Canyon West Set for Construction

BY JOE CADOTTE
jcadotte@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Construction on Canyon Park West, the 200,000-square-foot outdoor mall planned for the canyon rim, is set to begin in a couple of weeks, starting with the relocation of a section of Fillmore Street.

Twin Falls Community Development Director Mitch Humble said the roadway will remain open throughout construction. He said the rebuild is necessary before buildings can go up.

“We’re going to have to do a study of the sub-base, put the curbs at the right grade and make sure the water that flows on the road washes off and doesn’t sink in,” Humble said. “It will just be a little more direct route from one side to the other side of the property rather than snaking through it.”

According to the sales kit on the Canyon Park website, the new shopping center will feature six anchor shops, 19 medium size shops, 28 small size shops and two restaurants. The Times-News has previously reported that one of the anchor shops will be Kohl’s.

But Humble said there have been no building permits requested for the new project.

A local television station reported this week that Canyon Park West tenants will also include Bed Bath and Beyond, Men’s Warehouse, Sports Authority, Petco, Starbucks, Noodles and Company and Chipotle.

“We’ve heard some of those names thrown around but they’ve never given us any documents or plans like that,” said Humble. “Every (document) we’ve ever seen has no names on them.”

A spokeswoman for EHM Engineers, among those overseeing the project, said they can’t comment on future tenants, but those mentioned in the television report are inaccurate. Project Administrator Tina Luper said the faulty information came from a demo map the company uses to show prospective clients.

Search for F&G Commish Is Starting from Scratch

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesti@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • People are already applying to be the Magic Valley’s newest Fish and Game commissioner — and the governor’s office hasn’t even started formally taking applications.

Earlier this year, the state Senate rejected Gov. C.L. “Butch” Otter’s last appointee for the commission seat, Joan Hurlock. Doing so has caused the lengthy appointment process to start over, said Jon Hanian, Otter’s spokesman.

Appointing a commissioner starts with applicants filling out and submitting an application to the governor’s office. Once the submission period closes, the applications are submitted to a selection committee appointed by the governor, Hanian said.

The committee then whittles the list down to three candidates which are then sent to the governor. Once Otter chooses an applicant, the final hurdle is getting approval from the Senate.

During Hurlock’s Senate hearings, arguments centered on the qualifications needed to be a Fish and Game commissioner.

Currently, the only requirements to be a commissioner are to be a resident of the appointed region and “be well informed and interested in wildlife conservation and restoration.”

The governor’s office isn’t suggesting that the qualifications should be changed, Hanian said. However, if Otter was, any changes would need

Bergdahl Anniversary to Be Marked with Event

BY KAREN BOSSICK
For the Times-News

HAILEY • Bowe Bergdahl’s 27th birthday passed quietly in the Wood River Valley this past week, but that doesn’t mean he’s been forgotten.

A number of residents are gearing up for a Bring Bowe Back bash scheduled to take place on June 30, the fourth anniversary of the day he was taken captive by what is believed to be a Taliban-allied insurgent group.

Bowe Bergdahl, who grew up in Hailey, is believed to be held captive in Afghanistan or Pakistan.

The event will be held from 1-4 p.m. June 30 at Hailey’s Hop Porter Park.

It will include music by two local bands, Up a Creek and Paddy Wagon. About 250 MIA/POW motorcyclists from Idaho, Utah, Nevada and beyond are expected to attend, with Hailey Police Chief Jeff Gunter leading the procession from Jerome. Several government officials will speak, including Blaine County Commissioner Larry Schoen, Sun Valley Councilman Nils Ribi and Bellevue City Mayor Chris Koch.

And participants will plant four trees in Bowe’s name, each marking one year of his captivity.

“We’re hoping we don’t have to plant a fifth tree,” said Dayle Ohlau, KECH Radio news director.

Organizer Debbie O’Neill, who lives north of Hailey, said she met Bowe’s parents, Bob and Jani Bergdahl, right after Bowe was captured.

“I wanted them to know that

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

Stocks Lower on Weak Reports

NEW YORK (AP) • Weak reports on hiring and service industries sent the stock market sharply lower Wednesday, giving the Dow Jones industrial average its worst day in more than a month.

The Dow fell 111.66 points, or 0.8 percent, to 14,550.35, its worst decline since Feb. 25. The Standard & Poor's 500 index dropped 16.56 points, or 1.1 percent, to 1,553.69. Both indexes closed at record highs the day before.

The stock market started 2013 with a rally as investors became more optimistic about the U.S. economy, especially housing and jobs.

Remembering the Historic Buildings Lost Over the Years

BY MYCHEL MATTHEWS

Twin Falls County Historic Preservation Commission

TWIN FALLS • Many century-old buildings have been preserved in the historic downtown district. But unfortunately, several magnificent buildings have been lost over the years.

One of the first buildings constructed in the original townsite of Twin Falls was the Hotel Perrine, located in the center of town on the west corner of Shoshone and Main.

Sources debate the identity of the designer of the building. Some say the hotel was designed by planner E.L. Masqueray, the man responsible for the diagonal orientation of the townsite's streets. Others say it was designed by architect J. Flood Walker. Both men were associated with the 1904 Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis.

The grand hotel opened in December 1905. The three-story building was constructed in a U shape, with a second-story balcony facing Main. The hotel occupied the second and third floors, while the ground floor was filled with businesses.

The hotel was a model of prosperity in its day. It featured an atrium and a formal dining room. Each hotel room had running water, electric lights, steam heat and a telephone.

A steam engine-driven Case threshing machine behind the hotel ran an Edison generator, producing enough electricity to power the hotel and businesses in several blocks each direction.

Twin Falls grew rapidly over the next few years.

By 1910, Bickel and Lincoln schools were bursting at the seams. Across Shoshone Street from the city park, a new school was built next to the courthouse, which was also under construction.

Twin Falls High School opened in February 1912. By the 1912-1913 school year, there were more than 1,700 students enrolled in the new school. It was hailed as the best equipped high school in the Northwest.

By 1921, the school accommodated both senior and junior high school students. In 1925, Vera C. O'Leary was appointed principal of the junior high school students.

When high school students were moved to the new high school on Filer Avenue East in 1952, the old school became known as Twin Falls Junior High School.

In 1963, the junior high was renamed "Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School" in honor of O'Leary, who, due to declining health, was unable to continue as principal.

Over the years, the building deteriorated faster than it could be repaired. Eventually, the third floor was condemned.

For several semesters during 1976 and 1977, the building was closed by the fire department. Junior and high school students alike attended the newer building in double shifts, until a sprinkler system could be installed inside O'Leary.

The old building limped along until 1978, when it was replaced by a new O'Leary Junior High on Elizabeth Boulevard.

The Hotel Perrine survived until 1968, when the building was replaced with a new bank. The old Twin Falls High School was demolished in 1980 to make way for the county judicial building and jail.

End-of-week Rain

We will squeak out one more nice day before unsettled weather arrives across the region for the end of the week and into the weekend.

Today's forecast is for mostly sunny conditions in the morning with increasing clouds through the afternoon. Warmer temperatures are expected as the high reaches the upper 60s to low 70s across the Magic Valley.

Winds in the valley will be mostly out of the south and range between 10 and 15 mph.

In the mountains of the Wood River region and the South Hills the forecast today will feature a mix of sunshine and clouds. Toward the late afternoon in the Wood River region there could be an isolated shower or storm. Temperatures for the mountains will reach the low to mid-60s. Winds will be breezy and out of the south-south-east between 10 and 20 mph.

Showers will arrive this evening across the region and continue into Friday, Saturday and Sunday. All of this rain will be associated with a series of disturbances that move through the region Friday through Monday.

On Friday, showers will be off and on. It will be cooler with highs in the low 60s in the valleys and the mid-50s in the

Legislature Plans to Adjourn Today

BY MELISSA DAVLIN
mdavlin@magicvalley.com

BOISE • Pack your bags, lawmakers. The Legislature is poised to adjourn today. After a public hearing, a whirlwind budget committee meeting, and almost no discussion, the Idaho Legislature passed a compromise education bill and introduced a new education budget. Both the House and Senate plan to consider the new budget today, wrapping up the last piece of unfinished business for this session.

Wednesday's action centered on two bills: A compromise bill that put into code a controversial part of the original education budget, and a new public education budget that was almost entirely unchanged from the one voted down last week. The legislative session stretched into April after the Senate voted 17-18 to kill the original $1.3 billion education budget bill. The debate was less about the money and more about the process by which the budget bill was passed. Opponents expressed concern that two pieces of the budget — technology grants and teacher merit pay — were reincarnations of the overturned Students Come First laws. Those who voted no on the budget said because voters rejected the laws, those two budget items should have gone through the policy committees, where they would be subject to public hearing.

That hearing was held Wednesday morning, with everyone who signed up to testify supporting the two measures. Colleen Johnson, principal of Paul Elementary School, drove to Boise to testify in favor of the technology grants, citing student excitement over an iPad pilot project at her school.

"The most apparent benefit is high student engagement and excitement for learning," Johnson said. "When students are excited to learn, teachers are excited to teach." Both the Senate and House suspended rules to pass that compromise bill today.

The Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee also met Wednesday afternoon to hammer out a brand new education budget, which remained unchanged from the one voted down. Though not everyone was thrilled with the numbers, some of those who opposed the original budget acknowledged that this is a compromise, and they were happy with the new process. The Senate and House will consider the new budget legislation this morning.

Sen. Jim Patrick, R-Twin Falls, said he would have preferred more discretionary spending, which gives schools flexibility in how to spend the money. But, he said, the public hearing on technology grants and merit pay made him happy.

"I feel much better about voting positively in this case," Patrick said.

ONLINE: Is the Second Amendment an Individual Right?

Crime reporter Alison Gene Smith's blog, dubbed "Scanner Traffic," gives you a behind-the-scenes look at her beat. Here's an excerpt from yesterday's post:

"This week I've been in Chicago at Poynter's Covering Guns seminar. ... On Monday, Second Amendment scholar David B. Kopel ... spoke to our group about what journalists should know about the Second Amendment.

"Kopel told us about how the Second Amendment evolved to be viewed as an individual right to own and carry a gun rather than the right of just those in an organized militia. This happened through several U.S. Supreme Court cases, U.S. v. Miller (1939), District of Columbia v. Heller (2008) and McDonald v. Chicago (2010).

"In the 1970s, Kopel said, general legal thought was that the Second Amendment wasn't an individual right.

"The court explains in the Heller decision that the first half of the amendment is a 'prefatory cause' which simply states one reason why people must have the right to own and carry weapons. ...

"Another point ... Kopel made is that the right to bear arms was not granted by the Constitution, but a right that was already believed to be in existence. ..."

Biggers to Step Down at Xavier

BY ANDREW WEEKS
aweeks@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Change is in sight at Xavier Charter School.

Thad Biggers, the current Head of Schools, will step down after four years at the end of June.

Biggers announced his decision to staff and students in a school newsletter on Monday, saying it is for personal reasons.

"The mission and vision of Xavier remains strong, and the school is in a much more sound and stable position than in the past," he wrote. "However, the time demand that has been required has been very high, and it is time for me to step aside while we bring in a leader with renewed energy and vitality."

The search for a new Head of Schools is under way, he said, noting a new hire will be in place before the start of the next school year in September.

"The school is in a much better place now," he told the Times-News. "Our finances are under control and we're moving forward in a very positive way. But to get us here was a big task."

In February, Xavier reached an agreement on rental fees with its landlord, Twin Falls School Development LLC, for the next three years. The parties agreed that Xavier will pay the development company $480,000 a year for the next three years — down from the original price of $809,000 — with the intention that Xavier will purchase the building in that time.

If it had not reached an agreement, the school faced closing at the end of this school year.

"Our intention is still to bond and purchase the building," Biggers said, adding that he needs a break and plans to take some time to spend with his family.

"It's a great opportunity and time to bring in a new leader who can take the school to the next level," he said.

Biggers said his relationship with the school board, parents and teachers has been wonderful.

"I have enjoyed my time here," he said. "It's not like anyone is pushing me out."

South Korean Marine K-55 self-propelled howitzers are on positions during an exercise against possible attacks by North Korea near the border village of Panmunjom in Paju, South Korea, on Wednesday.

US Missile Defense Shield to Counter NKorea Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) • In the face of escalating threats from North Korea, the Pentagon said Wednesday it will deploy a missile defense system to Guam to strengthen the Asia-Pacific region’s protections against a possible attack.

The delivery of the missile shield system comes as Defense Secretary Chuck Hagel labeled North Korea’s recent rhetoric as a real, clear danger and threat to the U.S. and its Asia-Pacific allies. The Pentagon chief said the U.S. is doing all it can to defuse the situation.

Deployment of the Terminal High Altitude Area Defense System is the latest step the U.S. has taken to bolster forces in the region in a far-reaching show of force aimed at countering the North Korean threat.

The Pentagon already has sent dispatched bombers, stealth fighters and ships.

Tensions have escalated between North and South Korea in recent weeks. The communist North has vowed to increase production of nuclear weapons materials, and threatened a pre-emptive strike against the U.S. Hagel told an audience at the National Defense University that there is a path to peace on the troubled Korean peninsula, but it doesn’t include making nuclear threats or taking provocative actions.

The land-based missile defense system includes a truck-mounted launcher, tracking radar, interceptor missiles, and an integrated fire control system. The Pentagon said the system will boost defenses for American citizens in Guam, a U.S. territory, and U.S. forces stationed there.

Taliban Attack Afghan Courthouse, Leaving 53 Dead

KABUL (AP) • Insurgents wearing Afghan army uniforms launched a suicide attack and stormed a courthouse Wednesday in a failed bid to free Taliban inmates, killing at least 44 people, half of them shot in the basement. Nine attackers were killed.

The attack — one of the deadliest in the more than 11-year-old war — began about 8:30 a.m. when nine men wearing suicide vests drove into the capital of Farah province in western Afghanistan, evading checkpoints by using army vehicles, according to the provincial police chief. The standoff ended some eight hours later when the last gunman was killed.

Insurgents have stepped up assaults targeting the Farah provincial government in recent months as they vie for control of an area bordering Iran to the west and Helmand province to the east. Farah has become increasingly volatile as the site of a growing drug trade after military offensives in neighboring areas.

“The Taliban seem to be exploiting the opium harvest and the unpopular eradication efforts by the government to further establish their presence,” Fabrizio Foschini, of the independent research group Afghan Analysts Network, said in a recent blog.

Militants have staged high-profile complex attacks across Afghanistan in a bid to show their strength and undermine confidence in the central government.

Since Fierce Clash, Egypt’s Crisis Takes New Turn

CAIRO (AP) • It has come to be known as the “Battle of the Mountain”: a ferocious fight between members of Egypt’s Muslim Brotherhood and their opponents near the group’s Cairo headquarters. In a country that has already seen crisis after crisis, it could mark a dangerous turning point in the political turmoil.

The aftermath of the fighting is raising worries that the confrontation between Islamists, who dominate power in the country, and their opponents is moving out of anyone’s control.

The riot on March 22 revealed a new readiness of some in the anti-Brotherhood opposition to turn to violence, insisting they have no choice but to fight back against a group they accuse of using violence against them for months.

The fight featured an unusual vengefulness. Young protesters were seen at one point pelting a Brotherhood member with firebombs and setting him aflame. Others chased anyone with a conservative Muslim beard, while Islamists set up checkpoints searching for protesters. Each side dragged opponents into mosques and beat them.

Since the fight, Islamists enraged by what they saw as aggression against their headquarters have for the past week hiked up calls for wider action against opponents — and the media in particular — accusing them of trying to overthrow Islamist President Mohammed Morsi.

Opposition activists warn the moves are the opening of a campaign of intimidation to silence Morsi’s critics. The presidency says the prosecutor is just enforcing the law and that Morsi’s office has nothing to do with the moves. Morsi’s supporters say they are showing restraint against extreme provocation.

LOUVRE GETS NEW LEADER, A GREEK ANTIQUITIES EXPERT

PARIS (AP) • France’s Louvre museum is getting a new director — the man who is leading the restoration of its most famous Greek sculpture and has his hands in some of the institutions latest efforts to expand its reach.

Jean-Luc Martinez, a French specialist in Greek, Roman and Etruscan antiquities who has worked at the Louvre since 2007, was appointed by President Francois Hollande for a three-year term.

Martinez, 49, is leading the restoration of the famed headless Winged Victory of Samothrace this year and has been involved in the new Louvre branch in the eastern city of Lens, as well as the museum’s expansion in Abu Dhabi.

He takes over in mid-April from Henri Loyrette, who held the post for 12 years.

Friends Say W.Va. Sheriff Attacked Drug Use

A sheriff known for cracking down on the drug trade in southern West Virginia’s coalfields was fatally shot Wednesday in the spot where he usually parked his car for lunch, a state official said, and a suspect was in custody.

State Police told Gov. Earl Ray Tomblin that Mingo County Sheriff Eugene Crum died of his wounds, said his chief of staff Rob Alsop.

State Police spokesman Sgt. Michael Baylous identified the suspect as 37-year-old Tennis Melvin Maynard and said he was being treated at Cabell Huntington Hospital in Huntington for gunshot wounds late Wednesday. Baylous said the suspect’s condition was unknown, but Maynard was shot by a sheriff’s deputy after a short pursuit in Delbarton that ended with Maynard crashing his car.

The shooting was blocks from the county courthouse that was evacuated after the shooting. Streets into the city were temporarily blocked off and officers held white sheets around the crime scene, Crum’s body further shielded by two vehicles.

Hollande Pledges Clean Sweep Amid Corruption Probe in France

For a French president who came to power on a promise of “irreproachability,” naming a lying tax-dodger to be his chief tax collector was probably not the best move.

man for decades and lied about it. Those lies from Jerome Cahuzac came both in front of the National Assembly and to Hollande’s own face. Worst of all for Hollande was that he billed his presidency as a return to morality and simplicity after what his Socialist Party dubbed the “bling-bling” years of his conservative predecessor Nicolas Sarkozy. Now Hollande has handed Sarkozy’s opposition UMP party the club it needs to bash him and his Socialist government for the rest of his presidency.

After months of denials, Cahuzac wrote on his blog Tuesday that he had told investigating judges he had a foreign bank account for 20 years. Cahuzac, who had long criticized the use of overseas tax havens, quit the government last month as the scandal swelled. -Associated Press

Propaganda as Pedagogy

The real vocation of some people entrusted with delivering primary and secondary education is to validate this proposition: The three R’s — formerly reading, ’riting and ’rithmetic — now are racism, reproduction and recycling. Especially racism. Consider Wisconsin’s Department of Public Instruction. It evidently considers “instruction” synonymous with “propaganda,” which in the patois of progressivism is called “consciousness-raising.”

Wisconsin’s DPI, in collaboration with the Orwellian-named federal program VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America; the “volunteers” are paid), urged white students to wear white wristbands “as a reminder about your privilege, and as a personal commitment to explain why you wear the wristband.” A flyer that was on the DPI website and distributed at a DPI-VISTA training class urged whites to “put a note on your mirror or computer screen as a reminder to think about privilege,” to “make a daily list of the ways privilege played out” and to conduct an “internal dialogue” asking questions such as “How do I make myself comfortable with privilege?” and “What am I doing today to undo my privilege?”

After criticism erupted, the DPI removed the flyer from its website and posted a dishonest statement claiming that the wristbands were a hoax perpetrated by conservatives. But, again, the flyer DPI posted explicitly advocated the wristbands. And Wisconsin’s taxpayer-funded indoctrination continues, funded by more than Wisconsin taxpayers. In Delavan-Darien High School’s “American Diversity” curriculum, students were urged to verify white privilege by visiting a Walmart toy section and counting the white and black dolls. After objections, the school district is reconsidering this curriculum.

Such distractions from the study of calculus and literature are encouraged by CREATE Wisconsin (the acronym stands for Culturally Responsive Education for All: Training and Enhancement), which is funded with federal tax dollars from IDEA, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act. The disability being rectified here is, presumably, the handicap of insufficient guilt — arising from false consciousness — about white privilege.

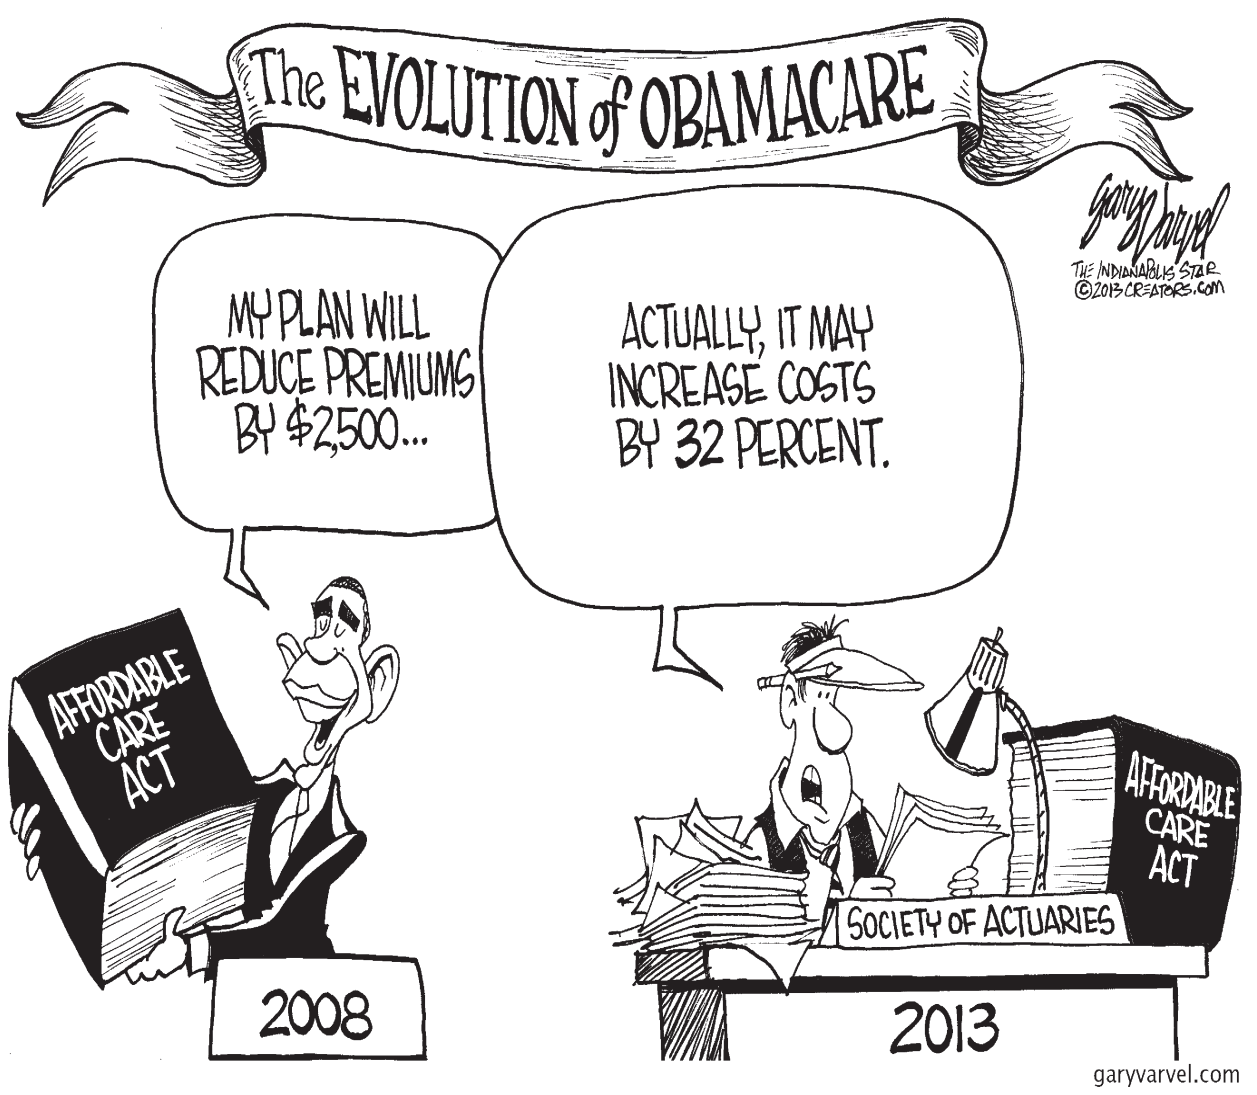

Today the school systems in 20 states employ more non-teachers than teachers. The Friedman Foundation for Educational Choice reports that between 1950 and 2009, while the number of K-12 students increased 96 percent, full-time equivalent school employees increased 386 percent. The number of teachers increased 252 percent, but the number of bureaucrats — including consciousness-raising sensitivity enforcers and other non-teachers — increased 702 percent. The report says states could have saved more than $24 billion annually if non-teaching staff had grown only as fast as student enrollment. And Americans wonder why their generous K-12 financing (higher per pupil than all but three of the 34 Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development nations) has done so little to improve reading, math and science scores.

Higher education, from which much of such diversity and sensitivity nonsense trickles down, cries poverty while spending lavishly on administrative overhead irrelevant to its teaching and research missions. The Manhattan Institute’s Heather Mac Donald notes that in 2011, while the University of California at San Diego was pruning academic offerings, it created a “vice chancellor for equity, diversity and inclusion” to augment a diversity apparatus that included an assistant vice chancellor for diversity; faculty advisers, staff, graduate and undergraduate diversity coordinators and liaisons; a director of development for diversity initiatives; the Committee on Gender Identity and Sexual Orientation Issues; the Diversity Council; the Campus Council on Climate, Culture and Inclusion; and much more. Perhaps tens of millions could be diverted from progressive gestures to academic purposes by abolishing on every American campus every administrative position whose title contains the words “diversity,” “equity,” “race,” “ethnicity,” “sustainability,” “green,” “gender,” “inclusion,” “identity,” “interconnectivity,” “globalization,” “climate,” “campus climate,” “cross-cultural” or “multiculturalism.”

No corner of the country is immune to propaganda pretending to be pedagogy. Lincoln Brown of KVEL Radio in Vernal, Utah, says one student from the University of Utah showed him required reading that told students to “list ways your family may have colluded with or benefited from the exploitation of African-Americans.” Another reading was titled “White Privilege — Unpacking the Invisible Knapsack.”

Twenty-five years ago, President Reagan, paraphrasing Education Secretary William Bennett, said: “If you serve a child a rotten hamburger in America, federal, state and local agencies will investigate you, summon you, close you down, whatever. But if you provide a child with a rotten education, nothing happens, except that you’re liable to be given more money to do it with.” But only until the soaring tuitions and taxes that fund this featherbedding for administrators of political correctness create a critical mass of parental and taxpayer disgust.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

County Commissioners Aren’t Responsive to Constituent Concerns

County Commissioners — silence is affirmation!

I am shocked and saddened over how our local county commissioners are handling problems in our community.

Recently, I sent a packet of information to county commissioners in eight local counties containing several notarized affidavits regarding a pattern of abuse at a local county-funded public agency. There should have been questions and concerns from our county commissioners. Unfortunately, I was wrong. There was no response from any county commissioner.

When I did not receive a response, I called my local Twin Falls County commissioner’s office to request a meeting and was told they would return my call next week. Again, no response. A week later, I sent an email to ask for a meeting with the Twin Falls County commissioners. I received an explanation via email that county commissioners have no oversight over this public agency. I emailed the Twin Falls County commissioners the Idaho statute that clearly states they are directly responsible for this public agency. Again, silence.

There is an organizational chart published by the state of Idaho showing county commissioners at the top of this public agency. It is crystal clear that county commissioners have the authority to address the abuses at this public agency.

My parents taught me to know the difference between right and wrong and to stand up when there is abuse of people not able to stand up for their own rights. This is not just about me, but it is about numerous others in our community who can’t stand up for themselves for fear of retribution. I have decided to be their voice on this issue until it is resolved to the satisfaction of the community.

Silence is affirmation! By being silent on this issue, the county commissioners obviously agree there is no abuse happening at this public agency supported by county funding. Thankfully, some of our Idaho State legislators disagree with the county commissioners and are willing to get involved to ensure accountability for this publicly funded agency.

It is not hard for me to do the right thing; why is it so difficult for our county commissioners?

And by the way, for those of you in Camas, Blaine, Lincoln, Gooding, Jerome, Minidoka and Cassia counties, your county commissioners did not respond either. They also contribute funding and have oversight of this agency. Let’s make sure our publicly funded agencies and our political leaders are accountable for their actions.

Thank You to Jerome Community for Supporting Schools

The Jerome School District Board of Trustees and I would like to express our appreciation to the Jerome community for continuing the supplemental levy that has been in place for the past 10 years.

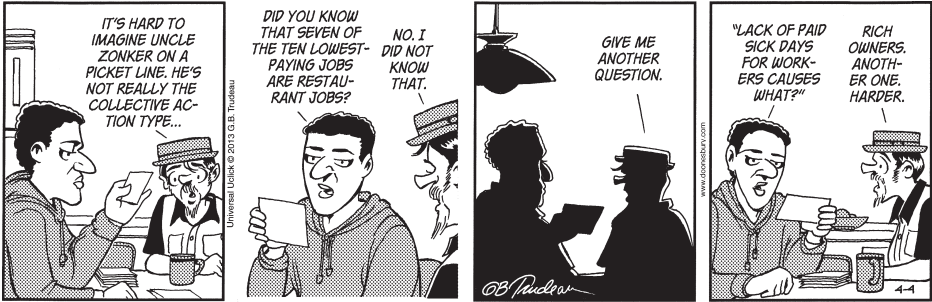

The passage of the levy was extremely important in helping us maintain existing programs, and the approval of the levy for two years will assist with our long-term planning.

Unfortunately, due to diminishing state support, school districts have been put in the position to go to the voters for additional revenue to operate school districts. These levies are creating an inequitable funding source for the students across Idaho. Some districts are able to pass a high levy amount while other districts are not able to acquire any dollars through a levy.

While Jerome falls somewhere between the two, our district is fortunate enough to have a community that places a high priority on education.

State Cancels Perrine Bridge Project Again

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • For the second year in a row, the Idaho Transportation Department has cancelled plans to resurface the Perrine Bridge.

The work scheduled to start next week won't happen now. Instead, the agency will seal the existing driving surface using new technology, likely in 2014 or 2015, according to a Wednesday press release.

The newer method should shorten the duration of the work and lessen the impact on traffic and bridge activities compared to a full roadway replacement, the ITD release stated.

The alternative method is being used on select bridges to reduce the impact from weeks to days. However, the change in scope will require a new contract prior to completing any work, according to the release.

"We hope to complete additional assessment of the bridge as a whole, prepare the surface sealing and repackage the work with additional maintenance projects over the next year or so," ITD Bridge Manager Matt Farrar said in the release.

During the coming months, ITD will complete additional inspections of the Perrine Bridge in preparation for the next contract for the driving surface and structural maintenance.

The first inspection is today. A portion of the inspection will close one southbound lane of U.S. Highway 93 across the bridge between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. so crews may use a reach-all truck to inspect the underside of the bridge deck.

The resurfacing project had originally been planned for summer 2012, but was pushed back to avoid conflicts with a community event in September and to allow overhauls of 11 other bridges to finish before winter.

The city has contracted with Road Work Ahead to handle traffic control.

Dry March Worsens Drought in SE Montana

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) • Drought conditions in southeastern Montana have worsened due to an unusually dry March, with extreme conditions reported for most of Yellowstone and Treasure counties.

Billings is at the center of the drought, with the first three months of 2013 the seventh-driest since tracking began at Billings Logan International Airport 79 years ago.

Precipitation in March was just a quarter of the average amount, just .26 of an inch compared to a 1.06-inch average, the Billings Gazette reported Tuesday.

"Once we get into March we should start to see trends changing to get moisture in the ground for spring," said Tom Frieders, warning coordination meteorologist that National Weather Service Office in Billings. "That's what people are concerned about."

Conditions are extreme in much of Yellowstone and Treasure counties, and severe across most of southeastern Montana, according to the U.S. Drought Monitor map produced by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, the United States Department of Agriculture and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

The map labels conditions in much of southwestern and central Montana as abnormally dry.

‘Forgotten’ Child Porn Case Rediscovered in Idaho Falls

Case sat two years in a Bonneville County Sheriff’s Office evidence room.

BY RUTH BROWN
rbrown@postregister.com

EDITOR’S NOTE: Because no indictment has been issued or charges filed, the Post Register elected not to release the suspect’s name.

IDAHO FALLS • Tucked away in a secured evidence room, files from a child pornography investigation sat untouched for nearly two years.

It was simply forgotten.

An employee at The Computer Guy repair shop discovered possible child pornography on a customer’s computer and reported it to the Bonneville County Sheriff’s Office on March 14, 2011.

A sheriff’s investigator executed a search warrant for the computer’s hard drive and found approximately 118 videos containing child pornography, Bonneville County Sheriff Paul Wilde said.

The investigator interviewed the computer’s owner, a 37-year-old Idaho Falls man, March 22, 2011, at the law enforcement building.

The hard drive was confiscated as evidence and it and a copy of the interview were put in storage, Wilde said.

No arrest was made. No charge was filed.

Nothing else happened until earlier this year when the Post Register learned of the case and brought it to Wilde’s attention.

Until then, Wilde was unaware the case hadn’t been prosecuted.

“I take the responsibility,” Wilde said. “We dropped the ball. It’s been brought to our attention and we’re taking care of it.”

After learning of the mistake, sheriff’s office representatives called the federal investigator at U.S. Department of Homeland Security, who then turned the case over to the U.S. Attorney’s Office, Wilde said.

The case finally was submitted to the federal investigator Feb. 15.

It remains under investigation and Wilde said he expects an indictment.

“He will be arrested eventually,” Wilde said.

Details on how the lapse occurred remain sketchy. Wilde won’t allow the detective who investigated the case to comment while it’s pending.

Wilde said his detective tried to turn the case over to the local federal investigator at Homeland Security. But the investigator reportedly told the detective he was too busy and to submit it at a later date.

Wilde said his detective thought the federal investigator would call for the case.

He never did.

After learning of its failure in the investigation, the Bonneville County Sheriff’s Office completed an audit of past cases, Wilde said. No other cases were found to have been misplaced or forgotten.

“This is not something that generally happens,” Wilde said. “I don’t remember a case ever being forgotten and set aside like this.”

Child pornography possession is a serious offense. At the federal level, it carries a maximum punishment of up to 10 years in prison, a fine up to $250,000, and a minimum prison term of five years with up to a lifetime of supervised release.

If prosecuted at the state level, it’s punishable by up to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine with no mandatory minimum, Bonneville County Prosecutor Bruce Pickett said.

Wilde said that if the feds don’t issue an indictment, he’ll bring the case to Pickett’s office for charging.

According to the Idaho State Repository, the suspect in this case has no prior felony convictions. He also is not a registered sex offender in Idaho.

In Idaho, the statute of limitations for possession of child pornography is five years, meaning the prosecution process has to be started within that time frame, Pickett said.

That clock started ticking more than two years ago.

Wilde made no excuses when questioned about the delay. He said he’s “truly sorry for the mistake.”

“Yes, it’s a major case. Yes, it’s an issue that’s come up,” Wilde said. “But it’s not dropped and the evidence is not lost.”

Coal Out, Renewables in with NV Energy’s New Plan

LAS VEGAS (AP) • Nevada’s largest utility plans to begin closing four coal-fired power plants northeast of Las Vegas and invest more money in renewable energy.

NV Energy officials said the closures long sought by a neighboring tribe, U.S. Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid and others are scheduled to begin by the end of next year.

A summary of the plans being presented to state lawmakers on Wednesday concludes the move could cost ratepayers nearly 4 percent more over the next 20 years — with some individual annual rate increases bigger than that over the course of the project.

But company officials said the “emission reduction and capacity replacement plan” dubbed “NVision” will allow for accelerated development of wind, solar and geothermal energy as well as natural gas. They also project the investments will produce thousands of construction jobs over the next dozen years.

“Environmental regulatory uncertainty and aging coal generation facilities have intersected at this point in time to necessitate forward thinking innovative plans and solutions to address Nevada’s future energy needs,” the plan summary said.

Reid, D-Nev., most recently repeated his call for closing the plants during his annual address to the state Legislature in Carson City last month.

The Las Vegas Sun first reported details of the closure plans, which would divide the new investments roughly 60 percent for natural gas and 40 percent for renewables.

NV Energy spokeswoman Jennifer Schuricht said Wednesday the plans would be formalized in an amendment to Senate Bill 123 to be presented by the end of the day to the Senate Energy Labor and Commerce Committee.

NV Energy Vice President Tony Sanchez said they plan to close three of four units by 2014 at the 553 megawatt Reid Gardner coal plant in Moapa about 40 miles northeast of Las Vegas. The fourth unit would remain operating until 2017.

The plans drew a mixed response from conservationists, consumer advocates and tribal leaders.

Dan Jacobsen of the Attorney General’s Bureau of Consumer Protection fears the expedited closure plan will cost ratepayers more than the current plan to close Reid Gardner entirely in 2020. He anticipates rates increasing up to 8 percent within 10 years while NV Energy benefits from not only the new construction projects but also reimbursement for retiring the coal-fired generating plants.

“This is in effect a guarantee that the company gets to keep adding to their profits,” he told the Sun.

Bob Fulkerson, executive director of the Progressive Leadership Alliance of Nevada based in Reno, also expressed skepticism.

“We must stop putting coal pollution in the air, but we also need to make sure NV Energy doesn’t use this as an excuse to take even more money from ratepayers to pad its already enormous profits,” Fulkerson said Wednesday.

NV Energy officials acknowledged some annual rate hikes would be higher than others but estimates a 3.8 percent increase over the 20-year plan and maintains that would be less than otherwise would occur over the next two decades.

Sierra Club leaders share concerns about the new plans to invest more in natural gas plants but said it’s significant that NV Energy now “unequivocally acknowledges that Nevada wants and needs to leave coal behind.”

“Replacing that coal power with renewable energy will create jobs for Nevadans and a better future for our children,” said Jane Feldman, chairman of the club’s Energy Task Force in Nevada.

The Moapa Band of Paiute

Indians have been fighting for years to force publicly traded NV Energy to decommission the plant. They argue that tribe members living on ancestral land have been sickened by soot, fine particles of pollution and gases.

“Closing Reid Gardner is the just thing to do,” tribal chairman William Anderson said Wednesday. “This dirty coal plant has harmed our people’s health for decades.”

But he said the closure is “only half of what’s needed.”

“The facility’s coal ash ponds and landfill leach toxics into the groundwater, and dust from coal, coal ash and poisonous resident pollutes our reservation day in, day out,” Anderson said.

Chickens Ruffle Feathers in Burley

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • As the city of Burley considers allowing chickens inside its city limits, some residents are raising concerns that the city doesn't have enough resources to enforce the possible new ordinance.

The Burley City Council discussed the proposed ordinance at their meeting Tuesday, April 2. In its current form, it would allow a maximum of five chickens at a city residence as long as they were contained in a cage.

Roosters would not be allowed inside the city and the chicken coops would have to be at least 10 feet from any structures and neighbors. The city currently bans residents from keeping horses, cattle, hogs, goats, sheep rabbits and poultry.

Councilman John Craner explained that the ordinance would include varying fines: $25 for a first-time violation, $50 for a second violation, and a third violation would qualify as a misdemeanor with a $300 fine and possible jail time.

"If you're going to raise chickens in the city of Burley, you're going to be responsible," Craner said. "If we're going to do this, I suggest that we have something that is enforceable and that has some teeth in it."

However, the discussion turned heated when resident Merlin Smedley asked to offer a comment on the ordinance.

Smedley accused the city of not enforcing the current ordinances already in place, including failing to control its dog population.

"We don't have an enforcer now," he said. "If we allow this, then we're going to have a pig and we're going to have a horse and cow. At this rate, we're going to have a farm community in the city."

Resident and Hy-Line employee Pete Brown also spoke out against approving the ordinance.

"I live in a city," he said. "If I wanted to live around farm animals, I would live in the country."

Brown also spoke to clarify a prior discussion during the last council meeting. Councilman Steve McGill used Brown's residence as a location of a house that had neighbors with chickens and hadn't complained.

"I did complain, I am against poultry inside the city limits," he said.

City Administrator Mark Mitton countered that the city does enforce its ordinances but city staffers are often tasked with juggling more than one job.

"We euthanize 20 to 40 dogs every week," he said. "Enforcement is the most important part."

When Smedley continued to interrupt the council's discussion to voice his objections to the ordinance, Mayor Terry Greenman asked him to calm down or leave the meeting.

After a lengthy discussion on the enforcement concerns, the council decided to table voting on the ordinance.

"It is an outdated conceptual piece used for tenant marketing purposing only and was not released by (our real estate agent) office," said Luper.

Despite not being able to reveal who is moving in to the new outdoor mall, Luper said they're getting closer to filling its spots.

"We are still communicating with potential tenants," said Luper. "That's still progressing. We have to complete our tenant search before they can go into the building permit stage. There are no tenants until ink is dry on the paper."

Humble said that when the new section of Fillmore Street is complete, the next step in the project will be installing water lines.

"If you put up a wood frame and all of a sudden there's a fire and we can't get to it, we can't let that happen," said Humble. "We won't put buildings up unless there's infrastructure on the ground. Water lines and fire hydrants have to be in place."

Luper said she expects construction to begin in mid-April and take about a month. She said she expects build-out of retail and restaurant space to start in mid- to late-summer.

we in Baine County have not forgotten Bowe," she said. "It started out as a little event and it's growing and growing."

Sun Valley Mustard and Smith Optics have already donated raffle prizes. Several motels, including the Wood River Inn, Lift Tower Lodge and and AmericInn Lodge, are offering special rates for those who come for the event. Sun Valley Brewery has offered to sell burgers and brews. And O'Neill is getting emails from people as far away as New York. One radio station manager in North Carolina wants to simulcast the event throughout the world.

On Bergdahl's birthday last week, KECH Radio broadcast birthday greetings that Bob Bergdahl recorded for his son to let him know he was not forgotten. He said that he hoped his son will hear them just as he trusts he somehow heard a YouTube video he made for him earlier.

Bob Bergdahl also told Ohlau that he has been studying the culture his son is being held in to help bring him home.

Well-wishers in Ketchum signed a birthday card for Bergdahl, which they delivered to Zaney's Café where the young man worked as a barista before joining the military. And Geegee Lowe, who works at the Hailey Chamber of Commerce, spent the weekend tying 100 yellow ribbons around town to replace ones that have become faded.

"It was Easter and it was a gorgeous day outside and my son had just visited me from Tucson. And I was thinking I was so lucky to have a son who's free and able to visit," she said. "I can't imagine what Bowe's poor parents must be going through."

legislative approval.

"Part of the debate raised the issue about qualifications, and so that raised questions on changing the process," he said. "At this point we're just accepting the applications. With what happened with Miss Hurlock, I don't think anybody wants to put a person through that again if it can be avoided," he said.

With the application process starting over, Otter could appoint another commissioner but the earliest the Senate could confirm that appointee would be next spring.

A lack of representation on the commission has hurt south-central sportsmen and wildlife enthusiasts, said Gary Hompland, regional conservation officer with the Magic Valley Fish and Game office east of Jerome.

While the commissioners are supposed to manage wildlife issues on a state level, they have the opportunity to voice individual concerns from their region.

"For anyone interested in wildlife management or hunting, when they have question, they have a commissioner to talk to," Hompland said. "If that position is vacant, there really isn't a person available."

commissioner, the Magic Valley will continue to be slighted, said Ben Collins with the Magic Valley Fly Fishers.

"We've been shorted quite a bit without a commissioner," he said. "If we had a problem or a concern, we used to go directly to our commissioner who could speak on our behalf. We haven't had that in some time."

Collins, who is considering applying for the commission seat, said that he doesn't believe the commissioner's qualifications need to change.

The commission isn't designed solely for the sportsmen of Idaho — it's for the citizens, he said.

"We have all types of people on the commission," he said. "But unfortunately I think a lot of these appointments are selected not on merit but on politics."

Right now, she says it’s a matter of consistency. “When I do hit the ball good, I’m hitting it better than ever,” Lee said. “I’ve really been changing up a lot. ... Minico’s Sage Shradley shot 101 to tie Leon for runner-up. On the boys side, Twin Falls’ Derek Thompson won with a 2-under-par 69. After opening plus-1 on right of the par-5 No. 15 for another birdie. And then he scored a birdie on No. 17, despite the hole location tucked into the left side of the green. “My putting was strong today,” said Thompson, who carded his best round of the season thus far. “I just kept it in the middle on the front and the back. Greens were a little hard, but that’s what happens in the spring. Other than that, (the course) was in great condition.” Three golfers tied for runner-up with 72s: Canyon Ridge’s Braden Luper, and Twin Falls’ Kyle Miley and Alec Perkins. Alec Meyerhoeffer was a stroke behind at 73. Preston Nelson of Twin Falls shot a 71 and would have also been in the mix, although he was slotted outside the Bruins’ top five. LIGHTHOUSE CHRISTIAN

Sawtooth’s New West Division

BY DAVID BASHORE
dbashore@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • The ever-changing face of the Sawtooth Conference is morphing yet again. The 1A-II high school football conference encompassing Districts IV, V and VI is switching its divisional alignments for 2013, coaches from multiple schools have confirmed with the Times-News. Originally set up as a north-south split when the conference expanded to more than a dozen teams in 2010, the conference will go to an east-west split along district lines next season. All six District IV participants — Carey, Castleford, Dietrich, Lighthouse Christian, Murtaugh and Richfield — will be in the western division, while District V and VI schools will play in the eastern half of the league. The top four teams in each division will meet in a ninth week game to determine the conference’s four state quarterfinal berths. The primary concern was cutting down on travel distances, though it would help some schools more than others. “Mackay’s not too far but Clark County (Ashton) is quite a trip,” said Carey athletic director Lee Cook, who recently relinquished his longtime position as a football assistant coach. “It’ll help with travel, but that’s never been a big issue with us. It seems like once you get on the bus, yes it might be 30 or 40 miles further, but I don’t see that it’s the big issue. Out-of-school time? Yes, but the expense of being on the bus isn’t a big factor.” Former north division schools Carey, Dietrich and Richfield take on two additional divisional games, but the nondivisional games they would have played in place of those generally require a greater travel distance than any of their conference adds. In a two-year cycle, playing all teams home and away, Carey stands to travel almost 400 fewer miles than in years past — that’s adding the three new divisional teams and dropping former division teams Mackay and Clark County, as well as nondivisional North Gem (Bancroft), the team Carey figures to drop to compensate for the new opponents. Castleford, meanwhile, would have its divisional travel cut in half over two years (approx. 550 from 1,025) by picking up Carey, Dietrich and Richfield in exchange for North Gem, Rockland and Sho-Ban (Fort Hall). “We made the same proposal when we joined the conference, but they all went (the other way),” said Castleford coach Tracy Vulgamore. “This time North Gem did it, and we were going to back it. It just makes sense to have the District IV teams together and cut down on the travel.” There’s an added perk to the mix: Realigning the divisions makes for a far more competitive division, involving all the District IV squads. At least five of the six teams are expected to challenge for those four cross-divisional spots come October. “The only thing we were considering was that we thought that maybe the stronger teams were in our division if you look at overall strength,” Cook said. “North Gem will be pretty good (in the east) ... but Lighthouse, Carey, Dietrich and Castleford are all legitimate teams and maybe Richfield as well. It’s going to be important to place in your conference. Every win is going to valuable.”

Boise State Adds Years, Money to Rice Contract

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOISE • Boise State has rewarded coach Leon Rice for posting consecutive 20-win seasons and getting the Broncos to the NCAA tournament last month. Athletic director Mark

Coyle announced a contract extension and pay hike for the third-year coach Wednesday. Rice and the university have agreed in principle to a two-year extension and a $43,000 bump in pay next year, raising his 2014 salary to $482,110. The deal calls for a 3 percent annual raise through 2018. The Broncos finished 21-11 this season and earned the team’s first ever at-large berth to the tournament. Hired in 2010, Rice has won 50 games faster than any coach in school history and the success of the team in the last two years has elevated attendance to its highest mark in more than a decade.

American League

NEW YORK • Clay Buchholz chilled the Yankees' bats, speedy Jackie Bradley Jr. got his first major league hit and the Boston Red Sox beat New York 7-4 on a cold Wednesday night to open a season with consecutive wins for the first time since 1999.

Pitcher Hiroki Kuroda became the latest Yankees player to get hurt, leaving in the second inning with a 2-0 deficit, four batters after Shane Victorino's line drive bruised the middle finger of his pitching hand.

While the Red Sox under new manager John Farrell are off to their best start since going 5-0 in 1999, New York has been outscored 15-6 and outlith 26-15. The Yankees have failed to hold a lead at any point in their opening two games for the first time since 1998.

Boston burst ahead 6-0 with a four-run third against Cody Eppley, and the Yankees never challenged.

RANGERS 4, ASTROS 0 HOUSTON • A day after Yu Darvish came within one out of a perfect game, Alexi Ogando and four Texas relievers shut out Houston again, combining for a five-hitter.

Lance Berkman doubled in a run for the Rangers a day after they blanked the Astros 7-0 behind Darvish's nearly historic gem.

Ogando (1-0) allowed four hits with a career-high 10 strikeouts in 6 1-3 innings. The young and inexperienced Astros have struck out 43 times in their first three games.

It's the most strikeouts a pitching staff has combined for in the first three games of a season in major league history, and the most since Cleveland fanned 42 in the first three of the 1966 season.

Philip Humber (0-1) allowed a run and five hits over 5-3 innings in his Astros debut.

RAYS 8, ORIOLES 7 ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. • Matt Joyce led off the bottom of the ninth inning with a towering home run against Tommy Hunter, giving Tampa Bay the victory.

Shelley Duncan hit a three-run homer and Ben Zobrist had a pair of RBI singles for the Rays, who twice came from behind before wasting a late two-run lead.

Fernando Rodney (1-0) blew a save opportunity by allowing a run for the first time since last Aug. 18. Brian Roberts' RBI double off Rodney in the ninth made it 7-all.

Chris Davis went 4 for 4 for the Orioles, hitting a three-run homer for the second straight day and driving in four runs.

Joyce, who had a bunt single as a pinch hitter in the seventh, won it by homering on a 2-1 pitch from Hunter (0-1).

INDIANS 3, BLUE JAYS 2 TORONTO • Mark Reynolds hit a tiebreaking home run in the 11th inning for Cleveland.

Reynolds drilled a leadoff shot into the second deck off Sergio Santos (0-1), the fifth Blue Jays reliever.

The homer helped the Indians overcome a blown save by Chris Perez, who surrendered a tying shot by Jose Bautista in the ninth.

The overhauled Blue Jays lost their second straight to begin the season. Toronto's offense has just three runs and nine hits in two games. WHITE SOX 5, ROYALS 2 CHICAGO • Adam Dunn hit one of Chicago's four homers, leading Jake Peavy and the White Sox to the victory.

Tyler Flowers, Dayan Viciedo and Alexei Ramirez also connected, and the White Sox made it two straight wins to start the season after dropping 12 of 18 to Kansas City a year ago.

The Royals, full of optimism after posting the majors' best record in spring training, will try to avoid a season-opening sweep Thursday.

Peavy (1-0) allowed an earned run and four hits in six innings. Addison Reed worked the ninth for his second save.

Ervin Santana (0-1) pitched six innings in his Kansas City debut and was charged with four runs and five hits.

TWINS 3, TIGERS 2 MINNEAPOLIS • Eduardo Escobar's two-run double with one out in the ninth inning lifted Minnesota to the win.

After Joaquin Benoit issued a leadoff walk to Trevor Plouffe, reliever Phil Coke took over. Coke got the first out, but Brian Dozier's single advanced pinch-runner Jamey Carroll to third. Escobar then drove the next pitch from Coke to the deepest part of the park in front of the bullpens in left-center field.

Both runners scored easily as the rebuilding Twins enjoyed their first on-field celebration of the season. The AL Central champion Tigers began the season without a set closer after Jose Valverde wasn't brought back.

Anibal Sanchez threw five scoreless innings for Detroit. But after a two-up, two-down save on Monday, Coke (0-1) blew his chance in this one.

Glen Perkins (1-0) needed only 10 pitches in a perfect ninth inning for the victory.

National League

LOS ANGELES • Madison Bumgarner pitched two-hit ball over eight innings, giving the San Francisco Giants a 3-0 win against the Dodgers while overshadowing the major league debut of high-priced Los Angeles pitcher Hyun-Jin Ryu on Tuesday night.

Bumgarner (1-0) struck out six and walked none in the second straight gem at Dodger Stadium. The only hits were a pair of doubles by Andre Ethier and A.J. Ellis. Left-hander Clayton Kershaw homered and pitched a four-hit shutout in the Dodgers' 4-0 victory on opening day Monday. Sergio Romo worked a perfect ninth to earn his first save of the season.

Ryu's debut helped draw 45,431 fans to see the left-hander who signed a $36 million, six-year deal with the team in December, making him the first player to go directly from the Korea Baseball Organization to the U.S. major leagues. CARDINALS 6, DIAMONDBACKS 1 PHOENIX • Matt Holliday, Pete Kozma and Jon Jay homered as St. Louis beat Arizona to even their season-opening series at a game apiece.

Jaime Garcia (1-0) gave up two hits, one of them a homer by Miguel Montero, in 5-2-3 innings for the Cardinals. Holliday's two-run shot off Trevor Cahill broke a 1-all tie in the sixth.

Kozma added a leadoff homer and Jay a two-run drive off the right-field foul pole, both off reliever Heath Bell in the seventh.

Kozma's homer came on Bell's first pitch with the Diamondbacks. Matt Carpenter doubled twice for St. Cahill (0-1) allowed three runs and five hits in 5-2-3 innings. He struck out seven. ROCKIES 8, BREWERS 4 MILWAUKEE • Troy Tulowitzki and Carlos Gonzalez each homered for the second straight game, leading Colorado over Milwaukee and giving Walt Weiss his first win as a major league manager.

Tulowitzki is off to quick start after missing the last four months of the 2012 season with an injured left groin that required surgery. The All-Star shortstop went 2 for 5 with a homer and two RBIs in Monday's opening day loss.

Ryan Braun hit his first homer of the season for Milwaukee, a two-run shot.

Edgmer Escalona (1-0) pitched 1 2-3 innings of scoreless relief for the win. Rafael Betancourt got one out for his first save. The Rockies broke it open in the seventh by scoring three runs off relievers Michael Gonzalez (0-1) and Burke Badenhop.

Firing Coach Not Enough at Rutgers

The easy part was getting rid of Mike Rice, something Rutgers had little choice in doing once the governor of New Jersey and the king of basketball weighed in on his video-taped transgressions.

Gov. Chris Christie wasn't going to have Rice remain as basketball coach at the state's flagship university, and quickly let it be known where he stood. So did LeBron James, in a tweet to his 7.8 million followers that was even more direct.

"If my son played for Rutgers or a coach like that he would have some real explaining to do and I'm still gone whoop on him afterwards!" James tweeted. "C'mon."

C'mon, indeed. You don't need to be a governor or a superstar to be outraged at the video of Rice kicking, shoving and shouting homophobic insults at players in practice. Anyone who watched the out-of-control coach abuse his young players likely came away with the same angry thought.

Anyone other than Rutgers athletic director Tim Perneti, that is.

Oh, sure, Perneti and university president Robert Barchi are on board now, expressing regret after firing Rice about how they handled the coach's initial punishment in December. Perneti flat out said he was wrong, while Barchi released a statement saying he, too, had an epiphany of sorts after actually watching the tape Tuesday.

Apparently Barchi's change of heart came after he saw Rice throwing balls at players and calling them the kind of names that get people in fights at playgrounds around the country. For reasons known only to him, Barchi signed off on a punishment for Rice that included a three-game suspension and anger

Former Rutgers head coach Mike Rice is driven from his home, Wednesday, April 3, 2013, in Little Silver, N.J. With political and social pressure mounting after video showed Rice screaming gay slurs and shoving, kicking and throwing balls at his NCAA college basketball players, the university fired Rice on Wednesday, and then did their best to avoid the blame for not getting it right four months ago.

management courses without even bothering to watch the videotape back in December.

Had he done his job then, maybe Rutgers wouldn't be where it is now.

Their decision at the time didn't result in any great outcry because Perneti and Barchi didn't say what exactly Rice had done to earn his suspension — which conveniently ended just before the school's Big East opener against Syracuse. Followers of the program were mostly perplexed about why their coach would have to sit out for what was vaguely referred to as inappropriate conduct and language.

I can't imagine what they were thinking when they went down the list of possible punishments. The physical abuse alone was a fireable offense, but the anti-gay slurs took it to a whole new level.

Three games and anger management courses? At a university where just three years ago, a student killed himself after his roommate used a webcam to spy on him kissing another man in his dorm.

My only guess is they thought the Rice video wouldn't surface. There can be no other explanation, because what is seen on the tape is so inflammatory that no reasonable person — much less leaders of our youth — could justify allowing Rice back on the court with the kids he was seen abusing.

And if they're that clueless in today's world of viral video then they need to go, too.

For botching the first punishment, yes. Maybe, too, for hiring Rice in the first place.

This was a coach so high-strung that he once knocked out his own father's tooth in a pickup game, a guy who coached on the edge and thought nothing of going over it. Other schools were scared away by his intensity, but Perneti was so impressed that he said he viewed him as a "life coach" as well as a basketball coach when he hired him.

Perneti said at the time he loved Rice's intensity, loved the way he interviewed. But maybe he should have paid more attention to what Rice said about himself in the Asbury Park Press after he was hired.

"When we go to practice, my formula is always to attack our best players," Rice told the paper. "Because they're the ones who need it the most, because they're the ones that have to do it at a higher level every night. They're the ones who are game-planned against. If you don't accept my energy, my intensity, my urgency, you're not going to do very well with me. Is my way of coaching right? No, but it works for me."

Or this nugget from his father — a former coach himself — that appeared in the Courier News of Bridgewater, N.J., about the same time.

"Sometimes Mike gets a little too intense with his teaching," Mike Rice Sr. said. "If you don't work as hard as he thinks you should, he lets you know it. I tell him, 'Good thing you're not in the NBA; someone would throw you over the bleachers.' He tells me, 'You were always way too soft on players.'"

The pressure to win in big-time college sports can be suffocating, so maybe Perneti felt compelled to take a chance on a coach whose last team at Robert Morris had nine technical fouls in just one season. He went for the hard-charging coach, hoping an up-and-comer like Rice could light a fire under a program in desperate need of a turnaround.

It backfired horribly, and now there's a price to pay.

What is especially troubling is that neither Perneti nor Barchi seemed inclined as late as Tuesday to get rid of Rice even as the video aired on ESPN and the ensuing firestorm threatened to envelop the program.

Rutgers will be a better place with a new coach who respects players and doesn't engage in homophobic name calling. Rice himself seemed to understand that when he spoke contritely outside his house Wednesday about the mistakes he made and the embarrassment he caused the university and his family.

No need to stop there, though. Not with the way this whole thing was botched.

It's time to replace the people at the top, too.

Anthony Scores 40, Knicks Win 10th Straight

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA • Carmelo Anthony scored 40 points — giving him 90 in two games — and Raymond Felton had three straight baskets in a key spurt, helping the New York Knicks beat the Atlanta Hawks 95-82 on Wednesday night for their 10th straight victory.

Anthony, coming off a 50-point effort in a win over Miami on Tuesday, scored 24 points in the first half. He shot 17 of 27 from the field and was 5 for 6 from the free throw line.

Felton sparked a 12-2 run that turned a tie game into an 84-74 lead for the Knicks. He scored eight of his 12 points in the fourth quarter to help the Knicks move into sole possession of second place in the Eastern Conference.

CLIPPERS 126, SUNS 101 LOS ANGELES • DeAndre Jordan had 20 points and 12 rebounds, Chris Paul added 14 points and 12 assists, and Los Angeles beat Phoenix for its franchise-record 50th win.

Willie Green and Caron Butler scored 15 points each, and Blake Griffin had nine points, seven assists and five rebounds to help the Clippers end a three-game skid with their second-highest scoring total of the season. They improved to 50-26 overall, bettering the single-season record for wins set in 1974-75 when the team was in Buffalo. They're 29-9 at home.

SPURS 98, MAGIC 84 SAN ANTONIO • Danny Green scored 20 points and Gary Neal added 16 to pace depleted San Antonio to a victory over Orlando.

A 14-2 run that included a pair of 3-pointers by Green midway through the fourth finally allowed the Spurs to take control. Before the run, San Antonio appeared sluggish and unable to pull away from the Magic, who trailed 74-70 with 10:37 remaining.

NUGGETS 113, JAZZ 96 SALT LAKE CITY • Danilo Gallinari scored 21 points, including nine straight in the fourth quarter, and Denver ended Utah's winning streak at five.

Utah fell a half-game behind the idle Lakers for the eighth playoff spot in the West.

Kenneth Faried added 19 points for the Nuggets, who won three of four against Utah this season and are in third place in the West, two games ahead of the Clippers. NETS 113, CAVALIERS 95 CLEVELAND • Deron Williams scored 24 points and Brooklyn ended an eight-game road trip by crushing Cleveland, giving the Nets a record for road wins in a season.

The Nets shot 83 percent (15 of 18) in the second quarter, when they outscored the Cavs 38-16 and opened a 30-point lead without much of a fight. Brooklyn's 21 road wins are the most for the franchise, which moved to the New York City borough from New Jersey this season. GRIZZLIES 94, TRAIL BLAZERS 76

PORTLAND, Ore. • Mike Conley scored 20 points and Memphis set a franchise record for wins in a season with a victory over Portland.

With four straight wins, the Grizzlies improved to 51-24, surpassing their 50-win season in 2003-04. The Grizzlies have already clinched a spot in the playoffs and are jockeying for home-court advantage in the first round.

CELTICS 98, PISTONS 93 BOSTON • Jeff Green scored 34 points, including a 3-pointer with 45 seconds left to snap Boston's two-minute scoring drought, and the Celtics clinched a playoff berth by beating Detroit.

Paul Pierce and Brandon Bass scored 17 points apiece for the Celtics, who had lost two in a row and seven of their previous nine. But the victory, coupled with Philadelphia's 88-83 loss to the Charlotte Bobcats, left Boston 8½ games ahead of the 76ers with eight to play. WARRIORS 98, HORNETS 88 OAKLAND, Calif. • David Lee had 23 points and 16 rebounds, Stephen Curry added 20 points and nine assists, and Golden State shook off a slow start to ease past New Orleans.

Reserve Jarrett Jack finished with 19 points and eight assists against his former team to keep the Warriors in sixth place in the West. Golden State remains one game ahead of Houston, which won 112-102 at Sacramento. The Rockets own the tiebreaker after going 3-1 in the season series.

Eric Gordon scored 21 points and Robin Lopez had 17 points and seven rebounds for the Hornets, who were swept 4-0 by the Warriors this season. New Orleans led by 11 points in the second quarter before the Warriors surged ahead for good.

ROCKETS 112, KINGS 102 SACRAMENTO, Calif. • Chandler Parsons scored 29 points and James Harden added 21 to lead Houston to a win over Sacramento.

Parsons and Harden, the team's two leading scorers, returned to the lineup to help the Rockets win their third straight and eighth in 11 games. Parsons, who made 12 of 18 shots, had missed the previous game with food poisoning, while Harden had been nursing a foot injury.

TIMBERWOLVES 107, BUCKS 98

MILWAUKEE • Nikola Pekovic scored 27 points and Ricky Rubio added 18 points, 12 assists and eight steals to lead Minnesota past Milwaukee.

Pekovic made 11 of 14 shots from the field and also had eight rebounds. Rubio connected on five of his six attempts from 3-point range for the Timberwolves, who went 8-of-13 from beyond the arc as a team and led most of the game.

BOBCATS 88, 76ERS 83 CHARLOTTE, N.C. • Gerald Henderson scored 24 points, Kemba Walker had 17 points, 10 assists and five steals, and Charlotte snapped Philadelphia's three-game winning streak.

Henderson had a crucial steal late in the game and scored four points in the final minute to help the Bobcats end a three-game skid. Josh McRoberts added 12 points and 16 rebounds for Charlotte. RAPTORS 88, WIZARDS 78 TORONTO • Jonas Valanciunas scored a career-high 24 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead Toronto over Washington.

Valanciunas went 16 of 18 at the free throw line and DeMar DeRozan had 25 points for Toronto, which snapped a two-game skid after being eliminated from the playoff chase.

John Wall had 20 points for the short-handed Wizards (28-47), who announced before the game that rookie standout Bradley Beal will miss the remainder of the season with a right leg injury. The Raptors are second in the NBA in free throw shooting percentage since the All-Star break at 81 percent. They hit 75 percent (27 of 36) against the Wizards.

Times-News journalists blog on their outdoor adventures — and yours — at “Trails & Tales.” The latest entry is from Virginia Hutchins. Here's an excerpt:

“Buhl angler Ron Klimes wanted a little excitement, so he devised his own extreme sport.

“I first thought of catching sturgeon in an inflatable pontoon with a friend of mine, Joe Turner, back in the spring of 2011,” Klimes said. ‘It wasn’t until August of 2011 that I caught my first one in these boats. To my knowledge we are the first ones to ever do this.’

“Native to Idaho, white sturgeon are the largest freshwater fish in North America. Klimes sent me a couple of pictures of these prehistoric fish caught from inflatable pontoons in the Snake River. Those are value-added bragging rights, for sure. ...

“The fight is up close and personal,” said Klimes, who is a reservist for the Idaho Department of Fish and Game. “The sturgeon jump literally a few feet from the boat. Sturgeon have sharp ridges on their back and sides called scutes that could easily puncture a boat.”

“His largest sturgeon so far: 8 feet long and about 275 pounds.

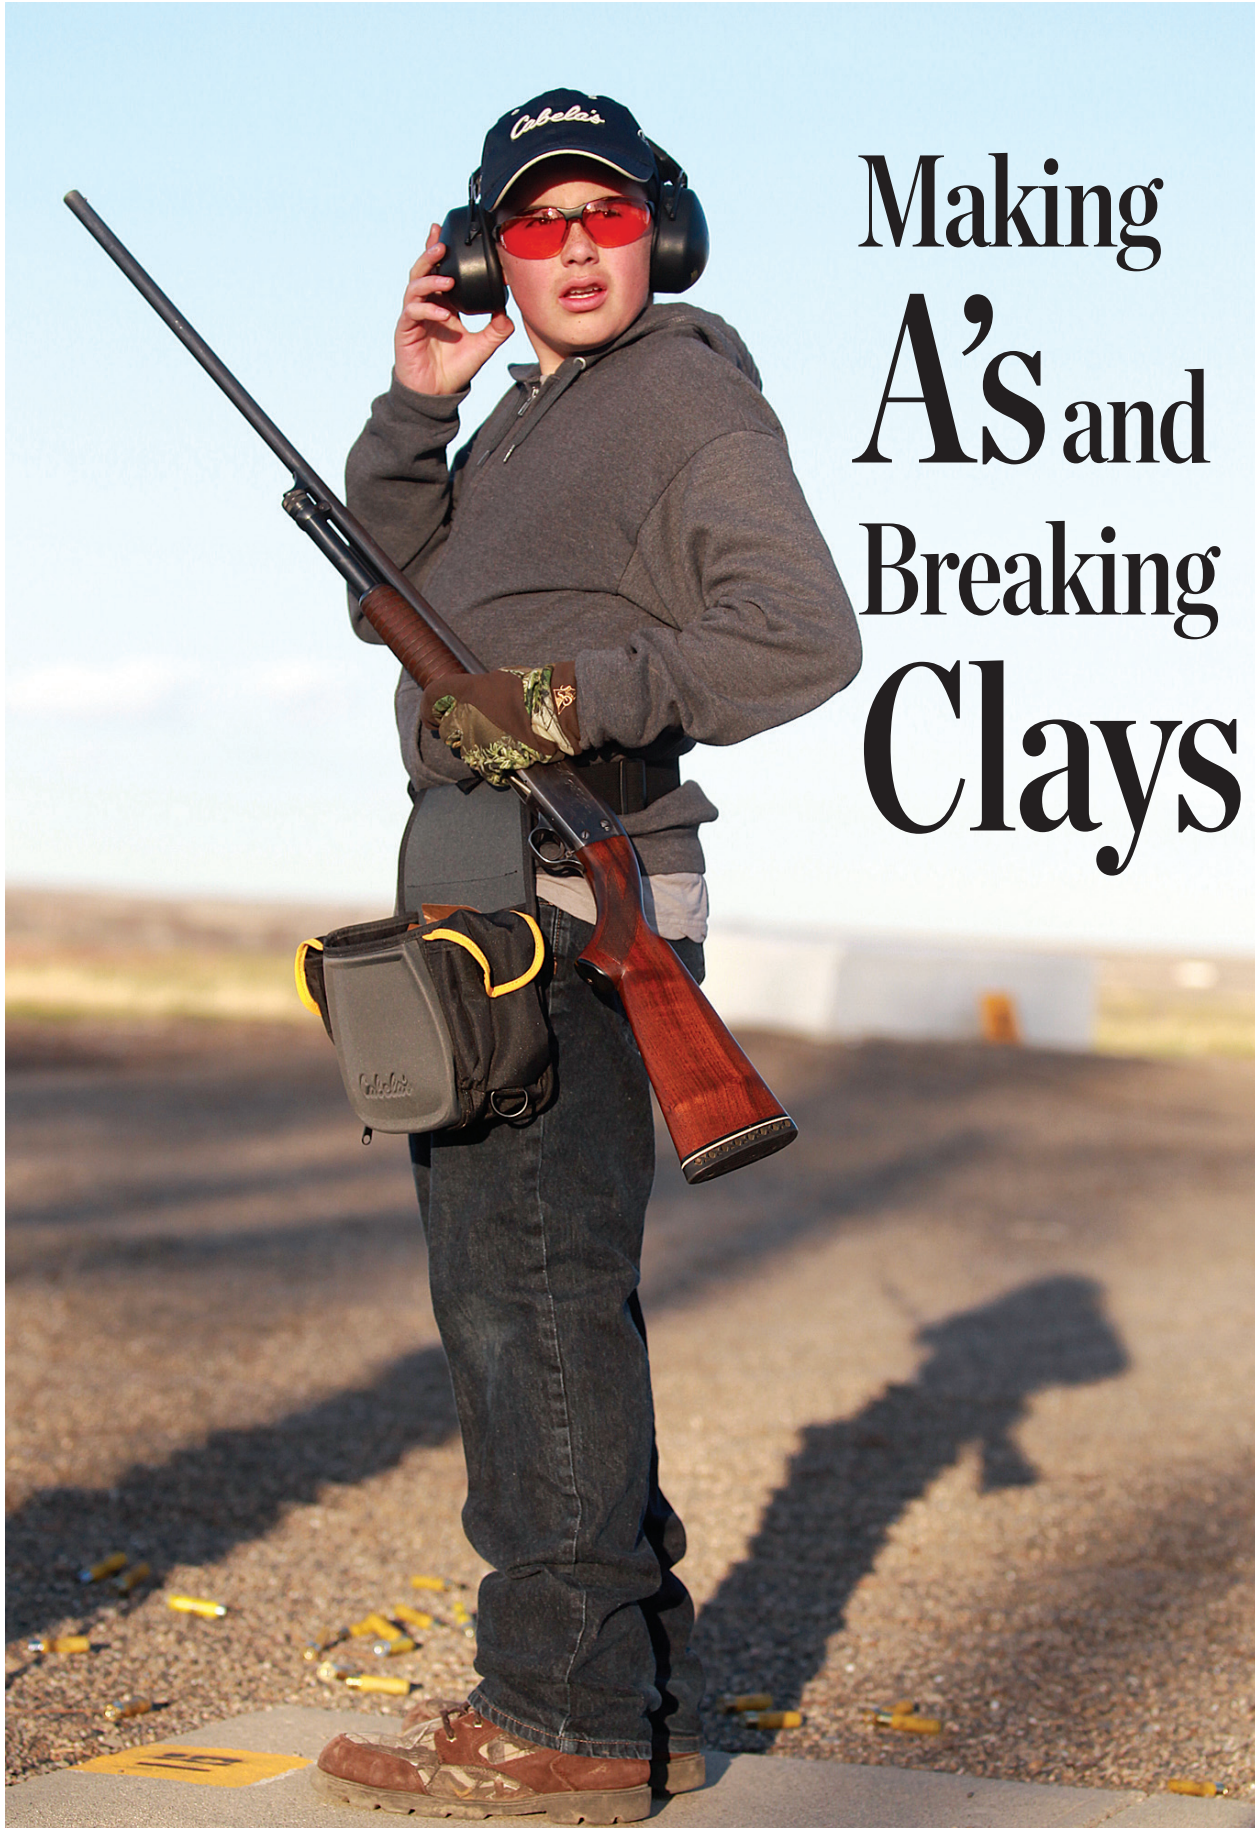

“This is an extreme sport with a hint of danger,” Klimes said Friday. ‘In fact, I almost had a sturgeon land on me today.’

“From boat or bank, sturgeon offer big catch-and-release excitement for anglers bored by smaller catches. ...”

TWIN FALLS • The littered remains of fluorescent orange clay pigeons glowed in the distance.

“Pull!” said a student standing with a shotgun tucked firmly into his shoulder, as he squeezed the trigger.

A second later: the crack of a shell and another clay pigeon shattered, joining pink, red and yellow casings on the ground.

It was the first day of practice for Cretula Perditore, Xavier Charter School’s trap and skeet club, and many students were already on the mark. That’s because many aren’t new to shooting.

Jurnee Eccles, an eighth-grader, said: “Shooting is a fun hobby of mine.” The 13-year-old was excited to compete and improve.

“Today I’m five out of 25,” Eccles said. “I want to get at least 20 out of 25.”

Last year, the group wasn’t an organized team, but a league of 10 participants. On March 21, around 26 fifth- to 12th-grade students took turns shooting — some for the first time.

“There’s more interest; kids go to school and tell their friends how much fun they had,” said trap and skeet club coach Mark Lambert.

In the Magic Valley, the Times-News found only two shooting clubs for youth: Cretula Perditore — which means clay predators in Latin, one of the languages students learn at Xavier — and Twin Falls Jr Hot Shots, a year-round shooting club coached by Tara Ortmann. In Idaho there are 11 shooting teams for youth. Lambert said the Scholastic Clay Target Program is still pretty young in Idaho, but more teams pop up every year.

“We will likely have a friendly shoot with them (Twin Falls Jr Hot Shots) at

With an Army background, Lambert wanted to teach children how to safely handle a gun while having fun shooting.

“We stress safety,” Lambert said. “And like any team there is a level of camaraderie.”

So what’s the difference between trap, skeet and sporting clay?

In trap, students shoot from stations placed along a semicircle. The clay comes out of a trap house at a random angle and random height.

ONLINE: Shooting Photos at Shooting Practice

At “Between the Frames,” Times-News photographers blog about how they got the shot. In a recent entry, Ashley Smith writes about today’s Outdoors photos. Here’s an excerpt:

“While photographing a youth trap and skeet club ... I was reminded how challenging it is to find different angles, other than profiles, of people shooting firearms. I normally try to get head-on photographs, but for obvious reasons I had to stay behind the firing line. I decided to mainly use my 70-200 mm f/2.8 lens to get close enough to the action. I used an aperture setting of 2.8 to 3.2 to make the background out of focus.

“I had some great golden-hour light to work with, so I mainly kept my back to the west to work with the light. ... The photos of students shooting became repetitive, so I focused more on the interaction with Mark Lambert, who helps coach the team, as he instructed the students on their technique. ...”

Shooters takes five shots from each station for a total of 25 shots.

In skeet, you have stations along a semicircle, but you have two trap houses — a “high house” at the left end, and a “low house” at the right end — with the clays crisscrossing.

A typical sporting clay course consists of 10 to 15 shooting stations, but unlike trap and skeet, clays fly out at varying trajectories, angles, speeds and distances.

“I think it’s a really awesome thing to have at our school; some schools don’t like the idea of these clubs,” Eccles said. “I’m surprised our school let us have it.”

Tyler Morrison, 14, a ninth-grader at Xavier, joined the league last year and liked it so much he decided to return.

“I shot last season. I loved it, it was really great,” Morrison said.

But Morrison added that learning how to shoot a gun isn’t for everyone.

“Our school is known for dance and music and really pushes for a classical education, college preparation ... it’s fun and different to try new things,” said Bradyn Ford, 15, who was also a member of the trap and skeet club last year. “I can see it doing well; the more people the better.”

Fish and Game Wants to Talk about Elk Plan Revision

TIMES-NEWS

JEROME • The Idaho Department of Fish and Game plans an online chat — its first one scheduled in the evening — to talk about its ongoing elk-management plan revision.

The online chat will be 7-9 p.m. April 10-11; to connect, go to <http://fishandgame.idaho.gov> and click on the link. You can ask questions of Fish and Game’s wildlife managers, or just watch other participants’ questions being answered. You can also share your thoughts about statewide elk-management direction.

Rather talk in person? Fish and Game has also set a series of regional open house meetings during April and May, including one from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. May 15 at the agency’s Magic Valley regional office, 324 S. 417 E. in Jerome.

Another way to stay informed about the elk-plan process is to sign up for e-mail updates — also available on the Fish and Game homepage.

Revisions being considered are based largely on a survey of Idaho elk hunters in the spring and summer of 2012, and in part on changes in habitat, predation and agricultural depredation conflicts.

It’s Spring: Time for a Rimfire Rodent Safari to Benefit Farmers

It’s often said that familiarity breeds contempt, and I know lots of farmers and ranchers — all too familiar with the burrowing activities of ground squirrels, prairie dogs and other varmints — who harbor considerable contempt for these furry little beasts.

It is not only the loss of valuable livestock feed or crops that troubles these working folk, but the real dangers to life, limb and machinery posed by the complexes of holes and tunnels excavated by these critters. Though wide-scale poisoning programs have been used in the past to control large pest populations, the amount of collateral damage inflicted on non-target species (hawks, eagles, pets, etc.) fairly begged for more species- and outbreak-specific controls.

This is where you and I may be of service.

In some circumstances, the most appropriate and effective pest-control agent is a small group of skilled and conscientious riflemen operating under landowner supervision. Case in point: Each spring my brother Dave, his children and I are invited out to Russ Bloom’s expansive Sun River, Mont., ranch to, as he likes to put it, “thin out this year’s crop of pasture pups (prairie dogs) and ground rats (squirrels).” I made my annual pilgrimage to Big Sky country last week during our spring break.

It was the perfect time to witness the meltdown of the last remnants of this winter’s snow and the simultaneous emergence of the sweet, green high-plains grasses and ravenous rodent hordes.

Even though the shifting afternoon winds and seefor-miles ranges are the niche of the hot centerfire .17’s and .22’s, we prefer sneaking “up close and personal” and sniping the energized varmints with our standard and magnum rimfire rifles and handguns. Bulk-boxed high-velocity .22 LR ammunition provide all the accuracy and knockdown energy needed to handily dispatch the beer-bottle-sized ground squirrels out to about 100 yards. Died-in-the-wool long rifles tote the “hyper loadings” exemplified by the likes of CCI’s Stinger, their smoking Velocitor and today’s high-speed champ, Mexico’s own Aquila Super Maximums belting out a 30 gr. solid at a blistering 1,750 fps. Ole!

As potent as these LR loadings are, the magnum .17HMR and .22 WRF extend the practical ranges another 50 yards and do provide considerably more slap. Our limited experience also suggests that the larger-diameter .22 bullets prove to be much more lethal than the flyweight 17-20 gr. .17HMR slugs.

Our unanimous favorite: Remington’s 33 gr. V-Max .22WMR load. But don’t look for it now; this marvelous loading has recently been replaced by the equally devastating 40 gr. AccuTip-V in the Big Green’s Premier Gold Box line.

Even the snappiest rimfire is less effective if improperly aimed, so most experienced varminters mount quality optics on their rifles and handguns. Careful pre-hunt sighting in sessions coupled with shot-steadying bipods, fixed or collapsible shooting sticks can make even difficult shots doable. Slings serve double duty by steadying tricky offhand shots and keeping your hands free to tote your shooting/walking sticks and spotting scope.

This is a great time to be outdoors. The days are lengthening, the sun is shining brighter now, and the new blades of green are pushing up from the warming earth. Life is good, and as Ted Nugent is wont to say: “Remember Bubby, you can’t do this in France!” Enjoy and exercise your 2nd Amendment freedoms.

Forest Officials Warn of Hazards

It could be dangerous traveling into burned areas.

SALMON • The Salmon-Challis National Forest warned that there may be hazards in traveling into or near areas that burned in 2012. “Forest visitors must be prepared to stay longer than expected due to changing circumstances. Weather conditions such as precipitation and wind can rapidly change conditions on the ground. Wind can blow trees across roadways, and precipitation can wash debris across roadways blocking access,” a forest press release said. “Preparation for the unexpected is the best plan a forest visitor can have.” So consider:

- Adequate food, water, clothing, sleeping bags and other provisions in case of inclement weather and extended stay.
- Chain saw and fuel, handsaw and shovel, in case trees or other debris block roads.

- Tell someone where you’re going and when you plan to be back.
- Communications that will work in the area you plan to travel (cell phone, satellite phone or satellite emergency notification device).

Of particular concern is the Salmon River Road, from North Fork to Corn Creek Boat Launch. The Mustang Complex Fire burned along about 55 miles of the Main Salmon River, adjacent to the Salmon River Road. There is potential for rocks and other debris to slough onto the roadway and into the river. “Forest employees are already observing rocks and dirt sloughing onto the Salmon River Road,” said Jim Tucker, operations staff officer. “These observations are typical during the springtime. We expect the conditions to be magnified this year due to last summer’s fire activity.” In addition to debris and blockages on forest roadways, visitors may also encounter waterways that have a brown or black color — due to fine sediment that runs off the hillsides and into streams and rivers. You’re more likely to see this after a thunderstorm. Information on current conditions: North Fork Ranger District, 208-865-2700, for the Mustang Complex Fire area; or the Challis-Yankee Fork Ranger District, 208-879-4100, for the Halstead Fire area.

Idaho F&G Sets Big Game Measuring Day

POCATELLO • The Idaho Department of Fish and Game’s southeast regional office will host a Big Game Scoring Day on Tuesday, April 16, at 1345 Barton Road in Pocatello. Measuring for Boone & Crockett for rifle and pistol, Pope & Young for archery and Longhunter’s Society for muzzleloader will be conducted for entry into the big-game record books. Hunters may bring antlers, horns and skulls to the Pocatello office from Thursday, April 11, until Monday, April 15. Items brought for measuring must be free of flesh and skin and must have been air-dried for 60 days. (Air-drying is not the same as freezer storage.) Information required at the time of drop-off: hunter name; date of harvest; location of harvest, including big game unit, county and state; owner name, address and telephone number; and guide’s name and address, if applicable. “It is so exciting to see such great Idaho trophies come through the office doors for scoring. Each year brings its own surprises,” Jennifer Jackson, regional conservation educator for Fish and Game, said in an agency press release. “The service is free, so even if you are not sure your item is a record-worthy trophy, bring it by anyway. We will be happy to rough-score it.” All items must be picked up during business hours on Wednesday, April 17, or Thursday, April 18. Information: 208-232-4703.

Bring a Costume for Pomerelle’s Annual Slush Cup Pond Skim

ALBION • Pomerelle Mountain Resort will host its annual Slush Cup Pond Skim and Costume Party Competition on Saturday, April 6. Grab your skis or board and be prepared to cross a cold (likely slushy) pond of water. Competitors will be judged on costume, biggest splash, distance of slide, style and best skim.

“This perennial rite of spring seems to bring out the more colorful side of our Pomerelle skiers and snowboarders,” said Jody Burrows, general manager, in a Pomerelle press release. “We have guests who wait all winter for this one event.” The Slush Cup Pond Skim combines snow- and water-skiing abilities with costume moxie. Usually the most creative skier or rider to skim the pond gets the glory. The competition is for skiers and riders of all abilities and most ages. Costumes should be appropriate for a family-friendly event. (Life jackets and arm floaties are optional.) Registration will be 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the lodge, and the event begins at 1 p.m. Registration is $15, plus a $10 bib fee that’s refunded when the bib is returned. Parents must sign a release waiver for participants younger than 18; find it at pomerelle.com. Pomerelle’s final day of the ski season will be Sunday, April 7.

Non Profit Business Spotlight

Valley House was established in 1995 by a group of concerned citizens who saw the need for a homeless shelter in the Magic Valley. Our mission is to work with a wide range of community services to provide motivated homeless persons the help they need to become self-sufficient, while advocating for policies that help reduce homelessness.

Valley House is the only shelter of its kind in an eight region area. We provide transitional housing to low income, disadvantaged motivated homeless persons who have found themselves in need of a hand up not a hand out. Our program provides the tools needed to live a productive, self-sufficient life. We offer classes which include parenting, drug awareness, budgeting, nutrition and cooking along with family counseling, mentoring, tutoring, housing, and employment assistance. We are not a traditional homeless shelter. Our “guests” must be out of the shelter during the day time looking for a job or working. They are required to clean, do their own laundry, watch their own children, budget, set up personal savings accounts, attend group meetings, etc. We have a “NO TOLERANCE RULE” for drugs, consumption of alcohol. We do not tolerate child or spousal abuse.

Valley House shelters up to 70 individuals per night or 25,500 beds a year. Without the Valley House these families and children would have no place to turn. Valley House strives to offer a safe, positive drug-free environment where homeless families with children can find hope and the resources needed to better their lives.

Our financial support is based on community support from private contributions, cooperate grants, and fund raising events. We could not do this great work without community supporters such as yourselves.

Help Prune Fruit Trees

TWIN FALLS • Students in the College of Southern Idaho’s Horticulture Club and instructor Dave Kiesig will hold their annual fruit tree pruning workshop at Centennial Park on Saturday, April 6.

Fruit trees that used to be part of the original Twin Falls Tract Orchard still dot the landscape in Centennial Park and the nearby Canyon Springs Golf Course. Kiesig, his students, and volunteers who show up for the learning experience, will all work on pruning, re-vitalizing, and preserving these historic trees. Volunteers will learn valuable tips they can apply on their own fruit trees.

No registration is required and there are no fees. Volunteers can simply show up at Centennial Park any time between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. They should wear gloves and bring whatever tools they have, including pruning saws, loppers, bypass hand pruners, ladders, and pole saws. Some tools will be available at the event.

Solicitation for Public Comment
Notice of 30-Day Opportunity to Comment on Proposed Action
USDA Forest Service, Sawtooth National Forest
Sawtooth National Recreation Area
Custer and Blaine Counties, Idaho and Minidoka Ranger District
Minidoka County, Idaho
USGS and IDWR Stream Gage Special Use Permits

The Sawtooth National Forest proposes to issue two Special Use Permits for up to 20 years to the U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) and Idaho Department of Water Resources (IDWR) in Custer, Blaine and Minidoka Counties for stream gages that measure daily/monthly discharge levels (cubic feet per second), and daily/monthly water levels. Four USGS stream gages are located on the Sawtooth National Recreation Area (Sawtooth NRA) on Valley Creek by Stanley, ID in the SE1/4 of Sec. 3, T10N, R13E; Salmon River at Yankee Fork near Sunbeam Resort in the SW1/4 of Sec. 20, T11N, R15E; Big Wood River near North Fork Campground and Highway 75 in the SE1/4 of Sec. 10, T 5N, R17E; and North Fork of the Big Wood River east of Sawtooth NRA Headquarters Office in the NW1/4 of Sec. 10, T 5N, R17E B.M. One USGS stream gage is located on the Minidoka Ranger District on Trapper Creek near Oakley, ID just upstream from Oakley Dam off Forest System Road (FSR) #70533 in the SE1/4 of Sec.34, T14S, R21E B.M. Three IDWR stream gage sites are located on the Sawtooth NRA at 4th of July Creek by Highway 75 in the SE1/4 of Sec. 8, T 8N, R14E; Alturas Lake Creek at Pettit Lake Bridge by FSR #70208 in the NE1/4 of Sec.31, T 8N, R14E; and on Pole Creek near Valley Creek Road, FSR #70194 in the NE1/4 of Sec.25, T 7N, R14E, B.M.

The proposed action would continue to allow stream gage devices that have been in place from two years to over 100 years. Though the components of each site varies a little at each location, they generally consist of a 1'x 3'x 5' steel box structure mounted on posts. Each stream gage structure has a 6' high mast with an attached 1'x 1-1/2' solar panel and antenna. A small diameter steel pipe extends from the gage to the river and is anchored to the channel bottom with steel pins. A few sites have a graduated steel beam to measure the stream's water level. At the USGS gage sites at Valley Creek and Trapper Creek, equipment is housed in a larger 10' high by 2' diameter steel corrugated metal pipe and at the Salmon River site in a cement building that are installed vertically in the stream bank. The Salmon River site also has a tramway to allow measurements to be taken during high water flows. Use would be allowed to continue in the same location as is currently configured.

Blaine County, Idaho
Syringa Networks Fiber Optic Cable Permit

The Sawtooth National Recreation Area, Sawtooth National Forest, is proposing to issue a new special use permit authorizing Syringa Networks, Inc. (Syringa) to continue to operate and maintain an existing buried fiber optic cable line located in the Big Wood River Valley north of Ketchum, Idaho. The current permit expires August 18, 2013. The new permit would be for a 30 year term. The Sawtooth National Forest is soliciting public input regarding this proposal during this 30-day opportunity to comment or object. The 30-day comment period commences with this legal notice's published date in the Twin Falls Times-News and it will be the only opportunity to comment on this proposal.

The buried fiber optic cable was installed in 2003. It is part of the State of Idaho's Rural Networks Initiative. The segments of fiber optic line authorized in this permit are adjacent to Highway 75 for approximately ½ mile near Lake Creek on the Ketchum Ranger District (NW¼, Sec. 36, T5N, R17E) and adjacent to Highway 75 from the Sawtooth National Recreation Area boundary at North Fork (NW¼, Sec. 10, T5N, R17E) to Horse Creek (Sec. 4, T6N, R15E); and from Horse Creek along the historic Galena Toll Road to Galena Summit (Sec. 7, T6N, R15E).

This solicitation for public comment serves two purposes. First, it helps serve the purpose of "scoping" under the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) regulations (40 CFR 1500-1508). Scoping is a public involvement process used to determine the scope of issues to be addressed and identify issues related to a proposed action. Second, it provides those interested in or affected by this proposal an opportunity to make their concerns known before a decision is made by the Responsible Official, Sawtooth National Forest, Forest Supervisor, Rebecca Nourse. All comments received in response to this solicitation, including names and addresses of those who comment, will be considered part of the public record on this proposed action and will be available for public inspection. Those who provide timely comments will be eligible to appeal the decision pursuant to the 36 CFR part 215 regulations.

For additional information on this proposal , please contact Dave Fluetsch, Special Uses and NEPA Team Leader, Sawtooth National Recreation Area (address below) or by telephone at 208-727-5000; or by e-mail: dfluetsch@fs.fed.us.

Written, facsimile, hand-delivered, oral, and electronic comments concerning this action will be accepted for 30 calendar days following the publication of this legal notice in the Twin Falls Times-News newspaper. The publication date in the newspaper of record is the exclusive means for calculating the comment period for this analysis. Those wishing to comment should not rely upon dates or timeframe information provided by any other source. The regulations prohibit extending the length of the comment period.

Written comments must be submitted to: Sawtooth National Recreation Area, Attn: Syringa Networks Fiber Optic Cable Permit, 5 North Fork Canyon Road, Ketchum, ID 83340. Electronic comments must be submitted in rich text format (.rtf) or word (.doc) to: comments-intermtn-sawtooth-nra@fs.fed.us. In cases where no identifiable name is attached to an electronic message, a verification of identity will be required for appeal eligibility. A scanned signature can be used for verification.

Notice of 30-Day Opportunity to Comment on Proposed Action
USDA Forest Service, Sawtooth National Forest
Sawtooth National Recreation Area
Custer County, Idaho
Fourth of July Road Use Permit

The Sawtooth National Forest proposes to issue a Road Use Permit to Idaho Transportation Department (ITD) for 1.0 mile or 2.2 acres of National Forest System Road (FSR) #70209 aka 4th of July Road beginning near the junction with State Highway 75 to a short access road to 4th of July Material Source Site CU-83 in the N1/2 of Section 16, T.8N., R.14E. B.M. This portion of FSR #70209 travels through a State of Idaho land section but the United States has an easement on the road. From May 1st through November 30th, ITD is proposing to haul mineral materials on the road when coordinated under contract. From December 1 to April 30, ITD is requesting to plow snow off of the road on a case-by-case basis and only under emergency conditions as approved by the Forest Service. Enough snow would be left on the road to allow over snow vehicles to continue to use the road during those times. The proposed action would continue the same use in the same location and manner as the temporary permit that was issued in 2008. The term of the permit would be between 10 and 20 years.

This solicitation for public comment serves two purposes. First, it helps serve the purpose of "scoping" under the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) regulations (40 CFR 1500-1508). Scoping is a public involvement process used to determine the scope of issues to be addressed and identify issues related to a proposed action. Second, it provides those interested in or affected by this proposal an opportunity to make their concerns known before a decision is made by the Responsible Official, Sawtooth National Forest, Forest Supervisor, Rebecca S. Nourse. All comments received in response to this solicitation, including names and addresses of those who comment, will be considered part of the public record on this proposed action and will be available for public inspection. Written, facsimile, hand-delivered, oral, and electronic comments concerning this action will be accepted for 30 calendar days following the publication of a legal notice in The Times News newspaper. The publication date in the newspaper of record is the exclusive means for calculating the comment period for this analysis. Those wishing to comment should not rely upon dates or timeframe information provided by any other source. The regulations prohibit extending the length of the comment period. Written comments must be submitted to: Sawtooth National Recreation Area, Attn: Fourth of July Road Use Permit, 5 North Fork Canyon Road, Ketchum, ID 83340. Solicitation for Public Comment

Notice of 30-Day Opportunity to Comment on Proposed Action

USDA Forest Service, Sawtooth National Forest

Sawtooth National Recreation Area

Blaine County, Idaho

Smiley Creek Garbage Dumpsters Special Use Permit

The Sawtooth National Forest proposes to issue a Special Use Permit to Blaine County for continued year-round use of a garbage dumpster site for up to 20 years in a large pullout on the east side of Highway 75 across from Smiley Creek Lodge on the Sawtooth National Recreation Area in the SE1/4 of the NE1/4 of Section 27, T.7N, R.14 E., B. M. The proposed action would allow 6 ten cubic yard dumpsters during normal periods of operation and 8 dumpsters during high use periods in the summer. No hazardous waste disposal would be allowed at this site. This project would include looking at ways to reduce the visibility of the dumpsters as seen from the highway such as adding a mound of soil and small log fence, and minimize signage. Idaho Transportation Department would continue to plow the large pullout during the winter months to provide access to the dumpsters. The proposed action would continue this use in approximately the same location and manner as it is currently configured.

This solicitation for public comment serves two purposes. First, it helps serve the purpose of "scoping" under the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) regulations (40 CFR 1500-1508). Scoping is a public involvement process used to determine the scope of issues to be addressed and identify issues related to a proposed action. Second, it provides those interested in or affected by this proposal an opportunity to make their concerns known before a decision is made by the Responsible Official, Forest Supervisor, Rebecca S. Nourse. All comments received in response to this solicitation, including names and addresses of those who comment, will be considered part of the public record on this proposed action and will be available for public inspection. Those who provide timely comments will be eligible to appeal the decision pursuant to the 36 CFR part 215 regulations.

For additional information on this proposal, please contact Stacey Clark, Special Uses and NEPA Program Leader, Sawtooth National Recreation Area (address below) or by telephone at 208-727-5008; or by e-mail: staceyclark@fs.fed.us. Written, facsimile, hand-delivered, oral, and electronic comments concerning this action will be accepted for 30 calendar days following the publication of a legal notice in The Times News newspaper. The publication date in the newspaper of record is the exclusive means for calculating the comment period for this analysis. Those wishing to comment should not rely upon dates or timeframe information provided by any other source. The regulations prohibit extending the length of the comment period.

Written comments must be submitted to: Sawtooth National Recreation Area, Attn: Smiley Creek Garbage Dumpsters Special Use Permit, 5 North Fork Canyon Road, Ketchum, ID 83340. Comments may be submitted to the Sawtooth National Recreation Area Headquarters Office during business hours (8am to 5pm Monday through Friday, excluding holidays) via telephone at (208) 727-5000, in person, or via FAX at (208) 727-5029. Comments may also be submitted to the Stanley Ranger Station office via telephone at (208) 774-3000 or in person. Electronic comments must be submitted rich text format (.rtf) or word (.doc) to: comments-intermtn-sawtooth-nra@fs.fed.us. In cases where no identifiable name is attached to an electronic message, a verification of identity will be required for appeal eligibility. A scanned signature can be used for verification.

Only those who submit timely comments will have eligibility to appeal the decision. Individuals and organizations wishing to be eligible to appeal must provide the following information:

1. Name and Address;

2. Title of the proposed action: (Smiley Creek Garbage Dumpsters Special Use Permit)

3. Specific comments on the proposed action, along with supporting reasons that the Responsible Official should consider in reaching a decision;

4. Signature or other verification of identity upon request; identification of the individual or organization who authored the comments(s) is necessary for appeal eligibility;

5. For multiple names or multiple organizations, a signature must be provided for the individual authorized to represent each organization, or for each individual that wishes to have appeal eligibility, and

6. Individual members of organizations must submit their own comments to meet the requirements of appeal eligibility as an individual; comments received on behalf of an organization are considered as those of the organization only.

Today is Thursday, April 4, the 94th day of 2013. There are 271 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On April 4, 1968, civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., 39, was shot to death as he stood on a balcony of the Lorraine Motel in Memphis, Tenn. (James Earl Ray later pleaded guilty to assassinating King, then spent the rest of his life claiming he'd been the victim of a setup.)

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1818, Congress decided the flag of the United States would consist of 13 red and white stripes and 20 stars, with a new star to be added for every new state of the Union.

In 1841, President William Henry Harrison succumbed to pneumonia one month after his inaugural, becoming the first U.S. chief executive to die in office.

In 1850, the city of Los Angeles was incorporated.

In 1859, "Dixie" was performed publicly for the first time by Bryant's Minstrels at Mechanics' Hall in New York.

In 1912, China proclaimed a republic in Tibet, a move fiercely opposed by Tibetans.

In 1933, the Navy airship USS Akron crashed in severe weather off the New Jersey coast with the loss of 73 lives.

In 1949, 12 nations, including the United States, signed the North Atlantic Treaty in Washington, D.C.

In 1960, Elvis Presley recorded "Are You Lonesome Tonight?" in Nashville for RCA Victor.

In 1973, the twin towers of New York's World Trade Center were officially dedicated. (The towers were destroyed in the terrorist attack of Sept. 11, 2001.)

In 1975, more than 130 people, most of them children, were killed when a U.S. Air Force transport plane evacuating Vietnamese orphans crash-landed shortly after takeoff from Saigon.

In 1983, the space shuttle Challenger roared into orbit on its maiden voyage. (It was destroyed in the disaster of January 1986.)

In 1988, the Arizona Senate convicted Gov. Evan Mecham of two charges of official misconduct, and removed him from office. (Mecham was the first U.S. governor to be impeached and removed from office in nearly six decades.)

Ten years ago: U.S. forces seized Saddam International Airport outside Baghdad. Sammy Sosa of the Chicago Cubs became the 18th player to hit 500 career homers, connecting for a solo shot in a 10-9 loss to Cincinnati.

Five years ago: Texas authorities started removing the first of more than 400 girls from a compound built by a polygamist sect. Lisa Montgomery was sentenced to death in Kansas City, Mo., for killing Bobbie Jo Stinnett, a mother-to-be, and cutting the surviving baby from her womb. Pirates seized the French luxury yacht Le Ponant and its 30 crew members off the coast of Somalia. (The crew was released a week later; six alleged pirates ended up being captured.)

One year ago: Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney unleashed a strong attack on President Barack Obama's truthfulness, accusing him of running a "hide-and-seek" re-election campaign in an address to newspaper editors and publishers. A federal judge sentenced five former New Orleans police officers to prison for the deadly shootings on a bridge in the chaotic days following Hurricane Katrina.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

“To laugh at men of sense is the privilege of fools.”
— Jean de La Bruyere

The world is full of stories of bridge deals where a ridiculous play succeeded, or the correct play failed. In today's example, West was not only a fine player, but also a practical joker. Moreover, he was playing against two of his least favorite opponents, both of whom could be relied on to bid accurately, but neither of whom possessed a detectable sense of humor.

A competitive auction saw North-South reach four hearts after flirting with a slam-try. When West led his singleton diamond, he could see that prospects of defeating the game would hinge on whether his partner had both the ace and king of diamonds. If so, the defenders could surely take two diamonds and two trump tricks.

Alas for West, when East won his diamond ace and continued with the diamond queen, it was South who had the diamond king. It was easy for the defenders to take three tricks, but where would the fourth come from? East surely had no more than one trump.

Inspiration dawned! The defenders might prevail if East had the singleton heart king. West ruffed the second diamond with his heart ace and led his small trump to his partner, giving him the entry to cash the diamond jack for one down.

At the end of the deal, West leant forward and apologized for accidentally wasting his heart ace. “If I had ruffed low, would we have beaten them two tricks?” he asked, and was rewarded when South started banging his head on the table.

ANSWER: In this position, a double by you would be takeout, saying that you would pass if your partner had a penalty double of clubs. But would you? I think not. You'd surely remove the double to two hearts. If that is what you would do, then you should bid two hearts yourself immediately, emphasizing your extra shape and lack of suitability for defense.

DEARABBY: My husband, “Wade,” and I went into a convenience store near our home that we frequent regularly. A new employee — a pretty, much younger girl — stared at Wade with an expression of recognition and surprise on her face. When I asked him what that was about, he laughed it off and said I was “imagining things.”

The next time we saw her, Wade acted nervous and started talking fast, as if trying to distract me. He seemed to be avoiding eye contact with her. She ignored me while obviously trying to lock eyes with Wade. The third time, she again ignored me but smirked and giggled
while we were checking out.
Then she shouted, “See ya later!” to my husband as we were walking out the door.
When I turned, I caught
Wade glaring at her.

When I asked why he did it, he replied, “I looked at her like that because she was acting like an idiot.” When I asked why she'd be acting like an idiot if they didn't know each other, he started screaming at me. He called me crazy and threatened to leave me if I bring the subject up again.

Should I ask her why she seems so amused by my husband? And why is he angry at me?

— SMELLS
SOMETHING FISHY

DEAR SMELLS: By all means ask because I'll bet she is dying to tell you. Your husband may have been seeing her or someone she knows.
He attacked you because he felt guilty about something and didn't want to discuss it.

It proves the truth of the adage, “The best defense is a strong offense.” Believe me, you have my sympathy, but you need to get to the bottom of this, so don't put it off.

DEARABBY: What do you call additions to your family that result from second or third marriages? Our daughter died several years ago. I refer to her widower as my son-in-law, but what term should I use when I introduce his new wife? She has two daughters from a previous marriage — sweet girls who call me “Granddad.” Technically, they are not my granddaughters — but what are they?

These are just two examples of modern relationships that seem to require a new vocabulary. I have tried searching the Internet for answers without luck. Any suggestions?

— FAMILY MAN
IN TEXAS

DEAR FAMILY MAN:
When introducing your late daughter's husband and his wife, try this: “This is my son-in-law 'Sam' and his wife, 'Virginia.'” If you're asked for clarification, which I doubt will happen, give more details. As to the woman's daughters who are not blood related to you, because they call you “Grand-dad,” refer to them as your granddaughters and leave it at that.

DEAR ABBY: Where does the priest get the ashes for Ash Wednesday?

— MARY IN VISTA, CALIF.

DEAR MARY: Traditionally, palm branches from the previous year's Palm Sunday are burned to create the ashes, and those ashes are retained for the next year's Ash Wednesday. Some people keep the palm fronds from the last Palm Sunday tucked behind a cross or a religious picture in their home and bring them to be burned. I have this on good authority.
(When I told a priest I would have guessed they were left over from the Inquisition, he laugh

IF APRIL 4 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: It is easy to become distracted from what is essential importance during April and May. Friends or business matters could briefly interfere with your ongoing pursuit of real happiness. Wait until July, when you may be inspired to make smart choices, for crucial decisions about investments or business. New friends could brighten your life in August and one may even fulfill one of your romantic fantasies. Avoid making key changes or taking on extra obligations in November; wait for December when Lady Luck is there to help you.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Roll with the punches. A difference of opinion could escalate if you let it get to you, but there's little to be gained from a wrestling match. Be a diplomat in social situations or when controversies occur.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): We all pay our dues eventually. You may have had things relatively easy lately, but obstacles can crop up today just to keep you on your toes. Staying calm in the face of adversity is a valuable asset.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Don't sweat the small stuff. Details are someone else's responsibility; your focus should be on the big picture. If a project is still up in the air, hold off on starting new initiatives or making major purchases.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Stop worrying about what others think. Someone somewhere in the world will have an opinion that is different from yours and you cannot change it. Then again, somebody just may be trying to push your buttons.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Do what feels right as rain. Your senses should be attuned to your current situation. You can follow your gut instinct when trying to figure out how to proceed. While pursuing romance you may strike gold.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Don't just succeed when you can exceed. Go above and beyond the call of duty. Succeed by bucking conventional thinking and improvising your way towards a creating a crowning achievement.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): There's a light at the end of the tunnel. The monotony of the daily grind will eventually give way to some evening excitement. There should be smooth sailing on the seas of romance tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): There's no "I" in "team." Show that you are part of the team by staying out of the limelight. Be a reliable bit player, don't try to be the star. Personal glory will have to wait a little while longer.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Adapt your strategy to the situation. Don't be too rigid about plans, as some situations may require sudden changes. Matters of the heart may have to wait while business takes center stage.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Let sleeping dogs lie. Even when you're right, there's little benefit to be had from pressing the issue. Don't rub people's nose in their mistakes. Keep a back-up plan handy. Plans may need to be altered.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Patience is a virtue. You may feel pressure to come to a quick decision, but this is the other party's issue and you should be in no hurry. Obligations and responsibilities should be honored without question.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Don't rock the boat. You'll find that a more traditional approach will get you farther than trying to be a rebel. Examine your long-term goals and objectives to make sure you are really doing what's best for you.
