Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox declared today that "all resistance on Guadalcanal apparently has ceased" except for a few small isolated groups of surrounded Japanese troops. He told reporters that he had information from Guadalcanal partly supporting Japanese reports they had withdrawn troops from Guadalcanal. Knox said that this new brings the front into "striking distance" of some of the most important Japanese bases. He made these assertions in comments on an axis radio broadcast quoting a Japanese communique that they had "transferred" certain units of the Japanese army and navy from Guadalcanal and New Guinea during the early part of February. Knox said that the all-sea engagements which have been occurring in this area for four weeks might be in part an effort to crowd the withdrawal of troops from the island. Could Have Been Different. "The south Pacific story might have been vastly different for the last three or four months had not established ourselves in the Solomons successfully," Knox observed. Knox began the press conference by recalling that when he returned from his recent tour of duty in the West Pacific he had made an estimate that significant Japanese reinforcements in the last few months had cost $1.5 billion. "Then he moved from the axis broadcast on the Japanese communique. "I don't think there's any doubt," about the truth of that," Knox said. "That was because we were always to reinforce may have been attempted to evaluate. But that is speculative. It will have to await confirmation. Few Left. "We are satisfied by our all-around reconnaissance that there is no large number of Japanese in any group. Several of the groups have been surrounded and cut off from supplies and reinforcements." He recalled that during his visit to Guadalcanal he had stood in an exposed position which might very well have cost him his life. "The enemy did not fire a shot," probably because he didn't have any artillery shells to reach him," Knox said. The few isolated Japanese groups were left, Knox continued. He recalled that during his visit to Guadalcanal he had seen the bodies and skulls of the island were either death or surrender were not only ceremonial but also a matter that there had been no further news of the all-sea engagements going on in the Solomons area. "So far Japanese strategy appears to be still going on," Knox added, referring to previous reports that the Japanese had sent surface forces of each side were skirmishing. ### 18 RESTRICTIONS ON HAWAII LIFTED

HONOLULU, Feb. 9.—Restoration of 18 functions of government from military to civil rule in Hawaii had been proclaimed today, effective in 30 days, by Lt. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, military governor, and territorial Governor Ingram Stainback.

Under this modification of military rule, which has been in effect since the Japanese attack of Dec. 7, 1941, Governor Stainback proclaimed the state of martial law remains in effect and the military will not be disbanded until the war is over.

The proclamations also provide that whenever the general, in the event of existing military emergency or in participation of any military emergency, considers it necessary for the security of the islands or their use as a military or naval base, he shall have the power, upon written declaration of the existing emergency or participation of such emergency, to exercise such of the functions and jurisdictions as may have been assumed by the civil authorities. Such action would come after consultation with the territorial governor.

Nazi Generals Blame Hitler For Stalingrad Catastrophe

BY GODFREY BLUNDEN STALINGRAD, Feb. 9.—Adolf Hitler's "intuitive" military leadership was directly responsible for the failure of the German sixth army at Stalingrad and its subsequent annihilation.

That is the conclusion I draw after conversations with Soviet general staff officers who conducted the operations which resulted in the destruction of the sixth army.

The conclusion is supported by the denunciations and remarks made by 11 of the 24 enemy generals captured by the Russians whose Soviet authorities permitted me to see in the presence of their staff officers.

All the evidence, in my opinion, points to the fact that Hitler insisted on continuing the battle long after the position was militarily untenable from the German viewpoint and probably against the advice of his higher officers.

Insisted on No Surrender Hitler also insisted, through Field Marshal Gen. Friedrich von Paulus, commander of the sixth army, that there be no surrender, even though the situation was hopeless, and this led to disagreement among German officers.

Stalingrad—where German prisoners are too numerous to guard and the bodies of those killed in battle still lie among the ruins—is not a city any more; it's a symbol. The one-time industrial giant on the high west bank of the Volga is a symbol of the high faith of Premier Joseph Stalin and the devoted people in the red army which was established 25 years ago this month.

Cassia Red Cross Unit Maps Plan For March Drive

BULLEY, Feb. 9.—A meeting of the board of directors of Cassia county Red Cross chapter was held in the home of Mrs. Helen Lore, chairman, to make plans for the war fund drive to be held in March under the direction of Mrs. Blundie. The quota for this county is $5,000.

Numerous Nazi Prisoners German prisoners are so numerous in Stalingrad that many live in cellars without guards. It's a real job to transfer so many to prison camps.

Three hundred Germans are living like this in one cellar. They are cold and are suffering, but they are not hungry; for the Russians are feeding them.

They say the Russian food is better than they have had for weeks. Many German bodies are stacked high like wafer figures in the ruins. The roads around the no-man's-land of the Volga are crowded. There are numerous American-made trucks, horse drawn sledges and wagons of all kinds between walk along, too.

It's a great center of activity, this ruined city. Noise is everywhere. Although the front is many miles away, there is the constant explosion of mines. Red army snipers are walking continually through the ruins, setting off unexploded German mines.

Ruins Everywhere Ruins are everywhere. Many chimneys point heavenward out of debris. They are gaunt skeletons in the anky night. In the factory settlement, where some of the most terrific fighting took place, there is nothing. Everything has been leveled to the ground. American engineers assisted in building many of these factories, which are only brick powder now. The famous tractor plant also is a shambles in the dust.

MORE GOOD NEWS FROM THE PRODUCTION FRONT

"Production, Production -and More Production!"

GENERAL MOTORS REPORTS ON ITS FIRST FULL YEAR OF WAR ACTIVITIES

FIRST AN APPRECIATION...

While the figures and statistics shown below are impressive, they do not tell the full story. They do not show, for example, the cooperation we have had from Army and Navy officials at every step of our progress toward the record production already achieved. Nor do they indicate the fine spirit of cooperation shown by our suppliers and subcontractors, on whom we rely for so much of the work.

They cannot convey an adequate picture of the eagerness of hundreds of thousands of General Motors men and women to back the courage and determination of our fighting men with an ample supply of the most effective fighting weapons in the world. They cannot give even a hint of the initiative displayed by our engineers and mass-production technicians in effecting manufacturing economies and efficiencies which have resulted in the saving of critical war materials and manpower, and which have already made possible price reductions amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars.

These are the practical results that come from encouraging individual effort and initiative—the American way of getting the job done. Machines alone cannot win the victory—it will be won by free men working and fighting together for the only kind of future worthy of America.

It required the retooling and rearranging of all our plants for maximum production of war products. It meant designing and building new machines and tools to make them—training skilled hands to perform new tasks, and reaching the unskilled—building employment and payrolls to unprecedented peaks—organizing and enlisting the support of our network of thousands of suppliers and subcontractors. It also meant establishing and operating training schools to teach thousands of men in the armed forces how to properly service and maintain General Motors-built war equipment.

Now at the beginning of 1943 these basic tasks have all been accomplished, and during their accomplishment General Motors plants made and delivered a mighty, rising tide of war materials. That tide continues to rise with mass-production technique swinging into full stride.

Thus, General Motors answers our government's call for "Production, production—and more production!"

1940 and 1941 were years of defense production and of planning for the possibility of war. Pearl Harbor found this defense production well under way. With the declaration of war and the call for "all-out" war effort, General Motors concentrated its entire organization and all its facilities on war production.

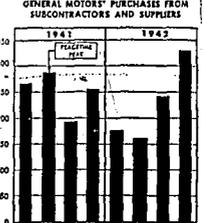

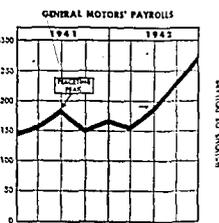

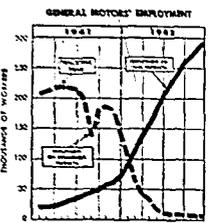

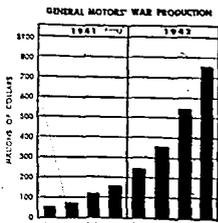

The tremendous job ahead at the threshold of 1942 called for the "know-how" of all our engineers, designers, mechanics and managers, skilled and experienced in mass production. It required the retooling and rearranging of all our plants for maximum production of war products. It meant designing and building new machines and tools to make them—training skilled hands to perform new tasks, and reaching the unskilled—building employment and payrolls to unprecedented peaks—organizing and enlisting the support of our network of thousands of suppliers and subcontractors. It also meant establishing and operating training schools to teach thousands of men in the armed forces how to properly service and maintain General Motors-built war equipment.

Now at the beginning of 1943 these basic tasks have all been accomplished, and during their accomplishment General Motors plants made and delivered a mighty, rising tide of war materials. That tide continues to rise with mass-production technique swinging into full stride.

Thus, General Motors answers our government's call for "Production, production—and more production!"

We realize that for military reasons the exact number of guns, tanks, planes, aircraft, trucks, etc., is not disclosed. However, we are proud to report that our production of war materials and war equipment has increased by 100% over the production of the same materials and war equipment in the year 1941.

In June, 1942, General Motors' production was 250,000 units. In the same month of 1941, production was only 100,000 units. This increase in production is due to the fact that we have increased our production of war materials and war equipment by 100% over the production of the same materials and war equipment in the year 1941.

Over the past year, General Motors' production of war materials and war equipment has increased by 100% over the production of the same materials and war equipment in the year 1941. This increase in production is due to the fact that we have increased our production of war materials and war equipment by 100% over the production of the same materials and war equipment in the year 1941.

Farmers Here Utilize Surplus Wheat, AAA Official Learns

Magic Valley farmers and livestock men are showing their food production facilities into full gear to turn out "the right kinds of food, in the right amounts" for the war effort, District D. Watson, Payette county farmer and a member of the Idaho state AAA committee, observed when he visited the Twin Falls county AAA office Monday.

"This county apparently has capitalized on its livestock production conditions to the virtual war production factories of its diversified farms," Watson said.

"This area has drawn heavily on the Pacific northwest's supply of wheat, combining it with the hay, beef and other roughage produced locally to step up production of milk, eggs, meat, wool and many other livestock products classed as critical war materials."

Watson also visited in Jerome Monday and Mountain Home Tuesday.

200 Cars Ordered

Watson said the 200 carloads of wheat ordered by Twin Falls county farmers through the U. S. department of agriculture feed wheat program during the past 12 months probably tops the state for feed wheat utilization. He said Jerome county farmers have ordered about 85 cars, Minidoka county 60 cars over the 12-month period. Up to the end of January, well over 1,000 carloads of averaging 1,600 bushels apiece, had been used in Idaho, while the seven Pacific northwest states had fed about 21,250,000 bushels of the 65-000,000 bushel total for the nation.

"Idaho farmers, particularly those of southern Idaho, are in a good position to make use of the stockpile of surplus wheat which has fallen looked like they were going to run off the dried wheat-producing areas," Watson said.

Surpluses Put to Work

"The feed wheat program, which congress has authorized to handle 120,000,000 bushels of wheat at 80 per cent of the parity price for corn, was intended to put the wheat surplus to work for the war by converting them into livestock products that are high on the list of essential war goods. It also is helping to solve the storage problem facing the wheat production areas."

Watson, who was district AAA fieldman in this area until his appointment to the Idaho state AAA committee last March, operates a diversified farm near Fruitland, where he says he is feeding wheat himself to hogs and dairy cows. He has been visiting county AAA committees during the past week to aid them with problems connected with administering the feed wheat program.

Excellent Feed

"We're finding that wheat is an excellent feed for every kind of stock or poultry," Watson said. "I have seen in Blaine county what for grain for his own herd."

A packing plant in Caldwell is fattening its top-quality beef on a ration of ground wheat, ground alfalfa and vitamin and mineral supplements. I understand several local stock feeders are using wheat from this program with good success."

The state committee man said the USDA boards are recommending strongly that farmers in diversified areas derive all possible acreage to the war crops like dry beans, dry peas and potatoes which are emphasized in the 1943 "food for freedom" program.

"Except for juice crops for new sections of alfalfa, we think it would be good business for farmers to devote their wheat and feed grain acreages to new crops and rely on the feed wheat program for feed. We believe that way-diversified farmers can make a tremendous contribution toward meeting the large farm production goals set for the state and the nation, and still maintain or even increase their livestock production," Watson stated.

Wheat Piled on Ground

Feed wheat, which is distributed by the commodity credit corporation, is shipped from the dryland wheat areas of north Idaho, east of Washington and eastern Oregon where last fall wheat was piled on the ground for want of storage facilities during the past year, the program has accounted for about a third of the abnormal surplus backed up in the northwest by stoppage of normal export trade from the Pacific coast.

Farmers obtain the wheat by ordering in carload lots through AAA offices, which frequently have arranged buying pools for farmers who need less than a carload, in order to obtain equal prices. Watson said that many feed dealers and commercial elevators also are handling the feed wheat, making a small charge, usually about six cents a bushel in larger lots, for handling.

HAZELTON

At the first January meeting the drill team initiated two new members. The officers were elected at their stations, and six committees were appointed. L. E. Foose and our county agent, Ray Peterson, were present. They discussed the crop goals set for 1943.

At Mr. Peterson's suggestion it was decided to have a farm mobilization meeting on Jan. 15 at the Grange night. Three ladies were appointed to send out invitations to all farmers in their respective neighborhoods.

Plans were discussed to have both entertainment and information for all the Grange could "lure" to the meeting.

After a lengthy business session, the lecturer turned the remainder of the meeting over to Mr. Peterson. The advantage of the Grange neighborhood leaders was discussed. Then Mr. Peterson showed some very interesting films that he had brought with him. Refreshments were served for coffee.

The big Farmers' night on Jan. 22, opened with a group of girls singing some two-part songs. Old-fashioned ones, like "Heavenly Bodies for Two" and "The Band Played On." This was followed with the melodious dancing girls the Grange could find in that rather large community. The girls dressed in white skirts, with everything to match, danced and sang a very fetching number. The audience fairly lay in the aisles with laughter.

Then followed a Gay Nineties program. After this A. Duke of Pocatello, introduced by our county agent, spoke very well about the farmer and his problems in the present war.

This was followed by "The We Meet Again," and "Appreciate" by the girls. By the way, here are their names: Hazel Howard, Jean Leabon, Lennie Dille, Dorothy Lehman. The six catering ladies were Orville Davis, Russell Dille, Carl Shroyer, Ed Orso, Joe Williamson and Dan Jean. The cast of the play was: Mother, Edna Ruth; Belle, Adriene Grose; Elmer (her suitor) Bill Harding.

After the program sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee were served. After this we had some old-time dances with William Binkley and the "square" and Mr. Harding calling the circle two step.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP)—It'll be President Gerry Nugent against the field today when National League club-owners, headed by league proxy Ford Frick, meet at the Hotel New Yorker to discuss the financial situation of the Philadelphia Phils.

Committee Chairman M. Landis will preside at the four-day session which will end Feb. 11 and the remaining team-owners determined to vote the financial future of the league. A group of owners is believed to want control of the club, one in the financial straits from which it is under strict orders of the league.

10 Teams Complete Tournery Entry List

JEROME, Feb. 9.—The deadline for entries passed last night for the Jerome Division basketball tournament, with 10 of the strongest independent teams in all south Idaho entered in the meet slated to start Friday afternoon.

With the whole of south Idaho represented, the tournament takes over as logical successor to the Gooding and Burley outlaws sessions—the best in the state in pre-war days.

Drawings have not yet been completed, according to Ed Williams, tournament manager, but will be announced tomorrow. Some of the entries came in at midnight last night and a few more were forced in lining up the schedule.

American Falls enters, one of the strongest clubs is expected to be the perennial threat from American Falls where the "blue and red" group only a little older" will be back to help keep the heavens in the running for the championship.

But they'll find lots of opposition, especially from the Burley Elks, the strong, Kimberly Warriors, Jerome Jaycees and several other clubs. Navy Avoids 'Punch on Nose' System

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 9 (AP)—That old stand-by of boxing, a healthy one-day break, has yielded to the science of modern warfare.

It's the navy solution to the problem of teaching its future pilots to box. The navy is getting "punchy." The solution, in this case, which effectively protects nose, eyes and cheekbones as well as the upper legs and ears from blows of slugging opponents.

Not that cadets at the navy's pre-flight schools aren't willing to take a punch in the nose.

"The reason for the big helmet with a face mask, protecting the eyes, nose and ears, is to avoid the punch on the nose system," says Lt. Roy D. Simmons.

Boxing, one of the sports used to condition the navy's future pilots, has no greater advantage than the helmet with a face mask, protecting the eyes, nose and ears.

"There's the reason why box to teach a cadet, condition his eyes, nose and ears, is to avoid the punch on the nose system," says Lt. Roy D. Simmons.

BUHL, Feb. 9.—Twin Falls Bruins make their second appearance of the season here tonight when they seek their third straight win over the Buhl Indians.

The evening's program, arranged on short notice, will start under way at 7:30 with the Twin Falls Cubs meeting the "B" squad. The varsity tilt is slated to start at 8:30.

Both Squads Improving—The Buhl Indians have played 11 games, of which seven have been on the losing side. Wins have been scored over Elks, Castleford (twice) and Jerome.

However, both squads are showing improvement and it is expected that the Indians will have more wins than have been by narrow margin.

Coach Powers reports that the Buhl Indians are in better shape than ever. He says that the club has had a better chance to play in the varsity game at Buhl. Several of the Indians are in the varsity game. The Jerome regulars last Friday night and gave a good account of themselves. The present plan is to alternate the youngsters quarter-by-quarter with the varsity against the Indians.

ARMY INDUCTION HALT IS SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Centering the nation already has under arms "more men than it can utilize" and maintain abroad, Senator Sheridan Downey, D., Calif., called today for an immediate halt to military inductions.

He said more farm men need to be saved "widely" than needed today for a military conscription program, today that he could not guarantee the 1943 food production goals on the basis of available farm workers would bring increased production demands for a lowering of military personnel.

As he spoke, Senator Reynolds, D., N. C., chairman of the committee, added his voice to the growing clamor for a reexamination of military and industrial manpower demands.

Reynolds said Wickard told the committee that he was attempting to meet upward of 3,000,000 workers to bring the agricultural force up to 12,000,000, but even if this were the best case, there would be such a lack of experienced personnel among the recruits, and such a dearth of farm machinery that he

SERIAL STORY

THE TERRIBLE EYE

BY EDWIN RUTT

Remarkable indeed is the device invented by Jonah Levan, he calls it "The Terrible Eye" through this plastic structure...

LOVE AT FIRST LANDING

Day was parading in his-and-gold attire over Continental. And, in mid-morning, Jonah Levan and Mahoney drove to the estate of Henry L. Chamning in a rattletop Ford, vintage of 1935...

Wall. "You're going to have a climb, Chief. That's easy 10 feet high. "Nothing to it," said Jonah...

Jonah turned to make ready. At the same time he moved his left foot. That was an error. It stamped him as a man whose movements were more likely to have been Humpy Dumplings than wall-walkers...

going with a mixture of sultan and race leaver, and told! You had the perfect face. So for Jonah's money, had this girl...

Jonah felt a little like a viciously kicked halfback who is being walked around and questioned by the referee. "Why?" he said, somewhat dazedly...

IDAHO FARMERS MUST GET HELP

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Relaxation of government restrictions and a deliberate program of aid to the farmer are being urged by the Idaho farmers to be able to produce increased amounts of foodstuffs in 1943. Harvey Schwendman, state commissioner of agriculture, said today.

Retaining the contents of a letter he wrote Jan. 20 to H. A. Trowater, president of the National Association of Commissioners, Secretaries and Directors of Agriculture, Schwendman asked that "the emergency now require relaxing, distributing and rationing food and other equipment be put on the production line."

"It is no secret for the secretary of agriculture and all of the war board in advice and suggest an increase in production of food over our 1942 record production," his letter read, "but I believe it should be carried further than this."

Must Face Facts

"We must face the facts. It is going to be a hard job to increase our crop year to year to our present level. It is not going to be done unless we ease up government regulations. Pay the farmer for what he does and not what he does not do. In Idaho farmers were paid by the A.A.A. thousands of dollars not to produce. Farmers were told to produce O.D.T. that there were no new trucks available when the engines were full of oil and still idle."

"Many growers had to sell their horses and cattle because they could not buy a little wire to fence pasture, when the government warehouses were full and the wire was the things we must overcome if we get food."

"I believe that just to ask these farmers to increase their production next season is not sufficient. We must secure the farmer some assistance and assure him in a way that he will know he is going to get it. Many farmers were told in 1942 and they remember it."

Said Under Ceiling

"Many farmers worked 60 to 80 hours a week to save their crops because there was no one to do the work and without many things he should have had, then sold his produce under ceiling which would not let him compete with war industries. The help was all in war industries at 200 per cent higher wages."

The commissioner reported he has been advised that his letter was read and copies distributed to 60 members of congress and other dignitaries at a dinner meeting in Washington, D. C. sponsored by the national association. He also has had sympathetic responses from Chairman E. D. Smith of the senate agriculture committee, Chairman H. P. Palmer of the house of representatives agriculture committee, and others.

TAILORS DESIRE VESTS RESTORED

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP)—Some of the better merchant tailors made it known today that, barring a customer, there is nothing they would rather see under a double-breasted suit than a vest.

The subject came up at an emergency war council of the merchant tailors and designers' association of America and demands were made that OPA lift its ban on vests with double-breasted suits. The association may send a delegation to Washington to see about it.

"A gentleman needs a vest," protested Louis Travaglini, chairman of the association's garment exhibit. "He needs it to keep him warm, he needs the little pockets for his pens and pencils, his watch and ration cards. With the exception of the trousers, there is no more suitable garment."

When customers learn they can't get vests to match their suits they go in for interstitials or other fancy varieties. Travaglini reported. They may even buy a sweater, which requires three times as much wool. He said he didn't think that made sense.

Backing him up was another Chicago craftsman, William C. Cooper, who stated a vest could be made from about a quarter of a yard of cloth if it were cut at the same time as the suit.

His vest was a lively affair of colored checks, which he said would be perfectly all right to wear with business suits until the OPA changes its mind.
