U. S. TRADE WITH SPAIN INCREASES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—A considerable increase in American trade with Spain, enabling Spanish leaders to throw their way back from the threatened economic collapse following the disastrous civil war, has occurred during recent months. It was revealed today.

American supplies going to Spain, particularly petroleum products, are carefully supervised so that none will become available to the axis, it was learned.

U. S. authorities officials disclosed, recently refused to furnish crude oil to a Spanish refinery in the Canary Islands until American technicians were permitted to visit the facilities and remove all equipment for making high-octane gasoline.

Imports Oil
Spain is importing lubricating oil and motorcar gasoline but shipment of high-octane fuel, necessary for airplanes, is barred.

In addition to petroleum, the United States is supplying Spain with food products, textiles and fertilizer, together with some mining machinery. In return, this country receives wolfram, mercury, zinc concentrates, wool, green olives, cork, almonds, raisins and some olive oil.

Keag to Stay Neutral
Alexander, former U. S. ambassador to Spain, told reporters on his return to this country last February that Spain never was eager to remain neutral, that her people had a strong desire to join the war and that she could manage to keep her economy intact, he said, if probably could support a popular front which might thrust them into the war.

An assumption that Spain would be neutral was mentioned yesterday by President Roosevelt when he revealed his plan for helping Spain restore her gold and literary treasures and develop an increased trade after she had decided for the purpose of persuading Spain to remain neutral would be unfair.

18 Days to Build Big Liberty Ship Is New Kaiser Schedule

By CHARLES L. MOORE
SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 29 (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser, the construction wizard, pointed his shipyard's toward an 18-day keel-to-launching schedule for liberty ships today after one of his yards set a 24-day record. Meanwhile, he prepared for new interviews with government authorities on his plan to build a fleet of 500 giant cargo planes for the armed services and denied that he had bought structural steel in the "black market."

Kaiser announced he would make another trip to Washington after watching completion of the world's fastest shipbuilding job, launching of the 10,500-ton liberty ship "John Fitch" 24 days after its keel was laid at his Richmond yard No. 2.

The record bettered a 26-day job completed only the night before, without fanfare, in one of Kaiser's Oregon yards. The record previously was 26 days, and until a year ago no boat of the liberty ship size had been built in less than 100 days.

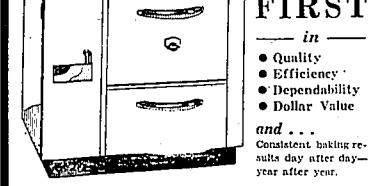

Kaiser predicted that within a few months his yards would be building liberty ships in 18 days from keel-laying to launching.

The launching of the "John Fitch" was so swift that Mrs. Kaiser, the builder's wife, missed it with the traditional bottle of champagne. Henry J. Kaiser, Jr., standing at his mother's side, grabbed the bottle as it dangled on its red, white and blue ribbon, threw it against the bow and smashed it against the prow.

Thousands of shipyard workers passed briefly to participate in the "John Fitch" launching ceremonies. Six minutes later they were laying the keel for a new ship on the ways vacated by the "John Fitch."

Talking to reporters after the launching, Kaiser indicated he was in no more concerned over his plan program than his steel troubles, but indicated he and Howard Hughes, aircraft designer, speed flyer and his partner in Buena harbor with a Col. George Sillery of San Francisco, had worked out a well-founded plan to place before Washington officials.

BOMBS DROPPED ON JAP CRUISER

BY FRANK HEWLETT
SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Aug. 29 (AP)—A United States army flying fortress dropped three bombs square on the deck of one of two Japanese cruisers which led the Japanese invasion convoy in the enemy landing operation at Milne Bay, New Guinea. It was made known today.

Its other two bombs struck the water about 20 feet away — close enough, it seemed certain, to do damage.

Hence there was reason for the belief that the cruiser, which has disappeared, was sunk.

The fortress was commanded by Capt. Kenneth D. Casper, Humbolt, Tex. Casper went in under heavy fire after a dawn take-off in bad weather. Over Milne Bay he dropped 2,000 feet. He saw two Japanese cruisers, two transports and a smaller vessel, either a destroyer or a mine layer.

His plane's bombs were dropped on the first run, in which Casper's plane went in with two others, into furious fire. One plummeted aflame. The other turned back with its bombardier killed and its navigator wounded.

Casper made a second run, over one of the transports, but saved his bombs because the clouds were closing in.

Then he went after the cruiser, and dropped his five bombs. The plane turned back, and landed without brakes, with one tire flat, with its wing flap out of action and its No. 2 motor dead. It ran about 200 yards, went off the runway into the brush and stopped.

In a previous raid Casper's plane, "Daylight Limited," beached a transport in Buna harbor with a Col. George Sillery of San Francisco, direct hit. That time he came back with two motors dead and the plane badly shot up.

Pilot Downs Jap Plane by Losing Gun

MELBOURNE, Aug. 29 (AP)—A Japanese zero was credited to Sgt. J. P. Papp, member of an American bomber crew, although he had lost his gun before the zero attacked, the Melbourne Herald reported today.

Papp's plane was attacking the new Japanese landing at Milne Bay on New Guinea Thursday, when it narrowly missed collision with another bomber.

"He missed by a couple of feet," Papp reported, "and I was breathing sighs of relief when my own gun broke off its bearing screw and fell out of the turret. I looked down, and there was a zero 200 feet below, slicing up for a belly attack."

"This may sound fantastic, but the falling gun hit the zero right in the propeller, which fell to pieces. The Jap fell straight down 1,000 feet into the water."

LEGISLATION BELIEVED NECESSARY TO COMBAT INFLATION

'FLEXIBLE' PLAN IS FEARED WEAK

By ABSTIN WEHRWEIN
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—Senators of both parties believed today that President Roosevelt must seek new legislation to combat inflation, particularly where agriculture is concerned, despite his reported intention to initiate the program by executive order.

Mr. Roosevelt has given no information on his plan to be outlined in a speech on Labor day, except to say that it will be flexible and will not attempt to freeze wages and farm prices.

Informed quarters said the plan will be founded on equality of wages and prices by all groups—labor, agriculture and capital—and predicated on the belief that no one group should profit from the war effort.

Executive Order

Mr. Roosevelt left the indefinite that he will initiate the program by executive order when he declared his procedure in the following would be explained in a message to congress. He later will explain it to the nation in a "fireside chat."

But congressional circles held that while the President has sufficient war-time powers to stabilize wages and to grant allowances to producers caught in a "squeeze" by rising prices, he would require new legislative authority if he plans to curb prices below levels prescribed in the price control law.

The statute specifically prohibits maximum farm prices below 110 per cent of parity, or below levels attained on Oct. 1 and Dec. 15, whichever is higher. The prohibition extends to prices on commodities processed from farm products.

Expect Legislation

Sen. Claude Pepper, D., often an administration spokesman, advocated placing "all economic controls" in the hands of the executive branch of the government "so that things may be kept in balance." He felt that some legislation would be necessary and that congress will act with dispatch.

Comparing the act controlling Mr. Roosevelt to that of a race-tracker who must get all the horses away at one time, he said:

"The government must take hold of all the reins and keep them firmly in hand. All groups must be protected and rewarded, and while the line between protection and reward is often hard to draw, the program should be worked out with one policy — to win the war."

Man in I-A Draft Class Eligible to Enlist in Navy

Any man who is placed in class I-A by his local auxiliary service board may pass the physical requirements for enlistment in the navy.

Walter M. DeWitt, U. S. naval assistant officer in charge of navy recruiting station at Boise, said today that the navy is taking men with false teeth and it is taking men from the ranks of I-A.

"The navy is taking men with false teeth and it is taking men from the ranks of I-A," he said.

Enlistment letter is taken as false and the man is not allowed to close its recruiting stations and to send out draft boards for its personnel. "The navy is taking volunteers and will continue to do so indefinitely," he stated.

He also said that they would take any draft board registrant right up to the time for his induction.

9,872 in Idaho Given U. S. Old Age Assistance

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The social security board said in its report for May that public assistance and federal work programs had an estimated $141,600,000 in the month of decrease of 5.8 per cent from April and a decline of 29.8 per cent from May, 1941.

The review said the costs were the lowest since May, 1923.

In the northwest the general relief cases were of compared to April and sharply reduced compared to May, 1941. In Nevada, however, they were higher than in April but lower than a year before.

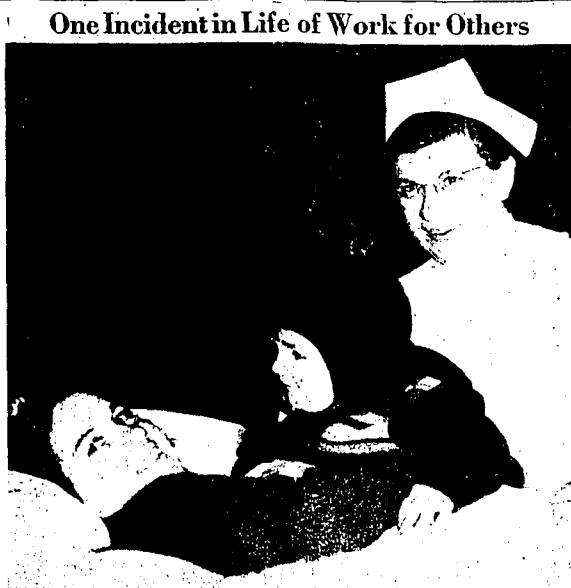

The Idaho figures showed 1,107 cases which received $16,625, a decline of 5.8 per cent in the number of cases and a 7.3 per cent in the number compared with the year previous.

The number of cases was 21 per cent and the payments lower by 19.4 per cent.

The number of old age assistance was granted, 9,872 cases costing $231,217, which was six per cent greater in number and 12 per cent more in costs than in April, and 6.6 per cent more in number and 10.1 per cent more in cost than a year before.

Pastor Pays Tribute to Miss Hansen for Entire Community

(Note: The editors of the Times-News feel that the story of Miss Martha Hansen is so inspiring for the community as a whole that it is being reprinted in full.)

Her touch of the hospital personnel was firm but with kindly and gentle—that of a really great executive.

Today as her broken body comes home to her own loved ones, and friends at Hobbs, Neb., we the people of Twin Falls, want them to know that this community stands grief-stricken and sorrowful. As we know our forefathers, we stand reverently as a community and silently and our cordial ascent to the glorious commendation of grace recorded by her by her inspiration—her Lord and her Savior. "Well done, thou good and faithful servant: Thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will make thee ruler over many things: Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Home Canning of Peaches Assumes No. 1 Importance

Home canning of peaches is more important to the Twin Falls county horticulturists than ever in view of a recent freezing order on all dried fruits in the hands of packers, Carl N. Anderson, chairman of the Twin Falls county rationing board, said today.

The freeze order issued by the war production board following closely a previous order which set aside 30 per cent of the commercially canned peaches for army, navy and lend-lease use. Anderson pointed out, leaving few commercially prepared fruits available for private consumption.

In addition, Anderson said, substantial peach crops in some sections and a shortage of peach packers may make the available supply still less.

"The important thing is to see that our fruits and vegetables are preserved and the best way to do that, and to save tin and industrial workers for essential war industries, is for every housewife to make her kitchen a war factory through home canning," Anderson declared.

COMMISSIONS GO TO 436 WOMEN

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 29 (AP)—Four hundred and thirty-six women took an oath and received commissions today in the Army, completing six weeks of stringent training and their graduation to officers in the women's army auxiliary corps.

The commissioning ceremony on the bus-chambered field of this old cavalry post marked the first milestone in the careers of members of the first women's department in the U. S. Army. The candidates became first officers in the WAAC, a rank corresponding to second lieutenant in the regular army.

Their first commanding officer, Lt. Mrs. E. H. Rogers, R. N. M., author of the bill creating the corps, told the new officers:

"You represent a dream of mine conceived during the first World War, 25 years ago."

"I am an officer in this Army is a high honor, admitting you to the right and responsibility and the duties of your rank."

"We are involved in a tremendous struggle and your commissioning is the destiny of free men everywhere. With unity of action and efficiency we can win our country."

The new officers swore "to well and faithfully discharge" their duties.

Sends Congratulations

Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, congratulated the new officers through a telegram to Mrs. Ovela Culp Hoag, WAAC director.

"Their record of the first few weeks gives me great confidence in the future of the corps and the tremendous assistance they will be to the armed forces," Marshall wired.

"We need their enthusiasm, their talents, and high purpose."

Mrs. Hoag added:

"The faith of the women of this nation is placed in you. You go forward to duty with courage and wisdom of this and other free lands. You will serve as incorruptible witnesses for freedom, stability and the 'Good Soldiers'."

Col. Don C. Faith, commandant of the WAAC training school, gave his approving approval to his first graduates.

"They are as good soldiers as I have seen in 25 years training."

The commissions given today were on a temporary basis. The 436 women must complete two more weeks of post graduate training before receiving the single gold shoulder bars that mark them as third officers. The new officers will assume regular duties at the post where many of the top-ranking graduates will be assigned as company officers training other WAACs and a few will be promoted to the school faculty. Others will be assigned to mess and supply duties.

OPA Regulations On Sale of Coal Mailed out Here

Carl N. Anderson, chairman of the Twin Falls rationing board, announced yesterday he was sending out letters to all coal dealers that he has received. The letters are calling attention to the OPA coal price regulations.

Anderson said that coal dealers who do not receive the letters should call at the office of the local rationing board for a copy of the regulations.

The rationing board chairman also called to the attention of county dealers in consumer services that OPA price regulations are to go into effect next Tuesday and that prices must be filed at the board's office by Sept. 10.

Anderson said only a few dealers in consumer services, such as barbers, would escape the price regulations. He said that all dealers familiar with the regulations to conform at the rationing board office.

Hold fast to that which is good . . .

. . . the church, the home, the family circle.

Sure, it was fun to run around a lot—to burn up gasoline and tires to see the world. It was broadening, too, to go to new places and see different sights and meet new people. When the war clouds pass, we'll do it again, with even greater enjoyment.

But, in the meantime, have we lost so much? There's the church, within walking distance or an easy-on-tires drive. There's HOME—the fireside around which we gather to cement friendships, renew acquaintances, share joys and sorrows. There's the family unit bound together with a new unity of purpose—to contribute in full measure to America's greatest victory, that all the world may someday enjoy the AMERICAN way of life.

TODAY America's homes are important . . . the new homes going up to provide shelter for war workers, the old homes which are no longer mere "stop-over" points, but once again the hub of our daily life.

The nation needs comfort and relaxation after work. It needs the feeling of SECURITY which only an American home provides. It needs to re-discover the simple joys of happy home life.

Fortunately, many home furnishings can be made of priority-free materials, not needed in a war of chemicals and metals, and therefore still available to civilians. Be economical by buying good merchandise . . . furnishings that will last. As time goes on, there must be fewer replacements, as more and more of our productive effort goes toward hastening the day of Victory.

A Word About Trade-Ins

ALTHOUGH it is true that MOST home furnishings can be (and are being) made of priority-free materials, some require metals and other materials now needed by the armed forces. These, of course, are no longer being manufactured.

Perhaps you have furnishings of this type, unused, stored at home. Why not trade them in on the purchase of new things which you need? You'll not only receive a generous allowance on your new purchase, but will enable some other family to obtain merchandise now obtainable in no other way.

You do NOT need to pay the balance in cash. On many items, terms of 20% down and the balance in 12 monthly installments are approved by the government.

FIRST, buy War Bonds and Stamps . . . to safeguard your home!

Chicago Bears Easily Beat All-Stars, 21-0

By TOMMY DEWINE

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

BY RENE RYERSON MART

COPYRIGHT, 1942, NEARBY SERVICE, INC.

LADY FOR A MONTH

CHAPTER V

THE first thought that surged into Enid's waking mind that morning was THE APARTMENT. She had rented it. There was no chance to change her mind now. For once, she had actually dared to do something she wanted to. For a whole month now she could live a glamorous life.

But there was a lot of details to be attended to before she could enter into the enjoyment of her secret paradise. She made excellent plans as she dressed. First of all, she would try to get her vacation to start immediately. For having rented the apartment at what, to her, was an exorbitant rental, she wanted every possible minute in which to enjoy it.

She didn't really think there would be any difficulty about getting her vacation on such short notice. August was a slack time at the plant, and as John Stanton, the big boss, away, there would be even less doing than usual.

She intended to tell no one, either at the office or at home, that she was going to do with her vacation. Her plans were innocent enough, but no one would understand. They would think it ridiculous. If not downright insane, to spend her savings and vacation hidden away in a nicely furnished apartment, rather furtively for one short month, the surroundings and atmosphere of a more gracious way of living than would ever be hers as Mrs. Tom Dretzoi.

As it was, things would work out nicely. Pop and Mom would think she was working and staying at home. Letty would be out of town with them. And she had already told Tom that she was going away for a month.

ENID gripped her slipping courage and, flushing painfully, asked Grace if she would forward some letters for her from the office.

"Why?" Grace Dingleine asked in her crisp, direct way.

Enid blurted out a half truth. "My boy friend—wants to get married, and I—I'm not sure I like him well enough. I want to see wouldn't require hounding often. And bathing suits ranging from conservative black one for Letty to a saucy canary-yellow wrap in a suit for baby Ann. And sand buckets and shovels and boots.

It had been years since Letty had had any kind of a vacation and the prospect of an entire carefree month of fun was almost too much. "Wait until I pinch myself," she begged Enid in a quavering voice. "I know I'm going to wake up."

Not let Enid told her. "We want the dress department next." Letty followed her meekly, too overwhelmed to object any more. It is a size she let an efficient sales girl try dresses on her, until Enid decided that a cool green print was the most becoming. "And you need a big wide hat to go with it," Enid added.

LETTY looked like a Santa Claus under her stack of bundles when the two girls parted. Enid pressed a couple of crisp bills into her hands, a couple of tens. Letty tried to give her a look, but Enid was walking back home alone that Sunday morning that she had her quilts. Everything so far had worked out beautifully and simply. But now a hundred embarrassing possibilities presented themselves. What if Pop or Phil or some of the girls from the office found out what she was doing with herself? She'd bank pretty slyly trying to explain the apartment in Arlington.

She continued to worry while she packed the few clothes she was going to take with her—a new turquoise-blue sweater ensemble and her white linen suit. She came very near regretting that she hadn't gone with her folks to the lake as her mother had wanted her to do.

But her doubts were lost once she arrived at the apartment. The taxi driver carried her bags in and she tipped him generously, and then closed the door with a pling. Learning against it she turned to survey her new world.

All this charm, this quiet luxury was hers. . . all hers for a month!

HANSEN SCHOOL LACKS TEACHERS

HANSEN, Aug. 29 — The Hansen school opened on Monday with three teachers short, two in the grade school and one in the high school. A band leader and a coach are especially needed. Supt. J. A. Doering said that if a band leader could be secured, he could help with the junior high and the coach would be put to work with the high school, or vice versa.

The present enrollment for the grade and high school is 172 per cent below that of last year. A total of 224 students is enrolled. Sixty of these are in the high school. The total last year was 100 in the grades and 81 in the high school.

Because of a decrease in enrollment and inability to secure a home economics teacher, the subject will be dropped, Supt. Doering said. Mutual training course will again be directed by Archie Harary.

Miss Lois Syster, Kimberly, teacher of the third grade, will handle the grade school music as well as the high school glee club. It has been found necessary to combine the fourth and fifth grades, which will be taught by Mrs. C. Bracken, and the seventh and eighth grades, handled by Leo Wright.

Here's Family That Upholds All-Navy Rule

There was "whooping" joy in the Charles McLain, sr., music on on Twin Falls route three and they drank silent toasts to Charles McLain, jr.

Charles, jr., had carried the McLain name into the Uncle Sam's sea-soaking forces and more and kept the family "all navy."

For a time there was fear that Charles, jr., might break the family tradition and join the army. Wasn't he working up in Helena, Mont., as a civil service aviation mechanic with the army? There could be such fear with those surroundings.

But that was dispelled when a telegram came to the McLain home saying that Charles, who is only 17 although a high school graduate, had been accepted as a naval aviation cadet and was on his way to San Diego, Calif., for training.

That made the McLain navy line-up complete, and here's how the members have gone to bat for Uncle Sam:

Dad, Charles, sr.—Chief pharmacist male aboard the old battleship Montana during the first World war; made 24 trips across the Atlantic.

Brother, Chester — Aviation machinist third class at Alameda, Calif.

Mom, Mrs. Charles, sr.—Member of Navy Mothers League.

Uncle, Chester—Warrant officer in aviation machinist branch, aboard ship somewhere in the Pacific serving 2nd year in navy.

Cousin, Lloyd—Civilian worker at San Diego navy base.

"Well sure lick the Japs now that Charlie has joined up," said a little niece visiting in the McLain home.

State Guardmen Taking Training In Machine Gun

Twin Falls' company B, fourth infantry state guard, is putting a lot of emphasis on the operation of the machine gun.

In its regular drill Thursday night, Sgt. A. E. Francis spoke on the manual of the machine gun and Sgt. Edward Larsen on its mechanics.

Special training on the deadly instruments is being given the non-commissioned officers, who, in turn will impart their knowledge to the members of their squads.

After this training is completed, the officers and men will have actual target practice with the gun which hasn't been fired since its receipt from a government arsenal several months ago.

The company also was drilled by Lieut. W. W. Thomas. The non-commissioned officers drilled their squads thereafter.

Industrial Users Of Sugar Must Be Signed by Sept. 5

All industrial and institutional users of sugar in the county should register on or before Sept. 5 with the local rationing board or they will face a penalty on their sugar allowance, Carl N. Anderson, board chairman, said Saturday.

All restaurants, cafes and places where food is served will be required to start Tuesday, Sept. 1, to keep track of all meals and food services served each month. These records must be kept available for inspection by representatives of the office of price administration, including members or agents of the local board.

Five More Young Men Enter Navy

Five more young men in this area have enlisted in the navy at the local recruiting station, Chief Petty Officer Edmund Bannon acting recruiter, had announced today.

They included Dean La Von Freeman, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Freeman, 1420 Fourth avenue east, who enlisted in V-1 branch which will allow him to complete his education at Brigham Young university, Provo, Utah, before beginning training as flying or deck officer.

Others enlisting were Dale Maxfield Phillips, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Phillips, Eden, who will enter a navy dental school; Clifford Stanley Love, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Love, 2000 S. Lawrence; George H. Abbott, 21, route one; Lawrence, son of Mrs. Winifred Kenyon, 1221 E. One, and Greg Otto Hanson, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Hanson, Albion.
