Prison for Woman Accused of Stealing from Elderly Roommate

BY ALISON GENE SMITH

alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A Buhl woman who admitted to stealing money from an elderly woman through forged checks could spend up to 10 years in prison.

Shon Leslie Briggs was sentenced Monday to spend three to 10 years in prison for charges of forgery and abuse of a vulnerable

According to court records, Briggs was sentenced to serve three to six years for the forgery count and three to 10 years for the abuse, with the sentences running at the same time.

Briggs pleaded guilty to the charges on Sept. 4 when prosecutors dropped 10 of her original forgery charges as part of a plea deal. Briggs was given credit for time she's served in jail.

Briggs was arrested in July after a lengthy investigation by Twin Falls County sheriff's detectives who said Briggs stole the 82-yearold woman's check book and bought cigarettes, beer and jewelry, among other items.

The check forgery was discovered when Briggs approached bank employees asking for help.

SACRED LAND

Final say over recreational use of land the Shoshone-Bannock tribe considers sacred is now in the hands of the BLM.

Hundreds of years ago, her Shoshone-Bannock tribal ancestors traveled across the same desert landscape to hunt, fish and pray. But today, her tribe is beginning to struggle recognizing that same landscape.

"This road isn't supposed to be here," Smith said, pointing to the crude, dirt road splitting off from the main trail. "It wasn't here a few months ago. I'm getting lost."

Smith continued to drive on the bumpy and rocky road. When she stopped again, her eyes darted to a discarded pile of logs. The small cluster of wood and wire was once a road barrier but was now pushed

"I guess I have a few phone calls to make," she said. "Those ATV tracks look pretty fresh."

For years, the land was banned to non-tribal members under federal laws enforced by the U.S. Bureau of Land Management. However, close to 20 years ago, the agency began allowing more and more recreationists into the area. The site is especially beloved by rock climbers who travel from all parts of the Northwest.

Currently, the BLM is deciding if it will continue multiple-use in the area. In October, an agency advisory committee recommended

Early Voter Turn-out Strongin T.F. County

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Thousands of voters cast their ballots early in Twin Falls

As of Friday morning, Twin Falls County had issued 6,900 ballots, said Twin Falls County Clerk Kristina Glascock on Friday afternoon. Since then, hundreds more had shown up to vote early.

"I'm sure we'll exceed the last presidential (turnout)," Glascock said. In 2008, 7,400 people voted early in Twin Falls County.

Friday was the last day to vote early in Idaho. On Tuesday, polls are open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Because of redistricting, your polling place might have changed. To find out where to vote, call your county clerk's office or visit idahovotes.gov.

U.S. Stocks Waterlogged by Sandy's Mounting Costs

NEW YORK (AP) • Waterlogged from Superstorm Sandy and unmoved by a solid October jobs report, U.S. stocks fell sharply Friday. The Dow Jones industrial average dropped 139 points as details about the storm's costs began to trickle out.

Verizon Communications, whose downtown Manhattan facilities are still without power, said the storm would have a "significant" effect on its fourthquarter earnings. Verizon said it could not yet estimate the cost of the storm, which downed cell towers across the region. Its stock fell 62 cents to $44.52.

Can You Tell Me about Kidney Disease?

My family has a long history of kidney disease. I'm 52 and concerned that I might be predisposed to kidney disease. Can you educate me on the causes and treatment?

- Will, Hazelton

Answered by Dr. Michelle Myers, St. Luke's Clinic, Nephrology

hronic kidney disease is detected through common blood work. Most patients do not have any noticeable symptoms, so when kidney disease is discovered in some patients they may already be functioning at a very low level. Certain kinds of chronic disease can often cause kidney disease, making it all the more important to get routine blood testing for kidney damage. The most common causes of kidney disease in the United States are diabetes and hypertension. If you have either of those conditions, it would be important to have regular blood work and routine urine testing to see if there is kidney damage. If you have cardiovascular disease, you should also receive screening tests for kidney disease since this is another risk factor for developing kidney damage.

Medications, both prescription and non-prescription, can also play a factor in causing kidney damage, especially certain types of arthritis medications. A few diseases, like lupus, can also cause kidney damage. Genetics can play a part in kidney disease, like you mention in your question. Therefore, you should have routine testing to check for kidney disease and blood pressure monitoring if there is a strong family history. Smoking, high cholesterol and high blood pressure are the most common causes of heart disease, but being diagnosed with kidney disease is considered an additional cardiac risk factor. If you are diagnosed with kidney disease, the damage generally occurs in both kidneys.

There are things you can do to slow down the process of damage to your kidneys. Diet and exercise can play a significant part in the reduction of this disease. Depending on the type of kidney disease, a diet that is too high in protein can be detrimental. With kidney disease, it is also important to monitor potassium and phosphorous levels in your diet. If you do have high blood pressure, limiting your salt intake is extremely important, not only for kidney health, but for heart health. In treating kidney disease, the goal is to slow down the process and to delay the need for dialysis or transplant as a treatment method. Some high blood pressure medicines can not only treat high blood pressure but also help preserve kidney function. There are five different stages of kidney disease - the final stage is when dialysis would be necessary. This generally occurs when you have 10 percent or less of kidney function.

My best advice is that you see your primary care provider annually, and get your blood work and a urine test done to monitor your kidney function.

If determined that you have indicators of kidney disease, you will be referred to a specialist.

Enjoy a Sunny, Dry Weekend

n area of high pressure settles into the region for the rest of the weekend and through the second half of next week. In response, our weather will be sunny to mostly sunny and high temperatures 5 to 10 degrees above average.

Sunny skies will continue today through Sunday, both days will be warmer than average with afternoon high temperatures reaching 61 for today and 64 on Sunday. These temperatures are 5 to 10 warmer than the average high of 56.

The high pressure ridge holds on through at least Wednesday, with sunny skies and mild temperatures in the midto upper 60s. Monday will be 64 degrees. Election Day will be nice and mild with a high of 67, and Wednesday, with a little more cloud cover, will be cooler but still mild with a high temperature around 63.

Change to colder weather could be in the winds by next weekend. Some of the computer models we look at are hinting at a pattern change that could bring shots of cold and possible snow not only to the mountains but also to the valleys.

Study Shows Need for Idaho Truckers to Increase

BY ALEX STUCKEY Post Register

IDAHO FALLS • Seven Eastern Idaho Technical College students were huddled around a semitrailer Wednesday morning, learning how to put snow chains on the tires.

The brisk weather was mild compared to what the students will face when they hit the road as professional truck drivers. It's just one of the many road. But it's a job that never goes away. "The economy never quits eating," EITC truck-driving instructor Hank Brown said.

"There will always be jobs in rigors of a job spent on the transportation." And the truck-driving job market is expected to grow. A recent Idaho Department of Labor study listed it as a "hot" job in eastern Idaho.

The department projects that truck driving jobs will increase by about 27 percent by 2020.

A job is considered "hot" if it satisfied three major criteria: abundance in the economy, fast growth and high pay, Department spokesman Will Jenson said.

"One of the major variables is population growth," Jenson said. "Eastern Idaho has exceptional population growth (and we) anticipate it will continue to grow."

Other jobs listed as "hot" in eastern Idaho include engineers, electricians and mechanics.

"We do this study to help people prepare for jobs coming out in 10 years or coming down the road," Jenson said.

Doug Andrus Distributing is hiring all the time and Craig Ritchie, human resources manager, said the company only expects to hire more.

"It's kind of an aging industry," Ritchie said. "There are more older drivers than younger and those older drivers are leaving." The company employs about 300 drivers and hires about 100 every year, Ritchie A starting driver can expect to make $33,000 to $38,000 a year, he said. Brown's class, made up of mostly middle-aged students, practices driving on the company property.

Brown's course — worth 10 college credits - because they are unemployed and know jobs in the transportation sector are available, Brown said.

"There's always a transfer of drivers every four to five years because when drivers have other options to do other things they go back to it," he said.

The college's truck driving school spans six weeks. Two weeks are devoted to classroom instruction and the rest are in-truck learning, Brown said.

The college runs 11 classes with three to four students per class every year, he said. The waiting list for the class is about two months.

Students have to pass both written and driving exams to become a professional driver, Brown said.

"This is hard work and long hours ... most times you won't be able to be home at night," Brown said. "But this will net an immediate, good job."

Jury Rules Outfitter was Negligent in Bear Mauling

Dispatcher Helps Dad with Baby Delivery on I-15

OREM, Utah (AP) • A to make it to the hospital a Utah baby made his debut in the world to the soundtrack of freeway traffic.

Arturo "R2" Pozo was born Saturday in a silver Dodge Caravan pulled over in Orem, thanks to a little help from a dispatcher.

Father Carlos Pozo tried few miles away in American Fork, but decided to pull over when his wife's cries grew louder.

Dispatcher Julie Benson is heard on a 911 recording directing the father to find a shoelace to tie off the umbilical cord, and reminding him to be careful with the slippery baby.

Carlos Pozo says EMTs arrived just as the baby's head was coming out, and took over the delivery from there.

Before settling on Arturo, the couple considered naming their roadside delivery Miles.

Skull Found West of MacDonald Pass Identified

HELENA, Mont. (AP) • A skull found west of Mac-Donald Pass in late September was that of a Birdseye man whose partial remains were found in black trash bags near the pass west of Helena just over a year ago.

Powell County Sheriff Scott Howard and Lewis and Clark County Sheriff Leo Dutton told the Independent Record on Friday that the state crime lab used dental records to confirm the skull was that of John "Mike" Crites. Crites was last seen in June 2011 and his death is being investigated as a homicide.

Crites was part of an ongoing land dispute and had been involved in lawsuits with neighbors over land access near his house.

A U.S. Forest Service worker found the first remains on Oct. 5, 2011. The skull was found on Sept. 26.

Shoshone-Bannock tribal member argue that won't work. Cedar Fields' archaeological significance gives it a historical preservation status, but if it is damaged from recreational use - fire pits, graffiti, foot traffic, etc. – that status can be stripped.

On Thursday, Smith walked the sandy landscape and pointed to examples where vandalism already threatens the site's historical integrity. her left were makeshift fire pits with fresh ash and the hum of ATV motors could be heard in the near distance.

"We're asking that the federal agencies follow the law," said Travis Stone, environmental coordinator for the Shoshone-Bannock tribe. "This problem isn't just our past, it's our present and our future."

GRPAHIC BY ROBERT MONTEITH • TIMES-NEWS

Smith and Stone recognize educating the public on why these sites are sacred to the tribe can be difficult. The tribe doesn't share the details of what makes a site sacred or what ceremonies they need to perform on Cedar Fields with outsiders, Smith said.

"These are our stories that we only share with our own," Stone said.

Another issue is a lack of attendance at public comment meetings. The BLM hosted a series of forums over the summer to gather public input on closing off Cedar Fields but tribal members rarely attend.

"We only went to a few. We just don't go to them," said Randy'L Teton, a spokeswoman for the tribe. "When we go, those who attend the meeting tend to pick apart our comments. We would welcome a public meeting on our reservation."

Now that the advisory committee passed its recommendations to the BLM, the agency is hoping to make a final decision by the spring.

"You want to keep an area that will keep animals coming back," Smith said. "There's plenty of other sites to climb."

According to the police report, the victim had not taken her medication in three weeks at the time of the interview.

"The fact that she has gone weeks at a time without medications, coupled with her advanced age, (82-yearsold and 78 pounds) puts her in grave danger," a deputy wrote in the report.

Briggs was ordered to pay $3,252.21 in restitution to the victim. Payments are monitored by probation and parole.

Nevada Bighorns Moved to Utah

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) • The helicopter hovered low, allowing a crew member to shoot a net over a desert bighorn sheep in the southeastern Nevada mountains. A "mugger" hurriedly jumped from the aircraft and ran over to the sheep, giving the animal a shot to calm it down before tying its legs with leather strapping, blindfolding it, putting it in a sack, and hoisting it into the air with three other sheep.

With that, the iconic big game animals started their journey to historic rangeland in southern Utah's Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monument. They dangled in the air for a matter of minutes before being carried to a table to get their vitals checked and then hauled in trailers to their new home - a roughly seven-hour journey.

Across the West, states often swap animals to restore or boost the local populations. Utah has given moose to Colorado and pronghorn antelope to Arizona. Colorado mountain lions have been sent to Utah, and Arizona and New Mexico have traded sheep.

"We'll just take them as often as we're offered them until we meet our objectives," said Cameron Mc-Quivey, wildlife biologist for the Utah monument.

Nevada this week gave 50 wild sheep to Utah to help reduce the stress level in Nevada's herds, which comprise about 10,000 animals statewide. State wildlife managers try to keep the sheep population near Henderson, Nev., to between 250 and 300 to prevent the animals from having to compete for resources and from getting stress-related canker sores in their mouths and throat, said Doug Nielsen, a spokesman for the Nevada Division of Wildlife.

Crews delivered the first set of 25 sheep captured from the River Mountains between Henderson and Boulder City in Nevada. That group was taken from a smaller geographic area than the second, and the herd was somewhat accustomed to helicopter noise from aerial tours and encounters with people from frequently wandering into local communities.

The second set of 25 from the Muddy Mountains was from a larger geographic area characterized by rocky cliffs, steep slopes and narrow canyons where the sheep tried to escape. Breezier weather didn't help the pilot, either. Those sheep were being released Friday about 30 miles from the first release site.

Each group had its blood, temperature and other vitals tested before making the trip

Idaho Issues 159K Absentee Ballots

BOISE • Idaho officials say 159,000 absentee ballots have been issued so far this year, a drop compared to the record absentee returns in the last presidential election.

Deputy Secretary of State Tim Hurst said Friday the state won't know how many of those absentee ballots were actually cast until Tuesday. But even if every absentee ballot issued this year were turned in, the total would still be nearly 40,000 lower than the nearly 200,000 ballots that made up a whopping 30 percent of the total Idaho votes cast in 2008.

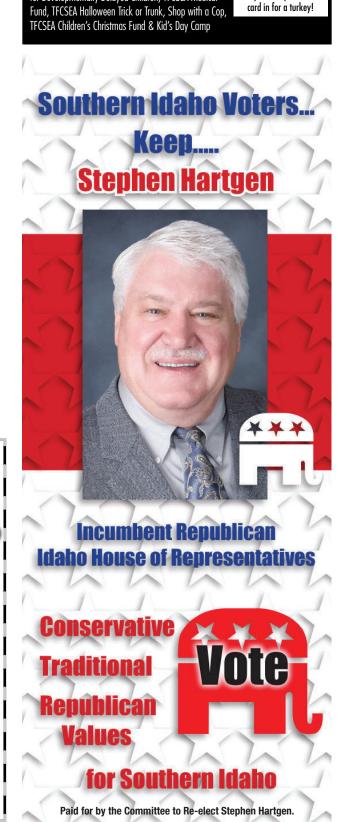

Absentee voting in 2008 was high because Ada County - Idaho's most populated county mailed out absentee ballots to every registered voter. They haven't done it since, Hurst said. "It's a lot more work for the county elections people," Hurst said. "It takes longer to run those through the optical scanning machines, because they're folded at least once or twice. It's like feeding a crumpled piece of paper through a copier."

Twenty-five counties, including Ada, use the optical scanning machines to count votes. It's a slower process than counting by hand or using the punchcard ballots, but because the machines are popular nationwide, it's easy to keep them maintained and to get replacement parts as needed, Hurst said.

Fifteen Idaho counties have election officials read each ballot by hand, and they usually get their results in earlier than the optical scan counties, Hurst said. But only four coun-Bonneville, ties Shoshone, Clearwater and Franklin – use punchcard ballots, which Hurst said is typically the fastest method of counting votes. Punch card ballots fell out of favor after the 2000 election, presidential when improperly punched ballots rife with hanging, dented and pregnant chads caused trouble with vote counts in Florida. Idaho's small population means that election officials in the punch card counties can visually check that each ballot is properly punched, avoiding any debacles, said Hurst. Still, it's likely those counties will have to switch to a new method soon: Hurst said they're the only four left in the nation still using punch cards.

Support Candidates Who Support Born and Unborn

In response to Perri Gardner's letter to the editor published Oct. 23 (Perri is the Twin Falls chairman for Planned Parenthood of the Greater Northwest Board of Advocates):

You list the many services provided by Planned Parenthood, concluding with "as well as safe and legal abortions." It would have been more accurate if you had said, "safe for half the participants." If a baby dies as a result of an abortion, it can't be said that this is a safe procedure for the baby, can it? The inescapable reality of abortion is that someone always

Let's not mince words and try to downplay this fact. And, legally speaking, as a country we have said it's OK to do this. We have said that it's for the good of the mother. What we need to say is that the inconvenient, ill-timed, uncomfortable and un-asked-for pregnancies make it OK to kill. "Kill" is an ugly, hot button word, a word that conjures up images of evil, heartless, malicious actions.

We read stories of mothers who kill their children by drowning, poisoning, etc., and we are horrified. Why as a nation aren't we equally horrified at the numbers of legal abortions provided by licensed medical professionals? We are concerned about the civil rights of our citizens, and yet we conveniently forget that the unborn have the same rights.

They don't magically become humans when we can see them and hold them. They are humans from the moment of conception, and they are completely helpless and innocent. Who wills peak up for their rights and make laws to protect

When considering voting for candidates who support women, please take note of whether these candidates support all women, the born and the unborn.

Vote No on Propositions 1, 2 and 3

I would like to share my thoughts about the Luna laws and the reason I am going to vote "no" on the educational propositions. I am a retired educator and, during my career, I was not a member of the teacher's union.

I went to work each day looking forward to the challenges that were awaiting me at school. I never went into teaching to get monetarily rich, but I did receive other incentives that were even more rewarding than money. I never joined the teacher's union because I could not see how it would make me a better teacher. I still hold these views and have never second guessed my decision to become a teacher.

Now I see Mr. Luna has created laws that are threatening the teaching profession. We are losing great teachers to other states and to other more profitable professions. This shameful situation is brought about in order for Mr. Luna to finance these frivolous laws. Not only do these laws create conflicts between school boards, administrations and teachers, they make it impossible to fund the most basic foundations of education. Education has room for common sense reform, but Mr. Luna did not use the experience of proven educators or a proper timeline to impose these reforms. I feel this is exactly what our current president has done when he implemented the National Health Care Law.

Educators are allowed tenure after proving themselves by teaching in the school district for three years. It is very obvious, with proper evaluation, if a teacher is capable of this challenging profession after a few years of teaching. The failure to properly evaluate a teacher in those first three years is an administration or school board failure, and they should be made accountable.

Please vote "no" on Propositions 1, 2 and 3. LOYD GAREY

Laird Stone Has Passion for Supporting Quality Education

I agree with the Times-News' endorsement of Laird Stone for College of Southern Idaho trustee. He is the best choice for Position 3 on the CSI Board of Trustees.

I have known Laird for several years, both professionally and socially. This is not another "feather in his cap"; rather, he has a real passion for education and for supporting those seeking a quality education. Laird has a deep commitment to service in his community and would come to the board with an open mind to positive change without any hidden agendas. He is running because he has a true desire to use the experience from his time on the State Board of Education and what he has learned from CSI's students and faculty to help ensure CSI continues its role as an accessible, outstanding community college.

I ask that everyone join me in voting for Laird Stone for CSI Trustee.

Protect Economic Assets of Hunting, Trapping in Idaho

Wolves slated for relocation to Idaho were captured with foot-hold traps. If they had sustained trap-related injuries, they couldn't have been released to run amok in the Idaho wilderness. Too many letters to editors cite trapping as a reason to vote no against Ironically, some of those letter writers had a direct influence on bringing wolves to Idaho, so they endorsed trapping then and condemn it now. The fact is Idaho's wolf population is burgeoning. One doesn't have to go very far to read stories about wolves harming people. Two recent stories describe wolf predation on children: "Wolf Kills Iraqi Boy" and "Wolves Kill Kid in Gulbarga Village" (online). Wikipedia lists more than 4,000 wolf attacks, with 20 happening recently, not including the two children mentioned above. I have read several terrifying accounts of Idahoans being trapped on their property by wolves or finding wolf tracks on top of the kid's tracks as they walked to the bus stop. It's only a matter of time before an Idaho child is carried off by a wolf.

The Idaho Department of Fish and Game states that hunting and trapping are the preferred methods to managing Idaho's predators. If HJR002aa doesn't pass, several groups will gang up on trapping and work very hard to eliminate it. Hunting will fall next. That means that government aerial gunners and poison carcasses will be used to control wolves at taxpayers' expense. The alternative is to protect the private, economic assets of hunting and trapping in Idaho.

Vote "ves" on HJR002aa. TIM CONANT Dietrich

(Editor's note: Tim Conant is the director of the Idaho Trappers Association.)

It's Not Union Bosses That Decimated Idaho Education

In 1995, I returned to Idaho to become superintendent of the Hansen School District. Three years later, I felt unable to improve a teacher's educational delivery to the Hansen students. I informed the teacher that her contract would not be renewed. A short time later, the teacher and her Idaho Educational Association representative were standing in my office. After I presented my concerns and documentation of events, the representative thanked me for my time and left. That was it! The union representative was concerned with the teacher's due process, not that the district retained a substandard employee. We released the teacher and nothing else was said nor did any retaliation occur.

Since 1995, there has always been an IEA presence at Hansen. I am not sure how the board of trustees felt; my belief was that as long as I was honest and up front, the union was not the adversary. In my 17 years as superintendent of Hansen, our IEA members were supportive and amiable. It was the union leadership that prevented hostilities during the salary cuts in 2009 by accepting the administration was indeed providing all the state would allow.

It appears to me that Proposition 1, 2 and 3 supporters would like Idaho voters to believe that a vote against Students Come First is a vote for union thugs to control Idaho. I would like Idahoans to look at how the three referendums actually affect education.

We have already lost instruction in the classroom (1,884 teachers this year), increased class size and will increase pay to school districts that do well on standardized tests. It has not been the union bosses that decimated Idaho education.

Three other points of interest: Why does the State Department of Education end each email with a threat about sharing any information? (I thought we were supposed to be transparent.) Why, when the "one-on-one devices" were to be delivered more than a year ago that they are just a month or two late? Why would the identity of a contributor to Students Come First need to be kept a secret?

Lee Heider Takes Time To Listen

I have had the pleasure over the last two years to get to know Sen. Heider. When I call him, he will take the time to sit down with me to discuss my concerns.

I have expressed how the proposed Medicaid rule changes will affect the most vulnerable people in our community, the disabled. I first met Sen. Heider during the 2011 legislative session. He made time on a Sunday to sit down with me and discuss the proposed Medicaid cuts and how they will affect the population that I work with. Sen. Heider sits on the Health and Welfare Committee and, instead of following the status quo, he has reached out to the people who will be affected by most of these cuts. Sen. Heider asked for their help in understanding how the law will affect people with disabilities, and he listened to the input that we, as a community, have given him.

Sen. Heider has met with the disabled, their families, their providers and the Consortium for Idahoans with Disabilities. Meeting with each diverse group has helped him to better understand how the budget cuts have negatively affected their lives. In the 2012 legislation, Sen. Heider helped to reinstate major rule changes that Health and Welfare passed in the 2011 legislation. The reinstating of these changes has given services back to our disabled.

I am writing this letter to inform the voters of Twin Falls that Sen. Heider has been very open to discussing the issues concerning the citizens of Idaho. I know that he will continue to take the time to listen to the people who elected him. As an independent voter, I will be casting my vote for Sen. Heider. I urge anyone who wants a legislator that makes time to listen to their concerns to vote for him on Nov. 6. Sen. Heider is a true elective representative!

Many Charter School Parents Support Props. 1, 2

During the legislative session, I wrote a letter to the editor in support of the Students Come First legislation. As one of the founders of two Idaho public charter schools, my commitment to this effort to move public education forward is as strong as ever. Many of the parents of the students in my charter school(s) are supportive of Props 1 and 2. Some have questions about Prop 3 because of concerns that students would abuse the devices.

We will do all we can to encourage responsible behavior, but it is no different than the safeguards we try to put in place regarding our expensive textbooks. With parental support, we can teach this important principle of good citizenship regarding respect for property. I would recommend the following site by Ben Ysursa, Idaho's Secretary of State:

http://www.sos.idaho.gov/elect/inits/ 2012/Prop3_statements.htm.

The site gives arguments for and against the propositions. I especially like the section of Prop 3 which, according to the site, provides \dots "For the first time, high school juniors and seniors can earn up to 36 dual college or professional technical credits at no cost to the student or their families."

As a parent, I encouraged my own children to use the College of Southern Idaho's excellent Northside Center in Gooding during high school. One of my sons graduated with 23 CSI credits, which transferred to his chosen university without question. At that time, as a high school student, he received a reduced tuition rate at CSI, but it was not without cost.

I am in full support of this appropriate use of my tax dollars, even though my own children are all grown. Anything we can do to encourage Idaho's children to "Go On" to college is an important step in the right direction.

Vote Armand Eckert for CSI Board Position 2

With a background of having served on our local school board for 12 years, there are two very important aspects that time and again come into play; namely, a love for education and the ability to crunch numbers to keep the system solvent. There is no one on any list of candidates for the positions available for the College of Southern Idaho Board of Directors more qualified than Armand Eckert. If one were to take the time and review his qualifications as a college graduate in accounting with tremendous experience in auditing, you are going to be impressed by his ability to review situations and take necessary steps to keep the institution on an even keel.

In the same review of Armand's history involving education, you will find years upon years of very competent service both on a local (Buhl) level and on the Idaho State boards he has served on; 15 years on the Buhl School Board, serving as chairman of the board for seven of those years. He has many earned accomplishments from his service to all of Idaho and a couple of outstanding accomplishments was his involvement in ARTEC (Advanced Regional Technical Education) and the ARTEC Charter School. His commitment to education in southern Idaho and the entire state has been commendable, and his service has been keenly appreciated by so many.

Your vote for Armand Eckert for Position 2 for the CSI Board of Trustees will be one vote you will be proud of and will continue to be proud of as his service to the community continues.

Stephen Hartgen listens to his constituents.

In my experience, Rep. Hartgen's availability to his constituents is his best quality. I can call or email him anytime and he will take the time to respond with his view as well as providing other resources for me to research. He invests himself in being informed about what is going on in local communities and is tireless in attending meetings and talking with people, so he actually knows what local people think and want. I believe he takes what he hears back to the Legislature and accurately represents the people of Magic Valley as if we were all in the room with him. He is fiscally conservative and seeks the most responsible solution for Idaho's budget challenges.

Please join me in voting for Stephen Hartgen on

Heider Proved Experience, Character Matter

As Election Day nears, I would like to share some of my experiences and feelings about Sen. Heider.

Over the past 20 years, I have had the unique opportunity to witness Sen. Heider in many different capacities. I have seen him as both a husband and father - two titles I know he is most proud of and should be. I have seen him working with the youth, both in community service projects and in his many volunteer hours as a Scout leader. I have seen him in business and in giving of his time and labor to be of assistance to many in need. I have also seen him in government, having served with him on the Twin Falls City Council. In every one of these situations, I have been a witness to a man who has spent his life in the service of others. I know him to be trustworthy, hard-working and insightful. While on the City Council, I saw him at his best when complex, difficult decisions had to be made. There was the recession, an unfunded federal mandate to reduce the arsenic in our water, the balancing of a budget that needed to cover the infrastructure of a community that grows to 75,000 plus individuals a day on the revenues of its 40,000 citizens, not to mention growth concerns and public safety

All in all, Sen. Heider proved that experience and character matter. He is a tested leader, a man of conviction who knows how to be firm yet fair. He is observant, caring and understands the needs of our community. I hope you will ioin me in re-electing Sen. Heider to another term. Now more than ever, we need strong leadership at the state level that understands the needs of our community.

Vote Yes on Right To Hunt Amendment

In a 38-page scientific report, George Hurst sums up wild turkey predation:

"Predation has been documented (empirical evidence) to be the primary cause of nest (eggs) destruction, and poult and hen mortality." He states further that "predator management should be a part of a holistic (comprehensive, integrated) turkey management plan," and that "the most intensive (predator) reduction should take place during February, as close as possible to the beginning of the turkey nesting period (March)." That coincides perfectly with regulated trapping seasons in Idaho.

Here's one example why trapping is included in HJR002aa, the proposed amendment that will protect the rights to hunt, trap and fish under the Idaho constitution. Fish and Game has stated that it needs hunting and trapping to assist with proper wildlife management. Yet, groups who state that "Idaho wildlife should be managed by Fish and Game" urge voters to reject HJR002aa because it includes protection for trapping.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Hurst's studies only dealt with damage unchecked predator populations have on turkeys. There are hundreds more studies like George's that cite trapping as a necessary tool for managing wildlife. If we don't protect the right to trap in Idaho now, while HJR002aa is on the ballot, anti-trapping groups will see that Idaho loses that management tool, just as other states have. We can't allow that to happen in Idaho, especially with the expanding numbers of large predators that threaten wildlife populations, pets and people.

Please vote yes on HJR002aa, even if you don't hunt, trap or fish.

Heider Stands Up For What He Feels is Right

I am writing to ask you to support Sen. Lee Heider in the upcoming election.

The Twin Falls firefighters and firefighters across the state have had the opportunity to work with Sen. Heider over the past couple years. We have found him to be willing to listen to his constituents and open to discussing upcoming legislation and issues. As he should, he does not always tell you what you want to hear or vote the way you may want him to, but he stands up for what he feels is right for our state.

Sen. Heider is what we all should want in a state legislator - someone who listens to all sides of an issue and votes what he feels would benefit the state of Idaho as a whole.

I urge you to do what is right and cast your vote for Sen. Lee Heider. Thank

SEC Wants Nuke Developer's Assets Frozen

BOISE (AP) • Securities and Exchange Commission lawyers want a federal judge to again freeze assets of a would-be Idaho nuclear power plant developer, saying its founder hid use of the company's dwindling cash for a phony investment scheme.

Alternate Energy Holdings Inc. also confirmed Friday it's being investigated by the U.S. Department of Justice.

SEC lawyers told U.S. District Judge Edward Lodge this week AEHI Inc. Chief Executive Officer Don Gillispie engaged in a getrich quick scheme involving at least $2 million — without properly reporting the transaction.

In February 2011, Gillispie was ordered by Lodge to provide the SEC with monthly documentation of AEHI expenditures exceeding $2,500, in exchange for lifting a previous freeze on the company's money.

But Gillispie said nothing after he moved $2 million into a bank account of a Nevada law firm in May as part of AEHI's plan to participate in a "trading program" involving a New Zealand bank designed to reap "tens of millions," the SEC lawyers wrote, contending that the purported investment was an obvious sham.

"No 'blocked account was available for any 'trading program' that would earn tens of millions of dollars," SEC lawyers wrote. "Yet, contrary to their respective obligations as a public reporting company, and as the CEO of that company, AEHI and Gillispie sought to conceal from shareholders, the public, and the commission the arrangements by which they dissipated and transferred the company's remaining assets."

The $2 million is now tied

Fisheries specialists retrieve Gila trout June 13 from a stream in the Gila National Forest in New Mexico.

THREATENED FISH RETURN TO SOUTHWEST WILDERNESS

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) • After a few miles of sloshing around in metal containers on the backs of mules, the first batch of Gila trout has been safely returned to wilderness streams in southwestern New Mexico.

The pack train will deliver another 3,000 of the federal protected fish deeper into the wilderness on Monday.

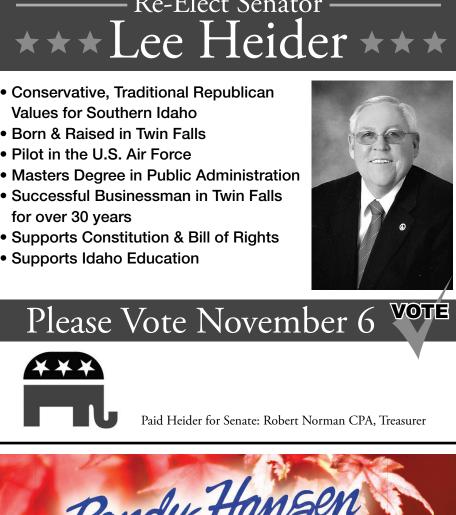

The work marks the successful ending of a rescue mission that started more than four months ago, when the largest wildfire in New Mexico's recorded history was bearing down on Gila National Forest. Among the concerns at the time was the potential flooding of the forest's streams — home to the trout - with ash and charred

The trout were scooped up and ferried via helicopter then trucked to a hatchery on the other end of the state for safe keeping.

Since the fire, wildlife managers have been monitoring conditions across the Gila to see when the trout could be brought back.

"In addition to being a very attractive fish, they have survived isolation, drought and now the largest wildfire in New Mexico history," said Christine Tincher, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Albuquerque.

CHURCH SPOTLIGHT

Mountain View Christian Center in Burley has about 1,200 members.

Mountain View Christian Center

Denomination: Assembly of God.

When is church services? We hold services at 9 and 11 a.m. Sunday and 7 to 8:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Congregation size: 1,200.

Who is the church's leadership?

The church's lead pastor is Jim Powell, who was raised in Richfield and educated at schools in Texas. Staff/women's pastor is Joy Powell, who was raised in Gooding and educated at schools in Texas; family life pastor is Dan Hendricks, raised in Burley and currently attending Northwest Assembly of God College extension in Idaho; and senior adult pastor is Steve Isaak. We're affiliated with the Assemblies of God, but by virtue of the sovereign structure we govern our church affairs through the leadership and executive board of directors selected by the church membership.

What are the church's core beliefs?

Among other things, we believe the Scriptures are inspired by God and declare His design and plan for mankind. We believe there is only one true God revealed in three persons: Father, Son, and Holy Spirit (commonly known as the Trinity). We believe in the deity of the Lord Jesus Christ, that as God's son Jesus was both human and divine. We believe though originally good, man willingly fell to sin, ushering evil and death - both physical and spiritual — into the world. We believe every person can have restored fellowship with God through "salvation" (trusting Christ, through faith and repentance, to be our personal Savior; one of four cardinal doctrines of the AG). We believe and practice two ordinances: Water baptism by immersion after repenting of one's sins and receiving Christ's gift of salvation; and Holy Communion (the Lord's Supper) as a symbolic remembrance of Christ's suffering and death for our salvation.

What's a typical service like?

We are a young, vibrant congregation of various religious cultures and backgrounds. With a professional audio-visual team our services are visually stimulating as well as informative. Our services begin with a full band and worship team that in-

A Discussion about Hell, Part 2

f you meet with a system of theology which magnifies man, flee from it as far as you can." — Charles Spurgeon

There are many who would prefer to not talk about Hell. Yet, the Bible makes no apologies when speaking of Hell and God gives loving warnings to all of mankind of this clear teaching in Scripture. Is it possible that eliminating the thinking of a literal Hell creates a system of theology that makes man the center of Scripture? A system of theology that tells God how to behave or what His love looks like is no longer a theology that worships a superior being.

Let's be clear, Hell is a sober reality. The finality of it should cause terror on the souls of men. The agony experienced is unrelenting. The caution from Scripture is to not try to avoid Hell on your own merit, you can't.

The apostle Paul tells the church in Corinth (2 Corinthians 13:5) to "test yourselves to see if you are in the faith; examine yourselves!"

This would be of utmost importance. If, after examining, one sees that he/she is not in the faith one should plead with God to save him/her. He can rescue! He does rescue! He does so for the sake of his glory and not for the glory of men. Would it be fair of God to send sinful men to Hell while not at the same time give men a chance to repent? I argue that it actually would be fair;

but God, full of mercy, puts his glory on display by calling all men, everywhere, to repent. This is a system of theology that magnifies God. Turn (repent) and run to Him immediately.

This kind, benevolent, work of God is a work of grace. May the church of the Lord Jesus Christ, the only begotten son of God, rise up and be heard as she displays the glory of God and not of man.

The very reality of Hell, as described in the Bible, places the glory of God on display as he both judges and saves unrighteous humanity.

CSI Secular Student Alliance to Show Film

TWIN FALLS • The College of Southern Idaho Secular Student Alliance will show the film,"Letting Go of God" by Julia Sweeney at 6 p.m. Thursday in the Fine Arts Recital Hall.

A former Saturday Night Live cast member, Sweeney is best remembered for her role as "Pat," the nasalvoiced, gender-mysterious character with perpetually sweaty palms. Her onewoman stage show, which is the basis for the film, chronicles Sweeney's journey from Catholicism to atheism. She discusses her struggle to find a religion that makes sense to her before finally coming to the conclusion that the universe doesn't require a deity to exist.

The SSA is hosting the film with permission directly from Sweeney in the hope that non-believers and secularists will be better understood. Admission is free and open to all.

The mission of the CSI Secular Student Alliance is to organize, unite, educate and serve the students and student communities that promote the ideals of scientific and critical inquiry, democracy, secularism and human-based ethics.

Five of the women gathered at the church Wednesday to talk with the Times-News about the book, its recipes and their cause.

"We've had yard sales to help the missionaries, a fudge sale," said contributor Laura Andrews. The book, she said, raises money for Bibles but also will be a keepsake for church members and a useful tool for the area's home cooks.

What's more, you don't have to be a master in the kitchen to enjoy it. The recipes are simple and perfect for the busy family, said Twin Falls chef Richard Putman.

"I've gone through the book and it's really great," he said. "Simplicity, it's really a popular thing right now."

The book's editor, Clara

Church member Faith Love said the book already has become a staple in her kitchen.

Though the women are excited about the book, they are most excited about its mission to raise funds for a gospel cause.

The Schildknechts plan to stay in Thailand and continue serving the people there, Charles said. Many people, he said, are accepting Christ into their lives but need the Good Book to better learn his word.

"The ladies of Cornerstone Baptist Church are a tremendous blessing to the Thai people and to us," he said. "We could not do the Lord's work here in Thailand without them. God is using them to help reach a land halfway around the world. We are greatly in their debt and we will never be able to repay them."

Charles said they plan to stay in Thailand for the rest of their lives. They hope to return to U.S., though, for about six months in 2014 before heading back to the foreign land.

The Schildknechts are two of 19 missionaries the Twin Falls church supports in the field, said pastor Bruce Carlson. The missionaries, he said, serve all over the world, from two to four years.

"We're really grateful for the ladies and the hard work they put into this," Carlson said. "We're really grateful they're raising money to send Bibles to our mission-

NYC Marathon Is Canceled Following Storm Damage

NEW YORK (AP) • The New York City Marathon was canceled Friday by Mayor Michael Bloomberg after mounting criticism that it was wrong to hold the race while the region is still recovering from Superstorm Sandy.

With people in stormravaged areas shivering without electricity and the death toll in New York City at more than 40, many residents recoiled at the prospect of police officers being assigned to protect Sunday's race.

An estimated 47,500 runners from around the world had been expected to take part in the 26.2-mile event before the storm hit on Monday. The race had been scheduled to start in Staten Island, one of the most devastated places. A few hours after Bloomberg insisted the race would be held, he reversed himself after top city officials lined up against him.

Bloomberg's decision came just a day after he appealed to the grit and resiliency of New Yorkers, saying "This city is a city where we have to go on." The nationally televised race that winds through the city's five boroughs and ends in Central Park has been held annually since 1970 - it was held in 2001, about two months after the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. The cancellation means there won't be another NYC Marathon until next

Obama, Romney Grind Toward Election Day

WASHINGTON (AP) • Mitt Romney's plan for victory boils down to this: Convince independent voters he'll change Washington, stoke Republican enthusiasm and avoid unforced errors. The Republican nominee's path to reaching the necessary 270 electoral votes cuts straight through Rust Belt states. He must stop President Barack Obama from sweeping Ohio, Iowa and Wisconsin — or win Democratic-tilting Pennsylvania, where he's making a last-ditch effort while prevailing in most other competitive states.

Obama's team argues that Romney is running a desperate campaign as he hunts for a state-by-state path toward the magic number of Electoral College votes.

Over the past few days, it's become clear that Romney is trying to build a winning path with or without Ohio's 18 electoral votes. Obama has had a slight but persistent edge in most polls. No Republican candidate has won the presidency without winning Ohio. Romney also is trying to fire up his base by running carefully targeted TV ads in key states. In northwestern Ohio, workingclass white voters were the target of TV and radio ads suggesting Chrysler is moving jobs to China at the expense of Ohio. The spots triggered withering criticism from state newspaper editorial boards, U.S. automakers and Obama's campaign, with Vice President Joe Biden calling the claim an "outrageous lie." In northern Virginia, he's airing an ad reassuring suburban women that he supports abortion under certain circumstances.

SANDY MAY FORCE EXTRA DAY OF VOTING IN NEW YORK

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) • New York state law allows for an extra day of voting if turnout is drastically suppressed because of a natural disaster like Superstorm Sandy. That could potentially postpone state, congressional and even presidential election results beyond Tuesday's Election Day.

State Board of Elections spokesman John Conklin confirms the law permits election commissioners to create a second day of voting if the turnout in any county is less than 25 percent of the total number of registered voters.

The commissioners, two Democrats and two Republicans, would make that decision after Election Day. Any second day would have to be scheduled within 20

It's never happened before.

Officials are checking polling sites now to make sure they can open Tuesday.

Typical turnout is about 60 percent in most areas.

BATTERED BY STORM, STATEN ISLAND FEELS FORGOTTEN

NEW YORK (AP) • Gazing at her bungalow, swept from its foundation and tossed across the street, Janice Clarkin wondered if help would ever come to this battered island off the coast of Manhattan.

"Do you see anybody here?" she asked, resignation etched on her face. "On the news, the mayor's congratulating the governor and the governor's congratulating the mayor. On what? People died."

Staten Island was devastated beyond recognition by Superstorm Sandy and suffered the highest death toll of all of New York City's boroughs, including two young brothers who were swept from their mother's arms by the swirling sea and drowned. Yet days after the waters receded, residents feel ignored and forgotten.

That sense of isolation is deeply rooted on Staten Island, a tight-knit community that has long felt cut off from the bright lights of Manhattan the city from which the island once tried to secede.

"It's always been that way. We're a forgotten little island," said Catherine Friscia, who stood with tear-filled eyes across the street from the Atlantic Ocean in front of homes filled with water and where the air smelled like garbage and rotting fish. "Nobody pays attention to any of us over here. Nobody."

In the shadow of the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge, dazed survivors roamed Staten Island's sand-covered streets this week amid ruined bungalows sagging under the weight of water that rose to the rooftops. Their contents lay flung in the street: mudsoaked couches, stuffed animals and mattresses formed towering piles of wreckage. Boats were tossed like toys into roadways. Aside from a few fire trucks scattered along the shore, there were no emergency or relief workers in sight. Residents washed their muddy hands with bottled water and handed out sandwiches to neighbors as they sifted through the soggy wreckage of their homes, searching for anything that could be salvaged. Spray-pointed on the plywood that covered the first floor of one flooded home were the words: CALLME."

Sticking together in the aftermath of the storm has kept Staten Islanders who lost everything from completely falling apart. Self-reliance is in their blood just as the island's very geography lends itself to a feeling of isolation from the mainland: the only way to get on or off is by car, bus or ferry.

After the storm, residents who had evacuated had to wait until Wednesday to return, when the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge finally reopened to the public. Most of the deaths were clustered in beachfront neighborhoods exposed to the Atlantic Ocean along the island's southeastern shore, an area of cinderblock bungalows and condominiums. Many of these homes were built decades ago originally as summer cottages — and were not constructed to withstand the power of a major storm.

The storm has reopened old frictions among local officials who maintain Staten Island's infrastructure remains inadequate and that it has little sway on City Council compared to the other, bigger boroughs. In 1997, Staten Islanders voted in favor of seceding from New York City and incorporating on its own, buoyed by a belief that the borough pays more in taxes than it receives in return and that it's typically put last on the list for city services.

Staten Island Borough President James Molinaro suggested this week that people should not donate money to the American Red Cross because that relief agency had neglected his borough. "We have hundreds of people in shelters throughout Staten Island," he said. "Many of them, when the shelters close, have nowhere to go because their homes are destroyed. These are not homeless people. They're homeless now."

Government Officials Counter Reports on Benghazi Attack

BY KEN DILANIAN Tribune Washington Bureau

questions remain about what exactly happened before, during and after the incident that led to the deaths of the U.S. ambassador and three other Americans, including whether warnings went unheeded, why facilities weren't better secured and why officials initially linked the attack to a street protest that never happened.

The new account of CIA actions, for example, shows that the agency's security officers did not appear to have the heavy weapons they needed to repel the attack, and it shows how deeply the U.S. was relying on Libyan security forces that melted away. Congress and a State Department accountability review board are investigating why the security was so inadequate.

In Washington, the pursuit of answers has been complicated by a fog of partisan-driven misinformation that is notable even by election-year standards. With just days to go before the election, legitimate criticism over the incident has become entangled with alleged conspiracy theories.

On the issue of a military response, the Obama administration got an unusual boost Friday by former George W.

Bush administration Deputy Defense Secretary Paul Wolfowitz, who wrote in a blog post that "the U.S. did almost everything possible to protect our people once the attacks had started, though not in advance.... Decision makers in Washington appear to have been leaning forward, as they should have been. The military's most capable rescue force, based on the East Coast, was deployed immediately (something that is very rarely done), but - given the distances involved - arrived at Sigonella only after the crisis was over." Sigonella is the site of a U.S. military installation in Sicily.

But Wolfowitz was critical of the administration's handling of the incident in other respects, including what he said were its "persistent misleading comments about the motives of the attackers" and the "failure to do more in advance to respond to the evidence — including pleas by Ambassador (J. Christopher) Stevens himself — to provide better security for U.S. facilities in Benghazi or for the Embassy in Tripoli," the Libyan capital. And The Wall Street Journal raised new questions Friday about the "confused" security arrangements in Benghazi.

Defense Secretary Leon E. Panetta "ordered all appropriate forces to respond to the unfolding events in Benghazi, but the attack was over before those forces could be employed," said George Little, the Pentagon spokesman.

Bank Account Frozen for Jerusalem's Church of the Holy Sepulchre

JERUSALEM (AP) • A clergyman from the church built on the site where Jesus Christ is said to have been crucified said Friday that its bank account has been frozen as the result of a longstanding dispute with an Israeli water company.

Greek Orthodox priest Isidoros Fakitsas said that the move has impaired the Church of the Holy Sepulchre to pay bills and salaries.

As a result, the church is considering closing for a day in protest, shutting the doors to one of Christianity's most popular pilgrimage sites.

The account was blocked two weeks ago and lawyers were hired to address the matter in court, Fakitsas said. He insisted the church will be able to function despite the blocked bank account and that if matters become too difficult, it will try and find an alternative, such as opening a new bank account.

The church for decades was exempt by the different leaderships which ruled over Jerusalem's Old City from paying water bills until the Israeli water company began pressing it to pay up a few vears ago.

Fakitsas, the superior of the Greek Orthodox church, said an agreement was reached after months of negotiations. Under the deal, various denominations in the church would pay their monthly bill. A debt of some 9 million shekels was to be forgotten, he said.

But to the surprise of the church elders, its account was blocked two weeks ago, making it impossible to pay stipends of some 500 priests and monks, 2,000 teachers and the running costs of over 30 Christian schools that the church runs in the Palestinian territories and Jordan, church spokesman Issa Musleh said.

The water company, which could not immediately be reached for comment, demands the church pay for its water - charges from which it has been exempt for decades.

The Israeli Tourism Ministry said the issue is between the Church and the Jerusalem municipality. But because of the great importance of the site, the ministry is now trying to mediate between the two sides and hopes the issue will be resolved quickly.

CORPS DIRECTOR VAUGHN DIES AT 92

PHOENIX (AP) - Jack Hood Vaughn, whose long list of jobs included serving as director of the Peace Corps, U.S. ambassador to Panama and Colombia, as well as stints for the federal government across Latin America. has died. He was 92.

Vaughn's wife, Margaret, says he was diagnosed with an aggressive form of cancer a few weeks ago and died Monday at his home in Tucson, Ariz. She says the three-time Golden Gloves champion, who served with the Marines in World War II and once lunched with Che Guevara, was in great health toward the end of his life. She says nothing ailed him until his cancer diagnosis.

Vaughn held many jobs throughout his life but is best known for serving as the Peace Corps' second director from 1966 to 1969, during which volunteer rose to historic numbers.

Belarus Buries 110 Napoleonic Soldiers

MINSK, Belarus (AP) • Belarus held a burial ceremony Friday for 110 Napoleonic soldiers who died in a major battle in 1812 against the Russian army.

Tens of thousands of French troops died in November 1812 when the Russians attacked French emperor Napoleon Bonaparte's army as it fled across the Berezina River on a retreat from Moscow. The devastating defeat eventually led to the 1814 Russian takeover of Paris and Bonaparte's exile. Since then, the word "Berezina" means "a complete disaster" in French.

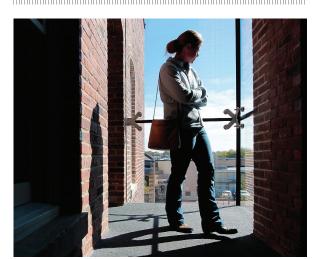

The remains were excavated by a Belarusian Defense Ministry unit that searches for soldiers' remains. They were buried Friday at a cemetery in the village of Studenka, 60 miles east of the capital of Minsk, in a ceremony attended by French Ambassador Michel Raineri.

Belarusian authorities in previous years have buried hundreds of remains of Napoleonic soldiers found in the same area.

MUSEUM TO OPEN THE BALCONY WHERE DR. KING WAS KILLED

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) • The National Civil Rights Museum in Memphis is closing for a year for renovations, but its biggest attraction is about to be accessible to the public for the first time.

The museum was built around the old Lorraine Motel, where Martin Luther King Jr. was staying when he was assassinated in 1968. Until now, visitors have been able to see the balcony where King was shot but not stand on it.

The Commercial Appeal (http://bit.ly/UmwrCR) reports the museum's main building will close after Monday. Officials hope to open the balcony to the public on Nov. 19, and they are installing a lift for disabled visitors.

A museum annex that includes the boardinghouse from which James Earl Ray shot at King also will be open during the renovation.

The main building is scheduled to reopen in early 2014. It will have several new exhibits, including a novel way of looking at civil rights history.

Visitors will be able to approach a U.S. map, touch a state on a screen and see how desegregation in that state was affected after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in the landmark 1954 Brown v. Board of Education case. The ruling made separate-butequal schools for blacks and whites unconstitutional.

Museum president Beverly Robertson said about $23 million of the renovation costs has been raised so far, including $5 million from the Hyde Family Foundations, $4.95 million from the state, $2.25 million from FedEx and $1 million each from Ford Motor Company Fund, the city of Memphis and other entities.

CALLS FOR PROTESTS IGNORED AS BAHAMAS HONORS SIDNEY POITIER

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) • A bridge in the Bahamas

was renamed Friday to honor Oscar-winning actor Sidney Poitier, with no sign of any protests called for by an opposition politician.

Hundreds of spectators cheered as Poitier and Prime Minister Perry Christie arrived for the rechristening of the Paradise Island Bridge as part of the 40th anniversary celebration of Bahamian Independence.

The bridge, the largest in the island chain east of Florida, will now be known as the Sir Sidney Poitier Bridge. Poitier spent much of his childhood in the Bahamas, mostly on sparsely populated Cat Island, and he has served as a Bahamian ambassador to Japan and UN-ESCO. In a dedication speech, Christie noted his philanthropy in the Bahamas and his "awe-inspiring," life story.

"You played against the stereotype, and in doing so, you broke it," the prime minister said. "Through your portraits in one film after another, you gave personal witness to the humanity, the dignity, the pride, and the self-respect of the black man."

There had been some grumbling in the weeks since the government announced its plan to rename the bridge, with critics questioning whether Poitier had done enough in the country to warrant the honor. Celi Moss, an opposition candidate for parliament, and others had called for protests at the rechristening ceremony. But no opponents showed up and the event went off without incident.

How can I know...how can I compare the quality of the different nursing homes in my area? It is such a difficult and confusing decision.

A. Let us introduce you to Nursing Home Compare; a web-based tool that rates each Medicare and Medicaid certified nursing home in the country. To find it, go to Medicare.gov. Click on the "Resource Locator Tab", and then click on "Nursing Home

Every nursing home in the nation must meet over 180 regulatory standards of care that are designed to protect nursing home residents. These standards cover a wide range of topics, from proper management of medications, the care of residents and the processes used to give that care, how the staff and residents interact, protecting residents form inadequate care, the safe storage and preparation of food, to the general nursing home environment overall. Each State employs a health inspection team that performs in-depth inspections, called "surveys" and rates and ensures compliance with these standards of care. "Nursing Home Compare" converts the State's findings into a five star rating program. A "5" given for those facilities that are much above average in their provision of care, and a score of "1" given for those facilities that are much below average. We encourage you to access this tool and compare the scores of the nursing homes in the Magic Valley area. This tool can be a great resource in this difficult time.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

"O day and night, but this is wondrous strange!" – William Shakespeare

The intrafinesse, one of the more obscure bridge plays, comes in all shapes and sizes. Often the problem is simply determining whether to go for the play, or to rely on something else.

Here, at matchpoints, Kit Woolsey as South reached four no-trump. On a heart lead, declarer required the clubs to lie in a very specific fashion in order for them to produce three tricks. He needed the doubleton 10 sitting over him or to for East to hold a doubleton king-queen or bare honor.

However, the key to the hand is to avoid committing yourself at once, but to win the heart ace and take two top diamonds, at which point you find East with shortage. On that basis you should play West for short clubs, namely the club Q-10 or K-10. What you do is lead up to the club jack, varying your play according to what West does. If (as happened at the table) he puts up his high honor and clears the hearts, go to dummy in diamonds and play the club jack to squash the 10. When the cards lay exactly as Woolsey required them to do, he racked up plus 430 for a fine result, since the heart sacrifice costs only 300.

West could have left declarer with work to do had he put in the club 10 on the first round of the suit. Then Woolsey would have had to decide whether West had a singleton 10, 10-x, or his actual holding.

ANSWER: Over your partner's fourth-suit-forcing bid, you have to choose the least misdescriptive call available. You could rebid diamonds, raise hearts, or introduce no-trump. The last option is least attractive, and raising hearts sounds like threecard support, so maybe you have to repeat your diamonds and hope for the best.

IF NOVEMBER 3 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: During the next four weeks, you could intuitively make the right choice because just when you need some advice or help someone will offer you a hand. Take good care of your health and get plenty of rest as the next six weeks could be exceedingly busy and require much resilience. Start nothing new, but comply with rules and work diligently to meet obligations. Late March is the best time to make key decisions about a relationship, meet the person of your dreams or interview for a new position. Next March and April could present a crucial turning point when you can shine in public and be successful making much needed changes.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Take pride in owning tasteful possessions. Be content with what you have already earned and collected throughout the years. Be gracious when a gift, favor or assistance is offered by a loved one.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Downshift to low gear. Those in close connection will be less judgmental and more likely to unwind if you slow down the pace. You are more attractive than usual, so may inadvertently arouse iealousv.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Don't pass up a party or any other opportunity to dress up and mingle in a lighthearted venue. Helpful new connections could widen your scope of influence, but don't pursue a new romance now. CANCER (June 21-July 22): Something new isn't for you. It is perhaps best to stick to old friends and tried-and-true companions this weekend. A fleeting urge to spend too much, too quickly, too passionately could empty your wallet. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22):

Search for high standards. Daylight saving time ends early tomorrow and standard time returns, so be sure to turn your clocks back one hour. It is a good night to pursue solitary pleasures or hang out with friends or family.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Relax. You won't get harmony when everybody sings the same note. You can't expect everyone to be exactly the same – and if you try to fit a square peg in a round hole, you know what will happen. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): There is a buzz around the hive. Frequent interruptions and sudden changes in plan might distract you from the tranquil weekend. Exciting ideas are in the air and the phone may be ringing off the hook. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You are a brilliant problem solver when left free to make decisions. Complete tasks that seemed daunting earlier this week by using burning drive and determination. Clear the decks for a new project. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Liberate yourself from self-imposed restraints by practicing what you preach. A healthy attitude toward possessions may free you from poor habits. Throw unneeded items out or give them away.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If you are not leaning, no one will let you down. Your independence in the face of pressure to comply might make you seem stubborn to others, but provides you with more options in the long run.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Those who are innovative and inventive receive the most applause. Meditation will reveal who is true blue in your life. Remember to adjust your clocks, as daylight savings time ends this weekend.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Even in your private life, it will pay to perform like the consummate professional. Fulfill promises and obligations. Partners stir up creative juices by offering insights, forcing you to examine facts.

was sacrificed in the experiment. In 1960, the Meredith Willson musical "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" opened on Broadway with

Tammy Grimes in the title role. In 1961, Burmese diplomat U Thant was appointed acting U.N. Secretary-General following the death of Dag Hammarskjold President John F. Kennedy established the U.S. Agency for International Development. In 1964, President Lyndon B. Johnson soundly defeated Republican Barry Goldwater to win a White House term in his own right.

In 1970, Salvador Allende was inaugurated as president of Chile. In 1979, five Communist Workers Party members were killed in a clash with heavily armed Ku Klux Klansmen and neo-Nazis

during an anti-Klan protest in Greensboro, N.C.

In 1986, the Iran-Contra affair began to come to light as Ash-Shiraa, a pro-Syrian Lebanese magazine, first broke the story of U.S. arms sales to Iran. Ten years ago: A CIA

Predator drone fired a missile at a car in Yemen, killing al-Qaida's top operative in that country (Qaed Salim Sinan al-Harethi). Boston Marathon champion Rodgers Rop of Kenya won the New York City Marathon in 2:08:07. Joyce Chepchumba of Kenya finished in 2:25:56 to capture the women's title. Actor Jonathan Harris died in En-state of emergency in Pakistan. United Auto Workers agreed to a tentative contract with Ford Motor Co. Two astronauts conducted a successful spacewalk to save a ripped solar wing on the space station.

Bruins Fall Short in Quarterfinals

Twin Falls season ends with 36-7 loss to

Middleton in playoffs. BY JOHN WUSTROW

Idaho Press-Tribune

MIDDLETON • A Cade Robinson blocked punt gave Twin Falls momentum late in the third quarter Friday as the Bruins attempted to come from behind.

Three straight sacks took away any momentum they had from that. The Middleton Vikings' double-wing offense didn't do much to help the Bruins' chances, either, as the Vikings took a 36-7 win in the 4A state quarterfinals at Middleton High.

"It hurts right now," Twin Falls coach Allyn Reynolds said. "We had expectations for these group of guys and I told them, we didn't meet them."

Twin Falls, which made the playoffs by beating Jerome on Monday in a Kansas City playoff, ends its season with a 5-5 record.

The Middleton offense gave the Bruins' defense fits from the very start, as the Vikings took six and a half minutes off the clock on the opening drive, scoring on a two-yard run by Victor Dias.

After that, Middleton took advantage of the Bruins' mistake and slowly built a lead. A blocked punt by the Vikings set up a one-

Idaho State Suspends Receiver, Said Coach Pushed Him

ASSOCIATED PRESS

POCATELLO • Idaho State coach Mike Kramer has suspended a player who complained Kramer pushed him to the ground during practice on Oct. 3.

Idaho State officials confirmed Thursday that Kramer suspended wide receiver Derek Graves for violating team rules.

Graves told ESPN he was suspended indefinitely for being late for practice. His attorney, Donald Jackson, said he considers the suspension to be retaliation by Kramer for Graves' pursuit of criminal charges. He also said his client hasn't been medically cleared to practice after suffering a neck injury when he was pushed.

Idaho State suspended Kramer for last weekend's game at Montana for violating the university's conduct policy.

The Idaho State Journal reports school officials say it will be up to Kramer whether Graves is allowed back on the team.

The College of Southern Idaho volleyball team didn't make it easy on itself, but the Golden Eagles earned back-to-back trips to the national tournament for the first time since 2003 $\,$ with a 25-17, 22-25, 25-16, 25-18 win over Snow College on Friday night in the Region 18 Tournament semifinals.

"It's intense," said CSI right-side hitter Keani Passi, who was named the conference's player of the year before the match. "This was the big goal for us, and now we want to win the region championship. That's for pride and for seeding."

CSI plays North Idaho this afternoon for the region title in a rematch of last season's championship won by the Golden Eagles in Coeur d'Alene. North Idaho beat Salt Lake in four sets in the early semifinal. Both teams have qualified for the NJCAA Division I Tournament in two weeks in West Plains.

Against Snow, the Golden Eagles (28-1) started out but labored quickly through the second set, and the two teams went into intermission tied at a set apiece.

"Our emotion just let down," said right-side Liene Mellupe. "Once we started blocking them, that got our emotions back up. When you block them and the ball goes straight to the floor, that's the best thing you can get (emotionally)."

Mellupe was an allaround force, with 13 kills, a match-high 15 digs and a hand in six of CSI's 13 blocks. Passi had 20 kills and three block assists, while Kaylee Holmstead anchored eight of the team's blocks.

CSI won its 24th straight match, and went beyond three sets for only the seventh time this season. The Golden Eagles will look to make it 25 in a row against their in-state rivals, whom they swept twice this sea-

"It's going to be a tough game, and it won't be easy," Passi said. "But we're coming to win; we want that region title, it's a big goal of ours."

Gooding Reaches Semis

TIMES-NEWS

GOODING • It wasn't easy, but Gooding has earned a state trophy.

The Senators improved to 10-0 on the season, edging Teton 27-15 Friday in the 3A quarterfinals.

Gooding trailed 9-6 at the break after running only 11 plays in the first half as Teton controlled the game.

"We had to stop the run in the second half," said Gooding coach Cameron Andersen. "The guys came out and played very physical in the second half and played with a lot of heart."

Gooding scoring came from several different players. Torin Brunson gained over 200 yards rushing and scored on a 70-yard run. Josh Finley completed a 79yard pass to Kevin Arkoosh and ran for a score and Josh Faulkner connected with Wyatt Williams on a 44yard pass play.

Gooding will play Shelley in the semifinals next week.

DIETRICH 70, CASTLEFORD 22

DIETRICH • For Dietrich coach Doug Astle, one of the main keys to the win over the Wolves was that Cayden Power, Eddy Alvarado and Austin Fenstermaker dominated both sides of the line of scrimmage. It also didn't hurt that Dietrich had 442 total yards on offense while holding Castleford to 200 yards (134 rushing yards and 70 passing).

Dietrich junior running back Hazen Weber had the majority of the 366 total rushing yards, gaining 274 yards on 23 carries and six touchdowns. Rashon Norman also had a good offensive showing with two rushing scores as did junior quarterback Cooper Astle who completed 7-of-10 passes for 76 yards.

Ty Zimmers led the Wolves (7-3) scoring two touchdowns with runs of 37 and 62 yards.

achievement after struggling through two straight losing seasons as sophomores and juniors.

"It's awesome. It's a good feeling," said Anderson, who passed for 58 yards and a touchdown, plus rushed for 95 and two TDs. "To have the chance to play in a college stadium, we had a blast... Just playing in this atmosphere is sweet."

Senior running back Emmet Boden ran for a game-high 180 yards and four touchdowns.

Raft River (5-5) gained 443 yards of total offense behind an undersized, but gritty, offensive line. The Trojans' two guards Dallas Teeter and Kendal Gilbert – are 5 feet 8 inches tall and 150 pounds. Center Carter Spencer is 6 feet 2 inches and 165 ponds. All three are juniors and benefit from pulling, good angles and kickout blocks.

"Our scheme, I don't feel it's real complicated, but we do a lot of movement," said first-year head coach Brian Poole. "We don't ask them very often to line up and blow a guy off the ball because we know that's just not (possible). They've had a great attitude and have gotten better as the year has gone on."

By the time Raft River had jumped out to a 20-0 lead, Challis had minus - 2 yards of offense.

"That was our game plan. These last few games we've been struggling getting out of the gate," Anderson said.

The Trojan defense, led by the stellar play of sophomore linebacker Wil Holtman, limited Challis (5-5) to 40 yards rushing. Raft River led 40-6 at halftime, with the Vikings' scoring on a trick play.

Raft River will face Butte County next week.

Skyview junior quarterback Anthony Marin completed 11 of 18 passes for 179 yards and four touchdowns.

"We watched a lot of film this week, we needed this win," Marin said. "They totally changed their defense up, which I and our offensive coordinator noticed at the beginning of the game. We noticed they switched their defense up and we took advantage of it."

While Marin was precise through the air, junior running back Jaxon Prvor controlled things on the ground, rushing for 215 yards on 30 carries.

Minico forced Skyview to punt on its first two possessions. But on the second punt, the ball touched a Minico player and the Hawks recovered on the Spartan 3-yard line. Four plays later, Skyview was up 7-0 after Marin's 6-yard TD pass to Lane Robbins.

"That (muffed punt) was the biggest (momentum shift)," Marin said. "When that happened, we said we needed to stamp it and get the first touchdown. We did, then we just went off from there."

Marin added a 64-yard bomb to Kacy Bonds to put Skyview ahead 14-0 at halftime.

Minico still couldn't gain any offensive rhythm in the second half.

"They have great team speed and were able to get off our blocks and made some exceptional plays," said Perrigot. "Their linebackers were flying around. Nobody has done that to us all year. We felt pretty good about our offense coming into tonight, but we hadn't seen speed like that in our conference."

Meanwhile, Marin hit Bonds again for a 38-yard touchdown in the third quarter, and then stuck the dagger with 8:48 to play on a 13-yard TD to tight end Walker Ray. "It was just one little error that would get us caught. Sometimes it's the little things, and that's what it was tonight," said Minico senior Jordan Browning. The Spartans scored two late passing touchdowns, a 16-yarder from Shay Chandler to Matt Harper, and then a 48-yard strike to Browning.

"It's been one of the greatest things I've ever done in my life," Browning said of playing football for Minico. "I'd do it again in a heartbeat. I think anyone would. I never want to have a different team. We're all brothers."

CSI Men, Women Lose

TIMES-NEWS

The No. 7 College of Southern Idaho men's basketball team fell to 1-1 on this season, losing to Central Arizona College 75-51 Friday night in Coolidge, Ariz.

The Golden Eagles had five assists and 20 turnovers, and just one player in double figures, Billy Reader with 13. But it was the defensive play, or lack thereof, that got head coach Steve Gosar's goat.

"I didn't see much to be optimistic about tonight," Gosar told 102.9 FM. "I was thoroughly disappointed with how we had no leadership and we broke down into doing things considerably outside of our range. We tried to make hero plays on both sides of the court. I shouldn't have to convince them to play hard. I can't understand why you'd do anything less. There is no magic dust I can sprinkle on these guys to encourage them to grow some heart and play hard."

The CSI women lost 68-53 to Casper College Friday night in Casper, Wyo.

Post Sarah Viehweg had 13 points and 17 rebounds, while point guard Adriana Dent added eight points and five rebounds.

continual "Casper's pressure on our guards was a key factor in tonight's game," head coach Randy Rogers said. "I thought our kids' effort was good throughout the game, we just got down early and tried to battle back the whole game?

"We have been taught to catch it at its highest point and I had good blocking downfield," said Berndt, who finished with three touchdowns and just over 100 yards receiving. "We just need to keep it going, keep our foot on the gas."

The pace slowed in the second half. Late in the third quarter the Panthers finally got on the board. Dilworth, who had been scrambling for his life most of the night, got away once again and found a wide-open Luis Garcia for

Hornets Beat Jazz 88-86, Davis Hurt

NEW ORLEANS (AP) . Greivis Vasquez hit a driving layup with 1.3 seconds left, leading New Orleans to an 88-86 victory over the Utah Jazz on Friday night even though the Hornets played without rookie center Anthony Davis for the second half.

Davis, the No. 1 overall pick in the draft, left with 4:51 to play in the first half after taking an inadvertent elbow to the temple from fellow rookie and teammate Austin Rivers. Davis had eight points — all on dunks six rebounds and two blocked shots.

The Hornets declared him out at halftime and said they were checking him for a concussion.

Vasquez, who had 13 points and 10 assists, drove past Gordon Heyward, who fell to the floor, and banked in a short shot over Al Jefferson. Utah had a chance to win after calling a 20-second timeout, but Mo Williams' fallaway 3-pointer at the buzzer bounced off the rim.

Robin Lopez and Ryan Anderson both had 19 points for the Hornets. Anderson's fifth 3-pointer with 32.7 seconds left gave them an 84-83 lead. After two free throws extended the lead to 86-83, Utah's Paul Millsap drained a 3-pointer to tie it and set up Vasquez' finish.

Instead, Paul Millsap responded with a 3-pointer on a second-chance opportunity from the wing with 7.1 seconds left. He was 18 of 74 from 3-point range in his first six seasons in the

The Hornets closed it out without Davis, who scored 21 points in his debut on Wednesday in the Hornets' 99-95 loss to San Antonio. At least for one half, they did not miss him, scoring 34 of Anthony Archuleta (41) of Twin Falls, gets wrapped up after a short run against Middleton during a playoff game Friday night at Middleton High School.

If you capitalize on that, you can start maybe getting some momentum going. That's where you got to take advantage of that stuff. We just didn't tonight."

Middleton drove 75 yards down the field on the ensuing possession, and scored on a 19 yard run by Max Foote to go up 29-7. A 15 yard pass from Skinner to Payton Ah You, followed by Tullock's point after, provided the Vikings (9-1) with the final points of the game.

Twin Falls was limited to just 141 total yards, led by 82 yards from Corr on 6-of-17 passing. Anthony Archuleta led the Bruins with 48 rushing vards. Jacob Johnson had 30 rushing yards, including a 3yard score early in the second quarter.

Middleton, meanwhile, had 277 rushing yards behind its double-wing attack. "I thought we played well against it," Reynolds said. "We heard a lot about it, but we played against that down in our conference. We had our stops and we had our chances, we just didn't make some plays on offense."

Hagerman

A chilly night provided an even colder reality for Hagerman: it was of little match in the trenches against a team it beat earlier in the season.

"They just beat us at the line of scrimmage," Hagerman coach Mark Kress said. "We could have had a lot of things we could have run with Kade in there."

With second-string quarterback and defensive back Dillan Henslee out with a broken leg, Hagerman turned to third-string quarterback Marcus Emerson.

Emerson performed admirably in the circumstances, but threw two interceptions, completed less than 50 percent of his passes and could not make up for it on the ground. No one for Hagerman could. The team was held to 94 rushing yards.

"Our defense brought a lot more pressure (from last game)," Butte County coach Sam Thorngren said. "We wanted to speed everything up, heat it up, and the guys came to play."

Butte County ran all over Hagerman's defense, calling plays to whichever side Hagerman's Justin Arriaga wasn't, even changing the play when Hagerman caught on to the strategy and brought the defensive end to the strong side.

As if trying to plug the holes Butte County's offense line was creating wasn't a big enough challenge, tackling the duo of fullbacks Tyler Andreason and Hayden Isham was akin to trying to take down a pair of greasedup wild boars. The two ran low, strong, wild and often through Hagerman's defense, picking up more than 200 yards on the game, much of it after initial con-

"We've got these two 200-pound fullbacks, and they can bring some power," Thorngren said.

second-Andreason's quarter 38-yard touchdown run seemed to deflate Hagerman's defense. A series of five-to 10-yard bursts from Isham and speedster Tommy Kern in the third quarter seemed to crush Hagerman's spirit.

"Last game (against Hagerman), we came out a little scared," Andreason said. "This game our linemen came out and just dominated."

Butte County will play Raft River in the quarterfinals.
