Students Participate in Annual Braille Challenge

BY ANDREW WEEKS
aweeks@magicvalley.com

GOODING • Donning yellow T-shirts, five teenage boys, each taking cues from their teacher, sung a mantra to get them in the mood for the day’s work.

Before long, they were sitting at their desks, walking poles by their sides, and began typing. These blind students weren’t using regular typewriters or computer keyboards, but braille machines.

The boys, students in grades 7-12 at the Idaho School for the Deaf and Blind, participated in the annual statewide Braille Challenge on Thursday at the school. Another student, a fourth-grade girl, will participate in the challenge later this month due to health reasons.

Forty-two regional competitions are held across the United States and Canada from mid-January through mid-March. This is the 12th year the Gooding school has hosted the challenge, said Braille teacher Jan Zollinger.

The closed-door competition, a two-stage contest, is designed to motivate blind students to emphasize their study of braille. The country’s top 60 contestants will travel to Los Angeles in June to participate in the final competition at the Braille Institute of America.

While students geared up to spend four hours at their desks Thursday, their agenda had room for some snacks and what Zollinger called a “brain break.”

Learning, she said, should be a good experience, one of the reasons she started the session with a song:

“Learning braille is fun,” the students repeated.

The boys seemed to get into the spirit.

“Woo-hoo,” Quike Lopez shouted.

Idaho School for the Deaf and the Blind student Wasim Hussni competes in the annual Braille competition begin Thursday morning in Gooding.

The statewide challenge, open to students ages 6-19, covers four categories: reading comprehension, braille speed and accuracy, proofreading and spelling, and reading tactile charts and graphs.

“The hardest for me is spelling,” said 16-year-old Howard Morris. His favorite was proofreading.

How Much Weight Can the Canyon Rim Take?

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Rebuilding a home on the canyon rim may increase its property value, but what’s it doing to the ground below?

That question was part of a discussion during Monday’s Twin Falls City Council meeting while members decided whether to waive a hearing process for non-conforming building expansions for a residential home near the rim.

Geological studies can reveal details of the canyon rim’s ability to handle larger and heavier homes. But the studies are extremely costly for a homeowner or developer, said Mayor Greg Lanting at the meeting.

“I would just like to know if putting a heavier house on the canyon has any impact,” he said.

City code requires that all undeveloped properties, commercial or residential, go through a geological study. However, already developed property doesn’t have that same requirement.

Most of the properties along the rim have already been developed, said Rene’e Carraway, zoning and development manager for the city.

City code requires that all undeveloped properties, commercial or residential, go through a geological study. However, already developed property doesn’t have that same requirement, she said.

“It’s up to the developer to decide,” she said.

Several of the homes along the canyon rim were built before the city code requirement and are now being rebuilt or expanded, Carraway said. So while the land is developed, the property may have gone through a geological study to determine the canyon’s sturdiness or long-term ability to hold up a heavier home.

The city code requirement was added in the 1990s. However, once developed, homeowners may not be obligated to do a study before taking on a construction project.

The city doesn’t keep the geological study records since the developer is in charge of paying for the study. The public would have to contact the developer to learn more about the geological structure of the properties, she said.

“It was certainly worth discussing at the (Monday) meeting,” she said. “But it did not end up where the council saw that a study was needed.”

Winter Storm Warning Today

Upper level storm system moves in across northern Nevada today, this will spread snow across the Owyhees, the South Hills, western Magic Valley and southern Cassia County today and into Saturday morning. There are numerous Winter Storm Warnings for all of southern Idaho and Winter Weather Advisories for many counties north of the Snake River.

Amounts will range from three to six inches from Jerome, Twin Falls over to

Brian Neudorff

Meteorologist

Burley. As you go farther south into Twin Falls County amounts get higher. Some places could see six to twelve inches with locations like Magic Mountain over toward Jackpot receiving a foot or more of snow. North of the Snake River amounts will range from one to three inches. There could be four to eight inches above 7,000 feet in the Wood River region.

Winds will also become breezy across southern Twin Falls and southern Cassia County. Gust could be anywhere between 20 to 30 mph. This will produce blowing and drifting snow across highways 15 and 93. If you have to travel in these areas and even part of interstate 84 across Twin Falls and Cassia counties down toward Salt Lake City use caution. Driving could become very slick and hazardous.

Snow tapers off on Saturday with temperatures behind this system get colder. Highs Saturday through Tuesday will be in the low to mid-30s, with mostly dry and mostly sunny skies.

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Contestants in the Magic Valley Weight Loss Challenge have somewhere to be this weekend.

The contest's first workout challenge is scheduled for 8-10 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 9, at the Magic Valley Mall. Participants will walk the mall during that time, and YMCA fitness coaches will be available to help participants develop their own personal goals for the day. Kurt's Pharmacy will have a representative present to weigh in contestants.

Several giveaways are planned, including a $50 gift certificate from the mall, a membership from the YMCA, and free smoothies from Jamba Juice.

Adults, Teen Arrested After Undercover Drug Operation

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
 alsmith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • When his girlfriend's grandma asked him if he wanted to sell marijuana, he didn't say no.

Over the next nine months, the 16-year-old would visit grandma's house "30 to 50 times" to pick up marijuana to sell to his friends.

But it didn't end well.

Kenneth Leigh Tracy, 59, and Claudia Louise Friesel, 57, were both arrested on charges of delivery of a controlled substance, delivery of a controlled substance while children are present and possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver. The 16-year-old was charged with four counts of delivery of a controlled substance.

After the boy was arrested on Jan. 29 he allegedly told police he began dating Friesel's granddaughter about a year and a half ago. The boy said Friesel eventually offered him marijuana and asked the boy if he knew anyone who wanted to buy marijuana, the report states.

The police report states that an undercover detective bought marijuana from the boy several times during the month of January.

On Jan. 25 detectives from ISP, Twin Falls police and probation and parole all met at a house in the 500 block of Polk Street to search the residence.

According to the report, officers met Tracy in the front yard of the home where he allegedly told him there was no marijuana in the house that he knew of. Tracy told police Friesel was at a doctor's appointment, the report states.

During their search police reported finding loose marijuana, glass pipes, glass bongs, rolling papers, bags with marijuana residue, a metal grinder containing marijuana, four glass jars which held marijuana and were hidden in a pair of boots, a gallon bag containing marijuana, a digital scale, storage containers with marijuana residue and a handgun along with rounds.

Police also found Tracy's cellphone and iPad on the kitchen counter in the home. According to the police report, the devices contained photos of marijuana and marijuana grow rooms. The report states the marijuana in the photos had the same purple tint that marijuana in the home had. Tracy allegedly told police the pictures were sent to him by licensed marijuana growers in Oregon and Washington.

Later on the day of the search, the undercover detective got a call from the 16-year-old boy.

"My home boys got busted," he allegedly said. "One's in hiding and one's busted. They're in handcuffs right now. If I find out that it was you, you better watch yourself. They're getting arrested because of the pound that I was trying to sell."

The boy allegedly told police Friesel and Tracy would go to a grandfather clock in the kitchen and get marijuana out of a hidden compartment whenever the boy needed more to sell. Friesel and Tracy both have preliminary hearings set for Feb. 15.

OBITUARIES

Nicholas Ryan McDonald-Szabo

Sept. 20, 1994-Jan. 31, 2013

TWIN FALLS • Nicholas Ryan McDonald-Szabo was born Sept. 20, 1994, in Twin Falls, Idaho, and returned home to our Heavenly Father on Thursday, Jan. 31, 2013, in Willow Creek, Calif.

Nicholas was a special spirit who enjoyed exploring, collecting various things, camping and spending time with his family, especially his best friend and brother, Jon.

Nicholas is survived by his parents, Caroline McDonald and Mark Jonathan Szabo; his brother, Jonathan Stewart McDonald-Szabo; grandparents, Gayle Trammer McDonald and Kenneth (Connie) McDonald. Nicholas will be missed dearly by his great-grandmothers, Iona May Trammer and Iris Jaynes; and his many aunts, uncles, cousins and all that knew him.

The funeral will be held at 2 p.m. Monday, Feb. 11, at the Eastland LDS Church, 847 Eastland Drive N. in Twin Falls; visitation will take place from 5 to 7 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 10, at Reynolds Funeral Chapel, 2466 Addison Ave. E. in Twin Falls, as well as one hour before the funeral Monday at the church.

In lieu of flowers, a memorial fund has been set up and donations can be made at any First Federal location under the Nicholas Ryan McDonald-Szabo Memorial Fund. Contributions may be given to funeral chapel staff or dropped off at any First Federal Bank branch.

Services are under the direction of Trent Stimpson and staff at Reynolds Funeral Chapel in Twin Falls. Condolences may be left for the family by visiting www.reynoldschapel.com.

Merle Wilson

July 8, 1938-Feb. 5, 2013

Merle was born July 8, 1938, in Wasco, Calif., to Carl and Grace Deatherage. Mamma was the fifth and last child. She always said granddad waited until he got the "Perfect One," so when she was born there was never a need for more. Some of her siblings had a slightly different version. Granddad would only laugh when I asked if that was true.

Merle loved all sports and earned awards in almost all high school sports. She continued to enjoy sports until her body started failing. Later in life, she enjoyed watching her great-grandsons, Austin and Tristin, play.

After high school, momma joined the U.S. Army and served two years before being honorably discharged. When granddaughter, Tessa, followed in her footsteps of service, the two of them could often be found laughing about Tessa "out ranking" her grandma. She married Don Wilson on March 17, 1965, in Pixley, Calif., and was at his side as they served in the ministry for 43 years until he went home to be with Jesus on Oct. 10, 2008. January of 1968, we moved to Gooding, Idaho, where he was called to serve as a minister for the Church of Christ. They loved the Lord and remained faithful servants to Him and worked diligently for God until He called them both home.

Merle's accomplishments could more than fill the newspaper, but her pride and joy were her four granddaughters and four great-grandchildren she was blessed with.

Merle was preceded in death by her husband, Don Wilson; parents, Carl and Grace Deatherage; brothers, Gaylend, Quay and Carl Jr.; and one infant grandson. Surviving are her daughter, Toni Wilson Maya and her husband, Alejandro of Buhl; granddaughters, Misti Burkhalter of Castleford, April and Kirk Loomis of Buhl, Heather and Tommy Fleming of Filer, and Tessa and Brian Blackmon of Amarillo, Texas; and great-grandchildren, Austin, Tristin and Justin Loomis of Buhl, and Addison Claire Blackmon of Amarillo, Texas. Merle is also survived by her sister, Doris Williams of Porterville, Calif.; and sister-in-law, Janet Gray of Battle Mountain, Nev.; along with several nieces and nephews.

A funeral service will be held at 11 a.m. Monday, Feb. 11, at the Church of Christ in Twin Falls under the direction of Lance Cox and staff. Burial will follow at Sunset Memorial Park. A visitation will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 10, at White Mortuary "Chapel by the Park." In lieu of flowers the family asks donations be made to the American Diabetes Association.

Milford E. 'Willy' Rose Jr.

He was born in RevLoc, Pa., on July 1, 1932, to Milford E. Rose and Ethel Walls Rose. The family moved to Alhambra, Calif., where Milford graduated from High School in 1951. Willy enlisted in the U.S. Navy (submarines) in 1952 during the Korean War. He served on the USS Bashaw-SS 241. When he came aboard, his commander would always say to the crew, "Time to dive; Rosie's seasick." Willy served two years in the Navy. Willy met his wife, Fran, on a blind date and they married in May 1956. They had three children, Mike, Judy and Jenny.

He became an electrician with the IBEW in Los Angeles, Calif. He retired after 25 years and moved to Idaho, where he worked for 10 years as an electrical inspector for the state in Blaine County and Twin Falls County. After full retirement, his greatest love was working in his workshop to build small wooden toys for children in the Health and Welfare system at Christmas time. He was called "Santa's Helper." Willy took great joy and pride in doing the toys for nine years.

Willy leaves Fran, his wife of 56 years; three children; nine grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren. He will be missed by all those who knew him and loved him.

A celebration of Milford's life will take place at a graveside service at 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 9, at Sunset Memorial Park in Twin Falls, Idaho, with Bishop Steven Arrington conducting and military rites by the Magic Valley Honor Guard and the Idaho National Guard.

WWII Aviator, Businessman and Official Dies at 95

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) • Ken Jernstedt, a famed World War II aviator, successful Hood River businessman and longtime public Oregon official, has died at 95.

The Oregonian reports that Jernstedt, who died Tuesday, was a flight leader for the Flying Tigers who fought for China against Japan before the U.S. entered the war.

Afterward, he ran the Coca-Cola plant in Hood River, where he was a two-term mayor. He was elected to the Oregon House in 1966 and served five terms in the state Senate.

Jeremy Roy Eldredge

Sept. 5, 1989-Feb. 3, 2013

TWIN FALLS • Jeremy Roy Eldredge, 23, passed away Sunday, Feb. 3, 2013, in his home surrounded by his loving family.

Jeremy was born to Kenny and Karie on Sept. 5, 1989, in Twin Falls, Idaho. Jeremy graduated from Lighthouse Christian School in 2008 and was an incredibly gifted athlete. Jeremy excelled in football, but his true passion was basketball. He was awarded All-Conference Player in both sports. Jeremy continued on with Lighthouse football as an assistant coach. One of his favorite pastimes was going to the gym or working out with dad at home. Jeremy loved spending time with his sister and brothers and their families; he adored all of his nieces and nephews. Jeeping with his family brought the biggest smile to Jer's face and oh, what a smile he had.

Jeremy was in an automobile accident in May of 2009 that nearly took his life. He suffered a major brain trauma and should not have survived. That is where "Jeremy's Journey" began. Many lives have been touched during his physical struggles during the last 3½ years. We as a family have been able to see through the lives of other people why Jeremy survived.

Jeremy is survived by his parents, Kenny and Karie; sister (and best friend) Lindsey (Chris) Collins; brothers, Justin (Heather) Eldredge and Brandon (Randi) Eldredge; grandmas, Barbara Kreft and Ann Eldredge; grandpa, Allen Eldredge; uncles, Kevin (Melodie) Kreft, Garren (Jeanne) Taylor and Jordan (Laverne) Eldredge; aunts, Jenny (John) Resch, Galene Taylor and Genell (Glenn) Mutter; nieces, Camille and Camber Collins; and nephews, Tristin, Tanner, Mayson, Brayden, Austyn and Carson; as well as many cousins and so many dear friends. Jeremy was greeted in heaven by his grandpa, Phil Kreft; grandma, Gisela Eldredge; nephew, Camden Collins; and niece, Maycee Eldredge.

We wish to give many thanks to Dr. Cole Johnson and caregivers at River Ridge Rehabilitation facility and a special thank you to Travis, Sophie and Rick from St. Luke's Hospice.

For Jeremy's family, the sun may never shine as bright nor the grass seem quite as green; our lives have been so much richer for Jeremy having been in it. "And now these three remain: faith, hope and love, but the greatest is love" (1 Corinthians 13:13).

A celebration of Jeremy's life will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 9, at Lighthouse Christian Fellowship in Twin Falls.

In lieu of flowers, it would bless our family for donations to be made to The Jeremy Eldredge Memorial Scholarship Fund at Jeremy's alma mater, Lighthouse Christian School, 960 Eastland Drive, Twin Falls, ID 83301.

Those who wish may share memories and condolences on Jeremy's memorial page at www.magicvalley-funeralhome.com. Arrangements are under the direction of Parke's Magic Valley Funeral Home of Twin Falls.

Rex Ottley

Aug. 22, 1920-Feb. 3, 2013

BURLEY • Rex Ottley passed away peacefully Sunday, Feb. 3, 2013, at Cedar Hills, Utah, at the age of 92.

He was born Aug. 22, 1920, at Elba, Idaho. He was the son of Lewis and Margaret Andrus Ottley. He bravely endured his battle with cancer right up until the end. He was heavily involved in 4-H work during his youth and, in 1938, was awarded a gold pocket watch for being the best 4-H Beef Club Member in the state of Idaho. He also exhibited a steer at the 1938 World's Fair in San Francisco, which won fourth place in a class of 180 steers. Rex was a graduate of the University of Idaho, starting with a small scholarship from Union Pacific. In mid-career, he studied at John Hopkins University in Washington D.C. In 1941, he served an LDS Mission in Eastern Canada and was a Veteran of World War II, serving in the U.S. Air Force.

He married Bernell Jensen of Hyrum, Utah, in 1948 in the Idaho Falls Temple. They lived in Idaho Falls, where he was the first Bishop of the Idaho Falls 14th Ward. His career was working for the U.S. Department of State in charge of agricultural development in under-developed countries. He served in Iran, Ethiopia, Vietnam, Ecuador, Uganda and Kenya. He retired in 1973 and, one year later, his wife died, leaving four children: Bruce, Alan, Susan and Sandra.

In 1975, he married LeFawn Ottley from Almo, Idaho, and her daughter, June, joined the family, too. Rex and LeFawn were married in the Ogden Temple. They ranched in Elba for 13 years, where Rex again served as bishop. Rex and LeFawn served a successful mission in Zimbabwe, Africa. They spent 12 winters in St. George, Utah, and also lived in American Fork and Provo, Utah. Rex was an avid golfer. He won many tournaments and even hit a "hole in one." He enjoyed fishing, especially deep-sea fishing. In his later years, he had a passion for genealogy and indexing and did more than 120,000 names.

Rex is survived by his children, Alan, Susan (James), Sandra (Bryan) and June (Richard); and his sister, Thirza Lou Douthitt; 16 grandchildren; and numerous great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his first wife, Bernell; his second wife, LeFawn; a son, Bruce; a granddaughter, Michelle; and a sister, Naoma.

Rex leaves behind a legacy of service and missionary work. He will be missed by many here and abroad.

The funeral was held at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 7, under the direction of Morrison-Payne Funeral Home in Burley.

Linda Poulton West

Nov. 1, 1947-Feb. 5, 2013

PAUL • Linda Poulton West, age 65, of Paul, passed away Tuesday, Feb. 5, 2013, at Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise.

She was born Nov. 1, 1947, in Oakley, Idaho, to Samuel and Betty Mitton Poulton. She graduated from Castleford High School in 1965. In November of 1979, she married the love of her life, Robert "Bob" West, at her parents' home in Paul. Linda enjoyed fishing, camping and collecting eagle and rooster figurines, but what she loved the most was being around her family — especially her grandchildren.

She is survived by her husband, Bob of Paul; her children, Sam (Lynn) Burgess of Belle Chasse, La., Travis (Terri) Burgess of Boise, Tina (Scott) West Welch of Colorado Springs, Colo., Jeff West of Paul, Jenny West of Texas, Jason (Lisa) West of Heyburn and Jessica (Luke) Wolf of Rupert; her mother, Betty Poulton of Paul; three sisters, Diane (Terry) Peterson of Beaver Falls, Pa., and Gloria (Brent) Robinson and Charlotte (Harley) Cox, both of Paul; 19 grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren. Linda was preceded in death by her father; and one brother, Willie Poulton.

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Monday, Feb. 11, at the Rasmussen Funeral Home, 1350 E. 16th St. in Burley. Friends may call from 5 until 7 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 10, and from 10 until 10:45 a.m. Monday at the Rasmussen Funeral Home.

enjoyed spending time with his family — especially his grandchildren.

He is preceded in death by his wife; his parents; two brothers, Raymundo and Abraham; and two sisters, Guadalupe and Francisca. Dario is survived by his children; 19 grandchildren; one great-grandchild; four brothers and two sisters.

Recitation of the rosary will be held at 7 p.m. Friday, Feb. 8, at St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Wendell, with visitation beginning at 6 p.m. at the church. A funeral will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 9, at St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Wendell. Burial will follow at the Hagerman Cemetery.

Arrangements are under the care and direction of Demaray Funeral Service, Gooding Chapel.

Dario M. Leija

Dec. 19, 1929-Feb. 6, 2013

HAGERMAN • Dario M. Leija, 83, of Hagerman, passed away Wednesday, Feb. 6, 2013, at St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center in Twin Falls.

Dario was born Dec. 19, 1929, in Dr. Arroyo, N.L., Mexico, to Leopoldo and Mariana Leija. He married Julia Fabela in Walla Walla, Wash., on June 25, 1959. They moved to the Hagerman area, where he farmed and ranched for many years.

On the farm in Hagerman, they raised their surviving children of three sons, George Leija of Meridian, Idaho, Jaime (Thera) Leija and Leo (Brandy) Leija, both of Hagerman, Idaho, and two daughters, Mary Ann (Casey) Hogan of Eugene, Ore., and Bea (Cecil) Murphy of Caldwell, Idaho. He had retired and

Carol Joyce Tully

Dec. 24, 1928-Jan. 22, 2013

RIGGINS • Carol Joyce Tully of Riggins passed away Tuesday, Jan. 22, 2013, at Saint Alphonsus Medical Center in Boise, Idaho. She had been ill for six months and died of natural causes. She was 84 years old.

She was born Carol Morgan on Dec. 24, 1928, to Alverda (Rhoades) and LaVier Morgan. Because she was born at home next to the Christmas tree, the family legend goes, the new baby was almost named Christmas Carol, but her parents settled on just Carol Joyce instead.

Carol grew up with her two sisters, Marva and Lathel, in southern Idaho, mainly in Ririe and Twin Falls. She married Jim Forza at her parents' home in Twin Falls on Dec. 24, 1944. The couple soon moved to Tacoma, Wash., where Carol attended Modern Beauty Academy. Carol and Jim hosted several foster children and, in 1948, Carol gave birth to twin sons, Jerry and Larry. They were the third set of twins born in the hospital that day. In 1955, a daughter, Marie, was born. Later Jim and Carol divorced. In 1957, Carol moved back to Idaho with her daughter. On April 19, 1958, she married Allen Tully in Twin Falls and helped raise his five children. Carol and Allen had one child together, Allene in 1960. She passed away later that year.

Carol moved to California, where she worked as a nurse. Nursing was a lifelong passion of hers. She later moved back to Twin Falls, where she continued her nursing work at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. She also worked in private homes doing home health care. Carol retired to Hansen, Idaho, and later moved to Middleton and Riggins to be near her daughter. She loved Chinese food and sunny days, as long as they weren't too hot or windy. Her hobbies included quilting and embroidery, crocheting, reading, bird watching, fishing, gardening and canning.

Carol is survived by her daughter and son-in-law, Marie and Dorian Clay of Riggins; sons, Jerry Forza of Enumclaw, Wash., and Larry Forza of Springfield, Mo.; 18 grandchildren; 24 great-grandchildren; sisters, Marva Marsh and Lathel Hayes, both of Twin Falls; as well as dozens of extended family members including nieces, nephews, stepchildren and foster children and all their families across the country. She is predeceased by her daughter, Allene; her first and second husbands; and two daughters-in-law.

Following Carol's requests, her memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, April 6, at Reynolds Funeral Home in Twin Falls. A luncheon will follow.

If desired, donations can be made in Carol's honor to the Veterans Administration (<http://www.volunteer.va.gov/apps/VolunteerNow/>), an organization she supported annually.

Police: Passenger in Crash Was Huffing

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Police say the passenger in a vehicle that crashed into a Twin Falls yard Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 6, was inhaling compressed air prior to the crash. At about 3:25 p.m. Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies responded to a crash at 505 Park Terrace Drive. Deputies arrived at the scene to find a blue 2002 Acura RSX crashed into a tree in the yard of the house, but no one in the vehicle. According to a police report, a witness who attempted to help the occupants saw the passenger using a can of compressed air and inhaling it. Both men then ran from the crash, according to the report. Deputies later located both men: Levi Golden, 21, whom police said was driving, and Steven Sheets Jr., 22, the alleged passenger. According to the report, Golden's face was bloodied from injuries sustained in the crash. He was transported to St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center by ambulance. According to the report, Sheets admitted to using inhalants and was taken back to the scene. Sheets allegedly told police he got into the car with Golden and found a can of compressed air on the passenger-side floorboard. "He stated he took a bunch of hits from it," the report states. The report states that Sheets said he didn't know what happened after that, but woke up after the crash and ran from the scene with Golden. When asked why they ran, Sheets told police he was scared and confused, the report states. According to online court records, Golden has two pending charges for driving without privileges. Sheets was charged with leaving the scene of an injury crash and inhalation of intoxicants. Golden has not been charged.

ASHLEY SMITH • TIMES-NEWS
Trevon Rinesmith writes his name using Braille on Thursday at the Idaho School for the Deaf and the Blind before a competition in Gooding.

Braille

"I just think it's neat," he said. "But it does take some time." "Braille is just so important for these blind students," said school administrator Brian Darcy. "It's a foundation for what they want to do in life." He said the goal of the school is to make taxpayers. "We try to integrate them into life," he said. "We don't want them to drain the economy, but to contribute to it." Blind students who do not learn braille, Darcy said, face similar challenges as non-blind people who are illiterate. How much money they eventually will make in life, he said, will in large part be determined on how well they read braille. To help, more and more books are published in braille these days, he said, as he pointed to the many shelves in the school's library filled with books written in the dot system. Braille, however, a six-dot system with two grade levels — one with alphabet and contractions — take up much more room on a page than the English alphabet. Just one volume of the Harry Potter series, for instance, was divided into several books in braille that took up most of the space on a library shelf. Speaking to students before their tests, Darcy said, "You guys showed up. I'm so proud to see how far you all have come." The preliminary braille challenge is open to students of all skill levels. "Braille is the key to their success," Zollinger said. "What more can be said? They must learn braille."

Police Say Man Robbed Multiple ATMs

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A suspect whom Twin Falls police believe was involved in burglarizing an ATM on the campus of the College of Southern Idaho in July has been arrested in Arizona, according to an announcement by the city of Twin Falls. The suspect, whose name has not been released, is believed to have been involved in burglarizing ATMs at several other colleges and universities in the western U.S., the announcement states. The work by the Twin Falls Police Department led to a multi-agency investigation, including the Federal Bureau of Investigation, that spanned four states and at least five campuses, the announcement states. The investigation began on July 23, 2012, after Twin Falls police found that an ATM bolted to a floor had been moved from the Student Union Building at the College of Southern Idaho into a janitorial closet, where the money was then removed from the machine. The ATM was FDIC insured. Detectives with the Twin Falls Police Department learned of similar burglaries at other campuses in western states, including Corban University, Boise State University, Idaho State University and Dixie State College of Utah. Detectives found that similar methods were used to break into the ATM in all five cases. Detectives believe the suspect may have targeted other ATMs on other college campuses, but they are waiting to conclude the investigation before publicly naming those schools. The suspect, a resident of Utah, was taken into custody on Jan. 26 in Arizona. Detectives are not releasing additional details at this time because the investigation is ongoing. "We are continuing to work with the Federal Bureau of Investigation to determine the extent of the charges that will be filed against the suspect," Twin Falls Police Detective Ben Mittelstadt said in the city's release. "We will release more information as it becomes available."

T.F. Police Seek Suspect in Store Burglary

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • The Twin Falls Police Department is seeking the public's help in identifying an unknown male who is suspected of burglarizing Zurchers Party & Wedding Store located at 1605 Blue Lakes Blvd. North on Tuesday, Feb. 5. The suspect was seen on surveillance video breaking into the freight room area and taking an undisclosed amount of money, according to a statement from the city of Twin Falls. The suspect is approximately 5 feet 8 inches tall, with a heavy build and appears to have a mustache. The male was wearing a dark hooded sweatshirt with yellow writing on the left sleeve, a red button-up shirt, blue pants and black tennis shoes with red soles. Anyone with information on the identity of the unknown male is encouraged to contact the Twin Falls Police Department by calling 735-4357.

to review. The Secretary told Governor Herbert that HHS wants to continue to be as flexible as possible and HHS will continue working closely with state officials moving forward." David Hensley, chief of staff for Otter, said Otter and Herbert spoke on the phone on Wednesday, and that Herbert has another meeting with Sebelius soon. "As they move forward, we're interested in hearing how that develops," Hensley said during testimony. After the meeting, Hensley said the concern about HHS not working with Idaho is nothing new. "Over the course of hearings, people were concerned about a lack of flexibility on the federal government's front," Hensley said. But the governor's office is interpreting the negotiations between HHS and the federal government as a sign that the bargaining table does, in fact, exist. Sen. Jim Patrick, R-Twin Falls, said Utah's actions could change lawmakers' minds if they see it as inflexibility on the government's part. "If the (federal) government doesn't agree with what they do, (Idaho) might not be able to go far enough to satisfy them," Patrick said. Rep. Clark Kauffman, R-Filer, said he hadn't yet decided how he felt on the exchange, but Utah's request didn't affect his thought process. Because Utah already had an exchange pre-Affordable Care Act and Idaho is starting from scratch, the two states' situations are "apples and oranges," he said. "Our decision is different," Kauffman said. But, Patrick added, regardless of what happens with Utah, he still wants to explore a state-based exchange. On Thursday, he voted to pass the bill to the floor. "I'm too conservative to allow the federal government to run the exchange," he said.

Political Foes Unite against Drones

Look, up in the sky! It's a bird! It's a plane! It's the unholy alliance of the American Civil Liberties Union and the tea party. Yes it's true, the far left and extreme right have managed to find something in common in that not-so-gentle breeze above our heads. Drones! Not the killing machines used by our military in terrorist strikes overseas, but small, unmanned aircraft equipped with cameras that cops might employ for surveillance.

It seems both the ACLU and assorted conservative groups are in wholehearted agreement that law enforcement agencies should not be allowed to use drones except in very specific and dire situations. And that's exactly what the Florida Legislature appears to have in mind. A bill that would severely restrict drone usage was unanimously passed by a Senate committee on Wednesday, with a similar bill scheduled to be heard by a House committee today.

So what is it about these big-boy toys that have pinkos and patriots in agreement? Basically, it's an inherent mistrust of the government.

Neither side likes the idea of cops or the FBI, or the CIA or Starfleet Command recklessly peeping into our backyards or lives.

Sounds reasonable, right? The problem is figuring out where to draw the line. The current Senate bill limits drone usage to terrorist, hostage or other urgent situations, unless authorized by a search warrant.

When an Orange County sheriff's captain argued Wednesday that drones might be useful in crowd control situations, the bill's sponsor (Joe Negron, R-Stuart) said that's exactly what King George would have suggested at the Boston Tea Party.

Histrionics aside, it is probably a good idea to come up with regulations that allow police to take advantage of technology without infringing on basic rights.

Personally, I'd err on the side of law enforcement, but I understand the skepticism. "There is some legitimate law enforcement value to them. And I think most people would be okay with using them for those legitimate reasons," St. Petersburg police Chief Chuck Harmon said. "Where people are going to object is if they're used indiscriminately. If we're checking rooftops and back yards, trying to drum up business, that's a problem.

"But if I had them for the Republican National Convention, or if we had another World Series here, then yeah, give me that."

At this point, only the Orange County Sheriff's Office and the Miami-Dade Police Department appear to be using drones for law enforcement in the state.

Harmon, Pinellas County Sheriff Bob Gualtieri and Tampa police Chief Jane Castor said Wednesday they didn't have any current plans to acquire drones. The Hillsborough County Sheriff's Office did not respond.

Gualtieri said he is not opposed to drones, but is not sure the value is worth the investment. The Orange County drones, for example, cost $50,000 and can fly for only 15 minutes at a time and go 100 feet in the air.

"It's like a lot of the things we use, like robots or listening devices. They can be great tools, but they still have to be used legally and responsibly," Gualtieri said. "Right now, I'd say drones are not at the top of my list."

Still, it's worth keeping an eye on the issue. And maybe another in the sky.

ONLINE COMMENTS

The conversation continues 24/7 on Magicvalley.com:

An online reader had this response to the posting, "BLOG: The Scary Mountain Man of Boulder City:" jetboy: Did you hear the ghosts of the community of Chinese miners and their families who were abandoned without supplies to face a winter there? (Illegal ATV roads are destroying the Bolder Basin. The high water in spring floods on to trails and is washing out the creek bed areas. I've wondered why our Forest Service hasn't dealt with this issue and all I could think of was they were hoping Mike Simpson's "Wilderness" package would go through and alleviate the problem.

Our news editorial cartoonist has people talking in response to his blog post, "The Real Issue in the Boy Scout Gay Question:" scoutleader516: This article points to one of the real problem in this discussion. The failure to realize that there are some Christian churches (and other religious sponsors of scouting) that believe that the shaming of gay boys, and the shaming of boys with homosexual parents, is against their teaching. At my church (I am the pastor) the troop has decided to reject the ban of homosexual participants in the troop because their exclusion is morally repugnant. For us to be morally straight is to respect the dignity of people regardless of their sexual orientation.

A debate about other topics opened up in response to our editorial, "Hurlock Block, What Is It Really About?" IDCowboy1: Oh I'll agree 110 percent on the "smell of money" bit. It's truly amazing how the money flows in Twin Falls County. Oddly enough it seems to flow in the same general direction and as well as the (bull). Anyone who has lived here longer than say 20 years knows this place was alive and well before and would be just fine without the CAFOs.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sheriff Tom Carter Responds to Second Amendment Concerns

Jan. 14, 2013 was the day I raised my hand, for the second time, and swore an oath to the citizens of Twin Falls County. In that oath, I swore to support and defend the laws of this county, the laws of the state and especially the Constitution of our great nation.

Everyone with an opinion thinks they know what our forefathers meant when they got together and wrote the rules we, as a nation, live with. That includes me. I feel they were very specific in stating how the citizens have every right to own and be secure in their ownership of firearms.

I believe they took into account that there are those who cannot and should not have ownership or access to guns. I also think terrible things have happened throughout our history since the Constitution was written and we, as a nation, have stood by the rules set back then and have endured. I think the politicians making noise about the number of bullets allowed in a magazine, whether or not a pistol grip on a long gun makes it something other than just another gun, or inventing what they think is an appropriate list of guns we poor, dumb minions should have are totally missing the point.

The Second Amendment makes a very clear statement, and it's not my place to do anything other than respect and obey what it says. I will not enforce anyone's directive to violate our rights under the Constitution.

Generosity of Jerome Students an Example for the Rest of Us

Just as I was beginning to think the future of our society was looking pretty gloomy, a couple of young adults in our community have renewed my hope of a loving, successful, caring society. At Friday's (Feb. 1) Jerome High School basketball game, two high school seniors gave back.

The Jerome High School cross country team has been holding a raffle. Friday night, Brad Craig and Kevin Bos were the names pulled from the raffle, which resulted in them being able to compete for a chance to win the entire raffle pot. They had to complete a series of shots in a given amount of time, a feat that had yet to be accomplished. Just seconds after Craig completed his last hoop, Bos sunk his!

Craig stepped up to the line and gave half of his $1,800 winnings to Bos in an act of good sportsmanship. The giving did not stop there. Brad then gave half of his now $900 pot back to the cross country team. Continuing the spirit of giving, Kevin Bos has decided to use some of his winnings to add speakers to the high school baseball field.

I am pleased that these young men have found themselves and their place in our society and, because of their generous acts, have shown many more what caring is all about.

Why Doesn't Obama Support the Second Amendment?

Why is Obama cracking down on our rights? Why is he not supporting the Second Amendment, "the right to bear arms?"

I understand where he is coming from, but I don't see why a ban on assault rifles or magazines carrying more than 10 rounds. I do, however, support the extensive background checks.

Registered Sex Offenders Should Not Be Allowed to Live Anywhere Near Schools

I am on parole for grand theft, etc., and have totally rebuilt my life since my release from prison Oct. 24, 2012.

I just learned that I have 10 registered sex offenders living a quarter mile of me, and I live 100 feet away from an elementary school. This is unacceptable!

Can you help me get something done about this?

There are multiple of-fenders living at three of the addresses, which leads me to believe they are running sex offender halfway houses this close to the school!

Children deserve to be protected, not endangered like this!

A Few Things We Should Do in Response to Sandy Hook

In regard to the Sandy Hook tragic school shooting, I believe Paulette Jackson said it right in the Times-News (What local readers are saying) why we don't talk about the video games these kids play, the violent movies they watch and the music they listen to.

Parents, please trash the violent video games in your house; do not allow your children to watch violent movies.

Should the churches talk more about immorality such as divorce, gay marriage, violence on television and why there is no Bible reading or prayer allowed in school; also, no Ten Commandments printed? Many churches are silent on this matter.

Perhaps all churches should get together and sign a petition to be sent to our government to stop the violence in movies and video games.

Talking about what we can do — this could be a start!

Sally Jewell, CEO of REI, leads a five-woman team in 2010 up the Emmons Glacier.

JANET JENSEN • THE NEWS-TRIBUNE

Protector of Nation's Crown Jewels

As REI CEO, Interior nominee comes from recreation industry instead of the 'Old West'

BY ROCKY BARKER
Idaho Statesman

BOISE • Sally Jewell paddled the mild whitewater of the Boise River in a kayak on a trip with other REI executives a few years ago.

The Recreational Equipment Inc. chief executive guided the nearly $2 billion outdoor retailer back to profitability after she took the helm in 2000. Now that Jewell is nominated by President Barack Obama to serve as Interior secretary, she will have to navigate the challenging waters of the Senate confirmation process.

Then the Seattle native can take over as the nation's top wildlife manager and the landlord of more than 500 million acres of national parks, federal rangeland and wildlife refuges. That includes more than 16 million acres in Idaho.

Jewell, 56, would manage more than 600 dams and be responsible for 68 percent of the nation's oil and gas reserves, and millions of acres of federal mining lands.

Her leadership in making the outdoor industry a major voice for conservation makes the environmental community consider her one of their own.

The University of Washington engineering graduate began her career with Mobil, working in the oil fields of Oklahoma and Wyoming before later moving to Rainier Bank to oversee petroleum land investments.

"Her experience as a petroleum engineer and business leader will bring a unique perspective to an office that is key to our nation's energy portfolio," said Tim Wigley, President of the Western Energy Alliance.

Tom Chelstrom, the retired manager of REI's Boise store on Emerald Street, said Jewell is a visionary leader who will bring people together.

"Every time I had the opportunity to spend time with her, she inspired me to be a leader — not just in the store but in the community,"

Chelstrom said.

A Different Kind of Secretary

Jewell's appointment goes against the grain of Interior secretaries. Most are career politicians elevated, like former Idaho Interior secretaries Dirk Kempthorne and Cecil Andrus, from a western governor's or congressional office.

Her predecessor Ken Salazar, a former Colorado senator, also was a rancher, one of the traditional industries — along with mining and logging — of the Old West.

She is the first secretary to come from recreation, one of the West's emerging new economic sectors, said Rick Johnson, executive director of the Idaho Conservation League. Johnson served with Jewell on Obama's America's Great Outdoor initiative board.

"She's New West; she's not Old West," Johnson said.

Outdoor recreation created $646 billion in national sales and services in 2011, nearly double the size of pharmaceuticals and motor vehicles/parts, according to a report commissioned by the Outdoor Industry Association, the Western Governors Association and both motorized and non-motorized recreation groups. Creating more than 6 million jobs, the recreation industry is as big as the financial services and insurance industry and outpatient health care, said the report.

No Cowboy Boots

Jewell, during her introduction by Obama Wednesday, could have been alluding to this difference when she said that Salazar's big cowboy boots would be hard to fill.

"But I think I might get lost in your hat," she said.

Salazar got along well with Idaho Republican Gov. Butch Otter and pleased western ranchers when he pushed for removing the Rocky Mountain gray wolf from the endangered species list.

The ICL's Johnson doesn't expect Jewell's policies will be that much different, but her style could be.

For one, Obama may be looking to leave a legacy on conservation. On Tuesday, former Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt urged Obama to protect as much federal land as it leases.

In Obama's first term, 6 million acres were leased compared with the 2.6 million acres protected. Babbitt called for generous use of the Antiquities Act of 1906, which gives the president the power to designate national monuments.

"Clearly, she is going to be the architect of some component of the Obama conservation legacy," Johnson said.

Chelstrom, the retired REI manager, predicts Jewell's experience hiking, climbing mountains, kayaking and getting kids interested in the outdoors may allow her to reach a larger audience than past secretaries.

CSI Instructional Dean Honored with Award

BY ANDREW WEEKS
aweeks@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A lifelong educator — one of Twin Falls' own — made history this week when an award was named after him.

John Miller, an instructional dean at the College of Southern Idaho, was named the recipient of the 2013 Idaho Education Network Achievement Award — now called the John Miller IEN Achievement Award — from the Idaho State Department of Education.

"It's a very humbling thing," Miller said. "It truly is the kind of award that should go to a lot of people."

The IEN uses videoconferencing and high-speed networks to allow schools to collaborate with other districts to expand class offerings, provide access to dual-credit classes with colleges and universities, and provide professional-technical classes.

Miller was honored for his efforts to partner with high schools to promote dual-credit classes and live videoconferencing.

"It wasn't rocket science to get CSI involved," he said. "The college has been involved for at least 15 years. ... My job was basically offering dual-credit classes, some from CSI and some taught at one high school and delivered by video conference to other high schools."

It helps to have good partners, Miller said, noting the Twin Falls School District is one. For instance, teachers in the district already can dual instruct, he said.

"I am so pleased the Idaho Education Network has been a successful educational tool for you to use to expand access and opportunities to students across the state," state Superintendent of Public Instruction Tom Luna told Miller in a prepared statement.

In sync with what Miller has been doing, Luna also prepared a video message for Miller.

"Thank you for your hard work and all that you do for the students," Luna said.

OBITUARY

Robert Lee Ellis

Feb. 12, 1918-Feb. 3,

TWIN FALLS • Our Dad passed away peacefully Sunday, Feb. 3, 2013, at Curry Estates in Twin Falls.

Bob was born Feb. 12, 1918, in Thatcher, Idaho, to Leroy and Emma Ellis.

He is preceded in death by his loving wife, Gertrude (Trudy), married for 17 years; three previous wives, Wilma Jones, Edna Albertson and Beth Bankhead; also by sons Bobby and Leon Ellis. He is survived by his son, Darwin Ellis (Anne) of Martinsville, Ind.; daughters, Bonnie Sanders (Neal) of Corvallis, Ore., Valdi Brown of Jerome and Drena Sonius (Allan) of Lake Havasu, Ariz.; daughter-in-law, Paulette Ellis of Twin Falls; sister, Lavell Brown of Grantsville, Utah; and many nieces, nephews, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. He is also survived by Trudy's children, Judy Parker of Twin Falls, Ray Garey of Jerome and Loyd Garey of Twin Falls.

Bob and Trudy lived 17 years in true marital bliss, each one being so very grateful to have the other to share their lives. They enjoyed so much eating lunch at the senior citizens center and participating in their many activities, especially dancing which, unbeknownst to his children, Bob was considered an excellent dancer. He spent many years with his son, Bobby, at Ellis Repair Shop.

Dad grew up in the Boswell area of Utah in a family of 13 children. Besides pursuing girlfriends with his one-horse buggy, he managed to attain the rank of Eagle Scout. He learned the carpentry trade from an uncle around 14 years of age. He then moved to Idaho to live with his sister, Lore-an Sears, and completed his high school education at Burley High School with the insistence and support of long-time friend and employer, Juel Newman. He met and married Wilma Jones and spent the early war years working at various defense facilities in the West. He worked in a mine near Winnemucca, Nev., and raised turkeys near Bear River, Utah, and Rock Springs, Wyo. He worked as a lineman for Burley Unity Power and Light and then graduated from the Famous "Coyne" electrical school in Chicago, Ill. Dad spent many years winding and repairing electric motors at Waite Electric in Twin Falls and ended his career owning and operating his own shop, B & B Electric. He bought farm land in the Milner area while working for Mr. Newman and later developed the land when water was available from the Palisades Reservoir project. Dad loved to work on houses, remodeling two and building two. The whole family worked on our first new house on Addison Avenue East.

The family suggests memorial contributions be given to the Twin Falls Senior Citizens Center or the Bobby Ellis Memorial Fund in care of Paulette Ellis, 2031 Julie Lane, Twin Falls, ID 83301. The family wishes to thank Curry Estates staff for their loving care of our dad. A private service will be held at a later time.

Friends may share condolences at www.magicvalley-funeralhome.com.

Legislative Budget Writers Approve Lawsuit Funds

BOISE (AP) • Legislative budget writers said they'll support some unanticipated spending by the Idaho Department of Correction.

The Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee approved the department's supplemental budget requests Thursday morning, sending them to the full Legislature with a "do pass" recommendation. Many of the supplemental requests were connected to a long-running lawsuit brought by inmates at the Idaho State Correctional Institution over poor medical and mental health care at the prison. To meet terms, the department requested more than $184,000 to cover legal fees, $562,000 to help pay for 12 additional positions for guards and health care professionals at the prison, and nearly $800,000 to pay for an on-site pharmacy and to cover additional services from the state's medical contractor.

An expert appointed by the federal court will be monitoring the prison for two years to see if the Idaho Department of Correction complies with the settlement agreement.

BURLEY WINS

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • From worst to first. Two years after slogging through a miserable 3-19 season, the Burley girls basketball program is now at the top of Class 4A District IV. Burley (19-4) claimed its first district title since 2007 with an intense 40-39 overtime victory over Twin Falls in Thursday evening's championship game at Burley High School. "It is the best feeling in the entire world," said Burley's Aubrie Vale. "It's the best thing any basketball player could ever dream of." Thursday's championship was especially sweet for seniors Vale and Brooke Bowers, along with junior Chelsea Baker, who were called up to the varsity squad two years ago and suffered through all those losses. The trio combined for 29 points. "It's quite a journey," said Vale. "Coming back from our sophomore year 3-19, we knew we had a lot of work to do. We had so much commitment, played during summer all the time, and it led up to this point and made us district champs." Both teams have earned a spot in the Class 4A state tournament, Feb. 14-16 at Mountain View High School in Meridian. Twin Falls (16-8) will play the District III champion (the winner of Friday's Middleton-Bishop Kelly game) in the first round Thursday at 1:15 p.m., while Burley faces District V-VI runner-up Pocatello at 8 p.m. Please see BURLEY, S2

SUPERFANS: JEROME TIGERS

Jerome's Fans Feed Off Spirit Leader

Editor's Note: Meet the Magic Valley's high school superfans. For five weeks, photographer Drew Nash will talk to student supporters at schools in Twin Falls, Rupert, Burley and Jerome about why they love their schools and what they do to show it.

JEROME • A fearless superfan parts the crowd like the red sea.

That fan has a name. That name is Kevin Bos. Bos, a senior, is the student body president of J-Town but he's probably better known as their spirit leader. "School Spirit is really big to me and the Jerome community," Bos says. "We still have class and respect for the other teams because that's what we want Jerome to be recognized for." Jerome High School Principal Ryan Bowman says: "The support and the excitement that the student body brings changes the atmosphere of the game and the players feed off it. There's always a theme and it gives the kids a reason to be there and dress up." Those themes are largely due because of Bos. "Once I get into that gym and I'm dressed up the way I dress up and I see my buddies that are also there, that are loud and proud, it just sparks a new life, a new energy inside you," says Bos. The student section has a new theme every conference game.

One week a spectator may think the entire school is made up of cowboys and cowgirls, and the next it's a militia dressed in camouflage. The student section keeps a sharp balance on building up their own team while distracting their opponent. Senior Paige Jackman says, "You're really focused on the game. You're not thinking about 'Oh, I didn't do my homework.' You're just right there in that moment"

With that kind of dedication and involvement, it's tough to play in Jerome. Bos keeps the student section active with constant chants. Bos says, "We have loyal fans who dress up and have fun." Bos started getting involved as a sophomore, and being an athlete himself, he knows what it's like to have crazy fans in the stands. Bowman says, "It's great to see the kids involved and not just the kids on the floor. Makes the school a fun place to be and the athletics are just an extension of that."

Rogers Shines in CSI Win over CNCC

BY NICK RULAND

TWIN FALLS • So that's what College of Southern Idaho men's basketball coach Steve Gosar was raving about. Despite a sometimes ragged and uninspired first half, the Golden Eagles defeated Colorado Northwestern Community College 87-71 Thursday, largely behind one of the most aesthetically pleasing individual performances of the year. Six-foot-seven Detwon Rogers, a mid-season transfer last year who had missed all but the last two games recovering from a torn Achilles', was a showman for the modern age "stretch forward," scoring 18 point on an efficient 7-of-9 shooting, while leading the team with seven rebounds. Rogers had three thunderous dunks off of weakside action and an array of catch-and-shoot jumpers from deep, some on pick and pops, handled the ball to start fast breaks and crashed the boards like his more paint-bound teammates. Rogers' game was promise of something perhaps much greater than previously envisioned for this year's Golden Eagles — the version with him on the pine. Rogers' breakout night coincided with the best game from point guard Montigo Alford since his own return. Alford scored 17 points on 6 of 7 shooting. Alford has appeared to struggle with his timing since returning from heel and foot injuries, but he was darting and finishing inside the paint Thursday night — a strong indication that, despite an opponent winless in conference play, Please see CSI MEN, S2

CSI Women Grind Out Win over CNCC

BY NICK RULAND

TWIN FALLS • Next time, the No.19 College of Southern Idaho women's basketball team might just miss a few extra shots on purpose. The Golden Eagles used a 13-1 run after a back-and-forth first half to beat Colorado Northwestern Community College 65-55 Thursday night. Players ran after the game for not collecting 20 offensive rebounds. They had 13 on 37 misses. "A little extra conditioning never hurts," head coach Randy Rogers said. "I'm sure (Adriana Dent) and Patrice (Toston) were like, 'What the heck? We're wiped out.'" "We were so excited to run," said Dent, who played 37 minutes. Shooting 41 percent from the field and trailing for large portions of the first half, CSI was far less impressive than it was the last time it matched up against the Spartans when it won by 27, shot 43 percent and collected 18 offensive rebounds. ## Burley

“Twin made us earn it tonight,” said Burley coach Roger Caresia. “When you beat a good team, it’s all the sweeter.”

Twin Falls had a two-point lead at halftime, then got big shots from Haley Hutchinson, Kaitlyn Merritt and Hannah Meyerhoeffer to take a six-point advantage midway through the third quarter.

But Burley swung momentum, scoring nine unanswered points by the Bobcats’ big three, plus Kaci Carpenter.

Both teams had chances to end it in regulation. With 4.9 seconds left, Burley inbounded the ball underneath its own basket, but Vale’s shot in the lane didn’t fall, sending it to OT.

Playing in its first overtime game of the season, Burley came out jittery. Twin Falls sophomore Regan Harr, who played a phenomenal game and scored 11 points, drained a 3-pointer to begin the extra session.

“I kind of thought, ‘Oh crap,’” Bowers said. “Then I was like, ‘I know we can do it, we just need to play better defense and not let them shoot any more 3s.’ Also on the offensive end we needed to start finishing because we didn’t finish some layups that would have kept us from going to overtime.”

Twin Falls didn’t make another field goal.

With Burley down by two, Vale buried a 3-pointer with 1:16 remaining.

“I got some great screens from my two posts, came up and got the shot. I knew I was shooting it,” said Vale.

But on the other end, Vale fouled Harr behind the 3-point line with 1.6 seconds left. Harr missed the first foul shot, made the second to make it 40-39, but missed the third. The rebound landed in the hands of the Bruins’ Megan Lounsbury, but time ran out before she could attempt a put-back.

Burdened by foul trouble all night, Twin Falls senior center Mikayla Harris scored two points and fouled out in overtime. Merritt finished with 12 points and Haley Hutchinson scored 10.

“We are not done,” said Vale. “It’s going to be tough up there, but I know we can stick it through and it would be amazing to go to the state championship.”

LOCAL ROUNDUP

Dietrich Girls Bounce Back, Get to State

TIMES-NEWS

GOODING • It was a game later than they might have wanted, but the Dietrich girls basketball team clinched a shot at a three-peat.

Dietrich blew out Richfield 55-29 on Thursday in the second-place game of the 1A-II District IV Tournament, a night after seeing its 50-game win streak snapped by Carey in the championship game.

Charley Bingham scored 22 and Kendra McConnell added 11 for the Blue Devils (23-1), who open tournament play Feb. 14 at Nampa High School against District I champion Kootenai (4-18).

April Wood led the Tigers (17-7) with seven points.

Richfield plays Rockland on Saturday in American Falls, with the winner advancing to the state tournament. The teams split their regular season meetings, with each winning on its home floor.

CSI Women

Perhaps CSI is learning to pace itself against the lesser teams. But they weren’t saying that after their post-game run.

“We just decided to kick it into gear, in the second half, get it into our big men and just play ball and have fun,” Dent said.

Dent collected a team-high 11 rebounds and tossed out eight assists, facilitating a burst of efficient, free-flowing play. In the first seven minutes of the second-half, Toston scored seven points, Megan Tanner and Cassidy Skidmore four, as CSI ran for easy transition shots off of stout defense.

The rest of the game was rather unsightly, as absent shooting and driving rhythm, the Golden Eagles did what they could with hard-earned paint points, as Sarah Viehweg scored 10.

“I thought we did a poor job in the first half of finishing inside,” Rogers said. “We would stand and they’d take it away from us. They outphysicald us in the first half. We made some shots in that little stretch and that was the only run we had.”

Toston scored 16 points, including an off-balance baseline jumper as she faded out of-bounds as she was fouled. She also had six assists.

“Patrice passed, Patrice passed,” joked the possession-gathering machine Dent, who had two points but was once again CSI’s best floor player.

With CSI’s lead shrunk to six with four minutes remaining, Candace Prestwich nailed a deep catch-and-shoot 3-pointer to go up nine. Jessie Saint-Felix sealed the deal with a turnaround jumper she said she had “no idea where it came from” and a sweet mid-range bank shot.

CSI moved to 9-2 in Scenic West play with the win and will clinch a first-round bye in the Region 18 tournament with a win on Saturday against USU-Eastern.

For That Kind of Money, Get a Jet Pack!

At first blush, news that a really old baseball card fetched $92,000 at auction the other day seemed like a lock for this week’s sign-of-the-apocalypse in sports.

For that kind of money, after all, buyer Jason LeBlanc could have bought himself a fully operational jetpack! Which comes with 600 pounds of thrust, and you don’t even need a pilot’s license to fly!

Or, if you prefer to stay grounded, how about an S-class Mercedes-Benz sedan? Or two toilets made entirely of 24-carat gold. Heck, LeBlanc could even have rented the 25-foot wide townhouse Irish real estate mogul Dennis Quinlan is offering on New York’s Upper East Side for a month — and still had enough change left over to cover the cable bill. But no.

LeBlanc shelled out the money for a 148-year-old card depicting the Brooklyn Atlantics amateur baseball club, saying he bought it as an investment for his young son, and the craziest thing about the whole story might be that he actually got a bargain. Since there’s very little chance we’ll learn that ballplayers in the 1860s were using performance-enhancing drugs, odds are good that somewhere down the road, some other rich guy will be willing to buy that card from his kid for a lot more.

“Absolutely,” said Chris Ivy, director of sports auctions for Heritage Auctions. “A lot of these items, when they’re one of a kind, we can put an estimate on, but often we miss the selling price by a lot.

“And there’s this, too,” he added a moment later. “This is still a growth market. Baseball is king right now, because it has the longest and most storied past, at least for Americans. But football is our most popular sport, and the collectibles there are starting to catch up. Plus, there’s more and more people getting into the market all the time.”

Of course, you’d expect a guy in the business to say exactly that. Heritage wasn’t the seller in LeBlanc’s case, but the firm expects to generate even bigger headlines later this month as it auctions off the jersey U.S. hockey team captain Mike Eruzione wore in the “Miracle on Ice” game at the 1980 Lake Placid Olympics, when a team composed mostly of college players upset the Soviet Union’s Big Red Machine on its way to winning the gold. Heritage already has a standing bid of $325,000 for the jersey, one of two dozen items Eruzione put has up for consignment. Also included in the auction is the bloody sock that then-Red Sox pitcher Curt Schilling wore in in Game 2 of the 2004 World Series. His reputation might be in the can, at least as a businessman, but the sock still could end up in someone else’s drawer for a cool $75,000 or more.

So if you’ve got that kind of money laying around in a drawer and an itch to play the collectibles market, here are the two most important things to know:

- The safest buys will always be stuff once owned or worn by those who, like those Brooklyn Atlantics, have passed into the great beyond. The highest-selling item ever bought on the memorabilia market was the earliest known Yankee jersey worn by Babe Ruth. It went for over $4.4 million just last May and is considered the likeliest contender to break the record if and when it’s offered for sale again. Coming in at No. 2 was the original copy of the “Founding Rules of Basketball” written by the game’s patriarch, James Naismith, in 1981; that document fetched just over $4.3 million.

- If you like controversy, make sure you have deep pockets and plenty of time on your hands. Cartoonist Todd McFarlane paid more than $3 million for the 70th home run ball disgraced slugger Mark McGwire hit in 1998, and he’d be lucky to get 10 percent of that sum for it today. But McFarlane also seemingly overpaid for some Barry Bonds-powered mementos, and he can afford to take a long range view of the value of his collection.

“I try to take the emotion out of this. We’re in the eye of the storm of this controversy. But I’m thinking 20 years in the future, this doesn’t matter,” McFarlane said in an interview a while back. “You can bellyache all you want, public: it’s still going to be in the record book. Get over it! It doesn’t matter what you think; what matters is what is. There’s not going to be an asterisk. There’s going to be a number in a book. I know people who don’t think Bush was really elected president, but there he is. You don’t have to accept it personally. He’ll still be in the history books.”

Personally, I’d rather have the jetpack, but something tells me McFarlane is right. As another rich guy famously said once, “The only difference between men and boys is the price of their toys.”

NASA: Asteroid to Traverse Earth’s Satellite Zone

BY JIM SNYDER
 Bloomberg News

WASHINGTON • An asteroid half the size of a football field will dart between Earth and orbiting satellites next week, sparing the human race and putting on a show for sky gazers in Eastern Europe, Asia and Australia, NASA said.

The 150-foot diameter asteroid, named 2012 DA14, will pass 17,000 miles above Earth on Feb. 15 — lower than the orbits of some satellites — in the closest known approach of an object of its size. It will travel on a north-to-south trajectory at 17,400 miles an hour, or about eight times the speed of a rifle shot, NASA scientists said Thursday.

“No Earth impact is possible,” Donald Yeomans, who manages the Near-Earth-Object office at Pasadena, Calif. - based Jet Propulsion Laboratory, said in a press conference.

The NASA unit monitors relatively small space objects such as DA14 to measure the risks they present to the Earth. Researchers said the asteroid’s close trajectory will help NASA in preparing for an eventual encounter with a near-Earth object later this decade.

While a strike by an asteroid

DA14’s size would do “a lot of regional destruction,” it wouldn’t be catastrophic to the planet’s population, said Lindley Johnson, program executive for NASA’s Near-Earth Object observations program in Washington.

Yeomans said the damage from DA14 if it were to hit would rival an impact event in Russia in 1908 that leveled trees over an 820-square-mile territory. The asteroid that is thought to have wiped out the dinosaurs was about 10-kilometers in diameter.

The NASA scientists said the asteroid would still pass above the orbits of most of the communications satellites circling Earth, and doesn’t pose a threat to the International Space Station, which moves above the planet at about 250 miles.

Amateur astronomers will need a small telescope to see the asteroid, which would appear as a moving pinpoint in the night sky, said Timothy Spahr, the director of the Minor Planet Center in Cambridge, Mass. The best viewing location for DA14’s closest approach is Indonesia, with sky gazers in Eastern Europe, Australia and Asia also getting good looks at the asteroid.

The NEO program office said that an object of similar size gets this close to Earth once every 40 years, and that an actual collision can be expected only once in 1,200 years.

Some companies and entrepreneurs are eying asteroids as possible sources for trillions of dollars in precious metals.

Planetary Resources Inc., based in Seattle and backed by Google Inc. Chief Executive Officer Larry Page and Chairman Eric Schmidt, are working to launch a telescopic space surveyor to identify resource-rich space rocks in the next couple of years.

Panetta Says US at Risk of Becoming Second-rate Power

WASHINGTON (AP) • The United States is at risk of becoming a second-rate power if automatic budget cuts go into effect, plunging the U.S. armed forces into the most significant readiness crisis they’ve faced in more than a decade, Defense Secretary Leon Panetta warned Thursday.

Panetta, who is retiring soon from his post, told the Senate Armed Services Committee that if the reductions are allowed to stand he would have to throw the country’s national defense strategy “out the window.” But Panetta also assured lawmakers the Pentagon would take the steps necessary to deal with possible threats in the Persian Gulf region after he approved the Navy’s request to halve its aircraft carrier presence in the area. Anticipating the Defense Department will have less money to spend, Panetta said the Pentagon has already imposed a freeze on hiring and cut back on maintenance at bases and facilities. Those moves are reversible, he said, as long as Congress acts quickly to head off the cuts, known as sequestration, and approves a 2013 military budget.

The potential for the cuts to kick in on March 1 is the result of Congress’ failure to trim the deficit by $1.2 trillion over a decade. The Pentagon faces a $42.7 billion budget trim in the seven months starting in March and ending in September. The automatic cuts would be in addition to a $487 billion reduction in defense spending over the next ten years mandated by the Budget Control Act passed in 2011.

Further complicating the military’s fiscal picture is the lack of a new defense budget. Congress hasn’t approved one.

Outgoing Defense Secretary Leon Panetta testifies on Capitol Hill in Washington on Thursday.

Mountain Manhunt for Ex-cop Accused of Killing 3 People

LOS ANGELES (AP) • A fired police officer who threatened to bring “warfare” to the Los Angeles Police Department went on a shooting rampage that left a policeman and two others dead and set off an extraordinary manhunt Thursday that put Southern California on edge, led hair-trigger officers to mistakenly shoot at innocent citizens and forced police to guard their own.

The search for Christopher Dorner had three states and Mexico on alert before shifting Thursday afternoon to the snowy mountains around Big Bear Lake, about 80 miles east of Los Angeles, where police found his burned-out pickup truck and tracks leading away from the vehicle.

San Bernardino County Sheriff John McMahon said 125 officers were going door to door and attempting to track the suspect, and that a SWAT team was providing added security to those in the community. Schools were put on lockdown while investigators examined the vehicle and spread out across the area.

“He could be anywhere at this point, and that’s why we’re searching door to door,” McMahon said, adding that the manhunt would continue “as long as we can.” A snow storm was expected in the region with temperatures dipping into the teens overnight.

Said LAPD Assistant Chief Michel Moore: “This complex and violent investigation has led to this mountain.”

The pickup was to be processed at a crime lab Thursday evening and examined by investigators from multiple agencies.

Throughout the day, thousands of heavily armed officers patrolled highways throughout Southern California, while some stood guard outside the homes of people police say Dorner vowed to attack in a rant posted online. Electronic billboards, which usually alert motorists about the commute, urged them to call 911 if they saw him.

“I will bring unconventional and asymmetrical warfare” to Los Angeles Police Department officers, on or off duty, said the manifesto. It also asserted: “Unfortunately, I will not be alive to see my name cleared. That’s what this is about, my name. A man is nothing without his name.”

Dorner, 33, had several weapons including an assault rifle, said police Chief Charlie Beck, who urged him to surrender at a press conference held amid heightened security in an underground room at police headquarters.

The nearly 10,000-member LAPD dispatched officers to protect more than 40 potential targets, including police officers and their families. The department also pulled officers from motorcycle duty, fearing they would make for easy targets.

“I never had the opportunity to have a family of my own, I’m terminating yours,” the manifesto said.

AT A GLANCE

Colombia Police: Kidnapped German Tourists in Good Health

Two German retirees who have been held captive for more than three months by leftist rebels are in good health, Colombia’s anti-kidnapping police chief said Thursday.

The official, Gen. Humberto Guatibonza, also said at a news conference that the two were seized Nov. 3 by the National Liberation Army, or ELN, Colombia’s No. 2. rebel group.

Brothers Guenther Otto Breuer, 72, and Uwe Breuer, 69, were detained while apparently on a global driving journey that had previously taken them to China, Iran, Iraq and much of South America.

The men were kidnapped in the town of Teorama in a turbulent coca-growing zone near Venezuela with a strong guerrilla presence, Guatibonza said. The ELN said it seized them in the nearby town of Convencion.

Calif. Seeks to Adopt Nation’s Toughest Gun Laws

Weeks after New York enacted the nation’s toughest gun laws, California lawmakers said Thursday they want their state to do even more in response to recent mass shootings, particularly the Connecticut school massacre.

Democrats who control the state Legisature revealed 10 bills that they said would make California the most restrictive state for possessing firearms. They were joined at a Capitol news conference by the mayors of Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Among the bills is one that would outlaw the future sale of semi-automatic rifles with detachable magazines — a restriction that would prevent an assailant from quickly reloading.

Lawmakers also want to make some prohibitions apply to current gun owners, not just to people who buy weapons in the future.

Like New York, California also would require background checks for buying ammunition and would add to the list of prohibited weapons.

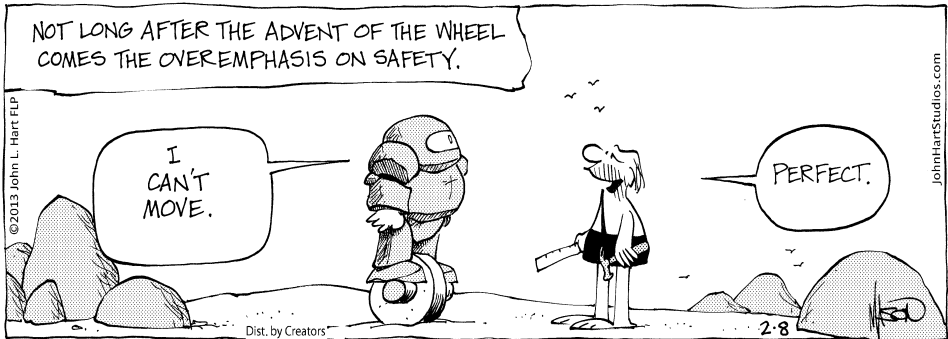

Los Angeles Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa discusses a package of proposed gun control legislation at a Capitol news conference in Sacramento, Calif. on Thursday.

Blizzard Threatens NYC, New England; 2 Feet Feared

BOSTON (AP) • A blizzard of potentially historic proportions threatened to strike the Northeast with a vengeance Friday, with up to 2 feet of snow feared along the densely populated Interstate 95 corridor from the New York City area to Boston and beyond.

From Pennsylvania to Maine, people rushed to stock up on food, shovels and other supplies, and road crews readied salt and sand, halfway through what had been a merciful winter.

Before the first snowflake had even fallen, Boston, Providence, R.I., Hartford, Conn., and other New England cities canceled school Friday, and airlines scratched more than 1,700 flights, with the disruptions certain to ripple across the U.S.

Forecasters said this could one for the record books. "This one doesn't come along every day. This is going to be a dangerous winter storm," said Alan Dunham, meteorologist for the National Weather Service in Taunton, Mass. "Wherever you need to get to, get there by Friday afternoon and don't plan on leaving."

The snow is expected to start Friday morning, with the heaviest amounts falling at night and into Saturday. Wind gusts could reach 65 mph. Widespread power failures were feared, along with flooding in coastal areas still recovering from Superstorm Sandy in October.

Boston could get more than 2 feet of snow, while New York City was expecting 10 to 14 inches. Mayor Michael Bloomberg said plows and 250,000 tons of salt were being put on standby. To the south, Philadelphia was looking at a possible 4 to 6 inches.

"We hope forecasts are exaggerating the amount of snow, but you never can tell," Bloomberg said, adding that at least the bad weather is arriving on a weekend, when the traffic is lighter and snowplows can clean up the streets more easily.

Amtrak said its Northeast trains will stop running Friday afternoon. The organizers of New York's Fashion Week — a closely watched series of fashion shows held under a big tent — said they will have extra crews to help with snow removal and will turn up the heat and add an extra layer to the venue.

Blizzard warnings were posted for parts of New Jersey and New York's Long Island, as well as portions of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, including Hartford, New Haven, Conn., and Providence. The warnings extended into New Hampshire and Maine.

In New England, it could prove to be among the top 10 snowstorms in history, and perhaps even break Boston's record of 27.6 inches, set in 2003, forecasters said. The last major snowfall in southern New England was well over a year ago — the Halloween storm of 2011.

Dunham said southern New England has seen less than half its normal snowfall this season, but "we're going to catch up in a heck of a hurry." He added: "Everybody's going to get plastered with snow."

Diane Lopes was among the shoppers who packed a supermarket Thursday in the coastal fishing city of Gloucester, Mass. She said she went to a different grocery earlier in the day but it was too crowded. Lopes said she has strep throat and normally wouldn't leave the house but had to stock up on basic foods — "and lots of wine."

She chuckled at the excitement the storm was creating in a place where snow is routine.

"Why are us New Englanders so crazy, right?" she said. At a Shaw's supermarket in Belmont, Mass., Susan Liechtenstein stocked up, with memories of a 1978 blizzard on her mind. "This is panic shopping, so bread, milk, a snow shovel in case our snow shovel breaks," she said.

In New Hampshire, Dartmouth College student Evan Diamond and other members of the ski team were getting ready for races at the Ivy League school's winter carnival.

"We're pretty excited about it because this has been an unusual winter for us," he said.

Jets Roar as US, Japan, Australia Drill in Pacific

ANDERSEN AIR FORCE BASE, Guam (AP) • Fighter jets from the U.S. and two key allies roared into western Pacific skies in the combat phase of annual exercises that have gained importance as the region responds to the rise of China and other potential threats.

The Cope North drills — which could soon swell in participants — are aimed at preparing air forces of the U.S., Japan and Australia to fight together if a military crisis erupts. They also send a vivid reminder to Beijing that America's regional alliances are strong, though officers leading the maneuvers say they are not looking to bait the Chinese military.

"The training is not against a specific country, like China," Japan Air Self-Defense Force Lt. Gen. Masayuki Hironaka said. "However, I think (the fact) that our alliance with the U.S. and Australia is healthy is a strong message."

The three allies began flying sorties together earlier in the week around the U.S. territory of Guam in a humanitarian phase of the exercises, dropping emergency assistance in packages that wafted down under parachutes to jungle airfields. On Thursday, fighter jets were joined by bombers, transport planes and tankers that refuel the fighters in midair. For the first time, Japanese tankers were joining the drills. U.S. officials said they believe more allies, particularly New Zealand and the Philippines, will join the exercises soon.

Maneuvers like Cope

North are a key element of Washington's evolving strategy in the Pacific as the U.S. shifts its emphasis away from Afghanistan and fighting ground wars. It is now placing more attention on Asia and the possibility of an air or sea confrontation with the rapidly modernizing Chinese military, which has been briskly improving its forces and using its growing muscle to back up territorial claims that have raised regional tensions.

This "Pacific rebalance" will bring newer and more advanced aircraft and ships to the Pacific theater over the next several years and spread out the tens of thousands of U.S. troops now primarily based in Japan and South Korea.

TWIN FALLS • A local service group's fundraiser this weekend will feel a lot like taking a step back in time into the Renaissance.

The Rotary Club of Twin Falls After Hours will host a Valentine's Martini Tasting & Masquerade Ball on Feb. 9.

The theme is inspired by "Romeo & Juliet." But you won't find one key element of William Shakespeare's famous play at the event: Tragedy.

Instead, the evening will feature live music and a chance to show up in costume.

"We don't get that opportunity very much in Twin Falls," event coordinator Sandy March said.

She hopes attendees will exercise creativity with their attire and come wearing a mask.

It's the first major fundraiser for the Rotary Club of Twin Falls After Hours, which is just 3 years old.

Money will go toward the club's charity projects, including the Crisis Center of Magic Valley and Auger Falls Park.

March envisions the masquerade ball will become a yearly event. And she's already thinking about

ALL THAT JAZZ

How does jazz fit into the Magic Valley music scene?

BY PAUL DUNN
pdunn@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Quick: What do you think when you hear the words "jazz musicians?"

Be honest, now ...

Is it droopy-eyed, chain-smoking junkies in zoot suits and fedoras?

How about alcoholic, subversive loners who sleep with their horns?

Perhaps mumbling, anti-social misfits in sordid downtown hotels with blood-red neon signs blinking on and off all night?

Well, Twin Falls may have none of this (at least that we know of) — except for a few short-circuiting neon signs.

But it does have some hard-working jazz musicians — and listeners — who don't fit the stereotypes and don't necessarily represent mainstream southern Idaho.

College of Southern Idaho music instructor Scott Farkas, who hails from New York where jazz thrives, wasn't sure what to expect when he arrived in Twin Falls more than a year ago.

"When I first came out here I was pretty surprised at what I found," he said. "It's a community that's kind of rallied around the arts, and jazz in particular, and that's a cool thing."

Twin Falls resident Anthony Enos has spend decades rallying around jazz. The 71-year-old — who has doctorate degrees in theology and the philosophy of Christian psychology — has been playing saxophone since he was 7 years old, and doesn't seem to be particularly shadowy or frightening.

Enos, who has lived in Twin Falls for three years, practices his craft a couple of hours a day and gravitates mostly to "swing" jazz, popularized mainly by big-band performers in the 1940s. These days, he has formed a combo with several musicians at CSI mentored by jazz program professor Brent Jensen.

And in a twist of words that seemingly only a musician might interpret, Enos explained at a recent combo rehearsal just what he's after: "I'm trying to learn how to do what I do," he said. "What's the reason I do what I do?"

Here's what he really meant: "I want to know how I got to the solo," he said, which in jazz is the improvised portion of the music. "I could always play them, but intellectually I didn't know what I was doing.

Now I'm finding that out."

CSI biology professor Alex Doetsch is finding out some stuff, too. Doetsch has been playing drums since 1994, but only began experimenting with jazz four years ago after some of his CSI colleagues introduced him to it.

He relishes his occasional chances to play jazz in public, but knows that's as far as it will ever progress in Twin Falls.

"There are opportunities

Sun Valley Center Hosts ‘Family Day’

TIMES-NEWS

KETCHUM • The Sun Valley Center for the Arts will host a Family Day on Saturday, Feb. 9.

Families are invited to tour the exhibition “Crossing Cultures: Ethnicity in Contemporary America” at the center in Ketchum.

Then, visitors can create family flags and albums that illustrate their own unique family story.

“Crossing Cultures” looks at images and symbols traditionally associated with certain cultures.

The exhibition shows how artists have used those in their art to question and broaden traditional categories of race, culture and ethnicity.

Center staff will lead tours at 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. Families should plan to arrive in time for one of the tours.

The Center’s free Family Day projects are inspired by current gallery exhibitions. Many activities require adults to be hands-on helpers to their children. No advance registration is necessary.

“Crossing Cultures: Ethnicity in Contemporary America” continues through Feb. 23.

For information about all tours, lectures and other programs related to the exhibition, visit www.sunvalley-center.org.

closest to that mark. The accomplished musician, who has played with a variety of well-known jazz artists, credits sleight of hand for whatever following the avant-garde music has gained.

“The jazz scene is the one I create from smoke and mirrors,” he said. “It’s pretty much what comes out of CSI.”

CSI adjunct guitar instructor Michael Frew, 25, who has played the instrument for only 12 years but displays the chops of a more accomplished musician, digs jazz but also plays pop, country, blues, bluegrass and other music.

“I’ve played a little bit of everything,” he said. “I like the improvisation aspect of jazz, though. It’s been entertaining to me.”

Frew, as with his combo’s other members, feels fortunate there’s a jazz presence at all in the Magic Valley.

“There is a lack of exposure to jazz in the area,” he said. “In Idaho, there’s jazz on the radio only about an hour a week.”

Some of that could be attributable to the jazz industry, itself, Farkas explained.

“As I culture we gravitate to what’s most easily available to us and there is a lot of funding behind the popular music machine and not as much for jazz,” he said. “And at some point, jazz music became less about the audience than about the musician and you had music designed by musicians for musicians. You have to have some theoretical grounding to understand what you are listening to sometimes.”

Or playing. Though the music draws to it a variety of personalities, Frew said, the defining characteristics of jazz musicians are universal.

“The one common attribute among them is that jazz musicians are open minded and always seeking higher education and new knowledge,” he said.

Jensen states the case more bluntly.

“I think it’s an elitist music and it’s not for everyone,” he said. “Jazz has a danger factor, the unknown. Jazz musicians can be risk takers and live on the edge.”

To Doetsch, that means not constantly worrying about polishing music.

“I like how improvisation-oriented it is,” he explained. “It’s more about performing and communicating with the other musicians than it is about a polished product.”

And though it’s not nearly as beatnik-like as it’s been made out to be over the years, jazz has its anti-social side — and that’s good, Jensen said.

“I like the fact that there’s a subversiveness and counterculture aspect in jazz in some ways,” he said. “I really wouldn’t want it to become popular, because it would become polluted.”

on which ones they like best.

As the evening progresses, the ball will include an open bar and music by The Moon Pies, featuring Johnny U.

“The ball itself is going to be fun,” March said.

Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes and masks in different categories.

Don’t like to dress up? Don’t worry. It’s not a requirement.

As she was planning for the fundraiser, March decided to watch a film version of “Romeo & Juliet” to refresh her memory and get inspiration for decorations.

Organizers plan a photo booth open to singles and couples alike, with a backdrop that will mimic a balcony scene from “Romeo & Juliet.”

There will also be a silent auction in the foyer of the Twin Falls Center for the Arts, but with a twist.

Although there will be a few items that the highest bidders can take home, most items — such as school supplies — will be bid on as donations.

Rotary Club of Twin Falls After Hours — which has about a dozen members — has a number of charity projects that will benefit from Saturday’s fundraiser.

Part of the proceeds will go to the Crisis Center of Magic Valley. The nonprofit organization has provided services for about 30 years to domestic violence and sexual assault victims.

Throughout the year, After Hours Rotarians donate items such as diapers to the organization.

“We buy different supplies they need,” said Ines Crespo, one of the club’s charter members.

Club members have also applied for grant funding to benefit the Crisis Center.

The club is also raising money for Auger Falls Park, which is a long-term project.

Crespo said club members would like to see funding used to create trails in the area.

Dennis Bowyer, Twin Falls city parks and recreation director, said the club and city have talked about putting benches along future trails with the money.

Other options, he said, include developing a better map for the trail system, putting up mileage markers for safety reasons and so people know how far they’re gone, or drilling a well to bring drinking water to the area.

Another project for the After Hours Rotarians is putting together “blessing bags” with hygiene items for homeless community members. Those were donated to Valley House.

The group also donated some of the bags, as well as coats, to 26 homeless students at Magic Valley High School.

And, the club has a project called “Supplies for Success.” Community members can donate school supplies in bins around town during the summer.

Those items are then distributed to school districts in December or January — right when teachers are starting to run out of extra supplies.

“A lot of teachers will use their own funds for kids who don’t have them,” Crespo said.

Sun Valley Opera to kick off Winter Extravaganza

BY KAREN BOSSICK
For the Times-News

HAILEY • When Lisa Hopkins Seegmiller steps on the stage of the Wood River High School Performing Arts Theater as Mimi in “La Boheme,” Sun Valley Opera will reach a new milestone. “La Boheme” is the first staged opera the organization has produced since it was founded 11 years ago. Sun Valley Opera is marking the milestone with a three-day Winter Extravaganza that includes a Diva Cocktail Party Feb. 11, featuring performances by the stars of “La Boheme.”

A Broadway & Beyond concert will follow Feb. 12, featuring “La Boheme” stars singing favorite show tunes and operatic numbers.

A fully-staged production of “La Boheme” Feb. 13 will cap the three-day extravaganza.

“And it doesn’t end there,” said Mary Jo Helmeke, the opera’s executive director. ABBA tribute band “Arrival” is scheduled for next summer at the Sun Valley Pavilion.

The Sun Valley Opera staged a production of Donizetti’s comic opera, “Don Pasquale,” at the Community School Theater with four singers in 2004. But it was not fully staged and there were no subtitles because it was in English.

“So this is the first time Sun Valley Opera has staged a fully staged production with such a big cast and subtitles,” opera co-founder Frank Meyer said.

What makes it possible is the newly-remodeled Wood River High School Performing Arts Theater, with its state-of-the-art lighting and acoustics.

The facility — which holds 500 people — features equipment for subtitles and backdrops.

Even the Sun Valley Opera House was not built for a production like this in mind. There are no wings there, no place for artists to change costumes or put on makeup, Meyer said.

“La Boheme,” was written by Giacomo Puccini in the mid-1890s. The libretto features vignettes portraying young bohemians living in the Latin Quarter of Paris.

Among them: Mimi, an embroiderer, who falls in love with Rodolfo, a starving artist from whom she has borrowed some matches for her candles.

Alas, it’s not to be a “happily ever after story” as Rodolfo struggles to find the courage to face Mimi’s consumption. His poverty forbids him from doing little to help her and he eventually abandons her in the hope that she will seek another, wealthier suitor.

“‘La Boheme’ is one of the most popular operas of all time,” Meyer said. “Rent,” which was on Broadway for 12 years, was based on ‘La Boheme.’ And Della Reese recorded a hit song in the 1950s — ‘Don’t You Know?’ — that was from ‘La Boheme.’”

Utah Lyric Opera’s version of “La Boheme” is under the direction of Emmy-nominated screenwriter Elizabeth Hansen. Pianist Lawrence F. Gee, assistant conductor at New York City Opera under Beverly Sills, will accompany the performance.

Lisa Hopkins Seegmiller won a Tony Award for her portrayal of Mimi in Baz Luhrmann’s Broadway version of “La Boheme.”

Now, 34, she also received a Grammy nomination for Best Opera Recording for her role in recording of “Volpone” with the Wolftrap Opera Company.

“Mimi facilitates the love story at the centerpiece of the opera,” Seegmiller said. “Like all of us, Rodolfo and Mimi go through the ups and downs of a passionate, committed relationship. Mimi’s imminent death by tuberculosis, however, brings into painful but exquisite focus the beauty of

Company of Fools Presents 'Distracted'

BY KAREN BOSSICK
For the Times-News

HAILEY • Joel Vilinsky, a seventh-grade teacher at The Community School in Sun Valley, has seen first-hand what parents go through as they try to help children who are exhibiting behavioral problems. To medicate or not medicate often becomes the question as they ponder whether their children could have attention deficit disorder. Vilinsky and Company of Fools are addressing this very issue as they present "Distracted" Feb. 13 through March 1 at The Liberty Theatre in Hailey. The play by Lisa Loomer addresses the quandary of whether to medicate children who are exhibiting severe behavioral problems. "I can't imagine what parents go through in cases like this," Vilinsky said. "This play puts the decision-making process they go through out there in an intimate way as you get to see the inside of the mother's mind." Nine-year-old Jesse, played by Max Albright, is seldom seen in the play but often heard — loudly so. His teacher wants to move him to a special education class because she has 27 other students to manage, leaving her precious little time to deal with his fidgeting and temper tantrums. Mom, who has little time to spend with her young'un because she's so busy meeting with psychologists, psychiatrists, homeopaths and even an environmental physician, ponders Ritalin on the advice of Jesse's teachers, doctors and even the neighbors. Dad's not so sure. "Can't a boy be a boy anymore?" he asks. As the noise gets louder, the play builds to a distracted climax. Even Jesse's parents' marriage is in peril, thanks to all the shenanigans. "It's a wonderful dialogue about our over-stimulated society," director Denise Simone said. "It asks: Are we so tuned into our 24/7 information-rich world that we've tuned out what really matters?" In addition to Max Albright and Joel Vilinsky, the play stars Andrew Alburger as the father and Beth Hilles as the mother. Others in the play are Jana Arnold, Christine Leslie, Claudia McCain, Traci Otto and Jennifer Jacoby Rush. Despite the serious subject matter, the fast-paced 75-minute play — which made its off-Broadway debut in 2010 — is funny and easy to digest, Simone said. "The best way to look at an issue is where you're laughing but you're willing to open yourself up," she said. "It's nice because it helps us see that there's joy even in difficult situations," said Claudia McCain, who plays a neighbor who has attention deficit disorder and two challenged children. "At the same time, the play is thought-provoking. It will prompt a lot of conversation."

Jodie Foster Named a Guest for Sun Valley Film Festival

TIMES-NEWS

SUN VALLEY• Academy Award-winning actress Jodie Foster will be featured as a guest at the Sun Valley Film Festival next month.

The festival is scheduled for March 14-17 in Sun Valley.

It will feature more than 50 curated cutting-edge films, TV premieres, special children's programming, parties, coffee talks with industry insiders, filmmaker dinners, ski gatherings, a screenwriters' lab and closing awards ceremony.

Foster will present one of the featured coffee talks on the morning of March 14.

During this free and informal gathering, she will discuss her long and varied career and answer questions from the audience.

Foster will also present the Sun Valley Film Festival Vision Award during the Alaska Airlines Apres Ski Closing Awards Ceremony on March 17. The Vision Award is given to recognize a special filmmaker and their filmmaking journey.

Foster has had one of the most substantial film careers in Hollywood history, with 50 feature films to her credit

Copy Editor
Times-News/Twin Falls, Idaho
Wanted: One Copy Editor who can whip up graphics and maps, read copy, write headlines and design pages on a universal desk. But you'll need to do more than that. You'll need to create visual stories that can be read in two seconds. You'll need to understand people are attracted to small things, like the closing of a theater curtain, the pause in a musical score, the darkness between the fireflies. You'll need to create a masterpiece. If you're up for it, we have your canvas. The Times-News is searching for a creative copy editor who can do it all.

The Times-News is a 17,500-circulation daily newspaper (21,500 on Sundays) owned by Lee Enterprises. It offers a competitive salary, medical, dental, vision, and life insurance benefits, vacation, sick, holiday pay and 401K-retirement plan.

Today is Friday, Feb. 8, the 39th day of 2013. There are 326 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:

On Feb. 8, 1973, Senate leaders named seven members of a select committee to investigate the Watergate scandal, including its chairman, Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:

In 1587, Mary, Queen of Scots was beheaded at Fotheringhay Castle in England after she was implicated in a plot to murder her cousin, Queen Elizabeth I.

In 1693, a charter was granted for the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg in the Virginia Colony.

In 1862, the Civil War Battle of Roanoke Island, N.C., ended in victory for Union forces led by Gen. Ambrose E. Burnside.

In 1904, the Russo-Japanese War, a conflict over control of Manchuria and Korea, began as Japanese forces attacked Port Arthur.

In 1910, the Boy Scouts of America was incorporated.

In 1922, President Warren G. Harding had a radio installed in the White House.

In 1942, during World War II, Japanese forces began invading Singapore, which fell a week later.

In 1963, members of the Baath Socialist Party overthrew Iraqi Prime Minister Abdel-Karim Kassem, who was executed the next day.

In 1968, three college students were killed in a confrontation with highway patrolmen in Orangeburg, S.C., during a civil rights protest against a whites-only bowling alley.

In 1971, NASDAQ, the world's first electronic stock exchange, held its first trading day.

In 1989, 144 people were killed when an American-chartered Boeing 707 filled with Italian tourists slammed into a fog-covered mountain in the Azores.

In 1993, General Motors sued NBC, alleging that "Dateline NBC" had rigged two car-truck crashes to show that 1973-to-87 GM pickups were prone to fires in side-impact crashes. (NBC settled the lawsuit the following day and apologized for its "unscientific demonstration.")

Ten years ago: The chief U.N. arms inspectors arrived in Baghdad for a new round of crucial talks with Iraqi officials. In a jab at major U.S. allies, Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld told a security conference in Munich that countries such as France and Germany that favored giving Iraq another chance to disarm were undermining what slim chance existed to avoid war. Tens of thousands of Venezuelans marched in support of 9,000 oil workers fired for leading a two-month strike against President Hugo Chavez.

Five years ago: Scotland Yard investigators concluded that Pakistani opposition leader Benazir Bhutto died on Dec. 27, 2007, as the result of a bomb blast, not a gunshot, a finding disputed by Bhutto supporters. Latina Williams, a 23-year-old nursing student at Louisiana Technical College in Baton Rouge, shot and killed two other students and then herself. Novelist Phyllis A. Whitney died in Charlottesville, Va., at age 104.

One year ago: Washington state lawmakers voted to approve same-sex marriage. Kyle Dyer, an anchor for Denver station KUSA-TV, was seriously injured when she was bitten in the face by an 85-pound Argentine mastiff while conducting a live studio interview on the dog's rescue from an icy pond.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

"I have but one lamp by which my feet are guided, and that is the lamp of experience."

— Patrick Henry

How do you plan the play in six spades on the lead of the heart ace? Obviously, since trumps are under control, the most likely problem comes when clubs are 4-1.

As you will need to exert pressure on the defender who has four clubs, you should tighten the projected ending by discarding a club at trick one! After ruffing the next heart, you will draw trumps, cash the club ace-king, and claim 12 tricks if they split.

If East has four clubs, you need him also to have sole control of diamonds. Then, after all of the trumps are played, he will have to keep four cards, most probably two clubs and two diamonds, and the diamond 10 will become a winner.

What will you do if West has four clubs? All you need for West to hold in addition to his four clubs is at least one diamond honor. Cash the diamond king and run the trumps to reduce to a five-card ending with one trump, two clubs and two diamonds in hand and one heart, one diamond and three clubs on the board.

When you play the last trump, West must keep all his clubs, but throwing the diamond jack will let you finesse the diamond 10. So West parts with his last heart, and you pitch a small club from dummy. Now when you cash the king and queen of clubs, East has no recourse. A heart discard establishes dummy's heart five, while pitching a second diamond sees your diamond A-10 take the last two tricks.

ANSWER: This auction shows more than a strong two-no-trump opening — remember that a balancing action of two no-trump by your partner at his previous turn would show 19-20. So you have enough to go to game, and the best route is to use Stayman with a call of three clubs. This should not be natural. Unless proven to the contrary, bids in the opponents' suit are always forcing.

CALL 208-733-0931 ext.2 TODAY!

DEAR ABBY: When my 9-month-old grandson, "Eli," comes to visit, I become frustrated to the point of leaving the room, if not my house. Not only must we put away things he shouldn't get into, we must tape shut every drawer and cabinet, block access behind couches and chairs to keep Eli from electrical cords, then constantly be on guard for the "unexpected."

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

Eli is never restricted in any way, and would never be confined to an "inhumane" playpen for even a few minutes. At the slightest whimper, he is picked up. He's walked to sleep (or taken on car rides to "soothe" him), and his parents literally run to him whenever he awakens.

I'm reluctant to criticize because I know they'll be offended, but I'm aching to suggest they teach the child about limits and restrictions and correct him when he misbehaves. Let him experience being in his playpen or even allow him to whine a little before jumping at his every whim. We're not allowed to say "no-no" — the preferred response being to distract Eli and let him go about doing as he pleases. By the way, both parents are professional psycho-babble people.

Am I unreasonable to think my grandson is capable of learning limits with a simple "no-no" and, perhaps, a little smack on his hand? Or should I keep my mouth shut?

— WELL-MEANING GRANDPA

DEAR GRANDPA: Well-meaning as you are, I doubt that you will be able to convince two "professional psycho-babble people" that by not giving their little one limits, they're creating a monster. Rather than allow his visits to upset you, I suggest you visit this family in their OWN home.

DEAR ABBY: I am shocked at the rude treatment I see many older mothers receive from their children. I spend considerable time at various doctor appointments. Fortunately, I can drive myself, but many senior women must depend on their caregivers — often their daughters — who treat them badly. I can't help but wonder how they treat their mothers in private since they are so insensitive in public.

I'm grateful to have a daughter who puts up with my occasional crankiness and complaints. She loves me unconditionally and takes wonderful care of me when needed.

I'd like to ask sons and daughters to be kinder and more patient with their elderly moms. They won't be around forever.

— GRATEFUL MOM IN PHOENIX

DEAR GRATEFUL: I wish you had described more clearly the interactions you observed. What you saw may not have been a lack of devotion to their mothers, but signs of caregiver stress or burnout.

Daughters (and sons) caught in the sandwich generation — earning a living and caring for their children as well as their aged parents — are not always at their best. However, you are correct. These frail, elderly parents need compassion and patience because they won't be around forever.

DEAR ABBY: A question was recently raised at a family gathering. If the patriarch of a family is deceased and a man wants to marry his daughter, should he ask permission from her mother?

— CURIOUS IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR CURIOUS: It would be a lovely, respectful gesture if he did. But first he should be 100 percent certain that the daughter would like to marry him.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

IF FEBRUARY 8 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You may have been drifting without purpose for several months, but a circle of friends or group dynamics will fling you into the mainstream during the next few weeks. Start a countdown and prepare to make major dreams and inspired plans a reality in May. You will be wiser and more determined than usual, so anything you put into motion is likely to succeed, such as a new business, a new job or a new relationship. If exciting opportunities arrive, you will have the where-withal and the support of others to build and improve your circumstances.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): If you have fish to fry, you may want to wait for better timing. You don't want to impulsively leap into the frying pan. Family members may prod you into taking impetuous chances or a gamble.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be liberated without being lost. Become independent from the things that are holding you back without abandoning the supportive people and reliable things that hold you up. Make wise choices.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Trust your intuition. Use your warmth, friendliness and a spirit of kindness to make headway in the business world. You and your special someone could be in perfect attunement later this evening.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Honesty is the best policy, especially where your piggy bank is concerned. Give the bank account and bills a frank appraisal before you head off on a spending spree with an enthusiastic friend or family member.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Live and learn. If you must speculate, at least take an educated guess. Gather information from reliable resources before embarking on an impulsive adventure that could affect your finances.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Gamble with matchsticks. Rather than investing your money, invest time in new studies, reading and learning. This is a good time to grab a self-help book that inspires self-improvement and excellence.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your significant other won't be content to sit home and watch TV like a couch potato. Organize a sports-related activity or take a day trip. Depend upon trusted friends to speak up on your behalf.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Stand tall and proud. You may sometimes resent that others expect so much from you, but take this as a compliment. No one would expect so much if they weren't entirely confident of your abilities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Adventurous family members might encourage you to participate in a poorly planned activity that could temporarily send you down a bumpy road. Keep on working your own plan.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): When you flip a coin, it's not heads or tails, but a choice between head or heart. Your mind may be focused on business plans or balancing the checkbook, but your heart is centered on romance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You might take a crack at the wheel of fortune. You hope to be known as the business maven who conquers risks. Instead of investing money in an unstable market, invest time in learning the ropes.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Even if you use a calculator, things might not all add up. You should concentrate on keeping your promises and sustaining the trust of others. It may be tempting to take advantage of a situation on a whim.
