Kerch Peninsula Battle Rages as Nazis Claim Win

LONDON, May 13 (UPI)—A British military commentator said today that the battle on the Kerch peninsula was still raging, as Hitler's headquarters that the battle had been decided and that the Russians overrun, encircled and annihilated.

The first Russian communiqué to date did not mention fighting in the Crimea, but it was believed to continue in full fury, and earlier dispatches had said that the Germans had lost 1,500 men, 1,500 German tanks and while smashing scores of tanks and dive bombers.

The German communiqué claimed that 400 Russians had been taken prisoner, that the Germans were "purifying the beaten Russians toward Kerch," and that the Germans had lost 1,500 men, the Russians had lost 197 tanks, 398 guns and 260 planes.

There was nothing from any reliable source to substantiate Hitler's communiqué. Front line reports said, on the contrary, that the Germans had gained almost nothing since they began the attack last Friday.

The British commentator said the attack had been "surprisingly silent" since the offensive that Hitler had promised so long, but so far, the battle was purely a local operation.

There was no sign of a counter-attack and there is no evidence present to make us believe that a main attack has started on the Kerch peninsula.

He added that the British "had no details" of reports that the Germans were using a new "nerve gas."

"We understand that the Germans are equipped with new respirators but we don't consider that point to be very important, but may be progress in gas masks and we attached no particular significance to it," he said.

The German radio boasted about an "entirely new weapon" that was "the most interesting feature of the fight on the Kerch peninsula."

British correspondents in Stockholm newspapers said it was a "non-poisonous gas" or a device that threw men into liquid with air bubbles, which the Germans were using in the Crimea.

The general opinion was that "nerve gas" and liquid bombs were used, but the British ministry was unable to find the anti-air propaganda Minister Josef Goebbels had manufactured in the past before German adventures.

Pope Warns World Chiefs of Future

VATICAN CITY, May 13 (Vatican broadcast recorded by U. P. at New York)—Pope Pius called upon the rulers of the world to work for the conservation of the family in peaceful existence and warned them that the future of the world will be based on it.

He said he did not intend to make a specific peace offer since it was not likely to be accepted under the present circumstances, but he urged the leaders of nations to conclude a peace based on justice even if this did not satisfy all of their ambitions.

I made peace offers in the early stages of the war, but without positive results, and such offers may even cause grievances and dissatisfaction in some countries," the Pope said.

The Yenangyaung power plant, completely destroyed by the British before they refired, produced power for the production of 10 percent of Burma's oil. The machinery is irreplaceable in war time. Balloting Nears on New Tax Proposals

By DONALD A. YOUNG

WASHINGTON, May 13 (UPI)—Anxious to reach conclusions on new individual income taxes, the house ways and means committee excluded its own and treasury experts from its session for the first time today as votes appeared imminent on personal exemptions and normal and surtax rates.

Chairman Doughton, D. N. C., said the statisticians had been excused indefinitely from the closed meetings and another member said, "They may be welcome now but I don't know if we can make up our own minds."

The members said that the decisions they make on a question of a sales tax would depend largely on which of these individual tax proposals presented by the experts, if any, chose to accept.

Seventy other members narrowly escaped death in the balloting.

At 10 a.m. in an area near the blast scene, they managed to flee and only 25 were made fit by the fumes.

Late Cars Save 110

T. E. Griffith, U. S. bureau of investigation, said 110 cars were saved from the explosion because the drivers had been warned that the explosion was imminent.

Hundreds of spectators, including gripped-stricken relatives of the embittered men and state university students, who had gathered around the pit mouth, a company of the newly-organized West Virginia state guard patrolled the area.

The general opinion was that "nerve gas" and liquid bombs were used, but the anti-air propaganda Minister Josef Goebbels had manufactured in the past before German adventures.

PROOF

WATERS, Kan., May 13 (UPI)—Don Pratt, manager of the Haynes car repair shop, made 13 "unsuccessful attempts to drill a well under the building," he said.

Then Sam Groft, a retired farmer, came forward with a forked stick. After a brief bit of haggling, he agreed to let Pratt begin digging in his barn.

Skeptically, Pratt drilled at the spot. He found an ample supply of water.

LETS AVOID THE CONFUSION

Knowing that we always have a certain percentage of egoists who like to demonstrate their authority, particularly in public office, there probably is some basis for the statement recently made by a United States senator who said "certain bureaucrats are trying to push people around."

It cannot be disputed that our present emergency affords those in authority an ideal opportunity to sound off and talk big, if they are so inclined, because they know that the can accuse anyone of being unpatriotic who dares to talk back.

Whether we're right or wrong, however, we all have our own ideas when some blow-hard cuts loose with a long harangue on subjects of such weighty magnitude as casket handles, or the length of women's nipples.

It's had enough when some bureaucrat comes out with a definite statement of warning that sends chills up and down the people's spines. But it's inexcusable when some other bureaucrat immediately follows with a contradiction apparently designed to attract public attention that will satiate his personal ego.

If such goings-on could be dismissed as amounting to nothing more than some sort of bureaucratic horseplay, it would be a different story. But unfortunately, these contradictory outbursts merely serve to confuse the people who are sincerely desirous of getting facts so they may do their part and make their plans accordingly.

The people cannot be blamed for being slow to respond to governmental regulations that are designed to facilitate our war effort, when the bureaucrats themselves cannot agree on what should be done.

Fortunately, our war program seems to be progressing satisfactorily, most respects, but that does not excuse the repeated inconsistencies that continue to keep the American people in a fog.

Once the government adopts a policy of giving out only reliable and consistent information upon which the people can depend, the American public will contribute immeasurably to the further success of our combined war effort.

GET YOUR COAL NOW

With transportation becoming an increasingly difficult problem as a result of war production requirements, there is one warning the public should not overlook. It concerns your next winter's coal supply.

The Office of Defense Transportation is taking drastic steps to facilitate the movement of war materials and military personnel, and its suggestions should not go unnoticed as regards the shipments of supplies for civilian use.

Anybody boarding a train today knows what to expect. Every seat is filled and in some instances passengers prefer to stand rather than wait for a later train, leaving space on freight trains for surplus equipment.

At the end of September, O. D. T. statisticians figure, even war plants may be unable to secure all the fuel they need to keep their chimneys smoking 24 hours a day. The approaching transportation bottleneck is why officials are urging citizens to buy their coal now because, by fall, it may be far down on the priority list.

This is a real and not an imaginary prospect, so prepare yourself accordingly.

ON GOD'S SIDE

Carl Byoir, who was our second man during the first World War in the production of American propaganda, caught something that slipped by most of us in a simple remark made by Joe Louis when the Negro champion explained how he knew this country would win World War II.

"We are going to win because we are on God's side," said the fighter. And the psychology behind that form of expression, Byoir points out in a poem in the current issue of Collier's magazine, is the essential difference between fascism and democracy.

"We are going to win," says Hitler, "because God is on our side." To which Joe Louis, who isn't so inarticulate as one might expect, retorts simply that America will win "because we are on God's side."

OBLIGATION TO HITLER

It is, as the French used to say, to laugh. Here comes Pierre Laval, lecturing Americans about the honor of the French government which he heads, and about the obligations imposed in respect to that honor.

Of course what Pierre means is his government's pride. It has no honor, so long as he remains premier. And the obligations which he lays down are not to his government's honor, or even to his private duty, they are obligations to his Führer, who forced him to tell the French people to do a job for Hitler's benefit.

A success doesn't spend all he makes and a failure doesn't make all he spends.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

BAD—The American people face a front-porch summer as a result of a modified military plan for raffling gasoline and requisitioning tires and automobiles. A similar curtailment of passenger travel on railroads, buses and even trolleys will contribute to the economic and social and economic welfare of the United States.

War Under Secretary Patterson, who heads the supply establishment, refused to admit that the new plan will affect the use of private motors. He simply warns us to give up our "foolish driving habits" in order to conserve the limited tonnage available for use around the countryside beneath pleasure care. When he is reminded of the shortage of rubber, he admits that production is falling, but gives detailed questioning on the even more drastic scheme. But he cannot conceal the fact that many revenue needs for the defense of ships, tanks and planes have revolved upward the requirements for metals, clauses and engine parts obtained in sufficient volume only from family vehicles.

It is almost impossible to conceive the prospective revolution in our normal living habits. All out-of-town picnics, country fairs, community picnics, etc.—must be abandoned. There will be no week-end trips to shore mountains or even to a distant country club. Roadside stands, amusement parks, restaurants, night clubs, bars, etc., under a motorized economy must fold up, throwing millions on work. Even a crossroad spin to join friends for an evening of bridge will impose too great a strain on the nation's resources. Any other forms of transportation for movement of troops, raw materials and finished weapons will close those avenues of travel. Only reason the full significance of the situation is not more emphasized is the desire to break the bad news gradually.

HILL JOYS—More fundamental considerations lie behind the tire and gas restrictions than a mere desire to preserve those products for military use. With the prospect of a long and hard war ahead, Washington officials have taken a leaf from the dictator's book of knowledge. They are saving the expenditure of physical and human resources which the famous billion-dollar American week-end has stimulated in the past. They intend to make us tough and alert.

Sundays in peace-time have been transformed by many into Saturday afternoons of fun-making and pleasure for the whole family. The result is a drain on their meat. Tons of sugar are consumed in soft drinks, liquor, candy, cakes, etc. Vast quantities of meats and butter are needed to satisfy the appetites of the masses. The result is a drain on the appetites of people who can contribute more effectively in factories or farms now as workers, soda jerkers, park attendants, concessionaires assistants.

It's had enough when some bureaucrat comes out with a definite statement of warning that sends chills up and down the people's spines. But it's inexcusable when some other bureaucrat immediately follows with a contradiction apparently designed to attract public attention that will satiate his personal ego.

If such goings-on could be dismissed as amounting to nothing more than some sort of bureaucratic horseplay, it would be a different story. But unfortunately, these contradictory outbursts merely serve to confuse the people who are sincerely desirous of getting facts so they may do their part and make their plans accordingly.

The people cannot be blamed for being slow to respond to governmental regulations that are designed to facilitate our war effort, when the bureaucrats themselves cannot agree on what should be done.

Fortunately, our war program seems to be progressing satisfactorily, most respects, but that does not excuse the repeated inconsistencies that continue to keep the American people in a fog.

Once the government adopts a policy of giving out only reliable and consistent information upon which the people can depend, the American public will contribute immeasurably to the further success of our combined war effort.

Indeed, we can also report that Cora was spelled aboard a tandem bicycle, with the other rider dealing the steering and balancing.

OKAY, WE SURRENDER

Eight constituents stopped on the street, one telephone to us and three ways to get to the office, and we were still in the same thing. So we capitulate. We use the Famous Last Line they suggest. It's at the bottom of today's column.

MOSCOW, May 13—Sicca Delta, Upper Volga, Soviet Union, recently elected to the Soviet Central Committee, was here yesterday. Dick Wether Wether Wether, Pendleton, Ore. Other officers elected were Bob Wether Wether, Vice President; Bob Wether, Vice Chairman; and Bob Wether, publicity chairman.

Wether is the only member of the organization who will not be graduated this June.

JAYCEES PLAN ON SERVICE ROSTER

Plans for a "fitting memorial" honoring Jaycees who entered the armed services had been inaugurated today by the Twin Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The memorial, which will probably take the form of an impressive roster to be displayed in the hall, will be placed in the Jaycee war service committee and that group's proposal will be submitted to the membership action committee according to action taken at the Jaycee dinner last night in the Park hotel.

Honor Workers too

The plan, proposed by Loyd J. Ferguson, discussion indicated that members also favor some type of listing for Jaycees who enter vital war industries, such as aircraft and forces, although the soldiers and sailors would be the primary group honored under the suggestion.

During the meeting last night was largely devoted to comprehensive reports from the state convention at Boise. Those reporting were Marvin L. Hough, W. W. Whitman, John Young, Mr. Perry, Charles Berger and Charles Allen.

Several said that Jaycees were advised to remain in the Twin Falls area to cause "dislocation" of national economy and communities should concentrate rather on conservation efforts than on war work.

Wheemar emphasized that Jaycees were asked to remain in the area.

Several said that Jaycees were advised to remain in the Twin Falls area to cause "dislocation" of national economy and communities should concentrate rather on conservation efforts than on war work.

Wheemar indicated that the government's war measures for civilians are aimed at forcing every civilian to "get to work" in order to make us as safe as possible in order to be ready for the post-war period.

Others discussed the public's reaction to the new state convention to Twin Falls; Allen outlined the message of Dr. Adam Bennett, the convention banquet.

Dr. Bennett's speech indicated that the highlight report was that of Mr. Perry, who told the forthrightly patriotic audience that the Jaycees' executive officer for service activities, Adkison asserted that by next year the great majority of Jaycees will be in arms or war service unless they are called up for active duty.

Adkison said that Jaycees will not eliminate service, the general told the local Jaycees.

Other speakers included Dr. Kirt Moser, Twin Falls, former resident of Germany who escaped as a refugee on the day Hitler invaded Poland.

MALTA'S AIR DEFENSE FRUSTRATES NAZI INVASION PLANS

NEW AIR POWER FATAL TO ENEMY

By MARION COLLMAN
Cairo, May 13—Malta's air defense probably have frustrated a German plan to invade that Mediterranean island.

The Germans may have to alter their whole middle eastern strategy as a result, military experts said.

During the last week, Malta, once a small, largely German, have been destroyed or damaged over the island. It was believed Malta could not offer resistance to hold out but might soon be able to engage in offensive operations.

Weeks ago, the Germans had attacked Malta with naval attacks and the air raids reached a new high of ferocity during the week end.

Spelled Invasion

There was strong belief here that the dramatic reinforcement of the island's air force by new Spitfire fighters, which came in from Britain at moment when the Germans were preparing for a long-planned parashutist and sea-borne invasion.

The loss of Malta, however, has been a major blow to Great Britain and the Allies, because it is a Mediterranean outpost from which most damage can be done to the Allies by air. The sea axis shipping between Italy and North Africa and Greece.

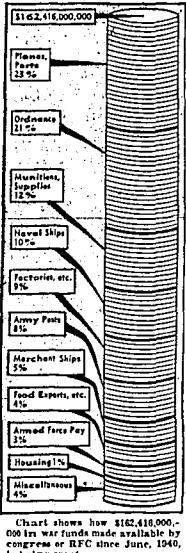

Flight Strength Matched

Now it is apparent that Malta matches the enemy plane for plane for the first time, and the shattering losses inflicted on the German forces in the last few days have cost only a comparative few British planes.

"Malta's stand has been tremendous, encouraging to Egypt. If only because it is proof of Britain's growing air might. Not only is Britain able now to attack Germany in force for the first time, it has been able to strengthen its air force in the middest east."

(London, May 13)—Charyable donations from an unnamed British air base in Libya said that yesterday American made Curtiss P-40D Kittyhawk fighter planes, on patrol, shot down 10 German Ju-88 bombers and two fighters without loss.

Where Billions Go

QUICK THINKING SAVES 10 LIVES

MILES CITY, Mont., May 13 (UPI)—The quick thinking of a pilot and two army men was credited today with saving the lives of 10 Northwest Airlines passengers whose plane crashed in a field while en route to principal airport, bringing down three members of the crew. The passengers suffered only cuts and bruises. The plane, en route from Spokane to Miles City, hit the field and crashed in a 50-foot ravine. Seating disaster, Pilot Eugene L. Shank, 37, of Spokane, one of the crew, doused the gasoline to prevent an explosion.

Although Shank, Lt. George A. Davis, N. C., and Sgt. C. Dennis, Savannah, Ga., passengers in the plane, kicked out windows, ripped open the door and led the passengers to safety.

Those killed were Shank and Pilot Donald Nygren, both of Minneapolis, and Pilot K. R. Martin, Seattle.

Martin had been "dead-head" lining up passengers at the controls until it neared its destination. Then he turned the controls over to Shank.
