TERROR IN BOSTON

Bill Iffrig, 78, lies on the ground as police officers react to a second explosion at the finish line of the Boston Marathon in Boston on Monday. Iffrig, of Lake Stevens, Wash., was running his third Boston Marathon and was near the finish line when he was knocked down by one of the blasts.

Boston Marathon Bombing Kills 3, Injures More than 140

BOSTON • Two bombs exploded in the crowded streets near the finish line of the Boston Marathon on Monday, killing at least three people and injuring more than 140 in a bloody scene of shattered glass and severed limbs that raised alarms that terrorists might have struck again in the U.S.

A White House official speaking on condition of anonymity because the investigation was still unfolding said the attack was being treated as an act of terrorism. President Barack Obama vowed that those responsible will “feel the full weight of justice.”

As many as two unexploded bombs were also found near the end of the 26.2-mile course as part of what appeared to be a well-coordinated attack, but they were safely disarmed, according to a senior U.S. intelligence official, who also spoke on

TWIN FALLS • Two Magic Valley natives who ran in the Boston Marathon are safe after two explosions at the finish line killed at least three and injured dozens of others.

Twin Falls High School graduate Zach Tarter, 36, was at mile marker 22 when the two bombs went off, according to his father, James Tarter of Twin Falls.

Zach Tarter now lives in Wolfeboro, N.H. Zach's wife, Lisa, and two daughters, Maddy and Macie, attended the race. They are also safe, James Tarter said.

After hearing from his son, James Tarter said he is feeling “very thankful.” He was watching coverage of the blasts before hearing from Zach.

Rescue Group Wants Dog That Bit Children

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

HEYBURN • Animal advocates who want to save a Great Dane that has bitten two Heyburn children on separate occasions made arrangements with a California rescue group.

The dog, named Thunder, bit the second child April 5 and was being held under quarantine for rabies for 10 days. The quarantine expired Monday.

Heyburn City Administrator Greg Richins and Heyburn Police Chief Dan Bristol

did not return phone calls from the Times-News regarding the issue on Monday.

“He can be safely placed in a forever home,” said Rene Kiel, owner of Indian Dane Rescue in San Marcos, Calif. “We can assure the city he won’t be placed in a home with access to children.”

Kiel said the rescue organization takes in 60-70 Great Danes a year and would sign a waiver releasing the city of Heyburn from any ongoing liability.

Emily Whitman of Seattle, who advocated for the transfer of the dog to a rescue organization, said a petition against euthanizing the dog was signed by more than 3,000 people.

“We have every intention of embarrassing the city of Heyburn if this dog is put down,” Whitman said.

Whitman said transport to Indian Dane Rescue for Thunder has already been arranged.

Co-owner of Indian Dane Rescue Donna Hirtriter said if Thunder is released to the rescue organization, he will be evaluated before a decision is made to place the animal in another home.

Weather Stuck in a Rut

The calendar says spring, it's the middle of April but our weather has shown only glimpses of the season with winter weather holding on. This trend is expected to continue through at least Thursday before 60-degree temperatures return near the weekend.

Along with it remaining cool, there will be a chance of isolated or scattered rain and snow showers today. There could even be an isolated thunderstorm as we go into the afternoon. Temperatures this afternoon will remain chilly as highs stay in the low 40s in the mountains and the mid to upper 40s in the valleys.

Wednesday and Thursday look to feature more sunshine but remain chilly and below average. The high on Wednesday will remain in the 40s for both the mountains and the valleys. It will be a little warmer on Thursday, but still five degrees below average with highs in the 50s.

Another system is expected to swing through southern Idaho late Friday and into early Saturday. This should bring some widespread rain to the region Friday afternoon into early Saturday morning. The good news is we will start to see warmer temperatures. Highs going in to the end of the week look to be back into the 60s.

Man Gets 20 to Life For Molesting Girl

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

Editor's note: This story contains descriptions of a crime that many may find difficult to read.

TWIN FALLS • Before sentencing a man to 20 years to life in prison, Twin Falls County Fifth District Judge Randy Stoker called the crimes some of the most outrageous and egregious he'd seen during his years on the bench.

The grandmother of a girl who was molested for eight years, from the time she was 3 years old, by David Michael Meyers and Kandi Gay Mohr spoke at Meyers's sentencing hearing Monday.

"David molested my granddaughter," she said.

The grandmother said pictures of the girl around her house remind her that the girl was being molested during the time period that nearly every picture was taken.

Twin Falls County Deputy Prosecutor Rosemary Emory said during police interviews Mohr admitted to holding down the girl so Meyers could rape her. Mohr also

"She never had a chance to have a childhood and there's no way to compensate her for that loss."

Twin Falls County Deputy Prosecutor Rosemary Emory said she and Meyers molested the girl up to 25 times, so frequently that she couldn't remember.

According to court records, FBI agents chatted online with Meyers, who was using a screen name to talk about his girlfriend, Mohr, and a child the two were sexually active with.

Emory said Meyers described extensive sexual abuse during the chat.

"This child will never be the same," Emory said.

Emory said Meyers had the opportunity to stop the abuse at any time during the years he abused the girl, but he didn't stop until he was arrested.

"She never had a chance to have a childhood, and there's no way to compensate her for that loss," Emory said.

Dan Brown, Meyers' defense attorney, said friends, family and community members can't reconcile the things Meyers has done with the man they knew before he was arrested.

Meyers wanted treatment and looks back on his actions with the clarity that not many of his clients do, Brown said.

Brown said that Meyers has never been in court before for any criminal proceedings. Evaluators said Meyers had a low probability of committing a similar crime again.

Brown suggested Meyers should serve a total of 30 years with the possibility of parole after 10.

Through sobs, Meyers apologized for his actions. Meyers said he hurt his victim, her family, his own family and the entire community, and there were no words to describe his regret.

Meyers said he took away the happiness of childhood from his victim and could never forgive himself for that.

Meyers also apologized to the victim's family, people who knew and trusted him and the community.

"I don't know how I let myself become the monster I became," he said.

Stoker said he simply couldn't understand how a rational man could fail to realize the harm he was causing when he committed his crimes.

"I hope she grows up to be a normal person, but I suspect she's not going to be," Stoker said.

When reading the file, Stoker said, he kept asking himself why he shouldn't sentence Meyers to life in prison.

"I had a very hard time finding a reason," he said.

Stoker said Meyers effectively ruined the girl's life and compared Meyers's crimes to murder.

"How can an adult do that to a child?" Stoker asked. "I don't know how you live with yourself."

Mohr is scheduled to be sentenced on April 23 for one count of lewd conduct with a minor under 16, one count of injury to a child and one count of sexual abuse of a child under 16.

Power Pole Broken in Early Morning Ketchum Crash

KETCHUM • Ketchum police say a teen driver crashed his car and broke a power pole on U.S. Highway 75 on Monday morning. Police say the driver admitted to consuming alcohol.

According to a press release, Ketchum police responded to a single vehicle crash at about 5:10 a.m. Monday just south of Serenade Lane on U.S. Highway 75.

Officers found a 2002 silver GMC Yukon on its driver's side with extensive damage.

According to the press release, the vehicle was traveling northbound at a high rate of speed, left the roadway and sheered off a power pole on the east side of the highway.

The pole was hanging from the power lines and leaking transformer oil, the release states.

Police say the 17-year-old driver was uninjured and admitted to consuming alcohol at a party prior to driving.

"Officers observed signs of alcohol consumption and started a DUI investigation. A blood sample was obtained from the driver and will be sent off to the Idaho State Lab for analysis," the release states.

"Charges will be pending until those results are received."

The Ketchum Fire Department, Idaho Power and Cox Communications responded to the crash, along with Ketchum police.

OBITUARIES

Clarice Mae Groesbeck

Aug. 23, 1928-April 13, 2013

HEYBURN • Clarice Mae Groesbeck, 84, of Heyburn, passed away Saturday, April 13, 2013, at her home.

She was born in Sioux City, Iowa, on Aug. 23, 1928, to Otto and Lillian Deide. As an only daughter, she so appreciated her three brothers, Lloyd Milton, Darrell (married to LaDonna) and Del Deide (married to Lois). In 1936, she moved with her family from Iowa to Nampa, later making Caldwell a permanent home in 1937. Clarice soon learned the responsibilities of running the domestic part of a farm family, and she graduated from Caldwell High in 1947. She also did clod picking in potato harvest and worked at Evans fly-tying company, snelling hooks.

The skills her mother taught her were passed on to her own family when she met the love of her life, Richard “Dick” Thomas Groesbeck, at a dance hall in Caldwell. She and Dick were married on May 29, 1948, in Nampa, Idaho, and this was the beginning of a lifetime of togetherness and Clarice’s work as Dick’s full-time cook. Dick’s profession took the family to parts of Montana: Missoula, Boulder, Helena and Great Falls. Born to this union in 1949 was daughter, Cathy (married to Jerald Kraus) and, in 1953, son, Jerry (married to Terry). In 1959, Dick’s work brought them back to Idaho, where they settled in the Mini-Cassia area.

There were seldom times when you saw Dick without Clarice, although they went to their own coffee shops. Clarice enjoyed making lifelong friends, and her sense of humor brightened a room; she never forgot the punch line of a joke. She was a member and past president of the Rupert Lady Elks and Rupert Country Club. Her hobbies included bowling and golfing, for which she won many awards. She enjoyed snow skiing with her friends and family but excelled at waterskiing and teaching others how to get up and stay up in the water. Another pastime was out-fishing Dick and beating anyone at Gin Rummy. We will all remember her excellent cooking — no one could make a peanut brittle like her, and so many were treated to her three-layer German chocolate cakes on their birthdays. This May, Dick and Clarice would have celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary.

She has four grandchildren, Lynn (married to Dan Boberg), Lisa, Tina and Nicholas (married to Shanna Kraus); and six great-grandchildren, Bobergs: Natalie, Julia and Kira; Tina Kraus: Jillian; and Nick Kraus: Karter and Kate. She was preceded in death by her parents; her in-laws, Guy and Eva Groesbeck; one brother, Lloyd Milton Deide; her grandson, Jerald Matthew Kraus; and two nephews, Roger Deide and Mark Deide.

We will miss you, Mom (Granny Goose). Love you more!

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday, April 18, at the Rasmussen Funeral Home, 1350 E. 16th St. in Burley, where friends and family may call from 7 until 9 p.m. Wednesday, April 17, and one hour prior to the service Thursday.

In lieu of flowers, Clarice requested that you make a donation to your local animal shelter or a dog rescue organization.

Condolences to the family may be mailed to Rasmussen Funeral Home, P.O. Box 878, Burley, ID 83318.

Lillian Adell Peña

April 5, 1936-April 12, 2013

RUPERT • Lillian Adell Peña, age 77, of Rupert, passed away Friday, April 12, 2013, at her home surrounded by her family.

She was born April 5, 1936, in Willard, Kan., to Claude Simpson and Emma Mae Patton. Our mother was a wonderful, caring woman who would help anyone in need. She enjoyed being with her grandchildren and taking care of her family. She loved everyone, and everyone loved her. She was a great listener and will be dearly missed. She loved her country music and loved to dance. She enjoyed cooking and made some of the best fried chicken and deviled eggs.

She is survived by her children, Ralph (Jane) Duckett of Resaca, Ga., Patty (Tim) Plum of Caldwell, Idaho, Lorretta Brewer of Summerville, Ga., Tammy (Lalo) Avila of Heyburn, Tina Eiserman of Dennison, Kan., Brenda Perez (Roger Sanderson) of Paul, Lori Gordon of Rupert, Greta Mercer of Burley and Amy Mercer of Rupert.

Lillian was one of 10 children. She had three brothers and six sisters.

Lillian was preceded in death by her parents; a brother, Charles Simpson; one sister, Cheryl Knoecker; a daughter, Sherry Greeve; and her three grandchildren, Rachel Mae Avila, and Cagney and Lacy Greeve.

The family would like to thank Portneuf Medical Center and Intermountain Homecare for the wonderful care they gave to our sweet mother. Mario and Lisa, we love you! Thank you, Aunt Irma and Aunt Nina, you have been our rock.

A funeral Mass will be celebrated at 11 a.m. Wednesday, April 17, at St. Nicholas Catholic Church, 802 F St. in Rupert, with the Rev. Father Justin Brady as celebrant. Burial will be in the Riverside Cemetery in Heyburn. Friends and family may call from 6 until 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 16, at St. Nicholas Catholic Church, where a vigil service will begin at 7 p.m.

Arrangements have been entrusted to the care of the Rasmussen Funeral Home of Burley.

Rae Weech Nuckols

Aug. 13, 1928-April 8, 2013

HANSEN • Rae Weech Nuckols passed away peacefully at her home in Hansen to join her recently departed husband, Jack, on Monday April 8, 2013.

Rae was born on the Shoe Sole Ranch on Aug. 13, 1928, less than three miles from where she passed on 84 years later. She was born to Miles Albert and Cloe R. Weech. Rae was the youngest with three older brothers, Rex and her twin brothers, Lloyd and Floyd. She tried to do everything her big brothers did and, growing up on a true cattle ranch, there was no end to the work and challenges. Her parents tried hard to make a lady out of their only daughter by enrolling her in tap dancing and ballet as well as gymnastics. She excelled at these activities but still remained pretty much a tomboy and loved to take rides on her favorite horse, “Moonshine.”

After graduating from Kimberly High School, she worked as a rater and claims adjuster for a freight truck company. When World War II broke out, she joined the Air Force and became a cryptographer. While serving in the WAFs and stationed at Selfridge Field, Mich., she and some friends went to the NCO club one night, and that is where she met Tech/Sgt. Jack Marshall Nuckols, and she soon became Rae W. Nuckols. Everyone at the wedding was in full military dress, and they got a three-day pass for a honeymoon at Niagara Falls. Upon returning to the base, her husband, Jack, was immediately assigned to Skull Thorpe Air Force Base in England. Rae applied for a discharge, since in those days a married woman could not serve in the military. Six months later, Rae and her son, Rob, joined Jack where they lived in the English Village of Brancaster for a year.

After being honorably discharged, both Jack and Rae attended the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa where she majored in criminology. Her husband graduated in May of 1955 with an ABA in mechanical engineering. They loaded up the family, now consisting of Rob, John and Jackie, in their Hudson Hornet and headed to Seattle, Wash., where Jack accepted a job with Boeing Aircraft Co. After 14 years at Boeing, Jack and Rae moved back to where Rae had grown up and, after a couple of lean years, started a company they called Rock Creek Metal Craft. For the next 40 years, Jack and Rae worked side-by-side and kept the bills paid with that little business. Rae did all of the office work and the books and Jack did the designs. They made a great team. Now, Rae has passed on but the little business she and Jack started together 44 years ago is being run by her daughter-in-law, Teresa Adair.

Rae leaves behind her brother, Rex; and her son, Rob. Jack and Rae had hundreds and hundreds of friends all across the USA and several other countries.

In accordance with Rae’s wishes, there will be no service and, in lieu of flowers, donations should be made to Idaho Home Health and Hospice, whose wonderful people, especially Paul, Brandy and Robert, helped Rae live out her final days at home.

And now Jack and Rae are reunited once again. Arrangements are under the direction of the Parke’s Magic Valley Funeral Home of Twin Falls, Idaho. Those wishing to share condolences may do so at www.magicvalleyfuneralhome.com.

For Many in Magic Valley, Great Recession Not Over

BY JOE CADOTTE
jcadotte@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • For 20 months straight, the Idaho Department of Labor reported the unemployment rate dropping.

And looking at numbers alone, one might get the impression that the recession is over.

According to the Idaho Department of Labor Regional Economist Jan Roeser, the Magic Valley weathered the recession better than any other part of the state, gaining back around 40 percent of the 6,500 jobs it lost over the past five years.

But numbers don't tell the whole story. There are thousands of people living paycheck to paycheck. The numbers show the economy improving but there are many who haven't regained what they lost from the Great Recession.

"It's mentally stressful," said Virginia Tucker of Twin Falls. During the recession, Tucker saw her job prospects and her quality of life decline. "It's depressing. You go to an interview and you wonder what you said or what you could've said different. You start second guessing yourself on just about everything. Self-esteem goes into the toilet. It's not easy."

For 18 years, Tucker worked full-time as an instrument technician for some of the largest power plants in the nation. She said she never saw what was coming.

"Nobody had any clue Enron was going to file bankruptcy," Tucker said. "It was the beginning of the downfall of the energy market. When they filed bankruptcy, I think there were around 500 power plants that needed to be built in this country and I think they only started 10 percent of those. They finished those 10 percent, put another 10 percent on hold and cancelled the rest."

When the energy market bottomed out, Tucker's contracts were reduced to one or two per year. For the past five years, she's been scraping by on unemployment and a contract here or there.

"It was extremely scary for me and I've always been good at managing my money," she said.

With the second extension of her unemployment running out, she took a job through a local temp agency in Twin Falls.

"The job market is tough," Tucker said, "but I have a work ethic next to none."

"Take a job. Because the bottom line is employers don't want to hire someone who sat for two years without a job. They want to look at somebody who has work ethic."

Idaho Department of Labor Regional Economist Jan Roeser

Although she didn't reveal what her income used to be, she said there are a lot of people from the power plant industry who met similar fates.

"I know a lot of people who've basically found other work or who've had to get minimum wage jobs," she said.

Roeser said what Tucker did - taking a lower paying job instead of staying on unemployment - is the right thing to do.

"Take a job. Because the bottom line is employers don't want to hire someone who sat for two years without a job," Roeser said. "They want to look at somebody who has work ethic. If you've taken a crappy, back-breaking job to get yourself by that puts you up higher in their overall estimate of you for a worker for them."

Unemployed vs Underemployed

Idaho Department of Labor's Jan Roeser said they don't manipulate the numbers, but she agrees the numbers released by the Department of Labor might not be accurate. Roeser said it's impossible to differentiate between people who can't find a job and those who won't find a job.

The most recent numbers available show the "underemployment rate" in Idaho was nearly 20 percent in 2011. Roeser said she wouldn't be surprised if the underemployment rate is even higher now.

"The bottom line is we can't differentiate those people because we can't get into their minds," Roeser said. "We don't have enough people to generate the statistics that we'd like to generate. Statistics are cut way back and that's why the unemployment rate is not as valid, solid or robust of a statistic that it could be because we've had to cut back on each of the surveys. Nobody wants to pay for it."

Roeser said, in Idaho if someone really wants a job they can find one. She said the issue in Idaho isn't that there isn't enough work. Most of the struggle, she said, is shared among people who are underemployed.

"There is a huge mass of people who are underemployed," Roeser said. "They have to adjust to be a part of the

Workshops Set to Help Landlords, Tenants Navigate Disputes

BY JOE CADOTTE
jcadotte@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • What is the biggest conflict between landlords and tenants in Idaho? Pets.

According to Idaho Legal Aid attorney Karen McCarthy, if a doctor has deemed a pet a support animal, any manager who rents three or more units has to allow the animal.

"If a person has a support animal, there can be no pet deposit charged," McCarthy said. "You can't prohibit them. You can't charge anything for them. Landlords have every right to enforce behavior of the animal."

Legal aids and housing advocates will be educating people on the Fair Housing Act next week in half-day sessions at the College of Southern Idaho and Burley City Hall.

According to Zoe Olson, Director of Intermountain Fair Housing Council, it doesn't take much to get an animal declared a support animal.

"Any professional, relative or close friend can declare an animal a support animal. A landlord cannot inquire about the severity of a situation, but they can require a verification of the need. It doesn't even have to be a doctor that deems the animal a support animal, but it has to be a reasonable request. There still can't be damage to the property."

McCarthy said she uses her mom's dog Oliver as an example.

"My mom told me one day that the only reason she could get out of bed is because Oliver needed her," McCarthy said. "Oliver then just immediately became a support animal and Oliver wasn't trained for anything. Oliver was vital to my mother's existence."

Idaho Legal Aid's goal is to prevent lawsuits from happening, McCarthy said, because by the time someone sues, people have already been hurt.

"I always tell landlords, sell the property. Don't decide who is right for this property. Let the people decide what's right for the property. You let them pick where they want to live."

Gold Plunges Most in 33 Years in Record Trading on Bear Market

BY GLENYS SIM, PHOEBE SEDGMAN AND DEBARATI ROY
Bloomberg News

NEW YORK • Gold plunged the most in 33 years Monday amid record-high trading as an unexpected slowdown in China's economic expansion sparked a commodity selloff from investors concerned that more cash will be needed to cover positions.

China's economy in the first quarter grew less than forecast by economists, government data showed Monday. The minimum amount of cash for borrowing from brokers to trade gold futures on the Comex may increase after prices plummeted 13 percent, or more than $200 an ounce, in two sessions. Silver, platinum and palladium slumped, and a gauge of 24 commodities fell to the lowest since July.

On April 12, gold slumped into a bear market on concern that Cyprus may sell bullion holdings to cover a bailout, and the Federal Reserve signaled that that U.S. monetary stimulus may be scaled back this year. Holdings in the SPDR Gold Trust, the biggest exchange-traded product backed by the metal, have tumbled to the lowest in almost three years, and hedge funds have cut bets on higher prices by 72 percent since mid-October.

"Gold took a beating today because of margin calls" expected on the Comex, Frank McGhee, the head dealer at Integrated Brokerage Services in Chicago, said in a telephone interview. "The Chinese number was the final nail on the head with people exiting from all commodities, including gold."

Gold futures for June delivery slumped 9.3 percent to close at $1,361.10 at 1:51 p.m. on the Comex in New York, the biggest drop for a most-active contract since March 17, 1980. After the settlement, the price touched $1,348.50, the lowest since Feb. 7, 2011. Estimated trading on all contracts was 684,502 contracts at 4:10 p.m., topping the previous record of 486,315 contracts on Nov. 28.

This year, silver has tumbled 23 percent, and gold has slumped 19 percent, the most among the 24 raw materials in the Standard & Poor's GSCI Spot Index.

Following a 12-year rally, the turn in the gold cycle is quickening and investors should sell, Goldman Sachs said April 10. U.S. equities climbed to a record last week, and some Fed policy makers favor pulling back this year on $85 billion in monthly debt purchases.

Gold slid 4.1 percent on April 12, taking losses to more than 20 percent since the record close in August 2011 and meeting the common definition of a bear market.

China's gross domestic product rose 7.7 percent in the first quarter from a year earlier, the National Bureau of Statistics said today. That compares with the 8 percent median forecast in a Bloomberg News survey of 41 analysts and 7.9 percent in the fourth

American Airlines Set to File Reorganization Plan

DALLAS (AP) • US Airways says American Airlines is about to spell out its plan for emerging from bankruptcy protection after the two companies merge.

US Airways, whose CEO will run the combined company, said that American was expected to file its reorganization plan later

Monday in federal bankruptcy court in New York.

The court has already signaled approval for the merger, which would create the world's largest airline.

The deal faces only a few more hurdles, including approval from the U.S. Justice Department and US Airways shareholders.

Idaho May Receive $1.3 Million Under Obama Administration Budget Proposal

WASHINGTON • President Obama’s Budget Request for Fiscal Year 2014 includes an increase for low-income home weatherization services, including $1.3 million to help needy families in Idaho. The proposal represents a continued commitment by the President and his Administration to help low-income Americans address their energy needs through raising the energy efficiency of their homes while reducing their monthly energy costs.

To be eligible to receive these free energy improvements, the typical family of four in the state must earn less than $47,000, or less than 200 percent of the U.S. Poverty Guidelines. These families will save from $250 to $450 per year in their energy bills depending on the housing type and fuel source. These dollars can now be used for medicine, food, clothing and other expenses.

Idaho Power Files 2013 Power Cost Adjustment

BOISE • Yesterday, Idaho Power submitted its annual Power Cost Adjustment (PCA) proposal for approval by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission (IPUC). The PCA is a cost recovery tool that passes on both the benefits and costs of supplying energy to Idaho Power customers. Neither Idaho Power nor its shareholders receive any financial return on this filing.

The calculations this year reflect a $140.4 million increase in PCA expenses, compared to last year. However, Idaho Power is providing the IPUC with an option to mitigate the amount and lessen the price impact to customers. If the IPUC adopts the proposed mitigation, the price increase to customers would be $87.9 million this year and the remaining $52.5 million would be deferred until next year’s PCA.

May Declared Better Hearing Month, Free Screenings Offered

TWIN FALLS • According to the Better Hearing Institute, with more than 50 million Americans suffering from its effects, hearing loss is now the third most common health problem in the country today, behind only arthritis and heart disease. Mayor Greg Lanting issued an official proclamation that “May is Better Hearing Month.”

Greg Schroeder, owner of Hearing Aid Counselors and Audiology in Twin Falls wrote in a press release that half of those suffering from hearing loss are under 65 years old.

“Sadly, too many people either do not recognize that they are having hearing difficulties or do not want to admit their difficulties due to preconceived notions or social stereotypes,” Schroeder wrote.

Schroeder is offering free hearing screenings during the entire month of May. The screening requires an appointment. Those interested can call 208-944-2567

Profits Down, JC Penney Ousts Its CEO

PLANO, Texas • JC Penney ousted its CEO, Ron Johnson Monday, April 8 after only 17 months of replacing him with his predecessor. This comes as the most watched retail revival in decades seems to be unraveling. After years of being profitable, JC Penney is unprofitable, still losing ground to Macy’s and Kohl’s, and in the midst of a very expensive turnaround, the future of which is uncertain. Johnson favored bold actions, and put the plans on pricing, marketing and merchandise into place without doing any small-scale tests, according to former Penney executives. Within weeks of his January 2012 presentation to investors about the future of Penney, the company had new advertising, new pricing and a new logo, and was announcing a new fleet of designers who would be creating collections for it.

There are a lot of high paying jobs that no longer exist, Roeser said, or are changing shape. She said relocating, retraining or going back to college are options for pursuing emerging careers such as robotics and intelligent equipment technologies.

“If you look at the people who are employed, you see that (the economy) is gaining steam,” Roeser said. “If you look at job banks, there are more and more jobs. Perhaps if you’re in a rut, your self-esteem is low, perhaps you need to look at where family is located, look at relocating.”

For those who have lost high paying jobs during the recession who don’t want to relocate, Roeser said there is plenty of manufacturing work in the Magic Valley.

Despite the number of underemployed people in Idaho, Roeser said the economy is growing and the job market is improving. She said there used to be lines at the unemployment office and now that’s a rarity.

McCarthy has handled many lawsuits in the Magic Valley. One she recalls involved a dog that was trained to run outside and bark when the animal detected that its owner was having a seizure.

“With their sense of smell, this dog could detect an oncoming seizure,” McCarthy said. “When it smelled this oncoming seizure it was trained to bark outside and alert someone. The landlord got mad and told the people the dog wasn’t allowed to get out of the house and bark.”

Racial Discrimination

Although McCarthy said racial discrimination among lenders is less of a problem now than in the past, she said Hispanics and African Americans are charged higher interest rates than people who are white. When asked if this is a problem in the Magic Valley she said, “My understanding is that yes it is.”

Authorities: Maine Hermit Attracts Marriage Offer

BY CLARKE CANFIELD
Associated Press

PORTLAND, Maine • High bail is appropriate to prevent the exploitation a Maine man who has attracted a marriage proposal and a stranger's offer to bail him out since his high-profile arrest for theft and burglary after living in the woods for nearly three decades, a prosecutor said Monday.

Knight

Bail for Christopher Knight was raised from $5,000 to $250,000 Sunday after Maine State Police filed two additional burglary and theft charges against him. He now faces four charges in all, but police say he's admitted to hundreds of burglaries over the years to obtain supplies for his makeshift camp in the woods near North Pond in the central Maine town of Rome.

Kennebec County District Attorney Maeghan Maloney said that until the man known to locals as the North Pond Hermit is appointed an attorney, she and police feel it's their job to keep him safe. He could have a lawyer appointed as early as Tuesday, when a bail hearing is scheduled, she said.

Knight has drawn international interest since his arrest, with an offer of marriage, an offer of bail and a ballad written in his honor. Attorneys in and outside Maine have expressed an interest in representing him, and one person wanted to provide him housing, officials said.

There's even a book deal in the works.

"It's clear his story has tremendous interest," Maloney said. "Without an attorney, could that story be taken by someone who would then control it going forward? I think that's possible."

"There are a number of things that are possible, but if he has an attorney looking out for his interests, his story will remain his and his story will be told in a way he wants to tell it."

Police said Knight, 47, may have been responsible for as many as 1,000 burglaries during his 27 years in seclusion, raiding cottages for food, cooking gear, sleeping bags, tents and other goods to help him survive.

Knight was arrested after authorities said he tripped a surveillance sensor set up by a game warden while stealing food from a camp for children with special needs. Authorities later found the campsite where they said Knight lived, which included a tent covered by tarps suspended between trees, a bed, propane cooking stoves and a battery-powered radio.

After his arrest, the phone calls started coming.

One man wanted to write a poem about him and called asking for more background information on Knight, said state police spokesman Steve McCausland. Another caller offered housing. A carpenter from Georgia offered to travel to Maine and repair any damage Knight might have caused at the camps he allegedly broke into.

NY Times Wins 4 Pulitzers; Fla. Paper also Honored

NEW YORK (AP) • The New York Times won four Pulitzer Prizes on Monday, including the award for investigative reporting for stories that detailed how Walmart used bribery to expand in Mexico.

The Sun Sentinel in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was awarded the public service Pulitzer for its reporting on off-duty police officers' reckless driving.

The Pulitzer in breaking news photography went to the Associated Press for its coverage of the civil war in Syria.

A New York-based online nonprofit news organization that covers energy, InsideClimate News, won the Pulitzer in national reporting for stories on flawed regulation of the nation's oil pipelines.

The Pulitzers, journalism's highest honor, are given out each year by Columbia University on the recommendation of a board of journalists and others. Each award carries a $10,000 prize except for the public service award, which is a gold medal.

The Times, which has won more Pulitzers than any other news organization, was also honored for international reporting for detailing the wealth of relatives of top officials in China's communist party; for explanatory reporting, for a look at business practices of Apple and other technology companies; and for feature writing, for an account of skiers killed in an avalanche in Washington state that wove in multimedia elements.

Nicolas Maduro Certified as Election Winner amid Protests

BY FRANK BAJAK AND VIVIAN SEQUERA
Associated Press

CARACAS, Venezuela • Venezuela's government-friendly electoral council quickly certified the razor-thin presidential victory of Hugo Chavez' hand-picked successor Monday, apparently ignoring opposition demands for a recount as anti-government protests broke out in the bitterly polarized nation.

People stood on their balconies in Caracas apartment buildings banging pots and pans in protest as the electoral council's president proclaimed Nicolas Maduro president for the next six years.

Across town, thousands of students clashed with National Guard troops in riot gear who fired tear gas and plastic bullets to turn the protesters back from marching on the city center. Students threw stones and pieces of concrete.

The city was otherwise peaceful, although protests were reported in provincial cities. There were no immediate reports of injuries.

Maduro was elected Sunday by a margin of 50.7 percent to 49.1 percent over challenger Henrique Capriles — a difference of just 235,000 votes out of 14.8 million cast, according to the official count.

Sworn in as acting president after Chavez's March 5 death from cancer, Maduro squandered a double-digit advantage in opinion polls in two weeks as Capriles highlighted what he called the ruling Chavistas' abysmal management of the oil-rich country's economy and infrastructure. He pointed to food and medicine shortages, chronic power outages and rampant crime.

By contrast, Chavez had defeated Capriles by a nearly 11-point margin in October. Until every vote is counted, Venezuela has an "illegitimate president and we denounce that to the world," Capriles tweeted Monday.

condition of anonymity because of the continuing investigation.

The fiery twin blasts took place about 10 seconds and about 100 yards apart, knocking spectators and at least one runner off their feet, shattering windows and sending dense plumes of smoke rising over the street and through the fluttering national flags lining the route. Blood stained the pavement, and huge shards were missing from window panes as high as three stories.

"They just started bringing people in with no limbs," said runner Tim Davey of Richmond, Va. He said he and his wife, Lisa, tried to shield their children's eyes from the gruesome scene inside a medical tent that had been set up to care for fatigued runners, but "they saw a lot."

"They just kept filling up with more and more casualties," Lisa Davey said. "Most everybody was conscious. They were very dazed."

As the FBI took charge of the investigation, authorities shed no light on a motive or who may have carried out the bombings, and police said they had no suspects in custody. Officials in Washington said there was no immediate claim of responsibility.

Police said three people were killed. An 8-year-old boy was among the dead, according to a person who talked to a friend of the family and spoke on condition of anonymity.

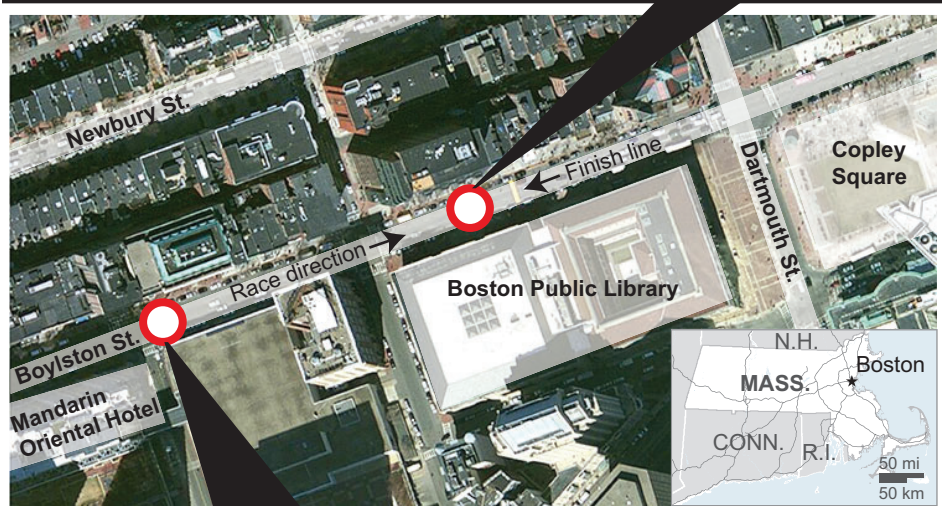

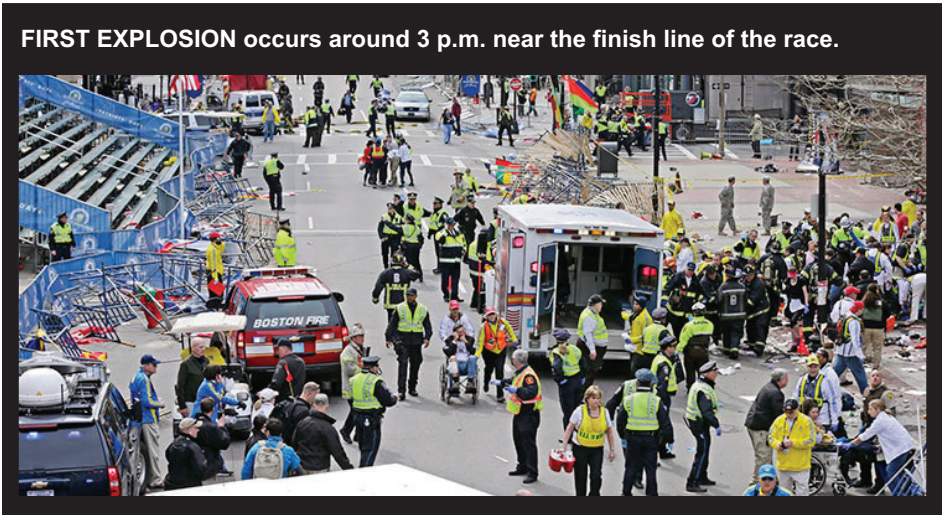

Hospitals reported at least 144 people injured, at least 17 of them critically. The victims' injuries included broken bones, shrapnel wounds and ruptured eardrums.

At Massachusetts General Hospital, Alisdair Conn, chief of emergency services, said: "This is something I've never seen in my 25 years here ... this amount of carnage in the civilian population. This is what we expect from war."

Some 23,000 runners took part in the race, one of the world's oldest and most prestigious marathons.

One of Boston's biggest annual events, the race winds up near Copley Square, not far from the landmark Prudential Center and the Boston Public Library. It is held on Patriots Day, which commemorates the first battles of the American Revolution, at Concord and Lexington in 1775.

Boston Police Commissioner Edward Davis asked people to stay indoors or go back to their hotel rooms and avoid crowds as bomb squads methodically checked parcels and bags left along the race route. He said investigators didn't know whether the bombs were hidden in mailboxes or trash cans.

He said authorities had received "no specific intelligence that anything was going to happen" at the race.

The Federal Aviation Administration barred low-flying aircraft within 3.5 miles of the site.

"We still don't know who did this or why," Obama said at the White House, adding, "Make no mistake: We will get to the bottom of this."

With scant official information to guide them, members of Congress said there was little or no doubt it was an act of terrorism.

"We just don't know whether it's foreign or domestic," said Rep. Michael McCaul, R-Texas, chairman of the House Committee on Homeland Security.

A few miles away from the finish line and around the same time, a fire broke out at the John F. Kennedy Library. The police commissioner said that it may have been caused by an incendiary device but that it was not clear whether it was related to the bombings.

The first explosion occurred on the north side of Boylston Street, just before the finish line, and some people initially thought it was a celebratory cannon blast.

When the second bomb went off, spectators' cheers turned to screams. As sirens blared, emergency workers and National Guardsmen who had been assigned to the race for crowd control began climbing over and tearing down temporary fences to get to the blast site.

The bombings occurred about four hours into the race and two hours after the men's winner crossed the finish line. By that point, more than 17,000 of the athletes had finished the marathon, but thousands more were still running.

The attack may have been timed for maximum carnage: The four-hour mark is typically a crowded time near the finish line because of the slow-but-steady recreational runners completing the race and because of all the friends and relatives clustered around to cheer them on.

Runners in the medical tent for treatment of dehydration or other race-related ills were pushed out to make room for victims of the bombing.

A woman who was a few feet from the second bomb, Brigid Wall, 35, of Duxbury, said that when it exploded, runners and spectators froze, unsure of what to do. Her husband threw their children to the ground, lay on top of them and another man lay on top of them and said, "Don't get up, don't get up."

After a minute or so without another explosion, Wall said, she and her family headed to a Starbucks and out the back door through an alley. Around them, the windows of the bars and restaurants were blown out.

She said she saw six to eight people bleeding profusely, including one man who was kneeling, dazed, with blood trickling down his head. Another person was on the ground covered in blood and not moving.

"My ears are zinging. Their ears are zinging," Wall said. "It was so forceful. It knocked us to the ground."

Competitors and race volunteers were crying as they fled the chaos. Authorities went onto the course to carry away the injured, while race stragglers were rerouted away from the smoking site.

Roupen Bastajian, a state trooper from Smithfield, R.I., had just finished the race when he heard the blasts.

"I started running toward the blast. And there were people all over the floor," he said. "We started grabbing tourniquets and started tying legs. A lot of people amputated. ... At least 25 to 30 people have at least one leg missing, or an ankle missing, or two legs missing."

The race honored the victims of the Newtown, Conn., shooting with a special mile marker in Monday's race.

Boston Athletic Association president Joanne Flaminio previously said there was "special significance" to the fact that the race is 26.2 miles long and 26 people died at Sandy Hook Elementary School.

Burley native Jared Holland, 38, had one mile left to go when the explosions detonated, said his mother, Jeri Anderson Holland of Burley. He and other runners were diverted from the area.

Jared's wife and friends are all safe, Jeri Anderson Holland said. Jared Holland now lives south of Logan, Utah.

According to online registration records, 90 runners from Idaho signed up for the marathon.

Dave Morgan with Burley Irrigation District cleans weeds from a check Monday as water fills an irrigation ditch southeast of Burley.

LAURIE WELCH • TIMES-NEWS

IRRIGATION SEASON BEGINS

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • A trickle of water destined to be used on crops crept down a lateral irrigation ditch on Monday southeast of Burley.

The slow-moving water percolated into the ground, bubbles rising to the surface as the winter-parched dirt soaked it up.

"I've got two farmers on water already this morning," said Dave Morgan, Burley Irrigation District ditch rider, as he waded into the ditch to remove tumbleweeds and other debris that could clog up the nearby water check.

"We pull all of the debris out so it doesn't cause flooding and spill water," Morgan said.

Soon, Morgan said, his phone will be ringing with water orders from the remainder of the customers on his route.

Monday marked the start of the irrigation season for the district. Across the Snake River, Minidoka Irrigation District is a few days ahead.

MID Manager Dan Davidson said his district hasn't made any significant water deliveries yet and is still flushing the system to remove debris.

"We've had a few farmers who needed water for fall wheat," Davidson said, "but the weather is really slowing everything down."

A few farmers have put in water orders simply to wet the ground and prevent wind erosion, Davidson said.

Farmers pay for one foot of water per acre each season and are charged extra if they exceed that amount.

"If they use more than that, it gets pretty expensive," Morgan said.

Morgan said each of BID's five ditch riders is responsible for measuring and delivering water through the lateral ditches to about 10,000 acres of farmland. They start the season by cleaning and burning the weeds on about 21 miles of lateral ditches. The district's water master is responsible for monitoring the 35 miles of main canals in the system.

"The first of June, it'll hit its peak," Morgan said. "This is a seven-day-per-week job, and I won't have a day off until October."

Disclosure: Times-News reporter Laurie Welch's husband, Mark, is employed by the Burley Irrigation District.

T.F. to Turn On Pressurized Irrigation System May 1

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Residents can expect deliveries from the city's pressurized irrigation water system by May 1, officials said.

Now that the Twin Falls Canal Co. has opened its head gates, water is becoming available to users hooked up to the pressurized system, said Wally Kendrick, backflow specialist with the water department.

If residents use filters, they should clean them out before the water turns on, Kendrick said.

"The canal water might still have some crud in it by the time the system turns on," he said. "If you have a lower water pressure, you should make sure to clean it."

Despite the past winter's low snowpack, Kendrick didn't expect the delivery schedule to be interrupted or reduced.

"So far, the canal company told us they expect they'll have enough for the year," he said.

Pike Files to Have Court Recognize Emotional Distress

BY CALEY COOK
ccook@elkodaily.com

RENO • Former Jackpot Recreation Director Richard Pike has filed a motion in federal court asking the court to confirm the stalking it recognized in an earlier decision as intentional emotional infliction, according to court documents.

The motion, filed April 2 in U.S. District Court, is an attempt to build on the court's earlier opinion to not allow relitigation of Elko District Court's decision that former Elko County Sheriff's Deputy Brad Hester stalked Pike.

Tort law doesn't recognize stalking, but does recognize intentional infliction of emotional distress.

Pike applied for and was granted a temporary protective order and an extension on that order against Hester in 2011.

In a hearing in December 2011, Pike appeared before District Judge Al Kacin and argued to have the TPO extended.

In extending the order, Kacin said that Pike proved Hester stalked and threatened him with a "stop and stare" tactic.

A federal judge found in his decision in early March that Kacin's ruling in the protective orders could be used in Pike's civil suit without being relitigated.

That especially applies to Kacin's finding that Hester stalked Pike. One definition of stalking involves intentional infliction of emotional distress, which is one of Pike's civil claims.

"It is especially disturbing that this conduct occurred after Pike contacted (a deputy) in an effort to provoke an 'internal affairs' investigation of Hester," Kacin said in his decision. "Hester did exceed his lawful authority as an Elko County Deputy Sheriff in willfully engaging in a course of conduct that would cause a reasonable person to feel intimidated."

Hester did not appeal either TPO decision by the justice or district courts, said Sherburne M. Macfarlan III, who represented Hester at the time.

The partial summary judgment motion seeks to have the Elko County Sheriff's Office held liable for Hester's actions, as his supervisor.

Hester maintained in depositions that he was out of uniform and not on duty the night he searched Pike's office with two other deputies at the Jackpot Recreation Center without a warrant.

Pike's attorneys have filed additional partial summary judgment motions with the court, but those are under seal and not accessible to the public or the press.

Pike filed the civil case in May 2012, alleging Hester illegally searched his office, told Pike's boss that he did drugs and repeatedly stalked Pike and his two sons.

Pike named Hester, Elko County, the Elko County Sheriff's Office, Sheriff Jim Pitts, former Undersheriff Rick Keema and Deputy Sean Munson in the suit. They have denied nearly all the allegations in the case.

Both parties have until May 8 to file more motions before the case moves forward.

Man Arrested after Peeking under Girl's Bathroom Stall in Ketchum

TIMES-NEWS

KETCHUM • Ketchum police say a Eugene, Ore. man was arrested on Saturday after he followed a 9-year-old girl into a public restroom.

According to Ketchum Police Chief Steve Harkins, officers responded to Jacobbi Square at 451 E 4th St. in Ketchum for a man who followed the girl downstairs into the public restroom.

Police located the suspect, identified as Mark C. Peterson, 42.

According to Harkins, the girl told police Peterson peeked under the stall while she was using the restroom. She then ran out of the restroom and told her parents, Harkins said.

According to Harkins, Peterson was interviewed by police and admitted to following the girl into the restroom and recording video with his smartphone.

Police recovered Peterson's smartphone and confirmed that a video of the incident was on the phone, Harkins said.

Peterson was arrested on charges of video voyeurism and sexual abuse of a child under 16, both felonies. He was booked into the Blaine County jail.

According to Harkins, Peterson told police he was new to the area and moved to Ketchum for employment.

Twin Falls Council Keeps Grant Process the Same

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Twin Falls City Council members are interested in keeping the same application process for a city grant that funds services the city could provide but doesn't.

During Monday's meeting, council members discussed the application process of the Municipal Powers Outsource Grant program. The grant has been used to fund projects like public transportation, crisis centers, the senior center and the city band.

In the past, some council members faced conflicts of interest when determining what organizations should receive funding. Last year, only four members could vote on the topic.

This year, council members decided they would like the application process to stay roughly the same but keep a focus on the outcomes the grant provides.

"It should be messy," Councilman Chris Talkington said. "Let's not get carried away with reinventing the whole thing."

Last year's application process included filling out a form and giving a presentation in front of the council. Final details about this year's process haven't been finalized.

"We cannot grant money to any organization project the city wouldn't fulfill," Councilman Don Hall said. "I want to see the outcomes of giving this money to the organization."

In the past, the city gave the funds to the same six organizations. Last year, the council decided to open the application process to all nonprofits within city limits. The council expects even more applicants this year, Councilman Shawn Barigar said.

"I think the applicants need to be working to make sure they're adding to the city's mission," he said.

The council also:

- Listened to a presentation about the Road Scholar Level 1 Awards to Chris Westburg and Cody Brown.
- Awarded $1,316,545 to Knife River of Boise for the 2013 Auger Falls Pipeline Project.

Transgender Woman Banned from Idaho Grocery Store

LEWISTON (AP) • A transgender woman was banned from a western Idaho grocery store after customers complained she used the women's restroom, police in Lewiston said.

Alberto Robledo, 25, of Lewiston, identifies herself as female but has not yet had gender reassignment surgery. Robledo, who goes by Ally, said she was leaving a Rosauers store in Lewiston late on April 8 when police officers gave her paperwork informing her that she had a "no trespassing" order against her for using the women's restroom.

"They pretty much just came up and said, 'OK, you're not allowed at our store anymore,'" Robledo told the Lewiston Tribune.

A manager at Rosauers declined requests to comment made by a local newspaper and television station.

Police Capt. Roger Lanier said some customers complained about a man using the women's restroom.

"The store employees didn't want any further problems, and they chose to exercise their right to trespass this individual from the business," Lanier told KLEW-TV. "Anyone who owns or controls their property can make that decision."

Robledo said she has used the women's restroom at the store on previous occasions without any problems because she looks and dresses like a woman.

According to the National Center for Lesbian Rights, 13 states, including Washington, protect transgender people from discrimination in public accommodations, but the definition of a "public accommodation" differs from state to state.

There is currently no federal law that prohibits discrimination based on gender identity for public accommodations.

Jury Convicts Former Tamarack Suitor of Wire Fraud

BY HANNAH FURFARO
Associated Press

BOISE • An Idaho man once entrusted to oversee retirement accounts has been convicted of wire fraud for raiding those funds and using the money to enrich himself and help finance his scheme to acquire the failed Tamarack Resort.

A federal jury deliberated for 3½ hours Monday before finding Matthew Hutcheson, of Eagle, guilty on all 17 counts of felony wire fraud.

During the trial and closing arguments Monday, federal prosecutors depicted the former independent fiduciary as someone who schemed to conceal his theft from investors and business colleagues. Prosecutors showed how Hutcheson took $5 million from two pension accounts, using a portion of the funds to buy luxury vehicles and remodel his home.

Prosecutors also cited documents showing funds were used to buy the mortgage on Tamarack's golf course, and disputed defense claims that the purchase was designed by Hutcheson to maximize returns for the retirees.

"We're pleased with the jury's verdict," Assistant U.S. Attorney Ray Patricco said. "We believe justice was done and that the victims of the pension plans have been vindicated."

Hutcheson declined to comment after the verdicts were announced and ignored reporter questions as he exited the courtroom. His legal team also declined to comment.

He faces up to 20 years in prison on each count. The judge scheduled sentencing for July 23 and released Hutcheson on his own recognizance after ruling that he would not be a flight risk and has fully cooperated with the government throughout the case.

Hutcheson burst on the scene in Boise in November 2010, announcing at a press conference his intention to buy Tamarack ski resort for $40 million and rescue the floundering rural economy of Valley County. The resort, located 90 miles north of Boise, opened in 2004 and notched a visit from then-President Bush in 2005 before the real estate market crashed, taking Tamarack with it.

A Tale of Two Minico Throwers

Minico’s Brett Thompson and Jonathan Valero throw discus in distinctly different ways, but both are a strong force to be reckoned with when throwing while sophomore Josh Barclay continues to improve in shot-put.

BY NICK RULAND
nruland@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Minico’s Brett Thompson is quite capable of taking things seriously. He’s going to play Division I college football at the University of Idaho next year, and not just because he’s 6-foot-5 and over 300 pounds. Thompson is an intense competitor and works hard to refine his athletic crafts. Discus is not one of those crafts, recreational fun, maybe. Thompson, who towers over the competition and takes up the most space in the discus cage, has the longest throw in 4A this year by ten feet (160-feet-10). Former NBA player Charles Barkley is the owner of golf’s most infamous and unconventional swing. He can drive the ball over 300 yards. Thompson is the Charles Barkley of Idaho track. His throws draw crowds. One seasoned coach was caught turning away and giggling last Thursday at the Buhl Rotary meet immediately after Thompson flung the three-and-a-half-pound disc for the second time, his pony-tail whipping the back of his head, his sunglasses dropping down the bridge of his nose like he was on the campus’ Frisbee golf course burning time between classes. He let out a high-pitched squeal. It killed. “I set the meet record last year (at Buhl Rotary) with even worse form,” Thompson said to the delight of onlookers. “I like to throw the shot-put. I throw disc for fun. I don’t practice it at all.” Last year, Thompson finished second in districts in the discus and won the shot-put.

Boise St. Wants Court to Void $5 Million Cancellation Penalty

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOISE • Boise State is asking a judge to declare that the school does not owe a $5 million penalty for cancelling its entry into the Big East Conference last year. The university announced Monday it had filed a lawsuit in 4th District Court in Boise after a representative of what will soon be the American Athletic Conference said the conference intended to sue the university. Boise State signed an agreement in December 2011 to join the Big East in 2013 for football. However, the school says the conference lost three-quarters of its membership over the next year, failed to add more football schools west of the Mississippi and lost its guaranteed spot in BCS bowls. In December, Boise State opted to stay in the Mountain West Conference for all sports. University President Bob Kustra argues the conference the Broncos agreed to join no longer exists. “Boise State entered into that agreement in good faith and with a great degree of optimism, but the conference we agreed to join simply no longer exists,” Kustra said. Big East officials say the lawsuit is disappointing, but that they are confident the university will have to pay the cancellation fee required in the contract. “We are disappointed that Boise State has gone to court to try to avoid the contractual obligation that it made to the Conference to pay $5 million for refusing to join after committing to do so,” Big East Commissioner Michael Aresco said in a statement.

Burley Bobcats Drop Doubleheader to Century

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • The Bobcats’ slump hit a new season low Monday as the Burley baseball team lost two nonconference games to previously winless Century, 4-1 and 11-9. “You have two options: You can either quit or you can keep working. It’s definitely frustrating,” said Burley head coach Devin Kunz, whose team drops to 0-15 as it prepares for its Great Basin Conference series against Wood River this weekend. The Bobcats fell behind early in both losses, but for different reasons. In Game 1, Burley errors let Century take a 3-0 lead in the first inning. In Game 2, some Burley pitching problems allowed the Diamondbacks a 4-0 lead in the first. “Both games we start in holes, and when you’re not very good it’s just hard to crawl out of holes,” Kunz said. Jacob Silva was a combined 8-for-9 at the plate to lead Century (2-9). Hunter Breshears went 1-for-3 and drove in Burley’s only run in the opener. Jack Darrington doubled and tripled for Burley in Game 2. After falling behind 9-1, the Bobcats scored six runs

Hour after Red Sox Win, Explosion at Marathon

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOSTON • The Red Sox and Rays were making their ways out of Fenway Park when two explosions near the finish line of the Boston Marathon were heard at the stadium.

The Red Sox beat the Rays 3-2 on an RBI double by Mike Napoli in the ninth inning on Monday in Boston's traditional Patriots' Day morning game.

The game began at 11:05 a.m. and ended at about 10 minutes after 2 p.m. A little less than an hour after that, about a mile away, the explosions from Copley Square could be heard by those in and around Fenway — but not in the clubhouses where the teams were getting ready to leave.

The players seemed unaware of the explosions as they were interviewed by reporters. In the Red Sox room, they dressed in suits and ties for their trip to Cleveland, where they're scheduled to start a three-game series against the Indians on Tuesday night.

A team spokesman sent a text message saying the team had reached the airport. And Tampa Bay manager tweeted a few hours after the game: "Just landed safely in Baltimore. Our thoughts and prayers are with the victims & the families affected by this afternoon's horrible event."

The game sent the Red Sox fans home happy — at least for a while.

With the scored tied at 2, Napoli drove a line-drive double off the left-field wall in the ninth inning that scored Dustin Pedroia from first with eh winning run.

"I was a little out front but I was able to keep my hands back," Napoli said. "My body went a little forward (and) I just kind of flicked my wrist at it."

Jarrod Saltalamacchia, whose solo homer in the fifth had given Boston a 2-1 lead, had a good view from the on-deck circle.

"It was awesome, a strong man to be able to hit a ball one handed out in front like that and just hit it off the top of the wall," he said, "but it's huge, a guy with that much power, it's a threat and it's nice to have that in our lineup."

Napoli, who signed as a free agent in the offseason, has been batting fourth while designated hitter David Ortiz recovers from Achilles' tendon soreness. He is on a rehabilitation assignment at Triple-A Pawtucket and could return shortly.

"I thought the ball would be off the wall so I tried to take the best angle to it," Joyce said. "It was one of those things where you rush and can't get it out of your glove. Then, when that tends to happen, you try to force the issue and the ball goes a little high."

The Rays had two hits before finally showing some offensive punch in the ninth when Desmond Jennings led off with a single, stole second and scored the tying run on a single by Ben Zobrist off Andrew Bailey (1-0).

Joel Peralta (0-1) retired Boston's first batter in the bottom of the ninth before walking Pedroia. Napoli then ended it.

The Red Sox had lost all three of their previous Patriots' Day games against Tampa Bay.

"Hopefully they'll invite us back next year and we can get back on a streak," Rays manager Joe Maddon said.

It was also Jackie Robinson Day around the majors.

BLUE JAYS 4, WHITE SOX 3

TORONTO • Mark Buehrle pitched in and out of trouble into the seventh inning to beat his former team, J.P. Arenecibia and Maicer Izturis hit solo homers and the Toronto Blue Jays topped the Chicago White Sox 4-3 on Monday night.

Arenecibia went deep in the first and Izturis connected to begin the second as the Blue Jays opened a seven-game homestand with their third victory in four games.

Buehrle (1-0) went 6 1-3 innings in his first career start against the White Sox, allowing two runs and nine hits. The left-hander walked two and struck out three.

A four-time All-Star during his 12 seasons with the White Sox from 2000-11, Buehrle starred for Chicago's 2005 World Series championship team, pitched a no-hitter in 2007 and perfect game in 2009.

TWINS 8, ANGELS 2

MINNEAPOLIS • Joe Mauer had a home run among his four hits and drove in three runs for the Minnesota Twins in an 8-2 victory over the Los Angeles Angels on a cold, windy Monday night that helped send several fly balls to the deepest parts of Target Field.

Kevin Correia (1-1) earned his first American League win after finishing seven innings for the third time in as many starts with the Twins, getting two double-play grounders to help him limit the Angels to solo home runs by Peter Bourjos and former Twins utility infielder Brendan Harris.

Angels starter Joe Blanton (0-3) was battered again for nine hits, one walk and four runs in 4 2-3 innings. Mauer doubled and scored in the first and led off the fifth inning with a homer to left-center. Trevor Plouffe also went deep off Blanton, and Justin Morneau drove in a run with a double.

National League

CARDINALS 10, PIRATES 6

PITTSBURGH • Jon Jay and Matt Holliday each had two hits and two RBIs as the St. Louis Cardinals jumped on the Pittsburgh Pirates early in a 10-6 victory Monday night.

Allen Craig doubled and drove in three runs for the Cardinals, who knocked around James McDonald (1-2) with a seven-run second inning. McDonald gave up eight runs, three earned, and walked two in 1 1-3 innings, the shortest start of his career.

Lance Lynn (2-0) labored through five innings to get the win. Lynn allowed four runs, walking three and striking out four.

Starling Marte had three hits and Neil Walker homered for the Pirates, who had their three-game winning streak snapped.

NATIONALS 10, MARLINS 3

MIAMI • Jordan Zimmermann succeeded after Washington Nationals teammates Stephen Strasburg and Gio Gonzalez faltered.

It surely helped that Zimmermann was pitching against the woeful Miami Marlins.

The right-hander threw a six-hitter for his third victory in three starts this season, and Washington bounced back from a humbling series to beat Miami 10-3 Monday night.

REDS 4, PHILLIES 2

CINCINNATI • Brandon Phillips drove in a pair of runs with a bases-loaded single in the eighth inning and the Cincinnati Reds ended their five-game losing streak by beating the Philadelphia Phillies 4-2 on Monday night.

Cincinnati's five-game slide matched its longest slump from last season, when it won the NL Central.

The Reds still didn't hit much, but left-hander Cliff Lee helped them by letting in a run on a wild pitch in the seventh. Todd Frazier followed with a sacrifice fly for a 2-0 lead.

Violent Backdrop in Sports to Jackie Robinson Day

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MIAMI • Lined up in front of their dugouts, all wearing No. 42 on Jackie Robinson Day, the Washington Nationals and Miami Marlins stood for a moment of silence to honor bombing victims at the Boston Marathon.

What began as an annual celebration to salute the man who broke baseball's color barrier 66 years ago turned somber after a pair of explosions Monday near the finish line in Boston — about a mile from Fenway Park — killed two people and injured more than 130.

Later that night, Major League Baseball went on with ceremonies for the fifth Jackie Robinson Day at stadiums all over the country and north of the border in Toronto.

"Our thoughts and prayers are with everyone affected by this horrible occurrence and we are monitoring the situation," MLB spokesman Pat Courtney said in a statement. "The safety of everyone that comes to our ballparks is always our top priority and we will continue to do everything to ensure a safe environment for our fans."

There were moments of silence before each of the five early night games, including in Toronto, where the Blue Jays hosted the Chicago White Sox. At Great American Ball Park in Cincinnati, President Barack Obama's remarks to the nation were shown on the video board while the Phillies were taking batting practice. The Los Angeles Dodgers and Oakland Athletics hosted games later Monday night.

The game between the Boston Red Sox and Tampa Bay Rays started at 11:05 a.m. on Patriots Day in Massachusetts and ended about an hour before the bombings. Fans near Fenway Park, some who had recently exited, could hear the explosions.

All the teams in action were asked to wear Robinson's number, retired throughout baseball in 1997. Yankees closer Mariano Rivera is the only active player who still wears the number, and he has said he is retiring after this season.

Overall, Century pounded out 26 hits on the day. Burley only managed 12 hits despite Century saving its strongest arms because it plays two more series this week.

"We work hard at practice, then for whatever reason we just can't put it together in the game," Kunz said. "We've been in close games and tough games, but we just can't put everything together."

Minico

He scratched three times on both events at state, finishing last.

"It's too bad, because if he took it seriously he could throw it a long, long way," throw coach and former wrestling coach Brad Cooper said.

Fellow senior and teammate Jonathan Valero weighs 100 pounds less than Thompson.

Before he throws, he moves away from the audience. Valero looks like he's warming up for a long distance event.

His words pierce through the haze of goofiness enveloping the discus cage.

"I've been doing it since 6th grade, and I take it really seriously compared to most people," Valero said. "It takes a lot of balance. It's not much of a strength sport. You really can't depend on your strength. It's about how quick and good your form is."

Valero won first place in discus at districts last year and finished fifth at state. He had a 170-foot throw on Thursday, but fouled. Valero wants to break the school record of 166-feet. Minico has a storied field program.

Valero and Thompson are two of a trio that has a chance to win state in either or both the shot and discus.

Valero was drawn back into Thompson's improve act after his second discus throw in finals, where he placed second to Thompson with a 150-foot throw.

How is Thompson's form? "He doesn't have any," Valero said. "But he has the strength to do it, so why not?"

Thompson reciprocated. "(Jonathon) works on his form a lot and has gotten it down perfect," Thompson said. "It's beautiful."

Track and field is more than just a "way to compete," as Thompson called it.

It's a path to a better future.

Sophomore Josh Barclay wants to earn an athletic scholarship for his ability in shot-put.

His coach, Cooper, thinks he's right on pace.

As a freshman, Barclay finished sixth in shot-put with a throw of over 48-feet. He's already improved it to 49-feet-11, which is the third best mark in 4A, three feet better than Thompson.

Josh's brother, Jacob, finished third in shot-put at state in 2011. Josh is throwing three feet longer than his brother's throws at state two years ago.

"In eighth grade I kind of realized I was as good as most of my competitors," Josh Barclay said. "I wanted to be the best so I worked on it. And Brett Thompson was actually the one to teach me shot-put during my freshman year. He showed me how to put spin on the shot-put. He is really knowledgeable about that."

Barclay thinks he can get over 50-feet in the next couple of weeks, which would put him on pace to catch Rigby's JonRyheem Peoples, who is the favorite to win state.

Like a golf swing, Josh Barclay has to keep track of a lot to reach his longest potential distance. But he can't think when he throws.

"It about where you place your feet, your release and where your arm and feet are at the end," Josh Barcaly said. "When you get that great throw, you just get that great feeling that goes through you. It honestly starts in your toes and goes through your whole body, like one power explosion."

Bruins, Celtics Affected, Security Up after Bombs

ASSOCIATED PRESS

A few hours after the Boston Marathon bombings, and more than 1,000 miles away, a police officer with a German shepherd patrolled near an entrance to the baseball stadium where Miami hosted Washington on Monday evening — an unusual sight at Marlins Park.

Inside, on the field, two Marlins officials gave a security supervisor a briefing about the ballpark's layout. "We are taking additional precautions and have intensified our security efforts in and around the ballpark to ensure everyone's safety," Marlins spokesman P.J. Loyello said.

The postponement of Monday night's NHL game between the Bruins and Ottawa Senators, and the cancellation of Tuesday's NBA game between the Celtics and Indiana Pacers — both events to be held in Boston — were the most tangible reactions by sports officials to the explosions at the marathon finish line that killed at least three people and injured more than 140 others.

A makeup date for Bruins-Senators was not announced; no other events from top professional leagues around the country were immediately called off.

Still, other effects of the explosions could be seen quickly, such as bomb-sniffing dogs sweeping the arena before the doors opened for an NHL game in Nashville between the Predators and Canucks, and armed police officers posted in front of each dugout at the Padres-Dodgers baseball game in Los Angeles.

Fans heading into the NBA game between the Washington Wizards and Brooklyn Nets in New York waited in long lines as arena security used wands to check people and thoroughly searched bags. A short video clip about what happened in Boston aired on the arena's video screen and a moment of silence was held.

"I got a memo ... from one of our security guys. ... 'Hey you know we're a major event in a big building in a big city. So keep your eyes and your ears open. If you see something let us know,'" Nets interim coach P.J. Carlesimo said.

"Without a question, you're thinking we're also" a possible target, Carlesimo added.

More toughened measures are expected as security is calibrated for upcoming major events that draw big crowds, including the Kentucky Derby on May 4, and the Indianapolis 500 on May 26.

Indianapolis Motor Speedway spokesman Doug Boles said Monday's attack will be a part of future meetings to review what precautions should be taken at the auto race.

"I guess this will bring a new topic or dialogue to those discussions, to see if there's anything more we need to do to prepare with respect to what's happened in Boston," Boles said. "And we will learn more about that over the next couple of days, as the folks in Boston do, and we will be prepared for that."

At the Kentucky Derby, which pulls in crowds approaching 250,000 each year at Churchill Downs Race-track, security was beefed up recently following the death of Osama bin Laden.

"We are always in close contact at this time of year with the dozens of federal, state and local law enforcement and public safety partners who work with us every year on safety and security concerns for our major events," Churchill Downs spokesman John Asher wrote in an email. "We will be in close and frequent contact with them and rely heavily on their expertise, as we always do, in the hours and days to come."

Abroad, British police reviewed security plans for Sunday's London Marathon, the next major international 26.2-mile race. It drew about 37,500 runners last year.

The London Marathon's chief executive, Nick Bitel, said race officials contacted the police to discuss security plans "as soon as we heard the news" about Boston. He expressed shock and sadness about the situation in Boston, saying "it is a very sad day for athletics and for our friends in marathon running."

In Brazil, organizers of the 2016 Rio Olympics said they consider security a top priority and are working closely with the local government on safety issues.

Back in Boston, Bruins President Cam Neely, a former player, said the hockey game's postponement was made after consulting city, state and league officials. He said authorities are still gathering information and "it is vital they have all resources available for their investigation."

Another local team, the New England Revolution of Major League Soccer, posted on its Facebook page that the father-in-law of goalie Matt

Reis was injured in Monday's explosion.

Fans arriving early for the Bruins' game were met by police who were in the area to secure the arena and a nearby federal building. One officer outside the players' parking lot was telling arriving spectators, "The game is canceled. We need you to exit the city safely and quickly."

DEAR ABBY: I was raised that a person's birthday is his or her day to do whatever he or she wants, but my wishes are being ignored by a close friend I'll call Wade.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne
Phillips

For the last 10 years I have ignored my birthday and tried to avoid all celebrations. I'll take a vacation alone and have a great time. My family understands how I feel and gives me no grief.

I met Wade five years ago.
He's a co-worker who has become a good friend. Wade has made it his goal in life to make me celebrate my birthday. I have tried being nice about the presents and even a surprise birthday party one year, but I really prefer to be left alone. I never told him my birth date. He had access to HR records and found out on his own.

He says I am "rude" for not letting him celebrate my birthday. Other than this issue, he's a great guy. Advice, Abby?

—NON-OBSERVANT
IN FLORIDA

DEAR NON-OBSER-VANT: Wade may be a "great guy," but he appears to be insensitive when it comes to respecting the feelings of others.
Before your next birthday,
"remind" him that you prefer not to celebrate or acknowledge it. A good friend should listen and respect the other person's wishes instead of trying to impose his or her will, and don't be shy about saying so.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of four sisters. Two of my sisters, their husbands and I want to plan a trip to Italy. We do not want to include our fourth sister and her husband. None of us like him or can forgive
how he abused her in the past.
For her sake, we tolerate him at family gatherings and holidays, but none of us want to be with him for an extended period. We also don't think his health would allow him to do a lot of the things we want to do on this vacation.

How do we plan this trip while excluding our sister and her husband without hurting her feelings or causing a big family blowup? Should we just not mention it? Or should we tell her she's invited but not her husband? Please advise.

—SIS IN A PICKLE

DEAR SIS: Secrets like this have a way of getting out. It might be a slip of the tongue by one of your sisters or their husbands, or some other relative who knows about the trip.

Surely your sister knows how you all feel about her husband, so it won't be a shock if you tell her she is invited but he is not. Under the circumstances I doubt if she will join you, and there will probably be hurt feelings. But sneaking this past her would be like trying to smuggle dawk past a rooster, and I don't think it would be long before she finds out anyway.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for nine years. I worked until 2010, and then quit to be a stay-at-home mom to our two small children.

Because I no longer work, I watch what I spend, but my husband never lets me forget that he is the wage earner.
When I want to spend money
he always says, "What's in it for me?" or, "What do I get?" I feel like this degrades me.
Why does he do this to me?

—STAY-AT-HOME
MOM IN GEORGIA

DEAR STAY-AT-HOME
MOM: Your husband may say it because he feels stressed or resentful that he is the sole wage earner now. The first time it happened you should have responded that "what's in it for him" is that his children have a full-time mother, which the majority of children today don't have, and "what he gets" out of it are offspring who have a mother rather than a caregiver raising them.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE® Bobby Wolff

"For my Vienna is as different from what they call Vienna now as the quick is from the dead."
— Erich von Stroheim

Ely Culbertson was credited with playing today's deal. Against his slam of six spades, West cashed the heart ace, then shifted to the club 10. With 11 top tricks in view, Culbertson correctly decided that the diamond suit offered a better chance for the 12th than the straightforward club finesse. So he rose with the club ace and played six rounds of trump, discarding two clubs from table.

Next came the diamond ace-king. When East proved to hold the diamond suit, declarer's only hope was that East held the club king too. So Culbertson led out the spade nine and threw the club jack from the table. East, who had to discard from his diamond J-9 and the club king, chose the latter. So Culbertson took the last two tricks with the club queen and diamond queen.

This is a perfect example of the Vienna Coup, where declarer's best play is to take the club ace early to avoid squeezing dummy on the run of the spade winners.

It could be argued that West's shift to a club was naive, since it forced declarer into the winning line. However, if West plays a trump at trick two, declarer might well ask why he had not shifted to a club. Would he be more likely to do so with the club king or without it? Depending on just how good (or bad) a player West is, you might reasonably assume that he would never shift to a club if he had the king.

ANSWER: Today's problem is more about style than anything else. My philosophy is to get the majors in as quickly as possible, especially with hands that are not forcing to game. So I'd respond one spade here — planning to raise a rebid of one no-trump to two, to invite game. A one-diamond response might lose spades — or force us to play game if I bid spades next over partner's one-no-trump rebid.

Today is Tuesday, April 16, the 106th day of 2013. There are 259 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On April 16, 1963, Martin Luther King Jr. wrote his "Letter from Birmingham Jail" in which the civil rights activist responded to a group of local clergymen who'd criticized him for leading street protests; King defended his tactics, writing, "Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere."

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1789, President-elect George Washington left Mount Vernon, Va., for his inauguration in New York.

In 1862, during the Civil War, President Abraham Lincoln signed a bill ending slavery in the District of Columbia. The Confederacy conscripted all white men between the ages of 18 to 35.

In 1879, Bernadette Soubirous, who'd described seeing visions of the Virgin Mary at Lourdes, died in Nevers, France.

In 1912, American aviator Harriet Quimby became the first woman to fly across the English Channel, traveling from Dover, England, to France in 59 minutes.

In 1917, Vladimir Ilyich Lenin returned to Russia after years of exile.

In 1935, the radio comedy program "Fibber McGee and Molly" premiered on NBC's Blue Network.

In 1945, U.S. troops reached Nuremberg, Germany, during the Second World War.

In 1947, the French ship Grandcamp blew up at the harbor in Texas City, Texas; another ship, the High Flyer, exploded the following day (the blasts and fires killed nearly 600 people). Financier Bernard M. Baruch said in a speech at the South Carolina statehouse, "Let us not be deceived — we are today in the midst of a cold war."

In 1962, Bob Dylan debuted his song "Blowin' in the Wind" at Gerde's Folk City in New York; Walter Cronkite succeeded Douglas Edwards as CBS-TV's principal anchorman.

In 1972, Apollo 16 blasted off on a voyage to the moon with astronauts John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Ken Mattingly on board.

In 1996, Britain's Prince Andrew and his wife, Sarah, the Duchess of York, announced they were in the process of divorcing.

In 2007, in the deadliest shooting rampage in modern U.S. history, student Seung-Hui Cho (sung-wee joh) killed 32 people on the campus of Virginia Tech before taking his own life.

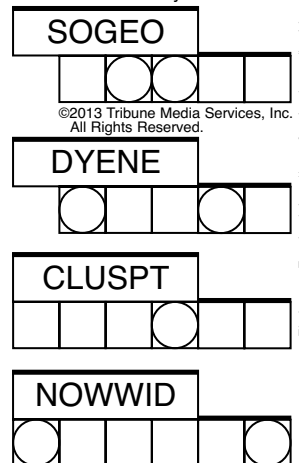

Ten years ago: The Bush administration lowered the terror alert level from orange to yellow, saying the end of heavy fighting in Iraq had diminished the threat of terrorism in the United States. During a visit to a fighter jet factory in St. Louis, President George W. Bush called for lifting economic sanctions against Iraq. Michael Jordan played his last NBA game with the Washington Wizards, who lost to the Philadelphia 76ers, 107-87.

Five years ago: The Supreme Court upheld the most widely used method of lethal injection, allowing states to resume executions after a seven-month halt. Pope Benedict XVI was welcomed by President George W. Bush as only the second pope to visit the White House and the first in 29 years. Mathematician-meteorologist Edward Lorenz, the father of "chaos theory," died in Cambridge, Mass., at age 90.

One year ago: A trial began in Oslo, Norway, for Anders Breivik, charged with killing 77 people in a bomb and gun rampage in July 2011. (Breivik was found guilty of terrorism and premeditated murder and given a 21-year prison sentence.) The Associated Press won a Pulitzer Prize for investigative reporting for documenting the New York Police Department's widespread spying on Muslims, while the Philadelphia Inquirer was honored in the public service category for its examination of violence in the city's schools; for the first time in 35 years, no Pulitzer for fiction was given.

IF APRIL 16 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Ambitions may interfere with your spiritual growth during the next few weeks, so put them on the back burner. Take advantage of advantageous stars and divine guidance in May. That is a good time to launch key projects, ask for favors or improve your life by accepting an offer or an opportunity. Remember that whatever knocks on your door during those weeks might not be what you want, but will surely be what you need. Over the summer settle down to a pleasurable grove that might be less exciting, but promises more stability. Early October is an ideal time to enjoy a vacation or to realize one of your fantasies, for example booking a weekend at a spa.

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You can have your head in the clouds while your feet are planted firmly on the ground. Your can-do spirit can ignite a fire within others to follow your lead; your leadership can inspire others to greatness.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Ambitions can collide with cooperation. The people you deal with might equivocate about opinions or unexpectedly question your loyalties. Those in close connection have romance in mind.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Leave things better than you found them. You shouldn't take things for granted or overlook necessary repairs or maintenance. Even a lateral move can offer some benefits or perks that you did not expect.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): The winds can fill your sails. A change of plans is not necessarily an obstacle to achieving your ambitions. There could be something stirring behind the scene that helps you come out ahead financially.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A hunch should be followed, as it is right on the mark. You can receive notice when performing services for others or when handling finances for yourself, but should wait for better timing for new investments.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Making money is a game that anyone can learn by practicing with board games. Keeping money demands goals, self-discipline and careful due diligence. Avoid get-rich-quick schemes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Bite your tongue. Someone merely wants to bait you into an argument that you can't win. Don't be lured in — keep your eye on the long-term view and let temporary frustrations go.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Use a passion for perfection sparsely. Make a favorable impression in business with an arm's-length transaction and achieve deeper intimacy with a favorite someone by being a hands-on participant.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): "E" is for "effort." Even if the odds seem to be against you, take a stab at a new hobby or pastime. A penchant for using ingenious new methods or techniques could earn you an "A" for "aptitude."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): When you have performed a job well, you expect to enjoy both recognition and compensation. Don't be too surprised if your efforts are rewarded by more responsibilities and more work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): When someone gives you a gift, be sure to show that you are grateful. It may only be a gift that seems insignificant. It might not seem like much to you, but it might be all the person has to give.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Make your move. On the chessboard of life, pawns do not merit the same respect as a knight that can move in several directions. Overcome obstacles and avoid problems with charm and know-how.
