BANK ROBBERY

Police: Suspects Hid Out in Twin Falls after Bank Robbery

BY ALISON GENE SMITH

TWIN FALLS • While police from multiple Magic Valley agencies were patrolling highways and searching northern Twin Falls for a bank robber July 9, Jake and Linda Rowe were hiding out in a hotel room less than a mile from the robbed bank, say court documents made public Thursday.

Police caught the Rowes Wednesday near Carlin, Nev. Each is charged with robbery and conspiracy to commit robbery for the heist at Zions Bank in Twin Falls.

Rowe is known to law enforcement, Elko County Undersheriff Clair Morris said.

“He’s been involved in drug activity,” Morris said, and is known to have weapons and explosives.

Authorities wanted to avoid a confrontation at the Rowes’ residence because of concern for their children and the proximity to schools.

“We thought we’d try to catch him while he was moving,” Morris said.

Rowe took off, leading officers on a 20-mile chase on dirt roads north of Carlin, a town just west of Elko along Interstate 80.

Rowe abandoned his vehicle when it got stuck on a dirt road in the Swale Mountain area, then took off on foot, Morris said. Police chased him for another 3 or 4 miles. Carlin police, Elko County (Nev.) deputies, Twin Falls police, Elko police and Nevada Highway Patrol troopers all were in pursuit.

Deputies said Rowe pointed a rifle at them and a Carlin officer shot him in the stomach.

Rowe was taken into custody and transported by air ambulance to an

Flash Flood Damages Homes in Oakley

OAKLEY • Ash, mud and water swept through the south foothills of Oakley Tuesday evening, damaging houses and farmland as homeowners struggled to keep destruction at bay.

Homesteading at the base of the south foothills, farmers and ranchers are well aware of the potential dangers of fire and heavy snowfall, but after a few minutes of heavy rainfall, they were forced to contend with another force of nature this week.

Man Left For Dead Testifies at Hearing

alismith@magicvalley.com

GOODING • A Blackfoot man testified about how two men attacked him, slashed his throat and left him for dead, and when the preliminary hearing ended, a judge ruled that evidence is sufficient to send suspects Ryan Cunningham and Thomas Hooley to trial.

Jason Given, 31, testified for more than an hour during the Aug. 30 hearing in Gooding County Magistrate Court.

He said Cunningham and Hooley fired a stun gun at him, bound him with zip ties, hogtied him, then stabbed him in the head before trying to break his neck and slashing his neck twice.

Given testified that he was sleeping midday July 13 at the Apollo Hotel in Twin Falls when Hooley arrived and told him to come along. They rode with Cunningham to an old winery near Wendell.

Given said he knew Cunningham, 30, of Wendell, through his son’s mother and considered Hooley, 49, of Twin Falls, a friend.

“I thought I knew him pretty good, but, no, I didn’t know him at all,” he said.

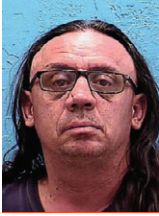

As he was checking out the scenery, Given testified, he felt a shock and couldn’t move. That’s when Cunningham and Hooley began zip-tying his arms and legs. Then they tied his feet to his hands.

“Then Ryan thought it would be funny to put a (expletive) knife in my head,” Given said, his voice raising. “Then if that wasn’t enough, he tried to break my neck.”

Given described how Cunningham used his fist to punch the knife deep into his head and how he felt the knife enter his skull and brain.

“Words can’t even describe the pain I was in,” he said.

Then Cunningham began twisting his head, Given said.

“Almost bear-hugging my head, trying to snap it off,” he said. “He couldn’t snap my neck, so he picked up his knife and slit my neck twice.”

Given said Cunningham told him, “This is for all the times you hurt her,” the second time he slashed Given’s neck. The witness did not elaborate.

“After they slit my throat, they cut the ties off, took my belt, took my shoes, took my wallet and left me there ‘cause they thought I was dead,” he said.

Given said he waited, face down, in the

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

Stocks Edge Higher after Encouraging Jobs Reports

NEW YORK (AP) • More evidence of an improving job market helped lift stocks Thursday.

The pair of employment reports also boosted the yield on 10-year Treasury notes to 3 percent, the highest level since July 2011.

The Labor Department reported that the four-week average of applications for U.S. unemployment benefits has fallen in the past month to its lowest point since October 2007, two months before the Great Recession officially began.

Chobani Revamps Yogurt Recall after Reports of Illness Surface

BY JOE CADOTTE

jcadotte@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Chobani is amplifying its message to remove contaminated yogurt from store shelves nationwide after reports of illness surfaced Wednesday. A voluntary recall of 35 varieties of Chobani yogurt has been in effect since Tuesday, and 95 percent of affected products have been destroyed, said Amy Juaristi, director of public relations.

None of the reports of illness have been confirmed, Juaristi said.

Chobani founder Hamdi Ulukaya wrote an apology to fans of the Greek yogurt on the company's Facebook page.

The company is working with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to get word out about yogurt cups contaminated by mold, Juaristi said.

"We recently identified mold in a limited amount of product that came from our Idaho facility," Ulukaya wrote in a letter on the company's website. "While this type of mold is common in the dairy environment, particularly when using only natural ingredients that are absent of artificial preservatives, it's still unacceptable to me and all of our yogurt makers."

Tainted products from Chobani's Twin Falls plant were identified as far back as early August.

Asked what the company is doing to prevent recurrence of the contamination, Juaristi emailed the Times-News: "Our Twin Falls production is at normal levels. We're hard at work putting only the best yogurt back on shelves." A food scientist with the University of Idaho, local food safety officials and the FDA say the tainted yogurt is not a public safety issue.

"We've received reports of people not feeling well, so we take a lot of care because it's important for us to ensure their safety and satisfaction with our product," Juaristi said. "We've identified the issue at hand and are working very hard to make sure it's addressed moving forward."

The FDA is not investigating partly because it has not confirmed reports of illness related to the yogurt, said FDA spokeswoman Tamara Ward.

"We've been in contact with the company since we learned about the issue and are in discussions with them on how to best recall (the tainted yogurt),"

It is rare for yogurt to house disease or pathogens, said Gulhan Unlu, food microbiologist with the University of Idaho.

"During the fermentation process, we don't expect pathogens to grow because the acidity is so high. Not many pathogens can survive that. There could always be an organism that can tolerate (high acidity), but it is very unlikely."

Juaristi said she didn't know how Chobani's yogurt was contaminated, but Unlu had some ideas.

At any point from cow to cup, the yogurt process could have been flawed, she said. A batch of milk could have been under-pasteurized or not pasteurized at all. Even if milk is fully pasteurized, the process doesn't kill all microorganisms, which can evolve and ruin the final product.

Even if the materials used to ferment the yogurt were clean, the process could have gone wrong in a number of ways, Unlu said.

"This happens commonly in these types of facilities," Gulhan said. "It could be people working in the plant, any kind of surface. It could be air. The (contamination) can develop by itself. It could've been something added in post-production, like strawberries."

Chobani is advising store owners nationwide to destroy any yogurt containers with the code 16-012 and expiration dates Sept. 11 to Oct. 7.

The FDA advises people with health concerns to call 1-800-332-1088.

mud and his blood until Hoo-ley and Cunningham were gone. Then he started running.

"There was a rock hill. I climbed it, jumped over it and thank God the first person I ran into was an EMT."

With his hands covering his neck, Given said, he couldn't flag the person down, so he simply stood in the road in front of the vehicle.

In the hospital, Given said, he received five stitches on the inside of his neck, 25 on the outside, and four on each stab wound. Doctors also found he had a fractured skull.

Given said he told a different version of events to police at first because he was afraid. "I was scared of them knowing I was still alive," he said.

Then, Given said, he thought of other people who might have had the same experience and decided to talk.

Under cross-examination, Given admitted to drinking a beer on the drive to the winery and to having taken methamphetamine the day before.

Given said he has criminal charges that were set aside during this case, but he still faces one charge and wasn't given any incentives to testify.

"I knew that something bad happened, and I wondered how many times this has happened before," he said.

Cunningham and Hoo-ley both are charged with first-degree kidnapping and aggravated battery. Each man is to be arraigned Tuesday in Gooding County District Court.

Elko-area hospital where he initially was in critical condition. He later was transported to St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise, where he was in serious condition Thursday afternoon.

Rowe is expected to be released from the hospital today and taken to the Elko County Sheriff Jim Pitts. Bauer said he will be held on $1 million bond.

The Carlin officer who shot him has not been identified, but has been placed on administrative leave according to policy, Carlin Police Chief Bill Bauer said.

Because almost all Elko law enforcement agencies were involved, the shooting is being investigated by the Nevada Department of Public Safety Investigation Division and the Washoe County (Nev.) Crime Lab.

Linda Rowe, 37, came out of the couple's residence in Carlin a few hours after the chase and was arrested. She's being held on a $500,000 bond at the Elko County jail. She will be brought to Twin Falls after an extradition hearing, said Twin Falls police Sgt. John Wilson.

The Investigation

A police report outlined the investigation into the robbery:

Immediately after the robbery, Twin Falls police began interviewing witnesses. Several people in the bank remembered the bright clothing that the robber wore. Others said he left on a red dirt bike northbound, so officers began searching the area near the bridge and quickly found the red dirt bike that witnesses said was the getaway vehicle.

Another witness said he saw a woman waiting in a blue pickup in the Outback Steakhouse parking lot.

A man who was golfing in Canyon Springs Golf Course said he saw the blue truck and red dirt bike parked along a road near the golf course. Later, when he saw pictures of the robber on the news, the man recognized him as the person he'd seen that morning.

The main break in the case came Aug. 26, when Ryan 12:02 p.m.: Surveillance shows the couple returned to the La Quinta Inn. The red motorcycle is no longer in the truck. Jake Rowe is wearing the same black and red tennis shoes but no hat. The black bag is also seen.

Rowe's Criminal History

Jake Rowe has been accused of committing multiple felonies in addition to the July 9 bank robbery in Twin Falls, according to Elko, Nev., court records:

In April 2012, a Carlin (Nev.) police officer who knew Rowe was wanted on a felony warrant from another state followed Rowe to his house. As he approached Rowe's door, the officer was told he would be shot if he tried to enter.

Police obtained a search warrant and found a short-barrel shotgun, a gun that was suspected stolen, and methamphetamine.

Rowe is to stand trial in mid-November on charges of possession of a short-barreled shotgun; receiving, possessing or withholding stolen goods; and possession of a controlled substance.

The day before Rowe was bound over to District Court, the district attorney's office filed for the dismissal of separate charges.

The D.A.'s office alleged Rowe intended to transport Michael Freed and Rebecca Wrigleworth across state lines in November 2011 against their will. Rowe was charged with two counts of second-degree kidnapping; with assault with a deadly weapon for allegedly threatening to stab Freed; and with two counts of coercion for allegedly telling the victims they would be "done" if they told police.

All charges were dismissed without prejudice, meaning they can be refilled.

Earlier this year, Rowe was arrested for drunken driving after an officer pulled his car over and detected signs consistent with a person who had used meth. He was sentenced to 60 days in jail, suspending all but five of those days.

SHOES FOR ORPHANS

Local girl aims to collect 5,000 pairs for charity.

BY ALISON GENE SMITH
alismith@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Although 750 pairs of shoes might seem excessive, Hailey Sandison wants 5,000.

She isn't amassing a collection for her own fashion needs, but rather to donate to orphanages in South America and Africa.

The project is part of her work as the Magic Valley representative for Distinguished Young Women of Idaho.

She'll represent the Magic Valley at the state scholarship program in October.

Each girl in the program was asked to collect 1,000 pairs of shoes.

At first the task seemed overwhelming, said Hailey, a senior and student body president at Canyon Ridge High School.

"I didn't procrastinate," she said. "I started right away."

Canyon Ridge High School senior Hailey Sandison, who is attempting to collect 5,000 pairs of shoes for charity, poses for a photo on Wednesday in Twin Falls.

As soon as she started, Hailey said, she realized the project was going to be easier than she thought.

"Almost everyone I've talked to has an extra pair."

Hailey said she's thrilled that the Distinguished Young Women project this year is close to her heart.

"This is something I would have chosen to do," she said.

When she was 12, Hailey's father, Dr. Richard Sandison, moved the family to serve a year-long mission, volunteering in a clinic in Ecuador.

The experience affected her deeply.

"If I could go back, I would go in a heartbeat," she said.

Hailey said she learned Spanish, went to school with Ecuadorian children, played soccer with them and became their friends.

"What has stuck with me most is knowing that some of my best friends in the

That's why Hailey hopes to gather 5,000 pairs of shoes.

So far, she has collected 750 sets by going door-to-door and putting a donation box at Kiwi Loco in Twin Falls.

The shoe collection is part of the Distinguished Young Women of Idaho's "be your best self" program.

'Typical' Summer Storms Hit in Unusually Dry Year

BY MYCHEL MATTHEWS
mmatthews@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Customers outside of Lowe's Home Improvement store late Wednesday afternoon stared at a massive storm cloud circling above. People gaped and pointed as the cloud darkened and changed shapes.

It was as if they had forgotten what a storm cloud looks like.

Without warning, the cloud broke open, releasing torrents that filled the streets and sent customers racing to their cars.

Winds whipped the cloud to the north, where the storm sat for nearly two hours.

"We really got dumped on here," said Linda Underwood, manager of the Jerome County Airport. "We had water everywhere — deep water, too. The drains couldn't keep up."

Some areas of the Magic Valley were pelted, while other areas saw little rain.

"It was a typical summer thunderstorm," said Jay Breidenbach, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service in Boise. Summer thunderstorms tend to be more localized than snowstorms.

No vehicle accidents or property damage were reported to Twin Falls dispatchers. Several calls were made outside of Twin Falls from people complaining about their utilities, reported dispatchers at the Southern Idaho Regional Communication Center.

However typical, "it was a pretty intense," Breidenbach said. Weather service radar indicated that 1.25 inches of rain fell in Twin Falls and Buhl in 45 minutes.

"We definitely had more than that over here," said Underwood. She would have liked to have taken a photo, but she said it was raining too hard to see anything.

Underwood said she heard reports of hail and up to 3 inches of rain in parts of Jerome County.

Flash flood warnings were issued in the Magic Valley Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Whenever we get reports of heavy amounts of rain, say an inch in less than an hour, we issue a flash flood warning," Breidenbach said.

Areas south and west of Oakley, in southern Cassia County, received 1.74 inches of rain Tuesday afternoon, said Jeff Hedges, a senior forecaster with the National Weather Service in Pocatello. Other areas received 2 inches or more, resulting in several flooded homes along the Twin Falls-Cassia counties border south of Murtaugh. Farther south, heavy rains caused flash floods in the eastern South Hills and Goose Creek areas, according to the U.S. Bureau of Land Management.

BLM staff reported damage to large stretches of Cold Springs and Buckhorn roads southeast of Twin Falls and to the Little Birch Creek road south of Oakley. Other roads may have experienced similar damage and may be impassible.

BLM crews plan to work through the weekend to fix the damage, but the public may face delays and brief closures using these roads.

End to All the Rain, Storms

We have had beneficial rain since the start of September. So far for the month of September Twin Falls has received around one inch of precipitation, Jerome almost a half an inch, and around 0.30 for Burley. These reports are from official reporting sites, there are many locations that received over an inch or two from storms both Wednesday and Thursday. One notable place would be Filer, who had some significant flash flooding Wednesday night. The good news is we get a break from the rain and storms for the end of the week and into the weekend.

Forecast today will be sunny drier and cooler. Air should also feel drier as dew points fall from the 50s and 60s of the last two days into the mid 40s. Highs will be in the low 80s later this afternoon.

For the weekend, the forecast is just as nice, lots of sunshine both Saturday and Sunday and highs Saturday seasonal in the mid 80s but cooling to the low 80s by Sunday. It will remain sunny, dry and cool going into the start of next week.

Last year, the program gave away $11,000 in scholarships, she said. The program is open to any girl who is a junior in high school. "It's a really exciting program," she said. Wednesday, Hailey continued to spread the word to her teachers and classmates. "Teachers, especially, are on board," she said. Hailey said she's made Facebook friends with many girls in the program, and most are at a similar place in their project. "If we all reach our goal, that's about 30,000 shoes." With the help of her 1,000 classmates at Canyon Ridge, Hailey hopes to reach her goal soon. Even shoes that are torn, singles, holey or unwearable can be turned in and recycled. The proceeds from recycling the shoes will go to the orphanages. "It's win-win," she said. "You get to clean out your closet, and it goes to a good cause."

Time to Map Long-Term Police Coverage in Burley

Cassia County commissioners and Burley city officials got a deal done. Congratulations. Your constituents won't be held hostage for at least a year.

The commissioners ratified a $2.9 million, two-year police contract Aug. 26 that will see the county Sheriff's Office's maintain its Burley division — albeit with one fewer officer — through 2015.

The deal ended months of contentious negotiations and talks dominated by political grandstanding and senseless posturing.

The provision for Burley law enforcement has prompted an all-too-frequent budget battle since 1986. County officials want more cash for the service, often amid higher salary and benefit costs. The city pushes back. The negotiations, like this year's, stall only to be miraculously salvaged at the last minute.

The losers in this nearly annual political theater aren't county or city officials. The citizens, who face a potential loss of police protection, and employees, who might lose their jobs should a deal go unbrokered, are the ones held hostage by this inability to negotiate sensibly.

As is too often the case, the politicians snipe while the rank-and-file workers and citizens suffer.

The new deal is for two years, which means residents will get a year off before the standoff happens again.

But does anyone actually think the negotiations will be smoother when they commence anew?

The situation hinges on the ever-changing political landscape — new county commissioners, new city council members, new sheriffs. But the result is almost always the same.

Sheriff Jay Heward unseated incumbent Randy Kidd last year on the promise that this wouldn't happen. Alas, it did.

Some in the Burley political sphere say the city should walk away from all county police coverage. They argue that a city-run police force would better serve Burley.

With a year off from the political squabble, now's the time for all involved to decide what police service in Burley should look like.

If the city is serious about a local force, then start the process now. If the political will to make the leap isn't there, then sign a long-term deal with the county.

There's no reason why a 10-year contract, with mutually agreeable cost adjustments, couldn't be drafted before the new deal expires.

The bickering only drives a wedge between city and county officials.

It's not good for anyone, especially those who rely on their politicians to look out for their best interests.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Canyon Development Cheapens Nature

Upon a recent visit with friends from overseas, our tour of the canyon was a disappointing reminder of how far the capturing, famous landmark of Twin Falls has become mutilated, exploited and paved for profit. What a timeless shame this will mark upon the future of this area's natural features. The Snake River Canyon, perfectly sculpted, random perfection, designed by the creator and Mother Earth herself; a tourist attraction in and of itself.

Of course, there is a need for big box retail and chain restaurants for a balanced consumer experience, but must that profit texture mutate the irreversible natural texture of the Snake River Canyon rim? Where do we draw the line? Don't we have an obligation to leave some parts of the earth untouched by our consumer nature?

Who advocates for the canyon? Some buildings geared toward tourism and leisure are understandable, since tourists come to enjoy the canyon. But cheap, big box, cookie cutter, regurgitated versions of "shopping" only disrespect the integrity of what the canyon rim should be. People from across the world fly to Twin Falls to experience the canyon, to be next to something nature created, something bigger than they are and to savor the moment. People from across the world do not fly to Twin Falls to buy a liquidated tshirt in a chain store in a strip mall built on the canyon rim. Why not encourage these big box chains to settle in Old Towne or Downtown? There is plenty of vacancy and room for development there. Big mistake mutilating the canyon. Irreversible cheapening of nature's gift to us.

What a Syria Strike Would Probably Target

Walter Pincus
The Washington Post

Reports claimed the SSRC was hit, but aerial photos showed no damage.

The Syrian rebels believe the SSRC area will be a U.S. target. Qassim Saadeddine, a former Syrian army colonel and spokesman for the rebels' Supreme Military Council, told the Reuters news agency that the group was poised to take advantage of those strikes. Among the sites Saadeddine mentioned were "elite forces believed most loyal to Assad" and "headquarters of military leadership . . . and certain weapons storage areas."

On Tuesday, Gen. Martin E. Dempsey, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he was confident the attack plan would "deter and degrade" Assad's chemical forces. He also made clear that he was preparing "several target sets, the first of which would set conditions for follow-on assessments, and the others would be used if necessary."

As I wrote this week, the precedent worth recalling is Operation Desert Fox in December 1998, in which the Clinton administration went after Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein's facilities for weapons of mass destruction over four days. Although the operation almost immediately faded from the American public's mind because it was followed quickly by the House impeachment debate, it did destroy Iraq's WMD infrastructure, as the Bush administration later discovered.

It's also worth recalling what was involved.

The first night, about 250 Tomahawk missiles and 40 fighter-bomber sorties were employed, focusing on Iraq's air-defense network. The targets included fixed anti-aircraft sites and radars and command-and-control installations. That was so U.S. planes could operate safely.

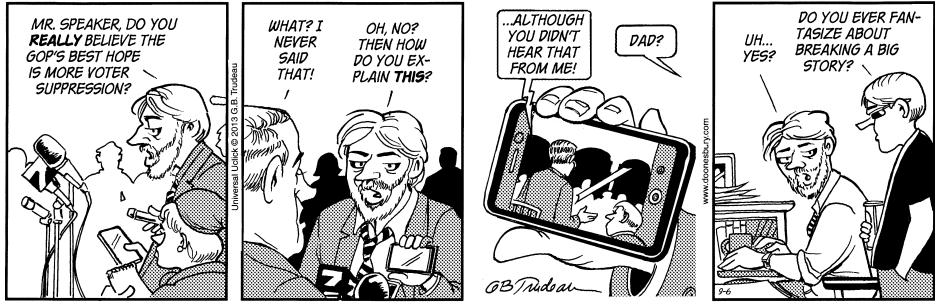

In the following days, targets included the Republican Guard and other special forces, intelligence elements and air bases. Overall, about 415 cruise missiles and 600 bombs were used against 100 targets. The Pentagon claimed 97 of them were successfully struck.

Dempsey became more specific about Syria at Wednesday's hearing before the House Foreign Affairs Committee. He said he was going after targets "directly linked to the control of chemical weapons but without exposing those chemical weapons to a loss of security."

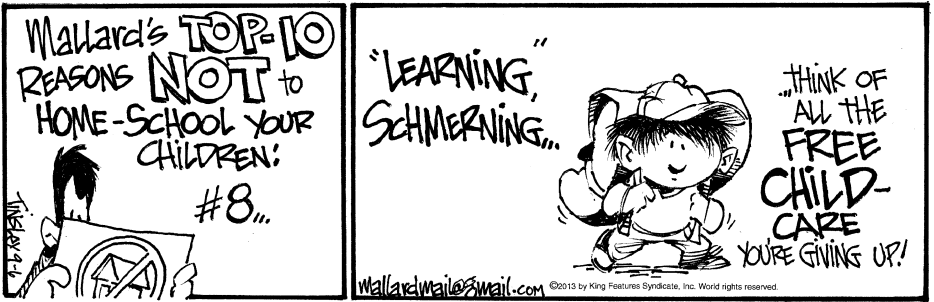

Dempsey also listed attacking "the means of delivery" of the chemical weapons, which could involve not just sites where rockets and missiles are based or stored, but also the factories where they are built. His last category was "those things that the regime uses . . . to protect those chemical weapons." There, Dempsey mentioned air defense.

Lara Back in Court for Competency Reconsideration

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • Jose Antonio Lara hung his head Thursday as he entered a Cassia County magistrate courtroom for a trial to gauge his competency to help defend himself on a first-degree murder charge in the strangulation of his wife.

Lara

Lara, 31, was charged after his wife, Joann Lyn Lara, 25, was found strangled by a belt in their Burley home.

In August 2012, Lara was deemed mentally ill and dangerous and remanded into state custody until his competency could be restored.

During the five-hour hearing Thursday, Lara kept his head lowered and avoided eye contact except during breaks, when he tried to greet family members in the courtroom.

Cassia County Magistrate Judge Mick Hodges gave both attorneys 14 days to provide written closing arguments. No further court dates were set.

County prosecutor Al Barrus called several witnesses Thursday, including a psychologist who administered tests for IQ and to detect when someone pretends to have less ability to understand than they really have.

"I believe he is either exaggerating or providing incorrect responses to tests," said Bill Arnold, licensed psychologist.

Arnold said Lara's IQ tests after age 18 but before his wife's murder measured in the 60s, indicating mild cognitive impairment.

Tests performed after he was taken into custody were in the 40s.

Even if Lara had guessed at the answers, he likely would have scored higher, Arnold said. Scores in the 40s would indicate a person much more disabled than Lara demonstrates, the psychologist said.

Barrus also called two technicians who interact daily with Lara.

Jesse Goolsby, a psychiatric technician at the treatment center where Lara is incarcerated, said he has observed Lara following directions and interacting with other people at the center.

When Lara attends restorative classes to increase his understanding of the court system, he withdraws and does not participate, Goolsby said.

"I don't think he was putting effort into the classes," the technician said.

Lara's attorney, Keith Roark, cross-examined all of the witnesses but called none on Lara's behalf.

Don Baugh, another technician at the treatment center, testified that Lara participates in many activities and has a flip-type cellphone that he uses to stay in contact with friends and family. He also owns an Xbox game that he is able to play.

Lara says he can't read, but Baugh said he's seen indications that Lara might have some reading skills.

Roark asked the judge to disallow Baugh's opinion because he is not an expert, but

Hodges allowed Baugh's "lay opinion."

Baugh said Lara was exhibiting the same behavior in the courtroom that Baugh has observed when Lara does not want to answer certain questions.

Several detectives testified that Lara demonstrated a different demeanor at the scene of the crime and after his arrest than he demonstrates now.

Blake Brumsfield, a clinical supervisor with Health and Welfare, said that in his opinion, Lara was engaging in "sub-optimal performance."

"I think Mr. Lara is engaging in the best legal defense available to him," said Brumsfield.

Oakley Residents Identify Possible Funding Option for High School Gym

BY RENEE WELLS AND LAURIE WELCH
Times-News

OAKLEY • Growing pains in a small rural community may result in a grassroots effort to help Oakley High School build a new gymnasium.

The effort started "because we didn't have a place to go with our little kids' sports programs," said Oakley rancher Doug Pickett, one of several locals pushing to use the Oakley Recreation District's bonding power to build the gymnasium.

"The high school and junior high students have priority use of the gyms at the schools, and there was no place to go for practices," Pickett said.

The Pickett family made major repairs to the old Marion Dance Hall for practices, but without heat, lights and restrooms, those efforts were inadequate, he said.

As parents researched options, they realized the Oakley Recreation District could be their best bet.

"The Cassia County School District has not passed a great number of bonds," Pickett said. "And it is difficult in the district to get patrons in other areas to agree to fund something they don't think is needed."

But with nearly all Oakley patrons living within the district boundaries, the bonding option struck them as not only feasible, but also wise, he said.

"There is a bonding capability there of about $2.5 million, and we looked at what Oregon Trail Recreation District is doing here in Burley for a very reasonable price and decided we needed to at least research the options and see if it could work for us," Pickett said. "Zane Gillette is working on a plan but as yet has been unable to complete it. We are sort of on hold waiting to see what it will look like in contrast to what could be done through the school district."

Debbie Critchfield, a member of the planning committee, said the initial meeting identified the community's need for the gym and that the community would support a bond issue.

Concerns raised at the meeting included whether the community can build what it wants for the maximum bonding amount and how to pay for gym maintenance. The recreation district also maintains the swimming pool. If the maximum bond issue were approved, the district might not have money for emergency repairs at either facility.

"We also learned that the bond would have to be paid off before we could give the building to the school district," Critchfield said.

Critchfield said making a community-funded facility a gift to a school district is not unusual.

The new Burley High School agriculture building and the King Fine Arts Center are two examples.

The planning committee hoped to have a plan ready by its Aug. 23 meeting, but that didn't happen, so citizens are reformulating their ideas before moving forward.

"There is the issue of maintenance, but we really can't tackle that until we know exactly what the building will look like," Pickett said. "We have had some local residents step forward with some donations to help us get a maintenance plan worked out."

Mike Pepper, of KMK Planning, a former Jerome Recreation District director, has helped the committee with its plan.

"With his expertise, we feel good about the legal framework of our proposal," Pickett said. "We had hoped to be able to do something to help the (Oakley senior citizens) but learned that the city of Oakley is currently trying to work out some help for them."

The site for the new gym has been purchased and is in a trust awaiting construction, Pickett said. "Probably three to four weeks and we should have some things worked out so we can at least see what direction we want to go."

Pickett said if the school district uses the gym, it would have to help with maintenance costs. With backing from community members, he said, Oakley students may get to play in a new facility soon.

Steve Lynch, chairman of the Cassia County school board, said planning committee members "want to get more facts and figures compiled before meeting with the board."

As a board member, Lynch said, he's "more than willing" to hear the committee's presentation.

Critchfield said after a plan is drafted, another community meeting will be held.

If approved, it could go before the recreation district voters in March 2014, she said.

Ranch owner Larry Adams said that the flooding lasted less than an hour. The water came quickly and left more than a foot of silt and mud in many of Adams' workshops and ranch buildings.

"I've been here since 1973, and I've never seen anything like this," Adams said. "There had to be a 1,000 to 1,500 inches of water come out of that canyon, just going on both sides of the road in front of our shop and down through the spud cellar and it made a big wash down through the fields. We'll be several weeks trying to clean out the cellar and the shop here."

After last year's fire damage in the foothills, he said, a lot of ash was swept down the canyon, mixing with the mud to create pervasive silt that crept under doors and carried tires, wood and hay bales away.

Surrounding fields were strewn with debris in the aftermath of the rushing water. "Luckily, the fields have already been put to bed and harvested, or else we'd have a whole other mess to deal with," Adams said.

To avoid another round of flooding, farmers drove their tractors along the flood's route to build a barrier in case more storms move in.

"That way, the water will go down the road instead of through here again," said ranch mechanic Joe Ristorucci.

Damage to the shops, fields and cellars was minimal compared with the flood damage experienced by neighbors Bob and Rolane Poulton.

They've spent the past few days removing water and mud from their basement.

The flood knocked out the Poultons' electricity and telephone, leaving more than 1 foot of water and silt in their basement. A water heater was displaced and furniture ruined. The family declined to comment.

"These things are going to happen. You don't like it when they do — it kind of interrupts your plans," Adams said. "The fortunate thing is that nobody got hurt. We just got to go to work and clean it up."

Twin Falls County Fair Attendance Picks Up

BY MYCHEL MATTHEWS
mmatthews@magicvalley.com

FILER • Folks were pretty darn happy with the fair and rodeo this year.

John Pitz, Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo manager, said the fair was a huge success.

Overall, fair attendance made a comeback after a few slow years, Pitz said. Attendance had declined since 2008.

"There were 83,200 people through the gates, and that's up 8 percent over last year," he said. "Saturdays always have the best attendance."

Pitz checks the parking lot each year to track from whence fair-goers came. "There were a lot of out-of-county and out-of-state plates," he said.

"The rodeos had excellent crowds," said Gene Schiffler, chairman of the Magic Valley Stampede PRC A Rodeo Committee. "We're very pleased."

Excellent livestock and top competitors gave crowds their money's worth of rodeo action, Schiffler said. And the new video replay board in the Shouse Arena was a big hit.

Rodeo attendance for all three nights was 13,500 — 6,000 for Saturday night alone, said Pitz.

"We had a 90-point saddle-bronc ride Saturday," he said, referring to a ride by Jesse Wright, one of four bronc-riding brothers from Utah. Cody DeMers, from Kimberly, had the top bareback score of 87 on Thursday.

Carnival attendance was also up from previous years, Pitz said, crediting an improved economy and this year's debut of the Mighty Thomas Carnival.

The carnival's 3.5-g-force ride, "Speed," was a big draw.

Carnies retrieved plenty of shoes from the rooftops of surrounding carnival booths, before Speed operators decided to make riders take off their footwear before stepping onto the ride, Pitz said.

Balancing Upon the Syrian Precipice

Obama: Chemical Attacks Make Syria Top Security Risk

In declaring Syria a national security threat, President Barack Obama is warning as much about the leaders of Iran and North Korea as about Bashar Assad.

And administration officials say America's credibility with those countries will be an immediate casualty if the U.S. fails to respond to Syria now with military action.

It's a connection that's not immediately clear to most Americans — especially after the White House refused to send military support earlier in the Syrian war.

Following an Aug. 21 chemical weapons attack outside Damascus, the White House declared Syria's civil war a top risk to American interests. The administration says that attack killed 1,429. Other estimates are lower.

The war, now in its third year, has so far killed more than 100,000 people. —AP

Syria Enters 2016 as Rubio Pokes Paul, While Clinton Backs Obama

For Rand Paul, Marco Rubio and Hillary Clinton, the future of Syria is now intertwined with their own. The debate in Congress over authorizing a U.S. military strike in Syria is being shaped by the political calculations of prospective 2016 presidential candidates in both parties, who are working to avoid the pitfalls of an issue that could affect their White House paths.

President Barack Obama's request for the power to employ force in Syria to respond to what he says is the regime's use of chemical weapons is an opportunity for Paul to press his case that the U.S. should resist intervening in overseas conflicts. The Kentucky Republican voted Wednesday in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee against a resolution authorizing a strike on Syria.

Rubio, R-Fla., is staking out a more hawkish position on military action yet laboring to avoid being seen as aligned with Obama. Rubio, also a member on the Senate committee, opposed the strike resolution, saying he wasn't convinced it would work. He also took a shot at Paul's reasoning, saying the United States can't "disengage" on global issues.

And former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, regarded as the strongest potential Democratic presidential contender, used the debate to voice support for stepping up U.S. involvement to quell the Syrian crisis, which she listed as a "lasting regret" when she left Obama's team earlier this year. —Bloomberg News

Sen. Jim Risch Explains His Opposition to Syrian Strike

BY JON ALEXANDER
jalexander@magicvalley.com

BOISE • U.S. Senator Jim Risch said Thursday that the nation is rocketing toward a confrontation with Iran and a military strike against Syrian dictator Bashar al-Assad would weaken the United States' ability to take on the Middle Eastern power.

Risch's comments at a press conference in Boise came days after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee member openly blasted President Barack Obama's plan to punish Assad for using chemical weapons against armed rebels.

Risch, R-Idaho, was one of the first in Congress to openly question the White House plan. He came out opposed while his colleagues were either mute or undecided. The dissent is now swelling across party lines among liberals and tea party conservatives alike.

"If Iran keeps going down the road it's going down, it's going to come to a point that something has to be done," Risch said.

The Obama administration has for more than a year tacitly supported the anti-Assad rebels, but only called for military involvement after Assad used chemical weapons against the insurgents on Aug. 21 outside of Damascus.

Risch, a member of the Senate intelligence Committee, said now-unclassified intelligence shows Assad has been using chemical weapons for months.

U.S. involvement in a "civil war" now, where no Americans have been killed, doesn't make sense because both sides have been killing each other using more "traditional" means, Risch said.

The internationally banned technique of killing doesn't necessitate U.S. involvement, he said.

A forceful removal of Assad from power would give rise to an even more radical Islamic government, he argued. The rebels are a diverse collection of secular moderates and various Muslim groups.

"They want a peaceful transition to moderates and 'all will be well,'" he said of the White House. "The likelihood of that, in my view, is almost zero."

A recent Pew Research Center poll found that half of Americans solidly oppose a Syrian strike, while only 29 percent support it.

"The risk of doing something is worse than the risk of doing nothing," Risch said.

The issue has broken through walls in the typically partisan House of Representatives, creating bedfellows among liberals and conservatives and leaving moderates divided.

Obama's closest ally, British Prime Minister David Cameron, was defeated last week when his own Conservative Party sided with the liberal Labour Party and defeated Cameron's call for U.K. involvement in Syria.

Risch, echoed Labour Party leader Ed Miliband's argument, that people are "war-weary" and skeptical of another Middle Eastern war after more than a decade in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Obama's prospects for support next week in the Senate appear good. It's the House, with its sudden, unusual political marriages, that could be an issue for the president.

House Speaker John Boehner tossed his support behind Obama, a move that is likely to garner some Republican support.

AT A GLANCE

ASSOCIATED PRESS
In this Aug. 17, 2012 file photo, a police officer inspects an alleged counterfeit $100 U.S. dollar note during a media presentation in Lima, Peru.

Peru is the Global Leader in Dollar Counterfeiting

Over the past decade, $103 million in fake U.S. dollars "made in Peru" have been seized — nearly half since 2010, Peruvian and U.S. officials say.

Unlike most other counterfeiters, who rely on sophisticated late-model inkjet printers, the Peruvians generally go a step further — finishing each bill by hand.

"It's a very good note," said a Secret Service officer at the U.S. Embassy. "They use offset, huge machines that are used for regular printing of newspapers, or flyers."

The phony money heads mostly to the United States but is also goes smuggled to nearby countries including Argentina, Venezuela and Ecuador, said Col. Segundo Portocarrero, chief of the Peruvian police's fraud division.

Peru became more attractive to counterfeiters as Washington's decade-long Plan Colombia program tightened the screws not just on drug traffickers in that neighboring Andean nation but other criminals as well, he speculated. Counterfeiting in Peru, meanwhile, got better.

"It's much more profitable than cocaine," said a top investigator on Portocarrero's team, noting another of Peru's illegal exports.

Egypt's Interior Minister Escapes Assassination

Egypt's interior minister narrowly escaped an assassination attempt Thursday when a suspected car bomb tore through his convoy, wounding 22 people and leaving a major Cairo boulevard strewn with debris — the first such attack since the military ousted the Islamist president.

The strike, which left several other charred cars and broken building facades, escalates the confrontation between the new leadership and Islamists. It also hiked fears of a militant campaign of revenge for the coup and raised the likelihood of an even tougher hand by authorities against protesters demanding Mohammed Morsi's return to office.

The interim president and other officials immediately compared the attack to the days of the Islamic militant insurgency of the 1980s and 1990s, when radicals battling security forces in the south also attempted numerous assassinations. Militants failed in attempts on the lives of at least four successive interior ministers, the last in 1993, and succeeded in killing the parliament speaker.

Google Argues for Right to Continue Scanning Gmail

Google's attorneys say their long-running practice of electronically scanning the contents of people's Gmail accounts to help sell ads is legal, and are asking a federal judge to dismiss a lawsuit that seeks to stop the practice.

In a federal court hearing Thursday in San Jose, Google argued that "all users of email must necessarily expect that their emails will be subject to automated processing."

The class action lawsuit, a combination of six cases consolidated in May, says Google "unlawfully opens up, reads, and acquires the content of people's private email messages" in violation of California's privacy laws and federal wiretapping statutes. The lawsuit notes that the company even scans messages sent to any of the 425 million active Gmail users from non-Gmail users who never agreed to the company's terms. —Associated Press

OBITUARIES

Dixie Lee Thomas Reale

1942-2013

JEROME • When she was a little girl, we called her “Cookie.” On Sunday, Sept. 1, 2013, at 8:39 a.m., Dixie’s heroic battle with cancer was over. Early in June, Dixie was diagnosed with cancer. She fought very hard to beat the cancer. It was not to be in her favor.

She was the youngest daughter of Lonnie and Leatha Thomas of Wilder, Idaho. She grew up in the Wilder area and graduated from Wilder High School with the Class of 1960. After high school, she attended Northridge College in California, graduating with a Bachelor of Arts in English in 1965. She finished her education with a master’s in English from UC Berkeley in 1971.

While in California, she met and married Shepard Reale. They were married for five years when they had their first child — it was twins. A little girl named Egypt and a little boy named Louie. The family lived in Jerome, Idaho. This is where the children were raised. Dixie and Shepard were married 46 years.

Dixie authored several books (which can be found at The Other Bunch Press), wrote a food column for the Jerome newspaper for several years. She owned a rock shop (which she loved dearly) in King Hill, Idaho. She loved animals. She rescued many kitty cats that would not have made it without her tender loving care, including Icecube.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Lonnie and Leatha Thomas; three brothers, Frank Thomas, Noel Shuee and John Thomas; and a sister, Susan Johnson. She is survived by her husband, Shepard Reale of Jerome, Idaho; son, Louie Reale of Jerome, Idaho; her daughter, Egypt (Rob) Campbell of Perth, Australia; her two grandchildren, Shayna and Kristopher Reale of Pocatello, Idaho; her puppy dogs, Storm and Bear; and her kitty cat, Icecube, all of Jerome, Idaho. Also surviving are her sisters, Peggy Hinshaw of Keauu, Hawaii, Betty Barker of King City, Ore., Donna Shannon of Nampa, Idaho, and Jo Ann and (Nick) Clark of Ashfork, Ariz.; and many cousins, nieces and nephews.

We will all miss all that you are forever. We love you, Dixie. SHE WAS ONE TOUGH “COOKIE.” Tahkohtah.

A memorial in her honor will be held in the summer of 2014 in Caldwell, Idaho.

Arrangements are under the direction of Trent Stimpson and staff at Reynolds Funeral Chapel in Twin Falls. Condolences may be left for the family by visiting www.reynoldschapel.com.

Clifford Lee McCaslin

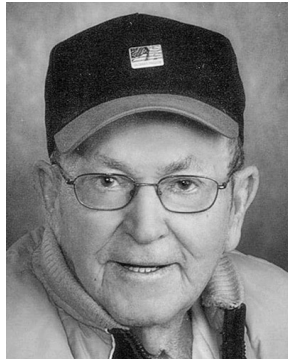

June 21, 1931-Aug. 31, 2013

KIMBERLY • Clifford Lee McCaslin went to be with the Lord on Saturday, Aug. 31, 2013, at the age of 82, at his home surrounded by his loving family.

Cliff was the oldest of five children, born June 21, 1931, in Burley, Idaho, to Max and Laverne McCaslin. He attended school in Burley and Twin Falls before his family began farming in Hazelton. In 1949, he graduated from Hazelton School, where he met his beloved wife Charlyn (Charly). He and Charly married in 1951 and together raised five children of their own: Larry (Donna) McCaslin of Kimberly, Debbie (Kevin) Ciriniconi of Hazelton, Leslie (Randy) Dirickson of Blackfoot, Jeff (Beth) McCaslin of Athol and Patty McCaslin of Twin Falls.

Cliff was in the National Guard when our nation became dedicated to protecting South Korea from the spread of communism, so he joined the Army and served our country in Germany throughout the Korean War. When he returned home to his wife Charly, he began a career as a brick layer and enjoyed his work for a total of 44 years. He and his family lived in Twin Falls and Caldwell, and Las Vegas, Nev., before returning to his hometown of Hazelton for his retirement. He and Charly enjoyed golfing, fishing and camping at Magic with friends and family.

When his beloved wife went to be with the Lord on Thanksgiving Day 2001, Cliff’s focus became serving others in his community and his church. He was a regular volunteer at the Hazelton Thrift Store and assisted in numerous renovation projects throughout the community. He was a member of Valley Presbyterian Church and had a great love for his friend and brother, Pastor Kevin Anderson, and so enjoyed his Wednesday Bible studies with his brothers, Doc and Pastor Kev. In May 2012, Cliff relocated to Kimberly, living with his eldest son, “Red” McCaslin, but kept his connection with his hometown by continuing to attend Valley Presbyterian and enjoying his “every Monday” coffee times with his good friends, Larry and Ruth Sellers, and his sister and brother-in-law, Marilyn and Don McBride.

Cliff is survived by all of his children; one brother, Glen (Doc) McCaslin; one sister, Marilyn (Don) McBride; 13 grandchildren; and numerous great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents; one brother, Norman McCaslin; one sister, Nadine McCaslin; and his precious wife, Charly.

Grandpa Cliff will always be remembered for his wonderful sense of humor, his kindness and generosity, his loving concern for our country, and for the great love he had for his dog, “Ben.” The family would like to express sincere appreciation to Kathy Harman, who was his “rock” and “very best friend” at the most critical time in his life; as well as Carl Spaulding, Sheri McCaughey, Michelle Nielson and all the Hospice Visions team that gave him comfort and dignity in his final days. Greater love hath no man and your service and dedication will never be forgotten.

A memorial celebration of Cliff’s life will be held at 11 a.m. Friday, Sept. 6, at Valley Presbyterian Church in Hazelton.

In lieu of flowers, Cliff requested donations be made on his behalf to Hospice Visions.

Matilda Deon Ford Bowyer

March 22, 1931-Sept. 4, 2013

TWIN FALLS • On Wednesday, Sept. 4, 2013, Deon Bowyer passed peacefully into the loving arms of her Lord and Savior Jesus Christ after suffering for a time with Alzheimer’s.

Born in Twin Falls, Idaho, on March 22, 1931, to Clarence William and Matilda Deon Weighall Ford, Deon was the youngest of five children with four older brothers, James, Clarence Jr., John and Wayne. Her early years growing up were spent in Contact, Nev., and near Drury Park in Twin Falls. Upon graduation from Twin Falls High School, she attended Twin Falls Business College and later worked for her father at Ford Transfer and Storage Co. in Twin Falls.

Deon married her high school sweetheart, Charles Bowyer Jr., on Aug. 2, 1951, in Twin Falls. They recently celebrated their 62nd wedding anniversary. Charley enlisted and served 20 years in the U.S. Navy. Their travels in the Navy took them around the country, and they lived in Honolulu, Hawaii; Sunnyvale, Calif.; Corpus Christi, Texas; Escondido, Calif.; Jacksonville, Fla.; and Imperial Beach, Calif. During that time, they raised four children, Charles, Gary, Carla and Dennis. Upon Charlie’s retirement from the Navy, they returned to Twin Falls to reside permanently. Deon was employed with a few local companies which include Accents for the Home, Meadow Gold Dairies and Universal Frozen Foods.

Deon was a stay-at-home mother for many years. She supported her children in whatever endeavor they tried. She was a den mother, Little League mother, dance supporter and school room mom. She was a great cook and made absolutely the best homemade bread and made sure everyone was well fed. She was known by all her children’s friends as “Ma Bowyer.” Deon dearly loved her grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She would love to make them birthday cakes and stuff a sock for each one at Christmas.

She always said, “If I would have known grandchildren were so much fun, I would have had them first.” Deon loved the holidays, especially Christmas and the Fourth of July. During Christmas, she would bake, decorate and listen to Christmas music. She collected Nativity scenes and proudly displayed them during the Christmas season. On the Fourth of July, the house would be decorated in red, white, and blue and Uncle Sams.

Deon was preceded in death by her parents, Clarence and Matilda Ford; and three brothers, James, Clarence Jr. and John Ford; and one son, Gary Bowyer. She is survived by her husband, Charles Jr.; and three children, Charles (Laurie) Bowyer, Carla (Roger) Lassen and Dennis Bowyer (Kathy Hansen); 11 grandchildren; and 13 great-grandchildren.

Deon was a member of the Kimberly Christian Church. She was known as the “hug a bunch” at the adult Sunday school. She loved to give everyone a big hug.

Visitation for Deon will be held from 5 - 7 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 8, at Parke’s Magic Valley Funeral Home, 2551 Kimberly Road in Twin Falls, Idaho. A celebration of Deon’s life will be held at 11 a.m. Monday, Sept. 9, at the Kimberly Christian Church, 307 Madison E. in Kimberly, Idaho.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be sent to the Kimberly Christian Church and the Alzheimer’s Association at www.alz.org. The family would like to thank Hospice Visions Inc. and Comfort Keepers for all their care and support for Deon.

acter questioning if she's cut out for motherhood.

Random Acts of Theatre Players is putting on a production of "Motherhood Out Loud."

Performances are at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 12-14 and 2:30 p.m. Sept. 15 at the College of Southern Idaho's Fine Arts Recital Hall.

"Motherhood Out Loud" highlights the triumphs of mothers and illuminates fears, director Tamara Harmon said.

"It celebrates a lot of different kinds of moms," she said, including new moms, those with teenagers and stepmothers.

The play highlights commonalities and central challenges that many mothers experience, cast member Donna Graybill said.

In a large, open room with intense fluorescent lights in the CSI Fine Arts Center, cast members gathered for a rehearsal Aug. 29.

In one monologue, Graybill plays the role of a new mother talking to her baby about childbirth.

During breaks between scenes, a few of the cast members shared stories about their own experiences as mothers.

Not all of the cast members have children, though. And a few men in the play have roles ranging from husband to salesman.

Cast members were given a couple of weeks to learn their lines and have been rehearsing as a group for about one month.

The play has some strong language, but it has a purpose and the experiences shared are brutally honest and sincere. It's what makes the stories relatable, Harmon said.

"People who might not enjoy plays will love this one," she said.

The play pays homage to everything that mothers go through - from pregnancy to watching their child grow up and move away from home.

"If you're a mother, you'll love it," assistant director Coltyn Giltner said. "If you're not, you'll go home and thank your mom."

'Brilliant Traces' Tells Story of Runaway Bride and Young Recluse

BY KAREN BOSSICK

For the Times-News

KETCHUM • It may seem a little off-kilter.

After all, who would expect a runaway bride to drive all the way from Arizona to Alaska and stumble into a cabin in the midst of a raging blizzard.

But that's where Rosannah De Luce finds herself at the beginning of "Brilliant Traces," which runs at 7 p.m. today through Sunday at nexStage Theatre in Ketchum.

In that cabin, she finds a young recluse named Henry Harry who, like her, is a wounded man who has fled civilization to lick his wounds.

Together, they peel back the layers to bare the secrets they have buried deep inside of them as they find safety and comfort in one another.

The play, first performed by New York's Circle Repertory Company, was written by Cindy Lou Johnson, a playwright and film director whose films include "Working Girl."

nexStage Theatre introduced the play to Wood River Valley audience as a play reading two years ago.

"The response was incredible because the audience could relate to this couple," said director Jon Kane, who produced plays in New York before moving to the Sun Valley area. "We try to please the audience - that's who we play for. So, it made sense to stage this."

Charlotte Hemmings Baker plays Rosannah. Her family has been involved with nexStage Theatre since she was a child.

And, she says, she has acting in her blood thanks in part to her late father David Hemmings, who starred in Michelangelo Antonioni's cult classic "Blow-Up," as well as "Tom Jones," "Camelot," "Barbarella" and "The Charge of the Light Brigade" before directing "The A-Team," "Magnum, P.I." and "Quantum Leap."

"I'm excited about the opportunity to go back to what was one of my favorite play readings," said Hemmings, who has appeared in plays such as "Oliver" and "Snow Angel."

"I can relate to my character on an emotional level," she said. "She's crazy, intense. And it's kind of a love story, in a weird way. It's not sexual, but a very soulful love story."

Chris Wendelken, a professional actor from New York who has appeared in such TV shows as "Law and Order," said he's fascinated with the idea of playing a character like Henry Harry since he himself comes from such a populated area.

"Just coming out here has been a culture shock," he said. "Everything here looks nothing like what I'm used to in New York where everything is concrete and steel. The play is interesting in that it examines what can happen to a character when they're 400 miles away from civilization and they've stopped talking and acting with others."

Southern Rock Group Takes Stage at Cactus Petes

BY CINDY JOYCE

For the Elko Daily Free Press

JACKPOT, Nev. • Legendary southern rock group, .38 Special, will perform Sunday at the Cactus Petes Resort Casino in Jackpot, Nev.

The performance is 4 p.m. at the amphitheater, with special guest American Hit-men.

The .38 Special musicians that make up the band's explosion of sound are drummer Gary Moffatt, bassist Larry Junstrom, guitarist/vocalist Danny Chauncey, keyboardist/vocalist Bobby Capps and guitarist/vocalist Don Barnes, one of the original founding members.

The band originated in Jacksonville, Florida.

"We had a rehearsal place in the north part of Florida," Barnes said. "You had to find some shack that you could go rehearse in and be able to lock it up. We all would pile in the car after our day jobs and drive 40 miles to this dilapidated, old condemned building."

It cost $50 per month to rent it.

"We had to fortify this building," Barnes said. "We built up the front door. It was like a vault door when we got done with it."

Eventually, the key got lost, so band members had to climb through a window at the top of the building to get inside for rehearsals.

"We had an old ladder out in the weeds and propped it up to get in," Barnes said. "We were out there about two or three months getting in the building this way. Finally, cops in the area decided to do a raid on this building."

He said there were 12 to 14 police cars surrounding the building while the band was locked inside.

"We stopped the song we were rehearsing and yelled through the door that we didn't have a key to the lock on the door," Barnes said. "We had to climb through the window. We heard one of the cops yell through the door, 'In the old west days, we'd shoot the lock off. I have a .38 special to do the talking for me.'"

"We heard that through the door, thought it was funny, actually did talk with them and got out," Barnes said.

Six months later, the band had its first club performance and they didn't have a name for the group.

"We thought, let's just call it .38 Special for now and we'll call it something better later, but never did," Barnes said. "Origins of band names are odd."

Growing up with strong musical influences, such as his father being a music director at church, Barnes has been exposed to the world of music from a young age.

"I did get a lot of influence from hymns, the chord progressions of certain songs," he said. "My sister sang - the best singer in the family. My brother played folk music back in those days."

"I was the young brother and I watched him practice in the living room with his group. Then one day, he traded his 12-string guitar for an electric guitar. Got it from a sailor there in Jacksonville. I was hooked at that point," Barnes said.

Some of his major musical influences were Eric Clapton, The Beatles and Jimi Hendrix. A few of his vocal influences were Steve Win-wood, Ray Charles and Brenda Lee.

Barnes said he feels privileged to have performed with some of his heroes, such as ZZ Top and Bad Company.

"We have a lot of heart. We've weathered so many storms," Barnes said about the band. "We weren't the lucky ones, kind of the underdogs. You have to fight a little bit harder and that aggression comes through with attitude and heart."

"We lean on each other. Lots of perseverance. It's like a family. We have a passion for it."

Tickets to the concert are $20 and $30, and may be purchased by calling the Cactus Petes hotlines at 1-866-667-3386 or 1-800-321-1103.

Go Green by Adding a Tree to Your Landscaping This Fall

by Jeffrey Anderson, All About Lawns Columnist

Fall is a great time for watching the many varieties of trees as their beautiful leaves change colors before eventually falling, but it can also be a good time for adding trees to your yard's landscaping.

Planting a tree in the fall lets it become stable and healthy before having to deal with next summer's heat, but it must be planted early enough so its root system becomes entrenched before the ground freezes.

Adding a Tree to Your Home's Landscaping

Planting a tree helps the environment by providing a habitat for the various species of birds and wildlife in your area, and it can help you by providing shade for your home, which may reduce energy usage during the summer months. Deciding what type of tree to plant requires some research and consideration before heading to a nursery or garden center:

- Trees native to your area might be easier to keep healthy.
- Small trees can become very large trees; planting location helps determine the size to get.
- Evergreen trees can provide shade and privacy all year long; other trees lose their leaves in the winter.
- The type of drainage your yard has and the amount of direct sunlight available should be considered when choosing a tree variety.
- If you like fall leaf colors, choose a tree that becomes vibrant at harvest time.

Planting a tree is fairly simple but you may want to read articles by the U.S. Department of Agriculture before getting started. They offer helpful tips for keeping your tree healthy while planting, and for the many years the tree remains a part of your landscaping. You may even want to make planting a tree every fall a family tradition; your neighborhood birds and squirrels ought to be very appreciative.

Four Factors: Forward and Backward

BY NICK RULAND
nruland@magicvalley.com

Each week, the Times-News will look at the four factors most likely to decide the outcome in Boise State’s upcoming game. We’ll also see how it fared in the four factors from the previous week. This Saturday, the Broncos host Tennessee-Martin, an eight-win team last year in the Ohio Valley Conference (FCS), which won its season opener against Chattanooga 31-21.

Last week: Rookies on the Right
How did they fare? Coming off the worst loss in his tenure as head coach at Boise State, Chris Petersen led his Monday press conference with the unexpected — praise. He said the offensive line was physical and pass protected well in the Broncos’ 38-6 loss to Washington. Last week, the biggest concern for the offense was thought to be the right side of the offensive line, namely new starters Rees Odhiambo and Marcus Henry. The concern? The right side would fold under the weight of a hostile crowd veritably sitting on top of them from the vertical grade stands of Husky Stadium, while a fast and aggressive defense zippered by unencumbered. False starts and dropped blitz pick-ups were the least of the Broncos concerns, however. Boise State did not give up a sack nor was it whistled for a single offensive penalty. Oh, but there were problems, namely the inability for the Boise State offensive line to open up holes in short yardage situations. The Broncos averaged two yards per rush on third and three or less. That won’t cut it.

Grade: B
This Week’s Assignment: Short Yardage Running
The Broncos not only averaged a meager two yards a carry on third and three or less, they scored six points on three red-zone trips. The inability to punch the ball to/by sticks or into the end zone was an issue last season as well. If the Broncos’ simplified offense is going to work, it won’t be by surprise — a key element of years past — but with physical dominance and sheer will.

Last week: Outsized in the Secondary
How did they fare? It’s hard to put into words just how poorly the Broncos defensive backs performed last Saturday. They were thoroughly dominated by the Washington receivers — not the biggest or best group Boise State will face this season. First, it was bubble screens. Then, it was the play-action pass and screen fakes, which sucked in safeties Darian Thompson and Jeremy Ioane, resulting in explosive chunks and stomach churns for a

Boise State faithful turned sick and surly, as it waited for a patented Petersen adjustment. Cornerbacks Donte Deayon and Bryan

Douglas (still working his way back from a torn ACL) failed to disengage from blocks on screen plays, and the safeties and linebackers were late to the party, leading to chain-moving and momentum stabilizing plays in the first half, setting up head-slappers and back-breakers in the second-half. But struggles with physical play at the line of scrimmage were expected. Giving up sizeable cushions on third and long, leading to easy completions (the Huskies were 11-15 on third down) were not. Mercy Maston and Cleshawn Page didn’t exactly stem the hemorrhaging and take advantage of a chance to move to the top of the depth chart.

Grade: F
This Week’s Assignment: Take Away Something
Tennessee-Martin is another spread, no-huddle, zone-read offense. The Skyhawks are more run-oriented than the Huskies were, but will showcase the same schematic skeleton, which should scare the Boise State defense into a statement performance. But one step at a time. The Broncos secondary needs to take at least one thing away from the Skyhawks — the long ball, the intermediate pass, or short screen action.

Last week: No More Average Joe
How did he fare? Southwick completed 25 of 40 passes. Sounds good, right? The rest of the line: 152 yards, 0 touchdowns and an interception. Try below average Joe. Southwick appeared uncomfortable in the pocket, hastily escaping it and, at times, a phantom pressure. It resulted in a few missed opportunities downfield. He also appeared to telegraph passes, failing to go through his progressions as he seemed overly concerned with avoiding Washington’s pass rush. Southwick appeared a bit flustered by the Huskies defense and crowd, but was accurate in the short range — where almost all of his throws went. The problem? His receivers often failed to run their routes beyond the first down marker. Still, there were plays to be had by the stealthy speedster, who appeared to miss an opportunity to run for a touchdown on what could have been a momentum-changing drive to start the second half, instead forcing an incomple tion into the back of the end zone. He should play better as the season progresses. Keyword: should. He gets a bit of a break in his

Grid Locks: Week 1

BY DAVID BASHORE

Football is back in full force, and suddenly all is right with the world. In the minds of many, at least. The NFL starts this week, college kicked off last week, and we have a full 16-game slate of high school action as the teams that didn’t start last week will open up tonight. You can join our live chat tonight to keep an eye on all the action, but here’s a little advance scout on each matchup.

ABERDEEN (1-0) AT OAKLEY (0-1)
The Tigers rolled last week past American Falls, which was a 3A playoff team a year ago. Oakley took one on the chin last week from Cole Valley Christian, a middle-of-the-road team from District III. Expect Aberdeen to take this one, though it might be closer than last year.

Aberdeen 24, Oakley 14

BUHL (0-0) AT BURLEY (1-0)
The Bobcats have a game under their belts and seem to be firing on all cylinders after shutting out Filer a week ago. Buhl is fighting an uphill battle in the numbers department (who isn’t these days?) but ironman football should take its toll on the Indians in the fourth quarter.

Burley 20, Buhl 6

’Hawks Look for Statement Win against 5A Champs

Canyon Ridge takes on powerhouse Madison.

BY NICK RULAND
nruland@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Canyon Ridge moved the football in its 42-22 loss against Columbia. Six turnovers doomed its chances at victory. The Riverhawks could reduce its turnovers to nil today and still not be expected to win. That’s because they’re facing 5A champions Madison, who beat the Riverhawks 68-0 last year. Madison graduated almost 40 players from that team, including almost all of their impact guys, but Canyon Ridge coach Justin Alsterlund and his team of over 100 players would still love nothing more than get revenge and against the Bobcats. It would be quite the statement, but giant leaps aren’t the only way to make progress. “Last year we had only had one game scoring 20 or more points, so we are headed in the right direction,” Alsterlund said. The Riverhawks showed signs of improvement on offense from a year ago using a spread, zone read offense with a healthy Teague Sweesy at quarterback. But while the Riverhawks moved the ball in their first game with the new scheme, things were still rough. “Any coach will tell you, the first game is pretty rough,” Alsterlund said. “A lot of kids have jitters, trying to work out the kinks. We’ve had a good week of practice so far and we’re playing at home, so hopefully we can correct the mistakes of last week and not turn the ball over six times.”

The Riverhawks, expected by many to finally break through with a winning season, will need to show improvement on both sides of the football to be competitive Friday. But if they do, there’s no telling how far it could take them.

CSI Hosts Home Tournament

TIMES-NEWS

TWIN FALLS • The College of Southern Idaho volleyball team hopes some home cooking will cure what ails it.

Three weeks into a (so far) up-and-down season, the Golden Eagles host their second and final pre-conference tournament today and Saturday.

CSI will play four teams in the national tournament discussion, leading off today with perennial national participants Hutchinson (Kan.). Then the Golden Eagles play Blinn (Texas), which is coached by a familiar face in former CSI assistant Erin Mellinger, in her second season at Blinn.

CSI wraps the tournament Saturday with matches against Laramie County (Wyo) and Miami Dade (Fla.), the last of which the Golden Eagles will visit for a showcase tournament next weekend.

MLB ROUNDUP

Royals Walk Off Winners against M's

ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. • Mike Moustakas homered to lead off the bottom of the 13th inning for Kansas City as the Royals beat the Mariners 7-6 on Thursday.

Moustakas homered to right on an 0-2 pitch from Chance Ruffin (0-1), who had not pitched in the majors since 2011.

Louis Coleman (3-0), the eighth Royals pitcher, retired the only batter he faced in the top of the 13th.

Kansas City rallied from five runs down and led 6-5 in the ninth before Raul Ibanez homered off Greg Holland with two outs to it. It was Holland's first blown save since May 6 to end his streak of 31 consecutive saves.

Billy Butler went 5 for 5, matching his career high in hits for the Royals, while Emilo Bonifacio went 4 for 6.

The teams combined to use 44 players, including 14 pitchers.

RED SOX 9, YANKEES 8, 10 INNINGS

NEW YORK • Stephen Drew hit a tying single off Mariano Rivera with two outs in the ninth inning, then Shane Victorino lined a go-ahead single in the 10th that sent the Boston Red Sox past the New York Yankees.

Down to their last strike against Rivera, the Red Sox rallied in the opener of a four-game series loaded with playoff implications.

It felt like a playoff matchup, too, especially after New York erased a 7-2 deficit with six runs in the seventh. There were plenty of pitching changes, pinch-hitters and pinch-runners, plus an outburst — Joba Chamberlain (2-1) was ejected by first base umpire Joe West, who ruled Victorino checked his swing right before the deciding hit.

ORIOLES 3, WHITE SOX 1 BALTIMORE • Miguel Gonzalez allowed one run over seven innings and Baltimore hit three solo home runs.

Adam Jones, J.J. Hardy and Brian Roberts homered off Jose Quintana (7-6) to provide Baltimore with a much-needed win. The Orioles were coming off a 3-6 trip that dropped them four games off the pace in the AL wild-card race.

Jones' shot in the first inning gave him 30 home runs for the season and 100 RBIs for the first time. Hardy and Roberts connected in the fifth, increasing Baltimore's major league-leading home run total to 188.

Gonzalez (9-7) gave up four hits — all singles — walked one and struck out six to earn his first win in seven starts since July 20. He was 0-4 in that span.

Jim Johnson worked a perfect ninth for his 42nd save.

Dayan Viciedo had two hits for the White Sox, who have dropped seven straight. Chicago is an AL-worst 24-49 on the road and 32-48 in games decided by one or two runs.

REDS 6, CARDINALS 2 CINCINNATI

Todd Frazier hit two homers, including the first of Cincinnati's three off Lance Lynn, and the Reds recovered from a 16-inning loss by overpowering the St. Louis Cardinals, taking three of four in their final series of the season.

Jay Bruce and Shin-Soo Choo also hit solo homers off Lynn (13-10), who lasted five innings and gave up three homers for only the second time in his career. Frazier also connected off Seth Maness for the third multihomer game of his career.

Left-hander Tony Cingrani (7-3) returned from a sore back and did a little bit of everything. He pitched into the sixth inning, gave up two runs, bunted for a hit, stole a base and scored.

David Freese homered for the Cardinals, who have lost six of eight.

Djokovic Reaches Semis; Murray Ousted

ASSOCIATED PRESS

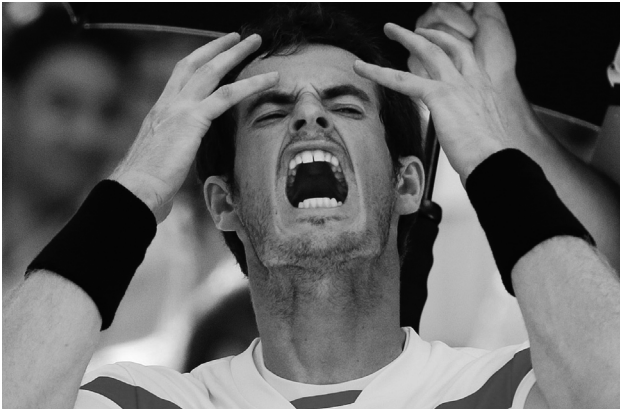

NEW YORK • The earliest real signs of trouble for Andy Murray came in the 10th game of his U.S. Open quarterfinal. For 22 points stretched over 15 excruciating minutes Thursday, Murray's body language was as poor as his play.

When the 2012 champion pushed a simple forehand into the net, he smacked his palm against his forehead, once, twice, three times. When he left a similarly routine forehand too low, he mocked his footwork by pressing one shoe atop the other. When he sailed a later forehand long, he rolled his eyes and muttered. When he delivered his second double-fault, he swiped the ground with his racket.

And when he rushed yet another forehand on break point No. 6 of that key game — the ball drifting long to cede a set to his far-less-accomplished opponent, ninth-seeded Stanislas Wawrinka — Murray cracked his racket on the court. Not satisfied, he trudged to his changeover chair and whacked the racket again, mangleing the frame.

Trying to defend a Grand Slam title for the first time, and not quite two months removed from his historic Wimbledon championship, Murray bowed out quickly, if not quietly, at Flushing Meadows, losing 6-4, 6-3, 6-2 to Wawrinka in a result that was surprising both because of who won and by how much.

"I have had a good run the last couple of years," said the third-seeded Murray, who shook his hands in front of his face and screamed after dropping the second set. "It's a shame I had to play a bad match today"

The first Grand Slam semifinal of Wawrinka's career, in his 35th appearance, will come Saturday against No. 1 Novak Djokovic, the 2011 U.S. Open champion. Djokovic overcame a third-set lull and beat 21st-seeded Mikhail Youzhny of Russia 6-3, 6-2, 3-6, 6-0 on Thursday night to reach the semifinals in New York for the seventh year in a row. It's also the 14th consecutive Grand Slam tournament where Djokovic is in the semifinals, a 3½-year streak.

The other semifinal is No. 2 Rafael Nadal against No. 8 Richard Gasquet.

Murray's rough afternoon included only 15 winners, 30 fewer than Wawrinka. Murray tapped in second serves as slow as 75 mph, allowing Wawrinka to hit four return winners and easily take control of countless other points. Murray, one of the sport's top returners, never earned a single break point during any of Wawrinka's 14 service games.

"I didn't get into enough return games, which is disappointing for me," said Murray, who had won 30 of his preceding 32 Grand Slam matches. "That's normally something I do pretty well. I always give myself opportunities to break serve, and I didn't today."

Give Wawrinka credit — something Murray made sure to do.

At age 28, Wawrinka finally made it further at a major tournament than his Swiss Olympic teammate and good friend, Roger Federer, who lost in the fourth round and sent a congratulatory text to Wawrinka after his breakthrough victory.

"Today, for sure, it's my moment," Wawrinka said.

He did it with his fluid, one-handed backhand, and by taking full advantage of Murray's mistakes, but also by playing an aggressive, attacking style. Wawrinka won 9 of 10 points when he serve-and-volleyed. He rushed the net in general, taking 31 of 42 points when he moved forward. Most of all, he never allowed the occasion or the opportunity to overwhelm him in 23,000-capacity Arthur Ashe Stadium.

Asked what part of his performance made him the most proud, Wawrinka said: "How I was dealing with the pressure. Normally, I can be a little bit nervous and I can lose (a) few games because of that."

He's 2-12 in four matches against Djokovic, including 11 consecutive losses.

Other than the third set against Youzhny, when he got broken twice and made 16 unforced errors, six-time major champion Djokovic has looked solid all tournament. Djokovic lost to Murray in the 2012 final at Flushing Meadows, then again in this July's final at the All England Club, and that duo appeared on course for a rematch in the semifinals this weekend, but Wawrinka put an end to that possibility.

It's been quite a 14-month stretch for Murray.

He lost to Federer in the Wimbledon final last year, then returned to Centre Court four weeks later and beat the 17-time major champion to earn a gold medal for Britain at the London Olympics. After starting his career 0-4 in Grand Slam finals — his current coach, Ivan Lendl, is the only other man to do that — Murray finally won one in New York a year ago.

Tokyo Focuses on Doping Record; Gasol Hails Madrid

IOC will name host city Saturday.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BUENOS AIRES • In a tight race to land the 2020 Olympics, Tokyo bid leaders focused on the country's clean record in doping, while NBA star Pau Gasol tried to help Madrid on Thursday by saying the games could boost his nation's ailing economy.

Tokyo is hoping to turn the spotlight from the radioactive water leak at the crippled Fukushima nuclear plant in northern Japan, while Madrid is looking to fend off concerns related to Spain's high unemployment rate and economic struggles.

The host city will be selected Saturday by the IOC, joined by the third candidate, Istanbul. The Turkish city also faces questions about a string of embarrassing doping cases and a civil war in Syria on its border.

Tokyo is considered as the favorite, although the race is viewed as too close to call as IOC members may settle for the bid with the fewest problems.

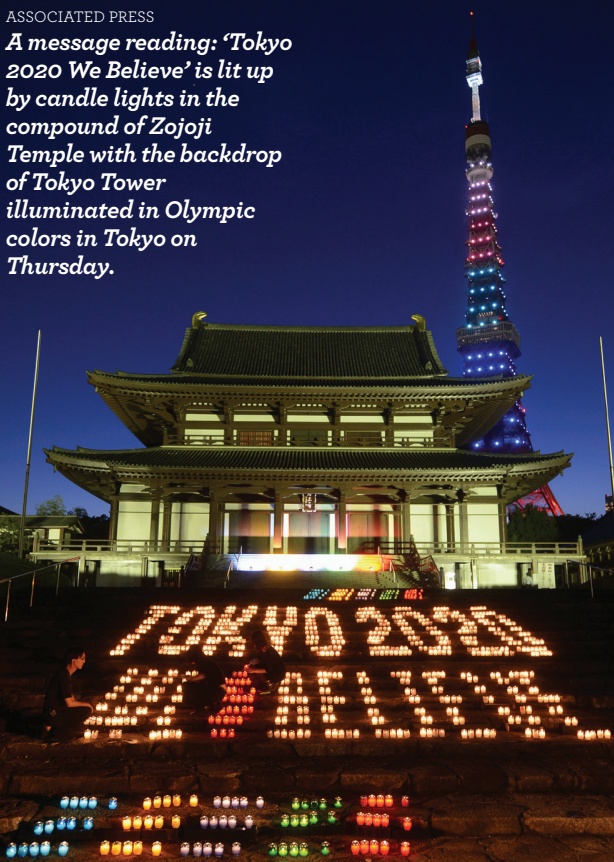

Yuki Ota, a two-time silver medalist in fencing, was one of a dozen athletes who appeared at a news conference to promote Tokyo's bid.

"I'm proud that no Japanese athlete has ever failed a doping test in the Olympics or Paralympic Games," Ota said. "I do not believe that education about doping can be achieved by one law alone. Long ago, Japan took action."

Ota was making a veiled reference to a recent antidoping law passed in Spain.

A message reading: 'Tokyo 2020 We Believe' is lit up by candle lights in the compound of Zojoji Temple with the backdrop of Tokyo Tower illuminated in Olympic colors in Tokyo on Thursday.

Madrid has tried to deflect inquiries about the 27-percent unemployment rate in one of Europe's largest economies, and Gasol was quick to say the city's bid is "very strong" and poses "no risks."

"We are promoting sports here," he said. "But hosting the Olympic Games at home would also be a big boost for our society. It would bring contributions to all sectors, it would help everyone grow."

Gasol, a two-time Olympic medalist, was also on the bid team in Singapore in 2005, when Madrid lost the 2012 bid to London. It lost the 2016 bid to Rio de Janeiro.

"I think we have grown from the time we lost in Singapore and maybe that will be decisive this time," he said.

Istanbul bid leader Hasan Arat shunned celebrities and introduced 20 young people as the face of Turkey. He said half of Turkey's population was under 25, and added that half of Istanbul's delegation at Saturday's final presentation to the IOC would also be under 25.

Arat sought questions from reporters, and the first dealt with recent street protests in Turkey. He asked high school student Esen Kucuktutuncu to reply.

"That's kind of a normal thing," she said. "It's a democracism. People have the right to protest. It happened in London and lots of countries."

The students were asked about press freedom in Turkey, and Arat responded to the question.

What happened on the streets last week?

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

"From the east to western Ind,
No jewel is like Rosalind."

— William Shakespeare

Today's deal came up during one local segment of the Pakistan Bridge Federation's trials, held in Karachi a few years ago.

We all know that pre-emptive bids are designed to be obstructive by stealing bidding space from opponents, but they can backfire spectacularly, as here.

Against six diamonds, West led the spade king. Declarer surveyed dummy and saw that life would have been easier had his diamond spots been just one jot stronger and North's one weaker. He would then have had no problem in ridding dummy of its losing spades if he held the diamond eight and dummy the seven.

But given what he had to work with, he had little choice. Declarer quickly formed a plan that relied upon East's cooperation. For the plan to work, East had to have at least two diamonds, one of them being the queen.

South took the lead in dummy, then smoothly cashed the diamond ace, hoping that he would catch East playing by rote. It would have taken great imagination on the part of East to divine South's hand and jettison his diamond queen under the ace. After the diamond ace drew the two and three, declarer proceeded to cash dummy's top cards in the rounded suits, then played a low diamond. In with the queen, East had no option but to give declarer access to hand with a club or heart, and the slam came home.

ANSWER: The opponents are surely about to bid or jump in spades. Do you want to encourage them or partner to do more bidding? While you are not overloaded with high cards, you can offer partner some ruffs. I'd guess it was right to raise clubs. If nonvulnerable, I'd make a pre-emptive raise to four clubs. Vulnerable, I'd simply raise to three clubs, or pass if my partner is an aggressive bidder.

Today is Friday, Sept. 6, the 249th day of 2013. There are 116 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On September 6, 1901, President William McKinley was shot and mortally wounded by anarchist Leon Czolgosz at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo, N.Y. (McKinley died eight days later; Czolgosz was executed on October 29.)

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1861, Union forces led by Gen. Ulysses S. Grant occupied Paducah, Ky., during the Civil War.

In 1888, diplomat and financier Joseph P. Kennedy, Sr. was born in Boston.

In 1916, the first self-service grocery store, Piggly Wiggly, was opened in Memphis, Tenn., by Clarence Saunders.

In 1939, the Union of South Africa declared war on Germany.

In 1943, 79 people were killed when a New York-bound Pennsylvania Railroad train derailed and crashed in Philadelphia.

In 1952, Canadian television broadcasting began in Montreal.

In 1966, South African Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd was stabbed to death by an apparently deranged page during a parliamentary session in Cape Town.

In 1970, Palestinian guerrillas seized control of three U.S.-bound jetliners. (Two were later blown up on the ground in Jordan, along with a London-bound plane hijacked on September 9; the fourth plane was destroyed on the ground in Egypt. No hostages were harmed.)

In 1985, all 31 people aboard a Midwest Express Airlines DC-9 were killed when the Atlanta-bound jetliner crashed just after takeoff from Milwaukee's Mitchell Field.

In 1991, the Soviet Union recognized the independence of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia. Russian lawmakers upheld a decision by residents of Leningrad to restore the city's pre-revolutionary name, St. Petersburg.

In 1997, a public funeral was held for Princess Diana at Westminster Abbey in London, six days after her death in a car crash in Paris.

In 2002, meeting outside Washington, D.C. for only the second time since 1800, Congress convened in New York to pay homage to the victims and heroes of September 11.

Ten years ago: Mahmoud Abbas resigned as Palestinian prime minister. In the U.S. Open, Justine Henin-Hardenne won the all-Belgian women's singles final, beating fellow countrywoman Kim Clijsters, 7-5, 6-1.

Five years ago: In the wake of Russia's military standoff with Georgia, Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice said that now was not the right time for the U.S. to move forward on a once-celebrated deal for civilian nuclear cooperation with Russia. (President George W. Bush canceled the deal two days later.) More than 100 people died in a rockslide that crashed into a shantytown just outside Cairo, Egypt. Actress Anita Page died in Los Angeles at age 98.

One year ago: President Barack Obama conceded only halting progress toward solving the nation's economic woes, but vowed in a Democratic National Convention finale, "Our problems can be solved, our challenges can be met." Drew Peterson, the former Illinois police officer who'd gained notoriety after his much-younger wife, Stacy, vanished in 2007, was convicted of murdering a previous wife, Kathleen Savio. (Peterson was later sentenced to 38 years in prison.) Rihanna won video of the year at the MTV Awards for "We Found Love." One Direction won best pop video, best new artist and most share-worthy video for "What Makes You Beautiful."

DEAR ABBY: I have a half-sister with whom I share a mother. Her father and my mother were married for almost 10 years. This man, I believe, had some mental issues. He would quiz me about my sexual relations with my boyfriend at the time, wanting details. He would often fly off the handle and argue with my mother for no reason. There are too many other examples to list. Quite frankly, he was a horrible husband and father.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

This man died two years ago. My half-sister has since immortalized her father into someone he was not. She even tattooed his initials on her wrist.

Abby, how is a person supposed to deal with a relative who is living in fantasyland about a parent? His widow has sent her emails telling her the kind of man he really was, but she continues to act as if he was the world's best father even though he wasn't.

— KNOWS THE TRUTH

DEAR KNOWS THE TRUTH: Either your former stepfather was the greatest father in the world to HER, or your half-sister needs the fantasy she's clinging to for her emotional well-being. Let her have her fantasy if it comforts her. If she raises the subject of good old dad with you, just tell her you'd prefer not to discuss it. If you do that, you'll both be happier.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 31 and the mother of three awesome children. At 29, I left my husband of nine years and came out of the closet. I have been in a stable two-year relationship with my girlfriend, and she recently moved in with us.

My oldest child has started asking if his friends can come and stay the night on a weekend. I let one child spend the night with him once. My sister asked me if I had told the child's parent that I'm a lesbian living with a partner. When I said no, she got upset and said that because we live in a small, religious country town I should inform the child's parent of my living situation.

I can see where she's coming from, but I don't feel it's my responsibility to offer this personal information. We're hardworking, law-abiding citizens, and I am a loving and protective mother. We aren't felons who need to "disclose" our personal "crimes." What do you think?

— PROUD MAMA IN THE SOUTH

DEAR PROUD MAMA: I, too, can see where your sister is coming from, and I don't like the direction. You are not under any obligation to announce your sexual orientation to anyone. In a small town — religious or not — word gets around quickly on its own. Trust me on that. However, if you are asked directly, you should be honest.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was married recently. During the wedding or the reception, someone stole money from the purses of at least two of the bridesmaids.

Are the bride's parents responsible for the loss?

— MOTHER OF THE BRIDE IN ALABAMA

DEAR MOTHER OF THE BRIDE: What happened was unfortunate, and I hope the lesson the bridesmaids learned from this wasn't an expensive one. Unless you agreed to look after the young women's belongings, you are not responsible for the loss. They should have left their purses with someone they trusted or secured in a locked room or car.

As a gesture of good will, depending upon the state of your finances, you might want to make good on their loss. But you are not required to do so.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

IF SEPTEMBER 6 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Career, work and making progress in the material world may be your most important motivations for the next few months. Since you are temporarily a perfectionist, you strive to fulfill all of your duties to the letter and win the respect of the boss. Having a few letters after your name or completing the requirements for a raise might also be a possibility. Concerns about reputation and responsibilities fill all your time until December, when you can make your move and put pet projects into motion. That's the best time to change jobs or to sign crucial agreements. The best month for a glamorous vacation will be May, when romance and leisure is accentuated and a lasting commitment can be made.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): When push comes to shove you may be tempted to shove back. Watch your temper and be careful not to offend anyone else today. You may make mistakes when in a hurry.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): If at first you don't succeed try, try again. The people who criticize your actions are actually providing valuable input. You may learn where a problem lies and fix it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Sticks and stones may break your bones, but words will never hurt you. Someone's kindhearted and perceptive observations could open your eyes to a valuable financial opportunity.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Those who smother you with compliments may boost your confidence. Enjoying some free time or working towards a secure future is never a waste of time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Old promises and commitments might hamper your progress. You may be loaded down with excess baggage from the past. You must honor previous obligations to clear the path.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You walk the line. Your demeanor must be above reproach in order to earn respect from peers or co-workers. On the other hand, you must be approachable when someone has a problem.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Some people and things may not live up to your expectations. Use your street smarts and business acumen to see past the spin. Tonight is better for business than pleasure.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Stress creates a mess. You may have too much on your plate or a deadline to meet. Avoid beginning new physical activities like wall climbing or any activity that exceeds your limits.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): It might be expedient to go along with public opinion, but you may inadvertently agree to something that's not in your best interest. Sign no important financial documents.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A passion for perfection puts your more pleasant pastimes in peril. You may be so focused on business, work, or a project that you forget to take some time out for fun.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You want to be in complete control of a certain situation, but someone who turns out to be loose cannon could force your hand. Talk it over and present your point of view.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You are a formidable opponent when faced by rules, regulations and career ambitions. A gentler, kinder person inside is waiting for the right circumstances to pop into view.
