Jury Finds Jimenez Guilty

Man who shot brother convicted of aggravated battery with a deadly weapon.

TWIN FALLS • Juan Roberto Jimenez was convicted Friday for shooting his brother.
The jury found him guilty of aggravated battery with a deadly weapon for shooting and injuring Jorge Alvarado on Feb. 9 in the 100 block of Tyler Street in Twin Falls.

The jury also found Jimenez to be a persistent violator, as he has been convicted of three felonies.
Jimenez was convicted of burglary in 2000 and grand theft by possession of stolen property in 2003.

Tuesday, Jimenez was arrested on new charges of aggravated assault and being a felon in possession of a firearm. Police said he used a gun to threaten three people who were trying to repossess his car.

In an earlier case, Jimenez is charged with three counts of lewd and lascivious conduct. Police say he raped a 14-year-old girl over several months. That trial is scheduled for December.
After Friday's conviction, District Judge Randy Stoker revoked Jimenez's bond.

Jimenez, 31, said he shot Alvarado in self-defense.
Alvarado testified that he came to his brother's house to work out a disagreement, leaving his gun in his truck's center

Missing Rupert Man Found Near Milner Dam

73-year-old severely dehydrated, said he didn't want to be bothered.

BY C. COLT CRANE

RUPERT • A 73-year-old Rupert man missing since Aug. 21 was found alive Thursday morning near the Milner Dam area.
Nile Maricle was found about 9:20 a.m. after the Minidoka County Sheriff's Office received a call from Kerb's Oil, a north Burley convenient store.
"We got a call from a clerk in north Burley," said Sheriff Eric Snarr. "She told officers that she had seen Nile come in frequently for cigarettes and beer."
Maricle's family reported him missing last month.
"It is alarming that he left his dog at home because the dog is always by his side," said family member Steve Maricle.
Maricle was severely dehydrated but otherwise in good condition, Snarr said.
"He told the responding officers he was out there because he didn't want to be bothered," Snarr said.
Maricle was taken to his sister's nearby home until his children could arrive from out of state to help care for him, Snarr said.
"Apparently he'd just been out at Milner alone and was coming into town for supplies," Snarr said.

Members of the Idaho City Hotshots start a back burn to combat the Elk Fire Complex, which burned more than 80 structures Aug. 14 near Pine.

TWIN FALLS • This year's wildfires season ended with a sobering reminder that not only the largest fires carry the biggest threats.
Treacherous terrain, threatened homes and evacuation orders became normal terms to describe the challenges and consequences of fires that lit up most of the Gem State. Yet local fire officials are reporting fewer wildfires and less acreage burned compared with years past.
"The fires had a longer duration, even though they might not have been as big as last year," said Chris Simonsen, fire management officer for the U.S. Bureau of Land Management's Twin Falls district. "They were complicated fires with higher costs."
Most of the 81 wildfires that burned in the Twin Falls district were started by lightning, Simonsen said. Altogether, they scorched nearly 89,000 acres.
Statewide, more than 728,900 acres in Idaho — the most of all Western states — were burned by nearly 1,320 fires ignited between May and October. The numbers vary from last year, when more than 1.6 million acres burned from 1,150 fires.
"It's low, but it wasn't a slow season," Simonsen said.
At the season's peak, the nation's top three highest priority wildfires were in Idaho. The Elk

Members of the media walk through part of the 104,457-acre Beaver Creek Fire in the Baker Creek area Aug. 19 north of Ketchum.

Complex Fire destroyed nearly 80 homes and caused mandatory evacuations in Pine and Feather-ville. The McCann Fire seared 23,390 acres, threatened ranches north of Fairfield and killed 100 head of cattle. But it was the nearby 111,490-acre Beaver Creek Fire that forced communities such as Ketchum and Sun Valley to be under pre-evacuation alert as it consumed beloved trails and came within inches of multi-million dollar homes.

Up north, large blazes such as the Lodgepole and Papoose fires sparked in areas inaccessible by most firefighting vehicles.
The BLM responded to three wildfires simultaneously for 18 days, Simonsen said.
"It's significant when that occurs," he said. "Anytime we have days we have multiple fires, we have fewer resources to respond to just one fire."

Budget cuts forced the BLM to reduce the crew members per engine this summer, but the agency got assistance from recently formed Rangeland Fire Protection Associations. The groups, made

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

Stocks Drop as Investors Fret over Budget Fight

NEW YORK (AP) • Washington’s budget fight jolted Wall Street on Friday, reminding it that the next few weeks could bring a lot of uncertainty.

Investors hate uncertainty, and stocks plunged in afternoon sell-off that wiped out all the gains from rally earlier this week, when the Federal Reserve kept its huge economic stimulus program intact.

Major indexes were mixed in morning trading, but turned lower around midday after the U.S. House of Representatives voted to defund President Barack Obama’s health care law.

WEATHER

Fall Arrives This Weekend

Friday featured summer like warmth. Today is the last day of summer and temperatures will be seasonal for this time of year. As I have mentioned, the Autumn Equinox takes place at 2:44 p.m. This is the time when the sun's rays will be right over the equator as it transitions from the Northern Hemisphere to the Southern Hemisphere. Length of daylight gets shorter as the nights get longer and temperatures start to drop.

Most of your weekend will be dry and fair. There are a lot of activities going on outdoors and the weather will mostly cooperate.

Today's weather forecast features mostly sunny skies to start during the morning, but clouds increase as we head into the afternoon and evening, with temperature around the low to mid 70s. A cold front will work across the region tonight into Sunday. Winds will turn breezy and the region will cool down for Sunday. There is also a chance of a passing shower tonight into Sunday morning. Most of the rain falls during the morning hours on Sunday, with sunshine and highs only in the mid 60s Sunday afternoon.

Tip Leads to Large Pot Bust

BOISE (AP) • Federal prosecutors say a tip hunter led to the recent seizure and arrests of five people accused of illegally growing thousands of marijuana plants on public land in Boise County.

U.S. Attorney Wendy Olson also down-sized on Friday the total number of plants confiscated from two grow operations. Local authorities initially reported seizing an estimated 40,000 plants, but Olson said only 5,585 plants were tallied.

Four of the suspects charged in the case are Mexican nationals, while the fifth is a woman from Caldwell. All are scheduled to appear in U.S. District Court in Boise later this month.

Olson praised the hunter who came across the illegal growing operation for calling in the tip — and for avoiding a potential conflict with operators who had firearms in their remote campsite.

No Weak Link Develops in Kidney Transplant Chain

Twin Falls women's organ swap a success

mmatthews@magicvalley.com

TWIN FALLS • Kristy Buffington is glad to be home. She's a little sore, missing one kidney and her gall bladder. Buffington recently donated a kidney in a three-kidney-transplant chain at the University of Utah Hospital. Her friend Brandy Burkhart — who received a kidney from a "Good Samaritan" donor — is still in the hospital and receiving anti-rejection treatments. After she is released, Burkhart will stay close by so her doctors can keep an eye on her new kidney. Buffington's kidney went to a 23-month-old boy named Beckham. Beckham was born with kidney disease. "He's never been able to eat solid food and he has a feeding tube," said Buffington. "He can't walk — he can't do a lot of things that every 2-year-old should be able to do." Beckham's father, Ari, had hoped to donate a kidney to his son, but they were not compatible. Buffington had hoped to donate a kidney to Burkhart, but they weren't compatible, either. Bruce Garrett, a coordinator with the University of Utah Hospital's transplant program, suggested that all four register for the national Paired Kidney Exchange pool. A Good Samaritan donor named Ted, and Juan, a man who had waited on the kidney transplant list for three years, completed the chain. The kidney exchange was pulled off in two days: Ted gave Burkhart a kidney. Burkhart's friend Buffington gave Beckham a kidney. And Beckham's dad Ari gave Juan a kidney. "It's really pretty cool," Buffington said Thursday, a day returning to her home in Twin Falls. Buffington went under the knife Sept. 11. In the operating room, her surgeon discovered gall stones, and he removed her gall bladder two days later. "I wasn't too thrilled about getting a double dose of anesthesia," she said, "But I'm feeling a lot better now." So is Burkhart. Burkhart and Buffington were friends before the surgery, but now the two have a connection like no other. "This has been a life-changing event," Burkhart said. Doctors plan to release Burkhart from the hospital Sunday. She and her husband have rented an apartment in Salt Lake until she is cleared to return to her home in Twin Falls. Most of the six transplant patients were able to meet after the surgeries. "It was great to put their names with faces and hear their stories," Buffington said.

Denney May Run for Secretary of State

BOISE (AP) • Republican state Rep. Lawrence Denney has filed official fundraising paperwork ahead of a potential bid to unseat Secretary of State Ben Ysursa in the GOP primary next May. Denney, a former House speaker from Midvale, said Friday he has yet to make an official campaign announcement. But he declared a political treasurer on Thursday, allowing him to raise money for a run. Politically, Denney and Ysursa have been antagonists.

tricts, saying the then-House speaker was stepping outside his authority.

Denney was ousted last December as House speaker by GOP Rep. Scott Bedke and is now chairman of the House Resources & Conservation Committee. In addition, Denney was among those who favored efforts to shutter Idaho's GOP primaries to all but registered Republican voters, while Ysursa went to court in an unsuccessful bid to keep primaries open to all voters, regardless of party.

Minidoka Sheriff Expands Driver's License Hours

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

RUPERT • The Minidoka County Sheriff's Office has expanded its hours at the driver's license bureau. The new office hours are from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday. Minidoka County Sheriff Eric Snarr said many residents had complained under the prior sheriff's administration about the irregular hours the driver's license bureau was open. "We were hearing a lot of complaints coming through officers and citizens," said Snarr. Snarr said he received reports that people would come in to renew a driver's license and a sign was up saying "back in 15 minutes." Snarr said the sign did not indicate a time when the employee would return. "A lot of the people would sit there and wait an hour to an hour and a half," Snarr said. Snarr said the previous hours were 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., but weren't actually kept. Alicia Daniel, who previously worked at the driver's license bureau, was criminally charged with falsifying time sheets and misusing sick leave after an Attorney General's investigation led to a charge of misuse of public funds for former sheriff, Kevin Halverson. According to court records Daniel and Halverson were having a personal relationship. Daniel is set for a preliminary hearing on the charge at 10:30 a.m., Oct. 18, in Minidoka County Magistrate Court. Snarr said the current employees at the driver's license bureau are undergoing state training and the staff in the driver's license, civil service and records divisions will be cross-trained so they can cover the other offices during vacations or illnesses.

Snarr said the civil service position will be the most difficult to cross-train due to the complexity of the job, which includes processing warrants, civil protection, no-contact orders and wage garnishments along with other documents. Snarr said the four employees in those offices will also soon be wearing uniforms similar to the department's patrol division. "We want to give our offices a more professional appearance," Snarr said. County dispatchers will also wear a uniform pant and polo shirt beginning early next year.

Idaho Unemployment Rate Jumps to 6.8 Percent

BOISE • Idaho's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate rose two-tenths of a percentage point in August to 6.8 percent.

The Department of Labor says the state's jobless rate has risen seven tenths of a percentage point since April, one of the largest rate increases among the states in the past four months. Still, the rate is down from 7 percent last August.

The number of Idaho workers without jobs was nearly 52,300, the highest total since September 2012.

Department analysts believe more Idahoans may be working multiple jobs to meet the hiring demands of employers and make ends meet. Last year, 24.2 percent of Idaho jobs were part-time, compared to 18.2 percent before the recession.

Idaho's unemployment rate remained below the national rate of 7.3 percent for August.

Prison Guard Charged with Sex with Inmate

BOISE • A former Idaho Department of Correction prison guard has been charged with having sex with an inmate at a maximum security prison south of Boise.

Forty-three-year-old Pamela Lynn Thomson was arrested Thursday after prosecutors charged her with two counts of felony sexual contact with a prisoner.

Idaho Department of Correction spokesman Jeff Ray said in a prepared statement that Thompson was hired on March 25 and was fired from the department on Sept. 6 after an investigation by the department's professional standards team.

Thompson was scheduled to appear in court Friday afternoon. She is currently being held on $250,000 bond.

State Sued over Suicide at N. Idaho Hospital

COEUR D'ALENE • The family of a northern Idaho man who committed suicide at a state psychiatric hospital is suing the state over his death.

The Coeur d'Alene Press reports Steven Ferry Sr. was being held involuntarily at State Hospital North in Orofino when he electrocuted himself to death on Sept. 18, 2011. Steven Ferry Jr. filed the lawsuit in Kootenai County's 1st District Court, contending that the hospital failed to provide Ferry Sr. with a safe environment and didn't adequately supervise him, resulting in his death.

According to the lawsuit, the state filed an application to have Ferry Sr. placed in involuntary treatment after he attempted suicide, and examiners found him to be mentally ill, likely to injure himself and unable to make informed decisions about his own care.

ASK ST. LUKE'S

Eating Right Vital for Diabetics

HEIDI HOUSER, NP-C

St. Luke's Clinic, Diabetes Management Center

I am 45 years old and was recently diagnosed with Type 2 diabetes. What can I eat or not eat?

— Nancy, Twin Falls
Eating right is really important when you are trying to control your diabetes.

A diabetes diet is a healthy eating plan which is high in nutrients, low in fats and moderate in calorie intake. The primary difference in a diabetic diet is to pay more attention to some of your food choices, most notably the carbohydrates that you eat.

Think of your plate and divide it into three sections. Half of your plate should be filled with low carbohydrate vegetables — including broccoli, green beans, cabbage, zucchini or cauliflower — fill a quarter of your plate with lean protein, such as baked chicken, fish or pork, and the remaining quarter of your plate with a low carbohydrate choice, such as brown rice, sweet potato or whole wheat bread or pasta. You can also add one serving of fruit, and a cup of skim milk or low-fat yogurt.

Carbohydrates have a big impact on your blood sugar levels. You don't have to avoid these foods; you just need to be smart in your choices. Whole grains are the healthiest, as they maximize nutrition and break down in the blood stream slowly. Instead of white potatoes, choose sweet potatoes or yams. Instead of white pasta, choose whole wheat pasta.

Fats are also important to keep in check. Making good fat choices is important.

Having diabetes increases your risk of developing heart disease and stroke by accelerating the hardening and clogging of arteries. Good fats — found in olive oil, canola oil, avocado, fish, flaxseed and walnuts — lower your cholesterol, however, eat them sparingly because all fats are high in calories. Bad fats include trans fats and saturated fats and should be avoided as they increase cholesterol. Trans fats are found in processed foods, fast foods, chips and hard margarine. Saturated fats include red meats, bacon, butter, whole milk and high fat cheese.

Avoid regular sodas, sports drinks and energy drinks that contain carbohydrates. Also, eat smaller meals throughout the day to avoid rises in blood sugar. It's easier to control blood sugar when your carbohydrates are spread out. It is also good to eat a protein at mealtime as it promotes satiety and results in a lower blood sugar rise.

Exercise is also a key component in keeping your diabetes under control. When you exercise, your muscles become more sensitive to insulin, which results in lower blood sugars. It is best to get 30 minutes of moderate exercise, five times each week. A brisk walk is a good choice.

It is important that you talk to your primary care provider about your specific condition to guide you in recent diagnosis of Type 2 diabetes.

up of private citizens, were trained to respond to wildfires on public lands before the BLM could get to the flames.

Members of the associations helped suppress 19 wildfires this season, said Brett Blumhardt with the BLM.

"They did a great job," he said. "Sometimes it would be many members, sometimes just one person to eight or nine people with multiple tractors and dozers."

Overall, firefighters remained on high alert for most of the season due to the numerous red flag warnings issued by the National Weather Service, Blumhardt said.

"We had to be ready for anything," he said.

New Cassia County Courthouse Opens

BY LAURIE WELCH

BURLEY • Dozens of people turned out Friday to help Cassia County dedicate its new judicial center and tour the facility.

“I really like the way the courts are separated,” said Gary Lucas of Burley. “And there’s a lot of security for the judges and everybody else. That was a good idea.”

The county bought the 16,000-square-foot building at the corner of Overland Avenue and 16th Street for $600,000 in June 2011.

It had been a Safeway store.

“I think it’s beautiful and very well done,” said Rupert resident Dallas Stoller.

The county paid $1.8 million to remodel the facility with three courtrooms, four conference rooms and upgraded security for the public and court staff.

Fred McCombs of Burley said the acoustics in the new judicial center are very good, especially in the courtrooms.

“They are a lot better, especially for people who don’t hear well,” McCombs said.

After voters in 1998 shot down a $3.72 million bond issue for a new judicial building, the county started saving money. It paid for the project with a combination of taxpayer money and about $1 million from geothermal leases in the county.

“It (the judicial center) is one of those things that’s not popular in the county, but it is essential for justice,” said Paul Christensen, Cassia County commissioner during the dedication ceremony.

“I really like the fact that it was built to take care of our future needs,” said Burley resident Dick Huizinga.

A crowd gathered Friday for the dedication of the new Cassia County Judicial Center in Burley.

Cassia County Commissioner Bob Kunau said Safeway Inc. constructed the building in 1962.

“When I first walked into the old grocery store it was hard to envision what they’d do,” said Kunau.

Burley resident Marsha Lucas said one of the best aspects of the new building is that it has already been paid for.

Trial

The law also says a reasonable person under similar circumstances would have believed they were in danger and acted in a similar way. Jimenez must have acted only in response to the danger and no other motivation. Finally, when there’s no longer a reasonable appearance of danger, the right to self-defense ends, Stoker told the jury.

In his closing argument, prosecutor Stan Holloway told the jury they must use their everyday experiences and common sense to decide what happened.

There’s no question Jimenez was the shooter, Holloway said. He admitted it.

But Jimenez didn’t grab the gun out of fear; he picked it up in Jerome hours before the confrontation with his brother, the prosecutor said.

“He went to Jerome specifically to pick up the gun,” Holloway said.

The shooting was not in self-defense, because Jimenez did not exhaust his alternatives, Holloway said.

Jimenez could have called the police or gone inside the house, he said.

In his closing argument, defense attorney George Essma said Jimenez had a legitimate legal excuse for having the gun, despite being a felon.

“The law forgives someone for being in possession of a firearm if it was necessary,” Essma said.

Essma also questioned why the prosecution didn’t use more forensic evidence, such as where the brothers were standing when the rounds were fired.

Most of the time law officers get it right, Essma said, but sometimes they get it wrong.

“It’s hard to tell the state no,” he said. “The state does not like when you tell them no. Not many people get to tell the state no. In this particular case, I’m asking you to tell the state, I’m sorry, no. You did not prove it to us beyond a reasonable doubt that this was not self-defense and Robert was not in lawful possession of a firearm.”

Member of GOP Committee Involved in Idaho Plane Crash

IDAHO FALLS (AP) • An investigator with the Federal Aviation Administration is looking into why a twin-engine airplane with three people on board was forced to make an emergency landing Thursday in a farm field near Idaho Falls.

Authorities say mechanical difficulties may have led to the early landing, about a mile from the Idaho Falls Regional Airport.

Sgt. Jeff Edwards said all three occupants were out of the airplane when emergency personnel arrived. Two were able to walk. The Idaho Statesman identified one of the injured passengers as Damond Watkins, one of Idaho’s three members on the Republican National Committee and an executive with Melaleuca Inc.

Authorities on Friday identified the pilot as Bradley Hone, of Idaho Falls and the third passenger as Justin Manwaring. Both were treated and released for minor injuries.

But Watkins’ father, Dane Watkins, told the newspaper his son suffered a broken back in the crash and is scheduled to undergo surgery at an Idaho Falls hospital Friday.

“We just thank the Lord that he’s alive,” said Dane Watkins, a former state senator from Idaho Falls and former candidate for Congress. “It could have been a lot worse. We’re fortunate and blessed.”

Damond Watkins, 40, is the vice president of corporate relations for Melaleuca and represents the company on the board of the Idaho Association of Commerce and Industry. Watkins was returning home from Boise.

House Backs Bill to Boost Logging in National Forests

WASHINGTON (AP) • The Republican-controlled House Friday approved a bill to sharply increase logging in national forests — a measure the GOP said would create jobs in rural communities and help reduce wildfires that have devastated the West.

The bill also would add hundreds of millions of dollars in revenue from new timber sales while reviving an industry that has shed tens of thousands of jobs in the past three decades.

Opponents called the bill a giveaway to the timber industry and said it would harm water quality and habitat for fish and wildlife and jeopardize recreation areas that have become a major source of jobs in national forests.

The White House has threatened to veto the bill, which was approved on a 244-173 vote. Seventeen Democrats joined 227 Republicans to back the bill. Just one Republican, Rep. Chris Gibson of New York, opposed the bill.

The Obama administration says the measure would jeopardize habitat for endangered species, increase lawsuits and limit the president's ability to create national monuments.

The bill as passed has little chance of approval in the Democratic-controlled Senate, although senators have not ruled out adoption of a forest management bill.

Keith Chu, a spokesman for Sen. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, said Wyden "agrees it's time get the (timber) harvest up, to create more jobs in the woods and make forests healthier."

Wyden plans to introduce a forest bill this fall, Chu said, but added: "It's clear that bills that undermine bedrock environmental laws or turn large swaths of federal land over to private ownership cannot pass the Senate or be signed into law by the president."

The House bill's sponsor, Rep. Doc Hastings, R-Wash, said wildfires burned 9.3 million acres last year, while the Forest Service only harvested timber from about 200,000 acres. "We burned 44 times more acres than we've managed," Hastings said. "Imagine the carbon imprint" of those wildfires, which are fed in part by overstocked forests.

BRUISING BRUINS

Twin Falls racks up 513 yards, pummels Minico 40-19.

BY NICK RULAND
nruland@magicvalley.com

RUPERT • With a running back like Jacob Johnson and a physical defense, Twin Falls doesn’t need much from its quarterback.

The Bruins got plenty from two signal-callers Friday night, dominating Minico 40-19 Friday to get one on the road against their Great Basin Conference rivals.

Jacob Johnson ran for 240 yards and four touchdowns in what was the biggest margin of victory for the Bruins against Minico since 2005.

With its quarterback play, Twin Falls looked like a complete team.

“We have been working together, we encourage each other a lot,” quarterback Kaleb Jones said. “We talk about what we see out there, what can help us. It’s working out pretty well so far.”

Jones and fellow quarterback Kordell Williams switched off each quarter and combined to complete 12 of 17 attempts for 215 yards a touchdown and no turnovers.

The Bruins accumulated 513 yards, and led 34-6 early in the fourth quarter.

The Spartans had 340 yards but almost all of it came on the first drive of the game and the fourth quarter. Minico took its first drive 104 yards (including penalties) on 14 plays to take a 6-0 lead less than four minutes into the game.

Twin Falls defense held the Spartans to 87 yards on seven drives after Minico scored four minutes into the game.

Minico head coach Tim Perrigot said the Bruins defense simply outmanned his Spartans up front.

“We didn’t capitalize and put points on the board to keep our defense fresh,” Perrigot said. “I thought their quarterbacks threw the ball real nice, too. They hadn’t in the first two weeks.”

Minico quarterback Tanner Harper completed 14 of 26 passes for over 200 yards, but was intercepted twice.

Daniel Freiburger was held to 64 yards on 15 carries.

Boise State Falls, 41-40

BY RYAN HOWE

FRESNO, Calif. • A mid-major ranked in the top-25 playing in front of a sold-out home crowd and a national ESPN audience on Friday night took a solid step toward a possible BCS-busting season.

No, this time it wasn’t Boise State.

The Broncos had a heartbreaking front-row seat, however, to Fresno State’s 41-40 victory and The Milk Can — this rivalry’s travelling trophy — has a new home as the Bulldogs (3-0) beat the Broncos for the first time in eight years.

The win comes just five days after Fresno State was voted No. 25 in the USA Today/Coaches Poll — the team’s first ranking since 2008.

Derek Carr completed 39 of 60 passes for 460 yards and four touchdowns. It was the fifth 400-yard game of his career, both a school and Mountain West record.

Jerome Slogs Past Canyon Ridge

BY MIKE CHRISTENSEN
For the Times-News

JEROME • Two teams that are very much works in progress got some work in against each other Friday night. As for their progress?

That’s debatable.

But one thing’s for certain: Jerome is 1-0 in Great Basin Conference play after a 19-10 homecoming win over visiting Canyon Ridge.

Both offenses sputtered, but Jerome won the battle in the trenches on both sides and did just enough to get the victory.

The Tigers (2-2) continued their early-season struggles on offense, coughing up three fumbles in the first quarter, including a muffed punt inside their own 5-yard line.

“That’s been what we do. We turn it over,” said Jerome coach Sid Gambles. “Luckily, our defense kind of held out.”

The Jerome defense held Canyon Ridge scoreless after each of the three early turnovers, stopping the River-hawks on consecutive plays from the 1-yard line after the mishandled punt.

BYU Looks at Utah as Its Super Bowl

ASSOCIATED PRESS

PROVO, Utah • Time is running out for BYU to prove it can finally beat Utah again.

With the Holy War scheduled to take a hiatus in 2014 and 2015, the Cougars are looking to avoid suffering a fourth consecutive loss to the Utes going into that break. The stakes have never been higher for a BYU team desperate to regain an upper hand in this rivalry.

Moments after beating Texas 40-21 two weeks ago, the Cougars had already turned their attention toward beating the Utes — who lead the overall series 56-34-4 — for the first time since 2009.

“This is like the Super Bowl,” senior linebacker Kyle Van Noy said. “There’s no lying. I’m 0-3 against them and I want to win. It’s plain and simple. I want to beat them. They don’t like us and we don’t like them.”

Cougars, Vandals Meet for First Time Since 2007

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Located just a few miles apart, there’s always been an added intensity when Washington State and Idaho meet.

After a lengthy absence from facing one another, the Vandals and Cougars will reacquaint themselves tonight, but perhaps with a bit more fire following an off-field incident between players from the two programs last March.

Former Washington State wide receiver Mansel Simmons was found unconscious after a brawl in a Pullman church parking lot that involved Idaho’s Roman Runner. No charges were filed in the case after prosecutors determined Runner was acting in self-defense, but Simmons’ career was over after he suffered a severe concussion.

Washington State coach Mike Leach and his players this week dismissed the idea that the brawl would have an impact on the game.

“I have no worries about that at all,” Leach said.

Added quarterback Connor Halliday, “We’re just worried about winning the game, that’s the only thing on our mind.”

The Cougars are trying to improve to 3-1 for the first time since 2006, the last time Washington State finished with a .500 record. They followed up their upset of USC with an easy win over Southern Utah and now face the struggling Vandals before jumping back into Pac-12 play with a difficult stretch with three of the Cougars’ next four games played away from Pullman.

Despite the campuses being just eight miles apart, today will be the first time the Vandals and Cougars will meet since 2007, a 45-28 Washington State victory. Idaho has not defeated the Cougars since 2000.

Henrik Stenson Builds Four-shot Lead

ATLANTA • Henrik Stenson made three early birdies to seize control at the Tour Championship on Friday.

Stenson quickly expanded his one-shot lead at East Lake with three birdies on the opening four holes and stretched his lead to four shots over Scott with a 4-under 66.

Scott recovered from a rugged start for a 69, while 20-year-old Jordan Spieth had a 67 and was five shots behind.

Stenson and Scott only have to win the Tour Championship to capture the FedEx Cup and the $10 million prize. Scott also can make a strong case for PGA Tour player of the year if he were to win. Tiger Woods played his last five holes in 6-over par for a 71 and was 14 shots out of the lead.

pitcher Andy Pettitte will retire after this season.

The team announced Pettitte’s decision in a news release Friday, hours before opening its final home-stand of the season. The 41-year-old left-hander says he has exhausted himself mentally and physically and knows the time is right.

Pettitte initially retired after the 2010 season, but he sat out only one year before returning to the Yankees. He is scheduled to make two more starts this season, including Sunday when the club will honor Mariano Rivera at Yankee Stadium.

Rivera, baseball’s career saves leader, also is retiring. Pettitte holds the major league record with 19 postseason wins. His final start is scheduled for next weekend in Houston, his hometown. Pettitte pitched for the Astros from 2004-06.

Seahawks Put Okung on IR-Return

RENTON, Wash. • The Seattle Seahawks have placed left tackle Russell Okung on injured reserve with a designation to return after injuring a toe against the San Francisco 49ers last week.

Okung injured his left big toe blocking 49ers defensive end Justin Smith on the final play of the first quarter.

Coach Pete Carroll says Okung suffered a torn ligament in his toe and the injury is expected to keep him sidelined for six to eight weeks.

Paul McQuistan will start in place of Okung against the Jacksonville Jaguars. McQuistan started the first two games of the year at left guard for the Seahawks. Under the injured reserve rules, Okung will be ineligible for the next eight weeks. He can return to practice six weeks after being placed on the list and eligible to play against Minnesota on Nov. 17.

Newman Wins Pole at New Hampshire

LOUDON, N.H. • Ryan Newman used a track-record lap to fuel his run at a championship.

Newman set the New Hampshire Motor Speedway qualifying record with a lap of 136.497 mph to win the pole and headline a top 12 loaded with Chase drivers for Sunday’s race.

Chase for the Sprint Cup championship drivers filled 10 of the top 12 spots Friday. Kasey Kahne was second and joins Newman on the front row, Jeff Gordon was third and Kurt Busch fourth for what will be the second Chase race.

Joey Logano qualified sixth, Kevin Harvick was eighth, series points leader and last week’s winner Matt Kenseth was ninth, and Greg Biffle starts 10th. Jimmie Johnson is 11th and Kyle Busch 12th.

Martin Truex Jr. starts fifth the same week he found out NAPA was dumping sponsorship of his Michael Waltrip Racing No. 56 car after the race-fixing attempts at Richmond earlier this month.

FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

Hagerman Runs Away from Raft River

TIMES-NEWS

MALTA • Four players scored two touchdowns as Class 1A-I No. 3 Hagerman pulled away in the second half for a 56-8 victory over No. 4 Raft River in Snake River Conference play.

Clint Clifford, Austin Funkhouser, Kade Kress and Hernan Sandoval all reached the end zone twice. Kress threw three touchdowns passes, while Clifford took a punt back 75 yards for a touchdown.

Misael Maldonado had the lone touchdown for Raft River, which lost quarterback Dalton Peterson to injury in the second half.

Hagerman (4-0, 2-0) hosts Carlin, Nev., next week, while Raft River (2-1, 1-1) hosts Grace.

Kimberly (1-2) hosts Wood River next week, while Valley (1-2) hosts Wendell.

TWIN FALLS • Lighthouse Christian opened the Sawtooth Conference West with a mercy rule win over the visiting Tigers.

Logan Bosma was 12-for-16 for 225 yards and four touchdowns. He completed scoring passes to Luc Fadness (35, 30 and 61 yards) and Colby Firth (32 yards).

Adam Taylor was the leading rusher for the Lions with eight carries for 107 yards and four touchdowns. For Richfield, Jeff Henson tossed scoring passes to Dakota Donovan (1 yard), and John Cantu (4 yards). Victor Robles added a 27-yard pass reception from Zak Wood. Richfield also had a safety in the second quarter.

Lighthouse Christian (4-0, 1-0) is at Castleford on Friday. Richfield (2-1, 0-1) next plays at Dietrich on Oct. 11.

Boise State

After Boise State rallied from 15 points down to take a 40-34 lead with 7:04 remaining, Carr directed the game-winning drive, going 87 yards in 13 plays in 4:50. Josh Quezada scored the go-ahead touchdown with 2:14 to play.

Boise State tried to answer, but after Joe Southwick completed three passes and drove his team to midfield, Kirby Moore couldn’t hold on to his pass on fourth-and-6.

It was headed for a tight finish from the get-go.

On its opening drive of the game, Fresno State converted three third-downs – BSU entered the night ranked 120th in the nation in third-down defense – and scored on third-and-9 with a middle screen pass from Carr to Josh Quezada. Quezada slipped a tackle and went 14 yards for the TD.

After punting on its first two drives, Boise State tied it up 7-all on a 1-yard touchdown by Ajayi – his seventh rushing TD of the season.

Carr appeared to have a 69-yard touchdown pass to Greg Watson, but instant replay showed Watson down inside the 1-yard line, thanks to a hustling tackle by Donte Deayon. The Bronco defense stiffened, and the Bulldogs had to settle for a field goal.

BSU matched that field goal on its next drive as Dan Goodale connected from 31 yards out to knot the score again, 10-10.

After Southwick was sacked on consecutive third- and fourth-down plays, it took Carr just two passes to go 62 yards, capped by a 21-yard touchdown toss to Josh Harper.

About 10 minutes before halftime, Southwick was tackled on a QB keeper and landed hard on his right throwing shoulder. After he was slow to get up, Southwick was visibly uncomfortable, winding his arm in circles.

But after three plays, Southwick was pulled out. Redshirt junior backup quarterback Grant Hedrick finished the drive, tossing his first career touchdown pass, an 18-yarder to sophomore Troy Ware. It was the first catch for Ware, who saw more playing time due to Aaron Burks staying home with an injury.

Southwick returned to the field on BSU’s next series, however. He finished with career-highs: 45 attempts and 31 completions.

But after throwing just two interceptions in his previous 247 attempts, Southwick was picked off by Bulldog safety Derron Smith, which led to Carr’s third touchdown pass of the half, a 4-yarder to Harper.

Despite dominating time of possession (20 minutes, 2 seconds to 9:58) in the first half, the Broncos trailed 24-19 at halftime. BSU gained 314 yards on 60 offensive plays in the first half to Fresno State’s 253 on 37 plays.

Carr completed just five of his first 14 passes, but caught fire and connected on 11 of his next 14 to finish off the half as Fresno State led 24-19.

Things started to appear bleak for Boise State after Ajayi lost a fumble in the third quarter after getting a first down on a fourth-and-1. True to coach Chris Petersen’s word following Ajayi’s two fumbles last week vs. Air Force, Ajayi was benched for the rest of the game.

After the turnover, Fresno State added a field goal and led 34-19 with 0:58 left in the third quarter.

But on the ensuing kickoff, Dallas Burroughs took off for a 58-yard return. Freshman Aaron Baltazar got the call at running back and immediately burst for a 35-yard touchdown. He added a 1-yard TD on Boise State’s next drive, and – after a failed two-point conversion run by Baltazar – suddenly the Broncos trailed 34-32 with 8:28 to play.

The Broncos weren’t done. A squib kickoff by Goodale was recovered by the Broncos at the Fresno State 32-yard line.

Five plays later – highlighted by a 28-yard Southwick scramble – the Broncos were in the end zone on a QB sneak. They then fooled the Bulldogs with a two-point conversion as wide receiver Matt Miller ran around until he found Jake Hardee in the end zone.

But that only set the stage for Carr and the Fresno State Bulldogs to snatch the mid-major torch away from Boise State.

plays as costly penalties and struggles to slow Jerome’s pass rush hindered the offense.

“We can’t capitalize off of three turnovers in the first quarter,” bemoaned CRHS coach Justin Alsterlund. “We had every single opportunity to win that game. Plain and simple, we beat ourselves. But our kids battled. We’re so close. We just need to turn that corner.”

“We’re looking for a lot from our seniors,” he said. “It’s our senior that made some plays, but it’s our seniors that fumbled, that missed a block, that kind of stuff.”

“But a conference win’s, a conference win.”

And it’s a victory the Tigers hope will propel them into next week’s game against Twin Falls for the Battle of the Bridge.

“It feels great, but we’ve got to go out and beat Twin next week,” said Dan Thibault. “We’ll enjoy this tonight and get to work next week.”

No. 17 Huskies Get Final Tuneup vs. Idaho State

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEATTLE • Keith Price needed to be scared only one time by a lower-division opponent.

It came in the first start of his sophomore season at Washington back in 2011. Price, the Huskies quarterback, played well that day against Eastern Washington, throwing for three touchdowns, but was left watching as the Huskies needed a late interception to avoid a loss to the Eagles from the FCS.

With that history, Price is the last player on the roster of No. 17 Washington who's going to overlook Idaho State, the Huskies' opponent this afternoon.

"I'm definitely not looking past them," Price said. "I had a scare already and that's all I needed. I'm not looking past them by any means."

Today is the final tuneup for Washington (2-0) after blowing out Boise State and knocking off Illinois 34-24 last Saturday, and before beginning Pac-12 Conference play with a brutal four-game run. The Huskies start with Arizona at home, before going to No. 5 Stanford, hosting No. 2 Oregon and closing out the run at No. 23 Arizona State.

That's all in the future though.

"The one thing about this game, as with every game, is it's about the process and embracing the process. It's not about who the opponent is on Saturday," Washington coach Steve Sarkisian said.

Washington's Bishop Sankey (25) celebrates his touchdown against Illinois with Dexter Charles (76) during the first half of an NCAA college football game Sept. 14, in Chicago.

Idaho State (2-0) will at the very least test the Huskies pass rush and pass defense. The Bengals lead all of the FCS in yards passing through two games, both easy victories over Division II teams Dixie State and Western State. But making the jump from Division II opposition to a team ranked in the AP Top 25 is quite the challenge for the Bengals.

Here are five things to watch in the first meeting between the Huskies and Bengals:

SUPER SANKEY: If everything goes as desired for Washington, running back Bishop Sankey will be giving way early to his backups. The question is how many yards can Sankey possibly pile up while he's on the field. Sankey currently leads the country in rushing averaging with 184.5 yards per game. It's doubtful he'll be on the field long enough to pad his stats against the Bengals. "He sees holes that I know I wouldn't be able to see and he squeezes and finds a way to maneuver his body through those holes," Price said. "He's an excellent back."

RED ZONE EFFICIENCY: It's hard to find much fault in Washington's offensive production so far with 592 total yards vs. Boise State and 615 vs. Illinois. But Sarkisian is not satisfied with the field goals Washington has settled for at times. The Huskies are 9 of 10 this season scoring inside their opponents' 20 but three times have settled for field goals, all of them inside 35 yards.

STAY HEALTHY: When Idaho State made the trip to Nebraska last season it was a costly loss physically and mentally. The Bengals lost two players to major knee injuries in the 73-7 loss to the Cornhuskers and came out with a mental block that coach Mike Kramer said this week his team was never able to overcome. With Big Sky Conference play starting next week, the Bengals want to stay healthy. The same could be said for the Huskies. Washington middle linebacker

John Timu is already nursing a bruised shoulder suffered against Illinois and they don't need any more injury concerns before Pac-12 play.

CHUCK THE BALL: Washington's pass rush and pass defense will get challenged by the Bengals. Idaho State QB Justin Arias leads the FCS in yards passing per game at 434 and has thrown just one interception in 98 pass attempts. The Huskies were able to shut down Illinois' pass game last week and will be tested again.

NO LET DOWN: Washington realizes it has something good going. The Huskies have not started a season 3-0 since 2001 and have a real shot at being 4-0 headed into an Oct. 5 showdown at Stanford. All the good built in two strong performances to start the season would be lost with a struggle against the Bengals. The Huskies say they're well aware of what has happened to schools like Oregon State, Kansas State and Connecticut facing FCS teams already this season. "We know they're hungry," Price said. "We know they're a very aggressive defense. We just have to do what we do minus the penalties and we'll be fine."

St. Nicholas Catholic School hires new principal, superintendent.

BY TETONA DUNLAP
tdunlap@magicvalley.com

RUPERT • For the first time in four years, Diane Brumley could focus on what she loves most, teaching the children in her classroom.

This school year, St. Nicholas Catholic Church in Rupert welcomed new principal, Wes Remaley.

Until Remaley’s arrival, Brumley had been serving as both principal and first grade teacher.

“It’s wonderful, especially knowing who is the principal now,” Brumley said.

Remaley comes with 34 years of experience in education, 17 as a teacher and 17 as an administrator in various schools in the Twin Falls and Ada County school districts.

Brumley said the teacher/principal combination isn’t new at St. Nicholas, recalling at least two others before her who took on the dual roles. Brumley credited the help of a part-time teaching partner, who helped in her classroom and after school, for her ability to perform both jobs.

“I thought I would try it for a year and a year turned to two, three, four,” Brumley said. “I enjoyed interacting with the parents. It was nice to be more in touch!”

During the last three years, since retiring from public education, Remaley has been employed as a psycho-social rehabilitation worker through the Skills Management Behavior Center in the Twin Falls School District.

“I have a deep faith in God. In public school you can live that life, but you can’t talk about it,” Remaley said.

Also new at the school this year is the Rev. Francisco Godinez, who will serve as superintendent. Godinez moved from a parish near Coeur d’Alene.

St. Nicholas Catholic School is in its 55th year of educating children of all faiths. Brumley said the majority of students are not Catholic and many don’t attend St. Nicholas parish.

When it was first established in 1958, St. Nicholas Catholic School had 100 students enrolled in first through fourth grades.

Currently St. Nicholas Catholic Church has 90 to 100 students enrolled from preschool through fifth grade. Brumley said enrollment is down a little, but it always fluctuates.

And that number may change in the future as Brumley said several parents have expressed interest in adding a sixth grade. Originally the school went up to the eighth grade, but when enrollment declined four years ago, the school eliminated everything above fifth grade.

But Brumley pointed out that, with a smaller school population, comes more one-on-one interaction with students. The largest class in the school is the first grade, with 14 students.

“I have said many times that the greatest vocation in the world is being a school principal,” Remaley said. “It is not only my vocation, but it is also my avocation.”

Wes Remaley, principal at St. Nicholas Catholic School, works in his office on Sept. 10 in Rupert.

Be Strong and Courageous

There are moments in our lives that our confidence fails us. Insecurities well up within us. The past we thought we’d buried comes back to haunt us. It’s a time for us to be strong in our faith, but that strength is somehow elusive. Spiritually speaking, we suffer from a case of weak knees and sweaty palms. Fear trumps faith.

It’s a pivotal moment for Joshua and the people of Israel. They’re poised peeking over the Jordan

Brian Vriesman
Pastor’s Corner

River into the promised land after a forty year time out (one of the longest time outs in recorded history). God speaks to Joshua (Joshua 1) and provides him with the defining moment of his leadership training. In the midst of God’s divine pep talk, He thunders

...“Have I not commanded you? Be strong and courageous. Do not be terrified; do not be discouraged, for the Lord your God will be with you wherever you go.” It’s the third time Joshua hears the call to be “strong and courageous.” If he’s thinking clearly, he must understand that what is about to happen might not be the easiest leadership assignment for a rookie. It doesn’t help that he already knows that those nasty Canaanites appear to be the size of NFL offensive linemen. What’s fascinating in that teachable moment is what God doesn’t say to Joshua. God doesn’t say, “There, there, Joshua. Everything will be fine. Don’t worry about conquering the land of Canaan, you just sit back and relax. You won’t have any challenges, any pain, any adversity, any setbacks.” No. God reveals to Joshua what God proclaims to every one of us in the midst of our adversity or obstacles. “Be strong! Be courageous!” Not because it will be easy. Not because there won’t be pain. But because (and here’s the key) “God will be with you wherever you go.”

A significant dimension of the good news of Jesus is that God (Father, Son, Holy Spirit) is with us wherever we go and even wherever we can’t go! Our life, health, family, personal finances, or all those other sources of potential concern may not be stellar, but one of the great historical and transcendent truths of God's nature is that from the very beginning of time, He has promised to be with us. God has promised that He will see us through. It may not be easy. Maybe that's the point. It's His invitation to faith. Hopefully, that's enough for us to hold on to, even if it means for a time that we practice “white knuckle” faith.

If you're struggling these days with the stuff that saps your faith, remember God's challenge to a fledgling leader poised for the biggest challenge of his life...“Be strong, be courageous! God will be with you wherever you go.”

He always has. He always will be.

Pope Blasts Abortion after Decrying Focus on Rules

VATICAN CITY (AP) • Pope Francis offered an olive branch of sorts to the doctrine-minded, conservative wing of the Catholic Church on Friday as he denounced abortions as a symptom of today's “throw-away culture” and encouraged Catholic doctors to refuse to perform them.

Francis issued a strong anti-abortion message and cited Vatican teaching on the need to defend the unborn during an audience with Catholic gynecologists.

It came a day after he was quoted as blasting the church's obsession with “small-minded rules” that are driving the faithful away. In an interview that has sent shockwaves through the church, Francis urged its pastors to focus on being merciful and welcoming rather than insisting only on such divisive, hot-button issues as abortion, gay marriage and contraception.

Even before the interview was published, some conservatives had voiced disappointment that Francis had shied away from restating such church rules. Francis explained his reason for doing so in the interview with the Jesuit journal La Civiltà Cattolica, saying church teaching on such issues is well-known, he supports it, but that he doesn't feel it necessary to repeat it constantly.

He did repeat it on Friday, however. In his comments, Francis denounced today's “throw-away culture” that justifies disposing of lives, and said doctors in particular had been forced into situations where they are called to “not respect life.”

“Every child that isn't born, but is unjustly condemned to be aborted, has the face of Jesus Christ, has the face of the Lord,” he said.

He urged the gynecologists to abide by their consciences and help bring lives into the world. “Things have a price and can be for sale, but people have a dignity that is priceless and worth far more than things,” he said.

Francis' comments to Civiltà Cattolica contained no change in church teaching, but they represented a radical shift in tone and stood in stark contrast to the priorities of his two immediate predecessors.

John Paul II and Benedict XVI were both intellectuals for whom doctrine was paramount, an orientation that guided the selection of a generation of bishops and cardinals who, in countries like the United States, have put themselves on the front lines in opposing abortion and gay marriage.

Medal of Honor Recipients Meet in Gettysburg, PA

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) • The autograph hounds waiting expectantly in a hotel lobby weren’t drawn by actors, musicians or politicians, but by a few dozen men whose rare and distinguished achievements have earned them the nation’s highest military honor.

Nearly half of the 79 living recipients of Medal of Honor are attending the gathering in Gettysburg, where some of its first recipients fought 150 years ago.

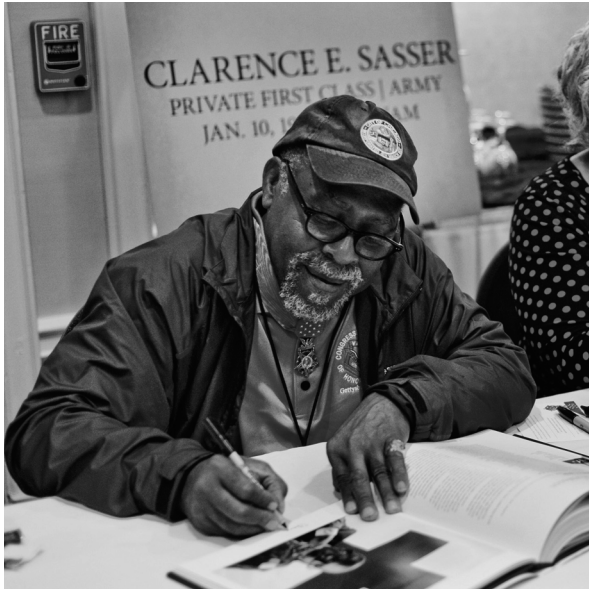

The Medal of Honor Society annual convention gives the public an opportunity to collect the signatures of the men who have been honored by Congress for risking their lives beyond the call of duty in combat, and dozens of people waited Thursday for them to return from a luncheon at a nearby farm once owned by President Dwight Eisenhower.

Dave Loether, 62, a computer analyst from Pittsburgh, was hoping to add to the 55 signatures of Medal of Honor recipients he has collected on a U.S. Army flag. Loether knows many of their faces by sight — and their stories by heart.

“It’s a piece of cloth with some ink on it — it’s worthless,” Loether said. “On the other hand, it’s priceless.”

The recipients’ autographs sometimes end up on public auction sites, but Loether said he collects them as a hobby that began as a way to honor his sons in the military.

Recipients sat at tables ringing a hotel ballroom, including Clinton L. Romesha of Minot, N.D. President Barack Obama presented him with the honor in February for bravery in defending an Army outpost in Afghanistan four years ago.

Swiss Set to Preserve Militia Army for Now

BY PATRICK WINTERS & JAMES KRAUS

Bloomberg News

ZURICH • Switzerland’s 165-year-old draft is set to withstand a third abolition attempt in two decades as voters in a Sunday referendum are seen backing a military tradition that has shaped generations of business executives.

Sixty-three percent of voters are ready to reject an initiative on Sept. 22 that would replace the current universal militia service with volunteers, while 31 percent are in favor, the latest survey by gfs.bern conducted for SRG SSR showed. While challengers are seeking to cut an annual tax bill of about $5.1 billion for troops, opponents have argued it would leave the nation of 8 million at risk.

“The armed forces are like a fire brigade,” said Philippe Hertig, an executive-search consultant at Egon Zehnder in Zurich, who has risen to the rank of captain in the Swiss air force during a career spanning almost three decades. “You never know if it will be used but without it, you don’t feel se-

Swiss voters rejected attempts to abolish draft laws in 1989 and 2001. While the government plans to cut troops by 80,000 to about 100,000, those in favor of the initiative have argued the trimmed-down army would still cost an annual 4 billion francs in lost work days.

Some 6 percent of voters were undecided whether to back the initiative, according to the gfs.bern survey conducted Aug. 30 to Sept. 7 among 1,406 people. The margin of error was about 2.7 percentage points. The share of Swiss opposed to the proposal increased 6 percentage points from an August survey. Swiss voters are able to force a nationwide vote by collecting 100,000 signatures within 18 months.

Service in the army, known for iconic pocketknives and Papal guards, is compulsory for physically fit men from age 19. They must complete 300 days, or opt for civilian community service on ethical grounds, which lasts about 150 days longer. Women are able to join the armed forces on a voluntary basis.

Religious Tension Mounts in Holy City

High above Nazareth, an Israeli mayor wants to keep his city Jewish ‘now and forever.’

BY WILLIAM BOOTH & RUTH EGLASH

The Washington Post

NAZARETH ILLIT, Israel • This hill-top city has placid parks, broad avenues, low crime, a fancy mall and trash collection three times a week all very nice and neat, and by design, slightly dull.

But not these days.

Over the past few years, well-to-do Arab Israelis, both Muslim and Christian, drove their minivans 10 minutes up the hill from the ancient, overcrowded nearly all-Arab city of Nazareth and snapped up some sweet but pricey five-bedroom, four-bath houses.

Many of the homes are worth a half-million dollars or more, and Arab citizens of Israel now count for 18 percent of the 50,000 residents in “Upper Nazareth,” as it is translated in English.

They are welcome here, says the mayor, as long as they remember one very important rule.

“This is a Jewish city,” said Shimon Gafsou of his adopted home town, “now and forever.”

To be more specific: “I would rather cut off my right arm than build an Arab school,” the mayor said in an interview on his terrace at city hall.

Ditto mosques. “No, no, no. No mosques, ever,” said Gafsou. Nor churches. Or Ramadan lanterns or manger scenes. “And no Christmas trees,” said the mayor of a town that abuts the largest Arab city in Israel, celebrated as the childhood home of Jesus.

“Everyone can live here, that is the law, as long as they understand this is a Jewish city,” Gafsou said. “And in that way we are a microcosm of the state of Israel.”

He said that “95 percent of Jewish mayors think the same thing. They’re just afraid to say so out loud.”

The situation here in Nazareth Illit may be a bit stark, even a little cartoonish, according to some critics of the colorful mayor, who is up for reelection next month. He has been temporarily sidelined from office after he was indicted Tuesday by the Israeli courts for allegedly accepting bribes, a charge he denies and says is politically motivated.

Muslim Mayor of Nazareth Ibrahim Fahum, center wearing a fez, is seated among Jewish field officers as he signs the surrender terms of the biblical town of Nazareth, July 17, 1948.

No matter, because he still appears to be the front-runner. And his town does reflect a central tension in Israeli society. In the current round of peace talks brokered by U.S. Secretary of State John F. Kerry, one of Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu’s demands is that Palestinians not only accept Israel’s right to exist, but also recognize Israel as a Jewish state.

The parallel challenge is determining what Israel should do for the 21 percent of its citizens who are Arab, and what the Arab Israelis should do for Israel.

Arabs comprise large minorities in Jerusalem and in the southern Negev desert. Here in the northern district, not including the coastal metropolis of Haifa, there are more Arabs than Jews.

Israel guarantees its Arab citizens full and equal rights. But report after report documents the fact that spending for Arab citizens is lower, on average, in education, housing, business development and other areas.

Nazareth Illit is a classic Israeli “development,” or new town, built with government support starting in the 1950s as a home for Jews on expropriated lands, according to historians.

But now, as elderly Jews die and young Jews move to Tel Aviv and its environs, the annual growth of the Jewish population in northern Israel has slowed to just 3 percent, according to the government’s 2010 census reports. At the same time, the Arab Israeli population was climbing 11 percent annually in the north.

“We call a place like this an ‘invisible city,’ a kind of city within a city, here but not really seen, not recognized,” said Kamli Tayoon, a project coordinator for Shatil, a group funded by the U.S.-based New Israel Fund that promotes social justice and equality campaigns.

Tayoon said the group surveyed a sampling of the 9,000 Arab Israeli residents of Nazareth Illit and found the focus of their desire was a government-funded Arab Israeli school. There are hundreds of such schools in Israel. They teach the Israeli curriculum, including Hebrew and Israeli history, but in the students’ mother tongue of Arabic. “There’s an elementary school down the block, a two-minute walk, and a high school, five minutes away, but they are Jewish schools,” said Sawsan Qudsi-Hamed, a teacher and mother of three, who is an Arab Israeli.

So she drives her kids to Nazareth to go to school.

Qudsi-Hamed has lived in Nazareth Illit for 20 years. She’s happy here, she says. “Maybe for Jews this neighborhood is a step down, but for Arabs, it is paradise,” she said.

Terrorist Attack Points to al-Qaida Surge in Yemen

Al-Qaida militants, disguised in military uniforms, launch multiple car bombings, killing 38 soldiers and police.

SANAA, Yemen (AP) • Under a heavy fog, al-Qaida militants disguised in military uniforms launched car bomb attacks on three different security and military posts in southern Yemen Friday, killing 38 soldiers in the group's biggest attack in the country since last year.

The coordinated attacks point to how al-Qaida is exploiting the continued weakness of Yemen's military to rally back here at a time when the group's branches across the region grow more assertive. More than two years after U.S. raid that killed Osama bin Laden, factions of the group he led are taking advantage of turmoil in multiple Arab nations to expand their presence and influence.

In Syria, foreign jihadists linked to or inspired by al-Qaida have become such a powerful force in the rebellion that the Syrian opposition on Friday accused them of being opportunists hijacking the uprising against President Bashar Assad. After the coup in Egypt toppled the Islamist president, al-Qaida leaders have called on sympathizers to join militants' fight there against the military. Iraq's al-Qaida branch has stepped up attacks in that country and extended operations into neighboring Syria.

Last month, the U.S. temporarily closed 19 diplomatic missions across the Middle East and North Africa after intelligence agencies intercepted a message between al-Qaida leader Ayman al-Zawahiri and Nasser al-Wahishi, also a one-time confidant of bin Laden who leads the Yemen branch, known as al-Qaida in the Arabian Peninsula.

"I think there's been a promiscuous rush to write al-Qaida's obituary, and it's always been presumptuous. It's certainly had setbacks ... but its resilience has always been more formidable than we imagine," said Bruce Hoffman, director of the Center for Security Studies at Georgetown University.

Experts in extremist networks see no clear evidence of coordination between groups under the al-Qaida banner. But gains by one serve as powerful encouragement and recruiting tools for others.

"What matters perhaps more is how they may draw inspiration from each other," said Theodore Karasik, a security and political affairs analyst at the Dubai-based Institute for Near East and Gulf Military Analysis.

Structures lay in ruins at the site of a landslide in the village of La Pintada, Mexico, Thursday.

Mexico Looks for Landslide Victims

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) • Mexican soldiers dug through tons of mud and dirt Friday in their continuing search for landslide victims, as authorities looked for a federal police helicopter that went missing while carrying out relief operations on the flood-stricken Pacific coast.

The helicopter with three crew members on board was returning from the remote mountain village of La Pintada, where the mudslide occurred, when it went missing Thursday. There is still no sign of it, said Interior Secretary Miguel Angel Osorio Chong.

"They risked their lives all the time," Osorio Chong said. "We are truly worried." Search efforts continued in the town north of Acapulco, where 68 people were reported missing following Monday's slide. Two bodies have been recovered, but it was unclear if they were among those on the list of missing.

Federal police have been helping move emergency supplies and aid victims of massive flooding caused by Tropical Storm Manuel, which washed out bridges and collapsed highways throughout the area, cutting Acapulco off by land and stranding thousands of tourists.

BUDGET BATTLE

Simpson Votes, Smith Attacks

BY JON ALEXANDER
jalexander@magicvalley.com

WASHINGTON, D.C. • U.S. Rep. Mike Simpson, R-Idaho, joined fellow congressional Republicans Friday in voting for a federal budget that would defund the Affordable Care Act.

The eight-term lawmaker's vote was met with allegations from his conservative challenger that he succumbed to campaign pressure.

Tea party Republican Bryan Smith has blasted Simpson for weeks since Simpson refused to join the rest of Idaho's congressional delegation and pledge to only vote for a budget bill that axed Obamacare.

Simpson never was torn on the controversial Continuing Resolution passed Friday by a 230-189 party-line vote, said his spokeswoman, Nikki Watts. He wouldn't sign the GOP pledge because he didn't want to commit to a vote that would lead to a federal government shutdown, she said.

"He's been saying the entire time that he does not want a government shutdown," Watts said. "This bill keeps government funded."

But Smith's camp deemed Simpson's vote a flip-flop, driven by pressure from the conservative right.

Simpson's vote to "do the right thing" only followed "immense pressure from the people of the 2nd Congressional District," said Smith's campaign manager, Carrie Brown.

"We deserve a courageous conservative like Bryan Smith," Brown said, calling Smith someone who will lead the charge against big government.

Smith said in a letter to the Times-News this week that Simpson's previous 40 votes to defund or reshape Obamacare were hollow because the GOP-run House couldn't force the issue on the Democratic Senate.

Watts countered that

there's a lot more to the budget package than the ACA.

"I think some people are trying to make this all about defunding Obamacare," she said.

Conservatives see the ongoing budget battle, with the threat of a shutdown if a deal isn't reached by Sept. 30, as the best chance to kill the White House's 2010 health care reform bill.

The $986 billion stopgap funding plan averts an immediate government shutdown, which could see thousands of federal employees furloughed.

But it also sets up a standoff with the Senate, especially since the House budget would scuttle Obamacare on the eve of the implementation of its most substantial pieces.

Smith's campaign is working to brand Simpson a false conservative, while lauding U.S. Rep. Raul Labrador, R-Idaho, as a true conservative.

GOP House: Keep Government Open, Hit 'Obamacare'

Charting a collision course with the White House, the Republican-controlled House approved legislation Friday to wipe out the 3-year-old health care law that President Barack Obama has vowed to preserve — and simultaneously prevent a partial government shutdown that neither party claims to want.

"The American people

don't want the government shut down, and they don't want "Obamacare," Speaker John Boehner said as members of his rank and file cheered at a celebratory rally in the Capitol moments after the 230-189 vote. He stood at a lectern bearing a slogan that read, "(hash)Senate must act."

Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid said it will — but not the way Boehner and his tea party-heavy Republican contingent want. Assured of enough Senate votes to keep the government open and the health care law in existence, the Nevada Democrat accused Republicans of attempting "to take an entire law hostage simply to appease the tea party anarchists."

Behind the rhetoric lay the likelihood of another in a series of complex, inside-the-Beltway brinkmanship episodes as conservative House Republicans and Obama struggle to imprint widely differing views on the U.S. government.

In addition to the threat of a partial shutdown a week from Monday, administration officials say that without passage of legislation to allow more federal borrowing, the nation faces the risk of a first-ever default sometime in the second half of next month.

House Republicans intend to vote to raise the nation's debt limit next week to prevent that from happening. But they have said they will include a one-year delay in Obamacare in the measure to reinforce their determination to eradicate the program.

The same bill will include provisions to reduce deficits and stay the administration's environmental agenda as the GOP seeks gains for its own priorities. Raising the cost of Medicare for financially better-off beneficiaries is one likely provision to be added, according to numerous officials. So, too, is a ban on federal regulations on greenhouse gas emissions.

Obama, who has said repeatedly he will not negotiate over debt limit legislation, called Boehner late in the day to tell him that directly. The speaker expressed disappointment, his office said, and responded that Congress "will chart the path ahead." The White House said Obama also called House Democratic leader Nancy Pelosi.

COLORADO RACES TO FIX ROADS BEFORE WINTER

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) • With snow already dusting Colorado's highest peaks, the state is racing to replace key mountain highways washed away by flooding, in some cases laying down crude, one-lane gravel roads just to throw a lifeline to isolated towns before winter descends.

More than 200 miles of state highways and at least 50 bridges were damaged or destroyed across this rugged region, plus many more county roads. Fully rebuilding all of them is sure to take years. But for now, the work has to be fast, even if that means cutting corners. In the Rockies, the cold weather comes earlier, stays longer and brings with it countless dangers. The first storms could hit as soon as next month.

Railroad tracks are undercut by flooding in Longmont, Colo., Thursday.

IF SEPTEMBER 21 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: During October and November you're at your best when immersed in career-building activities, business ideas or financial maneuvering. Your peer group could be an important factor in your success, so accept every opportunity to join clubs or organizations that might help you along the way. Your take-charge attitude and ability to take on a leadership position will be obvious to those in charge. Between December and February you may be inspired to take that long-awaited vacation or may fantasize about a romantic partner. In May or June, your romantic dreams may come true, or career aspirations can be achieved.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Rise to the challenge. Don't cower in the face of adversity, as this is your time to shine. Be mindful of the feelings of friends or loved ones in your quest to get the job done, since they may not understand your blunt approach.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Too many cooks spoil the broth. They may mean well, but everyone trying to put in their two cents regarding a problem will simply result in everyone pulling in separate directions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Let it be. You'll only make a tense situation worse if you keep bringing it to everyone's attention. Just concentrate on something else for a day or two and the problem will take care of itself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Don't jump to conclusions. The imagination can make the most innocent situation seem like an insidious plot if you keep dwelling on it. Don't let a breakdown in communication leave you thinking the worst.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Make sure that the only toes you're standing on are your own. In your fervor to get a current project rolling, you may inadvertently stifle someone else's progress. Touch base; be certain everyone is on the same page.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Don't make excuses. You'll only end up looking worse if you don't own up to your mistakes. Others will respect you far more if you accept responsibility than if you try to pass the blame along.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Let someone else do the driving. Recharge your proverbial batteries this weekend by taking it easy and following someone else's lead. Meeting new people could broaden your horizons.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Walk the line between dedication and obsession. It's admirable to be passionate about a project, but not to the point where you neglect all else. Make sure to set aside some time for loved ones today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): There's no substitute for good taste. Use your ability to recognize quality when making purchases or meeting people. Follow your intuition when making decisions and you'll be satisfied with the results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Challenges makes the heart beat faster. A little feistiness will draw the opposite sex to you like a moth to a flame. Making permanent improvements to yourself or your home will yield pleasing results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Some people see only what they want to see. A loved one may not recognize the truth even when it's right in front of them. Use tact and compassion to guide them along the proper path.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Bury the hatchet. Put the past behind you and move toward a bright new future. Don't fret over mistakes, as you'll ultimately benefit from the experiences. Save important decisions for next week.

Do-It-Yourself Ideas

A-Frame Cabin

The whole family can enjoy a vacation hideaway, and an A-frame cabin offers the features most often desired in a second home: economy, strength, openness, ample sleeping space, out-of-the-way storage and spacious decks. The simplicity of the A-frame also makes it fairly easy and inexpensive to build.

This do-it-yourself A-frame cabin has 700 square feet of living space, including a compact kitchen, bathroom, living room, bedroom and deck on the first floor and two bedrooms and a balcony on the second. A central fireplace warms both floors.

A-Frame Cabin plan (No. 381) . . . $9.95
Cabins Package (No. C81)
Three projects incl. 381 . . . $22.95

Buy and Sell Used Pianos
208-736-0201

Today is Saturday, Sept. 21, the 264th day of 2013. There are 101 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On Sept. 21, 1912, magician Harry Houdini first publicly performed his so-called Chinese Water Torture Cell trick at the Circus Busch in Berlin, escaping after being immersed upside-down in a vertical water tank, his ankles secured in a set of stocks which made up the tank lid, which was locked into place.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1792, the French National Convention voted to abolish the monarchy.

In 1893, one of America's first horseless carriages was taken for a short test drive in Springfield, Mass., by Frank Duryea, who had designed the vehicle with his brother, Charles.

In 1897, the New York Sun ran its famous editorial, written anonymously by Francis P. Church, which declared, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus."

In 1912, legendary cartoon animator Chuck Jones was born in Spokane, Wash.

In 1937, "The Hobbit," by J.R.R. Tolkien, was first published by George Allen & Unwin Ltd. of London.

In 1938, a hurricane struck parts of New York and New England, causing widespread damage and claiming some 700 lives.

In 1948, Milton Berle made his debut as permanent host of "The Texaco Star Theater" on NBC-TV.

In 1962, "The Jack Paar Program," a weekly, prime-time show that followed Paar's stint on "The Tonight Show," began a three-year run.

In 1970, "NFL Monday Night Football" made its debut on ABC-TV as the Cleveland Browns defeated the visiting New York Jets, 31-21.

In 1982, Amin Gemayel, brother of Lebanon's assassinated president-elect, Bashir Gemayel, was himself elected president. National Football League players began a 57-day strike, their first regular-season walkout.

In 1987, NFL players called a strike, mainly over the issue of free agency. (The 24-day walkout prompted football owners to hire replacement players.)

In 1989, Hurricane Hugo crashed into Charleston, S.C. (the storm was blamed for 26 directly caused U.S. deaths). Twenty-one students in Alton, Texas, died when their school bus, involved in a collision with a soft-drink delivery truck, careened into a water-filled pit.

Ten years ago: Former Citigroup CEO John S. Reed was named temporary head of the New York Stock Exchange. Paul Martin was elected by Canada's Liberal Party to succeed Jean Chretien as prime minister. NASA's aging Galileo spacecraft deliberately plunged into Jupiter's turbulent atmosphere, bringing a fiery conclusion to a 14-year exploration of the solar system's largest planet and its moons.

Five years ago: South African President Thabo Mbeki announced his resignation. "Mad Men" became the first basic-cable show to win the top series Emmy; "30 Rock" and its stars Tina Fey and Alec Baldwin won comedy awards. The United States took back the Ryder Cup with a 16 1/2-11 1/2 victory over Europe. Baseball said farewell to the original Yankee Stadium as the Bronx Bombers defeated the Baltimore Orioles 7-3.

One year ago: No one was injured when a plane carrying Ann Romney made an emergency landing in Denver after smoke filled the cabin. The wife of the Republican presidential nominee Mitt Romney was traveling from Omaha, Neb., to Los Angeles, when an apparent electrical fire broke out. A man was bitten multiple times after leaping from a monorail into a tiger exhibit at the Bronx Zoo. People lined up to buy Apple's iPhone5 as it went on sale in the United States and several other countries.

THAT SCRAMBLED WORD GAME
by David L. Hoyt and Jeff Knurek

Well, that's not good.
But I'm sure we'll still open on time.

I'm sorry, but my crew went on strike.

CONSTRUCTION ON THE
NEW GYM WASN'T GOING
WELL, BUT EVERYTHING WOULD

Now arrange the circled letters to form the surprise answer, as suggested by the above cartoon.
