TWIN FALLS • Laptop computers that could soon be in the hands of high school students and teachers won't actually be owned by the state.

Under a contract with Hewlett-Packard, the state is leasing laptops from the company as part of the Students Come First reforms. The deal hinges on Tuesday's general election.

Melissa McGrath, spokeswoman for the Idaho State Department of Education, said there have been questions about why the state is leasing the laptops instead of buying them.

But she said it shouldn't be a surprise.

"The plan has always been to do a lease," she said.

Last week, Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter and public schools chief Tom Luna announced an eight-year, $180 million contract with

Under the education reforms, every Idaho public high school teacher and student will receive a HP ProBook Notebook

McGrath said the one-to-one device initiative is "so much more than just purchasing a laptop."

The contract with HP includes a wireless network in every Idaho high school, maintaining the devices, security, technology support and training school employees.

"The device is just one piece of it," Mc-Grath said.

One reason for leasing, she said, is that technology becomes outdated quickly.

The final recommendations of the task force formed to advise on Students Come First technology in 2011 note that the state department planned to seek a four-year lease for devices. It was also included in a request for proposals for potential laptop Laptops will have a four-year lifespan in Idaho high schools under the final contract. After that, they'll be replaced.

School districts will have the option of Manslaughter Case Heads to Jury

BY LAURIE WELCH lwelch@magicvallev.com

RUPERT • Michael Jared Thompson is the only living person who knows exactly what happened when he raised a loaded pistol in the cab of his pickup truck to quell an argument on a cold night last December.

But he did not take the witness stand Thursday to speak in his own defense. Thompson is charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the shooting death of Michael Kenneth Blair southeast of Paul as the two men and their two female companions returned to Thompson's home after a night out drinking.

The case should reach the Minidoka County jury's hands today, after the jury receives its final instructions and the prosecution and defense present their closing arguments.

Minidoka County Prosecutor Lance Stevenson introduced evidence Thursday that included dozens of photographs taken during the processing of the crime scene. The jury also heard testimony from detectives, the coroner and the forensic pathologist who examined Blair's body after it was recovered from the rear floorboard of Thompson's crew cab pickup.

The jury, however, spent a great deal of time outside the Please see CASE, A6

Stocks Rise on Strong Economic Data

NEW YORK (AP) • It's only been a day, but November on Wall Street is already looking a lot better than October. Strong economic data and corporate news converged Thursday to give U.S. stocks their best day since mid-September.

The Dow closed up 136.16 points, or 1 percent, at 13,232.62. It was the best day since Sept. 13. The Standard & Poor's 500 index rose 15.43 points, or 1.1 percent.

The contract also quotes prices if districts want to buy laptops before that: $372.68 after year one, $260.12 after year two or $147.56 after year three.

McGrath said districts could choose to use old laptops at middle or elementary schools, for instance. So what happens to the old laptops if school districts don't buy them? McGrath said HP will handle that, whether the devices are recycled or resold.

The Idaho Division of Purchasing negotiated directly with five total vendors before awarding a contract to

Other vendors in the negotiations process were JC Technologies (Ace Computers), Dell, Lenovo and Apple

Information was obtained by the Times-News through a public records request.

The bid amounts weren't yet available Thursday from the purchasing division. Here's an overview of other key points in the contract:

It All Comes Down to a Vote

HP won't start working on the technology project until after Tuesday's election, according to the contract.

McGrath said the state doesn't want to incur any costs before the election.

Voters will decide whether to keep or overturn the three Students Come First laws.

The law that covers oneto-one mobile devices is on ballots as Proposition 3.

If voters overturn the law, the state's contract with HP

Trading Out

McGrath said the state has the flexibility to reevaluate the contract each year.

That could mean asking HP for different software or even a device other than laptops.

McGrath said state education officials will sit down with school district administrators and technology directors. They'll talk about what worked well in the contract and what didn't. "We can have those conversations and go back to HP," McGrath said.

There could be an additional cost if the state decides on a different device, but McGrath said it's not likely.

"We would take that into consideration before we made any switch," she said, and would talk with the state Legislature about it.

Who Pays for Damage? Idaho.

The state will pay for the expenses if laptops are lost or damaged.

Under the contract, state officials have to notify HP within 60 days about needed laptop repairs.

If a laptop is lost or damaged beyond repair, the state has to pay the "casualty value" as part of the next rent payment.

The contact also includes spare laptops -3 percent of the contract amount.

Training Educators

If voters decide "yes" on Proposition 3, about 6,500 laptops will go out to high school educators early next semester.

HP is partnering with the Idaho Digital Learning Academy to provide training on how to use the devices. McGrath said the planned timeline is for teachers to receive laptops in January or February. "We hope that professional development begins immediately," she said.

Start-up Costs

The contract includes an expected $5.5 million in infrastructure and project startup costs.

That's separate from the fixed cost per laptop of $249.77. McGrath said most of the costs are related to wireless infrastructure. The plan is that every Idaho high school will have wireless Internet access by Dec. 30, 2013.

The installation process will be spread out over a few vears.

Some schools will have wireless access as soon as the end of this calendar year,

"There has to be a representation of those who are on the front lines fighting and dying today to obtain their freedom. And there needs to be an opposition leadership structure that is dedicated to representing and protecting all Syrians."

U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton in a statement as the Obama Administration said it would push for a major shakeup in Syria's opposition leadership.

OUR VIEW

District 25 Best Served by Clark Kauffman ext Tuesday, voters in Jerome County and large portions of Twin Falls County will select a new voice to represent them in Boise. Both Clark Kauffman and Cindy Shotswell are relative newcomers to the political process and each would have to feel their way through the initial months in Boise.

Shotswell is a social worker who feels strongly that the Students Come First laws ought to be overturned and that more of the state's money should be designated to teacher pay. "There are a lot of teachers who I have spoken to personally," Shotswell said. "If they're not contemplating finding better-paying jobs in other states, they already have. Or they retired."

She is passionate on education, restoring cut Medicare benefits and setting up a state health exchange to prevent the federal government from imposing their system upon us. But in her interview with the Times-News Editorial Board, Shotswell demonstrated a rather shallow understanding of any other issues currently facing state residents.

Kauffman is a farmer, commissioner on the Filer Highway Commission and past chairman of the Idaho Barley Commission. He is familiar with the issues facing local highway districts and is also well-versed on state highway issues.

"You can have all the commerce in the world, but if you don't have infrastructure you can't move it," Kauffman said. "Local infrastructure is so important and it needs to be properly funded." We applaud his boldness in calling for a gas tax increase to address Idaho's ongoing and worsening roads backlog.

We endorsed Kauffman in the spring over Republican challenger David Funk by saying that "Kauffman would go to Boise with a purpose." That sense of purpose and resolve seems to have strengthened as the year progressed and Kauffman spent more time interacting with voters.

We continue to believe that Clark Kauffman is the best choice to represent District 25 voters.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Vote 'Yes' on Propositions 1, 2 and 3

We have 12 grandchildren; six of them have graduated from Minico High School and the other six are currently attending schools in Minidoka County. We are concerned about their education and readiness to enter higher education and the workforce.

We live in a high-tech society with a huge variety of entertainment options, gadgets in our cars, information at our fingertips, instant communications with the world and even tractors being driven by computers. Everywhere our grandchildren turn, they encountering technology but have limited access to it in school. Our schools have not kept pace with the ever-changing world around us.

It's time for Idaho schools to step into the 21st Century and get technology in the hands of all students. We want not only our grandchildren but all students to be ready to go onto higher learning, including having had some experience at taking online classes previous to high school graduation, and be prepared for their future careers, which most likely will have something to do with technology.

We encourage you to vote "yes" on Props 1, 2 and 3.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Vote 'Yes' on Propositions 1, 2 and 3

Why I will vote "yes" on Props 1, 2 and I have been actively involved in public schools for the past 22 years: helping in the classroom, parent groups, and serving on the Minidoka School Board for the last five years. I have had an opportunity to be a part of many discussions about the propositions. These include serving on a number of committees at the local level and attending workshops, conventions and other informational meetings at local and state levels. My favorite highlights of the props are:

Parents having an opportunity of giving input about teachers.

Negotiations are in open meetings. The public has a right to know how their taxpayer money is being handled.

Negotiations are limited to salary and benefits. The local school board decides bell schedules, calendar, classroom size and other things previously negotiated.

Removal of the "last hired, first fired" clause when it comes to reduction in force (i.e., laying off teachers.) Those decisions should be based on individual performance, not the number of years a teacher has taught in the district.

Flexibility of yearly contracts with teachers. Local school boards are no longer tied to "evergreen" or multiyear contracts.

Pay for Performance bonuses for teachers. These bonuses are above their base salary. Our best teachers should receive bonuses.

Online classes, or online components, have become a big part of college classes and other job-related skills. Our students need the chance to learn the "hows" and "whys" of online learning.

Technology doesn't replace the teacher but enhances the learning for the student. Students become an active part of the learning process.

These are some exciting changes I would like to keep. Vote "yes" on Propositions 1, 2 and 3.

Support Armand Eckert for CSI Trustee for Position 2

I would like to take this opportunity to urge voters of the College of Southern Idaho district to support Armand Eckert for CSI Trustee for Position 2.

I have known Mr. Eckert since the spring of 1994, when I was hired to serve as superintendent for the Buhl School District; Mr. Eckert was serving as chairman of the district's board of trustees at the time.

During our tenure together, I believe Mr. Eckert to be the most effective board chairman I ever served. His focus was unquestionable: strong and stable fiscal management, a student-first agenda and providing a sense of confidence and security for the parents of the students attending the district. He has demonstrated the ability to be a good listener who gathers input from all interested parties and considers all sides to an issue before making a decision.

Mr. Eckert brings a vast background of success with public-sector governance, business and industry, analytical experience and leadership skills, which make him an ideal fit for this important position.

Specifically, Mr. Eckert brings the following skills to this position:

15 years of public school leadership experience (K-12) that will transition to the college level.

A much-varied experience in business and in industry that will translate to CSI's professional technical training and the relationship that CSI has with current and potential future businesses that may locate here.

Analytical skills in analyzing companies (schools) operations from his 10 years of experience working for an international accounting firm, leading to more cost and operational efficiencies.

Leadership skills while serving as board chairman of the Buhl School District, Idaho School Board's Association and the National School Boards Association (Pacific Region).

I believe his previous experiences and training are a good fit for CSI; I urge your support of his candidacy.

DR. RICHARD J. HILL Helena, Mont.

Change Doesn't Always Mean Improvement

The noise that today that passes as music is made up from the individual notes of various instruments, then filtered through a computer and with the stroke of keys re-issued as genetically engineered CD/DVD/etc. Science can produce seedless watermelons, plants that repel harmful insects, tomatoes that have strong red color and almost indefinite shelf life, but lack taste, and building materials impervious to mold, mildew, dry-rot and termites.

None of those things directly affect me; I can live with or without them. The one science I can't avoid is political science. Four years ago, the most populated states elected a nominee who promised change. They did so because a very expensive survey determined the things the public demanded. The nominee who promised change got their vote. Those who wanted change got it, but unfortunately change doesn't always mean improvement.

The person elected to run this country is just as genetically engineered as those items listed above. He promised all the things his research said the people wanted. I'll bet if the wishes had been zero calorie Big Macs, 5-cent beer and live Maine lobster for $1.25 a pound, those items would have made up the party platform.

Instead we got $4 to $6-a-gallon gas prices, dollar-a-piece tasteless tomatoes and a world where some nations hate us for not helping them and others hate us because we help others and terrorists roaming our streets.

CSI Board Needs Representative from Jerome County

There are many good candidates running for the College of Southern Idaho Trustee Board this fall; however, it seems that we could use a representative with rural ties as well as being well versed in the background and running of the College of Southern Idaho.

Having taught there for many years in the music department, Jack Nelsen is also a lifetime farmer who knows the need for classes that equip young people for the agricultural community in which we live. His teaching in the classroom, which I observed while on staff at CSI was outstanding, positive and inspiring to the many students who passed through his classes.

Roger and I would like to recommend that you vote for Jack Nelsen, who will represent the Jerome area, which supports the college and for having a varied and valuable background to help bring new ideas and needs to the attention of the CSI board.

Please give serious thought to diversity of representation to assist with the future vision for CSI.

Vote for Stephen Hartgen, Jim Patrick

A responsive state government ensures that the interests of citizens will be respected and guarded. Among those who stand out by giving detailed, personal responses to my messages within an hour or two are Stephen Hartgen (state representative) and Jim Patrick (previously in the Idaho Legislature; now running for state Senate).

If you value elected officials who listen to and work for your values, freedom from federal dictates, personal empowerment and reliable growth of private sector jobs, thank them with your votes.

If you live in south-central Idaho, I encourage you to vote for Stephen Hartgen and Jim Patrick.

Voter for Jack Nelsen to CSI Board of Trustees

This is a letter of support for Jack Nelsen for Seat 3 on the College of Southern Idaho Board of Trustees.

I had the pleasure of serving on the Jerome County Planning and Zoning Commission with Jack during his first term and his quick rise to the chairman position of that commission. I found Jack to be a good listener and very thoughtful in his consideration of the issues before him.

I have no doubt that Jack will utilize these same qualities when considering issues before him as a trustee of the CSI board. In addition, I believe Jack's involvement with the College of Southern Idaho as both a student and instructor uniquely qualify him for this position.

Hartgen a Man of Integrity, Outstanding Character

I have worked and served on community boards with Stephen Hartgen, District 24B Idaho House of Representatives. He has always been an informed community leader who understands the issues and the financial responsibilities before making any decision.

As our representative, he listens to his constituents and works hard to find sound fiscal and responsible solutions for our area and for the state of Idaho. He knows the importance of education serving on the House Education Committee and is willing to make the hard choices to put the future of our children first. Rep. Stephen Hartgen is committed to legislative and constitutional challenges and has the courage to uphold this responsibility and defend it when necessary.

I urge you to vote for Stephen Hartgen, a man of integrity and outstanding character. Stephen Hartgen is the right choice for representative of District 24B, Idaho House of Representatives.

Moderates Ignored, Shunned by Right Wing of Republican Party

It has been a privilege to serve in the House of Representatives as a Republican in District 24 for the past 14 years. As my term draws to a close, I thank the many citizens throughout the community for your support and constructive feedback. Serving in this capacity has been a fine experience for most of its duration.

I have been a Republican all my life, and I intend to remain a Republican in spite of my inability to relate to positions like closed primaries that exclude many Republican-leaning voters. As the next election draws closer, I remain increasingly troubled by the lack of public discourse where voices of moderate Republicans and others are not only ignored but shunned by the right wing of the party and the current leadership team.

As one former legislative leader told me, "the House of Representatives operates more like a club than a legislative body." As a member of that "club," Steve Hartgen continues to support legislation like we have had: closed primaries, no local options and shifting of education funding to supplemental property tax levies. And now he supports shifting corporate personal property tax to local real property taxes.

For this reason, among others, I think our Republican Party needs a little party correction. Therefore, I will be crossing party lines to vote for Rosemary Fornshell, who believes in local control and common sense over ideology. She will be a very capable legislative representative in District 24. I invite others to join

Vote for Laird Stone for Seat 3 of the CSI Board

We are truly fortunate this year to have some great candidates running for the College of Southern Idaho Board of Trustees.

I have been married to the best thing that ever happened to me for 30 years. So I know of his capacity of caring and ability to accomplish the tasks he undertakes.

As Laird Stone's treasurer, we decided not to spend a lot of money on signs. For two weeks, we have repurposed the back side of old political signs. He stapled them and I have lettered them. They may not be fancy, but they get the job done, and that's what Laird is about getting the job done.

I appreciate your vote for Laird Stone for Seat 3 of the CSI Board of Trustees.

Hartgen will Always Vote for Traditional Conservative Values

I urge the citizens of Magic Valley to vote for a man I have known for many years. He has southern Idaho's interests and conservative values that I, myself, have as a strong Republican. Stephen Hartgen and I have not always agreed on every issue, so we have had a "let's agree to disagree" relationship but have remained friends and patriots of this nation.

Stephen has a very good and diversified educational background. He knows history, which serves him well as a representative in the state legislation. He has also received a 92 percent conservative voting record, which is the highest ranking of the Magic Valley legislators. Stephen Hartgen will always vote for our traditional conservative values on the issues.

Please join me in voting for Stephen Hartgen on Tuesday, Nov. 6. Thank you.

Republicans Vote as they are Told to Vote by Party

Dear fellow citizens: If you voted for or are about to vote for a Republican candidate for the U.S. Congress, your candidate, if elected, will not represent you, your district or the state of Idaho. Republicans in Congress vote as a block and vote as they are told to vote by the Republican Party. Every Republican in Congress, down to the last man or woman, vote as they are told to vote by the Republican Party. They vote as a block. They are merely puppets on a string dancing to the whims of the Republican Party. They will vote against your interests, the interests of your district or the state of Idaho if told to do so by their party.

If you disagree with this statement, look at the voting records of the Republicans in Cngress. Then look at the voting records of the Democratic Party or the independent members of Congress. Unlike the Republican members, they vote for you, your district and the state of Idaho.

You can fix this problem by voting for individuals in the Democratic Party. After the election is over, you can also call, write or email those elected to represent you (Republican or Democrat). Tell them to vote for or against bills that favor your interests, your district's interests and the state of Idaho's interests. You should let them know that, as a minimum, you expect them to vote their conscience and not to be controlled by party politics.

Here is hoping that if we do our jobs and force them to properly do their jobs, we can break the political stalemate and start anew to cooperate for the good of our country.

Another Side to Cost Accusations in TF Sheriff's Race

Coleen Combe, referencing

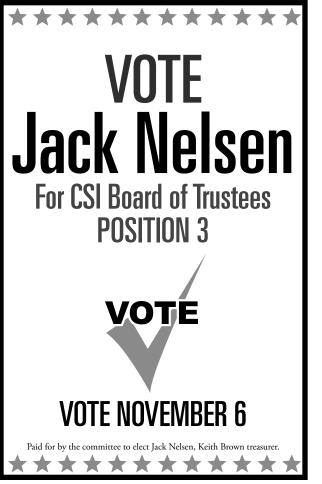

your Oct. 22 letter:

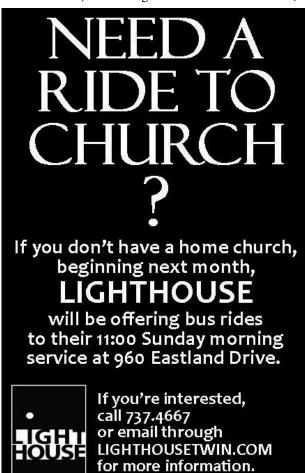

I find the phrase you mention, "costing lots of money," is, perhaps on second thought, territory the Carter opposition might not want to venture. His opponent has been on paid disability for the past year or more since being involved in a car accident he caused when driving on duty, indeed costing money. The cost of the lawsuits you reference are personal, a cost instigated by those filing the suits. These lawsuits do not appear "right after we vote;" rather just before we vote. Coincidence?

In addition, I remember a large amount of unexplained credit card debt Sheriff Carter inherited upon taking office. It appears cost is based on individual preferences. Once mudslinging begins, it gets ugly for everyone.

Marcantonio Points Out Error in Times-News Endorsement

While I totally disagree with the Oct. 26 endorsement of my opponent, the editorial also contained a factual error.

The editorial claimed I did not list - either to the Times-News editorial board or on the TV forum – any sales tax exemptions that I would eliminate to raise funds.

This is false.

To the Times-News editorial board, I named a few examples, such as the exemption for ski lift and snow grooming equipment and commercial aircraft. In fact, I told the editorial board I wouldn't list all the exemptions at the meeting with them, but had the list in front of me on my laptop namely the Stop Unequal Taxation in Idaho recommendations to eliminate 10 exemptions, which I believe would raise state revenue for

I didn't have much time to list all the exemptions on the TV forum, but said if I had a choice between a sales tax exemption on ski lift equipment or school children, that I would take the school children.

Publishing an opinion is one thing. Publishing an error is another.

Support Donna Pence for District 25 Representative

A vote for Donna Pence is a vote for local interests.

I am writing this letter to urge voters in District 25 to once again support Donna Pence on Nov. 6. Donna has worked tirelessly for our district supporting what is important to our livelihood in this area: agriculture, wildlife and preservation of our Idaho way of life. When bills are introduced, Donna takes the time to research how it will affect our area and votes for what she feels her constituents value the most. Her background as an educator, tree farmer, outdoorsman and experienced legislator make her the best qualified candidate to represent what our district is all about. She does not vote based strictly on party line expectations but on how the bill that is introduced will impact our area economically, environmentally and each person individually.

This is the type of person that should be representing the constituents who elect them. So I urge you to support Donna Pence for District 25 representative on Nov. 6. A vote for Donna is a vote for you and your community.

Laird Stone Has Passion for Supporting Quality Education

I agree with the Times-News' endorsement of Laird Stone for College of Southern Idaho trustee. He is the best choice for Position 3 on the CSI Board of Trustees.

I have known Laird for several years, both professionally and socially. This is not another "feather in his cap"; rather, he has a real passion for education and for supporting those seeking a quality education.

Laird as a deep commitment to service in his community and would come to the board with an open mind to positive change without any hidden agendas. He is running because he has a true desire to use the experience from his time on the State Board of Education and what he has learned from CSI's students and faculty to help ensure CSI continues its role as an accessible, outstanding community college.

I ask that everyone join me in voting for Laird Stone for CSI Trustee.

Heider Listens to the Residents in the Magic Valley

This letter is written in support of Lee Heider for Senate District 24.

Those of us who live in Twin Falls are privileged to have Sen. Heider representing us. I have known Lee for nearly 23 years. I know him to be an honest and dedicated person. He was born and raised in the Magic Valley. He honorably served in the Air Force as a pilot, proudly defending our country. He has been a small-business owner most of his adult life, knowing what it takes to survive in good times and

Lee is a family man, married to his sweetheart, Jan, for 42 years and the father of one daughter and five sons. He is proud of his 23 grandchildren. He has spent time volunteering in Scouting, teaching the principles needed in the Legislature.

This past year, Sen. Heider sponsored Bill HJR2 to allow all citizens the right to hunt, fish and trap. This bill passed both the Senate and House nearly unanimously. It is now on the ballot on Nov. 6. He is a devoted and dedicated member of the Legislature. Sen. Heider is one who listens carefully to the residents in the Magic Valley. He is now preparing and sponsoring four separate bills in this session. He will carry these bills and will work tirelessly to see that they become law.

I will vote for Sen. Heider on Nov. 6 and encourage you to do the same.

Armand Eckert the Best Choice for CSI Board

I support Armand Eckert for the College of Southern Idaho Board of Trustees, Position 2. I believe he is a great candidate and, with his experience in business, in varying industries, in accounting, in education and in farming, he would bring a wealth of fresh ideas to the

I originally met Armand in 1968 when I first came to Buhl as a teacher. I taught him his senior year in government and coached him on the wrestling team. He was a great student and a good athlete. He was elected to the Buhl School Board in 1986 and retired in 2001. During that time he served on the Idaho School Boards Association as an officer and president. He testified many times before the Idaho State Legislature on a great number of educational issues on behalf of teachers, students and school districts. Later, he, along with Curtis Eaton, Mike Glenn, Dave Sass and Steve Marshall, helped start the Advance Regional Technical Center for Magic Valley schools. He served more than 10 years as either a board member or chairman.

I moved from Buhl to Jerome and then to Twin Falls during my teaching and coaching career in Idaho, but we continued to stay in touch. In 1996, I returned to Buhl as vice principal and athletic director for Buhl High School. Armand was one of the best board members and board chairmen that I have ever been associated with. He is a great listener and would balance both sides of an issue before making any decision. He had the respect of the community, the professional staff and ancillary staff.

Finally, he is a leader who thinks out of the box and has the best interests of students and community in mind and will make sound financial decisions.

Jerome Commissioner Offers Endorsement of Hartgen

In the past few years, I have had the good fortune of getting to know Rep. Stephen Hartgen in his role as a state legislator. By example, he has set the bar high for what it means to be a "public servant." He knows that it is far more than simply being "one who holds a government position."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Rep. Hartgen is committed to communication with his constituents and the public. He provides insight, information and updates on issues through his newsletters and social media. He takes time to respond to questions by phone and email. He goes the extra mile to make sure that the public knows what his positions are on issues and why.

Rep. Hartgen does his homework. His thirst for knowledge and information is evident. He studies the issues from the local to the federal level to gain insight and understanding on how those issues may affect the Magic Valley and Idaho.

When it comes to serving with integrity, Rep. Hartgen is at the top of the list. He believes in honest stewardship and accountability of government funds. He is not afraid to take a position, speak objectively or give reason for his vote. I am pleased to call Rep. Stephen Hartgen a friend. I thank him for setting the example for what it means to be a true public servant.

Vote on Nov. 6 to keep Rep. Stephen Hartgen, the best choice for Legislative District 24B.

Top-down Mandates will Drive Quality Teachers Away

Don't be deceived - vote "no." Recent advertisements in favor of Propositions 1, 2 and 3 suggest that any opposition to these propositions is driven solely by the National Education Association.

My wife and I have a combined 54 years of teaching in Idaho public schools and have never been union members. We will vote in opposition to the propositions and hope that many parents who know us will join us in defeating these useless laws. We don't see much future for quality education in a state that does not take into account the opinion of its quality teachers. Forced laptops and pay for performance can result only in higher taxes, larger class size and strife within districts. Schools already have computer access for students and are integrating technology to the extent necessary to help teach your children. College credit for high school students is nothing new to most schools, and laptops for students will do little to enhance what is already in place.

Pay for performance might have its place in public schools, but Mr. Luna does not have a plan that will lead in a productive direction quite the opposite. One thing is for sure — continuing on a path of top-down mandates will drive most quality teachers from the profession. Do what's best for your budget and children - vote "no" on Propositions 1, 2 and 3.

JEFF GERARD SUZANNE GERARD Murtaugh

Who Are These 'Big Union Bosses'?

The radio ads featuring Butch Otter asking us to stop bigunion bosses from running our schools got me to thinking. When did your local school board member ever deal with a big union boss? Don't they negotiate with your classroom teachers?

He suggests voting yes on Props 1, 2 and 3 will stop the big union bosses. What a scare tactic. Eliminating tenure means eliminating teacher security. It allows easy removal of teachers without just cause. It will remove higher paid teachers. The only ones staying to draw retirement will be those who have pull with school board members. Merit pay will replace a pay scale so favorites of school board members can be paid

Proposition 3 replaces teachers with online classes and home schooling strategies allowing for one-third fewer high school teachers. Hiring fewer teachers and preventing them from reaching retirement will save tax dollars. If you think it will reduce taxes, vote yes on Props 1, 2 and 3. If you think such changes will make it easier to draw highly qualified teachers to Idaho, vote yes. If you believe a big union boss is coming to your district to sway your school board members, vote yes. If you think lowering teacher pay and replacing math and science teachers with computers will attract new business to Idaho, vote yes.

Idaho already pays less for teachers than any other state. A yes vote will put us that much farther behind Mississippi.

DENNIS SONIUS Twin Falls

Who Stole My 'Yes' on Props 1, 2, 3 Yard Sign?

Two years ago, Propositions 1, 2 and 3 became laws for education reform in the state of Idaho. As is evident, there is opposition and support in varying degrees, and we now will be asked once again to cast our vote according to our conscience.

So in order to make an intelligent vote, I have taken time to read about these propositions, listen to the different pros and cons from educators, legislators and other citizens. I have found that many of the ideas have been tried and proved successful in other states. The conclusion I have come to is that these propositions are and can be a benefit in education reform for the students, parents, teachers and administrators of the state of Idaho. So I will be casting a yes vote on Nov. 6.

In order to give my support, I decided I would like to post a sign in my yard indicating to vote yes. Apparently, there are some on the opposition who don't think that is right. Two days after putting the sign out, it was gone. I hope that the person who took it feels good about this. I have tried again, and we will see if I do have this right.

Idaho Man Pleads Not Guilty to Rape Charge

MOSCOW (AP) • A 20year-old southern Idaho man has pleaded not guilty to a felony rape charge in connection with an assault at the University of Idaho.

Prosecutors say Jesse M. Vierstra, a former UI student, raped an 18year-old freshman while he was visiting the school for homecoming. The Lewiston Tribune reported Vierstra pleaded not guilty in Latah County's 2nd District Court on Wednesday.

He's scheduled to stand trial in January.

Prosecutors say Vierstra was attending a party at the Sigma Chi fraternity house when he and the woman walked outside. The woman told police that they began kissing, and when she tried to end the encounter, he picked her up and carried her to some dark bushes, where she said he raped her.

Judge to Sanction Mont. Group for Records

HELENA, Mont. (AP) • A judge said Thursday that he will sanction American Tradition Partnership – at the center of several legal battles over Montana's campaign laws - for failing to produce organizational records in a 2-year-old case where it is fighting allegations of illegal electioneering.

And in a bizarre twist, the state office holding high-profile documents that ATP opponents argue can prove wrongdoing by a consultant to the group, reported a Wednesday night breakin. Officials said nothing appeared to be stolen.

The events ensured ATP remained at the center of high-profile developments in the campaign finance saga in Montana. District Judge Jeffrey Sherlock of Helena said he will specify the sanctions against American Tradition Partnership after reviewing further written arguments from each side.

The state wants to move forward with penalties sought by the commissioner of political practices. The group argues disclosure would violate its constitutional rights, and instead asked the judge to force more negotiation over disclosure.

Sentence Delayed in Toddler Death

BY ALISON GENE SMITH

alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • The sentencing hearing for a man who admitted to killing a toddler last year has been delayed.

Lane Buddenhagen was scheduled to be sentenced for a charge of voluntary manslaughter for the death of a 3-year-old boy today. He is now scheduled to be sentenced on Nov. 30 in Twin Falls County 5th District Court at 9:30 a.m.

The boy, who was not related to Buddenhagen, died on Aug. 7, 2011. According to court documents, emergency personnel responded to an apartment complex at 512 Jefferson St. the morning of Aug. 6, 2011, to find the child lying on the floor of a bedroom.

Buddenhagen allegedly told police the boy had been taking a bath. He said he left the bathroom and heard a loud sound, returning to find the boy on the floor. Buddenhagen said he moved the child to a bedroom and called 911. The boy was later taken to a Boise hospital where he died.

A doctor at St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center told police he believed the child was shaken, based on bruises on the child and the results of a CT scan, and called the injuries "severe child abuse."

In court documents, Buddenhagen stated he was giving the child a bath and pushed the child to get him to sit down when the child hit his head. He also wrote he was pleading guilty on his attorney's advice because he felt like it was the best option for him and feels responsible for the boy's death.

According to court documents, prosecutors will ask for at least 10 years in prison for Buddenhagen.

courtroom while the prosecution and defense argued over whether some of the evidence and testimony duplicated evidence already presented.

Presiding over the case, 5th District Judge Michael Crabtree barred some of the testimony by Minidoka County Sheriff's Detective Eric Snarr, saying it duplicated testimony already heard by the jury.

"We've had two days of unnecessary testimony," defense attorney Keith Roark said at one point.

According to Snarr, Thompson, who was driving the crew cab pickup, said he had consumed six to eight beers the night of the shooting and that he had checked the pistol at 3:30 that afternoon and knew it was unloaded.

Eyewitness Kaylee Jones testified Wednesday the gun was in a holster when Thompson first took it from the console and threatened to shoot someone if Blair, who was sitting behind Thompson and Kristin Crull, sitting in the front passenger's seat, did not stop arguing.

Jones said Blair laughed at the threat. She said she then saw the pistol out of the holster with Thompson pointing it in an upwards manner and toward the backseat over the center console.

During an interview with deputies recounted Thursday, Thompson reportedly said that Blair grabbed Thompson's hands with both of his hands and placed the barrel of the weapon in his mouth before the gun went off.

"I wasn't serious enough to shoot someone and I wasn't expecting him to grab my hand," Snarr read from Thompson's interview transcript.

Snarr also testified that the 9 mm handgun, which was recovered from the front passenger seat's floorboard, had blood on it and part of the weapon looked like it "had been wiped down."

Stevenson says Blair's hands were over the top of Thompson's hand and never touched the gun or the trigger, while Roark argues Blair committed suicide.

Stevenson also presented numerous photos of damage on a white Jeep and wheel lines caused by Thompson's vehicle after the shooting occurred.

According to testimony, at the time the damage occurred when Thompson's vehicle was being driven by Crull, with Blair's body still in it and Thompson no longer in the vehicle.

Roark questioned why the evidence was introduced at all when it did not have anything to do with Thompson and he was never charged with that Stevenson said the photos were necessary for the jury to understand the complete sequence of events that night.

Twin Falls was celebrating on Monday night when it survived a Kansas City playoff. The Bruins head to Middleton tonight hoping to earn a trip to the 4A semifinals.

Teams Gear up for State Quarterfinals

BY DAVID BASHORE

dbashore@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • After 10 weeks of football, there are just 48 teams left standing around the state.

By the time Saturday night rolls around, that number will be

No wonder teams are searching for every edge they can muster in the race to stay alive for another week as the Idaho prep playoffs hit full stride.

The quarterfinals got under way Thursday with Class 2A front-runner Firth laying down its marker with a 70-6 thrashing of Wendell, which left Declo as the lone District IV team still

The Hornets, averaging north of 53 points per game, have taken a cue from a similarly potent offense as they travel to reigning state champion Grangeville tonight. They've been working on a no-huddle tempo colloquially referred to as "NASCAR," made famous by the University of Oregon - and Declo plans to implement some degree of the similarly popular play cards.

"Some of the stuff Oregon does, I drew up some cards. It allows us to get a play in quick," Declo coach Kelly Kidd said. "(When) it gets loud, you can't holler things to kids, so the cards will play a role for us there."

Twin Falls thinks it could have the ultimate edge against 2011 4A finalist Middleton when the two teams clash northwest of Boise tonight. The Bruins have been in playoff mode since September, when they lost to Jerome. They then won four straight games and survived a Kansas City playoff just to make it to this week. It helps that the Vikings also bear resemblances to Great Basin Conference foes Canyon Ridge and Middleton, albeit with significantly different challenges.

Middleton runs the doublewing, like Canyon Ridge, only with Minico's size and explosiveness. It's tough to handle, but with proper execution it can be done.

"We've just been really confident since we lost that Jerome game," said Twin Falls tight end Sayer Conrad. "We trust our guys to keep the ball and keep getting first downs. The longer the drives, the better it is for us because we want to help the defense and keep (Middleton's) offense off the Gooding's offense is getting a boost it almost didn't need. But with a rough-and-tumble game upcoming with Teton, it's to the Senators' benefit that they get a huge edge simply from time.

Two players central to Gooding's success last season - twoway lineman Cole McGinnis and running back Kyle Rison — are both expected to return from injuries for tonight's game. Rison will start at receiver, because understudies Torin Brunson and Josh Finley have done so well.

Teton runs the ball almost exclusively from a Wing-T set. It's physical, but it's not an offense that's geared to narrow multiplescore deficits. Stops and line play are the edge Gooding seeks tonight.

"For us, the key is if Cole plays a really good game, and our linebackers can read guards and flow to the ball," Gooding coach Cameron Andersen said. "If they do that, we'll be fine."

For any of the 10 District IV teams left heading into today, anything that will get them among the final two dozen teams playing statewide counts as just

Firth Ends Wendell's Season

BY RYAN HOWE rhowe@magicvalley.com

POCATELLO • With five minutes left in the fourth quarter of Wendell's Class 2A state quarterfinal game against Firth Thursday night, Trojan quarterback Alex Swainston threw a perfect pass down the sideline to Blake Visser, who sprinted 59 yards for a touchdown.

The highlights began and ended there for Wendell. The Trojans found out the undefeated and No. 1-ranked Cougars are as good as advertised during a 70-6 drubbing at Holt Arena.

Firth (10-0) gained 560 yards of total offense – balanced between 327 rushing and 233 passing - and its starters scored on every possession.

"We couldn't catch a break, had too many penalties and shot ourselves in the foot too many times. They got rolling and it just went downhill from there," said Wendell head coach Jon Helmandollar.

Wendell gained just 34 yards on the ground and 84 in the air. The Trojans' inability to sustain drives resulted in punting the ball away nine times to Firth's dangerous playmakers.

"We didn't play like we know we can," said Swainston. "Last week we came out and played like a football team. Today, I don't know, I think everyone just had the fear in their eyes and laid down."

Quick-striking Firth only needed eight offensive plays in the first quarter to take a 20-0 lead.

'We came into this season with a different mentality. We want to win that state championship and we're going for it right now," said Firth senior quarterback Jake Orme, who completed 9 of 13 passes for 164 yards and four touchdowns, and rushed for 77 yards and two more scores.

"We're playing with all we've got right now. We're going to come out every game as hard as we can and hopefully get that title," said Orme.

Despite the loss, Wendell (5-5) matched its best win total in seven years and finished runner-up in the Canyon Conference with a 3-1 league record. The Trojans also earned their first postseason victory since 2004 with last week's 35-14 win over Mc-Call-Donnelly.

"We took a big step this year," said Helmandollar, regarding his second year at the Wendell helm. "We won some games this year, competed at state and it's been a good deal for all the Please see WENDELL, S2

Class 4A TWIN FALLS (5-4) AT MIDDLETON (8-1)

The Bruins have been in playoff mode for four weeks, while Middleton was on cruise control through the Southern Idaho Conference. Twin Falls' urgency has been on full display, and when the Bruins have had their full complement of offensive weapons they've proven to be a capable football team. Middleton's double wing attack is difficult to stop, and that should be the case as well tonight. Twin Falls has the "us against the world" mindset tonight, believing nobody gives it a shot to pull the upset. We think the Bruins are capable, but we're not sure it'll happen.

Middleton 30, Twin Falls

SKYVIEW (7-3) AT MINICO (6-3)

Don't be fooled just because Minico is the No. 1 seed from District IV and Skyview (Nampa) is the No. 3 seed from District III. The Hawks, ranked No. 5 in the state's media poll, are a slight favorite tonight. Minico has struggled against passing teams, and Skyview junior quarterback Anthony Marin is danger ous (24 of 31, 412 yards, four TDs last week vs. Columbia). Minico has been Great Basin Conference champion or co-champ in seven of the past eight seasons. However, the Spartans' postseason record during that span is 4-7 with only one semifinal appearance. Skyview 36, Minico 30

Class 3A TETON (8-1) AT GOODING (9-0)

These teams couldn't be more different. Teton feasts on smashmouth football and grinding the clock out of the Wing-T. Gooding will hit you in the mouth but likes score to quickly from various formations. Whichever can establish its tempo early will have a significant advantage. The early edge, however, goes to Gooding, which gets arguably its two best players – Kyle Rison and Cole McGinnis - back from injury. McGinnis is inarguably the Senators' most important player. That's bad news for the vis-

Players to watch -Castleford: RB Ty Zimmers. The speedy senior ran all over the Sawtooth Conference South Division, accounting for more than 200 yards on his four touchdown runs alone last week against North Gem to clinch a playoff spot. Dietrich: RB Hazen Weber. The Blue Devils haven't had too many quarters under their belt - they haven't played a full game since Sept. 14 against Carey but Weber's had a game's worth of rushing yards and touchdowns all season long.

Castleford coach Tracy Vulgamore: "One thing that poses a challenge for us defensively is they mix it up so well. They throw it about as much as they do running it; they just have more success running it."

Dietrich coach Doug Astle: "We feel really good about our opportunity. We feel very confident in our overall team. We feel that we match up with them. Sizewise they're obviously better than us but we feel very good with what we've got going

LIGHTHOUSE CHRISTIAN

Site: Lighthouse Athletic Complex

Time: 7 p.m.

Players to watch -Carey: QB/DB Jordan Dilworth. The senior earned his second crack at Lighthouse Christian by throwing for five TD passes against Clark County last week. He broke his collarbone in the second quarter of the championship game last year vs. the Lions. Lighthouse Christian: QB Logan Bosma. The junior has a full arsenal of skill players at his disposal, but he makes it go. He's closing in on 2,000 passing yards and has

38 total touchdowns. Carey coach Lane Kirkland: "We're healthy, and I think we've discovered who we are throughout this season. And we have our best on positions. They have a lot of speed at the receiver position, and I think that's going to be a challenge for us to contain those guys."

Lighthouse Christian coach John van Vliet: "They're on a pretty good roll, and we expect it to be a battle. They're used to hosting first-round games and this is new to us. We're glad to be at home this time, and hopefully we can execute."

Class 1A-I quarterfinal BUTTE COUNTY (7-2) VS. HAGERMAN (9-0)

Site: Jerome HS Time: 6 p.m. Radio/Internet: IdahoSports.com

Players to watch - Butte County: RB Tommy Kern. Last week in a 52-6 win over Notus, Kern only rushed four times but he piled up 176 yards and scored two touchdowns, adding a third score receiving. Hagerman: QB/LB Kade Kress. The reigning state and area 8man player of the year led by example in Hagerman's 38-26 win over Butte a few weeks ago, putting up 21 tackles and accounting for 334 total yards and five touchdowns.

Hagerman coach Mark Kress: "Butte is a very good team, physical, and they managed to run the ball on us over and over again for first downs last time. We lost control of their quarterback a few times, and we're going to have to control that. We hope to win the turnover

River: QB Tanner Anderson. When Raft River beat Challis 50-30 on Oct. 12, Anderson - a dual threat and three-year starter - accounted for 345 yards of offense. Challis: Craig Olson. The versatile back has scored touchdowns passing, rushing and receiving this season for the Vikings, who are in the playoffs for the first time

Raft River coach Brian Poole: "It was a close game until midway through the fourth quarter, it was backand-forth most the game. A couple breaks here or there, that game could have gone either way the first time we played them. We want to play better than we did the first time we played them and make sure we control which way those breaks go."

Class 2A quarterfinal DECLO (9-0) AT GRANGEVILLE (7-1)

Site: Grangeville HS Time: 7 p.m. MDT Radio/Internet: 1230 AM

Players to watch - Declo: RB/LB Jason Gillette. A two-way stalwart on a talent-loaded roster, the senior has rushed for more than 1,100 yards and scored 26 touchdowns. Grangeville: RB Aaron Hohman. He's been injured this season, but could prove to be a wildcard. In his first game back last week, Hohman rushed for 84 yards and a TD. The injury-plagued Bulldogs are running-back-by-committee, with nine different guys packing the rock this season.

Declo coach Kelly Kidd: "The most outstanding part of their team is the guys up front. They really get off well and get on linebackers. Some strength of our team is that linebacking corps, so I'm hoping that we can win that battle. ... This looks to me like a great high school football game."

Class 3A quarterfinal TETON (8-1) AT

Time: 7 p.m.

Players to watch -Teton: RB Sean Riley. Teton very much runs by committee. Last week the Redskins rushed for more than 200 yards by 10 different rushers, but Riley is the leading man in this ensemble cast, frequently putting 100 yards and multiple-touchdowns in the stat line. Gooding: RB/LB Josh Finley. He's just a sophomore, but the 6foot, 200-pound Finley has set both sides of the ball alight for the Senators. Last week against American Falls he had 262 yards from scrimmage and a touchdown offensively, 19 tackles and two picks defensively. coach Gooding Cameron Andersen: "If we get into a situation like in the last few weeks where we get down early, we're really going to have to fight. If we can get them out of their game, they can put up points but they're not the type of team (to play catch-up)."

Class 4A quarterfinal SKYVIEW (7-3) AT MINICO (6-3)

Site: Bill Matthews Field, Rupert

Radio/Internet: 970 AM

Time: 7 p.m.

Players to watch -Skyview: TE/DE Walker Ray. A three-year starter for the Hawks, Ray's size (6foot-4, 210 pounds) causes matchup problems. Minico: RB/LB Jordan Browning. Not only will Browning be counted on for offense (averages 9.8 yards per carry), but the senior will also be instrumental in Minico's pass defense, trying to halt the Hawks' air attack, which threw for 412 yards on Columbia last week.

Minico QB Shay Chandler: "We played them a couple times (at summer camp). Defensively they're very fast. Their defensive line is quick. They load the box with an eight-man front so we've got to get outside."

Class 4A quarterfinal TWIN FALLS (5-4) AT MIDDLETON (8-1)

Site: Middleton HS Time: 7 p.m.

Radio/Internet: FM, IdahoSports.com

Players to watch - Twin Falls: RB Anthony Archuleta. Injured for a big stretch of the season, Archuleta returned three weeks ago against Canyon Ridge and immediately made an impact running the football. The Bruins are 3-0 since his return. Middleton: RB Victor Dias. The senior back was one of the big reasons the Vikings made it to the state title game last year, and he features prominently in their double-wing smashmouth attack.

Twin Falls linebacker Jason Byce: "They're right up there with the best teams we've played all season. They're bigger than (fellow double-wing team) Canyon Ridge was, they've got great linemen and great running backs. ... We've been in 'win or die' mode for a while now, and we're playing really well."

DECLO (9-0) AT GRANGEVILLE (7-1)

Grangeville is a tricky puzzle to solve. Ranked No. 3 in the state's media poll, the Bulldogs are the defending 2A champions, but graduated its best running back (and 2A Idaho Player of the Year) Justin Robie, and have battled injuries this season. Since an upset loss to McCall in mid September, Grangeville has averaged 46 points per game. In practice this week, Declo placed extra emphasis on defense to prepare for Grangeville's talented offensive line, which features four starters from last year's state title unit. Grangeville's home field is reportedly a sloppy mess, but the school was unable to schedule the Kibbie Dome. Declo must also face a 400-mile bus trip. But since when was the road to a state championship easy?

Class 1A-I BUTTE COUNTY (7-2) VS. HAGERMAN (9-0), AT JEROME

The first matchup between the two was a classic in Arco. This one's on a neutral field and will determine one part of the semifinal picture. It's too bad, really, because these are two of the best four teams in the state, the other two being Kamiah and Troy. But that's the way the bracket fell, and we should be in store for a dandy of a rematch. Dillan Henslee's broken leg is a blow for Hagerman, but the reigning state champs have plenty of depth and speed to match Butte County and they have the best player. They keep the repeat dream alive and push their state-best win streak to 22.

Hagerman 34, Butte County 30

RAFT RIVER (4-5) VS. CHALLIS (5-4), HOLT ARENA

Last week, Raft River earned its first postseason win since 2008, rallying from behind to upset Snake River Conference foe Grace on the road. The Trojans face yet another SRC opponent in the quarterfinals. Three weeks ago, they pulled away in the fourth quarter on senior night to beat Challis 50-30. Then, Raft River beat the Vikings again in their Kansas City tiebreaker just 11 days ago. It's always difficult to beat a team twice – not to mention three times. That's why we're nervous to pick Raft River moving on to the semifinals.

CASTLEFORD (7-2) AT DIETRICH (8-0) The makeup of these two teams is different, but their paths to this game are pretty similar: lots of soft games and lopsided scores, mixed in with a couple of tight games. The key in this one will be how well Dietrich controls Ty Zimmers, and how Castleford copes with a Blue Devil squad that will try to be less one-dimensional and stretch the field laterally and vertically. Last season's quarterfinal game was an epic, and this one should match it. This is Dietrich's first home night playoff game — the last home game was 2007, before the Blue Devils had lights. We aren't sure if this will be a night to remember, though.

CAREY (7-2) AT LIGHTHOUSE CHRISTIAN (7-2)

The Panthers feel they have unfinished business left over from Holt Arena last season, when the upstart Lions "shocked the world" and took the state title. Adding a little spice to the matchup is that Lighthouse Christian lineman Garrett Lee goes against his former teammates, after transferring from Carey in the summer. The Panthers throw the ball more this season than they even did last season, the stats suggest, while Lighthouse Christian is as passhappy as ever. Most importantly, the Lions are healthy after having a bye week to rest key injured players. Beating them was going to be tough enough if they were dinged up.

San Diego Chargers tight end Antonio Gates, right, scores a touchdown on a 14-yard pass as Kansas City Chiefs strong safety Eric Berry attempts to tackle during the first half of their football game Thursday in San Diego.

Chargers Roll Past Staggering Chiefs

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN DIEGO • Norv Turner can breathe a little easier after his San Diego Chargers rediscovered the end zone and ended a threegame losing streak.

Romeo Crennel, though, will surely feel the heat after his Kansas City Chiefs committed four more turnovers and lost their fifth straight game.

Antonio Gates caught a 14-yard yard scoring pass from Philip Rivers on the game's opening drive to snap a streak of six straight quarters without a touchdown and the Chargers went on to a 31-13 victory over the staggering Chiefs on Thursday night.

Turner had been heavily criticized by fans after the Chargers (4-4) blew double-digit, second-half leads in losses to New Orleans and Denver, and then lost 7-6 at Cleveland on Sunday.

Still, at the start of halftime, some fans in one end zone unfurled a big yellow banner that read: "Mr. Spanos, please fire A.J. & Norv."

Team president Dean Spanos decided in January to bring back both Turner and general manager A.J. Smith even though the Chargers missed the playoffs for the second straight year.

Rivers, who looked shaky during the losing streak, did his part by completing 18 of 20 passes - a career-best 90 percent — for 220 yards and two touchdowns, with one interception. Rivers also threw a 13-yard TD pass to Malcom Floyd early in the fourth quarter.

The Chiefs' four turnovers ran their NFLhigh mark to a staggering 29, which have led to 104 points.

The Chiefs (1-7) still haven't led in regulation this season. Their only victory came when Ryan Succop kicked the winning field goal against the Saints in overtime.

With the Chiefs trailing

17-6, Matt Cassel fumbled as he was sacked by San Diego's Jarret Johnson in the end zone and Shaun Phillips recovered for a touchdown early in the fourth quarter. On the next drive, Cassel's high pass deflected off Dexter McCluster's hands and was intercepted by Demorrio Williams, who returned it 59 yards for a touchdown.

Williams, who played for the Chiefs the last four seasons, forced a fumble in the first quarter.

The Chiefs had six turnovers in a 37-20 home loss to the Chargers on Sept. 30.

In just 2 minutes, 9 seconds, the Chargers' defense scored as many touchdowns as the offense has in 10 quarters.

Gates' first-quarter score was San Diego's first touchdown since the star tight end caught an 11yard pass in the first half against Denver on Oct. 15. That score gave San Diego a 24-0 lead, but Peyton Manning rallied the Broncos to a 35-24 win.

The Chargers got only two field goals from Nick Novak in a 7-6 loss at Cleveland on Sunday, their third straight defeat.

After San Diego scored on the opening drive, Kansas City went on a 17play drive, converting four third downs, but Dwayne Bowe fumbled after a 10yard reception. Williams caused the fumble and Quentin Jammer recovered.

Bowe's fumble set up Novak's 25-yard field goal with 9:10 left in the second quarter.

After Kansas City decided not to go for it on fourth-and-1 from the San Diego 31, Succop kicked a 49-yard field goal with 2:51 left before halftime.

The Chargers had a third-and-goal from the 1 in the closing seconds of the half when Rivers was intercepted by Eric Berry.

Succop had a 41-yard field goal in the third quarter.

Miami Tops Virginia Tech

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MIAMI • Stephen Morris threw for two early touchdowns, both set up by Virginia Tech special-teams miscues, and Miami took a step forward in the chase for the Atlantic Coast Conference's Coastal Division title by beating the Hokies 30-12 on Thursday night.

Duke Johnson had a 7yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter and finished with 217 all-purpose yards for the Hurricanes (5-4, 4-2), who snapped a threegame slide.

Logan Thomas had a 73yard scoring run on a quarterback draw for Virginia Tech (4-5, 2-3), which lost to Miami for just the third time in the last 10 meetings. The loss also ensures the Hokies' streak of eight straight 10-win seasons will end this year.

The win puts Miami a half-game ahead of Duke and North Carolina in the Coastal race, though the Tar Heels are ineligible for postseason play, including the ACC title game. The Hokies and Hurricanes are two of the best teams on Thursday night a combined 34-8 record entering the game, Virginia Tech with a 19-5 mark, Miami 15-3.

And the Hokies were 25-2 in ACC games played in November.

Now, they're 25-3, all three losses coming to Miami, and the Hokies had plenty of chances in this one. Virginia Tech outgained Miami 421-347, ran 82 plays to the Hurricanes' 58, and still lost. A blocked punt led to one Miami touchdown, a big return by Johnson set up another, and that was about all the offense.

Thomas was 19 for 37 for 199 yards and two interceptions for the Hokies, and rushed 22 times for 124 yards. Morris completed 13 of 28 passes for 170 yards.

For years, special teams were a strength of Frank Beamer's teams at Virginia Tech. But on Thursday, not only did the Hokies allow the blocked punt and an 81yard return by Johnson, but kicker Cody Journell also missed a field goal.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

Boise State has won seven straight and elbowed their way back into the BCS bowl game sweepstakes. But hopes of getting to one of those prized postseason games hinges on winning the rest of the way. For the Aztecs, an upset in Bronco Stadium would go a long way in building momentum for the program and a shot at winning the conference

KEY MATCHUP

Boise State's running backs vs. the San Diego State front six. The Aztecs play a 3-3-5 scheme on defense and the front six creates blocking problems for opposing offensive lines. The front six for the Aztecs will need to do more than create confusion to hold the Broncos backfield tandem of D.J. Harper and Jay Ajayi in check. The duo is a big reason the Broncos are averaging 165 yards per game on the ground.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

San Diego State: QB Adam Dingwell. Starting the season as the backup, the sophomore has had a hand in the last two Aztec wins, an overtime victory over Nevada and last week's 24-13 win over UNLV. He has a pass efficiency rating of 145.6 in those games and has thrown five touchdowns and just one interception.

Boise State: QB Joe Southwick: After some struggles and bumps early, Southwick appears to be easing into the offense, making smart decisions and critical throws in recent weeks. In last week's 45-14 rout over Wyoming, he had one of his best games, going 20 of 28 passing for 192 yards and led an offense that was 12 of 14 on third downs.

THE LUNA LAWS:

- Mandate a taxpayer-paid laptop for every high school student without fully funding the purchase and with no money for replacements or repairs. That could increase our property taxes.
- Prohibit teachers from negotiating better conditions for students, like smaller class sizes or safety.
- Increase the emphasis on "teaching to the test," a one-size-fits-all approach that reduces local control.

NFL Hopes to Deter Players from Faking Injuries

ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Pittsburgh Steelers receiver Emmanuel Sanders suddenly dropped to the turf late in the fourth quarter, was helped to the sideline, returned after missing one play, then managed to be the first player down the field on punt coverage, announcers Al Michaels and Cris Collinsworth let NBC's audience know their feelings.

"Man," Michaels said, his voice dripping with sarcasm, "I'm sure glad Sanders is

In a similar tone, Collinsworth chimed in: "It's a miracle."

Both chuckled. More guffaws and hearty mocking of Sanders came from ESPN's talking heads on a "C'mon Man!" segment a couple of days later.

Safe to say the NFL doesn't consider this a laughing matter: The league told Sanders it wants to chat about what happened in that Sunday night game against the Cincinnati Bengals. When a reporter asked Sanders this week whether he really had a cramp against the Bengals, he didn't answer directly, saying: "We're going to speak on it when we get to New York."

At least one of the Bengals, safety Chris Crocker, was hardly bothered by the tac-

"'If you're not cheating, you're not trying,' I guess, is the old saying," Crocker said. "So if you can slow the game down, why not?"

Bengals coach Marvin Lewis didn't really want to touch the topic, other than to say he thinks "it's generally a rare occasion."

All 32 teams' general managers and head coaches were sent a memo back in September by Ray Anderson, the NFL's executive vice president of football operations, reminding them, "The Competition Committee deprecates feigning injuries, with subsequent withdrawal, to obtain a timeout without penalty. Coaches are urged to cooperate in discouraging this practice."

The league could fine coaches, players or clubs or it could decide to take away draft picks. No one has been punished yet for faking an injury.

According to the memo, the "Competition Committee has reviewed this issue several times, but has been reluctant to propose a specific rule, since assessing a charged timeout for every injury timeout would deprive a team of timeouts for strategic purposes. It also could encourage injured players to remain in the game at risk to themselves to avoid incurring a charged team timeout."

It's a football strategy that's been around for years, in college and the pros: A player fakes an injury, stopping the clock - maybe it saves a timeout; maybe it slows an opponent's nohuddle offense.

As a receiver with the Sanders returned to the game after missing one play. The league told Sanders it wants to chat about what happened in that game against the Bengals.

Bengals in the 1980s, Collinsworth grew accustomed to seeing opposing defenses have players pretend to be hurt.

"It would almost get to where you would laugh about it. It was ridiculous," he said in a telephone interview. "Everybody on the field — including the referees knew what they were do-

There have been other such episodes this fall, including when Washington Redskins defensive lineman Kedric Golston mysterious ly went down on a play against a no-huddle offense, then came back in the game. In college, Wyoming coach Dave Christensen chewed out Air Force coach Troy Calhoun — earning a suspension and fine - after the Falcons' backup quarterback came in and ran for the winning score in place of a starter who went down on the field, saving a timeout.

Jordan: I'm Committed to Bobcats for Long Haul

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHARLOTTE, N.C. • Michael Jordan could no longer hide his frustration midway through the Bobcats' dismal season last year. Not wanting anyone to see how angry he was, Charlotte's owner moved from his seat at the end of the team's bench to his more secluded luxury suite high above the

Still, he didn't give up on his club then and he isn't

The ultra-competitive Jordan said despite watching his club "hit rock bottom" during the most miserable season in NBA history that he's "in it for the long haul" when it comes to seeing his struggling franchise transformed into a consistent

He knows it won't be a quick, easy process.

"Are we a playoff team? C'mon, we can't expect that," Jordan said Thursday. "But we need to get the ball rolling in the right direction. I'm not real happy about the record book scenario last year. It's very, very frustrating."

Charlotte finished 7-59 and with the worst winning percentage (.106) in NBA

Jordan, who won six NBA titles with the Chicago Bulls, believes he has the right man to turn things around in new coach Mike Dunlap.

Dunlap has taken a nononsense, back-to-basics approach to coaching basketball – something Jordan said has been missing in Charlotte.

"For years those steps have been skipped," Jordan said. "... We don't have a star that can carry the team, so you've got to learn to play together. That is what I love about (Dunlap). He's going to get back to the basics with good passes, pivots, boxing out, running, taking care of the ball and taking good shots. All of the things that were lost."

Jordan said the challenge has been getting players to buy in, particularly when it comes to Dunlap's grueling threeto four-hour marathon practices.

But he's there to make sure

Jordan saw what he perceived as "resistance" from some players to Dunlap's ways earlier this week, pulled them aside after practice and dressed them down. He told them that he fully supports Dunlap's philosophies and if they don't agree with it they won't be around for long. That seemed to get the players' attention.

Jordan said the next day he saw a change in attitude. "I want to establish a culture within in this organization so that when you plug a guy in, the culture is sitting there and no one guy is bigger than that culture," Jordan said. "You either fit in or you don't fit in. When that are established they have a winning culture." Jordan said once the Bob-

you look at organizations cats establish that culture more big-name free agents will want to come to Charlotte.

"Last year we went through the process of stripping down the organization and trying to build that back up," Jordan said. "And this is another step toward that. Getting a young coach who understands our vision about what type of team we want to be and then being able to go pluck some of these (free agents) to mesh with what we have."

The Bobcats added some veteran leadership to a young team this offseason, claiming center Brendan Haywood off waivers, trading for guard Ben Gordon and signing free agent Ramon Sessions from the Los Angeles Lakers.

ERIC BIDDLE, VOCAL OPPONENT OF C.I.A.-RELATED WORK DISCRIMINATION, DIES

BY ADAM BERNSTEIN

Washington Post

WASHINGTON • Eric H. Biddle Jr., who served in the CIA during the early Cold War period and became an outspoken critic of the discrimination he said he faced in later employment because of his espionage career, died Oct. 21 in Falls Church, Va. He was 84.

Biddle was a Harvard graduate from a Philadelphia Main Line family. He served in the CIA from 1952 to 1960, stationed in Europe and specializing in Soviet intelligence. "I wanted to serve my country," he told the Washington Star in 1975. "The CIA was considered to be the most exciting place in Washington....I was asked, for example, when I was interviewed whether or not I was willing to jump — parachute — into the Soviet Union. I didn't know whether that was a realistic possibility or not. I had no idea. I sort of gulped and said 'yes.'"

Biddle said he became disillusioned with the spy service because of a romantic entanglement. He had fallen in love with a Greek woman while working in Greece, but CIA employees are prohibited from marrying foreign nationals. The policy was a factor in his 1960 resignation, though he did not marry the woman.

He held several privatesector jobs and pursued graduate work in religious studies at Union Theological Seminary in New York. He contemplated joining the Peace Corps but was turned down because of his CIA past. The service group does not hire former intelligence agency employees in an effort to protect its overseas volunteers from accusations of being U.S. spies.

In 1965, Biddle became an inspector with the new U.S.

Office of Economic Opportunity, ananti-poverty agency. A few years later, he joined the federal Office of Voluntary Action and helped draw up plans for a new umbrella agency called Action that would include the Vista and Peace Corps volunteer service groups.

At that point, when his work became directly linked with the Peace Corps, Biddle said he began to endure a pattern of workplace discrimination because of his CIA career. He said superiors relieved him of certain responsibilities, isolated him from daily operations and encouraged him to find another job. In 1974, he was demoted in rank.

Biddle pursued legal action against the government. In 1979, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit ruled that Biddle's civil rights had not been violated and that the procedures followed had been legal.

By that time, Biddle had earned a law degree. He began a new career as an Arlington, Va. immigration lawyer, often working with Eastern bloc defectors.

In 1987, he was selected to serve on the bipartisan and congressionally mandated Commission for the Study of International Migration and Cooperative Economic Development, which urged an overhaul of immigration policy.

Eric Harbeson Biddle Jr. was born Feb. 10, 1928, in Bryn Mawr, Pa., and raised in Ardmore, Pa. younger Biddle served in the Navy at the end of World War II and, on the GI Bill, graduated from Harvard University in 1950. He graduated from George Washington University law school in 1977.A former Arlington resident, Mr. Biddle lived most recently in Northern Virginia's Fairfax County.

Lincoln Scholar Richard Current Dies at 100 Years

NEW YORK (AP) • Richard Nelson Current, a prolific and award-winning Abraham Lincoln scholar who for decades was a leader in his field and helped shape a more realistic view of the iconic president, has died. He was 100.

Current died Oct. 26 in Boston, fellow Lincoln historian Harold Holzer said Thursday. Current's many books included "The Lincoln Nobody Knows" and "Lincoln the President," winner of the Bancroft Prize in 1956. He had many other interests, writing about Daniel Webster, the invention of the typewriter and the state of Wisconsin. In his 80s, he and his wife, Marcia Ewing Current, cowrote a biography of dancer Loie Fuller. In his 90s, he translated essays and stories by the Norwegian author Knut Hamsun, teaching himself the language of his ancestors.

"He never lost his sense of curiosity. It was remarkable," Marcia Ewing Current, married to the historian for 28 years, said Thursday.

Holzer noted that Current was the last survivor of a trio of Lincoln experts who emerged after World War II: Current, David Herbert Donald and Don E. Fehrenbacher. Current's most influential work likely was "The Lincoln Nobody Knows," which came out in 1958. Eric Foner, who decades later wrote a Pulitzer Prize-winning book on Lincoln and slavery, would praise Current's text as "the most judicious analysis of everything from Lincoln's family life and political career to his evercontroversial views on slavery and race." Holzer read the book as a boy and cited it as inspiration for pursuing his own career in Lincoln

"The book punctured such stubborn legends as that of alleged Cabinet-level complicity in the Lincoln assassination, and convincingly advanced the thennew notion that Lincoln significantly evolved on the subject of race over the years from colonizer to liberator," Holzer wrote in a tribute Thursday. "The book influenced countless young scholars and transformed Current into a hero among historians - capable of strong, lucid prose, vast knowledge of original material, a gift for solid argumentation, and a zero tolerance for falsehood and mythification."

Current himself became caught up in allegations of Lincoln mythmaking when he and Gore Vidal exchanged harsh remarks over Vidal's best-selling novel "Lincoln." Released in 1984, "Lincoln" was criticized by Current and other Lincoln historians for what they claimed were falsehoods and an unduly negative portrait of the president. Vidal, in turn, placed Current among the "scholar-squirrels" cushioned by tenure and trapped in a "footnote maze."

"At many points it is hard to know whether his (Vidal's) version of Lincoln's life and times is an outright invention, a dubious interpretation, or simply a mistake," Current wrote in a letter published in The New York Review of Books. "He is wrong on big as well as little matters. He grossly distorts Lincoln's character and role in history by picturing him as ignorant of economics, disregardful of the Constitution, and unconcerned with the rights of

According to Current's widow, he was drawn to Lincoln's values and integrity and regarded him as a hero. Current lectured around the country and around the world, from Rutgers University and the University of North Carolina to Japan and Chile and even Antarctica, where he met with Navy personnel. In 1995, the Richard Nelson Current Award of Achievement was established by the Lincoln Forum, with winners including Doris Kearns Goodwin and Ken Burns.

Kennedy White House Social Secretary Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) • Letitia Baldrige, the White House social secretary during the Kennedy administration who came to be regarded as an authority on etiquette, has Baldrige, 86, died Monday in Bethesda, Md., friend Mary M. Mitchell confirmed Thursday.

At the White House, Baldrige also served as chief of staff for first lady Jacqueline Kennedy from 1961 to 1963. Baldrige, who was known as Tish, handled the first lady's schedule, mail and served as the advance scout on trips. She was also responsible for the guest list and overall coordination of events. At one point, she was tasked with finding a French chef to oversee the White House kitchen.

Baldrige acknowledged that she and her team of aides made mistakes. One letter responding to a celibate priest congratulated him on the birth of his son. On the Kennedys' 1962 visit to India, Baldrige nearly sent as a gift leather-framed photos, not recognizing that cows are sacred in India. And then there was the first large party she organized, two days into the administration, where she provided ashtrays for the guests and served liquor.

Both were unheard of, at least in the presence of reporters, and press called the party "debauched."

"The president wasn't happy," she recalled in a memoir, "A Lady, First."

But liquor continued to be served, and Kennedy later acknowledged he was wrong to give Baldrige a hard time.

"People have a good time in this house today," she recalled the president saying

President Kennedy also gave Baldrige the nickname "Miss Push and Pull" because she told him where to go during events. Once, when he forgot a toast, she wrote him a note on the back of her place card, "You're supposed to toast." Kennedy then got up and said, "The social secretary has informed me that I am supposed to make a toast," she remembered in a 1964 interview archived at the Kennedy presidential library in Boston.

Baldrige was born Feb. 9, 1926, in Miami Beach, Fla., the third of three children. Her father, H. Malcolm Baldrige, a lawyer, served one term as a Republican congressman from Nebraska in the early 1930s. Baldrige met the future first lady as a student a Miss Porter's School in Connecticut, and they both also attended Vassar.

After college, Baldrige did graduate work at the University of Geneva. She worked as a social secretary at the American embassy in Paris and as an assistant to the U.S. ambassador in Rome. In 1956, she became the director of publicity and public relations for the jeweler Tiffany &

After leaving the White House, she started her own marketing and public relations agency and was the author of more than 20 books. Her business partner, Alinda Lewris, said in an email that Baldrige's most frequent advice was "Don't take yourself too seriously."

Baldrige acknowledged that as a member of the White House staff she lived a dream life.

"I don't care what your politics are, I would wager that if you asked any American woman which administration would she have most liked to work for as social secretary, she would pick Jacqueline Kennedy's White House as the place to be," she wrote in her memoir.

A memorial Mass is planned for Nov. 9 at the Church of the Little Flower in Bethesda, Md.

Bloomberg: NYC Marathon Won't Divert Resources

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK • The blue and orange finish line is in place in Central Park, no superstorm debris in sight.

Little else is normal with the New York City Marathon.

The course will be the same since there was little damage but getting to the finish line could still be an adventure for runners from outlying areas.

Such is life in Sandy's aftermath — disrupted trains, planes, buses and ferries, flooded buildings, blocked roads and knocked out pow-

Michael Mayor Bloomberg saw none of this as insurmountable and defended the decision to hold the race, insisting resources wouldn't be diverted from storm victims. He noted Thursday that electricity was expected to be restored to all of Manhattan by race day, freeing up "up an enormous number of police."

"This city is a city where we have to go on," he said.

City Council member Domenic Recchia Jr., however, called plans to hold the race "just wrong" in light of the ongoing misery among residents with no food, shelter or electricity.

The marathon brings an estimated $340 million into the city, and race organizers say some of it will be used for recovery efforts. New York Road Runners, which operates the event, will donate $1 million to the fund and said more than $1.5 million in pledges already had been secured from sponsors.

It was still unclear whether runners would get to the start by bus or ferry. NYRR President Mary Wittenberg said organizers commissioned buses to transport runners to Staten Island, but the city wanted to use the ferry, as in the past. Bloomberg expected full ferry service to resume by Saturday.

MIDDLEKAUFF

Runners from Brooklyn, Queens, Long Island and New Jersey, with trouble reaching Manhattan, will be bused directly from those areas to the start. Organizers planned to release complete details on transportation

Many of the nearly 30,000 out-of-town entrants were still scrambling to get to New York, aided somewhat by the reopening of the area's three major airports. Wittenberg predicted more than 8,000 of the 47,500 entrants originally expected won't make Kenyan runners, including men's favorites Wilson Kipsang and Moses Mosop, flew from Nairobi to London to Boston, then drove to New York, arriving late Wednesday.

Favorites in the women's race include Olympic gold medalist Tiki Gelana of Ethiopia, bronze medalist Tatyana Arkhipova of Russia and world champion Edna Kiplagat of Kenya.

The course winds from Staten Island to Brooklyn, then Queens, Manhattan, the Bronx and back into Manhattan for the finish in Central Park. The park was still closed Thursday, but will be ready by Sunday. The route has never included areas hit hard by flooding, such as Coney Island and Lower Manhattan.

Meantime, many locals prepared for the race while coping with the messes Sandy left behind.

Latif Peracha was evacuated from the Lower Manhattan neighborhood of Tribeca. While his building is flooded, his sixth-floor apartment is fine but he can't move back until next Thursday at the earliest. Meantime, he is staying with a friend.

knew his He marathon was going to be special; now he believes it's so much more.

"I think it'll be a great testament to the city's resilience," he said.

Dave Reeder was supposed to fly from Denver to La-Guardia on Thursday with his wife and two children. Then they saw the photos of the flooded airport. Should they still try to make the trip?

The race felt a bit "frivolous," he said.

Hearing Bloomberg on TV convinced him to try and he hoped to volunteer in relief efforts while in New York.

His family planned to watch from three points along the course, but subway closures may prevent it.

If they can't, it has practical implications for Reeder: He has type 1 diabetes, and his wife carries supplies he might need during the race. Reeder is running as part of Team JDRF, raising money for type 1 diabetes research. Even though he knows his sponsors wouldn't ask for their money back, he'll run in Los Angeles next week just in case he doesn't make it to this race. As of Thursday, he was still heading East.

Julie Culley of Clinton, N.J., was stranded in Arlington, Va., when the storm hit. It turned out to be a blessing because she had power and could train.

An Olympian in the 5,000 meters, Culley is making her marathon debut. Her parents own a vacation home on Long Beach Island on the Jersey shore, which was rocked hard by Sandy.

"I think our family probably escaped the worst of it," said Culley, whose parents were in Clinton when the storm hit. "I've seen terrible pictures of houses uprooted out of their foundations and houses completely knocked out."

They told her if Long Beach Island opens up, they'll go there and watch her on TV.

"Now that we know for the most part what the damage is and the storm's over," Culley said, "and we can put everything behind us and focus on the recovery effort in the state, I think now it's time to shift focus toward the marathon again."

Molly Pritz, the top American woman in last year's race with a 12th-place finish, knew she wouldn't be able to fly out of Detroit on Tuesday, so she decided to drive. Problem: She's 24 and too young to rent a car. (25 is the minimum age at most agencies.) So her mother drove her.

JEROME • You can't be a wallflower at a square dance. It looks like too much fun to just sit there and watch.

So I grabbed my boyfriend, Karlin, and attended an Oct. 17 square dance at the American Legion Hall in Jerome. It's the same free lesson that any of Magic Valley's aspiring square dancers can enjoy this month.

Don't have a partner? Don't let that discourage you from attending.

The Oct. 17 dance was hosted by the Magic Valley Singles (a group of singles) and the Buttons and Bows (married couples), two local square dancing clubs.

And don't worry if you don't know the difference between allemande left and promenade. Quicker than you can say dosi-do you will be weaving through your square with ease.

Buttons and Bows is starting lessons for anyone 12 or older at 7 p.m. every Monday at the American Legion Hall in Jerome beginning Nov. 5. The first lesson you show up for in November is free; after that a donation is asked.

Square dancing is easy to learn. I tried square dancing a couple of times in college, but this was a first time for Karlin. After learning a few steps we were both flowing with our square, for the most part. My boyfriend and I were part of the same square but both paired with more experienced dancing partners. And we were told if we ever did get lost: Put your hands in the air and someone will direct

Also, listen to the caller. He is the one guiding all the squares with different cues. I made mistakes and found myself trying to turn in the wrong direction, but my partner, Galen Slatter, just laughed off what he called our "wrestling match." Slatter, 64, was in his early 30s when he learned to square dance. Slatter wasn't exactly a willing participant.

"I'm an old country boy and thought, 'this was not for me,' but I was grabbed and told, 'you're not leaving,'" Slatter said.

At first he'd get angry because he felt he couldn't dance properly, but slowly the square dancing circle calmed Slatter. Now it's a family for him.

For some of the women, the dress is the draw.

"The only reason why I do this is so I can dress like a doll," said Elaine Endsley of Hagerman.

But for two fictional Army buddies, both entertainers, not everything was so bleak - like when they'd perform song-and-dance routines in European clubs. On Christmas Eve of that year, the mood once again turned sour when, during a show, they learned their commanding officer was to be relieved of duty.

Endsley was paired with Karlin, and when he messed up a step she guided him where he needed to go.

Unlock the Night with 176 Keys of Fun

BY BLAIR KOCH

For the Times-News

TWIN FALLS • It's a duel without the blood.

On Nov. 16, the dueling pianos are back at Canyon Crest Dining and Events Center with High Street Band members Tim Swanson and Stuart Dennis.

After the duo's mid-October engagement, the establishment booked them for another roisterous night.

"The audience participation shows everyone had a really good time," Canyon Crest restaurant manager Jared Egbert said. "Plus, it's something different and unique for the area. People were really engaged with the performance, and we're happy to have them coming again."

Dueling piano shows are common to downtown Boise. Twin Falls? Not so

The genre's roots go back to the late 1890s when ragtime players would challenge each other to see who could finger an ivory-and-black keyboard faster and better. But today's style is geared toward entertaining the crowd, and the two pianists take turns playing audience requests, often tucked into glass bowls and accompanied with tips.

High Street Band, of Boise, got its start in the '90s playing coffeehouses and yogurt bars but has grown to a 10-member group that has played venues with crowds of 50,000.

Known for playing everything from zydeco to swing and rock 'n' roll, Swanson, who started the group, and Dennis love booking piano duels, said band spokesman Matt Summers.

"It's a classic dueling piano show, with a lot of comedy strung in bits of history about the pieces," said Summers, who will join the pair in December for a rowdy four-man show of dancing, comedy and more. The Rocking Soul Piano show will be Dec. 14 at High Street Band's front man and lead singer Matt Summers will be part of a Rocking Soul Piano show in Twin Falls in December.

Canyon Crest.

Because the shows are by request, the players must be on their toes and ready for songs spanning the '40s through today. The players get requests for contemporary hits like Whitney Houston's "I Want to Dance with Somebody," and for college fight songs. "The key is to keep everybody laughing without desecrating the quality of the music, and that's what we strive to do because the quality of the music is still important," Summers said. The December show will include elements from the dueling piano show but "be way more dynamic," with the four members, including Steve Goff, all playing various musical instruments. The quartet will take song requests from the audience and make sure "everyone is up dancing all night."

"If anyone thinks they've seen a piano duel they are in Theater Company Brings 'Of Mice and Men' to T.F.

TWIN FALLS • Touring repertory theater The Acting Company will take the stage in Twin Falls with its rendition of John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men."

The tale of two drifters is one of the most widely read stories in America. Written as both a novella and a script, "Of Mice and Men" tells the tragic story of two California migrant ranch workers during the Great Depression.

The Acting Company's production is Arts on Tour's third performance of the 2012-13 season, set for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14 in the College of Southern Idaho's Fine Arts Auditorium. Tickets are $32 for adults and $24 for students in high school and younger.

"John Steinbeck stands alone as the 20th century's biographer of the worker. He writes of a life that looks beautiful in a photograph and is ugly to inhabit," wrote Ian Belknap, the troupe's associate artistic director. "This production looks, sounds and smells like the worker of 1930s; however, this play could be set yesterday, today or tomorrow. Drive on any stretch of the crossroads of America today ... the context of our world has changed but our daily life values remain the same as in 'Of Mice and Men:"

The cast includes actors from some of the finest acting conservatories in the U.S., cast in New York and through Minneapolis' Guthrie Theater Experience, promoters said.

John Houseman and current Producing Artistic Director Margot Harley founded The Acting Company in 1972 – with the first graduating class of The Juilliard School's drama division - to develop classi-

U.S. Says C.I.A. Sent Security Team to Benghazi after Attack

BY JONATHAN S. LANDAY

McClatchy Newspapers

WASHINGTON • A CIA security team rushed to the U.S. consulate in the Libyan city of Benghazi less than 25 minutes after receiving the first call that the mission was under attack in September, and a second squad was sent by air from the capital, Tripoli, according to a timeline released late Thursday by the U.S. intelligence community.

It is the first official timeline to be made public that charts the CIA's response to the attack. It was issued by the U.S. intelligence community apparently as a rebuttal to news reports that U.S. officials delayed a rescue operation.

"The officials on the ground in Benghazi responded to the situation . . . as quickly and as effectively as possible," a senior intelligence official said on the condition of anonymity. "There were no orders to anybody to stand down in providing support."

The Sept. 11 attack, in which U.S. Ambassador Christopher Stevens and three other Americans were killed, has become an issue in the U.S. presidential election campaign. Republicans have accused the Obama administration of failing to provide adequate security to the Benghazi mission despite threats from al-Qaidalinked extremists and other Islamist groups.

Republican nominee Mitt Romney and others also have questioned the administration's initial account that the assault was a spontaneous outgrowth of a protest against an online video denigrating the prophet Muhammad, and not a planned attack timed to coincide with the anniversary of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks on the United States.

According to the timeline, the first call for help from the consulate was received at the CIA's Benghazi station — referred to as a diplomatic annex by U.S. officials — around 9:40 p.m., which is when the attack began.

"Fewer than 25 minutes later, a security team left the Annex for the Mission," the timeline says. The group then spent about 25 minutes trying to take out militants carrying heavy weapons as it approached the compound and then entered it under heavy fire, according to the

Attorney General Accuses Penn State of Conspiracy of Silence

BY JENNA JOHNSON
Washington Post

Graham Spanier, the former president of Penn State University who lost his job amid the school's infamous football sexabuse scandal, has been criminally charged with covering up reports that former assistant coach Jerry Sandusky had abused young boys on campus.

Pennsylvania's attorney general said Thursday that a grand jury had found evidence that Spanier was part of a "conspiracy of silence" to cover up abuse at the State College, Pa. campus, making him the highest-ranking university official to be charged with a crime in connection with Sandusky's actions. Pennsylvania Attorney General Linda Kelly said at a news conference Thursday afternoon, "This was a conspiracy of silence by top officials to actively conceal the truth." The eight charges include perjury, endangering the welfare of children, obstruction of an investigation, failure to report child abuse and criminal conspiracy. Sandusky was convicted of child sex abuse in June and was sentenced to 30 to 60 years in prison.

Spanier was forced to resign the presidency days after Sandusky was arrested. In the past year, Spanier has gone from one of the most well-known and well-paid college presidents in the country to being accused of felonies in a conspiracy to put the university's image and revered football program ahead of the safety of children. Spanier's attorneys said in a statement that there is "no factual basis to support these charges."

A poster from the Pennsylvania Attorney General's office outlining the Conspiracy of Silence associated with the new criminal charges related to the ongoing child sex crimes is seen.

EXASPERATION BUILDS IN STORM-STRICKEN NYC

NEW YORK (AP) • Frustration — and in some cases fear — mounted in New York City on Thursday, three days after Superstorm Sandy. Traffic backed up for miles at bridges, large crowds waited impatiently for buses into Manhattan, and tempers flared in gas lines.

Mayor Michael Bloomberg said the city would send bottled water and ready-to-eat meals into the hardest-hit neighborhoods through the weekend, but some New Yorkers grew dispirited after days without power, water and heat and decided to get out.

The mounting despair came even as the subways began rolling again after a three-day shutdown. Service was restored to most of the city, but not the most stricken parts of Manhattan and Brooklyn, where the tunnels were Bridges into the city were open, but police enforced a carpooling rule and peered into windows to make sure each car had at least three people. The rule was meant to ease congestion but appeared to worsen it. Traffic jams stretched for miles, and drivers who made it into the city reported that some people got out of their cars to argue with police.

With only partial subway service, lines at bus stops swelled. More than 1,000 people packed the sidewalk outside an arena in Brooklyn, waiting for buses to Manhattan. Nearby, hundreds of people massed on a sidewalk. When a bus pulled up, passengers rushed the door. A transit worker banged on a bus window, yelled at people inside, and then yelled at people in the line.

With the electricity out and gasoline supplies scarce, many gas stations across the New York area remained closed, and stations that were open drew long lines of cars that spilled out onto roads. In a Brooklyn neighborhood, a station had pumps wrapped in police tape and a "NO GAS" sign, but cars waited because of a rumor that gas was coming.

The worst was over at least for public transportation. The Long Island Rail Road and Metro-North were running commuter trains again, though service was limited. New Jersey Transit had no rail service but most of its buses were back, and Amtrak said it would run trains between New York and Boston Friday for the first time since the storm hit. The storm killed at least 90 people in the U.S. New York City raised its death toll on Thursday to 38, including two Staten Island boys, 2 and 4, swept from their mother's arms by the floodwaters.

More than 4.1 million homes and businesses, including about 650,000 in New York and its northern suburbs, were still without power. Consolidated Edison, the power company serving New York, said electricity should be restored by Saturday to customers in Manhattan and to homes and offices served by underground power lines in Brooklyn.

Israel Confirms Killing Arafat Deputy in 1988

JERUSALEM (AP) • Israel acknowledged Thursday it killed Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat's deputy in a 1988 raid in Tunisia, lifting a nearly 25-year veil of secrecy and allowing a rare glimpse into the shadowy world of its secret operations.

One of the commandos was disguised as a woman on a romantic vacation, and one of the weapons was hidden in a box of chocolates.

Khalil al-Wazir, who was better known by his nom de guerre Abu Jihad, founded Fatah, the dominant faction in the Palestinian Liberation Organization, with Arafat and was blamed for a series of deadly attacks against Israelis.

Two of those involved in the operation that killed al-Wazir now hold high political office in Israel — Defense Minister Ehud Barak and Vice Premier Moshe Yaalon. At the time, Barak was deputy military chief, and Yaalon was head of the elite commando unit Sayeret Matkal. Their precise roles in the operation were not divulged, and both men's offices declined com-

Israel has long been suspected of assassinating al-Wazir. But only now has the country's military censor cleared the Yediot Ahronot daily to publish the information, including an interview with the commando who killed him, at least 12 years after the newspaper obtained the information. "I shot him with a long burst of fire. I was careful not to hurt his wife, who had showed up there. He died," commando Nahum Lev told Yediot prior to his death in a motorcycle accident in 2000. "Abu Jihad was involved in horrible acts against civilians. He was a dead man walking. I shot him without hesitation."

Dozens of similar operations have been attributed to Israel over the decades. But Israel rarely takes responsibility and typically does not comment about covert operations.

Israeli officials did not openly confirm the operation. But the censor's decision to allow publication, after years of stifling the account, amounted in effect to confirmation.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT FOR THE FIFTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT FOR THE STATE OF IDAHO, IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF JEROME Case No. CV 12-1061

OF HEARING ON NAME CHANGE (Adult) IN RE: CARALEE STANGER ARRINGTON

A Petition to change the name of Caralee Stanger Arrington, now residing in the City of Jerome, State of idaho, has been filed in the District Court in Jerome County, Idaho. The name will change to Carolee Stanger Arrington. The reason for the change in name is: the incorrect spelling was placed on my birth certificate and has never been legally changed to meet the name chosen for me by my birth mother. A hearing on the petition is scheduled for 9 o'clock AM on 11/21/12 at the Jerome County Courthouse. Objections may be filed by any person who can show the court a good reason against the name change.

EAST

"I'll be with you in the squeezing of a lemon.

PUBLISH: November 2, 2012

– Oliver Goldsmith

Today's three-no-trump deal was too difficult for all the players at the table. But will you, as West, be able to solve the puzzle?

Declarer won the spade lead in dummy, East following with the six to suggest an even number of spades. Now, instead of going after clubs, declarer (who had begun with the doubleton heart king) played four rounds of hearts, pitching clubs from hand as East discarded the two then four of spades.

Can you work out what is going on — and what the killing defense is now?

You should have built up a picture of East's hand as four small spades and two hearts, together with three diamonds and four clubs. His failure to discard a discouraging diamond marks him with an honor. Logic suggests that he has queen-third of diamonds or else he would surely have kept two spades, rather than break the partnership communication in that suit.

The winning defense is to take the spade ace now, then exit with the club queen, hoping partner has as little as 10-fourth of that suit. Declarer can do no better than win the club and play the suit back, hoping it splits. When East takes his two club winners, you will discard a spade, then a diamond, and — to add insult to injury — the last club squeezes dummy! Declarer will end up with just seven tricks.

Yes, declarer should have played on clubs not hearts, but that is no reason to give him back his contract.

ANSWER: Your hand may be at or below the minimum end of the range, but you have just enough to show a splinter raise of diamonds by jumping to four clubs. This shows four-card diamond support and a singleton or void in clubs. Since you have no interest in playing no-trump, you might as well describe your hand at one go, then let partner take control.

Today is Friday, Nov. 2, the 307th day of 2012. There are 59 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight: On Nov. 2, 1962, President John F. Kennedy delivered a brief statement to the nation in which he said that aerial photographs had confirmed that Soviet missile bases in Cuba were being dismantled, and that "progress is now being made toward the restoration of peace in the Caribbean."

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:

In 1783, Gen. George Washington issued his Farewell Orders to the Armies of the United States near Princeton, N.J.

In 1795, the 11th president of the United States, James Knox Polk, was born in Mecklenburg County, N.C.

In 1865, the 29th president of the United States, Warren Gamaliel Harding, was born near Marion, Ohio.

In 1889, North Dakota and South Dakota became the 39th and 40th states.

In 1917, British Foreign Secretary Arthur Balfour issued a declaration expressing support for a "national home" for the Jews in Pales-

In 1936, the British Broadcasting Corp. inaugurated "high-definition" television service from Alexandra Palace in London.

In 1947, Howard Hughes piloted his huge wooden flying boat, the Hughes H-4 Hercules (derisively dubbed the "Spruce Goose" by detractors), on its only flight, which lasted about a minute over Long Beach Harbor in California.

In 1948, President Harry S. Truman surprised the experts by winning a narrow upset over Republican challenger Thomas E. Dewey.

In 1959, former game show contestant Charles Van Doren admitted to a House subcommittee that he'd been given questions and answers in advance when he appeared on NBC's "Twenty-One."

In 1963, South Vietnamese President Ngo Dihn Diem was assassinated in a military

In 1979, black militant JoAnne Chesimard escaped from a New Jersey prison, where she'd been serving a life sentence for the 1973 slaying of New Jersey state trooper Werner Foerster. (Chesimard, who took the name Assata Shakur, is believed to be living in Cuba.)

In 1992, movie producer Hal Roach died in Los Angeles at age 100. Ten years ago: President George W. Bush called Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein a "dangerous man" with links to terrorist networks, and said that U.N. inspections for weapons of mass destruction were critical. Five years ago: Speaking at a graduation ceremony at Fort Jackson, S.C., President George W. Bush said U.S. military deaths had fallen to their lowest levels in 19 months and the Iraqi people were slowly "taking back their country" in the wake of the American troop buildup there. Michael Mukasey drew closer to becoming attorney general after two key Senate Democrats, Charles Schumer and Dianne Feinstein (FYN'-styn), said they would vote for him despite his refusal to say whether waterboarding was torture. Choreographer Igor Moisevev, who transformed folk dance into a legitimate art, died in Moscow at age 101.

One year ago: The Congressional Gold Medal was awarded to some 19,000 Japanese-Americans who'd served in the 100th Infantry Battalion, the 442nd Regimental Combat Team and the Military Intelligence Service.

Adoption fee is $75, incl spaying/neutering & first set of vaccinations.

IF NOVEMBER 2 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Take advantage of exciting opportunities that appear in the next four weeks. This is a great time to get a checkup or to obtain advice from professionals, such as a doctor or lawyer, because people will have your best interests at heart. Shift into low gear during December and January - and don't begin anything of crucial importance because you might add too many burdens to your already aching shoulders. March could be challenging because a potential commitment to a relationship or job could offer many benefits but also have many strings attached. Be conscientious about honoring obligations and agreements during the ARIES (March 21-April 19): Get a new lease on life. Tackle projects that require physical effort or leadership skills. Now that you know where a problem has developed roots it is possible to dig it up and remove it permanently.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Get feisty. If someone throws you to the wolves, you might return leading the pack. Remain poised to adapt to shifting situations with understanding and cordiality, but without losing a sense of pride.

GEMÎNI (May 21-June 20): Maintain a united front. Your inner muse will give you a sense of direction and help you accomplish more through teamwork. When others are merely treading water, you are buoyed by inspiration.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Do your own thing. Physical activity will burn off nervous energy. Your creative efforts may not win blue ribbons, but you will enjoy a sense of accomplishment when you create something unique.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Detour around the disruptions. You may experience temporary restlessness within an existing relationship or be briefly dissatisfied with job or career. Don't become obsessed with fixing something that isn't broken. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A thinking person can learn as much from failure as from success. Act like a philosopher when handling fluctuating social matters. Use common sense to balance the budget.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): To the world, you may be just one person — but to one person, you may be the world. Don't let your side down in a tight spot, but accept the challenge to prove your loyalty and demonstrate your support.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Those in close association could surprise you with startling information or upset your plans. Unexpected expenses might drain dollars from the piggy bank. Pass up an expensive outing to counteract costs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Recognize what's great about yourself. You could speak up and underline your accomplishments today without being out of place. Hold off making investments and put your credit card away.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You possess more than your usual share of creative energy. Hold off on major purchases or investments. You could experience unforeseen events or be subjected to interference by well-intentioned friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Play by the rules. Duty has to come first where your most valued relationships are concerned. If you let the honest and sincere side of your character shine through, all will end up OK in the end.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Tighten the belt, but not your hold on someone's affections. Remain thrifty, but be generous when dealing with relationship issues. Rather than dining at an expensive restaurant, get an order of takeout.

DEAR ABBY: We recently learned that our son-in-law, "Mike," was fired from his job as a community service officer with the county. He committed second-degree criminal sexual assault on two women inmates he was supervising and is now in the process of going to court. We hope he'll be convicted and sent away so our daughter can put her life together.

DEAR $\mathbf{A}\mathtt{BBY}$ Jeanne Phillips

This has torn our family apart. We don't know how to get through to her that she deserves so much better than this. She refuses to divorce him even though this was happening during their marriage and her pregnancy, She claims she's not being abused, but we have seen how controlling Mike has been throughout their courtship and marriage.

How can we help her realize that life without him would be so much better and that sex offenders are never really "cured"? They tell us they are "constantly praying" and that "God has already forgiven" him for what he has done. Any advice you can offer would be greatly appreciated.

WORRIED PARENTS DEAR WORRIED PAR-

ENTS: Your son-in-law's abuse of his authority is appalling. But as long as he's still around and "constantly praying" (probably more for a sympathetic jury than forgiveness for what he did to those women), you won't get through to your daughter.

Fortunately, the justice system has sentencing guidelines for men who abuse their power the way Mike has, and he may be going away for a long, long time. Once he's gone, start talking to your daughter about counseling to deal with the trauma she has been through, and let a mental health professional shed some light on this. If the message comes from a person with no bias, it stands a better chance of getting through.

P.S. I wholeheartedly agree she would be better off without him.

DEAR ABBY: I live in Arizona where the temperature can hit 100 degrees and we get 300-plus days of sunshine every year. I always have my 5-month-old son wear his sunglasses when he goes outside, and I get the most asinine comments from total strangers! Everything from "Can I have his autograph?" to "Does he think he's cool?" How can they be so dumb? People, tiny eyes need protection too!

- ANEW MOMMY DEAR NEW MOMMY:

The individuals you describe aren't "dumb"; they are making a failed attempt at humor. However, I showed your letter to Beverly Hills ophthalmologist Peter Cornell, M.D., who told me:

"It's ideal for everyone – regardless of age — to protect their eyes from ultraviolet light. And it's advisable for babies to be protected when they're outside. But it is NOT as 'crucial' with children as it is for older individuals, because their bodies are better able to repair oxidative damage. That said, ultraviolet light is not the friend of anyone's eves."

DEAR ABBY: I was married recently but kept my maiden name. As wedding gifts, we received two sets of towels monogrammed with my husband's last initial, and a plaque for the front of the house — "House of (his last name), Established 2012."

While we appreciate this generosity, I'm sure we will not put the items to use. (The plaque was from a close family member on my husband's side who knew I would be keeping my name.) How do we handle this?

- PERPLEXED NEWLYWED IN CLEVELAND PERPLEXED: DEAR

Here's how: Consign the plaque to your husband's man-cave (or toss it), use the towels for something other than display, and write a gracious thank-you to the family members who gave them to you for their thoughtfulness.

Marcantonio Points Out Error in Times-News Endorsement

While I totally disagree with the Oct. 26 endorsement of my opponent, the editorial also contained a factual error.

The editorial claimed I did not list — either to the Times-News editorial board or on the TV forum any sales tax exemptions that I would eliminate to raise funds.

This is false. To the Times-News editorial board, I named a few examples, such as the exemption for ski lift and snow grooming equipment and commercial aircraft. In fact, I told the editorial board I wouldn't list all the exemptions at the meeting with them, but had the list in front of me on my laptop, namely the Stop Unequal Taxation in Idaho recommendations to eliminate 10 exemptions, which I believe would raise state revenue for schools.

I didn't have much time to list all the exemptions on the TV forum, but said if I had a choice between a sales tax exemption on ski lift equipment or school children, that I would take the school children.

Publishing an opinion is one thing. Publishing an error is another.

PAT MARCANTONIO Democratic candidate State senate Dist. 24

Support Donna Pence for District 25 Representative

A vote for Donna Pence is a vote for local interests. I am writing this letter to urge voters in District 25 to once again support Donna Pence on Nov. 6. Donna has worked tirelessly for our district supporting what is important to our livelihood in this area: agriculture, wildlife and preservation of our Idaho way of life. When bills are introduced, Donna takes the time to research how it will affect our area and votes for what she feels her constituents value the most. Her background as an educator, tree farmer, outdoorsman and experienced legislator make her the best qualified candidate to represent what our district is all about. She does not vote based strictly on party line expectations but on how the bill that is introduced will impact our area economically, environmentally and each person individually.

This is the type of person that should be representing the constituents who elect them. So I urge you to support Donna Pence for District 25 representative on Nov. 6. A vote for Donna is a vote for you and your community.

Heider Listens to the Residents in the Magic Valley

This letter is written in support of Lee Heider for Senate District 24.

Those of us who live in Twin Falls are privileged to have Sen. Heider representing us. I have known Lee for nearly 23 years. I know him to be an honest and dedicated person. He was born and raised in the Magic Valley. He honorably served in the Air Force as a pilot, proudly defending our country. He has been a small-business owner most of his adult life, knowing what it takes to survive in good times and

Lee is a family man, married to his sweetheart, Jan, for 42 years and the father of one daughter and five sons. He is proud of his 23 grandchildren. He has spent time volunteering in Scouting, teaching the principles needed in the Legislature.

This past year, Sen. Heider sponsored Bill HIR2 to allow all citizens the right to hunt, fish and trap. This bill passed both the Senate and House nearly unanimously. It is now on the ballot on Nov. 6. He is a devoted and dedicated member of the Legislature.

Sen. Heider is one who listens carefully to the residents in the Magic Valley. He is now preparing and sponsoring four separate bills in this session. He will carry these bills and will work tirelessly to see that they become law.

I will vote for Sen. Heider on Nov. 6 and encourage you to do the same.

Jerome Commissioner Offers Endorsement of Hartgen

In the past few years, I have had the good fortune of getting to know Rep. Stephen Hartgen in his role as a state legislator. By example, he has set the bar high for what it means to be a "public servant." He knows that it is far more than simply being "one who holds a government position."

Rep. Hartgen is committed to communication with his constituents and the public. He provides insight, information and updates on issues through his newsletters and social media. He takes time to respond to questions by phone and email. He goes the extra mile to make sure that the public knows what his positions are on issues and why.

Rep. Hartgen does his homework. His thirst for knowledge and information is evident. He studies the issues from the local to the federal level to gain insight and understanding on how those issues may affect the Magic Valley and Idaho.

When it comes to serving with integrity, Rep. Hartgen is at the top of the list. He believes in honest stewardship and accountability of government funds. He is not afraid to take a position, speak objectively or give reason for his vote.

I am pleased to call Rep. Stephen Hartgen a friend. I thank him for setting the example for what it means to be a true public servant.

Vote on Nov. 6 to keep Rep. Stephen Hartgen, the best choice for Legislative

District 24B. CATHY ROEMER Jerome

(Editor's note: Cathy Roemer is a Jerome County commissioner.)

Top-down Mandates Will Drive Quality Teachers Away

Don't be deceived — vote

Recent advertisements in favor of Propositions 1, 2 and 3 suggest that any opposition to these propositions is driven solely by the National Education Association.

My wife and I have a combined 54 years of teaching in Idaho public schools and have never been union members. We will vote in opposition to the propositions and hope that many parents who know us will join us in defeating these useless laws. We don't see much future for quality education in a state that does not take into account the opinion of its quality teachers. Forced laptops and pay for performance can result only in higher taxes, larger class size and strife within districts.

Schools already have computer access for students and are integrating technology to the extent necessary to help teach your children. College credit for high school students is nothing new to most schools, and laptops for students will do little to enhance what is already in

Pay for performance might have its place in public schools, but Mr. Luna does not have a plan that will lead in a productive direction - quite the opposite. One thing is for sure continuing on a path of topdown mandates will drive most quality teachers from the profession. Do what's best for your budget and children - vote "no" on Propositions 1, 2 and 3.

JEFF GERARD SUZANNE GERARD Murtaugh

Who Are These 'Big Union Bosses'?

The radio ads featuring Butch Otter asking us to stop big union bosses from running our schools got me to thinking. When did your local school board member ever deal with a big union boss? Don't they negotiate with your classroom teachers?

He suggests voting yes on Props 1, 2 and 3 will stop the big union bosses. What a scare tactic. Eliminating tenure means eliminating teacher security. It allows easy removal of teachers without just cause. It will remove higher paid teachers. The only ones staying to draw retirement will be those who have pull with school board members. Merit pay will replace a pay scale so favorites of school board members can be paid more.

Proposition 3 replaces teachers with online classes and home schooling strategies allowing for one-third fewer high school teachers. Hiring fewer teachers and preventing them from reaching retirement will save tax dollars.

If you think it will reduce taxes, vote yes on Props 1, 2 and 3. If you think such changes will make it easier to draw highly qualified teachers to Idaho, vote yes. If you believe a big union boss is coming to your district to sway your school board members, vote yes. If you think lowering teacher pay and replacing math and science teachers with computers will attract new business to Idaho, vote yes.

Idaho already pays less for teachers than any other state. A yes vote will put us that much farther behind Mississippi.

DENNIS SONIUS Twin Falls

Who Stole My 'Yes' on Props 1, 2, 3 Yard Sign?

Two years ago, Propositions 1, 2 and 3 became laws for education reform in the state of Idaho. As is evident, there is opposition and support in varying degrees, and we now will be asked once again to cast our vote according to our conscience.

So in order to make an intelligent vote, I have taken time to read about these propositions, listen to the different pros and cons from educators, legislators and other citizens. I have found that many of the ideas have been tried and proved successful in other states. The conclusion I have come to is that these propositions are and can be a benefit in education reform for the students, parents, teachers and administrators of the state of Idaho. So I will be casting a yes vote on Nov. 6. In order to give my support, I decided I would like to post a sign in my yard indicating to vote yes. Apparently, there are some on the opposition who don't think that is right. Two days after putting the sign out, it was gone. I hope that the person who took it feels good about this. I have tried again, and we will see if I do have this right.
