Looking Back Through the

FLAMES

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI

TWIN FALLS • The unofficial theme of this year's fire season was simple: dry, hot and windy. They're conditions that aren't that surprising for summertime, but this year was different. This year reminded seasoned firefighters of past big burns. It was a year like 2007.

"It was just so dang dry," said Chris Simonson, fire management officer for the U.S. Bureau of Land Management's Twin Falls District.

Simonson isn't ready to declare it's the end of fire season. With no rain in the valley and no heavy snowfall in the mountains, wildfire threats are still high. However, he does agree activity has tapered off greatly over the past few weeks.

At this season's peak, 12 wildfires burned at once after an Aug. 25 lightning storm ignited the Magic Valley. Statewide, more than 1.72 million acres have been burned by close to 1,470 fires ignited between May and October.

These numbers compete with the high amount of fire activity seen in 2007. It was the year that the 650,000-acre Murphy Complex Fire burned in southern Idaho and close to 1.9 million acres burned across the state.

"Our fuel moisture levels were all very similar to 2007, giving us concern that we were probably going to see conditions like 2007," Simonson said. "Looking back, we all kind of agree that we saw a similar fire season to the one five years ago. We didn't have one Murphy Complex but we did have the Kinyon Road, the Flat Top 2, so several pretty large fires."

ELECTION 2012

2 Candidates Vying for the CSI Board of Trustees Seat 1

BY JULIE WOOTTON
jwootton@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • When it comes to next month's election, Jan Mittleider and Scott Tverdy agree on the importance of preparing students to be successful in a rapidly-changing work force.

The candidates are vying for seat 1 on the College of Southern Idaho's board of trustees.

The seat is open: After nearly 25 years on the board, current trustee Donna Brizee isn't running for re-election.

Mittleider — a wellness consultant and former CSI professor who at 42 years teaching is the longest-serving instructor in CSI history — said her goals include helping students become ready for the work force and increasing college completion rates.

The Twin Falls resident said CSI is accessible and affordable for students, as well as responsive to regional needs.

"I also think that we have a lot of challenges," she said.

Tverdy — a loan officer at a Buhl bank — said he doesn't know of anything with CSI's operations that needs to be fixed.

But there's "no such thing as a perfect organization," he said.

Tverdy said he'd like to see CSI strengthen relationships with industries since it would help students become better prepared for the work force.

Community colleges are a perfect tool to help students prepare for the work force, he said.

Tverdy said schools such as CSI can respond faster to industry needs than four-year universities and are

CSI Board Chairman Faces Two Challengers

BY JULIE WOOTTON

TWIN FALLS • With 31 years of experience on the College of Southern Idaho's board of trustees, incumbent Thad Scholes has two challengers during next month's election.

Hansen resident E. Kay Cramer and Buhl resident Armand Eckert are also running for seat 2.

The three candidates have distinctly different goals.

Scholes — a Twin Falls dermatologist — said it's important to address the rising cost for students to go to college.

"I hope that we can stop the trend of increasing the burden on the students with tuition and fees," he said.

He said about 20 years ago, student tuition and fees made up about 15-20 percent of CSI's budget. Last year, it was 39 percent.

Scholes said CSI is still the "best bargain" for college education in the state, but it's less affordable than in the past.

Out of nine candidates for three CSI board seats, Scholes is the only incumbent.

Scholes — who has been on the board since 1981 — said he's running for re-election partly because there will be a lot of new board members this year.

Scholes said an important factor on the board is to have someone with more experience and "institutional memory." And he said he's the only candidate with college board experience.

Voter Registration Fair Offers Information for Upcoming Election

Liyah Babayan, who helped organized Saturday's voter registration information fair

TWIN FALLS • After spending most of her day encouraging the public to register to vote, Liyah Babayan had a sudden realization.

"I still haven't signed up yet," said Babayan, who helped organized Saturday's voter registration information fair. "I better do that before we close up."

Babayan, owner of Ooh La La Fashion Boutique in downtown Twin Falls, is a recently naturalized American citizen. With a passion for citizen participation in democracy, she is encouraging everyone she knows to get out and vote.

"You are a real individual if you vote," Babayan said. "It strengthens your rights. It's like making yourself a shareholder in a company, otherwise, you don't exist."

"I was worried that my campaign wasn't reaching young people," Fornshell said. "Events like these more hopeful that there are young women who want to be involved in the community and they make me more hopeful about the future of downtown Twin Falls."

Along with Fornshell, there was also a table campaigning to vote no on Props 1, 2, 3. The Magic Valley Republican Women were invited to the fair but didn't show up, Fornshell said.

Close to a dozen people registered to vote on Saturday, including Nathan Hoy of Twin Falls.

Hoy, 18, is a senior at Twin Falls High School. Most of his friends who are already 18 have signed up to vote already and talk frequently about politics, he said.

He's looking forward to voting in a presidential election but the main reason he was out on Saturday afternoon?

"Mymommademe," he said.

What Voters Need to Know

Voter registration: You can register in person at the polls, but the deadline for pre-registration at your county courthouse is Oct. 12. If you vote early, you can also register at the polling place.

Polling places: Some polling places have changed since the May primary election, though not all have been finalized. If your precinct's polling place has changed, you will receive an information card in the mail from your county clerk.

Absentee ballots: The deadline to request an absentee ballot is Oct. 31. Make sure you are already registered if you are trying to mail in a ballot. Check with your county clerk for absentee ballot request forms. In-person absentee voting at county courthouses begins Oct. 9.

Voter ID: Voters must present a valid photo identification, which includes a driver's license, state ID card, student ID card from an Idaho education institution, U.S. passport, federal ID card or tribal membership card.

Party affiliation: Remember the confusion about party affiliation in the newly closed Republican primary? It's gone with the general election. Anyone can vote for any candidate, regardless of affiliation.

Legislative districts: Because of redistricting, your legislative district and precinct boundaries might have changed. Visit idahovotes.gov to find your precinct, polling place and legislative district.

Wildfires

The season kicked off with the Kinyon Road Fire, which burned close to 234,000 acres in early July.

However, this season brought its own challenges. For example, Idaho wasn't the only state to experience an increase in wildfires. Colorado, Utah, Montana all experienced big burns that demanded big resources. By mid-July, resource assistance became strained. Western states were competing for more crews and equipment to suppress its wildfires.

"A big concern for us are days when we have multiple fires burning at once," he said. "Any days we have more than one fire going, it's going to be challenging. That's what happened in 2007. You have to make priorities about which fire to respond to and sometimes you can't respond to every fire at once."

This year, the Magic Valley had 34 multiple fire days, Simonson said. In 2007, fire crews responded to more than 40 multiple day fires.

"I did have some guys come up to me on the Minidoka Complex fire and go, 'man, we could have stopped this fire sooner if we only had more resources,'" he said. "But that's how it goes. Sometimes you can't always get everything you need when everyone is fighting these large fires."

The Minidoka Complex fire forced several residents along Rock Creek Canyon Road to evacuate their homes for two nights.

Another challenge was the heat.

Firefighters are used to flames burning near Craters of the Moon National Monument and Preserve. In the past, fire crews would push the flames toward the lava flows to stop the spread of the fire. However, this year, the fires near the monument burned over the flows and continued to spread.

"I've been doing this for eight years here and that was a first for me," Simonson said. "It was a unique thing."

Overall, Simonson says this season was a success. Why?

"No lives were lost and no one was seriously injured," he said. "Every year we go without losing someone or someone getting hurt is a success in my book."

Barb Schmidt cuts the shape of a dog bone out of freshly rolled peanut butter biscuit batter at The ARC in Boise Wednesday. Schmidt and a group of industrious co-workers were bagging dog biscuits to sell at the upcoming See Spot Walk event.

Idaho Group's 'B'Arc' Snacks are Making Good Bites

BY ANNA WEBB

Idaho Statesman

BOISE • There is a passion for pets at The Arc. Some participants have their own dogs, or navigate the world with the aid of a service animal. Some, such as Tom Cochran, who breaks into a big smile when he talks about his volunteer job walking dogs at the Idaho Humane Society, have found meaningful work in the animal world.

So when Arc staffers were looking for business opportunities to help support the nonprofit's work, it made sense to look to the hounds.

The Arc is now home to its own in-house cottage industry: B'Arc Bones. Sales of peanut butter-flavored dog biscuits — $5 to $6 a bag at various Treasure Valley retailers — raise money for The Arc's programs.

The organization, which supports itself through donations and some funding from the state and private sources, provides vocational and life-skills training for men and women with disabilities. Between 500 and 600 people take part in Arc programs each year.

B'arc Bones are providing work experience for about 30 men and women who can earn up to $10.84 an hour.

Arc staffers came up with the idea for the biscuits back in 2006. Getting them to market has been a long process that included meeting with small-business advisers and refining the product.

Nicole Lang, director of programs at The Arc, bought a book about starting a dog biscuit home business. Staffers and participants started experimenting with recipes, and they competed for and won a $5,000 grant from a local nonprofit that was closing its doors. That money helped upgrade The Arc's kitchen and buy equipment, including a machine to roll out the biscuit dough.

The Idaho Humane Society started selling the biscuits about a year ago. Since then, more retailers have begun carrying them.

The Arc also is in the process of creating a website for online sales. The organization often sets up booths at local events, and the bakers are scrambling to get enough biscuits made in time for the Idaho Humane Society's See Spot Walk event on Saturday.

The biscuits have begun to bring in a modest profit, in part because of the public events. At least 50 bags typically sell at those, said Lang.

"B'Arc Bones give Arc participants exposure to the public and to the pet world, where many would like to work one day," said Lang. "The skills they're learning — baking, packaging — are also transferable."

This is especially important at a time when the unemployment rate for people with disabilities is nearly 14 percent, according to numbers released in August from the U.S. Department of Labor's Office of Disability Employment Policy. The unemployment rate for the overall population is 8 percent.

On any given day, Arc participants are rolling out dough and pressing biscuits by hand. Others are bagging them up and handling labeling, the last prep work to get the treats ready to sell.

Not surprisingly, offices at The Arc, which opened in 1956 on the Boise Bench, are often redolent with the aroma of peanut butter.

Arc participant Sherrie Williams has had other jobs in the community, working as a janitor and a dishwasher at local hotels and senior centers. These days, she helps with B'Arc Bones. That includes placing labels by hand — with perfect alignment — on the bags.

The labels feature a cartoon rendition of Luci, Lang's recently departed dog, official "spokesdog" for the project. Luci will live on, akin to Betty Crocker, said Lang.

On Tuesday, Arc participant David Bunch, sporting rainbow suspenders, was shredding paper for another burgeoning in-house industry: papier-mache fire logs. But he's become an enthusiastic B'Arc Bones salesman. Whenever a booth is set up at an event, Bunch is out front, luring buyers. His brother's dogs, Sam and Cincinnati, have confirmed that the biscuits are delicious, he said.

The biscuits are made of peanut butter, wheat flour and water. They're even tested on humans.

"That was a suggestion from the University of Idaho test kitchen — that we sample them ourselves to make sure they're fresh," Lang said.

Body of Missing Hansen Man Found

TIMES-NEWS

3800 East and 3543 North on Saturday.

HANSEN • The body of a missing 22-year-old Hansen resident was found in an irrigation ditch at 12:45 p.m. Sunday, Twin Falls County Sheriff's Office spokeswoman Lori Stewart said.

Ty Vincent Seamons, whose family last heard from him on Wednesday, was found a mile and a half downstream from his Honda Civic, which was submerged in water. Deputies found the unoccupied vehicle near Sheriff's deputies, the sheriff's Search and Rescue personnel, and family and friends looked for Seamons on Saturday and again starting at 10 a.m. Sunday, Stewart said. He was in the water when his body was discovered.

An autopsy will be conducted Tuesday, Stewart said. She added that authorities do not believe foul play was involved although the investigation is continuing.

POLICE ASK FOR PUBLIC'S HELP IN DEATH IN HERCULES

HERCULES, Calif. (AP) • Police were asking for the public's help after a woman was found dead in her home in the usually quiet city of Hercules.

Neighbors found the body of Susie Ko, 55, on Friday night after her husband called a neighbor to check on her when she had failed to pick him up at Oakland International Airport, police said.

The family's car, a blue 2011 Subaru Outback with an Idaho license plate, was missing from the garage and what appeared to be blood was on the floor near her body, police said. Ko had also suffered a traumatic injury to her head, police said.

Investigators have not determined a motive, and no suspect information has been released.

Eckert — a former accountant who farms full time — said he's interested in the area of professional-technical education.

He said many high school students might not be interested in a traditional college degree, but a technical program may be a good fit.

Eckert said CSI is good at catering to businesses and the community.

He said he'd like to see the college work with more existing businesses to provide training for employees.

When it comes to degree programs, the candidates all said CSI's partnership with four-year universities works well.

Cramer said she'd like to see more four-year degree options available for local students through four-year universities. But offering those degrees isn't necessarily CSI's role, she said.

"I don't want to lose the feel of a community college," she said.

As far as upcoming changes at CSI, Scholes said increasing dual-credit class enrollment could be a large challenge.

High school students are now required to take two online classes in order to graduate. Some students choose dual-credit classes through community colleges to meet the requirement.

Scholes said there were about 2,600 dual-credit students during the last reporting year. Of them, 453 were enrolled in online classes.

Scholes said even if 50 percent of high schoolers statewide decide to take a dual credit class to meet the online class requirement, it would mean a "significant effort" for the state's community colleges.

About the Candidates

Out of nine candidates for three CSI board seats, Scholes is the only incumbent.

Scholes said he has met talented and dedicated people through the board position.

"I thoroughly enjoy it," he said.

Scholes — who has been on the board since 1981 — said he's running for re-election partly because there will be a lot of new board members this year.

Scholes said an important factor on the board is to have someone with more experience and "institutional memory." And he said he's the only candidate with college board experience.

"I think experience counts," he said.

Cramer said CSI trustees and administrators have done an excellent job. She said she wants to be part of the college progressing.

"I have grandchildren who will be attending CSI," she said.

Cramer is a member of the Kimberly School District's long-range planning committee. She was also the former secretary/political candidate for state representative from Floterial District 5.

Eckert said he wants to serve on the CSI board to help out the college.

"Honestly, it's just a sense of service," he said.

Eckert worked for nearly one decade for an accounting firm in Boise. He has also been an operator of farming businesses for most of his life.

For 15 years, Eckert was on the Buhl school board — seven of which, as chairman.

He was also on the Idaho School Boards Association and a founding member of the ARTEC Charter School.

Eckert said his background in accounting and finance — as well as character traits — would be beneficial for the board.

"I think I'm a very fair-minded person" who is willing to listen, he said.

both Mittleider and Tverdy said it's a good system.

"I hope that continues and expands," Tverdy said.

Whether CSI should offer additional degrees, he said, would depend on funding. Tverdy said programs should also fit the mission and needs of the school.

Mittleider said she thinks there will be a number of high-growth fields — such as healthcare and energy — and specialized vocational training will be "incredibly important."

About the Candidates

After 42 years as a CSI physical education professor, Mittleider retired this spring.

She said she's already familiar with the college's mission, culture and programs.

"I think I can be a very viable voice in a board situation," she said.

Mittleider said it's the first time her adult life hasn't been dominated by work, taking care of elderly parents and raising children.

It's important to give back to the community through service, she said.

Also, Mittleider said she wants better representation on the board.

"I think a woman's perspective is extremely important," she said.

Yet, in the college's nearly 50-year history, there has only been one woman on the board. Mittleider said that's not reflective of a progressive school like CSI.

Tverdy is a loan officer at Farmers National Bank in Buhl. He has also farmed and ranched independently for 23 years.

Starting in the mid-1990s, he served on the Castleford school board for 10 years. He was also on the Idaho School Boards Association for six years, including as board president.

Tverdy said his background as a banker and business owner would be beneficial for the CSI board.

"I feel it to be a healthy environment when there's a diverse representation on the board," he said.

Tverdy said he believes in being conservative and fiscally responsible with taxpayer money.

The current board has a "great handle on things," he said, and he hopes to be part of continuing that tradition.

LA Kids' TV Show Host 'Sheriff' John Rovick Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) • John Rovick, the beloved host of a children's cartoon show in Los Angeles throughout the 1950s and 60s, has died.

Rovick died Saturday in Boise after a brief illness, his former station, KTTV-TV, told The Associated Press. He was 93.

For nearly two decades, Rovick appeared on the daily "Cartoon Time" show that earned him an Emmy award for outstanding children's program. It was so popular with young viewers that KTTV said it added another show to its midday schedule, "Sheriff John's Lunch Brigade," that stayed on the air until 1970.

Staples of the show included Rovick reciting the Pledge of Allegiance, singing "The Birthday Cake Polka" and leading viewers on a prayer before having lunch along with them. He opened the show with the song

"Laugh and Be Happy."

Rovick created the sheriff persona because of his interest in law enforcement. He served in World War II as a radio gunner for the Army Air Forces.

The Dayton, Ohio, native is survived by his wife and two daughters.

Algerian President Overthrown in '92 Coup Dies

Bendjedid gave Algeria a multiparty political system before he was overthrown in a 1992 military coup.

BY AOMAR OUALI
Associated Press

ALGIERS, Algeria • Former Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid, who gave the country a multiparty political system before he was overthrown in a 1992 military coup, died Saturday at a military hospital, the state news agency said. He was 83.

Bendjedid, who became president in 1979, presided over a series of political reforms that allowed for competitive legislative and municipal elections.

But when an Islamist party swept the first round of parliamentary elections, Algeria's powerful generals stepped in, ousted Bendjedid and canceled the elections in 1992.

The coup prompted an armed resistance that turned into a decade-long civil war, which tore the country apart

“Stop with the dumb conspiracy theories. Good grief.”

What Did Luna Whisper to Cronin?

The hot chatter among political people in Boise last week was about bulls and whether Tom Luna used that word, among others.

Randy Stapilus
Ridenbaugh.com

It was the underlying and overt topic at a panel discussion before a statewide group of high school teachers, and it was a subject of high interest. And although the incident was minor, there's an aspect to it that may keep it alive for some time to come.

Here's the background. Earlier in the week, a Boise club held a debate forum on the three school-related referenda on the ballot in the general election, to decide if the 2011 school overhaul laws championed by Superintendent of Public Instruction Tom Luna should stand or be thrown out. Luna was there arguing for the laws, and Democratic state Representative Brian Cronin, who is also working for an anti-laws group, were debating the subject.

The crowd was apparently civil and well-behaved, generally at least, but things got little intense between Luna and Cronin. After Cronin delivered his opening statement, Luna leaned over and whispered something to him. What it was is in dispute. Luna says he said something critical about Cronin's talking points, but that it was G-rated. Cronin said the language was more, well, intense.

It might have ended there except that the moment was caught on audio, and even has been broadcast. The audio isn't definitive. Reporter Betsy Russell of the Spokesman-Review wrote that it "is very difficult to make out, because Luna is practically whispering in Cronin's ear while the audience is applauding loudly." There have been attempts at noise reduction, and word circulated that another recorder also caught the exchange, but these aren't definitive either.

None of this is very important as to the merits of the referenda. But there is some significance, because both Luna and Cronin are being mentioned as possible candidates for governor in 2014. Cronin is best known around the state as a critic of the "Luna laws," and Luna himself is much more identified with the legislation than with most anything else. One meaning of this is that political futures could be affected by whether the laws survive the election or not, and another is that Luna's and Cronin's performance in this ballot issue battle set a stage for the future campaign.

That's mattering a little more as time goes on, because the dispute is unresolved. If, say, Luna had acknowledged the remark Cronin alleges - whether it was real or not, or maybe some kind of half-mea culpa ("I may have been a little heated there," or something similar) might have sufficed - he would have had the whole matter behind him; the subject is asked and answered. Representative Raul Labrador did that when his opponent criticized him for missing too many votes in Congress. He offered a partial explanation, but then said that, yes, he had missed more votes than he should have, and he would try to do better in future. That closed the subject (for now anyway).

It's the nagging loose ends that give the story some legs. The comment Luna was said to have delivered wasn't, after all, so terribly extreme even if true. But the did-he or didn't-he aspect may not specifically go away, and it may feed into other narratives down the road.

of letting the districts use their own discretion. Gov. Risch hurt education when he took away property tax funding for schools, shifting the burden onto the state. It backfired, and now many districts either do without, try to fund education at the local level through levies, or go to the courts to declare emergency need.

Have your property taxes gone down since 2006? Mine haven't. More state government intervention in local matters is not going to help the teachers of Idaho.

Lori Otter's Education Effort was a One-Sided Presentation

Recently, the "yes" for Idaho Education effort trotted out Idaho's First Lady to promote its cause. The evening at the Burley High School was promoted as a voter education effort. It was actually a one-sided presentation of misinformation and, in some cases, lies.

Typical of the misinformation was Mrs. Otter's statement that, under her husband's administration, all of the money cut from education during the recent recession years' budget cuts has been restored. According to the State of Idaho website, Gov. Otter's recommendation for Idaho public education for FY2012 was $110 million less than the education budget for FY2010. Thanks to JFAC efforts under the diligent leadership of Sen. Dean Cameron and Rep. Maxine Bell, the education budget was not as low as Mr. Otter and Mr. Luna wanted. However, the cuts have definitely not been restored.

I do not think that Mrs. Otter was intentionally lying. I think she was just spouting off, as she did all evening, some "sounds good" talking points that she had been fed by the "yes" people thinking that no one would challenge her First Ladyship. The evening was a one-sided exercise in "yes" propaganda. It demonstrates the lack of integrity of Luna, Otter and the Idaho political power brokers who are promoting the "yes" effort.

The only real voter education that came out of it was a revelation of how the $100,000 "yes" campaign money that Mr. Luna brought back from Tampa, Fla., and a lot of other Idaho tax dollars will be used. I can only suspect that the Tampa money was gathered from Jeb Bush and his cronies who are heavily invested in online education companies and who are trying to suck up all of the Idaho public education dollars they can get their hands on.

More Research Needed Before Forcing 'Students Come First' on Schools

Should Idaho's students become guinea pigs? The "Students Come First" pamphlet cites research by Project RED to show that "a one-to-one ratio of students to mobile computing devices" increases learning. But a study by the National Education Policy Center at the University of Colorado shows that students taking K12 Inc. online classes do not do as well as those in traditional classes. See "Online Students Lag Behind" in the Times-News, July 20, 2012.

Statistics and small studies can be manipulated to prove whatever the proponents of the study want to prove. The Project RED organization is an advocacy group for technology in the classroom. But large research studies, conducted over many years by independent research groups, do have validity. These large studies all show the same thing - students learn best when they are taught by good teachers. These large studies show that good teachers are more important than any other variable.

So how does the "Students Come First" program affect getting and keeping good teachers in Idaho? Unless Idaho's economy expands significantly, the money to pay for this program after this year will have to come from new taxes or from cuts in spending. There is no indication that Superintendent Luna will be asking Idaho's tax-adverse Legislature to increase educational funding. That means that unless school districts pick up the slack, the money will have to come from personnel, since Idaho's schools have already cut all other expenses.

It can come in one of three ways: 1) by reducing the total number of teachers and increasing class size; 2) by replacing experienced, higher-paid teachers with inexperienced ones; or 3) by cutting teachers' salaries. Any or all of these will have the effect of reducing the one thing that has been shown to improve learning - student access to good teachers.

I do not think there is anything wrong with technology in the classroom, nor do I have a problem with the kind of small-scale experimentation being done at Paul Elementary School. It is being carefully monitored and can be changed or scrapped if there are problems. But before forcing all of Idaho's students into the unproven "Students Come First" program, much more research needs to be done.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Vote a Resounding 'No' on Propositions 1, 2 and 3

As Idahoans go to the polls, we should all remember our legislators' past performance. Without the knowledge of their constituents and following the lead of the far-right movement, which now dictates what every Republican candidate does, our elected officials opted to enact laws that will irrevocably damage Idaho's students, a resource we cannot afford to squander. Idaho legislators, ignoring constituents' protests, passed unpopular and untested educational reform laws for which no sane person would have voted. Our lawmakers, who must fancy themselves above the law, simply did what they wanted to do - or were told to do - as if this state is a monarchy. Like their Republican cronies in states across this country, their bizarre dealings when on behind closed doors without the people's knowledge.

When the educational reforms were passed, I contacted my representative, Mr. Steve Hartgen, who didn't bother to reply or even acknowledge that he received the letter. Shouldn't we expect our legislators to listen to the people they represent? If we continue to vote for these people, turning a blind eye to their sins rather than discovering the truth about their shady dealings, Idahoans will get more of the same: steps toward privatizing education, abhorrent and blatantly biased voter ID laws and unfair redistricting - all of which puts more Republicans in Boise and pads their already brimming pockets.

Voters in Idaho are smarter and better informed. Listen to Idaho's educators (who actually know what they're talking about) and make a different choice when you go to the polls in November. Vote a resounding "no" on Propositions 1, 2 and 3 and remember that a vote for any and all Republicans is one for policies that are so unpopular and unhinged they have to be kept secret until it's too late and they are law.

'Luna Laws' Take Away Local Control for School Districts

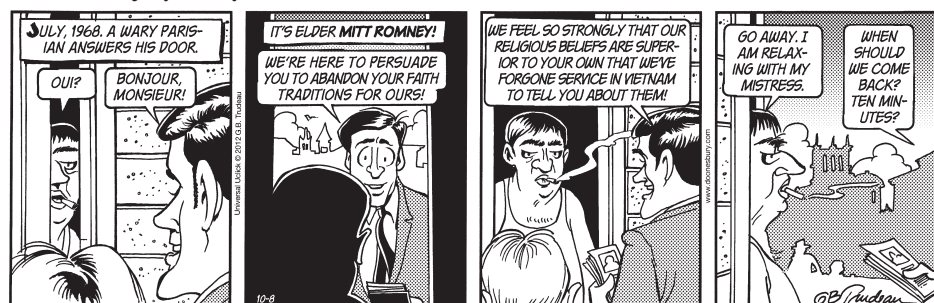

According to another news source, when Lori Otter came to Burley, she talked to a modest crowd about educational reform. One of the points she made was that she didn't know why the education reform package that became law last year was called "the Luna Laws" because Superintendent of Schools Tom Luna never had a chance to vote on them. I will attempt to answer that.

This is Luna's second term. What was he doing his first term? He was traveling around the state trying to get teachers on board for his education reform ideas. I went to several of his presentations, and the teachers who attended were not impressed with his proposals then. Since that approach didn't work, this politically savvy man got his friend in really high places on board - our governor. So when the legislation was brought out with a new bow and much fanfare, teachers knew it was the same old package underneath.

Traditionally, the Republican Party was known for less government interference and more local control. These "Luna Laws" actually take away local control in how districts can run the schools they are personally acquainted with.

A few years ago, the state (Big Brother) decided that school districts needed categories for spending instead

Some in Vt. Not Sweet on Standard Syrup Grading

Henry Marckres holds a maple sample up for viewing in East Montpelier, Vt. Vermonters have grown accustomed to their 'fancy' 'amber' and 'grade B' types of maple syrup but new consumers may not be so sweet on the terms. ASSOCIATED PRESS

'You're lumping Vermont syrup in with all the rest of them'

BY LISA RATHKE
Associated Press

MONTPELIER, Vt. • In a state that has a long history of maple syrup production and fiercely protects the purity of its brand, Vermont producers are proud of their "fancy," "grade A dark amber" and "grade B" syrup.

But the terminology has the potential to perplex consumers, particularly as Vermont's syrup production, which has boomed in the past decade, reaches broader markets.

So Vermont is considering joining with other syrup-producing states and Canadian provinces in selling a product with one grading standard, triggering fears by some producers that the state's vaunted brand will lose its reputation if it doesn't stand out from the rest — as they say it should.

"You're lumping Vermont syrup in with all the rest of them," said Kevin Bushee, 69, of the Bushee Family Maple Farm in Danby.

Vermont's syrup, which forms a state industry that nets about $130 million a year, is in fact not the same as others. The state requires that its syrup be slightly denser than other syrups because it thinks it tastes better. That requires that more sap be produced.

Some states already use current USDA standards to grade their syrup, while others, including Vermont, have their own standards. But maple states and provinces are considering getting on board with one system, for consistency's sake.

"Most of the states are watching Vermont to see what we do," said Henry Marckres, a maple specialist with the Vermont Agency of Agriculture.

The new standards would not affect the density, which in Vermont would stay the same. And producers can do their own marketing on labels, such as calling it fancy, in addition to the tiny grading labels.

The four international classifications would be golden color, delicate taste; amber color, rich taste; dark color, robust taste; and very dark color, strong taste, all grade A.

The change will help, not hurt, Vermont syrup sales, supporters say.

"If a jug is on a shelf and if you put maple syrup from different states on the shelf, the most obvious thing is the name of the state it comes from," said Jacques Couture, a Vermont sugar maker near the Canadian border and director of the board of the Vermont Maple Sugar Makers Association. "So I don't worry at all about that distracting from Vermont's. Vermont's brand is what it is, and I don't think that anybody's going to take away from that."

Friends Baffled by Killing of Ala. College Student

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) • Classmates and friends are questioning why a police officer fatally shot a University of South Alabama freshman who was naked and had been banging on a window at police headquarters.

Campus officials didn't give any indication that Gil Collar, 18, of Wetumpka had a weapon when he was shot. A university spokesman said he was fatally wounded about 1:30 a.m. Saturday after an officer heard a bang on a window and went outside to investigate.

A statement issued by university spokesman Keith Ayers said Collar, who wrestled at Wetumpka High School before enrolling at South Alabama, assumed a "fighting stance" and chased an officer before being shot. The officer tried to retreat numerous times to defuse the situation before opening fire, the school said.

But sophomore Tyler Kendrick said campus authorities haven't provided any satisfying answers about why Collar was killed.

"Really, it just upsets me that there's no other way to apprehend an unarmed student rather than shooting him. I don't understand that," Kendrick said.

Student Joshua Frye said it seemed the officer could have used something other than a firearm to stop Collar.

"What I feel is that a cop has more than a gun," he said.

The officer was placed on paid leave, and an autopsy will determine if drugs or alcohol were involved.

Campus officials said the confrontation was recorded by security cameras. The video and other information has been turned over to the district attorney and the Mobile County Sheriff's Office, which will review the shooting.

Colgan Meanor went to high school with Collar and then enrolled at the same college.

"He was a great, loving guy who always made people smile," she said. "He's not the kind of guy that people knew him and said he would do something like this."

Collar was the second person killed on the South Alabama campus since last year.

A university freshman was charged with murder in the fatal stabbing of another teenager who was slain in an on-campus apartment in July 2011. The victim was a visitor to campus and was not enrolled, authorities said.

Ayers said South Alabama, located near downtown Mobile, was still "a very safe campus," despite Collar's death.

Hatchery-Raised Salmon are Productive

BOISE (AP) • A new study shows that salmon raised in a Nez Perce Tribe hatchery are spawning as successfully in the wild as wild salmon.

Nez Perce Tribe Fisheries Program Manager Dave Johnson told The Idaho Statesman that the study demonstrates how supplementation programs can boost salmon numbers and minimize impact to wild fish populations.

The study, published last week in the journal Molecular Ecology, found that the hatchery salmon from the Johnson Creek Artificial Propagation Enhancement program had the same reproductive success when spawning with wild salmon as wild salmon that spawned together.

The findings run counter to some other research and genetic experiments, which have indicated that hatchery-raised fish are less successful than wild salmon. Some biologists and salmon advocates fear that mixing hatchery salmon with wild salmon will ultimately weaken the wild salmon population as a whole.

"Our results question the generalization that all hatchery fish negatively impact the fitness of wild populations," said Maureen Hess, geneticist with the Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission and lead author on the study.

The researchers compared DNA from all adult salmon that returned to the hatchery over a 13-year span, tracking parents and their offspring. The study found fish taken into the hatchery to spawn produced an average of nearly five times the number of returning adults compared to fish that were left in the wild to spawn.

Hatchery fish that spawned naturally with a wild fish had about the same reproductive success as two wild fish, suggesting that chinook salmon reared for a single generation in the specially-designed hatchery did not reduce the fitness of wild fish.

CENTURYLINK, UNION FAIL TO REACH LABOR AGREEMENT

DENVER (AP) • CenturyLink and the union representing 13,000 workers in 13 states in the West and Midwest have failed to reach a contract agreement, but have signed onto a day-to-day extension of the expired pact.

The Communications Workers of America made the announcement after the existing labor contract expired at 11:59 p.m. Saturday.

CWA spokesman Al Kogler said in a statement that negotiations will continue and workers will remain on the job during the extension.

Kogler has said the union opposes a proposed increase in health care premiums and wants to bring more jobs back to the U.S. The union had authorized a strike in the event that a new deal couldn't be reached with the Monroe, La.-based telecommunications company.

CenturyLink workers in Montana, who are negotiating a separate contract, also agreed to the extension.

Magic Valley's Athletes of the Week

11-man football: Jason Gillette, Declo: Gillette had a career day on senior night, rushing for 131 yards and a school-record six touchdowns in Declo's 67-8 win over Valley on Friday.

Boys soccer: Christopher Nalen, Community School. Nalen saved two kicks in the Cutthroats' penalty shootout win over Bliss on Saturday, including one after missing his own kick that would have won it earlier.

8-man football, Part I: Kade Kress, Hagerman. Kress was responsible for eight touchdowns, five passing and three rushing, as the Pirates beat Shoshone 68-22 on Friday for their 18th straight win.

Girls soccer: Hannah Lancaster, Wendell. Lancaster continued her big-time goal-scoring ways, netting a hat trick in the Trojans' 4-1 win over Gooding in the opening round of the 3A District IV Tournament.

8-man football, Part II: Ty Zimmers, Castleford. Normally this space is reserved for one athlete per discipline, but Zimmers' 410-yard, 6-TD performance against Wells, Nev., can't be overlooked.

Volleyball: Aly Sauer, Hagerman: Sauer had an eye-popping 31 kills against Butte County on Tuesday, but it wasn't enough as Hagerman lost the battle of the Pirates in four sets.

Girls cross country: Jasmine Nesbitt, Jerome. Nesbitt finished fourth in the Dani Bates Invitational on Wednesday, crossing in 19:28 for the best time among District IV runners.

What We Learned: Week 6

It's tough to believe, but we're two weeks away from the playoffs beginning. One team, Gooding, has already locked up a conference title with two weeks to play, while Hagerman and Light-house Christian can do it this week. Several other playoff berths are up for grabs, but before we look forward later in the week, it's time to recap an interesting Week 6 in District IV football.

Here's what we learned from last week's games:

1. Now that Canyon Ridge's offense has reached the end zone, the points could flow.

I've been harping on the inability of the Riverhawk offense to find pay dirt in the first five games of the season, but once they did they exploded to life. I know Thursday's performance was against a struggling Buhl team, but when Eddie Marin hit the end zone, Canyon Ridge was on its way to tripling its season point total. This week provides a different test against a staunch Twin Falls run defense, but the fourth edition of the cross-town rivalry game has gone from another near-certain blowout to a far more intriguing game than this time last week.

2. Outside of Gooding, the SCIC just isn't very good right now.

The "Captain Obvious" moment of the day goes to ... me. Buhl's only win is against SCIC rival Filer, which hasn't won since 2010. Kimberly's only victory was a narrow one over Wood River, which has only beaten Buhl. Gooding rolled right through the SCIC, and the Senators weren't the only ones to do that, as Kimberly, Buhl and Filer all lost by double-digits to Burley. The Bobcats are improving, sure, but that's still a squad that Kimberly and Buhl teams from the past would have expected to beat. Here's hoping this year is a blip on the radar and the conference depth starts bouncing back next year.

3. Declo might be the most complete team not only in 2A, but in District IV as a whole.

Before you start typing away on those emails, I'm not saying Declo would win the Great Basin Conference at a canter, or even that the Hornets would win it at all. But across the roster, Declo has more paths to success than a lot of teams. Kai Garner is a good quarterback who can beat you with his legs or arm. Jason Gillette might be as good as, or better than, Mark Knobbe was at running back. There are playmakers like Hayden Hanson in the pass game, and the lines have a troublesome mix of speed and strength. Declo's pass game isn't tested all that much but it fared well against Buhl, which has thrown it around as much as anyone in the area. There might be better rushing attacks than Declo's, but I haven't found a team that does as many

NFL ROUNDUP

Brees Breaks Unitas's NFL Record in Saints' First Win

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW ORLEANS • Drew Brees broke a half-century-old NFL record by throwing a touchdown pass in his 48th straight game, and the New Orleans Saints won for the first time this season, 31-24 over the San Diego Chargers on Sunday night.

Brees' 40-yard pass to Devery Henderson eclipsed the mark of 47 consecutive games with a touchdown pass set by Johnny Unitas from 1956-60.

Brees' also had three scoring strikes to Marques Colston, giving him a franchise-record 52 touchdown catches with the Saints (1-4).

At Brees' request, the NFL allowed head coach Sean Payton, assistant head coach Joe Vitt and general manager Mickey Loomis — all serving various suspensions in connection with the NFL's bounty investigation — to attend the game. They and Johnny Unitas son, Joe, saw Brees pass for 370 yards.

Philip Rivers passed for 354 yards and two touchdowns for the Chargers (3-2), but had an interception and fumble in the final quarter.

COLTS 30, PACKERS 27

INDIANAPOLIS • Andrew Luck capped a second-half comeback by throwing a 4-yard touchdown pass to Reggie Wayne with 35 seconds to go that gave Indianapolis a stunning 30-27 victory over Green Bay on Sunday in the Colts' first game without coach Chuck Pagano.

Green Bay (2-3) had a chance to force overtime, but Mason Crosby missed a 51-yard field goal with 3 seconds to go. Luck then took a knee and time ran out and the team celebrated. Missing was Pagano, who is in a hospital undergoing treatment for leukemia that was recently diagnosed.

Luck came through with just what Pagano wanted — getting the Colts (2-2) to .500. And they did it despite trailing 21-3 at halftime.

After Adam Vinatieri gave Indy its first lead at 22-21 with a 28-yard field goal, Aaron Rodgers threw an 8-yard TD pass to James Jones to make it 27-22 with 4:30 left before the Colts rallied.

FALCONS 24, REDSKINS 17

LANDOVER, Md. • Michael Turner ran 13 yards for the go-ahead score with 2:46 to play, and Atlanta knocked Robert Griffin III out of the game.

The Falcons are 5-0 for the first time in franchise history.

Matt Ryan completed 34 of 52 passes for 345 yards as Atlanta handed Washington (2-3) its eighth consecutive home loss.

Griffin left the game in the third quarter after being hit in the head on a sack by linebacker Sean Weatherspoon. Coach Mike Shanahan said RG3 has a "mild concussion."

Kirk Cousins took over and threw a 77-yard touchdown pass to Santana Moss to give the Redskins a fourth-quarter lead, but the fourth-round pick also threw two interceptions in the final two minutes.

PATRIOTS 31, BRONCOS 21

FOXBOROUGH, Mass. • Tom Brady won his latest showdown with Peyton Manning with the help of a career-high 151 yards rushing from Stevan Ridley.

In the 13th meeting between the star quarterbacks, and first since Manning left the Indianapolis Colts, Brady directed four scoring marches of at least 80 yards and the Patriots rushed for 252 yards.

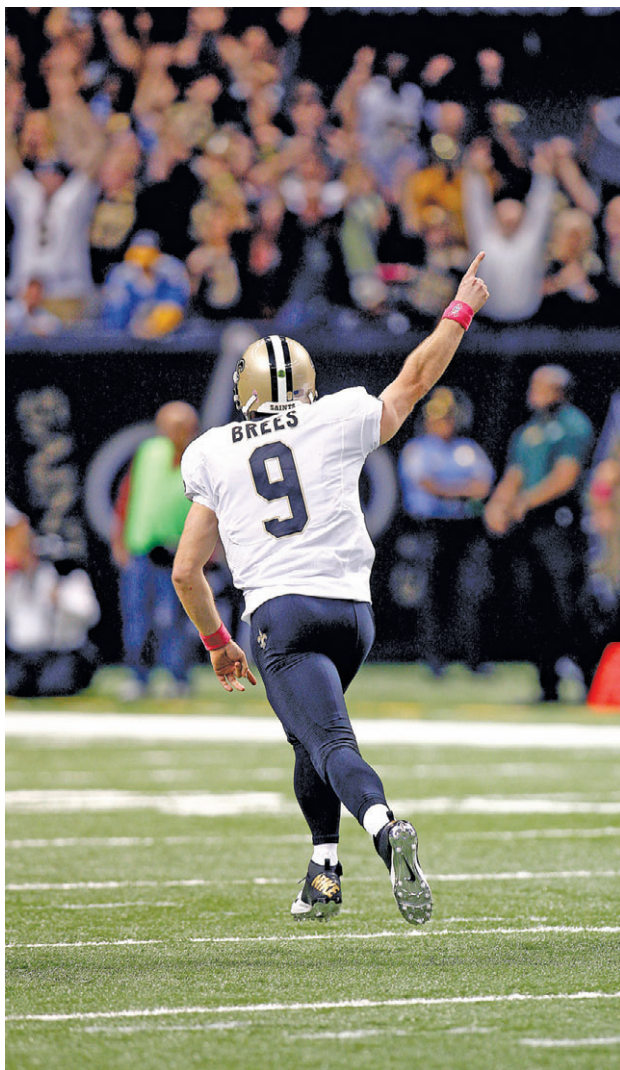

Brady improved to 9-4 against Manning. He completed 23 of 31 passes for 223 yards and one touchdown and ran for another. Manning was 31 of 44 for 345 yards and three touchdowns but lost a fumble on a third-quarter sack.

The fumble led to Ridley's 8-yard run that put the Patriots (3-2) ahead 31-7 with about five minutes left in the third quarter.

STEELERS 16, EAGLES 14

PITTSBURGH • Shaun Suisham hit a 34-yard field goal as time expired.

lead on a 2-yard touchdown pass from Michael Vick to Brent Celek with 6:33 remaining, but the Steelers responded by driving 64 yards, including a pair of key third-down conversions by quarterback Ben Roethlisberger, to set up the winning kick.

Matt Hasselbeck, starting in place of the injured Jake Locker, went 26 for 43 for 200 yards, one touchdown and one interception. Most of those gains came near the end with the outcome no longer in doubt.

DOLPHINS 17, BENGALS 13

CINCINNATI • Reshad Jones intercepted Andy Dalton's overthrown pass at midfield with 1:22 left, preserving a win that ended two weeks of miserable, last-minute finishes for Miami.

Miami (2-3) had dropped its past two games in overtime. The Dolphins held on against the Bengals (3-2), who never got anything going consistently on offense and wasted a chance for a tighter finish.

Mike Nugent was wide right on a 42-yard field goal try with 3 minutes left — his first miss of the season — giving the Dolphins a chance to run down the clock behind rookie quarterback Ryan Tannehill, who was smooth in the toughest moments.

The Bengals got the ball back at their 20 following a punt with 1:45 to go, but Dalton's second interception sealed it. Dalton was 26 of 43 for 234 yards with three sacks and two interceptions.

GIANTS 41, BROWNS 27

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. • Victor Cruz and Ahmad Bradshaw set career bests in leading New York Giants over winless Cleveland.

Cruz caught three touchdown passes from Eli Manning covering 3, 7 and 28 yards, while Bradshaw surpassed his yardage on the ground for the season with a career-high 200. He had 132 entering the game.

The Giants are 9-0 in games he has rushed for 100 yards or more.

New York (3-2) also forced three turnovers, including Chase Blackburn's interception in the end zone midway in the fourth quarter to clinch it.

The Browns are 0-5 for the first time since their return season to the NFL in 1999.

VIKINGS 30, TITANS 7

MINNEAPOLIS • Percy Harvin pounded his way through Tennessee's defense for one touchdown rushing and another receiving for Minnesota.

Harvin caught eight passes for 108 yards for the Vikings (4-1), who have given up a combined 33 points in winning three straight games. Christian Ponder threw his first two interceptions after 143 attempts without one, but he still finished 25 for 35 for 258 yards and two scores against the reeling Titans (1-4).

Matt Hasselbeck, starting in place of the injured Jake Locker, went 26 for 43 for 200 yards, one touchdown and one interception. Most of those gains came near the end with the outcome no longer in doubt.

49ERS 45, BILLS 3

SAN FRANCISCO • Alex Smith threw for a season-high 303 yards and three touchdowns, Frank Gore ran for 106 yards and a score, and San Francisco amassed a franchise-record 621 yards.

Michael Crabtree and Vernon Davis each eclipsed 100 yards receiving to back Smith, who threw TD passes of 43, 28 and 10 yards and surpassed 300 yards passing for only the third time in his career.

Rian Lindell kicked a 31-yard field goal in the first quarter before San Francisco scored the final 42 points to hand Buffalo (2-3) its second straight embarrassing loss.

BEARS 41, JAGUARS 3

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. • Charles Tillman and Lance Briggs returned interceptions for touchdowns — their second in six days — and Chicago used stifling defense to overwhelm Jacksonville.

The Bears (4-1) scored 38 unanswered points in the second half to win their third consecutive game. The streak has everything to do with defense.

Chicago has returned five interceptions for touchdowns in the last three weeks.

Tillman and Briggs returned two of the team's five interceptions for touchdowns in Monday night's 34-18 victory at Dallas. Safety Major Wright returned one the previous week against St. Louis.

The Jaguars (1-4) never recovered and played the final quarter amid a chorus of boos.

SEAHAWKS 16, PANTHERS 12

CHARLOTTE, N.C. • Russell Wilson threw a 13-yard touchdown pass to Golden Tate with 35 seconds left in the third quarter and Seattle came up with four sacks against Cam Newton.

Wilson shook off two third quarter interceptions — including one that was returned for a touchdown.

Wilson threw for 221 yards, while Marshawn Lynch ran for 85 yards for the Seahawks (3-2).

RAVENS 9, CHIEFS 6

KANSAS CITY, Mo. • Ray Rice ran for 101 yards and Justin Tucker made all three of his field goal attempts.

Joe Flacco threw for 187 yards and was picked off once, but the Ravens (4-1) were still able to come up with enough points to beat the Chiefs (1-4), who turned it over four times.

Nationals Rally Past Cardinals in Game 1

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. LOUIS • Rookies in the postseason, the Washington Nationals played like poised veterans.

The Nationals escaped a bases-loaded jam in the seventh inning, Tyler Moore blooped a two-out, two-run single in the eighth and Washington beat the defending World Series champion St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 Sunday in an NL playoff opener.

They have just four players with postseason experience on the roster. But they have the lead.

“Not many people have probably watched too many Nationals games, but we have a great starting rotation and a great bullpen,” said Ian Desmond, who singled for his third hit in the go-ahead rally. “They keep us in the ballgame and some timely hits from this kid, and the rest of the guys coming off the bench, that’s really been the formula.”

The Nationals, who had never come close to making the playoffs since moving from Montreal for the 2005 season, overcame a wild start by 21-game winner Gio Gonzalez. They limited the Cardinals to just three hits.

“All the credit in the world goes to the bullpen,” Gonzalez said. “I’ve been saying it all year. The reason why we’ve been so successful is these guys come in and shut it down.”

Rookie reliever Ryan Mattheus needed just two pitches to bail out the Nationals in the seventh with St. Louis ahead 2-1. Moore, another rookie, put them ahead soon after that, Tyler Clippard worked around an error in the eighth and Drew Storen saved it with a 1-2-3 ninth.

American League TIGERS 5, ATHLETICS 4

DETROIT • Al Albuquerque reached out and snagged a sharp grounder to the mound — then planted a little kiss on the ball before tossing it to first.

The relieved reliever gave his Detroit teammates a reason to laugh in ninth inning of a tight game. Moments later, the Tigers were celebrating.

Don Kelly scored the tying run on a wild pitch in the eighth, then hit a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the bottom of the ninth that lifted the Tigers over the Oakland Athletics 5-4 Sunday for a 2-0 lead in their AL playoff series.

Detroit overcame three A's leads and seasawed to victory. It was 1-1 before a wild final three innings that included a key error by Oakland center fielder Coco Crisp, two game-tying wild pitches and several momentum changes.

Albuquerque kept it tied in the ninth when he got Yoenis Cespedes to hit a comebacker with men on first and third and two outs. He gave the ball a quick smooch before throwing underhand to first.

“I just did it,” he said. “It was the emotion of the game. I wasn’t trying to be a hot dog.”

Oakland outfielder Josh Reddick wasn’t thrilled.

“We didn’t appreciate that. I thought it was immature and not very professional,” Reddick said. “You don’t do that on the field. Save it for the dugout. That’s all I’m going to say.”

Detroit will go for a sweep of the division series matchup in Game 3 on Tuesday at Oakland.

Triple Crown winner Miguel Cabrera doubled twice for the Tigers, hit a fly ball that Crisp dropped for two runs and later singled in the ninth.

It was the sixth straight postseason loss for the A’s, all to Detroit. The Tigers swept Oakland in the 2006 AL championship series, winning the series on Magglio Ordonez’s homer in Game 4 — which was Detroit’s last sudden-death postseason win before Sunday.

Kenseth Wins When Stewart Gets Knocked Upside Down

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TALLADEGA, Ala. • The championship contenders said Talladega Superspeedway would be the wild-card race in the Chase for the Sprint Cup.

That was an understatement.

Talladega delivered yet another “big one” Sunday, when defending NASCAR champion Tony Stewart triggered a 25-car pileup as he tried to protect the lead. His bid to block a long line of traffic on the last lap backfired, and his car was sent sailing through the air in a chaotic crash that collected 10 of the 12 title contenders.

Daytona 500 winner Matt Kenseth won under caution, and everyone else was left wondering when NASCAR will do something dramatic to alter the dangerous racing at restrictor-plate tracks.

“It’s not safe. It’s not. It’s bloodthirsty,” Dale Earnhardt Jr. said. “If that’s what people want, that’s ridiculous.”

Stewart, who assailed the wreckfests at Talladega with a sarcastic diatribe in May, took full responsibility for creating the latest carnage.

He had charged to the lead on the first lap of a two-lap sprint to the finish, but got too far ahead of the pack to hang on to any drafting partners.

Kenseth was charging on the outside of him and Michael Waltrip was leading a line of traffic on the inside. Stewart was blocking all over the track, and said he mistakenly chopped across the front of Waltrip’s car to trigger the accident.

The contact hooked Stewart to send him into a spin, and his car lifted into the air and sailed on its roof and then on its side over several other cars. It created chaos through the pack, which was running three-wide in a frantic dash to the finish.

“I just screwed up. I turned down and cut across Michael and crashed the whole field,” Stewart said. “It was my fault, blocking and trying to stay where I was at.”

“I was trying to win the race and I was trying to stay ahead of Matt there and Michael got a great run on the bottom and had a big head of steam, and when I turned down, I turned across the front of his car. Just a mistake on my part but cost a lot of people a bad day.”

Stewart gamely waved to the crowd as he climbed from his battered car, while Jimmie Johnson sat on the ledge of Earnhardt’s window for a lift back to the garage. Everywhere they looked, they saw crumpled cars.

Five-time Talladega winner Earnhardt said enough is enough with the carnage. He was credited with a 20th-place finish that dropped him four spots in the standings to 11th.

“If this was what we did every week, I wouldn’t be doing it,” he said. “I’ll just put it to you that way. If this was how we raced every week, I’d find another job. That’s what the package is doing. It’s really not racing. It’s a little disappointing. It cost a lot of money right there.”

JOHN DOE

YOU ARE NOTIFIED THAT:

A Petition, a copy of which is attached, has been filed in the above-entitled matter in the Magistrate's Division of the District Court of Twin Falls County, Idaho, by the Prosecuting Attorney, alleging the above-named children come within the Court's jurisdiction under the Child Protective Act.

You are hereby directed to appear personally for a Review Hearing at the Twin Falls County Courthouse, 425 Shoshone Street, Twin Falls, Idaho on January 3, 2013 at 9:30 a.m.

You are notified that service of the attached Petition upon you, as the parent(s), guardian, or custodian of these children, confers personal jurisdiction of the Court upon you and subjects you to the provisions of the Child Protective Act.

You are notified that if you fail to appear without reasonable cause, the Court may proceed in your absence or you may be proceeded against for contempt of Court.

You are notified that the parent(s), guardian, or a custodian may be financially liable for the support and/or treatment of the children.

You are further notified that the children and parent(s), guardian, or custodian have the right to be represented by an attorney of your choosing, or if financially unable to pay, have the right to have an attorney appointed by the Court to represent the children or the parent(s), guardian, or custodian at county expense. If you request to have an attorney appointed at county expense, you must appear before the date of the hearing given above, at which time the Court shall consider appointment of an attorney for the child and inquire whether the parent(s), guardian, or custodian require the separate appointment of an attorney.

This presumption may be rebutted by a finding by the Court that the filing of a Petition for Termination of Parental Rights would not be in the best interest of the children and their family, or that the children are placed permanently with a relative.

WITNESS MY HAND AND SEAL of said Magistrate Court this 27th day of September, 2012.

Today is Monday, Oct. 8, the 282nd day of 2012. There are 84 days left in the year. This is the Columbus Day observance in the United States, as well as Thanksgiving Day in Canada.

Today's Highlight:
On Oct. 8, 1871, the Great Chicago Fire erupted; fires also broke out in Peshtigo, Wis., and in several communities in Michigan.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1869, the 14th president of the United States, Franklin Pierce (puhrs), died in Concord, N.H.

In 1918, U.S. Army Cpl. Alvin C. York led an attack that killed 25 German soldiers and captured 132 others in the Argonne Forest in France.

In 1934, Bruno Hauptmann was indicted by a grand jury in New Jersey for murder in the death of the son of Charles A. Lindbergh.

In 1944, "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet," starring Ozzie and Harriet Nelson, made its debut on CBS Radio.

In 1945, President Harry S. Truman announced that the secret of the atomic bomb would be shared only with Britain and Canada.

In 1956, Don Larsen pitched the only perfect game in a World Series to date as the New York Yankees beat the Brooklyn Dodgers in Game 5, 2-0.

In 1957, the Brooklyn Baseball Club announced it was accepting an offer to move the Dodgers from New York to Los Angeles.

In 1962, Chuck Hiller of the San Francisco Giants became the first National League to hit a World Series grand slam; the shot came in Game 4 against New York Yankees pitcher Marshall Bridges. (The final score of the game was Giants 7, Yankees 3.)

In 1967, former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee died in London at age 84.

In 1970, Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn was named winner of the Nobel Prize for literature.

In 1982, all labor organizations in Poland, including Solidarity, were banned.

In 1992, former West German Chancellor Willy Brandt died in Unkel, Germany, at age 78.

Ten years ago: A federal judge approved President George W. Bush's request to reopen West Coast ports, ending a 10-day labor lock-out that was costing the U.S. economy an estimated $1 to $2 billion a day. Two Kuwaiti gunmen attacked U.S. forces during war games on a Persian Gulf island, killing one Marine and wounding another before they were shot to death. Raymond Davis Jr. and Riccardo Giacconi of the U.S. and Masatoshi Koshiba of Japan won the Nobel Prize in physics.

Five years ago: British Prime Minister Gordon Brown announced his country would halve its remaining troop contingent in Iraq in the spring of 2008. (Britain ended up postponing the withdrawal amid a spike in militia violence.) Michael Devlin was sentenced to life in prison for kidnapping one of two boys he'd held captive in his suburban St. Louis apartment. (Devlin pleaded guilty the next day to dozens of other counts, resulting in a total of 74 life sentences.) Americans Mario R. Capecchi, Oliver Smithies and Briton Martin J. Evans won the 2007 Nobel Prize in medicine. Racing great John Henry, the thoroughbred who'd earned more than $6.5 million before retiring as a gelding, was euthanized at the Kentucky Horse Park at age 32.

One year ago: Scott Anderson became the Presbyterian Church's first openly gay ordained minister during a ceremony at Covenant Presbyterian Church in Madison, Wis. In a rain-interrupted game that ended a few minutes past midnight, the Texas Rangers defeated the Detroit Tigers 3-2 in Game 1 of the AL championship series. Al Davis, the Hall of Fame owner of the Oakland Raiders, died at age 82.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE® Bobby Wolff

"It's true, I never assisted the sun materially in his rising, but, doubt not, it was of the last importance only to be present at it."
— Henry David Thoreau

All this week's deals come from the 2011 Bermuda Bowl from Veldhoven in the Netherlands. Today's deal features a defensive maneuver that eluded one of the players who was faced with the problem. See if you can do better!

At both tables, West passed initially, then raised to four spades at his next turn. Neither East nor West could bid on to five spades over five hearts though; perhaps if East had doubled to show extra shape (NOT penalties) that might have got West to do the right thing.

Anyway, with five spades easy to make, the East-West pairs had to defeat five hearts to avoid disaster.

When Bobby Levin was on lead, he started with the spade ace, on which Steve Weinstein played a suit-preference eight, calling for the higher of the unbid suits. Making sure there was no confusion, Levin thoughtfully played the diamond king at trick two and continued the suit for one down and 100 points for USA-1.

In the other room, Joe Grue also started with the spade ace, and he too switched to a diamond at trick two, but he played a low diamond rather than the king. Justin Lall had to decide whether the spade king was standing up or if his partner had the diamond king. He got it wrong when he won the diamond ace and then tried to cash a second spade. Declarer, Lew Stansby, could ruff and was able to claim 11 tricks.

ANSWER: The choice is between an attacking heart and a more passive club — though you could get lucky and hit partner's suit. If you gave me one more heart intermediate (say the 10 instead of the five), a heart lead would be more attractive; but here a heart lead could easily give up a cheap trick even if partner had an honor in the suit. Put me down for a low-diamond lead (or the nine).

Times-News Classifieds

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating a man, "Jerry," who committed a crime years ago. He and a friend participated in several robberies. Jerry was unarmed and no one was hurt, although the victims were traumatized. Jerry was caught, served time in prison and has completely reformed his life. He finished college, was married for many years, is a devoted father to his children and holds an excellent job for which he is respected.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

Despite the way Jerry has lived his life, I am having a hard time getting over his past. Although I know he has done everything humanly possible to redeem himself, I can't help wondering what kind of person he is DEEP DOWN. We are starting to get more serious, and he doesn't know I'm aware of his record. (A mutual friend told me long before Jerry and I began to date.)

I'm concerned that if my children know about what he did, they will never accept him. Although I have never met someone with whom I feel so compatible since my divorce, I wonder if it's worth pursuing.

— TORN OVER HIS PAST

DEAR TORN: Let me help you. Jerry is a man who made a very stupid mistake in his youth and who has paid for it. But it didn't stop him from turning his life around and making a success of himself. Many people would respect that. I know I do.

Because you and Jerry are getting serious, he should have mentioned his past to you. The two of you need to have a heart-to-heart talk. If you are truly worried about the kind of person he is "deep down," this is the way to find out. As for your children — once YOU accept him, so will they if you impress upon them how hard he has worked to become the person he is today.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going to a small community building near where I live to sing karaoke. I love going there because no alcohol is served, everyone acts like family, and I can take my kids and grandkids. My husband doesn't go because he has other stress relievers and we have different interests. He knows some of the people there and doesn't mind me going with my best friend.

I love my husband very much. I am not "looking for love." However, last month the DJ's wife was waiting for me and said she didn't appreciate my singing with her husband (she never comes, either) and told me to stop leaving comments on his Facebook page.

I tried to explain that I thought he was my friend, but she wasn't having it. She wanted to start trouble and ruin what happiness we all have. I thought about not going back, but I love the singing.

I haven't done anything wrong or said anything inappropriate. My friends at karaoke want me back, and my husband says I should go. I have been so down about this. There's no other place around where they don't serve alcohol. Please help me.

— INNOCENT AND HURT IN SOUTH CAROLINA

DEAR INNOCENT AND HURT: Although your relationship with the DJ is innocent, it appears he has a troubled marriage. If he doesn't know about the incident with his wife, then you should tell him. The next couple of times you visit the community building to sing, ask your husband to please come with you. And stop leaving messages on the Facebook page.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

IF OCTOBER 8 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You've got a tiger by the tail between now and the end of the month, especially where business, finance and career are concerned. By employing sound business principles and exercising good judgment, you can go far and realize your ambitions. In April, you might receive a golden opportunity that will improve an important part of your life. That is an excellent time to launch crucial plans or to make a significant decision about a romantic commitment. Promises made then will be kept if they are in your best interest.

HOROSCOPE
Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): It doesn't make sense to try to fit in when you are born to stand out. This could be a good time to launch your plans, start an important project or put your business and people skills into the spotlight.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You get what you give. You could be rewarded for good deeds, kind intentions and your willingness to give in to a compromise. Ask for advice from trusted mentors; it will be like money in the bank.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): There is a difference between true-blue friends and fair-weather friends. Keep your eyes firmly focused on people who are sincere and dependable. You must avoid anything that sounds too good to be true.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You can overcome moments of darkness by shining the light of your love. You may have the most informed and unbiased opinion, especially when the subject is money, possessions and a sense of values.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): People who make decisions rise to the top. You may be appreciated for decision-making abilities and your willingness to cooperate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your intelligence isn't demonstrated because you think you know everything without questioning, but often question everything you know. In the upcoming week you may learn to use wisdom.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You're like a magnet in a jar of pins. You might feel like Dorothy in the Wizard of Oz and amaze yourself by winning new friends. Don't forget Glinda's reminder that you've had the power all along.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A river cuts through rock not because of its power, but because of its persistence. This might be a very good day for signing contracts, making significant purchases or starting significant new projects.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Live in the now. The longer you wait for the future to arrive, the shorter the time will be that you can enjoy it. This is a good time to set goals, launch plans and make worthwhile promises.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): There isn't just one chapter in the book of your life. Imagine that you just flipped a page and suddenly the subject matter has changed for the better. Enjoy good times with good people today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Imagination is the preview of future attractions. A dream of striking it rich by taking a risk could create the appropriate mental image that inspires you to take advantage of every passing opportunity.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You could be elected to act as a peacemaker. You have a good grasp of the rules, but a good sense of fairness as well, so someone might ask you to stand in as an arbitrator. People trust your judgment.
