CONGRESS NAMES CAUSING TROUBLE

By TOM A. REDDY
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Ever get someone else's mail, get called out on the telephone without knowing what it's all about, then find out that the name has been given the street has your name?

Well, that's how some members of congress feel about their names. It's a day job by without some confusion because the wrong Johnson or the wrong Thomas got mixed up in potential dynamic.

There are so many similar names among the members of the house that the journal clerks have drawn up a list for their daily guidance in reading legislation.

Just to be a matter look at the Johnsons in congress. Only two in the house—John J. Johnson of Colorado and Hiram W. of California—and eight in the house.

The Thomases are the little gathering, too, with Elbert D. of Utah, Emer of Oklahoma and John of Idaho in the senate. Albert of Texas and J. Parnell of New Jersey in the house, with Dr. Edna Thomas of Texas, just to add to the confusion.

Four Miller's don't help much in the house. There are a hundred of them, but only two Clarks, Henrietta Clark of Missouri and D. W. of Idaho.

Adding to the confusion in the house is the combination of Anderson of Minnesota, Anderson of California, Anderson of New Mexico and Anderson of Missouri.

There are also there a Robinson of Pennsylvania; also there a Robinson of Texas and a Robinson of Kentucky. What's a name? A lot of trouble, sometimes, say the house clerks.

BAND HEAD HELD ON DRUG CHARGE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20.—Gene Krupa led his nationally famed band through a 60-minute program of hot "live" at a downtown theater last night while officers waited in the wings to arrest him on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

He was taken into custody after he left the stage, and to the city prison for booking.

Assistant District Attorney Edward Leonard said a warrant for Krupa's arrest was issued after a visit by federal narcotic agents to the musician's dressing room at the theater, a search of his hotel room, and the alleged discovery of marijuana cigarettes in the possession of a prep boy who joined the band 10 days ago in Hollywood.

The boy was held at the juvenile detention home for investigation. He was taken into custody by Federal Narcotic Agents J. V. Gullibini and O. W. Polouch.

The 34-year-old, dark-haired musician, discussed the situation with policemen as he awaited his call to the stage.

"The agents searched my room," he declared, "and found nothing. There's nothing in it. If the boy had marijuana cigarettes in his possession, I don't know how he got them."

"This boy used to hang around the theater in Hollywood where I played. He was a sort of 'fan' and once you might call him."

Krupa, born in Chicago, started drumming at the age of 12 with a band in his home town. He played the drums for Benny Goodman and then formed his own band.

Too Little for Navy? He's Now Firing at Japs

Remember Frederick Dogtia, the little fellow who "wants a share" when the navy held its mass overhauling of rifles in the city park on "six months after Pearl Harbor" last June 27? Well, here's a true life account of how Dogtia's mark on "six months after Pearl Harbor" has helped him in the Japanese in the vicinity of Siam in the south Pacific.

His failure to show up for the ceremony after enlisting at the local recruiting station sent the recruiters combing the city for him, only to learn that the scout and snapper appeared because some of his friends told him he was "too short" for the navy. But Dogtia's mark didn't think him and later that day he was sworn in at Boise.

A letter from him was one of two that arrived this week from men in the armed forces at the home of Dogtia's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dogtia, 159 Alexander street. The other was to Mary Ellen Dogtia from Pfc. Ralph Winters, her father and great-grandfather's brother. Frederick, he is residing in New Guinea after spending quite a while in an army hospital at Melbourne. His letter said he liked Melbourne best of all Australian cities and was very much pleased because one of his buddies in New Guinea had a portable phonograph and a white in the latest records.

GERMAN STRY TO EXPLAIN LOSSES

Yanks Alert—Even at Meal Time in New Guinea

By FRANK BRITTO
BERN, Switzerland, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Nazi press is endeavoring to explain the German setbacks in the eastern front by admitting the superiority of Russian resources and materiel.

The Berlin correspondent of the Neue Zuercher Zeitung quoted the German press as saying that the German losses are "not the result of the superiority of Russian resources and materiel."

The Russian, the newspaper said, has "more tanks, more guns and more tanks than a year ago."

Under the heading "The tragedy at Stalingrad," the Berliner Nachrichten said the show in that sector was the last act and "the tragic outcome for the Germans could no longer be denied."

Following the battle of Stalingrad, the newspaper said the Germans now must remain in the area of more than 20 divisions and with a defeat greater than any suffered in this war.

The newspaper explained that in fighting men as well as materials the allies have a great advantage in the axis nations. Russian manpower, it said, is more than twice German, and therefore the ratio of 20 divisions by the Germans "is twice as serious as it would be for the Russians."

Time Element
Relational Internationalism, Italian war aid and the fact that the war of rapid movement had ended and now entered a new phase in which the element of time is a major factor unfavorable to the tripartite powers (Germany, Italy and Japan).

The Berlin correspondent of Il Giornale d'Italia said that the fresh troops sent by the British to the Stalingrad area and in the region south of Lake Ladoga.

These new forces, he said, "are better armed, better trained and better equipped than the 'special' troops of the Axis powers."

Twin Falls Youth In North Africa

Only a few "seconds" are needed for a submarine to travel across the Atlantic ocean and a like amount of time to move by wire from New York City to Twin Falls, but a cablegram from Pfc. Jess Southland, sent from North Africa Jan. 19, tells of his experiences.

Southland, here until Jan. 10, carried Christmas and New Year's greetings to his family.

The cablegram brought the first information that he was in Africa, and the first communication from him having come from England.

Southland is a member of the Twin Falls youth group, and has been in the army two years.

DEMOS IN SCRAP OVER N. V. SOLOV

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—A Democratic party internal rift that saw the house leadership give in to strenuous southern opposition led to the resignation of the 40-year-old New York lawyer and only American-born congressman, without a Democratic endorsement.

A recommendation by the Democratic committee on committees that Solov be re-elected in party caucus yesterday.

Afterward, Democratic leaders said all was harmony. Opponents of Marcantonio declared the action had averted a split which threatened to disintegrate the party's majority.

Marcantonio, accused by some opponents of having been associated with "communist" organizations, declared his line is bent on the promotion of domestic peace.

Marcantonio wanted to be a member of the Judiciary group because of his legal background.

By RENEE TAYLOR
BERKELEY, Calif., Jan. 20 (AP)—A suggestion that the American people be taught scientifically how to smoke cigarettes and other forms of tobacco was made today at a meeting of scientists and forest service officials.

Foresters and anthropologists and other savants would be called upon to guide the widespread effort to teach the American people the habits for the sake of safety, particularly for Pacific coast forests.

FARM MACHINERY INCREASE SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—Food Production Administrator M. Clifford Branson had told farmers investigators today he was "not sure there is no chance" of meeting 1943 production goals without an increase in WPA allotments for farm machinery.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Gray B. Hill asserted the farmers needed new machinery up to 50 per cent of 1940 machinery. He estimated that 38 per cent of that figure "the absolute minimum."

The war production board's allowance of critical materials to provide but 23 per cent of 1940 machinery has been approved to WPA's office of civilian supply, told the committee farmers were either 1943 with the 100-0-000-gallon quantity of machinery in his possession.

He testified that while new machinery production has been cut, repair parts production has been increased. He estimated that 100,000,000 or 74.1 per cent of the average output during the 1931-0-000 period.

He said that with a few new iron excursions farmers already have equipped themselves to produce 1943 full crops through their extraordinary purchases of 1941 and 1942.

IF HEAD COLDS HANG-ON

Do this! To relieve discomfort, one of the best things you can do is use a good quality, head-baiting VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water.

You feel that wonderful relief as you breathe in the steaming medicated vapors that penetrate to the cold-congested nose, soothe irritation, quiet coughing, and help clear the head-bringing great comfort.

FOR ADDITIONAL RELIEF... rub throat, chest and back with VapoRub at bedtime. The VapoRub works for hours—2 ways at once—to bring relief from distress. Remember—the Vicks VapoRub you buy.

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

It's knowing what all the shouting is about plus all there is to know about "what gives the paratrooper his extra, killing something."

It's knowing how to quench your thirst plus how to give you the fine feeling of refreshment that has made ice-cold Coca-Cola the best-liked soft drink on earth. Quality is the extra something. You'll taste it and feel it and enjoy it every time you tip up a frosty bottle of Coke.

Fifty-seven years of skill working with the choicest of ingredients creates its goodness. So, call for ice-cold Coca-Cola by its full name or by everybody's affectionate abbreviation, Coke. That's treating yourself right.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing... the real thing... "coming from a single source, and well known to the community."

Ask any fighting man. He'll tell you that ice-cold Coca-Cola is a canteen aide, a special tonic to morale. And it's the refreshment, everywhere you get it.

The best is always the better buy!

IDAHO'S PRISON FARM APPROVED

BOISE, Jan. 20 (AP)—Idaho state plans to build a 10,000-acre farm west of here to be a "model" "quite satisfactory" in the opinion of the state institution commission. Changes are needed in buildings.

In its report to the house of representatives the commission recommended that inmates' quarters be moved to a location between the main quarters and the farm buildings. It also favored construction of housing for farm workers and present inmates. There are several thousand dollars worth of farm machinery standing out doors the year around.

The committee also reported favorably on the inmates' home and child children's home, both at Boise. Conditions of the state school and colony at Nampa were declared satisfactory. In its report which also recommended improvements at the state prison.

These recommendations included proposals to provide additional accommodations and comfort for the guards' quarters, relocation of the laundry and shower room, installation of "major alterations" including plumbing in cellhouse No. 1, and a reconnection of the telephone in the pump house outside the walls so that it passes through the prison switchboard rather than directly to outside connections as at present.

"In making this recommendation we believe we are clearly in the source of outside contact which apparently has existed indefinitely and which may have been a source of trouble in making escapes," the report said.

The committee also urged the passage of legislation to authorize the selling of "surplus products, farm and otherwise," from the prison, the proceeds to go to support of the prison.

Another recommendation urged that "some form of employment be provided for all convicts that can be treated with the least expense at this time in some labor that will aid the war effort."

By RICHARD CUSHING

FRONT IN AFRICA HELPS RUSSIANS

By LOUIS F. KENZIE
United Press Wire Analyst
The inter-Allied attack on the great Russian offensive and allied operations in north Africa becomes more apparent as the Russians continue their Germanic back toward their European strongholds.

It is significant that there has been no mention of a Russian retreat in the Russian reports for nearly two months now. The African campaign has done two things to help Russia.

It caused a weakening of the German air force on the eastern front and prevented the dispatch of any considerable number of reserves to bolster the Axis armies in the west.

The German press is speaking grandly of a Russian "break-through" and accusing the people that the oncoming Russians will not get far as the result.

● SERIAL STORY

'I AM A MURDERER'

BY MORRIS MARKEY

COPYRIGHT, 1942, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: This is the story of the "perfect crime"—the murder of Col. Wesley Hope Merrick in the library of an island estate—of the events leading up to it. Cynthia, the Colonel's daughter, has just told the story of her life to Vaughan Dunbar, a foreign correspondent and a new acquaintance. How she was taken from a California convent by the Colonel when she was 16, and how little she knew of the Colonel's life before then, Dunbar returns to New York and Cynthia, who seems to be falling in love with him, joins Fred West and Henry Prentiss, two attractive but momentarily unsuccessful admirers, at the club dance.

"What? Not you?"
"I told him the story of my life."
"Something? Was never brought up inquiring into."
"It was funny. All of a sudden I was just spilling beans all over the place."
"Well, I guess it's love, all right."
"Oh, Hank..."
"Look here, Prentiss. I can take it if you have fallen for this bombastic. I can't take it if you're going to pull that carries around shoulders, for his love loves to keep on pulling and a cry-baby to boot."
Whereupon she buttoned herself up, and removed the single small tear which had escaped her eye, and allowed her common sense to take command again.
"If you think I'm going to apologize, you're crazy," she said. "If you think I'm going to swear you to secrecy, you're crazier still. The way I read all of the best books, every one has a right to one of three damn spasms once in a lifetime."
Spoken like Miss Prentiss herself.
A hearty woman, Prentiss. One of nature's iron maidens.
"With currents that run deep?"
"With mysterious and unimpaired depths."
"Inscrutable?"
"And glowing with a radiant light that shines from afar."
"Full of primitive courage?"
"A full of primitive courage. Full of primitive things for Old Lady Cyn. Let's leave us in regard to the cave and portage of the bonnie forest."
Eventually they all went back to Stogie's. Very late it was, of a moonstruck night, and so it seemed advisable to skip the pool. That aim was accomplished, oh, deviously, you may be sure—and then there was play at rands for stakes which made Mitchell Grace and Fred West worry aloud. And it was perilously close to dawn before they got around to the business of laying stakes upon the polo game which would be played on Sunday. The estimable Miss Cyn had made certain familiar marks upon

Mitchell Grace by the time his cloak was reached, Fred West's cheeks were pinker than the fairest Blom and might ever boast. And he was everything that a male could be short of fraudulent.
He demanded of Henry Prentiss, "Are you going to play?"
"The good doctor says yes," returned our side in return to him.
"And that, expressed in terms of cash money, means..." said Henry Prentiss.
"All I've got, which is a single grand, after I've paid out in a few places with loans here and there."
Mitchell Grace named an intelligent figure. And Cynthia said, "I'll make up the rest of the pot, Hank dear—and you just name what the pot is going to be. Like a good boy. Like the sweet, lovable character you are."
Henry Prentiss said, "Let us not be unduly influenced by the babby. Let us take reason to our bosoms."
And Mitchell Grace laughed, "Go ahead, Hank. Square out of it if you want to."
"Now, Mitchell, be nice," Cynthia said.
Prentiss was steady. "I'll be whatever you lays want to enter, but you'll have to wait until tomorrow to name your figure. Cynthia and I are not betting. Reason? I don't want Miss Prentiss' nooting against me. I'm 'vahn, gentlemen. You in, or no?"
The butler came directly to suggest coffee and scrambled eggs and sausage—and thus ended a night.

CHAPTER XIII

Cynthia put her small, thin lips upon her lips and stared at him. If you're broken enough to let respectable people look at you in that pose, you can come around to the table and say how sorry you are—after a while. Her good humor was restored. "My night's better, you sit down. We can take it."
Henry Prentiss grimaced at her. "Where's your high-class archdiocese?"
"He had more important things to think about than a little bit of bling in the clinic to stupid nurse." She said that with a certain warmth and such no smile at all. "I know, Henry Prentiss' laugher sound loud, and that in turn made people look at them."
She danced away with Mitchell Grace, sitting Henry Prentiss one more feathered dart over his shoulder. "Put your contraption on your collar, though."
Henry Prentiss did go to the table in good time, and he did sit down, and he did, surprisingly enough, say that he was relieved to offend—both by his appearance and his unorthodox ways with women folk. With a certain embarrassment charged with high emotion from Fred West: "Here comes that wine again, you know."
"I'm buying, thank you," said Prentiss.
Which he did. And to shame Fred West he raised an eyebrow at the Cordon Rouge bottle, which had been emptied and was sitting in the bucket, and commanded the waiter to appear next time with Chateau Pinot, no less.
Eventually, of course, he and Cynthia were alone on the lawn which overlooked the dark water, the sound—sitting at a small table, in small iron chairs.
He said, even with a certain antipathy, "I didn't mean to be rude, Miss Prentiss. And really couldn't manage the buttons."
"Where's your Man Friday?"
"Six of mine's better, and gone to the care of a mission saint. It was only wanting to see you that made me come here at all."
"Why want to see me?"
"That is just exactly why. You never would have asked me a question last week. You're not Miss Prentiss at all since His Illithness showed up."
Her laughter had a brittle tone. "Crazier it is—over!"
"Maybe things have happened, Prentiss."
"Calm yourself. None he shall depart, never, never, never—in return for the interest he has in me. I'm the type to keep a lamp burning in the window until I'm an old, old cat, and people coming all the way from Wisconsin to see if the legend is really true."
"Hope I don't see that either."
"Don't like what?"
"You're making fun of your own emotions. That's never any good, in any language. If you really like the guy, I'm not laughing about it. Though, possibly, he sounds to me like a stuffed shirt."
"I did a foolish kind of thing to-night."

NAVY TOLD 1943 IS CRUCIAL YEAR

By CLINTON B. CONGER
U. S. Naval Correspondent With the British Home Front (Distributed by The Associated Press)

WITH THE BRITISH HOME FRONT AT A VOYAGER'S HEAD—(Delayed)—Pilot Lost of the Admiralty, A. V. Alexander, today said that 1943 will be a crucial year, with Britain facing the greatest strategic test in its communications in history.

Winding up a three-day visit with the home front, Alexander declared: "This is the crucial year in which the enemy has made up his mind to give us a last throw in the battle of the seas. The enemy is now using U-boats in larger packs and with new tactics."

The U-boats now are even more concentrated than they were. They are now being used in packs of 10, but it may be a military experiment, in actions of packs.

Alexander Confident

"It is the story of God and your devotion to duty that has brought us through so far. There will be a great challenge in the coming year, but I look with confidence, because of your spirit and your great resolve, to coming successfully through."

"I am quite sure that you will render a great and successful account of yourself."

Alexander spoke to the massed ship's companies after visiting four destroyers, including two anti-aircraft ships. He stood on a non-gun gun platform while the men perched on guns, ventilators, search lights, bridges and masts.

Many of his audience had just returned from the Sicily land battle in the Arctic area, in which British warships sank a destroyer and crippled a cruiser in beating off an assault by a strong German naval force on a Russian-Island convoy.

Destroyers Landed

In his talk, Alexander paid special tribute to Britain's destroyer flotillas, one of which stood off four successive attacks by the vastly superior German force in the Bay of Biscay.

The admiralty are very grateful for the great service which has been given in the war by our destroyers.

"There has been no period in naval history in which these small ships have been more needed, where the tasks have been given have been more varied and more trying in relation to the small man-crews available."

"We have come through the great stress and strain of the past two years because of the manner in which the commanders-in-chief used the small resources available in the manner in which the ships' companies continued their devotion to duty and maintenance of their ships."

"Now, as always, the emphasis in our defense and our offense is the maintenance of sea communications. You are it. I am relying on you."

Three-Fold Task

Alexander said the total navy task in 1943 was three-fold:

"1.—We must account for an indispensable minimum of imports of food, raw material and munitions."

"2.—Our Russian allies have been doing a great service by killing the U-boats by the hundreds and enabling us to do our job. We must see that they have the weapons to see that they do."

"3.—We have to play our part with our American allies in carrying the war to the enemy throughout the world. We must have the most efficient maintenance of our sea communications."

MOTHERS RETURN DEPENDENCY CASH

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 20 (AP)—The office of dependency benefits has sent out more than 200,000 checks this month to dependents of army men, but many of them don't want the money.

"All I ask is that it return to me after this war is over," a mother of a lieutenant in reply to an ODB memorandum.

Some dependents informed the agency they would accept the checks for assistance; others returned checks that were sent to them after soldiers filed applications.

"I am trying to make it without this money, so don't want it in return," was in one of the letters to ODB's public relations branch staff.

Another from a mother:

"I wish my little Sam take care of my son who is stationed on foreign soil is all the help I can get at this time."

The ODB said the replies to applications were from dependents of soldiers who were sent to them so they had had opportunities to file the applications themselves.

This was done, it was estimated, for approximately bona fide dependents of a person out of reach so there would not be needless suffering.

Twin Falls Banks Ready for Ration Coupon Banking Setup

"Twin Falls banks, along with those in St. Albans, will undertake ration coupon banking Jan. 27 as a non-profit war service for the government, leaders of the two local institutions said in issuing an explanation of the program.

Ration coupon banking is a new type of banking service for retailers and wholesalers of rationed commodities. It is designed to make the nation's ration program work more effectively, and it is a war service for which banks will make no charge.

Some experts of the program will be paid by the government but bankers here said the big task will be another service to the numerous war jobs America's banks are already performing."

Open Ration Accounts

Under the plan, wholesalers and the larger retailers will be required by the office of price administration to open "ration bank accounts" in their banks. Into these "ration bank accounts" the wholesalers and retailers will deposit the ration coupons received from their customers against which they will draw special "ration checks" when they buy new supplies. It is expected that only the retailers whose food sales in December, 1942, exceeded $1000 will be directed by the office of price administration to open "ration bank accounts."

Consumers such as housewives, motorists, and other individuals who are not dealers or retailers, for whom consumption will not be affected by the new "ration coupon banking" plan, will continue to obtain their ration coupons from local ration boards and they will continue to use their coupons at the ration board. Only certain dealers selling ration commodities have to open "ration bank accounts."

They and has not been replaced, other members are: Abbott Smith, Charles, James T. Housings, Louis, H. C. and Albert M. Carter, Murphy, Stone, B. J.

Holland has been asked by war production board Chairman Donald H. Nelson to stay with the corporation as deputy chairman and to coordinate his activities with the indicated list which he would be handling this brief statement: "I came to Washington to fight the battle for small business and I intend to continue that fight until the battle is won."

Johnson also will serve as WPB vice-chairman whereas Holland was named as deputy chairman. Johnson will have a full vote in WPB's full council and in its policy decisions.

Announcement of Holland's appointment was made at the White House after consultation with Nelson came as a complete surprise to some top WPB officials, congressional leaders fighting for the cause of small business and to members of Holland's own staff.

It has been known for some time that Holland was not satisfied with progress being made by Holland's agency. But Holland apparently did not resign until after the election. He said about it by Nelson who asked him to stay on as Johnson's successor.

Shakeup Underway in Agency To Help U.S. "Small Business"

By ARTHUR F. DEGRAND
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—A new government effort to save thousands of jobs and protect the nation from extinction by cutting their losses in for a greater share of war production, will be undertaken today following the ouster of Lou E. Holland as chairman of the smaller war production board.

He will be replaced by Col. Robert Johnson of the army, another of the board's former members.

A shake-up in the board of directors of the war plants manufacturing war materiel will also be effected, it is expected.

T. Shipley, York, Penn. manufacturer, resigned from the board recently.
