Artist’s Painting Honors Jerome Teenager’s Life

Hannah Lock, a 17-year-old senior at Jerome High School, died in a car accident in November in Eden.

JEROME • As someone who loved dancing, Hannah Lock had a goal.

She wanted to be able to dance on pointe. Even though she never quite got there during her lifetime, a new painting by a local artist shows her reaching that goal of dancing on her toes.

Hannah Lock, a 17-year-old senior at Jerome High School, died in a car accident in November in Eden.

That month, hundreds of people attended her memorial service at the high school to share memories through tears and laughter.

To honor her life, an anonymous donor covered the cost of the painting that was created by local artist Maria Smith and framed by Ron Hicks.

The process of creating the painting began in late November, and Aaron brought the finished piece home on April 12.

The painting is primarily a gift for his wife, Becky.

Aaron said his wife’s last memory of their daughter is from the scene of the car accident, but he wants to give her a new lasting image.

The impetus for the gift, he said, was the community’s response to Hannah’s death, noting he and his wife were astonished by the reaction.

Aaron said even though Hannah wasn’t an athlete or didn’t have the highest grades at Jerome High, she was popular.

There are still people expressing their grief on Hannah’s Facebook page, he said.

Aaron said he has bad days, but what’s carrying him is his marriage, church and faith.

And “We don’t mourn like those who have no hope,” he said, referencing a scripture from the Bible.

Aaron said due to his faith and scriptures, he believes Hannah is dancing in the presence of God.

The Power of Laughter

“A cheerful heart is good medicine, but a crushed spirit dries up the bones.”
— Proverbs 17:22 NIV

The bombing at the Boston Marathon is very difficult to understand.

Keeping a good attitude and strong personal faith will help us move past the pain. While life isn't always fair, it can have its incredibly funny moments. Be like the kid in school who asked, “May I be excused; my brain is full.” God understands.

We need to appreciate the things that help us stay balanced. Laughter and play enable us to handle adversity much better.

A good diversion keeps us from getting bogged down and losing faith when we are called to face the ordeals of life. We have to learn not to take ourselves too seriously. I listened to a young man unload his problems over dinner recently. We laughed over old times and both felt better.

Years ago I went on a men's retreat to take a break from the 7-Eleven Store I managed in Denver. The shoplifting of students from a nearby junior high really tied me down. A friend helped me see my need for a new focus.

That Friday evening on the mountain top, I let go the weight of the store problems and a dance of joy lifted my spirit. It lingered all weekend. Relaxed, I rested contentedly. The peaceful joy continued in the chow line the next morning, at the horse shoe pits, and on the volleyball court. Its melody echoed softly through the aspen leaves. I had a new outlook of gratefulness for the store and the kids who troubled me.

This past Monday, I reached out to one of those kids who had been shoplifting, and she returned the lady's hose she had taken. She agreed to go with me to my kids' “chocolate” nanny, who connected with her. She helped the teenager have a different image of herself. The message got around, and my shoplifting problem soon ended.

During the most difficult times, we do some pretty silly things that other people really want to laugh about. It might help if we joined them.

Humor and play break the tension of overwork. Thomas Edison believed that people who laugh together can work longer and harder with more effectiveness. The keys to his life were simplicity, fantasy and play, which effectively simplified life.

People need daily doses of healthy laughter. It leaves a calming renewal effect that brings new energy.

Here's how one man took care of a wrong number call.

“May I please speak to Jeanette?”

“I'm sorry, she moved out. She went to Peru to study the ancient mating habits of the Inca Indians,” he answered.

“Not really?”

“No, not really, you have a wrong number.”

I don't know if the caller appreciated the answer, but the gentleman quite enjoyed himself.

Laughter can soothe jangled nerves, reduce tension, calm tempers, stimulate creativity and make life more fun. Prepare yourself for the invigorating boost of a hearty laugh.

There are many forms of praise and worship, he said, including dancing.

“Hannah was all about fine arts,” he said.

When Hannah was younger, she used to do ballet and gymnastics, but then in fifth grade she was injured in a playground accident.

Over the next five or six years, she went through multiple surgeries.

“Her movement was reduced to a slow limp,” Aaron said.

He said his daughter wanted to play tennis at Jerome High School, but that was ruled out. She never lost her love of dancing.

Smith, 72, created the oil on canvas painting of Hannah.

She said she was touched by what Hannah's father, Aaron, shared about his daughter and his vision for the painting.

Smith — who was born in the Netherlands — began painting when she was 12 years old. She has painted portraits that are in private collections all around the world.

Smith's studio in Twin Falls has been open for more than 10 years.

Aaron said the plan is to have the painting on display at Hicks' store for at least three days during Art and Soul of Magic Valley.

The community art competition begins with a kick-off event Thursday, April 18 at the Art and Soul Gallery headquarters, 1329 Filer Ave. E. in Twin Falls.

Robots

"That's what I've been told," he said.

Burton and several other students gather at least once a week at the Mini-Cassia Tech Center to build their friendships and learn skills in technology and computer science. Burton is a member of the robotics team MCROCS.

On Thursday, the students demonstrated the workings of their latest robot — a computer-controlled boxed-machine on wheels that launches discs.

The team brought the robot to Salt Lake City recently, where it competed in a regional FRC — or FIRST Robotics Competition — event. The team did not win, but it was both a learning experience and a chance to bond with friends.

"One person who has really helped me is that guy right there," Skyler Larsen said, pointing to his friend Jamison Burton, as the two hung outside the Tech Center with other teammates after demonstrating their robot April 18. The two have been friends for years, Larsen said, but being on the team together has strengthened their friendship.

Burton and his mom, Carrie Burton, helped form the team two years ago. It was something that Jamison said he wanted to do after spending time making miniature bots.

To help get the team off the ground, Carrie Burton said, NASA and JC Penney both donated $6,500. The team received further help from area businesses — "something we are so, so grateful for," she said.

Burley High School student Annabel Vega said she helped construct the top part of the robot, explaining how team members got it to throw Frisbees.

They even gave their robot a name: "One Over Two," she said, "which is technically 'Undefined!'"

On the frame of "Undefined," however, along with sponsors' logos, was the team number assigned to them at competition: 4178.

One thing the teens learned while competing was to be "gracious," an important part of FRC membership, Carrie Burton said.

At the competition the team ran out of an item they needed to fix something on their robot. They went to the help desk and word soon spread. Before long, they had several teams offering their services or asking if Team 4178 had found what it needed.

"That was so awesome,"

Larsen said.

MCROCS is mentored by adults with professional technological backgrounds, such as engineer Clint Bronson.

"This is our second year," he said. "We struggled a little bit this time" in competition, Bronson said, but the more years they get under their belt, the better they'll be.

Teams will find out in January from FRC what type of robot they are supposed to build — such as if it has to throw objects — and then have six weeks to build it before competition, when they gather nearly every day. Even during the off season, Jamison Burton said, they meet up to make their own smaller robots and have friendly competition.

The team is open to high school students throughout Mini-Cassia, Carrie Burton said. They also are looking for a larger facility, she said, so anyone who wants to help is welcome.

Being on the team not only helps students learn to be gracious, but also teaches them hands-on skills that will look good on a resume. For instance, it helps Larsen gain technical and troubleshooting skills.

During competition he manned the batteries, making sure they were charged or, when needed, replaced.

Larsen said he's preparing for his future in other ways besides developing his career. There is one other reason the team is good for him: "A father who doesn't know how to fix things, what good is he to the family?" he said with a laugh.

Fatherhood is a ways off for Larsen, but a job might be closer. For both his future roles, he's grateful for the things he's learning now.

"This is just so much fun," he said.

Red Cross Reaching Out to More House Fire Victims

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Only four months into the year, the Red Cross has already responded to as many families who have lost their homes to fires as they did throughout the entire of 2012.

So far in 2013, Hinton said, the Red Cross responded to 15 house fires. In 2012, the Red Cross responded to 17 total.

That’s not because there are more house fires. It’s because more people know to call the Red Cross when someone needs help.

Roger Hinton, Preparedness and Response Specialist with the South Central Idaho District of the American Red Cross of Greater Idaho, said his district has been aggressively attending local emergency planning committee meetings in each of the eight counties that it serves.

The Red Cross has tried to get the word out to the people who provide emergency services like fire chiefs, EMS and the Salvation Army.

In the past, Hinton said, many people didn’t know what services the Red Cross provides. Now, Hinton said, he encourages fire departments to call the Red Cross any time they have a residential fire.

“Every fire is wildly different,” Hinton said, and that means different outcomes for each family.

Whether someone is a renter, a homeowner, has insurance or has no insurance, the Red Cross will help, he said.

Typically, people are given a few nights in a hotel, clothing and groceries, but that varies depending on what the family really needs.

With people becoming more aware of what the Red Cross can do, Hinton said, funds are running a little low, locally.

“If you do the math, you’ll find we’re running pretty shy on things,” he said.

Protecting Your Home

Fire officials from around the Magic Valley say they haven’t seen an increase in fires in their areas. But as temperatures warm up and people start spring-cleaning and yard work, there are fire risks in those activities, said Twin Falls Fire Department Battalion Chief Brian Cunningham.

Permits are required for burning in the city limits and a way to extinguish the fire needs to be on hand, he said. Sometimes lawn care equipment can cause fires, and certain deck stains have the potential to combust if not disposed of properly, Cunningham said.

In Twin Falls, Cunningham said he hadn’t seen an increase in house fires this year.

Cunningham said people should remember to keep their smoke detectors maintained and change the batteries every six months.

Jerome Fire Department Chief Jack Krill said in the past, there was no requirement to put smoke detectors in bedrooms.

“The rule today is anywhere you sleep, you need a smoke detector in that room,” Krill said.

Commonly, when the department responds to fires, Krill said, residents have smoke detectors, but not enough of them.

In Shoshone, fire chief Casey Kelley, said there were no house fires in 2012. They’ve responded to one so far this year, a few miles north of Shoshone. Kelley said that fire burned so hot, he was unable to determine the cause of the fire.

“It was fully engulfed by the time we got there,” he said.

As the weather gets warmer, Kelley said residents should keep the outside of their homes free of weeds, and keep a healthy, green “defense zone” around their home so there’s less fuel for a wildfire to spread.

Fire Claims Six Tons of Hay Near Twin Falls

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • The Salmon Tract Rural Fire Department responded to a fire at around 6 p.m. Sunday in a hay field about six miles south of Twin Falls. There were no injuries.

It took eight firefighters two-and-a-half hours to put out the flames that consumed around six tons of hay and destroyed a hay grinder.

Salmon Tract Fire Chief Rod Davis said the blaze started at 2700 East and 2200 North, about eight miles southwest of Twin Falls. Davis said the large haystack and hay grinder were the only things destroyed.

“The fire didn’t spread further than the haystack,” Davis said. “The insurance may have a few questions. Right now it looks to be accidental, but we’re still investigating ... With mechanical equipment and hay, you can develop a spark. There are several scenarios that could’ve happened.”

Davis said hay fires aren’t unusual. He said there was a much larger fire that consumed a greater amount of hay which his crew responded to three years ago.

Church members huddle to pray after a service for the First Baptist Church in a field Sunday, four days after an explosion at a fertilizer plant in West, Texas. The church could not meet in their building because it was in a damage zone after a massive explosion at the West Fertilizer Co. Wednesday night that killed 14 people and injured more than 160.

Texas Town Tries to Heal After Explosion

Church holds Sunday service in hayfield.

WEST, Texas (AP) • On the first Sunday after a fertilizer plant explosion leveled part of a tiny Texas town, pastor John Crowder stood atop a long flatbed overlooking a hayfield and spoke to his congregation.

Crowder's First Baptist Church in West remains blocked off as investigators work on the scene of Wednesday's blast that killed at least 14 people and injured 200. So about 100 people sat in white folding chairs Sunday morning, while others carried their own.

"We have lost our friends and neighbors," Crowder told the audience. "We have lost the safety and comfort of our homes. But as scary as this is, we don't have to be afraid."

Authorities have not yet identified what caused the blast, which was so powerful it registered as a small earthquake. Assistant state fire marshal Kelly Kistner said the blast left "a large crater."

The explosion destroyed about 50 homes and severely damaged a nursing home and other buildings nearby. Kistner said all fires have been extinguished at the explosion scene and the remaining fertilizer tanks at West Fertilizer Co. are not a danger.

Some of the people who attended Sunday's outdoor service wore T-shirts calling on others to "pray for West."

"Every time I close my eyes, all I can think about is the explosion," said Edi Botello, a senior at West High School. "People running around. People evacuating. There was one point I couldn't even talk. I just stuttered."

The destruction was evident in a short visit to the area organized for reporters.

An apartment building just across the railroad tracks from the plant appeared to bear the brunt of the explosion, according to a pool report. The building's roof was collapsed, its windows were blown out and chunks of concrete from the plant littered the space between the tracks and the apartments.

"Several blocks we had projectiles or shrapnel that has been found of different sizes," Kistner said. "Smaller pieces have been found blocks away."

The wave radiating from the blast also hit the nursing home across the street from the apartments. There too, windows were blown out, ceiling tiles were visible throughout the rooms and the red brick exterior was cracked. At West Intermediate School, a northern wall was charred and the southern wall showed structural damage.

Crews from Union Pacific were repairing the railroad tracks, but reporters were kept from climbing the berm to see what was happening at the fertilizer plant. Above the berm, four heavily damaged metal structures were visible at the plant.

More than 60 people are working in the blast zone for the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives and the state fire marshal's office.

Kristner said officials have found the seat, or center, of the explosion, "which is important, because as we conduct our investigation we'll be working from an outer perimeter inward, from the least damaged to the greatest damage. So knowing the seat of that explosion is important."

Police: Brothers Planned More Attacks

Bombing suspect unable to communicate.

BOSTON (AP) • As churches paused to mourn the dead and console the survivors of the Boston Marathon bombing Sunday, the city's police commissioner said the two suspects had such a large cache of weapons that they were probably planning other attacks.

After the two brothers engaged in a gun battle with police early Friday, authorities surveying the scene of the shootout found it was loaded with unexploded homemade bombs. They also found more than 250 rounds of ammunition.

Police Commissioner Ed Davis said the stockpile was "as dangerous as it gets in urban policing."

"We have reason to believe, based upon the evidence that was found at that scene — the explosions, the explosive ordnance that was unexploded and the firepower that they had — that they were going to attack other individuals. That's my belief at this point," Davis told CBS's "Face the Nation."

On "Fox News Sunday," he said authorities cannot be positive there aren't more explosives that haven't been found. But the people of Boston are safe, he insisted.

The suspects are two ethnic Chechen brothers from southern Russia — 19-year-old Dzhokhar Tsarnaev and his 26-year-old brother, Tamerlan. Their motive remained unclear.

The older brother was killed during a getaway attempt. The younger from a tarp-covered boat in a suburban Boston backyard. Authorities would not comment on whether he had been questioned, but several officials have said Tsarnaev's injuries left him unable to communicate, at least for now. Media reports indicate he was suffering from a gunshot wound in his throat.

The federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives is tracing the weapons to try to determine how they were obtained by the suspects.

Tsarnaev could be charged as early as Sunday, although it was not clear what those charges would be. The twin bombings killed three people and wounded more than 180.

The most serious charge available to federal prosecutors would be the use of a weapon of mass destruction to kill people, which carries a possible death sentence. Massachusetts does not have the death penalty.

Across the rattled city, churches opened their doors to remember the dead and ease the grief of the living.

At the Cathedral of the Holy Cross in South Boston, photographs of the three people killed in the attack and an MIT police officer slain Thursday were displayed on the altar, the faces illuminated by glowing white pillar candles, one for each person lost.

Company Launches Rocket in Test

ATLANTIC, Va. • A company contracted by NASA to deliver supplies to the International Space Station has successfully launched a rocket in a test of its ability to send a cargo ship aloft.

The unmanned Antares rocket blasted off Sunday from Wallops Island on Virginia's Eastern Shore. About 10 minutes after the launch, Orbital Sciences Corp. of Dulles declared the test a success after observing a practice payload reach orbit and safely separate from the rocket.

The suburban Washington, D.C., company is aiming to launch a rocket carrying its Cygnus cargo ship aloft this summer to dock with the station. If successful, Orbital aims to make the first of eight contracted deliveries in the fall.

NASA is using two companies to deliver space station supplies after ending its shuttle program in 2011. California-based SpaceX completed its third trip to the International Space Station last month.

Rivers Crest, But More Rain Expected

CLARKSVILLE, Mo. • Those fighting floods in several communities along the Mississippi River were mostly successful Sunday despite the onslaught of water, but an ominous forecast and the growing accumulation of snow in the upper Midwest tempered any feelings of victory.

The surging Mississippi was at or near crest at several places from the Quad Cities south to near St. Louis — some reaching 10-12 feet above flood stage. Problems were plentiful: Hundreds of thousands of acres of swamped farmland as planting season approaches; three people died; roads and bridges closed, including sections of major highways like U.S. 61 in Iowa and Missouri and crossings at Quincy, Ill., and Louisiana, Mo.

The U.S. Coast Guard said 114 barges broke loose near St. Louis on Saturday night, and four hit the Jefferson Barracks Bridge in St. Louis County. The bridge was closed about six hours for inspection but reopened around 8 a.m. Sunday. Most of the runaway barges were corralled but at least 10 sank and two others were unaccounted for, Coast Guard Lt. Colin Fogarty said.

Band Member Charged in Fatal Crash

NASHVILLE, Tenn. • Bassist Robert Todd Harrell of the rock band 3 Doors Down has been charged with vehicular homicide by intoxication after an interstate crash claimed the life of another motorist in the Nashville area, police said.

The 41-year-old musician remained jailed early Sunday in connection with the fatal accident late Friday night on Interstate 40 that left 47-year-old Paul Howard Shoulders Jr. dead, the Metropolitan Nashville Police Department said.

A police statement said a preliminary investigation showed that Harrell was driving west at a high rate of speed in the Nashville suburb of Hermitage when his car clipped a pickup truck driven by Shoulders. Police said the pickup then went out of control, struck a guardrail, went down an embankment and overturned. Shoulders was ejected.

Authorities said Harrell's car hit a retaining wall and stopped about a quarter mile away.

Police said Harrell showed signs of impairment when he underwent field sobriety tasks, adding in their statement that "he acknowledged consuming hard cider and taking prescription Lortab" and Xanax.

MDs Warn Against Taking Cinnamon Challenge

CHICAGO (AP) • Don't take the cinnamon challenge. That's the advice from doctors in a new report about a dangerous prank depicted in popular YouTube videos but which has led to hospitalizations and a surge in calls to U.S. poison centers.

The fad involves daring someone to swallow a spoonful of ground cinnamon in 60 seconds without water. But the spice is caustic, and trying to gulp it down can cause choking, throat irritation, breathing trouble and even collapsed lungs, the report said.

Published online today in Pediatrics, the report said at least 30 teens nationwide needed medical attention after taking the challenge

COURTESY PHOTO

Dejah Reed, a Michigan teenager, was hospitalized for a collapsed lung after trying the cinnamon challenge.

The number of poison control center calls about teens doing the prank "has increased dramatically," from 51 in 2011 to 222 last year, according to the American Association of Poison Control Centers.

"People with asthma or other respiratory conditions are at greater risk of having this result in shortness of breath and trouble breathing," according to an alert posted on the association's website.

Thousands of YouTube videos depict kids attempting the challenge, resulting in an "orange burst of dragon breath" spewing out of their mouths and sometimes hysterical laughter from friends watching the stunt, said report co-author Dr. Steven E. Lipshultz, a pediatrics professor at the University of Miami Miller

School of Medicine.

Cinnamon is made from tree bark and contains cellulose fibers that don't easily break down. Animal research suggests that when cinnamon gets into the lungs, it can cause scarring, Lipshultz said.

An Ypsilanti, Mich., teen who was hospitalized for a collapsed lung after trying the cinnamon challenge heartily supports the new advice and started her own website — <http://nocinnamonchallenge.com> — telling teens to "just say no" to the fad.

Dejah Reed, 16, said she took the challenge four times — the final time was in February last year with a friend who didn't want to try it alone.

OPINION

West New York Mayor Felix Roque, after speaking briefly with a sister of Boston Marathon bombing suspects Tamerlan and Dzhokhar Tsarnaev.

2014 Idaho Election Could Be Big or Boring

One election cycle out of every three qualifies as a big campaign year for Idaho — highlighted by races for both governor and senator — and 2014 will be one of them.

Those aren’t the presidential election cycles. General election presidential campaigning in blood-red Idaho just doesn’t happen anymore, although it does see some occasional some pre-nomination stumping, which Idaho did get in 2012. And election of all the statewide state offices are on the off-cycles, the mid-terms, away from presidential years. But only some of those have elections for the U.S. Senate; 2010, 2004 and 2002 did, but 2006 and 2000 did not. 2014 will feature one of those double headers.

What happens if outsider activists, whether Tea Party-affiliated or otherwise, decide to crash the soiree and run against long-time insiders?

Last week, Senator Jim Risch said specifically he plans to run for re-election next year. Risch knows the value of early announcements; that’s part of how now-Governor C.L. “Butch” Otter got the jump on the Republican nomination for the office, despite initial interest from Risch, in 2006. By announcing early, odds are that Risch has cleared the field of serious opposition. If, say, Representative Raul Labrador had been interested, the time for a push would have been before a Risch announcement. Now the state’s Republican organizations and alliances will have time to coalesce around him, leaving few scraps for any in-party opposition.

It’s possible something similar may happen with Otter; he too has recently said more conclusively that yes, he plans to run for a third term (though his age and the question of what he would want to do with it remain). If he had any plans for opting out, he presumably would have moved to help better position Lieutenant Governor Brad Little for the job.

The closest thing to a wild card among major offices seems to be Superintendent of Public Instruction, mainly because incumbent Tom Luna endured a big crashing ballot issue defeat last year on school overhaul, the centerpiece of his two terms in office.

But here’s the asterisk: What happens if outsider activists, whether Tea Party-affiliated or otherwise, decide to crash the soiree and run against long-time insiders?

They may have some motivation. Risch and Otter both have been in Idaho politics a very long time; each was first sworn into an elective office more than 40 years ago. They have had two of the longest and most successful political careers in Idaho history. But exactly that could be an irritant to people agitated at the idea of business as usual. Age could be symbolic: Completing a second term in the Senate, Risch would be 77; completing his third as governor, Otter would be 76.

That’s the question as we approach the enter-or-not phase of this term’s campaign cycle.

Farmers Among Those Being Destroyed by Obama

Barry Soetero, stage name Barak Hussein Obama, is doing to America what he did to Chicago, which is broke and deeply indebted with unfunded pensions. Instead of being a safe city, it is the murder capital where 506 people, including children, were murdered last year.

Future Farmers of America, who he put in debt, were just here for a convention. In winter storms, heat waves and in all kinds of weather, they feed their animals seven days a week, including Christmas and other holidays. Farm parents who don’t have a son have their girls drive tractors and do all the work men do.

A lifetime of work ahead where some farmers never take a vacation and the only time they take a day off is when they are on their death bed.

Recently, more people went on disability than jobs were created. Obama has taxpayers paying people to recruit people to get food stamps. With more people depending on him, he keeps his power over our farm kids and the workers he won’t let build the pipeline.

We Voted No, Hansen Schools Should Let It Go

How many times do we say no?

I am a resident of the city of Hansen. I’m upset that the school can’t let it go; we voted “no.” So I guess it will be like the last time — vote three times until people get tired of voting and it passes.

We can’t afford another two years of paying for other people’s children to go to school. We paid for our one child. Idaho should be like the East Coast. If you don’t have kids in school, you don’t pay taxes to schools.

Why can’t they take the taxes that go to the College of Southern Idaho and use them for public schools?

Taxes went up this year. With so many people struggling just to pay bills and feed families, where does extra money come from?

My property tax is in my payment, so the last bond upped my payment $100. I can’t afford this again for two more years.

Park the buses and let the kids who live in town walk. It’s not likes it’s a 3-mile walk. Look at the fuel saved.

Feed Your Children Real Yogurt with Active Cultures

I would like to educate the public about soft frozen yogurt, since it is a very popular treat.

I do not want or mean to degrade any business; that is not my intent. But the facts are the facts.

First, using a dry candy powder mixed with milk doesn’t constitute yogurt. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture’s specifications for yogurt, nonfat yogurt and low-fat yogurt, they have to have “live” and “active” cultures.

The National Yogurt Association is seeking a ruling from the Food and Drug Administration that requires all products labeled as “yogurt” to contain a “minimum” level of 10 million cultures per gram of the live and active cultures that gives yogurt its healthy properties.

You 20- to 30-year-old moms and dads, be aware what your children eat. Your yogurt treat should contain 100 to 200 million cultures per gram of beneficial live and active yogurt cultures.

The National Yogurt Association requires 10 million cultures per gram of live and active yogurt cultures to qualify for its seal program. Yogurt shops will proudly display the Live and Active Cultures seal in their places of business if they have real yogurt.

Go to www.aboutyogurt.com and www.yocream.com for more information on the health benefits of real yogurt.

God Provides Us Hope When We Are Surrounded by Death

One exception: Bombs in Boston, schoolchildren killing spree in Newtown, moviegoer murders in Aurora and 911 — nothing short of horrific, heinous and evil.

Life is certainly precious. We ask, “Where was God?” or “How can a loving God allow suffering?” In essence, “Was this God’s will?” No! It wasn’t! No sin is ever God’s will. His heart’s nature and character oppose him to sin. With one exception, no death is ever God’s will. Again, his heart’s nature and character oppose him to death. Sin and death are indicative of a will opposed to the nature and character of God’s heart. That will being the God-given freewill of man, which God won’t violate.

From the beginning, God has always offered only life. Death isn’t his work. There is still life, therefore hope. Which begs the question, “How can we look around us and say there is hope?” As long as there is a hopeless people who desire hope and a God of life and love who offers it, we then have hope. Otherwise, we have ourselves who brought about our own hopelessness.

Man will be man. God remains God. I don’t have him figured out. Nor does Billy Graham, Joel Olstein, Rick Warren, Muhammad or the Pope. He has us figured out, though. If man doesn’t have God, then man only has, well, man.

In November, my 17-year-old daughter, Hannah, died in a horrific car accident. As I said, with one exception death is never God’s will. That one exception wasn’t my only daughter. It was his only son. How is that hope? Hannah didn’t rise from the dead. His son did! For what other reason would I call a man my hope unless that man overcame death and offered his life? One exception — one hope.

"I was laughing very hard and I coughed it out and I inhaled it into my lungs," she said. "I couldn't breathe."

Her father, Fred Reed, said he arrived home soon after to find Dejah "a pale bluish color. It was very terrifying. I threw her over my shoulder" and drove to a nearby emergency room.

Dejah was hospitalized for four days and went home with an inhaler and said she still has to use it when she gets short of breath from running or talking too fast. Her dad said she'd never had asthma or breathing problems before.

Dejah said she'd read about the challenge on Facebook and other social networking sites and "thought it would be cool" to try.

Now she knows "it's not cool and it's dangerous."

RODEO

Bennett and McReynolds Hold Lead in District V

BY DIANE PHILBIN
For the Times-News

GOODING • It was just a typical outside rodeo in Idaho with the wind blowing so hard a rope tossed to the right of a steer might be lucky to only catch the left horn of the animal but the effort given by all the cowboys and cowgirls of the District V never lacked try.

The top cowgirl in the district in the overall standings and the leader in goats, Caldwell senior Kortney McReynolds, is a new face in the district. She makes the drive from Caldwell for each District V rodeo location and competes for Gooding.

"I blew my ACL a year ago December playing basketball," said McReynolds. "And I needed at least 12 months to get better. The District II has fall rodeo, and it was just too soon for me to participate."

The Caldwell cowgirl is in five events and says goat tying is still her favorite despite the fact that it was her left knee that was injured. Last weekend in Glens Ferry, she competed in goats for the first time after previously only doing ground work. The injury didn't appear to slow her down as she finished second on Friday and recording a win on Saturday.

"That's the leg I step off on — it's mental and I try not to think about it, but each time makes it easier," she said. "It has been a long road back and it hasn't come easy. I love goats because it doesn't come down to how much your horse is worth or how fast he is but it's all on me."

Adding to the first weekend of rodeo, McReynolds was using a different four-legged partner in barrels.

"It was a crazy week," said McReynolds. "My barrel horse was hurt, so I was riding a different horse named Dash. He's real fast but I didn't have a lot of trust in him. But it is working out so far and I am building more confidence in him."

McReynolds strengthened her position, gaining 52 points in Gooding with a win and eighth in goats, a second and third in poles, a fifth in breakaway and a second and eighth in barrels.

After a pair of firsts in steer wrestling and a second in team roping with Gooding teammate Wyatt Williams a week ago, Brogan Bennett came home finding himself sitting at the top of the boys overall standings and leading the steer wrestling. Bennett added 31 points in Gooding with a pair of seconds in team roping, a fourth and fifth in calf roping and a second in steer wrestling maintaining his position.

Being off to a good start in steer wrestling, Bennett makes the key to the event sound simple.

"You have to see the steer and get down on it," says Bennett who competes in the event in pro-am rodeos. "The steers we have are all good, and I wouldn't mind having any of them. I just keep working at it and I'm getting better."

Pierre Rolls to First Win

LINDA BRITTSAN • FOR THE TIMES-NEWS

Johnny Pierre poses for his first Victory Lane photo at Magic Valley Speedway after capturing the main event win for the ASA Inter-mountain Pro Trucks Series Saturday night.

Driver claims first win at hometown track.

BY LINDA BRITTSAN
For the Times-News

It may have been a bit on the cool side Saturday night, but it didn't take long for Johnny Pierre to heat things up at Magic Valley Speedway.

Early on, the American Speed Association Inter-mountain Pro Truck driver was the top qualifier of the night after posting a time of 16.186 seconds to the top of the scoreboard. Later he would finish second behind Doug Dugger in the heat race.

For the main, Pierre lined up at the rear of the field of 12 competitors. Just after lap four was completed, the No. 77 truck driven by Travis Monett got loose while fighting for the lead with Drew Reitsma. After the dust settled, Monett and Alan Larson had serious damage to their rides and would spend the rest of the evening in the pits.

Scott Luttmr, 2012 champion in the series, suffered damage to the No. 9 truck but was able to continue in the 50-lap event.

Jerry Rice was the race leader for the next dozen laps but when Reitsma and Jesse Anderson got together in turn four, Rice was also involved and would have to give up the lead to change a flattened right rear tire.

Pierre, who had the good fortune to only be a spectator of all the mayhem, soon took over the front-runner position for the remainder of the event.

Hannah Newhouse ran second until a rebounding Scott Luttmr took over the position with 12 laps to go.

"I saw Scott creeping up on me so I picked it up a little bit towards the end," Pierre later said.

The decisive win was Pierre's first at his hometown track.

"It was ugly out there at first and I was close to every one of those wrecks, but I was able to avoid them all. It ended up being a really good day for us; we'll remember this one for awhile."

Rice summed up his fourth-place finish as "disappointing."

"After we put the tire on, we had the wrong stagger. Up until then, we were good. But you can't win them all."

In NASCAR Whelen Weekly Racing Series action, it was a good night for much of the Pehrson clan.

Dan Pehrson took over the lead at lap three of the Super Stocks main to eventually take the win, crossing the finish line just ahead of runner-up Norm Hatke.

Several cautions marred the competition. The No. 23 car of Daniel Shirley had to exit to the pits at lap three, but Shirley drove his way back up to second late in the race. A restart with two laps remaining in the 30-lap event saw Shirley get loose on the front stretch, resulting in a fifth place finish for the night.

Pehrson's son, Carey Pehrson, had a somewhat rough start of the season, finishing six in the field of seven starters in the event.

For Dan Pehrson's other son, Mitchell Pehrson, the outcome was much more favorable.

Driving the No. 18 car in the Street Stocks division, Mitchell Pehrson held the lead from the drop of the green flag. Pehrson's toughest competition came from Joshua Hunt, who pursued him for much of the 30-lap main, but Hunt could not find his way around the leader.

Jay McDonald spun out at lap 26, striking the infield wall, setting up the only caution of the event.

In other action, Eddy Cole took the lead from Brandon Greco at lap

11 to capture the first Hornets main event race of the season and Jr. Stingers driver Hailey Douglas wrangled the front position away from Justice Coates for the win in their 20-lap main.

The White Lightning car was the winner of the Thunderdogs fight.

Today is Monday, April 22, the 112th day of 2013. There are 253 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:

On April 22, 1993, the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum was dedicated in Washington, D.C. to honor victims of Nazi extermination.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:

In 1864, Congress authorized the use of the phrase "In God We Trust" on U.S. coins.

In 1889, the Oklahoma Land Rush began at noon as thousands of homesteaders staked claims.

In 1912, the United States Chamber of Commerce had its beginnings with a National Commercial Conference held in Washington, D.C.

In 1930, the United States, Britain and Japan signed the London Naval Treaty, which regulated submarine warfare and limited shipbuilding.

In 1938, 45 workers were killed in a coal mine explosion at Keen Mountain in Buchanan County, Va.

In 1944, during World War II, U.S. forces began invading Japanese-held New Guinea with amphibious landings at Hollandia and Aitape.

In 1952, an atomic test in Nevada became the first nuclear explosion shown on live network television as a 31-kiloton bomb was dropped from a B-50 Superfortress.

In 1963, Lester B. Pearson took office as Canada's 14th prime minister.

In 1970, millions of Americans concerned about the environment observed the first "Earth Day."

In 1983, the West German news magazine Stern announced the discovery of 60 volumes of personal diaries purportedly written by Adolf Hitler; however, the diaries turned out to be a hoax.

In 1994, Richard M. Nixon, the 37th president of the United States, died at a New York hospital four days after suffering a stroke; he was 81.

In 1997, in Peru, government commandos stormed the Japanese ambassador's residence, ending a 126-day hostage crisis; all 14 Tupac Amaru rebels were killed, all 72 hostages were rescued (one died later of gunshot wounds).

Ten years ago: President George W. Bush announced he would nominate Alan Greenspan for a fifth term as Federal Reserve chairman. Songwriter Felice Bryant, who with her late husband, Boudleaux, wrote "Bye Bye Love" and other Everly Brothers hits, died in Gatlinburg, Tenn., at age 77.

Five years ago: Hillary Rodham Clinton won the Pennsylvania Democratic primary, defeating Barack Obama and keeping her presidential hopes alive. At the close of a two-day North American summit in New Orleans, President George W. Bush chastised U.S. lawmakers for letting international trade deals falter and criticized Democratic presidential contenders for wanting to scrap or amend the vast North American free-trade zone. Singer-songwriter Paul Davis died in Meridian, Miss., a day after turning 60.

One year ago: George Zimmerman was quietly released from a Florida jail on $150,000 bail to await his second-degree murder trial in the fatal shooting of unarmed teen Trayvon Martin. The U.S. and Afghanistan reached a deal on a strategic partnership agreement ensuring that Americans would provide military and financial support to the Afghan people for at least a decade beyond 2014, the deadline for most foreign forces to withdraw. In the first round of the French presidential election, Socialist Francois Hollande narrowly edged conservative incumbent Nicolas Sarkozy, sending the candidates to a May 6 runoff, which Hollande won.

DEAR ABBY: My 14-year-old son, “Nils,” recently joined a sport he really enjoys. His stepdad and I are at every practice, helping the coaches and coaching my son along.

DEAR ABBY Jeanne Phillips

Nils recently commented to me that he would like it if his father could come and see him practice. I took it upon myself, as I usually do, to call my ex, “John,” and suggest he make an appearance because it would make our son happy. My husband, who has been a wonderful stepdad to Nils for 13 years now, told me I should leave it alone. He said if John was a “real” father, he would just show up without being asked.

When things like this happen, should I leave it alone, or should I ask John to be involved more than he tries to be? I tell my ex about all of our son’s activities and sometimes he just doesn’t show.

— TRYING TO BE A GOOD MOM

DEAR TRYING: Not knowing your former husband, I can’t guess his reason for not coming to your son’s practices, particularly if he said he was going to attend. John may be irresponsible, or he may have unforeseen scheduling conflicts. By telling him about your son’s activities and letting him know his presence is wanted, you have done your job as a conscientious mother. At 14, Nils is old enough to also call his father and invite him. The rest is up to your ex.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to the letter from the man who was constantly setting off “gaydar” alarms in females (March 10), I would like to share my experience.

I dated and then married a man who incorrectly set off MY “gaydar.” It had nothing to do with his mannerisms, his speech or appearance. It was his extreme personal insecurity regarding dating and making friends. In addition, “Mr. Not-Gay” could neither read nor write, which caused even more emotional insecurity.

After we had been married 10 years he became physically disabled and we had to move. No one in our new city took him for gay, even without me and without a wedding ring on him. He divorced me at 62 because the 30-something home-care aides looked better, but that’s another story.

— MARCIA IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR MARCIA: I hope you will write again and tell us the rest of the story, as I’m sure I’m not the only person who would be interested in reading it. I agree that individuals who are uncomfortable with themselves sometimes emit vibes that make others uncomfortable because I have experienced it. But this subject does highlight the absurdity of gay stereotypes. Because a man is slight, soft-spoken and a meticulous dresser does not mean he is gay, any more than it means a man who is fat, sloppy and loud is straight.

DEAR ABBY: I have been seeing “Duane” for two months. He’s kind, good-looking, successful, smart and fun. He’s also apparently quite proud of his astonishingly hairy chest because he always wears his shirts unbuttoned nearly to his navel. When we’re in public, you can see people react. Sometimes they point and whisper. I gently raised the issue, but he didn’t seem to think it was a big deal. I like him, but I’m embarrassed sometimes. Any thoughts?

— BLUSHING IN SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR BLUSHING: Yes. Your friend is suffering from overexposure. When strangers point and whisper, what they’re saying is usually no compliment. Because Duane’s decolletage embarrasses you, give him a choice: Button up or mow the “lawn.”

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

“Anyone who uses the phrase ‘As easy as taking candy from a baby’ has never tried taking candy from a baby.”

— Anon.

Today’s contract of four hearts from the 2008 Yeh Tournament proved troublesome everywhere. Eric Kokish received a spade lead to the ace and a club shift. Kokish decided it was not yet Christmas. He rose with the ace and impressed his partner with the result. When trumps were 3-3, he had 620 and a 14-IMP gain when, in the other room, North-South overreached to five hearts and went down 300.

By contrast, when Eddy Manoppo played four hearts, he received a spade lead and spade continuation. He discarded a diamond, and Doron Yadlin won and played a third spade. With the lead in dummy, Manoppo was not prepared to look this particular gift horse in the mouth. He finessed in clubs and finished up if not wiser, at least better informed. That same successful defense was found by Prabhakar-Tendari against John Carroll.

Curiously, had the defenders shifted to diamonds at trick three, declarer would have put in the jack and ruffed away the ace, then played three rounds of trump. Now the defenders would legitimately have had to give dummy an entry, and South would have had no reason to be suspicious.

The happiest declarer at the end of the deal was undoubtedly Hiroki Yokoi. As South, he ended up in three no trump doubled after Geir Helgemo as East had opened one club. The defenders cleared spades, leaving declarer with only one possible winning club position, the singleton king offside. Today was his lucky day!

ANSWER: My philosophy on blind leads against no-trump is to lead from length of more than five cards, but only lead from four-card suits if they look safe – or nothing else is attractive. Here a heart lead is plausible (I’d lead the seven rather than the three or five), but I might lead from Q-10-7-2 if that were a major rather than a minor.

IF APRIL 22 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: For the next several weeks, your life may revolve around ambitions. Your competitive nature, however, could egg you on into making premature business decisions. Wait until late July or early August to initiate business maneuvers or career changes, as you will be wiser and have more support from well-wishers. Any opportunity or offer that comes your way at that time may be of lasting benefit. In August and September, becoming a member of a group or club could widen your horizons and it is entirely possible to meet a lifelong friend.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): If you find peace and quiet, you can develop creative ideas. Authority figures, however, might seem to be sticklers for perfection, so be sure to put your job first and maintain a businesslike demeanor.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Apply brainpower as well as willpower. Nothing is impossible unless you have only been concentrating on the reasons why you can't do something. Consider the ways and means to make it happen.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Back up your words with deeds to ensure that all your plans go through perfectly. Listen to the wishes of others. Lightning-fast reflexes and technological know-how make you the "go to" person.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): What you need is what you get. It is quite possible that a timely solution to a nagging problem will show up on your doorstep. You simply need to remain alert for its arrival and open the door.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Wait up. You might need to slow down so that someone can catch up with your fast-moving plans. There is no reason to abandon a project or give up on an idea if someone else is not quite up to speed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Go fly a kite. Ben Franklin tried it and went down in the history books. A good idea or creative thinking could have value. You may be able to take advantage of a brilliant change of perspective.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Turn a pipe dream into something rock solid. A relationship can be mended when you reach an understanding. Time spent with a loved one puts the roses back in your cheeks.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Give yourself a little credit. To the world, you may be one person; but to one person, you may be the world. The desire to do great things can fill your heart; make progress over the long term.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Knock, knock. Who's there? You will find excitement or popularity on your own doorstep or in your own neighborhood. People rely upon you and your word, so take care that you don't disappoint them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your talents are in demand, so you might find some tasks become more demanding as time goes by. Put others first — even if it seems your efforts are unappreciated or it is difficult to break the ice.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your greatest dreams can become reality if you meet with the right people. Partners and companions might offer some highly imaginative schemes that have every chance of becoming reality.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Free your imagination and the creative juices will flow. Keep a pen or pencil handy to jot down notes. A kindhearted pleasantry or a passing comment could contain seeds that sprout into fabulous success.
