POICES MAY ACT TO HEAL BREACH; AXIS OVERJOYED

LONDON, April 28 (AP)—Any chance for an early reconciliation between the Poles and Russians faded tonight when the Polish government in exile appealed for the release from Russia of Polish refugees and failed to withdraw a request for an investigation of alleged massacre of Poles officers in the Smolensk area.

By JOHN A. PARRIS
 LONDON, April 28 (AP)—The Polish government, as a first step toward reconciliation with Russia, probably will withdraw its request for an investigation of the Smolensk massacre of Polish officers, a German propaganda charge that the Soviets murdered 10,000 Polish officers near Smolensk, informed sources said today.

The Polish request for an investigation that led the Russians to suspend relations with the exiled government in a note changed in action constituted collision with the German government.

Polish Foreign Minister Count Edward Raczynski was expected to issue a statement late today on his government's stand in the dispute and some observers believed a shake-up in the Polish cabinet was impending.

Raczynski originally was scheduled to release his statement yesterday, but at the last moment postponed it after conferring with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and the Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

John G. Winant, American ambassador to London, saw Eden before the foreign secretary's conference with the Polish leaders and the entire British cabinet met later.

GERMANY OVERJOYED
 Dispatches from Axis capitals to neutral Switzerland made it clear today that Germany was overjoyed at the diplomatic breach between the Poles and the Soviet government-in-exile, and that Rome had joined the chorus of anticipation over an imminent reconciliation.

The Berlin correspondent of the Swiss paper Die Tat said a German official office in London declared the incident indicated "England and America are doomed to profane impotency as regards Russia."

The Tribune de Geneve called the breach which was touched off by German charges that the Russians had slain 10,000 Polish officers near Smolensk, one of Germany's "nearest diplomatic successes."

FLASHES of LIFE

FOCKETT EAST HARTFORD, Conn., April 28—Seeking a stolen car, Trooper James Ring today was investigating it down the road with a worried soldier sitting beside the driver. The name of the soldier was "Betsy Ross" and the car, he insisted, "I've had in my pocket all my life."

He turned out to be an escaped patient from a nearby state hospital. The soldier started talking again, shaken but unharmed.

WALK INDIANAPOLIS, April 28—An ignorance of first aid would have cost the lives of two Indianapolis "little trouble."

They hurriedly made up a bandage for the patient and took him to a hospital. When attendants placed him in bed and went looking for a splint, they found the patient dead. But before the attendants returned the patient had got up and walked away.

Both trains were traveling 40 miles an hour on a curve which obstructed the engineers' view of the single track line between Aurora and Streator. Fuel tanks in the coach exploded, sparking the wreckage with flames.

Pollard was hurled through a doorway into an embankment.

"I ran back into the rear door of the coach," he said. "It was terrible. Fire was everywhere. Passengers were shouting for help. Some of them were not badly and others, not so badly hurt, were terribly confused."

LOS ANGELES, April 28 (AP)—Raymond J. Filer, 19, a filer, carpenter and church pianist, pleaded guilty in federal court today to five counts of attempted extortion in the sending of threatening letters to Mickey Rooney, Truena Dunbar, Betty Davis, and other celebrities.

The letters allegedly demanded sums ranging from $100 to $2,000. Assistant U. S. Attorney Rollin F. Dunt said Barker signed the letters in the name of a "friend" from his home town high school, Miss Alvin Haman, who is now in the Navy.

Filer, who is charged with the extortion, had no money to pay the demands but that his object was to bring trouble upon Haman.

The youth will be sentenced Monday.

Big Naval Plane Crashes; 8 Dead

OAKLAND, Calif., April 28 (AP)—A Navy twin-engine transport plane nosed into a hill 10 miles east of the city here today, killing eight and seriously injuring the other three.

The explosion scattered bodies over a 40-foot area. Clipped tree trunks and torn earth indicated the plane had struck a hillside from a distance from the point of impact. The plane was headed into Oakland airport and apparently on the beam. A wire terminal near the end of the 1,500-foot cliff, spinning the craft to a steep climb.

Appeal

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—War Food Administrator Chester C. Davis today issued an appeal to American farmers and war food production employees, appealing to them to "plant to the limit."

An extraordinary 111-hour appeal came as the spring planting season approaches its end.

It's All the Same—10 Cents or $100,000

The responsibility of the victory fund drive is limited to no one age group, and no amount is too small to play its part in putting United States military forces on the offensive over the world. In this intimate little transaction Mr. H. Grant, manager of the first Federal Savings and Loan association, gets down to brass tacks with John G. Adams, 11, the almost-two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Adams, Jr., 126 Tenth avenue. Mr. Grant apparently is taking this 10-cent stamp sale just as seriously as Mr. Adams takes the purchase of $100,000 in war bonds by the company he heads. (Staff Photo-Extravaganza)

WLB Ready to Ask FDR To Act in Strike Threat

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—The war labor board was reported today to have virtually decided to ask President Roosevelt to intervene immediately in the threatened walkout of 450,000 bituminous coal miners. The board planned to take a formal vote this afternoon.

The number of miners already on strike jumped to more than 61,000, as the board considered the case during a two- and one-half hour morning session, and there were increasing indications that the entire 450,000 went out on Saturday.

A special three-man fact-finding panel appointed by the board while met with northern and southern bituminous mine operators. As has been expected, no one appeared on behalf of the United Mine Workers or its president John L. Lewis.

Board members "urge" the president that prompt action by Mr. Roosevelt will be essential if the miners' strike is to be averted. They said their present plans do not contemplate any specific recommendations to the president.

The board will consider a statement of the case prepared by Chairman William H. Davis for presentation to the President. The request for presidential action probably will be routed to Mr. Roosevelt through Economic Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes.

Observers believe Mr. Roosevelt will call on Lewis and send him on a walk-out, which are going into effect in advance of the Friday deadline for a new contract between the operators and the UMW, and then to agree to a new contract. If the present strike while UMW considers the merits of the case.

It was expected that Mr. Roosevelt would appeal to the miners to disregard Lewis and go back to work—under any protection if necessary.

The number of wild-cat stoppages has followed the pattern of the morning, the number of men known to be out was only 41,000.

Ickes Says Air 'Gas' Supplies Increasing

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—Petroleum Administrator Harold I. Ickes today told the senate Truman committee that if there is any shortage of high octane gasoline, the responsibility should be laid on the war production board, and to a lesser degree, the armed forces. Ickes predicted that the rubber program was receiving an unduly large proportion of critical materials for plants.

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—Petroleum Administrator Harold I. Ickes today told the senate Truman committee that if there is any shortage of high octane gasoline, the responsibility should be laid on the war production board, and to a lesser degree, the armed forces. Ickes predicted that the rubber program was receiving an unduly large proportion of critical materials for plants.

He predicted that by July "obstacles or no obstacles—we will be producing more fuel every day than the best estimates have believed, a year ago, that we should stand by now—or even by next winter," without "the help with construction materials we had to have to carry out our program."

Ickes described as the "last walk-out" to the gasoline program WPA member Donald M. Nelson's January order to complete 85 per cent of the plants under the program at the expense of high octane gasoline. The committee is looking into a dispute involving Ickes, Undersecretary of War Patterson and Rubber Director Jeffers over priorities granted the rubber program.

Ickes said Nelson's order for completion of 85 per cent of the plants is not as drastic as that sought by Jeffers.

Ickes said that he had accepted Nelson's decision, which he said would result in the loss of 4,410,000 gallons of gasoline, and he proceeded to "work with and enlighten" the rubber director "in rolling back the program for the plants not under direction."

The British first and eighth armies, the second U. S. army corps and the French made "steady progress," an allied communique said, but it was by dint of hardest fight, especially in the Medjer-el-Bab sector, where allied attacks were followed by enemy counter-attacks all day yesterday.

Twelve miles east of Medjer-el-Bab the first army was engaging in a second thrust directly toward Tunis in the direction of the south of Tebourba and a famous British regiment attacked a feature of the terrain known as El Abbalah and captured it in a bloody action.

LABOR ON FARMS LOOKS BRIGHTER

BOISE, April 28.—(AP)—Idaho's farm labor picture was described today by "brighter" than a year ago but "not as bright" as in the nation's mills, according to a report by the state's labor director.

A. J. Tillman, area director of the war manpower commission, urged farmers to expand their acreage of crops to the limit, asking them particularly to plant more sugar beets. Their acreage total as indicated, he said, will be about $9,000 compared with $2,000 last year—a trend which will eventually force diverting of labor from war transportation to sugar hauling, or else further reduction in domestic sugar supplies.

NET SHIP LOSSES 1,000,000 TONS

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—On the basis of only partly completed figures on merchant ship construction, the navy department reported today that the allies have lost a net total of more than a million tons of merchant shipping.

This net figure was only a preliminary estimate, it was concluded in that it was arrived at by counting total allied losses but not all new construction by all the allied nations. While the navy did not say so, it appeared that construction figures from one or more of the allies were not available.

The statement followed a conference between Secretary of the Navy Knox and Senator Brewster, R., Me., a member of the senate's Truman committee.

Truman Figure
The Truman committee said in a report last Thursday that sinkings of allied ships by German submarines in 1942 totalled approximately 12,000,000 tons and exceeded the aggregate of new British and American construction.

Friday, Secretary Knox said that allied construction had exceeded allied losses for 1942. He described the Truman committee's conclusion as an "obvious error" arising in his opinion from the fact that new merchant ships are ordinarily figured in the monthly tons while sinkings are ordinarily reported in gross tons, which are 15 times larger than net tons.

The allied loss figures used as a basis for today's statement included losses from all causes—submarine sinkings, mines, airplanes, capture or otherwise.

Statement
The statement said: "At a conference between Secretary of the Navy Truman committee and the secretary of the navy, a number of factors in the present situation concerning submarine losses were cleared up."

"Stated in terms of gross tonnage and including all losses of merchant ships, however their loss may have caused, there is no great difference in the navy and the committee figures for 1942, the net loss in gross tons being in the neighborhood of something over a million tons."

"These figures, however, do not include new construction by all of the allied nations and do include all losses—not losses from submarine operations alone."

"Records kept since the war began in 1939 show that submarines alone account for slightly over 20 per cent of all merchant vessels sunk by both sides."

GLENN'S PERRY, April 28—Discussion of the old question of riding and parking bicycles on the sidewalks was the principal business at the Chamber of Commerce meeting. Members of the village council were present but no action was taken on the matter.

It was suggested that racks be built and placed at convenient places on the main street so that bike riders could stand their wheels out of the way, and that riding on the sidewalks be prohibited only in the business section.

Modern Heating In New Jail Cells

Prisoners in the new cell block at the city jail will be warmed by a thoroughly modern heating plant which was put into operation for the first time last Monday.

A fan on top of the cell block at one end forces air past a steam heating coil into the ducts which carry air to the cells. There the warm air is forced out through a hole in the ceiling, and the cold air leaves the room through a hole at floor level. The temperature is regulated by a thermostat, the control of which cannot be reached by the prisoners in the cells or the bullpen.

The heating system will be operated at least part of the time for the rest of this week, in order to drive out the chill and dampness from the new concrete. It is thought the jail will be ready for occupancy in the next few days.

MOSCOW COLONEL AWARDED MEDAL

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—The army awarded the distinguished service medal today to Brig. Gen. Edmund B. Seiber, Olney, Ill., for his work as chief of staff of the task force which occupied New Caledonia and his leadership of troops in combat against the Japanese on Guadalcanal.

At the same time, the distinguished service medal was awarded to Col. Otto R. Sullinger, Moscow, Ill., for exceptionally meritorious service as executive officer and deputy commander of the San Francisco port of embarkation.

Sullinger's achievements at the San Francisco embarkation point "have been such as to win and hold the confidence and admiration of all organizations and individuals with whom he has been in contact," said his citation.

"Because of his broad military experience and knowledge of combat requirements and through his unusual tact and untiring devotion to duty, many units which otherwise might have left this country unprepared for combat were dispatched properly armed and equipped for active duty."

SPARKING SERVICE

To be seen — not heard

Beneath the floorboards of your car are two sets of gears bearing the super-elegant titles of "transmission" and "differential." You may never SEE these gears, but if they are neglected you'll sure HEAR them. Improper or insufficient lubrication at these two points can make your car sound like a rolling cat fight—and finally you'll face a hefty repair bill.

Because regular greasing jobs do not include changing the lubricant in transmission and differential, remember to ask to have it replaced with fresh, clean RPM Gear Lubricant of the proper type for warm weather driving. Put it down on your Spring cleanup list!

Go light on heavy oil!

Here's a tip to those who think that it's better to use a heavier weight oil than the manufacturer of their car recommends: It never was a good idea and now that driving is slower and engines are colder, it's actually a dangerous practice. Ask your Standard Service Man for the weight of RPM Motor Oil recommended by your car's manufacturer.

U. S. MUNITIONS SURPLUS DENIED

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—The army instead of accumulating a surplus of munitions, is so far from its needs that it will not be able to furnish all troops with basic equipment until late next year.

In a speech to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the commanding general of the army service forces asserted categorically: "There has been no huge accumulation of stores which could not be moved overseas."

"In point of fact," he added, "we are still not free from difficulties in providing essential cargo for the shipping which is available to us."

Widespread discussion of recent reductions in the production program for the ground forces. Some officials said they failed to take into account that the action concerned future schedules, not current production, which is still increasing at a rate of about $100,000,000 a month.

Moreover, this rate of increase must be maintained through most of 1943 if we are to reach our goal," the general added.

Branding reports of a munitions surplus and rumors that the automobile industry was shifting from military to civilian production as anti-inflation propaganda designed to slow up the war effort, Roosevelt declared that "victory is not just around the corner."

Neglect Denied
He paid his caustic respects to the "drug store admirals and the powder room generals" and said specifically:

"We are not neglecting the south-west Pacific."
"We are not neglecting the submarine."
"We are not neglecting the civilian economy."
"We are not neglecting the rights of labor."
"We are not neglecting industry's rights."

"We are giving each of these, we think, consideration in the proper proportion and at the proper time. "That one thing above all else we do not neglect is the business of winning the war."

FOOD MEET WILL MAKE NO PACTS

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—The state department said that the Nations food conference will discuss a wide scope of problems in an effort to improve world food production and agricultural property—but will make no commitments or agreements.

In announcing the conference agenda, the department said the meeting will seek ways to utilize the best and determine whether recommendations can be made toward solving some of the problems. It observed:

"It (the agenda) recognized that in the past excessive accumulations of certain products were in fact not surplus as all when measured by the world's needs and are causing; that these so-called surpluses were usually the result of maldistribution and under-consumption."

"It then seeks to ascertain the prospects for so organizing world agricultural production as to enable the satisfaction of these needs and to explore the measures, both domestic and international, by which production can be enhanced and better directed in terms of consumption."

"Finally, it examines the measures and conditions which are necessary to assure that what can be produced moves into consumption."

Judge Marvin Jones, former chairman of the house agriculture committee, heads the United States delegation to the conference, which opens May 18 at Hot Springs, Va. Forty-two nations have been invited and were consulted on the agenda. Officials said the sessions probably will last three weeks.

Idaho Ferry Flier Tells of Plane Delivery Experiences

By ROBERT VERNHILLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
COMMUNICATED BY THE UNITED KINGDOM, April 28 (AP)—Six Bill Gibson, Wallace, Ida., summed up the work that he and other men of the ferry division of the air transport command are doing.

"We just pick 'em up over there and set 'em down over here," Gibson said.

"Over there" is the United States, and "over here" might be anywhere in the world where Americans are fighting. Gibson is a radio man for the unit and operates the world's greatest air line, delivering men, mail, food, guns and combat planes to the United Kingdom, south Pacific, Africa, India and China.

Tell of Experiences—Roy Mitchelland, Baxter Springs, Kan.; Joe Hamilton, Cherokee, Okla.; Martin MacLean, Albuquerque, N. M.; and Robert Cox, Sioux City, S. Dak.—told of some of their experiences while waiting at this base between flights.

They have eaten camel steaks in Arabia. They talk of "round-the-world" flights as they would of trips to the corner drug store. Yet, they rarely are away from the United States more than 30 days at a time.

They are members of the first crew of the ferry division, which started in March, 1942, to deliver combat planes throughout the Pacific and Indian oceans and the Atlantic.

Each has flown the Pacific three times, the south Atlantic seven times, and the Indian Ocean, Africa, India and China, and the north Atlantic once.

The south Atlantic run averages 15,000 miles, the Pacific at least 10,000.

The rest-pause that refreshes

Welcome in peace... more welcome in war work

WAR production needs are pressing. No time can be wasted on the job. Rest-pauses planned and timed are the efficient way to make every minute count. They lessen tension, break monotony, and increase output. Add refreshment to a rest-pause and you promote worker-contentment.

Ice-cold Coca-Cola is refreshment that does more than quench thirst. Drink it and you feel and enjoy a refreshing after-sense. Its clean, exciting taste always pleases, never tires. Coca-Cola offers something extra. All the difference between something real-ly refreshing and just something to drink.

Letters from plant managers from coast to coast emphasize that the little moment for an ice-cold Coca-Cola means a lot to workers in war plants. It's a refreshing moment on the sunny side of things... a way to turn to refreshment without turning from work.

You work better when you are contented on the job. Remember, contentment comes when you connect with a Coke.

...while you stay-at-home car fights ACID!

INSTEAD of six or eight cylinders you may be using two wheels and two legs—and liking it. But it leaves your car lonely, with time on its hands. Last time you stopped, the engine stored up some acid products of combustion—no different from acids often found in any chemist's laboratory. Acid has always been present when engines stopped. But fortunately when you could drive at will, and when speed was not severely restricted, the results weren't as bad as they can be today.

Now with rationing keeping your car idle for days... with lower speeds that may leave your engine too cool... and with working parts often hard to replace, don't leave your engine stark naked to acids inside. For like water making rust, most acids work fastest on metal that's bare. But you can have the security made possible by OIL-PLATING—the acid-resistant surfacing that's bonded to metal by Conoco Nth motor oil.

Your Spring change to Conoco Nth need cost you no more than some oil or other that cannot OIL-PLATE. But Conoco Nth includes the advanced synthetic especially invented to overlay inner engine parts with protective OIL-PLATING. That's the basis of Conoco Nth patents. And it's the right basis for an OIL-PLATED engine that can help to see you through to Victory. No matter how little you're able to drive—or how much you must!—get Conoco Nth oil this Spring. DARK JUNGLES

LILA
CHAPTER XIII

The moon was full—a brilliant, lustrous disk moving through the warm blue of the tropic sky. The breeze was warm. Even the towering depths of the jungle seemed to vibrate with some dark, vibrant elixir of life.

Barry, striding boldly through the clearing from the Indian huts, gave a sigh of impatience. In all this vital, unending nature he felt himself the one tired, helpless point.

"I'll keep nine days since I got back from the Queche country," he muttered. "I can't sit around for—"

Allison lifted the soft flared skirt of her evening gown to treat a quinine. "Fernando says you are a very strong man if you can throw off the kind of fever you got in two weeks."

Barry ignored the reminder. "I'll be all right if I take it slow. How soon do you expect to have the chicle ready for shipment?"

She glanced nervously toward the dark, looking lanes in the deep shadows of the jungle. "Tomorrow," she said, "at latest the next day."

They went up the steps to the vine-covered entrance of the bamboo forest, and called a servant. "Have her bring my drink to my bedroom, will you?" Barry said. "I want to get out some reports to send back to headquarters with the chicle train."

"Oh, bother, reports!" cried Allison. "It's such a lovely night! The hanging lamp above her head molten aureole of her crimped hair. She looked like a pampered debutante in her black step of a dress and her gleaming jewels."

"All he can do is," muttered Barry. "See you at breakfast." He went to his room, the girl lingering on his face. It was a constant source of surprise to him how this auto-crate little darling of society could be so herself to his business world of existence. He had seen other women try to do it and fail—women with far more strength of character, more poise. What was the difference?

A certain flexibility, he decided, as he brought out his small portable typewriter and found a suitable box table. She had no strangle or grudge over the loss of her fortune. She was not making the attempt to mold the jungle to her, but was content to mold herself to the jungle. She had a quality of receptiveness, that's what she had—that essentially feminine keynote so eternally lacking in most women.

He got hold of his thoughts by main force when, realizing he'd been about to compose her with his finances. And Lila—gradually he was able to concentrate on his reports.

He worked at first with absorbed speed. The mule train going out with the chicle would be the best chance to start the reports to the New York office before he made his next attempt to persuade the Queche chief to open up his mercury mines. He wanted these reports complete in one day. He had the chicle of the Queche country this time, the company would have all data at hand and he could only start here tomorrow! He cursed his stupid fever. He could only start here tomorrow! He cursed his stupid fever. He could only start here tomorrow! He cursed his stupid fever.

His fingers moved faster over the keys. There was so damnably little time and the need of the minute was so great! He felt a fresh wave of impatience burn through him. He cursed his stupid fever. He could only start here tomorrow! He cursed his stupid fever. He could only start here tomorrow! He cursed his stupid fever.

He might make it. He might be able to prove to the chief that he had been framed. He might... But cold logic smashed his wishful thinking. He was already trembling with the effort of a half hour. His head felt light and dizzy. No, he would be throwing away the one chance of recovering his position. He went off half-cocked. Better to wait till Fernando had finished the chicle train and make a dash for it to the new grove. Then he had promised to go with him. And Fernando's friendship with the remote old chief would be the one hope of explaining the suspicious pinprick on the chief's unfortunate first encounter.

His fingers were stumbling over the keys now, hitting more wrong keys than right. He pushed back his ruddy chair and crossed the low-roofed room to push the window open wide. He pushed the sill for support and struggled for his breath as he looked out at the moon-flooded clearing of the estate. Curled fever-making a weakling out of a man in a couple of weeks!

A knock sounded on his door. And at his invitation, Allison entered. "Fernando didn't come," she murmured. "I brought you your drink." But as she handed him the red pineapple juice, a crisp, contented smile lit her face. "You're sick again!"

She looked bitterly that it was the work he'd done. He wanted to get it out now—

She broke in angrily. "I'm not the typing, I'm nervous at hand and work you detain."

He refused at first, but eventually tried. He found the method tired, and warned to his task. Hope lifted him. He'd get the reports out all right this time.

Allison went obediently at first, but gradually her rising interest broke into curiosity. The picture of his mission began to take form for her. He answered her questions readily. "I'd like to see the estimated amount of chicle to be found in the volcanic Queche mountains. Of the huge mining and transportation system ready to be hurried into the country the moment Queche permission was given."

"You'll get it. I know you will!" she said. "Excitement was like a trance on her. "Fernando will help you."

It was late but she insisted on finishing. When the reports were done, she put away the typewriter and moved back chair and table, turning on the bright typewriter lamp. The small night lamp by his bed cast a feeble glow in the moonlight. She got all household moved by the open window toward the empty glass, he had the impression that she was a boy debaucher at a club dance.

She was murmuring peacefully. "Full moon makes the jungle restful. So many notes tonight. Mules stamping around. Indians stamping around. The trees rustling around..."

"Man, you nervous?" he asked.

She paused beside him, glass in hand. "Nervous?" she echoed wincing. "Why should they? I think at this moment I love them all."

He searched the white oval of her face turned up to him. She meant it. "You're a miracle woman," he told her. "And thanks for everything."

She started to answer him, then broke off to listen. Her face still lit with interest. He heard the sound of footsteps on the hard wood of the hall, but the rhythm of the movement was not the shuffling step of a servant.

A tall slender figure in light coat, hood and sun helmet moved into the open doorway. Calm, as if he were being there were an ordinary, not an impossible thing, she smiled across the moonlight room at the two standing together in the window.

"Hello, darling!" It was Lila's voice.

THE 2ND WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON!

A Job For Twin Falls County and Magic Valley

There are just two days left in which to meet the goal for our county and our district of Magic Valley. Through Magic Valley we are expected to raise $2,344,600 — and we've more than 15% of that to go! In Twin Falls county, we are approaching the over-a-million goal... but we haven't yet reached it! We've just two days left... Let's meet this challenge as if our dollars could buy a future of freedom and we only had two days in which to shell out.

We Can Do It... We Will!
LET'S GO!

It's Ten Minutes to Midnight!

Wake Up, Magic Valley... Your Country's Most Fateful Hour Is Near

THE HOUR when the final die is cast, when decisive victory hangs in the balance. The hour which will decide the future of you and your children... a future of joyous freedom for our Magic Valley and the United States... or a future of endless serfdom for us all.

Yes, it's ten minutes to midnight. And when the first stroke of that fateful hour begins to toll, it will be TOO LATE to throw the weight of your money into the fight. The time to do that is NOW... before this great drive is ended!

NOW, when Magic Valley dollars can buy the tanks and guns and planes and ships our soldiers need to fight a winning war... the only kind of war we can afford to fight.

NOW, while there is still ten minutes before midnight.

Your country is asking Magic Valley to lend your dollars in greater amounts than ever before. Magic Valley is being asked for $2,344,600.00 as its share of the total loan of 13 billions for the United States. Extra Magic Valley dollars to make sure that it is OUR SIDE which dictates the peace.

Listen, Magic Valley, if we do not win, the money you fail to lend now will be worse than useless to you. If we win, as we MUST, the money you lend now will be returned with interest... for you to spend on the good things of life... for you to enjoy in a free and safe world.

So dig down, Magic Valley! Answer the challenge by buying War Loan securities before the 2nd War Loan Drive ends on the 30th of this month. Make every idle dollar do its share for freedom... make every dollar you can spare above the bare necessities of life do its part in winning this war. Just two days to go—ten minutes before midnight! Don't wait any longer... go to your bank, investment dealer, broker, Post Office TODAY or TOMORROW at the latest!

Have your money in your fist... the fist that can deliver the knockout blow to the Axis. But hurry...

For it is ten minutes to midnight...

The hour that can strike the knell of doom — or the blessed song of freedom for Magic Valley and our country.

YOUR dollars can call the tune... and midnight strikes with the last day of April. Come on, Magic Valley... let's make our dollars ring the song of freedom!
