CASTLEFORD • Standing in a loose circle, trying to block the wind's piercing bite, it was easy to point out the volunteers who signed up for wildfire training.

The faded Wranglers gave them away. Standing among U.S. Bureau of Land Management firefighters in their signature dark green pants, members of the recently approved Rangeland Fire Protection Associations wore their dark jeans and cowboy hats. The firefighters and new volunteers haven't always seeing eye-to-eye on who should respond to wildfires on public land. But for the first time in years, the two sides are working together to achieve the same goal: limit the size of wildfires by responding faster with the best resources available. For RFPAs, this means having permission to respond to wildfires on public land and potentially reduce the chances of fire spreading

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

Stocks Surge to New Highs after Hiring Climbs

NEW YORK (AP) • Stocks surged to all-time highs Friday when a surprisingly good jobs report finally gave investors a clear sign of U.S. economic strength after weeks of conflicting signals.

The market jumped from the opening bell, traders donned party hats, and a wave of buying helped the Standard and Poor's 500 index close above 1,600 for the first time. The Dow Jones industrial average briefly rose above 15,000, a milestone.

"There's euphoria today," said Stephen Carl, the head equity trader at The Williams Capital Group.

ONLINE: Internet Sales Tax Good for Local Business, Bad for One-Stop Shopping

Joe Cadotte blogs about Idaho business at "The Buzz on Biz." An excerpt from his latest post:

"Will applying state sales tax to Internet purchases level the playing field or drive American web sales overseas? A U.S. Senate vote Monday will make Washington's stance loud and clear if such a bill is passed on to the House.

"There have been so many attempts by politicians to require sales tax on Internet purchases that the new bill is titled: The Marketplace Fairness Act of 2013.

"I chatted with local business leaders, economists and politicians and scoured some 13 articles about the government proposal. Individuals on both sides agree on one thing: The bill will most likely pass the Senate on Monday (but might have difficulty passing the House because of the Tea Party). ...

"One stark detail in the bill is an exemption for companies who sell less than $1 million worth of stuff per year through the Internet.

"This is what draws the line for local businesses in the Magic Valley. Businesses with customers who might have to pay sales taxes on Internet purchases say the bill will be detrimental. Likewise, Magic Valley shops that don't make more than $1 million per year from web revenue say taxing web sales will be good for the economy. ..."

Will It Rain This Weekend?

Weekends in the spring are all about getting outdoors and enjoying all southern Idaho has to offer. The only thing that can get in the way of a good outdoor plan is the weather. If it were me, I wouldn't cancel any plans, but be aware that there are small chances of showers this weekend.

An upper level system slides through the state Saturday, then pushes off to the west by Sunday. As this system moves through we will see more clouds, slightly cooler temperatures, increased wind speeds and scattered to isolated showers popping up in the afternoon. We could even see lightning and hear a rumble of thunder. While there is a threat of rain, I still think a lot of these spotty showers develop in the higher elevations of the South Hills and Wood River region. Afternoon temperatures for today will be in the upper 60s.

On Sunday, the upper level system will be off the coast of Northern California with an area of high pressure over Seattle. This will keep winds breezy and continue the threat of spotty afternoon showers. Sunday is not going to be a washout, but keep an eye to the sky if you have outdoor plans. Afternoon highs will be in the low to mid 70s.

Colorado Woman Dies in I-84 Crash

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

WENDELL • Idaho State Police say a Colorado woman was killed in a rollover crash just before 8 a.m. Friday on Interstate 84 at exit 155 near Wendell.

ISP trooper Jason Lalonde said the driver, James Scalmanini, 73, told police he fell asleep at the wheel.

Lalonde said Scalmanini drove off the left shoulder of the eastbound lane, then corrected and lost control of his Chrysler Town and Country. Lalonde said the car went off the road and overturned in the median.

The passenger, Jean Scalmanini, 70, was ejected and died at the scene, Lalonde said.

Lalonde said that James

Scalmanini had minor injuries and was up and walking around at the scene, but he was transported to North Canyon Medical Center in Gooding by ambulance.

Both James and Jean Scalmanini are from Littleton, Colo., Lalonde said.

Westbound traffic on I-84 was closed for about an hour. Lalonde said Air St. Luke's was dispatched and landed on the interstate. The Gooding County Sheriff's Office and Wendell Police Department also responded to the scene.

Lalonde said troopers cleared the scene at about 11:30 a.m. Alcohol is not a factor in the crash, he said. A press release by ISP said it is unknown whether seat belts were worn.

ISP is still investigating the crash, Lalonde said.

T.F. Father Charged with Injuring Baby

BY ALISON GENE SMITH

TWIN FALLS • A Twin Falls man was arrested after, police say, he seriously injured his infant son earlier this year.

Michael Thomis Moranville, 21, was arraigned in Twin Falls County 5th District Court on Thursday on the charge of felony injury to a child. He was released on his own recognizance.

On March 4, Twin Falls police were notified that Boise detectives were dispatched to St. Luke's Medical Center in Boise for a 4-month-old Twin Falls child who was admitted into the pediatric intensive care unit for a brain bleed. Boise detectives told Twin Falls police that an X-ray revealed the child had two fractured ribs in advanced stages of healing.

The boy was brought to the hospital by his parents.

According to a police report, in an interview with detectives, Moranville, the boy's father, told police that on the evening of Dec. 23 he gave his son a bath at their home in the 1200 block of Twin Falls Loop in Twin Falls.

Moranville told police that he was holding the baby in his left arm while trying to remove the towel in which the baby was wrapped with his right arm, the report states. Then, he told police, the baby made a movement that caused him to slip out of Moranville's arms and fall to the floor, the report states. According to the report, Moranville said the baby may have hit a changing table shelf before hitting the carpeted floor.

Moranville told police that the baby cried for about 30 seconds and had no visible injuries.

The report states that although there were no visible injuries, the parents decided to take the baby to St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center to be checked out.

Moranville's wife told Boise police that medical staff then performed a CT scan on the baby and nothing of concern was found, the report states.

Moranville told police the baby began throwing up excessively between Dec. 29 and Jan. 11 and saw several doctors at St. Luke's in Twin Falls and Boise.

After several appointments, nurses ordered a CT scan because the baby's head began to grow abnormally, the father told police. The report states that the CT scan revealed that the baby had fluid in his brain.

Then, on March 5, Moranville and the baby's mother took the boy to St. Luke's in Boise where he was admitted and had surgery performed to relieve the pressure, the father told police. At that time doctors discovered the fractured ribs and became worried about child abuse, the report states.

In an interview with police on March 8, the report states, Moranville said that sometime between Jan. 15 and Jan. 18, he was having an argument with his wife. Moranville told police he grabbed the baby away from his wife but was not gentle with him. While walking away, Moranville told police, he squeezed his son too hard and the baby began to cry.

According to the report, Moranville also admitted to shaking the baby for about 10 seconds. Moranville said the baby did not lose consciousness or act strangely, the report states.

"Mr. Moranville told me that he didn't shake his son as if he meant to kill him because it was never his intention to hurt him," officer Eric Barzee wrote in the report. "But after it happened, he realized he'd gone too far."

Police also interviewed the baby's mother. The report states that the 20-year-old woman said her husband gets frustrated and punches walls or furniture, but she had never seen him hurt their son.

On March 19, the baby was released from the Boise hospital and placed with foster parents.

A March 27 report by doctors states that the baby's injuries are highly concerning and are consistent with the diagnosis of child abuse.

Twin Falls County prosecutors filed a case against Moranville on May 1. A preliminary hearing is scheduled for May 10.

More Explosives Found in Blaine County

BY ALISON GENE SMITH

SUN VALLEY • Sun Valley police announced Thursday that several explosives were found on the Elkhorn Springs property, located east of Ketchum, near Sun Valley.

Sun Valley police were alerted Tuesday by a maintenance employee about a suspicious item located in a pond on the property.

Sun Valley police officers responded and found a plastic soda bottle that appeared to have been damaged by an explosion. Police found shrapnel in the bottle and its immediate area.

A preliminary search was conducted, and another exploded plastic soda bottle and more shrapnel was found in an adjacent area.

On Wednesday, the Sun Valley Police Department, Ketchum Police and the Blaine County Sheriff's Office incident task force conducted a search of the Elkhorn Springs area and the immediate surrounding properties. Three additional devices were discovered.

Two exploded plastic bottles were discovered along with shrapnel material. A third device was found, which did not appear to have exploded.

Sun Valley Police Chief Walt Femling said police have been going door to door talking to residents in the area.

"We're just gathering information at this time," he said.

On Thursday afternoon, Femling said no tips had come in about the explosives.

The bottle bombs are plastic soda bottles or various types of water bottles that are filled with household chemicals. Some of the bottles have tape securing the cap.

In the last week and a half, the Sun Valley Police Department received citizen reports of possible gunshots and loud noises in the Elkhorn Springs area.

The bottle bombs found in Elkhorn Springs match the device that was found in an East Fork mailbox last week.

Femling said police believe the same person who made these explosives, made the one found in the mailbox.

Whoever made the explosives will face serious felony charges, Femling said.

"We ask people to be mindful of these devices," police wrote in a press release. "If you find a soda bottle that shows signs of swelling, that has tape, liquid or foil in it, do not touch it, and dial 911."

If anyone has information on these devices, call the Sun Valley Police Department at 208-622-5345.

Confidential reports may be sent by texting BCSOTIP with any pertinent information to 847411 (TIP411).

Small Wash. School Closes Because of Nice Weather

SEATTLE (AP) • In a sun-deprived part of Washington state, the promise of nice spring weather prompted a small private school to give students a day off to enjoy the sunshine.

Friday is a “sun day” of sorts for the 205 students at Bellingham Christian School, a small, private, nondenominational Christian school in Bellingham, Wash., about 90 miles north of Seattle.

“SCHOOL CANCELED DUE TO GREAT WEATHER! WAHOOO!” the school’s website announced Thursday night. “Yeah! It’s a Sun Day today and everyone gets the day off from school.”

Principal Bob Sampson said he wanted to give students some time to re-energize and enjoy the weather, adding that he wanted to create the excitement snow days get among the kids.

across their grazing allotments. For the BLM, it’s a chance to utilize land owners who may know the area better than they do.

On Tuesday, close to 15 RFPA members met with BLM firefighters to conduct a fire simulation.

The biggest concern the BLM has is maintaining constant and stable communication between the two organizations, said Chris Anthony, fire operations supervisor for the Twin Falls BLM District Office.

“We’re out here today to train for a mock fire but also go over communications, tactics and basic fire skills,” Anthony said.

Since most communication during a fire is done over radio, RFPA members spent time learning how to talk to dispatch centers and mobilize fire resources. Training also involved directing a tractor help contain a wild-fire and transitioning operations once the BLM shows up.

“It takes some practice getting used to talking on a radio,” Anthony said, “but it’s one of the most important things that we need to teach.”

The group huddled near Balanced Rock, just southeast of where last year’s Kinyon Road Fire consumed 216,000 acres. That fire destroyed grazing areas used by many of the RFPA members.

The RFPA hopes that their members can respond right away and hopefully keep massive fires to a minimum,

“It was a great way to get the word out about nonprofits in Idaho,” she said.

About 30 Magic Valley organizations and 80 across southern Idaho participated in this year.

On Thursday, local nonprofit representatives were at locations around south-central Idaho to answer questions and help community members navigate the online donation process.

United Way of South Central Idaho received $570 in donations.

Executive Director Bill Knopp said that was similar to donations received by United Way chapters around the state.

“It was great to see Idahoans turn out in support of the nonprofits,” he said.

A lot of the organizations that received the most donations were related to animals, Knopp said.

Habitat for Humanity of the Magic Valley received $3,051 from 46 donors.

Other participating Magic Valley nonprofits included Boys and Girls Clubs of Magic Valley, which received $600 in donations.

Interfaith Volunteer Caregivers of the Magic Valley received $2,870 from 20 donors. Its volunteers help those who are elderly, disabled or chronically ill with tasks and chores so they can remain in their homes.

Statewide, the Idaho Humane Society brought in $13,123, taking the top spot among large nonprofits.

The Idaho Foodbank and Planned Parenthood of the Great Northwest both received more than $13,000.

Companies, including St. Luke’s and Idaho Central Credit Union, have committed to matching a portion of the funds raised.

So far, corporations have agreed to chip in $40,000.

SHOSHONE • Greg Van Tighem knew he wanted to stop in Shoshone even before his bike tires touched American soil.

“It looked like a quaint little town with a lot of history,” Van Tighem said.

Ten days into a 1,748 mile trek up Highway 93, the railroad town reminded him of his home, more than 900 miles away.

Van Tighem, 52, a fire chief from Jasper, Alberta, pedaled into Shoshone on May 1, a couple of days before his estimated arrival date.

It was his eighth stop on a trip that started in Wickenburg, Ariz., and will end in his hometown in Canada.

Van Tighem is on a mission to help end multiple sclerosis. He is an MS Society ambassador with an estimated $150,000 raised in the past seven years. For this trip, his goal is to raise $93,000. As of May 1, he has raised $14,000.

“I am doing this because I am fairly healthy right now (but I could use a bit of exercise) and also because my many friends who suffer from MS are in need of a cure very soon so they can enjoy a healthy life like you and me take for granted, and I really think it’s time for a world free of MS! (MS Sucks),” Van Tighem wrote on his website.

The other reason is to help the Wickenburg

Wickenburg marks the most southern part of Highway 93 and Jasper is the northernmost point. The two towns are sister cities.

While in Shoshone, Van Tighem visited the local fire department and met with Mayor Dave Wendell.

Van Tighem said that since he is a fire chief, he usually goes to the fire hall of every town in which he stops.

“I’ve only been here a couple of hours, and I’m impressed,” he said by phone Wednesday shortly after arriving in Shoshone. “I’ve never seen lava rocks.”

On Thursday, May 2, his journey up Highway 93 would take him to see even more lava rocks and possibly some lava tubes. He planned to spend the night at Craters of the Moon National Monument and Preserve.

His final stop in Idaho will be in Salmon.

on the Burley sites.

“All odor complaints received by the DEQ are being investigated,” he said.

Dye said two DEQ personnel are sent to each site. If odors meet or exceed acceptable levels and can be tracked a specific business, the issue is turned over to the agency with proper jurisdiction.

For example, if the business is a confined animal feeding operation, the Idaho Department of Agriculture would have jurisdiction. If the facility is a municipal solid waste site, the health district is notified, Dye said.

During a Burley council meeting in April, a southwest Burley resident complained about odors emitted from nearby Ida-Pro, a vegetable-dehydrating plant. The city of Burley has also received complaints of sewage smells. Officials have requested help from the public to determine where the odors are coming from.

Ida-Pro does not have an air-quality permit. Instead, it has a DEQ exemption, which is issued based on numerous factors, Dye said.

“If an odor poses a threat to human health or causes pollution, the DEQ takes the lead resolving the odor problem,” Dye said.

Pressure on Bangladesh, Retailers to Fix Factories

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) • In the aftermath of a building collapse that killed more than 500 people, Bangladesh's garment manufacturers may face a choice of reform or perish.

Home to five factories that supplied clothing to retailers in Europe and the United States, the shoddily constructed building's collapse has put a focus on the high human price paid when Bangladesh's government ineptitude, Western consumer apathy and global retailing's drive for the lowest cost of production intersect.

Police said Friday that more than 500 bodies have been pulled from the wreckage of the eight-story Rana Plaza building that collapsed nine days ago, sparking desperate rescue efforts, a national outpouring of grief and violent street protests.

The tragedy followed the deaths of 112 people five months ago in a blaze that swept through the Tazreen Fashions garment factory in Dhaka and the death of seven in a January blaze.

With three disasters in quick succession, the reputation of Bangladesh's $20 billion garment industry, already notorious for its low wages and dismal safety record, has plummeted. International clothing brands and retailers that said they could ensure worker safety in developing countries through self-regulation such as factory inspections have also suffered a blow to their credibility.

Now, Bangladesh's garment manufacturers fear that a backlash has been set in motion that threatens fortunes and livelihoods in a business that employs more than 3 million people and accounts for about 80 percent of the impoverished country's exports.

"It's a crucial time for us," said Atiqul Islam, president of the Bangladesh Garment Manufacturers and Exporters Association. "We are doing our best to improve the safety measures in the factories. We expect our buyers to bear with us and help us to overcome the current crisis. It's not the time to turn away from us."

Earth movers work to remove rubble at the site of a garment factory that collapsed in Savar on Friday.

US Orders New Visa Reviews for Arriving Students

WASHINGTON (AP) • The Homeland Security Department ordered border agents "effective immediately" to verify that every international student who arrives in the U.S. has a valid student visa, according to an internal memorandum obtained Friday by The Associated Press. The new procedure is the government's first security change directly related to the Boston bombings.

The order from a senior official at U.S. Customs and Border Protection, David J. Murphy, was circulated Thursday and came one day after the Obama administration acknowledged that a student from Kazakhstan accused of hiding evidence for one of the Boston bombing suspects was allowed to return to the U.S. in January without a valid student visa.

The student visa for Azamat Tazhayakov had been terminated when he arrived in New York on Jan. 20. But the border agent in the airport did not have access to the information in the Homeland Security Department's Student and Exchange Visitor Information System, called SEVIS.

Family of Boston Bombing Suspect Makes Funeral Plans

BOSTON (AP) • The family of slain Boston Marathon bombing suspect Tamerlan Tsarnaev made arrangements Friday for his funeral as investigators searched the woods near a college attended by his younger brother and fellow suspect.

A funeral parlor in Worcester that is familiar with Muslim services said it will handle arrangements for Tsarnaev, whose body was released by the state medical examiner Thursday night. The body was taken initially to a North Attleborough funeral home, where it was greeted by about 20 protesters. Peter Stefan, owner of Graham Putnam and Mahoney Funeral Parlors in Worcester, an hour's drive west of Boston, said everybody deserves a dignified burial service no matter the circumstances of his or her death; and he is prepared for protests.

Tsarnaev, 26, died three days after the bombing in a furious getaway attempt in which authorities say he and his brother, ethnic Chechens from Russia who came to the United States about a decade ago, killed an MIT campus police officer and tossed homemade bombs and grenades at police. The younger brother, Dzhokhar Tsarnaev, 19, ran over his brother's body as he drove away from the scene to escape, authorities have said.

The medical examiner had yet to release the cause of Tamerlan Tsarnaev's death,

pending the filing of a death certificate. Relatives had said they would claim the body, but Stefan said Friday funeral arrangements had yet to be worked out and he could not say whether he has possession of the body. Meanwhile, two U.S. officials said Dzhokhar Tsarnaev told interrogators that he and his brother initially considered setting off their bombs on July Fourth.

Boston police said they planned to review security procedures for the Independence Day Boston Pops concert and fireworks display, which draws a crowd of more than 500,000 annually and is broadcast to a national TV audience. Authorities plan to look at security procedures for large events held in other cities, notably the massive New Year's Eve celebration held each year in New York City's Times Square, Massachusetts state police spokesman David Procopio said.

Obama: US, Latin America Must Fight Drug Violence

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) • President Barack Obama on Friday cast Mexico as a nation ready to take "its rightful place in the world" and move past the drug battles and violence that have defined its relationship with the United States.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Barack Obama and Costa Rica's President Laura Chinchilla pose at their bilateral meeting at the Casa Amarilla in San Jose on Friday.

He then headed to Costa Rica to prod Central American leaders to tackle those same issues more aggressively. Obama's three-day visit to Mexico and Costa Rica is his first to Latin America since winning re-election. In Mexico, he tried to set a new course for ties between the U.S. and its southern neighbor, eagerly promoting Mexico's improving economy and its democracy.

Despite Obama's rosy portrayal, Mexico's high poverty rates have barely budged in recent years. Its economy grew by only about a 1 percent rate in the first three months of 2013 and is not creating anywhere near the 1 million jobs annually it needs to employ young Mexicans entering the workforce. Without jobs, many young people have become easier prey for recruitment by drug cartels. Obama said, though he reiterated his opposition to legalization of such drugs, which some Latin American leaders have called for.

Afghanistan Shows Americans How Not to Fight Wars

In the unforgiving Afghan landscape, we have learned that you can't buy a warlord. You can only rent one. We owe this education to our man in Kabul, President Hamid Karzai.

For more than a decade, it has been recently confirmed, U.S. dollars packed into suitcases, backpacks and plastic shopping bags have been delivered every month or so to Karzai's office. "We called it 'ghost money,'" Khalil Roman, who served as the Afghan president's deputy chief of staff from 2002 until 2005, told the New York Times. "It came in secret, and it left in secret."

In the theory of imperialism, we would venture into the Hindu Kush and reform its ways. It would, instead, be the other way around: The United States took to the ways of "the East," and baksheesh is the order of the day. We do business by the rules of the warlords.

Almost three years ago, Karzai proudly let us know that we weren't his sole benefactor. "They do give us bags of money — yes, yes, it is done, we are grateful to the Iranians for this."

America had struck into his country, and could find no way out. Two presidents — George W. Bush and Barack Obama — paid court to him even as they knew that the thing was a sham, even as the cables of their envoys told of a voracious group of bandit chieftains who were keen to keep the foreign powers in place while they pro- claimed their attachment to the sovereignty of their own country.

Fouad Ajami

Bloomberg News

There was no Afghanistan to speak of, yet we indulged the fantasy of a country learning to make its way in the world. We held out the promise of Afghan security forces "in the lead" before too long.

Deep down, we knew that these forces are certain to melt away when the foreign protection is withdrawn. We looked away as Karzai, as recently as a few weeks ago, ac- cused his American protectors of colluding with the Tal- iban against his country.

A rogue ally was on the loose: The man needed Ameri- can help as he rallied against the Americans. He was without shame, that ally. Corruption was a way of life in his country, but truth be told, the American largesse, and the eagerness to accommodate the warlords, fed this cul- ture of corruption. We were snookered at the bazaar. We had driven up the strategic rent of those Afghan mountains.

Bush and Obama had both declared the centrality of Afghanistan to the war on terrorism. Obama had upped the ante and memorably described the Afghanistan War as the good war of necessity. We had to pay for the privi- lege of having access to that real estate.

A man who saw through the sordid reality of Afghanistan, Richard Holbrooke, described the role of the U.S. special envoy there as pouring water into a bucket with holes in it. He was sidelined and mocked in Obama's councils. Holbrooke, who died in 2010 and who had his first tutorial about doomed causes back in the Vietnam War, had sinned by saying some inconvenient truths about Afghanistan.

Some 90 percent of the Afghan budget is provided by American taxpayers: No wonder Karzai rails against us with such abandon.

This war — need we repeat the customary mantra, America's longest war — must be deemed unique in the annals of warfare. No great passion attends it. It has very few, if any, defenders, and no great wrath is aimed at it. The set date, the year 2014, for all the transitions that will take place there, for a "responsible" close to this war, was a convenient two years removed from the last U.S. presi- dential election. The war wasn't debated, the incumbent didn't proclaim ownership of that war, and his Republi- can rivals offered no challenge to the strategy of oblivion and drift.

There ought to be a law in the affairs of nations: Wars can't be waged against the background of popular indif- ference. Wars and their justice, and the way they are fought, must be debated and argued about. We mark time in the Hindu Kush — there are no gains on that horizon.

We would especially like to thank the many busi- nesses that have supported our committee over the past 18 years. We also truly ap- preciate the support we have received from our friends at E-Z Money Pawn for handling our firearms transactions.

Thank You to TF Officer Adam Dixon for Being There When I Needed Him

On Sunday afternoon, April 14, I stopped at the bank to do some business. As I pulled into the bank parking lot, I noticed a gentleman slumped over in his car right in the middle of the road at the back of the bank. I fin- ished at the bank but sat there just to see if the man was alright. He never moved. Not having a cell phone with me, I thought I'd run home and call the police.

Just then a police car came down Falls Avenue and stopped at the red light. I pulled out of the parking lot and honked and waved at the policeman. Sensing my distress, he never hesi- tated but immediately fol- lowed me back to the bank, not knowing what was go- ing on or what situation awaited him. In the parking lot, I explained about the man.

This young officer quick- ly assessed the situation, called for backup, an ambu- lance and medical person- nel. My heart was beating a million times a minute, but he was calm and profes- sional the entire time.

As I was leaving, Officer Adam Dixon thanked me. But I want to thank him and all of the other police offi- cers who work so hard and courageously for the people of Twin Falls. Officer Dixon is not just a fine policeman but a kind and caring young man as demonstrated by his interaction with the man in the car. He probably saved that man's life with his quick actions.

Thank you again, Officer Dixon. I appreciated you being there when you were so needed.

China Emerging as New Force in World for Drone Warfare

BEIJING (AP) • Determined to kill or capture a murderous Mekong River drug lord, China’s security forces considered a tactic they’d never tried before: calling a drone strike on his remote hideaway deep in the hills of Myanmar.

The attack didn’t happen — the man was later captured and brought to China for trial — but the fact that authorities were considering such an option cast new light on China’s unmanned aerial vehicle program, which has been quietly percolating for years and now appears to be moving into overdrive.

Chinese aerospace firms have developed dozens of drones, known also as unmanned aerial vehicles, or UAVs. Many have appeared at air shows and military parades, including some that bear an uncanny resemblance to the Predator, Global Hawk and Reaper models used with deadly effect by the U.S. Air Force and CIA. Analysts say that although China still trails the U.S. and Israel, the industry leaders, its technology is maturing rapidly and on the cusp of widespread use for surveillance and combat strikes.

China’s move into large-scale drone deployment displays its military’s growing sophistication and could challenge U.S. military dominance in the Asia-Pacific. It also could elevate the threat to neighbors with territorial disputes with Beijing, including Vietnam, Japan and India.

German WWII Bomber to Be Salvaged off UK Coast

LONDON (AP) • A famous German World War II bomber nicknamed “the flying pencil” has spent decades submerged in the English Channel after being shot down in the Battle of Britain. Now, divers are braving dangerous tides to bring it to the surface.

British officials on Friday announced a complex salvage operation just off the Kent coast in southeastern England to rescue the only known surviving example of the German Dornier Do 17 bomber. The operation is under way and if all the preparations go well, the plane will be lifted from the water in three or four weeks.

But the director of London’s RAF Museum, which has been raising money for the salvage, cautioned that the recovery would be risky — divers will only be able to work for 45 minutes at a time because of perilous tides, and they face other challenges.

“We are not guaranteed success,” Peter Dye said. “There have been previous aircraft recovery projects that didn’t go so well, cases where the structure has disintegrated on retrieval. When it breaks the surface, gravity and the laws of mechanics come into play, so we very much hope the frame we’ve constructed will support that structure.”

Corrosion is another obstacle that could spoil the procedure, he said. RAF Museum officials also said the challenging salvage will be the biggest recovery of its kind and they hope to one day display the Do 17, an aircraft nicknamed “the flying pencil” because of its narrow fuselage, at the museum. The museum has already raised the estimated $930,000 that will be needed for the lifting phase of the operation, with the help of a substantial donation from the National Heritage Memorial Fund, and funds are being raised for the conservation effort.

The wreck is submerged in about 60 feet of water. The plane was shot down during the 1940 Battle of Britain, a months-long clash over the skies of Britain that saw RAF fighters engaged in a colossal life-or-death struggle with the German Luftwaffe.

Experts said the bomber, discovered by divers five years ago, is remarkably undamaged despite the passage of time. Dye said the plane would be exhibited next to a Hawker Hurricane fighter that had also been shot down during the battle.

“We feel it’s important that they be exhibited side by side,” he said, pointing out that two German airmen died in the Dornier. “With time, we recognize that young men died on both sides, which is why we don’t intend to restore it. We will conserve it and place it on exhibition alongside the wreck of a Hurricane shot down at much the same time in which a British pilot died.”

Museum officials say the Dornier was shot down on Aug. 26, 1940, at the height of the Battle of Britain. It was forced to make an emergency landing on the Goodwin Sands at low tide after it came under attack by British fighter planes. It touched down safely but then sank — two of the crewmen were captured alive and taken prisoner; the other two died. Their bodies were found washed ashore later.

If the plane is lifted from the Channel without damage, it will still be several years before it can be put on display. It will be packed in a special chemical gel and plastic sheeting to protect it from damage caused by exposure to air, then taken by road to the RAF Museum in Cosford for extensive conservation treatment.

COURT ALLOWS HUNGARIAN ANTI-SEMITIC GROUP TO PROTEST DURING JEWISH SUMMIT

BY ZOLTAN SIMON
Bloomberg News

BUDAPEST • Hungary A Hungarian court overturned a police ban on a planned anti-Semitic protest Saturday to coincide with a meeting of the World Jewish Congress in Budapest.

The court ruled that police failed to ban the protest within a 48-hour limit and also failed to provide evidence for why it wants to stop the protest, according to the ruling posted on the Metropolitan Court’s website Friday.

The president of the radical nationalist Jobbik party, Gabor Vona, is scheduled to speak at the event to remember “the victims of Bolshevism and Zionism,” MTI state news service reported Friday.

Antisemitism has been on the rise in Hungary, with Jobbik now the third-biggest party in Parliament. Jobbik lawmaker Marton Gyongyosi on Nov. 26 called for a list to be drawn up of Jewish legislators and government members who pose a “national security risk.” More than 500,000 Hungarians, mostly Jews, were killed in the Holocaust, according to the Budapest-based Holocaust Memorial Center.

The WJC holding its meeting in Budapest is a “strong signal” that Hungary is on a “dangerous track,” President Ronald S. Lauder said in an article published by Suddeutsche Zeitung on April 4. The plenary assembly begins on May 5.

The court’s ruling is “unacceptable” and violates the spirit of the Constitution, Prime Minister Viktor Orban said in a statement Friday. Orban, who will address the WJC on Sunday, said he asked the head of the Supreme Court to “review what legal tools are available” to reverse the ruling and ordered his interior minister to block the protest.

Lauder, in his article, said Orban “panders to the far-right fringe of Hungarian politics,” an allegation the premier rejected in a Yedioth Ahronot interview published Friday.

“We are not anti-Semites,” Orban said, according to the Israeli newspaper. “Our policy is based on zero tolerance for antisemitism.”

Jewish groups criticized the government last year for expanding the reading curriculum for schools to include books by Jozsef Nyiro, a member of Parliament during World War II and an ally of Ferenc Szalasi, a former head of the fascist Arrow Cross party who was executed for war crimes. Parliament speaker Laszlo Kover, who co-founded the ruling Fidesz party along with Orban, organized a reburial ceremony for Nyiro last year. The government has denied seeking to legitimize anti-Semitic views.

In March, the government decorated television journalist Ferenc Szaniszló, whose program was fined for anti-Semitic and anti-Roma messages. The government asked the journalist to return the award after protests by Israel and the United States.

Stung by the international criticism, the government invited members of the International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance to visit in July and sent officials to the U.S. to meet with Jewish groups. In January, European and Israeli officials from the Inter-Parliamentary Coalition for Combating Anti-Semitism met with officials in Budapest.

Orban last month banned a motorcycle protest which had the slogan “Give Gas” and which was to have coincided with a Holocaust memorial march in Budapest. Jewish groups had complained that the protest amounted to a call for genocide.

Navy Unveils Squadron of Manned, Unmanned Craft

The Navy on Thursday inaugurated its first squadron with both manned and unmanned aircraft amid debate over the military's burgeoning use of drones in warfare.

Military officials launched the effort by reactivating the Helicopter Maritime Strike Squadron 35, known as the "Magicians," which served for 19 years before being deactivated in 1992.

The new squadron "points to the future of naval aviation," Vice Admiral David H. Buss, commander of naval air forces, told the crowd attending the ceremony at Naval Air Station North Island on Coronado, near San Diego.

The squadron is expected to have eight manned helicopters and 10 of the Fire Scout MQ-8B, an unmanned helicopter that tracks targets and eventually will be armed, said Cmdr. Christopher S. Hewlett, who is the squadron's commanding officer. The squadron will operate the Fire Scouts from the Navy's new littoral combat ships in the Pacific in about a year.

Pakistan's Lead Prosecutor in Benazir Bhutto Case Killed

Gunmen on Friday killed the lead Pakistani prosecutor in two high-profile cases — the assassination of former Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto, and the brutal assault on civilians in Mumbai — shocking a country reeling from Taliban attacks as it prepares for nationwide elections.

Chaudhry Zulfikar Ali was gunned down in a hail of bullets as he drove to court in the normally quiet capital, where a concentration of diplomats, government and military officials and aid workers live. Nobody claimed responsibility for the killing, but as Ali's work put him in direct conflict with militant groups, suspicion immediately fell on them.

The shooting in Islamabad comes as Pakistan prepares for nationwide elections on May 11. Taliban militants have tried to derail the elections with a wave of shootings and bombings aimed at candidates. Also on Friday, in the southern city of Karachi, gunmen killed an anti-Taliban election candidate along with his 6-year-old son and a political activist.

Rat Meat Sold as Lamb in Latest China Food Scandal

Chinese police have broken up a criminal ring accused of taking meat from rats and foxes and selling it as lamb in the country's latest food safety scandal.

The Ministry of Public Security released results of a three-month crackdown on food safety violators, saying in a statement that authorities investigated more than 380 cases and arrested 904 suspects. Among those arrested were 63 people who allegedly ran an operation in Shanghai and the coastal city of Wuxi that bought fox, mink, rat and other meat that had not been tested for quality and safety, processed it with additives like gelatin and passed it off as lamb.

Despite years of food scandals — from milk contaminated with an industrial chemical to the use of industrial dyes in eggs — China has been unable to clean up its food supply chain.

The holiday was introduced in 2004 as the Day of the National Flag, but also celebrates other national symbols, including the white eagle. The day celebrates Poland's sovereignty after four decades of communist rule that ended peacefully in 1989. The 1,100-pound sculpture is the work of Poland's leading chocolate maker Janusz Profus, and was unveiled during a downtown march marking the holiday.

President Bronislaw Komorowski told a crowd in front of the palace that a free Poland is everybody's dream come true and everybody should rejoice on this national day.

Drivers Up for the Challenge on Saturday at MV Speedway

BY LINDA BRITTSAN
For the Times-News

TWIN FALLS • One of the most unique and competitive racing divisions in the Northwest region will make its season debut tonight at Magic Valley Speedway.

Along with high-speed late model action, The Rocky Mountain Challenge Series also features a distinctive point system that awards drivers not only for their Victory Lane appearance, but also for each position gained from their starting spot in the main event race. Points are also awarded for qualifying and heat race finishes.

They're the key to a championship. "A dream night would be to qualify the fastest, do well in the heat race, pass a lot of cars and win the main event," said Bruce Quale, 2012 champion in the series. "But realistically, if we could finish in the top three, it would be a good night."

Up to the top 20 positions from qualifying are inverted for the main event, meaning the fastest qualifiers of the night will be placed at the back of the field to the start the race. This adds to the possibility of racking up points — and the prospect of running into trouble.

The driver's share of the purse is also based on their total point accumulation for the evening.

More Stories Made at Meet of Champions

BY NICK RULAND
nruland@magicvalley.com

BUHL • One year ago to the day, Buhl coach Andrew Moretto, a former state track athlete with the Indians, was hit in the head with a discus during practice.

He nearly died.

"They told us he was not supposed to make it," daughter Kaylee Moretto said.

Moretto broke two of his vertebrae in his neck. After four days in intensive care, another two weeks in the hospital and months rehabilitating, he returned to coaching.

Kaylee Moretto sees track differently these days. She hasn't given it up. Since the incident, she's taken it more seriously. She's getting even better grades in school, too.

"He's been an inspiration," Moretto said. "It was a miracle. If he was able to overcome that, I can do anything."

Moretto, who placed sixth at state last year in the shot put, has her eyes on a top three finish. She won the shot-put and finished second in discus at the 3A-1A District IV Meet of Champions Friday. She's added close to 15 feet on her discus throw and another foot to her shot-put since the incident last season.

She currently has the seventh-best discus and fifth-best shot put throws at the 3A level.

"It's been a lot of hard hours," Moretto said.

While few had motivational stories as rousing as Moretto's, others at the 1A-3A district and state prep meet have been leaning on family all year — some their entire careers.

Raft River sophomore Alexis Tuckett finished second in the high jump (4-foot-6) and was the second leg on the Trojans' winning girls medley relay team.

"I'm used to giving it my all," Tuckett said. "My older brother (C.J.) played football at Weber State. He just graduated. He is really competitive. I've learned how to be competitive from him."

Hansen junior Kaleb Gunnell learned how to throw a shot-put and discus from his dad.

Now he's trying to take his dad's school records, set in 1995.

"He wants me to do it," Gunnell said.

Mascot Shenanigans at BruHawk Relays

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Which is faster — a tiger, bobcat, hawk or bear?

On Friday at the inaugural BruHawk Relays at Canyon Ridge High School, the mascots from rival Class 4A schools settled the question once and for all.

The Twin Falls Bruin, with senior Ryan Carlson inside, pulled away in the final 10 meters of the 50-meter race.

"This meet, you want to come and have fun, but you want to compete at the same time. I've had a smile on my face the whole meet, but I'm still trying hard," Carlson said.

Jerome's Tiger exploded off the line at the starter's pistol, but tumbled and stumbled to the ground, losing his head in the process.

"I came out and just couldn't see," said Jerome senior Jesse Smalley. "The mask is so big and it was shaking around, I didn't see anybody. I tripped over somebody. I think I ran into the Canyon Ridge kid. He couldn't see, either. He only has peripherals; he doesn't have nose vision."

Conspiracy theorists began buzzing immediately following the race, speculating about the Tiger's demise.

In a pre-race interview, Beau Dunford (the Riverhawk) was asked if mascots would be disqualified for tripping.

"I think everything is legal," Dunford said. "I'll have to try something."

Dunford's strategy for the race was, "to soar like a hawk."

It's doubtful, however, that he intentionally tripped the Tiger, since his main focus was, "probably the Bruin. I'm not worried about the Bobcat."

The Bobcat, freshman Garrett Morgan of Burley, wasn't worried about winning.

"I just wanted to have some fun," Morgan said. "(The finish line) was what I was looking forward to."

LeBron James Wins 4th NBA MVP Award

ASSOCIATED PRESS

LeBron James is getting his fourth Most Valuable Player award — and the only mystery left is whether the vote was unanimous.

The Miami Heat star will be introduced Sunday as the award winner, according to a person familiar with the results and who spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity because the league has not publicly announced this year's recipient. James will become the fifth player with at least four MVP awards, joining Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Michael Jordan, Bill Russell and Wilt Chamberlain.

No one has ever swept every first-place vote in the NBA's MVP balloting. After the season he had, James could be the first.

"I don't know who else you'd vote for," Heat forward Chris Bosh said Friday. "No offense to everybody else, but that's just how good he has played this year."

James averaged 26.8 points, 8.0 rebounds and 7.3 assists this season, shooting a career-best 56 percent. It was absolutely no surprise that he won the award, and given the timetable for Miami's next game — the Heat don't open Eastern Conference semifinal play until Monday night against Brooklyn or Chicago — it had been widely assumed for several days that Sunday would be the day.

If tradition holds, NBA Commissioner David Stern will then present James with the trophy again Monday night in front of the Miami fans.

"I absolutely have not even thought about it," James said earlier this week when asked if he considered the weight of winning the award four times in five years. "I have not thought about it, until you just brought it up. I know the history. It would be a unique, unbelievable class I would be a part of, so we'll see."

Only Russell had won four MVPs in five years, and only Abdul-Jabbar had gone back-to-back on the award twice. Abdul-Jabbar has six MVPs in all, Jordan and Russell have five apiece and Chamberlain won four.

James won the award in 2009 and 2010, only got four first-place votes in 2011 — his first season with the Heat — then reclaimed the award last season.

"The other day I was sitting there with him, a week or two ago and it dawned on me," Heat guard Dwyane Wade told the AP. "I said to him, 'Do you know you're about to get four MVPs in five years?'" And he's like, 'Man, I'm just a kid from Akron.' He could have gotten five in five. You know how crazy that is? This is crazy."

Mayweather, Guerrero Square Off in Title Fight

ASSOCIATED PRESS

LAS VEGAS • He claims to be more mature now, chastened by a stint in jail and eager to be just as much a businessman as a fighter. Indeed, Floyd Mayweather Jr. acted almost statesmanlike earlier this week when Robert Guerrero's father began screaming that he was a woman beater who would finally get beaten himself Saturday night.

"The fighters are the ones who fight, not the fathers," Mayweather said calmly.

If it's an act, it's a pretty good one. Armed with a new six-fight television deal with Showtime that should keep him the world's highest paid athlete, Mayweather has for the most part taken the high road while promoting his fight against Robert Guerrero as must-see TV for anyone who has an extra $69.95 for the pay-per-view.

The two meet in a scheduled 12-round welterweight title match at the MGM

Guerrero

Mayweather

Grand hotel in what will be Mayweather's first fight in a year. It's also his first ring appearance since serving a jail term for assaulting the mother of his children, an experience he said helped him grow up.

Sometimes, though, he just can't help himself. The old Mayweather surfaces, complete with the bad-boy persona that has made him the biggest draw in boxing.

It could be that Mayweather as the promoter is trying to give a fight that still hasn't sold out some much needed buzz. More likely, though, is that he's looking for a bit of a mental edge for a bout that, despite the odds, could be very competitive.

He called Guerrero a hypocrite for promoting himself as a devout Christian, and then getting arrested on gun charges in New York. He mocked him for bringing up his jail sentence when he may be facing one himself.

And a few days before the fight he even accused Guerrero of trying to win fans by using his wife's leukemia — which she overcame with a bone marrow transplant — as a way to get sympathy.

"I'm glad she was able to beat leukemia, which is a great thing," Mayweather said. "But they keep selling the same story. It's time to talk about something different."

Guerrero has had his share of things to say about Mayweather, too, though it was his father who made the loudest statement when he repeatedly called Mayweather a woman beater at the final prefight press conference. The game plan in the Guerrero camp is the same as it will be in the ring — not to back off when challenged.

Gardiner Grabs the Early Lead at Quail Hollow

CHARLOTTE, N.C. • Any other PGA Tour rookie might be rattled to see Rory McIlroy and Lee Westwood right behind him on the leaderboard. Scott Gardiner was delighted, which speaks more to how he got there than where it might lead.

After missing eight consecutive cuts, Gardiner ended that streak in style Friday in the Wells Fargo Championship with a 5-under 67 that gave him a one-shot lead over McIlroy, Westwood and two others among early starters at Quail Hollow.

Kobe Bryant Battles Mom, NJ Business over Auction

TRENTON, N.J. • Kobe Bryant is in a court battle to try to keep his mother from auctioning off mementoes from his high school days in Pennsylvania and his early years with the Los Angeles Lakers.

A New Jersey auction house filed a lawsuit in U.S. District Court in Camden on Thursday for the right to sell the stuff after the NBA star's lawyers wrote the firm telling it to cancel a planned June auction.

The disagreement is a high-value, high-profile version of a question many families face: Can Mom get rid of the stuff a grown child left at home?

IAAF Says 2 Turkish Athletes Charged with Doping

LONDON • Olympic 1,500-meter champion Asli Cakir Alptekin of Turkey was charged with doping and could be stripped of her gold medal. Another female Turkish athlete, hurdler Nevin Yanit, also was charged with doping violations and could lose her European indoor title.

Alptekin had abnormal blood values in her biological passport, IAAF spokesman Nick Davies told The Associated Press on Friday. The passport system tracks variations in an athlete's blood profile over time for signs of cheating.

Yanit, meanwhile, had "multiple positive findings following target tests carried out in-competition and out-of-competition" by track and field's governing body, Davies said.

Spanish League Looks at Possible Match Fix

BARCELONA, Spain • The Spanish soccer league is investigating a game between first division clubs Levante and Deportivo La Coruna for possible match-fixing.

League spokesman Juan Carlos Santamaria said Friday the league is examining Deportivo's 4-0 win at Levante on April 13.

Quale, who lists one of his favorite movies as "Talladega Nights," will be back to the series to defend his title.

Opening night also awaits the return of veteran driver Steve Jones, who holds numerous MVS championships along with the 2011 RMCS title, to the one-third mile track. On the other side of the spectrum 16-year old Hannah Newhouse, who is stepping up from the MVS late model series, will unveil her new Thompson Motor-sports ride.

"I have turned a lot of laps at Magic Valley, so I know the line there pretty well and I feel pretty comfortable," Newhouse said. "But this first race is all going to be about getting a feel for the extra horsepower. It's the same concept (as the late model car) but when you're going that much faster with that much more force in speed in side-by-side racing, you kind of have to modify how you race."

"Everything is going to be happening really quick out there."

She added that one of her goals this year is to capture Rookie of the Year honors in the series.

Other drivers familiar to MVS fans expected to compete in the 75-lap Lonnie Lowder Memorial are Jonathon Gomez, Travis Monett and Morgan Rasmussen. Gomez is a multi-time RMCS race winner and will be a strong contender for the win at the track that launched his racing career.

Throughout the season the teams will also make visits to Meridian Speedway and Rocky Mountain Raceway in West Jordan, Utah.

The series returns to MVS June 14 and 15 and August 9 and 10 for double-header events. The June weekend, sponsored by Century Boatland, will feature a 200-lap main event race — and $10,000 to the winner.

According to RMCS Race Director Derrick Shannon, it will be "the richest and biggest event in series history — boasting a starting field of at least 24 of the best late model drivers from throughout the region."

In action for the NASCAR Whelen Weekly Racing Series are the Super Stocks, Street Stocks, Thunderdogs and Hornets.

Tonight's qualifying begins at 5:30 p.m., heat races begin at 6 and main event racing starts at 7.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. • A trainer flooding the field with five horses. A black jockey trying to make history, and a woman rider, too. Louisville coach Rick Pitino seeking a double — champions in racing and basketball. He's sure in the right place.

The 19-horse field for Saturday's Kentucky Derby is balanced, with no definitive favorite.

Orb is the pre-race choice, just barely. Nearly overshadowed is his trainer, Shug McGaughey, who really, really wants this race. Doug O'Neill trying to win back-to-back. And then there's the threat of rain, which has done in some of the best-laid plans on race day.

It sure looks like a topsy-turvy Derby. "I don't think we've got Secretariat in this bunch, even Seattle Slew," four-time Derby-winning trainer D. Wayne Lukas said, "so I think it's going to boil down to the trip and the pace and a lot of other things."

Todd Pletcher will saddle a record-tying five horses — undefeated and early second choice Verrazano, Revolutionary, Overanalyze, Palace Malice and Charming Kitten.

"We laid out a plan to get here with them, and it's all come down pretty much like we hoped," said Pletcher, who has one Derby win with 31 previous starters.

Verrazano is 4-0 in his young career, not having run as a 2-year-old. He'll be trying to disprove an old Derby jinx: no horse since Apollo in 1882 has won without racing as a juvenile.

Relative unknown Kevin Krigger will be aboard Goldencents, trying to become the first black jockey to win since Jimmy Winkfield in 1902.

"I'm going to ride us the race that should get us to the Kentucky Derby winner's circle," Krigger said.

The colt is partly owned by Pitino, whose Cardinals won the NCAA championship last month. The coach recently got elected to basketball's Hall of Fame, so a Derby win would complete the ultimate trifecta.

Rosie Napravnik wants to grab history for herself, too.

No female jockey has ever won the Derby, although she came closest, with a ninth-place finish in 2011. Napravnik will ride 15-1 long shot Mylute.

"He feels great, he's acting great and I'm very confident heading into the Derby," she said.

Orb was the narrow 7-2 early favorite for the 139th Derby. He comes in on a four-race winning streak for McGaughey, the 62-year-old trainer whose Hall of Fame resume lacks a Derby victory. He's making his second appearance since 1989, when he finished second with Easy Goer.

"I hope the track is fast and safe for everybody and nobody has any excuses, and let the best horse win," McGaughey said.

points by throwing down an impressive gymnastics layout.

Besides the mascot sprint, the unique meet also included nontraditional events such as a distance medley and a 4x200-meter co-ed race. By far the biggest crowd cheer of the afternoon was reserved for the relay race for kids with special needs.

"It's a nice, relaxing day," said Burley track coach Gary Elsensohn. "No pressure. I think the big thing is it gives every kid a chance to be on this track and get ready for next week, so they can get a feel for this track."

The Class 4A District IV

championships will be held next Wednesday and Thursday at Canyon Ridge.

"At the regular meets kids have certain expectations, but at a meet like this where it's very nontraditional, it gives them a chance to relax and try something new," Elsensohn said.

Results for the varsity events were not available in time for this report.

Oakley's Critchfield Inks with Green River

Editor's Note: Friday's sports section inadvertently published an incomplete version of this story. This is the completed version.

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

OAKLEY • When Oakley High's Mallory Critchfield blew her knee out just two games into her senior basketball season, she thought her athletic career was over.

"I was so depressed. I don't think I've ever hit that low of a point in my entire life," Critchfield said.

But after surgery and four-and-a-half months of physical therapy, Critchfield is getting what she is calling her "miracle chance."

Critchfield has signed a letter of intent to play volleyball at Green River Community College in Auburn, Wash. GRCC competes in the Northwest Athletic Association of Community Colleges (NWAACC).

"This is my miracle chance, I guess you could say, because after my knee happened, I didn't think anybody really thought I would be able to do anything," Critchfield said.

After an all-Canyon Conference season in volleyball, Critchfield was poised to also perform as one of the Magic Valley's top basketball players. But a torn ACL, MCL and meniscus sidelined the senior standout, who has also been forced to sit out the track and field season this spring.

"I learned that sports isn't everything," Critchfield said. "When everything was good, I took (sports) for granted because I could do it. But when that's taken away from you, you realize that it's not everything and life goes on without sports."

Life appeared to be going on without sports for Critchfield, as several college recruiters were scared off by the knee injury.

But then GRCC coach Kyle Densley called.

"I told him (about the injury) and he said 'if we can get you playing by August that would be great,'" said Critchfield, who is the daughter of David and Debbie Critchfield. "I was like, 'Oh my gosh, this could be it! I'm really grateful for that.'"

In Auburn, Critchfield will join Burley High's Alison Hepworth and Gooding High's Megan Behunin, who signed with GRCC volleyball earlier this spring.

Critchfield will undergo a second surgery today to scope and clean out her knee, but she expects to be ready for the volleyball season this fall.

"I've been really impressed with her; through the injury she was extremely positive and kept working hard," said Oakley volleyball coach Josh Aston. "She was a great senior leader on our team. There were a lot of times she took it upon herself to carry the team and give it everything she had."

Episcopal Church of the Ascension Finishes Phase One of Its Labyrinth

BY TETONA DUNLAP
tdunlap@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • This is a quiet place.

Julie Schwerman, Karen Lindemer and Linda Sojka worked silently April 30 as they painted over chips in the labyrinth's route. The next day it would be sprayed with sealant.

The labyrinth is a project that has taken 20 years to come to fruition and members of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension are eager to finally share it with the community.

On May 9, the Episcopal Church of the Ascension will hold a dedication for its meditation garden and outdoor labyrinth from 6-8 p.m. The community is invited.

Schwerman, one of the project's organizers, said walking a labyrinth is a chance to meditate, contemplate and find your center.

What Is a Labyrinth?

According to the Labyrinth Society, a worldwide labyrinth community, "a labyrinth is a single path or unicursal tool for personal, psychological and spiritual transformation."

"There is misinformation that a labyrinth is a maze," Schwerman said, adding that labyrinths only have one path in and out. The 40-foot labyrinth behind the Episcopal Church of the Ascension is based on the same design found at Grace Cathedral in San Francisco, which is modeled after one laid in the floor of the Chartes Cathedral in France around 1220 A.D.

"It's healing just to walk," Lindemer said. "You are in different parts of the labyrinth, different parts of the circle, and the mind stays quiet. It's balancing for the right and left brain."

Why Walk a Labyrinth?

A pamphlet provided by Episcopal Church of the Ascension lists a number of reason why walking a labyrinth is beneficial.

- A quieting of the mind.
- A grounding and centering of the self.
- A sense of being healed.
- Increased unity and wholeness, on both individual and community levels.
- An increased awareness of self and relationship of the self to others and to God.
- A vehicle for God's voice to deepen our understanding of the mystery of ourselves and of God.
- Experiences in which we move out of chronos times into kairos time (from clock time to dream time) into a state in which we can nonjudgmentally receive and accept whatever arises within us.

It's exercise too.

If you walk the entire length of the labyrinth at Episcopal Church of the Ascension you will have traveled 861.5 feet.

How Many Labyrinths Are in Idaho?

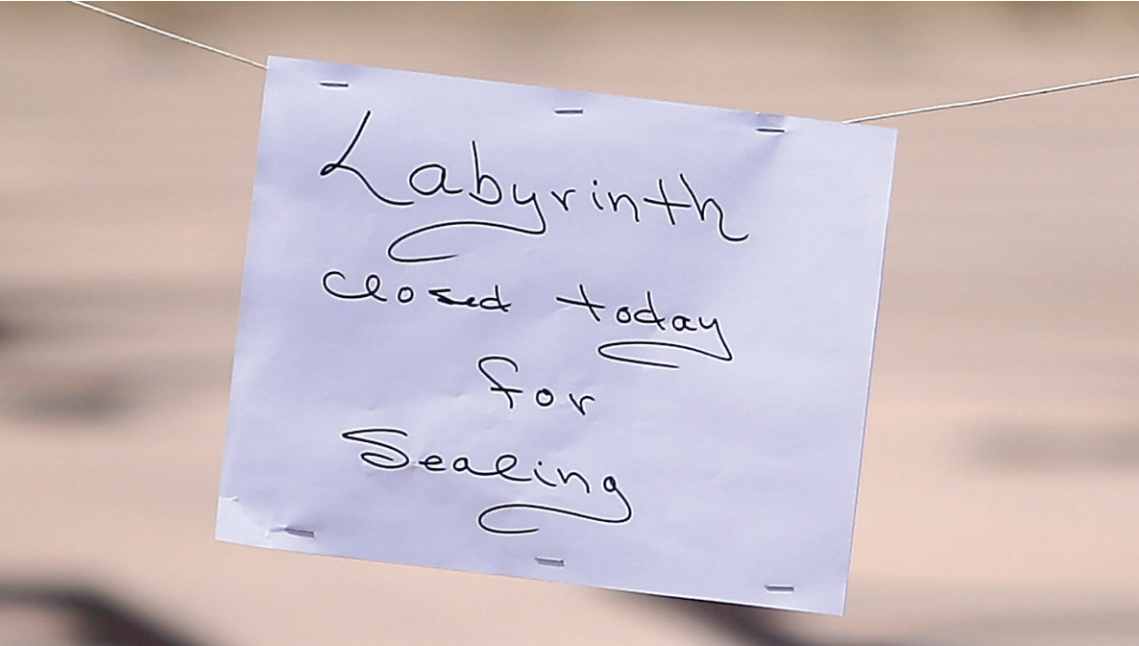

The worldwide labyrinth locator (www.labyrinthlocator.com) found 13 labyrinths in Idaho. They are located on church properties, hospitals and private properties.

One of these labyrinths is found at The Eighth Street Center, 200 N. 8th, in Buhl.

Owner Kathy Ruyts has been a member of the Labyrinth Society for 15 years.

Though labyrinths are not a new thing, Ruyts said she's noticed they are being utilized in hospitals, churches and parks more.

"It's not like I have to explain what one is," Ruyts said. "I have a

Dedication

The Episcopal Church of the Ascension, 371 Eastland Drive N., in Twin Falls will hold a dedication for its meditation garden and outdoor labyrinth from 6-8 p.m. May 9. The community is invited.

There will be a silent dessert auction, a rededication of the building and grounds, games and activities for all ages. For more information contact Dave and Nancy Swain at 736-2418 or Curtis and Mardo Eaton at 734-6507.

garden one that's available for anyone to walk."

For many years, the Episcopal Church of the Ascension used a canvas labyrinth that took half an hour to lay out all three sections in the church's community room. Because this room is often used for events and classes, the labyrinth was only assembled three or four times a year.

Now the community can utilize the outdoor labyrinth any time they want.

The dedication scheduled for May 9 will mark phase one of the labyrinth project, which cost more than $13,000 for the labyrinth's concrete, walkways, staining and sealing. The project was made possible with money from designated funds, grants and donations from other faiths and community members.

The unfinished phase two includes development of the labyrinth's meditation garden.

Lindemer said it will be a natural landscape with benches, trees and bushes designed to have low water use. The labyrinth committee next meets June 21 at 7 p.m.

Did You Know World Labyrinth Day Is Today?

Yes, it's true. World Labyrinth Day is today. All around the world at 1 p.m. participants will walk labyrinths. It's a tradition that was started by the Labyrinth Society and is celebrated every year on the first Saturday in May.

If it's your first time participating, Schwerman said, it's a very calming experience. The first time she walked one was in Hawaii.

"In Hawaii, people just build these. It was made by a stream with rocks from the stream," she said. "I loved it. I was with my husband and we just walked it. It was very peaceful."

Summer Spirituality: Adjusting with the Changing Year

Preach the word; be prepared in season and out of season; correct, rebuke and encourage - with great patience and careful instruction. (2 Timothy 4:2)

I doubt that spirituality was designed to be seasonal, but there are times our approach to summertime spirituality stretches that premise.

It begins innocently enough. With summer comes more schedule flexing, vacation planning, weekend trips, and random acts of recreation. As a result, the temptation is to simultaneously put our spirituality on the shelf.

As it increasingly impacted the church through the past decades, the phenomena was labeled the "Summer Slump" and reflected weekly decline in church attendance and giving. It wasn't simply that the church was affected, but the summer slump impacted personal spirituality as well. I'm not positive, but perhaps the origin of the summer slump phenomena first surfaced in the post apostolic period. Late in the first century (A.D.) Christians in Ephesus determined to spend weekends body surfing on the beaches of Ephesus while staying at the Ephesus Super 8. The rest is history!

If we're not cautious, the summer season potentially impacts all things spiritual ... from personal devotions to worship attendance to stewardship, even to the depth of our intimacy with Jesus. The tendency to dial down our walk with God seems to be part of the annual summer American religious experience.

Faith should never be routine, but it should always be part of our routine. Within the realm of personal piety, there is the routine of the spiritual disciplines (practices) such as devotional reading of scripture and prayer.

There is the routine of the community of faith: gathering for worship, Bible study and relational accountability. The reality of church life is that many church programs take a summer hiatus due to lack of volunteer availability or recreational preoccupation.

As a result, there is an intriguing cause and effect relationship between our devotion to spiritual growth and the church program calendar. The reality of our personal life is that if we have the resources and time, we're out of here! Vacation time, baby! While there's obviously nothing inherently wrong with vacations, (in fact I highly recommend them) the risk is that vacations rarely enhance our spiritual growth.

It was Paul who wrote to a young pastor named Timothy about the significance of being prepared regardless of the season. The gospel was too strategic to be proclaimed seasonally. I would suggest our relationship with Christ can't afford to take the summer off either.

OBITUARIES

Clarence 'Tiny' D. Brady

March 30, 1918-April 30, 2013

TWIN FALLS • Clarence "Tiny" D. Brady, 95, of Twin Falls, passed away Tuesday, April 30, 2013, at his home in Twin Falls.

Tiny was born March 30, 1918, in Soldier, Idaho, the son of Clarence and Elizabeth Bunker Brady. At age 1, he moved with his family to Berger, Idaho, where his family farmed on the Salmon Tract. He attended school at Berger and graduated from Hollister High School in 1936. Following high school, he went to Missouri and met the love of his life, Myrtle Sara Mills, and was married April 15, 1940.

Tiny knew only one thing and that was raising good crops. They farmed and ranched until the early 1980s when they retired and became snowbirds and started the second part of their lives heading to Arizona every winter.

Tiny is survived by his son, James (Julie) Brady; two grandsons, Jacob (Christina) Brady and Jonas (Kaela) Brady; as well as five great-granddaughters and one great-grandson. He was preceded in death by his wife of 63 years, Myrtle Brady; his parents, Elizabeth and Clarence; four brothers, Joel, Clyde, Bill and Don; as well as two sisters, Jean and Eleanor.

The family wishes to thank Sheila Garcia for all of her help and being a great neighbor to Tiny.

A celebration of Tiny's life will be held at 11 a.m. Monday, May 6, at White Mortuary, "Chapel by the Park," in Twin Falls, with Pastor Dale Metzger officiating. Burial will follow at Sunset Memorial Park. A viewing for family and friends will take place from 5 until 7 p.m. Sunday, May 5, at White Mortuary, 136 Fourth Ave. E. in Twin Falls.

Services are under the direction of Trent Stimpson and staff at White Mortuary, "Chapel by the Park," in Twin Falls.

Condolences may be left for the family by visiting www.whitemortuary.com.

Wilma McIntyre

Dec. 13, 1913-April 30, 2013

TWIN FALLS • Wilma McIntyre was born in Lamar, Kan., daughter of Omer and Ethel Dorman, on Dec. 13, 1913. She died Tuesday, April 30, 2013, at the age of 99.

She married John McIntyre on July 31, 1932. Her husband, John, was a road construction worker and they lived in many places in Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California and Montana. They moved to Roseburg, Ore., in 1951, where he followed road construction from Roseburg to the California border. They then settled in Ashland, Ore. John died in 1986, and Wilma moved to Talent, Ore., and resided there until December of 2012.

She was in a car wreck on Dec. 9, 2012, and then moved to Twin Falls, Idaho, to be near her daughter. She was in and out of the hospital until her death on April 30. She was living at Birchwood Estates when she passed away.

Wilma loved people and planned many parties for her family and church friends. She was very active in her church and held many positions. She will be greatly missed by those who knew her and loved her.

Ohio City Leader Dies, Was Guardsman at Kent State University

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) • Larry Shafer, a longtime public servant for the city of Ravenna who was a guardsman at Kent State University during the 1970 deadly shootings, died Friday, his family said. He was 67.

Shafer's death came a day before the 43rd anniversary of the gunfire at the northeast Ohio college. His cause of death wasn't immediately known. Mayor Joe Bica told the Kent-Ravenna Record-Courier newspaper that Shafer died during surgery.

Kent State was the scene of Vietnam War protests May 4, 1970, when the Ohio National Guard opened fire on students. Four students died and nine were injured in the shootings, which contributed to the change in the public's attitude toward the war.

Shafer and other guardsmen were charged with federal civil rights violations but were acquitted by a judge in 1974.

The events of that chaotic day at the campus in Kent are still not fully understood, and interest in the case had reignited after a 2010 analysis of an enhanced audio recording. The analysis concluded that someone may have ordered National Guard troops to prepare to fire on students during the campus protest.

The U.S. Justice Department said last year it wouldn't reopen its investigation into the shooting, citing "insurmountable legal and evidentiary barriers."

Shafer told the Record-Courier in 2007 that he fired on students but never heard an order.

"That's all I can say on that," Shafer told the newspaper. "That's not to say there may not have been, but with all the racket and noise, I don't know how anyone could have heard anything that day."

Shafer was a former fire chief and city councilman in Ravenna. He worked as the city's safety training compliance officer.

Kelly Engelhart, the city's director of public service, said Friday in an interview that Shafer "took pride in wanting to do what was right for his community."

"He was the epitome of a public steward," said Engelhart, to whom Shafer reported.

Slayer Guitarist Jeff Hanneman Dies at 49

LOS ANGELES (AP) • Jeff Hanneman, a founding member of Slayer whose career was irrevocably changed after a spider bite, has died. He was 49.

Slayer spokeswoman Heidi Robinson-Fitzgerald said Hanneman died Thursday morning of liver failure at a Los Angeles hospital with his wife, Kathy, by his side.

The guitarist had recently begun writing songs with the band in anticipation of recording a new album later this year. He had been slowly recovering from what was believed to be a spider bite that nearly cost him his arm after he failed to seek immediate treatment.

"The music industry has lost a true trailblazer, and our deepest sympathies go out to his family, his bandmates and fans around the world who mourn his untimely passing," said Neil Portnow, president and CEO of the Recording Academy, in a statement.

Robinson-Fitzgerald said it's believed the spider bite contributed to the failure of Hanneman's liver, but it is unclear whether an autopsy will be scheduled. No funeral arrangements have been made.

"Jeff Hanneman will always be a metal god," rocker Andrew W.K. posted on Twitter.

Hanneman co-founded the thrash metal pioneers in Huntington Beach, Calif., in 1982.

SENIOR

Q. My friend and I enjoy having lunch at various restaurants. Lately it seems that she is missing a lot of our conversation. She doesn't wear hearing aids. I don't want to hurt her feelings.

A. Your friend is likely experiencing a gradual loss of hearing which she has yet to fully recognize. When the time is right, suggest that you go together to have your hearing tested. For now, don't give up on your enjoyable dining experiences! Use effective communication strategies and choose settings that are "hearing friendly" to make listening easier. For example, choose restaurants that are relatively quiet, and go at times that are less busy. Avoid restaurants with tile floors and choose ones that have carpeted dining areas. Close the distance between you and your friend by selecting a smaller table, preferably one along a wall or in a corner. This should help cut down distracting background noise. When you talk to her, be sure to look directly at her and speak distinctly. Be patient if she asks you to repeat something you just said.

REAL ESTATE AUCTION

White Arrow Ranch and Mineral Hot Springs

Thursday, May 16th 1:00 pm MST

1061 Clover Creek Road, Bliss, ID 83314

White Arrow Ranch - 7,000 sq. ft. geothermal heated lodge and separate caretakers home on 155 acres including shared water rights will be offered at Absolute Auction and will sell to the highest bidder. Regardless of Price. Lodge and greenhouses will be offered individually and in combination.

Green houses on 45 acres - 42,000 sq. ft. of geothermic heated green houses on 45 Acres including shared water rights will be offered individually and in combination with the White Arrow Ranch. Both properties will sell individually and in combination at Absolute Auction. Properties will Sell to the Highest Bidder(s). Regardless of Price. High Bidder(s) Win.

Sagebrush Lilly, an undeveloped 80-acre PUD includes shared water rights. Subdivision is approved but unrecorded. Located on the southern tip of the White Arrow Ranch it has been left in its original wild condition with a year round stream, riparian vegetation, trees and nearby lakes support an abundance of wildlife. To sell lots, the infrastructure would need to be in place with cost depending on taste and design. Sagebrush Lilly is Selling Subject to seller Confirmation.

These three contingent properties are surrounded by 1,000's of acres of Public Lands (managed by BLM).

The Geothermal Mineral Hot Springs is one of the largest, privately owned hot springs in the country, currently offering two cubic feet per second (1,300,000 gallons per day) of 160-degree water with shared water rights: White Arrow Ranch Lodge and acreage, 25%, Sagebrush Lilly, 25% and Green houses 50%, (Green Houses could also be converted to a water bottling Plant. A business plan for this is available upon approval and request)

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

"Learning is not attained by chance; it must be sought for with ardor and attended to with diligence."

— Abigail Adams

Today's deal arose in the Mixed Pairs in Biarritz, France, a few years ago when George Awad was tested as declarer in a tricky heart slam.

South's rebid of four hearts would normally have ended the auction, but North, Marie Awad, decided that her strong hearts and minor-suit aces justified a slam invitation. Her five-diamond call was a cue-bid implying heart support, and South's bid of six clubs suggested a club slam. With weak clubs and strong hearts, North reverted to hearts.

The opening diamond lead attacked a vital entry to dummy, and made Awad's task vastly more difficult. But he found an ingenious plan that would succeed against a normal 3-2 club split, with the trumps divided no worse than 3-1. After winning the diamond ace, he cashed the club king and ace, then ruffed a club with the heart ace, establishing the suit while avoiding the risk of an overruff. He next crossed to the heart queen, led a winning club, and discarded his diamond loser. East had to ruff, but South was now safe. Whatever that player returned, South could reach the dummy with the heart king to discard his spade loser on a club winner. He emerged with seven trump tricks, three club tricks and two aces.

Awad's safety play did not entirely rule out the chance of an overtrick. If West's singleton trump had been the jack, South would have been able to overruff with the 10 on the fourth round of clubs without running any risk.

ANSWER: It would be nice if two diamonds were natural and to play. However, most people, myself included, play New Minor Forcing, where this call is artificial with at least invitational values. So your choice must be to pass or rebid two spades. I'd guess to pass — my side-suit may be more useful in no-trump than in spades.

In 1904, the United States took over construction of the Panama Canal.

In 1916, responding to a demand from President Woodrow Wilson, Germany agreed to limit its submarine warfare. (However, Germany resumed unrestricted submarine warfare the following year.)

In 1932, mobster Al Capone, convicted of income-tax evasion, entered the federal penitentiary in Atlanta. (Capone was later transferred to Alcatraz Island.)

In 1942, the Battle of the Coral Sea, the first naval clash fought entirely with carrier aircraft, began in the Pacific during World War II. (The outcome was considered a tactical victory for Imperial Japan, but ultimately a strategic one for the Allies.)

In 1959, the first Grammy Awards ceremony was held at the Beverly Hilton Hotel. Domenico Modugno won Record of the Year and Song of the Year for "Nel Blu Dipinto Di Blu (Volare)"; Henry Mancini won Album of the Year for "The Music from Peter Gunn."

In 1961, the first group of "Freedom Riders" left Washington, D.C., to challenge racial segregation on interstate buses and in bus terminals.

In 1970, Ohio National Guardsmen opened fire during an anti-war protest at Kent State University, killing four students and wounding nine others.

In 1980, Marshal Josip Broz Tito, president of Yugoslavia, died three days before his 88th birthday.

In 1998, Unabomber Theodore Kaczynski was given four life sentences plus 30 years by a federal judge in Sacramento, Calif., under a plea agreement that spared him the death penalty.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 13-year-old girl who has been trying to give my father a second chance. I was taken away from my parents when I was 8 because they were on drugs. I haven't seen my father for three years, but now that he's living with my grandparents and me, I decided to give him a second chance.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

He has been very "handsy" with me — giving me massages, kissing my cheek — and this all makes me very uncomfortable. I thought it was because he hasn't seen me in a while, but today as I was leaving to go to my mom's, he slapped my butt as I walked out the door. Now I'm scared. I spend a lot of the day at home with him alone. I don't want things to get out of hand. Any advice?

— WORRIED IN DELAWARE

DEAR WORRIED: Your father has lost three years with you. He may not realize that his "little girl" is no longer a child. That is why it is important that you TELL him what he's doing makes you uncomfortable. You should also tell your mother and grandparents about what's happening and that it scares you. You do not have to tolerate unwanted contact, and if it persists, report it to a teacher or counselor at school or contact me again.

DEAR ABBY: I have a dilemma. I work in a small high school in a student support position. Girls come into my office who are pregnant and excited about it! Telling them congratulations for putting themselves in this position seems counterproductive, or like I am endorsing this choice. I don't!

No high school girls — or boys, for that matter — should put themselves in a position to be a parent when they themselves aren't fully grown and independent. I feel like saying, "You have ruined your life" instead, but I hold my tongue. What do you suggest?

— DON'T WANT TO ENCOURAGE THEM IN ILLINOIS

DEAR DON'T WANT TO ENCOURAGE: Your job is to support the students, not to condemn or endorse their predicament. Telling a pregnant girl she has ruined her life isn't helpful. What you need to do is encourage the girl to get a diploma while she can.

Too many girls fail to complete their high school education when they have a baby, and it impedes their ability to provide for themselves and their child because they are suited only for minimum-wage jobs. If you are enthusiastic about helping them, your positive attitude may be contagious and inspire them to succeed.

DEAR ABBY: I wrote you a short time ago about my marital problems, but I have to share this with you! My husband, who walked out on me, went to a counselor for a session. Then we went together, and he learned a few things about me and himself.

He is coming back, and we are going to work harder at our marriage. We both recognize there were places where we needed to work together more, that he doesn't need to be afraid to talk to me and I can be pretty understanding. Thank you so much for being there, Abby. I know you always recommend talking to a counselor before doing anything rash, and you are so right. It made all the difference.

— GRATEFUL WIFE IN ARIZONA

DEAR GRATEFUL: I'm pleased counseling helped to open the clogged lines of communication between you and your husband. While it may seem expensive, it's far cheaper than a divorce can be, both emotionally and financially.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

IF MAY 4 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You are a beautiful dreamer with your head in the clouds. You are easily misled during the next several weeks, so put financial arrangements, career changes and romantic adventures on the back burner until late summer. September, when you are at the top of your game, is the best month for career, financial or business decisions. You can manage to get through November by accepting necessities, staying organized and being very careful to hold yourself above reproach in everything you do. Wait until December, when your judgment is sound and Lady Luck is on your side, to make personal decisions about your love life or to launch any crucial projects.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The bird in hand is not only worth two in the bush, but it squawks less. Give a little more credit to what you have, rather than what you don't have. Frugal handling of cash could be in order this weekend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You have the enormous reserves of stamina needed to handle pressing duties and you have the resourcefulness to contend with criticism. If a temporary chill creeps into a relationship, graciously overlook it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Since you are such a live wire, you should network, visit friends or make an effort to get out and about and circulate. Your entertainment quotient is at high tide, so use every opportunity to show it off.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may be filled by a spirit of adventure that compels you to try out some unusual and different activities this weekend. Your determination to master a new sport or game could lead to success.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): No rest for the weary. You will be proud of yourself if you use a novel approach to overcome obstacles and to speed dreary tasks. A development in your desire to snuggle up with a special someone is on the agenda.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): File away any confidential information you gather today for future use. Exude a silent mystique to make the best impression on others. Rekindle the fires of desire; snuggle with the object of your affections.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Get out the garden shears and nip nuisances in the bud. There may be weeds in your garden or unhappy visitors in your den. Either way, it is the time to weed out the unessential and obnoxious.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Bet on the sure thing for sure results. This is not the time to take chances with your money or your affections. You could follow up on a passionate attraction that has been on your mind all week long.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Remain flexible like a drinking straw and you can get to more of the good stuff. Someone could challenge your ability to adapt to change. Good relationships will draw closer as a united front.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Use an imaginative approach and you will be rewarded. Friends may interfere with plans or timing could otherwise be off, but you will be able to make a good first impression and charm companions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You are not always the center of the universe. A rebuff from a loved one may be merely due to other tensions that do not concern you, so back down and maintain a forgiving and gentle demeanor.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Clear the air. A few brief words of love and affection can help smooth over a minor misunderstanding. To ride out a storm of passing disagreements, just grab the tiller and steer to more agreeable subjects.
