The American Federation of Musicians reported today that recording studios in several cities, principally New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, were closed. Petrolino's ban on recordings was issued on the theory that phonograph records were being made in boxes and some 400 small radio stations which depend on them, cause musicians to compete against themselves. It was believed that his purpose was to increase the "standards" of music, thereby a specified number of musicians would be hired to "stand by" in a studio during the playing of records, even though they do no actual work.

ARNOLD BLASTS PATENT MISUSE

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold charged last night that cartels had misused the patent law to "sabotage" science, creating "artificial" barriers to progress.

In answer to "special interests" who had accused him of undermining the patent system, he said: "We believe in the constitutional purpose of the patent law to promote the progress of science and the useful arts. Our purpose is only to strike and strike hard, not against the patent law, but against those who pervert the patent privilege to control and restrict the production of things that are essential to the production in peace or in war."

Arnold, speaking before the American business congress, said many dangers in basic war materials were caused by the restrictions of private groups who would use the law to enhance their own position.

"Never before was there a greater need to free industry from the domination of a few powerful minorities whose policy has been to restrict production and raise prices," he continued.

Arnold said the domination of domestic markets by secret international patent cartels had "been discussed" and "allowed America's enemies to use American patents to nullify production of explosives, munitions, plastics, drugs, chemicals, dyes, machine tools and synthetic rubber."

MANY JAPS FEEL DISASTER LOOMS

Editor's note: Joseph Dyan, 25, joined the Associated Press staff in Tokyo in the summer of 1941 after having worked on the Japan Times and Advertiser and the Honolulu Star-Bulletin. A native of Chicago, he received his education in Kansas City and worked for the Kansas City Star, San Antonio Express and the Daily Oklahoman at Oklahoma City before coming to the Pacific.

By JOSEPH DYAN
 LOUENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, July 25 (Delayed) (AP)—Although morale ran high in Japan through the early course of the war, I have reason to believe that deep within their hearts many of the more thoughtful Japanese forebode a long, dreary conflict and eventual defeat.

This conviction of disaster is strong among "westernized thinkers," despite a heavy barrage of top-sold propaganda which has claimed recruits even in the ranks of the educated.

Many of the Japanese public gets only one side but the facts currently appear for themselves with the Chinese news from Indo-China, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Thailand, the East Indies, Burma, Singapore and other segments of China.

Heard by Singapore
 The capture of the British fortress of Singapore especially heartened the Japanese.

The people have absorbed some of the sense of feeling of the straits of the award-winning officers within the dread of what will be their lot if they are overthrown temporarily by the feeling that Nippon is up to the neck in the war.

Typical of the attitude taken by the Japanese is the demand by government officials in Singapore that the effort at Yokohama to include internets as exhibits in Singapore, and the extent of their current holdings, an extent widely necessary in the opening days of the war when the people were awed by the decision to fight the world's richest power.

By few contacts in the country, my informant with servants and guards gave the impression "I hope the propaganda shows in the army to override the conviction of despair and national suicide."

Thus the April 18 raid by General Doolittle's airman constituted a tremendous jolt to the public, and cause the people to realize that their earlier despondency.

I have reason to believe that the feeling is widespread among educated Japanese that the country's situation lies in elimination of the military clique which brought on the conflict.

But these individuals feel that this elimination process could be possible only through the use of force and that they themselves are powerless, and it is a mistake to rely on them, because they are not in a position to do so.

Long queues of housewives were glimpsed during my trip to the bank before Japan took on the United States.

There were the same impressive queues and a worn face of the heels across typifying Japan's version of "co-prosperity" at home.

Most people concede that the war with the United States will be long and all harbor a haunting fear of a future attack in the north and consequent large-scale bombing attacks upon Japan's flimsy cities.

Don't Underestimate Enemy In Pacific—Reporters' Advice

By RICHARD C. WILSON and ROBERT T. BELLAIRE (Copyright, 1942, by United Press)

LOUENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, July 27 (AP)—Don't underestimate the Japanese. There is no easy road to victory in the war.

That is the conclusion of two American reporters who reached their neutral point en route to New York after years of service in the far east and six months of Japanese internment.

We and our allies are fighting a strong, well-prepared foe. He has shown great potential resources. His grinding millions of people, including his work, under maximum hardships to exert the greatest possible military strength against us.

Victory over such a foe requires willingness to match the Japanese in their determination and sacrifice.

Lawrence Marques, who compared notes with me, reached conclusions that might help our countrymen understand why we are up against it in this war.

Test War Machine
 The Japanese war lords have spent years building up and testing a war machine designed to conquer Asia and overcome western influence and prestige. They are ingenious and resourceful.

But these individuals feel that this elimination process could be possible only through the use of force and that they themselves are powerless, and it is a mistake to rely on them, because they are not in a position to do so.

Long queues of housewives were glimpsed during my trip to the bank before Japan took on the United States.

There were the same impressive queues and a worn face of the heels across typifying Japan's version of "co-prosperity" at home.

WHERE'S COAST GUARD CASSIDY?

They were prepared, if necessary, for a much longer and harder fight for the British outpost island, having run up their heavy artillery for a final assault which did not prove necessary because of efficient handling of the amphibious landing.

The big guns were later moved southward without having been fired. The entire assault was carried out without regard for losses, which were heavy, but with machine-like precision and often with cold blooded killing of prisoners.

Less Impressive
 But when something goes wrong or when something unexpected occurs the Japanese machine is less impressive. An example was the American bombing raid in Tokyo, which resulted in such confusion that the city's defenses seemed almost unable to operate and some anti-aircraft guns apparently fired on their own hands.

This confusion was reflected in contradictory, excitable statements and claims—later repudiated by the Japanese. But that must not be regarded as meaning "that the Japanese equipment, especially that used in China, has often been out of order, but usually provided with a spare."

Vulnerability to Attack

Another enemy weakness that the Japanese war lords have made every effort to counteract is vulnerability to aerial attack at home. Progress has been made toward reducing the inflammability of Japanese cities by avoiding construction in new sections, but many great industrial areas at Nayaoya, Kobe, and elsewhere are easy bomb targets.

How far the favorable and unfavorable factors go toward balancing each other will be determined only by progress in the Pacific conflict.

These primitive acts demonstrate the Japanese adoption of extra methods of all-out warfare against civilians as well as soldiers. They emphasize the ruthless, relentless force in the Orient but also directed against Orientals. Only part of the story of maintenance can be told now but our dispatches have cited specific instances of bayoneting wounded prisoners at Hong Kong and maltreatment of Americans interned in China and Korea.

There is no doubt now that calculated cruelty has been used as a regular part of this program, intended in part to destroy western prestige.

Not only the Japanese soldier but the Japanese people are hardened and toughened by their ordinary living standard, extremely low in comparison to western countries, alleviates the hardships of war-time experience, the pegged wages, heavy taxes, and an increase of perhaps 30 per cent in prices.

These hardships, especially if aggravated by future allied bombing attacks, may make themselves felt and the present military successes and an air-tight censorship have stirred up a tremendous nationalistic feeling and indicate that they can carry on for a long time if new weapons resources can be exploited.

Communications have proved a serious weakness for the Japanese and should become an increasingly grave problem as American air and naval strength increases in the Pacific. A few allied submarines in spring disrupted enemy shipping off Hong Kong and the problem of maintaining railroad communications in occupied China has been tremendous and largely unsolved.

Railroad equipment is run down and Chinese scorched earth tactics have disrupted many lines in addition to breaks caused by guerrilla attacks. Even in the Shanghai sector, guerrillas conducted active and many Japanese fear assassination so

Uniformed Women Everywhere In Canada, Traveler Observes

Vacationists—both those who are visiting here and those who are returning from trips to distant points—hold the spotlight in local interest these summer days.

One of the most interesting "contrast" stories is told by Miss Lucille Tinker, who recently returned from the east and middle west.

One of the most uniformed women seen in uniform in Toronto and other Canadian points these days, she observed. However, motorists traveling between the two countries were conspicuously absent.

She visited in Detroit, Toronto, and Niagara Falls, Ontario, for three weeks before going to Kansas for a three weeks stay with her grandmother, Mrs. J. N. Shaeffer.

Other guests were Mrs. Sprague, Miss Betty Swann, Mrs. Ann Westergren, Mrs. Walton O. Swin, Miss Betty Swann and Miss Ann Westergren.

Mrs. George Parrott and son, who arrived early this week from their vacation in Canada with Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Parrott, will be guests this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Miller Proctor, Jerome.

Mrs. Proctor is their niece. Also accompanying her are Mrs. Jerome will be Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fuller and infant son, who are here from Oregon for a summer.

Mrs. and Mrs. W. Bowman have sold their home on Nevada east, and Mrs. Bowman will leave next week for the Bowman ranch at San Jacinto, Nev., to establish permanent residence.

Mrs. Bowman and daughter have wintered here for the past several years, spending part of each summer with the ranch while Mrs. Bowman during the Bowman's several years residence in Twin Falls, she has been active in Red Cross and Camp Fire.

Accompanying her mother to Nevada are Miss Vera Lou Bowman, who will spend the remainder of the summer at San Jacinto. Miss Bowman also attended college, St. Charles, Mo., last year, will enroll at the University of Southern California to fall.

Indicative of the trends of the times, when more and more women are reentering the professional and business world for the duration of the war, a position at the Fidelity National bank by Mrs. Reed Ritter, Idaho Falls, marked "housewife" after her name for several years, is here to spend the winter, while her husband, engaged on a defense project at Brigham City, Utah, with her children, Elsie, Elaine and Kent, will be here the next several months at the home of her mother, Mrs. Katherine Kirkman.

Lions Club Has Lawn Party for Ladies' Night

JEROME, July 29—Approximately 50 members and guests of Jerome Lions enjoyed a lovely picnic party on the lawn of the Wallace White house last week. There were about 100 in all, including Mrs. Gooding, Mrs. Love and her husband, Mrs. Love is president of the Gooding club.

Guests were served the buffet spread from two long tables and dancing followed. Music was furnished by J. Hill, Twin Falls.

Included on the program of entertainment was fortune telling and palm reading by Mrs. H. E. Francon, Jerome; solos by Keith Johnson, Jerome, and by John Alexander Gooding; a reading by Mr. Jorgensen, Gooding, and readings by Mrs. Elva Harnsey, Jerome.

Colorful lights strung around the lawn lent a festive air to the occasion.

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—A violent thunderstorm demolished the band shell at the City of New York stadium last night.

John J. Astor, Jr., president of the stadium, said the shell was built by the city and was the work of the famous architect, Paul C. Behrens.
