Bill Easing Business Tax Reaches Full Senate

BY MELISSA DAVLIN
mdavlin@magicvalley.com

BOISE • What started as a controversial issue is sailing through the Idaho Legislature. On Thursday, the Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee passed a bill that would partially exempt the state's personal property tax, which applies to business equipment and tools. The bill would exempt up to $100,000 of a business's assessed personal property. The Senate committee took about half an hour to hear testimony and passed the bill with little discussion and no opposition. The bill, introduced Monday and passed by the House on Tuesday, is the third proposal this session on personal property tax repeal, and is sponsored by the Idaho Association of Counties. Representatives from the Idaho Association for Commerce and Industry, which sponsored an opposing bill, were present at the hearing but did not testify. The IACI bill never received a vote. The bill must now pass the Senate. "There's pretty good bipartisan support" for the bill, Senate President Pro Tem Brent Hill, R-Rexburg, said after the meeting. That doesn't necessarily mean unanimous support, he added, but he expected the bill to pass. Notably, there is no opposition from Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter's office either, Hill added. Otter supported a full repeal in his January State of the State address, and his office gave input on the IACI bill. But, Hill said, Otter has given no indication that he will send the county-sponsored bill back to the Legislature, and asked only that it not be amended before arriving on his desk.

Rumors Flying of Dog Thefts, Dogfighting Rings

Authorities urge the public to report animal crimes to law enforcement, not just on Facebook and Craigslist.

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Michelle Bull heard the crack of a gun outside her Jerome County home and ran outside. One of her family's dogs, Bean, a deerhound and Anatolian shepherd mix, was nowhere to be found. Bull, who lives in northern Jerome County said she asked nearby dairy employees if they'd seen anything. The employees reported seeing an unfamiliar SUV driving around the area. Finally, after a search of the fields around their home, the Bull family found Bean dead near a canal.

"I guess this Suburban drove up on the canal road and shot Bean and just left him," Bull said. Bull said she reported the case to the Jerome County Sheriff's Office. Lt. Dan Kennedy with the Jerome County Sheriff's Office said the case has no suspects but is being investigated.

Rumor or Reality

That was Feb. 10. Since then, Bull said she's heard rumors that other dogs have been stolen, shot and killed like Bean, or even taken and used as bait animals for dogfights. Similar rumors have been racing around the Magic Valley through emails, Facebook and Craigslist posts. The Twin Falls and Wendell animal shelters even posted warnings on Facebook that say dog owners should be wary of leaving their pets outside. While local authorities said there hasn't been an increase in reports of stolen or killed animals in recent weeks, they also said if people see something suspicious or are a victim themselves, they need to come forward. If people have information on missing dogs or dog fighting, Jerome Police Chief Dan Hall said, they should contact their local police. "We need actual information," he said. "Not 'I heard a story from somebody who said something.' So far that's all we're hearing." Twin Falls city spokesman Joshua Palmer said city police haven't seen an increase in calls about missing or stolen dogs or any calls about dogfights, but if it's happening, police

Insurance Exchange Bill Heads to Governor

BOISE • A hotly debated issue is now put to rest in the Legislature. On Thursday, the Idaho Senate passed a bill to implement a state-based insurance exchange. The 23-12 vote was the last hurdle before the legislation hits Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter's desk. Though he opposes the Affordable Care Act, Otter supported the state-based exchange, saying it was Idaho's best of two options. States that don't set up exchanges default to a federal-run exchange. This was the second time the Senate had debated the issue. The chamber passed one exchange bill in February. The bill approved Thursday was a second version introduced by Otter's office with more input from the Legislature. The first Senate debate took six hours. Thursday's debate lasted 3 1/2 hours, and was dominated by the opposition. The vote was the same as for the first bill.

ONLINE EXCLUSIVE: Blind Teen Raises Money for Controversial Procedure

BUHL • 13-year-old Tallin Thompson wants what most teens take for granted — to drive a car, play basketball and someday walk without a cane. Her story is the subject of a documentary-style video that will appear at 9 a.m. today, exclusively on Magicvalley.com. Thompson was born with optic nerve hypoplasia, which left her blind in one eye and with low vision in the other. While most American doctors maintain that the condition is incurable, a controversial stem cell procedure in China has Thompson hoping for a brighter future. Thompson and her family are trying to raise $30,000 for the procedure this summer. However, Dr. Lawrence Tychsen of St. Louis Children's Hospital says patients who undergo this treatment are set up for a letdown. "The most compassionate thing I can do for them is to tell the truth," Tychsen said. See the full video story at 9 a.m. to learn about Thompson's plans and doctors' objections: Magicvalley.com.

Weak Oracle Sales, Cyrus Fears Weigh on US Stocks

NEW YORK (AP) • Stocks closed lower on Wall Street Thursday after Oracle's weak sales results weighed down big U.S. technology companies. Traders also worried about Cyprus running out of time to avoid bankruptcy.

Major indexes followed European markets lower at the open and remained solidly negative all day. The Dow Jones industrial average fell as much as 129 points by mid-afternoon before paring the loss to close down 90 points.

DREW NASH • TIMES-NEWS

Road Tripping

A charter bus was uncharted territory for me.

After chatting with cheer coach CarLee Nelson and former sports editor Mike Christensen, I had an inkling of what I needed to pull off a 20 hour bus trip comfortably. I made one glaring mistake though: I wore denim.

Don't wear jeans on a trip like this. Between the leggings and sweats that adorned the dozen or so cheerleaders and dancers that accompanied me, I stood out like a sore thumb. Don't worry though, I'll be rocking my warm-ups on the way back. The reason for this little expedition is to cover the College of Southern Idaho women's basketball team at the women's NJCAA national tournament held in Salina, Kan. I hope you enjoyed the coverage Nick Ruland and I provided.

The Comfort of Home

One of my favorite parts of being a reporter is getting to meet people I would never have had the pleasure of meeting otherwise. As a crime reporter I usually meet people under less than the best of circumstances, but I'm consistently surprised with how often people allow me, a perfect stranger, into their homes.

Most recently I experienced this with David and Colleen Conner, the Dietrich couple who were robbed in their home two years ago. In January I called up the Conners and left a message asking if they'd like to tell their story for an article. About two months later I finally got a call back from David, who said he'd thought a long time about returning my call and decided the time was right in mid-March — around the two-year anniversary of the robbery. When I asked if he would mind doing the interview in his home, he paused, then said that would be alright.

When a home is also the scene of a terrible crime, like at the Conners' home or Leo and Judy Ray's home in Buhl (the victims of another home invasion robbery), holding the interview there helps us reporters better understand what happened. I think people being interviewed feel more comfortable in their homes — in some ways they have a home court advantage, and it's less of a burden than traveling to the Times-News office.

For a story published in November about their son who's been missing for 15 years, Barbara and Merle Zysett of Jerome invited us into their home. While most signs of Patrick Beavers were gone from the family's home, the Zysetts took Times-News chief photographer Ashley Smith and I to a back room that was full of Beavers' books. That's where Ashley decided to take a portrait of the family that ended up on the front page.

Smith

— Alison Gene Smith

Inspired by the Interview

While working on a story "Breaking Down Barriers" that published in the Times-News March 17, I met two amazing women, Angie Darrington of Declo and Kim Walton of Heyburn. Angie and Kim both have physical challenges that prevent them from walking but those challenges haven't prevented them from enjoying rich and fulfilling lives.

They made me cry and laugh and inspired me to take a closer look at my own life and the world where we all live. Hopefully, sharing their stories will help bring more barriers down and make our world accessible for everyone.

Looking Ahead to a Chilly Weekend

Closing out the work week and heading into the weekend, we will be feeling more like winter and less like spring. The weather today will once again feature some gusty winds and chilly temperatures. Afternoon temperatures won't even make it out of the 30s and when you factor in winds of 15 to 25 mph, it will feel like the 20s.

Don't be surprised if you

Brian Neudorff

Meteorologist

see a few flakes fly across the region as well today. A weak system slides across the state of Idaho and while moisture is limited, a few snow showers or flurries can't be ruled out.

The Magic Valley will see little to no snow, but the Wood River Valley or even the South Hills could see a coating to maybe 2 inches in spots. The colder-than-average temperatures will continue as we go into the weekend. We will see mostly sunny skies, but temperatures will range 10 degrees below average. Afternoon high temperatures will range from 40 to 45 degrees for both Saturday and Sunday.

Looking ahead to next week, which is spring break for many area school kids, teachers and parents, it will remain cool into the start of the week. We are not seeing any big storms but temperatures will remain 5 to 10 degrees colder than average.

Work Begins on Wood River Valley

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

HAILEY • Attempt to understand the basic structure of the Wood River Valley's water system and you'll quickly notice something is missing.

Unlike water systems such as the Eastern Snake Plain Aquifer, the Wood River Valley does not have a groundwater model to explain its basic structure. Even more important, without a groundwater model, officials are unable to administer water rights and properly manage future water use in the valley.

The need has grown big enough that it has sparked a partnership between the Idaho Department of Water Resources and U.S. Geological Survey to construct a groundwater model in the next three years.

"This is not a perfect tool but it is the only tool we have," said Jim Bartolino, hydrologist with the USGS, at a public hearing on Tuesday night in Hailey. The project comes at a time when concerns over improper water use in the Wood River Valley are rising. Less than a year ago, IDWR created a measurement district in the Upper Big and Little Wood River basins to help measure aquifer levels. The district was spurred by surface water users worried that groundwater pumpers holding junior water rights might have infringed on their senior water rights.

Just months after, IDWR Director Gary Spackman told the Times-News that he expected the department would receive a water call from water users in the Wood River Valley. A call is when senior water users accuse junior users of infringing on their water right, and ask the state to correct the problem.

"We are not building this model for conjunctive management but it can be used for it," Sean Vincent, hydrology section manager with IDWR, said Tuesday night.

Groundwater is particularly vital for the Wood River Valley because the entire population depends on groundwater for its domestic water supply, for both cities and private wells in the country. And since its population has quadrupled from 1970 to 2010, having the best management tools will be essential as Blaine County continues to grow, Bartolino said.

The hydrologist is also involved in another Wood River Valley data project that has studied water levels, how water flows into and out of the area's aquifer, and the hydrologic framework.

The final phase is studying the valley's water quality, Bartolino said. The results are expected to be released later this fall. Bartolino's data will be included in the groundwater model, but organizers need more information from additional sources before it can be finished. At this point, the model is expected to take three years to complete, Vincent said. A technical committee has been created to help guide the project through the next few years, Vincent said. "We want this to be a transparent and open process," he told those gathered Tuesday. "We will be hosting multiple public hearings to hear from you and answer your questions."

ONLINE: Saying Goodbye to a Good Friend, LaVar Hamblin

Reporter Laurie Welch blogs about Mini-Cassia affairs at "City Watch." An excerpt from her latest post:

"A colleague and good friend of mine, LaVar Hamblin, passed away March 19, 2013. He was a true newspaper man who appreciated the turn of a good story. ...

"LaVar was the kind of boss who really went to bat for his staff — whether that meant taking a heated phone call or asking the publisher to mete out needed raises. While he was (South Idaho Press) editor every reporter found a hundred-dollar bill tucked inside a card with his thanks during the holidays. Always humble, LaVar would quietly explain that he'd gotten his manager's bonus and he wouldn't receive it without everyone's hard work.

"More than once when a new reporter arrived in town with nowhere to stay, they'd end up camped out in his RV in his driveway until they had their feet underneath them.

"He was just that kind of man. He really cared about people. ..."

Analysis: Jerome Jail Bond Would Increase Property, Business Taxes

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

JEROME • If Jerome County residents pass an $11.2 million bond to pay for a new jail facility, annual property taxes on a home could increase from $12 to $200 a year, depending on the value of the house.

Earlier this year, Jerome County commissioners decided to schedule a ballot measure to fund a new Jerome County Jail for the May 21 election. The county has tried passing versions of the bond four times over the past several years, all failing by close margins.

This week, commissioners were given a tax analysis studying the impacts on residential, business and agricultural taxes if the bond were to pass.

The tax analysis was based on the county taking out an $11.2 million bond at 2.75 percent interest and repaying it over 25 years.

"The interest rates are very low, it's cheap money but taxpayers are still paying for the facility if the bond passes," said Commissioner

Cathy Roemer. "It just depends on if they agree that a need exists for the facility."

This means that if you live in Jerome County and your home is valued at $100,000, property taxes would increase a little more than $2 a month or about $25 total in one year.

For homes valued at $184,000, property taxes would increase about $3.50 a month. The upper range, a $200 annual increase, was based on a home worth $500,000.

For businesses with $100,000 worth of taxable property, the annual tax increase would be just less than $50 — though it wasn't clear if the analysis took into account the proposed personal property tax repeal currently in the Legislature. Agriculture taxes for irrigated agricultural land, irrigated pasture land and dry grazing land would increase by less than 50 cents, according to the analysis.

"Hopefully the voters will agree that this is the time that it's the right thing to do," Roemer said.

Meridian Man Gets 30 Years for Shooting Death

BOISE (AP) • A former Ada County sheriff's department employee has been sentenced to 30 years in prison for the March 2011 killing of his wife's lover in a Meridian drug store parking lot.

Fourth District Judge Michael McLaughlin said Thursday that 43-year-old Robert Hall must spend at least 17 years in prison before he is eligible for parole. Hall was convicted of second-degree murder in the shooting death of Meridian attorney Emmett Corrigan.

Prosecutors said Hall shot Corrigan because he believed his wife and Corrigan were having an affair. Investigators said Hall shot Corrigan twice before trying to shoot himself in the head. Hall's attorneys argued Hall has no memory of the shooting.

Hall previously worked as a tech support employee with the sheriff's office.

Rumors

one who needs help with photos or how to make a report is welcome to call the animal shelter, she said.

“Let’s substantiate these so we are credible in our report,” she said.

Documentation

Two weeks ago, a person walking out in the Devil’s Coral area on the north rim of the Snake River Canyon in Jerome County did just that.

Blackwood said the people found the body of a male German shepherd that appeared to have been brutally beaten to death and covered with a sheet.

“My staff went out, retrieved the body and took pictures,” she said, “then brought the body back to our shelter.”

Blackwood said having the evidence of the dog’s brutal death will help in the investigation.

Shelter staff checked the dog for an identification chip and tried to match it with reported missing German shepherds but couldn’t identify the dog.

Kennedy said this incident wasn’t reported to the Jerome County Sheriff’s Office, but a different dog shooting death was.

Kennedy said deputies took a report about two black dogs belonging to a Jerome County family being allegedly shot by a neighbor. Deputies completed their report and turned it over to prosecutors Thursday, he said.

Gooding resident and animal rescue volunteer Amber Halsell said she’s friends with the family and shared their story on Facebook.

Halsell said the family’s two black dogs, Gauge and Mac, went missing. Eventually, she said, they were found shot to death on a neighbor’s property.

Disappeared

Recently, several people have called the Twin Falls Animal Shelter reporting missing dogs. While this is a regular occurrence, Blackwood said often missing dogs can be matched up with ones in various shelters or deceased dogs found by animal control.

“We’ve gotten calls that dogs totally disappear,” she said. “That’s what’s weird.”

Halsell said that through Craigslist and other places, she’s compiled a list of about 40 missing dogs from the last several weeks.

Many of the other reportedly stolen dogs are from the Wendell area. Gooding County Sheriff Shaun Gough said he heard of the rumors for the first time Wednesday afternoon. Gough said he heard of one missing dog, a Chihuahua.

April Reed, the dog’s owner, said the black and tan Chihuahua named Max seemed to vanish one night.

“He was let outside to potty and never came back up to the door to come in,” she said.

Horrifying

With rumors running wild that dogs are being stolen and used for bait in dogfights, those whose dogs have gone missing are scared.

When Winnie Mahan’s two collies went missing Thursday morning, she feared the worst. Then, they mysteriously returned.

Mahan said the two collies were in a fenced yard outside her Twin Falls home. Sometime between 9 a.m. and 10 a.m. Thursday the collies disappeared, she said.

“They couldn’t have opened the gate,” she said.

Strong winds never opened the gate’s latch before, either, Mahan said.

“We heard the rumors and panicked,” she said,

Soon, photos of the dogs were being sent all over Facebook.

Then, Mahan said, she believes someone dropped the dogs off outside her home early Thursday afternoon. Mahan said she heard a car door shut, then a car drive away. When she looked outside, the collies were back.

Shirley Anderson, of Jerome, wasn’t so lucky.

Her border collie has been missing since March 8.

“I had just left home to go out of town and my husband let her out,” she said. “A few minutes later, he heard her bark and thought I had forgotten something and had returned as he heard a car running. After a few minutes, he heard the car drive away and went to investigate. The dog has not been seen since.”

Anderson said her husband has put about 600 miles on their car, driving around looking for the dog, but they never reported it missing to police.

Since the border collie went missing, Anderson said she keeps her other dogs within view at all times.

“The rumors are horrifying,” she said.

Blackwood said she has no evidence herself that dogs in the Magic Valley have been stolen for dogfights.

While stories of dogfights are just rumors for now, Halsell said she hopes a reward might bring people with knowledge forward.

“I have been hanging posters from the Humane Society of the U.S., which offer a $5,000 reward for any information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone fighting dogs,” she said. “At this point, I think that the only way any existing dogfighting ring is going to be found out is if someone who knows the whos and whens and wheres speaks up.”

Senate Panel Endorses Jewell for Interior Chief

BY MATTHEW DALY

Associated Press

WASHINGTON • The Senate Energy Committee on Thursday endorsed President Barack Obama’s nomination of Sally Jewell to be Interior secretary, moving her nomination to the Senate floor for an expected vote next month.

The committee’s 19-3 vote in favor of Jewell came after current Interior Secretary Ken Salazar agreed to review a decision blocking construction of a gravel road through a wildlife refuge to provide access to an all-weather airport in rural Alaska.

Sen. Lisa Murkowski, R-Alaska, had threatened to hold up Jewell’s nomination unless the Obama administration agreed to a land exchange that would allow the road, which would grant access to an all-weather airport for the remote community of King Cove, on the Bering Sea in southwestern Alaska.

Under the agreement, Interior will review an environmental analysis by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service that concluded the road could be harmful to geese and other waterfowl that fly through the refuge on their way to warmer climates. Murkowski says the report didn’t adequately consider the importance of protecting human health and safety.

As part of the agreement, an assistant Interior secretary will visit King Cove and tour the site of the proposed road. If confirmed as Interior secretary, Jewell also will tour the site, most likely this summer, Murkowski said.

Salazar never visited King Cove before rejecting the road, a point of contention for Murkowski and other Alaska lawmakers.

“Secretary Jewell will have the undeniable privilege of going to King Cove, and I will be there with her,” Murkowski told reporters after the brief committee meeting. “We may have to fly to (nearby) Cold Bay and walk, but that’s OK. She’s a hiker,” Murkowski said.

Even with the road dispute tentatively settled,

Jewell

Jewell faces other obstacles to confirmation. Several senators who voted to advance her nomination, including Murkowski, said they reserved the right to oppose her on the Senate floor.

Jewell, the CEO of outdoor retailer REI, was nominated last month to replace Salazar as Interior chief, overseeing more than 500 million acres of national parks and other public lands, and more than 1 billion acres offshore. The lands are used for a range of purposes, including energy development, mining and recreation. The department also provides services to 566 federally recognized Indian tribes.

Jewell, 57, of Seattle, previously worked as a petroleum engineer and banker. A lifelong outdoors enthusiast, Jewell is known as a biker, skier and mountain climber and served on the board of the National Parks Conservation Association, an advocacy group that works to protect and enhance national parks.

Sen. John Barrasso, R-

Wyo., said he was concerned that Jewell claimed ignorance about a series of lawsuits filed by the parks group, which has sought to block a federal law allowing firearms in national parks and to stop development of coal mines and other energy production.

Jewell’s service on the NCPA’s board poses a potential conflict of interest, Barrasso and other GOP senators said. Jewell told the committee at a hearing this month that she played no role in the lawsuits.

Republican Sens. Jim Risch of Idaho and Dean Heller of Nevada said they would push Jewell to refrain from listing the sage grouse as an endangered species. Offering protections for the bird under the Endangered Species Act could severely restrict ranching, grazing, mining and other activities on public land in their states, the senators said.

Sen. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., chairman of the energy panel, said Jewell had pledged to work collaboratively with lawmakers from both parties to resolve a range of issues.

Sheriffs

Sheriff Jay Heward and Twin Falls County Chief Deputy Don Newman. The event was sponsored by the Mini-Cassia T.E.A. Party and held at Burley High School’s Little Theatre.

“I’m not going to be the sheriff who comes into your homes and takes away your guns,” said Heward.

Newman said he couldn’t speak for Twin Falls County Sheriff Tom Carter. But, he noted, Carter has written a statement saying people have the right to own guns and be secure in that ownership, although there are some people in society who shouldn’t own guns.

“The Second Amendment was so important, it was put forth as the second amendment,” Halverson said.

Newman said people have a “God-given” right to protect their families; to that, Halverson added the right to protect themselves from tyranny in government.

“I’m an avid sportsman and hunter and I’m not going to give up my guns, sorry,” said Heward.

All three county representatives said they would make sure federal agents follow the law and have proper paperwork in place during the execution of federal police authority in their counties.

The audience questioned the county representatives about the concealed weapons permit process and the difference between it and open-carry laws.

They were also asked what they thought about allowing guns in schools and other public buildings.

Halverson said allowing one teacher to become specially trained and to carry a concealed weapon could be a “good thing.”

“I think it’s our first line of defense,” Halverson said.

Newman said he hopes any legislation to that effect would be well thought out because of the potential harm that could come to a teacher that has to use a weapon in such a circumstance.

Another audience member asked if a public records request by a newspaper could reveal the names of people holding the concealed weapons permits. Idaho law exempts those records from becoming public.

The panel also discussed how there is no database to exclude people with mental illness or psychological issues from gun ownership and whether that would curtail some of the violent issues happening in the country.

All three members of the panel said they did not favor universal registration of firearms.

According to the Associated Press, President Obama’s administration has said it has no plans to confiscate weapons or require national firearms registration.

Audience members also posed questions to Newman regarding the Twin Falls sheriff’s use of drones.

Newman said his sheriff’s office only uses the drones for search and rescue missions and for identifying crops of marijuana growing in farmers’ fields.

“Our intent is not for spying on people but to help facilitate finding people and marijuana,” Newman said.

Officer, Man Wounded in Nev. Resort Town Shootout

BY KEN RITTER

Associated Press

LAS VEGAS • A veteran police officer and a gunman were wounded in a brief exchange of gunfire Thursday on a main road in the Nevada resort city of Mesquite, authorities said.

Patrol Officer Craig Empey became the first Mesquite officer shot on duty when he was wounded in the leg by a man who stepped from a maroon car and fired at least one shot during a 7:50 a.m. traffic stop, officials said.

The gunman was hit twice by return fire, said Mesquite Police Officer Jeffrey Smith, the department spokesman.

The gunman, whose name wasn’t immediately released, was flown by medical helicopter about 75 miles to University Medical Center in Las Vegas. His condition wasn’t immediately made public.

Empey, a Mesquite police officer for more than 15 years, was taken to Mesa View Regional Hospital in Mesquite. He was treated and later released, Smith said.

Empey was the first Mesquite police officer wounded on the job, said Capt. Chris Jones, the Las Vegas police administrator heading the investigation. The Mesquite Police Department has 27 sworn officers. It has never had an officer shot and killed on duty, Jones said.

Empey was in a marked patrol car and a detective was in an unmarked police vehicle when they stopped the gunman and a woman in a 1996 Geo Metro with Utah license plates on Sandhill Boulevard, Smith said. The scene was near a fast-food restaurant just south of the Interstate 15 exit at Pioneer Boulevard.

The officers were investigating an earlier unspecified incident in Mesquite, the police spokesman said. The detective’s name wasn’t immediately made public.

“Once we establish the facts, I have made clear that the use of chemical weapons is a game changer.”
President Barack Obama on the U.S. investigation into charges that chemical weapons were used in Syria’s civil war.

OUR VIEW

Stop Paying Strangers to Fix Local Problems

It’s time to stop paying others to solve our problems for us. Last month, the Twin Falls Urban Renewal Agency terminated its contract with consultant Mark Rivers, a Boise developer who promised to help us revitalize downtown. The URA hired Rivers two years ago on a $20,000, four-month agreement and then kept him on with a $5,000-a-month retainer.

“(Rivers) was instrumental in getting Glanbia downtown, and he did some good things while he was here, but for whatever reason he kind of dropped us,” Gary Garnand, chairman of the URA board, told the Times-News. “... for whatever reason he chose to quit talking to us.”

That’s a lot of money to pay someone to be ignored.

When Rivers first came to Twin Falls, he did great work. He was instrumental in negotiating the location of Glanbia’s research and innovation center currently under construcion in Old Towne. Success breeds success, Rivers said at the time. And many have high hopes about the way Glanbia’s downtown center will rebirth Old Towne.

Unfortunately, at some point, the Rivers contract became the latest in a series of money pits that have diverted dollars from the actual work that needs to be done in downtown Twin Falls.

Sidewalks in the busiest parts of Main Avenue are cracked and heaving. Instead of marking the cracks with yellow paint, how many blocks of sidewalk could have been repaired for $5,000 a month?

We have buildings all along Main Avenue that are boarded up or in disrepair. Could $5,000 a month have been better spent on more facade work or in grants for absentee landlords to do the work needed to attract retail or restaurant tenants?

And what of all the money that we spent on consultants before we hired Mark Rivers?

Twin Falls taxpayers spent $55,000 on a 2001 downtown development study that got shelved. It was the first of three consultant-driven pushes in a little more than a decade to revitalize downtown. The second was $313,000 spent on work by Portland, Ore.-based consulting firm Leland Consulting Group.

According to articles published at the time, when Rivers was hired in 2011, there was a lot of hope for all he would accomplish. Rivers and others brushed off the work done by consultants in the past decade, citing the economy and other factors for why it didn’t work or why those recommendations were outdated.

At the time, Rivers promised to look at downtown / Old Towne properties, identify uses for those properties and find out what it would take to get them occupied. He did exactly that with Glanbia.

With the Rivers contract terminated, it’s time for Twin Falls and the Twin Falls Urban Renewal District to decide their next steps for downtown.

According to Melinda Anderson, Twin Falls URA executive director, the next step is for the URA to put together its strategic plan. The board has yet to discuss the details of how the process will work or at what point the public will be involved. Local, public involvement, in whatever form, will be key.

At this point, the temptation could be to look for reasons why Rivers didn’t work out — he was too busy with other projects in other towns, as Garnand speculated last week — and look to the next consultant with big promises to revitalize downtown.

But that would be a mistake.

We can’t pay another penny to consultants for their thoughts on our downtown.

When Rivers was hired in 2011, he told the Times-News, “I think it’s time to move forward. I think the whole line of all the old studies, and all this stuff, it was yesterday. Let’s talk about today and tomorrow. The best way to move forward is to actually move forward.”

We couldn’t agree more.

ONLINE COMMENTS

The conversation continues 24/7 on Magicvalley.com.

An online reader had this to say in response to the article, “Cassia School District to Bring Back Levy to Voters:”

PMT: “For me, personally, a no vote was pointed at the school board and administration. We have a poorly run district with so many issues. As a parent and a citizen, this is one way I can voice my displeasure and desire for change.”

A lively debate broke out online in response to the letter to the editor, “Veterans Administration Health Benefits to Bring Back Levy to Voters:”

platts: “As a veteran I resent your comparison. Many veterans gave their lives and others deserve some credit for their sacrifice. They earned some little benefit. To give 30 million people free health care when our country is broke, driving the cost up, with no way of knowing the cost or being able to pay for it is the worst political pandering for votes.”

jricks: “I, too am a veteran who chooses private health care. We know how to pay for it. Yes, it’s higher taxes and/or fees. Ask European citizens what they prefer, higher cost of living or the chance that they go bankrupt because their health care cost wiped them out through no fault of their own. To a one, they will choose the security of single payer care. Which ‘bankrupt States and cities’ do you refer to? Is the ‘irresponsible spending’ you refer to spent on health care? No. It’s spent on and by the do-nothing lawmakers and the wealthy giving breaks to their cronies and waging wars on people with whom they disagree. I wish you well.”

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Nominate Mothers for Rupert Kiwanis’ Mother’s Day Award

The Rupert Kiwanis Club is excited to announce our first Mother’s Day Award to honor a special woman for her efforts in benefiting young children (6 and under) and/or pregnant women.

Kiwanis is honoring this woman in conjunction with the challenge we have accepted to be a major player in the “International Eliminate Project.” We will help mothers and babies throughout the world become immune to Tetanus, which claims the life of a baby every nine minutes and a mother every 18 minutes. This will be done through the efforts of UNICEF, which is providing tetanus shots and boosters and further education about cleanliness and sterility in the birthing of babies.

We are asking for nominations for a woman from Minidoka County who is a mother or mother figure. This opens up the field to almost anyone who might be in the medical, daycare or education profession. Or it could be your next-door neighbor who has done something outstanding with young children or pregnant mothers. The applications are available at the following locations: Condie, Stoker and Associates, Haskin Insurance and Showkase in Rupert, and the Snake River Bowl in Burley. You may also find it online at Minidoka Memorial Hospital’s website. Information for returning it to the club is on the application.

The deadline for the nominations is April 5. Please help us honor that amazing lady on May 7 (the Tuesday before Mother’s Day) at the Rupert Elks Lodge. Lunch will be provided for the winner and her family and the nominator and his/her family.

Thank you.

The World Will Come Crashing in on Us Soon Enough

There has been much contention over the issue of “climate change” or as it is also referred to, “global warming.” Both are accurate terms, but I prefer to use “climate change,” as it is broader and more effectively describes the change we are experiencing.

I happened to pick up this paper a few mornings ago (the cover caught my eye), and I happened to read a letter titled “Global Warming Hoax Designed to Scare Us Into Giving Up Freedoms.” The title says everything.

So, let’s spell it out: regardless of how many forests we clear globally for industrialized agriculture (the Amazon is a great example), regardless of how many fossil fuels we extract from the ground and release into our atmosphere (and also note how increasingly desperate oil companies are becoming in finding and extracting oil from our planet’s last known, albeit small, reserves, such as the tar sands in Alberta, Canada), regardless of melting glaciers, rising ocean levels, increasingly severe and unpredictable weather patterns, devastating floods and droughts, complete and irreversible decimation of ecosystems — it isn’t our doing.

Industrial civilization cannot be responsible for all these variables. Let us not deny reality. Our arrogant attempt to tame this planet in our image was based on false premises. Sisters and brothers, balance with Mother Earth is key, and I regret to inform you, we are very out of balance and we are experiencing the end game of this experiment. If you don’t believe me, then all I have to say is: wait. Just wait. I regret having to say that, but the world will come crashing in on us soon enough. We need not wait much longer.

More Education, Not Raising Minimum Wage, Key to Improving Salaries

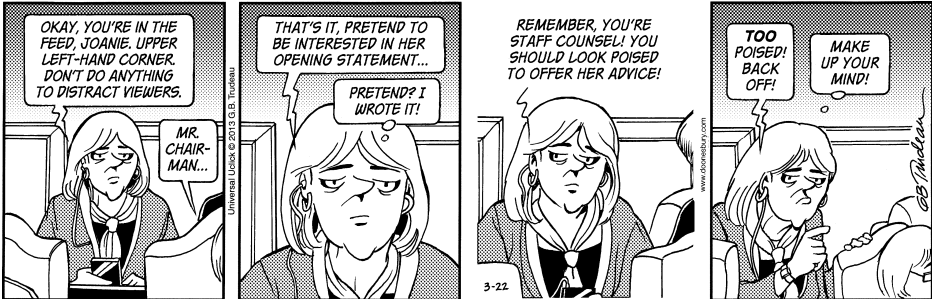

I think that the minimum wage in Idaho is something that should be more focused on. Something about the minimum wage needs to be done.

I think that to raise the wages, our society should focus more on getting an education and of the opportunities that they can gain through college rather than the thought of the price. People could get a debt and go through college and get a high-paying job that can possibly pay off the debt and give them a much higher pay salary.

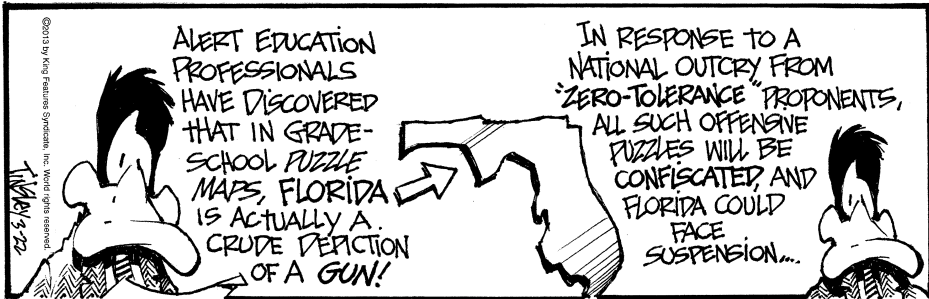

So to sum it up, I think that more effort is needed to try to persuade people to go on. The college education will give many more possible job options.

We need to put a bigger effort into trying to get people to go on.

Boeing Worker Mentors ‘Barefoot Bandit’ in Prison

SEATAC, Wash. (AP) • Jonathan Standridge and Colton Harris-Moore made an odd couple as they sat together in the visiting room of a Washington state prison one day last spring.

Standridge, 57, is a project manager at Boeing, one of the world’s most important aviation companies. Harris-Moore, 21, is the “Barefoot Bandit,” a world-famous airplane thief who is serving a seven-year sentence after a sensational run from the law in stolen boats, cars and planes.

As it turned out, they had a lot to discuss. Aerospace design. Books. And second chances.

“What have you heard about me?” Harris-Moore asked, Standridge recalled.

“I’ve read all about the ‘Barefoot Bandit,’” Standridge said. Harris-Moore replied: “That’s not who I am.”

Ever since, Standridge has returned to the prison in Aberdeen, a two-hour drive from his lakeside home in the Seattle suburb of SeaTac, at least once a month, hoping to have a positive influence on what has been a bleak, if sometimes thrilling, young life, and to repay a favor someone once did for him.

“This is a young man that is fully engaged in the rehabilitation process that we in society ask of those folks who are in our prison system,” said Standridge, who has tutored Harris-Moore in the airplane business and a lot more.

The progress is threatened by new burglary and theft counts that could add to Harris-Moore’s sentence, he said.

Standridge was lining up other aviation specialists to meet with Harris-Moore when the prisoner was transferred last month to the Skagit County Jail. Prosecuting Attorney Rich Weyrich said he filed the charges because the plea agreement other prosecutors reached with Harris-Moore in 2011 was too lenient.

Harris-Moore grew up poor on Camano Island north of Seattle, raised by an alcoholic mother and a series of her felon boyfriends — a feral childhood he wouldn’t wish on his “darkest enemies,” he once wrote to a judge. He earned his first conviction at age 12, in 2004, for stolen property, and things only got worse. After he walked away from a halfway house in 2008, he embarked on a two-year burglary spree, breaking into unoccupied vacation homes and stores, and stealing money and food.

Some of the crimes were committed barefoot, and by 2010, he had rocketed to international notoriety as he stole small airplanes in the Northwest, flew them with no formal training and landed them with various degrees of success. A few were only lightly damaged, but two crashes were so severe he could have been killed.

His final run was a cross-country dash to an airport in Indiana, where he stole a plane, crashed it in the Bahamas, and was arrested in a hail of bullets.

He pleaded guilty to dozens of charges, apologized, and sold the rights to his story to FOX, which plans a movie. Any proceeds will repay his victims.

That, Standridge tells him, is the past — useful in determining how we got where we are, but not what we will become.

A chance encounter led Standridge to Harris-Moore. At last year’s Seattle International Film Festival, he met Lance Rosen, Harris-Moore’s media attorney. As they made small talk, Rosen grew more interested in Standridge’s work and finally asked: Would he be interested in mentoring Harris-Moore?

Intrigued, Standridge sent Harris-Moore a letter in prison. Harris-Moore wrote back, and Standridge was hooked.

“The key ingredient I look for in something like this is somebody who has passion — passion for life, passion to move forward,” Standridge said. “It immediately came off the pages of this first letter that we had a highly motivated young man who was looking to change his life.”

Stocky and well-spoken, with short, receding white hair and a salt-and-pepper goatee, Standridge is married and has a 19-year-old daughter. He came from a background very different from Harris-Moore. He was born in Oklahoma City to a loving, engaged family and later moved to Illinois. Nevertheless, as a young man he was directionless and fell into heavy drug use, he said. After wasting most of his 20s, he enlisted in the Navy in 1984.

At boot camp, he got caught with drugs and instead of sending him home, the Navy captain in charge of the base offered him a second chance — warning Standridge that he’d be following his career.

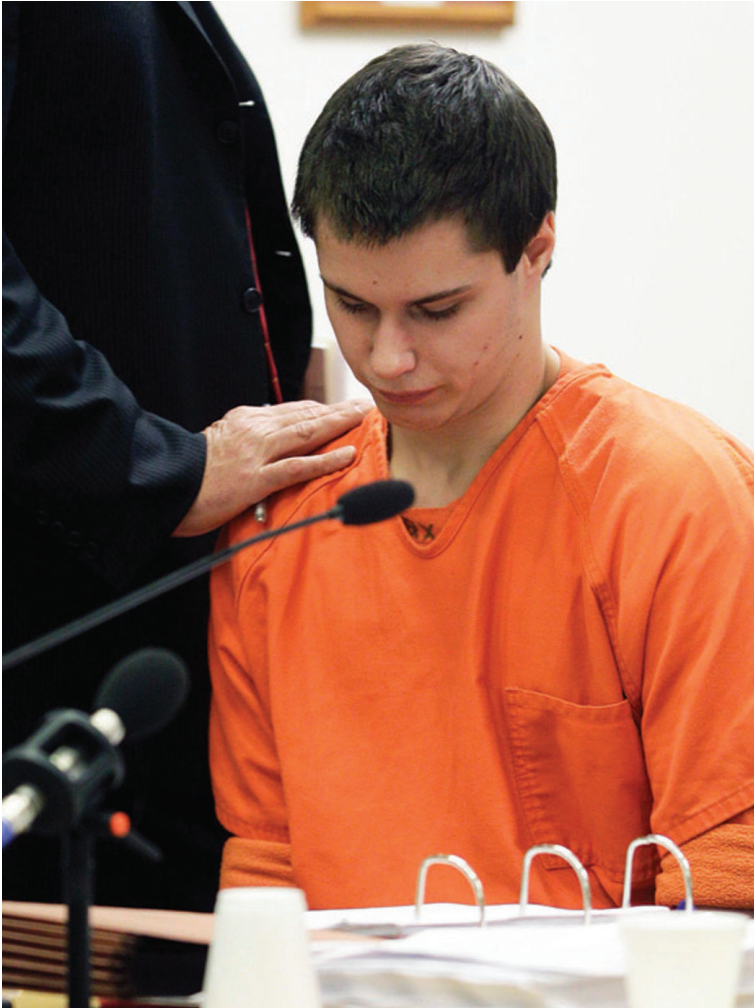

Standridge spent seven years in the Navy, four on the flight deck of the U.S.S. Constellation aircraft carrier, where watching the F-14 fighter jets fostered a love of airplanes that began in boyhood, when his father would take him to watch the planes at Will Rodgers World Airport in Oklahoma City.

He went on to graduate from Seattle University in 1997, the same year he began working for Boeing. He stresses that his involvement with Harris-Moore is on his own time, not a company-sanctioned initiative.

At their first meeting, Harris-Moore walked into the visiting room amid a line of other convicts. Sunburned from being in the prison yard, he wanted to know why Standridge was taking such an interest in him. Standridge told him the story of the Navy captain.

“Even today I think about it. Without that second chance, I would not be where I am today,” he said. “That is what I’m passing on to Colt, the opportunity for that future.”

He made Harris-Moore promise that he’ll repay the favor when he gets his life re-established. They shook hands on it.

While he declined to get into some specifics about their conversations, Standridge said Harris-Moore badly wants to get a pilot’s license and hopes one day to design prototype aircraft. Harris-Moore has said he wanted to get an aeronautical engineering degree while in prison. They talk about planes, corporate governance, management techniques, body language, and books — Steve Jobs’ authorized biography was a favorite of Harris-Moore’s, he said.

Only rarely and in passing do they discuss his time on the run. When Harris-Moore learned Standridge grew up in the Midwest, they commiserated about the size of the mosquitos he encountered on his way to Indiana.

Sometimes Harris-Moore draws his ideas for plane design on a piece of notepaper to show Standridge.

“He is in a very good place. He likes where he’s headed. He likes the person he has become,” he said.

Thousands in Salt Lake for Family History Conference

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) • Karleen Tutton’s 22 grandchildren always perk up when she tells the tale of her 6-foot-6-inch great grandfather who stared down a grizzly bear in the 1800s.

A bear he was hunting in the Utah wilderness attacked him, she recounts, and he survived by jamming his rifle down the bear’s throat. The story is based on a journal he kept, which has been passed down through generations of Tutton’s family.

“The grandkids love that story,” said Tutton, of Springfield, Mo., “Especially the boys.”

Tutton is among nearly 7,000 genealogy enthusiasts in Salt Lake City this week at “RootsTech,” the largest family history conference in the U.S., now in its third year.

“I really want to learn more about some of the technology available for searching for ancestors,” said Tutton, 67, whose family has already traced their roots back to 1500 in England and Scotland.

The three-day conference is hosted by Family Search, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints’ nonprofit organization dedicated to the research of family history.

The conference brings together genealogy enthusiasts of all levels, from people with decades of experience to others just getting started. The focus is on how websites, software and other technology can help people find, organize, preserve and share family history.

Organizers say the rise of social media and development of new technology has driven more people to dig into their family history.

The growing expo — attendance has more than doubled in three years — is another example of how Salt Lake City has become a mecca for genealogists. The church’s Family History Library is considered the world’s largest repository of genealogy records and is visited by 700,000 people annually.

The focus on genealogy by Mormons is rooted in their belief that families should be the focal point of their lives, and that family relationships continue into eternity.

Tutton is Mormon, but many attendees are from other religious faiths. Sisters Daisy McConnell and Donna Lupo are non-Mormons from St. Louis, Mo., who are trying to expand their knowledge of where they come from.

McConnell has been doing genealogy for 15 years and traced her father’s side of the family back six generations to the early 1800s in Sicily, Italy. She came to the conference to learn how she can use DNA to help her get past a dead end on her mother’s side of the family tree, which trails off in 1820.

Health Fair Clarification

We understand that an out of state lab company is marketing lab services to Gooding County as part of an event they call a “health fair.” Its mailer has created some confusion, and we want to confirm that company’s event is not sponsored by or associated with North Canyon Medical Center’s Annual Health Fair.

The NCMC Annual Health Fair, being held Saturday, May 18th, is held each year to improve the healthcare of people in our region by providing free screenings, specials on lab work, and other health and wellness information.

Unlike the other event, our Annual Health Fair is not held to generate business for an out of state company. We encourage you to participate in our Health Fair, in May, and to support your community hospital, thereby keeping your money in the local community.

Thousands of supporters demonstrate, waving various PKK flags and posters of jailed Kurdish rebel leader Abdullah Ocalan, in the southeastern Turkish city of Diyarbakir on Thursday, as Ocalan called for an immediate cease-fire and for thousands of his fighters to withdraw from Turkish territory.

Kurdish Rebel Leader Calls for Historic Truce

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) • In a major step toward ending one of the world’s longest, bloodiest insurgencies, the Kurds’ jailed rebel leader called Thursday for a “new era” of peace that includes an immediate cease-fire and the withdrawal of thousands of his fighters from Turkey.

Abdullah Ocalan’s rebel group, the Kurdistan Workers’ Party, or PKK, has been waging a nearly 30-year battle against the Turkish government, seeking autonomy and greater rights. The fight has killed tens of thousands of people and the group is considered a terror organization by Turkey and its Western allies, including the United States. The Turkish government reacted cautiously but Ocalan’s announcement at a Kurdish spring festival was met with joy from the hundreds of thousands who gathered to hear it in Diyarbakir, the largest city in Turkey’s mainly Kurdish southeast.

“We have reached the point where the guns must be silenced and where ideas must speak. A new era has started, where politics, not guns, are at the forefront,” Ocalan said in a call from jail relayed by pro-Kurdish legislators in both Kurdish and Turkish.

“A door is opening from the armed struggle toward the democratic struggle,” Ocalan said. “This is not an end. This is a new start.” His message added, “We have reached the stage where our armed elements need to retreat beyond the border.”

People in the sprawling crowd sang, danced and waved rebel flags or banners with images of Ocalan. They appeared cheered at the prospect of an end to the conflict that has lasted so long.

“Ocalan has paved the way for a historic peace process,” Mesut Yegin of Istanbul’s Sehir University said. “He has declared in no uncertain terms that the era of an armed struggle is ending. But the total laying down of arms will depend on steps the government will take.”

Turkey announced in December that it was talking to Ocalan with the aim of persuading the PKK to disarm. Despite his 14-year incarceration in a prison island off Istanbul, Ocalan still wields great power over his rebel group. PKK commanders based in northern Iraq have declared support for the peace initiative and Kurdish fighters in Turkey were expected to heed Ocalan’s call and retreat to northern Iraq. Earlier this month, the rebels released eight Turkish soldiers and officials they had been holding captive in response to a request by Ocalan.

Cyprus Rushes Bailout Plan as Clock Ticks

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) • Cypriot politicians moved Thursday to restructure the country’s most troubled bank as part of a broader bailout plan that must be in place by Monday to avoid financial ruin. Concerned customers rushed to get cash from ATMs as bank employees protested.

Cyprus has been told it must raise 5.8 billion euros if it is to receive 10 billion euros from its fellow eurozone countries and the International Monetary Fund. If it does not find a way by Monday, the European Central Bank said it will cut off emergency support to the banks, letting them collapse. That would throw the country into financial chaos and, ultimately, cause it to leave the eurozone, with unpredictable consequences for the region.

Several new bills were being submitted to Parliament Thursday night, including restructuring the banking sector, setting up an “Investment Solidarity Fund” and restricting banking transactions in times of crisis. Together, they will make up at least part of the alternative plan Cyprus hopes will secure it bailout money.

People wait to use the ATM at a closed branch of Laiki Bank in southern port city of Limassol on Thursday.

The lawmakers said the bills would be discussed and potentially voted on today. The pressure has increased since Parliament on Tuesday rejected an earlier proposal to seize up to 10 percent of people’s bank accounts.

Banks have been shut since last weekend to avoid a run and will not open until Tuesday at the earliest.

Obama Health Law Anniversary Finds Two Americas at Odds

WASHINGTON (AP) • Three years, two elections, and one Supreme Court decision after President Barack Obama signed the Affordable Care Act, its promise of health care for the uninsured may be delayed or undercut in much of the country because of entrenched opposition from many Republican state leaders.

In half the states, mainly led by Democrats, officials are racing deadlines to connect uninsured residents to coverage now only months away. In others it’s as if “Obamacare” — signed Mar. 23, 2010 — had never passed.

Make no mistake, the federal government will step in and create new insurance markets in the 26 mostly red states declining to run their own. Just like the state-run markets in mostly Democratic-led states, the feds will start signing up customers Oct. 1 for coverage effective Jan. 1. But they need a broad cross-section of people, or else the pool will be stuck with what the government calls the “sick and worried” — the costliest patients.

Insurance markets, or exchanges, are one prong of Obama’s law, providing subsidized private coverage for middle-class households who currently can’t get their own. The other major piece is a Medicaid expansion to serve more low-income people. And at least 13 states have already indicated they will not agree to that.

Scientists Find Universe is 80 Million Years Older

PARIS (AP) • A new examination of what is essentially the universe's birth certificate allows astronomers to tweak the age, girth and speed of the cosmos, more secure in their knowledge of how it evolved, what it's made of and its ultimate fate.

Sure, the universe suddenly seems to be showing its age, now calculated at 13.8 billion years — 80 million years older than scientists had thought. It's got about 3 percent more girth — technically it's more matter than mysterious dark energy — and it is expanding about 3 percent more slowly. But with all that comes the wisdom for humanity. Scientists seem to have gotten a good handle on the Big Bang and what happened just afterward, and may actually understand a bit more about the cosmic question of how we are where we are.

All from a baby picture of fossilized light and sound.

The snapshot from a European satellite had scientists from Paris to Washington celebrating a cosmic victory of knowledge Thursday — basic precepts that go back all the way to Einstein and relativity. The Planck space telescope mapped background radiation from the early universe — now calculated at about 13.8 billion years old. The results bolstered a key theory called "inflation," which says the universe burst from subatomic size to its vast expanse in a fraction of a second just after the Big Bang that created the cosmos.

"We've uncovered a fundamental truth of the universe," said George Efstathiou, director of the Kavli Institute for Cosmology at the University of Cambridge who announced the Planck findings in Paris. "There's less stuff that we don't understand by a tiny amount."

The map of the universe's evolution — in sound echoes and fossilized light going back billions of years — reinforces some predictions made decades ago solely on the basis of mathematical concepts.

"We understand the very early universe potentially better than we understand the bottom of our oceans," said Bob Nichols, director of the Institute of Cosmology and Gravitation at the University of Portsmouth in Britain. "We as humanity put a satellite into space, we predicted what it should see and saw it."

Physicist Sean Carroll of the California Institute of Technology, who was not involved in the project, called it "a big pat on the back for our understanding of the universe. In terms of describing the current universe, I think we have a right to say we're on the right track."

Other independent scientists said the results were comparable on a universal scale to the announcement earlier this month by a different European physics group on a subatomic level — with the finding of the Higgs boson particle that explains mass in the universe. "What a wonderful triumph of the mathematical approach to describing nature. The precision is breathtaking," Brian Greene, a Columbia University physicist, said in an email Thursday.

George Efstathiou, a European Space Agency astrophysicist, speaks to The Associated Press after a press conference at ESA headquarters in Paris on Thursday. He stands in front of the most detailed map ever created of the cosmic microwave background acquired by ESA's Planck space telescope.

Chicago Teachers, Parents Learn of Schools Closing

CHICAGO (AP) • Chicago teachers, students and parents reacted with tears, questions and anger as news trickled out Thursday about which schools the city plans to close as part of a cost-cutting effort that opponents say will disproportionately affect minority children.

The nation's third-largest district was expected to announce later Thursday which of 129 schools identified for possible closure will be shuttered, although the number is expected to fall well short of that total. But as Chicago Public Schools officials began notifying teachers and staff at affected schools Thursday morning, word got out to worried and angry parents.

Sandra Leon said she got a tearful call from her grandchildren's kindergarten teacher, saying their school was on the list to be closed. Her two grown children also attended the West Side school, and Leon couldn't suppress tears as she waited outside the building for her grandchildren.

Average for US Jobless Claims at Fresh 5-year Low

WASHINGTON (AP) • The number of people seeking U.S. unemployment aid barely changed last week, while the average over the past month fell to a fresh five-year low. The decline in layoffs is helping strengthen the job market. Weekly unemployment benefit applications rose just 2,000 to a seasonally adjusted 336,000, the Labor Department said Thursday.

Over the past four weeks, the average number of applications has dropped by 7,500 to 339,750. That's the lowest since February 2008, just three months into the recession. Separately, sales of previously occupied homes rose last month to their highest level in more than three years, the National Association of Realtors said Thursday. And a measure of future U.S. economic growth increased in February for the third straight month, according to the Conference Board, a business research group.

Job seekers attend a health care job fair on Thursday in New York.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The three reports Thursday supported other recent data that show the economy is improving after stalling at the end of last year.

Economists pay close attention to the four-week average of applications because it can smooth out week to week fluctuations. The steady decline in unemployment claims signals that companies are laying off fewer workers. That suggests many aren't worried about economic conditions in the near future.

The four-week average has fallen nearly 15 percent since November. The trend has coincided with acceleration in the job market.

UN to Probe Alleged Chemical Weapons Use in Syrian Conflict

UNITED NATIONS (AP) • The United Nations will investigate the possible use of chemical weapons in Syria, which would amount to a crime against humanity, Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon announced Thursday.

The investigation could be broader than the Syrian government's request for an independent probe of a purported chemical weapons attack on Tuesday. Ban said he was aware of allegations of other, similar attacks and hoped the probe would ultimately help secure Syria's chemical weapons stockpile.

The secretary-general said investigators would look into Syria's allegation that rebels carried out a chemical weapons attack on Khan al-Assal village in northern Aleppo province. The rebels blamed regime forces for the attack.

A senior U.S. official, meanwhile, said Thursday that the United States now has strong indications that no chemical weapons were used at all in the attack. Officials won't entirely rule out the possibility, but this official said additional intelligence-gathering has led the U.S. to believe more strongly that it was not a weaponized chemical attack. The official wasn't authorized to speak publicly about the matter and spoke on condition of anonymity.

U.N. spokesman Martin Nesirky said France and Britain sent a letter to Ban Thursday asking for an investigation of three alleged chemical weapons attacks. He said Ban will review this suggestion as the U.N. develops the mandate for the investigation.

Syria is widely believed to have a large stockpile of chemical weapons. The government has not confirmed it, saying only that it would never use chemical weapons against its own people.

"My announcement should serve as an unequivocal reminder that the use of chemical weapons is a crime against humanity," the secretary-general said. "The international community needs full assurance that chemical weapons stockpiles are verifiably safeguarded."

Western nations fear President Bashar Assad would use chemical weapons if he sees the two-year civil war turning against his government.

ALCATRAZ MARKS 50 YEARS SINCE CLOSURE

ALCATRAZ ISLAND, Calif. (AP) • The black-and-white photographs show a line of prisoners — some with heads bowed, others with eyes staring forlornly at the camera — as a guard leads them to a boat for their final trip off The Rock. The striking images were taken on March 21, 1963, the day the infamous prison on Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay was closed after holding the likes of gangsters Al Capone and Mickey Cohen. Swarms of reporters chronicled the single-file line of departing inmates.

On Thursday, however, the National Parks Service unveiled an exhibit of newly discovered photos that depict new details about the final hours of Alcatraz.

The ceremony marking the 50th anniversary of the closing was attended by former guard Jim Albright, who can be seen in the photographs in a light gray suit and dark tie, walking the shackled prisoners past reporters.

He had been a guard during two escapes, including the one made famous in the movie "Escape from Alcatraz," and was keeping an eye open for any funny business involving the prisoners and reporters.

"What I was worried about was that one of these god-darned fools was going to give the inmates something that they could get out of their cuffs with," Albright, now 77, said. "These were all the worst bad guys. If you messed up somewhere else you came to Alcatraz."

Alcatraz started as a fortress and became an Army disciplinary barracks before the Bureau of Prisons took it over in 1934 to house America's most notorious criminals.

U.S. Attorney General Robert Kennedy signed an order in 1962 to close the prison due to its expensive upkeep and its prime location in the bay.

Nine years later, Alcatraz became a national park and one of California's most popular tourist attractions with about 1.5 million visitors a year.

George Bellows Art Exhibit Opens in London

BY MARTIN GAYFORD
Bloomberg News

LONDON F. Scott Fitzgerald famously remarked that there are no second acts in American lives. On the evidence of an exhibition at the Royal Academy in London (until June 9), the painter George Bellows (1882-1925) didn't really manage more than some splendid opening scenes.

When poor Bellows died of peritonitis at only 42, he hadn't produced a good picture for at least a decade. But he started out really well. Although he had essentially one subject, it was a big one: New York, pulsating with life, energy, squalor and violence.

While still in his 20s, Bellows painted images that sum up a great deal about the city. Best known are his boxing paintings, particularly 'Stag at Sharkey's' (1909), and 'Both Members of the Club' (1909). They have drama, razzmatazz and violence. The audience stares in from the darkness around the ring at the spectacle in the center: ferocious, Darwinian competition between two almost naked figures, glistening with sweat. Just as good are Bellows's pictures of construction sites, such as 'Pennsylvania Station Excavation' (1909), depicting enormous, muddy, ice-bound holes in the ground from which mighty buildings would rise. These make you think he might have been an Edwardian-era equivalent to Frank Auerbach. Then you walk into the next room, and it all begins to go wrong. Bellows's pictures of the middle classes at leisure ('Love of Winter', 1914) are a bit post-card-like. Then the images of German atrocities in World War I are horrible in every way: vulgar, grotesque, and crude. The works of his last years are conventionally dull.

Argentine Zoo Shows 4 White Tiger Cubs

BUENOS AIRES (AP) • The Buenos Aires zoo is showing off four new white tiger cubs. Zoo officials say the blue-eyed cubs with coats of black stripes on white were born there two months ago and bring the number at the zoo to nine. They say the cubs will soon be able to eat meat.

White Bengal tigers have a rare genetic anomaly and have always been extremely rare in the wild. Several hundred white tigers have been bred in zoos and wild animal parks around the world, though many conservationists say efforts should be focused on less inbred tiger varieties.

The U.S. Association of Zoos and Aquariums discourages the breeding of white tigers.

OBITUARIES

Jerry D. Sparks

May 19, 1942-March 20, 2013

RUPERT • Jerry D. Sparks, age 70, passed away Wednesday, March 20, 2013, at home in Rupert surrounded by family after a courageous battle with cancer.

Jerry was born May 19, 1942, to Clarence L. and Virginia Knodel Sparks, in Rupert, Idaho. He was the second of seven children. The family farmed in the Acequia area and Jerry attended Rupert schools. He joined the National Guard and then the Navy, serving from 1961 to 1967. While stationed in California, Jerry married Karen Lyautey. The couple had three sons, Jerry Dean, Randy and Brian. They were later divorced. Jerry and his sons moved back to Rupert. Jerry married Dorothy Hergenreder in 1981, and they enjoyed 32 years together. Jerry was an excellent sheet metal welder. Any job that he held, he gave his best. When he returned to

Rupert, he worked at Rupert Iron, Del Monte and Barclay

Mechanical. He retired in 2004 and was then able to devote more time to his hobbies. He was an avid sportsman. He loved to fish, hunt, ride dirt bikes, shoot muzzle loaders and tie flies. He also enjoyed his horses and mules and spent many fall seasons in the high country seeking big game or just having fun in camp. He raced chariots for several years. In the summer if you wanted to find him, he would be on the water fishing.

Jerry is survived by his wife, Dorothy; sons, Jerry Dean, Randy and Brian; brothers, Clarence (Sharon) and Ronald (Bobbie) Sparks; sisters, Judy (Frank) Coelho and Beverly Son; brother-in-law, Ron Draper; daughters-in-love, Katie, Shaunna, Debbie, Esther and Claudia; grandsons, Devin, Clinton, Stephen, Zane, Dustin, Cody, Bryce and Braydon; granddaughters, Bridgett, Jessica, Racheal and Joanna; seven great-grandchildren; nieces and nephews; aunts and uncles; and lots of cousins. He also leaves behind his beloved cat, Tiger. He was preceded in death by his parents, Clarence and Virginia Sparks, and Anne Sparks; sisters, Mary Draper and Betty Lou Sparks; grandparents, Edward and Margaret Knodel, George and Mary James, and Willie Sparks; and brother-in-law, Harvey Son.

The family would like to thank Brandi, Kari, Melissa, Robert, Cindy and Paul, of Idaho Home Health and Hospice; Dr. Phatama Padavanija and the staff at MSTI in Twin Falls. Jerry received such loving care from all of you.

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, March 23, at Hansen Mortuary, 710 Sixth St. in Rupert, with Michael James officiating. A gathering for family and friends will be held from 10 to 10:45 a.m. Saturday at the mortuary. Burial will follow at the Paul Cemetery, with military graveside rites by the Paul American Legion. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests donations to your local Relay for Life.

Karen Weatherwax

March 20, 1946-March 11, 2013

TWIN FALLS • Karen Weatherwax, 66, of Twin Falls, passed away Monday, March 11, 2013.

She has gone to join her little angel son, Scott; and her mother, Mabel Peck. She is survived by her loving husband, Mike; two beautiful daughters, Libby and Jill; grandson, River; loyal dog, Repo; and siblings, Brent, Tink, Tim and Dawn Petterson. She was the daughter of Chuck and Mabel Petterson, born March 20, 1946. Karen and Mike were married in 1968 and enjoyed 45 wonderful years together. They loved to go hunting, fishing, camping and on road trips with each other. She was a champion archer, taking state when she was in high school. She will always be remembered for her generosity and exceptional talents. She had a passion for design, which is reflected in her beautiful home. Her doors were always open, and she was "mom" to everyone. She will be greatly missed.

A memorial will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday, March 23, at the Tribes Warehouse, 302 Fourth Ave. S. in Old Towne Twin Falls.

MEZZO-SOPRANO OPERA STAR RISE STEVENS DIES AT 99

NEW YORK (AP) • Mezzo-soprano opera star Rise Stevens, who sang with the Metropolitan Opera for more than 20 years spanning the 1940s and 1950s, has died. She was 99. Stevens died Wednesday night at her Manhattan home, said her son, Nicolas Surovy. Stevens started singing with the Met in 1938, on tour in Philadelphia. Among her greatest roles was the title character in the opera 'Carmen,' which she sang for 124 performances.

The Met called her "a consummate artist, treasured colleague, and devoted supporter of the company for 75 years."

‘Civil War 150’ Exhibit Comes to Twin Falls

BY JULIE WOOTTON
jwootton@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • As a self-proclaimed Civil War history buff, reference librarian Jennifer Hills was excited about an email she received last year.

It was about the opportunity to bring a national traveling exhibit, “Civil War 150,” to the Twin Falls Public Library. Hills applied, but wasn’t sure what would happen.

“You never know who you’re competing against,” she said.

In the application, Hills emphasized that the Civil War exhibit would tie in well with the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Idaho Territory this year.

It worked. “Civil War 150” opens Tuesday, March 26, at the Twin Falls Public Library. It will be on display through Saturday, April 13.

The exhibit traces major events during the Civil War and includes letters, personal accounts of the war and images.

There will also be audio files available of dramatic readings of letters written by people who lived through the Civil War.

Hills said the plan is to have the audio files pre-loaded onto a few MP3 players so people can listen to the readings.

The exhibit will be housed on the main floor of the library.

“We want it to be visible as people are coming in,” Hills said.

The Gilder Lehrman Institute of American History developed the exhibit through a partnership with The Library of America and grant funding from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

“Civil War 150” will travel around the country through 2015.

In conjunction with the exhibit, Hills planned free programs about the 150th anniversary of the

Three Best Bets in Magic Valley Entertainment

Poets and musicians from all around the west will return to the Magic Valley this weekend for the seventh annual Hagerman Cowboy Poetry Gathering.

Ken Wellard, a Utah resident, organized the first gathering for his mother.

Eunice Wellard of Bliss wasn’t able to travel to cowboy poetry events anymore and Wellard wanted to bring something to her.

If you’re interested in finding out what cowboy poetry and music is all about, there are daytime and nighttime performances planned for today and Saturday.

“It’s a foot-stompin’ good time, from sad songs to tall cowboy tales and poetry,” Wellard told the Times-News earlier this month.

Time for Spring Break

Many students around the Magic Valley will be out of school next week for spring break.

Parents: If you’re looking for an opportunity to get your kids out of the house, the College of Southern Idaho’s Herrett Center for Arts and Science is one place to go.

The Faulkner Planetarium has scheduled two to four shows each day from Tuesday, March 26 through Saturday, March 30.

The Herrett Center will also have tables of activities for visitors.

The YMCA of Twin Falls’ three locations will also offer various activities throughout the week. Its schedule caps with a free Easter Egg Dive on March 30.

Civil War History

For those of you who love history, be sure to check out “Civil War 150,” a national traveling exhibit that opens Tuesday at the Twin Falls Public Library.

The exhibit — which runs for three weeks — includes letters, personal accounts of the war and images.

There are also free programs at the library over the next few weeks about the 150th anniversary of the Idaho Territory.

An Unusual Birthday Present

Jerome piano teacher commissions a requiem for her husband’s birthday.

BY JULIE WOOTTON
jwootton@magicvalley.com

JEROME • Five years ago when her husband’s 60th birthday was coming up, Judy Prescott had an out-of-the-ordinary plan for a gift.

She decided to commission an honor requiem for her husband, Roy.

“A requiem is usually a piece of music performed on someone’s death,” Judy said.

But, she said, it wasn’t out of line to think about creating a requiem for her husband while he’s alive. And she hopes he’ll have decades left to enjoy it.

Judy and Roy Prescott — who live northeast of Jerome — finally heard the first performance of the requiem earlier this month.

It was part of a concert titled “In Paradisum: Requiems by Gabriel Faure and Amos Gillespie,” put on by Chicago nonprofit organization VOX 3 Collective.

The requiem was performed March 14-15 at First United Methodist Church at the Chicago Temple.

The performance featured a 29-member chorus, 12-piece orchestra including an organist, a director and a chorus master. The couple’s daughter Rebecca Prescott was one of the soprano soloists.

“I was very impressed with the work that was performed,” Roy said, noting that his wife did an exceptional job starting the project.

The living memorial is done in time for Roy’s 65th birthday in August.

Now that the requiem has been performed and recorded, Judy hopes to prepare it for publication.

What’s Included in the Requiem?

Here are the movements of the requiem that Jerome resident Judy Prescott had commissioned for her husband.

- 1) Honor God — 1 Samuel: 2
- 2) Believe in our Saviour Jesus Christ — Psalm 24
- 3) Have an attitude of gratitude — Doctrine & Covenants 10 (The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints)
- 4) Love our Children — poetry by Sir Edwin Arnold
- 5) Use time productively — Ulysses by Alfred Lord Tennyson
- 6) Construct a good life through work and experiences — Revelation 14: 13
- 7) Remember our Fathers — Mass by Leonard Bernstein
- 8) Return of 1 Samuel: 2

said, was appealing because it’s something that lasts.

Judy — a piano teacher who runs a studio in Jerome — said her husband loves classical music, so it wasn’t out of character for him to request a requiem.

Around that time, the couple saw a performance of Mozart’s Requiem at the College of Southern Idaho.

Tickets on Sale Now for Sun Valley Summer Symphony's Benefit Concert

BY KAREN BOSSICK
For the Times-News

SUN VALLEY • Country music star Wynonna Judd will head up the benefit concert during this year's Sun Valley Summer Symphony season.

Tickets are on sale for the concert, which will feature Judd and her band "The Big Noise." The concert will be Aug. 8 at the outdoor Sun Valley Pavilion.

Tickets start at $50 and are available at svsummer-symphony.org or by calling 208-622-5607.

Judd has been called "the greatest female singer since Patsy Cline" by Rolling Stone. She rose to fame as part of a mother-daughter duo, The Judds, which recorded 14 No. 1 hits, including "Mama He's Crazy" and "Grandpa (Tell Me 'Bout the Good Ol' Days)."

Wynonna went solo in 1991 after her mother Naomi had to drop out due to Hepatitis C, but continued to rack up No. 1 hits, such as "I Saw the Light" and "To Be Loved by You."

The benefit concert helps fund the 115-member symphony, which is the largest privately funded free-admission orchestra in the United States.

Its 29th annual summer concert series will run July 28 through Aug. 20 at the Sun Valley Pavilion.

Among this year's hits: the Aug. 10 "Bone and Beyond" pops concert, which will feature music from James Bond films. Soprano Debbie Gravitte will perform songs such as "Goldfinger."

"Time for Three" will follow Aug. 11. Jennifer Teisinger, executive director for the Sun Valley Summer Symphony, said the group features two violinists and a bass player who call themselves the first classically-trained garage band.

Indeed, two of the trio members have played in the Philadelphia Orchestra. They will play pops, country and bluegrass songs with the orchestra, providing music arrangements that are "a little edgy but with a classical bent," Teisinger said.

"They're very cute and adorable," said Vicki Abrams, executive assistant for the Sun Valley Summer Symphony. "I think they're going to be one of our more interesting guest artists."

Midori, a violinist, will open the symphony season on Aug. 4, performing Ludwig Van Beethoven's Concerto in D Major for Violin. And pianist Orli Shaham will perform Wolfgang Mozart's "Concerto No. 21 in C Major for piano" Aug. 15.

The orchestra will also perform Sergei Prokofiev's excerpts for "Romeo and Julie" and Stravinsky's "The Rite of Spring."

Ketchum residents David and Jill Hitchin said they always look forward to the Edgar M. Bronfman In Focus Series, which features chamber music. They especially like the way Conductor Alasdair Neale offers brief talks about each piece prior to its performance.

"We like the educational aspects," David Hitchin said.

This year's four-program In Focus Series, held July 28 through Aug. 2, has been themed "The Sacred and the Profane: Spirituality Across the Globe and the Ages."

As such, it will include such numbers as Colin McPhee's "Balinese Ceremonial Music" for piano duet, Hector Berlioz's "Dream of a Witches' Sabbath" from "Symphonie fantastique" and William Byrd's "Bow Thine Ear, O Lord."

Guns N' Roses Tribute Band Comes to Cactus Petes

BY CINDY JOYCE
For the Elko Daily Free Press

JACKPOT • Appetite For Deception, a tribute band to Guns N' Roses, will perform next week at Cactus Petes Resort Casino in Jackpot, Nev.

The band performs 9 p.m. Friday, March 29 and 8 p.m. Saturday, March 30.

The five rockers who bring Guns N' Roses alive are Mark Thomas, "Axl M," lead vocalist; Michael Killian, "Izzy," guitarist; Jon-Michael Farley, "Duff," bassist; Brandon Cook, "BC Slash," lead guitarist; and Andrew Greene "AG Sorum," percussion.

This energetic, rockin' crew hails from Oregon and is ready to bring the house down in Nevada.

Killian is the founding member of AFD. He placed an ad on Craigslist in summer 2005 looking for other members to form a group. They met for the first time in a garage in Oregon.

"We knew immediately that we were going to have a product," Thomas said. Whatever, we were going to make it. Everybody knew their parts and worked very well together."

Although living in Oregon, Thomas is no stranger to Nevada. He grew up in Boulder City and attended University of Nevada-Las Vegas and University of Nevada-Reno.

He said their football team played teams in Elko and Tonopah, and he is hoping some of his friends from Reno will get to a show.

This tribute band is going for record accuracy of the original Guns N' Roses.

"We give the audience the 'record' because that's what they want to hear," Thomas said. "They don't want to hear the music created slightly different. In some respects, I think our job is a bit harder than the original artists, because they can play with their music and we have to be as 'note on' perfect as we can be."

Thomas said his personal favorite Guns N' Roses song to perform is "Estranged."

"It's an epic ballad about 10 minutes long, doesn't have verses or choruses, and it's a very complex piece," he said. "It really does give you the full spectrum of what music we are capable of doing."

Appetite For Deception does perform cover songs, as Guns N' Roses did, such as "Live and Let Die" (Paul Mc-Cartney), "Hair of the Dog" (Nazareth) and "Knockin' on Heaven's Door" (Bob Dylan).

Thomas is an avid historian. He said, "I've read so much about Guns N' Roses it helps one get into character."

"Sweet Child O' Mine," "Welcome to the Jungle," "Patience" and "November Rain" will all be among the list of songs performed, along with other original GNR tunes.

"I want to make sure each night is worth coming back for," Thomas said.

While paying tribute to GNR seems like a glamorous lifestyle, these rockers of AFD also have individual jobs.

Thomas does web design, Killian is a metal worker and gunsmith, Greene is a computer technician and Farley is a cameraman for a local TV station. Cook, a music teacher, also plays in five or six other bands.

Tickets start at $10 and can be purchased by calling Cactus Petes Resort Casino's hotline at 1-800-821-1103. Two free drinks are included in the price of admission. You must be 21 or older to attend.

And during a trip to Chicago, Judy went with her daughter to see a performance of John Rutter's famous requiem.

After listening to it, she got the idea "that the requiem doesn't have to be based on the Catholic Mass" and can be more secular.

When Judy pulled out a dictionary to look up the word "requiem," the fourth definition was exactly what she was looking for: A song of rest.

Judy said a requiem provides music for a funeral service and "brings those listening to peace."

"It satisfies their longing to set the person they're honoring at rest," she said.

Judy started creating a theme for the first movement of the requiem. That wasn't a problem, given her extensive music training.

She grew up in Canada and studied music through the conservatory system. She also studied music at Brigham Young University and in Austria.

Judy has her own studio in Jerome, where she teaches piano. She also collaborates with another music teacher to provide vocal lessons.

To begin the process of putting together the requiem, she looked up passages about death from a variety of places.

Sources included the Bible, scriptures from The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and some poems.

Then, Judy began to narrow the text down to themes — centering on what makes a life noble — and came up with a script.

She handed over her work to Chicago composer Amos Gillespie, who took her "folk song-type idea" and expanded upon it. Ten months later, they went over the finished score and made some changes.

"He developed it into something academic and truly lovely," Judy said.

The requiem in honor of her husband has eight parts, with the same first and last movement.

Judy asked around to a few choral groups and universities to see if anyone was interested in performing the composition, but was turned down.

Finally, she found VOX 3

Collective. It's a nonprofit organization in Chicago that focuses on presentations of vocal music.

Marketing manager Elizabeth Shuman said the organization works with local composers and has a heavy education focus.

The group premieres a lot of new pieces by Chicago composers such as Gillespie, she said.

Shuman described the honor requiem for Roy as an amazing, beautiful piece of music. A recording of the live concert will be available in the future, she said.

Blackfoot Native Wins Film Festival's Gem State Award

TIMES-NEWS

SUN VALLEY • Blackfoot native Jesse Millward won the Gem State Award during the Sun Valley Film Festival for his film “Craters of the Moon.”

The $1,000 award, presented by Zions Bank, recognizes a filmmaker whose work reflects the beauty and diversity of the Gem State.

Millward — who wrote, directed and co-produced the film — was selected by a jury to receive the award.

“Craters of the Moon” follows a young couple on a cross-country road trip. They lose their way and end up stranded at Craters of the Moon National Monument.

As the days pass, their relationship slowly deteriorates, leading to the film's climax.

“We grew up here. We're Idaho filmmakers and we will be making movies in other places, but our hearts lie here and having our first film premiere here is a big thing for us,” said Jacob Brumfield, co-producer of the film. “Making a film in Idaho and winning an award, it's a dream come true. # Twin Falls Groups Offer Spring Break Family Fun

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Families searching for spring break activities will have plenty of options next week in Twin Falls.

The College of Southern Idaho's Herrett Center for Arts and Science will feature spring break attractions for families all week.

The Faulkner Planetarium has scheduled two to four shows each day from Tuesday, March 26, through Saturday, March 30, with few repeats.

"We'll go through just about every program we currently have stored and ready to show," planetarium manager Rick Greenawald said. "We figured spring break would be a good time to offer a complete range of programs for all ages."

Younger visitors will enjoy Rusty Rocket's Last Blast, Planet Patrol, Mystery of the Missing Seasons and WSKY: Radio Station of the Stars.

Shows that would appeal to visitors in middle school or older include The Dinosaur Chronicles, the Planets, Sky Quest, Here Comes the Sun, Cosmic Colors, The Wild World of Weather and Lifestyles of the Stars.

The 3:30 p.m. shows each day will also include a live sky tour on the planetarium dome. Two entertainment programs — Lynyrd Skynyrd: Fly On, Free Bird and Altrageous Rock — will be shown on Friday and Saturday nights, March 29-30.

The Herrett Center will also have tables of make-and-take activities available for visitors to do, including trilobite sculpting, how ancient weapons were made, creating woven bags and firemaking.

Admission to the Herrett

Center is free. Ticket prices for the planetarium and a complete list of showtimes are available at Herrett.csi.edu.

The Herrett Center is closed every Monday. It is open 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesdays and Fridays, 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays, and 1 to 9 p.m. Saturdays. It is located on the North College Road entrance to CSI.

For information, call 208-732-6655.

Exercise and Easter Eggs

The YMCA of Twin Falls also plans a full slate of activities for kids during spring break next week:

The Canyon Rim Y, 1881 Pole Line Road, will host youth development activities from 9 a.m.-12:30 p.m. March 25-29 and again from 4-8:30 p.m. March 25-28. Kids "Zumbatomic" will be held March 25 at 4:15 p.m., March 27 at 5:30 p.m. and March 29 at 6:30 p.m.

At the E Street Y, 1751 Elizabeth St., the XR Zone will be open from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. March 25-29, from 4-8:30 p.m. March 25-28 and from 4-7 p.m. March 29. Tennis camps for children ages 4-7 and 8-12 will be from 1-3 p.m. each weekday.

Highlights at the Y/City Pool, 756 Locust St., include inner tube water polo from 3-4 p.m. March 27, an Iceberg Invasion from 1:30-4 p.m. March 29, and a Midnight Splash from 9-11 p.m. March 29. To end the week, it will then host the wettest Easter egg hunt in town with a free Easter Egg Dive at 12:30 p.m. March 30.

For more information and for costs, visit www.ymcatf.com.

Idaho Fiddle Championship Coming in June

TIMES-NEWS

GOODING • The Fiddlers of Idaho State Championship has been set for June 29 at the Gooding County Fairgrounds.

This year, the contest will be held in conjunction with the Western Heritage Gathering & Ranch Rodeo.

The state fiddle championship was previously held in Shoshone, but will be moved to Gooding this year to honor the county's 100th anniversary and the 150th anniversary of the Idaho Territory.

"Holding the Idaho State Fiddle Championship in Gooding is a great fit," Fiddlers Inc. representative Dennis Koyle said in a statement. "It's a community that is noted for honoring and celebrating its Old West roots."

The Fiddlers of Idaho State Championship contest is certified by the National Oldtime Fiddlers

Association.

The highest finishing Idaho resident contestant in each age-based division and the open division will represent the state in the National Oldtime Fiddlers Championship in June 2014 in Weiser.

For the state contest, contestants of all ages can participate and there's no qualifying requirements or competitions.

There are a few age divisions: Small Fry (ages 8 and under), Junior/Junior (ages 9-12), Junior (ages 13-17), Young Adult (ages 18-36), Adult (ages 37-59) and Senior (age 60 and above).

The contest includes an open division and five entertainment events: Flat Pickin Mandolin, Flat Pickin Guitar, Banjo Pickin, Trick & Fancy Fiddle and the Train Song.

For more information, contact Fiddlers Inc. at 208-260-0364 or idahofiddlersinc@gmail.com.

Lawn & Garden

Spring Cleaning Your Garden - Getting Your Garden Ready to Grow

by Marie Iannotti, About.com Guide

There's no point in pretending you're not going to be out in your garden the first warm second of spring. While there is no harm in cleaning up fallen branches and debris, wait until the soil is no longer wet enough to form a ball in your hand, before walking on it and compacting it. But don't wait too long to start your clean up. It's much easier to cut plants back before the old growth gets tangled up in the new growth.

1. Flower Garden Spring Clean-Up

The first task is removing and composting any dead annual plants that remained over winter. These will not return and any self-seeders will already have done their job. If you didn't prune back your perennials last fall, they're probably looking pretty ugly as spring sets in. Many perennials actually prefer to be left standing throughout the winter, for extra protection. If you did leave your perennials standing last fall, once you start to see new growth at the base of the plants, it's safe to begin removing winter mulch and pruning them down to ground level.

2. Woody Perennial Flowers & Plants

Some shrubby plants with woody stems need to be cut back each spring, because they only bloom on new branches. These are pruned in the spring, to limit winter damage and to encourage the plant to start sending out those new flowering branches. It's best to wait until danger of a hard frost is past. Most of these woody perennials will let you know when it's time to prune them by showing signs of opening buds on the lower stem portions or new growth at the base of the plants.

3. Evergreen and Semi-Evergreen Perennial Plants

Depending on where you are gardening, some perennial plants will never quite go dormant, but they may still need tidying up. Plants like Epimedium, Hellebores, Heuchera and bearded iris retain their leaves all winter. Spring is the time to trim back the tattered foliage and encourage new growth to come in.

4. Ornamental Grasses

If you left your ornamental grasses up for winter interest, you can cut them back as soon as you can get to them. You don't need to wait for new growth. Cut grasses to within a few inches of the ground. They'll come back up when they're ready.

5. Roses

Spring rose care depends very much on your climate. Roses grown in warm climates, where roses never go dormant, benefit from a good pruning and the removal of the majority leaves, to shock the rose into thinking it was dormant and needs to wake up and start growing again. Where roses did go dormant, spring care should begin just as the leaf buds begin to plump up.

6. Evergreens

Most evergreens should require little to no spring care other than some tidying up. Spring is a good time to fertilize evergreens, because they are actively growing at this time. However, if the soil is healthy and rich, you should only need to feed your evergreens about every other year. Look for a well-balanced food labeled especially for evergreens.

7. Weeding and Composting

Early spring is the time to take action against weeds. Damp soil makes it much easier to pull young weed seedlings. Don't try to compost weeds. They'll come back to haunt you.

Most of what you clean up can go into your compost pile. It's best to start a new pile in spring and leave your old pile to flip and use. Dispose of any plant material that shows signs of disease and any seed heads, weeds or otherwise, that could become a problem. ♦

Simon & Garfunkel Album Among 25 to be Preserved

BY BRETT ZONGKER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Simon & Garfunkel's song "The Sound of Silence," written amid the turmoil following President John F. Kennedy's assassination, and Chubby Checker's 1960s dance hit "The Twist" are among 25 recordings selected for preservation at the Library of Congress.

These are just a few sounds of the 20th century being added to the National Recording Registry on Thursday for long-term preservation for their cultural, artistic and historic importance. The library said Checker's rendition of "The Twist" became a symbol of the energy and excitement of the early 60s after "American Bandstand" host Dick Clark chose Checker to record a new version of the song.

Later, the 1966 album "Sounds of Silence" by Paul Simon and Art Garfunkel was a hit in its day but not before the duo struggled and split early on. Their song "The Sound of Silence" from the aftermath of President Kennedy's assassination 50 years ago this year had initially flopped — but it became a hit after it was re-edited as a single. That prompted the duo to reunite and quickly record another album under a similar title.

Garfunkel, 71, told The Associated Press he's thrilled and flattered to have his work preserved in the Library of Congress. He said the hit album was a life changer for him and Simon. "Da da dee, da dee, da dee," he sang in an interview.

"There's something fundamentally appealing about the simplicity of those lines," Garfunkel said.

"When you look at the little mesh, wire microphone ... and you address people on the other side of the mic, you hope that your performance will be special, and you hope that it will have lasting power," Garfunkel said. He said he remembers thinking in the 60s that "if we do really good and give a very special performance to these great Paul Simon songs, we might last right into the next century and be appreciated."

Their words and their tune have taken on special significance in American culture. Hearing Simon sing "The Sound of Silence" on the 10th anniversary of the 9/11 attacks, NBC newsman Tom Brokaw briefly struggled for composure. The music, he said, evokes memories.

This is the kind of impact the library was looking to preserve, "to celebrate the richness and variety of our audio heritage," said Librarian of Congress James Billington in announcing the selections.

The recording that received the highest number of public nominations for this year's registry was Pink Floyd's "The Dark Side of the Moon." The library said it was notable as an example of "brilliant, innovative production in service of the music."

Other selections included the original 1949 cast album for "South Pacific" and the soundtrack to the popular 1977 movie "Saturday Night Fever," starring John Travolta and featuring the Bee Gees, which revived the disco craze.

The selections span from 1918 to 1980 and represent nearly every musical and recording category.

Recordings by Will Rogers, Jimmie Davis and President Dwight D. Eisenhower capture part of the political climate of their eras.

Area Gymnasts to Compete at State Competition

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Countless hours of hard work will culminate this weekend for 25 Magic Valley gymnasts.

Athletes from area gyms will compete at the Idaho State Championships this weekend in Coeur d'Alene.

Magic Valley Gymnastics of Twin Falls is sending 19 athletes, including Level 8 competitor Brinley Reed, who hopes to qualify for the regional championships, to be held in April at Shoreline, Wash.

Jen Clinton, owner and coach of Magic Valley Gymnastics since 2001, said her gymnasts practice between 2.5 and 10.5 hours per week, depending on age and level.

"They've pretty much committed their after school activities to gymnastics and have dedicated a lot of their time and effort to the sport and really have fun with it and are hoping to do great at the state meet," Clinton said.

Elevate Gymnastics in Burley has only been open since June, but owner/coach Jennifer Jones says she already has more than 250 students. Six have qualified for the state championships.

CSI WRAP-UP

Great Performance in Loss Creates Little Solace for CSI's Dent

BY NICK RULAND
nruland@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Fighting through tears after the team that had veritably become hers — the College of Southern Idaho — had its season end at the hands of Chipola (Fla.) College Wednesday, point guard Adriana Dent was in no mood to discuss playbooks — neither of the team nor silver linings.

In a few months, however, her

start wishing kids could come back another year because she grew up as a person, in the classroom and as performance in the NJCAA tournament could turn into a golden ticket.

"That (performance) sums her up," head coach Randy Rogers said. "You could have been the deciding factor in victory had the Golden Eagles held on.

While the numbers were above average for Dent, who — despite standing all of 5-foot-5 — finished in the top five in rebounding in the Scenic West Conference, she often provided more statistical production when her team needed it, as was the case Wednesday.

But what was a surprise, as dozens of recruiters and scouts from well-regarded NCAA programs filled the courtside seats of Bicentennial Arena, was that Dent outplayed Chipola's speedy guards, all of whom are likely to play NCAA Division I basketball.

Like always, Dent wanted to talk team — the one she'll be leaving.

"I don't really care about all the scouts, that isn't going to bother me," Dent said. "Last year we weren't really a team. This year we were a family and it is tough to go down like this because I love coach, I love all the freshmen, and this sucks because that's it."

Marquette Rallies to Stay Alive

No. 1 Gonzaga holds on against Southern.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON, Ky. • Vander Blue's layup with one second left capped Marquette's rally from a nine-point deficit and gave the third-seeded Golden Eagles a 59-58 victory over Davidson Thursday in the NCAA tournament.

Blue and Jamil Wilson made consecutive 3-pointers to bring Marquette within 58-57 with 11 seconds left. The Golden Eagles then caught a huge break when De'Mon Brooks' long inbounds pass went out of bounds at midcourt with 5.5 seconds left, providing another opportunity.

Blue took full advantage after getting Wilson's inbounds pass, driving left and finding room for the winning basket. He then sealed Marquette's improbable win by stealing Davidson's last-ditch inbounds pass at midcourt to set off a celebration among players and Golden Eagles fans at Rupp Arena.

Blue scored seven of Marquette's final 11 points to finish with 16. Wilson added 14 points as the Golden Eagles (24-8) won for the fifth time in six games and advanced to face Butler in Saturday's third round.

Jake Cohen's 20 points led Davidson (26-8), who seemed in control leading 49-40 with 6½ minutes left.

BUTLER 68, BUCKNELL 56

Andrew Smith had a double-double including a career-high 16 rebounds, Roosevelt Jones added 14 points and Butler made its free throws down the stretch to hold off upset-minded Bucknell.

After trailing for most of the game, 11th-seeded Bucknell got back into it with a 19-2 second-half run. But after Joe Willman's jumper cut Butler's lead to 43-42 with 6:56 left, the Bison (28-6) went almost five minutes without scoring. Butler went 18-of-20 at the line in the last 4:43.

Willman scored a career-high 20 points for Bucknell, but the Bison couldn't overcome an off day by two-time Patriot League Player of the Year Mike Muscala. Bucknell's all-time leading scorer had nine points, only the second time this season he'd failed to reach double figures.

CALIFORNIA 64, UNLV 61

SAN JOSE, Calif. • Allen Crabbe had 19 points and nine rebounds, reserve Robert Thurman scored all 12 of his points on dunks and 12th-seeded California held off UNLV.

Buoyed by the crowd support of a strong contingent so close to Berkeley, the Golden Bears (21-11) held the Runnin' Rebels (25-10) without a basket for more than 11 minutes in the second half. Cal turned a tie game into a nine-point lead during that stretch and withstood a late UNLV push for its first tournament win since 2010.

The fifth-seeded Rebels rallied to within a point in the final seconds before missed free throws and a costly inbounds pass sealed the loss.

Bryce Dejean-Jones scored 15 points and Anthony Bennett shook off a poor start to finish with 15 points and 11 rebounds for UNLV, which beat Cal 76-75 in Berkeley on Dec. 9.

MIDWEST REGIONAL

LOUISVILLE 79, NORTH CAROLINA A&T 48

LEXINGTON, Ky. • Pay attention, No. 1s. This is how it's done.

Russ Smith scored 23 points and set a Louisville NCAA tournament record with a career-high eight steals, and Peyton Siva had eight assists as the Cardinals demolished North Carolina A&T.

Louisville finished with a season-high 20 steals as it forced the Aggies (20-17) into 27 turnovers. It was the 11th straight win for the Cardinals (30-5), who will play Colorado State or Missouri on Saturday.

Rick Pitino and the Big East champions quickly ended a postseason run for the Aggies, who finally earned their first NCAA tournament win on Tuesday. Bruce Beckford led North Carolina A&T with 12 points.

MICHIGAN STATE 65, VALPARAISO 54

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — Derrick Nix had 23 points and a career-high 15 rebounds to help power third-seeded Michigan State past the 14th-seeded Crusaders in the Midwest Regional.

The Spartans went on a 26-5 run in the first half to take control, and cruised to an easy victory.

Michigan State (26-8) will play Memphis on Saturday when coach Tom Izzo's Spartans will be shooting for a spot in the round of 16 for the fifth time in six years.

The Crusaders (26-8) were no match for Michigan State in their first NCAA tournament in nine years.

Erik Buggs scored 14 and Matt Kenney had 10 points for the Crusaders.

MEMPHIS 54, ST. MARY'S 52

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. • Matthew Dellavedova's 3-pointer from the right wing missed everything as time expired, allowing sixth-seeded Memphis to hold on for a win over 11th-seeded Saint Mary's.

The Tigers (31-4) led by 15 in the first half but nearly gave the game away in the final seconds.

With Memphis ahead 54-49, Eividas Petrulis banked in a 3-pointer with 3.1 seconds to play. The Tigers then lost the ball when the Gaels' Jordan Giusti deflected the inbound pass off Joe Jackson of Memphis and out of bounds.

Saint Mary's (28-7) was out of timeouts but had a chance to regroup while officials reviewed the previous sequence. It didn't matter. Dellavedova, the career leader in scoring for Saint Mary's, was able to get a shot off, but it didn't come close to going in.

It was the first win in the NCAA tournament for Memphis since 2009, when John Calipari was still coach.

D.J. Stephens had nine points and eight blocks for Memphis, and Jackson had 14 points and seven assists. Brad Waldow scored 17 points to lead Saint Mary's.

Dellavedova had 10 points, seven assists and six turnovers in 40 minutes.

SAINT LOUIS 64, NEW MEXICO STATE 44

SAN JOSE, Calif. • Dwayne Evans scored 24 points, Cody Ellis added 12 points and fourth-seeded Saint Louis overwhelmed New Mexico State in the Midwest Regional.

Playing through the death of Rick Majerus in December, Saint Louis reached another mark for its late coach. The Billikens (28-6) eclipsed the 1988-89 team's school record of 27 victories.

Evans shot 11 of 16 and finished a point shy of his career best to propel Saint Louis past 7-foot-5 New Mexico State freshman Sim Bhullar. The Billikens held Bhullar to four points, 11 rebounds and three blocks.

Saint Louis plays Oregon on Saturday.

Bandja Sy had 17 points and nine rebounds for the 13th-seeded Aggies (24-11), who shot just 28 percent.

OREGON 68, OKLAHOMA STATE 55

SAN JOSE, Calif. • Damyeen Dotson scored 17 points and Arsalan Kazemi added 11 points and 17 rebounds to help 12th-seeded Oregon extend a run that began in the Pac-12 tournament by beating fifth-seeded Oklahoma.

Dominic Artis scored 13 points and helped frustrate Oklahoma State star freshman Marcus Smart on the defensive end to give the Ducks (27-8) their first tournament win in six years.

Smart came into the game with the hype of a top NBA prospect but was held to 14 points on 5 for 13 shooting for the Cowboys (24-9).

WEST REGIONAL

GONZAGA 64, SOUTHERN 58

SALT LAKE CITY • A March Madness warm-up turned into a great escape for Gonzaga.

The Zags got pushed to the limit by Southern, pulling out a victory in the closing minutes to avoid becoming the first No. 1 seed to lose to a 16 in the NCAA tournament.

Kelly Olynyk led the Zags (32-2) with 21 points. They play No. 9 Wichita State on Saturday.

But it was a pair of 3-pointers — one by Gary Bell Jr., the next by Kevin Pangos — that staked the Bulldogs to a 62-58 lead only moments after the game was tied at 56 with 3:45 left.

Derick Beltran had 21 points to lead Southern (23-10) and his 14-foot baseline jumper tied it at 56. But the Jaguars from the Southwestern Athletic Conference didn't make another field goal.

No. 1 seeds are now 113-0 against 16s.

WICHITA STATE 73, PITTSBURGH 55

SALT LAKE CITY • Malcolm Armstead scored 22 points, Cleanthony Early added 21 and ninth-seeded Wichita State ousted

Pittsburgh.

Freshman Steven Adams led Pitt (24-9) with 13 points and 11 rebounds.

Call Hall added 11 points for the Shockers (27-8).

The Shockers forced Pitt into 15 turnovers and held the Panthers to 35 percent shooting, including 1 of 17 from 3-point range.

Pitt's leading scorer, Tray Woodall, missed his first four shots and finished with two points. He shot 1 of 12, including 0 of 5 from beyond the arc, with five turnovers.

ARIZONA 81, BELMONT 64

SALT LAKE CITY • Mark Lyons scored 23 points and sixth-seeded Arizona rolled past Belmont.

The Wildcats (26-7) used their huge size advantage to shut down the Bruins (26-7), who are 0-6 in tourney games. Arizona held a 44-18 edge on the boards, outscored Belmont 36-18 in the paint, blocked five shots and outshot the Bruins from 3-point range.

The Wildcats made 9 of 17 3-pointers, including a critical one from Solomon Hill with 4:40 remaining to stop an 11-2 Belmont run, and shot 57 percent overall.

Bruins guard Ian Clark entered shooting better than 46 percent from 3-point range but was 3 of 8 from beyond the arc.

Kerron Johnson led Belmont with 22 points and Clark finished with 21.

Kevin Parrom, Kaleb Tarczewski and Nick Johnson added 12 points each for Arizona, which will play the winner of Harvard-New Mexico.

SOUTH REGIONAL

MICHIGAN 71, SOUTH DAKOTA 56

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. • Glenn Robinson III scored 21 points and Mitch McGary added 13 points and nine rebounds, helping fourth-seeded Michigan overcome a rough night for star Trey Burke.

Burke made only two field goals and left the game briefly in the second half after a hard fall under the basket. The star point guard came back after that, but he finished with only six points.

Michigan (27-7) advanced anyway behind Robinson, McGary and Tim Hardaway Jr., who scored 21 points.

South Dakota State (25-10), the 13th seed, trailed by only four at halftime but couldn't keep up. High-scoring guard Nate Wolters was held to only 10 points.

Burke was held in single digits for the first time all season. Michigan plays the winner of VCU against Akron on Saturday.

Alabama President to Recommend Battle as AD

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) • Alabama President Judy Bonner is recommending businessman Bill Battle to replace his former Crimson Tide football teammate Mal Moore as athletic director.

The Alabama board of trustees' executive committee scheduled a conference call Friday to vote on the selection.

Moore is stepping down because of health issues and has been hospitalized at Duke University Medical Center for the past week with pulmonary problems.

"Over the past several weeks, we have had multiple conversations about who should follow coach Moore as AD," Bonner said in a statement released by the university on Thursday. "Based on Mal's strong endorsement as well as coach Battle's affil-

Rogers lauded each of his outgoing sophomores afterwards, saying that the core of the starting four, sophomores Dent, Jessy Saint-Felix, Megan Tanner and Candice Prestwich, have set the table for next year's far more sizeable group of sophomores for a return trip to nationals next season.

"I started those girls for a reason," Rogers said. "But there is nothing like getting a feel for (the NJ-CAA tournament) for the first time. This year's freshmen now know what it feels like."

Sarah Viehweg, Julia Dufurrena, Patrice Toston and Cassidy Skidmore will be the bold-faced names heading into next season, but players such as Moriah Dill, Brittany Wirth, Rai Franklin, Alli Furniss, Zulieka Grinsell and Stephanie Tounson will all have the chance to make the quantum leap that the outgrowing crop of sophomores made.

"We're going to miss the sophomores a lot," Viehweg said. "They were really good leaders and they led the team really well, but we have a lot of freshmen and can really step up next year."

"There is nothing like getting a feel for (the NJCAA tournament) for the first time."

Vandals Gear Up for Spring Ball

BY JOSH WRIGHT
For the Times-News

MOSCOW, Idaho • The first batch of spring practices under a new coaching staff is always important. But to Paul Petrino and the University of Idaho football team, the next four weeks are especially critical.

Simply put, Petrino has an intricate system. It involves a large number of base plays and packages — many more than the Vandals' returners grew accustomed to under Robb Akey.

"I think it's a lot more volume," Petrino said when asked about the challenges of grasping his playbook. "We're doing more offensively and defensively." Starting today at 5 p.m., Idaho's new staff will be able to introduce new schemes for the first time on the field. The first of 15 spring practices for the Vandals will be at the team's outdoor practice field.

UI players won't have to digest the new system all at once. Coaches instead will install protections, coverages, blitzes and all the rest in seven-day increments. The Vandals will get through two installations in spring, then repeat the process in the summer (when players are on their own) and fall camp.

"So by the time we line up to play North Texas on Aug. 31, we should have been through the installation at least 12 times," Petrino said.

The first day of spring will be Petrino's 110th day on the job by his count, and the former Arkansas offensive coordinator is pleased with how his players have responded to the regime change. But he's also curious how the team will operate under pressure.

Partly for that reason, the Vandals will have hold live and see how they play."

Petrino hopes one of the four emerges so he can name a starter heading into fall camp. But another JC transfer, Josh McCain, will also figure into the QB competition when he joins the team after this semester. One of Idaho's strengths appears to be its depth on the offensive and defensive lines. Petrino said four of the five O-line starters could already be in place — led by slimmed-down center Mike Marboe and guard Dallas Sandberg — while Quinton Bradley and other returners on the D-line show promise.

"Really the biggest goal on both sides of the ball is to find our 11 best players. That's something we've got to come out of spring knowing who those guys are."

Gymnasts

"A lot of our girls train four days a week, three hours a practice. They condition and do weight training on their own. They're pretty hardcore. They work hard to get where they are," Jones said. "It's exciting that we were able to take girls to state our first year."

To qualify for state, gymnasts must earn qualifying scores at various meets from December through March.

"What you're working for the whole competition season is to be able to go to state," Jones said.

The state championships run Friday through Sunday at North Idaho College. The athletes are vying for individual, all-around and team titles. Girls will compete in floor exercise, vault, uneven bars and balance beam. Boys will compete in floor exercise, pommel horse, high bar, vault, still rings and parallel bars.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
On July 9, 2013, at the hour of 11:00 o'clock AM of said day, at First American Title, 260 Third Avenue North, Twin Falls, Idaho, JUST LAW, INC., as Successor Trustee, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale, the following described real property, situated in the County of Twin Falls, State of Idaho, and described as follows to wit:
Lot 18 in Block 3 of Parkwood Subdivision No.2, Twin Falls County, State of Idaho, recorded in Book 19 of Plats, page 14.
The Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above referenced real property, but for purposes of compliance with Section 60-113 Idaho Code, the Trustee has been informed the address of 673 Cedar Brook Dr., Twin Falls, ID, is sometimes associated with the said real property.
This Trustee's Sale is subject to a bankruptcy filing, a payoff, a reinstatement or any other conditions of which the Trustee is not aware that would cause the cancellation of this sale. Further, if any of these conditions exist, this sale may be null and void, the successful bidder's funds shall be returned, and the Trustee and the Beneficiary shall not be liable to the successful bidder for any damages.
Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possessions or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the Deed of Trust executed by Spencer G. Landon, unmarried man, as Grantor(s) with Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc. MERS solely as nominee for Avery Financial Group Inc., A Idaho Corporation as the Beneficiary, under the Deed of Trust recorded June 24, 2008, as Instrument No. 2008-014447, in the records of Twin Falls County, Idaho. The Beneficial interest of said Deed of Trust was subsequently assigned to Flagstar Bank, FSB, recorded February 25, 2013, as Instrument No. 2013004091, in the records of said County. THE ABOVE GRANTORS ARE NAMED TO COMPLY WITH SECTION 45-1506(4)(a), IDAHO CODE. NO REPRESENTATION IS MADE THAT THEY ARE, OR ARE NOT, PRESENTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS OBLIGATION. The default for which this sale is to be made is the failure to pay the amount due under the certain Promissory Note and Deed of Trust, in the amounts called for thereunder as follows:
Monthly payments in the amount of $1,105.31 for the months of November 2012 through and including to the date of sale, together with late charges and monthly payments accruing. The sum owing on the obligation secured by said Deed of Trust is $127,334.89 as principal, plus service charges, attorney's fees, costs of this foreclosure, any and all funds expended by Beneficiary to protect their security interest, and interest accruing at the rate of 6.875% from October 1, 2012, together with delinquent taxes plus penalties and interest to the date of sale.
The Beneficiary elects to sell or cause the trust property to be sold to satisfy said obligation.

SUDOKU

By Dave Green

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

Unscramble these four Jumbles, one letter to each square, to form four ordinary words.

A: (Answers tomorrow)

Yesterday's Jumbles: MURKY GRIME COMEDY STENCH
Answer: The technician forgot to change the android's positronic brain. He needed a — "RE-MIND-ER"

THAT SCRAMBLED WORD GAME

by David L. Hoyt and Jeff Knurek

Now arrange the circled letters to form the surprise answer, as suggested by the above cartoon.

Available for Adoptions:

"Austin" Young adult male Aussie & Wirehaired Pointer mix.
He is a tan merle & has a docked tail. This is a really cute dog! He has a great face with his wirehaired whiskers!
Knows some commands. Come meet him today.

"Archie" Male Black Labrador. He is a shorter and stockier Lab. He is likely under a year old. He is a little timid, but once he gets to know you he is full of kisses.

"Chip" is a young adult male Border Collie & Akita mix. He is black and white and has one blue eye. He is very outgoing and gets along with our other dogs.

"Lacey" Female adult Black Labrador & Aussie mix with a docked tail. She is really sweet and has lots of energy. She came in with her buddy "Cassie". These dogs were abandoned in their backyard with no food or water.

"Cassie" is also a adult female Black Labrador mix. She is still on the shy side, but with lots of TLC, I am sure she will be a wonderful companion as well.

If someone would be willing to just foster a dog if they are unable to adopt, it would really help us out when the shelter is full.
We also have a Facebook Page.
Adoption fee is $75, incl spaying/neutering & first set of vaccinations.

Today's Highlight:

On March 22, 1963, The Beatles' debut album, "Please Please Me," was released in the United Kingdom by Parlophone.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:

In 1312, Pope Clement V issued a papal bull ordering dissolution of the Order of the Knights Templar.

In 1638, religious dissident Anne Hutchinson was expelled from the Massachusetts Bay Colony for defying Puritan orthodoxy.

In 1765, the British Parliament passed the Stamp Act of 1765 to raise money from the American colonies, which fiercely resisted the tax. (The Stamp Act was repealed a year later.)

In 1820, U.S. naval hero Stephen Decatur was killed in a duel with Commodore James Barron near Washington, D.C.

In 1894, hockey's first Stanley Cup championship game was played; home team Montreal defeated Ottawa, 3-1.

In 1933, during Prohibition, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a measure to make wine and beer containing up to 3.2 percent alcohol legal.

In 1941, the Grand Coulee hydroelectric dam in Washington state went into operation.

In 1943, the Khatyn Massacre took place during World War II as German forces killed 149 residents of the village of Khatyn, Belarus, half of them children.

In 1958, movie producer Mike Todd, the husband of actress Elizabeth Taylor, and three other people were killed in the crash of Todd's private plane near Grants, N.M.

In 1978, Karl Wallenda, the 73-year-old patriarch of "The Flying Wallendas" high-wire act, fell to his death while attempting to walk a cable strung between two hotel towers in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

In 1988, both houses of Congress overrode President Ronald Reagan's veto of the Civil Rights Restoration Act.

In 1993, Intel Corp. unveiled the original Pentium computer chip.

Ten years ago: Anti-war activists marched again in dozens of cities, marshaling well over 100,000 in Manhattan and sometimes trading insults with backers of the U.S.-led war on Iraq. U.S. forces reported seizing a large weapons cache in Afghanistan.

Five years ago: Vice President Dick Cheney, visiting the Middle East, said the U.S. had an "enduring and unshakable" commitment to Israel's security and its right to defend itself against those bent on destroying the Jewish state. Jeffrey Buttle of Canada won the men's title at the World Figure Skating Championships in Goteborg, Sweden.

One year ago: Coroner's officials ruled singer Whitney Houston died by drowning the previous February, but that heart disease and cocaine use were contributing factors. In a dramatic end to a 32-hour standoff, a masked French SWAT team slipped into the Toulouse apartment of an Islamic extremist suspected of seven killings, sparking a firefight that ended with the suspect jumping out the window and being fatally shot in the head.

DEAR ABBY: My 87-year-old mother is narcissistic, self-absorbed and extremely cruel. Her physician has consulted with my sister and me and verified these challenging traits. When she says something or acts out, she'll say, "I am who I am, so don't expect me to change."

How can my sister and I deal with the needs of an elderly parent who continues to verbally and emotionally mistreat us and others? My sister is beginning to react in a defensive, angry manner (rightfully so), and all I do is cry and feel guilty for wanting to get away from her.

— REACHED WIT'S END IN LOMA LINDA, CALIF.

DEAR REACHED WIT'S END: Because your mother is behaving the way she always has, her unpleasantness can't be blamed on old age. The next time she acts out and tells you, "I am who I am, so don't expect me to change," respond by saying: "That's right. You are who you are, but I don't have to subject myself to this. If it happens again, I'm out of here." Then follow through.

If that doesn't discourage her unpleasant behavior, consider hiring a social worker or licensed caregiver to see her needs are attended to. That's not abandonment; it's self-defense.

DEAR ABBY: I recently came out to my family as transgender (male to female). However, they still call me "gay." I have told them repeatedly that "transgender" and "gay" are not the same, but they won't listen. They accept and love me "as I am," and I'm grateful for that. But I need them to accept me — the REAL me — as I am in my heart.

I am biologically male and there are people in my life who don't care about that; they care about me as a human being and want to spend their lives with me. It hurts when my parents keep calling me "gay" and their "son." Please help me, Abby. My heart is hurting.

— GIRL NEEDING ADVICE

DEAR GIRL: Believe it or not, your parents may need as much or more help than you do. Although you have told them you are transgender, they do not appear to fully grasp that gender identity and sexual orientation are two different things.

A terrific educational resource for them would be PFLAG. It's an organization made up of parents, families, friends and straight allies united with gay, bisexual and transgender people. Part of their mission is education, and there are chapters in all 50 states. Contact them at www.pflag.org. Their literature will help your parents understand.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man in my 40s. My girlfriend and I have known each other for four years, but have grown much closer over the past few months. She's divorced with no kids.

I have asked her to stop going to a gym that she regularly visits. In the past, she had sex with a guy from there. He no longer goes there, but she craves that environment. She says she goes to keep in shape. I say she made a name for herself there, and requested she go to another gym. What do you think?

— JEFF IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR JEFF: "Made a name for herself"? That's an antiquated phrase I haven't heard in a while. Because you asked, I will offer a few thoughts:

The individual this lady had the fling with is long gone. I doubt at this point whether anyone at that gym cares or remembers. If the "atmosphere" has you worried, go with her, and I'm sure you will quickly realize that the members go there to tone up rather than hook up.

A word of advice: The harder you try to control your girlfriend the further you'll drive her away, so stop acting like a dumbbell.

"Pigeons on the grass alas."
— Gertrude Stein

Gertrude Stein's last words were, reputedly, "What is the answer? . . . What is the question?" Take that as your mantra for the next problem, set by Kit Woolsey from the second round of the Vanderbilt Knockout Teams. You lead a third- and fifth-best club eight against three spades, to discover dummy has been playing a little joke. His two-no-trump call (simulating invitational values or better) succeeded in keeping your side out of the auction.

Your club lead goes to dummy's nine and partner's ace. Back comes the heart nine (which conventionally shows zero or two higher honors) to declarer's ace. He plays a second club, and you win the king to continue hearts. Declarer wins in dummy, cashes the club queen to discard a heart, then plays a spade.

Partner shows out, discarding the diamond queen, so you take declarer's spade king with your ace. There seems no point in underleading the diamond ace, since declarer cannot have a guess in the suit, so you cash the diamond ace and play a diamond, locking declarer in dummy. How does South get back to hand safely for the spade finesse? Declarer is going to ruff a club to hand (having registered your club spots and that your partner took the ace at trick one) unless you dropped the club jack under the queen a few tricks ago!

Woolsey found the play and declarer went with the odds when he tried to ruff a heart to hand. The overruff meant he was down one.

ANSWER: When you hold a 10-count facing an overcall, you typically have a choice between a simple raise and a cue-bid, the latter showing a limit raise or better. But not all 10-counts are created equal — and this is a very inferior example of the species. With no controls, and soft cards in the side suits, a simple raise to two hearts will more than suffice here.

IF MARCH 22 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You could feel like a ping-pong ball during the next four to eight weeks as you go from one extreme to the other. Hold off on making major changes and decisions. Your best bet for success is to implement your ideas and put projects into motion during June you're your street smarts are at a peak. July is a good month to widen your horizons, so might be a good time for a vacation, travel or to take up a new study. Plan ahead so that you will not be required to begin a job or conduct any major business transaction in October or early November. December and early January is much more favorable.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): When life is gliding along peacefully, it isn't wise to rock the boat with controversy. You may overreact to criticism or restrictions if you feel your freedoms are being curtailed. Follow the lead of those who love peace.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A lot may be said about nothing. You may be wise to wait to initiate a major project or enter into an agreement. Your special someone, however, may have delightful plans to capture your heart.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Keep the cat in the bag. Be clear as a bell when discussing options and plans with others, but remain cautious about releasing any confidential information. Joint activities require political correctness.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Pay attention to the symbols appearing in your dreams. An awareness of spiritual strength will do much to maintain peace and tranquility when all about you are wrestling with material complaints.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your desire to be spoiled won't be foiled. You like being pampered and petted and will do what it takes to find someone to perform those functions. Fun and games might include some romantic patty-cake.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Make others feel good about themselves and they will feel good about you. Make moneymaking activities a priority today and you won't be sorry. Mergers of the loving kind get top billing tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Maintain a respectful distance. What you consider to be an inconsequential flirtation could cause gossip among co-workers. If you wish to be treated like a king or a queen, behave like royalty.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A stitch in time saves nine. Straighten out minor misunderstandings at the workplace immediately. If you have already captured someone's heart, you can make beautiful music all night long.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Some money may be draining away without your knowledge. Pay more attention to your financial affairs and bank accounts. Patch the hole in the levee before the seeping becomes a flood.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Sometimes you must fake it to make it. You know that an enthusiastic approach can solve minor problems, but you might think it isn't your style. Cast dignity aside and join the cheerleaders.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You can knock on doors without breaking them down. A subtle and polite approach might work better than strong-arm tactics when you must persuade someone to cooperate in a plan.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You can put the right spin on a web of seduction. You could feel you deserve a special treat, but are willing to share with a special someone. It is wise to keep expenditures within reasonable bounds.

WARNING

When purchasing a vehicle, make sure that the title is in the name of the seller. Under Idaho motor vehicle code a vehicle cannot be sold unless the title is in the name of the seller (exception: Idaho licensed dealer). The seller shall provide the new purchaser a signed bill of sale showing the following: Full description of the vehicle, vehicle identification number, amount paid and name(s) and address of the new purchaser. The bill of sale must be signed, dated and show actual mileage at the time of sale. If you have any questions, please contact your local assessor's office.
