British Battle to Reduce Pressure Against Tobruk

AXIS UNITS MOVE AHEAD IN AFRICA

CAIRO, Egypt, June 19 (AP)—Lashing back after withdrawing to strong new positions along the Egyptian frontier, British fighters were harassing the right flank of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's axis armies today in an effort to reduce pressure on Tobruk.

That stronghold apparently was virtually cut off from overland communications by the British withdrawal and the Germans were reported moving up great nine-inch mortars—the largest mobile weapon ever used in the desert—to bring it under fire.

Axis attempt to impede these operations, a British communiqué disclosed, swift mechanized units of Gen. Neil M. Ritchie's army swept out from the border defense line and "retired" in behind Rommel's forces in swift curving attack from the south.

No immediate danger

The communiqué noted that the Tobruk defenders were holding strong positions and the most apparent no immediate danger.

Re-establishment of the imperial forces followed withdrawals, announced yesterday, indicating that axis spearheads already were south of the Egyptian frontier, to the south of the British, have held almost 17 months through offensive and counter-offensives.

Our mobile forces, operating from the south, are continuing enemy forces on the coastal belt," a communiqué said.

A British column in these rocky cañons, it was reported, had shelled enemy troops on the El Adam advance.

Strike in Force

"Our troops in the Tobruk area yesterday destroyed three enemy tanks and damaged four others," the communiqué said, indicating that axis spearheads already were moving in from the port's outer line.

The thunder of heavy gunfire almost constantly along the Egyptian frontiers, it appeared certain that the British were attacking the German-Italian forces.

British Withdrawal

With the main body of the British army withdrawing to new positions near the Egyptian frontier, it appeared certain that the British were attacking the German-Italian forces.

Observers believed that so much of the German leader's striking power would be taken from the war and which may come day "lay on eggs" or eggs on Tokyo.

To keep pace with the two months gun, cities would have to purchase an average of $47,000 in bonds (maturity value) each week during June and July.

Major Alfred E. Kalberer (above) commanded the flight of C. B. D-24 bombers which scored 25 direct bomb hits on two Italian battleships in the Mediterranean raid.

Sale of War Bonds Climbs to $107,880

Residents of Twin Falls county, at close of the second week this month, were just $2,880.15 ahead of their purchase of $2,880.15 in war bonds during the months of June and July.

The Times-News survey shows that sales during the first two weeks of this month amounted to more than one-third the quota for the entire two-month period.

And if that quota of $300,000 for the two months is reached, then this county will have opportunity of selecting a name for one of Uncle Sam's great four-motored bombers which will take part in the war and which may come day "lay on eggs" or eggs on Tokyo.

NEW RULINGS ON SUGAR RATIONING SLATED FOR IDAHO

BOISE, June 19 (AP)—Amendment of sugar rationing regulations to make easier the purchase of sugar supplies by farmers and to facilitate issuance of special sugar permits during the coming season was announced today.

Persons wanting extra sugar for home canning may now obtain certificates by writing rationing boards, said C. C. Anderson, Idaho OPA director.

The new ruling is an amendment to the sugar rationing order which is effective throughout the nation on June 20. By virtue of the ruling, approval for home canning allowances living at considerable distance from local rationing board headquarters, in other words those who, for any reason, find it difficult or impossible to appear personally, may get their extra sugar supplies without undue inconvenience, Anderson explained. The change removed a feature of the new regulation which provides that stamp No. 5 in ration books is good for purchase of two and one-half pounds of sugar—and may be used between July 2, 1942, and July 25, and stamp No. 6 is good for purchase of two pounds of sugar, or four and one-half pounds of sugar, between July 26 and August 31. Under this ruling a ration book holder may purchase his requirements in four weeks at a time instead of in two weeks as formerly. This should also ease the burden of the rationing system for the purchaser and for the food merchant, Anderson pointed out.

MOLANDER AND SWEELLEY FILE

Three more incumbent officers today filed their candidacies for reelection to the primary next August. Among the candidates were Everett M. Sweelley, William Tinkell and John Tinkell, county commissioner of the first district, and E. D. Logan, precinct chairman for the Castleford district.

"I'm offering as a reason for my not seeking reelection my active participation in handling the county's affairs from a legal standpoint," Prosecuting Attorney W. H. Schryber said. "I am not a candidate for anything but the pursuit of my business."

Logan, serving his second term as precinct committee man in the Castleford district, is running on the Democratic ticket. No opposition has been reported for him.

Sweelley is running on the Republican ticket. No opposition has been reported for him.

Tinkell is running on the Democratic ticket. No opposition has been reported for him.

'Tough Tony' Finally Gives Up to Police

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—"No cop ever took me alive!"

That was the boast of a man who sought through this town to surround himself with the dubious honor of a real gangster. "Tough Tony" Teton had the distinction today of being the only man who was not hanged when he was arrested.

For as far as the flabby-tressed, swaggering bandit, he used to be as tough as a Brooklyn hotdog. "Tough Tony" was arrested last night after a search of his place for a sentence on a charge of burglary.

His place was a new Tony Teton, without the "tough" which had made his name. He had a health, but with years' straining down his aching neck—a stinging headache the size of a...

JAPAN REPORTED MASSING MILLION TROOPS IN CHINA

By The Associated Press

High Chinese quarters declared today that Japan had massed nearly 1,000,000 troops in Manchuria and said news indicated that the Japanese planned to strike at Russian Siberia in July.

Neutral observers, however, expressed belief that Japan would not risk taking on a new enemy until Adolf Hitler had started his long-delayed offensive against Russia—and until she was sure that the Japanese push was successful.

Tientsin and Japan issue a five-year neutrality and "friendship" pact, signed April 13, 1941, which so far has been the only pact of friendship between Moscow and Tokyo to each other's delight.

High quarters in Chungking, Chungking, said the Japanese were preparing for a major offensive further thrust into the south sea in favor of strategy affecting territory nearer Japan.

The Japanese want to establish a "security zone" in Manchuria, which would be a buffer against the hour when American war production would be translated into a military offensive against Japan.

With this in mind, it was said, the Japanese want to establish a "security zone" in Manchuria, which would be a buffer against the hour when American war production would be translated into a military offensive against Japan.

British Leader In Capital for Secret Session

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—British prime minister and America's President put their heads together at secret rendezvous today over win-the-war strategy, and an abundance of factors added to a conviction on either side of the Atlantic that they were weighing plans for opening a second battlefront in Europe.

The prime minister, Stephen Leake, said he considered speculation on a second front "perfectly justified."

It was early he announced last night that Winston Churchill, England's pugnacious premier, had received a letter from Secretary of War Henry Stimson, which he considered speculation on a second front "perfectly justified."

THE PEOPLE TO TAX: As the Supreme court's five to four division suggests, there were conflicting issues involved in the question whether communities have the right to tax religious property.

Opelika, Ala., charged a $5 fee from transient book agents. Fort Smith, Ark., voted a peddler's license of $2.50 a day, $10 a week or $25 a month. Casa Grande, Ariz., charged transient merchants $25 quarterly as a license fee.

Jehovah's Witnesses, a minority sect which has been a frequent source of strife throughout the country, distributed religious literature in the area. Citizens in return, the Witnesses were required to pay the peddler's fees. They went to court. Five justices ruled that the fees were constitutional, while four dissented strongly.

The language of the majority opinion, written by Justice Brandeis, is startling in its apparent contravention of the constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech and of religion, which, the analysts holds, are not absolute but subject to abridgement.

We doubt whether Justice Reed and his four associates are standing in its apparent mean. The unfortunate thing is that men so highly placed, presumed to be so meticulous in their selection of words, should have used phrases capable of double meaning.

There can be no question of the localities' right to regulate peddling which impede the general citizenry in its normal activities, to forbid unsanitary and unsightly littering of the streets, to prevent persons of one persuasion from forcing their opinions upon others who do not want to listen.

GAINS—Statistics on corporation profits for the first quarter of the current year disclose that business men will not get rich from war production. It is estimated that the average corporation will show a net gain of only 28 percent over last year.

But all the Supreme court really said was that, so far as the constitution is concerned, religious orders, minority or majority, must be subject to the same general rules or orderly conduct as the rest of the citizenry.

JAPS THROW NEW PLAN AT ALLIES IN SOUTH PACIFIC

FOE RAIDS PORT Moresby Again

MELBOURNE, June 18 (AP)—Japan has thrown reinforcements of new, vastly improved fighters and bomber planes into the allied air forces already outnumbered by the United States army air corps spokesman said today.

The fighters are faster and more maneuverable than the Japanese Zero fighters, they can climb higher, they are armed with two 20-caliber cannon and four light machine guns each. They are most effective in accompanying high altitude bombers or intercepting light-flying allied bomber planes which usually have to operate without fighter protection.

Two-Torpedo Bombers

The new bombers are two-torpedo planes, an improvement on the Japanese 96 model with a top speed of 270 miles. They have defensive cannon and machine guns, high altitude bombers or intercepting light-flying allied bomber planes which usually have to operate without fighter protection.

Eighteen bombers, protected by fighters, again sought to bomb the harbor area. Promptly determining operations by allied fighters kept them off and they succeeded only in damaging one small ship, MacArthur announced today in his communication.

Three Invaders Downed

Two enemy bombers and one fighter were destroyed, and the allies lost two fighters.

The enemy in addition to bombing Darwin, made four more runs on Port Moresby, the great north coast, with such a heavy force that all the raids were made at high level and no dive bombing had been noted.

Captured Japanese planes showed, however, that the enemy was doing poor bomb sights, resembling those the Germans were exporting four years ago.

COLUMBIA POWER GRANT OPPOSED

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—Sharp criticism of legislation to set up a Columbia power authority to take over private utilities in Washington and Oregon today was voiced by Klusey M. Robinson, Spokane president of the Washington Water Power company.

He told a joint congressional committee that the legislation would "take out every private distributor of electricity" in the Pacific northwest "regardless of the will of the people or rate being charged by private company."

Robinson opposed the Smith-Bone bill to empower such a federal authority to acquire private power companies in the two states, and to control their facilities to public bodies for distribution of energy generated at the Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams on the Columbia River.

Condemnation Assailed—Robinson said that a federal condemnation provision in the bill would, he explained, a public power agency could take over a piece of private property by filing a declaration of intent in federal court and depositing the necessary funds to cover an appraised value of the property.

"Under the proposal of the administrator would only have to decide that he wanted a particular electric plant and deposit the necessary funds to cover an appraised value of the property," he said.

Robinson said that while the measures mentioned only the state of Washington and Oregon, he was not sure whether it could not be applied to other states, pointing out his company's interest in Idaho.

Replying to a contention that unification of private companies with public power was necessary in the interest of prosecuting the war, Robinson said the facts did not bear that out.

70-100 Ships In Coral Sea Invasion Unit

Three cruisers sheltering in a harbor south of the point where the Coral sea battle took place," Campbell said. "We made a bombing run on the largest transport and got a direct hit amidships. Then we returned to our base only long enough to load and bomb up before starting out again to paste them."

100 Miles Closer—On the second day, we found them about 100 miles closer in. They had joined up with about 10 other cruisers and transports. The closer they came the more we hit. Three we couldn't help finding them while they continued toward their cruiser base because there were so many of them."

Capt. Harry Speth of Portland, Ore., leader of Roberts' formation, said the lieutenant sighted the enemy about 15 minutes before the Japanese and began to chase them.

"I was pretty excited," Speth said. "I forgot his exact words, but you wouldn't be able to print them, anyway."

There was an aircraft carrier, a broad deck glistering in the sun, a scapline arched, several cruisers and a number of destroyers. Away off, we could see another large convoy.

"We came in right behind Roberts and let them have it and we scored several near misses and a direct hit on one of the cruisers which started smoke and began to blaze furiously."

Japs at Work—The Japs did everything but stand their ships on their tails the way they huddled the carrier was a picture. They did not make a sound. They did not make a sound. They did not make a sound. They did not make a sound.

"A little later, the usual diversions came in and let the Ryukyus (the carrier base) off. They sank her in the minutes with 15 bombs and 10 torpedos hit."

He said his formation sighted 25 more Japanese ships approaching by two's and three's in "loose string formation" as it returned to the base for fuel and ammunition. As dawn the next day the pilots were out with another load of destruction.

Selwidman pointed out that the abundance of rubber boots saved a large percentage of the crew of the aircraft carrier Lexington after it was sunk by the Japanese in the Coral Sea battle.

President Terry displayed a scrapbook showing the many stories the Kiwanis club had received in the Times-News since he took office. A vote of thanks was given the newspaper for "the fine publicity."

Coffee Tops in Gifts for Boys In Aussie Land

Send him coffee, girls, if you'd make a hit with the soldier boy friend "down under" for coffee, cigarettes and candy are the things he appreciates most from home!

That was the message received by Mrs. Alfred Cassiano this morning from her brother, Sgt. Edgar R. Fox, who left "sometime in May" for Australia.

Sgt. Fox, who likes his coffee as well as most Americans, received a box in Australia which was made mostly from coffee and is a far cry from the good old "Java" in America.

He told his sister that the Australians are very cordial and hospitable to the visiting Americans, and warned her to be sure to include his serial number when addressing mail to him through the postmaster at his point of embarkation.

Mr. Magliano, who hadn't heard from him since he left, is going to send him some coffee "in to next mail."

Wide Appeal Found in Original Flag Tribute

TRIBUTE TO THE FLAG

This is our flag. It is a beautiful and hallowed emblem, a sturdy emblem of our history and our traditions, our hearts leap to see it float on high. It speaks to us of aspirations and achievement. It stands for memory and for hope. Our flag is a pledge, the solemn contract of our liberty and our justice, purity and honor.

The beauty of the lilies of the field and the drifted snow combine in the white and it urges us to be pure, pure in thought and manner, pure in motive and deed, clean in language and behavior.

There is no brighter light in heaven's dome than that in our flag and it bids us be loyal, be true, with our hearts, with our hands, with our lives, with our souls, with our country.

Its stripes bid us remember the Colony days and the brave people, who in their love of liberty laid for us the foundation of our great government, and they urge us to maintain most earnestly, faithfully and earnestly the principles of liberty they bequeathed to us.

Its stars call upon us to remember the wonderful growth of our nation, not only its territory and riches, but better still, its what is good educationally, morally and fraternally.

Here's What Another Housewife Has to Say About BUTTER-KRUST BREAD—

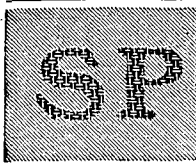

"I guess the principal reason that we are using BUTTER-KRUST Bread is that my husband is fussy. He's one of these fellows who are particularly interested in food and has his own ideas about everything you serve. So far as bread is concerned, he insists upon having BUTTER-KRUST, and nothing else. Just let the grocer send me some kind of bread, and friend bud hand gets on his car right bud. But fussy or not, you can't help but like BUTTER-KRUST once you have used it."

COYBOYS SLEEP DOUBLEHEADED WITH POCATELLO, 4-2 AND 1-0

Trucks Holds Yanks; Tigers Triumph, 3-1

DETROIT, June 19 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, who refuse to be awed by the Yankees' reputation, stamped the world champions again yesterday, 3-1, as they combined two productive innings with the four-hit flailing of Virgil (Fire) Trucks.

Trucks collected one hit himself off Spud Chandler, but he paid off on those blows. Pukky Higgins was the only Yankee to get a hit, a single in the eighth. The Tigers' offense was the biggest contribution to the Detroit victory, hit one of them twice in the second inning. After two were out, Trucks rolled a grounder to Frank Crosetti and quickly hit and pumped home two run-scoring low throw. Higgins went to third on the play and scored when Crosetti pushed a single to center.

After two outs in the third, Neil Hickey singled, Higgins doubled again to give the Tigers the lead and Jimmy Woodworth singled him home in the fourth.

Keller Gets Hit of His Own From there on, the Tigers couldn't get a man on base. The Yankees did better, but the only Yankee to run came in the first inning. Trucks hit a home run, forced by Tom Henrich, and then the Detroit Maglo. Charley Keller emerged from his starting position to make a bid to make the Yanks' hit, enough to bring Henrich in.

After two outs in the first, Neil Hickey singled, Higgins doubled again to give the Tigers the lead and Jimmy Woodworth singled him home in the fourth.

Hale America Meet Produces Records

CHICAGO, June 19 (AP)—Ninety-six golfers swung into the second round of the Hale America tournament today in an effort to continue one of the greatest par smashing displays ever recorded in a major tourney.

Tournament followers, who scanned the scores compiled yesterday when a brilliant field of 100 players, including Hale America's top players, were in a major tourney.

Locals Take Series, 4-1, From Leaders

Twin Falls Cowboys got their few hits when they meant runs here last night to knock over the league-leading Pocatello Cardinals in a double-header.

The scores were 4-2 and 2-1, with Jack Noriega and Angelo Venturillo pitching for the Wranglers and each hurler chalking up his first victory of the season.

The home club was badly out-hit in both games, but the Wranglers connected when they meant runs. Meanwhile, both Noriega and Venturillo were bearing down in the pinches and cutting off the runners when they threatened. Some sensational hitting again helped the players, along with a pair of double plays.

Dodgers Beat Cards In Riotous Battle

BROOKLYN, June 19 (AP)—The Hatfields and the McCoys of the National League—the Brooklyn Dodgers and the St. Louis Cardinals—fought their way to a decision, but the Dodgers emerged from the season struggle with a 5 to 2 victory.

The Cardinals led the eighth inning, snapping a seven-game winning streak for St. Louis and putting the Cardinals 5 1/2 games behind the leaders.

It was difficult to tell whether the 21,229 fans who turned out for the opening tussle of this crucial five-game series were more excited by the Dodgers' triumph, the fifth season without a defeat for Lefty Larry, or the mere fact in the sixth inning when players of both clubs attacked in a pitched battle near second base.

SERIAL STORY

SPORTING BLOOD

BY HARRY HARRISON KROLL

THE HUNTER Hunter Dean, who had been riding his white stallion for years, was surprised at being called to the stable by the manager of a bank manager, through the door of the stable. Hunter found a note pinned to the door, bearing a name which he had never heard of. Hunter had not the key to the stable, but he had the key to the door of the bank. He went to the bank and found the manager of the bank waiting for him. The manager told him that he had been called to the bank by a man who had been riding a white stallion. Hunter had not the key to the stable, but he had the key to the door of the bank. He went to the bank and found the manager of the bank waiting for him. The manager told him that he had been called to the bank by a man who had been riding a white stallion.

around my own neck?" Hunter got the paper and read it fairly meager details. He and her boy friend were on their way home from the neighborhood pleasure boat that had been out for about midnight. This region of town was of fairly ill repute. Old frame houses, sorry little corner stores, dark alleyways where dangerous characters lurked. The couple heard cries, shouts, a string of oaths, and some pistol shots. They darted into a dark doorway. A young man with long brown hair over his face walked and ran past. He had something under his arm. Later it proved to be the leather bag with the money. Or that was the supposition. Another young man, in tails and silk hat, came along. He had a gun. He was running pretty fast after the young man ahead. He shouted, "Hey, stick 'em up!" It all happened so fast the couple hardly knew just how the details came. Anyway, there seemed to be two more people. They just appeared. From nowhere, it would seem. The shots came fast now. When the alert came to her, she clapped her hand to her mouth, telling her to keep it shut. They didn't want to get mixed in what was going on. So the rest of the doings were blurred. She didn't see the two again. The man in tails after shooting once seemed to have disappeared. She could hear running steps. The echoes jumped up and down in the cobble street. Then the police showed up and by that time the bank messenger as he later proved to be, was lying in the middle of the narrow street, shot. The dog was gone. The girl and her boy friend couldn't run. The boy friend, however, escaped by running up the dark stairs and not coming to her rescue when the police nabbed her. The name was Sarah Kiker, and she worked part time at the munitions plant.

That was the jumbled story of an eye-witness. Sarah Kiker now was in jail. She declined to divulge the identity of her friend. HUNTER went down to the barn. The time was almost dusk. He moved toward the house. With a growing uneasiness that he was shirking Junior at the dangerous expense of himself, Hunter returned to the woods. He had said his key was the only one to the old chain-and-lock. That was not true. There were two keys and Junior had the other. He reached the wretched safe. He could not go on lying too long about as big an exhibit as the automobile. When night came he must get in here and hand the car out. He could use the big truck. Where he would recede the car was another question.

RED was gone when Hunter returned to the house. He asked Warwick, "Where did Miss Bella go?" "To town, sir, I believe." A sudden question, which overshadowed all the others, popped into Hunter's mind. Red standing there, so unassuming, making what amounted to an alibi for her brother. She named all present at the party except her brother. Hunter decided, "One thing seems sure. Red didn't know, couldn't weigh in her own mind, that Junior wasn't mixed in the stick-up, the killing. She suspects. She is afraid. She is beginning to be convinced that I am mixed in it, deeper than any one believes. But because she was not with the gang she can't know for sure, and has no way so far for finding out. Am I stupidly slugging a noose around my own neck?" Hunter got the paper and read it fairly meager details. He and her boy friend were on their way home from the neighborhood pleasure boat that had been out for about midnight. This region of town was of fairly ill repute. Old frame houses, sorry little corner stores, dark alleyways where dangerous characters lurked. The couple heard cries, shouts, a string of oaths, and some pistol shots. They darted into a dark doorway. A young man with long brown hair over his face walked and ran past. He had something under his arm. Later it proved to be the leather bag with the money. Or that was the supposition. Another young man, in tails and silk hat, came along. He had a gun. He was running pretty fast after the young man ahead. He shouted, "Hey, stick 'em up!" It all happened so fast the couple hardly knew just how the details came. Anyway, there seemed to be two more people. They just appeared. From nowhere, it would seem. The shots came fast now. When the alert came to her, she clapped her hand to her mouth, telling her to keep it shut. They didn't want to get mixed in what was going on. So the rest of the doings were blurred. She didn't see the two again. The man in tails after shooting once seemed to have disappeared. She could hear running steps. The echoes jumped up and down in the cobble street. Then the police showed up and by that time the bank messenger as he later proved to be, was lying in the middle of the narrow street, shot. The dog was gone. The girl and her boy friend couldn't run. had to get Junior's car out, but what he would do with it afterward he could hardly think. He could not temporarily leave in the barn. He got out the heavy truck, some chains, and made ready for the work. There was a small dining room attached to the servants' quarters for his use. By the time he was ready to attack the job in the woods car bearing the guests were arriving. Hunter went out and stood in the shadows, so that the headlights would not readily show him watching. The crowd was quiet. They entered the house without much talk and no laughter at all. Red didn't seem to be about. It struck Hunter that he might be included in the topics to be discussed; for there was no question their purpose was with Junior.

Junior went through the shrubbery and shadows around the west side of the mansion. Here the low-branched magnolia trees made the dark into life. He crept up to the window, open to the blind evening. He could see the group. Hankins Temple, the McDougal girls, Mrs. Ballard's brother, Ned Frazier, the Gibraltar twins. Red and his fiance were not present. Frazier was leaning against the mantle, finishing a cigar. He crushed it out in an ash tray. He was a short but powerful man. A boisterous burrowing into his late 30s, with a pretty watermelon belly, he nevertheless had a bulldog grip and peevish habit. He occupied the advantage of being the oldest member of this rather eclectic group that made, apart from their battle cry.

"I'll wager you're the best culprit out not far from where we are," he said. "All of you read the Kiker girl's story in the afternoon paper. Without going into details at this moment, but speaking from some inside dope, which in turn is made up of many small things, I'm willing to bet odds on the killer's being just right here. I mean on this plane."

There was a hush. He finished. "I'm speaking of Hunter Dent, the manager here."

BRITISH HOPE ROOSEVELT, CHURCHILL PLOT SECOND FRONT

AFRICAN LOSSES WORRY ENGLAND

By NED RUSSELL, LONDON, June 19 (AP)—British, gravely anxious over news that the British army in Libya had been forced back to the Egyptian frontier, looked toward Washington today in the hope of talks between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill would provide a timely needed boost.

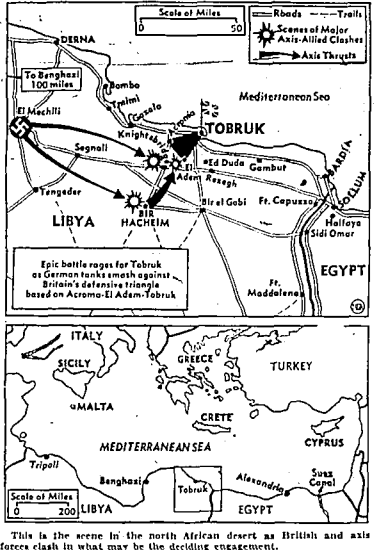

Second front talk in United States: Plotting turning point in war was typical because only after afternoon newspapers which informed the British public that Churchill, who only three days ago saw King George at Buckingham Palace, was at the White House.

Clearly was increasing anxiety over the military situation in Libya. British position in the Mediterranean is precarious. The admiral's silence regarding the air-naval battle of last week-end. The British high command is expected to open of any second front, was regarded with grave concern.

Decisive Round in Libya?

This is the scene in the north African desert as British and axis forces clash in what may be the deciding engagement.

FORMER LEADER OF UTAH IS ILL

SALT LAKE CITY, June 19 (AP)—Former Gov. Henry H. Blood died at a hospital today.

Study Reports
The President and Mr. Churchill probably will examine the whole world situation in the light of their production experts and make certain that they are in complete agreement on broad strategic policies, a responsible informant said.

Apparently recent conferences of British and American military and production chiefs have reached the stage where the two chiefs must make final decisions. The informant decided that this was the best time to review the allied position, and reports that the two chiefs obviously formed the basis for recent talks here and in Washington.

Mr. Churchill will visit Washington because of the plainly increasing anxiety here over the situation in Libya and continued loss of allied shipping, the informant said.

Remember we want an active second front in Europe in addition to the active front in the middle east, the informant said.

Decision Long Ago
He decided that Churchill had gone to Washington to discuss the situation created by axis successes in the Mediterranean. Churchill decided some time ago to visit the President, the informant said.

Mr. Churchill's visit was linked not only with the visit of American representatives and high military officers, but he intended to go until it was announced here at 2:31 a. m. that he had arrived.

Churchill's absence from the White House yesterday and Wednesday caused no speculation. Churchill's visit was linked not only with the visit of American representatives and high military officers, but he intended to go until it was announced here at 2:31 a. m. that he had arrived.

IDAHO URGED TO ABANDON FAIRS

BOISE, June 19 (AP)—Idaho fair executives were puzzled today over recommendations by the federal transportation coordinator that state and county fairs be postponed to October, because of the danger of public carriers.

Johnston, too, were concerned lest the order mean the end of the fair season unless it were to be curtailed.

Joseph B. Eastman, the transportation executive, also suggested that conventions, meetings and group tours be abandoned for the summer unless they had a direct bearing on the war effort.

It is urged by H. Hendrix, a former president of the state Fair and Home association, that the advice given be abandoned for the summer unless they had a direct bearing on the war effort.

BOISE, June 19 (AP)—After the rubber drive has continued for 10 days of scrap rubber from its carriers and maintenance sheds to boost the state's total to around a million pounds, Campaign Chairman H. W. Orchard enlisted the aid of the state's military units.

"Conservation officers and sportsmen," he said, "probably cover outlying districts and are sure to thoroughly hunt anyone else and therefore have a better opportunity to spread information regarding the campaign."

Girl War-Workers Get Pay Advances

Burnham Harbour and Marguerite Simonsen, the first Idaho girls to complete their training in the NYA defense program for work in the war industries and the first trainees from this state to be employed by the Boeing Aircraft company, have reported for duty in Seattle.

The two girls, both from Twin Falls, reported for duty as machinist helpers with the starting wage of 62 cents an hour. They were assigned to 42 cents an hour and then to 62 cents an hour since they reported June 4. They receive 10 cents an hour for Saturday work and double time for Sunday work. The two girls are residing together in Seattle.

Both girls received their training through the facilities of the NYA which operates a training program in Krenkel's machine shop, Twin Falls, with cooperation of the state board of vocational education. They were placed at Boeing through the local United States employment service of William W. Boyd, Williams office manager.

Demands on Mine Claims Lowered

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—The house has passed a bill to excuse holders of mining claims from the necessity of having $100 worth of labor performed on the claim each year if it is situated on land in the public domain restricted by presidential proclamation for war purposes.

Rep. James O. Schurzman, D., Nev., author of the bill, said that on one mining range alone in Nevada, there are 700 mines affected by the act. Exemption will continue for the duration.

BIOGHOSHONE, June 19—Bert Bell, Laak, Wyo., news-camerasman and secretary of highway No. 20, gave a talk before the luncheon meeting of the Shoshone chamber of commerce Monday at the Manhattan club. He was returning from a trip to the Black Hills and recently from Sun Valley, where he photographed scenes he will use to give desirable advertising to the national road. He urged all local men to join the association of highway 20.

Harry Putzer, chairman of the Lincoln county war bonds committee, announced that it would be difficult for the county to meet its June quota, $20,000, as it is out of proportion to the population. It was based on the assessed valuation of the county, and as 65 to 70 per cent of the property in the county is operated by utilities. It is excessive, he explained, however, that the people are determined to do their best.

Mr. Putzer reported that at a recent meeting of the county war committee, John R. Wiley, state administrator of war bonds, and his deputy, H. M. Logsdon, also of Boise, were present and explained how the quotas had been set up and that an adjustment would be made in future quotas.

Murtaugh Pair Pens Words to Yankee Doodle

"Yankee Doodle," one of America's favorite "war" songs, "has been dressed up with a new set of words to fit the present World War by two Murtaugh children—Joyce Goodham, 14 and Cecil Adamson, 11. Entitled "Hail MacArthur," the poem can be sung to the tune of "Yankee Doodle." The poem is as follows:

"HAIL MACARTHUR!"

MacArthur went to the Philippines; The Japs he was to slaughter, But when he saw him with his men They ran like running water.

They ran like running water. Don't MacArthur, keep it up; With you brave courageous men The Japs will come in handy.

Verde: But now MacArthur's gone away; You'll find him in Australia; He's commanding all his armies there; He's sure to never fail yet!

ASSASSIN KILLING REPORT DOUBTED

LONDON, June 19 (AP)—Czech nationalist quarters doubted today that the assassins of Reinhard Heydrich had been captured and executed in Prague.

Radio Prague announced last night, two hours after Germany's time-limit for the surrender of the slayers of the Czech's hunchman expired, that the patriot killers had been trapped in a church and shot while retreating.

The broadcast said several accomplices had been arrested by the secret police, who "retaliated beyond doubt that the two assassins were parachutists dropped from a British plane." Heydrich was fatally wounded by two gunmen who shot him as his limousine sped along a Prague street. They escaped on bicycles.

"The entire surroundings with which the assassins had been connected were wiped out," the announcement said, indicating that the Czechs were continuing the war-torn policy of mass annihilation of individuals and their property.

Czechs here believed that the German claim was a matter of face-saving. The Gestapo's offer of information for information had brought no clues previously from civilians in Czechoslovakia, they said, and it was unlikely that the assassins had been exposed to the Germans.
