ALLIES CAPTURE NAZI-HELD POINT IN DESERT FIGHT

By The Associated Press

In the first significant offensive action in the desert since the Tunisian front in two weeks, allied troops were reported today to have driven the Germans from a strategic point on the important road junction to Medjez-el-Bab and held the position against enemy counter-attacks.

The success was announced by allied north African headquarters in a communique which also reported an increase in patrol activity on the northern end of the front and sharp fighting on the southern flank where French troops were said to have repelled axis attacks west of Kairouan.

Enemy Repelled
Reuters reported that the Morocco radio broadcast a French communique saying: "In the region west of Kairouan our troops were violently attacked by the enemy throughout yesterday. The enemy was repelled on the whole length of the front, leaving behind numerous prisoners and a great quantity of war material. American aircraft successfully supported our troops."

Medjez-el-Bab is about 35 miles southwest of Tunis. Kairouan is another 60 miles farther south and about 40 miles west of the port of Sousse. It was reported that French troops had been reported pushing in an effort to drive a wedge between the axis forces in Tunisia and Field Marshal Rommel's army now retreating westward across Libya.

Retarded by Rain
Whether the engagement at Medjez-el-Bab was a forerunner to the long-expected showdown battle for Tunisia was not immediately clear. Action in this area has been retarded by heavy rains.

Dislocating from north Africa quoted a spokesman at allied headquarters as saying there had been a definite tendency on the part of both the allies and the enemy to increase their patrolling operations on the north front.

"We cannot say what it may portend," he said, "but you can be sure this state of affairs cannot continue very long."

The spokesman said the enemy was continually moving more troops into Tunisia in preparation for a showdown and added grimly:

"Lots of Stuff"
"Undoubtedly he's got a hell of a lot of stuff there."

Jack back from the front, the spokesman made it plain, however, that the allies, after a period of strengthening their forward position.

"I was most impressed by the superb motor convoy system which the British are using to move supplies and the equipment into Tunisia," he said. "They are doing an incredibly good job of moving great convoys of tanks, trucks, and other heavy equipment."

The Damascus radio broadcast an announcement that fighting French forces coming up from the Lake Chad area in Equatorial Africa had routed an axis motorized detachment in the Foz de la Osa region of southern Iraq.

The exact locale was not given, but it apparently was some 300 or 400 miles south of the Tunisian front.

The German high command declared that renewed allied attacks had been repelled by axis forces in (Continued on Page 2, Column 3)

Twin Falls Airport Named Joslin Field For Filer Sergeant

Joslin field is the new name of the Twin Falls municipal airport, honoring the name of the late Staff Sgt. Raymond R. Joslin, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Joslin, Filer, who lost his life in battle in the southwest Pacific area Sept. 29.

Major Joe Koehler said the Filer airport was the first member of the air force from this locality to be killed in battle. He was honored with the name of the field at the same time he sent a telegram to Paul Morris, Seattle, Wash., regional manager for the civil aeronautics administration, suggesting that official of the new designation.

"We have officially named the Twin Falls airport, Joslin field," said the mayor's telegram, "to commemorate the late staff sergeant Raymond Joslin, first air corps hero from this district, killed in line of duty in battle. We therefore subscribe the name Joslin field to posterity."

The mayor said official ceremonies for naming the airport Joslin field will be held at a time to be announced later.

The youth whose name will appear on all airport maps was graduated from Filer high school in 1937, and joined the air corps about three years ago. He received training at March field, Calif., Scott field, Ill., and Chaney field, Ill.

Attempted Prison Break Is Foiled
BOISE, Ida., Dec. 25 (AP)—An attempted prison break at the Idaho penitentiary by an unidentified inmate was revealed today by Warden C. Van Clark.

Clark said that several days ago guards discovered a length of sheet and a grappling hook which the convict apparently had designed to assist him in getting over the wall.

ALLIES HIT JAPS FROM TWO SIDES

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Dec. 25 (AP)—American and Australian forces jabbed from two sides at the last Japanese stronghold in the Buna area of New Guinea today, as allied bombers struck at enemy occupied islands in an act extending hundreds of miles.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's jungle fighters drove the Japanese back to an inner core of resistance extending a mile eastward from the Buna mission. The enemy-held strip was between 500 and 600 yards wide, with its center at Gempoko point.

One allied force attacked the main air strip from the seaward side while the other force, supported by the Japanese from the western end of the strip.

An allied spokesman said that today fighting lay ahead because the Japanese were making a last ditch stand behind a heavily fortified citadel of resistance.

The enemy had set up a barbed wire, concrete emplacements, machine guns, and earthworks reinforced by the results of a battle.

The latest communique reported the strongest allied air raids in the Pacific since the Japanese bombers blasted Japanese positions from the Aru islands south of New Guinea, to the northeast.

Our bombs sank a Japanese destroyer in the Solomons, a transport in Huon Gulf and a 5,000-ton transport near Gasmata at the southern end of New Britain island.

The two are Maj. Wesley Sawyer and Sgt. Guy "Junior" Reynolds. The Emmett high school band will lead the parade, which will include a color guard from Gownen field, state guard members and service men home on furlough.

SOUTHERN MAHO PAUSES TO MARK WAR CHRISTMAS

By The Associated Press

Maui Valley residents today traced their various war histories as best they could, and went about celebration of Christmas with the spirit which the United Nations are fighting to preserve.

Christmas was ushered in by high mass at St. Edward's Catholic church, which began at midnight. Still in progress at midnight, was a choral communion service at the Ascension Episcopal church. Low mass at St. Edward's was held at 6 and 10 a. m. The church of the Nazarene will have a Christmas program at 8 p. m.

Vacancies at Reunions
Many a family reunion was being held today over the Maui Valley, although vacancies caused by military service and war work at distant points caused numerous absences and stressed the somber aspect of a wartime Yuletide. Greeting relatives made travel difficult, and cutting down the number of home visitors for the holidays.

All public offices, and virtually all Twin Falls store retail establishments, were closed for the holiday. One other traditional observance marked Christmas day in Twin Falls. Twin Falls commanders No. 7 Knights Templar, convened at 10 a. m. with Master Mason and their wives for the annual reunion of the Maui Valley.

Clifford Evans as commander, the group heard a prayer by Rev. Herman Rice, reading of general orders by Thomas J. Foster, recorder, and a musical program under Mrs. C. J. Duvall.

Toasts Offered
Toasts were offered by the following: Samuel H. Kautz, Field Marshal, grand past commander of the state; Claude M. Gordon, district deputy grand master; and Judge of Idaho; Walter Parfitt, excellent past grand chaplain of the state; Fred J. Harris, past grand master, and Robert A. Parrott, eminent grand standard bearer of the grand commandery of Idaho.

U. S. PLANES RAID BIG ITALY BASES
CAIRO, Dec. 25 (AP)—Bomber formations of the United States middle east air force struck at two of Italy's most important southern ports Wednesday night—Naples and the big naval base of Taranto.

It was announced officially today. It was the first American raid on Taranto, on the Italian heel, since the allied air force sent a serial is located here, the first being in Spain on the Gulf of Genoa.

For the first time in two years, the importance of the axis as a reinforcement port for its forces in Africa since the RAF crippled Genoa.

A radio Morocco broadcast heard by the United Press in London said allied aircraft blasted the harbor on the axis-occupied island of Crete in the eastern Mediterranean last night.

The radio said that during the past few days no axis vessels have been reported using the harbor of Tripoli in Libya.

French Leader for North Africa Shot

By PHIL AULT

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Dec. 25 (AP)—French and allied authorities today sought the motive of an unidentified youth about 20 years old who yesterday assassinated Admiral Jean-François Darlan, former No. 2 man in the provincial Vichy government who swung French north and west Africa to the allied cause.

An announcement by allied headquarters said Darlan, who was commissioner of French north and west Africa, was assassinated in his office at Algiers at 3 p. m. yesterday.

But that a preliminary investigation had not established whether the deed was of German or Italian inspiration.

"British reports said the assassin was a 20-year-old Frenchman. The assassin, who was arrested on the spot" after he fired one bullet into Darlan's mouth and another into his lung, was waiting for the admiral in a small room opposite his office. He opened the door, 25 caliber revolver just as Darlan was crossing the corridor to his office.

Attacker Captured
Darlan stumbled and the assassin fired a second bullet into his chest, jumping over the latter's body. A French officer, Commandant Fourcade, who was standing nearby, fired, but the young man fired two shots, one striking the officer in the chest.

By this time other French officers had arrived from other offices and they surrounded the assassin. The assassin apparently was well planned, for the young man had appeared at the scene of the assassination earlier in the day and asked to see Darlan. Although he was unsuccessful, he had enabled him to familiarize himself with the layout of the office.

The red army moved closer upon Millevoye, the French leader, and Voloshin, directly west of Millevoye, and Otkrytoy, who directly east. A new winter offensive in the Caucasus was reported to have returned more German-occupied territory to Russian hands and emphasized again the peril to the north in southern Russia.

The assassination was regarded as particularly unfortunate at this time because of possible repercussions on the political and military situation on the military situation in French north and west Africa.

There was no word from Africa on whether a successor had been appointed to Darlan as high commissioner, but a French radio quoted an Algerian radio broadcast, said the Gen. Henri Honoré Girard, commander of French army and air forces in Africa, had taken over to maintain order.

At Algiers, at the end of a spur railway line the high in the Caucasus mountains about 40 miles from the border, the Russian reported, and red army moved closer upon Millevoye, the French leader, and Voloshin, directly west of Millevoye, and Otkrytoy, who directly east.

WOUNDED SENT MESSAGE BY FDR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—In a special Christmas message to ill and wounded men of the armed services President Roosevelt had promised today that "you who are younger" would have a voice in the peace, his message.

"On this, another wartime Christmas, I would like to send you a personal message. We shall need your help when the war is won in the hard task of building a better and a freer world. It is fitting, therefore, that you who are younger shall be given the opportunity to fight for a better world in time of peace as you have fought to save this free world in time of war. God bless you and keep you, for you belong to us and to the future of America."

The President also sent this message to all members of the armed forces.

"Happily the star of Christmas again shines brightly in a world black with war and hate. Never has mankind yearned more for what that star signifies— for peace and honor to men of good will. The way we must travel is yet long. As you go bravely forward into the new year you can be sustained by the thought that you have the most precious gift which in the power of our countrymen to bestow—their affection and deep gratitude. To this I can only add my very warmest personal greetings to each of you."

Man Pumps 817 Gallons of Gas Into Basement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—William W. Turner, driver of a fuel oil truck, started to attach the oil hose to a pipe outside a store when a man ran out and said: "Don't cut the pipe. It's over to your left."

So Turner hooked up with the pipe to his left, and 817 gallons of kerosene oil ran into the store basement, not the tank. It was a pipe no longer in use. Firemen collected this ration coupons and left.

FDR DENOUNCES DARLAN SLAYING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—President Roosevelt last night denounced the assassination of Admiral Jean Darlan as "murder in the first degree."

The text of his statement: "The cowardly assassination of Admiral Darlan is murder in the first degree."

"All leaders of all the United Nations will agree with that statement."

"Sadism and fascism and military despotism hold otherwise. I hope that speedy justice will overtake the murderer or murderers of Admiral Darlan."

The news of the slaying of the former Vichy leader who became a co-worker of the American forces in North Africa was related to Mr. Roosevelt while he was in the midst of Christmas eve observance at the White House.

The President immediately put all other considerations aside to compose his statement and hand it to Stephen Early, presidential secretary, for distribution to the press.

The assassination came as a shock to the whole capital, even to those who questioned the wisdom of American dealings with Darlan.

Political French officials here were among those who expressed a sense of shock. Pending receipt of further details, however, they hesitated to suggest any explanation of the slaying or to attempt any evaluation of its possible consequences.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

BEVERAGE—A reallocation of shipping for hauling goods from the southern hemisphere to the United States may soon relieve coffee shortages and rationing. W. P. "Buck" Tucker, executive vice president of the transportation problem is blamed by trade leaders and Latin exporters for scarcities of our favorite breakfast beverage.

Officials originally allowed only a limited amount of tonnage for this product. When an M-20 order, our importers could not get in more than that quantity. The curtailment was not called an embargo but it amounted up to the same thing. The bean complies the best cargo from several of our good neighbors, the quota was filled as early as last September.

There is usually a three-month supply stored here and this backlog could have been maintained easily if it had not been for the maritime trouble. The war production board also failed in quiet attempts to adjust sales of the roasted commodity to imports. Then they started a consumer run which cleared out retailers and it was not possible to replace stocks from green reserves on hand.

South American ports became so overrated that rail routes had to be placed on freight from the interior to prevent spoilage. Meaningless vessels were returning to the U. S. light or in ballast instead of filling hatches with coffee. Meanwhile the docks, they waited time, coal and oil plying from country to country in stretches of four months on the hazy seas.

The state department tried to help by suggesting the use of small craft. All nations involved were urged to ship by trawlers, sailing and tramp steamers. Since the United States had no small craft, they were unable to negotiate charters. Because W. P. B. Tucker is a free trader and the state department is a protectionist, the two bodies in the National organization prefer tea, cocoa or a stronger drink.

General Affairs has warned it does subjects that they can expect to see something new in the way of ship trading. The British rails on Genoa, Turin and other manufacturing centers and ports will be in line in comparison to what they will suffer eventually.

We expect to drive both the Romans and Germans out of all north Africa by February 1, the date fixed on the high command's calendar. We may do it because then—perhaps by New Year's day—it will take us about two weeks to reform and replenish, and then the grand assault on Mussolini's land will begin. By then, the general has hinted, the United States will be available which are far, more destructive than those chasing Rommel to another Dunkirk.

WHAT WILL 1943 BRING?

The annual holiday season is the time of year when we find ourselves appraising the previous 12 months and attempting to anticipate what Father Time has in store for us in the year to come.

This holiday season our thoughts are sharply divided. We are grateful for the many pleasures we have enjoyed while other peoples throughout the world have suffered hunger, hardship and privation. But even though our own homeland has not been invaded and ravaged, we are mindful of the horrors we have witnessed in this war with all its horror aspects. We have many reasons to be happy, and many causes for sorrow.

During the next few days, as we approach the dawn of 1943, many of us will ask ourselves the question: "What will the new year bring; where will we be 12 months from now?"

Our greatest hope, of course, will be that the war is ended during that time, that our men will be returning from overseas, that peace will again be won, and that we may return to a normal way of living.

But the more realistic of us must realize that its fulfillment rests largely upon those remaining at home. Ours is a far greater responsibility than we have been brought to appreciate up to now. The tremendous amount of war equipment we must manufacture, the vast supplies of food we must produce, the many other things we must do, will determine how quickly we shall achieve victory.

This is not to belittle what we have already done, because taking everything into consideration, we have made remarkable gains. But the point is we will be called upon to do more and more until the war is won, and the more readily we reconcile ourselves to these necessities, the sooner our hope will be realized.

From the standpoint of the war, this holiday season finds us at the stage where we've just getting ready to fight. Up to now our combined efforts have been devoted largely to preparation. Well, the preliminary skirmishes on the far-flung fronts now appear to be moving slightly in our favor, the real job of winning the war is getting under way. And in winning a war we should follow that same rule that applies in accomplishing any task: The sooner we all pitch in and work, the sooner the job will be done.

Victory, or even the knowledge that it is just around the next bend, can't be won unless it is possible for us when we observe the holiday season a year hence. And what an added satisfaction it would be if we all knew we had done our part in working toward that end—gladly, voluntarily and without grumbling!

It is a single year, but how many reasons to be grateful, should be first to set the example.

Aside from the fact that the combined efforts of Ducks Unlimited, the Geological Survey and the Idaho Wildlife League have made wild ducks more plentiful than at any time in recent history, and the season just closed one of the most successful as a result, there is one federal regulation that could be modified to good advantage, particularly when a meat shortage is imminent.

Both Coaches Predict Loss In Orange Tilt

By ROMNEY WHEELER
TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 25 (A.P.)—
No matter who wins in the Orange bowl Jan. 1; this much is certain:
The losing coach will say "I told

Dour French Thomas of Alabama never wins medals for optimism, and today he's cycling Boston college with all the enthusiasm of a man looking at his own firing squad.

"Believe me," he said, "I saw a couple of motion pictures showing Boston college in action—and they look better than the Chicago Bears. So help me, I'd be afraid to show those pictures to my boys. At least three of them wouldn't show up the day of the game."

And if that's a sample of coaching optimism, consider B. C.'s Denny Myers, working out his Eagles at Miami.

"Heads we lose, tails we lose," says Myers, "and if the coin doesn't fall, we lose."

Conceding that each can field a fair country ball club, Alabama is expected to depend again upon one of the nation's greatest collegiate line combinations to stop Boston college backs. And if experience means anything, Bama's defense hardly should neglect napping. Playing three Boston teams the regular season on schedule is a reasonable facsimile of a football education in itself.

Offensively Alabama can hold its own against 10 opponents, nine of them recognized biggies of collegiate or service football, the crimson tide averaged 268 yards to 165 yards for his opposition, and scored better than 20 points per game to less than eight for each opponent. And don't forget Alabama's passing. The Blazers' piling department gave up 5253 on completions, peaking 51 out of 97 attempts for 747 yards, and knocking down 104 of the opposition's 179 counter-blows.

DIPLOMATIC PROBLEM

PENNY OF ZINC
WILL BE ISSUED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau had issued an order today authorizing the traditional copper penny to the list of war casualties and authorizing coinage of a substitute zinc-coated steel.

The order was issued under legislation recently signed by the President authorizing changes in the composition of the penny in order to save copper, a critical war material.

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, said the production of the present penny, which contains about 95 per cent copper, would be discontinued on Jan. 1, and minting of the new coin would begin by Feb. 1.

The new penny will have a blue gray cast which will tend to become darker with circulation and will weigh slightly less than the copper penny—41.5 grains compared with 48 grains. The steel penny will be of the same size and design as the copper penny which has been minted since 1909.

"Been up today?"

"None."

He said he would wait until the mother and baby returned to the
