ABAD DAY FOR BASE JUMPING

Two men injured in jumping accidents.

BY JULIE WOOTTON iwootton@maaicvallev.com

TWIN FALLS • Two men were injured Thursday afternoon in BASE jumping accidents just a few hours apart.

The names of the men have not been released.

The first injury occurred around 1 p.m., when emergency responders received a report of a BASE jumper in the Snake River Canyon whose parachute malfunctioned.

After jumping off the I.B. Perrine Bridge, the man was unable to reach the landing zone and landed on rocks instead.

A bystander who witnessed the accident said it appeared the man was blown into the rocks at the bottom of the canyon. Ron Aguirre, Twin Falls Fire Department battalion chief, said bystanders in the canyon were able to assist the injured man.

The BASE jumper was transported by helicopter to St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center around 2:05 p.m.

Twin Falls city spokesman Josh Palmer said the man sustained severe injuries, including at least three compound fractures and possible internal bleeding.

A second BASE jumper was injured just a couple of hours later around 3:30 p.m.

Palmer said the man landed in the Snake River, but Palmer didn't know the cause of the accident. He said a description from witnesses indicated it might have been a parachute malfunction.

Emergency responders removed the BASE jumper from the water and transported him by boat to Centennial Waterfront Park. Palmer said the injured man was responsive.

From there, he was transported by ambulance to St. Luke's Magic Valley around 4:20 p.m.

As of 5:30 p.m., Twin Falls County Sheriff's Office spokeswoman Lori Stewart said information wasn't available about the man's injuries.

Robert Latham Sr. Dies at 76

Former T.F. resident leaves legacy of business leadership, community volunteerism.

BY JOE CADOTTE

TWIN FALLS • Robert Alfred Latham Sr., 76, former owner of Latham Motors, passed away Thursday.

He was living in Kona, Hawaii when he died, but for decades he was a fixture in Twin Falls – known as the "Giant of Magic Valley," not just for his six-foot stature but because of his legacy of business leadership and community volunteerism.

He was once so well known in Twin Falls that the phone number of his car dealership, Latham Motors, was better known to Twin Falls kindergarteners than their own.

"He was considered the giant of Magic Valley," said Latham's eldest daughter Terry Steelman, a former kindergarten teacher. "Twin Falls' finest. Everybody had (Latham Motor's) phone number memorized. He had a guy come on TV all the time and tell people to call 733-5776. I remember when kindergarteners were learning how to read, I asked one little girl what her phone number was. She said, '733-5776'. It was too cute."

As a young man, Latham Sr. was a charmer, his sister Nancy Latham said. He had a "Tony Curtis curl" and a ducktail in the back.

"He liked the girls and the girls liked him," Nancy Latham said. "I can't remember how many hours he spent in the bathroom on that ducktail."

As a Twin Falls High School basketball star, his love for women led him to the girl at the top of the cheer pyramid. At 17 years old, Robert married 16-year-old Janet Plessinger. This year will be the couple's 59th anniversary.

Licensing varies city to city as Idaho lacks statewide standard

TWIN FALLS • Need to hail a taxi license in Idaho? Your results may vary depending on what city you're Unlike some of the surrounding states, Idaho lacks a statewide standard on how to approve a taxi cab license. This leaves it up to individual cities to determine what requirements a taxi cab driver or company must follow before granting a license.

Having thorough taxi cab standards are important because most of south-central Idaho is without access to public transportation. It's not unusual that calling a cab may become necessary after one too many drinks but also to make a doctor's visit or for a trip to the grocery store.

"A taxi business must be huge about being safe," said Beth Holley, co-owner of Snake River Yellow Cab. "It's vital in making those Please see TAXI, A7

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

Stocks Pull back from Record Levels on Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP) • The stock market pulled back from record levels Thursday as investors became harder to please.

Even a decline in the number of Americans applying for unemployment benefits failed to give stock prices a boost. Markets drifted lower in early trading, moved between gains and losses in the afternoon, then ended slightly lower. The Standard & Poor's 500 index had its first loss since May 1.

Unemployment claims dropped to a five-year low last week, the Labor department reported early Thursday.

Fire Officials Continue Probe of Jerome Downtown Fire

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI kkruesi@magicvalley.com

JEROME • Jerome fire officials continue to investigate the cause of the downtown structure fire that damaged several buildings last week.

According to Jerome Fire Chief Jack Krill, the city's investigation team and three investigators with separate insurance companies inspected the burnt structures on Tuesday.

The fire started early Tuesday evening. Starting in 126 West Main Street, which served as a grocery market and apartment complex, the fire quickly grew to a size that didn't allow firefighters to search the building. The flames eventually jumped to Harvest Moon Café at 130 West Main Street and an office building at 132 Main Street.

Nine families were displaced in the fire.

Krill said the investigation is an ongoing process.

"We're not ready to determine the cause at this time," Krill said. "We hope to have something by early next week."

ONLINE: Powerful Memories in the 2013 Ride of Silence

Reporter Laurie Welch blogs about Mini-Cassia affairs at "City Watch." An excerpt from her latest

"Last year during the 'Ride of Silence,' I watched as Kim Walton of Heyburn led the pack of bikes across the Burley-Heyburn Bridge. The event is held on the same day around the world to bring awareness to the number of cyclists who are injured or killed in collisions with motor vehicles.

"Kim's cycle ... was a race chair powered by her arms rather than her legs. It looked arduous, and I wondered at the strength of this woman as she propelled herself across the bridge in front of the rest of the pack....

"In April 2006, she was training for a triathlon on her bicycle three miles from home when a car crashed into her at an intersection. When she woke up at the scene, she knew she might never walk again.

"Although due to the crash Kim lost many things, she is alive. In March 2012, a vehicle hit Burley artist Lona Hymas-Smith from behind as she rode west of Burley on Idaho Highway 30. Lona lost her life.

"Kim and Lona are just two of the people in Magic Valley who have been injured or killed during bicycle crashes with vehicles in recent years.

"At 7 p.m. May 15, Mini-Cassia cyclists will participate in National Bike Safety Day with a Ride of Silence.

Could We Hit 90 for Mother's Day?

ust two weeks ago we were still having days with highs in the low to mid-50s and asking, "When will the warm weather of spring arrive?" It appears it has, and we are going straight to summer this weekend.

An upper level storm system that brought scattered to isolated areas of showers and storms the last couple of days will finally move out, allowing high pressure to build over the Pacific Northwest. This area of high pressure will provide more dry weather and also very warm temperatures. This weekend, temperatures will be almost 20 degrees above the average of 68.

The forecast today will feature mostly sunny skies. Temperatures could reach the low 80s this afternoon. If we reach 80, it would be the first time since Oct. 2 of last year.

Temperatures keep getting warmer as we go into the weekend. Saturday will be sunny with afternoon temperatures in the mid-80s. By Sunday, we could see high temperatures near 90 in the afternoon. The current Weather Authority forecast for Sunday for Twin Falls is a high of 89. The last time we were in the 90s was Sept. 14.

Fire to Burn Cougar's Lair Rekindles

REXBURG (AP) • A controlled fire near a southeast Idaho town intended to burn away brush where a mountain lion had been lurking caused problems when the fire rekindled following a shift in the wind.

The Standard Journal reports the fire in a vacant area in a Rexburg subdivision started up again Wednesday. Madison Assistant Fire Chief David Davis says the fire was about two days old when it started again. Firefighters extinguished it in about 30 minutes. Area resident Jessica Mortensen says she's relieved the mountain lion won't be sleeping near where there are a lot of kids around.

Graves said a house-moving company in Boise will do the actual moving for the cost of $100,000.

The house-moving crew started the process Tuesday morning and plans to have the move completed by Monday night.

"They have raised it up about one inch since I went to lunch," said Graves as he examined the crew's progress on Thursday.

"Everything is still in the house," Graves said. "We took the paintings off the wall, put the crystal in boxes on the floor and laid down the flat-screen television."

Graves said the house will be left on blocks five feet from the ground until the foundation is complete.

Graves said it's not the first time he's moved a house. He moved one in the same subdivision a few years ago. He expects there will be a few touch-up repairs needed on this one, but no major repairs.

"When he comes home from Alaska on Sept. 1, he'll move into his old house across the street and watch his new one being built," Graves said.

Why would someone move a house rather than purchase a new home somewhere else?

"Look at that river and those mountains," said Graves. "It's a million-dollar

Starting a family so young soon put the newlyweds in financial straights, Nancy Latham said. At the time, she was scraping by in California, providing for her own emerging family. Despite Robert Latham's own poverty, his sister remembers an anonymous Christmas card with $50. For years, Robert Latham Sr. wouldn't admit to sending the money.

"I couldn't tell you all the things he did and all the things that he didn't want people to know about," Nancy Latham said.

Random acts of kindness were among Robert Latham Sr.'s trademarks. He was also known for donating his time, money and property to the Twin Falls High School and the College of Southern Idaho. Robert Latham Sr. also funded a children's golf organization and created a project that kept the Twin Nancy Latham said her brother was known to help close friends and family in times of need in any way he could. He was known to stay by the bedside of loved ones who were sick or dying.

But his biggest legacy was Latham Motors.

Steelman describes her father as "a self-made man." In 1964, what would become Latham Motors was then Milrany Buick Oldsmobile.

"He was working odd jobs trying to keep food on the table," said Steelman, his daughter. "He went to Mil-rany every day asking for a job. Mr. Milrany wouldn't hire him. Finally, Mr. Milarny gave him a shot at selling cars. ... He worked as a salesman until finally buying out the company in 1971."

Nearly all of Robert Latham Sr.'s employees were honored to work for him, Steelman said.

"He was very encouraging and a true friend," Steelman said. "He was so respected by his employees, he treated everybody equally and they had a high respect for my dad.

"He had a genuine love for people and he would make sure he was visible and walking around and connecting with people. He took a personal interest in every person who worked for him.

"There are several people who have come up to me over the years and said, 'Your dad was so generous?"

There is no cost to visit the farm and watch the demonstrations. Demonstrations will include a blacksmith making horseshoes. There will also be wagon rides, and food will be available for purchase.

N. Idaho Highways Could Get Bigger Trucks

Officials wonder if they can handle the weight.

BOISE (AP) • Four northern Idaho routes designated as appropriate for extra-long trucks will likely be considered as potential routes for extra-heavy trucks as well.

The Spokesman-Review reports in a story published Thursday that U.S. highways 95 and 2, and state highways 41 and 53 already have the extra-long designation.

"I think the primary thing is the way the roads are built in North Idaho: Can they handle the weight?" said Jim Coleman, the Panhandle member of the state transportation board. "I think you have to evaluate them on a case-by-case basis."

The Idaho Transportation Department is creating a committee to review the new law aiming to allow more large trucks on Idaho's highways. The law requires ITD to set rules procedures before new routes can be designated for trucks that weigh between 105,500 129,000 pounds.

Timber companies fought for allowing bigger shipments, saying it will help their businesses. Foes fear allowing larger trucks on highways will make roads more dangerous, especially in mountainous northern Idaho.

The new law will allow trucks up to 129,000 pounds anywhere the roads can handle them. The current limit is 105,500 pounds. The bill excludes 35 southern Idaho routes that are part of a 10-year-pilot project where heavier tractor-trailers are allowed already.

"We don't have the kind of roads up here that they have in the south," said Rep. Cindy Agidius, R-Moscow.

Lawmakers in the last session approved the new law despite concerns that northern Idaho roads might have problems with the heavier loads, and that perhaps a pilot project such as the one in southern Idaho might be in order. But lawmakers decided they didn't want the delay of a pilot project.

The new potential rules will be given to lawmakers for approval at the 2014 legislative session.

Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter has said he won't approve new truck rules unless local conditions and concerns through public hearings are considered.

"It really is an issue that the general public has concerns about and wants to weigh in, as do local officials at the city and county level," said Sen. Shawn Keough, R-Sandpoint.

The new law also applies to local roads. However, amendments to the law gave local road jurisdictions the choice of whether to issue permits.

Clerk Pleads Guilty to Theft

NAMPA (AP) • A southwest Idaho city clerk has pleaded guilty to stealing more than $60,000 from Notus.

The Idaho Press-Tribune reports that 34-yearold Ginny LaTisha Lindemann pleaded guilty to grand theft in late April in 3rd District Court.

As part of her plea, Lindemann agreed to pay about $62,000 in restitution.

Average Idaho Wages Dropped in 2012

BOISE (AP) • A new U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics report shows the average hourly wage in Idaho was $18.48 last year, down from 2011 averages and about 84 percent of the national average wage in 2012.

Overall, Idaho now ranks 45th for its average, down one spot from its 2011 ranking.

The report shows that among Idaho's largest metro areas, earnings for all occupations except farming, fishing and forestry fell below the national average.

Idahoans in legal, computer or management professions are also earning below the average. For example, in Boise, those professionals earn between 18 and 24 percent less than national averages in those categories.

The report indicates Pocatello was the only metro area in the state where wages - as a percent of the national average – actually increased.

Idaho Man Dies in Crash Near N.D.-Montana Border

DICKENSON, N.D. (AP) • North Dakota authorities say an Idaho man died and another man was injured after 2 semi-trucks and a pickup crashed just east of the Montana border.

The Dickenson Press reports the crash happened Tuesday morning along Highway 200.

The man who died was identified as 49-year-old Bart Winger, of Idaho

The North Dakota

Highway Patrol says the collision happened when a 2007 Peterbilt semi-truck and Winger's 2004 GMC pickup were slowing down for a turn, a 2005 International semi-truck struck the pickup, pushing it sideways into the Peterbilt.

Authorities say Winger was not wearing his seatbelt.

The driver of the International was injured, but his condition was not immediately available.

Idaho Inmate Charged with Attacking Other Prisoner

BOISE (AP) • An Idaho inmate has been charged with felony aggravated assault in connection with an attack on another prisoner on New Year's Eve.

Rick Lee Sykes, 34, allegedly punched another inmate in the head about a dozen times, knocking him unconscious.

The Idaho Statesman reports that Sykes was moved from prison to the Ada County Jail to be charged with the crime on Wednesday.

Prison officials say the victim needed stitches to his nose, eyebrows and lips.

If convicted, Sykes could face up to five years in prison.

He's currently serving a sentence for a March 2008 attempted strangulation charge, and a separate October 2008 aggravated assault charge.

looked up from his seat, cast a pitiable glance and mumbled, "Please, I got here late - may I have another 20 minutes?"

I shook my head and said, "Can't do that." His request echoed in my head all the way back to my office. Where in the world did he get the idea that an exam doesn't begin and end at a set time?

Employers call it an "employability skill" – work ethic, timeliness, attendance and so on – and they deal with it every day. Whenever the National Association of Manufacturers administers its "Skills Gap" surveys to members, failings in this area are as likely to be cited as complaints about inadequate technical and verbal skills. In 2001 and 2005, the association's members rated employability skills as a crushing deficiency in their workforce, and more respondents urged schools to instill better behavior than did those who demanded more training in reading and math.

Even after the 2008 financial crisis, poor conduct remains a top complaint. In the 2011 survey, 40 percent of employers cited "inadequate basic employability skills" as a reason for why they can't hire and keep workers.

Employability skills aren't only a blue-collar failing, as shown by the "Professionalism in the Workplace" survey from York College of Pennsylvania released earlier this year. The college's project asked 401 human-resource people about the professionalism of recent college graduates.

Forty-nine percent of them stated that less than half of new employees "exhibit professionalism in their first year." More than half (53 percent) have noticed "a sense of entitlement" rising among younger workers; almost 45 percent have seen a "worsening of the work ethic," including "too casual of an attitude toward work" and "not understanding what hard work is."

Younger workers believe they can multitask and remain productive, the human-resources people told the York researchers. Thirty-eight percent of respondents blamed multitasking for the lack of "focus" among younger workers. The authors of the study explained that the younger generation "believes that it is possible to multi-task effectively" and that using social media, for example, is an efficient way to communicate. In interviews, the applicants check their phones for texts and calls, dress inappropriately and overrate their talents.

"The sad fact is some of these persons probably do not understand what is wrong with this," the authors note.

Older workers have always complained about younger workers, of course, but there's a difference: This time they attribute the youthful flaws not to ignorance or waywardness, but to a "sense of entitlement."

We might forgive 18-year-olds fresh out of high school for lacking employability skills. But when he or she reaches 23 and has four years of college, employers expect a white-collar worker to recognize basic norms of dress and deportment.

What happened in college, then? The survey by York College's Center for Professional Excellence assigns colleges part of the blame, observing that letting students miss deadlines without penalty and assigning good grades for middling work only make them form the wrong expectations. Yet, it turns out, professors don't coddle students and overlook youthful flaws. Another survey by York College finds that professors think the same thing as employers do. It's the 2012 "Professionalism on Campus" survey, a questionnaire about juniors and seniors answered by 415 college and university faculty members.

Even more than employers, fully 64 percent of professors observe an increase in a sense of entitlement in recent years, while only 5 percent say it has decreased. The students text - message during class, send emails to teachers with grammar and spelling errors, and act "unfocused." (For the "unfocused" part, the researchers said they started hearing comments a few years ago from employers about workers lacking "focus," so they included a direct item in the questionnaire on it.) Faculty members identify parents as the main cause, though American culture in general and grade inflation in high school also receive blame.

Let's agree that everyone is at fault, more or less. The burden falls heaviest on the workplace.

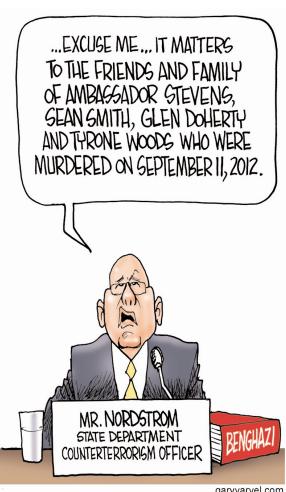

Highschool teachers have few direct incentives to toughen up their classrooms. The steady drag of uninterested students and school bureaucracy beats them down to the point where using higher grades and lax discipline are the easiest ways to make it through the week.

College professors, too, have no direct incentive to raise the bar on behavior, given the influence of student ratings of their performance and pressure from administrators and parents. Most of all, poor behavior by students doesn't immediately threaten the livelihood of teachers.

A bad worker, however, jeopardizes a whole unit's productivity, and a manager can't simply pass a low performer to the next level. Teachers who allow delinquent students to slide merely compromise their own integrity. Dereliction in the workplace puts profits at risk.

This, then, is the real transition into adulthood in the U.S. today — not graduating from high school, leaving home or learning how to succeed in college, but performing full-time work for bosses who can't compromise, and all too often must say, "Your work isn't up to par, you're not as great as you think, and if you don't improve, you're fired."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Don't Judge High School Production Before You See It

To anyone considering writing or making negative comments about the Canyon Ridge and Twin Falls High schools' production of "Urinetown," please consider the following:

1. Although one of the premises of the show is that townspeople must pay "to use the facilities," it is by no means the only message. If you were to attend the production, you would see the overall tapestry is one of star-crossed love and personal sacrifice, as well as the darker colors of frustration of the oppressed and resulting rebellion.

2. The students from rival high schools have teamed up to create a production of which to be proud. Countless after-school hours have been put in by actors, set designers, costume designers, choreographers, prop masters, and lighting, set and sound technicians. This collaborative effort has been a beautiful sight to behold.

3. The name, "Urinetown," cannot be changed because a community's hackles are raised. It is a copyrighted production and cannot be advertised or presented in any other way. Shakespeare himself is the one who penned the phrase, "What's in a name? That which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet." One might also say, "What's in a name? That which we call 'Urinetown' by any other name would still be the same fresh, delightful, slightly irreverent dark comedy - not smelly

4. If you seek to thwart all the massive efforts the students have put into "Urinetown," you will not only break the thespians' hearts, you will break their budget. There have been a lot of resources put into this production.

5. Don't judge without seeing it for yourself. The acting is delightful, the choreography is brilliant, the sets are astounding, the costuming is well-considered and the overall theatrical message is surprising!

Vote JoAnna Cook for Minidoka County School Board

The election of Minidoka County School Board members is near and, as parents and patrons, our vote must be cast to secure the election of one who is best suited to set and achieve goals that will assure the success of our children.

A daunting task this leadership role is in our world today. It requires one who holds high expectations for student achievement, who will courageously and with common sense ask appropriate questions and seek answers with wisdom, who will connect with the community and work with other board members as a team player, who will address crucial needs facing our children such as drug prevention and student discipline as well as curriculum choices that will lead to critical thinking and application.

Is she confident as she analyzes issues? Does she have freshideas to bring to the table? Will she use common sense as she approaches decisions affecting our children? Is she a thoughtful parent facing the same needs as we?

Yes! Yes! Please cast your ballot on May 21 for JoAnna Cook, Minidoka County School Board.

Dave Burgess Best Candidate for Twin Falls Highway District

Dave Burgess is a candidate for the office of commissioner for the Twin Falls Highway

I believe he is the best candidate for the job. Why? Because I was a commissioner for the Twin Falls Highway District for nearly nine years, and Dave Burgess was the director during my tenure. No one knows the district like Dave. He knows every road, every intersection, every pipe and culvert. He ran the district with intelligence and integrity. The commissioners counted on Dave, trusted Dave and knew he always had the district's best interest at

When Dave decided to retire in 2009 after 34 years with the district, I hated to see him go because he made my job easy. But when I moved out of my sub-district and had to resign, Dave Burgess would have been my first choice to replace me. And he was appointed commissioner.

Twin Falls, Kimberly, Hansen, Hollister and Rogerson have great county roads. Let's keep the highway district leadership by electing Dave Burgess, commissioner, Twin Falls Highway District.

BSU Football Players Inspire Buhl Students to 'Go-on'

BY ANDREW WEEKS

aweeks@magicvalley.com

BUHL • The cheering seemed to never cease, at least at first when the assistant athletic director of Boise State University and two Bronco football players were announced to the students at Buhl Middle School.

"You guys sure make a lot of noise," Brad Larrondo told the students during an afternoon assembly Thursday at the school. "It reminds me of a football stadium."

Larrondo and the two BSU players - Kirby Moore and Robert Ash – visited the school to help inspire students to take their education seriously and continue their education after high school. It was part of Go-on Idaho, a program launched by the J.A. and Kathryn Albertson Foundation.

The school this year received $39,900 in grant money to help with the program, grant coordinator Adrea Storey said. The program includes educational computer software, financial literacy for families, and taking students on field trips to state colleges and universities.

The field trips are something eighth-grade science teacher Shannon Youngman said she appreciates.

"It helps open their eyes to college," she said. "They don't have to wait until their senior year. They can start thinking about it now and continue it in high school."

Storey said there are four components to the program: Aim High, Make a Plan, Get Ready and Go-on. The school has a secondary program called Gear Up, also a grantfunded program that promotes many of the same goals, she said.

Larrondo told students on Thursday that now is a good time to think about the future.

The two football players took a couple of minutes to also address the students.

"How many of you plan to go to college?" Moore asked. Most of the student body raised their hands.

Moore shared some things that would help them prepare for advanced education, such as taking honors and dualcredit classes in high school.

Ash asked the students if they liked money. When the students raised their hands, he then asked what their plans were to make money. The answer could be summed up in one word, he said: "College."

At one time, people might have been able to find decent jobs with only a high school diploma. Now, Ash said, it's vital to receive a college

During the assembly, Larrondo and the players showed videos, joked with the students and honored the school's teachers.

"Without these individuals right here, you don't have a chance to accomplish what you want to accomplish," he told the students, as the teachers stood in a row in front of the student body. "On the count of three, everyone say Thank You. One. Two. Three ..."

And the gymnasium broke into another wave of stadium-like cheers.

State Commission OKs Wolf Hunt in Michigan

DETROIT (AP) • Michigan the Northern Rockies. now has a wolf hunting season after a board voted Thursday to allow hunters and trappers to kill up to 43 of the animals in selected parts of the state's Upper Peninsula.

The 6-week season will open Nov. 15 and end Dec. 31.

The seven-member Natural Resources Commission voted 6-1 in favor of the plan in Roscommon during its monthly meeting. The plan was recommended by state wildlife regulators.

Michigan becomes the sixth state to authorize hunting wolves since federal regulations were lifted over the past two years in the western Great Lakes and

About 1,100 wolves have been killed by hunters and trappers in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming. About 658 of the animals are believed to be roaming remote areas in Michigan's Upper Penin-

Three harvest zones were chosen in the Upper Peninsula because of conflicts between wolves and humans. State officials say they've received a high number of complaints in those areas where wolves have preyed on livestock.

customers feel secure while they're in your cab." The city of Twin Falls grants a taxi cab license only to applicants who are affiliated with a cab company and have a valid driver's license, said Joshua Palmer, city of Twin Falls spokesman. Cab companies must also apply for a permit before opening their business in Twin Falls.

There is also a $5 fee for a county background check, Palmer said.

However, cab companies may also implement stricter driving and background requirements before hiring a driver, said Holley, who has 11 drivers on staff.

Taxi cab insurance companies require drivers to have a limited amount of points on drivers' record, Holley said. Different infractions equal different points, but Holley said she doesn't hire anyone with more than three points on their record.

"Everyone is different," she said. "If someone gets a speeding ticket in a school zone, I wouldn't hire them because they're probably not paying attention."

Just across the I.B. Perrine Bridge, the city of Jerome's taxi cab license process becomes somewhat more relaxed.

According to Jerome's city code, applicants don't have to be affiliated with a company, leaving the city as the only gatekeeper in monitoring who is best suited to drive a cab.

Jerome, applicants must have a valid driver's license and liability insurance for no less than $300,000 per person per occurrence and no less than $20,000 for property damage. There is no background check or process to make sure the driver's license is valid.

During Tuesday's city council meeting, members approved a taxi cab license for Filadelfo Funes, who used to run a taxi in Jerome in 2003. This will be the first taxi license the city has approved in several years. Until Tuesday, Jerome did not have a taxi service. The council discussed Ketchum recently buckled down on its requirements. In February, the city council voted in favor of authorizing police to conduct national background checks on applications for city taxi cab licenses.

changing the city's license application after questions were raised by councilman Chris Barber about adding background checks.

According to court records on the Idaho judicial repository website, Funes has had a handful of traffic violations over the past five years, including two driving without a seatbelt tickets, one speeding ticket and failing to stop at a yield sign.

"If he has a driver's license, we assume that it is valid," said Jerome City Clerk Shonna Fraser at Tuesday's meeting. "The same goes with the insurance."

For the city of Rupert, taxi applicants are reviewed even if they're not affiliated with a cab company. Applicants must pay a $25 fee, undergo a county background check, have a valid driver's license, and have liability insurance for up to $10,000 per person per occurrence.

Some cities in the Magic Valley don't offer taxi cab licenses due to a lack of demand.

For example, the city of Kimberly doesn't issue taxi licenses, but that shouldn't stop someone from starting a taxi cab service within the city limits, said Larry Hall, city administrator.

"The driver's license would have to be issued through the (Division of Motor Vehicles) but if they wanted to start a business, they would apply for a business license," he said.

On the flip side of the taxi application process, the city of Ketchum recently buckled down on its requirements. In February, the city council voted in favor of authorizing police to conduct national background checks on applications for city taxi cab licenses.

The only taxi cab company in Twin Falls that conducts national background checks is Twin Falls Taxi. The company is a Medicaid transportation provider, which makes the hiring process a little more thorough, said owner Scott Oler. The drivers are also trained in CPR and take a defensive driving course before transporting customers, Oler said.

"We work with the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare so our requirements are different," he said. "We're one of the strictest in town."

Police: Dead Boston Bombing Suspect Buried

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) • Boston Marathon bombing suspect Tamerlan Tsarnaev was secretly buried in an undisclosed location outside Worcester after a frustrating weeklong search for a community willing to take the body, police said Thursday.

"As a result of our public appeal for help, a courageous and compassionate individual came forward to provide the assistance needed to properly bury the deceased," Worcester police

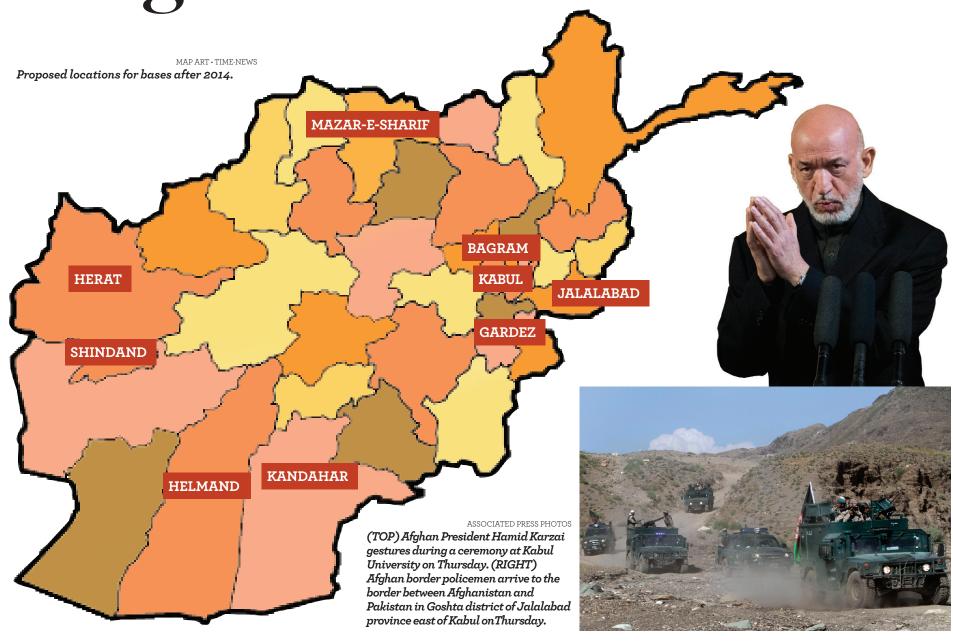

Sgt. Kerry Hazelhurst said the body was no longer in Worcester and had been entombed, but he would not say where.

A day earlier, police in Worcester, about 50 miles west of Boston, pleaded for a resolution, saying they were spending tens of thousands of dollars to protect the funeral home where Tsarnaev's body had been kept since shortly after it was released by the medical examiner on May 1.

Karzai Says US Can Have 9 Afghan Bases after 2014

KABUL (AP) • Afghan President Hamid Karzai, who has irked Washington with his frequent criticism of American military operations in his country, said Thursday that his government is now ready to let the U.S. have nine bases across Afghanistan after most foreign troops withdraw in Aborder spat with Pakistan and a desire to test public opinion led Karzai to break months of public silence on this issue, according to Afghan analysts. They said Karzai is concerned that Pakistan is using the Taliban to give it greater leverage, and that he wants to find out if Afghans, tired of 12 years of war, will support that size of a U.S. military footprint.

White House spokesman Jay Carney said Thursday that the U.S. "does not seek permanent military bases in Afghanistan." The U.S. military presence in Afghanistan after 2014 would be "only at the request of the Afghan government," Carney said.

Carney wouldn't say whether the U.S. was perhaps seeking a temporary presence on nine bases. An American defense official, anonymity because he was not authorized to discuss the negotiations with the media. said earlier that he had not heard the number nine mentioned previously.

But Karzai said that's how many bases the Americans had requested.

"We are giving the bases, nine bases they want from Afghanistan - in all of Afghanistan," he said. Karzai said the U.S. wants bases in Kabul; Bagram Air Field, north of the capital; Mazar-e-Sharif in the north; Jalalabad and Gardez near the speaking on condition of eastern border with Pakistan; Kandahar and Helmand provinces, which are Taliban strongholds in the south; and Shindand and Herat in western Afghanistan. In return, Afghanistan wants a U.S. commitment to boost Afghan security, strengthen its armed forces and provide long-term economic development assistance.

"It is our condition that they bring security and bring it quickly and strengthen the Afghan forces and the economy," he said. "When they (the Americans) do this, we are ready to sign" a partner-

The Pentagon has said very little about how and where it would position the troops it keeps in Afghanistan after the international military coalition ends its combat mission in December 2014, mainly because the arrangements must be negotiated with the Afghan government. President Barack Obama has not yet announced how many troops he wants to keep in the country beyond 2014, but officials have said it may be in the range of 10,000.

About 66,000 U.S. troops are currently in Afghanistan, down from a peak of about 100,000 in 2010. Germany is the only country to commit its troops after 2014, promising 800. Gen. Joseph Dunford, the top American commander in Kabul, said recently that he hopes the U.S. and its NATO partners can be partnered with Afghan forces after 2014 in "the four corners" of the country, as well as in Kabul.

His comment suggested that the U.S. would have military advisers on at least five bases. Washington also wants to keep some number of special operations forces in the

Record Profit Signals Healthier Fannie Mae

WASHINGTON (AP) • Fannie Mae said something Thursday that would have been unthinkable a few years ago: It earned a record $58.7 billion profit in the January-March quarter.

And it made clear it's on the cusp of repaying taxpayers for one of the most expensive bailouts of a single company in the financial crisis.

For Fannie, the future hasn't looked this bright since 2006.

More Americans are buying homes. Prices are rising at their fastest rate since the housing bubble burst. Banks are lending only to the most qualified buyers. And significantly fewer homes are falling into foreclosure.

All of that is a boon to Fannie and its smaller sibling Freddie Mac, which own or guarantee half of all U.S. mortgages and back nearly 90 percent of new ones. When people buy homes and nearly all pay their mortgage bills, Fannie and Freddie can't help but make piles of money.

And it's a big reason Fannie decided the time was right this year to capitalize on the tax benefits of the bad loans it absorbed during the crisis.

On Thursday, Fannie said that it applied tax credits it had saved from its losses on delinquent loans suffered during the crisis to its firstquarter earnings. By applying those credits to its 2013 taxes, Fannie reduced what it owed the government and boosted its profit. The result: Fannie made more money from January through March than it had in any other quarter. Of the $58.7 billion earned, nearly $51 billion came in part from using the tax credits.

Iran President Still a Force Even as His Era Ends

BIRJAND, Iran (AP) • When many struggling families in this eastern Iranian city take stock of outgoing President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad's legacy, it's not about the oratory full of bluster and menace or his tussles with Iran's ruling clerics that are known to much of the world.

What matters more here are the dusty rows of government-subsidized, two-story apartment buildings on the outskirts of the onceneglected outpost — testament to an effective populist outreach that has won the president millions of loyal backers in the provinces.

That support could give him influence beyond next month's election to pick his successor, underscoring how public opinion is relevant in Iran despite the heavy hand of clerical rule.

At first glance, Ahmadinejad may appear as a mostly spent political force. Damaging internal battles with the Islamic establishment over power and policies have left him so politically toxic in ruling circles that the possible leading candidates to replace him have all joined to ridicule his presidency.

But counting Ahmadinejad out grossly underestimates his most critical asset: A deep well of grateful and loyal supporters in hardscrabble places such as Birjand, a city of nearly 300,000 in wind-swept hills near the border with Afghanistan.

"May God bless Ahmadinejad," said Birjand taxi driver Ali Reza Farsi. "He is my hero."

While Iran's theocracy holds many levers in the election, including vetting all candidates and deciding who appears on the final ballot, public opinion remains a legitimate force in Iran. It gave pro-reform President Mohammad Khatami a landslide reelection in 2001 and unleashed its fury after claims that vote fraud brought Ahmadinejad back for a second term four years ago.

Now, it's Ahmadinejad's backers who could rattle the system. No previous Iranian president has left office on such bad terms with the ruling clerics. A cozy landing for the 56year-old leader in the inner circle or as an elder statesman is highly unlikely. This leaves Ahmadinejad with his big political ego and his still-significant political base.

"There is no doubt that an Ahmadinejad loyalist is a tough challenger no matter what," said prominent political analyst Saeed Leilaz. "Conservatives and reformists would have to fight an Ahmadinejad loyalist, who has strong supporters in small towns and rural areas?

His main goal has been to get his chief adviser, Esfandiar Rahim Mashaei, on the June 14 ballot. But the chances that his protege, whose daughter is married to Ahmadinejad's son, would be approved are sharply dimmed because of his messy power struggles with the clerics.

The relationship worsened in 2011 with a dispute over the choice of intelligence minister. The atmosphere became so divisive that Ahmadinejad boycotted government meetings for 11 days to protest being overruled by Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, who has the final say in all critical affairs.

Even without Mashaei on the ballot, Ahmadinejad has clout in other ways stemming from his policies funneling money and public works to long-neglected areas.

He could suddenly be transformed from scorned to courted by the front-runners, including a former nuclear negotiator, a top adviser for Khamenei and the mayor of Tehran, if they decide an endorsement from Ahmadinejad could bring in a potential voter windfall in the provinces

Or he could break away and start his own political movement, which could quickly become a serious force. Ahmadinejad cannot run this year because of term limits, but a comeback bid is possible as early as 2017.

The five-day registration period for candidates closes Saturday. The election overseers, known as the Guardian Council, will announce the handful of candidates on the ballot later this month. The list is expected to be weighted heavily toward establishment-friendly hopefuls. Reformists and liberal-leaning groups have been widely crushed and left leaderless after massive street protests following Ahmadinejad's disputed 2009 victory.

Prince Harry Opens Weeklong UŠ Visit

Britain's Prince Harry opened a U.S. visit devoted to the wounded victims of war at the side of one of America's most storied wounded warriors, Sen. John McCain, at an exhibition about land mines Thursday.

For the prince, the tour in the halls of Congress was a world away from the Afghanistan war zone where he recently served for 20 weeks in an attack helicopter. With a shrieking gaggle of young women straining to see him behind rope lines set back from the exhibition, the prince quizzed officials of HALO Trust, a charity which focuses on mine clearance and which had staged the display of photos, maps and minedetection equipment. The devastation caused by land mines was a cause taken up by the prince's late mother, Princess Diana, and Harry has carried on that interest as well as his own charitable work for wounded veterans.

ascus targeted alleged shipments of advanced Iranian missiles bound for Hezbollah.

Israel has signaled it will respond with airstrikes to any future weapons shipments, meaning it could quickly get drawn into Syria's civil war if the Hezbollah chief's declaration is more than an empty threat.

Tension has been rising in the region since Israel struck targets inside Syria on Friday and Sunday. Hezbollah and Israel fought several battles in the past three decades, including a 34-day war in 2006 that left some 1,200 Lebanese and 160 Israelis dead.

Arias Trial Now Turns to Whether She Lives or Dies

Jodi Arias will spend the weekend on suicide watch and return to court next week when jurors are expected to consider whether the death penalty should be an option for the former waitress' sentence.

Minutes after her conviction for killing a former boyfriend, Arias told a TV station she would "prefer to die sooner than later," complicating matters for defense lawyers who had hoped to spare her life during the penalty phase of the trial. The case was scheduled to resume Thursday, but court officials postponed it until Wednesday without explanation.

The surprising interview with Fox affiliate KSAZ only added to the circus-like environment surrounding the trial, which has become a cable TV sensation with its graphic tales of sex, lies and violence. Since her arrest, Arias has repeatedly sought the spotlight, including TV interviews and 18 days on the witness stand before a global audience, as well as selling artwork from behind bars.

KING, MESSIAH: NEW NAMES FOR BABIES SUGGEST HIGH HOPES

WASHINGTON (AP) • Talk about high expectations for a newborn: King and Messiah are among the fastest-rising baby names for American boys.

They're just a little behind Major, the boy's name that jumped the most spots on the Social Security Administration's annual list of popular baby names.

Jacob is the most popular for boys - again - and Sophia is the top name for girls, according to the list released Thursday.

It was Jacob's 14th straight year at the top. Next were Mason, Ethan, Noah and William. Liam cracked the top 10 for the first time, coming in at No. 6. Daniel slipped out of the top 10 for the first time since 1998, to

It was Sophia's second year in a row at the top for girls. Next were Emma, Isabella, Olivia and Ava.

But what about those rising boys' names?

Typically, says Laura Wattenberg, author of "The Baby Name Wizard" and founder of Babynamewizard.com, "You don't get a lot of Messiahs. You can have a lot more Majors."

"I have no doubt Major's rising popularity as a boy's name is in tribute to the brave members of the U.S. military, and maybe we'll see more boys named General in the future," said acting Social Security Commissioner Carolyn W. Colvin.

Wattenberg said Americans have long given their "aggrandizing children names." She noted that Noble and General were on the list of popular boys' names for much of the 20th century, though neither ever cracked the top 100.

"We've pretty much run out of presidential names, all the Jeffersons and Jacksons and Madisons, so we're moving on to the aristocracy, I guess, or to the military."

Jennifer Moss, author of "The One-in-a-Million Baby Name Book" and founder of Babynames.com, says she discourages parents from giving children "expectation names, like Justice and Chastity."

"We feel that it kind of puts an undue pressure on the child when you use those kinds of grandiose or purity names," Moss said. Chastity was in the top 1,000 for more than two decades before dropping off the list in 1994. Justice was on the list in 1880 but then fell off for more than 100 years. The name reappeared in 1992 and was No. 518 last Jacob's popularity endures because the name has much of what parents look for in a boy's name, said Moss.

"It's easy to pronounce, and it's easy to spell. It's a solid manly name," she said. "It's a biblical name, and biblical names are always in style."

On the girls' side, Sophia first cracked the top 100 in 1997. Isabella dropped off the list from 1949 to 1990.

The Social Security Administration's website provides lists of the top 1,000 baby names for each year, dating to 1880. The top baby names that year were John and Mary. John is now No. 28 and Mary has fallen to No. 123 — the lowest for both names.

The list, which also includes top baby names by state, draws millions of viewers. The agency hopes that people go to the website to see the baby names and stay to learn about other services.

The website also shows which names are gaining and losing - popularity. Among the boys' names that are spiking, Major jumped 505 spots, to No. 483, followed by Gael, Jase, Messiah and Brantley. Messiah gained 246 spots, to No. 387.

Among the rising girls' names, Arya jumped 298 spots, to No. 413, followed by Perla, Catalina, Elisa and Raelynn. And Raelyn with one 'n' was eighth.

Among the girls' names that are losing popularity, Dulce dropped the most, 159 spots, to No. 574. Next were Mikaela, Estrella, Danna and Audrina.

Among the boys' names that dropped, Braeden fell 105 spots, to No. 581. Next were Yahir, Kieran, Cullen and Brayan

Cecil Toner

July 31, 1915-May 8, 2013

BURLEY • Frank Cecil Toner, 97, passed away at his home in Burley on Wednesday, May 8, 2013, surrounded by his loving family.

Cecil was born July 31, 1915, in Burley, Idaho, the son of Frank Brown and Ethel Wolfe Toner. The family farmed south of Burley; when Cecil was 3 years of age, the family sold the farm and moved to California. His father went in search of work, eventually stopping in Yakima, Wash., where his family joined him. Dad finished the first grade there. Due to Depression times, the farm was turned back to his dad, so the family returned to Burley where they farmed the original farm with additional farms being added. Dad graduated from Burley High School with the Class of 1933, after which he went to a mechanic school in Portland, Ore. He returned to Burley to farm with his father on the family dairy farm.

Cecil met Clarice Emma Brady, who just happened to be a close neighbor. Upon her graduation from high school, they married on Oct. 30, 1941, and to this union came four children, Bill (Dorothy) Toner, Betty (Ivan) Olsen, David (Susan) Toner and Darice (Paul) Okelberry. After retirement, Dad continued to help his son, Dave, on the farm, swathing hay and topping beets until into his early 90s. Dave always said he couldn't retire until his dad quit farming! Dad took great pride in his beautiful vegetable garden each year, growing one even last summer. We all attribute his ethics of hard work and deep moral character to his longevity.

Mother and Dad enjoyed traveling together, visiting Hawaii, Alaska, Mexico, Canada and several trips across the United States where they met and made many lifelong friends. They maintained a home in Quartzsite, Ariz., for nearly 40 years, where they enjoyed the winter months and getting to know and learning to love the countless friends they made there. During those months, they became rock hounds and silversmiths, creating beautiful jewelry, and their stained glass and etched glass creations were a wonder to behold. The great pleasures of Dad's life revolved around his family. We all have precious memories of the many fishing and camping trips and the many family gatherings with extended family.

Cecil is survived by his loving wife of nearly 72 years, Clarice Toner of Burley; his children, Bill (Dorothy) Toner of Burley, Betty (Ivan) Olsen of Clarkston, Wash., David (Susan) Toner of Burley and Darice Okelberry of Twin Falls; sisters, Marjorie Leifchner of Burley and Nadine (Dow) Rathbun of Twin Falls; 12 grandchildren; 25 great-grandchildren; and four great-greatgrandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents; an infant brother; an infant sister; two greatgrandchildren; and a sonin-law, Paul Okelberry.

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday, May 14, at the Rasmussen Funeral Home, 1350 E. 16th St. in Burley, where friends and family may call from 6 until 8 p.m. Monday, May 13, and from 10 until 10:45 a.m. Tuesday. Burial will be in the Pleasant View Cemetery.

Marjorie F. Bryant Oct. 22, 1926-April 28, 2013

rounded by family.

She lived in Olympia and Lacey for 56 years. Born and raised in Hailey, Idaho, she received her teacher's certification from Idaho State University and then returned to Hailey to teach before moving to Olympia with her husband, Walt Bryant, where they raised five children. In 1968, Marjorie completed her Bachelor of Arts degree at St. Martin's College, where she was in the first graduating class that included women. Marjorie taught third and fourth grades at Boston Harbor and Garfield schools for many years and was active in the Retired Teachers Association.

Marjorie was always eager to experience new cultures. She taught school for two years in Saudi Arabia, and she and Walt traveled throughout the world. They sponsored a Korean child and visited him in Seoul when he graduated from high school. Marjorie had a gift for hospitality. Family members recall how her home was always open to students, friends and relatives needing a temporary residence or a place to celebrate a holiday. She and Walt welcomed Japanese exchange students and, in the 1980s, they sponsored the Sum family from Cambodia to come to the United States, embracing them as their own children and grandchildren.

Throughout her life, Marjorie was known for her contributions to her community. She was a member of St. John's Episcopal Church for more than 50 years, where she served on the vestry and coordinated the religious education program. Because her Christian faith defined her life, her membership in the Daughters of the King was the most important to her as a source of spiritual inspiration. She was a member of Kiwanis and, in 1989, was nominated for Citizen of the Year for her volunteer work with domestic violence victims through Safe Place. A longtime member of the Boston Harbor Garden Club, Marjorie was a founder of the Burfoot Park Memorial Garden. She loved to garden, and there were always beautiful bouquets placed throughout her home.

Marjorie is survived by four children, Shane Bryant of Hidden Valley, Calif., Carla Caldwell of Port Ludlow, Wash., Jeff Bryant of Hillsboro, Ore., and Sue Andersen of Lacey, Wash.; her brothers, Robert Knight of Twin Falls, Idaho, and Harold Knight of Gooding, Idaho; many grandchildren and great-grandchildren, including those of the Tithia and Sophan Sum families; and many nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by her husband, Walt Bryant; her daughter, Phyllis Moreland; and six of her siblings.

A memorial service for Marjorie will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, May 11, at St. John's Episcopal Church, 114 20th Ave. SE in Olympia, Wash. Donations in her memory may be sent to St. John's Outreach Ministries. People may honor Marjorie's memory by following her example of service to others. Read more here: http://www.legacy.com/obituaries/theolympian/obituary.aspx?nm arjorie-f-

Doris Jean Achenbach

March 28, 1930-May 8, 2013

TWIN FALLS • Doris Jean Achenbach, 83, formerly of Buhl, passed away at home in Twin Falls on Wednesday, May 8, 2013, with her loving husband at her side.

Doris was born March 28, 1930, to H.D. and Mary Olander in Martin, S.D. She moved to Idaho with her family when she was 10 years old. At an early age, Doris and her siblings worked topping and hoeing onions for Magic Valley farmers. On April 6, 1947, she married Don Achenbach in Buhl. They lived in the Buhl area until 2008, when they moved to Twin Falls. She was a member of the Calvary Assembly of God Church in Buhl. She taught Sunday school and was the Women's Missionary Leader for many years. Doris was always a hardworking woman and farmed for many years west of Buhl. She farmed 268 acres at one time. She also milked cows and helped with sheep during lambing season. She made special designed quilts for family members. Family was the most important part of her life. When her husband started his own trucking and construction business, she was known to help pour concrete or assist in any way she could. And no one went hungry at Doris' table; she always was able to make the food stretch for extra guests.

In 1988, they began makannual trips to Quartzsite, Ariz., to enjoy the warm winter months. A big part of her life was camping and four-wheeling in the South Hills for Memorial Day, Fourth of July and Labor Day. She and Don also went four-wheeling in Arizona.

Survivors include her husband of 66 years, Don; bach of Kearns, Utah; and one daughter, Valerie (Kelly) brother, Dean Olander of Idaho Falls; as well as brothers, Vernon (Shirley) Olander of Buhl and Frank (Bernie) Olander of Lewiston; and one sister-in-law, Adene (Jim) Kimball of Buhl. Also surviving are two granddaughters, Maurene (Steve) Kendrick of Buhl and Shelli (Bill) Stokesberry of Twin Falls; four grandsons, Joe, Brian (Teri) and Donnie (Windy) Achenbach of Utah, and Justin Clark of Castleford; nine great-granddaughters, Allie, Brooke, Tawni, Haylee, Madalyn and Tiffany Achenbach, Samantha and Alison Stokesberry, and Cassidee Clark; and three great-grandsons, Tyler and Steven Achenbach, and Gaige Clark. She was preceded in death by three daughters, Jolyn and Donna Achenbach and Kay Eastburn; one sister, Marie Clark; and one brother, Max Olander.

The funeral will be held at 2 p.m. Friday, May 10, at Rosenau Funeral Home, 2826 Addison Ave. E. in Twin Falls. Interment will follow at the Buhl West End Cemetery. Arrangements are under the direction of Dustin Godfrey and staff at Rosenau Funeral Home.

The family would like to thank Visions Hospice and A Caring Hand for their loving care. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests donations be made to Visions Hospice or a charity of your choice.

High School Musicals

Students at Jerome and

Buhl high schools are putting on performances of musicals this weekend.

Jerome High's production of "Footloose" tells the story of a teenage boy who arrives in a small town only to find out that dancing and rock music are banned. But the spirit of teenage rebellion catches on and soon, things will change. Students will sing and dance to live music.

Buhl High students will present "Little Shop of Horrors." The audience will find out what happens when Seymour's alien plant gets hungry for blood.

Contemporary Dance

Idaho Dance Theatre, a Boise-based professional dance company, is coming to Twin Falls for a performance Saturday. It's the last stop on the company's southern Idaho tour.

A couple of months ago, co-artistic director Carl Rowe told me the tour is an opportunity to "share what we do with others in the state."

The performance will include four dances by four different choreographers.

For details on these events and many others, see the full calendar in this section.

JEROME • In the musical "Footloose," high schooler Ren McCormack arrives in a small town and is shocked to find out dancing and rock music are forbidden.

But soon enough, McCormack and the town's teenagers rebel against the ban.

Jerome High School is presenting its production of "Footloose" this weekend. The show opened Thursday, and performances are planned for tonight and Saturday.

"He has to change everything about his world," he said.

Assistant director Jenna Rade, an English teacher, said "Footloose" is a coming-of-age tale and a timeless classic.

It's easy to relate to the message in the musical, she said, regardless of where you live.

Jerome High's production will include live music performed by four musicians — three of whom are adults — on two pianos, percussion equipment and an electric guitar.

Rade said having live music will help provide a rock and roll vibe.

"It will create a whole energy to the show," she said, noting the production will be a fun celebration of music and dance.

think we owe Robert Downey Jr. a debt of gratitude for playing Iron Man.

His first performance as the armored hero in 2008 was a game-changer for superhero movies, totally subverting our expectations of how a superhero should act and behave by turning a narcissistic rebel billionaire into a selfless

In the process, Downey created a new cultural icon in Tony Stark and jump started the Golden Age of superhero movies we're in

Now, after a less revolutionary, but still entertaining sequel ("Iron Man 2") and a spectacular team-up movie ("The Avengers"), Downey returns to the red metal suit again for "Iron Man 3."

The movie begins by exploring a question often brought up in comics, but rarely in movies: What kind of toll does being a superhero take on a person's psyche?

For Tony Stark, that toll is post-traumatic stress disorder. The events from "The Avengers" in particular have left him shaken and worried about a future alien invasion. If he starts to think too much about it, he has a panic at-frantic obsession with creating new, better Iron Man suits. The sleepless nights and constant work strain his relationship with girlfriend Pepper Potts (Gwyneth Paltrow). Eventually, the stress of it all leads to him making an arrogant challenge against The Mandarin (Ben Kingsley), a terrorist who has been setting off bombs around the country.

It's a challenge he soon regrets and The Mandarin's response sets off the major conflict of the movie.

Sadly, after this point Stark's inner turmoil is largely forgotten until a scene at the end involving "fireworks" that act as a symbolic catharsis.

One thing "Iron Man 3" does exceptionally well are the action scenes. The new technology that Stark puts into his suits at the beginning of the film have some very creative uses Robert Downey Jr. again brings his A-game to playing Tony Stark. It's hard to imagine anyone else pulling off the wit, charm and narcissism that Downey brings. Please, someone give him an Oscar before he stops playing this character.

Comedy Trio Coming to Jackpot

JACKPOT, Nev. • Three definitely isn't a crowd when you team comics Bob Zany, Zan Aufderheide and Costaki Economopoulos together.

The trio will perform at 9 p.m. tonight and 8 p.m. Saturday, May 11 in the Gala Showroom at Cactus Petes Resort Casino in Jackpot,

If you're ready to see Sonny & Cher in a "Zany & Zan" style, this show is for you.

"Zan is a really funny lady and this comedy team I'm really excited about," Zany said. "We actually had Chris Bearde, who created the Sonny & Cher Show and The Gong Show, on a podcast and he gave us thumbs up."

A Zany flavor of the news is broadcast on the radio in the "Zany Report" on the Bob & Tom Show. Economopoulos' segment is "The Economonologue," which features the a look at the latest sports news.

Zany has been doing the "Zany Report" on the Bob & Tom Show for almost 16 years. The show is aired from 6-10 a.m. daily on KSNQ 98.3 FM in Twin Falls.

"I always acquaint what I do with my father, "Zany said. "He was a house painter. When he was finished painting a house, he had to find another to paint. That's like me. When I'm done with a gig, I have to find Steve Martin, Johnny Carson and Rodney Dangerfield were among Zany's big influences on his career deci-"I worked with Rodney Dangerfield for a couple of years and he was a mentor," Zany said.

Zany appeared on The Gong Show in 1977 when he was only 15. He continued to do comedy throughout his high school years.

He's also no stranger to film and has appeared in several movies, including "Joe Dirt" and "The Informant!" He has appeared in many television shows.

"23 Minutes To Sunrise" is Zany's latest movie project.

Peeples, actress/singer who I went to high school with, also stars in the film," Zany said. "Her and I play husband and wife, so that's pretty surreal. It's a great film with Eric Roberts and it's getting good response. Netflix picked it up, so the next stop is Showtime or HBO."

Zany was involved with Jerry Lewis' telethon for 17 years and is a supporter of dog rescue programs.

"It's a very important thing to me and I'm at a point now where I can help,"

Zany has performed in all 50 states and traveled to several other countries.

"I'm a night club comic. It's what I do the best," he said. "I'm fortunate to have done TV, movies and all that... but when it comes to push and shove, I'm a stand up," he said.

Tickets are $20, $25 and $30, and may be purchased by calling the Cactus Petes hotline at 1-866-667-3386 or 1-800-821-1103.

The price of admission includes two free drinks. You must be 21 or older to attend a performance.

Former Burley Journalist Releases Fifth Book

BURLEY • American University of Sharjah professor and former Burley newspaper editor Ralph Berenger has released a new book.

The book "Social Media Go to War: Rage, Rebellion and Revolution in the Age of Twitter," was recently published by Marquette Books in Spokane, Wash.

Berenger was the general manager of South Idaho Press from 1990-1992 before becoming a professor. Three of his children graduated from Minico High School.

Thirty-nine scholars contributed 29 chapters to Berger's book, which is a wide-sweeping analysis of social media use in war, insurrections, revolutions and quests for social justice.

The 554-page book looks at the philosophy, theories and policies behind social media before launching into case studies around the world.

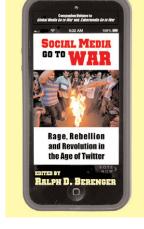

The book completes a trilogy of books published by Marquette Books that examine media behavior in times of turmoil and crisis. All three were edited by Berenger, a mass communication professor.

"What we have been witnessing over the past decade, though the dynamics of contentious or violent events, is demassification of media across all platforms," Berenger wrote in a statement.

The individual communication empowerment movement began with blogs and text messaging around the time of the 2003 Iraq war, Berenger said, and reached its current peak with popular social media sites such as Facebook and Twitter.

Berenger, who has lived and worked in Africa and the Middle East for since 2000, teaches journalism, media theory, international communication and other courses at AUS.

"Social Media Go to War: Rage, Rebellion and Revolution in the Age of Twitter" is his fifth book that examines media behavior in times of crisis and conflict.

the audience will find out how it all ends for the residents of Skid Row and the world when Seymour's hungry alien plant gets a taste for blood.

Does the nerdy Seymour, played by Buhl's Braedon Gerdes, get "Audrey" - the girl of his dreams - played by Lexi Bybee?

Bybee, a senior at Buhl, plays the sweet, ditsy Audrey who works with Seymour at Mushnik's Flower Shop.

Bybee explained that her character is a woman stuck in an abusive relationship with a dentist named "Orin Scrivello" played by Buhl student Baptiste Cornu. Fittingly, the dentist becomes the first victim of the plant named Audrey II.

"In the end (Seymour) has to chose the plant or the girl," Bybee said.

Director Dave Blaszkiewicz was tight lipped as well, careful not to give away the musical's ending. Blaszkiewicz's only hint was that the school's production follows the stage musical's storyline. The the musical is based on a 1960 black-and-white film.

"The (1986) movie takes things from the original black-and-white film and adds new things," he said. "The movie's ending is different then the play."

"Little Shop of Horrors" is the fourth and last production of the year for the drama department. It features a cast of 13, including four man-eating, Venus Flytraplooking plants of different stages in its growth.

Rachel Arreguin, a 2012 graduate of Buhl High School, is returning to play a character named "Crystal" along with Ashley Pierce, a senior at Buhl, who plays "Chiffon." Arreguin and Pierce provide background vocals for a number of songs.

"Little Shop of Horrors" marks nine productions that Arreguin has been casted in.

"Most of us graduates like to come back to act or help backstage," said Arreguin, a student studying biology at the College of Southern Idaho. "It's a lot of fun."

She said there are currently three Buhl alumni volunteering for "Little Shop of Horrors." "It's pretty common for people to come back and support," Arreguin said. "I still come back for my theater fix."

And who knows when will be the next time the hungry Audrey II will grace the stage at Buhl High School again.

Blaszkiewicz estimated the last time Buhl staged "Little Shop of Horrors" was in 1987 or 1988. And though the roles are played by different students, the blood thirsty plant puppets are the

Guitarist Fabio Zini Returns to Twin Falls

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Guitarist Fabio Zini is coming back to the Magic Valley for a series of performances.

He'll perform at 7 p.m. Saturday, May 18 in the College of Southern Idaho's Fine Arts Theatre. He'll perform alongside three local musicians.

Gary Garafano will play a guitar duet with Zini, while Robin Mingo will sing and Brian Thomson will play a saxophone duet.

Tickets are $20 each and will be available in advance by calling Barb at 208-404-4830. Remaining tickets will be available at the door.

In addition to his performance at CSI, Zini will perform at Robert Stuart Middle School, Kimberly High School and BridgeView Estates. He will also perform two songs for a graduating nurse recognition ceremony Friday,

Born in Argentina, Zini discovered his love and talent for guitar at a young age. His father gave him his first guitar at age 8, and his first professional performance was at age 13 in front of 20,000 people.

Inspired by Schubert, Bach and numerous Latin artists, he was soon composing his own music.

After college in Argentina, Zini began teaching at Florida International University and performing for conferences, cruise ships and at Walt Disney World.

He has recorded five albums and published a book, "The Ten Commandments of the Guitar." Zini is currently working on another album.

In 2007, he was named Flamenco Artist of the Year in Miami and nominated for a Latin Grammy award in the tango genre.

Starting a Vegetable Garden

What to Consider When Planning a Vegetable Garden.

by Marie Iannotti, About.com Guide

Planning a Vegetable Garden! Growing vegetables is a unique form of gardening. First most vegetables are annuals, so you'll be starting from scratch every year. You'll probably be re-planting throughout the season, too.

Then there's design. Designing a vegetable garden is more about which vegetables grow well near each other, than about how things look. Some vegetables will excrete substances that can inhibit other plants growth. Tall vegetables can shade out shorter vegetables. Vegetables in the same family will attract the same pests and need to be moved around each year. Not least to consider, these plants are going to be eaten by you and your loved ones, so if you haven't given organic gardening much thought before, you might want to consider it now. The good news is that most vegetables have similar growing requirements, so when you are deciding where to put your vegetable garden, you can follow these guidelines.

What to Consider Before Planting Your Vegetable Garden

1. Sun Vegetables are sun lovers.

Most will grow their best with 6-8 hours or more of direct sunlight. Leafy greens can handle less sun and crops that prefer cool weather, like lettuce, will continue to grow throughout the summer if shaded by taller plants. But you will still want to choose a full sun location to site your vegetable garden.

2. Access

Ideally your vegetable garden should be close to both a source of water and your kitchen. Vegetables will need water on a regular schedule. If they get watered erratically they will exhibit all sorts of problems like cracking open, not setting any fruit at all or becoming prone to cultural problems like blossom end rot. Proximity to the kitchen or at least easily accessibly from some entrance to the house will give you the incentive to remember to water and check on your garden everyday and you'll be more tempted to run out and pick something fresh while you're cooking.

3. Soil

Soil is the most important factor in any garden and perhaps more so in a vegetable garden. Annual vegetables spend their entire season producing flowers and fruits. They are very heavy feeders and a rich soil will not just keep them growing strong, it will also help ward of disease and pest problems. So for starters, the soil in your vegetable garden will need to be rich in organic matter. Compost and composted manure can be added in spring and/or fall. I would also strongly recommend you have your soil tested when starting a new garden. The test results will tell you if any other amendments need to be added and if the soil pH needs to be adjusted. Probably the easiest way to ensure great soil for your vegetable garden is to create raised beds . Raised beds simply mean the soil you are growing in is higher than the ground level by 6 or more inches. You can pile it between paths or create elaborate structures, but raised beds allow you to control the soil in the planting area, it never gets stepped on and compacted, it drains well and it warms up faster in the spring, so you can plant earlier.

One final consideration when looking at your soil is to be aware of drainage and run-off. Vegetables don't like to sit in wet soil, so if your soil is heavy the texture will need to be improved. Hopefully the organic matter will make a dent. You also don't want all the nutrients you add to simply run off elsewhere. If your site isn't level, you'll need to create run-off barriers. Similarly, you don't want water from less favorable sources, like the driveway, running into your vegetable garden.

4. Organic or Not?

Organic gardening got a bad reputation for being more difficult and less successful than gardening with synthetic fertilizers and chemicals. I don't think either is the case. If you've resisted gardening organically in the past, now is a great time to begin because garden centers are finally stocking a wealth of organic gardening products and most of the vegetable gardening information is being written to accommodate organic growers. Organic gardening is actually less time consuming, because the whole point is to prevent problems before they happen. Soil that is rich in organic matter is actually alive with all kinds of organisms that will benefit your plants. Keeping your plants healthy by providing the water, sun and nutrients they need is the fastest way to ward off pests and diseases that favor ailing plants. And choosing plants that are suited to your growing conditions and that have been bred to be disease resistant will keep them healthy. Throughout the lessons I'm going to be approaching vegetable gardening from an organic perspective and I hope you'll give it a try.

5. Tools

Every new activity requires the right tools and gardening is no exception. Vegetable gardening can be broken down into 2 stages: preparing the garden and caring for the plants. To create the garden, you'll be turning a lot of soil. The basic tools include a: shovel, fork, trowel and maybe a tiller. Once your plants are growing you'll need a different set of tools which will include a: hoe, hose and nozzle or some type of irrigation system, stakes, twine and pruners.

6. Fencing

One last thing to consider is fencing. Fencing can be an eye sore and a hassle, but you're not the only creature that enjoys eating vegetables. You will be amazed how fast animals can eat through not just the fruits of your efforts, but the whole leafy planting. It's an endless battle protecting your vegetable garden without a fence. In fact, you might need fencing both above and below the garden. Many animals will burrow under a fence and some, like prairie dogs, will pop up anywhere. It doesn't have to be fancy the first year, but I highly recommend some type of fencing. *

"Lincoln and Idaho" as part of the Speaker Night lecture series, 7 p.m. at the Gooding County Museum, 273 Euskadi Lane (Idaho Highway 46 and U.S. Highway 26, next to Basque Cultural Center). Presented by Gooding County Historical Society. Leroy's talk explores the unique relationship between the 16th president and the Idaho Territory, which Lincoln created in 1863, appointed friends to govern and mentioned in two State of the Union speeches. Leroy is chairman of the Idaho Abraham Lincoln Bicentennial Commission and chairman of the Governor's Council of the United States Lincoln Bicentennial Commission. A former prosecutor, attorney general and lieutenant governor, LeRoy has been lecturing on Lincoln since 1976. He's the author of many articles and a book on the 16th president, and has a collection of historic artifacts relating to Lincoln's life. Program courtesy of Idaho Humanities Council. Refreshments. Gospel Quartet will Perform Next Week

TWIN FALLS • A traditional southern gospel quartet is coming to Twin Falls for a performance next week.

Liberty Quartet is a fulltime concert ministry based in Boise. Its members are Royce Mitchell, bass; Jordan Cragun, baritone; Philip Batton, tenor; and Doug Wiley, lead.

Their performance is scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday, May 17 at Twin Falls Reformed Church's chapel, 1631 Grandview Drive N.

Admission is free. A freewill offering will be taken in support of Liberty's ministry.

Liberty averages 50,000-70,000 miles a year, ministering in about 200 performances for church services, large conventions, assisted living centers and prisons.

The quartet has shared the stage with groups such as Legacy Five, Greater Vision, Gaither Vocal Band, the Booth Brothers, Poet Voices, the Isaacs and Crossway. Liberty does about two recording projects each

TF Police Organize 'Bike Rodeo' for Children

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • Children can learn about bike safety this weekend during an event hosted by the Twin Falls Police Department.

The bike rodeo is from 10 a.m.-noon Saturday, May 11 in the parking lot behind Office Max.

Children ages 3-12 are invited to participate. The cost is $5 per child.

The Twin Falls Police Department will teach children about bike safety and laws. There will also be races, including barrel racing, pole bending, goat tying and slow races. If your child doesn't have a bike, stick horses will be available. All proceeds from the event will go toward helping fight multiple sclerosis.

Gooding Historical Society Hosts Lincoln Lecture

TIMES-NEWS

GOODING • Former Idaho Attorney General David Leroy will make a presentation, "Lincoln and Idaho," next week in Gooding.

The lecture, hosted by the Gooding County Historical Society, is scheduled for 7 p.m Wednesday, May 15 at the Gooding County Museum.

The museum is located at 273 Euskadi Lane next to North Canyon Medical Center.

The lecture is free, but donations are appreciated. Refreshments will follow.

Leroy will talk about the unique relationship between Abraham Lincoln, the United States' 16th president, and the Idaho Territory.

Lincoln created the territory in 1863 and appoint ed friends to govern it. He mentioned the Idaho Ter-

Leroy defends the claim that Idaho is the state most related to Lincoln.

Leroy is the chairman of the Idaho Abraham Lincoln Bicentennial Commission and chairman of the Governor's Council of the United States Lincoln Bicentennial Commission.

A former prosecutor, attorney general and lieutenant governor, he has been lecturing on Lincoln since 1976.

He is the author of many articles and a book about the 16th president. He has a collection of historic artifacts relating to Lincoln's life that he uses to enhance his talks.

the last 24 ain't bad. The Jerome Tigers girls track team emerged as District IV track champions for the seventh straight time Thursday, having now won it every year since the trophy was made, beating Canyon Ridge 197 to 143.

"It's something my dad taught me; you just build a program by recruiting like crazy, getting as many girls out as you can, and then you build a relationship with them," girls coach Cory Musgrave said. "If you care about them, they are going to perform. And man, did they ever. We come out every year in district sitting like we might not win, and we always come through."

This time, the boys were by their side, edging Minico 129-126 despite winning just one event.

Bill Ingram Field. Casey Merritt tossed a gem and the Twin Falls Bruins took advantage of five Minico errors to beat the Spartans 6-0 in the Class 4A District IV tournament Thursday.

The Bruins' win forces the "if necessary" second championship game in the tournament's double elimination format. Twin Falls will host Minico at 5 p.m. today.

"It's better to win a championship on your home turf than somewhere else," said Merritt.

Avenging his loss to the Spartans during the regular season, Merritt went all seven innings in the shutout, allowing six hits - two of which came in the bottom of the seventh with five strikeouts and one walk.

"What's even more comforting is having an offense for you, knowing you're ahead in the game and all you've got to do is throw strikes and let your defense make plays behind you," Merritt said. Minico's Andrew Frank also pitched a stellar game — only four hits and two walks — but the five errors were far too many.

"Especially against a team like Twin, you can't make that many mistakes," said Minico coach Jared Price. "They're a good team and we knew they were going to come ready to play. We just didn't show up today."

Neither team had a player with multiple hits. Jason Byce was 1-for-2 and drove in two runs to lead the Bruins.

Minico outhit Twin Falls 6-4, but the Bruins' clean defense was the difference.

Bruins Edge Riverhawks for Softball Crown

TWIN FALLS • The Great Basin Conference will be represented by two capable teams: the Twin Falls Bruins and the Canyon Ridge Riverhawks at the 4A state softball tournament in Post Falls.

The Bruins will go into state as the top seed after beating the Riverhawks 6-5 Thursday for the district championship at Twin Falls High School.

"We hoped to play Canyon Ridge for the district championship, because we wanted a good game going into state and we were both playing for seeding," said Bruins coach Jessica Pistole. "And now, we hope to face them in the championship game at state. They (Canyon Ridge) are good hitters and TWIN FALLS 6, CANYON RIDGE 5 we respect their team." The Bruins took the early lead in the first putting four runs on the board starting with the big blow being a three run triple off the bat of junior Makenzie Swafford following a pair of walks and a base hit. Twin Falls added two more runs in the second.

"The last couple of times we played Twin Falls, Emma (Stephens) has really been tough," said Swafford. "We've learned to never let down and go strong and finish the game. I'm glad we played them today and we will be cheering them on at state."

The workhorse on the mound for the Bruins was once again, winning pitcher Megan Hinojos stepping up and was ready to go. She threw 139 pitches and allowed 12 hits, four earned runs, three strikeouts and three walks.

"Megan has worked so hard to get to this spot," said Pistole. "She has put in the time and preparation this season and it really shows."

Hinojos yielded a two-run homerun to Henley Blick in the seventh innings when the Riverhawks appeared to finally have the Bruins hurler figured out, touching her for

"We needed to come out stronger early," said freshman Kayler Detmer, who had two hits in five at bats and drove in two runs. "We really wanted to win because, of course, we were playing Twin Falls. We feel confident about state. This team has great chemistry and good senior team leaders. I've learned something from each of them."

Emma Stephens took the loss for Canyon Ridge despite only allowing seven hits on 92 pitches, to go with five walks and one strikeout. Heaven Marsh and Kylee Barker led the offense with a pair of hits in three at bats. Brinley Miller was 2-for-4 with three stolen bases.

"This game will give both teams a great deal of momentum into state," said Pistole.

Twin Falls opens play at state on Friday, May 17 at 9 a.m. PDT against Skyview and Canyon Ridge will face Blackfoot at 11 a.m.

HENDERSON, Nev. • Once again the College of Southern Idaho baseball team is taking the scenic route at the Region 18 Tournament, but the Golden Eagles are still kicking.

Hours after being runruled 10-0 by regular-season league champ and tournament host Southern Nevada, CSI bounced back late Thursday evening and eliminated Colorado Northwestern 8-0.

Nolan Stouder pitched seven strong innings, striking out eight and allowing just five hits. Matt Walkowicz had three hits and drove in two runs for the Golden Eagles.

CSI was shackled by Southern Nevada pitcher Thomas Pannone in Game 1, as he struck out nine batters and allowed just two hits in five innings.

lot on the throws, so we had to piece together the jumps, the pole vault and stuff like that," coach Sid Gambles said. "The toughest thing about track is sacrificing the individual to make a relay team better or this and that, but these guys have stayed with it hook and line and sinker."

For the girls, Jasmine Nesbitt dominated once again, repeating as 800, 1,600 and 3,200 meter champion, winning the latter two by 15 seconds and the 800 by five seconds.

She even anchored the winning medley relay.

"She is amazing," Musgrave said of the Idaho State-bound Nesbitt. "Just unheard of."

The Tigers had a few surprises.

Jordan Mogensen started running the 400 meters halfway through the season.

Now it's her best event. The senior set her personal best time for the second day in a row, winning the event by getting under the minute mark - 59.78.

"I knew I had strong competition and I pushed myself," Mogensen said.

The boys took a different approach, using its depth to score points in virtually every event. Its lone winner was junior Skyler Rienstra in the 100-meter hurdles with a time of 15.86.

"I just felt it," Rienstra said. "If I can't feel it, I don't do well. I get nerves, but I do acting as well and I use nerves to my advantage, to get the adrenaline going."

Some just needed guts. The Tigers Colton Parsons battled a strained hamstring until the end, helping put his team over the top, falling toppling at the end of the 4x400 meter relay.

"He was hurt," Gambles said. "It was admirable and he came through."

"I was definitely just trying to make it through today," Parsons said. "Yesterday it was really bad."

Canyon Ridge's Kayla Lee might have topped Nesbitt's day on the girls side. She won the 100, 200, long jump and triple

She will go for the Idaho state record in the triple jump next week. She could have qualified for state on the boy's side – by a foot.

"That is my goal (to set the all-time state record)," Lee said. "It is all about how you attack the board. I get as close to scratching as possible."

Lee should also be partially credited for some of the boys' success. She helped recruit the Riverhawks' new trackster Tyler Galbreath, winner of the triple jump.

"We've been trying to get the guy out for years," Lee said. "It was peer pressure." Galbreath, a former baseball player who heads off to U.S. Marine Corps boot camp in just over two months, beat his personal best - which was set the first time he jumped. Galbreath was finally healthy after battling hamstring injuries.

"I have always been told I'm a natural athlete and good at picking up new stuff," Galbreath said. Teammate Scott Warner won the pole vault with 13-feet vault. He'll be going for at least 13-feet-6 at state. He's done even higher in practice. Warner, who trains at an offseason track camp with the father of the best polevaulter in the state, Ben Lewis of Nampa Christian, is currently tied for third in the state - but he could peak next week.

"I like competing in warm weather," Warner said. "And it's finally warm."

Wood River's Ian Keys just likes the chance to compete. After missing his entire junior season with a hamstring injury, having finished eighth in state in the 100 as a sophomore, Keys set the top 4A state times in two events on Thursday, winning the 100 and 200. He stuck out as his tongue as he crossed the finish line in the 100 – feeling good.

"In the finals you got to perform," Keys said. "I count on my training to have my form where it needs to be. Then you relax and not think about it. Other sprinters think about form and don't relax."

Minico's Caleb Worley, winner of the 400, second-place finisher in the 200 meter, and third leg on the school-record setting 4x200 relay Thursday, was similarly loose — but perhaps for different reasons.

"Oh yeah, I think the big difference was me running against guys I knew," Worley said. "I was up against guys I knew personally on Facebook. It's conference, too, so big. It's the second biggest stage I can get on right now. I was nervous last year, did some things I shouldn't have, took some supplements Teammate on the girls side, Rebecca Child, doesn't take supplements, but she has to take Albuterol to have a chance of finishing her events.

The junior was diagnosed with reactive airways disease early in the year – and her times were two seconds or slower than normal, until she was properly diagnosed. She was feeling better Thursday, winning the 100 meter hurdles and finishing second in the 300 meter hurdles.

"My lungs had been swollen," Child said. "I had to skip over weeks of practice because I couldn't breath and would cough all the time. But my lungs are good enough to do it now."

jeopardy now. "Literally, we have nothing to lose, and they were looking right past us to play Salt Lake Community College and we knew that," North Idaho pitcher Emily Perlich said. "The biggest mistake you can make is to underestimate your opponent, and we didn't underestimate them because they are the No. 1 seed and this is their home field."

Perlich had faced CSI four times prior to her start Thursday. In 24 innings, she had allowed 30 hits and 28 runs. On Thursday, she shut down the conference's fiercest lineup, holding it to six hits and one unearned run.

"The whole focus was keeping their timing off," Perlich said. "We wanted to keep them guessing."

Perlich retired the first nine batters she faced, four of them on strike outs, three on pop-ups, changing speed with five different pitches.

Contact would only improve marginally as the game progressed - soft fly balls from right-handed batters to right field represented a modicum of progress. "I wouldn't say we were rusty, but we were overpumped in the beginning," Scenic West Athletic Conference Player of the Year Lea Hopson said. "We didn't get our rhythm until late in the game."

Perlich pitched CSI hitters away – as CSI coach Nick Baumert and staff had anticipated after scouting her on Wednesday – but CSI batters didn't take an opposite-field approach until late in the game.

Over the last four innings, CSI got eight runners on base - seven of them were stranded.

With runners in scoring position, CSI went 1-for-9. When CSI wasn't swing..... NORTH IDAHO 4, CSI 1 ing late, it was sacrificing power to simply get on base and hand the baton down the lineup.

Nothing epitomized the Golden Eagles' lack of timing and confidence more than Baumert's decision to have Hopson —hitting .431 with 12 home runs on the season — bunt with one out in the sixth inning and runners and second and third.

"I thought back to Lea's first at-bats, and her timing wasn't very good," Baumert said. "She was swinging up." Hopson's bunt was too hard, and she was thrown out without a run crossing the plate.

Whitney Carlton, hitting .367 with five home runs, sacrifice bunted prior to Hopson to move the runners over.

Two outs without a true swing.

Aubrey Whitmer followed with a pop out, as the heart of CSI's order failed to get the ball out of the infield in what was seemingly a decisive frame.

Third baseman Patti Ferguson was the only hitter to swing it well- lining two hits on the day.

CSI will open with Western Nevada at 9:30 a.m. this morning. Should the Golden Eagles win, they'd play Snow College at 2:30. If they win that, they'll play right after against the loser of today's semifinal game between North Idaho and Salt Lake. Then they'd have to win two additional games on Saturday to make it to nationals.

"We have our work cut out for us now," Baumert said. "But if anybody is able to put five wins in a row, it'll be this club. But it'll take a yeoman's effort?

The constant reminders and token of love from father to daughter have helped Richards become a district champion. She defeated Minico's Eva Mollik 7-5, 6-3 in the girls singles final on Thursday at the Class 4A District IV tennis tournament at Twin Falls High School.

It's been a progression. After finishing third as a sophomore and runnerup as a junior, Richards "figured it was my time finally to dominate. It's really exciting."

Richards and Mollik split their regular season matches.

"She was my only competition, so in practice and games I was always just thinking about my strategy to beat her," Richards said. "Tennis is such a mental game, I really have to prepare myself and know that I have the skills to beat her." Richards' win helped propel Wood River to the girls team title. Twin Falls won the boys team title, led by singles champ Dallas Hunt, the 4A state runner-up from last year. "My goal is to win the whole thing.... I feel confident, but it will be really CLASS 4A DISTRICT IV TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

Senators Advance to Second Round

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MONTREAL • Craig Anderson made 33 saves and Cory Conacher scored twice on a shaky Peter Budaj as the Ottawa Senators advanced to the second round of the playoffs Thursday night with a 6-1 rout of the Montreal Canadiens.

Ottawa took the bestof-seven series 4-1 and put a punctuation mark on its dominance in moving on for the first time since 2007, when the Senators lost in the Stanley Cup finals to the Anaheim Ducks. The victory gives Ottawa time to rest up and heal bruises from the physical series before the conference semifinals begin next week. Zack Smith, Kyle Turris, Daniel Alfredsson and Erik Condra also scored for Ottawa, underdogs as the seventh seed in the East, but bolstered down the stretch by the return of top players on defense Erik

PENGUINS 4, ISLANDERS o

PITTSBURGH • Tomas Vokoun stopped 31 shots in his first playoff start in six years and the Penguins took a 3-2 lead in their first-round series.

Sidney Crosby, Tyler Kennedy and Douglas Murray scored during a seven-minute stretch in the second period and Kris Letang added a power-play goal in the third as Pittsburgh moved a step closer to advancing to the second round.

Game 6 is Saturday in New York.

Evgeni Nabokov made 23 saves for the Islanders, but also gave up breakaway goals to Crosby and Kennedy and botched a lazy wrist shot from Murray that gave the Penguins all the offense they would need.

Vokoun was thrust into the lineup after Pittsburgh coach Dan Bylsma benched Marc-Andre Fleury, who had started 79 straight postseason games but struggled in a 6-4 loss in Game 4.

Stars Shine at 3A/2A District Track Meet

BY DAVID BASHORE

dbashore@magicvalley.com

FILER • At a meet where the 3A and 2A District IV stars stood out, Buhl senior Taylor Oppedyk partially stole the show.

The Indians' ace thrower has been among the state's elite all season, but he set a couple of personal records to sweep the throws at the 3A District IV track and field championships.

Oppedyk won the shot put on Wednesday with a toss of more than 51 feet, then followed that up Thursday with a discus throw of more than 149 feet.

"It's been great PR weather, and a lot of us have been able to do that," said Oppedyk, who will compete in both football and track and field for the College of Idaho. "You know when you have a good one, especially in discus because you get a jolt all the way down your arm when you get a good throw off. I didn't think it was going to be that far, though."

Gooding's Rachel Youren also set a seasonbest in the 1,600 meters on Thursday. She also added a win in the 800 to the Editor's Note: Complete results from the competition were unavailable at press time due to transmission problems from the site. We hope to have them in Saturday's newspaper, or check Magicvalley.com later Friday. We apologize for the inconvenience.

3,200 victory she scored on Wednesday.

Youren hasn't had a lot of competition in the district this season, but she found a different way to keep herself motivat-

"It's just me against myself and against the clock. I want to keep getting my time better," said Youren, a junior. "It's going to be tough at state. I'm second in the 3,200 (according to Athletic.net) and about fifth in the 1,600. But I'm just going to do my best and see what happens."

Another hoping to do his best and seeing if it's enough is Filer's Gage Moore, who has blown away District IV competition all season.

Moore did so again at the district meet, breezing to the 1,600 and 3,200 titles. The junior ran the mile in a little over 4:40, a good time considering he was 20 seconds ahead of his nearest competitor but not where it needs to be to catch nemesis and good friend James Withers of Snake River, a senior. "We've been back and forth all year. He had a 4:38 and I had a 4:42, then he dropped it to 4:32. I got a 4:34 or so, and then he ran a 4:26, which is an amazing time," Moore said. "I ran a meet at Middleton to get a look at the state site, and it's a gorgeous track and I ran well there. I'm hoping that I can get (Withers) because at him."

Another athlete taking her last shot is Oakley senior Paige Cooper, who has signed to compete at Weber State.

She scored victories in three individual events high jump, long jump and triple jump - at the 2A district meet, which was also held at Filer.

Cooper has her sights set higher than perhaps anyone else that competed in the two-day meet at Filer. She's a potential medalist in all three events and owns the best high jump mark in the state, regardless of classification.

LEGAL NOTICE

The Magic Valley Regional Office of the Idaho Department of Fish and Game has been informed that there is a high likelihood that Little Camas Reservoir in Elmore County will be dry or nearly dry by early summer. Drought conditions, lack of runoff into this water and notices of insufficient water from the irrigation companies have led to this determination. Fish in this water will have a high likelihood of dying as water levels drop and conditions become unsuitable.

Therefore, fish bag, possession, and size limits will be removed on Little Camas Reservoir in Elmore County, effective May 7, 2013 through September 30, 2013. Fish may be taken by any method except firearms, explosives, chemicals, or electric current; effective May 7th through September 30th, 2013. In accordance with Section 36-401, Idaho Code, a valid Idaho fishing license is required to salvage fish.

Copies of Order 13-16 are available at the Idaho Department of Fish and Game headquarters, 600 South Walnut, PO Box 25, Boise, Idaho 83707.

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

HOLIDAY

DEAR ABBY: I am a longtime reader but a first-time writer. My problem has been bothering me for some time now. We have a grandson who is 4 and very much a "princess boy." He likes girl toys and dresses and doesn't like any of his boy toys. We're at a loss about how to handle this. He's an adorable little boy and we love him to pieces. His parents don't accept this behavior, and I'm afraid it will affect him now and in the future. How would you handle this? We don't say anything to his parents because they are pretty much in denial.

- WORRIED GRANDMA

DEAR ${f A}$ BBY Jeanne Phillips

DEAR WORRIED: If he were my grandchild I'd talk with the parents. I, too, am concerned about how their attitude will affect the child in the future, because parents are supposed to love and accept children the way they are, and sexual orientation is inborn. Children who feel consistent disapproval grow up thinking they aren't good enough and don't measure up - which can be a self-fulfilling prophecy.

I would "handle this" by making sure my grandson knew I loved, accepted and valued him just the way he is. If that means allowing him to play with the toys of his choice in my home, that's what I'd do. And if he showed more interest in art, music and dance and less interest in sports, trucks, etc., I'd support that, too.

I'm glad you asked this question. Your grandson may or may not grow up to be gay or transgender, which is what I think your letter is really about. Regardless of what his orientation is, it's very important that he knows he is valued for who he is.

DEAR ABBY: I know this boy that I really love. He's nice, smart and funny and I think about him all the time. He says he loves me back.

Is this true love, or just a mutual crush? I know I'm only 13, but I think I'm in love. Is it ridiculous to think I have found true love in seventh grade? How can I tell whether it's love or not? And what would you consider the usual age to find your perfect other half?

- CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: No one can predict how old you will be when you meet someone who is your perfect other half. People's interests and needs evolve as they grow older, and what seems perfect today can seem less so when viewed through the lens of life experience.

I would never label your feelings as "ridiculous," but when you are in love, there is usually no doubt about it. Because you need to ask someone else if what you're feeling is true love, then it probably isn't.

DEAR ABBY: I met a guy on an online dating site. It turns out I know him. He works at a store I shop in three times a week. He's nice, funny and everything I'm looking for in a guy except he's 25 and I'm 17.

He knows how old I am and for a while he was fine with it. Now he thinks I'm a cop and I'm going to bust him for trying to have sex with me 'cause I'm underage. He explained why he thinks that, and he made sense. But I'm NOT a cop. I gave him information trying to prove I'm not.

Abby, I really like him. How do I prove that I'm not a cop? How do I show him he can trust me?

NEEDS ADVICE IN OREGON

DEAR NEEDS ADVICE: Undercover cops are older than 17. Because you say this man was "fine" with seeing you, but now is pulling away, it is possible that he is trying to let you down without hurting your feelings. You are not yet out of high school and this man is far ahead of you in life experience. Rather than try to talk him into having a sexual relationship with you, you would be much better off finding someone your own age.

The women's match between Europe and the United States at the IOC Championships in Lausanne, Switzerland, a decade ago, saw a win for the European team — a squad from four different countries, by a substantial 68 IMPs.

Sabine Auken, who is a German player living in Denmark, has been one of the world's best women players for several years. Sitting South, she showed her skill on the diagramed deal from that match. Using a strong club, she and her partner climbed to a slightly optimistic three-no-trump contract.

While a club lead would have defeated the game, West had no reason to know that, and after the normal diamond lead, South had plenty of chances. She captured East's diamond queen with the ace and finessed the spade jack, losing to the queen.

Although South might not have enjoyed a club shift, East returned the diamond 10, and only when this was permitted to win, did she shift to the club king.

Auken held up the ace for one round, then took another spade finesse. When it held, she continued spades, and West won the king and led a third diamond. Dummy's king won, and when the winning spade was led from dummy in the three-card ending, East had to throw a heart to keep her master club. Now Auken could play off the ace and king of hearts, certain that the remaining hearts were 2-2.

ANSWER: After transferring to spades, what should you do next? A pessimist would pass, or only invite game — while in my opinion, a more accurate if somewhat aggressive valuation of the hand would be to drive to three no-trump and offer partner a choice of games. Consider that even if partner has three bare aces, a king and two small spades, you are still the favorite to make nine tricks in no-trump.

IF MAY 10 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Those born on this day are blessed with peace and tranquility during the next six to eight weeks. You may be tempted to let your ambitions take charge in July and August, but would be wise to avoid making any irrevocable changes in your career or finances. Wait until October, when your business expertise is at its best to make decisions about investments, job, or to initiate a new business activity. In February, a stroke of good fortune or an opportunity can bring lasting abundance. That is a great time to successfully launch crucial personal plans or to show off leadership abilities.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Play by the rules. If you simply grin and give facts a spin, you might end up at the wrong end of a game of spin the bottle. Co-workers, business contacts and loved ones are looking for facts, not fancies.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): It might be wisest to be safe rather than sorry. Don't be tempted by something new and exciting. Put your best foot forward when dealing with the public and be a stickler about honoring obligations.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Remain cool and collected. Some people may not be amused by efforts to bend the rules or clown around. Obey social conventions, even if it goes against the grain and cramps your freefor-all style.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your weekend social calendar might involve a hodgepodge of examples of Southern hospitality laced with black-tie formality. Embrace childlike excitement, but observe conventions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Someone close may appreciate the visionary ideas that you magically explain with a logical approach. You might be at your best when appearing in public venues or hanging out in the old neighborhood.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Those in close connection are currently concerned with perfection. If you want to dazzle your mate, buy only the very best brand name. Place your trust in others and everything will go as planned.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Business affairs might not go as expected. Keep your cool and eventually things will work out if you refuse to be goaded into premature reactions. Minor emergencies and upsets can't spoil your plans.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You might find that you love yourself more when you exercise constraint. Others will find your careful observation of etiquette appealing. Old loves or past acquaintances may be anxious to reconnect.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't try to reinvent the wheel. This isn't the time to make major changes, try out something new, alter routines or implement new ideas. Plod along with the crowd and enjoy security.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): It may be difficult to get you to budge from a safe and secure roost. You might need to go out on the town anyway. Co-workers, friends or clients may surprise you with a token of appreciation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Get cooking. The schemes and dreams you whip up with a romantic partner have endless potential. Put your ambitions and desires aside and find ways to do a good deed for a special someone.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): There is a comforting sense of security in the tried and true. Enjoy community gatherings or lectures, and take along an old friend or an elderly relative. Toe the line; take care of work before pleasure.
