WAR BOND SALES AT 7-MONTH LOW

Twin Falls county bond sales dropped to $32,500 in the week ending May 15, the lowest since last Oct. 10, it was revealed in the Times-News survey.

The decline is due to the fact that only a few below the average weekly sale for the last month, but it is nearly $11,000 below the average of $43,500 weekly needed to meet Twin Falls county's needs.

The possibility that United Nations successes in north Africa and favorable reports from the Aleutians might be responsible for such a drop in purchases was seen by unofficial observers.

"It is a mistake to let favorable news cause us to relax our efforts and our sacrifices," said one bond agent. "The war is a long ways from over."

Institutions reporting in the Times-News survey were: Twin Falls Bank and Trust, Federal Savings and Loan association, Fidelity National bank, Methodist Christian theater, Eastern Idaho Production Credit association, Twin Falls county National Farm Loan association, and the Times-News, all of Twin Falls; Idaho Bank, Farmington, and National bank and the postoffice, all of Burley; Fidelity and Loan association, the postoffice at Kimberly and Rexford.

SERIAL STORY
Beth Carter, WAAC
BY LORETTA COOPER

THE STORY: Beth Carter, WAAC, is Major Rick Jackson's "one-man" staff on the tiny camouflaged island in the Pacific where the rest of the Coast Artillery Battalion is based. Inmates are arrested. After Beth overcomes the mysterious Lita Danton persuade Beth to give free passage to the plane that brought her and her companion, Rick. Beth is a favored landing on the island an important part is discovered. Beth decides to do some thinking on her own. She stands out to look over Lita's plane. Suddenly footstep approach.

RENDEZVOUS CHAPTER IX
The footstep accentuated the mysterious and adventurous qualities of the situation. Beth gathered herself up slowly into as compact a mass as possible, and stayed as close to the sandy soil as she could.
The footsteps came nearer. They were not so rapid now. Beth could see a human figure in the moonlight. It was that of a man in uniform—the cut of the clothing was unmistakable. He seemed to be hesitant, and acted almost as though he were afraid of being heard. He stopped on the beach between the flying boat for a moment. Beth heard him whisper. Lita called back to him. "Lita, it's Beth." "Just a minute, Beth," Lita called back.

Just less than a minute a small boat was launched. In it were a man and a woman, the man playing the oars expertly.
"What do you want?" Lita Danton asked.
"I want to talk with you alone," Lita Jackson said.
He entered the boat and the three returned to the seaplane. For an hour a light went on, and then it was blacked out by the drawing of the blind.
"I'm speaking on my commanding officer," she told her self. "I have no right to do that."
She watched the seaplane with fixed gaze as it rocked gently on the tide.
She wondered what was being said behind that drawn curtain. She found herself wondering what the interior of the seaplane was like. Then her mind reverted to the last directive. Had Beth known where it was all along? Did it even even exist? Was Beth being fooled? No, no, no, her heart shouted to her reason. Everything would be all right! She must have faith. Then she was calm again. Was Lita laying a trap of course his purpose was honest. But whom did he suspect? Suppose that the directive really was lost during the daytime. Did Beth still believe she was at fault? She remembered how he had made such a point of changing the safe combination, yet letting her know the new one. Did he suspect her, and was he laying a trap for her?
After all, she reflected, he knew nothing about her before they had met in General Tailor's headquarters. She was just another WAAC to him, and he admittedly knew nothing of WAACs at all. A young
