on the ideal that people can govern themselves. The Constitution they wrote began with three simple, but powerful words:

"We the People." And some of the newspaper articles we publish remind us that hundreds of thousands have fought and died – and continue to do so – to protect that ideal.

With that in mind, we would like to remind the Gooding mayor and city council that their job as elected representatives is to carry out the will of the people, not decide it for them.

New Zipline Was a Great Way to Spend a Birthday

I want to let people know about "zip the canyon" because it's such a fun thing to do. Bob Conery and I zipped it Saturday, Sept. 29 for my 68th birthday.

I knew we were going to have 10 other people with us. It turned out that they were 10 Baptist ladies who were here on a retreat. What a fun group of ladies. So we called it "Bob and his harem." The Zip is truly an experience. The owners and workers, Dave, Nick, Chris and Jody, go along and help at all times and make the whole thing so enjoyable.

We all had a lot of laughs. Everyone, young and old, should "zip the canyon."

Luna Laws Should be Called 'Let's Throw Teachers Under the Bus'

My radio keeps airing an ad paid for by the Republican Women. It claims that the Luna Laws will not raise property taxes as suggested by Proposition 3 opponents. Au contraire!

Butch Otter cut education funding, and he needed to justify his action. Tom Luna had a plan that would blatantly eliminate costly teachers, the backbone of education, and replace them with computers. Butch bought in.

Computers don't have bargaining power. Computers don't need raises. Computers don't need medical or retirement benefits. Computers are cheap, and Tom can probably get a volume discount from the out-of-state company submitting the lowest bid. What could possibly go wrong? Didn't Idaho go through a similar scenario recently with an out-of-state Medicaid management company? Some people learn from history that they don't learn anything from history.

Meanwhile, revenue-starved school districts have had to convince voters to pass levies in order to keep their schools operating. Twin Falls passed one, and it raised property taxes. The radio ad claims that won't happen. Well, duh, it already happened. Time for a reality check, ladies. Intelligent legislators saw the fallacy in Luna's plan and voted against some of it. Tom had to make adjustments, but his goal hasn't changed. Idaho can't afford all those computers and teachers, too. Think about it. The title, "Students Come First," is obviously a misnomer. If students really came first, wouldn't our governor properly fund their education? Tom should have called it "Let's Throw Teachers Under the Bus."

When you put teachers on the chopping block, you're putting education on the chopping block.

Stop the nonsense; vote no on Propositions 1, 2 and 3.

Funding Life-saving Procedures Difficult Without Insurance

My son is 27 years old. He wants all the things that someone his age aspires to – a home, family, going hunting, fishing and a son to do those things with. His chances for those things are not looking very promising.

His heart and lungs have been damaged by multiple blood clots he threw during a routine shoulder surgery to repair it from a work injury. It takes time and a specialized doctor to heal the damage. The State Insurance Fund, the insurance carrier for the state, stopped his benefits without reason a few months into this process. He has no other insurance. Without specialized care, he will die. The one thing that has kept him alive, oxygen, is now in peril of being taken away.

Please help my son and I by calling Gov. Otter's office and ask that his benefits be reinstated today.

City Bound and Determined to Kill the Downtown Area

The city of Twin Falls does it again. I am an employee for a company that is located in downtown Twin Falls. Isn't it wonderful that they got rid of the parking meters? I was wondering how they were going to make up for the lost revenue. I just found out how.

We have a city-owned parking lot behind our office, and I have been paying $93 a year for a leased space, which I thought was high. Now the price for a parking pass for the year is $220. So this year, I am not going to purchase a pass. I will just park along the street, which is perfectly legal. I guess I can't worry that I might be blocking the view of oncoming vehicles. It just seems to me that the city is bound and determined to kill the downtown area. Hopefully, the company I work for will find a new location to do business where it is friendly to not only the customers but the employees.

If the city hasn't figured it out yet, a business isn't any good without the employees to work at the business. I would guess that between the banks and the other companies located in downtown, the employees of these businesses outnumber the customers of the downtown area. So let's nail the employees; this makes a lot of sense.

Sorry, city fathers, but you are missing the boat again. Personally, I would like to purchase the parking lot behind city hall and start charging this rate for the parking there. I would be willing to bet that the city employees aren't even being charged. What is the difference? They are all city-owned lots.

Remember Ruby Ridge When US Declared War on its Citizens

More on Ruby Ridge. To be fair, the marshals totally disregarded instructions from their head office: "Do not," Washington ordered, "under any circumstances, engage the Weavers; and at all cost, do not injure the children."

The marshals disobeyed orders, engaged with deadly force, lied like hell and not one was held accountable. Also, they plotted to use 30 officers to seize Sara, Randy's 15-year-old daughter, without warrant and hold her as a lever to pry Randy from his perch.

The Weavers were "separatist" living within what they thought was their constitutional rights, through their fundamental Christian beliefs; and they were targeted for it. But they were a cult, you say. Didn't Christianity begin as a cult, I say? And many in America have been targeted for their beliefs. Isn't this one reason the colonies revolted against the tyranny of Great Britain? People just wanted to be free to live their own lives, not subject to any government bureaucrat. Now, today, we see little but subjugation.

Why did I take an interest in this case? I view Ruby Ridge just as important, maybe more so, than 9-11, because it's a direct link to tyranny when our law enforcement community commits unrestricted warfare on its own citizens and we find these officers "of the law, are not only fully capable, but more than willing to manufacture evidence, to conceal crucial evidence and to change the rules governing life and death if ... it seems expedient," by Gerry Spence (Weaver's defense attorney). It's just bust in and blast away.

Since 1949, the American government's war on everything attitude, has systematically gutted the U.S. Constitution, the Bill of Rights and America has become little more than an armed state bent on self-destruction.

The great imperialist Napoleon nailed it with: "War justifies everything."

City Code Enforcement is Frustrating, Embarrassing Residents

Code violations gone too far? We need to make better use of city employees.

My house has been repainted; I fixed my broken sidewalk out front, live in the most well kept part of town. Recently, I trimmed a bush at the side of my house and got a big orange warning on my front door to embarrass me because of some small branches under my boat six feet inside my property line.

I do not have a single weed on my property; my sidewalks and driveway are perfectly edged. The notice said branches and rubbish. Rubbish it is not; I am offended. They did not knock on my door; this is harassment. Stay out of my backyard!

Why would you target the best kept neighborhood in town? I bragged about moving last year, how great it was. Now I am spiteful; I pay $180 a month in taxes so you can nit pick. Get a real job.

Suit Would Block Trucks Hauling Ore at Nev. Mine

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev. (AP) • Opponents of open-pit mining that has resumed for the first time in decades on the edge of the national historic landmark in northern Nevada have filed a lawsuit to try to stop trucks from hauling the gold and silver ore on a local mountain highway.

The Comstock Residents Association is suing Comstock Mining and Storey County, accusing the county of improperly allowing Comstock Mining to haul ore along Nevada 342 at "substantial risk" to the public.

In addition to safety concerns, group leaders say the mining runs counter to the best interests of protecting the history of the Comstock in and around Virginia City. They accuse county officials of being more concerned with the mining company's interests and future income to county coffers than addressing valid concerns of the public.

"We have a local government that is dismissing us," said Joe McCarthy, a board member of the Comstock Residents Association.

"Our view is the citizens and the residents are not being served by Storey County," he told the Reno Gazette-Journal.

McCarthy said that at a minimum, the county should have required a traffic study and business impact analysis before allowing Comstock Mining to begin trucking ore on the highway.

The entire city was designated a National Historic Landmark in 1961 in recognition of the rush of prospectors who chased the discovery of a major silver deposit in the Virginia Range in 1858. At its peak, Virginia City had a population of more than 30,000, with Comstock mines producing hundreds of millions of dollars in silver and gold over a 20-year period.

Comstock Mining started acquiring property and mining claims in 2003 across more than 6,000 acres in the Virginia City, Gold Hill and Silver City areas.

Company officials say they have identified potential gold and silver resources valued at nearly $5 billion left behind more than a century ago. About 100 people currently work for the company.

Boise County Issues Bonds to Pay Debts

IDAHO CITY (AP) • Boise County residents will begin paying more taxes in December in a surcharge that will last seven years as the rural government makes good on a big bill from a nasty legal fight.

The county has issued $2.7 million in bonds through the Idaho Bond Bank Authority that will pay the balance of a $5.4 million judgment from a lawsuit brought by a company that was illegally barred from building a teen treatment center, The Idaho Statesman reported Thursday.

A property with taxable value of $100,000 will see taxes rise $31 a year to cover the money owed to Boise development company Oaas Laney.

Though the debt is limited to Boise County, the matter became the subject of a dispute in the 2012 Idaho Legislature before lawmakers finally backed a plan that led to the bond sale.

Boise County Commissioner Bob Fry said after the bond sale that he was relieved the matter has finally been brought to a successful conclusion.

"It's like how runners feel at the end of a marathon. They're just wasted," Fry said. "That's how I feel about this process. It's been really hard."

In 2010, a jury ruled that officials in the county north of Boise broke federal laws by blocking the teen treatment center proposed by Oaas Laney. Fry wasn't yet elected, so he wasn't one of the officials.

Oil Sand Modules Being Built in Billings, Mont.

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) • The first of at least 29 steel modules being manufactured in Billings for an oil sands project in Canada have begun traveling north.

The first two loads left Bay Ltd. early Monday and traveled the back roads to the Port of Sweet Grass, where they crossed into Canada on Wednesday, The Billings Gazette reported.

Bill Parker, the company's senior manager in Billings, said a third module left Wednesday and a fourth was scheduled to leave Friday.

The massive modules hold piping, electrical cable, valves and other equipment.

Bay spokesman James McCord compared the modules to big Lego toy pieces. The first nine modules will be put together to form a sulfur recovery unit.

The Department of Transportation issued permits last week for the large loads being hauled by Mammoet, which has moved other large oil-related equipment through Montana.

The equipment is being hauled on a route from Billings to Acton, north through Roundup and Grass Range to the intersection of U.S. Highways 87 and 191. The route then goes west through Denton to Fort Benton and continues north to Chester and on back roads to the Port of Sweet Grass north of Shelby.

Travel will occur mainly in the daytime. It takes about seven days for a module to travel from Billings to the Canadian border, at an average speed of about 35 mph.

Unions Register 450,000 Voters

WASHINGTON (AP) • The AFL-CIO says it has registered more than 450,000 new voters from union households over the past 18 months, part of an ambitious push to swell the ranks of Democratic-leaning voters and help President Barack Obama win reelection.

The tally includes about 68,000 new voters in Ohio — one of the most contested battleground states this year — and thousands of other union-friendly voters in swing states like Colorado and Nevada.

"That's an amazing number," said Paul Beck, a political science professor at Ohio State University. "In an era of declining union membership, one wouldn't think there would be many new targets out there."

Obama defeated Republican John McCain by a little more than 200,000 votes in Ohio in 2008 out of about 5 million votes cast in the state.

Voters from union households have traditionally favored Democratic candidates. That trend is expected to continue this year in light of high-profile efforts by Republican leaders to weaken collective bargaining rights in Ohio, Wisconsin, Indiana and other states.

In 2008, exit polls showed 59 percent of voters who lived in union households backed Obama, while 39 percent supported McCain. Union household voters split similarly in the previous two presidential elections.

"This is the first time we've made this big an effort to increase registration," said Mike Podhorzer, AFL-CIO political director. "We're really proud that more union members are going to be engaged. Whoever they vote for, the fact is we're increasing civic participation."

Podhorzer said the plan began in March 2011, when the labor federation began matching lists of union household members with voter registration files from every state. It then identified about 2.3 million people living in households of active and retired union members who were not registered to vote.

Union leaders hoped to register at least 20 percent of that number. That would raise the estimated overall union household registration from 70 percent to 75 percent of eligible voters.

Canyon Ridge's Tyler Turner (48) celebrates his defensive touchdown with Cameran Bartlett (41) against Buhl during senior night Thursday at Canyon Ridge High School in Twin Falls.

Canyon Ridge Offense Comes Alive in Win over Buhl

BY JOHN DERR
For the Times-News

TWIN FALLS • The drought is over.

Canyon Ridge, who went five games without scoring an offensive touchdown, finally found pay dirt on the way to a 36-0 victory over Buhl in non-conference football action Thursday night.

While the defensive got the first one, the offensive came through with a pair of scores in less than a minute to end the first half, then added a couple more after the break while tallying nearly 400 yards of offense.

"I felt like a monkey had been ripped off our team's back," said Eddie Marin, who finished the night with three touchdowns. "This meant a lot, it will keep us going and give us confidence."

The Riverhawks (2-4, 1-1) looked to score that elusive offensive touchdown midway through the first quarter, collecting three first downs, but a fumble ended the drive.

Buhl's Devon Privott dives for yardage as he's brought down by Canyon Ridge defenders Thursday night, October 4, 2012 at Canyon Ridge High School in Twin Falls.

Three plays later Canyon Ridge would get on the board via the defense as Tyler Turner intercepted a tipped pass by Kelly Admire and rambled 30 yards.

"It was just right in my face, I knew I had to start running. I got a great block by Andy Powlus," said Turner. "The defense did their job and made plays."

Canyon Ridge overcame obstacles to get that first score. Starting at its own 36, the Riverhawks went for it on fourth down as Marin looked to get the score on a wild 54-yard run, but a penalty brought it back. Four plays later Marin, who took over at quarterback for the injured Teague Sweesy a couple weeks ago, took it in from the 2.

After shutting down the Indians, Edgar Ramirez went around right end from 45 yards out less than a minute later and the rout was on.

"I thought I was going to fall before I got to the end zone, my feet were moving too fast," said Martinez, a senior. "We good blocking and played like we knew we could."

After the break, the offensive flood continued. On fourth and one on their own 29, Marin took the snap, fumbled, then was able to get around the end for a 71-yard scamper. He added another in the final period on a five-yard run.

While the Riverhawks were finding their offense, Buhl (1-5) had a different story — no passing yards in the first half and less than 100 yards offense on the night.

"Everything just clicked, we went back to the fundamentals and did our jobs like we are supposed to," said senior Cameran Bartlett, who was a force on the defense all night.

Kenny Gutierrez was the workhorse for the Indians, collecting 63 yards on the ground. Quarterback Kade Crossland, who had several passes dropped, tallied 29 yards through the air.

Canyon Ridge hosts cross-town rival Twin Falls next Friday, while Buhl hosts Kimberly.

SUB KEYS BURLEY BOUNCEBACK

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

KIMBERLY • With Burley's leading receiver Jackson Kunz on the sideline in street clothes with an injury, someone else had to step up Thursday night.

Tanner Sprenger answered the call. The speedy 5-foot-7 junior caught six passes for 161 yards and two touchdowns as Burley spoiled Kimberly's homecoming 26-14.

"I had a lot of pressure on me, but I knew I had to step up," Sprenger said. "I noticed the (defensive backs) were biting... I figured if I could out-run them I could get open, and it worked."

Burley quarterback Zander Cook completed 13 of 23 passes for 246 yards. He threw two TDs and one interception, plus scrambled for a 13-yard score that put Burley ahead 26-0 with 5:18 to go in the third quarter.

"They're good at what they do," Kimberly coach Kirby Bright said of Burley's passing game. "We knew what we had to stop and for the most part we thought we could get it done. A few glitches in our coverage and it's a different ballgame."

Carson Hawker was Cook's other main target, hauling in five catches for 71 yards. Hawker also snagged three interceptions on defense.

The Bobcats gained 79 yards rushing, led by Travis Osterhout's 41 yards on 15 carries.

"We still need to get the running game going. There were some glimpses of it," said Burley coach Jed Thomas. "We came out with a W, that's the positive. It wasn't pretty, but we won the game. Some kids stepped up."

Burley (3-3) snapped its three-game losing streak, and the Bobcats have won more than two games for the first time since 2005.

But Kimberly didn't make it easy.

James Higginbotham rushed for 75 yards and scored all the Bulldogs' points. The first touchdown came late in the third quarter after trailing 26-0. On the ensuing kickoff, Dustin Diaz recovered the onside kick and Kimberly drove the short field for another score.

Despite playing the remaining 11 minutes almost entirely in Burley territory, Kimberly couldn't capitalize. The Bulldogs, who gained 198 yards of total offense, had two drives stall inside the Burley 15-yard line.

"I'm very proud of them. From the beginning of the year to now, they battle," Bright said.

The next two weeks are key SCIC games for Kimberly (1-5), starting next week at Buhl.

"They're big for Buhl and they're big for Filer, too. Coming down to the end of the year, that's the way it ought to be. That's why you lift in the summer and go to camps. We're looking forward to it," Bright said.

Next week, Burley returns to Great Basin Conference play, hosting Wood River.

Gooding Clinches Conference Title

GOODING • Donning vintage 1980s uniforms, with red and white striped black pants and all black tops, the Gooding football team clinched the Sawtooth Central Conference in front of many of the members — now parents of current Gooding football players — who last won the crown 27 years ago, defeating Filer 58-6 Thursday night.

"It's been a long time coming," said Buddy Brunson, father of Torin Brunson and defensive end of the '85 team. "It's pretty exciting. They have a chance to contend."

Like he has all year, Torin Brunson did his dad proud,

Twin Falls Spikers Sweep Riverhawks

BY DIANE PHILBIN
dphilbin@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • The Twin Falls volleyball team turned in an impressive straight-set 25-23, 25-13, 25-13 performance Thursday at Baun Gymnasium, putting on a Dig Pink Night show in the Great Basin Conference showdown with the cross-town rival Riverhawks.

Both Twin Falls and Canyon Ridge put it all on the line in the opening set with neither team backing down and never letting up. The set contained 12 ties, with neither team getting any more than a four-point lead.

“Canyon Ridge came out scrappy,” said Twin Falls coach B.J. Price. “The girls just figured out how to win. It comes down to leadership and patience.”

Epitomizing patience, senior Angelica Sena sits and watches her team on the floor waiting for five rotations and then it's her turn to do her part for the Bruins.

“My role is to keep the team cheering and get my serves in,” said Sena. “I have to stay mentally ready and focused on the game.”

Actually Sena has ownership of her position as designated server and defensive specialist.

“I told her she is in charge of how much playing time she gets by serving tough and playing good defense,” said Price.

Twin Falls recorded 40 total kills, with Sierra Starley having the hot-swinging arm finishing with 14 kills, five aces and four blocks. Avery Gaines with nine kills, Delaney Jensen and Kaiya Moffitt each with four kills, also carried some of the burden. Regan Harr was another important part of the win with 39 assists and four aces. On the defensive side, Brynli Bartlett had a match-high 17 digs.

Keri Schwarz stepped up for the Riverhawks with a team-high 12 kills and senior libero Kennedy Bell was impressive on defense with 12 digs.

“After the first set, we just lost our intensity,” said Schwarz. “That is something you can't work on in practice and we have to rely on each other in the match. We come out and play our hardest in the first game but we still don't ever go down without a fight.”

Canyon Ridge coach Stacy Boer was satisfied with her team's play.

“We're still working on the second and third sets as the night goes on,” said Boer. “I feel like we are right there and ready to push over to the next peak, which is to keep on putting the ball down in every set. Hitting is winning. And we have gotten Hunter (Sagers) back at the right time.”

Twin Falls sits at the top of the Great Basin Conference at 6-0 and are 26-5 overall. The Bruins host Wood River on Tuesday. Canyon Ridge fell to 0-8 in conference play and 7-16 overall. The Riverhawks travel to the Mountain View Invitational this weekend.

Minico Boys Beat Burley to Open Districts

TIMES-NEWS

RUPERT • Geovanni Mendoza scored twice to lead the Minico boys soccer team to a 3-1 win over Burley on Thursday to advance in the championship bracket of the 4A District IV Tournament.

Geovanni Saldana also scored for the Spartans, who play Wood River on Saturday at noon at Sunway Soccer Complex.

Burley got its goal from Jason Greener. The Bobcats play Saturday at Sunway against Twin Falls, starting at 4 p.m.

CANYON RIDGE 2, TWIN FALLS 0
TWIN FALLS • Oscar Delatorre and Uriel Arroyo scored to put Canyon Ridge into the second round of the 4A District IV Tournament.

The Riverhawks had 14 shots on goal in the game, and more in the second half as they steadily upped the pressure on the Bruins.

Both teams play Saturday at the Sunway Soccer Complex. Canyon Ridge plays Jerome at 2 p.m., with Twin Falls playing Burley at 4 p.m.

TWIN FALLS • Alex Jahns

and Ellie Packham both had hat tricks to lead Canyon Ridge to the second round of the 4A District IV Tournament.

Courtney Stenger and Eva Magana added goals for the Riverhawks, who scored three goals in the first 10 minutes to put the game away early.

Canyon Ridge plays Wood River at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Sunway Soccer Complex. Burley plays Minico right after that.

JEROME 2, MINICO 1
JEROME • Sarah Walker scored both goals as Jerome controlled the game but found it tough to put away the plucky Spartans.

Minico only took three shots, but Eloisa Gonzalez's penalty kick kept things close.

Gabby Cervantes had two assists for Jerome, which plays Canyon Ridge on Saturday.

Minico plays Burley on Saturday at 4 p.m., at Sunway Soccer Complex.

Castleford hosts the Community School on Tuesday.

USC Rallies Past Utah

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SALT LAKE CITY • Matt Barkley passed for 303 yards and three touchdowns, including an 83-yarder to Marquise Lee in the fourth quarter, and No. 13 Southern California came back from a two-touchdown deficit to beat Utah 38-28 Thursday night.

Utah (2-3, 0-2 Pac-12) forced turnovers 1:16 apart to open the game, including a play by Nate Fakahafua to score from 8 yards out after stripping the ball from Barkley after a bad snap.

But the Trojans (4-1, 2-1) turned the tables in the fourth, scoring twice in a span of less than 3 minutes to turn a 3-point game into victory in their first trip to Salt Lake City in 95 years.

Rams Bust Cardinals' Unbeaten Start

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. LOUIS • Even before Sam Bradford snapped out of it, the St. Louis Rams had enough points.

Their fast-improving defense saw to that.

Bradford busted a lengthy slump with a 52-yard touchdown pass to rookie Chris Givens for a two-TD cushion and Robert Quinn had three of the Rams' nine sacks on Kevin Kolb to keep the previously unbeaten Arizona Cardinals in check in a 17-3 victory Thursday night.

Arizona (4-1) scored at least 20 points in each of its first four games, but had no luck containing a pass rush that had totaled just six sacks on the year, and got stopped twice inside the 20 in the final minutes. The Rams also had a strong defensive game last week in a 19-13 victory over Seattle, also at home.

Lance Kendricks caught a 7-yard TD

pass in the first quarter and Greg Zuerlein kicked a 53-yard field goal in the second quarter for the Rams (3-2), who are 3-0 at home and ended Arizona's seven-game winning streak in St. Louis — the Cardinals' home before leaving for the desert in 1988.

The Rams totaled two victories last year but so far have executed a quick turnaround under new coach Jeff Fisher. They're 3-0 at home for the first time since 2003, when they were unbeaten in the Edward Jones Dome and they're above .500 for the first time since they were 4-3 on Nov. 4, 2006.

Bradford had been 3 for 16 for 25 yards and an end-zone interception since the opening drive, often missing on his receivers by a lot. Undoubtedly, he missed Danny Amendola, sidelined in the second quarter with a right shoulder injury on a diving attempt that was initially ruled a 22-yard catch for a first down but overturned after the Cardinals challenged.

Gooding

“It was pretty awesome (to clinch),” Torin Brunson said, acknowledging that his team set out to honor the '85 team with its performance.

Brunson was a small piece — literally and figuratively — of Gooding's dominance.

The Senators (7-0, 3-0 SCIC) used quick strikes in the first half. They drove 55 yards in six plays to the score the game's first points before the 10-minute mark of the first quarter, finishing it off with a 21-yard run from Josh Finley, who had 70 yards on the ground.

Gooding, known for its grinding and pounding out of the pistol, displayed diversity in its attack that should have potential playoff opponents pressing the rewind button on late midweek nights.

Quarterback Josh Faulkner connected deep with receivers Kevin Arkoosh and Jesse Balch for touchdown passes of 40 and 45 yards. Finley returned a punt 50 yards for a score, and the Senators defense created four turnovers. All of which, including dominating the line of scrimmage on offense and defense, has become the norm for the Gooding football program.

It hasn't always been that way.

“It took us four years to get this,” Senators coach Cameron Andersen said.

“This was 27 years in the making. The coaching staff came in with a message (four years ago). When the (players) bought into doing it in the weight room, in the classroom and showing Senator pride, it was all from there.”

Filer (0-6, 0-2) has faced an uphill battle all year. They were forced to move running backs to offensive line on Thursday night. All of their players play both ways, and most of them battled injuries or exhaustion on the sideline against the much bigger and deeper Gooding team.

But coaches and parents would not let their kids quit. Even with the game one-sided throughout, Filer played hard. Jubal Sanford “Water-boyed” a Gooding running back late in the fourth quarter, one of the many hard hits Filer delivered.

“We only suit up 13 kids on varsity,” Filer coach Bill Reynolds said. “But they will great heart.”

Reynolds knows his team has a long way to go to compete with Gooding, but those same Senators have proved it's possible. Gooding won nine games in a five-season stretch before last year's breakout playoff run. Filer has won five dating back to the 2008 season.

“That's what we're trying to do,” Reynolds said, pointing across the field.

Gooding closes the regular season by hosting Homedale next week, while Filer hosts Valley.

NHL CANCELS GAMES THROUGH OCT. 24

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK • What seemed inevitable for the NHL has now become reality. The league canceled the first two weeks of the regular season on Thursday, the second time games have been lost because of a lockout in seven years. The initial announcement was made in a two-paragraph statement from the league. It isn't clear if those games will be made up, allowing for a complete 82-game regular season, if a deal can be struck soon with the locked-out players. Unable to work out how to split up $3 billion in hockey-related revenues with the players' association, the NHL wiped out 82 games from Oct. 11 through Oct. 24 — beginning with four next Thursday, which would have been the league's opening night. "We were extremely disappointed to have to make today's announcement," NHL Deputy Commissioner Bill Daly said in a statement. "The game deserves better, and the fans deserve better, and the people who derive income from their connection to the NHL deserve better. "We remain committed to doing everything in our power to forge an agreement that is fair to the players, fair to the teams, and good for our fans. This is not about 'winning' or 'losing' a negotiation. This is about finding a solution that preserves the long-term health and stability of the league and the game. We are committed to getting this done." The union countered Thursday by saying the NHL forced the lockout onto the players instead of letting the season go on as planned. "The decision to cancel the first two weeks of the NHL season is the unilateral choice of the NHL owners," NHLPA Executive Director Donald Fehr said in a statement. "If the owners truly cared about the game and the fans, they would lift the lockout and allow the season to begin on time while negotiations continue. "A lockout should be the last resort in bargaining, not the strategy of first resort," he added. "For nearly 20 years, the owners have elected to lock out the players in an effort to secure massive concessions. Nevertheless, the players remain committed to playing hockey while the parties work to reach a deal that is fair for both sides. We hope we will soon have a willing negotiating partner." Although there have been negotiations between the league and players in recent days — unlike a three-month break at the start of the 2004-05 lockout that forced the cancellation of the entire season — the two sides haven't gotten any closer to a deal on core economic issues. "Obviously, (cancellations) might have been expected but it's also disappointing because we set out to negotiate," New York Rangers goalie Martin Biron said in a telephone interview. "We wanted to get a deal done and wanted to avoid a work stoppage or any cancellations. "We're still working hard to find a solution and find a way to get the core economic stuff figured out with the league and getting a deal that is fair for everybody and lasts." In the previous lockout, the NHL and the union didn't get together between early September and early December. Back then, the key words in the negotiations were salary cap, linkage and cost certainty. Commissioner Gary Bettman and the owners were committed to getting a deal that linked team costs to revenues, so each club would know exactly how much it had to spend on payroll and what number it couldn't exceed.

Thus a salary cap was born for the first time in NHL history. The league produced record revenue during the seven years of that deal, which turned out much better for the players than expected. There are no major philosophical issues this time as there were with the salary cap fight, but the sides are far apart in financial figures. Players received 57 percent of hockey-related revenue in the deal that expired Sept. 15, and the NHL wants to bring that number below 50 percent — perhaps as low as 47 percent. The players' association, led by Fehr — the former baseball union chief — has rejected that idea. "The leadership that we have with Don and his team is really trying to look at the big picture and not just a number," Biron said. "We understand that there is some tweaking and some things that have to be fixed in our proposal, but it seems that the owners are on a one-way mission to cut salaries." The NHL claims the union hasn't done near enough to try to get closer to the league's proposal and appears willing to wait for the NHLPA to come around.

Schumacher Confirms F1 Retirement — Again

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SUZUKA, Japan • Michael Schumacher is retiring from Formula One racing again — and this time, he says, "it might be forever." Unable to duplicate the success of his prime, the seven-time F1 champion announced Thursday he will retire at the end of the season, bringing an end to the most decorated career the sport has seen. Though Mercedes had announced last week that Schumacher would be replaced by Lewis Hamilton next season, there had been speculation the 43-year-old German could move to Sauber. He instead chose to end his career. "Basically, I've decided to retire at the end of the year," Schumacher said at the Japanese Grand Prix. "Although I was able and capable of competing with the best drivers that are around, at some point it's time to say goodbye and this time it might be forever." Schumacher holds the record for championships and grand prix wins, with 91. He began his career in 1991 and won two titles with Benetton, then five for Ferrari. He initially retired in 2006, but came back to drive for Mercedes in 2010. The comeback has not lived up to expectations, with just one podium finish. "It's without doubt that we did not achieve our goals to develop a world championship fighting car," Schumacher said. "But it is also very clear I can be happy with my overall achievements." Mercedes team boss Ross Brawn paid tribute to Schumacher. Brawn was also chief strategist at Ferrari when Schumacher and the Italian team became so dominant that the sport's authorities made several rule changes to even the level of competition. "He's the most courageous racing driver of the century," Brawn said. "And I feel very privileged to have worked with Michael from the beginning."

Eichorst Leaves Miami to Replace Osborne at Nebraska

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shawn Eichorst left his job as athletic director at scandal-ridden Miami on Thursday and accepted a five-year contract to succeed Tom Osborne at Nebraska. Eichorst's departure comes at a particularly curious time — with the Hurricanes set to play Notre Dame in the rindling of a college football rivalry on Saturday, and as the school braces to receive potentially crippling NCAA sanctions in the coming months for compliance violations.

Former Maine athletic director Blake James will become the acting AD at Miami, filling the role that Eichorst held for just under 18 months. "I am deeply disappointed in Shawn's departure to the University of Nebraska as I thoroughly enjoyed working with him," Miami president Donna Shalala said in a statement. "We wish Shawn and his wonderful family the very best at their new post." Eichorst's starting salary at Nebraska will be $973,000 annually, believed to be a significant raise over his Miami deal. As a private school, the Hurricanes typically do not release contract information. At Nebraska, the 75-year-old Osborne — one of college football's legendary coaches — announced late last month that he will retire Jan. 1 after five years on the job. He'll become athletic director emeritus and stay involved in department operations through July 30 at Nebraska, where he won 255 games, 13 conference titles and three national championships as football coach. Eichorst will start at Nebraska on Oct. 9, first as a special assistant to Chancellor Harvey Perlman, then assume Osborne's role on Jan. 1. "I am humbled by both the responsibility and opportunities that lie ahead and I hope to carry on the rich tradition of Husker excellence set by Coach Osborne and so many others," Eichorst said in a statement released by Nebraska. Eichorst has not spoken with Miami reporters in months, citing the ongoing

NCAA investigation as the reason why requests were declined. Perlman interviewed Eichorst and one other unidentified candidate. He said Eichorst, who previously worked at Wisconsin and grew up in that state, is a natural fit for Nebraska. "I have no reason to believe Shawn was unhappy at Miami," Perlman said. "He saw this as an attractive opportunity to get back to the Midwest and to get back to the Big Ten." Perlman said the problems at Miami were a prominent aspect of his discussions with Eichorst. "It's probably not a situation that anybody would like to be in," Perlman said. "Everyone's view is that he was surprised by it (NCAA violations) when he got there and that he responded in the way that I think we would have had a similar circumstance arise here, which we hope it doesn't. It's part of the reason why looking at a person who's been in that role is helpful because you can see how they respond in difficult circumstances."

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL

One-game wild-card playoffs: Dramatic, but fair?

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sometime tonight, either Chipper Jones will be out of baseball or the defending World Series champion Cardinals will be out of the playoffs.

One and done. A pair of wild-card matchups — St. Louis at Atlanta, then Baltimore at Texas — to decide which teams advance to the next round. Part of the new, expanded post-season format, where 162 games, six months of grinding and upward of 50,000 pitches get boiled down to nine all-or-nothing innings.

Dramatic? Certainly. Fair? Well, depends on who you ask.

"I hate it. I'm old-school. I'm old," Washington manager Davey Johnson said.

At 69, he has a vested interest. His NL East champion Nationals will visit the Cardinals-Braves winner Sunday in Game 1 of the division series.

"I love it," Cleveland closer Chris Perez said. "If you are in it, or watching it as a fan, it doesn't get any more exciting."

Or, as Texas general manager Jon Daniels summed up on the eve of his team's big game: "I'll let you know tomorrow."

Clearly, several sides to this debate.

Major League Baseball hoped to get more clubs involved in postseason races, and the Angels, Dodgers, Brewers, Rays and Pirates were among those that enjoyed the chase this year.

There also was some sentiment that wild-card teams were getting it too easy and winning the World Series too often, as the Cardinals did last season. By adding an extra playoff club in each league and then forcing it to play in a winner-take-all game, it could make the path tougher.

That's OK by Cardinals manager Mike Matheny, whose team clinched the majors' final playoff spot this year.

"We're ecstatic. We'd be home right now. We'd be spectators, so we're exceptionally happy about the format," he said.

"The fact that we have to use up a pitcher, it makes sense to me. I believe the team that wins the division ought to have an advantage. I think it's been well done," he said.

On the other hand, a club that runs into the wrong pitcher could be eliminated in a hurry.

"I think for teams like Atlanta — who had an unbelievable year, and it could be ruined by one game — it's probably unfair," Washington first baseman Adam LaRoche said.

"Now, in one game, any given day, a college team could beat a big league team. It's just the way the ball rolls. So I don't know how much one game proves as far as who deserves to move on," he said.

"You almost have to do it two out of three. But then you get other teams sitting around for a week. So I don't know the right way to do it."

Braves second baseman Dan Uggla isn't a fan.

"I'm not for this new play-off thing at all," he said. "They're kind of messing things up for everybody."

This could be the last game for Uggla's star teammate, with Jones set to retire at age 40.

Orioles All-Star center fielder Adam Jones also is in jeopardy. His team returns to the postseason for the first time since 1997, but could be ousted before it gets a home playoff game.

One-and-done: Red Sox Axe Valentine

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOSTON • The Boston Red Sox thought Bobby Valentine would restore order to a coddled clubhouse that disintegrated during the 2011 pennant race.

Instead, he only caused more problems.

The brash and supremely confident manager was fired on Thursday, the day after the finale of a season beset with internal sniping and far too many losses. Valentine went 69-93 in his only year in Boston, the ballclub's worst in almost 50 years.

"I understand this decision," Valentine said in a statement released by the team. "This year in Boston has been an incredible experience for me, but I am as disappointed in the results as are ownership and the great fans of Red Sox Nation. ... I'm sure next year will be a turnaround year."

A baseball savant who won the NL pennant with the New York Mets and won it all in Japan, Valentine was brought in after two-time World Series champion Terry Francona lost control of the clubhouse during an unprecedented September collapse.

But the players who took advantage of Francona's hands-off approach to gorge on fried chicken and beer during games bristled at Valentine's abrasive style.

More importantly, they didn't win for him, either.

"We felt it was the right decision for that team at that time," general manager Ben Cherington said on Thursday in an interview at Fenway Park. "It hasn't worked out, because the season has been a great disappointment. That's not on Bobby Valentine; that's on all of us. We felt that in order to move forward and have a fresh start, we need to start anew in the manager's office."

Under Valentine, the Red Sox started 4-10 and didn't break .500 until after Memorial Day. By August, when the contenders were setting their playoff roster, the Red Sox knew they would not be among them and traded several of their best players — and biggest salaries — to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Without Adrian Gonzalez, Carl Crawford and Josh Beckett, the Red Sox will save $250 million in future salaries and have a chance to rebuild over the winter.

But that will be too late for Valentine.

"We have gratitude for him, respect for him and affection for him, and we're not going to get into what his inabilities were, what his issues were," Red Sox president Larry Lucchino said. "I just don't think it's fair."

Cherington, who replaced

Theo Epstein last offseason, will lead the search for a new manager. The team's top target is current Toronto manager and former Red Sox pitching coach John Farrell, who has a year left on his deal with the Blue Jays.

Cherington said he has thought about potential successors but declined to comment on specific individuals. He said he is looking for someone "who can establish a culture in the clubhouse that allows players to perform, and sets a standard."

"And we need to find a person that can bring some stability to that office," Cherington said. "When we hired Bobby, the roster was fairly mature and we felt, mistakenly, in retrospect, that we had a chance to win and the team was ready to win. We're now at a different point. We're trying to build the next good Red Sox team, so it's a little bit different."

Triple Crown or Trout? AL MVP Debate a Hot Topic

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miguel Cabrera has his Triple Crown. MVP award, maybe not.

Hold on, now. How could that be?

Mike Trout, that's how. It's the hottest debate in baseball, seemingly pitting old-school traditionalists against new-age number crunchers in a bench-clearing shouting match over what constitutes "valuable."

At stake is the American League's Most Valuable Player award, perhaps the game's top individual prize.

Cabrera capped an extraordinary season Wednesday night by becoming the first Triple Crown winner in the majors since Boston's Carl Yastrzemski in 1967. The Detroit Tigers' slugger led the league with a .330 batting average, 44 homers and 139 RBIs — the standard statistical categories by which excellence was commonly judged for the better part of the past century.

"If he's not the MVP then there's no such thing," Tigers manager Jim Leyland said.

Trout, however, made some history of his own. Called up from the minors three weeks into the season, the Los Angeles Angels' rookie quickly became a never-before-seen force prior to his 21st birthday.

Possessing a unique combination of skills in the concrete body of a running back, the dynamic kid from New Jersey did it all — hitting home runs and taking them away with highlight-reel catches high above the center-field fence.

Trout batted .326, second to Cabrera, with 30 homers and 83 RBIs. He also led the majors with 49 stolen bases (in 54 attempts) and 129 runs — 20 more than Cabrera in 22 fewer games. The slumping Angels were 6-14 when they brought up Trout and went 83-59 the rest of the way.

The first big league rookie to reach 30 homers and 40 steals in one season and the youngest player with a 30-

Trout

Cabrera

30 campaign, Trout struck out 41 more times than Cabrera but committed only four errors in the outfield. Cabrera had 13 errors after unselfishly switching back to third base when the Tigers signed first baseman Prince Fielder last winter.

"Divide it in half," Yankees manager Joe Girardi said. "They both had sensational years."

That would be too easy. The hard part is making a pick.

For anyone who thought winning the Triple Crown would automatically anoint Cabrera the MVP, take note of this: There have been nine Triple Crown seasons since the MVP award was introduced for each league in 1931. Four times, the Triple Crown winner was beaten out for MVP by a player on a pennant winner.

Chuck Klein of the Philadelphia Phillies lost to New York Giants pitcher Carl Hubbell in 1933. Yankees slugger Lou Gehrig was topped by Detroit catcher Mickey Cochrane the following year. And then Boston's Ted Williams, unpopular with certain writers, fell short to Yankees second baseman Joe Gordon (1942) and center fielder Joe DiMaggio (1947).

At the center of the argument this year is a modern calculation called WAR (Wins Above Replacement), a figure derived from an assortment of other stats. WAR is designed to go deeper than the conventional numbers in measuring a player's all-around contribution to team success.

A worthwhile endeavor for sure, though some think the formula is flawed.

Leyland, for example, bemoaned that WAR doesn't emphasize RBIs enough. Others believe it's the most complete and accurate appraisal of a player's true value.

Trout finished with a WAR number of 10.7, best in the majors, according to baseball-reference.com. Cabrera was at 6.9, fourth in the American League.

The discrepancy is almost ironic, considering how the debate sometimes falls along generational lines. Trout's sizable advantage, of course, is a result of his vastly superior defense and baserunning — both traditional fundamentals long held in high regard by baseball's old guard.

With reporters everywhere asking for opinions as Cabrera chased the Triple Crown, it seemed most managers and players favored Cabrera for MVP. Front-office types often pointed to Trout. Tigers teammates wore T-shirts touting their guy.

In the end, the only people with the power to decide it are the 28 members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America who have a vote. And if recent history holds a clue, they might lean toward Cabrera more because he powered the Tigers to an AL Central title than the fact that he ended the longest Triple Crown drought in baseball history.

"The Triple Crown is obviously a historic achievement, but whether Cabrera gets it or not shouldn't impact his standing in the MVP race," Mark Feinsand of the New York Daily News, who has an AL MVP vote, said early this week.

"The fact that he's led the Tigers to the postseason with a monster September should make him a slight favorite over Trout, though Trout will certainly still have plenty of support for his incredible year. I think Detroit's late-season surge will be a bigger factor if Cabrera wins the MVP than his run at the Triple Crown."

MARINERS HOPE IMPROVED OFFENSE COMING IN 2013

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEATTLE • The fences moving in at Safeco Field leaves one less debate for the Seattle Mariners' off-season.

One question that remains: Now what can the Mariners do with their beleaguered offense to take advantage of the new dimensions?

Seattle enters the off-season after a 75-87 campaign with more answers than questions. That's a big change from a year ago when everyone was unsure just how the Mariners' core group of young players would respond to a first full seasons in the majors. Some thrived, like Kyle Seager, while others struggled, like Dustin Ackley.

Along the way, Seattle showed enough resolve, especially after the All-Star break, that playing around .500 and possibly sneaking into the postseason picture for 2013 isn't out of the question.

At least that's how manager Eric Wedge sees it.

"That's what we're hoping to do. It may be a little quick when it comes to rebuilding 101 but it's not beyond the realm," Wedge said. "Ultimately what I want us to do is continue to get better because we're going to do it the right way. If we get better to that point where we're contending, so be it. But ultimately we're not going to deviate from the plan because it's not just about getting there. It's about getting there and staying there."

The challenge for Seattle will be finding the right moves that will bring additional help to its lackluster offense. Last year it came via trade when they sent pitcher Michael Pineda to the New York Yankees for Jesus Montero.

That was an exchange of youth for youth. What Seattle would like now is a veteran, preferably to anchor the middle of its batting order and allow the Mariners' young core to develop.

That's far easier said than done and the Mariners realize it.

"We have to see what is out there, what our options are and that's something you really can't speak of right now. You have to wait and see how that plays out," Wedge said.

Moving the fences in at Safeco Field for next season was the first step in the Mariners' efforts to boost their offense. They also fired hitting coach Chris Chambliss on Thursday after another season where statistically the Mariners were the worst offense in baseball. They finished last in the league in batting average (.234), on-base percentage (.296), slugging percentage (.369) and on-base plus slugging (.665).

And they were strikingly bad at home. Seattle's batting average of .220 at home was the ninth worst in baseball history dating back to 1921, according to STATS LLC. The idea of moving the fences in was to make the ballpark more fair. But its secondary result was a mental boost for a young team tired of seeing balls that would be homers in other parks become long flyouts at home.

In this image released by Am Baile - High Life Highland on Thursday, is Bobby Hogg, who recently died at age 92.

Scottish Man Dies, Taking Town's Dialect with Him

LONDON (AP) • In a remote fishing town on the tip of Scotland's Black Isle, the last native speaker of the Cromarty dialect has died, taking with him a little fragment of the English linguistic mosaic.

Academics said Wednesday that Bobby Hogg, who was 92 when he died last week, was the last person fluent in the dialect once common to the seaside town of Cromarty, 175 miles north of Edinburgh.

"I think that's a terrible thing," said Robert Millar, a linguist at the University of Aberdeen in northern Scotland. "The more diversity in terms of nature we have, the healthier we are. It's the same with language."

The demise of an obscure dialect spoken by a few hundred people may not register for most English speakers — "We'll all live," Millar said — but it's part of a relentless trend toward standardization which has driven many regional dialects and local languages into oblivion. Linguists often debate how to define and differentiate the world's many dialects, but most agree that urbanization, compulsory education and mass media have conspired to iron out many of the kinks that make rural speech unique.

Cromarty, which counts just over 700 people, is at the very end of a sparsely populated peninsula of forest and farmland. It's separated from Inverness, the closest city, by the Beaully Firth, a wide body of cold water where salmon run and dolphins frolic.

The Cromarty dialect included a helping of archaic "thees" and "thous" as well as a wealth of seafaring vocabulary, including three sets of words for "second fishing line."

The aspirate "h" was often added or subtracted, so that "house" would be pronounced "oos" and "apple" would be pronounced "haypel." The "wh" sound was often dropped entirely.

A lexicon of Cromarty words, relying in large part on Hogg's speech, gave "Oo thee keepan?" as Cromarty's version of "How are you?" and "Hiv thoo a roosky sazpenne i thi pooch?" for "Can you lend me some money?"

Urban dialects may be strong — Millar referred to "Toonserspik," the "town speech" of cities like Aberdeen — but he said they don't replace what's being lost.

He said urban dialects tend to be more similar to one another than their rural counterparts, with an emphasis on differences in pronunciation over differences in vocabulary. And even rival cities like Glasgow and Edinburgh "sound more like each other than they used to."

Author Mark Abley, who has written about the dynamism of the English language, agrees.

"I don't believe there's a straightforward balancing act in which urban dialects grow as rural ones shrink," he said in an email. "Cities are always melting pots, and isolation for any group is very hard to maintain."

As the worlds' melting pots grow ever bigger — half the Earth's population now lives in cities — lesser-known dialects are evaporating. Worldwide, languages are disappearing regularly, with half of the globe's 6,000-plus languages expected to be extinct by the end of the century, according to UNESCO.

The British Isles saw two languages go extinct within living memory, UNESCO says. The last native speaker of Alderney French, a Norman dialect spoken in the Channel Islands, died around 1960, and the last speaker of traditional Manx, the language once spoken on the Isle of Man, died in 1974.

Donna Heddle, the director of the Center for Nordic Studies at Scotland's University of the Highlands and Islands, said the loss of each language or regional dialect leaves the world poorer than it was before.

"It's one less little sparkle in the firmament," she said. "One little star might go out and you might never notice it, but it's not there anymore."

'Take a Letter, Maria' Singer R.B. Greaves Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — R. B. Greaves, a pop singer who had a 1969 hit with "Take a Letter, Maria," has died in Los Angeles. He was 68.

The coroner's office says Ronald Bertram Greaves died of prostate cancer on Sept. 27 at his home.

"Take a Letter, Maria," about a man's final letter to his cheating wife, hit No. 2 on the Billboard chart and went gold. The song, with its soul style and brassy horn edge, went on to sell more than 2.5 million copies and remains a popular oldie.

Greaves also broke into the Top 40 in 1970 with his version of "(There's) Always Something There to Remind Me."

His career flagged in the 1970s, however.

Greaves was a nephew of the legendary R&B singer Sam Cook.

Obama Tries to Recover from Debate in Rally

DENVER (AP) • President Barack Obama is trying to turn Mitt Romney's strong debate performance against him.

Obama spoke to a crowd at Sloan's Lake Park in Denver Thursday. He quipped that the Romney who pundits think won the first presidential debate bears little resemblance to the Romney who's been running for president. Obama said his opponent has repeatedly vowed to cut taxes for the wealthy even though he claimed to have no such intentions during the debate. And he mocked Romney's mention of cutting funding for public television as Romney's most specific example of how he would reduce spending.

Obama is not the only candidate talking about the debate Thursday. Romney's campaign hopes that the candidate's feisty performance quells doubts among some Republicans that he can win.

Social Media Renders Rapid Judgement on Presidential Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) • Big Bird is endangered. Jim Lehrer lost control. And Mitt Romney crushed President Barack Obama.

Those were the judgments rendered across Twitter and Facebook Wednesday during the first debate of the 2012 presidential contest. While millions turned on their televisions to watch the 90-minute showdown, a smaller but highly engaged subset took to social networks to discuss and score the debate as it unspooled in real time.

Until recently, debate watchers would have waited through the entire broadcast to hear analysis and reaction from a small cadre of television pundits. Social media has democratized the commentary, giving voice to a far wider range of participants who can shape the narrative long before the candidates reach their closing statements.

"People still use old media to watch the debates, but they use social networks and other new media to have influence, voice opinions and be involved," said Scott Talan, an assistant professor of communication at American University who studies social media and politics. "Old media is not dead; it's growing. But now we have more people involved and engaged because of digital means."

The political conversation plays out across a range of social platforms, especially on the industry giant Facebook and on Twitter, the social networking hub where opinions are shared through 140-character comments known as tweets. Reflecting the changing times, many television analysts now monitor Twitter and Facebook feeds and use information gleaned from those platforms to inform their punditry.

Twitter announced shortly after Wednesday's debate that it had been the most tweeted event in U.S. political history, topping this year's Republican and Democratic National Conventions. With 11.1 million comments, Wednesday's debate was the fourth most-tweeted telecast of any kind.

Twitter scored Romney the debate's clear winner according to Peoplebrowsr, a Web analytics firm. The group found 47,141 tweets mentioning Romney and "win or winner" compared to just 29,677 mentioning Obama and "win or winner." Romney was also the top tweet in battleground states including Florida, Ohio, Nevada and Colorado, Peoplebrowsr found.

Mitt Romney Makes Shift to the Center as His Confidence Grows

WASHINGTON (AP) • Republican presidential nominee Mitt Romney is shifting sharply to the political center as he begins to deliver a closing argument aimed at a slice of moderate, undecided voters a month before Election Day.

On taxes, immigration and more, the former Massachusetts governor has toned down his heated, campaign trail rhetoric this week, including during his strong debate performance Wednesday night, as he looks to gain ground against President Barack Obama in the handful of states that will determine the outcome of the competitive race.

"I know this is going to be a close-fought battle," a jubilant and invigorated Romney said in Colorado before he flew to Virginia for an evening rally with running mate Paul Ryan.

In the coming days, the Republican nominee will try to capitalize on his well-received appearance by moderating his pitch and working to narrow Obama's advantage in swing-state polling that aides say showed signs of tightening even before Romney and the president sparred. The Republican's aides played down the notion that the debate was a game-changing event. But they appeared more optimistic about Romney's chances than they had been during a troubled stretch that lasted several weeks.

"We've got over a month here," Romney strategist Stuart Stevens said. "That's an eternity."

Romney will use that time to drive the centrist message he outlined in the debate. He emphasized support for popular elements of Obama's health care plan, embraced government regulation as necessary and hinted that he may eliminate government subsidies for oil companies as part of a larger tax plan he insisted would not cut taxes for the wealthy.

In some cases, the message is a dramatic departure — in tone, if not substance — from a candidate who has for more than a year assailed the president's "government takeover" of health care and "job-crushing regulations" and who has promised tax cuts for all.

While moderating his message, Romney will also deliver a series of policy speeches, beginning with a foreign policy address in Virginia on Monday, to help crystalize differences with the Democratic incumbent. Future speeches are expected to focus on job creation and federal debt — areas where Romney's internal polling suggests there is an opportunity to win over so-called "persuadable voters."

A recent Associated Press-GfK poll found that the vast majority of voters already have settled on a candidate, but 17 percent of likely voters are considered persuadable — either because they're undecided or showing soft support for Obama or Romney. The group is generally less informed than the average voter and more moderate politically. Roughly 56 percent of persuadables approve of the way Obama is handling his job as president, but fewer, 47 percent, approve of his handling of the economy.

Starting Thursday night, Romney also planned to lean more heavily on Ryan, the Wisconsin congressman, to help connect with voters. While Romney's campaign can cover more ground if they hold separate events, the two typically draw larger crowds when they appear together and Romney tends to be more energized with his No. 2 alongside him.

As he headed to Virginia on Thursday, Romney was more upbeat than he had been in weeks. He grinned widely as he laughed and talked with aides at the front of his campaign plane. The atmosphere among his staff and advisers on the plane was jovial.

TURKEY AUTHORIZES MILITARY OPERATIONS IN SYRIA

AKCAKALE, Turkey (AP) • Turkey sanctioned further military action against Syria on Thursday and bombarded targets across the border with artillery for a second day, raising the stakes in a conflict that increasingly is bleeding outside Syrian territory.

Although both sides moved to calm tensions, Turkey's parliament overwhelmingly approved a bill allowing the military to conduct cross-border operations into Syria — making clear that Ankara has military options that do not involve its Western or Arab allies.

It was the most dramatic escalation in tensions between the countries, which were close allies before the revolt against Syrian President Bashar Assad began in March 2011. Over the past 18 months, however, Turkey has become one of the strongest critics of the Syrian regime, accusing it of savagery and massacres against the opposition.

The rebels who are trying to bring down Assad have used Turkey as their base, enraging a regime that accuses foreign countries of fomenting the unrest inside Syria.

The spark for the latest hostility was a mortar shell fired from Syria that slammed into a house in the Turkish border village of Akcakale on Wednesday, killing two women and three children.

"(The shell) hit my neighbor next door. His wife, his children died," villager Bakir Kutlugil told The Associated Press. "Now I worry whether the next one will hit me or my neighbor."

Mehmet Yasin, another villager, said he feared Turkey will get drawn into more violence. "They are warring over there anyway. Why should we battle against anyone?" he asked.

The Turkish response to the Syrian shelling was swift — it fired salvos of artillery rounds inside Syria, contacted its NATO allies and convened Parliament for a vote authorizing further cross-border military operations if necessary.

Syria's U.N. envoy said Thursday that his government was investigating the source of the cross-border shelling and did not want any escalation of violence with Turkey. Ambassador Bashar Ja'afari said the Assad regime sent its "deepest condolences" to the families of the victims, but stopped short of an apology, pending the outcome of the investigation. He also urged Turkey to act "wisely, rationally" and prevent infiltration of "terrorists and insurgents" and the smuggling of arms across the border.

Syrian opposition figures in Akcakale, which has a clear sight line into Syria, said the targets of Turkey's retaliatory attacks included at least one tank and one anti-aircraft gun in the town of Tal Abyad in Raqqa province, where the Syrian regime and rebels are battling for control. Some residents of Akcakale, fearful of more stray shells, abandoned their homes and spent the night on the streets.

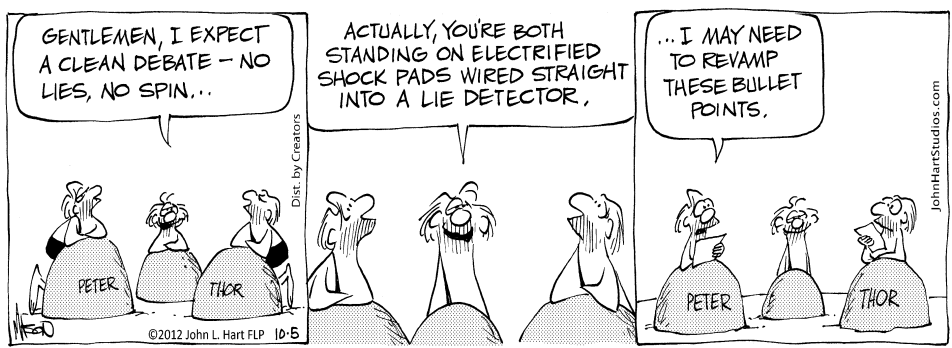

The border violence has added a dangerous new dimension to Syria's civil war, dragging Syria's neighbors deeper into a conflict that activists say has already killed 30,000 people.

Mass. Company Linked to Outbreak Inspected in 2011

BOSTON (AP) • The specialty pharmacy that made the steroid suspected in a deadly meningitis outbreak was inspected and cleared by Massachusetts inspectors last year, state health officials said Thursday.

The inspection by the Department of Public Health was required after the New England Compounding Center in Framingham relocated its pharmacy on the same site, said Dr. Madeleine Biondolillo, director of the state's Bureau of Healthcare Safety. The inspectors found no problems, she said.

The meningitis outbreak has sickened 35 people in six states, five of whom have died. All received steroid injections for back pain.

On Thursday, investigators were working to determine if a fungus found in a sealed vial at the New England Compounding Center was the same fungus blamed in the outbreak.

The company has voluntarily suspended operations and last week recalled 17,676 vials of the medication, an unknown number of which reached 75 clinics and other facilities in 23 states. None was distributed in Massachusetts.

As a precautionary measure, the Food and Drug Administration has suggested that medical professionals not use any company products.

"The fatalities and illnesses confirmed today by the CDC and FDA are tragic," NECC said in a statement. "The thoughts and prayers of everyone employed by NECC are with those who have been affected."

Biondolillo said NECC has a pending complaint against it from this year, related to the potency of a medication used in eye surgery. It appears unrelated to the current outbreak, she said.

Maine Mayor Causes Outcry Over Immigration Remarks

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) • Ten years after a Lewiston mayor set off a firestorm by saying the city's Somali population was growing too fast, a new mayor's remarks about the immigrant community is sparking another wave of anger and calls for his resignation.

Somali immigrants and their supporters in this former mill city in central Maine say Mayor Robert Macdonald should apologize and step down for what they call repeated anti-immigrant remarks, including telling a British Broadcasting Corp. interviewer that immigrants should "accept our culture and leave your culture at the door."

A group of about 50 protesters rallied outside City Hall on Thursday before delivering 1,400 signatures to Macdonald's office, asking for his resignation.

The mayor's remarks sounded like he was telling immigrants to abandon their religion, their language and their identities, said Nimo Yonis, 26, one of an about 6,000 Somali refugees who live in Lewiston and the neighboring city of Auburn. The mayor's words were painful, hurtful and "represent hate," she said.

"Basically, he's telling us to forget who we were," Yonis said. "Just leaving your culture at the door is leaving what you believe, what you stand for and who you are at the door."

Macdonald has attempted to clarify his comments, saying immigrants should try to assimilate into American culture. He has said his comments were taken out of context, and has claimed he never said anything derogatory about Somalis.

Macdonald was not in his office Thursday and didn't immediately return a phone message left by The Associated Press.

His words have rekindled memories of a decade ago when then-Mayor Larry Raymond wrote a letter in 2002 asking Somali leaders to discourage friends and family from relocating to Lewiston, saying the city's resources were "maxed-out."

The first Somali immigrants arrived in Lewiston in early 2001, moving 40 miles north of Portland because of plentiful, cheap housing. By the time Raymond wrote his letter, nearly 1,000 Somalis had moved to the Lewiston area.

The outrage over his letter attracted international attention and spurred a 4,000-person rally at Bates College, urging Mainers to embrace the influx of immigrants. During the rally, a small number of white supremacists who called for the expulsion of the Somalis gathered elsewhere in the city.

With the current mayor, critics say Macdonald has made repeated inflammatory remarks about the Somali population.

He wrote in a local weekly newspaper that "submissive Somali women turn into obnoxious customers at the grocery store cash register." He also wrote that he was tired of news stories about Somalis being treated poorly; most complaints, he wrote, came from "boo-hoo white do-gooders and their carpetbagger friends."

He later told a reporter that immigrants shouldn't "insert your culture, which obviously isn't working, into ours, which does."

Mark Cayer, president of the Lewiston City Council, read a statement Thursday on behalf of the whole council saying the mayor's comments were his alone and not representative of the council or the city as a whole.

The letter written by Raymond in 2002 and Macdonald's words last month are "two totally different scenarios and two different moments in time," he said.

"But clearly there was division in the community at that time, and there's still evidence of a division now," he said. "But overall I think the community will grow from this."

KARZAI DENIES PLAN TO STAY IN POWER

KABUL • Afghan President Hamid Karzai denied Thursday that he intends to stay in power by blocking a presidential election set for 2014, and he accused NATO and the United States of failing to equip the Afghan armed forces adequately enough to counter cross-border attacks from Pakistan.

Karzai, who first assumed power in a transitional capacity soon after U.S.-backed Afghan forces drove the radical Islamist Taliban movement from Kabul in November 2001, is barred by the Afghan constitution from running for president again when his second term ends in 2014, a critical year when all foreign combat troops are scheduled to withdraw.

Some Afghan opposition groups and Western analysts say Karzai could cite growing insecurity to block the elections and seek to prolong his stay in office by changing the constitution. Karzai rejected those suggestions.

"Any election, with whatever flaws, is better than an illegitimate government," he told a news conference. "Therefore, elections will be held definitely, 100 percent and on time."

Cowboy Concert

When the Bar J Wranglers ride into town from Jackson Hole, Wyo., they always attract a remarkably fervent crowd. Their cowboy harmonies, yodeling and fiddling seem to be exactly what a whole lot of Magic Valley folks relish, and the Wranglers' chuckwagon music show in Jackson is a popular vacation destination for southern Idahoans each summer. Didn't make the trip? Catch the Wranglers at Saturday's school-band benefit in Twin Falls.

Run ... or Not

Who wants a fun run that's, well, ordinary? Two in Twin Falls on Saturday certainly aren't. In the Beat Beethoven run, an arts council benefit, your challenge is finishing a 5K in the time it takes to play Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. Too much exertion for you? Then opt for the Zero-K Run downtown. It's exactly what it sounds like: You'll finish as soon as you start, so you can get right to the Octoberfest relaxation.

Cultural View

In the lead-up to next weekend's Trailing of the Sheep Festival, you have two free opportunities in Ketchum to learn about your Basque neighbors' history. On Wednesday, it's a screening of filmmaker Brent Barras' "Basques in the West," with footage of people in Rupert, where Barras grew up, and elsewhere in Idaho. On Thursday, author Bill Smallwood will talk about how Basque culture has contributed to the world. He's the man who researched the 1937 Guernica bombing while Franco was still in power.

Former Rupert Man's Film Features the West's Basques

Coming Sunday

KETCHUM • The farther you go from the rim of the Snake River Canyon and the high deserts of northern Nevada, the less likely you are to find someone who's familiar with the Basques.

But Brent Barras knew their story, having grown up in Rupert where many of his friends were Basque.

So when Barras set out to make a film he ended up filming the story of a people whom, he says, are often overlooked even though they've been around for generations herding sheep and sharing their vibrant culture with the people of the Great Basin.

Barras' hour-long film, "Basques in the West," offers some cool photography of Basques wielding an axe, along with interviews of well-known Basques in the area, including Epi's Basque Restaurant owner Chris Anstegui, Basque Museum director Patty Miller, Henry Etcheverry of Gooding and sheepherders from Gooding and Rupert who have since died.

Barras, who works in production for commercial media in Seattle, will offer a free screening of the film at 6 p.m. Oct. 10 at The Community Library in Ketchum.

In Sunday's People section, you'll find a story about a Ketchum man's research on the 1937 bombing of the Basque town Guernica.

Barras said he was working on a documentary about people along the Snake River when he met a couple of Basque women near Enterprise, Ore. The footage turned out "so incredible" that he decided to focus strictly on Basques.

"They came from Europe as young ladies with their dresses and dress shoes, not expecting the vastness of the West. They ended up growing up on a sheep ranch in Hells Canyon," Barras said.

Amaya Oxarango-Ingram, a college student from Shoshone, helped Barras with the early filming. The film is unique in that it explores many sides of modern American Basques, rather than trying to put them in a box marked "sheepherders," she said.

"Sheep herding is part of our history in the United States, but we are also doctors, lawyers and so much more," said Oxarango-Ingram, whose grandfathers

HAILEY and KETCHUM • Peggy Guerecachevaria's last name belies her Scottish heritage.

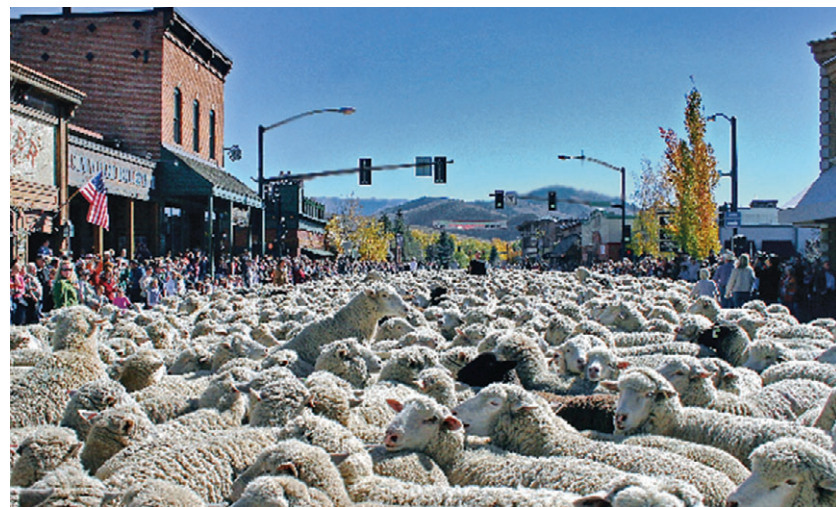

But when the Hagerman woman married a guy named Jose with a long Basque name pronounced "gara-catcha-varrea," she took on a lot of new traditions, including cooking Basque foods like lamb grinders topped with green peppers and onions, Basque rice, chorizo sandwiches and rice pudding.

Guerecachevaria will serve up these and Basque wine cakes — yellow cakes made with wine — when the Gooding Basque Association provides the food for the Trailing of the Sheepdog Championship Trials, Oct. 13-14 at Quigley Canyon field on Hailey's east side.

The trials are part of the 16th annual Trailing of the Sheep Festival, Oct. 11-14.

"We just thought it would be nice for the association to be part of," said Guerecachevaria, adding that the association is about 300 people from Twin Falls, Gooding, Jerome, Rupert, Hailey and other south-central Idaho towns.

"I've been to the festival every year since it started. It's a great fixture because so many nationalities are represented. It shows off the past life of the Blaine County valley when so many Basques took up residence there. And it shows off culture — and I'm all for that," she said.

Indeed, the festival's uniqueness has landed it on many Top 10 lists. Huffington Post recently named it one of 10 Great Fall Festivals, including it with Killington, Vt.'s, Hay Festival, which features larger-than-life hay sculptures, and the Woolly Worm Festival, which celebrates the fuzzy Isabella tiger moth caterpillar in Banner Elk, N.C.

Last Friday, USA Today listed it among 10 great animal-themed festivals, including the Calveras County Fair and Frog Jumping Jubilee, and the Running of the Bulls in Pamplona, Spain.

Call said his daughter was perfect for the role because she grew up singing and listening to Cline.

"I love working with him," Jones said of her father. "I hope I can do (Cline) justice. She had a great voice."

She wants to channel Cline not only in voice but in demeanor. Jones said Cline was poised and elegant. It might help that she and Cline share something: "She couldn't read music, and I can't either," Jones said.

Thurston has been involved in several productions in Burley and Oakley. The two-person format is a first for both her and Jones, with Jones performing all the songs and Thurston most of the lines. "I feel a lot of pressure. I'm out there by myself," Thurston said. "Usually at the King Fine Arts Center at Burley High, the two women worked on lines and transitions between songs.

Julene Thurston plays Houston housewife Louise Seger.

"We're going to start act two, right after intermission," Call said. "Okay, we want to run act two and hit it as hard as we can."

The only lights that were on in the room shined on Jones, who wore an apron and white heels, singing Cline's song "Crazy."

Call sat in the lighting booth in the back row of the darkened theater, watching the performance below.

"He is a good director. He leaves the outside world behind and stays focused," Thurston said.

Call said he wondered at times whether he should have sat in the director's seat again. But being back in the theater has helped him take his mind off of things.

"I've got blue skies," Call said.

Trailing

The festival started simply as a way to familiarize the people of the Wood River Valley with its sheep ranching after ranchers agreed to allow a bike path to be built on the sheep driveway on which they'd trailed sheep to and from summer pastures in the mountains for decades.

"They finished the path and we started getting calls: Get your sheep off our path," recounted Diane Josephy Peavey, who co-founded the festival with her husband, John, a Carey sheep rancher.

Today the festival is a four-day event that includes a full-day Sheep Folklife Fair with Peruvian, Basque, Scottish and Polish music and dancing; spinning and other fiber workshops; lamb tastings; and cooking classes. It's capped by the Trailing of the Sheep Parade, which features 1,500 sheep following musicians and dancers down Ketchum's Main Street.

This year's festival will feature two presentations by Linda Cortright, editor and publisher of Wild Fibers magazine. Cortright has traveled more than a million miles to gather stories and photos of herders and weavers around the world, such as those dealing with yak in Tibet to those on the Myanmar Lakes in southeast Asia who harvest fiber from lotus plants.

She plans to travel Idaho's back roads while here to gather Idaho's stories.

"The people in the fiber world adore this woman," said Mary Austin Crofts, director of the Trailing of the Sheep Festival. "Her magazines are absolutely stunning."

Here's a schedule for this year's Trailing of the Sheep Festival:

came from the Old World to herd sheep in the New.

The film explores the tension between preserving the distinctive Euskera language, folk dances, accordion and flute-driven music and other aspects of Basque culture while living in today's world.

"I'm proud of being Basque — it's my ethnic background. But I'm also proud of being American," said Alicia Aldana Dredge of Rupert.

Barras edited more than 75 hours of footage into one. A number of Basque individuals and organizations helped finance the film, including the Basque Association in Gooding, which donated $1,000.

"I'm amazed at the network and connections the Basque have had, from the past when they connected through boarding houses to the present when they connect over the Basque government," Barras said.

"In the beginning, parents didn't teach much about their culture — they wanted to wipe their hands of the horror of the war and General Franco. It's the second and third generations that picked up on their Basque heritage. They wanted to know what it was all about."

Octoberfest Zero-K: Don't Move a Muscle

BY TETONA DUNLAP
tdunlap@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • On your mark, get set, and go nowhere.

Without moving a foot and for just $10 you can participate in the 2nd annual Zero-K fun run at the OctoberFest Celebration from 11 p.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 6 in downtown Twin Falls. The Zero-K is at 2 p.m.

Not only will you help Market on Main — a vendors market held in conjunction with the Twin Falls Tonight concert series — return next year, you will receive a T-shirt and a ticket for free beer at O'Dunken's Draught House in downtown Twin Falls.

"It's the wrap-up for the summer," said Judi Baxter, coordinator for Market on Main.

Last year more than 100 T-shirts were sold, and about 20 people participated in the non-race lineup that started and ended with the sound of a horn.

But if your feet feel up to it, you can always stroll and visit the various vendors who will be set up and tap your toes to the music of local members of the Nashville Songwriters Association International. They'll provide entertainment from noon to 5 p.m.: Travis Johnson at noon, Kirstin Cutler at 1 p.m., Bill Partin at 2 p.m., Brienne Lynn at 3 p.m. and Johnny Shoes at 4 p.m.

The OctoberFest Celebration will be on the 100 block of Main Avenue in front of O'Dunken's Draught House and Magic Valley Bank, down to Rudy's — A Cook's Paradise.

AUTHOR SENDS 'SMOKE SIGNALS' TO IDAHO

Editor of the Mountain Gazette comes to Ketchum for book reading.

BY ANDREW WEEKS
aweeks@magicvalley.com

KETCHUM • Every month, M. John Fayhee, as editor of the Boulder, Colo.-based Mountain Gazette, writes a column for the magazine.

"I've always been a storyteller," he said.

He decided to take some of those stories and put them into book form. The result: "Smoke Signals," a 308-page book with the same name as his column. Its subtitle: "Wayward Journeys Through the Old Heart of the New West."

On Oct. 9, Fayhee will visit the Wood River Valley to read from his book at The Community Library in Ketchum.

Fayhee has visited Idaho several times, yet no stories about Idaho are in the book. The magazine, however, is distributed across the West, and he said he's doing readings at places where Gazette fans live. A reading in Boise on Oct. 6 and the one in Ketchum three days later will be his first in the Gem State.

The author is doing readings throughout the West in what he describes as a "reading/book-signing/beer-drinking tour." He said he'll "wax eloquent from the pages of his latest two — supposedly — non-fiction tomes."

His other book, from which he will not read at the Idaho events, is "The Colorado Mountain Companion: A Potpourri of Useful Miscellany from the Highest Parts of the Highest State."

Fayhee, who edits the Mountain Gazette from his home in southwest New Mexico, sat smoking a cigar beside a river in Colorado — "I have a reading in Aspen tomorrow," he said in a phone interview Wednesday — while describing the new "Smoke Signals" book as all sorts of stories about life in the West.

"If you were to generalize it, I guess that would be the right thing to say," he said. "When I first launched the column, for the first couple of years it was all over the place. I really didn't have a plan or a theme."

The space he had to fill was 2,400 words, but he often found himself writing much

The Reading

Listen to stories by M. John Fayhee as he reads from "Smoke Signals" at 6 p.m. Oct. 9 at The Community Library, 415 Spruce Ave., Ketchum. The event is free. You may purchase copies of his $22 book at the event or at Amazon.com. Information: 726-3493.

more than what could fit in a magazine's news hole.

"Any professional writer regularly tasked with filling a very specific amount of acreage utilizes a real-time cranial word-count-o-meter while engaged in the creative process," Fayhee explains in his book. "The goal is always to hit the targeted word count as close as possible while penning the piece. Saves editing time down the road. That's not exactly how I go about creating 'Smoke Signals.' Not by a long shot. What I do is pen the story I desire to tell in its fulsome entirety, no matter how many words are birthed as a result."

He'd often find himself writing 12,000 or, sometimes, 24,000 words. The columns were based on stories he'd tell in bars or other gatherings, such as how a canoe bit the dust or close calls with lightning while backpacking.

"Smoke Signals," the book, contains 22 stories and about 75,000 words.

The book, he said, is a version between what readers found in the magazine and what he originally wrote. "It's not a rehash of what's printed in the columns."

The stories are personal, in that Fayhee has lived through or experienced what he writes about.

"He has a really particular way of getting people to listen to him about the outdoors," said Sheridan Brett, program coordinator at The Community Library. "He's not just telling stories, but gets you to live it vicariously with him. There's always excitement, always adventure."

Brett described Fayhee as an author with an edge and expects a different crowd at the reading than the library usually has.

"A lot of fans of the Mountain Gazette have labeled him as a kind of revivalist," she said. "Here in Ketchum, like in Twin Falls, we live on the edge of being remote." Fayhee doesn't have a typical desk job, but instead travels throughout the West and, in some instances, other parts of the country and world. "We kind of like to live vicariously through him. We all think we're him."

Over the years Fayhee has done a number of jobs that helped give fodder to the columns and now the book.

"Since it seems in vogue these days for writers to show that they once got their hands dirty," reads the biography at the back of the book, "Fayhee long-ago worked as a ditch-digger, house painter, land surveyor, tennis instructor, night watchman on a Mississippi paddle-wheeler and truck driver for a juvenile-delinquent rehabilitation entity that was seemingly modeled after a Stalin-era Russian gulag."

He has visited five continents and hiked the Appalachian, Colorado and Arizona trails and the Colorado section of the Continental Divide Trail.

Fayhee worked for 15 years as a newspaper reporter and editor and has contributed to numerous publications including Backpacker magazine.

He once owned the Mountain Gazette but when he sold it was asked to remain as editor. He moved from the Colorado High Country to the warmer climate of New Mexico, where he writes his columns and books.

Cherish the Ladies Blends Step Dance, Celtic Music

TWIN FALLS • Single-show tickets are now available for Celtic music group Cherish the Ladies, the second performance in Arts on Tour's 2012-13 season.

The show will be at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 19 in the College of Southern Idaho's Fine Arts Auditorium. Tickets are $25 for adults and $18 for students in high school and younger.

This Irish-American powerhouse group blends instrumental and vocal Celtic music, step dancing and humor.

It was named Best Musical Group of the Year by the BBC, Entertainment Group of the Year by the Irish Voice newspaper, and the Glasgow Royal Concert Hall's International Group of the Year at the Celtic Connections Festival in Scotland, and it was voted Top North American Celtic Act by NPR Radio's "Thistle and Shamrock." Cherish the Ladies has appeared on various national television programs, and at the Summer Olympics in Atlanta it represented Irish music and culture at the Official Cultural Olympiad.

Cherish the Ladies said it accesses a roster of regional-, national- and world-champion step dancers who join every performance.

Learn more: cherishtheladies.com.

The rest of the Arts on Tour season offers performances from The Acting Company in "Of Mice and Men," Matt Anderson, Paco Pena Flamenco Vivo!, the Michael Kae-shammer Trio and the Claire Lynch Band. Buy individual and season tickets at the CSI Fine Arts box office from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, at csi.edu/artson-tour or at 732-6288.

Theater Group Holds Auditions

TWIN FALLS • Magic Valley Little Theatre will hold auditions next week for its December production of "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever," based on Barbara Robinson's novel.

Auditions begin at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 8 at Encore Performance and Event Center, 681 Filer Ave. The cast needs 17 children (eight girls and nine boys) between ages 6 and 14, plus a few adult positions. All roles have speaking parts, and no preparation is needed to audition.

The play is about the Herdman family who discovers the Christmas story for the first time and helps everyone else rediscover its true meaning. Robinson first published the story in a magazine before it was adapted into a book. It has also been made into a TV movie.

Jazz Club Winds Up with Piano-Flute Duo

TWIN FALLS • Connecticut-based jazz artist Jeff Barnhart will perform for the Magic Valley Arts Council's last Jazz Club event of the 2012 season, with his Ivory&Gold. It's set for 7-10 p.m. Oct. 16 at the Twin Falls Center for the Arts. Doors open at 6:30 p.m., and the jazz evening includes dinner and dancing. Barnhart is a pianist, vocalist, arranger, bandleader, recording artist, composer, teacher and entertainer. He began at age 14 playing and entertaining four nights a week in a Connecticut restaurant where he began to learn the classic swing, jazz and ragtime repertoire. Barnhart put himself through college playing throughout New England, including stints with the Galvanized Jazz Band. In the 1990s he toured the U.S. and Canada, playing festivals with the Hot Cat Jazz band or the Draga-Vax Connection. Now Barnhart appears as a soloist and band pianist at parties, festivals, clubs and cruises around the globe. He manages the Titan Hot 7 band and leads two bands in the United Kingdom: the Fryer-Barnhart International Jazz Band and Jeff Barnhart's British Band, which performs small-group swing of the '30s. He'll be a featured artist at this year's Sun Valley jazz festival. As Ivory&Gold, Barnhart performs with his wife, flutist Anne Barnhart. Barnhart has recorded as pianist and vocalist on more than 75 full-length albums. Tickets are $50, include dinner and must be purchased in advance at the Twin Falls Center for the Arts or 734-2787.

Fall Lawn Care Fertilizing Tips

by Jeffrey Anderson, All About Lawns Columnist

A healthy green lawn that's the envy of the neighborhood usually requires a year-round fertilization program. One of the most important steps of your fall lawn care is the application of fertilizer before the weather turns cold. Your grass needs that last dose of fertilizer to remain healthy during the winter, and the nutrients can give your lawn a jump start when warm temperatures return in the spring.

How to Fertilize for Fall Lawn Care

The timing of your lawn's fall fertilization can vary depending on your climate; a good rule of thumb is the grass should have stopped growing for the season, but still be green. It is also important that your yard is moist enough to allow the nutrients into the soil, so if you have had a dry spell of weather, water your lawn thoroughly the day before putting the fertilizer down.

Nitrogen is the most important ingredient in fertilizer for fall lawn care; one pound per 1,000 square feet of lawn area is what many experts suggest. If you're using an organic or slow-release fertilizer, you should adjust your amounts. Phosphorus and potassium can also help your lawn remain healthy through the winter, but do a soil test to determine the amounts your grass may need. Penn State University and Colorado State University have additional suggestions on fall lawn care and fertilizing for healthy grass in the spring.

Fall fertilization can lead to:

- Healthier grass not competing for nutrients
- A strong root system to survive the winter
- Green grass in the spring without the additional growth that early spring fertilization can cause.

A little bit of effort during your fall lawn care routine can help you relax all winter knowing you may have one of the best looking yards in the neighborhood next spring.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

On January 2, 2013, at the hour of 1:00 o'clock PM of said day, at First American Title, 260 Third Avenue North, Twin Falls, Idaho, JUST LAW, INC., as Successor Trustee, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale, the following described real property, situated in the County of Twin Falls, State of Idaho, and described as follows to wit:

Lot 2 in Block 2 of First Amended Plat Wills Subdivision No. 3, Twin Falls County, Idaho, recorded in Book 9 of Plats, page 10.

The Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above referenced real property, but for purposes of compliance with Section 60-113 Idaho Code, the Trustee has been informed the address of 2078 Sherry Dr., Twin Falls, ID, is sometimes associated with the said real property.

This Trustee's Sale is subject to a bankruptcy filing, a payoff, a reinstatement or any other conditions of which the Trustee is not aware that would cause the cancellation of this sale. Further, if any of these conditions exist, this sale may be null and void, the successful bidder's funds shall be returned, and the Trustee and the Beneficiary shall not be liable to the successful bidder for any damages.

Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possessions or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the Deed of Trust executed by Adan Galan and Jody Galan, husband and wife, as Grantor(s) with Midfirst Bank, a Federally Chartered Savings Assoc. as the Beneficiary, under the Deed of Trust recorded June 14, 2004, as Instrument No. 2004012627, in the records of Twin Falls County, Idaho, in the records of said County.

THE ABOVE GRANTORS ARE NAMED TO COMPLY WITH SECTION 45-1506(4)(a), IDAHO CODE. NO REPRESENTATION IS MADE THAT THEY ARE, OR ARE NOT, PRESENTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS OBLIGATION.

The default for which this sale is to be made is the failure to pay the amount due under the certain Promissory Note and Deed of Trust, in the amounts called for thereunder as follows:

Monthly payments in the amount of $701.81 for the months of February 2012 through and including to the date of sale, together with late charges and monthly payments accruing. The sum owing on the obligation secured by said Deed of Trust is $60,370.38 as principal, plus service charges, attorney's fees, costs of this foreclosure, any and all funds expended by Beneficiary to protect their security interest, and interest accruing at the rate of 6.75% from January 1, 2012, together with delinquent taxes plus penalties and interest to the date of sale.

The Beneficiary elects to sell or cause the trust property to be sold to satisfy said obligation.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Board of Jerome Commissioners will be holding a Public Hearing at 1:30, p.m., during their October 9, 2012 County Commissioner Meeting. The Commissioner meeting room is located at the Jerome County Courthouse, 300 North Lincoln, Room 301, Jerome, Idaho. The purpose of this Public Hearing is to receive input regarding the need to increase the refuse fee for the maintenance and operation of the Landfill/Jerome County Transfer Station. The maintenance and operation of the Landfill/Jerome County Transfer Station is fee based. Pursuant to Jerome County Amended Ordinance No. 2011-4 adopted by the Jerome County Commissioners on October 17, 2012 the following fees were established and have been charged accordingly:

Category	Annual Base Rate	Annual Excess* Rate
Commercial	$ 132.00	$ 66.00
Residential	66.00	33.00
Circuit Breaker	33.00	16.50
Exempt Property	66.00	33.00
Apartments	66.00	33.00

"Excess" is every nine cubic yards of a particular category of refuse, or any part thereof, that exceeds the first nine cubic yards allowed accumulated for each specific month. The new fee increase in the above-stated categories would be a 15% increase from the fees established by Jerome County Amended Ordinance 2011-4 except for exempt property, which would be an additional $86.00 to compensate for the shortage set forth in Amended Ordinance 2011-4 of the annual base rate. Increase would be as follows:

Category	Annual Base Rate	Increase	Annual Excess* Rate
Commercial	$ 152.00	$ 20.00	$ 76.00
Residential	76.00	10.00	76.00
Circuit Breaker	38.00	5.00	76.00
Exempt Property	152.00	86.00	76.00
Apartments	76.00	10.00	76.00

"Excess" is every nine cubic yards of a particular category of refuse, or any part thereof, that exceeds the first nine cubic yards allowed accumulated for each specific month. This fee increase is to assist in payment of continuing contractual obligations. Anyone desiring accommodations for disabilities at this Public Hearing should contact the Jerome County Auditor's Office, (208) 644-2714 at least 48 hours prior to the hearing. SUDOKU

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

Today is Friday, Oct. 5, the 279th day of 2012. There are 87 days left in the year.

Today's Highlights:
On Oct. 5, 1962, The Beatles' first hit recording, "Love Me Do," was released in the United Kingdom by Parlophone Records. The first James Bond theatrical feature, "Dr. No" starring Sean Connery as Agent 007, premiered in London.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1829, the 21st president of the United States, Chester Alan Arthur, was born in Fairfield, Vt. (Some sources list 1830.)

In 1892, the Dalton Gang, notorious for its train robberies, was practically wiped out while attempting to rob a pair of banks in Coffeyville, Kan.

In 1910, Portugal was proclaimed a republic following the abdication of King Manuel II in the face of a coup d'etat.

In 1921, the World Series was covered on radio for the first time as Newark, N.J., station WJZ relayed reports from the Polo Grounds, where the New York Giants were facing the New York Yankees. (Although the Yankees won the opener, 3-0, the Giants won the series, 5 games to 3.)

In 1931, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon completed the first non-stop flight across the Pacific Ocean, arriving in Washington state some 41 hours after leaving Japan.

In 1937, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, speaking in Chicago, called for a "quarantine" of aggressor nations.

In 1941, former Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis — the first Jewish member of the nation's highest court — died in Washington at age 84.

In 1947, President Harry S. Truman delivered the first televised White House address as he spoke on the world food crisis.

In 1953, Earl Warren was sworn in as the 14th chief justice of the United States, succeeding Fred M. Vinson.

In 1970, British trade commissioner James Richard Cross was kidnapped in Canada by militant Quebec separatists; he was released the following December.

In 1981, President Ronald Reagan signed a resolution granting honorary American citizenship to Swedish diplomat Raoul Wallenberg, credited with saving thousands of Hungarians, most of them Jews, from the Nazis during World War II.

In 1988, Democrat Lloyd Bentsen lambasted Republican Dan Quayle during their vice-presidential debate, telling Quayle, "Senator, you're not Jack Kennedy!"

Ten years ago: Addressing police and National Guardsmen in New Hampshire, President George W. Bush warned that Saddam Hussein could strike without notice and inflict "massive and sudden horror" on America. Bosnia's three nationalist parties beat moderates in the country's first self-organized elections since the 1992-1995 war.

Five years ago: President George W. Bush defended his administration's methods of detaining and questioning terrorism suspects, saying both were successful and lawful. Topps Meat Co. said it was closing its business, six days after it was forced to issue a massive beef recall. Track star Marion Jones pleaded guilty in White Plains, N.Y., to lying to federal investigators when she denied using performance-enhancing drugs, and announced her retirement after the hearing.

One year ago: Steve Jobs, 56, the Apple founder and former chief executive who invented and master-marketed ever sleeker gadgets that transformed everyday technology from the personal computer to the iPod and iPhone, died in Palo Alto, Calif. Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, 89, a civil rights activist who endured arrests, beatings and injuries from fire hoses while fighting for racial equality in the segregated South of the 1960s, died in Birmingham, Ala.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE® Bobby Wolff

"Once upon a time I was falling in love but now I'm only falling apart.
There's nothing I can do, a total eclipse of the heart."
— Bonnie Tyler

When this deal originally appeared, it came with the punning subtitle from the Bonnie Tyler song: "It's a heart eight, nothing but a heart eight."

Norberto Bocchi, the hero of the deal, was complaining about what a bad card-holder his partner was on this deal. Quite a few of the field had reached four hearts by North after a weak no-trump. At those tables, after a club lead, West won the ace, cashed the spade ace, then played another spade. Since West had produced two aces, declarer was not hard-pressed to get hearts right. In fact, 16 of 22 declarers made 10 tricks in their heart contracts.

In our featured room, Bocchi sat West, and after an informative auction, led the spade ace and shifted to the diamond two. Believing the opponents' count-cards, declarer played four rounds of diamonds, discarding his club, hoping that whichever defender ruffed would weaken his trump holding. Bocchi now knew his partner must have the heart ace, and seeing the trump nine in dummy, thoughtfully ruffed with the heart queen. His expectation was that declarer would win the spade return on the board and pass the heart nine.

Alas for him, when declarer led the heart nine from dummy, East's irritating eight got in the way. Declarer now knew to go up with the king (assuming that East would have covered if he had a 10-8 — by no means a sure thing, incidentally), and held his trump losers to one.

ANSWER: This second double is takeout, not optional. You would pass only with real spades, so the only question is whether to make a natural call in no-trump or bid a minor. My instincts are to bid three diamonds, since this sounds like extra values or extra shape, and I have not given up on game yet.

DEAR ABBY: Your column has been a fixture in my life. Thank you for the smiles and the tears.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

My dilemma: I received yet another invitation to someone's home for a "product party." In the past year, I have been considered a prospective buyer of cookware, candles, makeup, toys and vitamins. While I have at times used all these products, the invitations to sales parties that come from friends and sometimes friends of friends, irritate me.

When I phone to decline, the hostess invariably says, "Oh, you don't have to buy anything." Of course that's not exactly entirely true because it's a sales party, and "guests" are pressured in various ways to buy the product. People often buy things they don't need or want because they fear they'd be disloyal to the hostess if they didn't.

When I was growing up, my father said, "You don't invite friends to your house to sell them things." Maybe Dad was on to something.

Abby, how should unwanted invitations be handled?

— IRKED IN INDIANA

DEAR IRKED: Continue to decline the invitations. Tell the hostess you have "a conflict" and cannot change your plans. (You don't have to give any details.)

P.S. To ease your conscience, your "conflict" can be your plan to watch your favorite "I Love Lucy" rerun on TV.

DEAR ABBY: I'm wondering what I should do when my biological father dies. He and my mother divorced before I was born. I've had little contact with him, but my older sister and brother lived with him growing up and are close to him.

My mother died 20 years ago, and afterward I tried to get to know him, but he didn't want to know me. He never paid child support. Both he and my mother remarried. I was fortunate to have a loving stepfather, and I was very close to him until his death.

When the time comes, I am considering not going to my birth father's funeral. I have not told my sister how I feel because she thinks he is the greatest. I think he is a dirt ball.

What do you advise, under these circumstances?

— CONFUSED IN SIOUX CITY

DEAR CONFUSED: Funerals are for the living. Go to his funeral and give your siblings the emotional support they will need. I understand why you feel the way you do, but in this situation, it would be an act of kindness to keep your true feelings to yourself.

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago, when I read one of your letters about pennies from heaven, I laughed about it to myself. My sister-in-law had died a few months earlier and I said, "OK, Sharyn, if you're there, send me a penny from heaven."

Abby, the next day when I arrived at work, there on my keyboard was a perfectly placed penny. And for weeks afterward I kept finding more pennies. Finally I had to say, "OK, Sharyn, I get it!" And the pennies stopped.

— A BELIEVER NOW IN SOMERS, CONN.

DEAR BELIEVER NOW: I'm glad your faith is restored. If you saved them, have them made into charms for a bracelet. Every time you wear it you'll feel close to the sister-in-law who's smiling down on you.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

IF OCTOBER 5 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: The second half of November is an excellent time to make crucial decisions, launch important plans or to obtain professional advice. Your celestial guardian angel will guide you to meet the right people at the right time and you will be able to obtain support easily. In January and February, avoid risky investments or making crucial changes that could affect your finances. January is the best month for financial decisions. In April, your popularity peaks, so it is an excellent time to apply for a new position or change your career. You might even meet someone extremely compatible, or could enter into a binding romantic commitment.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may mingle with others who have an adventurous nature. A pursuit of a fantasy may lead you to glamorous places. Singles might meet the person of their dreams; wake up before it's too late.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A loaf of bread, a jug of wine and thou. Get inspired tonight and treat your special someone to some poetry, a super romantic evening, or something above and beyond the ordinary. Live out a fantasy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Adjust your ideas to match those of esteemed others. Search for wisdom through experienced mentors and trusted friends. Determine whether your financial goals are consistent with your current budget.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush. There's no need to go out of your way to find a new romance when you know someone is waiting patiently for the phone to ring. Love the one you're with.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Keep your eyes open and you will be able to find the missing piece of that romantic puzzle you've been working on. You have a tendency to see things as you wish them to be rather than as they are.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): There is no pressure to start a new project. You might benefit by taking extra time to gather accurate data and resources. Avoid important financial decisions as your judgment could be slightly off.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): All work and no play make Jack, Jill and all your fetching friends dull as a pail of water. File away work until Monday and dedicate time to the art of having fun. Meet a special someone for a quiet rendezvous.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your fantasy world can appear real until the bubble bursts. In reality, the things that you yearn for now have no more substance than a puff of smoke. Other people find you more attractive than usual.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are surrounded by those who hope that your good fortune and aggressive self-confidence will rub off on them. Don't be a wallflower; accept invitations for a night out and have fun.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Just because you didn't get your name in the headlines doesn't mean you don't deserve recognition. True success is doing the right thing even when nobody's going to know you did it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You'll be safe at home base. You are more contented when you are sure of financial security. Take pride in home and family as your efforts to make them happy and secure motivate you to do your best.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Keep in mind that the tortoise beat the hare. You might reach your goals quicker than expected — but in doing so, you could be missing out on valuable experience. Take your time and do the job right.
