Trial Delayed in Restaurant Stabbing Case

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • The trial for a man accused of stabbing another man to death last October has been delayed again.

Cayde Lish sighed and shook his head Monday morning in Twin Falls County Fifth District Court as District Judge Richard Bevan suggested scheduling Lish’s voluntary manslaughter trial for mid-August.

Lish’s attorney, Keith Roark, and Ada County prosecutors George Gunn and Kai Wittwer all spoke at the hearing via phone.

Lish was charged with voluntary manslaughter for the death of 24-year-old Jeremiah Paiz. Police say Lish stabbed Paiz following a verbal altercation outside Canyon Crest Dining and Event Center on Oct. 6, 2012.

The trial had been scheduled to begin May 13.

Bevan said Monday he wanted to get a firm date for the trial that wouldn’t need to be moved again.

So why the delay? Roark said he is scheduled to be in a murder trial in Ada

Portions of New Spillway Now Bearing Load

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

RUPERT • Twelve newly constructed gated spillway structures are now holding water back at the Minidoka Dam.

The structures passed first-fill tests this month, performing as expected under stress.

A $21.3 million renovation of the dam’s spillway, which lies 18 miles northeast of Rupert, will be complete in March 2015.

Funding came from the Burley and Minidoka irrigation districts’ water users. Both companies passed bond issue elections in February 2010.

“This spring we went into what’s called the first fill,” said Jerry Cheek, supervisory civil engineer manager for the Bureau of Reclamation’s Upper Snake Field office in Burley. “That is the first time you bring water against the structures and put hydraulic loading against them.”

During the first-fill process, pressure is eased against the structures with a team of specialists standing by to monitor its performance, Cheek said.

“No movement occurred whatsoever and no seepage,” he said. “It went very well, and we made it up to normal water elevations,” he said.

Opposition to Proposed Gateway West Route Continues

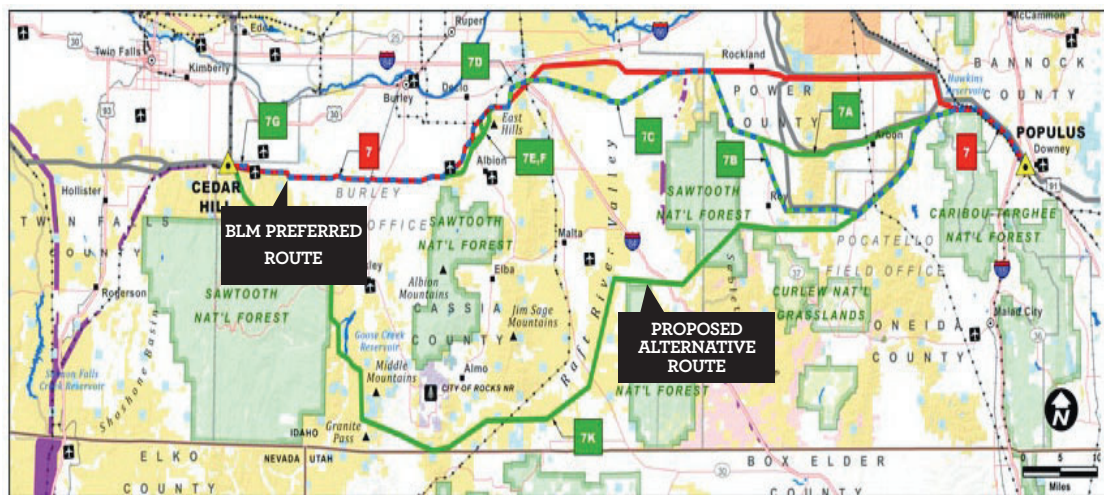

As controversy continues in portions of Idaho, BLM considers phasing in segment of transmission line route.

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • With controversy still swirling around certain sections of the Gateway West Transmission Line project, a federal agency is considering approving the route in phases rather than all at once.

The announcement is part of the U.S. Bureau of Land Management’s recent release of its final review of the transmission project. Also included in the plan is analysis of the project’s effects and proposed routes.

After spending years preparing the final plan, this is the first time the BLM announced it would consider phasing approval of the routes.

The 1,100-mile project is being backed by Idaho Power Co. and Rocky Mountain Power. Once completed, the transmission line would upgrade electric transmission capabilities for southern Idaho and southern Wyoming.

The agency is considering the new option because it wants to have more agreement in areas where local landowners and officials have repeatedly contested the proposed routes, said Walt George, project manager.

“The goal is to find the broadest sense of consensus,” George said. “While the line of consensus is subjective ... what we would like to do is find a reasonable amount of consensus in each location.”

However, due to the large amount of the route cutting through private land, most of the controversy over the transmission route remains in Idaho, George said.

Unlike in Idaho, the Gateway West route would go through mostly rangeland in Wyoming and follow the Pacific Railroad, he

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

S&P 500 Reaches New High, Led by Tech

NEW YORK (AP) • Technology companies led the Standard & Poor's 500 index to an all-time closing high Monday.

The stock market has recovered all the ground it lost over the previous two weeks, when worries over slower economic growth, falling commodity prices and disappointing quarterly earnings battered financial markets.

The S&P 500 index rose 11.37 points to close at 1,593.61. The 0.7 percent increase nudged the index above its previous closing high of 1,593.36, reached on April 11.

Local Weather Records Date Back to 1905

How long have the temperature/weather records been kept? Who takes them? Where are they recorded?

“Here in Twin, our records are a conglomerate of various locations going back to as early as 1905,” said Brian Neudorff, chief meteorologist for Neuhoﬀ Media. “Over the years, some of these reporting stations have stopped or been moved, as is the case for the current numbers that are now being observed at the airport. That has been active since 1963,” Neudorff said.

Past weather information can be found through National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration’s National Weather Service Cooperative Observer Program. It can also be found at the National Weather Service Forecast Office in Boise.

Most measuring locations have automatic stations, called Automated Surface Observing Systems, keeping track of conditions each hour, Neudorff said.

The airport automatically records the high temperature, the low temperature, wind speed, cloud conditions, pressure and the current weather each hour. The information is sent to the NWS where they record it, Neudorff said. “They put out a daily climate report once a day, and they also do monthly climate summaries.”

He said KMTV has kept record since 1980.

“Jerome records go back to 1919 and Burley records go back to 1948,” he said.

Turning Colder, Wind Continues

Thanks to a cold front that moved through on Monday, we are going to have a 20-25-degree drop in temperatures from what we had over the weekend. Saturday’s temperatures were wonderful and reached the upper 70s. While a little cooler Sunday, it was nice with temperatures in the low 70s. Monday’s highs managed to get into the mid- to upper 60s. Unfortunately for today, temperatures will only be in the 50s, and some places may not get out of the 40s.

Winds will be strong today. Gusts could reach 25-35 mph. Unlike Monday where winds were out of the west, we will have winds out of the northwest. This will make for a blustery day, and we will also have to watch for some blowing dust causing visibility issues on roads and highways during the day.

Wednesday through Friday will feature warming temperatures, less wind and sunny skies. It will remain cooler than average on Wednesday with highs in the mid- to upper 50s. By Thursday temperatures will be back into the upper 60s to low 70s with low 70s by Friday.

Brian Neudorff is the chief meteorologist on KMTV-TV and KTWT FOX 14. You can reach him by email at BrianNeudorff@neuhoﬀmedia.com or call 208.733.1100 x3047.

Section of Madrona to Be Closed for Utility Repair

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • The city of Twin Falls will close the southbound lane on Madrona Street at the intersection of Third Ave. East on Wednesday, May 1 to repair a deteriorating manhole.

The lane closure is expected to begin at 8:30 a.m. and will be reopened by 6 p.m. the same day.

Commuters should expect delays. Through-traffic should use Locust Street or another alternative to avoid congestion on Madrona Street.

ONLINE: Good Ol’ Boys Club? Not so Much

Crime reporter Alison Gene Smith’s blog, dubbed “Scanner Traffic,” gives you a behind-the-scenes look at her beat. Here’s an excerpt from her Monday post:

“When a sheriff’s deputy gets in trouble with the law, he or she is treated the same as anyone else. That’s the message that Twin Falls County Sheriff’s Chief Deputy Don Newman and the office’s spokeswoman, Lori Stewart, wanted me to understand.

“I met with the two today to talk about some of the sheriff’s office’s policies. Stewart invited me to come talk about the policies in response to allegations against a sheriff’s deputy who is charged with domestic abuse.

“Both Stewart and Newman said they know many people see the sheriff’s office as a ‘good ol’ boys club,’ but said nothing is further than the truth when it comes to employee discipline.

“If deputies are dispatched to another deputy’s house, Newman said, they treat it like any other call. If evidence of a crime is found, Newman said, deputies call another agency to begin an investigation. ...

“In any case, from a traffic accident to something more serious, Newman said, the sheriff’s office tries to be as transparent as possible.

“‘Because of the public perception that cops will cover for cops,’ he said. ‘That’s not the case.’ ...”

Oct. 6, 1926-April 27, 2013

BURLEY • Harry LeRoy Knopp, 86, of Burley, passed away Saturday, April 27, 2013, at the Portneuf Medical Center in Pocatello.

Harry was born Oct. 6, 1926, in Burley, Idaho, the son of Adolph and Amelia "Molly" Weber Knopp. He received his education in Springdale and Burley. He was a veteran of World War II, having honorably served our country in the United States Army. He married the love of his life and best friend, Nelda Kay Carson, on May 3, 1958, in Burley and together, they raised six children. During his younger years, Harry enjoyed playing softball. He later took up bowling and loved to go camping and fishing with his family — especially the yearly vacations to Red Fish Lake. Eva Marie Johnson

Feb. 10, 1923-April 21, 2013

GLENDALÉ, Ariz. • Eva Marie Johnson passed away peacefully Sunday, April 21, 2013, in Glendale, Ariz.

Eva Marie was born Feb. 10, 1923, to parents Barnett and Marie Johnson on the family homestead at Heglar, Idaho, the fifth of nine children. Her early childhood was spent helping on the ranch, where she enjoyed riding horseback both for recreation and as a means of transportation to a one-room schoolhouse. Attending high school required moving to Burley, Idaho, and working for room and board. While there, she became involved in the Christian Church and Christian Endeavor. Eva Marie graduated from Northwest Christian College with a bachelor in theology and also from the University of Oregon with a bachelor of arts. She received two master's degrees from the University of Indiana and completed post-graduate studies at both Yale and Princeton.

In 1949, Eva Marie returned to Burley to be ordained as a minister of the Disciples of Christ Christian Church before leaving on her first mission assignment to the Belgian Congo, Africa. She served in Africa for three years, followed by mission work in Paraguay and Costa Rica. Eva Marie's next service work was as hospital administrator at the newly constructed Hope Hospital in Aguascalientes, Mexico, where she remained for 28 years.

Throughout her career, Eva Marie was always very interested in languages and taught English in various locations in Mexico. Returning to the United States, Eva Marie began teaching speech, English and Bible studies at the Presbyterian Pan American School in Kingsville, Texas, in 1991. Eva Marie's life's work was dedicated to the furtherance of the gospel of Jesus Christ. She retired in the San Diego, Calif., area and then eventually to Glendale, Ariz.

Eva Marie was preceded in death by all her siblings with the exception of one sister and is survived by several in-laws, nieces and nephews and grandnieces and grandnephews.

At her request, no formal memorial will be held but a time of remembrance to honor her life will be scheduled on a future date at the Larkspur Christian Church, where she has been active for the last several years.

Memorial contributions may be made to Larkspur Christian Church, 3302 W. Larkspur Drive, Phoenix, AZ 85029-2241.

URA Reaching Out to Twin Falls Businesses

The URA's projected 60-acre revenue allocation area expansion from Old Towne into downtown is expected to start as soon as the end of summer.

BY JOE CADOTTE
jcadotte@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • The Twin Falls Urban Renewal Agency is using feedback from downtown business owners to help plan the agency's projected revenue allocation expansion into downtown.

For nearly two hours last week, the URA and city leaders sat down with downtown business owners to find out what they want changed downtown.

Ideas were plentiful.

Less than a half hour into the public input meeting, Ye Old Stamp and Coin Shop Owner Paul Fisher made an entrance into the city council chambers. Nearly all of the 27 participants turned their heads to give Fisher their full attention. There's not much he can do to stop people from tripping on an upheaval in the sidewalk in front of his store, Fisher said.

"There are so many vacant spaces down on Main Street," Fisher said. "There's something that has to be done to attract people into downtown."

City Economic Development Director Melinda Anderson was quick to respond.

"Absolutely," Anderson said. "The things that the (URA) can do to help private property owners invest in their buildings is to help with getting new water and sewer that needs to go in and help with curb, gutter and sidewalks. New landscaping, fix the streets and create parking if necessary; look at open spaces."

Anderson explained that once they expand their Old Towne revenue allocation area into downtown, they'd have nine years to spend the property taxes.

Ooh La La! boutique Owner Liyah Babayan said infrastructure work on Main Street is urgent.

"We've got nine years to pretty much bring that area up to, not only be pleasing to the eye, but also a sense of safety and a sense of infrastructure that will, after those nine years, be able to accommodate the population that is living here.

...There is danger in neglecting blocks targeted in this new area, such as depreciating value to buildings, deterioration to buildings, businesses uprooting and leaving because nobody wants to linger in an area that is slowly becoming a ghetto.

"It's almost borderline embarrassing to a business owner," Babayan said.

Anderson led Babayan's concerns into the next phase of the meeting: Assembling teams to brainstorm ideas. After each team pitched their part, a list of suggestions were compiled and reviewed at the end of the meeting.

There were dozens of suggestions including: Closing Main Street to traffic and making it accessible only to pedestrians; building a bike trail from downtown to the canyon; building a parking garage; and installing public restrooms.

The URA has not narrowed all the suggestions in a concrete action plan. This week, the agency will hold a closed-door executive meeting to vote on what public suggestions it will pursue.

"There are so many vacant spaces down on Main Street. There's something that has to be done to attract people into downtown."

Global Appetites Drive Magic Valley Dairies

ASHLEY SMITH • TIMES-NEWS

Esteban Munoz works in the milk parlor at Mid-Valley Dairy on Wednesday, June 27, 2012, south of Buhl.

Another Record Breaking Year Expected for Magic Valley Dairies, driven by factors in Asia, Europe and New Zealand.

BY JOE CADOTTE
jcadotte@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A growing Chinese economy, drought conditions in New Zealand and "ho hum" dairy production in Europe are expected to drive international demand for Idaho dairy to an all-time high.

Price jumps for milk products are good news for dairymen in the Magic Valley, said WOW Logistics Account Manager Mark Lopshire.

"Anybody in the cheese industry is just going, 'Yoo-hoo!'" Lopshire said, "especially milk producers here, because milk has been depressed for the last couple of years. This is a good time to be in the cheese industry in southern Idaho."

"Right now, we're seeing cheese just continue to ramp up. Prices for cheese are crazy out there. They've gone from $1.60 per pound to almost $1.85 per pound in just the last couple of months."

Much of the excess dairy in the Magic Valley is stored at the WOW warehouse in Jerome, so Lopshire sees first hand the changes in demand for dry milk powder and cheese.

"Six months ago, everybody was sitting on their cheese and their dry products were bursting at the seams," Lopshire said. "Now it's starting to pick up and we see product going out. Markets are changing, the price on whey, nonfat dried milk and cheese especially are going up."

According to a report from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, China's growing economy is driving demand for milk products. China's import of milk powder, for example, increased from 100,000 metric tons in 2008 to more than 500,000 metric tons in 2012. The USDA expects demand for dry milk in China to surpass 600,000 metric tons by the end of this year.

Drought A World Away

Although recent rainfall has possibly put a stop to New Zealand's worst drought in 30 years, the dry spell did considerable damage to the country's dairy supply.

New Zealand is one of the world's largest dairy producers, said Dave Kurzawski, dairy analyst for FC Stone in Chicago. While New Zealand struggles to get back on its feet, the United States is taking up the slack on the international market, picking up business from countries like China.

"This is a good time to be in the cheese industry in southern Idaho."

WOW Logistics Account Manager Mark Lopshire

"It was a confluence of events both weather related in New Zealand but also demand related for things like infant formula," Kurzawski said. "European milk production was ho hum at best. Really the U.S. became the balancing point for really the last six weeks and, frankly, I think it will be the case for the next few months."

"We're not over with that yet but the initial ramp up, the initial perceived worries — reaction to drought, reaction to better than expected demand out of Asia — basically turned us into the balancing point for the world."

Rising Prices May Not Mean Rising Profits

Kurzawski, who helps Magic Valley dairy producers hedge volatility in the market, said the drought hasn't been the main concern of Idaho dairymen. Profits are at the forefront of their worries, Kurzawski said, and rising feed prices may bolster the benefits of international demand.

"That's the immediate concern with these guys," Kurzawski said. "They want to know what's going on in the market, but they really want to tell you what's going down in Twin Falls, Jerome, Burley and Nampa because there seems to be a lot of problems with producers up in that area."

"I don't think that's always going to be the case, but I think that's been a real struggle for a lot of guys and I don't think that's over yet."

Independent Milk Producers Manager Rick Naerebout of Twin Falls said despite what happens overseas, this year's profits will depend on the success of corn farms. Naerebout said the Environmental Protection Agency's ethanol mandate has driven the price of corn to $7 per bushel, straining dairymen who rely on the crop to feed their cows.

"A lot of our struggle since 2009 is the fact that feed prices are extremely high," Naerebout said. "It really puts a squeeze on margins ... It's a really tough issue for our dairymen to get their hands around."

Idaho's International Presence

Since the 1970s, Idaho dairies have produced more milk products every year than the year before with the exception of 2009, Naerebout said. This year is projected to be another record production year.

"We've completely saturated our domestic market," Naerebout said. "As worldwide demand grows, we have to focus on that market because that's the market that we don't have captured."

Lopshire agreed.

"Everybody looks at (Idaho) as the next global market," Lopshire said. "We see a number of U.S. firms going over there with office spaces in Singapore."

The popularity of American cheese worldwide is not because countries like China have acquired a taste for American products, Kurzawski said.

"American dairy products are synonymous with quality," Kurzawski said. "You don't get that same virtue going into Chinese products. That's really kept them coming back."

A diminished U.S. dollar, Kurzawski said, and Idaho's adaptation to international expectations are other reasons for the increase in worldwide demand. He said even if the drought in New Zealand didn't happen, demand for Idaho dairy would still be on the rise.

"American cheese manufacturers have done a good job adapting to what the world wants and that's the key, more than they've just decided to love American products like they love Levi's," Kurzawski said. "It's definitely our ability to welcome international business that's spurred that growth."

Bellevue's Silver Dollar Saloon Goes Smoke-free

The Silver Dollar is the last bar in the Wood River Valley to ban smoking.

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

BELLEVUE • If you bring a pack of cigarettes to the Silver Dollar Saloon, be prepared to take that drag outside.

Starting this month, the Bellevue bar and restaurant became a smoke-free establishment. However, the sudden change isn't hurting business, said Pete Prekeges, owner of the saloon and the Ketchum restaurant Grumpy's.

Despite early concerns that the ban might drive away customers, the response so far has been positive, he said.

"This was something my wife and I have been talking about for years, but it's hard from a business standpoint to do something so drastic," he said. "Smokers are thanking me. I've got one guy who's bummed and one guy who's mad but that's it. My days have been consistently busier."

Prekeges' decision to ban smoking from his establishment came just days after the city of Ketchum decided to ban smoking in a long list of public areas throughout the city.

The ban prohibits smoking from all city-owned facilities, parks, indoor public places and places of employment, including hotel and motel rooms. The law also prohibits smoking within 20 feet of bus stops and on school property.

According to Smokefree Idaho, the Silver Dollar Saloon is the last bar in the Wood River Valley to adopt a smoke-free policy. The coalition has worked closely with the Ketchum city officials over the past few months to enforce the smoking ban.

"The Silver Dollar converting to a smoke-free establishment is a great step forward for the Wood River Valley," said Heidi Low, Smokefree Idaho campaign coordinator, in a news statement. "This transition shows care on the part of Prekeges, as well as other bars in the community that care about the health of their workers and patrons."

Bellevue has not enforced a smoking ban law but Prekeges wouldn't be surprised if the town decided to enforce a code in the near future.

Prekeges said that making the saloon smoke-free is attracting new customers who otherwise might have avoided his establishment.

"When I found out that 20 percent of Idaho's population smoked, I thought maybe I should cater to 80 percent of the population and not just 20 percent of the population," he said.

Idaho's March Jobless Rate Flat, Labor Force Falling

TIMES-NEWS

BOISE • Idaho's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate held steady in March at 6.2 percent, the result of the continuing decline in the labor force and caution on the part of the state's employers.

Another 1,400 people left Idaho's labor force in March, the largest one-month exodus since the heart of the recession three years ago and the third straight monthly decline. Over 2,600 people have dropped out of Idaho's labor force since December 2012, leaving it at just over 772,000 and erasing any gains made since January 2012 when the economy was struggling to begin its recovery.

Idaho employers hired 13,000 workers in March for both new and replacement jobs - about 500 fewer than they hired in March 2012 and well below prerecession hiring levels. While March's job creation was about twice the average during the past five years, it was below normal economic times, much less a robust recovery.

As a result, total employment fell for the second month in a row, dropping more than 600 to 724,500.

Nationally, unemployment dropped another tenth of a point in March to 7.6 percent while Idaho's rate, unchanged from February, remained below the national rate for the 138th month - 11½ years. Last March, Idaho's unemployment rate was 7.4 percent after peaking at 8.8 percent in late 2010.

Unemployment benefits were also falling with the jobless rate. Regular unemployment insurance benefits totaling $15.8 million were paid to an average of 16,000 idled workers in March, down 21 percent from March 2012's $19.9 million paid to over 20,000 people. Another 5,500 workers a week received a total of nearly $5.4 million during the month in federal extended benefits, about half the number and payout of a year earlier. The extended benefit program formally ends in December, and federal budget cutting has curtailed those benefits this spring.

Only three of the state's 44 counties posted double-digit unemployment rates in March - Shoshone, Benewah and Clearwater - down from four counties in February and seven a year earlier. Fifteen counties had slightly higher rates than in February while 29 had lower rates.

Idaho Homeless Numbers Continue to Decrease

BOISE • The homeless population in Idaho decreased for the third consecutive year, according to the most recent Point-in-Time Count. The 2013 assessment identified 1,781 homeless adults and children in Idaho, a 9.5 percent decrease from the previous year, when there were 1,968 homeless. The state's homeless population has fallen 24 percent since 2010, when there were 2,346 homeless.

The annual Point-in-Time Count, which took place Jan. 30, is a snapshot of the people who are living on the streets, in shelters, or in places not meant for habitation. The data collected by state and local agencies, nonprofit organizations and volunteers helps policymakers understand homeless trends and underlying issues. The information also helps determine the amount of grants awarded to homeless service providers around the state each year.

Retail Relief From Predatory Online Sales Tax Avoidance

Written by the Wood River Economic Partnership

WASHINGTON D.C. • After many years of debate, Congress may be ready to pass a marketplace fairness act that will force larger internet retailers to collect state sales tax where their customers live and thus help level the playing field for independent retailers.

This is a huge issue for local, independent retailers who have to put up with people taking pictures of their merchandise and then shopping on the internet for better pricing and no sales tax. For companies to avoid state sales tax is unfair competition.

Our unique, local retailers are a big part of our quality of life. You can help.

WREP has been lobbying for this legislation and urges you to call your legislators office right now to voice your opinion as they are voting this week. While the prospects are good, let's not take a chance.

Lewis A. Baxter

July 16, 1942-April 22, 2013

He was born in Arkansas but spent the majority of his life in the Burley area. Lewis was often known as Louie by his friends and loved ones. He was a loving and devoted father and grandfather, whose life revolved around them and their happiness. He had many passions and interests throughout his life, including gardening, fishing, classic muscle cars, hunting and anything that included being outdoors. He was a soft-spoken man full of kindness, service, compassion and honesty. He was an extremely hard worker, full of creativity and innovation. His unconditional love touched so many people, and they were simply better for having known him. Anyone in his presence could feel his genuine spirit and enjoy his sense of humor and laughter. There is no doubt he will be greatly missed by his friends and loved ones here, but we take comfort in the joyous reunions that are taking place in heaven.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Nora and Mitchell; brothers, Dorlan Gene, Nolas, Mitchell Jr. "Bubba" and Dean; sister, Betty Jo; his nephew, Victor; and two daughters, Melissa and Teresa. He is survived by four children, Tammy (Jason Robinson), Michelle (Tony Potter), Jimmy Baxter (Janeal) and Tiffney; 14 grandchildren; siblings, Jack, Virginia and Butch; and the mother of his four children, Susan.

There will be a private family service to honor Lewis at a future date.

Cremation services are under the direction of Morrison-Payne Funeral Home in Burley.

Pa. Abortion Trial Stirs Debate on When Life Ends

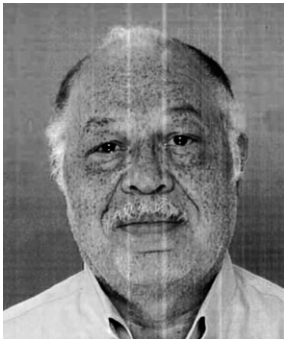

BY MARYCLAIRE DALE
Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA • The murder trial of a Philadelphia abortion provider has spawned courtroom debate over when life ends, as opposed to when it begins.

Dr. Kermit Gosnell is charged with killing four babies after they were born alive. Prosecutors say he cut the babies' spines after they were delivered and wouldn't have done so if they were dead.

In closing arguments Monday, Gosnell's defense lawyer called it "ridiculous" to say babies were still alive after in-utero injections of the heart-stopping drug Digoxin.

But Gosnell's former staff

members have quoted the doctor as saying it was tough to hit the fetal heart through the abdomen. And they have testified they saw babies move, breathe or cry.

Jury deliberations are expected to start Tuesday.

Gosnell is also charged in a patient's overdose death.

Michael Jackson Song Played for Jury in Civil Case

BY ANTHONY MCCARTNEY

LOS ANGELES • An attorney for Michael Jackson's mother played a song during opening statements at a wrongful death trial that the lawyer says the superstar wrote for his children.

Attorney Brian Panish also read jurors a note on Monday that the singer wrote to his mother to demonstrate their relationship.

Katherine Jackson is suing concert giant AEG Live, claiming it failed to properly investigate a doctor who cared for Jackson and was later convicted of involuntary manslaughter in his 2009 death.

AEG has denied wrongdoing and its attorney is expected to address jurors later Monday.

Panish told jurors they would ultimately decide whether to find AEG liable for Jackson's death and how much his mother and children should receive.

Hoax Emergency Message Sends Police to Wolf Blitzer's Home

BY MICHAEL LARIS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON • Police in Montgomery County, Md., received an urgent message about 6:25 p.m. Saturday saying someone had been shot at Wolf Blitzer's home in Bethesda, Md. Officers streamed toward the CNN host's residence near Congressional Country Club. They set up a perimeter.

But a dispatch supervisor was immediately skeptical, and a call to CNN confirmed it: The message was a fraud. Blitzer was fine — was, in fact, out of town. The authorities were dealing with another case of "SWATing," in which someone jolts police into action with a fake distress call and technological trickery.

Earlier this month, the place was Beverly Hills and the target was "American Idol" host Ryan Seacrest. The caller told police that armed men were trying to break into Seacrest's place; officers arrived to find nothing amiss. In March, it was Brian Krebs, an Internet security writer and former Washington Post reporter. The caller said Russians had broken in and killed Krebs's wife. Fairfax County, Va., police, weapons drawn, handcuffed Krebs before they learned that the report was a sham.

Syrian Prime Minister Assad Escapes Bombing in Damascus

DAMASCUS, Syria • Syria's prime minister narrowly escaped an assassination attempt in the heart of the heavily defended capital Monday, state media said, laying bare the vulnerability of President Bashar Assad's regime.

The bombing, which killed several other people, highlights an accelerating campaign targeting government officials, from mid-level civil servants to the highest echelons of the Syrian regime.

State television said Prime Minister Wael al-Halqi was not hurt in the bombing, which struck his convoy as it

NORTH KINGSTOWN, R.I. (AP) • FBI agents investigating the Boston Marathon bombings have visited the Rhode Island home of Tamerlan Tsarnaev's in-laws and carried away several bags.

FBI spokesman Jason Pack confirms agents went to the North Kingstown home of Katherine Russell's parents Monday. Russell, Tsarnaev's widow, has been staying there.

Russell did not speak to reporters as she left her attorneys' office in Providence later in the day. Attorney Amato DeLuca says she's doing everything she can to assist with the investigation.

Attorneys have previously said Russell and her family were in shock when they learned of the allegations against her husband and brother-in-law, Dzhokhar Tsarnaev.

Tamerlan Tsarnaev was killed in a gun battle with police. Dzhokhar Tsarnaev has been charged with using a weapon of mass destruction.

BOSTON • The angry and grieving mother of the Boston Marathon bombing suspects insists that her sons are innocent and that she's no terrorist.

But Zubeidat Tsarnaeva is drawing increased attention after federal officials say Russian authorities intercepted her phone calls, including one in which she vaguely discussed jihad with her elder son. In another, she was recorded talking to someone in southern Russia who is under FBI investigation in an unrelated case, U.S. officials said.

Boston Suspect's Defense Team Gets Major Boost

BOSTON (AP) • Prominent death penalty lawyer Judy Clarke is joining the team representing the suspect in the Boston Marathon bombings.

The appointment of Clarke, based in San Diego, Calif., was approved Monday by U.S. Magistrate Judge Marianne Bowler.

Bowler denied a request from Dzhokhar Tsarnaev's public defender to appoint a second death penalty lawyer. Bowler says Tsarnaev's lawyers could renew their motion to appoint another death penalty expert if Tsarnaev is indicted.

The 19-year-old Tsarnaev has been charged with using a weapon of mass destruction during the April 15 marathon.

Clarke's clients have included Unabomber Ted Kaczynski and Susan Smith.

First Female Iraq War Resister to Be Court-martialed

FORT CARSON, Colo. (AP) • A court-martial got underway Monday for the first female U.S. Army soldier to flee to Canada to avoid a second tour of duty in the Iraq war.

Army Pfc. Kimberly Rivera is charged with desertion and could face up to five years in prison and a dishonorable discharge if convicted, the Colorado Springs Gazette reported.

Rivera, 30, was a wheeled-vehicle driver in Fort Carson's 4th Infantry Brigade Combat Team and served in Iraq in 2006. She has said that, while there, she became disillusioned with the U.S. mission in Iraq.

During a two-week leave in the U.S. in 2007, Rivera crossed the Canadian border after she was ordered to serve another tour in Iraq. She applied for refugee status but was denied.

Rivera then applied for permanent residency, but Canadian immigration officials rejected that application, too. Authorities also rejected her requests to stay on humanitarian and compassionate grounds.

OPINION

Asking the Wrong Questions about Boston

As police investigators peel away the layers of the Boston Marathon bombing, there are two aspects of this unfolding story to which I want to react: the mindset of the alleged bombers and the role of the Internet in shaping it. Important news about both was contained in a single Washington Post article Tuesday.

“The 19-year-old suspect in the Boston Marathon bombings has told interrogators that the American wars in Iraq and Afghanistan motivated him and his brother to carry out the attack, according to U.S. officials familiar with the interviews,” The Post reported. The officials said, “Dzhokhar and his older brother, Tamerlan Tsarnaev ... do not appear to have been directed by a foreign terrorist organization. Rather, the officials said, the evidence so far suggests they were ‘self-radicalized’ through Internet sites and U.S. actions in the Muslim world. Dzhokhar Tsarnaev has specifically cited the U.S. war in Iraq, which ended in December 2011 with the removal of the last American forces, and the war in Afghanistan.”

This is a popular meme among radical Muslim groups, and, to be sure, some Muslim youths were deeply angered by the U.S. interventions in the Middle East. The brothers Tsarnaev may have been among them.

But what in God’s name does that have to do with planting a bomb at the Boston Marathon and blowing up innocent people? It is amazing to me how we’ve come to accept this non sequitur and how easily we’ve allowed radical Muslim groups and their apologists to get away with it.

A simple question: If you were upset with U.S. wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, why didn’t you go out and build a school in Afghanistan to strengthen that community or get an advanced degree to strengthen yourself or become a math teacher in the Muslim world to help its people be less vulnerable to foreign powers? Dzhokhar claims the Tsarnaev brothers were so upset by something America did in a third country that they just had to go to Boylston Street and blow up people who had nothing to do with it (some of whom could have been Muslims), and too often we just nod our heads rather than asking: What kind of sick madness is this?

It’s a double non sequitur when it comes from Muslim youths who lived and studied in America, where, if you’re upset about something, you have many ways to express your opposition and have an impact — from organizing demonstrations to publishing articles to running for office. In fact, an American guy named Barack, whose grandfather was a Muslim, did just that. And he’s now president of the U.S., a job he’s used to unwind the wars in Iraq and in Afghanistan.

Moreover, some 70,000 people, most of them Muslims, have been killed by other Muslims in the Syrian civil war, which the U.S. had nothing to do with — although many Muslims are now begging us to intervene to stop it. And every week innocent Muslims are blown up by Muslim suicide bombers in Pakistan and Iraq — every week. Thousands of them have been maimed and killed in attacks so nihilistic that the bombers don’t even bother to give their names or make demands. Yet this does not appear to have moved the brothers Tsarnaev one iota.

Why is that? We surely must not tar all of Islam in this. Having lived in the Muslim world, I know how unfair that would be. But we must ask a question only Muslims can answer: What is going on in your community that a critical number of your youth believes that every U.S. military action in the Middle East is intolerable and justifies a violent response, and everything Muslim extremists do to other Muslims is ignorable and calls for mostly silence?

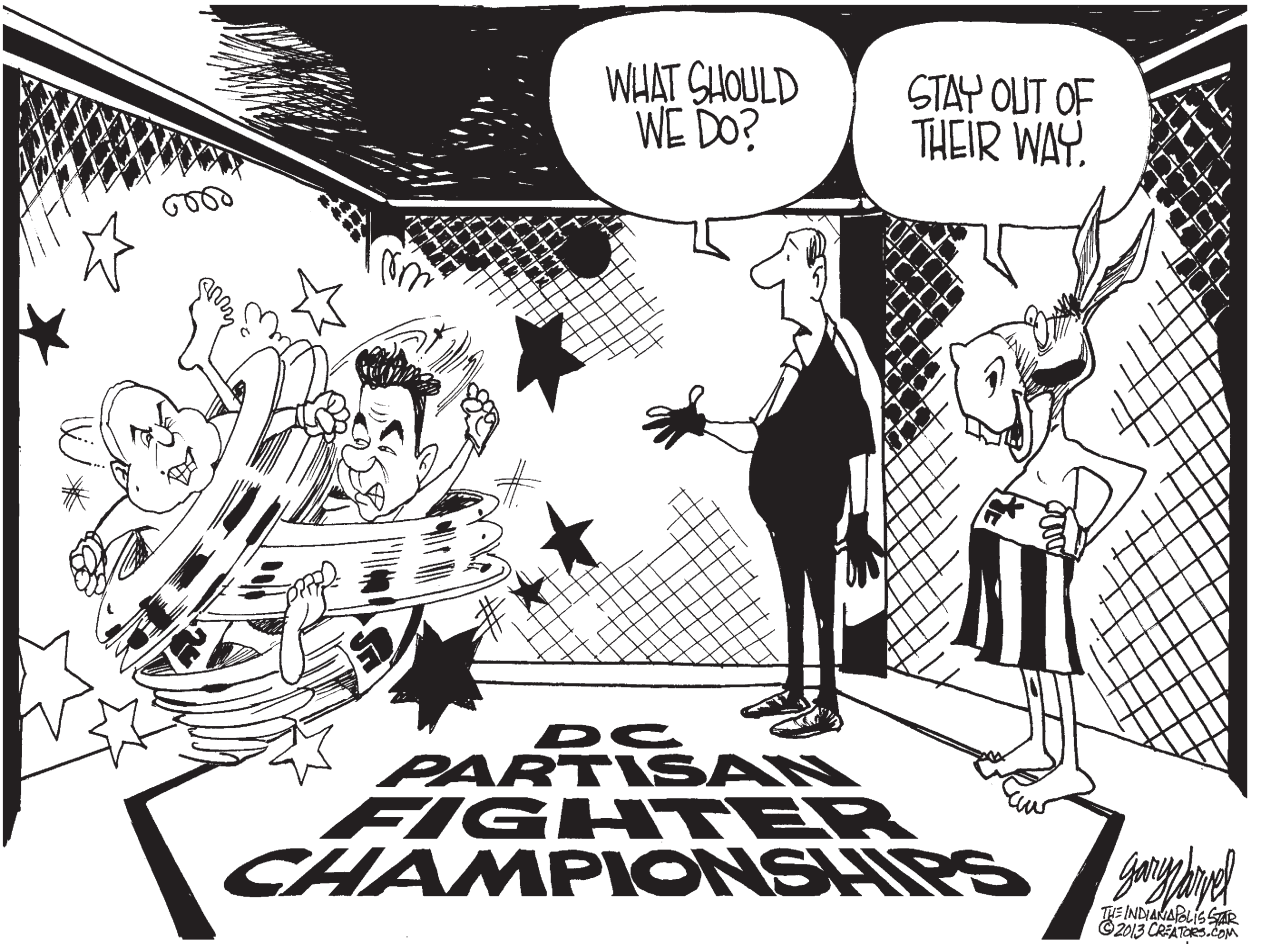

As for the role that websites apparently played in the “self-radicalization” of the two Chechen brothers, it is yet another reminder that the Internet is a digital river that carries incredible sources of wisdom and hate along the same current. It’s all there together. And our kids and citizens usually interact with this flow nakedly, with no supervision.

So more people are more directly exposed to more raw information and opinion every day from everywhere. As such, it is more important than ever that we build the internal software, the internal filters, into every citizen to sift out fact from fiction in this electronic torrent, which offers so much information that has never been touched by an editor, a censor or a libel lawyer. That’s why, when the Internet first emerged and you had to connect via a modem, I used to urge that modems sold in America come with a warning label from the surgeon general, like cigarettes. It would read: “Attention: Judgment not included.”

And that’s why the faster, more accessible and ultra-modern the Internet becomes, the more all the old-fashioned stuff matters: good judgment, respect for others who are different and basic values of right and wrong. Those you can’t download. They have to be uploaded, the old-fashioned way, by parents around the dinner table, by caring but demanding teachers at school and by responsible spiritual leaders in a church, synagogue, temple or mosque. Somewhere, somehow, that did not happen, or stopped happening, with the brothers Tsarnaev.

Jerome County Putting Block Grants to Good Use

Community Development Block Grant dollars are doing good things for Jerome County.

After attending an Idaho Department of Commerce grant workshop over a year ago, I realized Jerome County could benefit from the grant funds offered by the IDOC. These federal funds are allocated to states and then to local governments through an application and eligibility process. Matching funds are part of the equation.

At the county level, the hard working staff does the heavy lifting of application and grant administration for Jerome County and seven other counties in the region.

The rewards of working alongside the Region IV Development Association are evidenced in grant funds being awarded to Jerome County for two projects — improvements at the Silver and Gold Senior Citizen Center in Eden and upgrades at the county courthouse to fulfill requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Work at the senior center in Eden is complete and included new flooring, several new windows and new commercial appliances. Be sure to stop in on Tuesdays and Thursdays, have lunch with the good folks in the east end of Jerome County and see the benefits of the block grant program.

At the county courthouse, construction will soon begin to remodel the handicap ramp access at the east entrance to the building. This is part of a two-phase project (this budget year and next) which includes interior work on doors, bathrooms and handicap upgrades at the county airport terminal.

Community Development Block Grants are available each year and can be a real cost share benefit to Jerome County. My goal is to continue to apply for and use these grant dollars to make sure our county facilities are in compliance with federal ADA requirements.

‘Grandchildren’ Telephone Scam Still Alive and Well

I’d like to thank the Times-News for publishing the letter from the lady in Filer who warned about a telephone scam where a caller claims to be a grandchild in a foreign country who has been unjustly arrested and needs money for bail.

I don’t remember the name of the lady from Filer, but I thank her for taking the time to write a second letter to warn grandparents about this scam.

If you get a call that says, “Hi, grandma(pa), bet you don’t know who this is” or some other version to prompt you to suggest a name, ask questions to force the caller to give their name and they’ll probably hang up.

This scam is still alive in the area, so beware. There are probably others out there, so be sure to let people know about them so people like me will recognize them before any money is involved.

Letter Perpetuated Uninformed Gun Control Propaganda

Gene Day’s letter concerning gun control is so full of bad information as to raise the question of whether he is a very uninformed gun owner, as he claims, or an anti-gun zealot attempting to lure gun owners into buying the anti-gun propaganda. He is upset because Congress did not pass the expanded background check President Obama insisted upon in response to the Newtown school shootings.

Background checks cannot resolve the problem of firearms in the hands of out-of-control minors. The only purpose of these checks is to determine if an applicant has done something which causes them to be ineligible to buy firearms. Minors (under 18 years old) are prohibited by law from buying firearms. Firearms possessed by minors have been stolen, bought illegally or access has been provided by an adult. Forty-six senators apparently realized passing restrictive legislation, which cannot resolve the problem it is being promoted to address, is not a good idea. Good for them.

Day refers to “assault weapons designed for military use” to confuse readers about the rifles owned by civilians. Assault weapons are fully automatic — they continue to fire while the trigger is held back and disperse large quantities of bullets very quickly. Assault weapons are not available for civilian ownership except in limited, highly restricted, federally licensed circumstances. The rifles bought by civilians are not fully automatic; they fire only one cartridge per trigger pull. There is absolutely no parallel in lethality. The reason anti-gunners refer to civilian arms as assault weapons is to establish a negative association in the reader’s mind. Here’s an interesting statistic from the FBI website: Americans are more than twice as likely to be beaten to death by someone using feet, hands and fists than to be murdered by a rifle.

Day’s advice to pressure legislators into supporting legislation just to be doing something is exactly what the anti-gunners want. Idaho’s senators responded properly by voting against a bill which would have restricted lawful gun owners while contributing nothing to the resolution of shootings like that experienced in Newtown.

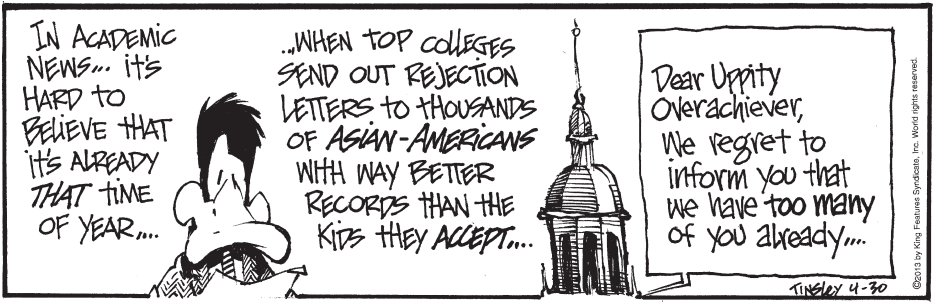

Anyone interested in protecting their gun rights should be a member of the National Rifle Association.

Teen Sentenced for Role in Party Stabbing Case

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • A 17-year-old boy was sentenced Monday in Twin Falls County Fifth District Court for his role in an Oct. 28 group fight that left two people seriously wounded. Prosecutors and the teen’s defense attorney agreed that he should be sentenced to two to 10 years in prison with the court retaining jurisdiction for a year. District Judge Randy Stoker said he will recommend that the teen attend a traditional rider. That means he’ll attend treatment through the Idaho Department of Correction, then have the chance to be released on probation. The teen’s attorney, Loren Bingham, said the treatment program will help correct the teen’s thinking and behavior. Bingham said he may try to get the teen into mental health court after he leaves the rider program. The teen must also pay a portion of the more than $22,000 restitution to a victim injured in the fight; that amount is split between several defendants. At the sentencing hearing Monday, Stoker gave the teen what he called “a word to the wise.” “When I read this report, I was left with the definite impression that you’re kind of an independent thinker,” Stoker said. The teen laughed but said he understood what Stoker meant. Stoker told the teen he had to be sure to follow the rules while in the custody of the Department of Correction. “Don’t cop an attitude,” he said.

Several other people in their teens and early 20s are also involved in the case. Jeffrey Allred, 23, and Roberto Garza Jr., 20, were each found guilty on charges of aggravated battery with a deadly weapon and conspiracy to commit aggravated battery with a deadly weapon in the Oct. 28 fight. Both are scheduled to be sentenced May 20. Jennifer Gray, 18, pleaded guilty Tuesday, April 23, to an amended charge of battery. A sentencing date hasn’t been set for her. Nicholas Gray, 20, was sentenced to up to 11 years in prison on March 11, after admitting to stabbing Orlando Ramirez, 18, during the attack. Another 17-year-old boy was sentenced earlier this month to three years of probation with an underlying prison sentence of two to seven years.

on the foundation below certain sections of the spillway, Cheek said. “We just have to make sure what they do doesn’t impede our ability to move water during the snowpack runoff season,” Cheek said. Cheek said the new head gates for the Southside Canal, which supplies water mainly to the Burley Irrigation District, became functional during the start of this year’s irrigation season. “Our contractor was very aware of the critical nature of having those structures ready for the water season,”

Cheek said. The concrete work on the head works for the Northside Canal, which supplies Minidoka Irrigation District, is complete but the gates need to be installed. The Northside head gates will be operational before the 2014 irrigation season, Cheek said. The construction project is slightly ahead of schedule, Cheek said. Areas of the site that were “high and dry” a few months ago are now covered in water, he said. “Construction has gone very smoothly,” said Cheek. “But, like with any large construction project, there are always some surprises.” Cheek said one surprise came from the unpredictable nature of the fractured basalt rock base upon which the spillway foundation sits. “We drilled test holes, but you can’t always tell what’s underground in that fractured basalt,” Cheek said. Cheek said the basalt undergoes meticulous cleaning and the cracks are filled with a special dental concrete, which has a very fine grain. Cheek said one reason the work is progressing smoothly are the top-notch crews selected to work on the project. “We have a lot of professionals working hard to ensure everything is being done correctly and we can all sleep well at night,” said Cheek.

Idaho Power Proposes 12.5 Percent Increase in Power Cost Adjustment

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Idaho Power Co. is proposing spreading out a 12.5 percent rate increase over two years for residential customers. According to the utility company, this would increase residential rates by about $7.28 for the average customer who uses 1,050 kilowatt hours per month. The annual rate change is called Power Cost Adjustment, rates adjusted up or down to reflect costs not already included in rates. It is not the same as base rate adjustments, which only cover fixed costs. The PCA rates cannot be used to increase the company’s earnings but go toward paying for power supply expenses or returning leftover revenue to customers. For many of the past 10 years, Idaho Power’s PCA costs have either decreased or remained the same.

This year’s low streamflows and low prices for market power have contributed to higher PCA rates. The Idaho Public Utilities Commission is accepting public comment on Idaho Power’s proposal until May 28. To learn more, the public is encouraged to attend the Twin Falls workshop on May 1. The workshop starts at 7 p.m. at the City Council Chambers, 305 Third Avenue East, Twin Falls.

said. In Idaho, the route would cut through large sections of farm land. “Those lands are valued significantly higher,” George said. So far, Idaho’s most heated Gateway Way sections remain in Kuna, Cassia and Power counties. For example, the Cassia County Gateway West Task Force has repeatedly voiced resistance to the transmission route using private land. Despite offering alternatives, the BLM’s final review recommends using more than 100 acres of private land and 25 acres of public land.

“We’re quite disappointed,” said Cassia County Gateway West Task Force Chairman Brent Stoker. “Everything we ever pointed out to them has come back to haunt us. We used to think it might change, but now it’s going to be very difficult.” Under federal law, the BLM can’t identify in advance what sections they would wait to phase in for approval, said Heather Feeney, a spokeswoman for the Idaho BLM office. But if the agency decides to phase in permit approval, the BLM would first approve segments that have independent utility – or segments that attach to a substation. “We’re not going to approve a patchwork or seg-

County until May 1, which would not give him enough time to prepare for Lish’s trial. Gunn said Paiz’s family, which owns a restaurant in Jerome, hosts food booths at county fairs in the summer and would be very busy in August. He said both he and Wittwer have scheduling conflicts throughout July. Bevan said he wants to be accommodating to Paiz’s family, but it is also important to start the trial soon.

“They’re not the ones sitting in jail,” he said. Bevan scheduled the trial to begin Aug. 19, and it is scheduled to last through Aug. 30. All the attorneys said they could make those dates work. A pretrial conference is scheduled for July 29. Because the case has a high profile, Bevan suggested jury questionnaires be filled out in advance of the trial. A status hearing is scheduled for June 24 to choose questions for potential jurors. Twin Falls County Coroner Dennis Chambers said Paiz died from his stab wounds. Paiz was stabbed 13 times in the back and once in an arm, Chambers said. Two of the stab wounds entered a lung, he said. According to testimony at a preliminary hearing, police attempted to revive Paiz, but he later died at St. Luke’s Magic Valley Medical Center. Wittwer and Gunn were appointed to the case as special prosecutors. Twin Falls County Prosecutor Grant Loeb said too many people in his office had a connection to Lish, Paiz or their families.

from the alleged shooting, he could be sentenced to life in prison. Jimenez is charged with one count of aggravated battery with a deadly weapon and one count of unlawful possession of a weapon by a convicted felon. On Monday, prosecutors said Jimenez had two previous felony convictions, one burglary and one grand theft. A third felony conviction allows them to add the persistent violator enhancement. Jimenez on Monday entered a plea of not guilty to the amended charges. A pretrial conference is scheduled for June 10, and a jury trial for June 25. According to Twin Falls police, Jimenez shot and injured Jorge Alvarado on Feb. 9 outside of a Twin Falls home in the 100 block of Tyler Street. Jimenez reportedly told police that he “closed his eyes and shot, two to three times” after Alvarado pointed a gun at him outside his home. According to a police report, Jimenez said Alvarado then fell to the ground. Jimenez said he then went to call police, the report states, but an unknown man got out of an unknown car and fired three more times. Alvarado was taken to St. Luke’s Magic Valley Medical Center and treated for eight wounds.

Members of Burned Idaho Churches Hold Services

EMMETT (AP) • The leaders of two Emmett churches damaged by a pair of arson fires held services in new locations Sunday and vowed to regroup and rebuild in the wake of the early-morning blazes. Meanwhile, investigators from the FBI and Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives are helping local investigators try to determine who set fire early Saturday to the First Baptist Church and Community Bible Church. First Baptist Church Pastor Lance Zagaris led service that took place in a nearby funeral home chapel, saying the location was appropriate given the pervasive feelings of sorrow and loss. “We don’t have a death, but we have experienced a loss,” Zagaris told The Idaho Statesman in a story published Monday.

THE COMEBACK KID

After suffering a broken hip in his freshman year, Kimberly’s Winton Miller enjoyed success on the track as a sprinter until another injury took him out of competition earlier this year. He plans to cap off his high school athletic career with more wins and a scholarship.

BY NICK RULAND
nruland@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Kimberly sprinter Winton Miller is a nervous runner.

But the senior isn’t bothered by anxiety in the hours leading up to an event.

That’s because Miller is a primal runner.

“I get nervous when I’m actually in the race and hear other’s footsteps because I don’t want them to pass me or gain on me,” Miller said. “I actually think my nervousness makes me faster.”

What’s chasing Miller now is the most formidable opponent of all — time.

It’s not the kind he can control, like when he sprints.

The reigning 3A 200 meter champion (he finished second in the 100 meter) is recovering from a mysterious back and groin injury that has kept him out of competition for much of the last month. He wants to take both the 100 meter and 200 meter races this year, but he’s fallen back on the 3A leaderboard according to Athletic.net, and has yet to post last year’s times.

Miller, also a running back in football, wants an athletic scholarship in track. He’ll need a good showing in districts (May 3 at Kimberly’s Winton Miller has his portrait taken at the Dairyman Invitational on Thursday at the track complex in Gooding.

Buhl) and at the state tournament to get one.

But at the time of the interview (last Thursday), Miller still had more than a week to get healthy. Not the time to fret, yet.

“I’d love to get a (scholarship), but if I don’t, I will move on with my life,” Miller said.

It’s not just individual events Miller is hoping to mend for. Kimberly returns three sprinters from last year’s state champion 4x100 meter relay team and second place 4x200 meter team.

The Bulldogs own the 3A state record in the 4 x 200 (1:29.33). Brad Bair coached the record-holding team in 2004. Still coaching at the school, Bair thinks the current group, which includes Miller, seniors Austin Quinn, Alex Millward and Matt Clements (4x100 meter) can break it.

“They are faster than that group was early in the season,” Bair said.

The best time the four have put up this year is 1:30.37, which is first in state. They finished with a 1:31.09 at state last year. The 4x200 meter relay team, which includes junior Caleb Taylor also holds the top current time.

Bair thinks the school’s state record and the program’s tradition pushes his top sprinters — Miller squats 420 pounds, Taylor benches 300 pounds — to get faster and stronger.

“Those who buy in (push themselves),” Bair said. “I set the bar high. They set the bar high. We have some expectations here. That’s what a program is all about, right? Kids come in with a preconceived notion of what it’s all about.”

Winning programs don’t take kindly to mediocrity.

The light turned on for Miller his sophomore year just a few weeks before districts.

“I wanted to win, and so I started working harder,” Miller said. “I was sick of getting beat.”

Miller got in the weight room.

He ran three miles a day in the winter after his junior season. The dedication was contagious. His teammate Taylor lost 25 pounds after his freshman year, completely changing his diet.

But each of the relay teams need Miller to win.

It would be a lot of work down the drain if he’s not healthy for the final two weeks of his high school career.

But he’s come back before.

“I just heard it pop,” Miller said. “I was able to pass the baton off, but then I couldn’t get off the field. It was six months of not being able to do anything. But I recovered.”

Houston Astros pitcher Travis Blackley delivers the ball to the New York Yankees during the eighth inning of a baseball game on Monday at Yankee Stadium in New York.

Astros Romp in the Bronx, Beat Yanks 9-1

NEW YORK • Carlos Corporan homered among his four hits and drove in four runs, Brandon Barnes three hits and three RBIs, and the Houston Astros fit comfortably into the role of a slugging American League squad Monday night in a 9-1 romp over the New York Yankees.

In their first game in the Bronx as an AL team, the Astros peppered Andy Pettitte for 10 hits and seven runs, both season highs for the lefty. Barnes and Corporan had two-run doubles and Barnes added an RBI single and a double. Barnes and Corporan each set career highs for hits and RBIs.

Houston bounced back from a four-game sweep in Boston with an enthusiastic win over the Yankees, who had just taken four straight from Toronto.

The Astros had 17 hits in improving the AL's worst record to 8-18 and scored its first five runs with two outs.

Lucas Harrell (3-2) kept New York grounded. The Yankees did not hit the ball in the air against the sinker-baller until Brett Gardner blooped a single to left field with one out in the sixth — eliciting a mock cheer from those that remained from the announced crowd of 34,262 on a dank night. Harrell got 14 groundball outs, and he induced three double plays in the first four innings.

In 6 1-3 innings, the right-hander gave up eight hits, hit a batter and walked one. He struck out four and had one fly out. Harrell has allowed two runs or fewer in five of his six starts.

INDIANS 9, ROYALS 0 KANSAS CITY, Mo. • Ubaldo Jimenez pitched into the eighth inning, Ryan Raburn hit two home runs and the Cleveland Indians pounded the Kansas City Royals 9-0 on Monday night to split their four-game series.

Raburn hit a three-run shot in the fifth inning and a solo homer in the eighth, and finished the night with four hits. Jason Kipnis also went deep to pace a suddenly potent Indians offense.

Not that all the offense was needed.

Jimenez (1-2) allowed only two walks and an infield single by Billy Butler over his first seven innings. Otherwise, he kept the Royals off balance in a dazzling start that brought back memories of the pitcher who once threw a no-hitter for the Colorado Rockies.

Meanwhile, Wade Davis (2-2) made a second straight miserable start for the Royals. The right-hander allowed eight runs and 12 hits and three walks in just 4 2-3 innings.

The Royals won the first two games of the series, but were outscored 19-3 over the final two, unable to solve spot starter Corey Kluber on Sunday night and baffled by Jimenez on Monday.

TIGERS 4, TWINS 3 DETROIT • Prince Fielder's towering three-run homer in the sixth inning put Detroit ahead, and the Tigers held on Monday night for their fourth straight win, 4-3 over the Minnesota Twins.

Detroit trailed 3-1 when Andy Dirks reached on a bunt single and Miguel Cabrera walked. Fielder hit the first pitch over the wall in left-center for an opposite-field homer. That part of the fence is about 405 feet from home plate.

Max Scherzer (3-0) allowed three runs and six hits in 7 1-3 innings. He struck out 10 without a walk. Drew Smyly finished the eighth and got the first two outs of the ninth, and Joaquin Benoit finished for his second save.

Mike Pelfrey (2-3) allowed four runs and seven hits in 5 1-3 innings.

Dirks also homered for the Tigers, and Josh Willingham went deep for Minnesota.

CUBS 5, PADRES 3 CHICAGO • Darwin Barney and Cody Ransom each drove in two runs and the Chicago Cubs defeated the San Diego Padres 5-3 on Monday.

Barney hit a pair of RBI doubles as he went 2-for-3 and Ransom went 2-for-4 with a home run.

Both players also made nice defensive plays in the seventh with men in scoring position to preserve the Cubs' lead.

Kevin Gregg got the final out of the eighth with men on second and third and worked a perfect ninth to get his fourth save.

After a 5-13 start to the season, the Cubs have won five of seven.

San Diego's Clayton Richard (0-3) gave up five runs and seven hits, including two home runs, in 5 2/3 innings. Everth Cabrera went 3 for 4 and scored two runs.

BREWERS 10, PIRATES 4 MILWAUKEE • Brewers pitcher Yovani Gallardo hit one of five home runs for Milwaukee, which went back-to-back twice in a 10-4 rout of the Pittsburgh Pirates on Monday night.

Gallardo also tossed three-hit ball over seven innings, retiring his final 13 batters while improving to 10-2 against Pittsburgh. He and Norichika Aoki hit consecutive homers in the fourth before Carlos Gomez and Yunesky Betancourt repeated the feat in the fifth.

Jean Segura also connected for the Brewers, who added three triples and matched a season high for runs. Gallardo (3-1) gave up two runs, one earned. He struck out five and walked two.

REDS 2, CARDINALS 1 ST. LOUIS • Mat Latos out-pitched Adam Wainwright, extending his scoreless innings streak to 17, and the Cincinnati Reds got an RBI apiece from Joey Votto and Xavier Paul in a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals on Monday night.

Aroldis Chapman worked a perfect ninth for his sixth save in six chances. Yadier Molina had an RBI double off Jonathan Broxton that produced the Cardinals' first run in 17 innings.

Wainwright (4-2) trailed just six pitches in after Shin-soo Choo doubled on his first offering, advanced on a sacrifice and scored on Votto's single. Over his final six innings, the right-hander gave up three hits and one run.

Wainwright walked two, one intentionally, after issuing just one in 37 1-3 innings his first five starts. Latos (2-0) worked around five hits and three walks in his sixth quality start in as many outings this season.

NBA Committee Recommends Rejecting Kings' Move

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Sacramento Kings finally appear to be staying put in California's capital city, possibly ending an emotional saga that has dragged on for nearly three years.

The NBA's relocation committee voted unanimously Monday to recommend that owners reject the application for the Kings to relocate to Seattle, the latest — and by far the strongest — in a long line of cities that almost landed the franchise. The 12 league owners on the committee made the decision over a conference call and forwarded the recommendation to the NBA Board of Governors.

The board, which consists of all 30 owners, will convene during the week of May 13 to vote on the matter. While the recommendation doesn't guarantee the Kings will stay put, it's difficult at this point to imagine how they don't.

Moments after the league announced the committee's recommendation, Sacramento Mayor Kevin Johnston wrote on Twitter: "That's what I'm talking about SACRAMENTO!!!! WE DID IT!!!!!"

Who will own the Kings next season is still unclear.

The Maloof family reached an agreement in January to sell a 65 percent controlling interest in the team to a group led by investor Chris Hansen at a total franchise valuation of $525 million, topping the NBA-record $450 million that Joe Lacob and Peter Guber bought the Golden State Warriors for in 2010. Then Hansen increased his offer to $550 million, which implies buying the 65 percent stake for about $357 million.

Hansen hoped to move the team to Seattle and rename it the SuperSonics, who moved to Oklahoma City in 2008. Instead, those plans have suddenly crumbled.

The Maloofs are not bound to sell the team to a Sacramento group Johnson has put together. In a letter sent to the relocation and finance committees, the Maloofs said they preferred to sell to the Seattle group and expressed discontent with Sacramento's latest bid.

Spokesmen for the Maloof family and Hansen had no immediate comment on the committee's recommendation. Seattle Mayor Mike McGinn pledged that his city will continue to fight for an NBA team.

"I'm proud of how Sonics fans have rallied together to help Seattle get a team," McGinn said in a statement. "We're going to stay focused on our job: making sure Seattle remains in a position to get a team when the opportunity presents itself."

While the odds often seemed stacked against Sacramento, the city rallied each time.

In 2011, the Kings appeared determined to move to Anaheim, Calif., before Johnson convinced the NBA to give the city one last chance to help finance an arena. At one point, Johnson seemed so certain the team was gone he called the process a "slow death" and compared the city's efforts to keep the Kings to a "Hail Mary."

Today is Tuesday, April 30, the 120th day of 2013. There are 245 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On April 30, 1973, President Richard Nixon announced the resignations of top aides H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst and White House counsel John Dean, who was actually fired.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1789, George Washington took office in New York as the first president of the United States.

In 1803, the United States purchased the Louisiana Territory from France for 60 million francs, the equivalent of about $15 million.

In 1812, Louisiana became the 18th state of the Union.

In 1863, the design of the Great Seal of the Confederate States of America was approved by the Confederate Congress.

In 1900, engineer John Luther “Casey” Jones of the Illinois Central Railroad died in a train wreck near Vaughan, Miss., after staying at the controls in a successful effort to save the passengers.

In 1938, a precursor to the cartoon character Bugs Bunny first appeared in the Warner Bros. animated short “Porky’s Hare Hunt.”

In 1939, the New York World’s Fair officially opened with a ceremony that included an address by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In 1945, as Russian troops approached his Berlin bunker, Adolf Hitler committed suicide along with his wife of one day, Eva Braun.

In 1968, New York City police forcibly removed student demonstrators occupying five buildings at Columbia University.

In 1983, blues singer and guitarist Muddy Waters died in Westmont, Ill., at age 68.

In 1988, Gen. Manuel Noriega, waving a machete, vowed at a rally to keep fighting U.S. efforts to oust him as Panama’s military ruler.

In 1993, top-ranked women’s tennis player Monica Seles was stabbed in the back during a match in Hamburg, Germany, by a man who described himself as a fan of second-ranked German player Steffi Graf. (The man, convicted of causing grievous bodily harm, was given a suspended sentence.)

Ten years ago: International mediators presented Israeli and Palestinian leaders with a new Middle East “road map,” a U.S.-backed blueprint for ending 31 months of violence and establishing a Palestinian state. Mahmoud Abbas took office as Palestinian prime minister. The U.S. Navy withdrew from its disputed Vieques bombing range in Puerto Rico, prompting celebrations by islanders.

Five years ago: The Federal Reserve cut interest rates for a seventh straight time, reducing the federal funds rate a quarter-point to 2 percent. An avalanche in Italy’s northwestern Alps killed five French ski-mountaineers.

One year ago: President Barack Obama and Japanese Prime Minister Yoshihiko Noda, meeting at the White House, decried aggressive acts from North Korea, including a recent failed rocket launch, and vowed to maintain a unified front against such provocations. A ferry carrying more than 300 people capsized in a river in northeast India, killing some 100 people and leaving about as many missing.

DEAR ABBY: I am frustrated and angry over a situation that should be fun and happy. My husband, “Rick,” and I are planning a trip with our two children next month. We will visit family while we are there, but they don’t have room for us to stay in their home.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

Rick wants to bring his mother with us. It will be a tight fit in our car, but I don’t have a problem with that. What bothers me is that Rick wants her to stay with us in our hotel room.

I am a very private person. I have a problem sharing such close quarters with her. There is NO privacy in a hotel room!

I offered to get two rooms, but he feels I am being unreasonable. I feel three adults plus two children is a lot to pack into a small hotel room.

AM I being unreasonable? Or should I just accept it and deal with being miserable?

— FRUSTRATED IN THE SOUTH

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Although there may be exceptions, as a general rule, adults need their privacy. Frankly, I am surprised your mother-in-law would be willing to go along with such an arrangement. This is a vacation, and you should not be miserable when you’re supposed to be enjoying it.

A better solution would be to get two rooms, and the children should bunk with their grandmother. That way you and your husband could enjoy some private time together.

DEAR ABBY: I have been with my boyfriend for seven years. We have no children together, but he has two young children from a previous relationship whom I have been raising as my own. They call me “Mom,” but they know I’m not their biological mother. Their mother has not contacted them — or cared to — since the younger one was just months old.

My fear is now that the kids are getting older, they may want to form a relationship with her later on. I don’t want to seem selfish, but they are MY kids. Any girl can have a baby, but it takes a real woman to be a mom. How should I handle this when that time comes?

— DREADING THE FUTURE

DEAR DREADING THE FUTURE: It is natural for children to want to know who their biological parents are; that’s the reason adoption records are no longer sealed. You appear to fear that your boyfriend’s ex-girlfriend will want to swoop in and steal your maternal spotlight. From all indications, it’s not the case; you are the only mother they know.

If the children want information about their birth mother, the truth should not be kept from them. Meeting her does not guarantee they will love you any less. Worrying about it is self-defeating.

DEAR ABBY: What is the protocol for in-person conversations vs. phone interruptions (either via text or call)? When talking with someone, I feel it’s rude for the other individual to respond to voice or text messages. Can’t people take a break long enough to actually have a real LIVE conversation? How do other readers handle this? Do they walk away? Patiently wait? Or speak up?

— TECHNOLOGICALLY OVERLOADED

DEAR OVERLOADED: The best approach is the direct approach. Tell the person, “I wish you wouldn’t do that.”

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

“The challenge is high. The stakes are important. I think it’s manageable.”

— William H. Webster

This hand arose on the last round of the 2010 European Championships for the Open Teams. Poland, a contender for the gold medal, faced Germany, which was no longer in contention.

North’s jump to four diamonds showed short diamonds and set hearts as trump, since three diamonds would have been forcing. It got South, Michael Gromoller, to a delicate slam.

The heart suit needed to be played for no losers, and even if clubs produced five tricks, one more trick would still be needed — either from an accurate diamond guess or a diamond ruff. If all else failed, the last chance would come from the spades.

West helped by leading ace then another diamond. A low heart toward dummy garnered the queen — one more problem solved. Declarer drew the rest of East’s trumps, then started on clubs. Gromoller was careful to cash his king and queen first, in case clubs failed to break. He had realized that he would then need to turn to spades and would need to preserve the club ace as a late entry.

His care was rewarded when clubs failed to break. Now came a successful spade finesse, then ace and another spade, ruffed. The 3-3 break saw the slam home.

If Gromoller had gone down, Poland would have taken the gold medal, rather than the silver. Israel failed in the slam against the eventual winner, Italy. Had they made the slam, they would have been second, relegating Italy to the bronze position.

ANSWER: In situations of this sort, simple diamond raises are limited in high cards. So to show a good hand and short hearts, your choice is two hearts (showing an invitation or better) or three hearts, promising very short hearts and a good hand. This second call should help partner judge how far to go on.

IF APRIL 30 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Hang on tight, as you could be at the pinnacle of success. During the next four to six weeks, you can make successful commitments either in your love life or in career. This is the time to realize your ambitions on many levels. In July, too much emphasis on ambition can cause you to receive less support. You may be overly self-reliant and feel that you are completely on your own in October. The immense responsibilities you must shoulder could weigh you down, so it is wise to use your organizational skills to budget your time and money. If you follow through on responsibilities and duties, you will be rewarded generously in December with recognition or a new set of opportunities.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): People might seem somewhat belligerent and could egg you on into doing something you may regret. A competitive and exacting situation could jangle nerves, so dig out your best manners.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Never mark yourself down or discount your talents. The picture you have of others is a bit cloudy or askew, but a better understanding arrives soon. Avoid situations that could result in recriminations.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Don't take things for granted. Ambitious people might steamroll over objections. Insist on having other people spell out every detail so that terms and conditions are clear as a bell on a Sunday morning.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Respect yourself enough to walk away from anything painful or that makes you unhappy. You will be able to take criticism in stride and handle emergencies; avoid confrontations if tempers flare.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A flood of activity or pressing deadlines may ignite short tempers. People in general could be prickly and ready to take offense. Make a note of valuable suggestions and keep them on hand for a better time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Friendly persuasion has never been friendlier. You can exert a great deal of influence on your special someone, but this could create complications unless you focus on being that person's best friend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Action is the code word for the day. You may become a bit defensive if you feel you can't keep up, or if you suspect you are lagging behind. The general trend may be hurried and brisk so keep on your toes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You have a handle on what is essential for success in your career and work. Your personal and professional reputations are important, so be proud of everything you do.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Spilled milk attracts cats. Crying over past mistakes will only further complicate matters. Despite setbacks, try to keep yourself moving forward, as a consistent effort will bring improvement.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You can't treat people like pawns. When you reach a stalemate, you could be tempted to urgently move forward anyway. Don't do this, as you could set off a demanding chain of events.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): If you maintain a leisurely pace, or come to a standstill, someone could run you down. Everyone is in a hurry to do something or get somewhere and you'd be wise to put yourself in high gear, too.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Live and learn. Insights garnered from travel, schoolwork or even from children can help you take some steps toward being more efficient. Don't be rushed into a foolhardy decision.
