61 Idahoans Face Federal Action on Draft Violations

BOISE, Sept. 9 (AP)—Sixty-one Idaho men were charged today with violation of the selective service law in complaints filed in U. S. district court by U. S. District Attorney John A. Carver.

Carver described the sweeping action as "an effort to wipe out negligence and evasion of service in the armed forces."

The informations filed constituted the first wide-spread action of its kind in Idaho, although several individuals previously have been charged with draft law violations. Carver said the violations action would permit arrest of the accused men by agents of the federal bureau of investigation.

ODT to CONTROL ALL COMMERCIAL VEHICLES IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—The office of Defense Transportation announced last night it will assume sweeping control over millions of the nation's commercial vehicles, Nov. 15, including rationing of gasoline, tires, tubes and accessories to such vehicles.

Described by ODT as "a drastic move to obtain further conservation of such equipment for war purposes," the order will supplement conservation regulations already in effect. Approximately 4,000,000 trucks, 150,000 buses, upwards of 50,000 taxicabs and similar vehicles will be included in the new regulations.

The certificate will govern the maximum mileage that may be operated on the minimum loads that may be carried for the purpose of transporting property, except motor-cycles, and all vehicles used in the transportation of passengers, including ambulances and hearses, but not including private passenger cars.

Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, said the certificates would be issued with the objective of assuring that vehicles be confined to those necessary to the war effort or to the essential domestic economy.

The order provides that the tire of every vehicle affected by the order must be changed every 5,000 miles or at the end of each 60-day period, whichever ever occurs first.

DATE BELIEVED FIXED FOR ALLIED INVASION OF EUROPE

AIR POWER WILL FEATURE ATTACK

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
United Press Foreign Editor

LONDON, Sept. 9 (AP)—The heat is on in London today for a United Nations smash at Germany—powered through the greatest concentration of air striking power ever hurled at one nation.

In many places it was believed today—backed by the most recent statements of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill—that the date now has been fixed for the opening of the second front against Adolf Hitler.

Whether the date of the land offensive, if one is to believe the determination to turn against Hitler at the quickest possible moment the weapon with which he once terrorized Europe—air power and air power in a concentrated striking force such as will put the Luftwaffe's biggest performances in the shade.

There is an urgent desire in many quarters that this weapon be turned against Germany quickly because of belief that the present operation is most favorable for an all-out air attack. Such an attack would require a tremendous concentration of allied air strength—but it is noted that the big RAF night attacks already are being made by the Germans ever made on Britain.

This belief is coupled with a feeling that the best way to bring about an end to the dispersal of our effort and by striking the axis powers with all the weapons including land forces which can be mustered.

I am confident after talking with numerous American and other soldiers, as well as officials, that the spirit not only of the armed forces but of the British people is most strongly behind the idea of aggression against Germany.

The greatest change I have seen in Britain since my last visit a year and half ago is the fall end of the blitz when the average Briton was gloating in his ability to take it, it is now to get on with "dishing it out" on a major scale.

Whether the time is ripe militarily is a question which can be decided only by the highest military men and statesmen.

The people are willing—within limits—to take their word for it. But their eagerness to act is without question.

MEN TURNING TO FOOTWEAR IN TAN

Under the influence of war, black shoes that used to bedeck eight out of ten men's feet have lost favor in consequence, the well dressed man this fall will wear tan footwear. That's Twin Falls shoe retailers said today as they made extensive preparations for the Merchants' bureau fall opening fete here Friday night.

"Yes, sir, the once popular black has been shoved out of the picture for every day wear," one manager stated. "And there are several reasons for this."

"Primarily, it's the military influence that is bringing out the tan. Another is that they can be worn with every color style of clothing. In fact, they've been found to live up to their name."

A second manager said that shoes are also plain— with plain or simple toe tops. And the war also had something to do with this, he stated. They can be better worn with cuffed trousers that the war has presented to the men.

The tans are somewhat deeper toned than those of summer wear. Men's tastes are running to double soles for the reason that they're more comfortable and have a brush effect.

Blacks aren't being discarded altogether. They're still popular for evening wear.

However, for general wear— it's the tans for the men this fall.

Children Printing Anti-Nazi Papers

LONDON, Sept. 9 (AP)—Belgian school children are publishing secret, anti-Nazi newspapers, it had been disclosed here today by one of them, Peter, 12, who has just escaped from Brussels to join his father, a Belgian officer.

"We copy funny stories about the Germans in our newspaper, which our class has called 'Le Boche,' and is all hand written," Peter said.

"Only three of the children in our school are on the wrong side, and they always look very nervous. If they don't keep quiet," Peter doubled his fist by way of explaining what happens if they don't keep quiet.

VICHY'S PROTEST REJECTED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—The United States has rejected a protest by the Vichy government against American air bombardment of towns in occupied France.

Making this known, the state department said that the protest, made by Pierre Laval, Vichy chief of government, to the American charge d'affaires in Vichy, complained that in recent bombings of Le Havre and Rouen by United Nations forces, a number of people were killed and others wounded.

Laval added that inasmuch as it was reported that some American flyers had participated in the raids, he desired to enter a protest to the American government.

The charge d'affaires immediately replied, the department said, that the squadrons in question were bombing military plants in the employ of Germany, that Americans of course do not desire to see French people suffer any more than can be avoided, "since they have already suffered to an incalculable extent under German occupation."

The French information office said that 140 Frenchmen were killed and 420 wounded in the Rouen raid, and also increase over the previously announced figures.

The Vichy radio quoted the Journal de France as saying rescue services were unable to cope with the havoc caused by the air raid. Buildings all over town collapsed and German troops were called in to assist with rescue work and fire-fighting, the paper said.

The German-controlled Paris radio suggested that British and American citizens in unoccupied France should be made hostages for the bombing of French cities and the French civilian population.

Sea-Going Paul Revere

Keen-eyed and ready, a mounted member of the U. S. coast guard's newly organized horse patrol strikes down a funny stretch of America's coast-line in an action shot reminiscent of Paul Revere.

Here, Ladies, Are the Facts About Those New Fall Styles

CREDIT YOURSELF WITH A WISE INVESTMENT, LIKE A WARDROBE, IF YOU BUY A COAT THAT'S:

- ... The most practical fashion of all — the box coat, because it gives you the straightest, narrowest line, and it comes in countless elegant variations.
- ... Made of herringbone, box lining, or in another box coat version in polo type, of wool, flannel, a good imitation of camel's hair.
- ... Or a semi-dress coat, with a box silhouette (although a few are semi-dresses) with a softly manipulated fur collar of either red, blue or crossed fur, or even lynx.
- ... A separate jacket — again an A-line style — either two-toned or solid, with a fitted bodice, back, depending on which is the more becoming.
- ... A "dimmy tuff," woolly like a teddy bear, in either full length or jacket style, for any age, from junior miss to matron. If you're young enough, you can wear a pet hat and gloves to match.

YOU CAN "BANK ON" YOUR NEW FALL HAT IF:

- ... It's a pick-up for your outfit every time you put it on, and in one of the season's leading colors, such as black, brown or taupe blue, just to mention a few.
- ... It has a sky-scraper crown, automatically easy to wear or it's an equally flattering turban, fashioned of folds of fabric draped in several colors, or of the same color or related colors.
- ... It makes you feel important with its feathers, bows, or provocative veils and ornaments.
- ... It is a stylish felt panache, bereft, with plus studded with felt ornaments, or a trimmed pompadour, or had with a brim of chenille, hands in several colors.

YOUR FALL SUITS AS GOOD AS A U. S. BOND IF:

- ... It complies with the L-35 regulation of the war production board regarding the "controlled" sleeve, jacket and skirt lengths. ... and it had better, because "there's a law."
- ... It has a stitching detail that makes it a "stand out" in the soft dressmaker suit, or if it has a soft fur collar that is applied in that special new manner to make it definitely "this season."
- ... It is a classic tailored number, preferably of herringbone, in blue, brown, green or tan.

YOU'D BE DYING SECURITY FOR TODAY—AND TOMORROW, TOO—IF YOUR FIRST FALL DRESS IS:

- ... Corduroy, with peg pockets; velvet with white dressmaker detail, probably a two-piece suit dress; or a jacket dress in wide wide corduroy.

STABILIZATION OF WAGES DEMANDED

CHICAGO, Sept. 9 (AP)—Edward A. O'Neil, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, contended today that all wages, as well as farm and industrial prices, should be stabilized to prevent inflation.

He asserted no pay ceiling legislation had been enacted by congress because of "administration opposition."

"Uncontrolled wages are the most threatening factor in the possibility for inflation," he said. "Farm prices are only a minor factor. ... Farm prices in June of this year were 151 per cent of the base period, 1909-1914, but the average hourly earnings of factory workers were 397 per cent of the base period."

"It has been suggested that labor is entitled to wages 100 per cent higher than in January, 1941, at which time wages were at an all-time high, or 325 per cent of the base period of 1909-14."

Wages are now in excess of this suggested increase, for the average of hourly earnings of factory workers in July of this year stood at 397 per cent above the base period.

In a statement issued by President Roosevelt's radio address, O'Neil said his organization favored stabilizing agriculture on a basis of parity with labor and industry to ensure maximum production, but he maintained "wages are far higher, relatively, than farm prices."

He stated the farm bureau's directors, in a summary of view presented last Thursday to Mr. Roosevelt, advocated "ceilings upon farm prices not below 110 per cent of parity," "so farmers would be assured "a reasonable opportunity of securing, on an average, approximately a parity price in the open markets of the country."

GERMAN ENLISTS TO FIGHT FATHER

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—Henry Douglas Temple, whose father is an officer in the German army, had learned today that his army had accepted him as a volunteer on his second try since Pearl Harbor.

"I'm going to fight them all — my father and the whole Nazi gang," he said, "I'm going back to Germany — this time with the American army."

The young German refugee, who Americanized his name from Heinrich Emil Tempel, told how he and his mother were forced to leave the Saar in 1937 because she is Jewish. He also told how his mother's young brother was arrested by the Nazis and his ashes sent home several weeks later. "With people like that what can you do but fight?"

KIMBERLY SAILOR REPORTED DEAD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—The navy department today has issued casualty list No. 11 covering the period from Aug. 13, 1942, to Aug. 30, 1942, inclusive.

Among those listed as dead was Robert Clay Pendleton, seaman first class, U. S. navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthee Pendleton, formerly of Kimberly, Ind. Young Pendleton was a Kimberly high school graduate who enlisted in the navy last year. His parents are now employed in California.

The casualties totaled 437.

The total, including personnel of the navy, marine corps and coast guard, was made up of 103 dead, 17 wounded, and 317 missing.

These figures raised the announced naval casualties for the war to date to 3,028 dead, 1943 wounded, and 4,200 missing—a grand total of 12,271.

Included in the latest list were men from all states except Delaware, Nevada and South Dakota. Some casualties were from the Territory of Hawaii, but none was reported for other possessions or territories.

It was made up largely of men killed, wounded or missing as a result of direct action with the enemy but some of those whose names were listed were lost in accidents at sea and in the air on duty directly connected with war operations.

The navy said that some of these classes as missing may have been rescued at sea and landed at isolated spots or otherwise may have made their way safely to places from which they have been unable to communicate with American authorities.

MARINE REPORTER TELLS OF THRILLS

(Editor's Note: The following report on an incident in the lives of marines defending their positions in the Solomon Islands was written by a marine corps combat reporter and released yesterday by the navy department in Washington.)

By SGT. JAMES W. HURDLETT, GUADALCANAL, Solomon Islands, Aug. 16 (Delayed)—The thrill that comes once in a lifetime.

After you've spent a week on a tropical island recapturing the Japanese, word comes through one morning that an enemy counter attack is expected during the night ahead. You can't know whether it will come by land, sea, or air, so you spend the entire day earnestly improving your foxhole.

At noon you climb into said foxhole while six enemy bombers make their midday courtesy call and exchange cards with your anti-aircraft. You climb out on the all clear to learn the planes have dropped tiny parachutes. The chutes contain food, ammunition and medical supplies for your disintegrated enemy. They also contain pop talks from Tokyo saying help is on the way soon. So you put some more improvements on the foxhole.

After another short rest in the foxhole while the Jap subs off the beach job a few five-inchers in your general direction, you clamor out and put in an hour or two cleaning your pistol and rounding up all your ammunition.

A few minutes before dusk, the C. O. commanding officers' position the gang around and paces the word that several unidentified transports have been sighted on the horizon. He gives quick instructions on repelling the invaders and making every shot count.

You retire to the general neighborhood of the old foxhole and devote half your mind to figuring the speed of transports and the other half to resolves to do the best you can as long as you can. The telephone rings sharply. The officer responds to its ominous summons. He turns around and calls out sharply:

"Slips have been identified as American destroyers carrying ground crew personnel for the air field."

LOUISIANA AND CONN BATTLE FOR HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE OCT. 12

Million Dollars In Receipts Go To Service Relief

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—Simply for the pleasure of giving the wives and kiddies of our doughboys a million dollars, a couple of Uncle Sam's soldiers are going to climb into Yankee stadium's ring on Columbus day to fight the hottest fistic "natural" in six years.

It is almost as sure as a bomb's aim that the heavy-weight championship fight on Oct. 12 between Corp. Joe Louis, boxer, and Pvt. Billy Conn, who almost took the title a year ago, will hit the million-dollar jackpot for the first time since the Bomber's second bout with Max Baer in 1935.

The memory of the fireworks they set off in their first brawl is enough to bring the customers storming back again. And, if more help was needed, the fact that this fight will be for army emergency relief will more than make up the difference. What's more, a crowd of 70,000 and a gate of $1,200,000—with tickets sold for the 100,000—will be here for the world series fight in October, which will elicit around and help bring the cash registers.

All for Relief

Yet, not one nickel of it, except for minor expenses, will go to either fighter. Promoters, who are the owners of the Alabama cotton picker, the tough Irish kid out of Pittsburgh and the light promoter who is a w up on New York's bloom-line, are looking for a big profit. The fight is being held at the old Madison square garden, which is being used for the families of our soldiers.

Mike Ryan took over the box during the fight in the seventh. A walk, and a punch to the head, and a double gave the Senators three in the seventh. One more was added in the eighth. The second game of a planned doubleheader was called to allow both teams to make a rest. A final game was not completed.

Cards Idle; Brooks Win, Add to Lead

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP)—The Dodgers, battling for the National league lead against the challenge of the surging Cardinals, added the Pirates' victory yesterday behind the next four-hit pitching of Rube Bressler and Head and added their own victory over the Cardinals to three full games.

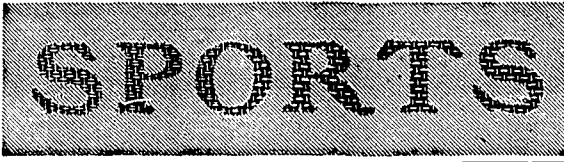

One year ago today the Pacific coast football fraternity was suffering from a complete lack of action. The old fog of World War I had white washed the field. The old fog of World War I had white washed the field. The old fog of World War I had white washed the field.

Minor Heads Slate Winter Meet

DORHAM, N. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—A brief, strictly business meeting of minor league presidents will replace the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, Sept. 14-15, in St. Paul, Minn., according to W. G. Bramham, announced today.

Wranglers Sell 7 More Players to San Diego Padres

Manager Tony Robello of the Twin Falls Cowboys today announced the sale of seven more Wrangler players to the San Diego Padres of the Pacific coast league.

One of these, Joe Farina, joins Jack Lohrke in reporting to the club immediately and these two boys will see action this week.

Farina was sold on a "look-see" basis and if he comes through in good shape in the chances he gets in the near future, he may bring the Cowboys considerably more than the $100 minimum paid for several of the other boys.

The other boys sold were Angelo Venturini, Lane Shanks, Ernie Sierra, Jack Hatchett, Nick Sumrell and Vic Trusky.

World Return Players

Believing that there would be no Pioneer league next season, Robello had the contracts transferred and in conversation with Major Lott, owner of the Padres, was informed that it should happen that the war was over and that the Pioneer league would be back in 1943 if the Pioneer league functions, the chances were that all the boys now available would be sent back to the Wrangler club.

Earlier in the season, the Padres took up options on Lohrke and Jim Olsen, at $200 each. Olsen, however, being with the Padres since 1941, is spring training practice in 1943.

Robello believes that Lohrke is definitely big league material and will continue to develop in the AA league as he has done here. Olsen is also considered good timber for future play and even Joe Devine, veteran coach of the New York Yankees, thinks he has a future. However, Jim may be called in to play on the Yankees' team in the very near future. He has just turned 20.

Along with three other Twin Falls Cowboy players, these six boys have made the initial jump from Class C to Class AA baseball. All the above boys get tryouts with the San Diego Padres in the fall. The Padres are now in California, where they are training. Pilots, Cards Open Play-off Series Tonight

POCAHELLO, Sept. 9 (AP)—It will be Boite versus Pocahellico tonight in the opening game of the series to determine the 1924 championship of the Pioneer Baseball League.

Both clubs—Pocahellico, the first-half winner, and Boite, the second-half winner—planned to lead with their aces. The Cardinals called on Manuel Vargas and the Pilots on Frankie Lammace, each the top-notch hurler of his club, for starting pitching assignments.

Three games will be played here. Boite and Pocahellico will continue the series until one team has won four games. Tonight's battle is slated to start at 7 p. m.

Pocahellico's Carlin was a tune-up exhibition game last night, defeating soldiers' team from Fort Douglas, Utah, 13 to 4.

All-Stars Are Favored to Trim Detroit

DETROIT, Sept. 9 (AP)—Major Wallace Wade, never overly optimistic, says his western army all-stars are definitely not a great team but most observers believe they are good enough to whip the Detroit Lions tonight and set the tone for the charity series with National Football League clubs.

Wade said he would stick pretty much to the lineup that started Sunday's triumph at Denver over the Chicago Cardinals, which matched an earlier defeat to the Washington Redskins at Los Angeles, and then added:

"This isn't a great team, you know, and never will be. Why? It seems to me that football is secondary to these boys, just as it should be."

Browns Collect 5 Straight Hits, Beat Tigers, 4-1

DETROIT, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Browns put together five straight singles for three runs in the fifth inning Sunday, which, combined with Walter Judkins' homer in the fourth and Steve Sundra's fourth-inning home run, beat the Tigers, 4 to 1.

The Browns' fifth inning blast all started with two outs only. Don Gutteridge cracked a single off pitcher Hal White's foot and Harold Giff, Earl Larkin and Judkins kept the spree alive with successive hits. Gutteridge and Giff scoring. Roy Hendrix relieved White and was greeted with a single by George McQuinn, Lantz coming in.

The Tigers' run of Sundra came in the sixth when Roger Cramer doubled and Rudy York sent him home with a single.

St. Louis' ace pitcher, Bobo Trout, pitched a complete game, allowing only one run, one hit, and one error. He was greeted with a single by George McQuinn, Lantz coming in.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

BY RENE RYERSON MART

TRUE CONFESSION

CHAPTER XIV
Tom gave a dimpled whistle. "Heavens, girl, what have you been doing to yourself? You look as if you'd lost 10 pounds!"

Her face was white and drawn, and in Letty's house dress, two sizes too big for her, she actually looked as if she had shriveled. She smiled wanly. "Oh, I'll be all right now."

It had been a hard week. Tom had been strong enough to go home the day after her thrilling rescue, but she refused to leave the hospital until she had been assured that someone would be with Pop every minute.

And upon Enid had fallen the burden of keeping that promise. For Letty had her babies to take care of, and Aunt Kate was too mindful of her own comfort to spend many tedious hours by a sick man's bedside.

Not that Enid complained. She was thankful that her father was alive to receive care and attention.

So she had stayed with him faithfully, sleeping propped up in a rocking chair in his room, and left twice during the week had left the hospital to come out to the cottage to bathe and change clothes.

It had not been until Friday night, when Pop had been at last pronounced out of danger, that she had had anything like a full night's sleep.

Mom was in the cottage kitchen with the girls, where Tom had found them that Sunday morning. His words focused her worried attention upon her youngest daughter's face. It was the first time she had really seen the strain in it, the hollows under the dark, sober eyes.

"She does look right peaked," Mom murmured with Tom. With vigorous decision she took the dish towel out of Enid's hand. "I'll wash her face with the linen. In it, the hollows under the dark, sober eyes."

"You don't look right peaked," Mom murmured with Tom. With vigorous decision she took the dish towel out of Enid's hand. "I'll wash her face with the linen. In it, the hollows under the dark, sober eyes."

He looked at Enid and grinned. There were white circles under his eyes now where a few minutes before there had been shadows, and the rest of her face was turning a beautiful scarlet. He laughed. "We'd better get out and dry or you'll be parboiled!"

She followed him up the sandy beach to the foot of the bank where some scrubby trees threw a thin shade. She sat down on the yellow sand and shook her hair free from the cap. Tom hopped on his stomach beside her, watching her. Enid met his eye and then looked away.

"Nice here, isn't it?" Tom asked lazily.

Enid agreed. He sat up suddenly, remembering something that had been on his mind. "Say—I suppose the hospital bill for your folks was pretty steep, wasn't it? I meant to ask before I went away that morning if you needed any more. I've got a little in the bank. . . ."

"Not that I've saved this last month to buy a ring," she straightened up jerkily. "Tom stared at her. 'What's the matter?'"

"Oh, Tom, Tom—don't!" "Don't what?" "Don't buy me a ring now, don't you want one, don't you want an engagement ring?"

"No!" It was as if the word escaped of its own volition. Certainly Enid had had no premeditated intention of uttering it. But as she said it, her decision was made. She was too tired to go on pretending; to go on trying to fool Tom—and herself.

Tom eyed her incredulously. "What do you mean, you don't want a ring?" The transience faded from his voice. "You haven't changed your mind, have you?"

She didn't want to hurt Tom. But—how was she going to tell him? Tears rose to her eyes, and she struggled against them. She mustn't cry. She mustn't make Tom sorry for her.

"I guess I know how you feel, honey," she said soothingly. "You've been through a lot and you're tired and upset. I shouldn't have started talking about our engagement. I only meant that if you'd rather have the loan of the money now, instead of a ring."

"Tom, please." He patted her shoulder. "All right. We won't talk about it. I'll wait."

SHE pushed herself away from him. Her voice was desperate but determined. The false situation into which she had weakly allowed herself to be drawn had to be ended once and for all.

"Tom, you don't understand. I'm not going to marry you. I don't love you. I never have."

There, it was out! She hadn't meant to tell him this way. In fact she hadn't meant to tell him at all. She had fooled herself all week into thinking that she could take up her life where she had left it, before she met Dr. Henry Holladay. But now she knew that she couldn't.

Tom stared at her, at first unbelievably, then his face went white under its tan. "I'm sorry, Tom. Really I am," Enid whispered wretchedly. She wished she could wipe that look from his face.

"I don't suppose it will hurt you to ride once more with me," he cut in harshly. "Tom—I didn't mean that! I'll be glad to ride with you, if you want me."

"I came up here to get you, didn't I?" It wasn't a cheerful ride. Tom was silent and stony, and Enid was harassed by a sense of guilt. She wasn't accustomed to feeling that she had behaved badly—and she knew she had to Tom.

She was also acutely aware of the secret hope beating deep in her heart. A shameful hope that she wouldn't admit even to herself, but that was there as she said her constrained goodbye to Tom, when at last they reached the unpretentious little frame house on Elm street.

She didn't need any makeup, for the sunburn she had acquired that afternoon had reddened her lips and given her face a soft and lovely flush. Above her pink cheeks her eyes were wide and shining. . . . and expectant. (To Be Continued)
