BY JULIE WOOTTON

JEROME • When Hannah Lock walked into band class at Jerome High School, she'd greet her classmates enthusiastically.

"She always brightened everyone's day," said Jerome High School senior Eric Myers, 18, of his friend.

Students and community members are mourning the death of Lock, a 17-year-old who died in a car accident Saturday in Eden.

She was a senior at Jerome High School.

Idaho Hospital Turf War Escalates with Lawsuit

BY JOHN MILLER

Associated Press

BOISE • A southwestern Idaho hospital turf war escalated on Monday with medical groups suing a rival in federal court to block its latest expansion plan.

Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center is the main plaintiff behind an antitrust lawsuit meant to halt Boise-based St. Luke's Health System from buying physician-owned Saltzer Medical Group, which has many of its offices in Nampa.

In U.S. District Court, Saint Alphonsus argues St. Luke's acquisition of Saltzer's facilities threatens to monopolize a broad series of markets, increasing costs, reducing quality — and crippling Saint Alphonsus' Nampa hospital. The lawsuit was filed as federal and state regulators have separately been scrutinizing St. Luke's advances toward Saltzer.

"St. Luke's will gain a near monopoly share in the Nampa, Idaho market for adult primary care physician services market," Saint Alphonsus lawyers wrote in their 42-page complaint seeking a judge to stop St. Luke's purchase. "It will continue its

RESPECT THE RIM

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismsmith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • One minute you're taking pictures of the canyon scenery, watching BASE jumpers or hiking with your family. The next, you're falling.

Most of the time when people need to be rescued from the Snake River Canyon it's because they were doing something they shouldn't, or were in a place they shouldn't be, said Lt. Darren Brown, who oversees Twin Falls County's search and rescue team.

Search and rescue responded to two people who fell from the canyon rim in recent weeks. In those cases, the victims survived their relatively short falls.

"They will climb over the rock barrier wall that is there for a specific reason to get a closer look," Brown said. Inexperienced climbers getting stuck in a dangerous spot or people hiking in slick or muddy areas often need to be rescued, he said.

"The best thing they can do is respect the edge of that canyon and stay far enough back," said Twin Falls Fire Department Battalion Chief Brian Cunningham.

Even when rescuing somebody, Cunningham said, the fire department takes extreme caution when they're close to the rim. Hikers and people who walk along the rim should always be aware of loose rocks, cracks and other hazards, he said.

"Who's to say what it's going to take to break off," he said.

Emergency agencies frequently respond to the Snake River Canyon and Perrine Bridge area for calls about suicidal individuals. This month Idaho will reinstate its suicide prevention hotline after being the only state without one for five years. The crisis hotline may be reached at (800) 273-TALK. U.S. Stocks Nearly Unchanged as Fiscal Threat Looms

NEW YORK • U.S. stocks closed nearly unchanged Monday, after a day of uneven trading plagued by investors' fears about the approaching "fiscal cliff." The Dow Jones industrial average finished down 0.31 point at 12,815.08, according to data available at 6 p.m. EST. It had spent the day alternating between small gains and losses, never rising more than 46 points or falling more than 32.

The closing level of the Dow was revised several times after trading closed. The New York Stock Exchange had experienced a trading glitch during the day, forcing it to alter its normal procedure for determining the closing prices of some stocks.

The Standard & Poor's 500 index edged up 0.18 point to 1,380.03. The Nasdaq composite fell 0.61 to 2,904.26. Trading was very light. The federal government and the U.S. bond market were closed for Veterans Day, and no economic reports were released.

The fiscal cliff refers to government spending cuts and tax increases that are scheduled to kick in at the beginning of the new year, unless a divided Congress and the White House can work out a compromise before then.

Man Accused of Robbing Filer Store, Car Theft

BY ALISON GENE SMITH alismith@magicvalley.com

Gebremedhin

FILER • A Twin Falls man was arrested early Sunday morning after he allegedly robbed a Filer convenience store, according to Filer Police Chief Timothy Reeves. Aymere Gebremedhin, 24, allegedly battered a woman at a Twin Falls gas station and took her car. At about 6:45 a.m., he drove to the Twin Stop Texaco station in Filer where he entered the convenience store and put $18 cash on the counter.

Gebremedhin then allegedly told the clerk he wanted $50 in gas and food. When the clerk told Gebremedhin his $18 was not enough money, he allegedly told her he would kill her if she did not give him the gas. The clerk got ready to approve the gas purchase so Gebremedhin would leave the store and she could call police, but another customer entered the store and Gebremedhin fled, Reeves said. Reeves said Gebremedhin ran out of the store and attempted to take another vehicle, but the woman locked her doors. Gebremedhin got in the first vehicle and fled west toward Buhl on Highway 30 as Filer police officers arrived on scene. Reeves said there was a short pursuit and Gebremedhin pulled over at 1900 East. Filer police arrested Gebremedhin on charges of robbery and attempted robbery. Gebremedhin was charged with felony eluding in Twin Falls County and may also be charged by Twin Falls city prosecutors, Reeves said. Police did not find a weapon in Gebremedhin's possession, Reeves said.

It's a Typical November Week

BRIAN NEUDORFF Chief Meteorologist

After our wintry week-end, this week will be fairly quiet, mostly dry, but with more clouds because of a few disturbances moving through the region. Temperatures will also slowly warm up to more typical November levels in the low 50s. A few clouds will linger today, but we will see some sunshine, afternoon temperatures will remain chilly with afternoon highs in the upper 40s to near 50. Another disturbance will increase clouds for Wednesday and could produce some rain and snow showers by late in the day and into Wednesday evening.

By the end of the week, sunshine returns for Thursday and it will be more seasonal as highs are back into the low 50s. On Friday, another system moves through southern Idaho and could produce a few rain showers, but it should remain mostly dry. We will remain dry and quiet going into the weekend with highs warmer than last weekend into the low to mid 50s.

Curious Mind The Legend of Balanced Rock

I've heard that in the 1920s or 30s pranksters tried to blow up Balanced Rock with dynamite and now it's reinforced with concrete. What's the story?

Curious Mind

South of Buhl in the Salmon Falls Creek Canyon stands the world-famous landmark Balanced Rock. Over 48 feet high, 40 feet wide and weighing 40 tons, the rock balances precariously on a pedestal only 3 feet by 17 1/2 inches. It towers about 200 feet above the canyon floor.

According to the Twin Falls Daily News, Feb. 13, 1929: "It is a current story that a local vandal once tried to bring this stone (Balanced Boulder of Buhl) to earth with a pickaxe. When remonstrated with, he said he had lived there for 40 years and was tired of waiting for the blamed thing to fall. 'Don't you know,' said the neighbor, 'that stone contains over 5,000 cubic feet of lava and weighs between 400 and 500 tons? If you had broken through the stem you would sure have been killed!' The fellow said he knew it: said it was worth it. The pivot has since been artificially protected with a layer of cement." Mareda Wright, Twin Falls Public Library technical services department head, found the article in the library's digital newspaper archives.

Community Men's Club. The rock is now on land managed by the U.S. Bureau of Land Management, paired with the nearby Balanced Rock Park operated by Twin Falls County, said said Rick Novacek, the county's parks and waters director.

Some sources have claimed the mass on that pedestal is a world record. "Not by a long shot," said Shawn Willsey, College of Southern Idaho professor of geology. "This is just wishful thinking on the part of our local citizens. Our local Balanced Rock is thought to weigh about 40 tons. Compare this to Idol Rock in England which weighs over 200 tons. Another example is Balanced Rock in Arches National Park, Utah, which is the size of three school buses precariously perched. Also check out balanced rocks at Garden of the Gods, Colorado, and Mexican Hat, Utah."

Many assume the rock is basalt sculpted by wind. "However, the rock type is rhyolite," said geologist Art Small. Rhyolite has a surplus of silica and many mineral crystals form while the melted rock is still far below the surface of the earth, Small said. "This increases the viscosity of the melt and usually plugs up the passageways to the surface. This results in a large increase in pressure and usually results in a volcanic explosion." The rhyolite usually spreads from the eruptive

JEROME • After months of construction, programs are up and running in Jerome's new Head Start/Early Head Start building.

The approximately $1.3 million project brings services provided through the College of Southern Idaho under one roof.

Following a March groundbreaking ceremony, construction was completed at the end of September. Programs started in the new building in early October.

Before the new facility opened, Head Start and Early Head Start services in Jerome were spread throughout several leased buildings.

Financial services coordinator Abby Greenfield said it was getting difficult to transport food and supplies be-

Montana Coal Railroad Line Faces Federal Review

BY MATTHEW BROWN
Associated Press

BILLINGS, Mont. • Eastern Montana residents will weigh in this week on a proposed 83-mile coal railroad with the potential to usher in a dramatic expansion of mining in the state and increase exports of the fuel to Asia.

The Surface Transportation Board is hosting a series of public meetings beginning Monday in Lame Deer for its environmental review of the proposed Tongue River Railroad.

The $490 million line from Miles City to south of Ashland would haul up to 20 million tons of fuel annually. That's equal to about half the state's current coal production.

The long-stalled railroad was bought last year by BNSF Railway, Arch Coal Inc. and billionaire Forrest Mars Jr., following decades of delays due to court challenges and financing hurdles.

The project's revival comes at what might seem an unlikely time: The coal industry has seen huge declines in mining in some parts of the U.S. as many utilities drop the fuel in favor of cleaner-burning natural gas.

The railroad also faces concerted opposition from environmental groups and some landowners. They warn the line will industrialize rural areas, and that burning the coal could worsen climate change.

The railroad was dealt a setback after its purchase last year when the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled the transportation board needed to do a new environmental study of the line.

But backers of the Tongue River Railroad said the project could help the local economy and it is well-poised to tap into continued strong demand for the coal in overseas markets such as Asia.

BNSF and other companies want to haul coal from the rich Powder River Basin of Montana and neighboring Wyoming to proposed ports in Oregon, Washington and British Columbia.

A BNSF spokeswoman said in an emailed statement that the railroad and a mine at Otter Creek "could provide a tremendous boost to eastern Montana's economy."

"It will go through a comprehensive environmental review, and the railroad will work with federal and state agencies to ensure stringent environmental standards," wrote BNSF spokeswoman Suann Lundsberg.

Mo. Bronc Rider Killed at Indian Rodeo in Vegas

LAS VEGAS (AP) • A Missouri man died after being critically injured during the Indian National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas.

Rodeo officials said J.D. Jones, 25, of Goodman, Mo., died after an accident at the saddle bronc riding competition Saturday night.

"Our thoughts and prayers are with the family and friends of J.D. at this difficult time," rodeo officials said in a statement. "J.D. was a favorite of the rodeo because of his passion and respect of the sport and he died doing something he loved."

According to rodeo spokeswoman Perse Hooper, Jones got stuck after his foot slipped through a stirrup. The horse fell on him and eventually had to be euthanized for internal bleeding and a broken pelvis, she said.

It was Jones' first time competing in the national finals, which were held Nov. 6-10 at the South Point resort, Hooper said.

Last week's competition was the 37th annual Indian National Finals Rodeo. Competitors must prove Native American heritage and typically win regional rodeos before advancing to the national event.

It was the first time in the event's history that a competitor has died, Hooper said, adding that the organization is investigating whether changes can be made to make the rodeo safer.

Businesses Look for Ways to Market to the Millennials

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismsmith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • The ultimate “cross that bridge when I come to it” generation — that’s what Brad Herbert, the vice president and marketing officer for Zions First National Bank calls the people born from the early 1982 to 2004. They are referred to by turn as millennials, Generation Y or the Echo Boomers.

It’s a huge group with a lot of buying potential, and businesses are looking for ways to top into that market.

Herbert said the bank researched to find out more about the banking habits of millennials, college and high school students.

“We really tried to peel the layers of the onion and uncover the issues the millennials are dealing with,” Herbert said.

Part of the research led to increased use of social media and text messaging, but the bank was also able to gain insight into millennials’ financial lives.

In 2011, the bank started the online reality show, “Cheapster.” The show is now finishing up its second season. It featured college students going to extremes to live a frugal lifestyle.

“Our goal with Cheapster is to capture the challenges and benefits of sticking to a budget, while adding the excitement of a reality show competition,” said Rob Brough, executive vice president of Zions Bank’s Corporate Marketing and Communications, in an announcement about the show.

The students competed to win a prize of $10,000 and an additional $10,000 for their school. Students from the University of Idaho, BYU Idaho, Idaho State University and several Utah colleges competed. The last day of voting for the top “cheapster” was Monday but the episodes are still online at <http://cheapster.tv>.

Through research, the bank discovered many younger people feel they don’t have the financial know-how to succeed in the future. Many don’t know where to find financial help and rely on their parents because they don’t trust their own financial decisions, Herbert said.

It’s not because they don’t feel money is important, he said. Many Millennials learned lessons from their parents and were shaped by the Great Recession.

They’ve also changed their buying habits.

“It’s an interesting change,” Herbert said. “We’ve gone from being loose about credit to being paranoid about it.”

With each generation comes different issues and different buying, saving and banking habits, he said.

Amber Tobiason, advertising director at the Times-News, said the paper recently got new market research from its parent company, Lee Enterprises.

Often, it’s assumed that younger people don’t read newspapers, Tobiason said, but the research Lee provided surprised her.

“Newspaper readership does well with younger people, especially if they’re educated, informed and affluent,” she said.

People with a college degree, those in the work force and those who are more connected to the community are more likely to buy a paper, she said.

Nancy Glaesemann, executive director of the Greater Twin Falls Association of Realtors, has also seen a difference in younger buyers.

Each generation has a different way of learning, and changes may have to be made in marketing techniques to reflect new buyers, she said.

Locally, Glaesemann said, most agents don’t do their own demographic measuring, but try to target people of all ages who qualify to buy a home.

At the National Association of Realtors mid-year meeting, Glaesemann said, she learned people aged 18 to 34 make up 31 percent of home purchases.

A lot of younger agents market the homes they have for sale on Facebook and send out invitations to open houses on the social media website, Glaesemann said.

Several home buying training classes are offered in the area, but Glaesemann said few young people attend the classes.

Steve Kadel contributed to this report.

U.S. Oil Output To Overtake Saudi Arabia’s by 2020, IEA Says

BY LANANH NGUYEN
Bloomberg News

LONDON • U.S. oil output is poised to surpass Saudi Arabia’s in the next decade, making the world’s biggest fuel consumer almost self-reliant and putting it on track to become a net exporter, the International Energy Agency said Monday.

Growing supplies of crude extracted through new technology including hydraulic fracturing of underground rock formations will transform the U.S. into the largest producer for about five years starting about 2020, the Paris-based adviser to 28 nations said today in its annual World Energy Outlook. The United States met 83 percent of its energy needs in the first six months of this year, according to the Energy Department in Washington.

“The IEA outlook feeds into the idea of a shift in the center of influence in the world oil market,” said Gareth Lewis-Davies, an analyst at BNP Paribas in London. “Given Saudi Arabia is willing to shift production up and down it will retain a large degree of influence, and remain important as a price-influencer.”

The U.S., whose crude imports have fallen 11 percent this year, is on track to produce the most oil since 1991, according to Energy Department data. In a year when Iran has threatened to halt oil shipments through the Persian Gulf, the growing output, coupled with a gas-production boom, may help insulate the nation from supply disruptions. President George W. Bush said in his 2006 State of the Union address that the U.S. needed to break its “addiction” to foreign oil.

West Texas Intermediate crude, the benchmark U.S. grade, has dropped about 13 percent this year to $85.88 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange, as stockpiles swelled to a 22-year high. Prices have more than quadrupled in the past decade, reaching as high as $147.27 a barrel in July 2008.

Global demand for oil is projected to rise to 99.7 million barrels a day in 2035, up from 87.4 million last year, according to IEA, which advises industrialized nations including the U.S., Germany and Japan. Monday’s report projects trends to 2035.

Saudi Arabia pumped 9.8 million barrels of oil a day last month, according to data compiled by Bloomberg. U.S. output was 6.7 million barrels a day in the week ended Nov. 2, according to the Energy Department.

The U.S. will pump 11.1 million barrels of oil a day in 2020 and 10.9 million in 2025, the IEA said. Those figures are 500,000 barrels a day and 100,000 barrels a day higher, respectively, than its forecasts for Saudi Arabia for those years. The desert kingdom becomes the biggest producer again by 2030, pumping 11.4 million barrels a day versus 10.2 million in the U.S.

“Around 2017, the U.S. will be the largest oil producer of the world, overtaking Saudi Arabia,” IEA Chief Economist Fatih Birol said at a press conference in London today. “This is of course a major development and definitely will have significant implications.”

An oil ministry official based in the Saudi capital Riyadh wasn’t immediately available to comment on the report when contacted by Bloomberg by phone today.

The IEA report described the U.S.’s advancement toward energy self-sufficiency as “a dramatic reversal of the trend seen in most other energy-importing countries.” The country is developing so-called tight oil reserves including the Bakken shale formation, which are extracted by hydraulic fracturing or horizontal drilling.

Veenendaal Earns Certification

TWIN FALLS • Nicole Veenendaal, an associate broker with Magic Valley Realty, has earned the nationally recognized Short Sales and Foreclosure Resource certification.

The National Association of Realtors offers the SFR certification to realtors who want to help both buyers and sellers navigate these complicated transactions, as demand for professional expertise with distressed sales grows. Veenendaal has been successfully completing short sales for clients for more than 3 years.

According to a recent NAR survey, nearly one-third of all existing homes sold recently were either short sales or foreclosures.

The certification program includes training on how to qualify sellers for short sales, negotiate with lenders, protect buyers and limit risk, and provides resources to help realtors stay current on national and state-specific information as the market for these distressed properties evolves. To earn the SFR certification, realtors must take one core course and three webinars.

OBITUARIES

Hannah Elysia Lock

Aug. 17, 1995-Nov. 10, 2011

JEROME • Hannah Elysia Lock is now playing music and dancing before the indescribable beauty and splendor of her Heavenly Father and God. On Saturday, Nov. 10, 2011, Hannah fulfilled her mission as a faithful ambassador for Christ. A mission she began on Aug. 17, 1995.

While here she enjoyed playing the violin, piano, guitar and clarinet. But more than anything else, she enjoyed touching people's lives with Christ's love, compassion, friendship and acceptance. She unconditionally lived out the Proverbs which say, "A friend loveth at all times" and "There is a friend that sticks closer than a brother." Hannah touched people's lives while participating in the Jerome High School marching band, concert band and the select choir, DeVici. She was chosen more than once to play violin for the Magic Valley Symphony.

Hannah touched the lives of babies and young children at the Amazing Grace Fellowship nursery, where she also recently began singing with the youth worship team. Hannah also touched the lives of the youth group at Believer's Church in Jerome, where she was warmly welcomed and loved. For her senior project, Hannah recently finished her plans to go on a short missions trip to Belize with children in an orphanage, but she was called to come home to her own country. Hannah's senior quote sums up her mission, "I'm just an ordinary girl serving an extraordinary God."

Hannah is survived by her parents, Rebecca L. Clark Lock and Aaron D. Lock; brother, Adam D. Lock; grandmother, Dottie Clark; uncles; aunts; cousins; and one niece, Meygan Lock. She was preceded in death by great-grandmother, Alma Harnes; uncle, Ron Godfrey; and her unforgettable and beloved "Poppy," Grandpa Chet Clark.

Hannah's life will be celebrated at 4 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, at the Jerome High School Auditorium, 26 N. Tiger Drive in Jerome. A celebration of life with worship service will be conducted at 3 p.m. Friday, Nov. 16, at Amazing Grace Fellowship, 1061 Eastland Drive N. in Twin Falls, with Pastor Lynn Schaal officiating. Interment will follow in the Jerome Cemetery. Arrangements are under the care of Farnsworth Mortuary of Jerome.

Carolina was preceded in death by her husband, Aurelio Sr. (1966); sons, Armando (infant); Leo (1990); and Erasmo (2011). "Our joys will be greater; our love will be deeper; our lives will be fuller; because we shared your moment."

Mary Louise Krumm

Feb. 21, 1937-Nov. 9, 2012

TWIN FALLS • Mary Louise Krumm passed away at her home Friday, Nov. 9, 2012, surrounded by her family. Mary was 75 years old and resided in Twin Falls.

On Feb. 21, 1937, Mary was born to Candido and Gloria Elorriaga in Wendell, Idaho. She spent her childhood in Hagerman, where her father ran a sheep outfit. Mary was known to be quite ornery as a young girl, and she used her toughness to her advantage when playing with her siblings and neighbors. It was not uncommon for Mary to be involved in pranks or scuffles around her neighborhood. Her stubbornness shone when she would only let her mother comb her hair once a week — on Sundays.

Mary was a standout student and athlete at Hagerman High School, where she graduated in 1955. She led her peers as the student body president and represented her school at the American Legion Auxiliary Idaho Girl's State. Mary showed her athletic talent and competitiveness on the basketball court. In the fall of 1955, she began taking courses at the Twin Falls Business College.

Mary awaited the return of her high school sweetheart, Dean Krumm, who served in the United States Army until 1959. They were married in Elko, Nev., on Aug. 4, 1959. Dean and Mary first lived together in Pocatello, where Dean worked as a meter reader for the Idaho Power Company. Mary became a mother in 1960, when their daughter, Tammy, was born. Their son, Gary, was born in 1963.

The Krumm family established a permanent home in Twin Falls in 1964. Mary dedicated herself to caring for the people she loved. Her children and husband were clearly her pride and joy. She was a faithful supporter of every one of their academic, athletic and career activities. Mary was a talented homemaker — preparing delicious meals and snacks, maintaining a clean and cozy home, and ensuring a stable and loving environment for her family. Later on, she especially treasured the time she spent playing with her grandchildren, Amber and Ryan, and watching them grow up. Mary showed compassion to numerous elderly family members and neighbors. She worked for several years at the Twin Falls County Fair in the Home Arts building. Mary also enjoyed working on her yard and in her flowerbeds. Mary's knowledge of athletics was evident, as she avidly followed sports of every kind on television and in the newspaper. Cats held a special place in her heart. She loved many of her own cats and would regularly feed and welcome neighborhood cats into her home.

Mary approached life with a feisty, hard-working attitude and made a lasting impact on her family, friends and neighbors with her heart of gold. As a mother and grandmother, she loved us unconditionally and often put our needs ahead of her own. She is certainly surrounded by joy and peace as she is now reunited with her husband in heaven.

Mary was preceded in death by her parents; her brothers, John and Ray Elorriaga; and her husband, Dean. She is survived by her daughter, Tammy (Ken) Petersen; her son, Gary Krumm; her grandchildren, Amber and Ryan Petersen; and her sister, Glorienne Cortabita.

Our family would like to extend a special note of thanks to the caring staff of Encompass Home Health and Hospice.

At Mary's request, a public graveside service will be held at 11:30 a.m. Friday, Nov. 16, at the Hagerman Cemetery. Friends and family are invited to attend a luncheon at St. Catherine's Catholic Church immediately following the burial. In lieu of flowers, if you would like to make a donation in Mary's name, please consider the Hagerman Alumni Association or the Gooding Basque Association. Arrangements are under the direction of Kevin Rosenau of Rosenau Funeral Home.

Family and friends may share their memories at www.rosenaufuneralhome.com.

NY Governor Seeks $30B for Superstorm Assistance

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) • Gov. Andrew Cuomo plans to request $30 billion in federal aid to rebuild after Superstorm Sandy, which heavily damaged parts of New York City and Long Island, he said Monday.

The administration will seek a supplemental appropriation to cover infrastructure, repair and emergency costs beyond those normally covered by federal emergency aid, Cuomo said. "I've asked for 100 percent reimbursement," he said.

Generally the Federal Emergency Management Agency will reimburse up to 75 percent of public costs, with the state and local authorities covering the remaining 25 percent. There have been cases, such as Hurricane Katrina, where the federal government has reimbursed up to 90 percent of costs.

"The equity and the fairness is inarguable in this case," Cuomo said. It will probably be a regional plan including New Jersey and Connecticut, with money for infrastructure, housing, local governments and small business, he said.

The plan to request federal aid, first reported Monday by The New York Times, would help cover the cost of improvements like a power grid meant to improve utilities' ability to find and fix outages. It would also upgrade New York City's fuel supply capacity to help prevent consumer shortages and bring new oil and gas pipelines from New England.

Long lines at gas stations led to alternate-day rationing in both New York and New Jersey after the storm.

Last week, Cuomo said the storm would cost New York state $33 billion and he was counting on a commitment from the Obama administration for reimbursement for many public costs of rebuilding.

Even before the storm, the Cuomo administration projected a $1 billion state deficit for the fiscal year with a $132 billion government budget. Cuomo also raised the issue of more frequent extreme weather and studying what measures are needed to better protect New York's low-lying coastal areas.

Afghan Killings Test Military System

JOINT BASE LEWIS-McCHORD, Wash. (AP) • The U.S. military has been criticized for its record on convicting troops of killing civilians, but a hearing against Army Staff Sgt. Robert Bales involving a massacre in Afghanistan has shown that it isn't like most cases.

Government prosecutors have built a strong eyewitness case against the soldier, with troops recounting how they saw Bales return to the base covered in blood. And in unusual testimony in a military court, Afghan civilians questioned via a video link described the horror of seeing 16 people killed, mostly children, in their villages.

Law experts say the case could test whether the military, aided by technology, is able to embark on a new era of accountability.

Bales faces 16 counts of premeditated murder and six counts of attempted murder. The hearing, which began Nov. 5 and is scheduled to end with closing arguments Tuesday, will determine whether he faces a

A range of factors make prosecuting troops for civilian deaths in foreign lands difficult, including gathering eyewitness testimony and collecting evidence at a crime scene in the midst of a war.

At Bales' preliminary hearing, the prosecution accommodated the Afghan witnesses, including children, by providing the video link and holding the sessions at night. The military said it intends to fly the witnesses from Afghanistan to Joint Base Lewis-McChord if there is a court-martial.

"I think it shows they're going to prosecute this case no matter what it takes," said Greg Rinckey, a former Army prosecutor.

Speaker of the House John Boehner, R-Ohio, talks about the elections and the unfinished business of Congress on Wednesday at the Capitol in Washington.

Congress Faces Unfinished Business

WASHINGTON (AP) • Congress returns Tuesday to a crowded agenda of unfinished business overshadowed by the urgent need for President Barack Obama and lawmakers to avert the economic double hit of tax increases and automatic spending cuts.

One week after the elections — and seven weeks after they last gathered in Washington — Republicans and Democrats face a daunting task in a lame-duck session that Capitol Hill fears could last until the final hours of Dec. 31. But even before serious budget negotiations can begin, lawmakers will tackle leftover legislation on trade with Russia, military budgets and aiding farmers still reeling from the summer's drought.

The first days back will be a mix of old and new — choosing down-ballot leaders in the Senate while the 12 new members, three Republicans, eight Democrats and one independent, are introduced to their colleagues. The House will welcome some 70 new members who will get a crash course on how Congress operates with a class on ethics Wednesday.

While the nation's voters endorsed the status quo of divided government — a Democratic president and Senate, a Republican House — Obama cruised to re-election and his emboldened party gained seats in both the House and Senate. In the new political order, Democrats will hold a 55-45 edge in the Senate if independent Angus King of Maine caucuses with them as expected. Republicans' advantage in the House narrows to 233-201.

Democrats were leading in the six undecided House races.

The question over the next seven weeks is whether Obama and Congress can agree now or later on how to slash $1.2 trillion from the deficit, raise revenues with possible changes in the tax code and address the entitlement programs of Social Security and Medicare. And they also have to figure out how to stop across-the-board cuts to defense and domestic programs totaling $110 billion next year.

Obama meets with congressional leaders at the White House on Friday. Democrats and Republicans recognize the urgency, but the demands remain unchanged.

"If our Republican counterparts can step forward with that revenue piece, we will be able to find a solution," Sen. Patty Murray, D-Wash., said Sunday on ABC's "This Week." "We can't accept an unfair deal that piles on the middle class and tell them they have to support it. We have to make sure that the wealthiest Americans pay their fair share."

The GOP insists that tax rate increases are a non-starter.

Paula Broadwell speaks to an audience Feb. 6 at the Politics and Prose bookstore in Washington, D.C.

Petraeus Shocked To Hear of Threatening Emails

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) • CIA Director David Petraeus was shocked to learn last summer that his mistress was suspected of sending threatening emails warning another woman to stay away from him, former staff members and friends told The Associated Press Monday.

Petraeus told these associates his relationship with the second woman, Tampa socialite Jill Kelley, was platonic, though his biographer-turned-lover Paula Broadwell apparently saw her as a romantic rival. Retired Gen. Petraeus also denied to these associates that he had given Broadwell any of the sensitive military information alleged to have been found on her computer, saying anything she had must have been provided by other commanders during reporting trips to Afghanistan.

The associates spoke on condition of anonymity because they weren't authorized to discuss the matters, which could be part of an FBI investigation.

Petraeus, who led U.S. military efforts in Iraq and Afghanistan, resigned his CIA post Friday, acknowledging his extramarital affair with Broadwell and expressing deep regret.

New details of the investigation that brought an end to his storied career emerged as President Barack Obama hunted for a new CIA director and members of Congress questioned why the months-long probe was kept quiet for so long.

Kelley, the Tampa woman, began receiving harassing emails in May, according to two federal law enforcement officials. They spoke on condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to speak about the matter.

Israel Reports Direct Hits on Syrian Targets

TEL HAZEKA, Golan Heights (AP) • Israeli tanks struck a Syrian artillery launcher Monday after a stray mortar shell flew into Israel-held territory, the first direct clash between the neighbors since the Syrian uprising began nearly two years ago.

The confrontation fueled new fears that the Syrian civil war could drag Israel into the violence, a scenario with grave consequences for the region. The fighting has already spilled into Lebanon, Jordan and Turkey.

"We are closely monitoring what is happening and will respond appropriately. We will not allow our borders to be violated or our citizens to be fired upon," Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said Monday in a speech to foreign ambassadors.

While officials believe President Bashar Assad has no interest in picking a fight with Israel, they fear the embattled Syrian leader may try to draw Israel into the fighting in a bout of desperation. Israeli officials believe it is only a matter of time before Syrian rebels topple the longtime leader.

The conflict has already spilled over into several of Syria's other neighbors — whether in direct violence or in the flood of refugees fleeing the bloodshed. More than 36,000 Syrians have been killed in the fighting, according to estimates by anti-Assad activists.

On Monday, a Syrian fighter jet bombed a rebel-held area hugging the border with Turkey three times, killing 15 to 20 people, according to a Turkish official.

My President Is a Busy Man

Israeli friends have been asking me whether a re-elected President Barack Obama will take revenge on Prime Minister Bibi Netanyahu for the way he and Sheldon Adelson, his foolhardy financier, openly backed Mitt Romney. My answer to Israelis is this: You should be so lucky. You should be so lucky that the president feels he has the time, energy and political capital to spend wrestling with Bibi to forge a peace between Israelis and Palestinians. I don't see it anytime soon. Obama has his marching orders from the American people: Focus on Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, not on Bethlehem, Palestine, and focus on getting us out of quagmires (Afghanistan) not into them (Syria). No, my Israeli friends, it's much worse than you think: You're home alone.

Of course, no one here will tell you that. To the contrary, there will surely be a new secretary of state visiting you next year with the umpteenth road map for "confidence-building measures" between Israelis and Palestinians. He or she may even tell you that "this is the year of decision." Be careful. We've been there before. If you Google "Year of decision in the Middle East," you'll get more than 100,000,000 links. Is this good for Israel? No. It is unhealthy. The combination of America's internal focus, the post-Arab awakening turmoil and the exhaustion of Palestinians means Israel can stay in the West Bank indefinitely at a very low short-term cost but at a very high long-term cost of losing its identity as a Jewish democracy. If Israelis want to escape that fate, it is very important that they understand that we're not your grandfather's America anymore.

To begin with, the rising political force in America is not the one with which Bibi has aligned Israel. As the Israeli columnist Ari Shavit noted in the newspaper Haaretz last week: "In the past, both the Zionist movement and the Jewish state were careful to be identified with the progressive forces in the world. ... But in recent decades more and more Israelis took to leaning on the reactionary forces in American society. It was convenient to lean on them. The evangelists didn't ask difficult questions about the settlements, the tea party people didn't say a word about excluding women and minorities or about Jewish settlers' attacks and acts of vandalism against Palestinians and peace activists. The Republican Party's white, religious, conservative wing was not agitated when the Israeli Supreme Court was attacked and the rule of law in Israel was trampled." Israel, Shavit added, assumed that "under the patronage of a radical, rightist America we can conduct a radical, rightist policy without paying the price." No more. Netanyahu can still get a standing ovation from the Israel lobby, but not at UCLA. At the same time, U.S. policymakers have learned that the Middle East only puts a smile on our faces when it starts with them: with Israelis and Arabs. Camp David started with them. Oslo started with them. The Arab Spring started with them. When they have ownership over peace or democracy movements, those initiatives can be self-sustaining.

We can amplify what they start, but we can't create it. We can provide the mediation and even the catering, but it's got to start with them.

We've learned something else from our interventions in Afghanistan and Libya: We willed the ends, but we did not will the means — that is, doing all that it would take to transform those societies. That is why we're quitting Afghanistan, staying out of Syria and relying on sanctions, as long as possible, to dissuade Iran from building a nuclear bomb. These countries are too hard to fix but too dangerous to ignore. We'll still try to help, but we'll expect regional powers, and the locals, to assume more responsibility.

Finally, we really have work to do at home. Soon Americans will be asked to pay more taxes for less government. It's coming. It will not make us isolationists, but it will change our mood and make us much pickier about where we'll get involved. That means only a radical change by Palestinians or Israelis will get us to fully re-engage.

The other day, in an interview with Israel's Channel 2, President Mahmoud Abbas of the Palestinian Authority declared: "Palestine for me is the 1967 borders with East Jerusalem as the capital. This is Palestine. I am a refugee. I live in Ramallah. The West Bank and Gaza is Palestine. Everything else is Israel."

This was a big signal, but Bibi scorned it. The Israeli novelist David Grossman wrote an open letter to Netanyahu in Haaretz, taking him to task: "This is a bit embarrassing, but I will remind you, Mr. Netanyahu, that you were elected to lead Israel precisely in order to discern these rare hints of opportunity, in order to transform them into a possible lever to extricate your country from the impasse in which it has been stuck for decades.

So my best advice to Israelis is: Focus on your own election — on Jan. 22 — not ours. I find it very sad that in a country with so much human talent, the Israeli center and left still can't agree on a national figure who could run against Netanyahu and his thuggish partner, Foreign Minister Avigdor Lieberman, a man whose commitment to democracy is closer to Vladimir Putin's than Thomas Jefferson's. Don't count on America to ride to the rescue. It has to start with you. My president is busy.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Why Is the Law Different on Private Property?

How is it possible that a person can kill someone in a parking lot and get away with it? This is the question that keeps running through my mind. My name is Frances Hall, and I am a sister to Santiago "Ed" Maestas, who was killed in the parking lot at McCain Foods USA on March 2, 2012.

Recently, Cassia County prosecutor Al Barrus decided not to file criminal charges against Daniel Hood, who landed on top of Santiago "Ed" Maestas's truck, crushing him to death in the McCain Foods USA parking lot. According to Mr. Barrus, one complication in pursuing voluntary manslaughter is that state law requires that an accident occur on a highway, street, bridge or on public or private property that is open to the public. I believe the decision to not press criminal charges is a great injustice.

Aside from the issue of the accident occurring in a private parking lot, there appears to be negligence in this case which makes me further wonder why Daniel Hood isn't being prosecuted.

Mr. Hood's driver's license had been revoked prior to the accident, but he continued driving, whereby causing the fatal collision last March.

Daniel Hood had consumed alcohol prior to the accident (testing positive at the scene).

Reports show that Daniel Hood was traveling at a high rate of speed through the parking lot, doing 60 mph in a 15 mph area.

If Hood had seizures or was on medication for seizures, he should not have been driving.

I have been told that neither McCain Foods USA nor the Cassia County Sheriff's Office contacted the victim's wife after the accident. She learned of the accident two hours or more afterward when people started calling offering condolences.

Daniel Hood may have had a seizure after the accident but not before (according to newspapers), not while he was drinking and driving, and certainly not while he was speeding through the parking lot of McCain Foods USA.

Cassia County Prosecutor Al Barrus, local authorities and McCain Foods USA have a lot of explaining to do, and I would like answers! I guess the bottom line is that you can commit manslaughter with zero consequences, as long as it happens on private property. It breaks my heart that my brother is gone forever because of a series of errors and a critical lapse in judgment.

McClure Says 'Thank You' for Support during Campaign

I would like to thank all who supported me during this year's legislative campaign. As always, it is tough to lose. But the support I got from so many people, whether it was money, time or just an occasional "wish you luck" makes it all worthwhile. I thank you one and all.

Now the tough part begins. I ran to "Support our Kids" and "Protect our Freedoms." I had hoped to be able to do that as a member of the Idaho Legislature. That won't happen, but it doesn't mean they are not necessary objectives, and the work must go on, just in different ways. Semper Fi.

As for Jim Patrick and Clark Kauffman, I wish you well in your new positions. The people of Magic Valley are counting on you. To Cindy Shotswell, you were a real trooper, and I was proud to have you beside me every step of the way. I know your future will be bright, in politics or out. And finally to my lovely wife, Claire, who has stuck with me through thick and thin, I express my deep appreciation and undying devotion.

May God bless our state and our nation.

Thank You Senator Darrington for Years of Service

I am writing to publicly thank Sen. Denton Darrington for his many years of service as our state senator.

As chairman of the Senate Judiciary and Rules Committee, Sen. Darrington has been instrumental in passing legislation that has made our criminal justice system much more effective.

As a prosecuting attorney, it has been a tremendous asset to have someone like Sen. Darrington to go to get things done in the Legislature.

Sen. Darrington will truly be missed when the Legislature convenes in January. Thank you, Sen. Darrington.

Fornshell Thanks Supporters for Help during Campaign

We, of course, congratulate Stephen Hartgen for his victory on Nov. 6.

My campaign fought hard and we are proud of the campaign we ran. Dozens of people helped, and I want to thank you all:

Carol Robertson who coordinated this campaign and helped us reach this goal; LeRoy Hayes served as treasurer, and Deborah Silver provided leadership through the Twin Falls Democratic Central Committee. They were all indispensable. So many more lent their time, money and talents, and we will celebrate our success together at a later date.

We may not have won, but we succeeded in uniting Democrats, Republicans and others in a bipartisan effort, which resulted in impressive numbers and a real challenge. So we go on to fight another year, another campaign, and carry forward our Democratic message for better state government.

I am humbled both by your support and by the confidence shown in me by the people of Twin Falls. Please refer any questions to Carol Robertson, who is acting on my behalf, until I return to Idaho. Her phone is 734-8349.

READER COMMENTS

A lively discussion was sparked on Magicvalley.com by the letter to the editor, "Election System Outdated, Needs To Be Changed."

kimchi: "It may be helpful if you brush up on the election system in the U.S. Idaho almost always has their electoral votes applied to the Republican candidate for president. Smaller states actually have more power because of the electoral college than if the election were decided by popular vote. Washington, Oregon, and California are safe bets for the Democratic candidate. States on the west side of the coast have equal amounts of weight, but elections are decided early due to a candidate reaching 270 electoral votes when the other candidate cannot reach the 270 mark."

glombardo: "Idaho's four electoral votes went for Romney, so if you were a Romney supporter, there's nothing more you could ask for. It doesn't matter if all of the ballots were counted yet — even if you added 5 million more ballots for Romney in Idaho, he would still only get four electoral votes. If you want to argue for a popular vote system versus our current electoral college, then that's an entirely different issue."

Workers for Hickey Brothers Fishery of Bailey Harbor, Wis., scoop captured lake trout out of Yellowstone Lake during the summer of 2011 in Yellowstone National Park. More than 300,000 lake trout were removed from the lake in 2012.

Lake Trout Culled from Yellowstone

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) • An effort to cull invasive species from Yellowstone Lake has removed more than 300,000 lake trout this year.

The number of the fish caught is the most in one year since fisheries managers first discovered it in 1994 in Yellowstone National Park's largest lake. The presence of lake trout has decimated populations of cutthroat trout, which are native to Yellowstone Lake.

The culling operation is finally reaching kill levels necessary to effectively suppress the ecologically damaging lake trout population, estimated at about 500,000 adult fish, officials said.

Some 224,000 lake trout were netted in 2011, but the total kill for the decade before was 500,000.

Yellowstone officials are satisfied with the intensity of the lake trout kill and plan to hold netting at current levels into the near future, Yellowstone spokesman Dan Hottle told the Jackson Hole News & Guide.

"I think we're about as ramped as we can get right now," Hottle said. "As far as I know, we don't have any plans to bring on any additional boats."

At the same time, monitoring indicated the number of juvenile cutthroat is increasing in the lake.

Cutthroat trout are considered a keystone species in the Yellowstone Lake ecosystem. They historically ran up 60 feeder streams by the thousands each spring to spawn. The spawn made them an easy catch for predators, and cutthroat were once an important food source for grizzly bears, bald eagles, ospreys and river otters.

The big lake trout, also known as mackinaw, have outcompeted and eaten the native cutthroats since they were illegally introduced into Yellowstone Lake.

Fishermen employ trap nets and gill nets to catch and kill mackinaw on Yellowstone Lake.

"We had a banner year for a couple of different reasons," Hottle said. "Number one, is we're using the tracking telemetry to find out where the fish were spawning and where they're congregating."

The kill was also successful this year because anglers fished as long as they could, netting the 139-square-mile lake from just after the ice melted until last week, Hottle said. In 2011, Yellowstone contractors netted the lake for 17 weeks, but the season spanned just 10 weeks in 2010 and three weeks in 2009, he said.

Restoration efforts for cutthroat on Yellowstone Lake are supported by volunteers and by financial contributions from the Yellowstone Park Foundation, Trout Unlimited, Greater Yellowstone Coalition and the National Parks Conservation Association.

Police: Alleged Car Thief Made Deliveries

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) • Police in Connecticut say a man stole a car used to deliver Chinese food and continued dropping off orders so he could keep the customers' money.

Keith Hinds was charged on Friday with larceny, possession of less than half an ounce of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia and other drug charges.

It was not known Monday morning if the 45-year-old Hinds is represented by a lawyer.

West Hartford police received a call from a Chinese food delivery driver reporting that his car had been stolen after he left it idling to run into a school.

The driver also called his boss so customers could be notified that their orders were stolen with the car. Police say one of the orders was delivered after the car was taken.

Hinds was held on $5,000 bond.

INDIANA BLAST INVESTIGATION FOCUSES ON NATURAL GAS LEAK

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) • The search for what caused a massive, deadly explosion that rocked an Indianapolis neighborhood turned to natural gas Monday, with officials checking gas lines and a homeowner saying a problem furnace could be to blame.

The National Transportation Safety Board sent investigators to check gas main and other lines serving the neighborhood where two people were killed and seven injured in the weekend blast. Local gas supplier Citizens Energy said it also was checking gas lines and a meter at the home that exploded.

But officials cautioned that it was too soon to rule out other causes, saying only that they do not believe a meth lab was to blame for the explosion that obliterated two homes and severely damaged dozens of others.

"It's too early to speculate that this might have been caused by a gas leak," Citizens Energy spokeswoman Sarah Holsapple said at an afternoon news briefing.

The owner of one of the homes that was destroyed said there was a problem with the furnace in the last few weeks.

John Shirley, 50, of Noblesville told The Associated Press that he received a text message within the last week and a half from his daughter, who complained that the furnace in the home where she lived with her mother and her mother's boyfriend had broken. The malfunction had forced them to stay in a hotel, the girl said.

FDA Finds Contamination Issues at Ameridose Lab

WASHINGTON (AP) • Federal health inspectors found numerous potential sources of contamination, including leaky ceilings and insects, at a drug-making facility that has the same founders as the specialty pharmacy linked to a deadly meningitis outbreak.

The Food and Drug Administration on Monday released the results of a monthlong inspection of Ameridose, a Westborough, Mass.-based company that makes injectable drugs. The agency's report, posted online, lists a host of problems at the plant, ranging from manufacturing to sterility to quality control.

Inspectors said they found insects within 10 feet of a supposedly sterile area where drugs were manufactured. In another case, inspectors reported a bird flying into a room where drugs are stored.

Elsewhere, the report cites leaks and cracks in the ceiling and walls of a clean room used to manufacture sterile drugs. The same room contained "thick residues that were orange, brown, and green" on equipment used for sterilization.

FDA inspectors also said the company did not investigate at least 53 incidents of bacterial contamination that arose during testing of stock drug solution.

"There is no documented evidence that your firm implemented permanent corrective actions to prevent these sterility events from recurring," investigators wrote.

Ameridose agreed to shut down for inspection in October after tainted steroids from its sister company, the New England Compounding Center, were linked to a fungal meningitis outbreak that has spread to 19 states and caused 32 deaths. Ameridose operates two facilities in Westborough and provides medication in pre-filled oral syringes to hospitals nationwide. Its drugs range from painkillers to blood thinners to pregnancy drugs.

More Women Obtained Driver's Licenses Than Men

WASHINGTON (AP) • Women have passed men on the nation's roads. More women than men now have driver's licenses, a reversal of a longtime gender gap behind the wheel that transportation researchers say is likely to have safety and economic implications.

If current trends continue, the gap will only widen. The share of teens and young adults of both sexes with driver's licenses is declining, but the decline is greater for young men, according to a study by the University of Michigan's Transportation Research Institute. The study looked at gender trends in driver's licenses between 1995 and 2010.

"The changing gender demographics will have major implications on the extent and nature of vehicle demand, energy consumption, and road safety," predicted Michael Sivak, co-author of the study.

Women are more likely than men to purchase smaller, safer and more fuel-efficient cars; to drive less, and to have a lower fatality rate per distance driven, he said.

Over the 15 years the study covered, the share of men ages 25 to 29 years old with driver's licenses dropped 10.6 percent. The share of women of the same age with driver's licenses declined by about half that amount, 4.7 percent.

Male drivers outnumbered women drivers from the moment the first Ford Model T rolled off the assembly line in 1908, the year the automobile became popular, and through most of the last century. In the 1950s, when only about half of adult women had driver's licenses, jokes about women drivers were a staple of comedians.

But the gap gradually closed. By 1995, men with driver's licenses slightly outnumbered women, 89.2 million to 87.4 million. By 2010, 105.7 million women had licenses, compared with 104.3 million men.

Jerome High principal Ryan Bowman said they also met with several of Lock's friends and a few teachers Monday morning.

In memory of Lock, a group of Jerome High seniors are planning to design and sell T-shirts. Proceeds will go to her family.

Myers and some of his classmates got together Sunday to make a book full of memories for Lock's parents.

"There's a lot of memories from a lot of us," he said.

Paige Vickrey, health occupations and physical education teacher at Jerome High, wrote in an email to the Times-News that Lock had a heart of gold and cared about everyone.

"I admired Hannah for her strong faith in the Lord," she said. "It's comforting to know she is at peace and in a better place."

She said her thoughts and prayers go out to Lock's family.

Lock was an officer for the Health Occupations Students of America club.

Vickrey said Lock was excited about going to a mission trip to Belize over Christmas break as part of her senior project. She had a countdown going.

"She made this world a better place and I'm so grateful I had the opportunity to have her in class," she said.

Jerome High counselor Kathy Muscat described Lock was a "bright penny" who was enthusiastic about trying out a number of different interests, such as music, technology and science.

Smith said music and photography were important to Lock. In addition to playing clarinet, violin and xylophone, she was also active in choir.

Myers recalls a lighthearted incident on one band trip he went on with Lock during their sophomore year. They were sitting at a table at Idaho Piz-za Co. with a few friends.

He said he told Lock that if she put a whole bottle of parmesan cheese on the back of her tongue, it would taste sour. So she gave it a try.

Myers said Lock was always smiling and didn't let on when she was dealing with any challenges.

Smith remembers how Lock performed with the marching band while on crutches after having leg surgery.

"She just accepted that as part of the price of being able to do what she wanted," he said.

Twin Falls County search and rescuers, Twin Falls fire and the Jerome County search and rescue team all regularly train for high angle rescues.

"We probably average canyon related call outs anywhere from eight to 12 calls a year," Jerome County Sheriff Doug McFall said. "About half require an over-the-edge rope situation."

While novice climbers and hikers account for many rescues, experienced recreationalists generally stay safe.

Brown said his crew rarely has to deal with BASE jumping accidents, or incidents with experienced climbers.

"We've had to deal with more fall victims," he said. "(Experienced people) are taking their safety precautions."

"Waiting is not what's best for our children," Luna said. "We're not going to go to the Legislature and propose legislation that is so controversial that it's going to drive the same kind of emotions you've seen in the past couple years. But there are things that we all agree are good parts of the legislation."

In renewing his call for merit bonuses, Luna said the only way Idaho's Republican-controlled Legislature will support anything more than nominal increases in teacher salaries is if they're tied to performance.

Under the existing system, educators are paid according to a grid system combining experience with education levels.

"The most you're going to get out of the Legislature under the salary grid is a healthy debate over whether we should increase it 2 or 3 percent," Luna told reporters.

practice of foreclosing virtually all competition for the hospital admissions of the physician practices it acquires."

In addition to blocking the deal, Saint Alphonsus wants St. Luke's to be forced to pay it three times damages and attorney fees, customary for antitrust cases.

Because Saint Alphonsus's Nampa hospital depends on Saltzer for many of its patients, it said allowing the transaction to proceed could result in 140 layoffs.

Other plaintiffs include Treasure Valley Hospital Limited Partnership, a private surgical venture with Saint Alphonsus with locations in Boise and Nampa, which contends St. Luke's anticipated purchase could force it to lay off 10 percent of its staff and cancel or delay planned capital improvements.

Catholic-owned Saint Alphonsus is a part of Michigan-based Trinity Health, which runs the nation's 10th-largest health system.

Elizabeth Duncan, a Saint Alphonsus spokeswoman in Boise, contends St. Luke's has established a pattern of cutting off patient referrals to nearby hospitals after it buys up physician groups like Saltzer.

"This is all about patient choice," Duncan said. "Saint Alphonsus took this step reluctantly. ... It was essential to protect the Nampa community and the public."

Ken Dey, a spokesman for St. Luke's in Boise, said the hospital needed to first review Saint Alphonsus' contentions before commenting.

St. Luke's is an Idaho-based not-for-profit health system that's been on an expansion tear lately, growing to become Idaho's largest employer. It has acquired more than 20 physician practices, five hospitals and four surgery centers in just a few years.

This activity has attracted the attention of Federal Trade Commission regulators as well as the Idaho Attorney General Lawrence Wasden, whose office has urged St. Luke's to delay completing its Saltzer transaction pending its own review.

"It's quick with pets or kids," he said. "I'm surprised we're not out there more often, to be honest," he said.

Building more walls or fences won't help with safety, since people disregard the ones currently there, Cunningham said. Rather than venturing close to the edge, Cunningham said people who want a great canyon view should use the many lookouts that jut out from the canyon's rim.

"It's really tough to regulate common sense," Brown said. "To make it safer, people just have to use their own common sense."

The Evolution of Poke

From Idaho Player of the Year, to playing as a true freshman at Idaho State, to Mormon missionary, Skylar 'Poke' Morgan has decided to quit football and focus on life as a rancher and family man.

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

RUPERT • Two weeks after returning home from an LDS mission, Skylar "Poke" Morgan was back at the place where he became famous — Minico High's Bill Matthews Field — to watch the Spartans' state quarterfinal game against Skyview.

"It brings back a lot of memories," he said. "But it's weird because some of the kids on the team now, it's amazing how big they've gotten since the last time I've seen them."

Equally amazing is how small Poke has gotten. Once a thick and physical weight room junkie, two years in the Dominican Republic have left him 30 pounds lighter, but perhaps 30 years wiser.

Morgan says his experience in the tiny Caribbean country helped him sort out priorities, and he's decided to end his football playing career.

"I sat back and thought about life more," Morgan said. "I think the experience that I went through changed my outlook on life and what I wanted."

The Spartans had a 25-5 record with Morgan in the backfield. In 2008 he carried Minico to its only state semifinal appearance in school history and was named Idaho's Class 4A Player of the Year.

Speedway Awards Handed Out

BY LINDA BRITTSAN
For the Times-News

TWIN FALLS • Drivers, crew members and others were honored at the annual Magic Valley Speedway awards banquet held Saturday night at Canyon Crest Event Center.

After a very competitive season Kris McKean celebrated his fourth championship in a row in the Super Stocks Series. His title run in 2012 included seven Whelen All-American Racing Series main event wins. Casey Pehrson, runner-up in the final standings, drove to Victory Lane four times, while 15-year-old Hannah Newhouse's season included five main events wins en route to her third-place finish for the season.

As the feature division track champion, McKean was awarded $3,000 from the series sponsor, Whelen Engineering. Pehrson and Newhouse netted $2,000 and $1,200, respectively.

With MVS NASCAR's only Idaho sanctioned track, McKean also gathered $2,000 for capturing the state championship while Pehrson was awarded $1,000 plus another $1,000 for earning Rookie of the Year honors. Newhouse added $500 to her winnings for finishing third in the state standings.

Josh Black, with the McKean racing team, was recognized as Mechanic of the Year.

After spending most of the early portion of the season behind Paul Browne in the Street Stocks standings, Ernie Hall accelerated his game to capture a total of nine main event wins on the way to his championship in the division. Browne held on to finish second in the division, followed by Jason Todd.

Magic Valley Celebrates Water Polo Dynasty

TWIN FALLS • The best regional high school dynasty added one more trophy to its mantle last Tuesday, its fourth in six years.

Without much fanfare, the Magic Valley water polo team defeated Skyline 13-0, Lake City 11-6, Eagle 7-3 and Moscow 8-5 in the championship match to win its second consecutive state title.

"We have great kids, some real talent and they picked it up quick," head coach Dave Buddecke said. "We do really well during Olympic years. They played great together and everybody got in the pool."

Most players swim on their respective swim teams at the YMCA before practicing for the water polo team, which occurs right after swimming practice is over for each of the Great Basin schools that share pools.

Because there aren't enough teams in the state and not enough money to fund trips across the state, Magic Valley plays but once a year, after the state swim meet in the state tournament which occurred Nov. 6.

"It's something different," goalie and Twin Falls swimmer and basketball player Luke Burgett said. "Not a lot of people know about it. After I tried it

Petersen Puzzling over Boise State's Return Woes

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOISE • Many coaches might be hard pressed to find flaws in Boise State's 49-14 shellacking of Hawaii.

But Broncos coach Chris Petersen is puzzling to explain another series of breakdowns and mistakes that enabled the Warriors to return a first-quarter kickoff for a touchdown, the second time Boise State has allowed a 100-yard return in the last two games.

Against San Diego State two weeks ago, the Aztecs ran back the opening kickoff for a touchdown and set the tone the rest of the way in their 21-19 upset of the Broncos. Then on Saturday, Hawaii's Mike Edwards answered a Boise State touchdown with another 100-yard return.

The Broncos (8-2, 5-1 Mountain West) were able to overcome Edwards' dash and went on to score the next 42 points and put the game out of reach. But Petersen says he's concerned about the recent lapses on special teams — an area Boise State has come to dominate in during his seven-year tenure — and he blames injuries, poor tackling and focus for a drop-off that has the Broncos ranked an uncharacteristic 58th nationally in kickoff return yardage allowed.

"There's something we need to fix, no question about that," Petersen said Monday. "We need to tackle better. Guys need to get off blocks a little better. I think the health of our team has showed up for a little bit I found I was good at it and I stuck with it.”

Per rules, two female players must be in the pool at all times. For Magic Valley, one of those was Canyon Ridge senior Megan Mayo, a first-year wing.

“A lot of my friends talked about how much fun it'd be, and it was,” Mayo said. “But the state tournament was a little intimidating. It could get pretty rough (under the water). I've heard some pretty shocking, gruesome stories. But I definitely liked the games more than the practices. I wish I had played my previous three years.”

Mayo, who was also on the Riverhawks' swim team, said that “it was good to unite” with some of her former competitors, many of whom she faced in the swim meet.

But it was old hat for Burgett, who's swum with many of his teammates going all the way back to grade school. A member of water polo all four years, Burgett wants to play college water polo depending on where he gets accepted.

“It's a really great sport and I wish there was more participation in the state,” Burgett said. “It's a lot like soccer, but it's also very physical and they let a lot of things go, so it's like rugby.”

A sport with no running and practices mostly confined to competition would seemingly attract more players.

“We don't work on conditioning so much because we scrimmage so much,” Burgett said. “I'm a goalie and played every minute, so I'm treading water all the time. I think it will pick up (popularity).”

Big East Big Winner in New Bowl Format

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Big East will compete with four conferences that have not had BCS automatic-qualifying status for a guaranteed spot in the lucrative marquee bowl games when college football's new postseason system starts in 2014.

That group of five conferences just won't have a bowl of its own.

The conference commissioners decided Monday during a meeting with university presidents in Denver that the new four-team playoff will rotate through six games as originally planned.

In September, a proposal was put forth to add a seventh game to the rotation that would match the best team from the Big East, Mountain West, Conference USA, Sun Belt and Mid-American Conference against a team from the Pac-12 or Big 12 when it did not host a semifinal.

But television networks weren't all that interested in paying in excess of $20 million a year more for a game that could potentially feature low-profile teams.

The commissioners considered incorporating that best-of-the-rest against the Pac-12 or Big 12 matchup within a six-bowl structure, but that would have locked up too many spots. Instead, a guaranteed bid was created to give the so-called group of five a place in the top games.

“This gives us an opportunity to compete,” Big East commissioner Mike Aresco told reporters after the meeting. “That's what we want. We're adding new teams and we think we're going to be a stronger league. This gives us a chance to prove it.”

The Big East stands to benefit the most from the decision to add the automatic berth.

The rebuilding conference has automatic qualifier status in the Bowl Championship Series, but with the BCS going away the league has been battling to retain its status as one of the power conferences in college football. It's a battle that could potentially cost the conference millions in bowl revenue and television rights fees.

While this still relegates the Big East to a place below the other current BCS automatic-qualifying conference (Pac-12, Big 12, Big Ten, ACC and SEC), which all have deals in place with major bowls, it should keep the league playing in high profile games regularly.

The Big East will expand to 12 football teams next season, adding Boise State among others, and appears well positioned to be the strongest conference out of the five.

“It wasn't about a seventh bowl,” Big East senior associate commissioner Nick Carparelli tweeted Monday. “It was about a guaranteed spot. It is better for everyone if there are 6 bowls. Mission accomplished!”

Trout, Harper Voted Rookies of the Year

NEW YORK • Mike Trout of the Los Angeles Angels became the youngest AL Rookie of the Year on Monday and Bryce Harper of the Washington Nationals was voted the second-youngest winner of the NL honor.

Trout, who turned 21 on Aug. 7, received all 28 first-place votes from the Baseball Writers' Association of America's AL panel. The center fielder was the eighth unanimous AL pick and the first since Tampa Bay's Evan Longoria in 2008.

Trout, who hit .326 with 30 homers and 83 RBIs, received the maximum 140 points. Oakland outfielder Yoenis Cespedes was second with 63, followed by Texas pitcher Yu Darvish (46), who joined Trout as the only players listed on every ballot.

Detroit second baseman Lou Whitaker had been the youngest AL winner in 1978, but he was 2 months, 26 days older than Trout when he took home the award.

In addition to Trout and Longoria, the only other unanimous AL winners were Nomar Garciaparra, Derek Jeter, Tim Salmon, Sandy Alomar Jr., Mark McGwire and Carlton Fisk.

Trout, a son of former Minnesota minor league infielder Jeff Trout, spent some time in the majors last year but still retained his rookie status. He began this season in the minors and made his first big league appearance this year on April 28 — the day of Harper's major league debut. Trout's season put him in contention for the AL MVP award along with Triple Crown winner Miguel Cabrera of Detroit. That voting is announced Thursday.

For winning the award, Trout earned a $10,000 bonus on top of his $482,500 salary.

Harper turned 20 on Oct. 16. The outfielder got 16 of 32 first-place votes and 112 points from the NL panel. Arizona pitcher Wade Miley was second with 12 first-place votes and 105 points, followed by Cincinnati slugger Todd Frazier with three firsts and 45 points.

Harper was the top pick of the 2010 amateur draft and batted .270 with 22 home runs and 59 RBIs as Washington brought postseason play to the nation's capital for the first time since 1933. Only Tony Conigliaro (24) hit more home runs as a teenager.

Harper became the youngest position player in All-Star history. At 20 years, 27 days on Monday, he was 24 days older than New York Mets pitcher Dwight Gooden when he won the NL award in 1984.

At this time last year, Trout and Harper were teammates on the Scottsdale Scorpions in the Arizona Fall League. The pair were among a record five rookie All-Stars.

Banning Jeff Gordon Would Have Killed 'Boys, Have At It'

NASCAR had a real dilemma on its hands with this whole Jeff Gordon mess hanging over the season finale.

History suggested Gordon could have been suspended from Sunday's race at Homestead-Miami Speedway as punishment for intentionally wrecking Clint Bowyer at Phoenix, sparking a brawl in the garage. That's the punishment Kyle Busch got a year ago for retaliating against Ron Hornaday Jr. in a Truck Series event at Texas.

But was NASCAR seriously going to sit the four-time champion? From the season finale?

Nope. He instead got a $100,000 fine from NASCAR, which also docked him 25 points in the championship standings.

Maybe NASCAR should have also thanked him for triggering the fight and frenzied final sequence of events that had half the country talking about the series on Monday.

Even without that, the penalty was the right call by NASCAR, which walks a fine line between sport and entertainment — and has only itself to blame.

Some viewed Sunday as a black eye for NASCAR, but others were celebrating it as one of the best races of the season. It wasn't lost on Kevin Harvick, who snapped a 44-race losing streak with the victory.

“The sport was made on fights. We should have more fights,” he said. “Fights are what made NASCAR what it is.”

NASCAR heard the complaints from fans that drivers had become too corporate, the sport had strayed too far from its rough and tumble roots and scores were no longer settled at the track. The 2009 finale at Homestead was one of those throw-back races, and the crowd roared as drivers used their cars to deliver old-school justice.

President Mike Helton said at the time: “We didn't certainly intend to make it too sterile, but the drivers were afraid to be themselves, and that's not good.”

So NASCAR relaxed at the start of the next season, using a “Boys, Have At It” policy that allowed the drivers to police themselves.

The boys tested NASCAR just four races in when Carl Edwards waited 153 laps for his crew to fix his car for the sole purpose of getting back on the track at Atlanta to wreck Brad Keselowski. Edwards' high-speed contact sent Keselowski's car airborne, and there were immediate calls for Edwards to be suspended.

But doing so would have been the immediate end of the policy, and Edwards instead got off with a mere three races of probation. The boys have been allowed to have at it ever since.

There has been bumping and banging, and Tony Stewart's threats to wreck each and every driver who blocks him from now until the end of time. There's an occasional flare-up, an intentional act or two, and NASCAR intervenes when needed.

Then came last November at Texas, when Busch blatantly put Hornaday, a championship contender, into the wall under caution.

Unlike Edwards, he absolutely deserved to be suspended.

Where NASCAR erred was in insisting that Busch had been suspended solely for the Hornaday incident when he had been out of control most of last season and arrogantly behaving as if his talent made him untouchable. In fact, Hornaday had called for Busch to be suspended for that weekend's Cup race, an option Busch seemed to dismiss in an interview after the accident.

By suspending him the next morning, NASCAR sent a message it was in charge and Busch better start behaving.

Gordon's decision to wreck Bowyer — he says Bowyer deserved it for a season's worth of misdeeds — is more like the Edwards incident. Or perhaps more like another incident last season, when Brian Vickers promised retaliation against Matt Kenseth and then rode eight games as a true freshman. His Bengal future looked bright.

“I felt like there was a lot on my shoulders, but I've always loved challenges,” Morgan said.

A lifelong member of the LDS Church, Morgan initially had no desire to go on a mission. But after his freshman year, he had a change of heart.

“The thing that hit me, I thought how could I really tell my kid someday that he needed to go on a mission if I never did?” Morgan said.

According to Morgan, the ISU coaching staff, upon hearing of his mission plans, gave him an ultimatum: Stay and play football, or you won't have a scholarship waiting when you get home.

The decision was easy.

“I love football,” Morgan said. “Football has always had my heart. I'll love the game until the day I die. But I feel like I would be putting off more important things and that I could help other people. I'm being selfish to go play football.”

Up until halfway through his two-year mission, Morgan had planned to play football again after his return, even if that meant walking on somewhere.

But then one day everything changed.

A storm caused massive flooding in a village where Morgan was serving. He came across a 7-year-old boy who had no clothes besides his underwear and an old shirt wrapped around his dog. His house had been swept away by the flooding river, taking his mom, dad and two brothers with it. The boy was the only one who made it out safely. Morgan and his companion helped him find a relative to stay with.

“We got home that night and I took it hard. I prayed to God to ask why that had to happen to that little boy,” Morgan said. “It made me realize the importance of my family. It put the desire in my heart to want to come back and just want to be around my family.”

Since returning home Oct. 21, Poke Morgan has hit the next chapter of his life the same way he used to hit the hole as a running back — full speed ahead.

He's already engaged to Jill Hepworth, his girlfriend since high school, and the couple plans to marry on Dec. 12.

“Getting married right now, I know I want to give Jill the time she deserves and be the right guy for her,” Morgan said. “I know if I went back (to football), I know the schedule, I know how much time it takes up and what you have to put in. I don't feel like I could be the guy she deserves.”

Morgan is now working full time as a manager at his family's calf ranch. The same work ethic that lifted him to become one of the best high school football players in Idaho — and in Minico history — will continue to serve him well.

“I'll miss it. I think I love the game so much because it taught me a lot,” Morgan said. “The missionary I was, and the guy I am today, that hard work I learned from football. I know today if I work hard at my job and try to be the best guy I can, then I'll see the benefits of it.”

there. So it's all those things." There may also something to be said of the players returning kicks. Edwards' touchdown was his third of the season and he ranks seventh nationally in kick returns, averaging 31 yards per return. San Diego State's Collin Lockett has two TD returns and ranks 27th in the country. "There's excuses for everything," Petersen said.

"That's not what we're all about here. It's not any one thing. It's just interesting how in a couple weeks we can go from a great kickoff coverage team to all of a sudden we're on our heels." Injuries and player discipline issues sure haven't helped the cause. The Broncos are playing without at least four key players from their kick coverage unit, including starting safety Lee Hightower and freshman tight end Hayden Plinke, both of whom have missed three games for violating team rules. Another important cog on kick coverage is nickel Dextrel Simmons, who was injured against Wyoming Oct. 27 and appears ready to return to action Saturday when the Broncos play their final home game of the year against Colorado State (3-7, 2-4). The Broncos remain in a tie for first place with San Diego State, which closes its season Nov. 24 against Wyoming, and Fresno State, which plays its finale the same day against Air Force.

"O that I had ne'er been married,
I had never had nae care...."
— Robert Burns

Debbie Rosenberg, who is married to top expert Michael, demonstrated here that the talent in that family is not limited to her husband. Debbie was also part of the U.S. squad that won the World Junior Teams in 1991, and she had numerous major successes in the women's game. Here, she is at work in a delicate contract of three hearts.

West led a club to East's jack. It did not seem right to East to give up on the club tenace by continuing the suit (although that does defeat the contract), so East quite reasonably shifted to the spade nine. West took two rounds of spades and played a third spade. Rosenberg ruffed in dummy and appeared to have five top losers. However, she realized that she had been given a chance, since the defense no longer had any communication in the club suit.

However, the winning path is by no means obvious. But, given that East appeared to have all the remaining clubs, West was marked with the balance of high cards to make up his opening bid. Therefore, Rosenberg cashed the top hearts and led a low diamond to her 10 and West's queen. West hopefully led a spade, but Rosenberg could win her king since East was out of trump. She drew the last trump, finessed the diamond jack, and parked her club loser on the diamond ace to make nine tricks for an excellent result.

ANSWER: If you play that the two-diamond call is a waiting bid, you may feel that your previous cooperation with three spades was sufficient, and that you should not encourage partner any further with any additional show of strength. I'd be inclined to bid five spades, though, if my first call was a negative. My doubletons and four trumps are just enough to persuade me to bid again.

DEAR ABBY: I want to share my experience with being a distracted driver. One gorgeous, sunny day a few months ago, I happened to glance down at my iPad and the next thing I knew, I had hit the car in front of me. The airbags engaged and hit me and my golden retriever, who was in the front seat with me. He was so freaked out he jumped out the window into oncoming traffic. I chased him, but lost him as he darted through traffic on the busy streets.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

Fortunately, a couple found him and brought him to a vet who scanned his chip. I got him back, and it is a gift from heaven — but he was severely injured. With time, he will make a full recovery, but my stupid mistake hurt my most cherished companion. I can't forgive myself. From now on, those devices go in the trunk.

— REFORMED DISTRACTED DRIVER
DEAR REFORMED: That's a start. And in the future, your cherished companion should ride in the BACK seat — with the windows closed and wearing a restraint so that in the event of another traffic problem he won't be reinjured. Because you are in communication with your veterinarian, ask him or her what type is recommended.

DEAR ABBY: I am a mature, adult woman in my 40s who has never had a good relationship with my mother. Candidly, she is a mean person who has left a lot of hurt feelings in her wake. It makes being close to her impossible. Our entire family feels the way I do about her, including her only surviving sister.

I will be remarrying soon. Although I feel that inviting my mother to my wedding is the right thing to do, it could mean potentially inviting disaster — literally. I'm having trouble coming to terms with this decision and would love your input.

— NEEDS GUIDANCE IN CALIFORNIA
DEAR NEEDS GUIDANCE: Your mother appears to be a bitter, possibly disturbed woman. If she isn't invited, the hurt and angry feelings could reverberate for years. Because the rest of your family knows the way she is, consider inviting her on the condition that she will be on her best behavior — AND with the understanding that if she "lapses," some family members will escort her out.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has met my co-workers and their spouses at various company-related events. He recently mentioned that he has seen "Wally," who is married to one of my co-workers, "Anna," with another woman on more than one occasion. Apparently, Wally didn't recognize my husband.

Should I "casually" mention to Anna that my husband saw her husband and where, and let her figure it out for herself? My husband said it's up to me to decide whether to tell her or not. If it were me, I'd want to know.

— OLDER BUT NOT WISER IN PENNSYLVANIA
DEAR O.B.N.W.: I suppose you could casually mention it to Anna, but don't be surprised if she casually responds that the woman is his sister, his cousin or a daughter by a former marriage. It may be perfectly innocent.

DEAR ABBY: My friend left a plant for me to take care of while she was out of town. The plant died. Do I replace the plant?

— NO GREEN THUMB IN LUBBOCK, TEXAS
DEAR NO GREEN THUMB: If the plant was thriving when your friend asked you to care for it, and it died because of lack of sun or water while in your care, then the answer is yes — you should at least offer to replace it. For your sake, I hope it wasn't a rare orchid.

In 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a measure lowering the minimum draft age from 21 to 18.

In 1956, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down laws calling for racial segregation on public city and state buses.

In 1969, speaking in Des Moines, Iowa, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew accused network television news departments of bias and distortion, and urged viewers to lodge complaints.

In 1971, the U.S. space probe Mariner 9 went into orbit around Mars.

In 1974, Karen Silkwood, a technician and union activist at the Kerr-McGee Cimarron plutonium plant near Crescent, Okla., died in a car crash while on her way to meet a reporter.

In 1985, some 23,000 residents of Armero, Colombia, died when a volcanic mudslide buried the city.

Ten years ago: Claiming Iraq was seeking the “path of peace,” Saddam Hussein’s government agreed to the return of international weapons inspectors. U.S. Roman Catholic bishops overwhelmingly approved a compromise sex abuse policy after the Vatican demanded they make changes to balance fairness to priests with compassion for victims. Jewish Defense League leader Irv Rubin died nine days after what authorities said was a suicide attempt in a Los Angeles jail; he was 57.

Five years ago: Pakistani opposition leader Benazir Bhutto demanded the resignation of U.S.-backed President Gen. Pervez Musharraf, dashing Western hopes the two would form an alliance to confront strengthening Islamic extremists. French rail workers went on a nine-day strike over President Nicolas Sarkozy’s bid to strip away labor protections. CC Sabathia won the AL Cy Young Award to become the first Cleveland pitcher in 35 years to earn the honor.

One year ago: President Barack Obama dove into a day of summit diplomacy in his home state of Hawaii as he gathered with leaders of 20 other nations of the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation forum. A day after Silvio Berlusconi reluctantly resigned as Italy’s premier, economist Mario Monti accepted the monumental task of trying to form a new government that could rescue Italy from financial ruin.

IF NOVEMBER 13 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You may be inspired by your friends to reach more ambitious goals in the job, career or financial areas during the next eight to 10 weeks. If you are single, a romantic relationship might quicken your heartbeat in April. If you are already happily paired with a special someone, your relationship can be refreshed and blossoming in new areas. May is a favorable month to make crucial decisions or plans and put them in motion. Listen for the sound of opportunity knocking because whatever comes to you this month will be very good for you or improve your life in some significant way.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Do a good deed, as it really is true that actions speak louder than words. Feedback from others may vary from positive to negative, so remain guided by only the highest principles.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Ignore intuitions and nagging doubts. Remain observant, as the new moon can indicate a favorable fresh start in key relationships. There is a reason people say that you should walk it like you talk it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Good things come to those who wait. An important pending decision may be causing stress. Remain patient. You will find that if your objectives are worthy, the wait will be worth the extra time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your attention shifts with the new moon. Use your superb business know-how to handle finances with finesse. Embrace big dreams, but never forget about support, loyalty and old commitments.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Be a dream believer. This week, your subconscious may provide worthy advice to a current situation. Follow your intuitions and develop insights, as today's new moon emphasizes key family relationships.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Banish backseat drivers. Meddling could create misunderstandings and add to turmoil. Present others with complete honesty in business deals; trying to gain an unfair advantage will work against you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): This isn't a great day to impress people, make persuasive arguments or try to exert influence over others. The potential for misunderstandings is still rather high, so pass up any heart-to-heart talks.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): It is time to forgive, forget and move on. Powerful ambitions can be realized if you hook up with the right person. You may meet someone who is both a mover and shaker. Let bygones be bygones.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Success usually comes to those who are too busy to look for it. Family responsibilities might briefly prevent you from concentrating on career or a crucial workload. Get back in step tomorrow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Speed up the assembly line and increase your productivity. You are at the top of your game and are able to double your workload with ease. Make snap decisions; your instincts are finely tuned.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Go the extra mile to make a good impression. Showing a little gusto toward your work will draw the notice and admiration of superiors. Stay focused, as what you create or build now may be permanent.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Mountains and molehills certainly are not the same. When someone says the wrong thing or makes a silly mistake, it is best to ignore it. Try being the diplomatic king of your group.
